Selecting Jury to Try Thompson for Murder

TESTIMONY PROBABLE TOMORROW

Defense Does Not Ask Delay When the Case is Called.

By United Press.
EASTLAND, Oct. 15.—The trial of Clyde Thompson was started this morning before Judge Elzo Been on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Lucian Shook on Sept. 7.

Special veniremen summoned for the trial of Thomas Davis, also indicted in the Shook murder case, were excused until Wednesday.

The defense counsel announced it was ready without seeking continuance or a change of venue for Thompson. It was probable that selection of a jury would require the whole day.

Special to The Times.
EASTLAND, Oct. 15.—Clyde Thompson went to trial at 10:25 o'clock Monday morning before Judge Elzo Been in the 88th district court on an indictment charging the murder of Lucian Shook, 26-year-old employee of the Braden Oil company, who was killed the night of Friday, September 7, near the house in which he lived on an oil lease about one mile from Lepray, on the northwestern edge of Eastland county.

The state called the names of about a score of witnesses, found most of them present or obtainable and announced ready. The defense announced ready without indicating who might be called to testify. It had been reported the defense might ask for a continuance or seek a change of venue, but the defense did neither.

The case against Tom Davis, also charged with the murder of Lucian Shook, was continued until 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and special veniremen summoned for that case were instructed to report to the court at that time.

Of the seventy-five special veniremen summoned for the trial of Clyde Thompson, 22 were reported absent unexcused. The court instructed the sheriff to collect a fine of $50 from each and to issue process for them.

Both Thompson and Davis were brought into court this morning by Sheriff John Hart and Deputy Sheriff Cy Bradford. Neither was handcuffed. Both appeared very depondent and Davis wept silently, covering his face with his handkerchief, much of the time that was occupied with calling the roll of the two special venires.

When it was announced that Thompson would be tried first and before the selection of a jury was begun, Davis was taken back to the Eastland county jail.

Thompson is being defended by J. R. Stubblefield. His father is staying with him in court, seated by his side. Clyde keeps his eyes straight ahead of him for the most part. Many of his friends were in the courtroom this morning, but he would look at none of them. He is a fairly tall youth, broad shoulders and apparently quite strong.

Tom Davis is to be defended by R. N. and J. S. Grisham, who are watching the trial of Thompson very carefully.

Frank A. Judkins has been engaged as special prosecutor in the trial of Clyde Thompson. The prosecution is being directed by J. Frank Sparks, county attorney.

Shoots Guard To Get Mail Bags

By United Press

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15.—An intensive search was being carried on today along the international border line for four bandits who, last midnight, shot a city policeman and three men guarding a shipment of first class mail being transferred by taxicab from the Lackawanna depot to the New York Central station here.

An investigation today by police revealed that the eight sacks taken by the bandits contained first class mail only. It was at first believed to be registered mail.

As the car halted for a traffic stop light on its way across town with the mail, a touring car containing 4 men drove up. Two men in the rear of the touring car opened fire on the mail car with two machine guns and a third, beside the driver, destroyed the windshield of the mail car with a shotgun.

Fire Chief George Murphy said this morning that a formal opening would be held in the near future.

1,000 BALES MORE IN THE COUNTY IN '28

Nolan and Taylor Show Heavy Decline, State as a Whole Is More.

Nearly 1,000 more bales have been ginned in Eastland county this year than up to the same date a year ago, figures just announced by the United States department of commerce show. Up to Oct. 1, a total of 2,351 bales had been ginned in this county as compared to 1,366 for this time a year ago.

This increase is all the more notable as a number of counties in this section register a decline. Nolan county, which had ginned 5,292 bales at this time last year, has ginned only 499 this fall. Taylor county's total was 22,917 a year ago as compared to 2,886 this year. Young county figures: 1928, 2,846 bales; 1927, 9,569 bales. Palo Pinto, 1,856 this year, 1,770 last year. Jones, 3,422 this year, 19,644 last year. Callahan, 3,156 this year, 4,590 last year. Comanche, Brown and Erath are almost the same as a year ago, Brown gaining nearly 400 bales to gin 5,647; Erath gaining 159 bales to gin 4,769 and Comanche losing 71 bales to gin 8,095.

For the entire state, ginnings show an increase—2,431,382 this year as against 2,300,580 last year.

Rangers To Play Wichita College

Coach Tricky Ward of the Ranger Junior college will take 16 men to Wichita Falls Thursday to meet the strong junior college eleven of that city in the second game for the Rangers, Friday afternoon.

Cars to convey the players to Wichita Falls are needed, Ward said. Present plans call for the departure of the players Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The game is Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Ward asked that anyone who had a car which could be used to take the 16 men to Wichita Falls be at the High school Thursday afternoon.

The starting lineup to be used against the Wichita Falls aggregation has not been decided upon. A week from this Friday the annual clash between the Rangers and the Randolph Badgers will take place at Cisco.

The Friday afternoon following that, the John Tarleton wrecking crew will journey to Ranger to meet the Junior college bunch on Lillard field.

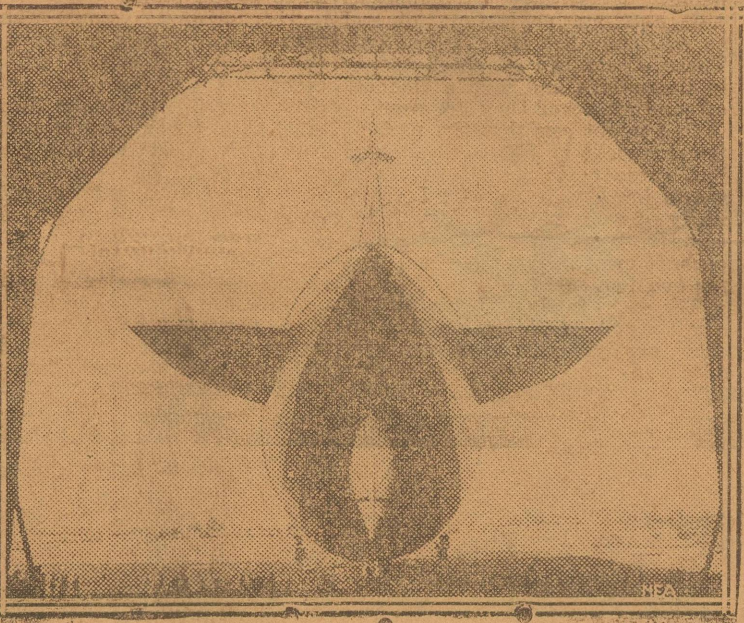

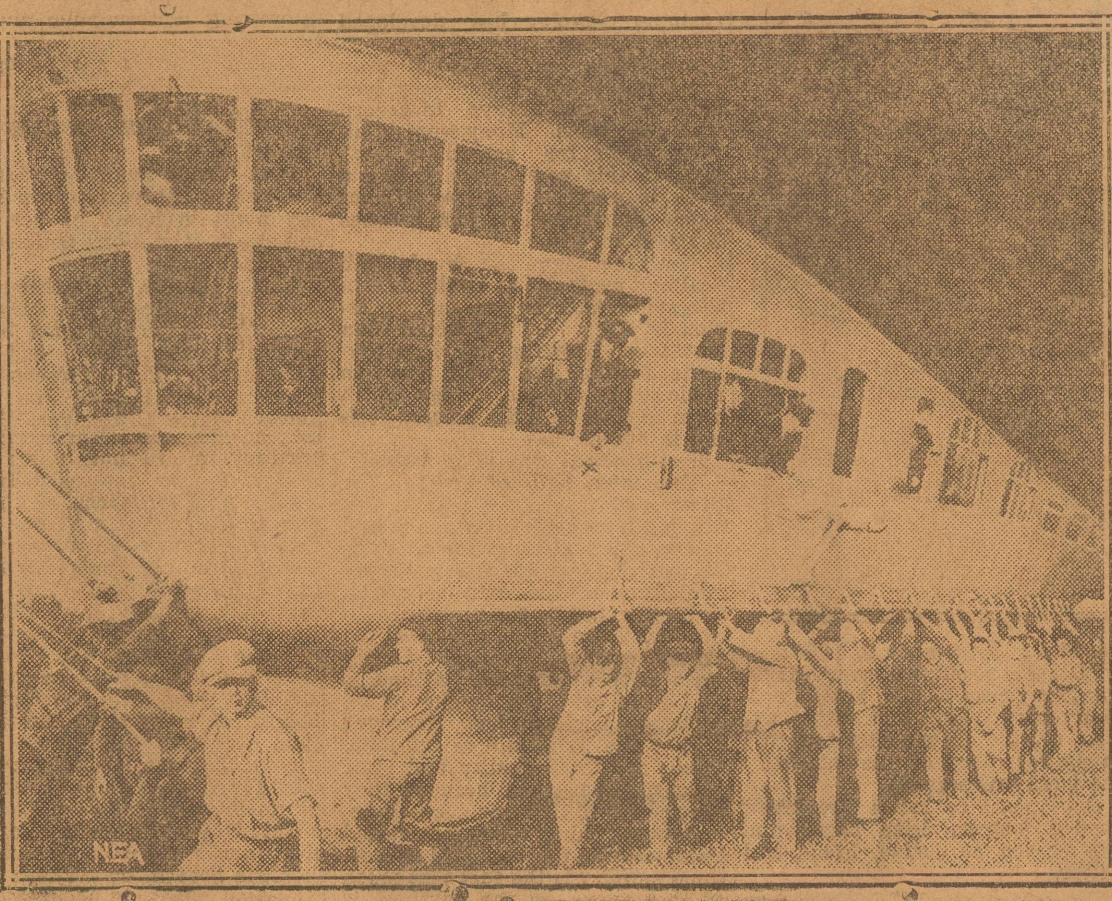

On Nov. 15 the Rangers will meet the freshman team of Texas Christian university either at Fort Worth or Ranger. The designation of the field of play has not been made. The closing game for the Rangers will be at Arlington, Nov. 22, when the local team meets the North Texas Agricultural college eleven.

Big Zepp Off for Thrilling Battle With Elements

WHAT THEY EAT ON A DIRIGIBLE DESCRIBED

A very interesting account of how the crew of the U. S. S. Los Angeles is fed while on the dirigible, was given by H. V. Wiley, Lieutenant Commander of the airship, from the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., in a communication to the members of Our Heroes Sunday school class of Ranger. The letter was read Sunday.

"Your request of September 22 for a personal letter for your Sunday school class left me in a quandary as to what subject I should choose," Wiley said.

"Rather than write a personal letter, which is a difficult thing to do when the addressee is unknown, I am enclosing herewith a short account which your class may find interesting. It follows:

"By Herbert H. Gable, Chief Yeoman, U. S. N.

"Much has been written about the various flights made by the U. S. S. Los Angeles. However very little has been said regarding that extremely important feature of all flights, namely, how, when, and where does the ship's crew eat? Perhaps no other single element of the life on board an airship plays as important a part in the contentment and health of those on board. It is therefore most essential that the crew eat regularly and that the food be well prepared.

"In order that the food may be prepared, it is necessary to have complete cooking facilities on the ship. These facilities consist of a small galley in which there is running water, a large sink, numerous shelves and drawers for storage provisions, mess gear, and cooking utensils, and a four-burner gas range. This range uses a fuel which burns in much the same manner as ordinary natural gas. This gas comes in a liquefied state, in ten gallon drums. One drum of gas will last for a period of 300 burner hours and weighs but 82 pounds. A portable oven is used which permits the preparation of baked foods when desired.

"The meals are issued to the crew in portable containers which are carried from the galley to the Hailed as master of the elements on land and sea, the great new German dirigible, the Graf Zeppelin, started across the Atlantic from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to New York. Dr. Hugo Eckener is captain of the giant air liner which is larger by far than any other airship ever built, and which took off with a staff of German and American newspaper men besides crew, passengers and mail. The dirigible was expected to beat the fastest transatlantic liners by many hours.

Noted Producer Of Motion Pictures Writes To Class

Cecil B. DeMille, world famous motion picture producer, in a letter to Our Heroes class of the First Methodist church of Ranger, urged the members of the organization to see three major pictures. The letter was written from Culver City, Calif., and was read Sunday by M. F. Peters, instructor.

"I deeply appreciate the compliment of the request of your class for a word from me.

"As the boys are gathered for the purpose of religious training, I will be emphasizing a familiar fact when I say to them that the most important thing in life today is a belief in a Supreme Being. My own feeling in this matter has been expressed in three pictures, 'The Ten Commandments,' 'The King of Kings,' and 'The Godless Girl.' The latter is an attempt to combat the growth of atheism in our schools.

"Personally I do not believe that a man can be loyal and faithful to any other man if he is not loyal and faithful to his God. And loyalty and faithfulness are now and always will be the most valuable assets of any man in business or professional life."

3 WOMEN CONVICTS GET OUT

One is Recaptured; Negro Man Under Long Sentence Escapes.

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 15.—Three women escaped from Goree state prison farm near here, over the week-end. One was recaptured. Louise Smith fled Sunday night. She was caught by Captain Reid and a posse of guards with dogs just as she was climbing into an auto on the highway.

Florence Phelps, 33, serving five years for burglary, and Pauline Fowler, 21, serving two years for theft, escaped Saturday night and were still at liberty today. While the rest of the women were looking at a movie, the pair cut bars in the barracks, made a rope of blankets and fled to freedom. Their escape was not discovered until about 1 a. m. Sunday. Richard Johnson, 24, serving 35 years for burglary, and theft, escaped from the state prison here. He was trailed by dogs to a point where he mounted a horse and made good his escape.

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 15.—Mrs. John Carney of Cleburne was instantly killed and her husband, the Rev. John Carney, received injuries which may prove fatal when their car was struck by a Santa Fe freight train and demolished near here this morning.

Mr. Carney had preached in the First Baptist church last night and was returning to his home when the accident occurred. He is widely known in Texas where he has been an evangelist for many years.

The body of Mrs. Carney was brought here and her husband was placed in a local sanitarium.

WOULD CONSIGN RATS TO DEATH BY ELECTRICITY

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—A "diabolical Pied-Piping" invention whereby rats are electrocuted was offered to the city of New Orleans by D. Moorahoff, an inventor of Soudersdown, Ky.

The apparatus consists of a metallic disc to hold a tempting morsel of cheese surrounded at a distance of several inches by metal ring, charged with electricity. The "chair" should be placed on a barrel of water for best results, according to the inventor.

In describing the action of the invention Moorahoff explained the rat, attracted by the fragrance of the cheese would place his hind legs on the ring and his front legs upon the disc thus completing the circuit and electrocuting the rat. The electrocuted rodent would then fall into the barrel of water to be choked to death by suffocation in case the shock had not been fatal, and would thus be disposed of immediately, eliminating the necessity of removing victims before other rats would be tempted.

In elaborating on the scheme the inventor provides for the more intelligent rodents who might become suspicious seeing their friends falling into the barrel. Moorahoff would place the disc at a somewhat lower level than the ring so that falling rats would appear to be diving head-first into the water thus allaying the suspicions of their families and who might otherwise believe the cheese was not all that it seemed to be.

GIANT OF SKIES HAS HOPPED SEA

Virginia Observers See Graf This Morning, Proceeding Slowly.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin was sighted over the city at 2:30 p. m. today. The craft was following a course along the Delaware river. Visibility was very poor due to low-hanging clouds and the airship was traveling at a very slow rate of speed. The ship seemed to be feeling its way along.

By United Press.
BALTIMORE, Oct. 15.—The Graf Zeppelin flew over the downtown section of Baltimore in a northeasterly direction apparently headed for Philadelphia at 1:08 p. m. today.

By United Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 15.—As the moment for the appearance of the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin neared, excitement among the throng scattered between the hangar and surrounding towns reached its height. The woods meadows surrounding Lakehurst, resented a vast picnic grounds. The crowd was estimated at 20,000. As the climax approached, the stream of motorists toward the hangar grew. Hundreds of storekeepers in towns of New York and New Jersey have heard of the huge profits reached during Sunday feeding tourists, came to Lakehurst and established their stands along the road in the hope that Sunday's rich harvest would be repeated. Many of these food speculators were disappointed and found their ice cream melting and sandwiches growing stale as the record-breaking throng of Sunday failed to reappear in full force.

It was reported that a New York insurance man, acting as agent for the German concern that insured the Graf Zeppelin for $1,000,000 had received orders from Berlin to proceed to Lakehurst as rapidly as possible to ascertain extent of damage to the ship's "fin." The agent was said to have chartered an airplane to reach Lakehurst before the dirigible's arrival.

By United Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 15.—The Graf Zeppelin advised the naval air station here today that she will probably land at or about sunset this evening.

A message received shortly before 9:30 a. m. from the Zeppelin making the long journey from Germany here said "Plans not yet definite. Probably will desire to land at or near sunset."

The weather this morning at Lakehurst was bright and sunny. A gentle northerly breeze was blowing but the wind was variable and shifting. It was stated that unless the wind increases during the day, the actual landing of the airship would probably encounter no difficulty.

FLORIDA'S PROBLEM.

Florida is still facing something of a problem in the matter of caring for those injured or made homeless by the recent hurricane. In this matter she needs, and will surely get, the assistance of the rest of the country.

One all of this is done, however, there remains another problem, which Florida undoubtedly will tackle with all her energy. This problem relates to the question of drainage of the lowlands surrounding Lake Okechobee, where most of the hurricane casualties occurred.

Some believe that these lowlands were flooded because the dikes about the lake were not high enough. Others maintain that dikes on the lake will never solve the problem and that some other method of control must be found. Whatever the facts, Florida should put competent engineers to work at once to find out. If help from the federal government is needed, it should be given.

The lowlands of southern Florida must be made safe if it is humanly possible. Without question, this problem will be the first thing Florida tackles when the first job of relief is done.

Letters From Our Readers

It is very much in evidence that in our smallest hamlets to the largest cities you will find that the percentage of men and women voters taking part in the elections of local, state and national leaders is very small in comparison to the number of our citizens so affected by the policies and conduct of those elected.

Is it from lack of interest? Or is it because of indifference, unconcernedness or apathy on the part of each individual voter that leaves to the small minority, who exercise their right of suffrage at a general election—the opportunity of carrying to victory their party or candidate?

A local or state election is of more interest to a local crowd of course, than our national party elections because of the opportunity for local and state candidates to bring their campaign to a direct personal contact with practically all voters in the precinct or county and the local issues can be discussed personally and when a voter can see and talk with a candidate it gives him a better knowledge and acquaintance with a candidate's personality.

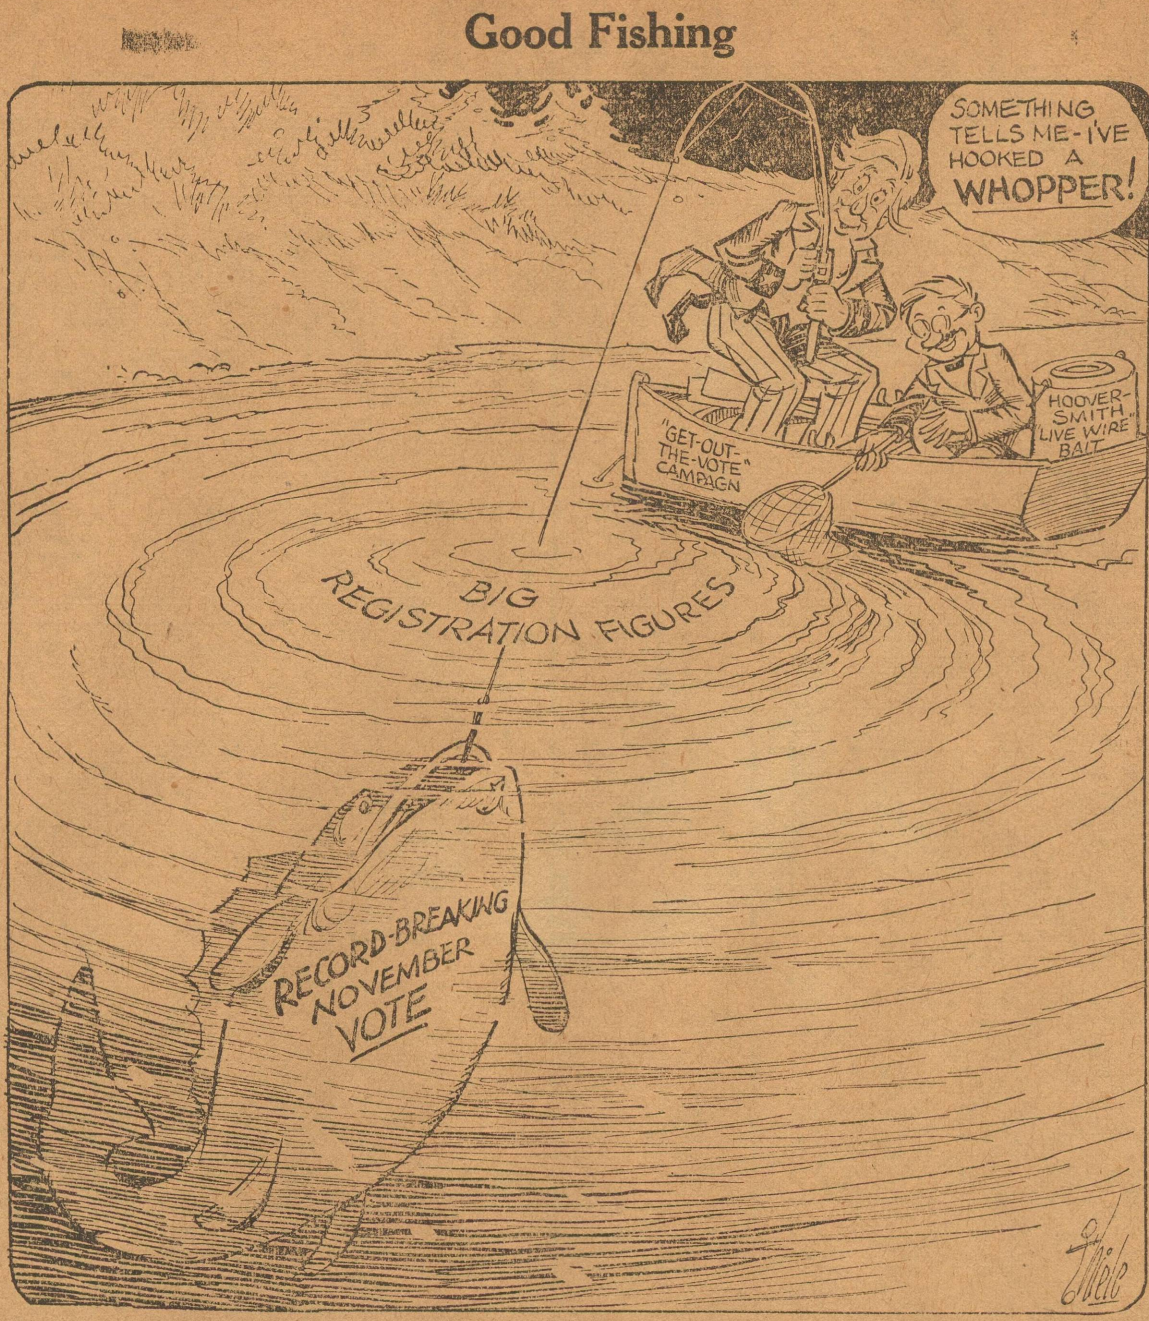

It is time our people were waking up and realizing that every supporter of a family or individual of voting age should realize the responsibility he owes to his town, his country, state and nation. Inference to this duty may mean lost opportunity. The short space of four years has meant the bringing from obscurity to sublime of individual citizens and who knows who will be next. Those who have experienced this advancement will always be found to be individuals who have stood loyally by their friends as citizens or as candidates.

An individual voter is only one in number, but many times this one is registered at the polls in thousands because of one individual's character, his standing and influence. To the few who are fortunate enough either by sheer ability or otherwise, to have the respect and following of their associates, should not abuse their influence or leadership by holding or weakening their influence by petty jealousies, but should direct their endeavor toward the right and logical attainment.

In the short space of only six weeks will find many shifting views and changing of ideals but nevertheless the people of our great nation will be pressed into service for the election of our president. From all indications there will be a wonderful outpouring of voters to crowd our polls and register their feelings and sentiment. Directly as a democrat or republican follower it will not change the daily routine of but few individuals and regardless of which party triumphs through November election it will bring out and instill in the hearts and minds of thousands of citizens that their duty and their purpose in this great nation is to exercise their personal right of franchise.

N. Y. FARE RATE TO BE ARGUED IN HIGH COURT

Suit Involves $24,000,000 Yearly —Mayor Walker Prominent In Case

By HERBERT LITTLE, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A lawsuit involving $24,000,000 a year will be argued before the United States supreme court today and tomorrow.

The $24,000,000 a year will result from the two cents which the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York is attempting to add to its subway fare, which has always been five cents. A three-judge federal court has upheld the claim on the ground that the additional revenue is necessary to insure I. R. T. stockholders a return of 8 per cent on their investment.

The city of New York and the New York transit commission are fighting to retain the five-cent fare, and have appealed the decision to the supreme court, charging that the I. R. T. is attempting to collect interest on subway bonds by the city itself, that the valuations of the company are too large and that unbreakable contracts insure the public a five-cent fare.

Mayor James Walker of New York city has taken a prominent part in the battle, and has indicated his intention of seeking to have the city government take over and operate the subways if the seven-cent fare is upheld.

Untermeyer to Argue. Samuel Untermeyer for the transit commission and Former City Comptroller Charles Craig for the city will open the attack when the nine black-robed justices convene the supreme court at noon. Each has an hour and a half in which to present his argument. In addition, all sides have presented voluminous briefs, some of them nearly 300 pages long.

Before court adjourns for the day, the I. R. T. attorneys will commence their case, which is limited to three hours. It will be concluded tomorrow afternoon, and followed by arguments of not more than a half-hour each by Craig and Untermeyer.

The court then will take the case under advisement, to be considered in camera during the conferences of the court in a little room in the basement of the capitol. In a few weeks or months, the decision affecting the pocket-books of perhaps 4,000,000 New Yorkers will be announced or some "decision Monday."

The arguments as outlined in the briefs emphasize both the valuation and five-cent fare contracts in opposing the increase. The company stresses the valuation findings of the three-judge court, and the alleged unconstitutional confiscation of their invested property through the denial of a proper return.

The city also attacks the lower court's finding that an 8 per cent return is justified, asserting that 6 per cent is a fair return under present money conditions.

Other points involved include the right of the city to contract as to a fixed fare, the total valuation of $898,793,648 on the I. R. T. system, and the presence of a constitutional question in this lawsuit.

IN THE WORLD OF FASHION-- COSTUME GEMS

Interesting Theme Discussed By an Authority on Maternal Social.

By HONORE BOOTH, Fashion Expert of Harper's Bazaar.

(Written for the United Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In this age of the ensemble theme, costume jewelry has become an integral part of the costume. The beginning of the renaissance of jewelry dates from several years ago when we were wearing such plain, simple, little frocks that something had to be done to enliven them and give them interest so jewelry was revived for this purpose. From an occasional fancy buckle or pin here and there costume jewelry has developed into a real accessory.

But these early efforts were sometimes abortive, generally barbaric and not always in accord with good taste. Many women, always eager for something new, took to this new jewelry like a duck to water, sometimes without much discrimination, just because it was a novelty.

Now the vogue for jewels both real and synthetic is established in the mode, and the present expression is far more restrained than formerly. Now the erstwhile barbaric feeling has given place to modernistic designs, things which seem to click with the present feeling in our clothes.

Semi-Precious Stones in Vogue. One must still, of course, buy these costume things with a discriminating eye just as one would choose one's clothes, for there is always along with the good, an admixture of the extremely bad, to be a pitfall to the unwary. Indeed even the magic names of the French couturiers cannot justify some of these samples. Although, as I have said, the quality of all costume jewelry has improved vastly, one must still select these things for their quality and their beauty rather than because they are sponsored by some good house.

Another thing which has raised tremendously the standard of costume jewelry is the fact that much of that worn in the daytime is made of semi-precious stone—carnelian, amethyst, chrysoprase, jade, aqua-marine, lapis lazuli, and so on—the list is a long one. These stones are of great beauty in themselves and lend a richness of tone wherever they are used.

One might say that the present jewelry mode is, like Gaul, divided into three parts. First there is sports jewelry, if any—and necessarily of extreme simplicity. There is daytime jewelry, and last and perhaps most important of all, that for evening.

The great mode of femininity in our present fashions offers a charming background for jewels of all sorts and perhaps it is this

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness
 The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. James F. Campbell, of 1012 W. Fifth St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I had bloating after eating. My rheumatism was so bad I could hardly raise my arms. Now I can eat anything and do a good day's work."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

 own cabin mess. The chief difference is of course that on the airship the officers and men all eat the same food which is prepared in one galley.

What They Eat.
 "The preparation of three meals a day, together with coffee and sandwiches at night for fifty or more people is no easy task and the ship's cook is an extremely busy man. Before the flight, menus must be decided upon and the food must be assembled and placed on the ship. Not only must the menus be prepared from the point of view of serving the proper kind of food, but also the factors of possible spoilage and weight of the provisions must be closely watched. The ship's cook performs this work under the supervision of one of the ship's officers.

"An idea of the nature of the meals served on board the Los Angeles can best be obtained from the menus used on a recent typical flight, September 5, 1928:

"Dinner: roast veal, gravy, fried potatoes, green peas in butter, coffee or cocoa, bread and butter, apples. (Note: As the ship took off on the afternoon of this date, only one meal was served).

September 6, 1928: Breakfast. Stewed prunes, fried bacon and eggs, cocoa or coffee, bread and butter.

"Lunch: fried pork chops, buttered rice, apple sauce, baked corn, cocoa or coffee, bread and butter, oranges.

"Dinner: cold sliced ox tongue, baked beans, tomato and cucumber salad, pickled beets, cocoa or coffee, bread, butter and jam, pears.

"In addition to the above meals, hot coffee and sandwiches are served to the watch at midnight and chocolate bars are issued between meals.

"Ice is sometimes carried in the galley, particularly in summer for the purpose of preserving the food, and for serving ice cold lemonade, limeade, iced water or tea."

GOOD YEAR THE WAY IS PLAINLY MARKED

The tire-buyer of today can easily get lost in the maze of selling competition. At every turn, he is met by confusing claims and special propositions.

No wonder he is bewildered. With everyone claiming to have the best, how is he to choose wisely?

One outstanding fact will guide him. It cannot be said about any other tire:

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

We feel a great satisfaction in representing a manufacturer and a product of such unquestioned leadership.

We take pride in giving the World's Best Service on the World's Greatest Tire—seeing that you get out of it all the extra mileage built into it at the factory.

Come in and let us show you the new Goodyears. We have your size, and your type, at your price.

Better Babies Clinic, Under Civic League Auspices, Is Success

(Eastland Telegram)
Twenty-six babies under six years of age were presented for examination Saturday at the clinic of the Better Babies Bureau of the Civic League. The clinic was conducted in the Community Clubhouse by Miss Henrietta Abelard, health nurse at Ranger, substituting for Miss Celia Moore of the State Health Department, who conducted the clinic last April but was not able to return at this time.

Mrs. Tom Harrell, general chairman of the Better Babies Bureau, was on hand all day Saturday to assist the health nurse. She said that thirteen of the babies brought to the clinic had been presented back to note what changes, especially improvements, had been made.

This is the second clinic conducted by the bureau. Previously the Civic League had conducted baby shows and the infants had been examined by volunteering physicians. Mrs. Earle Johnson, president of the Civic League, said it was the purpose to have the baby clinic twice each year, and it was hoped this might lead eventually to getting a health nurse in Eastland.

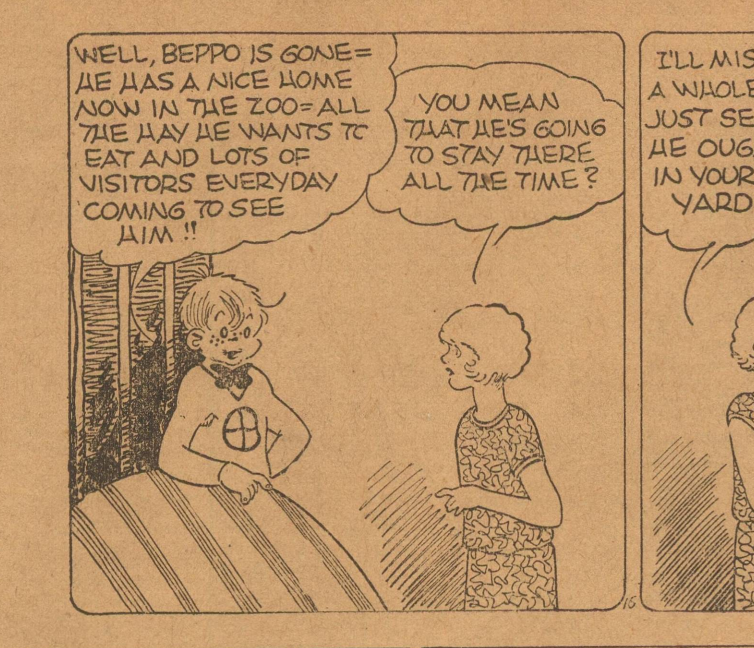

The babies examined in the clinic include all up to and including five years of age, at which time the preschool roundup takes hold.

Toy in Damage Suit

ROME, N. Y.—A toy snake, allegedly defective in its operation, is the basis for a suit to recover $500,000 damages filed against the F. W. Woolworth company here by Arthur W. Martin, as guardian of his 7-year-old son, Barry.

The suit alleges that Barry lost the sight of one eye last Christmas morning when he pulled the toy from a stocking while the family was gathered around the Christmas tree.

WHIRLWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Sybil Thorne, Boston society girl, has married Richard Eustis, a fascinating rogue. After a five-day romance the wedding in Havana culminates Sybil's maddest and grimmest adventure. For years she has been the delicious scandal of Boston's elite. Her romantic adventures began at 18, when she fell in love with John Lawrence, who was sent to France with the A. E. F. on the eve of their marriage. When she received notification that her sweetheart was missing in action, Sybil—insane with grief—began to seek forgetfulness.

Finally she becomes engaged to Craig Newhall, a wealthy and desirable bachelor, but—not sure of her love—she takes a trip to Cuba with Mabel Blake, a social worker. Before sailing she promises Craig a decision on her return. At the time she is fearfully upset because of the death of her father and the subsequent marriage of her brother, Tad, to Valerie West, a girl whom Sybil instinctively dislikes.

On shipboard she meets Eustis who woos her madly, and finally sweeps her into an impetuous marriage. On their wedding night he becomes intoxicated and Sybil, in the morning, threatens to leave him. A reconciliation takes place, however. Then—for two dreadful weeks—Richard is alternately charming and repulsive. Until at last Sybil determines to leave him. Now go on with the story:

CHAPTER XX

Sybil bit the tip of her pen holder, and drew her brows together. Then, dipping the pen resolutely, she began to write rapidly.

"Dear Richard,"

For a moment she considered the salutation. Then, drawing her pen brusquely through it, tossed it aside, and took another sheet. But presently she wrote again, "Dear Richard," and after it, as though suddenly determined, scribbled rapid words, one after the other as if they flowed of their own accord from a suddenly voluble pen.

"Dear Richard,

"There are some things a woman cannot stand—not even if she loves the man who hurts her. And I am beginning to wonder, Rich, if I ever DID love you.

"The scene in the foyer tonight was horrible. I had rather die than spend another night with you—like this. Two weeks—and every other night of them hell.

"I am going to Mabel now. I suppose when you wake up, and sober off, you will try to find me. I hope that we will be on the way home by then. If we cannot get passage immediately, I can only beg that you will leave me alone. I wish these weeks might be like a closed chapter in a book one could lay away—and try to forget.

"Please, Rich—if you love me—be kind. Mab will keep our secret, if only you'll let it BE a secret.

"Good-by."

She blotted it without reading it. Locked the trunk, and put the key in her bag.

"I'll send for it," she decided, "in the morning."

Deliberately she powdered her nose, and touched her cheeks and lips with rouge. Stopped for a moment to spray black narcissus from her little enameled atomizer, and buffed her nails vigorously, while she surveyed her recombent husband. There were so many things about him she had learned to dislike.

"Drunk or sober," she reflected dismally.

But it was liquor that made him altogether impossible. At first he became stupidly sleepy. Then, when she roused him, he grew amorous: And that was worse. Oh, much worse.

She shuddered as he exhaled a noisy breath. Turning her back squarely, she walked from the room without a backward glance.

Mabel and Mr. Moore, at their favorite cafe, were sipping aperitifs when Sybil found them.

"Well, well!" boomed Moore, "here comes the bride!" and his large sunburned hand devoured hers warmly.

He was a big man with merry blue eyes and a pink bald spot.

Rich lay sprawled as she had left him. Sleeping noisily.

"Where's my note," said Sybil, "where I left it."

"You girls go downstairs," suggested Moore; and Mabel glowed at the competent way he assumed charge. "I'll wake him, and give him a good talking to. Shall I show him that note of yours, Sib?"

"Go as far as you like," she concurred listlessly. "Tell him my trunk's packed. And you might mention that I'd never have come back if it hadn't been for you and Mab."

In the lobby the girls sat side by side.

"Well, Mab, why don't you say 'I told you so?'"

"Sh, dear. Don't talk like that."

"Well, you were right. You told me I'd be sorry."

"I know, honey. But that doesn't help matters now."

In miserable silence they watched the happy throngs along the Prado.

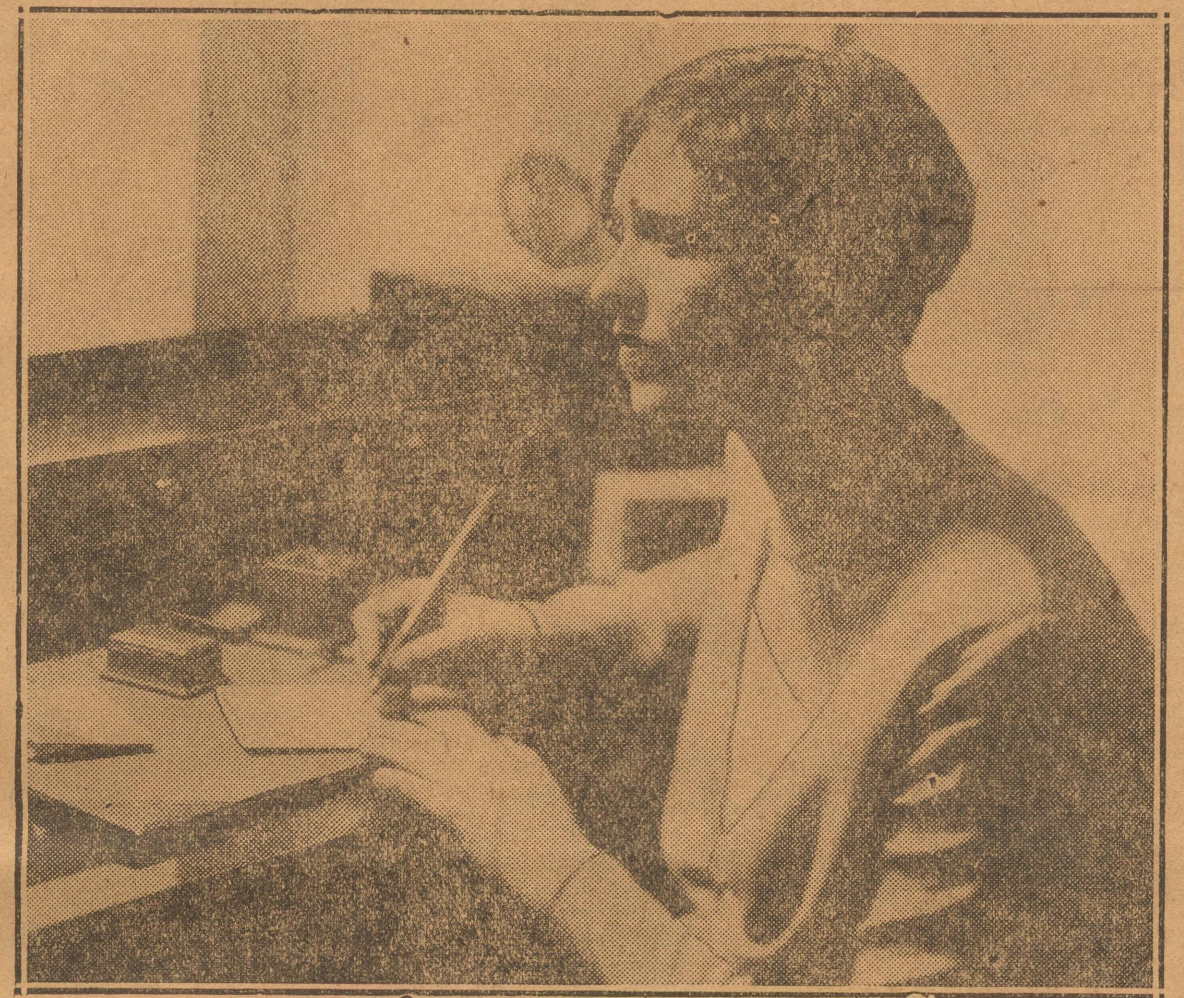

"Tell me, dear," Mabel's voice was very gentle, "don't you love Rich any more?"

Sybil shrugged. "Oh, I don't know."

She pondered listlessly. "I don't believe it's love. I don't believe it ever was. You'd think, wouldn't you, that a girl like me wouldn't have been so easily fooled? Rich, by his own admission, could love a hundred other women. The world's full of them, he says. Girls with bodies as lovely and brains as keen. Those were his own words, Mabel. Any girl of my type, he declares could satisfy him. God Almighty, why did I marry him!"

Dipping the pen resolutely, she began to write rapidly: "Dear Richard . . ."

happy as the day is long.

"As happy," cried Moore, "as you two are!" and he called for cocktails, to drink a toast . . .

"Where's Rich?" asked Mabel.

"Over at the hotel—lying down."

"He not sick, is he?"

"Well, he didn't look very well when I left him."

Mabel looked at her sharply.

"Sib," she said, "Rich is drinking too much. You oughtn't to let him."

"Let him! Anybody'd think I fed them to him. You know perfectly well, Mabel Blake, that I've done nothing but beg and scold ever since we were married. 'Let him! As if I could stop him!'

"But I'm through now. I've left him. I've fed him aspirin all I'm going to. I've bathed his head ten million times. And taken off his shoes every night. I've been with him. I've fanned him till my arm ached. I-I-I've undressed him. And put him to bed. And stood for his drunken lovmaking."

She ran the back of her hand fiercely across her mouth, and shuddered, whimpering—"Now I am through."

Her voice ended in a little moan, and her head pitched forward on the table. Sybil had fainted.

They put cold cloths on her head, and forced whisky between her lips. And, almost before she could sit up, they began to argue—to beg and to reason.

"Oh, please," she besought them, "Please—please!"

Then Mabel took her hand, and sitting beside her, began to plead.

"You can't," she insisted, "duck marriage like that. You are Richard's wife now. And you've got to stick. For better, or worse, you promised, Sib."

"Give him another chance," besought Jack. "He's simply gone off his head. Liquor hits some men like that. You've brought him to his senses now. Don't be a quitter, little girl. Your husband needs you more than anyone ever needed you before. Straightening him out is the job you've bargained for."

Warily Sybil fought.

"But you're only thinking about him! How about ME? Don't I count? I can't go back to Rich—I CAN'T. How CAN I—and keep my own self respect?"

And when Mabel talked of duty, she flared out, angrily.

But in the end they had their way. It was a chastened little bride they led back to the hotel.

"We'll go up with you," offered Mabel.

"I feel," spluttered Sybil, "like a downtrodden old scrub woman."

The room was dimly disordered. Richard's things tossed about. The beds upset. Empty bottles around. Every window shade at a different slant. Someone had put on the electric light, and switched on an electric fan.

Evidence Found of Ancient Race In Mexico Antedating Aztecs and Toltecs Resolutions Adopted At Institute Of

NEW YORK—Evidence of an Indian culture in Mexico, older than the civilization of the Aztecs or the Toltecs, and which produced a ritualistic literature of unusual interest to the ethnologists was presented before the twenty-third meeting of the International Congress of Americanists by John H. Coryn, delegate from Mexico.

The congress was attended by more than 200 ethnologists and archaeologists representing 17 nations. It meets at two-year intervals, alternating between Europe and the Americas. The present session, at which the American Museum of Natural History acted as host, was the third to be held in New York.

Mr. Coryn is a member of the faculty of the University of Mexico and lives in Mexico, in the federal district of Mexico.

Primitive People "In the days of the Aztec Empire, there existed side by side with the artificial conglomerate state religion, which represented many and varied interests of the far-flung Mexican domain, a culture that had its roots in a culture belonging to a much more primitive people," Mr. Coryn said in a paper on the Ancient Chichimeca tribes.

The Chichimecas were contemporaneous to the Toltes in the valley of Mexico and the surrounding country," he continued. "They were held to be a less cultured race by the Toltecs and their successors, the Aztecs; yet the fact that the Texocan empire, largely Chichimeca, was admittedly the most notable center of high culture during the Aztec regime, and that the poet-king, Nezahualcoyotl, and his distinguished successor, Nozahuatlpilli, prided themselves on being of Chichimeca origin, would seem to indicate that a part, at least, of those loosely confederated tribes were far advanced in civilization."

The subject matter of the various rituals which have been discovered, indicates "the elements that enter into the culture of a hunting people who have emerged from their nomadic existence, and setting down into civic communities, have entered partially upon a life of agriculture," Mr. Coryn said. "The most notable, most dramatic and most highly developed, imaginative and poetical of all the metric realistic literature of the Mexican masses at the time of the conquest and for centuries afterward, was the ritual of the hunters, which shows every evidence of having descended from the nomadic age of the people using it."

Written Rituals These rituals and ceremonial incantations were written "in the trochaeic meter which grew out of the peculiarly trochic structure of the Aztec," he added. All of their recorded literature is found to be in metric form, containing formulas and incantations, not only for different occasions, but also for the use of persons in different social classes.

The congress, at its opening session, elected Dr. Franz Boas of Columbia University, as president. Honorary presidents elected were: George G. Heye of the Heye Foundation of the Museum of the American Indian; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and Dr. Frans Blom of Tulane (La.) University, N. C. Nelson of the American Museum of Natural History was re-elected secretary of the congress.

Mr. Heye, in addition to his honorary presidency, will retain the post of treasurer.

As the result of his winning the solo championship at the recent Treorchy National Eisteddfod, John Penar Williams, a miner who long had been out of work, has been given remuneration contracts to sing in motion picture theaters.

Anxious to get to Canada to engage in farming, a nine-year-old boy stowed away on a ship at Cardiff, Wales, and was not found until it arrived at Swansea, whence he was returned to his home.

By the way, what ever became of that fellow who was all set to go to the moon in a rocket?

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Grapes, cereal, cream, rice and fish hash, rye bread toasted, milk, coffee.

LUNCHON—Open poached egg sandwich, buttered spinach, graham fig pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Breaded veal cutlets, scalloped oyster plant, tomato and celery salad, peach and nut dessert, milk, coffee.

A thin slice of broiled ham is shaped to fit a split and toasted muffin. Above the ham is placed a poached egg and Hollandaise sauce is poured over the whole. This makes the open poached egg sandwich used in the luncheon menu.

Rice and fish hash is very good for breakfast.

Rice and Fish Hash One-half cup rice, 1-2 cup flaked salt codfish, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 1-2 cups tomato juice, 1-2 teaspoon onion juice, pepper.

The amount of salt used with it will depend on the saltiness of the fish. Wash rice and cook in boiling salted water for ten minutes. Drain and pour through rice. Drain and cook in tomato juice until tender and juice is absorbed. Add onion juice and pepper. Add fish and mix lightly. Pile on a heated proof platter and sprinkle with grated cheese. Slip into a hot oven to melt cheese and serve at once.

BREAKFAST—Brapes, cooked cereal, cream, creamed dried beef on toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHON—Noodle soup, toasted combination sandwiches, hearts of celery, fig cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast pork, baked sweet potatoes, cinnamon apple rings, cauliflower in cream sauce, head lettuce with French dressing, cantaloupe sherbet, nut wafers, milk, coffee.

School children must have a hearty and nourishing breakfast with plenty of time to eat it. Adults will find that the habit of a hearty breakfast and light luncheon gives better results than a light or no breakfast and heavier luncheon.

Toasted Combination Sandwiches Three large sweet green peppers, 1-2 pound milk cheese, thin slices bacon, 2 or 3 firm ripe tomatoes, bread, butter, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon mustard. Four boiling water over peppers and let stand five minutes. Dip into cold water and rub off thin outer covering. Remove stems and take out seeds and white pith. Scald and slip skins from tomatoes. Put peppers and cheese through food chopper and mix with mustard and paprika. Cut bread in thin slices and butter lightly and evenly. Spread half the pieces of bread with the cheese mixture. On top of this put a slice of tomato and cover with a slice of bacon. Top with the second piece of bread. Toast in a hot oven and serve hot. To insure thorough cooking of the bacon drop each slice into boiling water for five minutes and boil hard. The bacon will crisp while toasting in the sandwich.

UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

The Notre Dame-Navy game this afternoon replaces the Army-Navy game as Chicago's big football encounter of the year.

While the Navy under the direction of Bill Ingram is not as strong as the team that was defeated by the Army last year, it is possible that the Irish also have lost some of their former skill. The game today, however, will be as bitterly waged as any football contest of the season, since a Notre Dame victory would be an added triumph for Rockne and a win for the Navy would aid in wiping out the string of the defeat suffered at the hand of Davis-Elkins in the opening game of the season.

The first game of the season could not be termed a successful one for Notre Dame. A 12 to 6 victory was gained over Loyola University, when the Micks put over a touchdown in the last minute of play. On the same day, Davis-Elkins scored a safety to sink the Navy 2 to 0.

But the Rockne system has proven highly successful at the South Bend institution. Only one game was lost last season, and that to a powerful eleven at the Yankee Stadium.

Few Veterans Back
What the fighting Irish will do on the gridiron this year is something that is not only interesting in the football world at large, but is causing Rockne quite a bit of worry. Two veterans were on hand at the beginning of the season from which the 1928 machine must be fashioned. Captain Fred Miller, left tackle and George Leppig, right guard, are the survivors of the 1927 team. A new backfield was to be developed and five men capable of holding down line positions had to be found. That is quite a task for any coach, but if any are equal to such a task it must be Rockne.

Last year, Rockne's second team did not perform in a creditable manner when called upon. The same second string minus a couple of strong ends and the two veterans, will be the team to face the Navy this afternoon.

Brady and Morrissey are the leading contenders for the signal-calling job this season. Both earned their letters last year. Brady is brassy but carries little weight. Morrissey is a good all-around performer.

Niemiec is slated to replace the flashy Blannegan in the Irish backfield. Shivegney and Dew are other backfield candidates. From a long line of freshman backs, of the 1927 the remaining backfield players will be selected. Fred Collins looks to be the logical candidate for the fullback position.

Strenuous Schedule
It is with these men that Rockne will work in an effort to place a winning team on the field. Inasmuch as the Irish are to play a strenuous schedule with teams including Navy, Army, Southern California, Wisconsin, Penn State, Carnegie Tech and Georgia Tech, the prospects at Notre Dame cannot be termed as being bright.

The Navy eleven is led by Whitely Lloyd and Joe Clifton, a flashy pair of veteran backs. Last year the team was an inexperienced one, but a fairly good season was enjoyed, the eleven losing only to Notre Dame, Michigan and the Army.

Bill Ingram was robbed of two good players by a couple of unfortunate occurrences. Young Fox, who was killed so tragically by sun stroke, had the making of another Shag Ransford. Folit, the other, went out of the game last year with a broken leg and will not likely appear in the line-up until the latter part of the season.

The Navy has good line material this season. Smith and Sloane are gone but Beans and Moore substitutes last year, are almost as good. Haven is a made over tackle from an end position. Giese and Wilson look best for tackle berths. Wilson is a heavyweight wrestler and a baseball star. Gray and Crinkley are two powerful lads who will probably see action this year.

Captain Burke and Chappie will get the assignment at the guard positions. Center is well taken care of by Hardin and Hughes.

Wright Not for Cubs
Pittsburgh men take it for granted that Glenn Wright will not play another season with the Pirates. But they can't see the Chicago transfer. Barney Dreyfus, it is easy to figure, would not contribute to the strengthening of an already strong club if he could make a satisfactory deal with any other club. But none of the big money clubs seem to be interested in Wright.

Two years ago Wright was rated as the best shortstop in the major leagues and he is still a young man and a very good ball player, but he has had his disagreements with the Pittsburgh management and wants to leave. It is quite certain that he would like to play with Chicago.

With Hornsby and Wright, the Cubs would be a tremendously improved ball club. They were a powerful ball club this year and but for the kicking around they took from the terrible Phillies they might have been in there this season.

Joe McCarthy is a smart baseball man and one of the very best managers in the game. He doesn't need very much now to get in next year and Hornsby might be the one necessary person.

BOBCATS ARE NOT ALARMED

Are Going to Fight Cisco Furiously in Official Game Saturday.

Special to The Times.

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 15.—Well, Cisco and San Angelo have wound up their practice games and both clubs will chase through the tapering off process this week. The Lobos by virtue of a series of impressive triumphs over their pre-conference opponents while the green young San Angelo team barely has managed to eke along, are ranked anywhere from four to seven touchdowns stronger than the Bobcats. The Lobos are expected to be even stronger than the Cisco team that defeated San Angelo, 34 to 0 last year at Cisco. However, San Angelo is rated somewhat stronger than San Angelo's 1927 aggregation. And, for one thing, the San Angelo morale is better. The Bobcats of today have more pep and ginger. They are a far scrappier bunch than those lads who suffered that overwhelming defeat at Cisco in 1927. And these boys as they enter the fray Saturday, go to bat with a spirit of vindictiveness. They're out to avenge that trampling of their brothers of last year. The Bobcat youngsters especially will be in there with the revenge fire burning in their hearts. They are "Little Red" Haley, end; Grimes and Jennings, tackles; little Jimmy Russell and McCamey, backfielders. These lads were in that avalanche defeat of 1927. This quintet suffered with that Bobcat team as a raging and relentless Cisco machine rode wild to that overwhelming triumph. Those lads will lead San Angelo's fight against a cocky, over-confident Cisco team, the same veteran Cisco team of 1927, in the tournament lists at San Angelo High school Saturday.

New Faces, Too.
But there will be new stalwarts thrown into the breach, too, against Cisco this year. Big Hamberlin, the fleet little Red Massey will take their places beside McCamey on that battle field. Captain Betz Baker will be back in harness behind the line with little Jimmy Russell. And down in that line with Haley, Jennings and Grimes will be Ramon Jones and Poosty Allen, not so heavy, but with the hearts of 190-pound fighters. At an end will be second perhaps Bus Roberts, perhaps Simpson, perhaps, Smith, all inspired to catch the cocky Lobo with his guard down and bent of stern fighting to forge a victory for San Angelo where every critic in the orbit district says there is no victory for San Angelo. And there will be others. Not many, because there are only a few more on that small Bobcat squad. Smoky Brothers will be there to carry the standard. There is little Herb O'Bannon. There is Bissett and there are the two King boys, E. Y. and Jim Howard, both of whom have been groomed for the center of the line.

And about that attack. Some have imagined the light San Angelo team will play a defensive, a waiting game. Not so, for Bill Bissett's boys plan carrying the fight right into the enemy territory. There's that sharp overhead vehicle Bissett has drilled his boys on for all these weeks, a department seldom used in the non-conference games, because by not flinging many aerials Bissett's young warriors were given more opportunity to drill on their running and plunging game. The passing will take care of itself Saturday. It probably will prove a great weapon against these almost overwhelming odds the team of San Angelo faces. But in the meantime, San Angelo has perfected a running attack that may prove an unusually mean surprise to the haughty Cisco combination. San Angelo has six backs who are surprisingly swift at the running game. Where the plunging attack may not be so much, Baker, McCamey, Hamberlin, Massey, Brothers and Russell all can scamper with the hide and all are adept at the overhead style of play. It will be an open and aggressive game for San Angelo.

Officials for the big game have been selected and okehed by the rival mentors. Cawthorn (Southwestern) is booked for referee's job. Williams (A. C. C.) has been picked to umpire, and Wright (Howard Payne) is the head linesman.

When S. M. U. Scared the Army

Here's a remarkable photograph depicting one of the big thrills in the Army's 14-13 victory over Southwestern Methodist University at West Point. Quarterback Redman Hume, indicated by the arrow in the photograph, scored the losers' second touchdown in the second quarter when he scooped up a fumble by an Army back on the Army's 40-yard line and raced, unmolested to a touchdown. Note how Hume has galloped away from the players of both teams. Also note the picturesque view taken in by the photographer in this shot, the lake alongside the football field with one of the buildings towering in the background.

Whoofus Whiffletree's Woozy Wonderings

"The dope has gone into a tail spin in this district. Things don't look so rosy for the Abilene Eagles next Saturday night now. If the Eastland Mavericks improve as much during the next seven days as they did during the last, the Eagles will lose by 75 point." No, gentle reader, the above utterance is not that of an ardent Maverick fan. It appeared in the column of Prexy Anderson, sports writer of the Abilene Reporter.

That 25 to 0 victory that the Eagles registered over Howard Payne Reserves last week was largely achieved in the first quarter when three touchdowns were scored. Phelps and Hanna were injured and after that the Eagles could score only once more in the entire game. Hanna is expected to be unable to play against Eastland and Phelps' injury may handicap him. Salkeld and Bentley, regulars at end, were out of the lineup last week—their absence being reported as due to injuries. Baldwin, former San Angelo star who transferred to Abilene, was hurt in the first game, a month ago, and has been out ever since.

A half-intoxicated man with a jug of whisky suddenly saw a rattlesnake and said: "Go ahead and bite me, I'll never be better prepared than now."

Same way with Eastland. The Mavericks will never be better prepared than now to face Abilene. In the first place, the Eagles' young warriors were given more opportunity to drill on their running and plunging game. The passing will take care of itself Saturday. It probably will prove a great weapon against these almost overwhelming odds the team of San Angelo faces. But in the meantime, San Angelo has perfected a running attack that may prove an unusually mean surprise to the haughty Cisco combination. San Angelo has six backs who are surprisingly swift at the running game. Where the plunging attack may not be so much, Baker, McCamey, Hamberlin, Massey, Brothers and Russell all can scamper with the hide and all are adept at the overhead style of play. a single touchdown in the opening game of the year—and outtaught them almost the entire game. Eastland has a stronger team than Anson. What Anson did, Eastland can do if they play as hard as they did last week against Ranger. In only one game have the Eagles rolled up a big score and that was against Coleman. Just how weak Coleman is may be judged from the fact that Ballinger whipped them 20 to 0. And a few weeks ago, Ballinger lost to San Angelo 25 to 2—and nobody thinks that San Angelo has a team rivaling Notre Dame by any means.
