

Red Forces Apply New Threat To Vital Taegu

UN Troops Close Gap On Commies

TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 10.—The Korean Communists today applied new pressure on the northern front where American and South Korean forces yesterday closed a five-mile gap opened by Red tanks.

Despite the pressure the northern front defending the strategic base of Taegu was described as "relatively quiet" by Associated Press Correspondent Leif Erickson at U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters.

Some of the Red heat on Taegu was cooled by the closing of the breach in the line between Yongchon and Kyongju northeast of Taegu.

But the Reds still were a continuing threat to the South Korean provisional capital from the north. Powerful forces there have been hammering incessantly at American ridge positions seven miles above Taegu.

The Allied Air Force swarmed back to the battlefield at dawn today with only a medium overcast to hinder the harassment of Red troops and supply lines.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said had weather limited sorties to 200 yesterday — only 187 in close support of ground troops. The Reds took advantage of every respite in the aerial assault to move men and supplies to their deeply-bred divisions.

Erickson also reported a Sunday morning quiet over the southern front with the Reds still holding Battle Mountain—won again Saturday at heavy cost. The bitterly contested height dominates the approaches to Masan. Masan is the gateway to the all-important supply port of Pusan, 27 air miles east of Masan.

The general quiet that had fallen over the entire Korean battleground since Saturday's blazing actions on the north and south was noted.

Agency Created To Control Price Level

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—President Truman tonight announced agency to hold prices in check during the war emergency—or to impose price controls "when they are needed."

In a broadcast to the nation, Mr. Truman said defense costs will soar to a rate of $30 billion annually by next June and inflation is inevitable "unless we do something about it."

"As for prices and wages," Mr. Truman said, "the government is not putting on mandatory ceilings at this time."

"But we will impose ceilings vigorously and promptly when the situation calls for them."

He called for new tax increases "as soon as possible" on top of a 4.5 billion increase now nearing approval in Congress.

To set in motion a home-front economic mobilization, Mr. Truman issued an executive order designating agencies to enforce priorities, limit civilian goods output if necessary, lend money for defense plant expansion and allocate scarce materials.

He named the chairman of the national security resources board, W. Stuart Symington, to coordinate the administration of these new powers, signed by him into law yesterday.

Civilians were warned that some cutbacks will be made in the production of peacetime goods.

The President said that while the nation's productive power is vast, it cannot be expanded fast enough to make all the military goods needed.

"Therefore," he said, "to the extent necessary, workers and plants will have to stop making some civilian goods and begin turning out military equipment."

The executive order handed the bulk of Mr. Truman's new week parcel out scarce materials to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer—except that he and other top officers must defer to Symington on major policy issues. Symington was authorized to settle inter-agency disputes; Prescribe "policy and program directives" with the President's approval; keep tabs on the work of the other agencies; advise Mr. Truman on progress; and take such steps as he may feel are needed to coordinate domestic mobilization measures.

Besides Secretary Sawyer, these officials were named to wield the priority and allocations power: Secretary of the Interior Chapman, for petroleum, power, gas and solid fuels.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, for food, farm equipment and fertilizer.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was assigned domestic transportation, storage and port facilities, but not air transport or coastal and overseas shipping, which are under Sawyer's supervision.

The executive order authorized the armed forces and other agencies to guarantee loans to war contractors for plant expansion and the financing of war contracts.

The Reconstruction Finance Agency was directed to make loans for plant expansion and for boosting production of needed metals and minerals; while general services administrator Jess Larson was authorized to buy needed materials.

Truman Orders To Nation: In new orders and a nationwide broadcast, President Truman last night:

1. Set up mobilization machinery to expand the defense effort far beyond $30,000,000,000 a year.

2. Created a new price-wage agency with power to impose compulsory ceilings.

3. Gave notice that civilian goods output will be cut; authorized priority controls.

4. Demanded "heavier taxes for everybody," including an excess profits tax to curb profiteering.

5. Asked business to hold down prices, labor to restrain wage demands, and consumers to buy "only what you really need."

HST Okays More Yanks For Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—President Truman today approved "substantial increases" in the strength of United States forces in Western Europe.

In a formal statement, the President said the extent of these increases and when they will take place, will be worked out in cooperation with America's North Atlantic Treaty associates.

He said the action is being taken on the recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, with concurrence by Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson.

"The purpose of this measure," he said, "is to increase the effectiveness of our collective defense efforts and thereby insure the maintenance of peace."

Mr. Truman said a basic consideration in carrying out the decision is the degree to which America's Western allies "match our actions in this regard."

The statement came on the heels of suggestions in congressional quarters that the United States strengthen the defense forces in Western Europe against possible aggression from Soviet Russia.

It came also at a time when proposals were being advanced that an "American head up the joint forces. The President made no mention of this however.

YOLANDE BETZE

Alabama Lass Is Selected Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—Brown-haired Yolande Betze of Mobile, Ala., was named Miss America of 1951 tonight.

The 21-year-old southern belle, who entered the contest as Miss Alabama received a tremendous ovation from the audience of close to 19,000 persons.

Wearing a white evening dress, the five-foot, five and one-half inch beauty walked smiling to the center of the huge stage. She received two dozen American Beauty roses and a regal robe was placed around her shoulders.

Last year's Miss America, Jacqueline Mercer of Phoenix, Ariz., gave her a crown and scepter. In the ensuing excitement, the crown fell from Miss Betze's head and they had to retrieve it from the floor.

The new Miss America has brown eyes, weighs 119 pounds, has a 35-inch bust, a 24-inch waist and 35 1/2-inch hips.

Reviewing The Big Spring - Week -

With Joe Pickle

Big Spring has been pointing toward today for a long while. We are fortunate to have the top man in the Veterans Administration—Gen. Carl Gray—here to dedicate the VA hospital this afternoon.

And for those who have not yet seen the beautiful plant, this afternoon affords a rare opportunity for a tour of inspection. You shouldn't miss it.

About the biggest thing along the local news front last week was the sharpness of increase in school enrollment. Whereas enrollment gained 4.3 per cent a year ago, it jumped 23.7 per cent last week.

This virtually offset advantage gained by addition of 16 classrooms. More half-day sessions may have to be employed and children

200 ATTEND BANQUET City Extends Big Welcome To Gray

Some 200 Big Springers extended the city's formal greeting Saturday night to Carl R. Gray, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, who is here to dedicate the new VA hospital at 2 p. m. today.

The occasion was a banquet at the Settles hotel, arranged by the chamber of commerce. It was climaxed with a gracious talk by General Gray, who, in outlining the responsibilities of the vast government agency he heads, bore down upon the importance of preparedness to avoid further terrific losses in future wars.

General Gray will be heard again this afternoon in the dedicatory ceremonies at the front of the VA hospital.

A former railroad man who also headed the Military Railway Service in World War II, General Gray assumed the VA post 32 months ago because "I was ordered to do so by the President of the United States."

Confessing his lack of knowledge at the time of the scope of the administration, General Gray said he laid down this policy, which continues to be the directive: "We are the administrator of the wills, wishes and desires of the American public toward their veterans as evidenced by the laws of Congress."

He lauded the high standard of medical service maintained at VA hospitals, and pledged that as "fine medical service anywhere will be offered in Big Spring, or we'll close up the hospital."

General Gray was introduced by Mayor G. W. Dabney, and at the conclusion of the program was presented an autographed copy of Shine Phillips' book, "Big Spring." This presentation was by Dr. Lloyd B. Andrew, general manager of the new institution here.

Joe Pickle was master of ceremonies for the program, which included a piano solo by Susan Houser and vocal selections by Munson Compton. Invocation was by the Rev. Gage Lloyd and Adolph Swartz, chamber of commerce president, presided.

Last Survivors Rescued From Mine Cave-In

116 Men Saved After Being Trapped 2 Days

NEW CUNNOCK, SCOTLAND, Sunday, Sept. 10. (AP)—The last of the known survivors of the New Cunnock mine disaster were brought to the surface early today.

Officials at the pithead said that 116 men had been rescued after being trapped nearly two days at the bottom of a 720-foot pit by a cave-in.

The rescued men, dirty, tired and worn, wore grotesque gas masks and respirators to crawl through a barrier of poisonous coal gas before making their way to the top of the Knockshinnock castle mine.

Some of the men were taken to a hospital suffering from shock and exhaustion. The men had begun to arrive at the pithead early this afternoon, led to safety in small groups after crawling through a gas-filled escape tunnel.

Altogether 136 men were caught below ground when the cave-in occurred Thursday night. They were trapped when thousands of tons of spongy earth collapsed into the interior of the mine. Ten miners are unaccounted for and are feared dead.

Eight miners escaped when thousands of tons of spongy earth loosened by heavy rains, collapsed into the mine interior Thursday night. Ten others have not been heard from and it is feared they died under the heavy mass.

When the mammoth cave-in sealed off the miners, 720 feet underground, rescuers dug a 30-foot wall from an old mine shaft. But a pocket of black damp, an odorless, poisonous gas, lay at the base of the abandoned coal shaft and still blocked rescue. Masks then were used.

Call 17 More Men For Armed Forces

Selective Service Board No. 71 has received a call to furnish 17 more men for induction into the armed forces.

The second group of inductees from the local board will report on Oct. 9. Another call for 17 men to be inducted on Sept. 25 was received two weeks ago.

Texas has been asked to furnish 2,500 men for induction during the first two weeks in October.

Among other calls received by board in this area for early October were nine from Midland to be inducted on Oct. 5, 11 from Lamesa to be inducted on Oct. 5, and 20 from Odessa to be inducted on Oct. 20.

YOUNG FOLKS WIND UP FIESTA

Big Spring Lad Top Winner As Junior Rodeo Show Ends

Horace Rankin, Big Spring, milked his wild cow in 16.7 seconds Saturday night at the final performance of the World's Championship Junior rodeo to come out the top winner in the action-packed three-day show.

Rankin was averages winner in the wild cow milking event and placed second in the finale of the bareback bronc riding contest to become probably the outstanding junior cowboy entered in the rodeo. Scramble Day, Odessa, won the bareback riding and placed third in the bull riding event for what was probably the second best individual performance.

When averages were announced after the last performance Billy Bynum of Sterling City was named winner of the calf roping for boys under 20. Olin Young, Livingston, N. M., won the roping for boys under 15. Bynum's time was 28.8, while Young hog-tied his two calves for an average of 34.5.

Billy Bynum of Sterling City won the calf roping event for boys under 20 years of age in the first go-round. He hobbled his animal in 15.2 seconds, while second place winner Wanda Harper, Mason cowgirl, copped the event with a time of 20 seconds. Snooks Creighton, Lamesa, was second with a 20.5 while third-place Mildred Cotton of Andrews negotiated the triple loop in 20.7 seconds.

Billy Bynum of Sterling City won the calf roping event for boys under 15.2 seconds, while second place winner Bob Russell of Fife tied his calf in 16 flat. Dogie Jarnigan, Colorado City, won third with 18.9, and Martin Fryar, Knott, was fourth with a time of 20.7.

In the calf roping for boys under 15, Jackie Romine, Big Spring, was first with 27 seconds. His closest competitor was Lyndon Waldrop, Bronte, with a 28.3.

Tommy Montgomery, Big Spring won the first session of bull riding. Dogie Jarnigan copped the ribbon roping, and Scramble Day, Odessa, won the bareback bronc contest for the first go-round.

Perry Walker, Big Spring, was best in the hat race. Ray Herring, Fluvanna, was best in the wild cow milking for the first two nights of the show. The cow milking contest wasn't divided into go-rounds.

Average winners included: Bareback bronc—Scramble Day, Odessa, 20.7; Scramble Day, Odessa, 20.7; Calf roping (under 20 years)—Billy Bynum, 28.8; Martin Fryar, 37.7; Dogie Jarnigan, 46.1; Bob Russell, 47.5.

Doctor Draft Bill Is Signed By President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Truman today signed a bill designed to put pressure on government-trained medical men to volunteer for military service or face induction as privates.

It would permit the drafting of doctors, dentists, osteopaths, optometrists, veterinarians and pharmacologists who have not reached their 51st birthdays and who are not in the reserves.

They would be drafted as privates if they came into service by that route, and would not get the $100 monthly bonus pay now provided for medical volunteers.

The new law sets no deadline on when a medic not in the reserves could enroll and escape the draft. As a reserve, he would be subject to call to active duty but at commissioned rank and higher pay.

Main objective of the bill is to put into uniform an estimated 5,600 doctors and 3,000 dentists, along with a lesser number of specialists, who received all or part of their training at government expense during the last war but saw little or no military service.

Those who don't volunteer and are drafted would be inducted in this order:

First: Former students who received all or part of their medical training at government expense but served less than 90 days in the last war.

Second: Those in the same group who served more than 90 days but less than 21 months in the last war.

Third: Those who received their training at other than government expense but have never served in the armed forces or in the public health service.

Fourth: Those who were privately trained and have a military service record; they would be called generally on the basis of how much military service they have had, those with less service going first.

Life Underwriters Meet In Midland

Among those attending from Big Spring were Dalton Mitchell, Herman McNabb, Troy Harrell, and Julia Boyce.

Besides the seven state primaries—including Michigan and Minnesota gubernatorial and house races—Mississippi democrats will conduct a run-off primary in the 3rd Congressional District Tuesday.

Here is next week's picture in brief:

Monday—Maine election, always first in the country. Gov. Frederick G. Payne and Reps. Robert Hale, Charles P. Nelson, and Frank Fellows, all Republicans, figure to win over Democrat opponents, but the Democrats have put up an unusually stiff fight against the sitting representatives.

Tuesday—New Hampshire primaries: Chief interest is in the fight for the Republican senate nomination between Senator Tobey, who votes often with the administration forces in the Senate, and Wesley Powell, an attorney and former aide in the office of Senator Bridges (R-NH).

Observers rate this a close one. Arizona—Senator Hayden, chairman of the Senate Rules Committee and second to Chairman McClellan on the Appropriations Committee, faces two men in his bid for a fifth nomination in the Democratic primary.

Cecil H. Miller, Phoenix cattleman, is regarded as the principal opponent.

Vermont—Senator Alken is unopposed for Republican renomination. James Bigelow of Bellows Falls has no rival, either, for the Democratic nomination.

Colorado—Senator Millikin has no GOP opposition and Rep. John A. Carroll of Denver is unopposed for the Democratic nomination for senator.

Principal interest enters in the Republican nomination for governor. Ex-Gov. Ralph L. Carr is

Union Turns Down Chance-Vought Offer

DALLAS, Sept. 9 (AP)—Chance Vought Aircraft workers have turned down a company offer of six cent cost of living raise for about 60 per cent of the proposed increase wasn't enough and didn't affect enough workers.

"We're asking a 20 cent package that can be split up," said John W. Vinson, UAW area director. "When we get the 20-cent figure we can figure out how we can divide it."

The company had offered the raise for about 1,800 of Chance Vought's 2,600 production workers. The union's contract expires Dec. 10.

Scientists To Measure Distortion Of Earth During Solar Eclipse

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9 (AP)—Two UCLA scientific parties will attempt to measure the earth's distortion during a solar eclipse next Tuesday, from vantage points in Attu, Alaska, and Lake Tahoe, Calif.

The Attu party, in the direct path of the eclipse, will be headed by Dr. John Pettit and Wesley Miller, flown by the Navy from Seattle last week. The Lake Tahoe party is under Dr. Louis B. Slichter, director of UCLA's Institute of Geophysics.

It is said to be the first attempt to record small distortions brought on by an eclipse. Sun and moon affect oceans, causing tides, but that they also may distort land surfaces as much as four feet is not generally known outside scientific circles.

Service Clubs Meet Monday

They're billing Monday night's attraction at Steer park as the "World Series of disorganized baseball."

In action will be teams composed of two service club rosters, the Rotary and Kiwanis, who will square off in their annual grudge battle around 7:45 p. m.

Ira (Rocking chair) Thurman, will direct the destinies of the Rotary contingent, while B. M. (Hank) Irwin, will serve as field pilot for the Kiwanis.

Advance tickets have been on sale for several days, and others will be available at the box office before game time.

JOHNSON MAY RESIGN

Korea War, Homefront Crisis Are Problems Facing Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (AP)—President Truman had twin crises on his hands tonight—a cabinet controversy at home, a military predicament abroad.

At home, there loomed the definite possibility that the storm center of the cabinet quarrel Defense Secretary Louis Johnson might move out. The only formal action necessary would be White House acceptance of the resignation which all cabinet members file when they take office.

In Korea, American and other United Nations troops fought desperately to hold massive and continuing thrusts of the Red army in a war which after eleven weeks was still running against the defenders.

Whether there was a relationship between the crises, as was charged in some quarters, and if so how much, was not clear.

There isn't any speculation in Washington now about when a general counteroffensive can be launched. The immediate and pressing problem is to hold the line against the terrific Red onslaught.

All this was cheerless news for Johnson's friends who thought that a military victory in Korea now could save him, could ease pressure for his resignation.

The most recent of the demands for Johnson's resignation from the job to which he was appointed by Mr. Truman in March, 1949, came from the Marine Corps League. A resolution of the league's convention yesterday demanded Johnson's ouster.

But a White House confidant, in predicting that Johnson was on the way out, did not set this forth as the reason. He traced it to the maneuvering for strength between Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

This White House aide said that the President was willing to defend an appointee against outside attacks, but he was concerned over reports of defense department criticism of his secretary of state. This confidant of Mr. Truman added:

"The President feels that Secretary of State Acheson has borne up in this case with supreme dignity and will remain in the cabinet after Johnson has gone."

He thought Johnson would make his departure sooner than most people expected.

At the Pentagon, there was official silence about all this. If Johnson had changed his mind about a statement he made ten days ago (blunt rejection of a demand by Rep. Taubello (D-NY) that he resign) he wasn't ready to say so.

Five Divorce Cases Heard By District Court

Five divorce cases were heard and judgment was entered on another which was tried a week earlier in 118th District Court here Friday.

Maxine Meadows was granted a divorce from Arthur R. Meadows and the plaintiff's former name, Jones, was restored, while B. F. Willis was granted a divorce from Bernice Willis.

A divorce was granted and custody of two minor children was awarded to the plaintiff in the case of Roberta Faye Mears vs. Doyle R. Mears. The defendant was ordered to pay $50 monthly for support of the children.

In the case of Jo Dell Gregory vs. William H. Gregory a divorce was granted with custody of two minor children awarded to the plaintiff. The judgment is that case also provided for a payment of $40 a month by the defendant for support.

Glady's Mires was granted a divorce from Carl Mires and custody of one minor child was awarded to the plaintiff. The defendant is to pay $50 a month support.

In the case of Elizabeth Canning, Harold Canning, testimony in the original suit and a cross action was heard a week ago. A judgment entered Friday granted the divorce and divided the custody of two minor children, with each parent to have custody of both children for six months of each year.

Polio Victim To Be Flown From Germany To Texas

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 9. (AP)—A young American polio patient in an iron lung will be flown to Texas from Germany next week by a special U. S. Air Force flight.

He is Edward H. Rosenwasser, 22-year-old medical student from Fort Worth, Texas, who was stricken in Vienna last July while touring Europe.

Air Force officials said today that a C-54 plane will leave Frankfurt's Rhein-Main airport Monday with Rosenwasser and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenwasser.

Staffed with three medical technicians and a double crew to avoid delays, the plane will take the young patient to Houston where he will enter a hospital, the officials said.

Rosenwasser is now in the Army's 97th General Hospital here. A 900-pound iron lung for Rosenwasser's homeward flight was flown here Friday from America.

Chamber Nears Halfway Mark In Decorations Fund

The Christmas decorations committee of the chamber of commerce will step up its drive for funds Monday.

Goal off he drive is $4,500 for the purchase of permanent-type street decoration material. Less than half the needed amount—$1,955—has been subscribed and deadline for raising the money to purchase decorations at their present price is Sept. 15, according to Gilbert Gibbs, chairman.

A tentative order for the material has been placed, but if funds are not raised by Sept. 15, it will have to be cancelled, he said.

Contributors to the special fund Friday and Saturday were Sears Order office, Anderson Music company, Truman Jones Motor company, McDonald Motor company, Jones Motor company, Lone Star Chevrolet, Marvin Hull Motor company, and Shroyer Motor company.

Firms and individuals who wish to contribute are requested to mail their checks to the chamber of commerce.

$100 Bills Float Around Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9. (AP)—The seven $100 bills found floating around in Cleveland's public square last night were claimed today by a Kansas City chemical broker.

Thomas Braumett established ownership of the money through an automobile dealer who said he gave him the bills in a car deal. He said he lost two other $100 bills, but those were not accounted for.

The bills were found by Charles W. McCown, 40, a Roanoke, Va. salesman, who said he saw them drifting around in the air.

Shivers To Face First Real Test As Dem Party Chieftain

MINERAL WELLS, Sept. 9 — Gov. Allan Shivers faces his first real test as titular chief of the Texas Democratic Party here next week.

His job will be to ride herd on feuding factions that have disrupted every state Democratic convention since May, 1944.

Liberals and conservatives have battled viciously and several times split to the extent that new parties were formed of the uncompromising segments. First it was the Texas Regulars then the States Righters or Dixiecrats that broke loose.

Now they are all more or less back in the party, faced again with taking loyal pledges that many have found hard to stand up to in the past. The extreme right-wing faction was swept out of the September convention in Fort Worth two years ago.

Shivers appeared today to have the situation in hand so far as pre-convention planning could go. The governor has a complete state of temporary officers ready to offer the convention that starts Tuesday, and his friends are ready with state executive committee candidates. These are nominated at district caucuses and approved or rejected by the convention.

Shivers has said he does not want to dictate the personnel of this highly important committee, but that he wants to be sure its members are Democrats and people who supported him in his race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination against Case March.

Shivers won by a big majority. His best political weapon in seeking control of the convention is the 75 per cent majority he got.

The September convention is known traditionally as the "governor's convention" and its chief purpose is to select a platform on which he runs against the Republican nominee in the general election. It also selects the state committee which is supposed to be the governor's political right arm.

Stated for chairmanship of the Credentials committee is Bascom Gist of Tyler, whose theory of loyalty holds that while good Democrats may not agree on all platform principles, they should fight it out within the party, then unite in support of its nominees.

This sub-committee meets Monday. It will listen to rival delegations from Houston, Fort Worth, and Dallas, each claiming to represent at-home democracy.

"WOLFHOUND" COMMANDER RESTS TIRED FEET — Col. "Mike" Michaelis, commanding the 27th "Wolfhound" Regiment rests his tired feet after his outfit was pulled off the line for a 48-hour rest. Col. Now The Hard Of Hearing Can Help Themselves To Hearing

Here is sensational news for the Hard of Hearing of Big Spring and surrounding community. Science has overcome a major type of deafness. Now sufferers from middle ear deafness need no longer wear a Hearing Aid in either ear. No EAR BUTTONS, NO HEADBANDS, NO PRESSURE IN EITHER EAR. A FREE Hearing Clinic will be held at the Settles Hotel, Tuesday, Sept. 12, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., by Mr. J. C. Hammer ("Specialist in the problem of the Hard of Hearing") at which time he will check the hard of hearing for their individual hearing problem; and discuss with each the new scientific correction that may be theirs. He will also demonstrate to each sufferer of the middle ear deafness that they no longer need to wear a hearing aid in either ear, thanks to a discovery made by Acousticon, the world's first and oldest manufacturer of electrical hearing aids. If you know you have "middle-ear" deafness, or if you don't know what type of deafness you have, you are invited to visit, examine and try this sensational new discovery without cost or obligation. ABSOLUTELY FREE.

Think of it. If you now wear a hearing aid and have this type of deafness, you can take your hearing aid out of your ear forever, say goodbye for life to ear buttons and head bands. If you have been too embarrassed to wear a hearing aid in your ear, you may now HEAR AGAIN with thrilling clarity and comfort with absolutely nothing in your ear. Only a limited number of this Acousticon invention are available, so come in to this Clinic for one of the great thrills of your life.

This may be the answer you have waited for a thrilling, exciting, new way to hear, science's astounding victory over middle ear deafness. Prove now that you can HEAR AGAIN with nothing in your ear. Attend this free clinic.

Sinatra Suit May Be Settled Out Of Court

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept. 9 — Frankie Sinatra's wife's suit for separate maintenance may be settled out of court.

Mrs. Nancy Sinatra's attorney gave that reason as superior court granted a two-week continuance in the case, which was scheduled to be heard Friday. Negotiations toward a settlement are under way, Attorney Gregson Bautzer said.

Mrs. Sinatra has been receiving $2,750 monthly support for herself and three children since July. The 11-year marriage broke up last February.

Army Taking Its Own X-Rays Now In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 9 — The Army Friday used its own equipment to X-ray draftees and reservists after Dr. Irving I. Cowan had averaged a daily gross profit of $1,600.

Under the new policy a panel of physicians, including Dr. Cowan, will interpret the plates for a dime apiece. Five civilian technicians hired by the Army will operate the X-ray machine.

Dr. Cowan in recent months had made about 8,000 x-rays for a fee of $5 each on an individual contract basis. Col. John Ehlert, commander of the Wisconsin Military

High Officials Due Here For Farm Meeting

Several high officials of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation and the American Farm Bureau Federation will be here Saturday for a sub-district meeting in the Settles hotel.

The session here will be one of a series being conducted this month by the Texas Federation. Purpose of the series is to give state and national officials a chance to obtain first hand information from the membership and at the same time to enable the officials to explain policies and general programs being pursued by the organization.

Among those expected here are Marvin Carter, state organizational director, Dave Mieber, Jackson, Miss., executive vice-president of the Southern Farm Bureau Life Insurance Co., and O. R. Long, Columbia, Tenn., American Farm Bureau Federation field representative.

J. Walter Hammond, state president, who has attended most sub-district meetings here in the past, will be in Chicago on that date to attend a board meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Tractor Injures Brady Resident

BRADY, Sept. 9. (SC) — H. L. Brady, 35-year-old stock farmer of the Dodge community seven miles southwest of here, today was recovering in a local hospital from injuries received at his farm late Friday when he was run down by a tractor.

Brady received his injuries, which were described as a fractured right leg and numerous abrasions, when he cranked the tractor while it was in gear.

France Issues Orders To Expel 404 Foreign Reds

PARIS, Sept. 9. (U)—France has issued orders to expel 404 foreign Communists from the country in the current security drive. The Communist press had put the figure at 700.

An announcement by the interior ministry also contradicted "the untrue reports of certain newspapers which have received imperative instructions from a certain political group to minimize the results of the operations undertaken in the view of public opinion."

SHERMAN, Sept. 9. (U)—Award of the contract for the $285,000 Union Memorial Building to Farnsworth and Chambers, Inc., Houston, was announced here today by officials of Austin College.

180 Americans Are Stranded In France

PARIS, Sept. 9. (U)—About 180 American students and teachers, including three members of the Abilene, Tex., Christian College faculty, are stranded in Paris.

They told reporters today their main trouble is that the travel agency which booked their round-trip flights on a charter airline had not paid the airline for the return trip.

A similar situation is facing about 60 students and tourists reported stranded in England.

Finances bound the group here with a few saying vehemently "we are even missing meals."

Perry told Paris newsmen: "All of us have checked out of our hotels on two different days now, on the promise by the student travel service that we definitely were leaving."

Whereupon elementary school teacher Koch Betty Mendoza of New York City, spoke up:

"Low in funds? Some of us are missing meals."

At Abilene, ACC Dean Walter Adams said he had not been advised in Paris. He said the trio had spent most of the summer in Europe, leaving Abilene by car last June for New York.

He said the three are not due at ACC until Monday afternoon, when the first faculty meeting is scheduled.

He added that no new arrangements would be made until he had been officially advised the trio would not arrive in time to meet classes.

Fair Group To Discuss Details For Annual Show

Details surrounding plans for the annual Howard County Fair are due to be faced this week by the executive committee. Fair dates are Sept. 25-30.

Organization has been completed, and a meeting of the key committee is due to be convoked early in the week, Joe Pickle, president, said.

Catalogues are due to be off the press during the week. Arrangements for a 50x118-foot tent to shelter part of the exhibit have been completed.

Orange Couple Killed In Collision On Way To Colorado City

WACO, Sept. 9. (U)—An Orange couple, en route to visit their daughter in Colorado City, was killed Friday when a truck slammed into the rear of their car after it had crashed against a creek bridge.

The victims, Mr. and Mrs. D. Roach, both 68, had started on a vacation trip to the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ebanor Oaul of Colorado City. They ran into the creek bridge when smoke from a grass fire obscured their vision.

Highway Patrol Capt. Sam Gardner said Mrs. Roach got out of the car and stood in front of it, flagging down traffic. Roach stayed in the car.

Mrs. Isabelle Roy of Riesel stopped her car in response to Mrs. Roach's wave. Gardner said Mrs. Roach was crushed between the two cars when the truck hit the Roach car. The Roach car caught fire, and Roach died in the flames.

Divorce Suit Filed Against Tibbett Son

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9. (U)—After two years of marriage, Mrs. Barbara M. Tibbett, 26, has filed divorce suit against Richard M. Tibbett, 30-year-old real estate broker and son of Singer Lawrence Tibbett.

REDS

Continued from page 1 reflected in the absence of headquarters summaries. Both General MacArthur's and Eighth Army Headquarters skipped their Saturday night and Sunday morning announcements.

Grounded for two days by rains, planes soared back into action Saturday. They concentrated on Reds massed northwest of Taegu.

The gap in the northern defense wall was snapped shut by South Korean troops driving east from Yongchon and American and South Korean forces moving west from Kyongju.

Yongchon, gateway city to Taegu 30 miles westward, was recaptured by South Koreans Friday from the armor-led Reds who had held it briefly. The ousted Reds poured in artillery fire, the North Korean radio has claimed possession of Yongchon for two days.

Several groups of Reds are pocketed.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the situation along the northern line late Saturday was "much improved."

In the south, the 25th Division killed 1,500 of the 3,000 Reds who wrested Battle Mountain from them. It was the 13th time in three weeks the mountain had changed hands.

The Reds' losses boosted their casualties for the week to more than 15,000 men on the southern front alone, and raised official U. S. estimates of Red losses on all fronts to 27,000 in eight days — about 18 per cent of their estimated 150,000-man force.

First Cavalry troops, defending Taegu on the North, stood their ground solidly against constant enemy pressure.

The Americans held high ridges seven miles north of Taegu.

The enemy probed hard all along the line, apparently trying to keep the defenders off balance until reinforcements could be brought up.

Red strikes at the Second Division west of Yongchon and against British positions west of Taegu on the Nakdong River front were turned back. The defenders lost no ground.

Allied planes got in 140 close-support missions late Saturday.

Left Erickson of the AP, at Eighth Army headquarters, said the main force of the most recent Red offensive against the northern wall had been spent. The Reds were keeping up their pressure there, however.

Southwestern Bell To Present Request For Rate Increase

Southwestern Bell Telephone company will present a request for an increase in rates before the city commission Tuesday, John Moore, local manager, has announced.

A proposal to install dial telephones in Big Spring will be made in connection with the request for the rate increase, he said.

The meeting Tuesday will be the first regular September meeting of the commission. It met in called session last Wednesday, but the only business taken up was the approval of a zoning and planning recommendation to change the classification of three lots at 8th and Security.

The classification was changed from "B" two-family residential to "F" business district.

Bing's Gotta Go To Heaven First

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (U)—Shoshone Indian Chief Send-hoo-vi-Guni, also known as Crooner Bing Crosby, is going to have to go to the Happy Hunting Grounds before he can have a Nevada Lake named after him.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) informed the Shoshone Tribal Council of this today. He explained that the Board of National Geographic Names says it can't change its policy prohibiting the naming of federal landmarks for living persons.

McCarran said in a statement that the Shoshones, who have made Der Ringle their only white chief, wanted to rename the Wild Horse Lake on the Owyne River in Elko County, Nevada for the crooner.

Crosby owns a ranch near the Shoshone reservation on which the lake is located and, McCarran said, has helped the tribe with funds for its hospital and rodeos.

Camp Polk Needs More Civilian Help

CAMP POLK, La., Sept. 9.—Recently reactivated Camp Polk needs more civilian help. Col. T. J. Brasher, 4th Army Civilian Personnel chief, announced. Automotive mechanics, heating equipment repair workers, fire control instrument repair men, combat vehicle mechanic and electronic technicians are among those needed. Further information may be obtained from the Civilian Personnel office, Fourth Army, Fort Sam Houston.

THE WEEK

Those who took time out to see the kid's rodeo, which closed out Saturday, got a look at tomorrow's stars. Judging from some of the sparkling times on calf roping and brilliance on riding, tomorrow won't be long in coming.

A traffic study is coming up this week with view of expediting movement of downtown traffic and in most efficient movement in other key sectors. Last week the city added a signal light at 2nd and Seurry. It was needed, but so is one on Gregg and 18th, where the highway department says it isn't. Try and tell that to parents whose school children have to cross the highway there.

Howard County Hereford Breeders had their annual autumn trawl last week. Those in the party saw breeding stock in extra good flesh, and Henry Elder of the Texas Hereford Breeders association said that constant improvement was noticeable. Perhaps next year's tour can be scheduled at a time without so many conflicts, affording more a chance to come along.

Howard County Junior College opens its doors for the fall semester Monday. It is difficult to predict enrollment, but indications are that it again will have a healthy total. Perhaps this time next year students will be enrolling in a brand new, specially designed plant.

Rains of the past week just about clinched a bumper harvest. Thanks to the vigilance of producers, Howard county has some of the best cotton in the state. Feed crops, with timely moisture, will weigh out several hundred tons heavier than would have been the case if dry weather had continued.

Drillstem tests did not develop flows or free oil, but shows in samples raised hopes last week that Spraberry production may be developed in northwest Howard. The East Vealmoor pool is widening and looking better as it comes south.

Within a fortnight, the Colorado River Municipal Water district is due to come up with a proposal to furnish Big Spring and Odessa with an adequate water supply. The first phase will be from a new well field; the ultimate phase will be from a Colorado River lake.

One of the most popular improvements heretofore is the erection of a cyclone fence around the Central Ward area. This should truly promote safety of the children who forget there are busy streets when they dart after a ball or hurry across the street.

Two Minor Wrecks Reported On Friday

Two minor wrecks were reported by police Friday. Both occurred on Johnson street.

Cars driven by M. W. Harwell Jr., 1801 Bell, and Clifford D Wiley, 1010 11th Place, were involved in a minor collision in the 300 block of Johnson about 11:30 a.m. Friday. Billie Joe Ray, 204 E. 6th and Eddie Houser, 1005 Johnson, were operators of vehicles involved in a mishap at 504 Johnson about 1:15 p. m. No one was injured.

11th Polio Case Is Reported In County

Another case of polio, Howard county's 11th for the year, was reported by the Big Spring-Howard County Health unit Saturday.

Latest person to contract the disease was Mrs. Dora Eubanks, 1204 Wood Street. She has shown no signs of paralysis, the Health unit said.

Other communicable diseases and the number of cases of each reported Saturday for the past week were chicken pox, one; diphtheria, two; pneumonia, three; and whooping cough, three.

TOUGH JOB TO FIND THE FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9. (U)—Firemen had to hunt for some time to find a house on fire on Columbus' east side. They just weren't looking high enough.

The "house" turned out to be a boy's tree shanty in a field near a busy intersection. Firemen couldn't determine the cause of the blaze but said it was probably just one lad's way of saying farewell to summer vacation Friday.

Our 5th BIRTHDAY... SEPTEMBER 11th & 12th REGISTRATION DAYS

Yes, we have enjoyed four years of success at Howard County Junior College. We are looking forward to a better year than ever before this year... The people of West Texas, Howard County and Big Spring have made it possible for HCJC to become recognized as one of the best Junior Colleges in the Southwest. Howard County Junior College offers many pre-professional courses. All credits are transferable to the leading Universities and four-year colleges.

HOWARD COUNTY JUNIOR COLLEGE KEEPS PACE

A new Howard County Junior College plant is in the process of being built for the increasing demand of enrollment in Howard County Junior College... Many courses have been added since the opening of HCJC in 1946 such as leathercraft, vocational courses and agriculture courses. The demand of higher education today has forced all educational institutions to offer many elective courses other than academic. Howard County Junior College is recognized by the leading accrediting agencies. For full information, write or call Registrar... 1300

Playoffs Open In Odessa And Roswell Monday

Four of the eight Longhorn baseball league clubs mark time today for the 1950 Shaughnessy playoffs, which begin Monday night in Odessa and Roswell.

Two clubs—Big Spring and Vernon—clinched places in the first division last week, the Broncos as early as Wednesday night while the Dusters had to wait until Friday to discourage the San Angelo Colts, who developed amazingly well in the final weeks of the campaign.

There is no indication which team will play which in the first round of the playoffs, or wasn't before last night's games. Big Spring led Vernon by half a game in the battle for third place but the result of the final two games could have shuffled the standings.

Should Big Spring wind up in third place, the Steeds will go against Roswell. Vernon then will square away with Odessa the full season champion.

In such case, the Cavuses would remain over in Roswell, where they went to finish the season ending today.

A fourth place finish, of course will make them eligible to meet Odessa while Vernon would be squaring away with Roswell.

At any rate, the Steeds will play their first two games on the road, then come home Wednesday night for a three game stand, if the series goes that long.

Should the series go as many as five games, there will be no conflicts played Friday due to the conflict with the high school football program.

Who ever is the Steeds' first round foe, Gil Guerra will probably get the starting mound assignment for Big Spring. Guerra, who won ten games during the regular season, reached the heights in his latest start when he shut out the Midland Indians, limiting them to one hit.

Luis Gonzales will probably get the call in the second game.

Fortin, Beeler In Deadlock

It's a two-way fight for the batting leadership in the W-T-N-M league as the season nears an end.

Joe Fortin of Pampa and Jodie Beeler of Lamesa are tied for the lead in games through Monday, Sept. 4, each with a mark of 398.

Harry Bright is ahead of Fortin and Beeler but the Clovis star, who owns a mark of 415, has appeared in only 90 games.

Fortin also leads in hits with 222 while Beeler is out front in doubles with 52.

Lyle Palmer of Albuquerque is top man in runs scored with 155. Tom Marshall of Albuquerque in triples with 15 and Crawford Howard of Amarillo in home runs with 37 and runs batted in with 164.

Top leading hitters:

Player	AB	R	H	HR	Pct
Bright	351	89	107	104	.415
Fortin	558	142	222	163	.398

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring has the reputation in other West Texas cities for not being a livewire football community. . . . The truth of the matter is, a greater percentage of the population goes in for long trips to college games than in any other city in this area. . . . Hundreds hit the roads every weekend during football season to watch Texas Tech, Hardin-Simmons, SMU, TCU, Baylor and Texas university in home games. . . . More than a few of those pass up the high school contests entirely for the college attractions. . . . If there was a way to get them out to the prep engagements, as well as the college games, then the Steers would never suffer for backing. . . . Midland, by the way, has now sold more than 1,600 season ducats for its high school games, Odessa more than 5,000. . . . Our total is still short of 300. . . . Wayne Huestis, the Forsan speedster who was supposed to go to Oklahoma to finish his high school grid eligibility, is listed as a candidate for the Odessa Junior college grid eleven. . . . So are Nino Lujan and Gordon (Moe) Madison, who performed for HCJC last season. . . . Oscar Fraley, the United Press sports expert, has named Bud McFadin of Texas and Kyle Rote of SMU as boys who'll probably rate All-America honors this fall, along with Dan Fuldberg, another Texan, now enrolled at West Point. . . . Charles Sieber of Amarillo, who ran in the Big Spring Relays a couple of years ago, will play football for the US Naval Academy this fall. . . . The Middies open their season with Maryland Sept. 30, will probably get beat since the Terrapins are supposed to be loaded.

Sweetwater Will Field Heavy Line

Sweetwater high school's football line this season will probably average about 193. Its backfield 156. The Victoria Stingars, who play the Steers here Sept. 22, open their 1950 campaign with Thomas Edison of San Antonio in Victoria next Friday. Southern Methodist reportedly will groom John Macko, Dalhart's ineligible grid star, at NTAC in Arlington this week. Deke Hougate, the West Coast's football analyst, is another who has jumped on the University of Texas' band wagon, says SMU, TCU, Rice, Baylor, Texas A & M and Arkansas should finish in that order back of the Longhorns. Oklahoma A & M, which plays two South-

Garcia Finished Up With Galveston

Bert Garcia, a great pitcher for Big Spring in 1949 but a flop this season, didn't stay in Havana very long after he left here. He finished the season with the Galveston White Caps of the Gulf Coast league. When Earl Finley, the Sweetwater backdrop, was thumbed out of a game here recently for throwing his bat, Tom Guinn had to come in and act as the receiver because the Swatters' only other catcher was pitching at the moment. That would be Sam Morris, Odessa scalper, the Midland Indians in 17 of 22 games played this season. In all, the pace setter lost only 18 decisions at home throughout the campaign. The Odessans missed their chance to win 100 games for the season, however when the Big Springers inflicted a double defeat on them Labor Day here. Contrary to the Garden City's New Grid Stadium Will Be Dedicated Friday Night

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 10.—Bears-kat Stadium, Garden City high school's new lighted football field, will be formally dedicated next Friday night when the Bearkats meet the Paint Rock Indians in an 8 p. m. contest.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Big Spring First Baptist pastor, will be speaker for the dedication ceremony. Special recognition is to be given all concerns and individuals who contributed material and labor for construction of the new stadium.

The new field is complete with lighting, bleachers, and new sodding. The Friday tilt will be the first home game under lights for the Bearkats.

It will also be the first 1950 game for the Garden City team. Probable starters for the initial tilt, with position, weight, and number of years lettered, if any, are:

Larry Calverley, center, 130, one year; Bryant Harris, end, 141, one year; Troy Cline, end, 134, one year; Jim Robinson, quarter back, 128, two years; Wilbur Bednar, 141, one year; Maurice Overton, 144,

College Football Opens With Bang

By The Associated Press

College football bursts onto the scene with a rush this week in Texas.

Eight junior colleges and 17 senior colleges have games.

The feature will be North Texas State's battle with Kentucky at Lexington, Ky. Ambitious North Texas, a member of the Gulf Coast Conference, will be tackling a southern power in one of the country's top intersectional games.

PRINCE SLUMPS

Jordan Regains Bat Leadership

Roswell Manager Tom Jordan regained the lead in the Longhorn league's batting race last week as Jim Prince of Midland, pace setter for four consecutive weeks, continued to slump.

Jordan ended the week of Sept. 5 with a .388 mark, five percentage in total hits with 208, total bases with 375, home runs with 28 and runs points ahead of Prince's .383. The Roswell skipper also leads the league batted in with 189.

Prince tops the wheel in two base knocks with 53. Leo Eastham of Odessa is ahead in runs scored with 158 and bases on balls with 162.

Ray Drake of Roswell is the pace setter among pitchers with 11 wins against two losses, an .846 average. Cotton Russell of Vernon and Frank Hill of Roswell are tied in most games won with 23 each. Ray Knoblauch, Odessa, and Ernie Nelson, Vernon, are the other 20-game winners. Knoblauch has a 20-6 record, Nelson 20-9.

Pep And Saddler To Meet Again

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Willie Pep, the ex-titler holder and Sandy Saddler, the newly recrowned featherweight champion, will battle it out for the fourth time in February.

No. 4 in this hot and argumentative fistie feud will be staged in Madison Square Garden.

Last night's "rubber" bout was fought before a record paying crowd for "little" men—38,781 fans and $262,148—in Yankee Stadium.

The contract to air and T. V. Its Garden shows, however, and Harry Markson managing director of the IBS, said this fight would be no exception.

Saddler regained the title in a weird finish last night. Pep dislocated his left shoulder and was unable to continue. Pep was ahead at the time.

Wolves Nudged By Badger 11 In Home Debut

COLORADO CITY, Sept. 9 (Sp) For the second weekend, Colorado City rombles spoiled hopes of victory. The Colorado City Wolves were humbled by their second non-conference foe within the week as speedy McCarney Badger backs ran the home club ragged here Friday night. The final score was 26 to 14.

Scoring opened after a fumble recovery by the Badgers on the Wolf 20. Line plays worked the ball to the four and Tailback Billy converted to make it, 7-0.

As the first quarter drew to a close, Joe Robins, end for the Badgers, intercepted a Wolf pass on the McCarney 45. ran it down to the Wolf 44 and Patterson carried to the 10 as the quarter ended. Patterson, on a slow spinner, carried to the four, a penalty set Colorado City back to her one and the Patterson scored and kicked the point to make it 14-0, which was the score at the half.

On the second play after the half, the Badgers lost the ball on a fumble, and it was covered by Ned Thompson, of Colorado City. Ray Thornon, Corbell, Gene Garner and Gene Carney alternated in carrying the ball to the one yard line, from where Carney scored. Berman Corbell kicked the point.

A few plays later, the Wolves recovered a fumble, completed a pass of their own 39 and began another march. Corbell, Charles Currie and Garner and a five yard penalty took the ball to the Badger 31, where a toss from Corbell to Carney made it first down on the 20. Garner lugged to the three and Carney scored. Berman Corbell kicked the point to make it 14-14.

Still in the third quarter, McCarney fought back, and the second play after the kickoff, Jerry Lambeth, Badger fullback, raced 78 yards to the Wolf 8, where he was overhauled from behind by Nathan Corbell and George Swan. A Wolf penalty left three and Billy Stokes put McCarney ahead with a plunge, 20-14.

Another Wolf fumble ended a 39 yard drive and gave the Badgers the pigskin on their own 40, as the third quarter ended.

A pass from Stokes to Patterson was good for 15, and then Stokes broke through the middle to carry to the Wolf 16. Patterson made the touchdown to make it 26-14. Colorado City fumbled and recovered the kickoff and fumbled on the next play with the Badgers taking the ball, they were unable to score and the ball went over on the 10. Corbell kicked to the fifty as the game ended.

Lawmakers Asked To Help Park

Texas lawmakers were asked Saturday to lend a hand immediately to efforts to insure development of public park facilities on the new North Concho Lake.

Telegrams were dispatched by the West Texas Game and Fish Association to Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo and Senators Tom Connally and Lyndon B. Johnson.

They asserted that immediate and definite action is necessary immediately to forestall indicated exploitation of the $18,500,000 federally-financed reservoir by individuals.

This followed revelation that stakes and other evidences of site study on the lake's "only desirable major park development area" had been left by non-public interests.

Concessions buildings, boathouses and cabins can be constructed near the water only on the south shore of the lake, on the area several years ago described by the Corps of Engineers as "the vital site for park development."

Robb May Start Against Tech

DALLAS, Sept. 9.—Two non-lettermen are likely to be in Southern Methodist University's starting offensive line-up when the Mustangs open their season against Georgia Tech in the Cotton Bowl Saturday night, September 23.

Loss of five senior ends from last year's team left only Benny White of San Antonio as a letterman at the position, and he is likely to start at the right terminal, although Dave Powell of Portland, Oregon, is giving him considerable competition for the job.

At the other end the leading candidates are Bill Rippey of Dallas and Harry Dean of Breckenridge, a pair of sophomores.

Herschel Forester, junior from Dallas, is the only letterman guard, as six lettermen were lost at this position. His running mate is likely to be Ike Robb, husky forward from Big Spring, who played 29 minutes as a squadman last season.

Four lettermen are available for the tackle positions, Co-captain Bobby Collier, Neal Franklin, Charles Perry, and Bob Vann all senior tackles.

Dick Hightower and Sam Wood are the lettermen centers, and although Kyle Rote is the only back who was a regular a year ago, there are seven other lettermen ball carriers to keep him company.

Seventeen of the thirty-three Mustangs who played against Notre Dame last fall are back this season getting ready for the opener with Georgia Tech.

Paul Tyson, Vet Coach, Succumbs

BROWNWOOD, Sept. 8.—Paul Tyson, whose football coaching career spanned two generations, died tonight of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The coach of Daniel Baker College collapsed this morning during a faculty meeting and was taken to Brownwood Memorial hospital. He died about 7:30 p.m.

Tyson's sister, Mrs. A. T. Mahaffey of Sterling City, Tex., was reported on her way here tonight.

Misplay Costs Bronc Game

ROSSELL, Sept. 9.—Gabe Castenada muffed a ground ball off the bat of Cotton Lindloff with two out in the ninth enabling Jimmy Crouch to score the winning run as Roswell defeated the Big Spring Broncos, 6-5, here Saturday night.

The Broncos had a chance to move into the lead in the top half of the ninth but Sam Pylor struck out Castenada with Pat Stasey on third and Will Calvino on first.

Pylor went all the way on the mound for Roswell to chalk up his second victory in three nights against Big Spring.

Roswell jumped into a four run lead in the first inning but Big Spring hacked away at the advantage. Vince Amor, who turned in a creditable relief performance, was charged with the loss.

The two teams wind up their regular season's play this evening.

Longview Shows Great Power

By The AP

The City Conference—last of the Texas schoolboy football divisions to swing into action comes up with 18 games next weekend. Twenty-one of the 27 teams will be in action.

Class AA, which opened the campaign last week with 11 games, moves almost full blast into the season Friday and Saturday with 53 games bringing 74 of the 72 teams into opening dates.

Port Arthur, top-rated team of the state in pre-season forecasts, was pressed to win its opening game last week in Class AA, beating Kerrville 14-7.

Longview showed unheralded power in smashing Denton 41-0 and Brownsville lost 21-20 to Class A Weslaco.

Two Reinecke Wells Prepare To Complete

Two wells in the prolific Reinecke area of southeastern Borden are in the process of completing. Saturday tubing was being run in the Rutherford and Heep 03 No. 3-A Griffin and Heep 03 No. 3-A Griffin on the northeast corner of the field. This edge picked top on the reef at 6,814 feet, which was 74 feet high in Livermore No. 1 B. Holley, one location directly south with an estimated 120-foot pay section estimated at that point. Operators drilled to 6,894 and prepared to complete without necessity of a drillstem test. The test is 77 feet high to the No. 2-A Griffin, immediately to the west. Location is 973 from the east and 467 from the south lines of section 53-25, H&TC. Cosden had completed and was ready to run potential Saturday in the northeast corner of the north-west quarter of section 52-25, H&TC. It had picked the reef top at 6,836, about on a par with the No.

Sub Hangover

Pipeline Work Still Going Strong

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Nazi submarine sinkings of oil tankers in World War II brought on a long-distance pipeline construction program that is still going full blast. Availability of steel is the question mark clouding continued large-scale construction. When tankers plumed to the bottom of the Atlantic from hits of German torpedoes, Uncle Sam stepped in and built lines snaking across the country from Texas to the East. Disturbed world conditions since the war have greatly influenced post-war pipeline planning. Largest of all pipelines now is being completed and by January is expected to move 300,000 barrels daily across the barren desert wastelands from Dharan in Saudi Arabia to the ancient Phoenician town of Sidon in Lebanon. The line is 31 inches in diameter, 1,067 miles long. And in stretching from the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean bypasses the 7,000-mile Suez route.

Two other long pipelines in that part of the world are planned, construction of one is expected to start soon. Whether they are completed will depend largely on the world situation. Here in the United States two distinctly different long-distance lines are proposed. One would for the first time transport Rocky Mountain petroleum to the East; the other would move West Texas oil to California. A 1,000-mile line from Casper, Wyo., fields to Illinois is to be financed jointly by five oil companies — Ohio, Continental, Pure, Sinclair and British-American. A spokesman for one of the companies says that steel is available and that the new controls and priority regulations should not affect the construction, which is expected to start in a few months. An unusual feature of this line is said to be the fact that it will require only two pump stations along the route because there is a strong gravity flow to move oil from the high altitude of Wyoming to the Midwest. The West Coast Pipeline Co. of Dallas, made up of some 50 independent oil operators in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California proposes to build a 20-inch pipeline, with 200,000 barrels daily capacity, from Monahan, Tex., to the Los Angeles area. Estimated cost of the project is $66,000,000. It would deliver Permian Basin Oil of West-Texas and New Mexico, and would be the first pipeline to carry petroleum to the West Coast to supplement its local production. In applying for allocations of steel, the West Coast Pipeline Co. raises the question as to what would happen if West Coast refineries were bombed. After observing that only two railroads lead from southwestern oil areas to the West Coast, the company said it could promptly switch-over from transportation of crude to refined oil in an emergency, to serve ships and planes of the armed forces. The distance from Houston to Los Angeles by water through the canal is 4,406. Bureau of Mines figures. The amount that will be consumed or exchanged of domestic crude petroleum in September is estimated at 5,540,000 barrels daily compared with 5,450,000 forecast for the month of August just ended.

Ten Years For Murder
AMARILLO, Sept. 9 (AP)—A jury Friday night convicted Milton Mason, 23, of murder with malice in the March 18 rifle slaying of his estranged wife and set his punishment at 10 years in prison.

SHELL PIPELINER—A. F. Terrill, who has been with Shell Pipe Line Corp. for 31 years, has been named area superintendent for the company in West Texas. T. E. Swigart, president, said that W. M. Shelley, whom Terrill succeeded, had been named superintendent in charge of construction of a line Shell is having built in Venezuela. Terrill started as an oiler, became assistant personnel manager in 1945 and was made assistant superintendent in the West Texas area. His headquarters are in Colorado City.

WEEK'S REVIEW

Basin Stays Hot In Eastern Half

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Sept. 9 — A Labor-Daw shortened week failed to stem the flow of West Texas Oil news the past week with Howard, Garza, Midland and Terry counties taking the big headlines. A southeastern Garza county wildcat 1 3/4 miles southeast of Justiceburg indicated Pennsylvania lime discovery in two drillstem tests. Standard-Fryer Drilling Co. and R. L. York No. 1 Justice heirs recovered 4,860 feet of clean oil and 1470 feet of salt water on a two-hour drillstem test from 7,460-92 feet. Open flowing bottomhole pressure of 3,400 pounds. Earlier, No. 1 Justice heirs recovered 300 feet of free oil and 100 feet of oil

New Nolan Wildcat To Seek Ellenburger

SUN OIL COMPANY has staked another Ellenburger wildcat in Central-East Nolan County, 10 miles southeast of Sweetwater. The proposed venture is the No. 1 Susie H. Featherstone, located 660 feet from south and west lines of section 38, block X, T&P survey. Drillsite is four and one-half miles east and slightly south of the same company's No. 3 Stone, recently abandoned in a lower Pennsylvanian lime. Projected depth for the No. 1 Featherstone is 7,100 feet. Operations are to begin at once.

Kelly-Snyder Pool Gets Six New Locations

In the Kelly-Snyder field of Scurry County, six new locations have been reported for immediate drilling. All the projects will be drilled to an estimated 7,000-foot depth. Sunray Oil Corporation No. 3 A E. Dennis will be 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 337, block 97, H&TC survey. General Crude Oil Company has staked No. 4 Minnie L. Stewart 660 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of the section 211, block 97, H&TC survey. The Texas Company No. 2 Mae Lemons, and others is a new location to be 664 feet from east and 668 feet from south lines of north half of section 204, block 97, H&TC survey and seven miles west of Snyder. Skelly Oil Company has made locations for two projects to be about seven miles northwest of Snyder. Skelly No. 9 W. H. Parrish will be located 467 feet from north and 1,239.8 feet from east lines of south half of section 385, block 97, H&TC survey. Skelly No. 4-A Head is to be 467 feet from east and 1,937 feet from north lines of section 290, block 97, H&TC survey.

Mississippian Shows Due For Tests In Southeastern Lyr

Magnolia No. 1 Caswell, southeastern Lynn county Pennsylvanian prospector, showed signs also Saturday of Mississippian pay. It had a stain at 9,018 feet and a good show from 9,040-50 feet. Operators planned to drill-stem test from 7,015-31. Humble No. 1 Duling, another southeastern Lynn prospector which has shown Pennsylvanian possibilities, cored from 9,094-9,104 in the Mississippian with recovery of 10 feet with some oil stain. It is now preparing for a drillstem test.

Glasscock Wildcat Runs Middle String

R. R. Harrell No. 1 Marshall Cook, central Glasscock county exploration, was bottomed at 3,291 feet Saturday, preparing to run the 9 5/8-inch casing. Top of the San Andres section was picked at 2,750 and top of the Yates at 1,950. Elevation is 2,696. No. 1 Cook is located 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 5-34-4s, T&P near Garden City.

Venture Progressing

Standard-Fryer & York No. 1 Justice Heirs, bidding as a Pennsylvanian discovery in southeastern Garza, had drilled to 7,533 feet in lime and shale Saturday. It is being deepened from 7,416-60 where it recovered free oil on a drillstem test. Location is 660 from the southwest corner of 13-5 H&TC.

Scurry Wildcat Has Oil-Water In Ellenburger

Delta Gulf Drilling Company and associates, No. 1 H. H. Eiland, Central-West Scurry County wildcat, 14 miles west and two miles north of Snyder, is bottomed at 9,290 feet in Ellenburger lime, and is shutdown for repairs. This venture topped the Ellenburger at 8,189 feet on an elevation of 2,467 feet. It drilled to 8,190 feet and took a two-hour drillstem test at 5,185-90 feet. The water cushion was flowed out in one hour. In the next 90 minutes the project flowed 60 barrels of fluid, estimated to have been 20 barrels of oil and 40 barrels of water. It then deepened to 8,220 feet and had to suspend drilling for a machinery repair job. It probably will be drilled a little deeper and then tested again as soon as the equipment is in working order. Location is 660 feet from east and 616.7 feet from south lines of section 283, block 97, H&TC survey. It is four and one-half miles northwest of the Diamond M field. The Delta Gulf exploration failed to find any possibilities of production in any section of the Pennsylvanian.

Wildcat Staked In NW Martin County

Martin county gained a wildcat location Saturday—and lost one. Ashland Oil & Refining company announced location for its No. 1 Tait Lindsay. It will be 330 feet from the south and west lines of section 17-38-1n, T&P. This will put it about 12 miles northwest of Stanton and roughly 14 miles directly north of Midland. Operators plan to begin immediately. Ted Weiner, et al No. 1 Lenorah Epley, northwest Martin prospector, was ordered plugged and abandoned at 8,005 feet, which is five feet below contract depth. The zone at which the operators quit was the Spraberry, and it had produced no shows. Only show was a slight one in a core at 7,500 feet. Location was 660 from the north and east lines of section 43-36-2n T&P. This test was one of three staked by Weiner and associates. The other two are San Andres explorations to 4,500 feet. One was to be the No. 1 W. T. Epley, C SE SE section 40-37-2n, T&P, 1 1/2 miles southwest of the No. 1 Lenorah Epley, and the other was to be the No. 1 C. L. Russell, C NW SE section 1-37-1s, T&P, three-quarters of a mile south of the W. T. Epley location.

Sterling Wildcat Recovers Water

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-B Foster, wildcat in Central Sterling County six miles southwest of Sterling City, recovered 750 feet of sulphur water and no shows of oil or gas on a drillstem test in the Wolfcamp at 4,990-5,150 feet. Tool was open 45 minutes. Operator is now preparing to drill deeper. The wildcat, scheduled to be drilled to 8,600 feet is located 2,050 feet from west and 1,965 feet from south lines of section 16, block T, T&P survey. The projected depth of the No. 1-B Foster is sufficient to test the Ellenburger. Drillsite is four miles southwest of the Durham San Andres pool and two miles southwest of Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1 McDonald, an 8,535-foot failure.

Honolulu To Plug Diamond M. Failure

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 J. R. Canning has been plugged and abandoned as a failure in the Diamond M field of Southwest Scurry County. Operator drilled this test to a total depth of 7,284 feet in lower Pennsylvanian formation. No shows of production were encountered. Location is 1,951 feet from west and 584 feet from north lines of section 147, block 25, H&TC survey and 13 miles southwest of Snyder.

Central Midland Test To Seek Spraberry

A. N. Hendrickson and G. E. Hall, both of Midland, have contracted to start operations at an 8,600-foot wildcat in Central Midland County, by November 1. The venture is projected as an exploration of the full Spraberry sand section of the Permian. It will be on Wilson Bryant land and at the center of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 24, block 39, T&P survey, T-3-S. That puts it about 12 miles south of Midland and near the center of a 2,720-acre checkerboarded spread of leases which Hendrickson and Hall have acquired from Gulf Oil Corporation in nine sections on Bryant and TXL lands.

Southeast Andrews Pool Gets Outpost

A prospective southeast extension to the Midland Farms field of Southeast Andrews County has been scheduled to be drilled by Anderson-Prichard Oil Company. It will be that concern's No. 5-A Fasken. Drillsite will be 660 feet from northwest and northeast lines of section 42, block 41, T-1-N, G&M-M&A survey about 17 miles southeast of the town of Andrews. It is about three-quarters of a mile due east of production in the Midland Farms field. The No. 5-A Fasken is scheduled to be drilled to 5,000 feet with rotary.

Murder Case First Capital Case In District Court

An indictment alleging murder, naming Kirby Cook, former deputy sheriff as defendant, will be the first capital case called in the current term of 118th District Court Monday morning. A special venire of 120 men has been called to report at 10 a.m. Monday. Cook was indicted by a grand jury in connection with the fatal shooting of Ronald Williams last Feb. 8. Williams had been arrested during a disturbance at an east side night club, and officers said he brought fire and fled as he was being ushered into the county jail. Immediately after the shooting, Cook told authorities he fired his pistol after he caught Williams in a foot chase and Williams fought him. Willie Nolan, a Negro charged with murder, also is scheduled for trial during the coming week.

Three Cars Sustain Heavy Damage In Triple Collision

All vehicles involved in a three car collision on East Third street Saturday night sustained heavy damage, the police department reported. Investigating officers reported no personal injuries, however. The pileup occurred in front of the Banner Creamery Junior R. Gold and Ted Brown, both of Big Spring, and Marion Oats of Odonnell were listed as drivers of the cars. Lara Mitchell of Tulsa, Okla., arrived Saturday via American Airlines to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mitchell, 208 Austin Street.

Humble Preps For Testing

Humble Oil & Refining Company is preparing to make a production test at its No. 1 Midkiff, Southeast Midland County wildcat, 25 miles southeast of the city of Midland, following a hydraulic treatment in the open hole at 7,281-7,347 feet in the upper part of the Spraberry sand. The well swabbed 33 barrels of new oil in 10 hours naturally, before the tubing was pulled for the stimulation treatment. Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 46, block 38, T&P survey T-4-S.

Southern Dawson Prospectors Drill

Seaboard and Southern Minerals Corp. No. 1 W. O. Jones, central south Dawson wildcat, progressed to 5,600 feet in lime and shale Saturday. It is C NE NE section 28-35-5n, T&P, Auld & Brill No. 1 Grissam, 660 out of the northeast corner of section 17-34-1n, T&P, passed the 5,600 foot marker in lime. It is 3 1/2 miles southwest of the Spraberry pool of southeastern Dawson.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Reserve Coup: McCabe Fights Snyder With Snyder's Money

By J. A. LIVINGSTON (McCabe versus Snyder—last of three articles.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—When the break between Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Reserve Board Chairman McCabe finally came, it was a lulu. For more than two years, they'd tried to keep up harmonious appearances. Then suddenly, it was as if each hired a radio and shouted publicly: "To hell with you!"

The Korean war put an end to "co-operation." Prices and wages took a new jump upward. The reserve board felt impelled to act. Maybe later, it would have to use its powers to provide a cheap and stable market for war financing. But the defense program hadn't reached that size yet. What was needed now was a gesture—a rise in interest rates—to cause bankers to scrutinize loans more carefully.

This determination was reached after numerous meetings of the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Open-Market Committee, the committee which buys and sells government bonds, which supports Secretary Snyder's market. And on Friday morning, Aug. 18, the reserve board voted to raise the rediscount rate from 1 1/2 per cent to 1 3/4 per cent. That's the rate at which banks can borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank.

New York banks quickly raised their interest charges. Banks in other cities followed. That meant, of course, that the interest rate on treasury obligations would have to go up too.

After the decision, McCabe, accompanied by Allan Sproul, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and chairman of the Open-Market Committee, called on Snyder to break the news. Snyder took it all in, poker-faced. But he didn't like the idea at all.

That became clear shortly after McCabe and Sproul got back to the reserve board building. Snyder called up and announced that he had decided on new federal financing. He was going to pay off $13,570 million Treasury issues maturing Sept. 15 and Oct. 1 with 1 1/2 per cent 13-month notes. That was a whopper!

At first, McCabe and Sproul thought they had misheard and called back. No, they'd heard alright. Snyder was flooding the market with 1 1/2 per cent notes at very hour the reserve was boosting the rediscount rate to 1 3/4 per cent. This was war! Snyder was trying to force the reserve to retract on the higher rediscount rate. A spread of 1/4 per cent between treasury notes and the rediscount rate is out of line.

The reserve board responded with a financial coup. It offered to buy in the open market all of the maturing securities at par. That assured the success of Snyder's new financing. But the reserve carried out its own policy too. It sold notes and bills out of its portfolio at prices to yield around 1.30 per cent. The reserve board undersold the treasury on its own securities.

Holdings of the maturing securities sold about $6 billion in two weeks to the reserve, or about 50 per cent of the total, and then turned around and bought from the reserve the securities priced to yield 1.30 per cent or better. Naturally, the reserve lost money on each such transaction. But, since 90 per cent of all profits of reserve banks go to the treasury, Snyder footed the bill. Money the reserve banks lost he couldn't collect.

The issue has to be clarified by the end of the year. The treasury faces maturities of $2,635 million of 1 1/2 per cent bonds on Dec. 15 and $5,373 million on 1 1/2 per cent certificates on Jan. 1. If Snyder again uses a 13-month note, he will either have to accept the higher rate now established by the Federal Reserve in the open market, or he will have to name his own rate, knowing full well that the reserve will undercut his price. And it would be unseemly for the treasury to insist that its short term paper is worth more than the reserve board, the principal buyer, says it's worth.

In defying the treasury, the reserve board showed great courage. Central banks that buck treasury often find that they lose their powers, that the government steps in and says, "Whoa, bo, do you want to be nationalized?" And perhaps its particularly significant that McCabe took the action rather than former Chairman Eccles. Through his years in the reserve, Eccles has been known as an individualist, a man who likes to push his own ideas across. People expect him to get into fights.

McCabe, on the other hand, is recognized as a man who strives to see the other fellow's point of view, who leans over backward to avoid confrontations. He's proud of his capacity to sell his ideas rather than bull them through. So, when McCabe breaks with Snyder, people who know them both are likely to say, "Well, if Snyder can't get along with McCabe, well . . ."

By raising the short-term interest rate the reserve board declared to the world it will no longer subordinate its responsibility to control credit to the desire of the treasury for cheap money. And, at the moment, the reserve is also declaring that its immediate concern is inflation—protecting the long-term purchasing power of the dollar—rather than saving the treasury a few-hundredths of a per cent in interest.

And the reserve is bound to win the fight unless President Truman throws his weight to Snyder. Even then, the reserve can hold in its position. Though the President appoints reserve board governors, the governors report and are responsible to Congress. The reserve is an independent agency. And right now it's asserting its independence.

(This is the last of three articles on the conflict between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.)

Yvete Madsen Loses Her Bid For Freedom

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 9.—Brunette Yvete Madsen lost her bid for freedom today from a conviction of murdering her soldier husband in Germany.

Federal Judge Ben Moore of the Southern West Virginia District denied her plea that she be freed on the ground that the U. S. military tribunals in which she was arraigned, tried and sentenced were not authorized to try citizens of the United States.

Mrs. Madsen is serving a 15-year prison term imposed by an allied high commissioner. Her husband, First Lt. Andrew E. Madsen, was shot fatally after a party at the Rhine-Main Air Base in the U. S. sector of Germany last October 30.

Roy Cardin Resigns To Take Position With City Police

Roy Cardin resigned Saturday as first deputy sheriff of Howard county to join the city police force. He began his duties last night. Cardin, former Arkansas peace officer, began work as deputy here last April 17.

His place on Sheriff Bob Wolf's force was taken by C. E. Kiser, who had served with Wolf before Cardin's tenure began.

Navy Assigns Dick Clifton To Dallas

Dick Clifton, yeoman first class, who reported for active duty with the Navy in Dallas last Wednesday, was a visitor in the city Saturday night. He is stationed at the Naval Recruiting office in the Santa Fe building at Dallas.

Mrs. Clifton, the former Betty Ray Nail, will remain in Big Spring temporarily, but probably will join her husband in Dallas soon.

Cool Nights Might Boost Cotton Yield

A series of cool nights might boost Howard county's 1950 cotton yield. Such a possibility was advanced Saturday by County Agent Deward Lewter, who explained that bollworms usually fare poorly when temperatures fluctuate over a wide range.

Beaumont Quads To Take Physical Exams

BEAUMONT, Sept. 9. — Beaumont's quadruplets prepared today to answer Uncle Sam's call. Anthony, Bernard, Carl, and Donald Perricone — aged 20 and known as A, B, C, and D — will report for their draft physicals Tuesday. Their mother, Mrs. Phyllis Perricone, hopes they'll not be separated. Three of her nine sons served in World War II. Anthony is a bricklayer, apprentice, working in Houston but comes home each week end. Bernard is a truck driver here. Carl and Donald work for a local firm — one as a draftsman and the other as an assemblyman. The quads weighed less than four pounds each at birth, Oct. 31, 1929, and arrived while their parents were praying for a girl.

West Coast Fires Finally Subside

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9. — After a week of danger and destruction, California's outbreak of forest and brush fires had subsided today. Forestry officials said it was the worst fire week they could remember. More than 100 separate blazes flamed from the Mexican border to the Oregon line. Timber losses have been estimated at around $10 million. At their height the fires swept over about Generally the bollworm situation in the county has already improved vastly, the farm agent observed. There are spotted areas where the pests are still holding on, but there is little indication of a new crop. "I believe most of our bollworms now are a sort of hangover from the heavy infestation we had earlier," the county agent said. "A few nights with temperatures of 60 degrees and lower might finish them off." Several nights during the past 10 days have produced temperatures at those levels, and Lewter said he believed the cool nights had done much to discourage the bollworms. Some farmers are still poisoning where infestations are relatively heavy and crops are promising. Some of them will continue with the hope that more controls will help them get a better grade of cotton. There was still little open cotton in the county at the end of the week, and harvesting probably will not begin on a full scale before the latter part of the month or the first part of October. Lewter said the farmers should watch closely for leafworms during the next few days. Leafworm millers were observed in the area late this week and an infestation of worms could develop. Since most cotton in the county is late there is still a chance for young fruit to develop, provided weather conditions are good during the fall. Rains during the Labor Day weekend enhanced prospects considerably.

Texas Store Robbery

CORSICANA, Sept. 9. — Sheriff David Castles said today burglars broke into the N. Green store safe last night and got $60.

3,153 Persons Get Chest X-Ray As Survey Is Ended

A total of 3,153 persons received chest x-rays in the anti-tuberculosis survey conducted here Sept. 2-9. State Health department technicians reported Saturday as the survey ended. The total was 145 fewer than the 3,298 who responded to the survey last year. Every Howard county over 15 years of age had been invited to report for the free x-ray. The survey got off to a slow start here on Sept. 2 with approximately 100 being x-rayed during the first day. The daily average hovered around the 300 mark until Friday when the survey reached its peak. A total of 830 x-rays were given Friday and 616 reported for the free chest examination yesterday. Jack Y. Smith, general chairman of the survey, last night expressed appreciation for everyone who assisted in the x-ray program. He mentioned committees which had canvassed the town to encourage participation, the various women's clubs which had served as hostesses and given clerical assistance while the survey was underway, and others who had either worked to promote the program or assisted in the actual examination. The anti-tuberculosis campaign was sponsored by the Howard County Tuberculosis Association. Pictures made will be processed by the State Health department and findings will be reported to individuals x-rayed. In cases where tuberculosis infections are discovered, family physicians will also be notified.

Wholesale Price Of Household Soap Up

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9. — The Procter & Gamble Co. announced today an increase of 7 1/2 per cent in the wholesale price of household soaps. The advance will be effective immediately. A company spokesman said the increase was made necessary "in view of increases in the prices it must pay for fats and oils."

President's Talk To Union Officials Is Off The Record

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — President Truman had dinner with some 50 AFL and CIO officials at a downtown hotel Friday night. Although the gathering was sponsored by the CIO's Political Action Committee and the AFL's Labor's League for Public Education, the diners insisted afterwards there was no discussion of politics. Reporters were not invited. Asked what he told the labor leaders at the 2 1/2 hour session, Mr. Truman said "nothing." Democratic National Chairman William Boyle said "it was all off the record." President William Boyle and Philip Murray of the CIO both pledged labor's full support in the Korean War emergency and the Communist threat elsewhere, those attending said.

Esquire Apologizes After Hurting Texans' Feelings

KILGORE, Sept. 9. — Bolling Texans may simmer down a bit today — the president of Esquire says he's sorry his magazine mistook three Kilgore beauties for Oklahoma girls. Kilgore residents started howling for the apology Friday after reading "Oklahoma OK" — a feature about University of Oklahoma football — in the October issue of Esquire. The article was illustrated by a picture of three girls identified as "coed cheerleaders who typify the great Oklahoma spirit — plus." But people in this East Texas oil city quickly spotted the girls as members of the Kilgore College Rangerettes. They said the picture was taken when the Rangerettes and the Ranger band put on a half-time show at the 1950 Sugar Bowl game between Oklahoma and Louisiana State. "A gratuitous insult," Mayor Roy Laird called it. He directed Kilgore news dealers to keep copies of the magazine off their stands.

Kilgore College students built a bonfire and tossed in a figure of the magazine's "Esqy" along with copies of the offending edition. Lawyer F. G. Swanson of nearby Tyler told the magazine he felt sorry for it — "when you get the full blast of Texas wrath for crediting the lovely Rangerettes to a blooming Sooner institution." The chamber of commerce suggested a boycott "until proper apologies and correction have been made." The apology—nicely put—wasn't long in coming. In Chicago, Alfred Smart, president and co-publisher of Esquire, said last night: "Esquire apologizes to the mayor and citizens of Kilgore, Texas, and compliments the students of Kilgore College on having such pretty cheerleaders. Esquire should have known that such beautiful girls could only come from Texas."

Milk Marketing Forum Slated In North Texas Area

DALLAS, Sept. 9. — Question and answer forums on a federal milk marketing order will be held throughout North Texas Sept. 12-16. J. O. Woodman, manager of the North Texas Producers Association, said today. Stuart H. Russell, Tulsa, Okla., attorney retained by the association to file its application for an order, is scheduled to speak. Ten meetings are planned. The association asked the Department of Agriculture for a federal order for the Dallas-Fort Worth area in August. Association officials say the order will give the co-operative the same rights it seeks in its proposed association marketing contracts. Most North Texas milk plants did not approve the proposed contracts.

Helping VA Patients

With the opening of the new Veterans Administration hospital volunteer workers are filling the call to assist in recreational programs for patients. Numerous organizations in the city are to help in this service, and pictured here are representatives of only a few of these units. Participating in the Veterans Administration Volunteer Service (VAVS) include the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross, the American Legion Auxiliary and the VFW Auxiliary. Representatives of other clubs will have a part in the VAVS as the recreation program develops.

Big Spring Again Feels Need Of Volunteer Workers Following Opening Of VA Hospital

Not since World War II has Big Spring so urgently needed the services of the volunteer worker. This is a resulting factor of the completion and opening of the new Veterans Hospital which is being dedicated today.

The main purpose for the volunteer worker is to supplement the paid employee; yet workers are not expected to do the work of any paid employee, yet workers are not expected to volunteer their services if they cannot be available when contacted.

Volunteer workers are preferred when they are members of organizations. This is not required but it does result in more efficient work. Some of the many organizations that are participating in the Veterans Administration Volunteer Service are the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross, the American Legion Auxiliary and the VFW Auxiliary. Other civic and service clubs are actively participating in VAVS, and all are eligible to join. Persons also may work independently under direct supervision of the Special Service Department.

In order that volunteers may work directly in the wards with the patients they must complete a course in ward and hospital ethics. This course deals with "what and what not to do" in a Veterans hospital.

Those volunteering to assist with the entertainment programs are not required to take tests. Volunteers may work in the nursing section by folding bandages or by stocking supplies. They may work with the Social Services by interviewing patients or they may volunteer for special service work and find their duties in the library or chaplaincy section. In the church services volunteers may serve as ushers, pianists or in vocal work. Workers interested in assisting in the recreational service may serve as motion picture projectionists. They may serve as disc jockeys in the radio section. In script writing or in record cataloging. They may also be active in the production of live radio programs.

Group recreation volunteers will give parties and will act and direct various entertaining shows. Personal ward work will be limited in the main to letter writing, wrapping packages, downtown shopping and various types of mail service.

No uniform is required by the hospital in volunteer work. Individual service organizations often adopt uniforms which are purchased by the members.

All volunteer work will be channeled through the Special Service office of the VAVS, which remains responsible for the distribution of the workers throughout the various sections of the hospital. In order to be a volunteer worker, one should have a regular time to devote and should be responsible for the job volunteered for. Most volunteer work will be done in the afternoon and evening. Work hours range from 2 to 4 and 5 to 7 o'clock.

Any organization or individual wishing to give a party or volunteer for other recreational work may contact Lola Miltstead, Chief of Recreational Section, Special Services.

Mrs. Nellie Barton Is Hostess For Class

Mrs. Nellie Barton entertained the Lorcas Class of the First Baptist Church in the home of Jewel Barton Friday evening. Mrs. Annie Beasley opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. C. E. Courson gave the devotional.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Mary Ehlmann, Mrs. Courson, Mrs. A. T. Lloyd, Mrs. Joe Barnett, Mrs. J. J. Dally, Mrs. W. B. Buchanan, Mrs. Beasley, Mrs. P. C. Maupin, Mrs. R. C. Hatch, Mrs. Mildred Jones, Mrs. Barton, and Mrs. C. N. Chesney.

Superior Town Hall Programs Are Scheduled To Appear This Season

Town Hall programs for the current year have been announced by Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, Town Hall chairman. In response to numerous requests, emphasis is being placed this year on better and fewer programs.

Dates for the program appearances have not been disclosed as yet, but there will be one program before Christmas and two programs during the winter.

Ticket prices will be the same this year as they have been in the past. Single season tickets may be bought for $6, doubles will sell for $10 and student tickets will cost $1.50. College students will be admitted on their student activity tickets.

Town Hall season tickets must be bought in advance as no sales are expected to start selling during the membership drive scheduled to begin the latter part of the month.

The first program to be presented will feature the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra. Members of the Music Department of North Texas College, Denton will present the second program, a light opera entitled, "The Dawn of The Regiment." This production will feature approximately 30 persons and a ten-piece orchestra.

Two outstanding West Texas artists, who have previously appeared in Big Spring, will be featured in the last presentation of the season. Joe Kecklow, pianist, and Willard Harrod, violinist, will give a musical program. Kecklow appeared with the Dr. IQ radio program several years ago and has played with Fred Waring and other outstanding orchestras. Harrod is the director of the Lubbock Symphony orchestra. This program will be brought here again following many requests.

Information concerning the Town Hall seasonal programs may be secured from Mrs. Arch Carson, co-chairman of the Town Hall.

Members Of Crane Lodge Visit Here

Big Spring Association To Convene In Forty-Second Annual Session

The first day meetings of the 42nd annual session of the Big Spring Association will be held at the First Baptist Church Tuesday. The meetings begin Tuesday morning at 10 with a song service. The morning sermon will be brought by Rev. J. B. Dolan, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Odessa. Rev. Dolan came to Odessa in 1943 from the Rosedale Baptist Church in Austin. He also served as pastor of the Brownwood church for two years. Lunch will be served at noon by the Big Spring First church.

Executive board and WMJ meetings will begin at 1 p.m. that afternoon. In the divisional meetings that afternoon, Wayne Williams will be in charge of the Brotherhood group, J. B. Langston, Music, and Rev. James S. Parks, Evangelism. Special music for the night services will be provided by the combined choirs of the First and East Fourth Baptist churches. Dr. J. B. Leavelle will give the closing address of the evening speaking on "The Cooperative Program." Dr. Leavelle is a graduate of Baylor University and of the University of Kentucky. Before coming to San Angelo he was pastor of the First Baptist Church at Texas. A movie, "Advance in Africa" will follow the address.

Wednesday sessions will convene at the Calvary Baptist Church in Midland at 10 a.m. with Billy Ruid of East Fourth Church leading the singing.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien will deliver a lecture on "Civic Righteousness" of the Southern Seminary at Louisiana on 10-20. Rev. A. W. Stowe will bring committee reports following that.

At 11:30 the doctrinal sermon, "The Millennium" will be delivered by Rev. Cecil Rhodes of the West Side Baptist Church. Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Midland, will be the speaker at 1:15 p.m. His subject will be "Religious Literature." The meeting will adjourn following the 1:30 committee reports.

CAMPUS FOOTPRINTS... When boy meets girl on campus, he's wearing slip-on casual shoes zipped at one side with elasticized finger gores. She's sporting the latest fad, red plaid wool flats. In their dormitory closets are the following shoe wardrobes: (1) Black and white checked wool flats for her, cordovan moccasins for him; (2) tailored red calf slip shoes with crossed instep straps for her, sturdy brogues for him; (3) after-five date pumps of cut velvet for her, prom ballet slippers of gold and white brocade for her, tasseled black patent leather moccasins for Big Man on Campus.

College Boys And Girls Find It Wise To Purchase Complete Shoe Wardrobe Early

As every parent knows, college boys and girls are rough on shoes. The canny ones have discovered that shoe bills are less in the long run if Mary and Junior start off to school equipped with a complete shoe wardrobe to keep them well-heeled for all occasions. If the young sprouts have several changes of footwear, all the shoes last longer. Also, it's wise to let them choose the styles they like. A pair of shoes picked out by Mom or Pop probably will remain in the closet, while the guys and gals wear a beloved pair of loafers or moccasins for everything from classes to dances. Informality is the keynote of campus shoe fashions this fall, as usual. College boys and girls insist on comfort in their footwear. However, the "sloppy Joe" look is on the wane, and it's smart to wear polished shoes this year. Many college men have gone western, and are adopting cowboy-influenced moccasins and variations of the jodhpur boot for campus wear. A new favorite is the slip-on casual shoe, often with elasticized finger gores and side zippers, comfortably cushioned on crepe rubber soles. College girls are collecting "flats" with the same enthusiasm they have devoted to sweaters in the past—red calf ones, navy brushed leather with white saddle stitching, cordovan moccasin oxfords, bright green kid softies, low-heeled shells or red plaid hanker's gray flannel or black and white shepherd's checks. Even dress-up shoes come in flat versions, and in such lush materials as velvet, brocade, gold kid and satin. Travel and suit shoes are medium heeled, and high heels are reserved for strictly formal occasions. High fashion version of the beloved Norwegian moccasin is fas-

NOW... Safely Lose UGLY FAT with KYRON
Up to 7 Pounds per week
EATING CONDENSED FOOD TABLETS
START LOSING FAT FIRST DAY without starvation, harmful drugs, laxatives, exercise or massage

Yes, the Kyron Plan, the new food tablet way to reduce, will help you lose up to 7 lbs. first 7 days—or you pay nothing. If your excess weight is caused by over-eating (and not glandular), the Kyron Plan is designed to act 3 ways: (1) To help suppress your hunger, to cut down your appetite automatically, yet you never feel hungry; (2) Includes nutritious elements to help maintain your energy while reducing; (3) Recommends in package many foods often falsely labeled in ordinary diets as "fattening." Endorsement by your physician recommended.

"I LOST 35 POUNDS IN 7 WEEKS"
—Mrs. Kathryn Walker
3332 West Potomac Avenue, Chicago
"Kyron results have been absolutely astonishing. I am 27 years old, and have a 7-year-old daughter. When I started using Kyron, I weighed 133 pounds, and felt awfully old and let-down. In 7 weeks, I lost 35 pounds. I used to feel sluggish and always tired. Now I feel so much younger and gay. My friends and my husband can't get over the change that has taken place in 7 short weeks."

Members Of Garden City Baptist Church Have Watermelon Feast

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 9. (Sp)—Members of the Garden City Baptist Church and friends met with Mr. and Mrs. Ronnell McDaniel after church for an hour of fellowship. The group sang hymns and Rev. Jim Creasy gave several violin selections.

Watermelon was served to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jones and sons, Rev. and Mrs. A. Wade and children, Rev. and Mrs. I. M. Muston and children, Rev. Jim Creasy, Anita and Larry Calverly, Mr. and Mrs. George Strigler and children, Don Pryor, Darla Kay Cook, Helen Cunningham, Mrs. Mac O'Bannon and son, Phyllis Durand, Miss Doris Jean Morehead, Emma and Rita Stephens, Tommy Rich, Sandra Wilkerson, and Deanna Marie Watkins.

Mrs. Glen Riley, Mrs. W. K. Scud-day, Mrs. Ray Hightower, Mrs. Y. C. Gray, Mrs. Joy Wilkerson, Mrs. D. W. Parker, and Mrs. Alby Crouch.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith and son were in Dallas the first of the week.

Garden City schools registered a slight decrease in enrollment with 39 in high school to last year's 44. Grade school enrollment was 15, the same as last year.

Jimmie King and his boys furnished music for the Glasscock County Square Dance Club Wednesday evening. Callers were Phil Smith, George Amos, Marlan Hale, Oscar Neighbors, and Hutchinsog of Big Spring. Local callers were Dan Houston, Larry Calverly, L. L. Watkins, and Bryant Harris.

Commodity Index Hits New High

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. (AP)—The Associated Press index of wholesale commodity prices this week advanced to a new high for the year for the twelfth straight week.

It stands at 191.61 this week as compared with 189.20 a week ago and 158.90 a year ago.

The base year of the index—1926—equals 100, and it is composed of 35 important wholesale commodity prices.

Osmena Has Birthday

MANILA, Sept. 9. (AP)—Sergio Osmena, only living former president of the Philippines, observed his 72nd birthday quietly today on his farm near Cebu City. Retired, he declined comment on current affairs.

BOY FREED FROM TRAP BETWEEN BUILDINGS—Strain of the ordeal is mirrored on the face of seven-year-old David Caruso of Chicago, Ill., as firemen lift him from a crevice between two buildings where he was trapped for nearly three hours. The youngster, who became wedged while playing a game, suffered only scratches on the head. Firemen cut through a two-foot thickness of concrete and brick to reach the boy. (AP Wirephoto).

Old-Fashioned Cookbooks Boasted Good Recipes As Well As Advice

The transition from the Tea Kettle Age to the Pressure Cooker Age may have done little damage to food formulas, but it has certainly streamlined cookbooks.

Cookbooks, in the olden days, not only included substantial recipes for homemakers, and complete instructions for performing household duties, but spent a good bit of the printed page in moralizing.

In an 1896 edition, titled very directly, "Food for the Hungry," authors Julia Wright and Marion Harland throw in instructions on carrying, table etiquette, home remedies, how to treat invalids, and laundry recipes besides the kitchen sink.

Some of the details of modern housewife would smile at were essential information in those days. The book, in discussing beverages, recommends the use of Mocha or Java Coffee kept in a tin or earthen vessel. Drinks include milk beer, raspberry vinegar, and others called simply "Summer Draught" or "Inexpensive Drink."

For feeding invalids, everything from the color scheme of the serving tray to the disposition of the cook is considered. Onion gruel or ox-tail soup is recommended for colds, flaxseed tea for a fever accompanied by a cough. Soft water or rain water may be used in the preparation and the patient must be off to bed as soon as he sips.

The "Secrets of Health" section contains remedies for ingrowing toenails and bad breath. For removing freckles: Stir a tablespoon of freshly-grated horseradish into a cupful of sour milk, let it stand for twelve hours, then strain and apply often. This bleaches the complexion and takes off tan as well.

A chapter on etiquette advises against overeating, using the fork as a pitchfork, and carrying food to the mouth with the knife. The face is not to be wiped with the napkin; it is for the lips and beard only.

Hearty appetites in that day of abundance received ample attention, especially on holidays. A Christmas dinner, so-designed, goes from goup to nuts with a long stretch in between. The courses include raw oysters with crackers, mock turtle soup, deviled oysters in clam shells, breaded chops served with French peas and scalloped tomatoes, a mighty "Bird of Plenty," garnished with fried oysters and cranberry sauce, cauliflower and potatoes, chicken salad with celery and boiled eggs, cheese and olives, mince-meat pie, leas and jellies, light cakes and fruits. Coffee is served in the parlor or the library afterwards.

But other recipes despite the vintage are just as good prepared in today's kitchen. A few of these are listed here.

Chili Sauce
 9 large ripe tomatoes
 2 onions
 1 tablespoon of salt
 1 teaspoon of allspice
 1 teaspoon of cloves
 1 teaspoon of mustard
 Skin the tomatoes, chop all together, and simmer one hour.

Cheese Fingers
 This is a good way to use up scraps of pastry left over from baking pies. Cut into strips as long as your middle finger and twice as wide; strew with dry grated cheese, a little salt and just a pinch of cayenne, double them lengthwise; pinch the edges together along their length, sprinkle on more cheese and bake quickly, pile within a napkin on a hot dish and serve at once.

Cheese Souffle
 2 tablespoons of butter
 2 tablespoons of flour
 1/2 cup of milk
 1 cup grated cheese
 3 eggs
 1/2 teaspoon salt

1 sprinkle of cayenne
 Put butter into a saucepan, and when hot, add the flour and stir until smooth. Add the milk and seasonings. Cook two minutes, add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs and the cheese. Set away to cool. When cool add whites of eggs, beaten to a stiff froth. Turn into a buttered dish and bake 20-25 minutes. Serve just out of oven.

Walnut Wafers
 1/2 lb brown sugar
 1 lb walnut meats, slightly broken, not chopped
 3 even tablespoons of flour
 1/4 teaspoons of baking powder
 1-3 teaspoons of salt
 2 eggs

Beat the eggs, add sugar, salt, flour, and lastly nut meats. Drop spoonfuls on buttered pans and bake till brown.

Stock Show Cancelled

MARSHALL, Sept. 9. (AP)—The livestock show of the Central East Texas Fair has been canceled because of anthrax in nearby counties.

AFL Strike Settled

DALLAS, Sept. 9. (AP)—The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the National Hatterry Plant here and in seven other states are at peace again after a two-month strike. The company and the AFL workers reached agreement Friday, but neither side would disclose terms.

Quitman Loan Okayed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (AP)—A loan of $150,000 to the Wood County Electric Co-operative, Quitman, Texas, has been approved by the Rural Electrification Administration. The loan will be used to finance construction of 80 miles of distribution line to serve 300 new rural consumers.

On Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. (AP)—Honeymooning here today are Actor Steve Brodie and Barbara Ann Savitt, widow of Orchestra Leader Jan Savitt. Brodie had to be back to work on a new movie immediately after their wedding at Las Vegas, Nev., Thursday.

No Florida License For This Woman

DETROIT, Sept. 9. (AP)—Traffic Judge John D. Watts' last word to Mrs. Florence Wilson, 64, was especially firm. Mrs. Wilson, convicted of reckless driving, lost her driver's license for six months at the judge's order.

She had sidwiped two cars and police said she tried to elude arrest.

"But," she said, "I go to Florida every winter. Can't I have my license back to drive to Florida?"

"No, you cannot," Judge Watts replied, "and if it was not for your age I would send you to jail."

Six Local Rotarians Attend Inter-City Meet At Lubbock

Six Big Spring Rotarians attended an inter-city Rotary club meeting at Lubbock Friday evening.

The Lubbock Rotary club served a chicken barbecue at the Texas Tech stadium. It was followed by an address by Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, Texas railroad commissioner, who discussed "oil and its benefits in war and peace." Musical portion of the program was furnished by Lubbock Kiwanis club members.

Big Springers attending the inter-city meeting were Manley Cook, Chester O'Brien, Elmo Wasson, Olen Puckett, Van Krauss, and Bill Morris.

---Where to shop for what--- HELEN'S HINTS

WHEN STORE KEEPERS ARE TOO BUSY TO CHAT, you can bet your bottom dollar it's fall... and that booming business has them happily engaged in seeing to it that hordes of autumn shoppers get satisfactory service. So, this week, I checked their better buys un-noticed, quickly absorbing the infectious happy atmosphere of fall buying on a rainy day. Among the interesting items were:

BACK IN FASHION'S FAVOR THIS SEASON are fur-trimmed coats, and reigning supreme is the royal Princess at Zack's of Margos. This grey Angeline tuxedo is styled with a smart paneled back, slit pockets and is accented with a pencil line of grey Persian down the front and around the full graceful sleeves. Forever a favorite in every well-dressed woman's wardrobe, the Princess stands out as quality's god-child in real value. Zack's tag it at $129.50.

"FOR GOSH SAKES... CUT OUT THAT LIGHT!" If your pappy runs true to all pappies, he moans and groans when you get a hankering to read in bed at night. If he twists and turns like a man in the last stages of rigor mortis when you absently reply "Just one more page"... then lady, tie yourself to Hester's Supply company. They've just gotten in some Aero-Lites with miniature shades that clamp right on your book. In ivory, pink or walnut, they're designed to produce adequate reading light, and are especially handy to illuminate dark hallways and sewing machines.

DID YOU SEE THE NANTUCKET CHAIRS and footstools the last time you were in Elrod's Furniture store? They're authentic reproductions and all the exposed woodwork on both the straight chair and rocker are solid mahogany. Upholstered in rich Early American tapestry, each piece is ornamented with brass decorator's tacks. The fine proportions of the straight chair and the minute detail of design, make it unusual as a desk chair and a perfect companion piece to the antique rocker.

THE APPROACH OF ANOTHER SEASON marks the refreshing approach of a new flower season, and Faye's Flower shop is all abud with autumn posies. In addition to hot house roses, gladiol and other flowers available throughout the year, there's an abundance of giant chrysanthemums that make very appropriate decorations during their glorious blooming period. As table centerpieces for special occasions, they're also good in the decorating scheme for autumn weddings. If it's flowers for any occasion... let Faye do the fixing.

HAIR STYLISTS HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD THIS FALL... they've combed up something new... and it's welcomed with open arms. Hair styles aren't getting longer, but autumn's fashion note calls for a fuller, lovelier coiffure than we've seen in some time. Stylists at the Settles Beauty shop tell me that the new short is long enough for hairdos to be designed with smoothly streamlined waves and feminine fluffs from the nape of the neck. Remember though... only a stylist can determine length and pattern of your curls. When you fill your appointment at the Settles observe how operators teach you the trick of handling your tresses before your own mirror.

ONE OF THE TASTIEST DESSERTS I'VE EATEN lately was whipped up by an ingenious friend who can prepare a melt-in-your-mouth meal with no effort at all. She got Nabisco's Famous Chocolate Wafers (that come in a can) at Furr's Food Store and spread them generously in an ice cube tray. Over this, she poured thick whipped cream, another layer of wafers, more whipped cream and a sprinkling of pecans. Popped into the freezing compartment, it came out two hours later, delicious dessert squares. The recipe is simple but in case you forget it's on the Nabisco can. Look for this item at Furr's...

HAS SUSIE POSTED A PETITE REQUEST for a fall purse and hat? Chances are she'll follow the fad this fall and if she does, I'd suggest you see what the Kid's Shop is showing. From little girls to pre-teens there's handbags in velvets and velveteens and one little darling which comes equipped with "play-like" lipstick, compact, change purse and mascara brush. Hats for tots or teens are soft velvet billed caps with attached ear muffs in pretty winter shades.

MODERN VERSITILITY AND UNIQUE CRAFTSMANSHIP are combined in the Station Wagon furniture grouping by Johnson which I saw at Lucelle's Interior Decorators. These particular pieces, which will go into the bedroom of a newly-decorated home here, include a kidney desk and a night table. Mahogany, combined with maple has the distinctive Town and Country finish. The night table is designed with polished brass. Piccadilly leather cabinet handles, and can be joined to the modern desk as one bedroom piece.

COOL, RAINY NIGHTS OF THE PAST WEEK remind you that it's getting about time to check into warmer sleepers for the kiddos. With this in mind I shopped the lingerie department at McCrory's and came up with an excellent buy in pajamas. One-piece, these sleepers come in a wide range of sizes and are available in pink, blue and yellow outing at $1.29. For the tot you're "house-breaking", see McCrory's selections in cotton training pants, and observe the varied selections in little girls' panties that come in several color combinations, with lace trim or designed with nursery rhymes. They're priced from 29 to SLIP OVER TO MRS. LADY'S ACCESSORIES when you're in town and see the delightful new collection of slip-over sweaters and cardigans copying fashion acclaim here in Big Spring. The TISH-U-KNITS include downey Angoras in luscious shades with nylon turtle necks in pumpkin, chertreuse and nutmeg. There's Sanforians that won't shrink out of fit and my favorite... kitten soft nylon dress-ups in mera hints of color with inset yokes of nylon net. Criss-crossed over the illusion are narrow bands of the nylon, sweater yarn. They take the casual look out of a sweater... replacing it with a sweeter look in an elegant top for that best fall skirt...

A NEW PATTERN HAS BEEN ADDED TO 1847 Rogers silverplate, and with it comes light-hearted, youthful grace you've missed in most patterns. Daffodil is its name, superior craftsmanship its trademark and Zales Jewelry store its headquarters. Read slim, each piece is ornamented with a perfect daffodil of the tip. Graceful stems melt into the perfect molding of polished silver. Zales can service you with a 52-piece set (settings for eight) at $69.75.

Compressor Blamed For Man's Death

LUBBOCK, Sept. 9. — A refrigeration unit's compressor tank blew up Friday night, killing Herbert Cecil Terry, 29, almost instantly.

The explosion shot a metal cylinder into Terry's stomach. Officers said too much pressure built up in the compressor unit as Terry was pumping fluid into a new milk truck he had bought a few hours earlier. He was an independent milk jobber.

Mrs. Aton Wins High Score At Bridge Club

Mrs. Al Aton won high score at the meeting of the Modern Bridge Club Thursday in the home of Mrs. Hershel Petty. Mrs. R. W. Halbrook and Mrs. Escal Compton binged.

Special guests were Mrs. Compton and Mrs. J. I. McCrary. Others present were Mrs. John Brinner, Mrs. Joe Fowler Brooks, Mrs. Elvira McCrary, and Mrs. Jack Odie. The group will meet with Mrs. Odie next Thursday at 111 Jefferson at 2 p.m.

23.7 PER CENT GAIN THIS YEAR

New Registrations Expected To Record School Enrollment

The end of the week brought a tapering off on Big Spring's record school enrollment, but administrators expected a new hash of registrations Monday.

Final totals at the end of the week stood at 3,835, an increase of 734 over the comparable period a year ago. The percentage gain was 23.7 far and away heavier than last year's 4.3 per cent gain. Most of the schools showed gains, despite shifting to areas where classrooms had been added. Every grade level in the school system was up substantially.

So far only 19 sections are on half day, and these practically all on the first and second grade levels. Supt. W. C. Blankenship and Dean Bennett supervisor of elementary education, said that the only solution at the moment appeared in extending half day to some areas of the third grade (last year some went through the fifth). But this has its human complications when it comes to transferring children out of one school to another.

"You don't divide and shift children like so much cordwood," said Bennett.

Some shifting might be accomplished at Central by half day sessions, but here the presence of bus students creates a real barrier.

Since the bus students are being handled at this point, every effort is being made to hold it on a regular session.

Altering of district lines to shift weights of enrollment between the various schools won't help, for a check shows invariably that while it brings mild relief in one grade level, it creates a far worse problem in already over-crowded levels.

As soon as the picture becomes firm the fore part of this week Bennett and Blankenship will map a course of action to meet the enrollment emergency.

Enrollment by schools, compared with 1949, follows:

SCHOOL	1950	1949
Central Ward	343	372
C. Heights	514	346
East Ward	201	206
North Ward	216b	211
Kate Morrison	352c	168
South Ward	234	237
West Ward	487	401
Airport	286	169
Total Elem.	2,622	2,110
Lakeview (Neg)	177	103
Eighth Grade	289	220
High School	747	668
TOTAL ALL.	3,835	3,101

Enrollment by grade levels with last year's figures in parenthesis, follows:

First 520 (440), second 437 (304), third 363 (312), fourth 363 (227), fifth 325 (250), sixth 308 (263), seventh 311 (255), eighth 289 (220). The high school division without comparative figures, was ninth 236, the 10th 181, the 11th 134, the 12th 146. Lakeview figures are not included.

NOTE—a) has eight more classrooms, b) has two more classrooms, c) has six more classrooms, d) has two less grades being taught.

EXPECT BIG ENROLLMENT

Fall Term Opens At HCJC Monday

With officials optimistically expecting a large enrollment, Howard County Junior College begins registration for its fifth fall semester Monday.

E. C. Dodd, president, said that some of the uncertainty which existed at the outset of the Korean situation had been eliminated. As a result he was confident of a healthy enrollment.

From H. M. Reese, registrar, came word that the number of women students was due to gain this year.

Registration was held at the college plant in the airport area at 8:30 a. m. Monday and continues to 5:30 p. m. The same schedule will be followed Tuesday.

Monday from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. there will be a special registration period for night students, or for those who cannot register during the day.

Classwork is to start on Wednesday.

Two additions to the faculty have been announced following approval by the board of trustees, Mrs. Charlotte Keith Sullivan, who holds her masters degree from TSCW and who has been on the faculty of that institution, will be an instructor in business subjects. She will fill a vacancy created when John F. Jones was named superintendent of schools at Garden City. R. M. Powell, Fort Worth a member of McMurry and with eight years of experience, will succeed Earl Bryant, Jr. as the college accountant.

At the board meeting Thursday evening the board passed routine bills, discussed athletic policies extensively and heard reports from the architect. These included good news that three carloads of brick which had been holding up stock on the new plant, had arrived during the week.

Mass Vaccination Over In Mexico

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — Mass vaccination of animals susceptible to the foot-and-mouth disease within Mexico's quarantined area is over.

The Agriculture Department, in a report on the eradication program to Congress Friday, said 513,688 animals were vaccinated during July, bringing the total of such vaccinations to 60,113,374.

A Bible Thought For Today

Look unto me and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else. I have sworn by myself, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return. That unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear.—Isa. 45: 22-23.

Service Will Give Substance To Our Sense Of Pride In Hospital

For Big Spring as well as for thousands of veterans throughout this general area, dedication of the Veterans Administration hospital here today is a significant moment. The occasion is just reason for pause to reflect upon the meaning of this mighty institution and its impact on the community and area. Certainly the physical property and its intangible implement of human service will stand as a great monument to the sacrifice which many of our veterans gave and which all might have given. The striking structure stands also as a monument of community faith, enterprise and tenacity. It took these qualities in abundance to win acceptance of our invitation to have the hospital located here. In the hospital, there is an abundant opportunity for service. During the months and years ahead, hundreds and hundreds of thousands and thousands of patients will come here to be ministered unto, to be helped, to be encouraged. The potential of mercy is without limit. Big Spring, as home for the hospital, cannot disregard its opportunity in contributing the fullest measure toward comfort and peace of mind of the men and women who will be hospitalized. This will give real substance to our pride in being the home for the institution. It is one thing to be pleased with prospects that many will be attracted here because of the hospital, and that its working force will represent another economically steady influence. It is better still to be grateful for the wealth of good people and new friends the hospital has occasioned, and to feel a sense of real possession through unselfish service.

Affairs Of The World—DeWitt MacKenzie

"Cold War" Involves A Clash Between Two Ways Of Living

THERE'S ONE ASPECT OF THE COLD WAR between the isms regarding which a lot of folk are making what could be a disastrous mistake. This is harboring the belief that the argument is purely political. That's about as far off the beam as anybody could get. The Communist ideology comprises a way of life, dealing with every phase of human activity, from the cradle to the grave. It is a regimentation of ideological viewpoint by whole populations. It envisages world conversion, with Moscow as the seat of guidance. But somebody asks, isn't that the work of generations? It certainly is—and all indications are that Russia so regards it. THE KREMLIN CLEARLY IS PLANNING far beyond the time of Stalin or any of his captains. Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the U.N., has declared that the program will be carried out if it takes a hundred years. This fits in with the conclusion being drawn by Washington diplomats from the manner in which Moscow has dealt with the recent destruction of a Soviet bomber by UN forces over Korean waters. The Soviet procedure of dealing with the affair by note is taken as meaning that the Kremlin still wants to limit its conflict with America to diplomatic clashes. Since this also is the American aim, it encourages the belief that another major war isn't likely in the near future, though obviously there are dangers so long as open powder-kegs are standing around. However, the drive for world communism will continue with increasing force. THEREFORE THE QUESTION ARISES as to how this ideological crusade is to be met. It's no good pursuing the negative defense of merely arguing that communism holds out an alluring picture to the challenge must be met by demonstrating that the Democratic ideology is what the world needs. This is particularly true as regards backward areas such as exist in many parts of Asia where untold millions live and die in a poverty so dire that they never see the time when they are not hungry. Communism holds out an alluring picture to these underprivileged peoples, who are ready to grasp at anything which seems to offer relief. That picture may not be a true one—but it continues to win followers. How is democracy to meet this challenge of a communism which is deliberately designed not only to provide a complete way of life but to take the place of all religion, which it disavows? Ordinary political arguments certainly won't turn the trick. THERE IS A GROWING FEELING IN the United States and many other countries of the Democratic bloc that communism cannot successfully be challenged unless the Democratic ideology emphasizes the spiritual as well as the economic aspect of life. One often hears the remark that communism is a "religion." Of course it isn't in the generally accepted use of the term, since one of its chief aims is the destruction of religion, which it calls the dope of the masses. However, it does create a sort of idolatrous fanaticism by molding the young mind into the belief that unwavering loyalty and obedience to the Kremlin is the sum and substance of life. There are many who feel that things spiritual have been too much neglected among the democracies, and that a revival should be made a vital part of the ideological battle. In any event, if democracy is to compete with communism it must present an ideology which inspires the individual with an unbreakable devotion.

Public Favors Radio Hookup To Tell Our Side Of The Story

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 9—Widespread acceptance of the belief that America needs to do a more thorough and aggressive job of selling its ideas to peoples of the world, to offset Russian propaganda, is shown in a nationwide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion. In fact the public gives evidence of going beyond Congress and the Administration on the question of expanding greatly our Voice of America program, by approving much larger expenditures than have been asked to tell the American story abroad. Furthermore, those voters who support this idea would be willing to have Washington spend as much as a billion dollars, if needed, on such a project. Early this week General Dwight D. Eisenhower in a public address strongly advocated the establishment of a new radio network to carry truth behind the Iron Curtain. Here are the questions in the Institute survey: "Some people say the United States should spend a great deal more money than we are now spending to offset Russian propaganda (information) and to tell our side of the story. Do you agree or disagree?"

Agree 46pc.
Disagree 38
No Opinion 16

All those in favor of the idea were asked this second question: "Suppose it would take a BILLION dollars, which means higher taxes for everyone, to match Russia's radio propaganda. Would you favor or oppose spending this amount?"

Favor 35pc.
Oppose 7
No opinion 4

The idea of encircling the world with radio stations was proposed recently by David Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of America. The exact cost of such a program would depend, of course, on its scope. General Sarnoff estimated that some $200,000,000 would be needed to build the stations themselves. In today's survey the figure of one billion dollars was used arbitrarily in order to test how far the public might be willing to go. It seems clear from the results that those who favor the idea at all would not balk at carrying it out on a really big scale. Indeed, some observers have claimed that if the United States had invested several hundred millions or more in an intensive world-wide propaganda effort, driving home the anti-Communist arguments best suited to each particular country, we might not now have to be spending tens of billions on rearmament.

Today's survey results are not at all surprising in view of expressions of opinion in recent months on the legislation being spearheaded in Congress by Senator William Benton of Connecticut. Last winter Senator Benton proposed a greatly increased program to tell the American story abroad by means of radio "propaganda of truth," or T-bomb, as General Dwight D. Eisenhower has termed it. The Benton plan, on which Congress has not yet acted, drew an affirmative response from the American public. In April, an Institute survey found a vote of 5-to-4 in favor of the proposal. By July, after the outbreak of the war in Korea, the proportion increased to 7-to-4.

The Roof Caved In After President's Marine Corps Remarks Were Let Out

President Harry Truman wrote a letter this week to Rep. McDonough (R Calif.). Then the roof caved in. The nation, and the Marine Corps in particular, let loose a vehement protest. The President had said in his letter that the Marines are "a police force" and shall remain so; but he also commented that the Marines had a propaganda machine "almost equal to Stalin's." Those were fightin' words, apparently, and the Marines leaped at the chief executive in no uncertain fashion. The Marine League, made up of former corporals, was meeting in Washington at the time the letter was made public. And they too, had a few words to say. After not too many hours had passed, scores of protests over the statement by Mr. Truman poured into the White House. Finally, and it didn't take much urging, the President apologized in an action unprecedented for a chief executive. Nobby could recall when a President of the United States had ever before stepped down from his high pedestal to make amends for statement of that kind. It might have been a bit humiliating to Mr. Truman, but it certainly cleared things up. The day after his letter, Mr. Truman appeared before the Marine League convention amid a rousing cheer from the assembled delegates. It was a grand display of democracy-at-work as the President retracted his words and the Marines forgave him. But while the fuss simmered down as far as the Marines and Mr. Truman were concerned, correspondents and editorialists had a field day. Hardly a writer had any justification for Mr. Truman's remarks, but they did acknowledge his prompt apology. As if to find some means of justification, some writers pointed out that the incessant sniping at the President, his cabinet and other high government officials was partly responsible for the blow-up. The continued accusations, as yet unproven, showing a "nest" of Reds in the State Department seems to have had its effect insofar as the Truman remarks were concerned. The President, in his address before the Marine League, scored such political attacks

People Possess A Big Stick Through Grand Jury's Powers

Most elements of the community are gratified, I am sure, over the specific attention devoted by a recent 118th District Court grand jury to law enforcement matters in Big Spring. Many a grand jury has been concerned about the situation, but all have not taken definite action. I wonder if possibly the reason might be that grand jurors, generally speaking, are unaware of their powers as an investigative body. The course generally is to convene when the judge summons the group, hear what evidence the state's attorneys have to present, and return routine indictments. That is true all over the nation; but grand juries can do more. I am indebted to Willard Sullivan for having unearthed an article that appeared in Readers Digest "way back in 1937". It was an adaptation of one written originally for the New Republic by J. C. Furnas. It was titled "The People's Big Stick," and it said, to quote a bit: "But its (a grand jury's) potentially greater function, as an independent body of representative citizens inquiring into the condition of their government, has been too commonly neglected. As a board of inquiry, it may summon witnesses and public officials, who, because the sessions are secret, may testify freely without fear of reprisal. It may instruct the district attorney to gather evidence; it can call him in and kick him out of sessions. . . . So long as it is looking for evidence of crime—which takes in immense territory—it can dig into anything without so much as a by your leave from judge, district attorney, governor or political boss." Furnas goes on to relate how "run-away" grand juries—that is bodies who went out on their own to examine evidences of crime and official corruption—have achieved sensational success in many cases in clearing up evil in their own cities. He explains that the grand jury has the power, under the law, to go out and gather evidence, and that many have done just that. In other words, what the Furnas article emphasizes is that the people can do something about crime conditions if and when they want to bad enough, simply by getting at it through the grand jury which has plenty of power. And he brings to light the fact that there exists the Grand Jury Association of New York County, which has functioned for a number of years to "disseminate knowledge to grand jurors of their duties and obligations." It publishes a magazine, the Panel, through which it carries on a campaign to keep before grand juries the matters which most urgently need attention. Seems to me an affiliation with this association and its magazine would be a help to any community anywhere. After all, the grand jury is the real "big stick" of the people, and it can be used. Furnas sums it up: "There is your answer to the citizen who shrugs his shoulders at political rottenness and asks what can a decent citizen do about it anyway—and then moves heaven and earth to get out of it when called for grand jury service. Actually it can do more than anyone else in the world. Service on the grand jury demands the best any man has to offer. It demands judgment and restraint, as well as zeal—for power, poorly managed, can run amuck of its own momentum. The weapon is there, ready-made, and it is a deadly one. All we have to do is to use it." —BOB WHIPKEY.

Truman And Congress Disagree On How To Control Communists

WASHINGTON — PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Congress are in a fight over the bills it wants to pass to hobble Communists. He wants them hobbled, too, but not in the way Congress has in mind. The House already has passed one such bill, introduced by Rep. Wood, Gloria Democrat, who's chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee. The Senate is debating a similar, but broader bill, offered by Senator McCarran Nevada Democrat. His is a kind of bundle-everything-in-one-parcel bill. It's a bunch of bills wrapped up in one. It contains almost everything that's in the House bill, and then some. Mr. Truman dislikes it so much—because he thinks it goes too far—that he said Thursday he won't sign it if Congress approves it. NO ONE CAN PREDICT AT THIS MOMENT what Congress finally will approve. That's because the House and Senate bills are not identical. And both houses will have to compromise on one bill—probably a mixture of both—before sending the finished product to Mr. Truman. Neither bill makes it unlawful to be a Communist. But both make it very tough and unpleasant to be one. Mr. Truman's advisers think they're so tough they'd do more harm than good. For example: Drive the Communist underground, and so make it harder to check on them; at the same time perhaps endanger the basic freedom of innocent people. Early in August Mr. Truman asked Congress to pass a law to put a brake on Communists. But to a very limited extent, and he suggested these four main points: 1—Compel persons trained as spies by a foreign government, meaning Russia to register or be jailed; 2—Raise the statute of limitations to make it easier to nail spies (under present law the government can't try a spy unless he's been caught and charged within three years after his crime); 3—Give the President wider powers to prevent sabotage at important defense places, like harbors, airfields, and so on; 4—Give the government more power to get rid of Communist aliens. THE HOUSE PASSED BILL IGNORED Mr. Truman's requests except on the statute of limitations. But the McCarran Senate bill would give him what he asked, plus plenty that he didn't. Since there's so much heat now over the bills as they stand, here's a brief explanation of what they'd do, where they're alike and unalike. On the following points the two bills are almost identical: 1. All Communists would have to be registered with the government. So would all Communist-front outfits. And the Communist organizations would have to keep a record of where they get their money and how they spend it. (This is the part of both bills to which Mr. Truman and his advisers object most strenuously.) 2. Communists couldn't hold government jobs—unless elected, for example: To Congress. It would even be a crime for them to look for a government job without first disclosing they were Communists. 3. It would be a crime for anyone in the government to give a Communist or Communist agent any information involving national security; and it would be a crime to receive such information. 4. It would be a crime for anyone working for the government to contribute of his money or services to a Communist outfit. 5. It would be unlawful for a Communist here to try to get a passport to get out of the country, for anyone to give him a passport. 6. It would be unlawful for Communists to send any propaganda through the mails—to dish it out over the radio or TV—without plainly labeling the material as coming from a Communist. 7. And a special board—called the subversive activities control board—would be created to supervise the enforcement of all these things if they became law. (The House bill, but not the Senate bill, would even forbid a Communist to hold a job in a defense plant.)

GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Europe. No decisions have been made on this score, but efforts are being directed to assure the Western Germans an opportunity to assert themselves on their own behalf should the Soviets decide to "unite" the Reich. A liberty bell landed on American shores this week as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower launched a nationwide campaign, a "Crusade for Freedom." During this drive, Americans will be asked to sign a freedom scroll and contribute funds for a network of European radio stations to counteract Russian propaganda.

The wartime leader of the Allied Expeditionary Force, in his address, warned that "Soviet planners contemplate for all the world, including America, the same fate as Russia's satellite countries."

In the Security Council, Jakob Malik, Soviet delegate, took a few "beatings" in his repeated attempts to have the United States denounced for "barbaric" air attacks in Korea. The Soviet-sponsored resolution lost by a 9-1 vote. Yugoslavia abstained. Tomorrow, the Council meets to consider a Russian proposal that Red China be invited to sessions considering Peiping's charges of American bombardments in Manchuria and aggression against Formosa.

President Truman signed the homefront control bill. Now that this measure is out of the way, the next problem appears to be a Communist control bill. At present, a stiff debate is going on. Mr. Truman has said he will not sign the present bill as sponsored by Senator McCarran. While the dilly-dallying is going on between Mr. Truman and McCarran, Administration forces are trying to get together their own measure.

Also causing a little problem in the nation's capital is the question of when to adjourn Congress. Some members have tough fights for re-election on their hands and they want to go home. The President may have to resolve an argument between Senate and House Democratic leaders about whether to keep Congress on a standby basis or to wind up its affairs next week.

Abandoned Airfield Is One Of Most Lonely Places In World

POHANG AIRSTRIP, KOREA — There are a few things in the world more lonely than an abandoned airfield. The silence rushes in where the roar of engines can be heard no more and the whistle of departing wings has died away. The long runway along which planes lifted and landed on busy missions becomes a rusty metal skeleton, and sparrows again claim the peaceful yellow dust for feather baths. Returning the other day to this airstrip was like going back to a home you once had lived in, and finding it bare, haunted by mice and old memories, and guarded by a strange policeman. It had changed that much. But less than three weeks ago this was the busiest fighter base in South Korea, and the nearest to the front. The boys nicknamed it "The Cleveland Municipal Airport." FROM DAWN TO DUSK GROUND crews sweated and strained under a steaming midsummer sun to tune the planes and load them with bombs and rockets. At evening they and the pilots watched the sun sink beyond the western hills. Behind them the sea darkened into black. A cooling breeze sprang up. And it was a good night indeed if they could share a few cans of beer ferried over from Japan by a friendly transport pilot. But his serenity vanished when the enemy they had been attacking by air suddenly began to attack their base from the ground. The Reds seized Pohang only six miles away. The airmen flew their missions by day and then grabbed carbines and guarded the field at night until infantry could be rushed up to protect it. But the enemy got within artillery range and shells began to drop around the airstrip. To keep "from losing their planes the pilots had to gas them up and then fly to another field farther behind the lines. The ground crews took down the tents and loaded them on boats and sailed away. And they took with them the American flag that had flown proudly from a hill near the runway. That was on Aug. 13. SINCE THEN THE REDS HAVE BEEN tossed out of Pohang. They have tried again to take the city and been repulsed. A strong force of American Negro doughboys and white artillerymen have held out on the airbase all the while but the enemy is still too near for it to resume combat operations. A few transport planes do land there to bring supplies. I rode up with one this week. Only one other plane was parked by the runway from which dozens of fighters used to swarm up daily. A long jeep wheeled over carrying two anti-aircraft officers—Lt. Wilbert Harrison, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Lt. William Sallery of Springfield, S. C. They meet each plane as small towers a generation ago went down to see the trains come in.

OPENING AT RITZ TODAY

'Flame And Arrow' Puts Emphasis On Spectacular

What is termed a spectacle in Technicolor, "The Flame And The Arrow," one of the current box-office hits, is the featured attraction at the Ritz theatre today and Monday.

Dealing with romance in medieval Italy and the uprising of the Lombardian mountaineers against the invaders of Hesse, the picture stars Burt Lancaster and Virginia Mayo.

The Lancaster role is reminiscent of the old Douglas Fairbanks swashbucklers, and Burt gets plenty of action. It so happens that he goes through all the acrobatics without use of a double, since Lancaster was formerly a member of a circus acrobatic act and is capable in his own right.

In the picture, Lancaster is a mountain man, a Lombardian outlaw, while Virginia plays the role of a Hessian Princess. As royalty of that era she is proud and austere, and Lancaster is presumptuous ever to look at her, so he must watch and love her from a respectful distance. Besides, throughout the story, Lancaster becomes embroiled in so many action-packed episodes that he just doesn't find the time for romance.

OLDEN ROMANCE—Dashing romance of historical days is developed in "The Flame And The Arrow," the Ritz theatre's feature for today and Monday. The principals in this dramatic affair are Virginia Mayo and Burt Lancaster.

IN COMEDY—Celeste Holm gives Ronald Colman a disturbing moment in this scene from "Champagne For Caesar," billed at the Ritz theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. It's a swift comedy for Colman, involving the problems confronting a man who wins a record radio give-away program.

WOMEN IN PRISON—Eleanor Parker (right) and another inmate are brought before the prison matron in this scene from "Caged," playing at the Ritz theatre Thursday and Friday. Miss Parker and Agnes Moorehead star in a story of incidents in a women's prison.

Francis Makes Hit As Mule That Talks

A novel sort of comedy which has rated as a "sleeper" by the trade, since it has caught the public fancy in a big way, is "Francis," which makes a return showing here, at the Lyric today and Monday.

Don't be deceived about the name. Francis is a mule.

Francis may be one star, but another capable one is Donald O'Connor, the versatile young man who has no songs, dances or romances in this story. Instead, he's an army lieutenant who has strange experiences with a mule that can talk. There's a pretty girl, Patricia Medina, but O'Connor doesn't win her. Others in the cast include Zamu Pitts, Ray Collins and John McIntire.

The story deals with an army mule which bears Donald, an army lieutenant, to safety when the young officer gets lost from his command and is wounded in a Burma jungle by Jap shellfire.

Francis the mule takes a liking to Donald and tips him off to Jap plans several times, resulting in Donald becoming a hero. But each time Donald explains that a mule tipped him off, the lieutenant is tossed into the psycho ward. Patricia Medina, in the role of an Axis spy, enters Donald's camp and is trying to learn from him how he has successfully thwarted Jap troop and plane movements when she is exposed and arrested. Donald has almost fallen for the pretty spy when this happens. The story ends with Donald and his mule living happily together after the war. Donald, in a house and Francis, of course, in a snugly furnished garage apartment in the rear.

HIGHLIGHTS ON KBST

Jump Jump Is New Radio Character

A new children's program, "Jump Jump of Holiday House," is being presented on KBST each Saturday morning at 9:30.

Star of the show is sprightly little elf named Jump Jump. Though he's only three inches tall, Jump Jump is very much in evidence throughout the program and is sure to make lots of friends among the youngest set. He always talks so fast you can hardly understand him, but you always get what he means.

Other characters on the program are clowns, lions and various others who try to keep Jump Jump out of trouble.

DOCTOR'S ORDERS

An important addition to the KBST schedule is the new weekly series, Doctor's Orders. It is an informative dramatization based on medical facts and program subjects will run the gamut from measles to plastic surgery. Presented in story form, the program offers entertainment as well as information. Doctor's Orders will be heard each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, beginning Sept. 13th.

STARS IN PRIZE-WINNING SHOW

Jimmy Stewart is among the host of screen stars slated to appear this season on radio's most honored dramatic show, Theatre Guild on the Air. Tonight the program's 6th year on the air opens with Rosalind Russell and Charles Laughton in "Edward, My Son." Listen: WFAA-WBAP U.S. Steel Hour, 7:30 P.M.

NELSONS RETURN

Radio's highly regarded domestic comedy, The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, has returned to the air, and can now be heard regularly over KBST via the ABC network, each Friday at 8 p.m.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard and their two sons, David and Ricky, are featured along with neighbor Thornberry and neighbor Clara Handoff.

RED RYDER

The adventures of America's famous fighting cowboy Red Ryder, will be heard over KBST each evening at 7:30, beginning Sept. 14th. The half hour program also stars Little Beaver, Red's little Indian friend, and the cowboy's black stallion, Thunder. Plenty of thrills are promised in the new series.

Radio Jackpot Programs Get Film Attention

"Champagne For Caesar," a gay film satire on radio and television "giveaway" shows, is featured at the Ritz theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Starring Ronald Colman in his first screen appearance since his Academy Award-winning performance in "A Double Life," the Harry M. Popkin production pokes good-natured fun at quiz programs by presenting Mr. Colman in the role of an infallible contestant who runs the jackpot up to a $40,000,000-or-nothing question.

Celeste Holm, another Academy Award winner for her role in "Gentlemen's Agreement," is costarred in the part of a siren who attempts to get Mr. Colman to reveal his weak spot for the quiz show's sponsor.

Featured as the soap tyeon sponsor is Vincent Price, the brilliant Broadway and Hollywood star who is as much at home in the role of a comedy menace as he is in matinee-idol parts.

Art Linkletter, the radio master of ceremonies of such programs as "People Are Funny," is cast, naturally, as a quiz show m.c. in "Champagne for Caesar," and beautiful Barbara Britton is featured as Mr. Colman's young sister.

Starring Cary Grant as the rugged naval commander and John Garfield in the role of a daring sailor, the story deals with the cruise of the "Copperhead" into Tokyo Bay to obtain information necessary to making a later aerial raid on Japan.

Featured in the cast of "Destination Tokyo" are Dane Clark, Robert Hutton and William Prince. Jerry Wald produced and Delmer Daves directed for Warner Bros.

Women's Prison Background For Dramatic Picture

Realistic episodes that occur behind prison walls add punch to the drama, "Caged," playing at the Ritz theatre Thursday and Friday.

"Caged" has to do about women in prison, and sets out to portray some of the more distressing plights of first offenders placed behind prison bars.

Starring Eleanor Parker and featuring top actresses Agnes Moorehead and Jan Sterling, "Caged" tells of the events that confront a young and beautiful girl who is committed to a women's state prison. How she makes the gradual transition downward from bewilderment to bitter cynicism, later released to prey on society, forms the basis of some of the most gripping film fare on such a subject since "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang."

Virginia Kellogg, who wrote this women-without men story from a fashionably volunteered herself to prison to get the facts, after Warner Bros. had assigned her the story idea. As an inmate, she lived with the prisoners for months in order to re-create the stark realism for the screen.

Blount Charges U. S. Unprepared For All-Out War

State Legislator R. E. Peppy Blount charged this week in Alice that "members of our State Department have lost nations and entire continents, but have been promoted for losing them."

Addressing the joint meeting of Optimist International Clubs of the lower region of District Six, Laredo, Harlingen, Victoria, McAllen, Raymondville and Sebastian, Blount added that our nation courtmartialis a general for losing a Division or an Army in battle. Our present policy in the State Department seems to be the opposite, he said.

As a result, the United States is in an all-out war for which we are unprepared, Blount told the club delegates.

"We have been living in an Alice-in-Wonderland sort of world" he said. "For awhile, it looked like we were going to be taken in like the French. They were fooled by their Maginot Line and we were too complacent because of our atomic bomb."

Blount said that the United States must get ready now for the "war we're going to have to fight." He proposed these immediate measures:

- (1) All-out mobilization and war-time controls such as rationing and price controls, (2) outlawing the Communist Party, (3) relieve those national appointive officials who have proven inadequate and incompetent, (4) mobilize our industry to a full scale production, (5) an end to politics. "I think we've been sold down the river from the White House on down. The politicians have gone too far," he concluded.

30 Placements Made By TEC This Week

Thirty worker placements resulted from Texas Employment commission activity last week, Leon M. Kinney, director, reported Saturday.

Total placements were just one less than the number of new work applications filed—31. There were 392 visits to the local TEC office and 39 referrals to potential jobs.

Claims actions, both new and continued, totalled 11. There were 42 new job openings received during the week.

Savings Bond Sales Total $74,725 In County During August

U. S. savings bond sales in August amounted to $74,725 in Howard county.

This pushed the year's total to $837,036.50, nearly $200,000 more than for all of last year. Ira L. Thurman, county bond chairman, announced.

Division of the sales for August showed $19,725 in the E bond series, and $55,000 in the F & G series, said Thurman.

Recalled To Duty With Army Air Force

Willis B. Asbury, a corporal in the Air Reserve, has been recalled to active duty and processed at Brooks AF Base for assignment to a regular Air Force unit.

A veteran of World War II, Asbury became active in reserve training after receiving his discharge from the service in early 1946.

Recall to active duty is due to a government plan to bring its A.F. units to full strength. Asbury is married to the former Miss June Matson.

Guide To Various Units Of Hospital Listed By Floors

Hundreds of rooms go into providing the space for diagnosis, treatment, care and comfort of patients in the Veterans Administration hospital in Big Spring.

The modern hospital requires about as many rooms for auxiliary purposes as it does for patient rooms. In the case of the VA hospital, with its necessity for stand-by service, the ratio of rooms is higher.

How do you find your way around in such a large plant then? Perhaps this brief sketch of floor arrangement will be helpful to visitors at the hospital today.

FIRST FLOOR— Offices for the sectional heads and departments, such as finance, personnel, supply, files and records, the manager, assistant, chief of the medical service, chief of nurses, storage, main sterilization room, ice vaults, the out-patient sections, examination rooms, pharmacy, attendants cafeteria, staff dining room, locker and toilets for men, emergency operating room, canteen, chapel, supplies for medicine, main kitchen, housekeeping, registrar's section, main lobby.

SECOND FLOOR— Recreation, radio control and broadcasting rooms, music studio, medical and patient libraries and sound-proof talking booths, storage for patients' clothing and luggage, four rooms and baths for closest of kin for very ill patients, patients' cafeteria, lockers and toilets for non-resident nurses, storage, x-ray section, occupational therapy, exercise space, electric therapy, game room, and more of sectional offices.

THIRD AND FOURTH FLOORS— These are basically the same. Each contains nursing units and houses 16-bed wards, four-bed and two-bed wards, together with single beds. Each has its respective salararium (two per floor), common doctor and nurse, a kitchen for distributing food to wards, utility room. Four rooms at the south end of the third floor are for women patients. The third floor also contains an isolation section (five single rooms) which has its own facilities for sterilizing, food service, garbage grinder, etc. The fourth floor is an out-and-out hospital area. It contains also a two-room allergy treatment space with washed air and electric filters.

FIFTH FLOOR— The south part has a nursing section almost identical with the third and fourth floors. The north portion contains the operating suites. (This is the only one that is air conditioned; the remainder of the plant is mechanically ventilated. There are five reception rooms in the operating area that are air-conditioned. In addition to two major operating rooms, there are roofigs for ear, eye, nose and throat, cystoscopic operations, x-ray and development, doctors and nurses lounge and dressing rooms, nurses work room, anaesthesia room.

SIXTH FLOOR— This is the psychiatric section for receiving and holding mental patients until the nature of the ailment is diagnosed. These patients are then sent to VA mental hospital for treatment. Besides the rooms, this floor also contains two open-air exercise rooms.

SEVENTH FLOOR— Machines for operation of some of the ventilation fans, plus a pair of six-cylinder compressors for air conditioning.

EIGHTH FLOOR— Contact equipment and motors for two service and two passenger elevators are located on this floor. Access to the roof, at ninth floor level, is through the ceiling.

BASEMENT— There are four equipment rooms here, containing machines for the generation of hot-water for the building, pumps for return of condensate from heating system, sump pump, room for telephone cable where main cable splices into others, morgue and autopsy room with single floor lift, surgical incinerator, compressors for walk-in refrigerator, compressor for chilled water circulation, vacuum pump, air compressor, exhaust and intake fans, main electrical panel board, transformers, emergency electric generators, street lighting transformers, entrance to walk-way tunnel to powerhouse.

OTHER BUILDINGS— The small one-story building nearest to Gregg on the northeast corner of the hospital site is for attendants who are subject to constant call. Immediately to the west is the powerhouse with its companion structure, the chimney. Beyond it is the shops structure, which elbows into offices for engineer and maintenance supervisors, and is off to the south for garage and storage. Immediately west of the main building, the two-story structure is for resident nurses' quarters. Facing Park Road and to the south of the nurses' quarters is the home for the manager. To the west of this structure are two duplexes for key officials. The elevated water storage is at the southwest part of the 31-acre tract.

BUT CITY GOT IT!

6 Years Of Talk Before Launching

A six-million dollar construction project does not materialize overnight.

In the case of the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital, area citizens were hearing and reading about it for almost six years before the huge installation ultimately launched its intended operations.

It was on Oct. 9, 1944, that Big Spring first took action toward securing the proposed Veterans Administration hospital. J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, recommended that the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, city and county be asked to join with the chamber directorate in applying for the institution.

Application was submitted on Oct. 19. Just 10 days later, and Marvin Miller, vice president of Cosden Petroleum Corp., made the initial contact in support of the request on Nov. 13, 1944.

Miller presented the brief prepared by the chamber and talked with Gen. Frank T. Hines, then administrator of the Veterans Administration. Working cooperatively, the chamber then set up a steering and site committee, while the city and county agreed to provide a site for the hospital if it should be located in Big Spring. On the steering committee were R. L. Cook, then mayor, the late Judge James T. Brooks, B. J. McDaniel, city manager at that time, the late W. W. Inkman, T. S. Currie, Dr. C. W. Deats, Dr. J. E. Hogan, Jesse Thurman, Marvin Miller, R. R. McEwen, and R. L. Tollett. Albert S. Darby, who has since moved away from Big Spring, but who was president of the chamber of commerce at that time, and J. H. Greene were ex-officio members.

Subsequently, R. T. Piner succeeded Darby on assuming the presidency of the chamber. Shortly after the establishment of the steering committee, the VA announced that applying cities would be inspected. L. A. Warren, VA engineer, arrived here in February, 1945, and was shown proposed sites.

Later, contacts were made in Washington in support of Big Spring's application by Frank Prince, Cosden representative in the capital, and visits were made in

Veterans Hospital

Big Spring, Texas

Welcome

We the people of Big Spring are proud to have the new VA hospital in our community. We know that the latest in modern medicine has been provided for veterans and for their recovery to future health.

The Sherwin-Williams Co., is proud to welcome the veterans, and the hospital staff into our town. We are also proud of our ability to serve the public in modern home improvements, and we will be glad to serve you in any possible way.

Library Possesses Dual Personality

A dual personality as well as mobility features the library at the Veterans Administration hospital here.

First of all, the library must serve two purposes. One department is devoted to medical services. Thus, the medical library is devoted to a storehouse of professional periodicals and a wealth of written medical knowledge and case histories.

The volumes, magazines and papers are carefully kept so that information on any desired subject can be found quickly. The reading room is amply large and is conducive to concentrated study.

Adjacent is the general library, which is designed to serve the patient's needs. Open shelves display the books, and periodicals. Here is an assortment of fiction, non-fiction, research and biographical work—a variety to satisfy almost any taste. On a table is a group of daily newspapers and monthly periodicals.

One peculiar characteristic of the library is that it more or less "peddles" its services. While of the ambulatory patients to come to the library to read and relax, there are many more—the bedfast ones—who need the library's service even more. To serve them, the library technicians daily "load" a miniature library on wheels. It carries a fair sample of all that is available in the library. As it is wheeled through the wards and rooms, patients may make selections. If they want something not on the mobile shelf, it is secured and delivered to them.

There is still one other remarkable feature about the VA library. This is its sound room. Primarily for the benefit of those who are blind or with poor vision, this room will bring to the listeners the wealth and inspiration of good books through the magic of sound.

Service And Repairs Handled In VA Shops

Repair and servicing of property at the Veterans Administration hospital shapes up in the shops buildings.

There are five basic shops in the unit, one for painting, one for carpentry, another for general repair, one for plumbing and another for electrical work.

In addition there is a storage space, locker and shower room, toilet facilities and some office space.

PERSONNEL OFFICER — W. Hays Bacus, personnel officer at the new Veterans Administration hospital, has been associated with the VA for four years. A native of Newport, Ark., Bacus is a graduate of Texas Christian University and served with the U. S. Navy in World War II, attaining the rank of lieutenant-commander. His previous service with the Veterans Administration included two years at Dallas and two years at Lubbock. Bacus is married and he and Mrs. Bacus have Candy Sue, 3. (Culver Photo)

Elevator System All But Thinks

Covering the vast main building of the Veterans Administration hospital would be an almost insurmountable task were it not for the elevator system.

Four big elevators serve the hospital. Two are for passengers and two are for service purposes.

They are combined automatic or manual. Ordinarily they operate automatically, but if the volume of traffic makes it expedient to use an elevator operator, a turn of a special key will convert to that type of operation.

Radio Outlets Are Plentiful

Radio outlets are plentiful at the Veterans Administration hospital.

All but five beds have facilities for picking up radio programs or broadcasts within the hospital.

The roof garden and solarium have four loud speakers. Each solarium in the hospital has a speaker. So has the dining room, the occupational electro-therapy room, exercise room and others.

There are 225 head phones or 70 pillow sets available for the patients who wish to listen to programs while lying in bed. They are supplied from the control room which has four sets picking up programs. A selector switch gives the patient his choice of the four.

Barber Shop Keeps Hair From Growing Too Long At Hospital

Patients at the Veterans Administration hospital here need not get that "ragged" look.

They have barber service in the building. Adjacent to the canteen area, the barber shop has a couple of chairs and offers all the services of a conventional barbering place. In addition, the barbers are subject to call to the wards to attend to patients who are not ambulatory.

Launching

March, 1945, to VA administrators in Washington by Greene, Piner, and McDaniel, members of a special committee. In all Greene made four trips to the capital.

Rep. George Mahon had assisted Big Spring representatives as he had those of other applying cities in his district, in the presentation of additional facts in support of application.

The designation contest warmed up in late April and the first part of May and it was in this period that the chamber of commerce landed some of its most effective blows.

Big Spring had been attacked on the grounds of limited rail schedules, but Greene promptly presented statistical proof that this was of no consequence since the movement of patients to all types of hospitals was usually done by car or ambulance. In addition he presented comparative information which showed Big Spring hotel and other facilities to be superior to cities then thought to be under consideration.

Matters were, Big Spring representatives thought, on the up and up when an unexpected development seriously impaired local chances of getting the hospital. The worst drought since 1917 had dried up both city lakes, and a competing community raised the question of water supply before the VA hospital board. The chamber of commerce countered, with full support of the city and the aid of several organizations.

Engineering data was produced to show the sources of supply were, and could be made even more adequate. More than a score of businessmen and organization leaders wired of confidence in the supply.

State water board engineers' data was used, one new field was quickly developed as proof, and, to show its confidence, the city passed a resolution that it would give to the VA a sufficient number of wells to produce more than its daily requirement of water if it ever came to the point that the city could not supply the institution.

As matters had narrowed down pretty well between two cities, one outside of this district, local forces kept in close contact with Rep. George Mahon who pressed claims on behalf of his Congressional district. On July 9, 1945, the congressman announced that final official approval of Big Spring as site of the institution had been approved by the Veterans Administration.

Architects and engineers immediately set out to produce plans and specifications for the proposed structures, and details were first circulated in 1947.

Finally, after various preliminary work, adjustments, etc., were completed, advertisements for bids were announced and a contract was awarded to the Robert E. Kee Construction Co. on Jan. 8, 1948.

Local citizens, contractors, VA officials and U. S. Engineers immediately made plans for a groundbreaking ceremony at the building site. A group of several hundred persons gathered on the property, which at that time was scarcely more than open prairie, and the first dirt was turned on Feb. 8, 1948.

Soon, huge chunks of earth were being shifted, as contractors proceeded with excavation, which subsequently subsided in favor of actual construction work.

Considering the size of the project, construction work moved forward rapidly, and by Nov. 1, 1949, the Veterans Administration was making plans for activating the hospital. On that date, Dr. Lloyd B. Andrew was named superintendent of the hospital.

The hospital's first superintendent came to Big Spring on Jan. 7, and immediately launched plans for organizing a staff. By summer, a nucleus of the staff had been assembled.

Next eventful date on the hospital's calendar was July 17 of this year, when James A. Waters, a former U. S. Marine, was admitted as the first patient.

At first only 50 beds were made available, but as more staff members arrived, other portions were thrown open to patients to gradually expand the operations.

Dozens of other patients have been admitted to the new hospital since the initial opening.

vator to a given point or in transporting its passenger to a designated floor.

The prospective passenger simply pushes a button. When the elevator arrives in response to the signal, the door slides open. If the passenger does not enter within a certain space of time the elevator door will close.

Once inside, the passenger presses a button which designates the floor to which he or she wishes to go. The door closes automatically; the elevator rises or descends according to the signal; and the doors open automatically when the station is reached.

The system is so engineered that a selection is made between the two elevators to give the most expeditious service.

Standby Unit Is Guard Against Power Failure

The Veterans Administration hospital takes into account the possibility of brief interruption of electrical power.

It now has its own standby 15 KVA gasoline driven generator. Automatically, upon power failure the unit kicks into operation. Immediately it feeds current to proper points for a minimum of corridor light, exit lights, minimum light at nursing stations, illumination for the operation suite. Its job is to supply instant power to the points of greatest emergency.

Once the power is restored, the generator kicks off automatically.

Two Bedrooms in VA Nurses' Home

Resident nurses have their housing problem solved at the Veterans Administration hospital.

The home for the nurses, or more exactly the nurses' quarters, is a two-story structure immediately west of the main hospital building. It contains 10 private bedrooms with individual bath and toilet.

It has a living room for the chief nurse, a main living room and lounge, kitchen, laundry and a trunk and storage room.

A separate structure provides garage space for six automobiles. The building is serviced for heat from the central power plant.

SOCIAL SERVICE — Tolford H. Durham came here from the Veterans Administration hospital in Fort Lyon, Colo., to become the first chief of Social Service at the new Big Spring VA hospital. A native of Bristol, Colo., Durham holds the degree of master of social work from Denver University. He is married and he and Mrs. Durham have two children, Donald J. and Diana I year. Top VA Officials Due At Dedication

High officials of the Veterans Administration, managers of at least half a dozen VA hospitals, and other notables are among the visitors due here for today's dedication.

Among those who had sent in acceptances to join with Gen. Gray, administrator of Veterans Affairs, in the dedication, are:

R. W. Wolford, Washington, D. C. information representative of the VA; J. R. Dinsdale, Washington, D. C., confidential secretary to Gen. Gray; John Ausland, Wichita Falls; Thomas E. Wicker, Berger, manager North Plains Hospital.

Dr. Charles H. Beasley, St. Louis, Mo., area VA medical director; Dr. C. R. Miller, Marlin, manager VA hospital; Earl Norman, Amarillo, manager VA hospital; Dr. Judd Kirkham, Kerrville, manager VA hospital; Dr. Halston W. H. Grand Island, Neb., manager VA hospital; Dr. W. H. Buckholts, McKinney, manager of VA hospital; Robert Sisson, Lubbock, manager regional VA office.

Louie G. Bradley, Albuquerque, N.M., project engineer for corps of engineers; Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth, architect; Alec J. Simon, Beaumont, state commander DAV; Donald C. Biggs, Kansas City Mo., adjutant general VFW. Mary Pat Bird, department of Texas auxiliary to VFW; Mrs. Eunice S. Carr, St. Louis, Mo., American National Red Cross; Lloyd B. Andrew, Jr., Berger, son of the manager of the VA hospital here.

Governor Allan Shivers, Sen. Tom Connally and Lyndon Johnson, Rep. George Mahon, and other national and state representatives had been invited. Previous engagements and press of business will make it impossible for many to attend. The same is true of national, state and district commanders of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Disabled American Veterans, together with auxiliary officials. In the case of the Legion, most will be unable to attend due to the fact that this state convention is in progress this weekend at Galveston.

Dr. Andrew anticipates that there will be many acceptances at the last minute which could not be given, for various reasons, at the time this list was compiled.

VA CHAPLAIN—The Rev. C. O. Hitt, who previously served four years in the same capacity at the Veterans Administration hospital at North Little Rock, Ark., is the Big Spring VA hospital's first chaplain. A native of Lindale (Tex.) Chaplain Hitt attended the Rusk Baptist Academy and Baylor University. He served as a chaplain for the Air Force during World War II. Chaplain Hitt is married and he and Mrs. Hitt have six children. Mrs. Mary Alice Hogue, Clark O. Jr., Bowling M., Bill S., Harold P. and Ben P. Hitt. (Culver Photo)

LAUNDRY TURNS OUT 2,000 PIECES DAILY

Every day is wash day at the Big Spring VA hospital and the institution keeps its private laundry busy turning out an estimated 2,000 pieces of linen and clothing daily.

One of the most modern laundry plants in the entire state, the hospital laundry, located on the first floor, is equipped with fully-automatic machines for every washing chore. Its equipment includes two big washers, eight presses, one flat work ironer, one folding machine, two extractors, (which wring freshly washed items), and two tumblers for finished drying.

Nine employees operate the washing and pressing equipment, as well as pick up and deliver all linens and uniforms to the various departments of the hospital. The laundry is charged with keeping clean all linens, such as bed spreads, sheets, pillow cases, blankets, and towels used in the hospital, and all the uniforms worn by nurses, aides, housekeepers, and kitchen personnel.

This includes 2,000 sheets, 2,000 pillow cases, 1,200 blankets, and 4,000 towels, and hundreds of uniforms.

Soiled linen and clothing is delivered to the laundry through two chutes which empty on the first floor. Picked up at the mouth of each chute, the soiled items are laundered, pressed and returned to their proper station each day.

An accurate record of all items passing through the laundry must be kept, and each individual piece returned to its respective owner or department.

On the staff of the laundry is a seamstress who keeps all articles in good repair. Every uniform is examined closely and all tears are sewn up, buttons replaced, etc.

Raymond Cooper is chief of the hospital's laundry service. He maintains an office adjacent to the big laundry room in the east wing of the hospital and must keep records of the department's work, equipment operation, and stocks of exchange items kept on hand. When office duties are completed, Cooper often finds time to assist other workers in the actual operation of the plant.

A veteran laundry chieftain Cooper came to the Big Spring hospital from a similar institution at Legion.

Ample Openings Provided At New VA Hospital

Ample openings are provided at the Veterans Administration hospital here.

For instance, there are 1,180 windows for the 562 rooms in the hospital. There are 680 doors, nine elevators and five stairways.

The hospital has a total of 11 entrances.

Besides natural light, illumination comes from 2,650 light fixtures, most of them fluorescent.

Heat is supplied through 500 steam radiators.

Staffers Subject To Call Are Housed In Attendants' Home

Because some employees are subject to call 24-hours a day, the Veterans Administration hospital here maintains quarters for these workers.

This building contains 10 single rooms, a living room, a shower room, toilets. Each room has its private lavatory. The entrance is adorned by some stone trim flower beds, which are copper lined.

Cooper Brown Directs Work For Contractor

Superintendent for the general contractor, Robert E. McKee company, on the Veterans Administration hospital project here was Cooper Brown.

Although comparatively young as head men for such tremendous projects go, Brown nevertheless was an experienced man.

He had the job of not only seeing that general construction proceeded on schedule and in accordance with instructions from the project engineer for the corps of engineer and the supervisor for the architect, but also that sub-contractors worked their part into the general plan smoothly and on time.

Before the project was completed here, however, the McKee company was awarded a contract for construction of an even larger government hospital at New Orleans. Brown was assigned to that job as the contractor's superintendent.

Both he and Mrs. Brown became familiar personalities in the community life. Mrs. Brown was active in club affairs, particularly in the music club.

Brown was succeeded here in the latter phases of the job by Andrew Hausen. Robert E. McKee Jr. came here at the outset of the project and from time to time made visits.

WORKING IN GOVERNMENT

Special Law Makes Federal Service Careers Attractive

Careers for professional people in public service has been made possible under a special act.

Because it became apparent a long time ago that competent doctors, dentists, nurses and such professional people could not be attracted and retained in federal service under the existing civil service legislation, a new tack was taken.

Public law 293, which set up the department of medicine and surgery, was adopted by congress. Under it, the professional people were offered the element and compliments of a career in federal service.

The net result is that the far-flung Department of Medicine and Surgery of the Veterans Administration does offer to veteran-patients a medical service second to none. No government agency could operate the 130 hospitals and the 112,449 beds, and the tremendous number of clinics alone. VA could not function without the services of the outstanding physicians of America who help on a consultant basis VA have their services at the hospital level, at intermediate levels and at the national level. The pay these eminent men receive from the Federal Government is but a fraction of the income they might receive were they to remain in their individual offices the days they serve the Veterans Administration.

Tremendous achievement and wonderful advances have been made in the Department of Medicine and Surgery. Many of these were accomplished on the momentum of war-time psychology. The VA's problem is to consolidate and retain the professional and administrative achievements of the Department of Medicine and Surgery, at the same time keeping always abreast of the advances in medicine, surgery and dentistry, as well as psychiatry, medical rehabilitation, and all of the other phases of scientific endeavor which go into the operation of a medical service second to none.

THAR'S GOLD ON THAT FLAGPOLE

Thar's gold in that thar flag pole.

Riding the top of the 75-foot pole is a 20-ounce ball 12-inches in diameter and covered with 24-carat gold leaf.

The pole is hardly a dainty thing. It is 12 inches in diameter and four inches at the top.

Small Chapel At Hospital Can Accommodate 50

Located unobtrusively on the second floor of the Veterans Administration hospital is a quiet retreat from the worries that may perplex patients or staff.

It is the chapel, a relatively small space finished in blonde oak and arranged to accommodate approximately 50 people.

The altar is such that it is interchangeable for the three basic divisions of the faith—the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

Here services and meditations will be held from time to time. The chaplain will preside at most of the services, but visiting ministers, particularly those of the other faiths, will be invited to speak.

The chapel will be a place for weddings, memorial services and other ceremonies.

It is so arranged that not only those able to walk but some of those in wheel chairs will be able to attend the services.

Hospital Has Own Postoffice

Another mark indicating that the Veterans Administration hospital is a "city within itself" is its post-office.

Just like an urban postoffice in miniature, the VA hospital postoffice is nestled in the south wing of the second floor of the hospital.

It has its windows for registered mail, money orders and for stamps and general delivery.

In addition, a tier of oases adorn the north end of the office space.

The postoffice functions as a branch of the Big Spring U.S. post-office.

When mail arrives for patients, it is distributed to floors, and in turn to nursing stations and the wards or rooms. Similarly, a collection of mail is made regularly in the wards and rooms and is funneled to the postoffice for dispatch. Outgoing mail is then sacked and transported to the Big Spring office by a star route contractor.

Telephone Service Complete And Novel At VA Hospital

Telephone service is complete—and almost novel—at the Veterans Administration hospital.

No one, not even the patients, are without available phone service. No person is farther removed than 75 feet from a telephone outlet.

If a veteran receives or wants to place a long distance call, a portable phone, which is a sort of "pay station on wheels," is brought in from the nursing unit. A long cord keeps it plugged to the telephone outlet. Toll calls are handled without going through the hospital exchange. In this manner, there is no getting mixed up on charges. The patient calling out has the call accepted at the other end, or he drops coins in the pay slot in the amount of the call.

On incoming calls, the operator calls the hospital to obtain the section and ward where the recipient is located. Then the call is placed direct to that point.

Inside the hospital, there are something like 200 telephones. These are automatic dial so that on calls between offices and stations there is no necessity to go through the board. The outside operator may be dialed directly.

Incoming calls are put through the PBX board and routed to the call accepted at the other end.

13 Persons Work In This Division

All supplies, equipment, services and other materials necessary for the maintenance of the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital add up to work for the Supply Division.

With 13 persons employed, the Supply Division includes three sections, each of which is concerned with designated phases of the division's functions.

As the title suggests, the procurement section handles purchases of supplies and equipment. It also has a authority to make awards and contracts for services. The property accounts section rides herd on the supplies after they are received at the hospital. This, of course, entails the handling of requisitions from various other divisions of the hospital, seeing that stocks are kept at proper levels and that proper distribution is made.

A warehouse section is responsible for storage of all equipment and supplies.

Generally, the functions of the division include the receiving of stores, issuing, exchanging, transferring and safeguarding supplies and equipment.

Holidays For The Horse In Denmark

COPENHAGEN. — Denmark now has a hotel which consists of a large shelter and a big field of juicy grass. The host is a veterinary surgeon and the guests are cart-horses.

The hotel has been established by an animal welfare association to give city horses a needed holiday in the country. The idea was born last summer after the newspapers had published a story of a Copenhagen carter who was permitted by his firm to take his horse with him into the country during his summer vacation.

LAB CHIEF — Dr. Clifford W. Atherton, pathologist and chief of laboratory service at the new Veterans Administration hospital came here from the Jackson Miss. VA hospital where he was assistant pathologist. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois college of medicine. Dr. Atherton is married and the father of two children, Michael, 8, and William B. JANUARY 30, 1948

Realization Of Responsibility Marked Ground-Breaking

In a bitter wind that swept across the plateau on the southern reaches of Big Spring, around 250 people stood with bared heads on Jan. 30, 1948.

The ground on which a great hospital was to rise had been dedicated to "the cause of helping those men and women who served their country in its hour of need."

Today, that institution — the Veterans Administration general and surgical hospital — is being dedicated to those whom it already is serving.

Cecil C. Collings, then judge of 70th district court and now an associate justice of the 11th district court of civil appeals, was the speaker for the occasion which marked dedication of the land.

As he concluded his brief talk, Mrs. F. A. Farquhar, who gave a daughter and had three sons in service, stepped forward. She took a firm grip on a shovel and dug it into the red sand.

Within a week the contractor was at work and a six million dollar project was underway.

The occasion of breaking first dirt on the 31-acre tract provided by the City of Big Spring and the county of Howard was a solemn one. Had there been any disposition to gloat over selection as a home for the hospital, it was submerged to the realization of responsibilities that would come with the institution.

"We are here to dedicate and not to celebrate," said Mayor G. W. Dabney.

Judge Collings believed that the hospital was a means to "show our appreciation of their (the veterans) sacrifice," and it was incumbent upon the community "to extend our respect to their families who visit, and to serve them in the way all good Americans should serve."

J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, reviewed the city's efforts to secure designation as the site for the hospital to serve the West Texas area. It stood, he said, as a monumental testimony to the cooperative power of the citizenship. Col. Henry F. Hannis, Albuquerque, N. M., in charge of the Corps of Engineers in the district encompassing Big Spring, saw the hospital as proof that teamwork all along the line would accomplish great things.

Others who spoke were Art Kerns, VFW commander; Harold P. Steck, Legion commander; State Rep. R. E. Blount; Fred Young, Lubbock, representing the VA; Sid Lowery, Lubbock, state service officer for the Legion; Robert E. McKee, contractor; Frank H. Gruver, Albuquerque, also representing the engineers; Louis G. Bradley, project engineer; C. V. Head and M. J. Patton, representing the architect, Wyatt C. Hedrick, County Judge W. S. Morrison presided and the Rev. James Parks, former Army chaplain, led the invocation. Mrs. Farquhar had been selected for the honor of turning the first soil in tribute to her and her daughter, Lt. Much Concrete In Driveways

Considerable concrete has gone into the paving of driveways and the parking area for the Veterans Administration hospital here. Records show that a total of 3,219 square yards of concrete was required to surface these areas, and to provide the curbing for them. The main drive swings southward off Gregg and arches in front of the hospital entrance, bending back southward to intersect Park Road. Stemming off of it near Park road is a paved parking area for visitors. Another drive off this main artery swings in back of the hospital for service. Soon after the drive swings off Gregg, it also fans westward to ward the power plant. At the edge of the laundry wing, a drive pulls off to the emergency entrance. The other continues past the power plant to a massive apron which covers the whole of the rear of the hospital area and in front of the shop and garage building. Other drives carry private traffic from Park Road to the manager's quarters, the nurses' quarters, and the two duplexes for key hospital officials.

SUPERVISOR OF PROJECT

Louie G. Bradley Was Picked To Prepare VA Hospital Site

Probably the man who knows more about the Veterans Administration hospital project here than any other person is Louie G. Bradley, Kingston, N. M.

A year from the time that the President had signed a bill appropriating funds for the hospital, Bradley was assigned by the U. S. Corps of Engineers to make two reports at Big Spring.

These had to do with progress of efforts to prepare the site for government action, and on water. Between the time the appropriation for the hospital was signed and the announcement made, rivals had raised a question about the city's ability to supply water.

Days before the announcement, however, record July rains filled previously dry city lakes.

Bradley was kept jumping between Big Spring, Albuquerque, N. M., headquarters for this district of the engineers, and Washington, D. C. By November of 1947, however, he had been instructed to come to Big Spring during the time that contractors would be seeking plans and information. The site was officially transferred in December of that year.

At that time, he had no idea who would be named by the corps of engineers to supervise the construction of the job. He got the answer on Jan. 28, 1948. The corps had decided he was the man to oversee the big project which now had grown almost to six million dollar proportions.

Bradley settled down, becoming a fixed part of the community. He and Mrs. Bradley bought a home and stepped right into community activities. The engineer was a member of the Kiwanis and the Toastmasters clubs, and Mrs. Bradley was similarly busy.

Eighteen months would be required to do the job, according to original estimates. However, by the forepart of 1949, it became apparent that this schedule was too optimistic although the job had consistently been ahead of the timetable. The date was shoved back to November, then January of 1950, and then to March. However, by December of 1949 the work was sufficiently far advanced that the corps reassigned Bradley to jobs at El Paso and White Sands, N. M. He still was charged with overseeing the Big Spring work.

Frank Wilson, who had been his good right hand man, took over in his absence and Bradley came back periodically to check on progress. In April, Bradley returned to conclude his records and to officially sign the transfer to Dr. L. B. Andrew, who had been named hospital manager by VA.

LOUIE G. BRADLEY

The project engineer is a native Texan, having been born at Myra, near Gainesville. He completed high school and junior college at Gainesville. In the summer between the ninth and 10th grade in high school, he worked for the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad, beginning what eventually aggregated 13 years in railroad work.

This experience determined him on an engineering career. He went to Chicago, working part time to earn his way, and in 1926 received his degree in mechanical engineering from the Chicago Technical College.

He returned to railroading as an engineer, serving in that capacity until 1932. At that time, he got into other fields, including private practice, service with the Texas highway department, and for a time as an area engineer assigned to the Works Progress Administration. Back he went to railroad engineering, being assigned to Amarillo in 1938.

Demand for experienced engineers was critical after outbreak of World War II. So Bradley went to work for the corps of engineers. He had charge of construction of army projects at Lubbock and Hobbs, N. M., and then was sent to Clovis, N. M. In 1943 he was called to the district office in Albuquerque, N. M., and in April 1944 was sent to El Paso. By November he was recalled to Albuquerque, where he was stationed when assigned to the Big Spring job.

It was almost with reluctance, he confessed, that he and Mrs. Bradley "pulled stakes" at Big Spring. However, they have found a happy experience at Kingston, an historic and ghost mining town. Mrs. Bradley became postmaster for the settlement, and on weekends and when time will permit, Bradley hurries back to the mountain retreat, less than 50 miles from his work.

NO MICROBES HERE—The big steam instrument sterilizer, right, is used to sterilize surgical instruments at the Veterans Administration hospital. The other machine is a drier. In addition to these sanitation measures, all operating rooms are equipped with indirect ultra violet light for sterilization of air, assuring germ-free conditions for all surgery. (Culver Photo.)

RADIOLOGY CHIEF — Dr. Saul Sapsin is chief of the radiology department at the new Veterans Administration hospital. Dr. Sapsin is a graduate of the College of Alabama and did post graduate work at St. Joseph's in Far Rockaway, N. Y. Later he was associated with Queen's General Hospital and St. Joseph's hospital in New York and received his radiological training at poly-clinic at the University of Texas Medical college. He was associated with the VA hospital in New Orleans as a radiologist for two years, served in the U. S. Army from 1942 to 1946 and is married. (Culver Photo.)

Manager's Residence One Of Outstanding Hospital Buildings

Imposing, yet not ostentatious, and roomy, yet well arranged, the manager's residence is one of the attractive points of the Veterans Administration hospital layout here. Downstairs it has a utility room, kitchen, breakfast room, dining room, and living room. In addition to a screened porch and quarters (with bath) for the maid. The second floor contains four bedrooms and two baths. Copious closet space is provided throughout the house. Like other buildings on the grounds, heat is supplied from the main power plant. A separate auxiliary structure to this building is a two-car garage.

(A fable for trusting youths)

Once upon a time, there was a Young Man named "Henry." He was the Sole Surviving Nephew of his Rich Old Uncle, a Tycoon named "Uncle Mack." And Henry, my children, really Threw It Around.

Henry worked with a Pal named "Pete." Now, Pete worked very hard, while Henry Took It In Stride. "What can I lose?" he said, when Pete urged him to Put Away a Bit. "The Unk is Loaded. I am next of kin. When he goes, I will be Riding High!"

"But," objected Pete, "you can't tell For Sure. He may go down the chute and leave All Those Rocks to Charity." Henry laughed fit to bust. "I tell you, Pal, I CAN'T LOSE!"

"Look," pleaded Pete. "You are Making Good Money now. You want to Be Independent later on. Join me in the Payroll Savings Plan now!" "Gather Ye Roses while Ye May!" hummed Henry.

Pete begged. "The Payroll Savings Plan is the finest way ever invented to Save Money! Through it, you save—week in, week out—a little of what you earn. And in 10 years you get back $4 for every $3 you put away! What do You Say, Pal?"

Henry chuckled. "That's a little too slow for Yours Truly. I'm getting it all in One Bundle when The Unk passes to His Reward."

"Very well, Hank," sighed Pete. "I Hope It Works. But I'd feel better if you'd join us on the Payroll Savings Plan."

THE YEARS ROLLED BY. The Rich Old Uncle finally did Pass On. But when the Will was read Henry got the Shock of His Early Middle-aged life. For The Unk Had married His Nurse and left—the words read—"Everything to My Loving Wife."

MORAL: Save while you go! Rich Old Uncles Are Notoriously Undependable.

Automatic saving is sure saving—U.S. Savings Bonds

POPULAR SPOT—At noon and other breaks during the days, the canteen is a mighty popular spot at the Veterans Administration hospital. Here soft drinks, plate lunches, sandwiches, pie, etc., are served to staffers and patients alike. Not shown, but equally a part, is the portion of the canteen devoted to merchandising of small notions and miscellaneous items. (Culver Photo).

Registrar's Set-Up Makes It Easy To Enter Hospital

Ex-servicemen and women needn't be awed by the immensity and beauty of the Veterans Administration hospital here.

It is open to all who can qualify as eligible (those with other than dishonorable discharges) veterans. Admission is not at all difficult or complex.

Frequently, entering the hospital is just as near as the telephone or the mail box and in many cases the unannounced veteran finds that he is on his way to treatment in just a jiffy.

In a majority of cases, however, the veteran arrives after he or his doctor have had previous telephone or mail communication with the hospital. For those far removed this is considered the better policy, especially as the patient load becomes larger.

The unannounced applicant is referred to the medical receptionist who takes the application. Then the registrar's force, headed by Gladstone McFriedies, sees that the patient is taken to the admission doctor. This officer makes an examination to determine if the case needs hospitalization, if it is an emergency, or what type of treatment it may require.

As soon as this report is complete, the applicant goes back to the receptionist who completes the papers. Then the patient is assigned to his ward or room. An attendant takes him or her to the room where clothes are changed for pajamas and robe. Clothing and personal belongings are stored safely pending the patient's discharge.

Where an application has been mailed in ahead of time, the applicant goes directly to the administration officer and then the admission clerk.

In an emergency case arrives, it is given prompt attention. The patient is taken immediately to ward or room and details are worked out later.

Two sets of records are kept. One is maintained in the registrar's file room so that any information about the patient location, service record, etc. may be readily available. The medical case record goes directly to the ward in which he or she is located. It stays there, at the disposal of the doctor or doctor in charge, just as long as the patient is in the hospital. When he or she leaves, the two records are then filed as companion ones.

Determination of case-history involves complete x-ray examination, laboratory research and other technical procedure, if deemed necessary. The result is a complete history of the patient from the first symptom of his ailment and subsequent treatment to the moment he enters the VA hospital.

Nine Required To Run Powerhouse

A total of nine men are in the regular employe of the Veterans Administration hospital here to see that the power and boiler rooms of the institution are kept operating 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Only two of the men are on duty at one time, however.

VA Carried On Biggest Job Of Human Relations

The Veterans Administration carries on the biggest job of human relations in the world.

This fact is evidenced by the Administrator's annual report for the fiscal year 1949, which shows that VA employs conducted approximately 15,500,000 personal interviews that year with veterans, their dependants, or beneficiaries.

Topic for most of the interviews involved benefits administered by VA under laws enacted by Congress. Included are one of the country's largest mutual life insurance operations, the greatest mass education and job-training program in the history of the nation, disability and death claims, GI bill of rights loans for homes and business, automobiles for amputees, paraplegic homes for seriously disabled veterans and other related items.

Many such interviews have been conducted here in Big Spring at the Veterans Administration contact office. The contact office was located in the Petroleum building for over four and a half years, but now has been moved to the new Veterans Administration hospital. Ray Boren is the VA contact representative here.

CHIEF NURSE — Bessie L. Love, formerly associated with Veterans Administration hospital in McKinney and Amarillo, is the chief of nursing service at the new Big Spring VA hospital. A native of Iowa, she studied at Washington County Hospital, Washington, Iowa, Denver University and Colorado State Teachers college, Greeley, Colo. She served in the Army Nurse Corps from 1943 to 1946. (Culver Photo)

Dual System Uses Municipal Water

Water used by the Veterans Administration hospital is, of course, supplied by the City of Big Spring.

Water pressure for the institution is built up in the huge water tank to the north and west of the hospital grounds. In the case of water used for irrigation, pumps pull it directly from the mains.

TWX Machine Contacts Other Vet Hospitals

Every Veterans Administration hospital within the country is within finger-tip reach of the VA hospital here.

This is made possible through the TWX machine.

Essentially it is a teletype machine which is plugged into a nation-wide circuit among the VA installations.

Most of the communication is done through a system of messages.

However, on occasions matters do arise which call for conversations over the machine.

When the hospital here needs to contact another, the circuit breaker is punched at a moment when the machine is idling or a message has been concluded. Then, as the circuit clears to the point of destination, the operator types out the message.

Instantly it is typed out at the point of destination.

At each place, a roll of paper feeds to provide a record of all messages and conversations typed over it.

Because need for communication with other hospitals or the area office in St. Louis or the national office in Washington D. C. arises frequently, the TWX machine actually represents a great saving in time and expense to the VA.

What Does This Word Mean?

"ACTIVATED"

In The Case of Gasoline:

It means that Shell scientists take the finest available crude—activate the molecules by splitting them and rearranging the atoms according to the Shell formula for a perfectly balanced gasoline.

In the Case of the VA Hospital:

It means that the contractors and suppliers have completed their job and have turned this hospital building over to the Veterans Administration for admission of the patients these modern facilities will serve.

Something Big . . . that's what Big Spring now has in the new Veterans Administration Hospital. It wasn't so long ago that we too, had something big — ACTIVATED Shell Premium Gasoline. The community took to it just like they are taking to the VA Hospital . . . they liked it and told us so. Better than that, they kept returning to Shell stations for refill after refill. They also told us that they liked the performance of our X-100 Motor Oil that was introduced about the same time. Yes, when you've got something good you can be sure that people will take to it. They've done just that when it comes to Activated Shell Premium and X-100 Motor Oil.

This Word Means Just One Thing!

By Design

The worthwhile things are seldom by accident; almost always by design. This great Veterans Administration hospital in Big Spring is the product of a dream, faith and initiative. Today it is serving as a blessing to this part of the great Southwest. Thus, it has properly taken its place as one of the outstanding institutions of our area.

The extreme high quality which characterizes our breeding herd today is the product of a dream.

The late I. B. (Doc) Cauble had a vision of developing a herd of line bred Herefords with the best qualities of many herds. He had faith in that dream and worked unceasingly at it.

Thus, the quality of the herd today represents the process of successful improvement since the forming of this Anxiety Hereford Cauble-bred Registered herd.

All of these fine cattle will be sold here at auction on Dec. 1, 1950 at the West Texas Livestock Auction company plant.

THE CHAPEL—Place of meditation and of quiet withdrawal at the Veterans Administration hospital is the chapel. Here ambulatory patients and staff members may come for worship services. Nine pews are arranged on either side. The altar is arranged so that it may be used for Jewish, Catholic or Protestant services. (Culver Photo).

Nursing Service Looks After Personal Comfort, Well-Being Of The Patients

Looking after the personal comfort and well being of patients in the Veterans hospital is the responsibility of the institution's Nursing Service.

A force of 117 nurses, hospital aids, and housekeepers handles this service, maintaining round-the-clock watches over wards, operating rooms, and medical supply facilities.

Beulah L. Love, Nursing Service chief, supervises the work of the housekeeping force as well as some 54 nurses and a staff of aides. She is assisted by supervisors assigned to medical and surgical departments, operating room, and central supply offices.

A head nurse on each floor is in charge of various wards. A chief housekeeper is in charge of the maids and the 50 hospital aides are responsible to the nurse in charge of each ward.

Work of the Nursing Service is expedited by the arrangement of nurses' stations with one located in the proximity of each ward. Each station has its medical cabinet, assuring a ready supply of drugs and medicines as needed.

In addition, each station is equipped with its own light and buzzer system to provide prompt service to any room or ward in its area.

Each bed has its own signal control, and a push of the button by a patient lights up the room and bed number on a central call panel in the nurses' station. Fast direct nursing service is assured to any point.

Nurses, aides, and housekeepers work on three shifts. The day shift starts at 8 a. m. and continues through 4:30 p. m. The evening force works from 3:30 p. m. and the night shift is on duty from midnight to 8 a. m.

The central supply room, located on the first floor of the hospital, is operated by members of the nursing service. In it are located all medical and nursing supplies for the entire hospital.

Dumb waiters provide service directly from the supply room to any floor of the hospital. The central supply is equipped with a battery of autoclave sterilizers for thoroughly sterilizing all supplies, from bandages to special solutions for feeding patients. Steam operated, the autoclaves raise the temperature of all supplies to approximately 240 degrees, considerably above the boiling point.

After sterilization, they are stored in steel cabinets until needed. Each item is dated, and if not used in a specified length of time, is re-sterilized for further storage.

As chief of Nursing Service, Miss Love assumed duties at the Big Spring hospital with a background of service in two other VA hospitals, the Army during World War II, and in private hospitals.

She received student nurses training in Iowa, and attended the University of Denver and Colorado State College of Education, at Greeley, Colo. She worked at the Wichita Falls general hospital from 1935 until she entered the Army as a nurse during World War II.

As a captain in the Army, Miss Love served at Camp Howze, Tex., and in the European theatre of operations. Following the war, she was on the staff of the VA hospital at McKinney and was acting nurses' chief at the Amarillo VA hospital prior to coming to Big Spring.

We Urge You To Attend The Formal Opening OF THE Veterans Administration Hospital Sunday, Sept. 10 at 2 P.M.

Today marks another "red letter" day in Big Spring's history. The completion and formal opening of the VA hospital is indeed another step forward for our city and this entire area. We also offer our best wishes to the VA, the staff and personnel of this fine new medical plant.

WELCOME

Staff, Personnel, And Visitors

Big Spring VA Hospital

As one of Big Spring's oldest business institutions, we are happy to welcome the staff, personnel and patients to the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital. We are indeed proud of this outstanding new VA medical plant, and proud that Big Spring was selected as the site. We pledge our efforts to co-operate with the VA, and those veterans who will be treated here. We salute both.

Main Building In Reality Is Five Distinct Units

The main building of the Veterans Administration hospital in Big Spring is not one building.

It is, in reality, five separate buildings, each identically constructed so that they merge into one massive plant.

The five separate units are joined by four expansion joints two inches wide. These joints extend from the bottom of the footings to the top of the building.

Copper plate on the outerwall protects and covers the joint. Inside stainless steel plates cover the joints. Where necessary, there are special door jamb slides.

This extra precaution was taken to prevent possibility of cracking and buckling due to heat or cold. After all, the building has a total length of more than 677 feet, which is about the equivalent of two and a half local city blocks.

GREENE FIRST TO SUGGEST

Comparatively Little Time Between Bid And Selection

It was exactly 10 months from the time Big Spring civic leaders decided to put in a bid for the Veterans hospital 'til the VA announced that the institution would be located here.

J. H. Greene, manager of the local chamber of commerce, was the first to suggest in an official capacity that Big Spring submit an application for the 250-bed hospital. On Oct. 9, 1944, he recommended to the chamber's board of directors that they team with city and county officials and local veterans' organizations in asking the VA to locate the hospital in Big Spring.

The chamber of commerce directorate approved Greene's recommendation and, 10 days later, an application was filed with the VA. Marvin Miller, vice president of the Codden Petroleum corp., made the first personal contact with VA officials in connection with the application.

On Nov. 13, while in Washington on a business trip, Miller talked with Gen. Frank T. Hines, then administrator of the VA, and presented a brief which had been prepared by the chamber of commerce.

Greene did much of the ball-carrying in the months that ensued. He made at least four trips to Washington in support of Big Spring's application for the hospital.

On one of these he was accompanied by R. T. Piner and B. J. McDaniel, city manager at that time.

After other cities in the 19th Congressional district had been eliminated from the running for the hospital, Greene worked closely with Congressman George Mahon in the campaign for locating the hospital in Big Spring.

It was on July 9, 1945, just 10 months from the time Greene had first mentioned the possibility of securing the institution, that Rep. Mahon was able to announce that the VA had decided in favor of establishing the hospital here.

It's Not Too Hard To Find A Person At The Hospital

Locating a certain person within the confines of the 236,000 square feet of floor space in the eight story Veterans Administration hospital is not so difficult.

In the case of patients, records show to what floor, nursing station and ward the individual is assigned.

For staff members, administrative officials and workers, a simple phone call to their office may result in immediate contact.

But a unique signal system goes into action to locate those who may be out of their office and at some other place in the building where they may not be reached immediately.

At the switchboard in the main lobby, the operator punches a code number.

Located at strategic points over the main floors of the hospital, the signals go into action.

First a soft bell sounds to gain attention. Then lights flash, setting up the code numbers.

If the individual who is wanted sees his or her code a call is put into the switchboard at once to inquire about the call.

The signal system disturbs no one, yet it covers the entire main building effectively.

Music Room A Feature Of Hospital

Men and women who come to the Veterans Administration hospital here needn't get lonesome for their old "git-tar," fiddle or trumpet.

Chances are, if they play any of the better known instruments, the VA hospital has one in stock in the music room just awaiting their use.

The music room on the second floor is sound proofed so that participants may punish an instrument as long and loudly as they desire. No one else can hear it.

There will be a piano, and the room is large enough for small recitals, for rehearsals, etc. If enough variety is provided at any time, a home-made orchestra could be worked up. The entire music room is provided for patient enjoyment and relaxation.

In addition, however, the room serves as a conference space for volunteer workers when it is needed for this purpose occasionally.

Close Kin May Be Nearby If Patient Is Critically Ill

Closest of kin may be nearby at the Veterans Hospital if a patient should be in a critical condition.

The VA has seen to it that the family is relieved of the worry of being away from the hospital at a time of grave import. Three rooms have been provided for families of men or women who might be in such dangerous condition.

These are equipped with showers and bath tubs, and have twin beds. The appointments are sparkling and the layout is just as excellent, if not more so than the best of hotels. They are available only in cases of emergency.

Working Force Numbers 235

Working force at the Veterans Administration hospital will closely parallel that required to construct it.

Peak working force during construction ranged from 250 to 300 persons.

Today, two months after its activation, 135 of the 250 beds are open. The working force numbers 235. By the end of the year practically all the beds will be open, and the staff and complete working force is expected to number about 300.

The professional staff is comprised of 16 doctors and 28 nurses.

Veterans ... We Salute YOU From Our Heart

BIG SPRING

A Picture Story Of Building's Progress

UPPER LEFT — Rep. George Mason, second from right, stands at the front of the Veterans Administration hospital, an institution which he aided in bringing to West Texas—and to Big Spring after its location lay between this city and another outside the 19th district. It was his first and only chance to view the structure since it approached completion. Greeting him on his visit last December at the hospital were Paul Craal, chief engineer; Frank E. Wilson, corps of engineers; Ira L. Thurman, then chamber of commerce vice-president; Douglas Orme, then chamber president; and J. H. Greene, right, chamber manager.

SECOND FROM TOP LEFT — Within two months after ground had been broken on the project here on Jan. 30, 1948, great holes appeared and masses of framework were rising as the project began to "come out of the ground."

THIRD FROM TOP LEFT — What seemed like organized confusion suddenly began to make sense to sidewalk observers as frame was poured on the laundry and north end of the first floor, giving the hospital a "building appearance."

tember of 1948. Here the job was in various stages with frame poured on as many as five floors on the north end and still coming up out of the 24-foot holes in the ground on the south end.

UPPER RIGHT — Methodically, the outlines of the giant main building began to take shape. Masonry had been started and mid-winter of 1948-49 found the job where workers could shift to the walkid area on the north, on cold days or back to pouring beams in warmer ones. By now more than 250 were at work.

SECOND FROM TOP RIGHT — The final shape was being manifested in the spring of 1949. Practically all the frame had been poured except the last part on the seventh and eighth floors in the center section. Masonry was being speeded.

THIRD FROM TOP LEFT — by October 1949, practically all the shell of tile and white brick was on the building and auxiliary structures such as the power house and shops building on the left and nurses quarters on the right blossomed. This back-side view was used as model for a commemorative plate issued during the city's centennial celebration that same month. Six months of finish work lay ahead.

BOTTOM SECOND FROM RIGHT — With the exception of some minor details, the big project was complete. Accordingly, on May 1, 1950, Louie Bradley, left, project engineer, signed the hospital over to the Veterans Administration, represented by Dr. L. B. Andrews, who had been named manager.

BOTTOM RIGHT — Then on July 17, 1950, the first patient, James A. Waters, ex-Marine who weathered South Pacific campaigns without a scratch only to be accidentally shot in Hawaii, was received by Dr. Andrews as the hospital's first patient. It all had been done in two and a half years.

DENTAL SURGERY—Three rooms of the third floor dental clinic are equipped for examinations, prosthesis, and all types of oral surgery. The room above is used for emergency surgery such as facial fractures. (Culver Photo).

Pumps And Safeguards Mark Operation Of Powerhouse

Powerhouse of the Veterans Administration hospital is a welter of boilers, pumps and automatic safety devices. Heart of the plant is the trio of 200-horsepower water tube boilers. They are gas fed, fully automatic, with an oil supply as a standby should there ever be a failure of regular fuel. Flow of gas into the fire boxes is controlled automatically by the amount of steam and pressure. Should the gas go off, even for just a second, the entire system is cut out. It must be started manually. This is to prevent any accumulation of gas which might prove explosive.

Whistles Interpreted Favorably In Israel; Means An "Encore"

JERUSALEM. — What's in a whistle?—Jan Peerce, the Metropolitan Opera tenor, asked himself when he heard a shrill one at the end of his first concert in Israel. "Listen, my friends," Peerce addressed the audience—"when that happened to me in Bogota and then in Los Angeles, a few weeks ago, I knew people wanted to express their appreciation. To Europe, I haven't been yet, but I was told it's not so good if people whistle. Now what does it mean in Israel?" "It means tow meed — meuyan!" they shouted back. He got the Hebrew words translated. Tow meed means "very good". Meuyan is "excellent". So he gave another "encore".

Voice Of Locomotive No. 29 Is Changed

CHICAGO. — The voice of Santa Fe locomotive No. 29 has changed. The switch was made on the diesel locomotive in an experiment. The railroad explains it this way: "In the congested eastern areas of the country, some complaints have been lodged that the regular diesel horn horn is too harsh and starting. The new voice is a five-chime Nathan whistle which is basically a musical instrument. When in use, the simultaneous sounding of the various single tones produces a musical chord of chime effect."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Intelligence Reports Tell A Story Of Lowered US Prestige

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — Unpublished intelligence reports reaching Washington from various parts of the world tell a depressing story of lowered American military prestige as a result of Korea. Confidential reports from friendly British sources bear this out. The British embassies in London, Paris and Moscow, for instance, report that in case of war with Russia those countries probably would not fight. Our own embassies substantiate this. Even the published reports tell a story that is bad enough. From Paris the Associated Press reports: "The crisis in Korea has brought the American position to France to a low point. . . . There has been a wave of dismay at American reverses. . . . It is staggering to hear Frenchmen talk about capitulation to Russia."

And in Germany, where most Americans have blithely figured we could raise a German army to support us come the opposite note from our best friend, Chancellor Adenauer, who says that Germans need American troops to support them, rather than German troops to support the U.S.A. "Until now," says the Chancellor, "Germany maintained its spirit against the spread of communism by faith in the American armed forces. But events in Korea have had a noticeable effect, and there is a sense of helplessness that the Russians will take over."

"American troops of Germany, therefore, should be increased by three more divisions. In three months, with a total of 10 divisions later."

MILITARY MISTAKES

Precedent in the War and Navy Departments has been against prying into military mistakes. After previous wars, the files dealing with military blunders have been locked up. A dozen or so high-ranking U. S. generals were "busted" in the European theatre during World War II, but only fragmentary facts concerning the boners ever leaked out. And in the Pacific, MacArthur exercised even tighter censorship regarding certain errors including his own still unexplained error in letting all his planes get destroyed at Clark Field shortly after Pearl Harbor. In the Korean crisis, however, congressional sentiment is growing for a forthright examination of our military errors and woeful lack of preparedness. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, himself a naval commander in the Pacific, has been tentatively picked as the committee chairman to do the probing, and these are some of the things he will be asked to examine.

LACK OF TROOP TRAINING

MacArthur had the biggest resentment of American troops under him in Japan. They were on a war footing, with plenty of time for maneuvers. Yet all reports from the battle front indicate that his troops were softer, greener, less prepared than troops trained in the U.S.A.

BAZOOKAS—It was known at the end of War II that Russian tanks were powerfully armed. It was also known that our 4 inch bazookas were inadequate. Yet we sent men into battle with these same almost useless bazookas. This was sheer murder. The military had five years to prepare a new type of Bazooka, but nine were on deck in Japan when the Korean war broke. It is reported that heavy orders placed for the smaller bazooka and not of the war is part of the answer. These factories just kept countermanded toward the end on making useless bazookas.

TANKS—During most of War II U. S. tanks were inferior to German tanks, while the Russians publicly chided us regarding the lend-lease tanks we sent them. After the war we junked thousands of our own tanks, apparently without making any serious attempt to develop a tank that could meet the Russians. In brief, the Pentagon planners were woefully asleep.

AIR FORCE—MacArthur had the largest chunk of U. S. air power to be found anywhere in the world when the Korean war started. But for many agonizing days at the start, 70 per cent of his planes were kept on the ground. This was not due to bad weather alone, but to the fact that MacArthur feared a Russian air strike at Japan. Many Military men disagreed with him on this, pointing out that planes over Korea required only an hour to get back to defend Japan, and time in the Korean war was priceless.

SLOW TROOP MOVEMENTS

In the first weeks of Korean fighting troops moved from Japan to Korea with tragic slowness. From Japan to Korea is only 120 miles—the distance to Philadelphia from Washington—but at that crucial time when we had more bases in Korea troops moved in dribslets. MacArthur's excuse was that he feared a Russian attack in Japan, though many in Washington argued that Moscow would not risk an atom bomb and a world war by attacking Japan.

TOP OFFICERS—The U. S. Air Force commander in Japan is Gen. George Stratemeyer, who occupied a relatively noncombat berth during the war in the China-India theatre. He is not a skilled tactical commander but, despite this, the Air Force has kept him on in Korea—some explain because he has the knack of getting along with MacArthur. Gen. Walton Walker, MacArthur's ground force commander, though seeing important European service under Patton, is not considered one of the army's top men.

The old jungle commanders who brought MacArthur's troops up from the Southwest Pacific and who are skilled in the current type of Korean fighting are not with him anymore, and at least one of them, Gen. Robert Eichelberger, hero of Buna, has made it quite clear that he would not care to serve under MacArthur again.

Grown-Ups Can Have Fun At Kids' Games

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Grown-ups can have fun playing children's games. That fact has been learned by recreation directors from the city playgrounds. They play the games as part of their weekly meetings.

DENTAL CLINIC HEAD — Dr. Calvin J. Williams is the man who tells the veterans what's the matter with their teeth. Since many conditions will be seriously affected by bad teeth, Dr. Williams holds an exceedingly important post at the new Veterans Administration hospital. He will have a full staff of five or six dentists, technicians and dental assistants.

No One Pitcher Was A "Cousin" To Babe Ruth

NEW YORK. — Babe Ruth's home run total of 60 in 1927 was unusual in many respects. No one pitcher was his favorite pigeon.

The Babe garnered his total at the expense of 32 different hurlers. Babe Walberg of the Athletics and Milton Gaston of the Browns both served him four home run pitches.

Seven pitchers saw Ruth hit their taxes for homers on three occasions. They were Hollis Thurston, Tom Zachary, Joe Shante, W. B. Harris, Al Thomas, Ken Holloway and Tony Welzer.

The Boston Red Sox pitchers led the gopher ball league as far as Ruth was concerned. He blasted 11 balls out of the park against five Boston pitchers. Though the Athletics finished second to the Yankees, four A's hurlers were the victims of nine Ruthian wallops.

Wounded By Lamp

CHICAGO. — A bus rammed a lamp post of South Park Ave. The post smashed through the living room window of a home and struck Mrs. Ina Brown. She was injured slightly.

LACK STORAGE SPACE

Dump 6,100,000 Bushels Of Wheat

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 10. (AP)— There's no place to store it and no place to ship it so farmers in this rich wheat-producing area have had to dump more than 6,100,000 bushels out on the ground.

They have had to dump wheat before but never in piles like the ones that dot the inland empire of eastern Washington, eastern Oregon and northern Idaho. The biggest before was 5 million bushels in 1946.

It sits out in the wind, the sun and the rain. It might even be there when it snows. It sits alongside warehouses already bulging with wheat. Unless a prolonged wet weather sets in, much of it can be salvaged.

The Pacific Northwest Grain Dealers' Assn. got out a report on the situation yesterday and took a dim view.

The harvest in the three-state area is estimated at 107 million bushels, a 12 per cent increase over last year. That goes in with 32 million bushels carried over from 1949.

"We now have 130 million bushels of wheat in the area," said Peter Stalco, managing secretary of the association. "The most wheat that the Pacific Northwest can use for feed, seed and human consumption during the next 12 months is 35 million bushels."

"The Commodity Credit Corp. has promised to move 10 million bushels before the end of the year. It's beginning to look like we'll have to move 70 million bushels out of the Pacific Northwest between Jan. 1 and the harvest next year to be in as good position as we were this year. Frankly I don't think we can do it," Stalco said.

India's Leaders Concerned Over So Few Young Prospects

NEW DELHI, India. — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has expressed concern over the dearth of young leaders in congress party ranks. Most of the prominent men now are over 60 and some over 70. Members of parliament, composed mostly of congressmen, shared this anxiety and suggested junior ministers of state and deputy ministers be recruited and trained for future leadership. Nehru replied that some steps should be taken in the near future but did not favour the suggestion that ministers be appointed on a mass scale.

Indian Governor Wants Razor Blade Prices To Come Down

LUKNOW, India. — The governor of Uttar Pradesh state threatens to start a "grow more beard" campaign if the razor blade prices do not come down. Addressing a traders' conference here recently, Governor Sir Homi Mody warned the businessmen that he himself would go from door to door urging men to grow beards until profiteering on razor blades was stopped.

Overdose Of Drugs During Childbirth Can Be Serious

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 10 — Suggestive evidence was offered today that certain nervous disorders and mental retardation in children may sometimes stem from overdoses of drugs given their mothers in childbirth. Dr. R. F. Becker of Philadelphia reported on experiments with guinea pigs. He said the studies demonstrated that lack of oxygen to an infant during the birth process "Can result in serious injury to the infant's nervous system and change the course of the normal pattern of development in later life."

(lack of oxygen) of the newborn. And he told how asphyxiation was produced experimentally in guinea pigs just before birth. In their case, however, the condition was produced by mechanically interfering with their oxygen supply from the mother. Drugs were not used for the purpose. The idea was to see if behavioral changes — nervous disorders — would develop later in the animals as a result of the oxygen lack at birth. Such changes were noted and also damage to the nerve cells of the brain. Pointing out that the animals were asphyxiated mechanically, and not through the administration of obstetrical drugs to their mothers, the doctor told the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association at the Pennsylvania State College. "It (the experiment) has not proved at all that obstetrical anesthetics and drugs are responsible for the behavioral changes that were observed in these animals. "But it stands to reason that any factor which will induce an asphyxial state and delay breathing at birth will produce similar effects in the newborn."

Traffic Ticket Resulted In A Marriage

DALLAS, Sept. 9. (AP) — When Miss Dean Williams, a pretty, 25-year-old office worker, made an illegal left turn in her car, a cop nabbed her permanently. Involved was a $1 fine, a cup of coffee and a practical joking lawyer. Sparks flew during the curbside meeting between Miss Williams and Officer Homer MacNamee, 32, two months ago. She got a ticket anyway. She turned it over to a lawyer in the office where she works, but she paid a $1 fine. The attorney as a practical joke arranged a meeting between Miss Williams and MacNamee. The officer was in civilian clothes. He invited the young woman for a cup of coffee. She accepted. "I didn't recognize him at first, but then all of a sudden it struck me that he was that darn cop," she said today. But a dinner date followed. Love blossomed. They were married last Monday in the home of the practical joking attorney. "Now every morning before he goes to work," Mrs. MacNamee said, "I tell him to think twice before he gives another woman a ticket."

He pointed out that it is already known that overdosing of drugs given to an expectant mother to make her delivery comfortable is a prominent cause of asphyxiation. Dr. Becker, of Jefferson Medical College, said there are a number of causes which result in asphyxiation of the newborn at birth. "One of the most prominent, in recent years," he declared, "has been the over-dosing of the expectant mother with some of the common drugs and anesthetics used to make her delivery comfortable."

GENERAL CARL R. GRAY, JR.

35 YEARS AS AN EXECUTIVE

Gen. Gray Left Railroad Post To Assume VA Position

An extraordinary talent for administration has brought Gen. Carl Raymond Gray, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, to one of the most responsible positions in the government today.

After a leave of absence from May, 1942, to June, 1946, for military service in World War II, Gray returned to the Chicago and North Western as vice-president, with headquarters in Chicago.

He served 34 months overseas. From Feb. 9, 1943, to Feb. 11, 1945, he was director general, military railway service, in North Africa, Italy and southern France.

Here Are Some Statistics On The New VA Hospital

How big is the Veterans Administration hospital? For the statistical minded, here are a few figures on the size of the hospital had some of its facilities:

POWER - Two 200-horse power boilers, gas operated with stand-by oil supply. Chimney towers for 110 feet.

Jubilant City Greeted News Of Hospital

Jubilance prevailed in Big Spring on July 9, 1945. That was the date when local citizens first heard that their city had definitely been selected as site for a new 250-bed hospital to be constructed for the Veterans Administration.

It was the result of loyalty of members who had foresight to see benefits to the community and the opportunity to serve veterans," Greene said of the campaign.

"It can be a big help to Big Spring and should be a wonderful thing," said Edith Hatchett.

"This will give the people an opportunity to do something worthwhile," observed Clarinda Mary Sanders (now Mrs. T. A. Harris) wife of the local National Guard unit commander.

One of the most attractive rooms in the entire Veterans Administration hospital—a building noted for its rare beauty and sparkling finish throughout—is the game room.

Sidelights Tips On Construction

Here are some construction sidelights concerning the Veterans Administration hospital here. Corridors have the wainscoting. Floors are all on concrete, some terrazzo, some ceramic and quarried tile, and most of them with approximately quarter-inch asphalt tile.

NERVE CENTER - Here is a small part of the communication nerve center in the Veterans Hospital. Hundreds of miles of line course through the building. All offices are provided with telephone service, and mobile service is available to every bed.

DR. LLOYD B. ANDREW

MANAGER OF VA HOSPITAL

Dr. Andrew's Curiosity About Nature Led Him To Medicine

Dr. Lloyd B. Andrew, manager of the Veterans Administration hospital here, was cut out to be a physician from the very start. As a barefoot boy in Table Rock, Nebraska, where he was born on Sept. 7, 1896, Dr. Andrew had an insatiable curiosity about living creatures.

With some time out for naval service in World War I, her performed his internship at Philadelphia General hospital, completing the service in January 1921. He did his residency in urology at Long Island college hospital in the following year.

ed in this capacity from January 1947 until January of 1950 when he came to Big Spring to assume management of the new VA hospital.

Hospital Cost $5,640,536 --A City Building Record

When Big Spring decided to put its name in the pot as a possible site for a new Veterans Administration hospital back in 1944, local citizens knew they were seeking the largest construction project in the city's history, but they probably had no idea that the VA installation would prove to be as large as it actually is.

But a lot can happen in two and a half years, and it did happen in the construction industry here between July 9, 1945 and Jan. 8, 1948, when the contract for the hospital was awarded.

VA Hospital Not Air-Conditioned But Just As Cool

While huge fans whip up enough air to supply a small sale each minute the Veterans Administration hospital here is actually not "air conditioned."

EXCELLENT CARE FOR ALL VET PATIENTS

Over 13,000 Nurses, 28,000 Attendants Serve Hospitals

SURGICAL CHIEF — Chief of surgical service at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital is Dr. Evert Fausel, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Fausel holds the bachelor of science and the Doctor of Medicine degrees from New York University, and has previous service with the VA at Dayton, O., and at Chillicothe, Ohio. He is married and he and Mrs. Fausel have two children, Frances, 21, and Angela, 13. (Culver Photo.)

Over 13,000 nurses and 28,500 attendants, or nurses aides, who are part of the Nursing Service, are employed in Veterans Administration hospitals throughout the United States.

Chief objective of the Nursing Service is to give excellent nursing care to every veteran patient. Therefore, most of the VA nurses are in the profession because they derive personal satisfaction when they are able to make patients comfortable and decrease suffering.

And in VA hospitals, nurses who prefer bedside nursing, do not sacrifice their chances for promotions and salary increases, because they choose to serve at the patient's bedside.

VA Director of Nursing Service, Miss Dorothy V. Wheeler says, "Of course, we need good head nurses, good supervisors, good chiefs of nursing service. But we never want to convert a good bedside nurse into an unhappy head nurse because that's the only way for her to advance. We want the nurse who wishes to give bedside care to patients to continue doing so, if a nurse has had progressive experience, and extra study for after graduation from a school of nursing, we give her a higher grade, even though she prefers to keep the assignment of bedside nursing."

The head of the VA Nursing Service in a hospital has the title of chief, Nursing Service. Sometimes the title is unofficially shortened to chief nurse. She is aided by an assistant chief and an assistant chief, nursing education.

In many civilian hospitals, and in VA hospitals, graduate nurses keep abreast of scientific and medical discoveries and changes through conferences, classes, symposia, demonstrations, and conferences with other hospital personnel, like dietitians or social service workers.

Nurses are encouraged to take advanced studies at colleges and universities. Some of these studies are in administration—how to run a ward smoothly. Some are in nursing specialties—how to care for patients with broken legs and fractured necks—or how to teach diabetic patients to manage their diet and their insulin. In this atomic age, the fund of knowledge which is demanded of graduate nurses is constantly increasing.

However, the VA does not conduct any schools of nursing. A dozen VA hospitals do have affiliation programs where students from nursing schools may come to a VA hospital for two or three months' experience, usually in tuberculosis or psychiatry.

The Nursing Service is responsible for the training and direction of the hospital attendants or aides. This is on-the-job, for-the-job training. These men and women are taught by graduate nurses certain of the simpler nursing duties, like giving bed baths. Hospital aides work under the direct supervision of a graduate professional nurse.

In the regional office clinics, for example at Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Detroit, VA nurses care for the veteran who is receiving clinic treatment for service-connected ailments.

VA nurses do not give nursing care in the home. Under the VA community nursing program, contracts can be made with existing community nursing agencies to give home care to veterans with service-connected disabilities when a VA physician orders such care. This is an extension of the Home Town Care plan. Veterans whose illness is not service-connected are informed about the services of community nursing agencies, which any member of the community may use for home nursing care, whether full pay, part-pay or free.

Nurses, doctors and dentists in VA were taken out of Civil Service early in 1946 when Public Law 293, creating the VA department of medicine and Surgery became effective.

Under P. L. 293 VA nurses must serve a three year probational period. This gives time to observe each nurse, to be sure she is the kind of nurse which Nursing Service must have to care for the veteran of your family. VA nurses share the same retirement benefits as Civil Service employees, and have a deduction made from each pay check for the Federal Retirement fund. VA hospital aides' attendants on the other hand, are Civil Service employees. Each VA hospital differs in some respects from the others. Some are temporary Army cantonment type. Some are modern brick buildings. Some are old. You in Big Spring are fortunate to have a beautiful new building.

But the kind of nurses you have is much more important than walls and lawns. Each hospital gradually builds its own personality, its special customs. Yet in basic care of patients, certain standards are required nationally. The central office in Washington watches over the patient care in every VA hospital and clinic. From time to time, various professional and lay people will come from Washington to visit the hospital. Among these will be nurses from the Nursing Service central office.

When a new VA hospital is opened, preference is given to nurses already employed in VA who wish to transfer. New nurses apply by having a personal interview with some Nursing Service chief or her designate, and by filling in the official application blank. They must have a thorough medical examination, including a chest X-ray and blood test, within six months of their employment. Nurses must have good health to carry the strenuous duty in wards, often with long halls and miles of walking daily.

Nurses are people. If you invite new VA nurses to your churches, your clubs, your civic organizations, your celebrations and your homes you will help veteran patients by helping to encourage a happy, satisfied group of nurses.

Patients must be cared for 24 hours a day. For this reason, nurses have to rotate through evening duty and night duty. This makes it difficult for a nurse to take a regular community life to enrich her hospital life. In spite of this problem, nurses in various cities have joined choral groups, taken part in plays served on board of community organizations, helped with a first aid course for Boy Scouts or Camp Fire Girls.

Medical staff may use equipment provided in feeding rooms. Food formulas may be made up from liquid concentrates kept in refrigerated vaults.

Everything In Surgery Could Be Motto For Well-Equipped Vet Hospital Here

Everything In Surgery could aptly be the motto for the surgical department of the new Veterans Administration hospital here.

The big hospital boasts of just about everything in the surgical field, from ultra violet radiation for sterilization of air in operating rooms to remotely controlled x-ray equipment for examination of internal organs and skeletal structures. It has a staff of surgeons to go with the modern equipment.

Headed by Dr. Everett Fausel, of Hollis, N. Y., the five-man staff includes a general surgeon and specialists in the fields of genito-urinary, orthopedic, and eye, ear, nose, and throat functions.

The new hospital is equipped with five operating rooms—one for fractures, one of the genito-urinary operations, one for eye, ear, nose and throat surgery, and two for general surgery. Adjacent to these are a battery of recovery rooms so that surgical patients can regain strength with a minimum of movement.

The two major operation rooms, for general surgery, are connected with sterilizing chambers and wash-rooms for surgeons and assistants. Each is equipped with ceiling-high ultra violet radiation lamps so that air is kept free of germs. Big dome-like castle lamps suspended directly above each operating table assures maximum lighting and eliminates shadows entirely. There are two clocks in each room, one to show the length of the operation and the other giving standard time.

Adjacent to the surgery rooms are remote control rooms for operating x-ray equipment which may be suspended above the tables. Developing rooms are next door, providing pictures with a minimum of time and effort.

The modern x-ray equipment is adaptable to studies of fractures, for genito-urinary pictures, and for examinations of eyes, ears, nose and throat. In the fracture room specialists can operate with a special orthopedic and fracture table which is adjustable to a number of special uses and positions.

Located conveniently near to all operating rooms are a number of instrument storage rooms with walls lined with stainless steel and glass cabinets for delicate surgical tools. One special chamber is devoted entirely to the storage and preparation of anesthetics. All sterilizing chambers include steam washing machines and air driers.

For eye examinations, the hospital has a special room equipped with all the usual optometric instruments. It includes devices for measuring the visual field, depth perception, ability to focus, and other eye characteristics.

For the benefit of patients needing special feeding as charges of the surgical department, the surgical staff may use equipment provided in feeding rooms. Food formulas may be made up from liquid concentrates kept in refrigerated vaults.

VA Hospitals In Texas Soon To Number Nine

Formal dedication this month of the Big Spring Veterans hospital and the opening of a similar institution at Marlin, Texas can boast of nine VA hospitals.

Another hospital now under construction at Bonham and a new addition to the hospital at Dallas, now in the planning stage, will round out the VA's present hospital program for Texas.

Locations of the various hospitals, number of beds, and type of service afforded are:

Amarillo, 156, general medical and surgical; Big Spring, 250, general medical and surgical; Dallas, 270, general medical and surgical; Houston, 937, general medical and surgical; Kerrville, 695, tuberculosis; Marlin, 200, general medical and surgical; McKinney, 1,000, general medical and surgical; Temple, 1,000, general medical and surgical. The latter also includes a 350-bed domiciliary establishment.

The Bonham installation, to be completed in January, will provide 50 beds with general medical and surgical service, and 300 beds, domiciliary. The Dallas addition will provide 500 more beds.

Finance Unit Is Compared To A Small Bank

The finance division of the Veterans Administration hospital in Big Spring might be compared to a small bank, and its operation is just about as important to the hospital as a bank is to the community it serves.

As the name suggests, the finance division is concerned primarily with money, and it has the responsibility of making all types of disbursements required in the operation of the hospital.

There are many angles to the finance division's chores, however. For one thing, it handles the hospital payroll and any other expenses incurred by personnel, such as travel vouchers. It also calculates and pays travel allowances to patients of the hospital when required, and any other expenses connected with the hospital.

That of course includes ambulance contracts and other similar obligations.

At the same time the finance division operates a cost accounting department, which enables the administration to keep track of expenses for each phase of the hospital operation.

M. J. Lalonde is chief of the finance division, which employs eight people. In addition to the usual "paper work" the division has a cashier, who handles all cash that comes to the division. Most of the disbursements and receipts, however, involve checks, or vouchers.

SENTINEL—Watching over the Veterans Hospital area like a sentinel is the towering powerhouse chimney. From its hexagonal base, it reaches to a height of 110 feet. Inside of the brick wall is another, completely independent and apart and of firebrick. The symmetrical bars at center are for climbing the chimney, and the line at right is to ground lightning charges. Bolts slammed the top of the chimney several times before rods were installed at the top. The chimney will not be used to exhaust smoke unless and until boilers are shifted to oil in an emergency. FUNCTIONS LISTED

Engineer Section Has Complex Job

The engineering department of the Veterans Administration hospital, though it bears a simple sounding title, is saddled with multiple and complex duties. The hospital itself would suffer an acute and hopeless case of paralysis, were the department's personnel not assigned to keep a 24-hour-a-day watch on the nerve centers of the institution. The engineering department's functions can be listed, in part, as:

Maintenance of all hospital buildings, equipment and grounds; provide adequate utilities for all the hospital, supply janitor service and operate the hospital's automotive service.

In addition, the department provides guard and fire protection for the institution, operates the laundry, keeps the refrigeration and air conditioning systems in operation and provides carpenters, laborers, plumbers, etc., for any kind of minor construction project going on within the hospital grounds.

Five full-time guards, whose job it is to patrol both inside and outside the hospital proper, are on duty and assigned by the engineering department. Each ordinarily works an eight-hour shift.

In all about 50 men are assigned to the engineering department. Their number, of course, includes carpenters, plumbers, laundry workers and automotive maintenance men.

Such minor construction projects as the laying of a sidewalk or the building of a bench can be undertaken here without an OK from higher headquarters. Any major undertaking, of course, must have the approval of VA headquarters in Washington.

Electricians, charged with the responsibility of maintaining the vast electrical power of the hospital, are also on duty within the department.

In event the regular power system of the hospital fails, the institution is equipped with an emergency plant, which can supply power to all parts of the hospital for an indefinite period. The operation of that unit, too, is assigned to the engineering department.

REGISTRAR—Gladstone McFedries, registrar at the new Veterans Administration hospital, is a veteran of both military and VA service. He was in military service from 1927 to 1947, and before coming to Big Spring was associated with the VA center in Biloxi, Miss. McFedries is married and the father of two sons, John, 17, and Richard, 9. (Culver Photo.)

At the head naturally stands the manager, Dr. L. B. Andrew. While in some hospitals, the chief of professional services is directly under the manager, Dr. Andrew happens to fill both positions here. This keeps him in direct contact with the registrar, social service and pharmacy division, as well with the nine medical service divisions.

Charles A. Tosca, Jr., assistant manager, is the right-hand man to the manager, directing most of his attention to plant operation, maintenance, supply, etc. Some of the departments have dual contacts with his office, such as registrar. Others which look to the assistant manager's office in their first line of responsibility are the supply, finance, personnel, special service, and engineering.

Among those directly answerable to the manager are: Mrs. Ada M. Lovett, chief of dietetic service; Dr. Evert Fausel, chief of surgical service;

Bessie Love, chief of nursing service; Clifford W. Atherton, chief of laboratory of pathological service; Dr. Colvin Williams, chief of dental service;

Dr. Chelmer Vinson, medical admission officer;

Dr. Warford B. Johnson, chief of medical service;

Dr. Saul Sapstn, chief of radiological service;

Several branches will work under the direction of Dr. Fausel. These include orothino-laryngology, urology, ophthalmology, general surgery, orthopedics and anesthesiology sections.

The divisions for general medicine, cardiology and dermatology will work under Dr. Johnson. The physical therapy head will be directly under Dr. Andrew, and so will Luther L. Bean, pharmacist.

Gladstone McFedries, registrar, and Toitford H. Durham, social service, will have a dual channel leading to both Dr. Andrew and to Tosca.

Under the assistant manager will be W. W. Butler, supply officer; M. J. LaLonde, chief of the finance section; W. Hayes Bacus, personnel officer; Paul C.

9,000 Doctors At VA Hospitals Throughout Nation

Veterans Administration hospitals throughout the country are staffed by a total of 9,000 doctors, 13,000 nurses, and 1,000 dentists.

This professional team works closely with other skilled professional personnel who serve part-time. Thousands of trained VA specialists are also involved in the operation of medical facilities.

In addition, under the so-called hometown treatment plan, veterans have benefitted from the expert attention given them by some 75,000 private physicians and 50,000 dentists who work closely with the VA in all parts of the nation.

Crall, chief of engineering service; Carlton L. Carr, chief of special service; and Chaplain C. O. Hitt. Scores of others will work under the various section and division heads, ultimately filling out a force of approximately 300 persons required to operate and maintain the giant installation.

VA Maintains Offices In State

The Veterans Administration maintains a number of field offices in Texas in order to handle the various veterans' services.

These are called district and regional offices, centers, and domiciliary. A district office, one of the 13 in the U. S., is located in Dallas. Regional offices are in Lubbock, Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio.

The centers are located at Waco and Temple. The Waco unit is a combination regional office and hospital. Temple is a combination of hospital and domiciliary. Domiciliaries provide a home with medical treatment as needed to veterans who are unable, because of disabilities to care for themselves, but who do not need nursing service, constant medical supervision, or definitive medical attention.

Each regional office has branches in the larger cities within its jurisdiction. These smaller offices provide contact service and serve as sources of information for veterans, their dependents, and beneficiaries.

CHARLES A. TOSCH, JR.

Jumped From Agriculturalist To Hospital Management Post

From agriculturalist to hospital management is quite a jump—but Charles A. Tosch, Jr. managed it rather neatly.

The assistant manager of the Veterans Administration hospital here pointed his training in the direction of a career in agriculture—and more particularly agricultural research.

But circumstances, and largely the war, changed matters. His Texas A. & M. background made him a sure target for a service call. The Army didn't have just that spot, and if it had, no one would have expected such a logical placement.

Anyway, Tosch ended up in the inspector general's department and was assigned to the 5th Army Air Force. After tours of duty at Jefferson Barracks, the basic training section at Greensboro, N. C., Atlantic City, N. J., and East St. Louis, Mo., where he was with the Eastern Technical Training Command, Tosch got his shipping orders. He spent a year overseas.

Back home in 1946, he got to casting about for a place to get back into civilian life. The idea of a spot with the Veterans Administration appealed to him, and he was assigned to the branch office in Dallas.

His next assignment was a brief one in the central office in Washington on April 26, 1943. After graduation from Mesquite high school (just out of Dallas), he attended Texas A. & M. college from 1939-34 and did graduate work in the University of Tennessee where he earned his master's degree. He found a double attraction in the Smoky region—a position with the agricultural experiment station at Knoxville, and more important, a young woman by the name of Ruby W. Smith. They were married in 1937. The union has been blessed with three children, Charles Tosch, III, Barbara Jean Tosch, 8, and James W. Tosch, 3.

CAFETERIA STYLE—The serving counter connects the personnel and staff dining rooms. Coffee and tea urns, as well as the electrically-heated counter containers, keep food and beverages the proper temperature during the cafeteria service. (Culver Photo).

A VALUABLE SERVICE

Social Service Division Aids In Freeing Patients' Worries

An example is the Social Service division, which is an important one because it emphasizes personal service and helps to free the minds of patients from outside worries while they are confined to the hospital. Its existence recognizes the fact that medical and surgical treatments usually are more effective if the patient can concentrate upon recovery, rather than pursue a course of apprehension over personal problems at home or elsewhere.

The Social Service division works with community welfare and social organizations in assisting patients and their families with personal problems. Consequently, Social Service at the new Veterans Administration hospital in Big Spring may be working from time to time with organizations, agencies and individuals in cities and towns throughout the area served by the hospital. Patients at the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital are contacted personally by representatives of the Social Service division, usually within a short time after the patients are admitted to the hospital. At that time patients are advised of the division's functions and all are invited to submit their respective problems, if any.

The general social service program may appear somewhat vague, but its objectives are clear cut, and highly trained personnel are required to social service chief must finish college and complete two years of graduate work.

The Social Service division offices at the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital are located adjacent to the lobby. The division in the hospital here started operation over a month ago. Tolford H. Durham is the chief of Social Service here.

MEDICAL CHIEF—Dr. Warford B. Johnson, chief of medical service, at the new Veterans Administration hospital, is beginning his first service with the VA. Certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, Dr. Johnson previously was a practicing physician in Wichita, Kan., his native state. Dr. Johnson completed his under-graduate work at the Northwestern U., where he received his M. D. degree in 1942. Subsequently he had training in internal medicine at the Henry Ford hospital in Detroit, Mich. (Culver Photo).

EXTENSIVELY EQUIPPED

Internal Medicine Section Can Deal With All Diseases

One of the most extensive departments in the new Veterans Administration hospital is the internal medicine section.

Equipped to deal with all adult diseases which can be treated with medicine, the department is spread over one and a half floors of the massive hospital. More than half of the hospital's bed capacity is devoted to medical cases.

The internal medicine section has 130 beds, mostly in single rooms. There are a few four-bed wards and three 16-bed wards for medical patients.

In addition, the section has its own laboratory with all usual facilities along with some special equipment. It can make its own blood counts, urinalysis, electro-cardiographic work, and perform practically any blood chemistry test.

The department has three examining rooms and three nurses stations. An isolation ward is provided for all contagious diseases.

A staff of four internists is maintained to administer to the medical needs of veteran patients. Chief of the department is Dr. Warford B. Johnson, a graduate of the Northwestern University School of medicine who completed resident work in internal medicine at the Henry Ford hospital in Detroit. Dr. Johnson is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine.

Others on the staff are Dr. E. B. Groner, Dr. C. T. Vinson, and Dr. William P. Blocker. Dr. Vinson also serves as admittance physician for the entire hospital.

The internist specialists operate under the assumption that it is best to keep patients hospitalized until goal of the medical treatment is accomplished. They work with local doctors on cases that have had treatment in city hospitals prior to entering the VA institution.

Reports on all treatment and examinations are sent to outside physicians if the patient desires. Staffed and equipped to handle most medical cases, the section usually prefers to send to other hospitals the few patients requiring special psychiatric treatment.

Limitations Put On Out-Patient Hospital Service

Out-patient medical treatment, generally known as "hometown treatment", is available only to veterans who have service-connected disabilities.

With such disabilities, eligible World War II veterans may receive treatment at their VA hospitals or clinics or from approved private physicians. Each vet's eligibility must be determined by the VA before treatment of this type is authorized.

We've Got A Beauty, Too!

Everyone will agree that the Veteran's Hospital is one of the most attractive buildings in West Texas, and all of us in Big Spring are proud to have it located here.

We at the Big Spring Motor Company are also proud to have another beauty... the '50 FORD... Right in our own showroom!

IN EVERY PHASE OF OPERATION

VA Hospitals Carry On Never-Ending Research

Research is a never-ending process for Veterans Administration scientists as they strive to make veterans hospitals the most efficient and safest in the world. Continuous studies are being made constantly in every phase of a hospital's operation, from boiler room to operating room from hot water pipes to mattresses. Results of investigations are given rigid performance tests to make certain that studies are sound and practical. In the last three years, research work into the design of hospital equipment alone has covered some 900 major fields and resulted in an annual saving of three-quarters of a million dollars the VA estimates. Some of the problems the VA has attacked alone; others it works out with the cooperation of manufacturers and experts outside the government. It also works in cooperation with the National Bureau of Standards. Recent VA research has been in floor materials in certain hospitals. The tests were started after staff members reported floors were not holding up as well as they should. Closer study revealed that failures took place generally in wards where windows were opened at night for ventilation, allowing the floors to become chilled.

Ex-Army, Navy Personnel Cared For By The VA

The Veterans Administration is charged with the responsibility of administering the multiple laws which provide benefits for former members of the military and naval forces.

As the agency of administration, of course, the VA is also responsible for extending such benefits provided by law to veterans and to dependents of deceased veterans who served in the military and naval establishments during time of peace as well as war.

In addition to compensation, pensions, vocational rehabilitation and guaranty of loans for purchase or construction of homes, farms and business property, readjustment allowance for veterans who are unemployed; national service and United States Government life death benefits; adjusted compensation, emergency and certain other officers' retirement pay, and physical examinations, hospital and out-patient treatment or domiciliary care.

The Veterans Administration also administers the insurance section of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act for persons in the active military service.

14 Vehicles Service The VA Hospital

The Veterans hospital here is now serviced by 14 vehicles, all maintained in the automotive shops back of the building.

Included are a fire truck, four heavy trucks, two pickups, two staff cars, a bus, an ambulance and a station wagon. The trucks and the pickups are used to haul equipment and supplies to and from the hospital. The ambulance, of course, acts in emergency cases.

A dispatcher, assigned by the engineering department, directs the flow of traffic in and out of the automotive department. A mechanic, obligated with the task of keeping all the cars and trucks in running order, is also on duty within the department. Drivers are assigned to the function as the need arises.

As a result, the VA worked with floor-covering manufacturers in devising a material that now meets requirements in all parts of the country and under all kinds of weather conditions. In another case, VA collaborated with manufacturers and interior decorators in conducting a study of hospital waiting room furniture. Many types of metal frames for settees and lounge chairs were tested for strength, simplicity of design and decorative value. Cushions were tested for durability and eye-appeal. As a result of the study, four items of waiting room furniture were standardized, having common replacement parts. Seat and back cushions are interchangeable, and they now have harmonious colors so that any combination of cushions is pleasing to look at. Because of lower maintenance cost of the furniture, VA estimates that this research study alone is saving the government $40,000 a year.

Studies now are going on evaluating the efficiency of plumbing in VA hospitals. Meters have been installed in a number of hospitals to record rates of use of hot and cold water for various types of hospital buildings. After readings have been taken for a sufficient period of time, VA expects to have dependable criteria for designing plumbing equipment that will meet the needs of a particular hospital. Several years ago, VA tested the relative merits of an ordinary conventional heating system and an automatically controlled system. Test results indicated that the automatic temperature control system provided constant comfortable temperatures in a hospital, and saved an appreciable percentage in steam consumption. Because of the tests, zone-controlled heating systems have been installed in all VA hospitals. VA recently cooperated with a number of hardware manufacturers to standardize hardware specifications for VA hospitals. As a result, the volume listing hardware specifications has been reduced in size from 110 sheets to 16 pages. Also samples of all hardware used in VA work have been placed on file at the National Bureau of Standards.

According to VA and leading hardware manufacturers, the simplified system saves many days of estimating time on the part of builders, encourages many more hardware distributors to estimate on new VA hospital buildings, reduces delivery time for finished hardware by six to eight weeks, and enables VA to obtain better equipment at lower prices than otherwise would have been possible. A study currently is under way to disclose a practical method of fireproofing mattress ticking and filling. For the study, VA is using the facilities of the National Bureau of Standards testing laboratory to test materials submitted by several mattress manufacturers.

Physical, Corrective Therapy Departments Deal With Muscles

The two departments concerned primarily with muscle re-education are the divisions of physical therapy and corrective therapy. In these departments, patients with muscular weaknesses or limited motion in their arms and legs are gradually trained to use them fully.

The physical therapy department is equipped with heat and ultraviolet ray machines along with diathermy and hydro-thermy machines. When working with patients who have had polio, those with nerve injuries, or those who have just taken off casts, these machines are used to relax the muscles or to stimulate the circulation, thereby lessening the pain. At that point, therapeutic exercises and massages are given to restore the muscle power.

The department is to have two physical therapists. At present Beatrice Hickman heads it. She received her training at Mayo Clinic and experience at veterans hospitals.

The center of the department of corrective therapy is a well-stocked exercise room. Muscle re-education here is done mostly by conditioning exercises. Many times when a patient has fully recovered from an injury, or surgery the muscles of a certain part of his body are stiff from not being used and from being kept in one position over a long period of time. Patients can also be taught to walk again.

All the exercise machines are adjustable so that resistance and tension may be increased as the patient improves. Among the equipment are a shoulder wheel, wrist circumference, training bicycle for the legs and knees, a rowing machine for the arms, legs, and back, weights and pulleys for general conditioning, bar bells for weight lifting, and mats for tumbling and sitting-up exercises to build up muscles of the stomach and abdomen. Parallel bars and stall bars will allow paraplegics or those confined to a wheel chair to learn to stand, to walk, or to use artificial limbs. Roy C. Crumley is in charge of corrective therapy.

CHIEF ENGINEER — Paul C. Crall, a native of Missouri, is chief of the engineering division at the new Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital. He holds a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from John Brown University and has done graduate study in the same field at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at the University of Colorado. He served three years as an electronics officer in a Naval Aviation unit and immediately prior to coming to Big Spring he was with the VA hospital design section, branch office in Denver, Colo. for three years. He is married and he and Mrs. Crall have two children, Judith, 19, and Elizabeth, 7. (Culver Photo.)

VA Program Calls For Total Of 66 New Hospitals

The Veterans Administration was operating a total of 135 hospitals and three domiciliary centers as of May 24, this year. Since then, a number of new plants have been put into operation.

In addition, the Government agency utilized from 10,000 to 12,000 beds in non-VA hospitals—federal, state, and private. Its program for the construction of 66 new hospitals will increase the total capacity to approximately 130,000 permanent beds.

The VA provides out-patient medical and dental care for some three million veterans of all wars annually. Treatments total approximately five and a half million per year. This is in addition to some seven million medical and dental examinations which are completed annually.

Out-Patient Dental Treatment May Be Okayed For Vets

Out-patient dental treatment, given by private dentists at government expense, may be authorized for veterans who are entitled to such services.

Conditions needing treatment however, must have been incurred or made worse by the veteran's wartime service before treatment can be authorized by the VA. Application may be made to the agency for preliminary examination either in a regional VA clinic or by a participating dentist if regional facilities are not immediately available.

Treatment, when approved, may be completed in a VA regional office or clinic or the veteran may be assigned to an approved private dentist.

VA Resulted From Merger During 1930

The Veterans Administration, which operates the new 250-bed medical and surgical hospital in Big Spring, is a 20-year-old agency which resulted when three earlier organizations were merged to consolidate all activities dealing with veterans affairs under one huge unit.

The U. S. Veterans bureau, one of the agencies merged into the VA, was created August 9, 1921. When this bureau was created, it took over the duties formerly performed by the bureau of war risk insurance and the federal board for vocational education. The congressional act creating the U. S. Veterans bureau also provided for the transfer to the bureau of the personnel, properties, etc., of the U. S. public health service which pertained to the medical examination, care and treatment of ex-servicemen.

The bureau of war risk insurance was created as a unit of the treasury department on September 2, 1914. This bureau performed these duties: Insured ships and cargoes against risks of war. Insured masters, officers and crews of merchant ships against war risks, payment of allowances contributed by the government to dependent families of service personnel; payment of compensation for in-service deaths and disability of servicemen; and the payment of medical and surgical treatment for disabled servicemen.

The federal board of vocational education was provided for in the vocational rehabilitation act of June 27, 1918. This board was charged with providing vocational rehabilitation for World War I veterans who, by reason of a war-service disability, were unable to carry on a gainful occupation.

The public health service was established July 16, 1798, by an act of Congress which created Marine hospitals for the care of American merchant seamen. An act of Congress on October 6, 1917, made provision for the medical care of ex-service men, and provided that the bureau of war risk insurance should render such service. Inasmuch as the bureau of war risk insurance lacked facilities for this service, the bureau made arrangements with the U. S. public health service to provide medical care, and to be reimbursed from appropriations made available to the bureau of war risk insurance.

The bureau of pensions was established March 2, 1833. During the earlier years of the nation, various pension laws were enacted, each providing its own means of administration, either by the President, the secretary of war, secretary of Navy, by Congress, or by the U. S. circuit court. The March 2, 1833 law provided for appointment of a commissioner of pensions under the direction of the secretary of war. When the department of the interior was established on March 3, 1849, the bureau of pensions was transferred to that department, where it remained until it became part of the VA.

The national home for disabled volunteer soldiers (known originally as the national asylum for disabled volunteer soldiers) was established by Congress on March 3, 1865. This agency remained as an independent establishment until it was made a part of the VA on July 21, 1930.

X-Ray Department Center Of Diagnosis In Hospital

Since the x-ray machine has put the stethoscope and similar instruments out-of-date, the x-ray department has become the center of diagnosis for hospitals. The Veterans Hospital not only has complete equipment for x-raying but a qualified radiologist to interpret the films.

A patient entering the hospital has the required routine chest x-ray. After that, so little as an indigestion complaint may call for a complete check-up with x-rays. This eliminates guessing and sometimes discovers disorders never suspected by doctors.

The office layout includes two rooms with x-ray equipment and adjoining dressing rooms. The machines have fluoroscopic screen attachments allowing the doctor to look at the patient internally. A film may be snapped into place and a picture record made of any part of the body by pressing a foot lever. In one corner of each of these two rooms is a small control room with drawers going through the wall and into the dark room between them. This allows exposed film to be taken into the dark room to be developed while other x-rays are being made. A special viewing and consultation room is provided for the doctors' use. A viewing box is also available in the waiting room where doctors may read wet films. Instruction on film reading is given here.

Modern methods are used in x-rays of the stomach, chest and intestinal and respiratory tract. Special x-ray studies may be made of the spine and the fine lung and bronchial passages. This often requires the injection of illuminating substances into the body to make it easier to study certain organs.

The department requires a very exact filing system and a lot of clerical work. The file room arrangement keeps a complete record on every case and enables a doctor to check all the x-rays on any patient at any time.

Dr. Saul Samson, who heads the department is the only trained radiologist in this area. A qualified radiologist must have three years of special training after practicing as a doctor.

Welcome Veterans To Big Spring

Yes, veterans, we are happy to welcome you to Big Spring and to your new hospital. To the Veterans Administration and the staff and personnel of this fine new medical center, we offer our sincere congratulations.

We know you'll like Big Spring, and West Texas. We can testify to the friendliness of the people . . . our own growth over the past 60 years has been possible only through the continued cooperation of these folks . . . they like the services the big friendly First National provides . . . and they know they can depend on this bank.

So, we would like to have you know us too. We invite you to drop in and get acquainted with our personnel, and our services. If we may be of service to you at any time, please call upon us.

Hats Off To The VA...

We know how the Veterans Administration feels about opening their new hospital, because it was only four years ago that we completed and moved into our new building. We know the hearty welcome we received will be extended to the VA hospital. We are hardly naive enough to compare our space with that of the new VA hospital, but we do know that our customers like the complete shop facilities offered. If you have not visited us yet, here is a personal invitation to drop in and see us soon.

LONG, LONG WAY TO GO—It's a long, long way to go—in fact, more than 600 feet—from one end of the hallway to the other of the main building at the Veterans Hospital. This photo gives some idea of how the far end almost recedes into nothing when viewed at length. However, the hospital is so departmentalized that there is not too much occasion for frequent trips. The first and second floors have two hallways, and one suffices on other floors. Floors are of asphalt tile, the wainscoting of glazed tile, the ceiling of celotex, and walls of highly finished enamel. With the fluorescent lights, it all fairly sparkles. (Culver Photo)

26 New Hospitals Due Completion During 1950

Twenty-six new Veterans Administration hospitals are due to be completed during 1950. Six major additions to existing institutions are scheduled to be finished this year.

The projects are being supervised by the VA's Construction, Supply, and Real Estate service and by the Corps of Engineers, Army. Since Jan. 1 three construction contracts have been let. One was granted for a 900-bed hospital at West Haven, Conn. one for a 1,000-bed institution at Boston, Mass. and the third for a 350-bed addition to the Minneapolis, Minn. hospital.

Three other new projects have been advertised for bids. These are the proposed 500-bed plant at Cincinnati, O., the 500-bed addition to the hospital at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and the 500-bed unit at Salt Lake City, Utah. During the remainder of the year, the VA plans to advertise 13 major hospital construction projects with a total capacity of about 9,000 beds.

became consolidated under the VA.

This consolidation was progressive until 1930. The U. S. veterans bureau was the basic organization, but included were elements of the U. S. Public Health Service, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the Federal Board for Vocational Education, the Bureau of Pensions, and the National Homes for disabled volunteer soldiers.

During the period between the last two wars, the VA hospital system ministered to many hundreds of thousands of citizens. Because of the drain of its top physicians and other technicians for World War II service, the VA found itself short of manpower. This was alleviated somewhat by presidential order detaching Army and Navy men to fill vacancies in the professional staffs.

Demobilization found the VA with a problem unsurpassed in the world's history. Gen. Omar N. Bradley was called upon to direct the huge VA expansion program.

General Bradley and his aides gave to their program the announced slogan: "A medical service second to none in the world." Opening of the VA hospital here is one of the results of that program.

Disabled Vet Aid Is About 350 Years Old

Though opening of the Veterans Administration hospital is new to Big Spring, it doesn't by any means mark the beginning of a country's assistance to its disabled veterans. The practice is at least 350 years old.

Earliest recorded instance of a government recognizing its obligation to ex-servicemen was in England in 1593. That year the Parliament took up a collection from its members in behalf of indigent veterans. It also passed An Act For Relief of Soldiers.

It was nearly 100 years later in 1681, that hospital care became a project. The first hospital opened in England was really only a shelter, or home for the ex-soldiers. Designed by Sir Christopher Wren, architect of the St. Paul's Cathedral in London, the initial hospital served as a sort of home for some 500 men.

Taking a cue from the mother country, English colonies in America provided pensions for disabled veterans almost from the beginning.

The colony of Plymouth enacted a law in 1636 providing that "if any man shall be sent forth as a soldier and shall return maimed he shall be maintained competently by the colony during his life."

As a result of these early colonial practices, the Continental Congress in 1776 passed a law providing for the care of men disabled while serving in the armed forces. The first national law placed emphasis on pensions rather than on hospital and medical care.

It was the establishment of the U. S. Naval home in Philadelphia that first stirred the nation into a realization that pensions were not enough—Here domiciliary and medical facilities were provided.

Established in 1811, the home was occupied in 1835. In 1864 a separate hospital building at the site, named as the Philadelphia Naval hospital was authorized. This institution was transferred to the U. S. Public Health Service in 1919, later came under jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration and was subsequently returned to the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

The first federal homes for disabled and invalid soldiers were authorized in 1851. In 1866, the number of disabled veterans was so great that Congress established a National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and in the same year, a home with a hospital capacity of 275 beds was put into operation.

As wars followed wars, the development of hospitals and the theory and practice of hospitalization by the federal government for veterans became intensified.

Before World War I, the VA and its predecessor operated the largest hospital system in the world. Later, all agencies connected with administering benefits for veterans

CITIZENS ARE 'STOCKHOLDERS'

City Residents Can Take Part In Local Hospital Programs

Big Springers will have the opportunity to take part in the operation of the local Veterans Administration hospital through participation in a Veterans Administration, Voluntary Services organization, Carolton L. Carr special services officer for the institution, has pointed out.

Local service clubs as well as individuals will take part in the activities of the organization, rendering such volunteer services as may be needed to enable patients to get the most out of their hospitalization here. Organized by the Veterans Administration, the VAVS is a recognition of the fact that officials regard the new hospital as part of the community.

As Carr points out, the institution is referred to as "the veterans hospital," not the "government hospital." While controlled by the government, it is in reality a "part of the community," the special services officer declared. "Consequently, every member of the community is a stockholder in the hospital."

Recognizing the fact that citizens are "stockholders", the VAVS, of which Carr is chairman, offers the opportunity to assist in promoting the welfare of veteran patients. The organization takes the initiative in carrying out all hospital voluntary services.

These include all the regular sustained services, such as letter writing for patients or the supervision of games, gifts to patients, and donations to the hospital.

Carr catalogued the hospital needs which can be handled by volunteer workers into four categories. They are:

1. Regular sustained services, or volunteer opportunities that call for "repeat" performances of the same work on a regular scheduled basis. An example of this is letter writing and supervision of recreational programs.
 2. Special events—a "one-time" event in which the volunteer offers his assistance.
 3. Gifts to patients.
 4. Contributions to the institution.
- Community resources of the VAVS are the organizations and individuals interested in and equipped to assist the hospital staff in meeting the needs of patients. Organizations do not lose their identity by participating in the program Carr said.
- Setting up the schedule of hours and different types of activities which will be carried out by volunteer organizations is to be determined largely by the VAVS advisory committee. All essential equipment and supplies are furnished by the VA.

The advisory committee is to be made up of a representative from each organization that has been approved as taking part in the program. Individuals who volunteer their services will not be represented on the committee.

As chairman of this group, Carr represents the hospital management. It is his duty to coordinate all volunteer services at the hospital, recommend any change in policy relevant to VAVS and take the necessary action on any problems which may arise.

GOOD FOOD, TOO

Even Between-Meal Snacks Come From Compact Kitchen

Food, down to the last between-meal snack comes from the main kitchen and food storage division at the hospital. The compact unit, located on the first floor, includes a bakery, the kitchen proper, refrigerated vaults adjoining the smaller rooms used for preparation of salads and meats, and two serving areas.

The kitchen has six to seven o'clock coverage of food. Three meals are served during the day and one at night for nurses and attendants who are on duty. All the food for individual trays is taken up on electrically-heated steam carts, except grill-cooked food which can be prepared in the kitchens on each floor. Insulated carts also take ice to patients on the individual floors.

Six cooks are kept on duty to prepare the meals, other than a baker and butcher. They make the ice cream served at the hospital too. The cooks serve patients who do not eat in the patients' dining room. Training classes in serving methods are held for these employees. All cooks are graded by Civil Service ratings according to experience.

The patients' dining room on the second floor is built to accommodate 156, the personnel dining room, 56, and the staff dining room, 20. Both are equipped with speakers to provide music during the meals. Diet patients in the wards will be visited by the dietitians following meals for diet instruction and to check with them on their food preferences.

Special sections of the unit, other than the salad room and dining rooms are the bakery, the section set off for preparation of special nourishment for patients, and a room equipped with steam jets to sterilize garbage containers. The butchering room is connected with a walk-in refrigerator for meat storage, kept at a temperature of about 35 degrees. Meat is bought by the carcass and kept there until ready to be cut for servings. Buying is done through the Supply Division on a competitive bid basis. Government information sheets and companies that sell to them, give the menu-planners information on what foods are available. Chief dietitian, Ada Lovett and assistant Julie Wood prepare all the menus and standardize the recipes. This does not include the Canteen, which is under another division.

Records are kept on a perpetual inventory basis, so the dietitians are able to tell how much is spent on food each day and how much food is on hand.

Aches May Not Be Coming From Where You Think

There are at least 32 possibilities that a patient's aches and pains may not be coming from where he thinks, according to Dr. Calvin J. Guilliams, head of the hospital's dental clinic.

Since many conditions will be affected seriously by bad teeth, a high percentage of the hospital's patients go through the dental clinic for examination and treatment. When there is a chance that a dental defect could be behind the cause for hospitalization an examination and treatment. A series of 14 x-rays are made. If the trouble is in any of the teeth, they are removed and replaced.

The well-equipped clinic includes a surgery room, two treatment rooms, a lead-protected x-ray room, a laboratory, and the office and waiting room. Fractures or multiple fractures of the mouth and jaws as well as all types of oral surgery are handled in the surgery room. Emergencies are also handled here. The laboratory, equipped mainly for prosthetics, will turn out plates, dentures, and replacement teeth.

The full staff will number five or six made up of dentists, technicians, and dental assistants.

Lab Is Test Tube Center Of Hospital

Equipped with everything from an ordinary refrigerator down to a machine that slices tissues to the thickness of three-thousandths of an inch, the laboratory is the test tube center of the Veterans' Hospital.

The lab's main function is to diagnose cases by running chemical tests ordered by the ward physicians. It also runs routine tests on each patient entering the hospital which includes a complete blood count and other analyses. These tests cover the fields of bacteriology, pathology, histology and many phases of bio-chemistry.

Besides the offices and a display room for specimens, the main lab room is adjoined by a washing room, where all sterilizing is done and the bacteriology room, where tissues are placed in paraffin and slides made in connection with the laboratory, the hospital maintains a blood bank, keeping a supply of the different types for transfusions and other uses at all times.

The staff is composed of a pathologist, a bacteriologist, a biochemist, and two laboratory technicians. Clifford W. Atherton, chief pathologist, is a graduate of the University of Illinois and was assistant pathologist at the Veterans' Hospital in Jackson, Mississippi.

Vets Seek Answers To Problems

The endless stream of human problems which the Veterans Administration copes with each year is reflected in the 15,500,000 personal interviews that employees conducted with veterans, their dependents, or beneficiaries during the last fiscal year.

The problems involved benefits administered by the VA under laws enacted by Congress, including one of the nation's biggest life insurance operations, the greatest mass education and job-training program in the history of the United States, death claims, disability claims, GI loans, automobiles for amputees, wheel chair homes for seriously disabled veterans, and guardianships.

In some cases, several interviews were required with each veteran in order to arrive at a satisfactory solution to his problems, but in most cases, a single interview was sufficient. The story of this big "human" operation on the part of the VA is related in the Administrators annual report, now available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Printing Office, Washington, 25, D. C. at 65 cents per copy.

VA Hopes To Find Answers To Four Medical Questions

Treatment of crippled and disabled ex-servicemen isn't the only purpose of Veterans Administration institutions throughout the country.

With follow-up studies of 23 major illnesses and disabilities suffered by members of the armed forces in World War II, VA researchers hope to find the answers to four important medical questions.

- The problems up for solution are:
1. Is there a better way taking care of servicemen with such disabilities in future wars?
 2. Is there a type of man or woman whom the armed forces should never accept, and can VA furnish the medical criteria by which this would be determined—especially in neuropsychiatric and tuberculosis cases?
 3. What kind of a patient load can be expected in VA hospitals in the future?
 4. What can we do to improve the care of patients with such diseases in VA hospitals?

Dr. A. H. Lawton, assistant chief medical director in charge of research and education for the VA department of medicine and surgery, points out that because the need was not seen for follow-up studies of disabilities suffered by World War I veterans the nation had little or no medical knowledge that would be helpful in treating the same disabilities suffered by World War II veterans.

The studies now nearing completion are being conducted in 23 leading medical schools and four hospitals on a contract basis and by VA personnel in VA hospitals and

Treatment Is Arranged By Priority

A three-point priority system has been set up for treatment in VA hospitals.

Highest ranking are the emergency cases which may be taken directly to any VA hospital. War veterans suffering from injuries or diseases incurred or aggravated in line of duty hold the second highest priority. Third are those who state under oath that they are unable to pay hospital charges for treatment of non-service-connected disabilities or illnesses.

The latter group, if not in the emergency category, must wait until a bed becomes available.

In non-emergency cases, the veteran or his representative should fill in the proper application for care. When hospitalization has been approved, government transportation may be secured to the hospital and, upon completion of treatment for service-connected illness, return home. This service may be provided for non-service-connected cases if the veteran states he is unable to pay for the transportation.

SPECIAL SERVICES—Assignment here as special service officer of the VA hospital brings Carlton L. Carr back close to home. He was born at Trent, when 1½ years old, his father died and he moved to Rockwall, where he completed high school. He took his bachelor of arts degree at North Texas State in Denton and had started on his masters when World War II came along. The U. S. Navy sent him to Bainbridge, Md., Camp Perry, Va., New Orleans, La., Shumaker, Calif., and then to the South Pacific. Welfare, recreation and recruit training were his assignments. Back on statewide, he tied on with U. S. Employment Service in January 1946 and moved over to the VA in July. He served at Amarillo until Dec. 1947 to go to Alexandria, La., where he was when he got orders to report here in April. Carr was married to Wanda Trusell in 1946. His hobbies are in the sports field. (Culver Photo)

Foreign Service Aids Veteran

Service to veterans in foreign countries are rendered by the U. S. Foreign Service. The agency maintains offices of attache for veterans affairs in the American embassies at London, Paris, Rome, and Mexico City, and in the consulate at Geneva. Only VA offices maintained outside the continental U. S. are located in Alaska, Hawaii, and the Philippines, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone.

whether it re-occurs in climates and areas similar to that part of the world in which the infection was contracted. They want to be able to detect, avoid or treat the various disabling after-effects that may have shown up subsequent to the discharge from the service. The study also will enable the doctors to evaluate the treatment schedules used overseas, give them a better understanding of the disease, pinpoint previous treatment failures, re-treat such cases and determine the most effective form of therapy for future usage. In connection with the schistosomiasis study, the United States public health service has been doing a correlated study to determine whether the parasites which cause the disease could get into our fresh water streams through pollution and infect certain types of snails and thereby release the infecting form of the parasites into the water. Reports from the public health study indicate, there is presently no real danger from that therapy.

Reports on studies also will be received on acute infections, nerve injuries, arterial injuries, psychoneurosis, hepatitis, testicular tumors, and incidence of tuberculosis in student-veterans compared with student non-veterans, and others.

In addition, reports on paraplegia, rheumatic fever, certain types of fractures sinusitis and other illnesses and disabilities will be made to VA.

The hepatitis study is expected to show whether the liver, the organ attacked by the disease, has been damaged and to what extent, the amount and extent of complications to be expected, determination of the need for extensive follow-up examinations, evaluation of liver function tests and a definition of the need for prophylactic

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Sept. 10, 1950 9

The study on testicular tumors is being conducted in two ways. One is aimed at reviewing the military personnel who received treatment during service for this condition and determining the best form of treatment for the sufferer. It is also expected that some kind of prognosis of the sufferer's prospects for recovery can be made and that better methods of therapy will result.

The other testicular tumor study is designed to learn the effects of million-volt irradiation therapy on the tumor and possible complication effects on the gastrointestinal tract of the patient. Future use of X-ray as a method of therapy on this type of ailment will, in part, depend on this study. The study also will undoubtedly reveal conditions in the patients studied which are still amenable to therapy, doctors believe.

In the study on post-traumatic epilepsy—in addition to the physiological and neurological aspects—the social and economic status of these patients will be determined as an adjunct for long-range forecasting of the patient's outcome and the anticipated case load of VA. Rehabilitation programs also will be developed from the information gained by the study.

Doctors in VA's research and education service hope that the program will make a substantial contribution to the general store of medical knowledge inasmuch as each of the studies can be made on a large number of veterans who contracted their disabilities under similar conditions.

As each study is completed, medical men from VA and outside centers will get together with VA and National Research council statisticians, compare findings and write a final report. As the studies are completed, new ones will be launched.

Funds are allocated by VA after it is determined that a study is worthwhile and that the people conducting the research are qualified to make such a study.

With the cooperation of the armed services and the National Research council's committee on veterans medical problems, a roster of veterans having had the injury or illnesses to be studied is prepared from those living within a 150 mile radius of the center where the study is to be done. The veterans are contacted and asked to come in voluntarily for the follow-up examinations and study. Research centers have reported that 80 to 85 per cent of those veterans who have been asked to come in have cooperated in the studies.

March of Progress OF THE Veterans Administration

The new Veterans Administration general medical hospital in Big Spring represents another great stride forward for this governmental agency dedicated to the welfare of those men who have so nobly served their country.

We count it a privilege to have helped in the construction of this magnificent new plant. Indeed, we were proud to have put the best we had, in both material and labor skill, into our part of the construction.

We join with citizens of Big Spring, of West Texas, and with Veterans of the nation in celebration of the formal opening of this institution.

PATIENT'S ROOM—Neat and clean are the rooms of the patients of the Big Spring Veterans hospital, one of which is pictured above. Three beds are located in this particular one but the patients can be isolated by the curtains, which here are thrown back. A similar room lies just beyond the partition. The cords extending from the walls to the beds hold radio ear-phones, which can tune in programs for the holder without disturbing the others in the room. (Photo by Culver.)

MUST PROVIDE STAFF FOR HOSPITAL

Personnel Division Small In Number But Carries Heavy Responsibilities

Personnel division of the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital is small in numbers but carries heavy responsibilities. Some of its most difficult tasks have already materialized with the organization of a staff for the huge medical installation. One of the very first divisions to begin functioning, its first concern was providing personnel for all other divisions of the hospital. In fact, W. Hays Bacus, personnel officer, was one of the first to report here, coming to Big Spring on Feb. 1. The personnel division is responsible for administering the entire personnel program at the hospital, in accordance with civil service regulations and Veterans Administration policies. That, of course, calls for providing a staff of the best qualified people available.

In this connection, the personnel division represents the Civil Service Commission in examining applicants for all positions peculiar to the hospital. In addition to other duties as personnel division head, Bacus serves as head of the civil service examining board. Among other things, the personnel division is responsible for keeping various other division heads informed on Veterans Administration policies, looks out for employe organizations, conducts training programs for supervisors, conducts an efficiency rating program and handles all paper work connected with the personnel at the hospital.

Eventually, the staff of the hospital will include between 300 and 350 persons, and each will represent work for the personnel division. Working with Bacus in the personnel division are Tom Ferguson and Mrs. Jo Ann Ferguson. The division itself has experienced personnel problems since its work started last February. During the early months one employe of the division resigned, one transferred and one was killed in an automobile accident.

Hometown News Available From Variety Of Papers

Former servicemen (and women) who come to the Veterans Administration hospital here may keep up with their hometown news within a general radius.

Or they may follow the news in major state and national papers. In the daily exchange of the library are copies of the Big Spring Herald, New York Times, Sweetwater Reporter, Odessa American, Amarillo Globe-News, El Paso Times, Midland Reporter-Telegram, Dallas Morning News, Fort Worth Star Telegram, Sporting News and possibly others. The list is being increased constantly.

Movies Play Vital Entertainment Role At New VA Hospital

Motion pictures play an important part in the Veteran Administration hospital entertainment roll.

A library of film will be kept, and of course others will be secured or exchanged from time to time. Equipment is portable so that it may not only be shown in the recreation room, or any of the conference rooms, but it may be taken anywhere in the hospital.

In this manner, patients unable to leave their beds, but who so desire, may have their requests filled for projection of a movie in the ward or in their room. The films are 16 mm.

PHARMACY DEPARTMENT

Lab Is Designed For Efficiency

As conveniently arranged as a modern kitchen—that's the pharmacy department of the Veterans hospital.

Every section of the department's prescription laboratory is designed for utility and efficiency. Walls are lined with cabinets for component drugs, while under these are placed preparation counters and storage space for equipment.

In the center of the room is a large workbench equipped with sensitive balances, mixing utensils, and lavatory. Tops of tables and benches are made of soft soapstone to prevent damage to delicate instruments. All sinks have non-splash nozzle attachments, and are equipped with drying racks for funnels, beakers, and other equipment.

The pharmaceutical section is equipped with two sets of balances, one sensitive enough to measure quantities weighing no more than one milligram—a thousandths of a gram. It also has homogenizer, glass and wedgewood mortars and pestles, a powder sieve with 20 to 100 screen meshes, and graduates of all sizes.

Practically every drug known is kept in the pharmacy storeroom, some locked in vaults. A specially fitted refrigerator keeps perishable biogenes such as insulin, typhoid and tetanus serums, and liver extract. Barbiturates—used in sleeping potions—are kept in a special lock box.

Bulk drugs other essential basic prescription elements are kept in large packages and bottles in the storeroom.

Two pharmacists, Luther L. Bean and C. L. Fisher, fill all prescription orders used in the hospital. The entire hospital drug order is brought in each morning. Prescriptions are filled and dispatched to the individual patient as requested.

Gray

The organization first began active service in Alaska, moving 45,000 tons of supplies and material a month over the White Pass and Yukon, compared with a maximum of 15,000 tons a year previously. Next in Iran, the service delivered 180,000 tons a month to the Russians for several months preceding Marshal Zhukov's start toward Berlin. Shortly after General Patton invaded North Africa, Gen. Gray was summoned to take over the railroads of North Africa. Next he moved to Sicily, and then into Italy, up thru Naples to Rome over most difficult terrain.

On the European continent, the military railway service experienced its greatest difficulties, largely because of the speed with which the armed forces advanced. Each operating battalion was set up to handle a minimum of 90 and a maximum of 125 miles.

By VE day, the military railway transportation net work embraced 46,000 miles, with 24 operating battalions spread out over the system so that each battalion was handling about 2,000 miles.

The tremendous tonnage of freight handled was indicated in one day's records, which showed that the 26,000 American railroad men had handled 1,219 military freight trains during a 24-hour period. In addition to 60 to 80 hospital trains, 40 to 60 personnel trains, and German, French, Belgian and Dutch passenger and freight trains.

The 1,219 military freight trains contained over 47,000 loaded cars of freight carrying 329,000 long tons and producing for that single day 77 million ton miles.

The achievements of the military railway service were responsible for the list of awards and medals presented to Gen. Gray. They include the Distinguished Service Medal; Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf cluster; Bronze Star (American); Order of the Crown of Italy; Grand Officer class, Knight Commander of the British Empire; Italian War Cross for Merit; Order of the Crown of Belgium Commander class; Legion of Honor; Croix de Guerre with 2 palms and Army Commendation Ribbon.

VA Is Independent Set-Up Created By President In 1930

The Veterans Administration is an independent establishment under the President, created by Executive Order 5398, dated July 21, 1930, under authorization of the act of Congress approved July 3, 1930 (46 Stat. 1018; 38 U.S.C. 11).

This act authorized the President to consolidate and coordinate under a single control all Federal agencies dealing with veterans' affairs.

VA PHARMACIST—A native West Texan, Luther L. Bean, is chief pharmacist at the Veterans Administration hospital here. Bean, who was born in Winters, received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Texas. His association here is the first with the VA. He served in the Army from 1940-46 and previously had been in the Texas National Guard. Bean is married and he and Mrs. Bean have two children, Susan Patricia, 7, and Jennifer Clay, 17 months. (Culver Photo.)

Auto Equipment Serviced At Garage Of The VA Hospital

Automotive equipment at the Veterans Administration hospital is serviced in the hospital garage. It has outside gasoline pumps and water connections for washing or furnishing water for engines. It has a lift and washrack facilities for the general repair shop, a stockroom, a separate room for the hospital ambulance and one for the fire house. There is a bunk room for the firemen and toilet and shower facilities connecting.

Precautions Are Taken Against Fire Possibility

Although the Veterans Administration hospital plant here is of fire-proof construction throughout, it nevertheless is protected against the possibility of fire. Automatic sprinkler systems are installed throughout the plant. In addition, fire closets, with 75 feet of hose, are located strategically. The sprinklers go into action if the temperature should rise above a fixed point. In event either the sprinklers or a hose become active, three units set up a signal which tell where the fire is located. In the same manner, pulling of the fire report boxes about the grounds sounds the alarms and pinpoint the location so that fire fighters may be rushed there immediately.

PIPE THE MUSIC—Patients at the Veterans Administration hospital here have a variety of programs "piped" right to their beds. Under each of the twin turntables, shown at left in the control room, is a pair of selector sets. Thus, four programs are sent simultaneously to each bed. Patients, like this one at right, may listen through

FOR PATIENT'S PLEASURE

With Exception Of A Transmitter, VA Radio Facilities Are Fully Equipped

The Veterans Administration hospital here has its own "radio station." To be sure, the VA hospital is not in the broadcasting business, but with the exception of a transmitter, it is equipped with all the essentials of a modern radio plant. Two rooms on the second floor are given over directly to the radio department—on strictly a studio and the other primarily a control room. The control room, naturally, has full view of the studio, although it is separated by the double glass partition. It has the latest type of equipment to pick up the broadcast, including a series of exacting mixers which can bring component elements up to desired volume. The programs can be switched instantly from one point of origin to another or from one microphone to another, or from several. Thus, the operator could easily do a fadeout on a studio program and merge it right into one in the chapel, or the recreational or music room. For that matter, a pick-up could be done for almost any point in the hospital. This will be of value when volunteers come to the hospital to furnish entertainment for the veterans. Or, it could be used for patient participation. Four selector sets are included in the control set-up. Each of these may tune in on a different station. Every bed in the hospital is wired so that the patient may turn up his pillow amplifier or put on a head set and listen to his heart's content. If he doesn't care for the program on one of the sets, he turns to the next, and the next or next. When a program is originating in the hospital, it naturally takes the place of one of the four regular radio programs or record programs going on all time. Two turn tables provide for a constant diet of recordings. The library of transcriptions will be built up steadily so that almost any request on the part of patients can be filled.

Massive Plant Also Goes Down

While the actual height of the Veterans Administration hospital here is barely under the 100-foot marker, another 24 feet might be added to that figure. This is the distance that some of the footings for the big main building extend down into the earth. In fact, it took about eight months for the hospital to complete its excavations for the main footings. Core-samples and soil tests had convinced architects and engineers that it was necessary to go this deep in order to guard against sinking and swelling by different types of soil found under the building site. For the first few months of construction, the project resembled a giant canal and a host of wells as the basement rooms and corridors were cut and holes blasted, drilled and dug for footings.

Little Seen But Handy Is Dumb Waiter Apparatus

A mighty handy apparatus but one the casual visitor to the Veterans hospital might miss is the dumb waiter. Perhaps the plural should be used, for there are four of these. Two of these operate out of the kitchen all the way to the sixth floor. Food prepared in the kitchen is lifted to the various floors, where it is then distributed out of kitchens at the nursing stations. Similarly, medical or other supplies may be lifted or returned via the dumb waiters. Two other dumb waiters are used for returning material to the sterilization room, or for sending up linens and other items which have been sterilized.

Tunnels Connect Hospital Units

There's nothing mysterious about the tunnel system connecting the buildings of the Veterans Administration hospital. It's not for inter-building traffic at all. On the contrary, it houses the service lines to and from the power plant. In event anything should ever go wrong with any of the line or if it had to be replaced, the tunnel makes it possible to do so quickly and without major interruption or excavation.

Fountain Service, Short Orders Can Be Had At Canteen

An oasis for staffers in the midst of a busy day and for patients who are able to get around is the canteen at the Veterans Administration hospital. Another installation on the vital second-floor area, the canteen has fountain service, is able to serve short orders and sandwiches. It has a counter and a few tables for customer relaxation. The utensils and fixtures are all of stainless steel type. Adjoining this part of the canteen is another room in which all sorts of items are sold. Basically they are the kind of things which patients might want—toilet articles, luggage, shirts, cigarettes, razors and blades, clocks, novelties, etc. This area manages to keep pretty busy. A part of it is a large room for office and storage uses.

Volunteer Workers At Hospital Are Cared For By VA

Volunteer service workers at the Big Spring Veterans Administration hospital will find that their welfare is taken into account. A special room is given over to their use, primarily as a place to hang their cloaks, leave their hats, personal effects. Here, as in the library, ultraviolet lights are used, adding to the antiseptic effect of the quarters.

Better Than Any Other Way Of Preventing Tooth Decay According To Published Reports!

READER'S DIGEST FOR JULY REPORTS on one of the most extensive experiments in dental history! And remember these additional facts: The toothpaste used exclusively in this research was Colgate Dental Cream. Two years' research showed brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream stopped tooth decay best! Better than any other home method of oral hygiene known today! The Colgate way stopped more decay for more people than ever reported in dentifrice history on tooth decay!

NOT EVEN ONE NEW CAVITY IN 2 FULL YEARS for more than 1 out of 3 who used Colgate Dental Cream correctly! No other dentifrice has proof of such results—the best results ever reported in authoritative dental literature for a dentifrice of any type! So start your family on Colgate Dental Cream today. No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream is the most effective way yet known to help your dentist prevent decay.

THE COLGATE WAY STOPS TOOTH DECAY BEST!

TOOTS CASPER

TOOTS, I'VE GOTTA HURRY TO THE OFFICE OR I'LL BE LATE.

CASPER, ON YOUR WAY DOWNTOWN, MAIL THIS SPECIAL DELIVERY LETTER FOR ME.

MAYBE I'D BETTER TIE A STRING ON YOUR FINGER AND I USE MY HEAD FOR MORE THAN A HATRACK.

I'M NOT A TWO-YEAR-OLD, AND I USE MY HEAD FOR MORE THAN A HATRACK.

I HATED TO WRITE THAT LETTER TO OUR LADIES' CLUB, SUGGESTING THEY DROP MRS. HOOFER AS SECRETARY, BUT IT'S FOR THE BEST--SHE'S A HATEFUL DOMINEERING, MEDDLESOME, TROUBLE-MAKING BUSYBODY.

COL. HOOFER JUST DROPPED BY WITH THIS CAKE HIS WIFE BAKED FOR YOU!

THAT'S SO SWEET OF MRS. HOOFER-- SHE KNOWS IT'S MY FAVORITE CAKE!

NOW I FEEL TERRIBLE ABOUT WRITING THAT LETTER--I'VE GOT TO LET IT BACK! OH, IF I COULD ONLY CONTACT CASPER BEFORE HE MAILS IT!

BOSS, YOUR OPERATOR SAYS CASPER ISN'T IN! COULD YOU TELL ME WHERE TO REACH HIM?

HE'S DOING OUTSIDE WORK TODAY, TOOTS-- I'VE NO IDEA WHERE TO LOCATE HIM!

CASPER, IT'S YOU! I TRIED ALL DAY-LONG TO REACH YOU-- DID YOU MAIL THAT LETTER?

GOOSH, TOOTS--ER--I WAS SO BUSY TODAY I FORGOT TO MAIL IT!!!

YOU FORGOT? THANK HEAVENS! OH, YOU DARLING!

ORDINARILY I'D EXPECT THIS WOULD CALL FOR A BAWLING-OUT.

WOMEN ARE CERTAINLY UNPREDICTABLE-- IF I LIVE TO BE A HUNDRED, I'LL NEVER UNDERSTAND THEM.

MRS. HOOFER, THE CAKE IS LOVELY AND YOU'RE JUST THE NICEST, SWEETEST PERSON I KNOW.

WHO HIRED YOU AND YOUR MASKED PALS TO TRY TO MAKE ME SIGN AWAY MY LAND?

TONTI AND I FOUND YOU HERE UNCONSCIOUS. WE UNTIED YOU WE'RE NOT WORKING WITH THE MEN WHO CAPTURED YOU!

DROP HOOK OR ME FIRE!

I'LL TAKE THAT HOOK! WHERE'D YOU GET IT?

I- I'M SORRY. I SAW THAT HOOK ON THE FLOOR. FOR THE MOMENT I FORGOT YOU WERE THE MEN WHO UNTIED ME!

TWO FELLER. RIDE AWAY. THEM PLENTY FAR.

SEE ANNONE, TONTI?

STAY WITH HIM TILL I GET BACK. I WANT TO ASK SOME QUESTIONS.

WE WANT THOSE MEN! COME ON SILVER!

GREGG! THAT MAN ON THE WHITE HORSE WHO FOUND CARY IS COMIN' AFTER US!

HOW'D HE SURVIVE THAT BLAST?

TAKE MY HORSE WITH YOU AND KEEP GOIN! I'LL GET THAT MAN ON THE WHITE HORSE!

MASKED, EH? WELL! AFTER I GET HIM, I'LL SEE WHO HE IS! MIGHT BE A REWARD IN IT FOR ME!

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

by HAROLD R. FOSTER

Synopsis: AT THE BORDER OF BOISANIE PRINCE VALIANT AND HIS COMPANIONS ARE HALTED. "FOR A SMALL FEE WE WILL ESCORT YOUR PARTY ACROSS THE KINGDOM," SAYS THE CAPTAIN OF THE GUARDS, "AND PROTECT YOU AGAINST THE MANY FIERCE ROBBERS WHO INFEST THE HILLS!"

WHEN VAL HEARS THE SIZE OF THE FEE, HE EXCLAIMS: "ROBBERS WOULD GET LESS FROM US THAN YOU CHARGE FOR PROTECTION! NO, WE WILL GO FORWARD ALONE."

THE CAPTAIN SAID, "YOU WILL BE SORRY! NOW, WHY WAS HE SO SURE SOMETHING WOULD HAPPEN?"

"YOU RIDE ON. ARF AND I WILL GO BACK AND TAKE A PEEK AT THOSE HIGH-PRICED GUARDS."

THEY ARE JUST IN TIME TO SEE THE GUARDS PUT ASIDE THEIR UNIFORMS AND DON THE GARMENTS OF BRIGANDS!

THEN THEY MOUNT AND, LEAVING THE MAIN ROAD, TAKE TO A PATH LEADING UP OVER THE HILLS. VAL AND ARF FOLLOW.

..... AND MEETS THE ROAD AGAIN AT A PERFECT PLACE FOR A HOLDUP!

DARK-EYED BEAUTY OF THE OPERA...

THE PRIDE OF NEW ORLEANS, MARGUERITE MADE HER START AS A SOLOIST WHEN SHE WAS PICKED TO SING IN FOUR DIFFERENT CHOIRS EVERY WEEK, AND SHE STILL HAD TIME TO BE A QUEEN OF THE MARDI GRAS

MARGUERITE PIAZZA

NEW YORK GOT ITS FIRST LOOK AT MISS PIAZZA AS NEDDA IN I PAGLIACCI. SHE WON UNANIMOUS PRAISE OF THE CRITICS AND BECAME A SUCCESS IN OPERA OVER NIGHT!

OF ALL THE TESTS--THE CAMEL 30-DAY MILDNESS TEST CONVINCED ME! CAMELS AGREE WITH MY THROAT AND THEY TASTE SO GOOD!

In a coast-to-coast test of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels--and only Camels--for 30 days, noted throat specialists, making weekly examinations, reported NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING CAMELS!

See for yourself why MORE PEOPLE SMOKE CAMELS than any other cigarette

Make your own Camel 30-DAY TEST IN YOUR "T-ZONE" (T for Throat... T for Taste)
