

Prospects For Small Grain Crop Better

Drizzle Totals .83 Of Inch, Cotton Picking Halted

Cotton pickers remained huddled in their shacks today as a drizzle trailed off into a constant mist during the morning to improve small grain prospects.

The U. S. Department of Commerce weather bureau at the airport recorded .83 of an inch for the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a. m. Friday.

Over the area the average appeared to be about the same, although in some spots there were sharp showers intermingled with the steady drizzle which persisted from Friday afternoon through the night.

Ranges stood a chance of being improved by virtue of the slow precipitation which almost entirely soaked into the dry ground. Reasonably grazed grass was expected to brighten and young weeds sprouting from a previous shower were due to be sustained by the additional moisture.

Some little water made its way to stock tanks, but except for restricted shower areas, this was negligible.

Little benefit was expected to accrue to cotton, since clear weather, with either an abundance of sunshine or sharp temperatures to open a crop of bolls.

Light frosts in the northern parts of the county previously had damaged and killed foliage on cotton and producers hardly were pleased over overcast and precipitating skies.

No damage was expected to come to feed, most of it well shocked, stacked and ricked.

Small grain farmers were most elated of all over the rain. They already had shallow moisture, but the drizzle was sufficient to warrant hopes of getting wheat, barley and oats up to good stands and carry it for a time. Should mid-winter showers and snows persist, followed by normal spring rains, another small grain crop, the best and virtually only one since 1937, was in prospect.

Freighter Sinking West of Ireland

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The British freighter Empire Dorado radioed today that she was "sinking slowly" about 300 miles west of Ireland, and that there were "casualties aboard."

Mackay Radio picked up this message: "Sinking slowly. No means of getting away. All lifeboats smashed. Two rafts afloat alongside. Help urgently requested. Casualties aboard. Latitude 53.7 north, 16.50 west."

Shipping men identified the Empire Dorado as the former American freighter Tolosa, which was purchased from the U. S. Maritime Commission last May by Runciman Limited of London for $267,187.

Labor Peace In Prospect?

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8 (AP)—A growing belief that peace between labor's warring factions may be an immediate result of the recent election was evident today in high circles here of both the CIO and A. F. of L.

It was based primarily upon the increasing conviction that CIO chieftain John L. Lewis will make good his pre-election promise to step aside in event President Roosevelt won a third term.

Leaders attending last night's regular meeting of the CIO steel city industrial union council and the AFL central labor union said they expected President Roosevelt to request a reconvening of the rival organizations.

Saying such a program "undoubtedly is in the cards," Leo Abernathy, international president of the Bill Posters and Distributors union added he thought such a call would come shortly after the close or possibly during the imminent conventions of the two groups.

The CIO meets November 18 in Atlantic City and the AFL at New Orleans on November 19.

Privately, leaders in both factions say they regard Lewis as the chief stumbling block to peace in the house of labor.

Reserve Officer Leaps To Death

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 8 (AP)—Major Alexander Schreiber, 54, United States army reserves, jumped to his death from the seventeenth floor of the Alamo National building Thursday night, according to an inquest verdict returned today by Justice of the Peace Otis West.

Schreiber was on duty as a master sergeant in the office of the first military area, organized reserves, and held the rank of major in the adjutant general's reserves.

His body was found shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday on the fourth-story counting room section of the building.

50 PCT. OF DEFENSE ITEMS FOR BRITAIN

Nazis Taking Heavy Toll On Britain's Sea Routes

Entire Convoy Said To Have Been Destroyed

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—Stuka bombers in Germany's counter-blockade forces sank 31,000 tons of British shipping space today, an informed German source declared tonight.

The sunken ships, this source asserted, included four merchantmen totaling 20,000 tons which were bombed in an undefended area and two merchantmen totaling 9,000 tons sent down "somewhere west of Ireland."

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—German surface warships operating on Britain's vital North Atlantic supply lane from Canada and the United States were reported today by the high command to have "destroyed completely" a British convoy consisting of 86,000 tons of shipping.

The communiqué did not amplify the announcement, but informed quarters said the convoy was made up of five to 20 commercial vessels and that all the tonnage destroyed was commercial.

The convoy was said to have been heavily guarded by British warships.

(SOS messages from two British merchant vessels, the 16,698 ton Rangitiki and 4,922 ton Cornish City, three days ago indicated that attacks took place about midway between Ireland and Newfoundland.

They reported that one of Germany's pocket battleships was shelling them. No further messages were received from the two vessels.

(With the scuttling of the pocket battleship class leader, Admiral Graf Spee, in Montevideo harbor last December, Germany is known to have only two of the pocket battleships left, the Luetzow and Admiral Scheer.

(These 10,000-ton vessels, mounting 11 inch guns and capable of 26 knots, were designed under naval limitations to out-gun any cruiser and out-run any battleship.

(The German radio declared that the following conclusions could be drawn:

"The attack of the German units was made with striking quickness, because from the other ships sunk not even SOS signals were caught by American radio stations.

"(In a false feeling of security, the leaders of the convoy had not seen NAZIS TAKE, Page 4, Col. 7

Roosevelt's Guess On Election Was A Poor One

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today he had again been way off in his guess on the election's outcome.

He told his press conference he had forecast 340 electoral votes for himself. The way the returns stood today, he had won 419 and Wendell L. Willkie 82.

The 340 forecast was exactly the same he had made on August 2 before the 1936 election. That year he won 523 electoral votes to Alf M. Landon's 8.

He said he had not made a forecast on the house of representatives, but added that he never was as worried about that as some other people.

Mighty Bridge Defeated By The Elements, Collapses In Sound

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 8 (AP)—The elements won in the battle for the $6,400,000 Narrows bridge, and the floor of the world's third longest suspension span lay in Puget Sound today. But man and his science will try again.

Agitated and twisted by a wind of gale proportions, the colossal structure, which only four months ago was dedicated as a monument to engineering science, crumbled, then collapsed with a mighty roar yesterday into the white-crested waves of the sound.

There was no loss of human life. Two men—an engineer and a newspaperman—who were on the bridge when it began to twist violently, narrowly escaped, even as sections of the floor began hurtling into the waters 200 feet below.

Tubby, a cocker spaniel riding in the car with Leonard Coatsworth, Tacoma newspaperman, was not so fortunate. Coatsworth had to abandon his car to save his life. And the terrified Tubby nipped at the knuckles of Prof. F. G. Farquharson, the engineer, who attempted to release the dog. As Farquharson and Coatsworth made their separate and precarious ways to safety, the car and the cocker spaniel fell into the sound.

A. F. Andrews, chief engineer of the Washington toll bridge authority, who announced that plans for rebuilding the bridge would be undertaken immediately, attributed the tragedy to "substitution of plate girders eight feet in depth for a truss design which had previously been planned." He explained:

"The solid metal expanses acted like a sail, catching the wind and swinging the bridge. We had planned to bore holes to allow the wind to pass through, but had not had time."

It was a race with the elements the engineers lost. From its opening, the bridge had shown menacing signs of sway when a high wind whipped up.

GREEK GUNS DOMINATE KORITZA—Greek troops in the hills above Koritza (1) threatened the town but Greece admitted a setback in the south end of the front (2). Yugoslav reports said Italian bombers had devastated the Phrynia area (3). Italy also bombed Latozias and Yotos (4), and Patras and Zante Island (5). British planes reinforced a patrol in the Athens sector.

Bomb In Car Kills Pair

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP)—A bomb which police theorized was placed near the steering wheel of the family automobile was blamed today for the deaths of a young son and daughter of the Scranton director of public health.

District Attorney Michael J. Eagen said small fragments of what appeared to be metal were taken from the bodies of William Rebhorn, 19-year-old University of Scranton student, and his sister, Lois, 18. Both were killed last night in an explosion which shattered the car as they were about to enter it in front of their home.

The blast broke windows in many homes in the fashionable "hill section" of Scranton.

Dr. E. H. Rebhorn besides his city position is also a surgeon for a large coal company and often has given testimony on compensation claims. He said he had "no known enemies," but police investigated the possibility that a disgruntled patient might have planted the explosive.

County Judge Charles Sullivan, who was one of a local committee who went over details of the unique proposition with highway department officials, said that members of the Howard county commission court would be in hand, and that he had invited county commissioners from Garden City, Colorado City and Gall to participate in the session. Attendance of people from over the county was urged as well as from here.

Two are killed as truck overturns

GREENVILLE, Nov. 8 (AP)—Lloyd Parr, 33, Bivins truck driver, and Lester Tidwell, 19, of Mount Pleasant, were instantly killed near Campbell early today when the truck in which they were riding failed to negotiate a sharp curve and overturned.

Parr's neck was broken and Tidwell's skull was crushed. Parr is said to have picked up Tidwell on the highway near Mount Pleasant. Relatives are enroute here to make funeral arrangements.

CONDITION SERIOUS

T. J. Wheeler, who was injured in a car mishap Thursday, is still unconscious Friday at the Big Spring Hospital where he was taken following the wreck. His condition remained serious but with a slight improvement.

Mass Meeting Set Tonight

Attendance at a mass meeting to discuss important road matters was urged by civic leaders at 7:30 p. m. today in the district courtroom.

Dorsey B. Hardeman, representative from the 91st legislative district, will be here to explain details of the law under house bill 888, the statute by which many counties are floating bonds as a prerequisite to making road trades with the state highway department in event of re-enactment of the law by the next legislature.

The meeting is to concern itself with a discussion of the procedure under which counties may issue bonds and turn proceeds over to the state highway department in return for construction of state designated highways and assumption of bond retirement payments by the state highway department.

Advisability of seeking such an issue in this and perhaps surrounding counties may be discussed.

County Judge Charles Sullivan, who was one of a local committee who went over details of the unique proposition with highway department officials, said that members of the Howard county commission court would be in hand, and that he had invited county commissioners from Garden City, Colorado City and Gall to participate in the session. ## London Faces Another Nazi Night Attack

Other English Towns Bombed In Day- light Raids

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The great Krupp armament works at Essen, Germany, was left in "one huge sheet of fire" in an overnight attack by British bombers, the air ministry announced today.

Thousands of fire bombs and uncounted tons of explosives were loosed for more than four hours.

Returning pilots said they could see the resulting glow 40 miles away.

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—German warplanes appeared early over London tonight after widely scattered daylight attacks over England.

Anti-aircraft guns roared into action almost immediately after the sirens wailed, and the first night bombers were heard droning high above the capital.

Five bombs plunged down on one southeastern town, striking a working class street and causing three casualties.

The "raiders passed" signal ended London's first day raid about noon.

Raiders also were reported over the Midlands during the morning and reports of last night's raiding disclosed that a large library, a children's hospital and a Catholic home for old people were among the places hit. Casualties were few at all three.

Fair weather prevailed in the Strait of Dover but a slight haze cut visibility.

One raider, swooping down on a London suburb, machine-gunned workers on their way to work.

The second alarm of the day whirled in early afternoon.

Distant gunfire could be heard. Channel observers reported that strong forces of British and German planes maneuvered over the channel about noon, with the Germans apparently trying to draw the defense forces to one zone to let raiders through another. They said the Germans finally were turned back.

The nightly raids on London began on schedule and on "a fairly intensive scale" but tapered off soon after midnight.

The government said London and the surrounding counties were the main objectives.

"Damage was caused (in London and surrounding regions) to houses, shops and public utility services at various points and a number of people were killed and injured but the casualties were not heavy, having regard to the scale of the attack," an early morning communique said.

Other targets of the RAF raiders were listed as a synthetic oil tank at Cologne, a large part of which was reportedly set afire; blast furnaces at Düsseldorf and Oberhausen; docks on the Dortmund-Ems canal; the inland port of Duisburg; shipping in Dunkerque harbor, and air-dromes in Germany and German-occupied territory.

NO STUDY MADE OF CABINET CHANGES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had given no consideration to any cabinet changes since his election to a third term.

Asked at a press conference about reports that his unsuccessful republican opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, might go into the cabinet or some other important federal position, the president replied he had not considered anything along those lines one way or the other.

CHAMBERLAIN IS GRAVELY ILL

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Neville Chamberlain, wife of the former prime minister, sent this message to the London press today: "Mr. Chamberlain's strength has been falling the last few days and he is now gravely ill."

Chamberlain, 71, is understood to be in the country, where he has been resting since his resignation Oct. 3 as lord president of the council. He resigned as prime minister last May 10, giving way to Winston Churchill the day Germany began her drive into the lowlands and France.

PRESIDENT SETS UP GENERAL POLICY OF AID WITH MUNITIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The priorities board announced today that the British purchasing commission would be permitted to negotiate orders with the American aviation industry for an additional 12,000 planes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had established a rule of thumb policy whereby Great Britain and Canada would be supplied 50 percent of American defense items now coming off factory lines, including large bombers and other things needed both here and abroad.

At his first press conference since he was elected to a third term, Mr. Roosevelt also reported that American and Mexican army officers have carried on conversations regarding joint defense similar to those with other Latin American countries.

The chief executive said that heretofore, in regard to defense items needed by both the United States and Great Britain, this country was selling to Britain about 45 per cent of our new production and retaining about 55 per cent here.

Making plain that there would be some exceptions to his rule of thumb policy, the president said that, generally speaking, Britain would get half of needed munitions and other armaments and that this would apply to large bombing planes now coming off the line.

For a while, he said, the United States might need more than 50 per cent of some items and less in others.

ARMY TO NUMBER MILLION MEN IN FOUR MONTHS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The war department reported today that preparations were nearing completion for expanding the national land forces to a million men in the next four months.

An outline of basic training plans for men to be obtained through the selective service program said the first 400,000 recruits would be sandwiched into regular army and national guard units and efforts made to turn them quickly into "efficient, energetic, self-reliant and physically hardened soldiers."

The pioneer 400,000 of the conscription program are to be mobilized by March 15. Subsequent trainees will be put through three months of individual drill at replacement centers before being transferred to units in which most will serve the remainder of their one year's active duty.

By mid-March, when it is expected that 31 strategically located replacement centers will be ready, at least a million men will be in the army's olive drab uniform.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The agriculture department today estimated this year's cotton crop at 12,847,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, compared with 12,741,000 bales estimated a month ago, 11,817,000 bales produced last year, and 12,547,000 bales, the 1929-30 ten-year average.

The indicated yield of lint cotton is 252.1 pounds to the acre, compared with 250.0 indicated a month ago, 237.9 pounds produced last year, and 198.1 pounds, the ten-year average.

The census bureau reported that cotton of this year's growth ginned to November 1 totaled 9,083,626 running bales, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, compared with 10,079,112, bales ginned to that date a year ago, and 10,124,773 two years ago.

The acreage of cotton for harvest this year was 24,406,000 acres.

The 1940 acre yield and production, as indicated by November 1 conditions, by states, included:

Arkansas 896,259 bales compared with 1,504,233; Louisiana 465,368 and 706,447; Missouri 231,751 and 345,813; New Mexico 54,990 and 56,805; Oklahoma 478,144 and 445,208; Texas 2,552,925 and 2,454,105.

The census bureau's report on ginning to Nov. 1, by states, with comparative figures for a year ago, included:

Italians Are Thrown Back By Defenders

Greeks Claim Gains All Along The Albanian Front

ATHENS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Italian forces were reported today to have been thrown back by Greece's defenders, both in the center sector of the mountainous border front and on the northeastern wing, where the Greeks have been in Albania since the start of the war 12 days ago.

The gains on the right wing were described as small but those in the center as important.

This center sector is where a large number of Italians were reported trapped some days ago, according to dispatches from the front, and the remnants are being encircled now; it was said.

Earlier the high command announced that all attacks on the Greek left wing, along the main defenses of the Metaxas line, near the Ionian shore, had been thrown back.

The Italians had brought the full force of their mechanized forces into the battle to crack the line near the coast in a drive toward Ioannina.

Artillery blasted along the entire front with troop fighting on a fairly heavy scale, it was said, but Greek field artillery and anti-tank guns were most active in the protection of the coastal route to Ioannina.

Neutral military experts said the Greek positions now are as good as or better than they were on the first day of the Italian offensive.

They said that the Greek advance into Albania on the Macedonian front more than offset their withdrawal 100 miles to the southwest in the Epirus region.

Everywhere, according to these observers, the Greeks apparently are operating in accordance with well-laid plans and with no break in their communications or supply organization. Both army and civilian morale appeared high, under the encouragement of British aid.

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WHALEY

Now that the shouting is over and we do have a president again (third, very same as the first) there is one little matter that might sneak into his platform that would probably win him more friends and influence more people than any other.

Or it could be included in the Republican party platform as just a small plank that would sweep a tide of folks in their favor. That suggestion is to stop monkeying with the Thanksgiving days and make Christmas a whole week holiday. This brilliant thought couldn't be authored by just one person, it was dreamed up by a group of disgruntled citizens who discovered that this year being what it is, Christmas will come on Wednesday. This means, dear working people, you must return to work come Thursday and struggle through the rest of the week as best you can.

With a world of holiday joy in your heart, your tummy full of too much Christmas pudding, and thoughts far from the mundane world, you will have to whip back to work the next day and go through the motions of being an efficient cog in the wheel of industry.

In addition to all this, you will have practically no time in which to take back those size 10 shoes that fold over your toes, and exchange that bright red tie for something conservative.

After all, Christmas comes but once a year. Why not take a week to get an inventory of yourself instead of the company's stock. It might give a boost to everything, both you and business.

Dinner-Program Held At Church Thursday Night

A program and dinner were held at the First Christian church Thursday night in order that subscriptions for the church magazine "World Call" might be taken. Harshel Summerlin was master of ceremonies and J. L. Miner had the invocation. Group singing was led by R. W. Ogden and guests were introduced by the master of ceremonies.

Bill Dawes sang two vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. Dawes and Mrs. J. J. Parrott and Robert Gray played piano duet.

The Rev. Homer W. Halslip gave the principal address on the magazine, Mrs. L. D. Eddins had the benediction.

Tables were decorated with mums and fall flowers. More than 20 subscriptions resulted from the dinner.

Federation Sponsors Reception For Newcomers In Colorado City

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 8. — A reception sponsored by the Mitchell County Federation of Women's clubs was given Wednesday afternoon to honor women newcomers to Colorado City. The affair was held in the reading room at the library building.

Chrysanthemums and roses predominated among the fall flowers used to decorate the room. Centered in the room was a lace-covered table centered with roses and appointed with a silver tea service. The registry table was adorned with bronze chrysanthemums, matching in color the real autumn leaves used to decorate the back of the registration book.

Mrs. Laura Barber and Mrs. Boyd Doster were at the door, and Mrs. A. L. Whipkey introduced guests to those in the receiving line.

The line included Mrs. J. G. Merritt, president of the county federation; Mrs. Chas. C. Thompson, second vice president of the sixth district; Mrs. Nat. Thomas, president of the Hesperian club; Mrs. C. L. Root, Sr., 1921 Study club president; Mrs. Henry Pond, Self Culture president; Mrs. L. A. Costin, president of the Daughters of the King; Mrs. James Cook, Zeta-gathian president; Mrs. Rees Jones, president of the Business and Professional Women's club; Mrs. Truett Barber, Junior Hesperian president; and Katherine Motley, representing Elizabeth Grantland, president of the Junior Self Culture.

Also serving in the houseparty, in addition to Mrs. Jack Cox, who was at the registry, were Mrs. J. W. Randle, library chairman, and the following district chairmen: Mrs. Sam Majors, Mrs. L. B. Elliott, and Mrs. C. P. Gray. Members of junior clubs assisted in serving.

Guests were seated for a program announced by Mrs. Willis Shropshire. The Three Notes, Marvlyn Martin, Esther Elliott, and Jane Brannon, sang with Mary Price accompanying. James Barber gave two songs with Mrs. Bill Coffey accompanying. Mrs. Coffey read three original poems. A reading was given by Mrs. Newby Pratt.

Gladys Miller sang with Mary Price accompanying. Pauline Jones accompanied Mrs. James K. Folk in two numbers. A vocal duet was given by Mrs. C. A. Wilkins and Mrs. Chas. Mooser. Mary Price was their accompanist. Hazel Grubbs gave piano music during the afternoon.

Spiced tea was poured the first hour by Mrs. W. W. Rhode and Mrs. Sam Majors, with Mrs. P. C. Coleman and Mrs. A. L. Whipkey presiding at the service during the second hour.

More than 100 guests were served.

Patriotic Theme Is Used At Dinner-Bridge Club

A ship holding three candles centered the dinner table at the Settles hotel Thursday when Mrs. Ruth Staba entertained the Thursday Dinner-Bridge club.

Red, white and blue were the chosen colors and a patriotic theme was used in the appointments.

Mrs. Phil Rinehart was present as a guest and high score went to Stella Flynt. Mrs. Jim Zack won second high score and Mrs. Fred Mitchell binged.

The group voted to subscribe to the Red Cross 100 per cent. Others playing were Emily Bradley, Mrs. Henry Covart, Kable Gilmore, Mrs. Zack is to be next hostess.

William Savage And Monahans Girl Wed

Catherine Edwards, daughter of Mrs. T. E. Edwards of Monahans, and William Savage, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Savage, were married Wednesday evening in Monahans.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Henley accompanied the couple. Savage was graduated from Big Spring high school in 1934 and for the past four years has been in the United States navy. He is now employed by O. B. McAllister in Monahans where the couple will make their home.

Plans Made For Education Week At South Ward

A talk on practical education was given by King J. Sides, and plans for National Education Week were made when the South Ward Parent-Teacher association met Thursday at the school.

Education week is to be from November 10th-16th and all members of the unit were urged to attend the school during the week and to take a visitor with them.

A prize is to be awarded by the council for the unit having the most visitors.

The group voted to have the safety schoolboy patrols and to purchase belts for the members of the patrol.

Mrs. E. Low's room won the room count. Others attending were Mrs. Vernon Logan, Mrs. Wayne Matthews, Mrs. Garner McAdams, Mrs. Denver Young, Mrs. T. E. Martin, Mrs. J. P. Kenney, Mrs. T. R. Rose, Mrs. F. H. Talbot, Mrs. Harry Lees.

WANTS WILLKIE IN DEFENSE POST

DALLAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—E. B. Germany, state democratic chairman, favors appointment of Wendell Willkie, defeated republican candidate for president, as head of the national defense commission and removal of Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Germany said he had wired Washington officials suggesting Wendell Willkie as a means of advancing national unity.

Immediately came a statement from George C. Puri, campaign director of the democrats in Dallas county, that Germany knew little of party loyalty or sentiments of Texas voters.

Germany's telegrams were to Edward J. Flynn, national democratic chairman; Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, and Texas Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally.

Puri in turn invited Ickes to be given Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

MEXICO CITY-LAREDO AIRLINE AUTHORIZED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8 (AP)—The government today announced the ministry of communications has given the "Compania Aeronautica Francisco Sarabia" permission to establish a new airline between here and Nuevo Laredo, on the Texas border.

The line, to be operated by a Mexican company, will follow a route similar to that of the American Airlines' new service between the capital and Laredo.

Two SW Tilts To Be Broadcast

The football eyes of the nation will be turned toward Dallas Saturday when the 1939 champion Texas Aggies met Southern Methodist University's undefeated, but once-titled Mustangs; and throughout Texas the ears of radio followers of the teams will be tuned to the Humble Oil & Refining company's broadcast of the game.

Kern Tips, assisted by Tee Casper on color, will handle a broadcast description of the game. Tune in at 2:30 p. m. to WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio.

But the Aggie-S. M. U. game is only one of three to be broadcast Saturday afternoon. Competing with it for the interested ears of fans will be the broadcasts of the Baylor-Texas game from Austin and the Rice-Arkansas game from Fayetteville.

Broadcast of the latter game will begin at 1:50 p. m. with Cy Leland handling play-by-play and Ves Box the color. It will be heard over stations KGKO, Fort Worth; KRTSA, San Antonio; KRGV, Waco; KFDM, Beaumont; KXYZ, Houston, and KRIS, Corpus Christi.

NEW BRIDGE AT LAREDO PLANNED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8 (AP)—Plans for construction of a new international railway bridge between Laredo, Tex., and Nuevo Laredo, Mex., were disclosed today when the government announced that contract bids for the work are now being received.

The new structure will replace an old trestle bridge on the Mexican National Railway's main line. Work is to begin shortly after bids are opened Nov. 19, railroad administration officials said.

RAF Exploits Are Presented In New March Of Time

Many exciting scenes of battles are featured in the latest March of Time film, "Britain's R. A. F.," which brings to the screen of the Ritz theatre today and tomorrow a dramatic account of the exploits of the Royal Air Force in fighting off the massed fleets of Nazi bombers which have been carrying out systematic daily raids on England during recent weeks.

The film, which is made up of exclusive material just arrived in the U. S. from March of Time's own cameramen in Great Britain, shows not only the defensive action of England's fighter planes—the Spitfires and Hurricanes—but also the offensive reprisal raids which Royal Air Force fighters have been making against the Nazi "invasion" bases established along the French and Belgian channel coasts, and even the attacks upon military objectives in Germany itself.

Convoys to insure the continuous flow of war supplies and foodstuffs vitally needed by England are maintained jointly by the Royal Navy and the R. A. F.'s Coastal Command. The new March of Time film shows the huge flying boats of the Coastal Command on patrol, the swift pursuit planes of the Fighter Command in action, and the work of the Bomber Command which is responsible solely for carrying out attacks on enemy objectives.

During the past year, British military strategists have come to realize the great importance of airpower in the defense of their island kingdom, and in "Britain's R. A. F.," the March of Time also shows how industry and manpower throughout the empire have been mobilized to speed up plane production and the training of pilots, mechanics, gunners and technicians to man these new craft.

MEXICAN PILOTS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 8 (AP)—A bill which would require that all pilots on Mexican airlines be of native birth is now being prepared for submission to congress, the ministry of communications said today.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
With the Italians redoubling their efforts on a big scale to try to smash their way through the fiercely resisting Greeks, the fiery Balkans are keyed to a pitch where it wouldn't take much more to cause a general upheaval.

A flaming Balkan peninsula is the last thing the axis partners want, as they methodically prepare the way for their big offensive against the British in the eastern Mediterranean sea. So we see Herr Hitler sitting on the lid, with a great mechanized army crouching in Rumania like a tomcat before a mouse-hole, ready to knock-off the first head that raises itself.

The Fuehrer thus serves a double purpose. He prevents a general conflagration from upsetting his program, and he prevents help reaching the Greeks from neighbors and making the fascist path even more thorny than the invaders have been finding it.

The axis operations in the Balkans have been developing after the fashion of Aunt Agatha's crazy-quilt—one carefully selected piece being added at a time. Hitler's scheme seems to be to take the Balkan states over one by one, without any more fuss and feathers than is necessary, until he has consolidated that whole strategic area into a base from which to try to force the Dardanelles and drive at Britain's eastern flank.

Whether he will inaugurate this big offensive soon must depend on circumstances, including Mussolini's progress in Greece. The axis will be daring if it tackles the Dardanelles before spring, since the fall and winter weather in that part of the world is pretty terrible. Terrain, which under the best of circumstances is difficult for maneuvers, becomes a sea of greasy, clinging mud.

10 Cars Of Cattle Shipped By Maddox

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 8.—Ten cars of cattle were shipped from the Colorado City stock pens this week by Price Maddox of the Tuff ranch in southeastern Mitchell county.

Four cars containing 269 calves went to McMurtrie at Clarendon. Four more cars including 60 cows, 120 calves, and 40 steers went to Jeff Wheat at Emporia, Kan. A car of old bulls was shipped to a party near Wilcox, Arizona, and a car of fat cows and mixed steer and heifer yearlings went to the Fort Worth market.

Maddox has also sold a large number of sheep recently. Four thousand lambs went to Price Steel at Claremont. John Paul Jones of Dodge City, Kan., bought 750 lambs and 1,140 old ewes.

Electoral College Criticized As Relic, Praised As A Safeguard

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The electoral college today found itself alternately assailed as a "relic" and upheld as a wise precaution of the founding fathers.

It is the electoral college which will do the official electing of President Roosevelt by a 49-to-53 vote over Wendell L. Willkie. The actual election of a chief executive is not, strictly speaking, by direct vote of the people.

According to the constitution, subsequent laws, precedents and custom, presidential electors chosen by the people will cast their votes for a president as a unit in each state December 16, and their ballots will be counted by congress here in January.

Presumably each elector will vote according to the majority as expressed in the popular vote which elected him—but he would be perfectly within his rights if he voted for another candidate. As a matter of fact one elector did bolt and vote for a defeated rival candidate after the presidential election of 1796.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), criticized the electoral college as a "relic of the past," announced he would introduce in congress a constitutional amendment "to require presidential elections to be settled by the vote of the people."

He said that the college "serves no useful purpose" and made it possible for a candidate with a majority of the popular vote to be defeated.

His approval brought an immediate dissent from William Tyler Page, capitol employee for 50 years and clerk of the house from 1919 to 1931.

"That," Page said, "would be like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. It would give the preponderance of power to the most populous states. 'Support that, in the election just held, there was a close popular vote and the result depended on 2,000,000 votes. Now, the South would lose its preponderance of about 2,000,000 votes to, we'll say Mr. Roosevelt, and that would offset the sum total of small majorities in states like New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and so on. 'It's conceivable that a small state like Wyoming might decide an election. We'd have a case of the tail wagging the dog.'"

VICTOR IN THE Sourpuss SWEEP STAKES?
It's HARD to tell... but EASY to pick a winning oil
PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 may well have been a smiling, gurgling baby. And by the same token, there is no reason why this screaming, yawling, sad-eyed child should not end up as a radio comedian.
Only a rash man thinks he can predict a child's future. But any car owner can readily foretell which is a winning oil for his motor.
He has no question or doubt because the integrity of the great Phillips organization is back of this direct statement: If you want our best oil, remember we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer.
When you make the seasonal change to lighter lubricant, or the 1,000-mile replacement which every engine needs, pick a winning oil. Refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil at the Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Only 6 Texas Counties Go For Wilkie

DALLAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Latest returns to the Texas Election Bureau show Wendell L. Wilkie carried only 6 of 254 counties in traditionally democratic Texas.

The counties of Gillespie, Comal, Guadalupe, Fayette, Lee and Medina gave the republican candidate a majority. Many districts of these counties are predominantly of German extraction and are traditionally independent in politics.

Leaders of Czech communities in Central Texas who have checked the voting in the recent election, declare their compatriots, who number about 500,000, gave overwhelming support to President Roosevelt and the democratic ticket. In Gillespie, Comal, Guadalupe and Medina counties, which went republican, there are few people of Czech extraction.

Another aspect of the voting, as noted by political observers, was that no big city county in Texas, where Wilkie workers were most active, made a significant showing against the traditional democratic strength.

Here 'n' There

Maybe Mrs. O. G. Denton, Knott, will be wary of using sidewalks hereafter. She was struck Thursday morning by a car as she made her way along the sidewalk in front of Burra store. Dave Lynch, Gatesville, driver of the car and who rushed Mrs. Denton to a hospital for examination, said brakes of his machine failed to hold and when he sought to avoid a collision in the street, he bounced over the high curb. Mrs. Denton apparently suffered only bruises.

An invitation to send a contingent here Monday to participate in an Armistice Day parade has been sent to the commanding officer of the 5th cavalry at Fort Clark, Bracketville, Texas. The cavalry unit had a band and a small contingent here in the summer in connection with a recruiting campaign. Both the VFW and American Legion posts here are to join in the Monday parade along with high school bands from San Angelo and Big Spring, and pep squads, etc.

A general exodus is underway here as fans flock to Dallas for the Aggie-S. M. U. football classic Saturday. To mention a very few, these will be on hand for the tilt: Obie Bristow, Bill Tate, Carl Strom, Curtis Driver, Edmund Notestine, Gene Spence, N. S. Myers, Herb Whitney, H. N. Robinson, M. Prager, and about 10 times that many more.

Sgt. Troy Gibson, U. S. Army recruiting officer, is still holding forth here despite "competition" from the selective service board and a national guard unit. He announces he can accept enlistments for the general headquarters air corps unit at Kelley Field and for the infantry, medical department, engineers, and quartermaster corps at Fort Sam Houston.

Postoffice Work May Start Soon

Possibility of an early start on improvements and alterations to the federal postoffice building here was seen Friday in receipt of a communication received by J. M. Morgan, contractor, and Postmaster Nat Shick.

Morgan was notified by the supervising engineer for the federal works department that his bond had been approved, and that the department awaited word from him as to when he intended to start construction.

Shick said that this indicated a work order was enroute and that it would be received and issued within a few days.

Morgan holds contract for changes to utilize the east half of the building basement for office quarters. His bid was low and was for approximately $11,600.

Seek Procedure On Organizing A Home Defense Unit

A request for procedure in securing a headquarters unit of the Home Defense Guard has been made to Adj. General J. Watt Page by Bruce Frazier, vice-commander of the Howard county American Legion post.

Frazier, writing on instructions from J. E. Neill, post commander, said that the availability of former staff officers in the local post would make Big Spring Big Spring well desirable for headquarters designation in this section. He added that since the post had an experienced band leader in the person of Sam Goldman, the possibility of organizing a band should be considered. Those interested should contact Dale Thompson, adjutant. Only those over 36 and between 18 and 21 are eligible to participate.

GIVES RULING ON SUPERINTENDENTS' SPECIAL SALARIES

AUSTIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann today advised Superintendent of Education L. A. Woods not to approve expenditures for salaries of county school superintendents which were based on special laws contrary to the general law on superintendents' salaries.

Mann has held that approximately 50 such laws, based on population brackets, are invalid because the 1940 census materially changed the population of various counties.

He said:

"It would seem that if the general laws governing the subject matter are not adequate, each of the acts (special) should be repealed and the general law amended in such manner as the necessity demands."

Seek Procedure On Organizing A Home Defense Unit

A request for procedure in securing a headquarters unit of the Home Defense Guard has been made to Adj. General J. Watt Page by Bruce Frazier, vice-commander of the Howard county American Legion post.

Frazier, writing on instructions from J. E. Neill, post commander, said that the availability of former staff officers in the local post would make Big Spring Big Spring well desirable for headquarters designation in this section. He added that since the post had an experienced band leader in the person of Sam Goldman, the possibility of organizing a band should be considered. ### Negroes Chased By Cass Fined Heavily

Two negroes, objects of a chase which resulted in death from heart failure to Policeman E. J. Cass here Wednesday, were fined heavily in city court Friday morning.

Judge Tracy T. Smith imposed a fine of $200 in each of two counts on Bruce Turner on a plea of guilty to a petty theft charge. Robert Willis, on similar plea to an identical offense, was fined $200 on one count.

At the rate of $1 per day which the city allows, Bruce has a jail term of more than a year ahead of him. John Henry Chapman, negro in company with the other two, was still being held for questioning. All three negroes gave Dallas as their homes.

AMERICAN BUSINESS CLUB PLANS MEET WITH SCOUT UNIT

Planning to hold a meeting with the club sponsored scout troop and prospective sea scouts, the American Business club met Friday noon at the Crawford hotel for luncheon. The scout gathering, which is to take the place of the regular Friday noon luncheon, was postponed from tonight to next Friday night at 7:15 o'clock due to the death of Eli Cass.

A program was given by Joe Fowler Brooks, who sang "So I Joined the Navy," and "What Are You Squawking About," with Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser playing the piano.

A dance was discussed during the business session presided over by Chester Cluck. Hugh Duncan reported on a trip to Sweetwater with Cluck and Roy Reeder with regard to organizing a club there.

J. D. Jones was introduced as a new member and other guests were Jack Douglas, Durwood Riggs and Frank Pruitt.

New CAA Classes Are Available

Two new types of flight training classes offered by CAA will be available here to those who can qualify, it was announced Friday.

One is a course offering 25 to 30 hours training to those who hold or have held a solo or immature license, and the other is for 10 to 15 hours training to those who have held or now hold a private pilot's license. In each case, the person receiving training must be between the ages of 19 and 26 years of age. Those meeting qualifications and interested may get more details from Dr. P. W. Malone, chairman of the chamber of commerce aviation committee.

Attention was called to the several vacancies still available in the third CAA ground training school class for which the only cost is a physical examination fee. Those who have previously taken the course and who will re-enroll are exempt from payment of this fee.

For the past two days German reports have told of a growing aerial offensive against British shipping, as a supplement to the counter-blockade by U-boats and surface raiders. Germans boasted that their planes had carried their recent attacks more than 800 miles west of Ireland into "regions where hitherto the enemy felt safe."

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—With a German sea raider, perhaps one of the powerful pocket battleships, loose in the Atlantic, naval experts here agreed tonight that the British navy has one of the war's biggest problems on its hands.

Furthermore it was admitted that the submarine has definitely replaced the bombing plane as the number one menace to embattled Britain.

Waxahachie Battles Temple In Scramble For Top Billing

By the Associated Press
Showdown games in North and Central Texas start off an impressive week-end schedule in school-boy football.

Greenville and Highland Park (Dallas) open the bustling round this afternoon in Dallas in a game that will decide the leadership of District 6.

Tonight the spotlight points to District 2 where Graham and Quannah clash in an elimination game and to District 10 where Waxahachie battles Temple to remove one of three teams tied for the top.

Graham and Quannah are deadlocked with Wichita Falls for the district lead. Wichita Falls plays Electra.

Waxahachie, Temple and Corsicana are tied for the leadership of District 10. Corsicana does not have a game this week.

Three games were played last night but none was important in the title race. Poly (Fort Worth) defeated Fort Worth North Side 13-6 in District 7 and Sam Houston (Houston) walloped Milby (Houston) 26-0 in District 13.

San Antonio Tech won over Burnbank (San Antonio) 7-0 in a non-conference tilt.

Aggies Rated Even-Stephen With Mustangs Saturday

DALLAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Undeclared, untied and undefeated in 17 consecutive games, a Texas Aggie football team tomorrow gambles a magnificent two-year record against sixty uncertain minutes.

It sounds like a long-odds risk, but today they were no better than even money against a Southern Methodist team that has gathered momentum with each Saturday and comes up to this "battle of the Southwest" unbeaten itself.

Timid souls ventured a one-point margin in Southern Methodist's favor, but even that edge began disappearing with the menace of rain. Fumbles in the wet going could erase odds and make it anybody's ball game, as the Aggies learned in squeezing out a 6-2 decision in last year's rain-soaked Methodist game.

Not a major casualty appeared on either roster. Southern Methodist, of course, had planned to be without its great end, Roland Goss, who has had his ankle in a cast for two weeks. But otherwise, they were all sound at the post.

The Aggies' big four backfield, the one that has miraculously driven through this long victory string without a major injury, was intact—Fullback John Kimbrough, Halfbacks Jim Thomason and Bill Conatser and Quarterback Marion Pugh. The stout Aggie line, defensive leaders of the Southwest and one of the top-ranking walls of the nation, stood ready from end to end.

Rain or no rain, Southern Methodist planned an aerial party for the Aggies. Last year Johnny Clement stood in a downpour and threw wobbling passes with incredible accuracy to toss his mates to within an inch of victory. He was the chief goal line, still passing, when the game ended.

Johnny Clement is back for more. So is Preston Johnston, the marvelous punter whose muddled foot kept the Aggies at bay in '39.

Two fine passers, Marion Pugh and Marland Jeffrey, are the Aggies' best long gain bets. Kimbrough and Thomason get the call on bruising short line gains.

Pugh's record of 36 completions out of 65 throws for 487 yards leads the sector where forward passing is the fatal weapon.

Finally, both clubs boast strong reserves, substitute by units in most games. The Aggies, however, have been playing their iron men regulars overtime because of the emotionally inspired opposition they encountered the past two weekends.

It's the Aggies in this book, possibly by a field goal.

Overshadowed by the Aggie-SMU game are two more conference games that hold promise of giving off heavy explosions themselves.

Battered Baylor, its key men alling, goes to Austin to meet a Texas team desperately striving to halt a losing streak. Cowboy Jack Crain has been shackled for three weeks, and that's too long to keep him cooped up. He should break out this weekend and give Texas a new start in the conference race.

Rice Institute must have everything clicking to beat Arkansas at Fayetteville. And the Porkers fall in the "two just played the Aggies" class. Rice rates to come up to its crucial date with the Aggies a week hence with a clean conference record—but Arkansas is the hunch here.

Pitcher Kyle Gillespie is on the mound again and Texas Christian is rolling. Detroit, a rugged team, shouldn't be able to halt them in their intersectional game at Detroit.

Carson City, Nev., is the smallest capital city in the United States.

Salmon have been found in water ranging in temperature from freezing to 70 degrees.

Barker Keeps Coin Busy Picking Grid Toughies

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—Taking another crack at the football guessing game with no money refunded cheerfully or otherwise.

Minnesota-Michigan: Might decide the Western conference title, particularly if Minnesota wins. No unbeaten team in the land has waded through quite such a schedule as the Gophers. They must hold Tommy Harmon with reasonable bounds to get by undefeated Michigan. By the toss of a coin, Minnesota.

Southern Methodist-Texas A. & M.: The Mustangs are plenty tough and might break Texas A. & M.'s long string but this corner prefers to string along with the Aggies.

Stanford-Washington: Stanford's unbeaten and Washington would be too, except for its opening game with powerful Minnesota. But we'll tag along with Stanford.

Cornell-Yale: Should be battling practice for the big Red. Cornell.

Fordham-Purdue: The Boiler-makers are unlucky and Mike Byelene may not be in shape for much service, influencing this vote for Fordham.

Columbia-Wisconsin: Can't tell what Wisconsin is going to do next. In a deep fog, Wisconsin.

Navy-Notre Dame: Taking Notre Dame on the theory the Irish can't be as bad as they looked last week.

Alabama-Tulane: It's a risky now to pick against Tulane as it was to pick the Green Wave earlier in the season. This looks like a real tussle. Out of the hat, Alabama.

Penn-Harvard: Penn must be the choice.

Princeton-Dartmouth: Taking Princeton despite the Tigers' lack of a running attack.

Army-Brown: The Cadets hardly can be counted on to hit the same peak they did for Notre Dame. A doubtful vote for Army.

Holy Cross-Mississippi: Doesn't seem to be much hope for Holy Cross here. Mississippi.

Manhattan-Marquette: Taking Manhattan.

Northwestern-Illinois: Looks safe for Northwestern.

Nebraska-Iowa: Nebraska is really tough and gets this vote.

Detroit-Texas Christian: Each lost to Tulsa by a touchdown which is no help to this guesser. By the coin, Detroit.

Indiana-Michigan State: An extremely shaky vote for Michigan State.

Auburn-Clemson: And one of the same kind for Auburn.

Florida-Georgia: The Bulldogs are moving along. Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Tech seems to have collapsed. Kentucky.

Louisiana State - Mississippi State: Stringing along with the Mississippians.

Purman-Virginia Tech: Two surprise teams collide. In a complete drifter, Furman.

Richmond - North Carolina: North Carolina, handily.

Duke-Davidson: Shouldn't be any worries for Duke.

North Carolina State-Wake Forest: Wake Forest.

South Carolina-Kansas State: No basis for comparison but a filter on Al Grygo and South Carolina.

Virginia-Washington & Lee: Virginia mislaid its scoring punch somewhere. But just to be stubborn, Virginia.

Kansas-Oklahoma: Should be easy for Oklahoma.

Colorado-Missouri: Taking Missouri.

Catholic: Could be close but taking Tulsa.

Texas-Baylor: Anything can happen in this conference. Still Texas.

Arkansas-Rice: Another one of the same ilk. Arkansas.

Southern California-California: Plenty close but Southern California should be thoroughly rested and gets the nod here.

Rain Slows Up Steers' Preparations

Pat Murphy put his Big Spring Steers through an indoors workout and a skull practice yesterday afternoon instead of the customary scrimmages. Rain kept the herd out of a last minute preparation and the same rain might put both San Angelo and Big Spring out of the scoring columns here Monday afternoon if the weatherman doesn't relent.

Monday's engagement will be one of those everything to lose and nothing to gain affairs for the Big Spring Steers. The reverse will be true for San Angelo's Bobcats, since the Concho lads, being most decidedly planted in District 3-A's cellar, are out to take a death-dealing fall out of the conference leaders, Big Spring. Misery loves company, and the Fellies are full of misery.

Murphy's lads are supposed to be top-heavy favorites in the Armistice Day hostilities, but indications are that the struggle will be a nip and tuck throughout. A certain degree, but San Angelo will be hindered by the same thing. Steer stadium's thick turf should cut to a maximum the trouble caused by a soggy field. But, rain, snow, or shine, Monday's mix-up is slated to draw a record crowd for what has become a West Texas gridiron classic.

Judging by this season's record book alone, the game does not figure to offer too much in the way of entertainment, but the standings table does not give the actual facts. The loop leader, Big Spring, will be contested by the loop trailer, San Angelo, and the former should be able to send the latter to the showers without too much expenditure of energy. It is improbable, that such will be the actual case, though, because San Angelo, by beating the Big Springers, could remove some sting from drubbings they have taken this year when they move into Steer stadium.

Manhattan-Marquette: Taking Manhattan.

Northwestern-Illinois: Looks safe for Northwestern.

Nebraska-Iowa: Nebraska is really tough and gets this vote.

Detroit-Texas Christian: Each lost to Tulsa by a touchdown which is no help to this guesser. By the coin, Detroit.

Indiana-Michigan State: An extremely shaky vote for Michigan State.

Auburn-Clemson: And one of the same kind for Auburn.

Florida-Georgia: The Bulldogs are moving along. Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Tech seems to have collapsed. Kentucky.

Louisiana State - Mississippi State: Stringing along with the Mississippians.

Purman-Virginia Tech: Two surprise teams collide. In a complete drifter, Furman.

Richmond - North Carolina: North Carolina, handily.

Duke-Davidson: Shouldn't be any worries for Duke.

North Carolina State-Wake Forest: Wake Forest.

South Carolina-Kansas State: No basis for comparison but a filter on Al Grygo and South Carolina.

Texas-Baylor: Anything can happen in this conference. Still Texas.

Arkansas-Rice: Another one of the same ilk. Arkansas.

Southern California-California: Plenty close but Southern California should be thoroughly rested and gets the nod here.

Oregon-U.C.L.A.: After losing six straight by a touchdown or less, U.C.L.A., finally should win one.

Oregon State-Washington State: Close enough. Oregon State.

Maryland - Georgetown: Should be no risk for unbeaten Georgetown.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Jack Douglas

Here's sticking our neck out again in this matter of picking 'em as they should be picked—according to the feeling in our bones. Maybe that feeling is just a bit of winter creeping in—we'll know for sure Saturday night.

Southern Methodist vs. Texas Aggies—Southern Methodist is considered to be something of an underdog in this afternoon social, at least that is what we have been told by those who claim to have the inside dope—from the Cadet camp. But, looking at the other side of a rather complicated picture, there are those trusting souls who are positive they have had it straight from the stable that the Farmer Maroons are in for a shelling.

Last year SMU was chopped down, 2-0-4, by A. and M.'s specialists in the art of breaking the hearts of opposing gridlers, and the Ponies have been pawing the ground ever since in their anxiety to trample O' Army. Despite the cracks that have been made about collegiate footballers getting in there and giving it all they have to raise the mortgage on the old home place, this business of giving it the old college try cannot be discounted. That is liable to be the case Saturday afternoon in Dallas. The Mustangs are keyed up to the point where they will probably play the game of their careers and woe to the persons in their way.

It is a well-known fact that an offensive team is a harder problem than a defensive one, regardless of brave words about "they shall not pass, etc." Looking at the subject from one angle, Southern Methodist is a team that is on the offensive against the Cadets in that the Dallas team is driving toward a conference title. But, the Texas Aggies are even more so. Since last season's close, A. and M. has been pointing for a repeat performance in the championship fight.

From where we are standing, it does not appear that the Maroons have changed too much since last year. Still on the roster is John Kimbrough, as can sincerely vouch O' Army's opponents in past endeavours. Marlon Pugh, Bill Conatser and Jim Thomason form a combination that could very easily pull a Trojan Horse act on the Ponies while they were in the midst of keeping a watchful eye on Jarrin' Jaw's disturbing antics.

So, after peering closely at what we hope is a crystal ball instead of the old eight ball that is usually in our line of vision, we are inclined to pick the Aggies to do exactly what they proclaim in one of their yells—"pull Ponies' tails out."

Baylor vs. Texas University—This scuffle looks like anybody's ball game, but we timidly suggest that the hard luck dogging Baylor's trail will continue and the Bruins will bow to Texas and Jack Crain. The Longhorns have been kicked skyhigh on two straight occasions already and are likely to be determined to put a stop to this streak of wallplops that have fallen their lot. Saturday bids fair to be the day when Texas gets revenge for a 20-0 lipping administered by the Bruins last year.

Rice vs. Arkansas—This one, according to that same old feeling already mentioned, should go to the boys from "way up there in the clouds." Arkansas has been turning in the same schedule as Rice—win one, skid one, lose one. Last week Rice skidded one when A. and I. was barely edged and Texas was outsmarted by the Owls the week before, consequently, the Houston boys are lined up for the third one in this series—the losing one.

Only district 3-A game to be played Friday is Midland at Lamesa. Lamesa has shown plenty of what it takes to wind up a duel standing up, and with Gus White in the backfield and Oswalt in the line the Lamesans can put any team to a stiff test. But, Midland's line are as rugged and dangerous an opponent as could be asked for, therefore, the nod goes to Midland with a not too comfortable margin.

Crowns Fall On Schoolboy Grids In '40

Ten Defending Football Champions From Last Year Take Drubbings

DALLAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—A turnover equalling a fire sale looms for defending district champions in Texas schoolboy football this season.

Already ten of them have been beaten in conference play and three of them are definitely eliminated. The others retain a mathematical chance.

Electra has taken four defeats in District 3, Waco has bitten the dust three times in District 10 and Austin (Houston) has lost one game and been tied in another in District 13. Thus these three already are out of the race.

These other defending champions have lost one conference game each: Sweetwater in District 3, Sulphur Springs in District 6, Breckenridge in District 9, Nacogdoches in District 12, South Park (Beaumont) in District 14, Austin in District 15 and Brownsville in District 16.

Then there are many who look for Amarillo to unseat Lubbock in District 1 although the Westerners have not suffered a defeat as yet.

Austin (El Paso) has been picked to push El Paso High off the throne room in District 4. El Paso, however, has not been beaten to date.

Sherman is favored to repeat in District 5 but Paris has its followers. Masonic Home is a big favorite to come through again in District 7 as well as Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) in District 8.

Tyler faces two big hurdles in District 11, the first being Longview and the last being Kilgore, which is undefeated but has been tied.

Play this week will do much to clear up the clouded pictures in several of the districts but the state's stand-out game—and the only one matching teams undefeated and untied in both conference and non-conference play—will be Amarillo against Plainview. It will cut the contenders to two in District 1.

There are 50 games on schedule, 41 of them being conference affairs. The schedule:

Conference games: District 1—Plainview at Amarillo, Pampa at Borger; District 2—Wichita Falls at Electra; Burkburnett at Childress, Graham at Quannah, Olney at Vernon; District 3—San Angelo at Big Spring, Sweetwater at Odessa, Midland at Lamesa; District 4—Bowie (El Paso) vs. El Paso High; District 5—Paris at Bonham; District 6—McKinney at See SCHOOLBOYS, Page 7, Col. 6

Georgia Tech and Cumberland were playing in the game that recorded the largest score in history (29-0). In the fourth abbreviated period, the Cumberland captain was running interference for his halfback. The Cumberland half was hit hard and fumbled. The Cumberland captain yelled, "Get that ball! Fall on it!" "Get it yourself if you want it," the tired and battered halfback replied, "I had it long enough!"

Mr. Ickes And The Press

Mr. Harold Ickes, secretary of interior, must have been conceived in reform and dedicated to a personal program of crusading for the inevitable...

His latest is an examination of the nation's press to raise the question about its "freedom" and to invite suggestions on how it may "renew the confidence of our citizens because it is worthy of re-winning that confidence."

As his case in point, he cites Editor and Publisher to the effect that in 1933 President Roosevelt was elected to his first term with only 40 per cent of the press supporting him...

Mr. Ickes didn't say that the press was bridled, but the implication was clear. "Although we are fortunate in having free communication over the air, am convinced that our democracy needs more than ever before a truly free press that represents no class or economic group..."

This is a serious criticism Mr. Ickes has voiced, and it accomplishes little to turn on him with caustic phrases such as he so expertly manufactures.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—A little project so kindly and humane that it almost brings tears to the eyes has been buried under the welter of war and politics. I intend to unearth it.

It is simply a project to purchase with government funds 200 water color paintings and with a gift from the Carnegie corporation in New York 100 more to brighten the walls of the Carville, La., marine hospital and gladden the lives of the 400 lepers, most of whom are living out their span in the United States' only leproserium.

It is a project of the section of fine arts, whose dynamic chief, Edward "Ned" Bruce, himself one of the country's great artists, is entrusted with organization of competitions for murals, sculpture and paintings in public buildings, made possible by the government's stipulation that one per cent of the cost of the buildings be set aside for decorations.

Although only $30 is being paid for each of the water colors, the paintings are rolling in in great numbers, proving how well Bruce knew his artists when he said: "It will, I know, be a very pleasant thought to the artists whose water colors are purchased to know that they are bringing pleasure to the unfortunates condemned by their dread disease to spend their lives in this hospital."

STORY BEHIND IT

There is a story that has never been told behind this story of putting original paintings in hospitals.

A few years ago, Bruce was himself confined to a hospital during a long illness. The barren walls of the hospital room day after day drove home the lack of cheer which a few bright, happy paintings might save a patient's life. There was little he could do about it at once, for the American people regard their press as one of the institutions which—like any other—will not toss away the very basic principle of its existence.

If the press has lost influence, it goes back further than the recent presidential campaigns. It goes back to the gradual trend away from militant and burning editorial policies, whatever their nature and whether their side, if

The course has been one which cost the press not so much in confidence as it did in influence. A majority still has confidence in the press. Even Mr. Ickes has confidence in the press as a medium of expression, for he uses it more than any other avenue. He chose the press as the avenue of raising this particular indictment.

Perhaps it might be said that the press has succeeded so well in informing the masses that they now make up their minds of their own accord, free from editorial suggestion. But if the figures quoted by Mr. Ickes are indications of lost influence, the way to recapture that influence should be uncovered.

It is not in governmental regulation under which "free communication over the air" operates. It is not in spasmodic and uproarious vigilance. It is not in burning prejudicial attacks.

Rather it is in a constant, well-advised, open-minded and forthright policy of giving the people the news of the day, and giving them sufficient information so that they will know what is honest, right and progressive. This is what every self-respecting newspaper tries to do.

government was not building hospitals just then.

His opportunity did come, however—a children's hospital built partly with federal funds—and when the building was ready, there on the walls were Mother Goose murals. A short-sighted chief of staff hit the ceiling, declared a hospital was "no place for such levity" and demanded the murals be removed. Bruce countered with organization of a jury of school children. They voted unanimously that the murals should stay—and they did.

Now not only the hospital staff, but the chief himself discusses seriously the therapeutic effects of hospital decorations, repeating story after story of how the psychological reactions of the children have aided in their recovery.

JUST ANOTHER STEP

The Carville project is just another step, but one which Bruce thinks will have considerable effect, for already other hospitals have written the section of fine arts asking that the jury on the Carville competition (Elliot O'Hara, Charles Burchfield, Buk Urech and John Marin) select paintings for purchase on their order.

Carville is a once famous old plantation in a "corner" of the Mississippi river, 75 miles above New Orleans. It was established in the 1890's, but only taken over by the government as a marine hospital in 1921. It is now in the process of a $5,000,000 reconstruction job, which, when completed will give the United States one of the finest and most modern leproseriums in the world.

Approximately one-third of the United States' 1,200 lepers are patients. Bruce sees the fine arts section's contribution as just one small part of the effort to make their tragic lives happy and more endurable.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff. That new show, "Panama Hattie," is a sort of Sailor Beware, with music. . . . It's about some sailors in Panama who go a.w.o.l. . . . Knowing they'll be court-martialed, if caught, they try to salvage the situation by attempting to capture a ring of spies. . . . It's very earthy and bawdy.

If you stick your head out your office window and scan the skies for five minutes, the odds are 6 to one that you will see a plane. . . . LaGuardia Field has 250 arrivals and take-offs daily.

The week's dumbest gag concerns the drunk who was on the 18th floor of a building. He wanted to go up to the 36th floor. Ringing for the elevator, he said "36th floor," and stepped into an empty elevator shaft, falling 18 floors to the ground. Scrambling to his feet he indignantly cried, "I said UP!"

There are many fine passenger trains in the U. S. but only three are named for women. They are Nellie Bly, Ann Rutledge, and Pocahontas. Nellie was a newspaper woman who established a record by going around the world (in 1889) in 72 1/4 days. . . . Ann Rutledge was an inn-keeper's daughter whose name is linked romantically with Lincoln. . . . Pocahontas was the Indian girl who saved Capt. John Smith's life. . . . But only the "Nellie Bly" touches New York. It piles between Manhattan and Atlantic City.

The general release of "Gone With the Wind" is supposed to take place sometime in January, and MGM says not one foot of the original will be cut. . . . It'll be booked into theatres at about half the road show fare.

You like bowling? . . . Meyer Davis, Clark Gable, Bob Hope, and Bing Crosby are opening a new one to go with the other nine they already own. . . . Broadway's newest character is Daniel Boone. . . . he walks around in a leather suit, a coonskin cap, and a rusty old squirrel rifle. . . . Takes it everywhere he goes, including the best restaurants and nightclubs.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Olivia DeHavilland came in to the studio restaurant, sat down at our table, and barked like a dog.

The effect was wonderful. You have to get the picture: Demure little Olivia, looking like a doll in an outfit adapted from the Austrian peasant mode. She was in red and white, with apron and ruffles, and red felt strawberries on her straw handbag and hat. And sitting down and barking like a dog.

The bark, which was by request, was symbolic. Or maybe it wasn't. Anyway, it was magic. Jimmy Cagney and sister Jean, at a corner table, were convulsed. Frank Capra and friends, at another, were convulsed. Everybody was convulsed, including Olivia, who blushing justified the bark by explaining: "They asked me to, really they did."

That was true. I'd never heard her bark like a dog. So I suggested, after Olivia had ordered a slight meal of three chops, potatoes, carrots, corn, peas and salad, "When are you going to bark like a dog?"

"You really want me to?" she said. "Of course. Now."

She did, and it was (I may have mentioned this before) wonderful. If the bark symbolized anything, it was only that Olivia has found dignity a bit wearing. A few weeks ago she came into this same restaurant, looking hungry and with her brow furrowed. "I've a date with Irving Rapper, for heaven's sake, I haven't any money, and I can't find him," she said. She went to the telephone, called the auto gate, said "This is Miss DeHavilland. Has Mr. Rapper—?"

Mr. Rapper, the ubiquitous dialogue director, hadn't.

"A few years ago," an old friend commented, "she would have said, 'This is Olivia.'"

When Olivia returned, looking hungrier, the old friend asked, "When are you going to bark like a dog in this restaurant?"

"I don't know," said Miss DeHavilland, "but soon—I think."

So today it came to pass. Olivia, by request, explained she undertook barking a long time ago when sister Joan Fontaine had pposumonia.

"Joan had a little toy dog. When you pulled its tail, it barked. She loved it. One day she pulled out the last bark. To keep her happy, I learned to bark."

So you see Olivia was gay today, telling about this and other things. Maybe it's love, although not for Errol Flynn, certainly. She said she was bored with Errol, Errol was bored with her, both of them were bored with Mike Curtiz, being "married" five times in five years was too much. They were going to ask Jack Warner for a "divorce." (They had just been "married" again in "Santa Fe Trail.")

But the other boys? Was Jimmy Stewart still No. 1? Olivia smiled and blushed and evaded prettily. Or was it Franchot Tone or any of the other boys who have been gallanting her about? "They're wonderful, all of them," she pronounced.

The Herald's Serial Story

The Road To Shani Lun

By Rita Mohler Hanson

Chapter 10

BURDEN AGAIN

Lynn marveled at the fortitude of these peasant people. All the patients walked away from the dressing station unaided except the poor woman who died lying in one corner of the room, while Lynn bathed her face in cool water. One patient, carrying the green flag of a messenger, had a special message for Lynn.

"Wish to tell me what it is?" Lynn asked.

He hesitated and then shook his head. "It's not good news for me," he said whimsically, "or I'd tell you."

Lynn regarded him with bright eyes, half sympathetic and yet half hopeful that his bad news was her good news. "Is my government searching for me at last?" she asked.

"I understand your story made quite a sensation in Nanking when our tourist friends related it," he admitted, "but I shan't tell you another word." They smiled at each other. She put her hand to her heart.

"Something tells me here," she said, "that I shall go to Delun only of my own free will." The laughter had died out of his eyes.

"Perhaps you are right," he said heavily and turned to his work. Lynn thought she had never before seen him so depressed.

At eleven o'clock he sent her back to the grand lama's house to rest, and called the fat priest from his prayers before the temple. "You can pray and help me too," he said.

Lynn went reluctantly; there was so much to be done. But her sensibilities were not hardened to the dreadful cases presented to them. She found Peggy walking disconsolately up and down the courtyard. A servant monk brought them each a bowl of stew from the abbot's kitchen along with a square brown pot of tea.

Lynn slept an hour or so, then Peggy begged her to go for a walk on the ridge above the monastery. "We'll take field-glasses and perhaps we can see planes coming to our rescue," she offered hopefully. "You'd think Sam would be doing something by now. I have a feeling that he was surprised that I didn't charter a plane and follow him—as I would have done had it been possible."

Lynn laughed as she combed her hair, which had grown long, and twisted it into a shining knot at the back of her neck. "Yes," she said, "unless Temu Darin had failed to come to the rescue."

Peggy smiled. "Well, he did come to the rescue! And it'll be a good lesson to Sam."

"Do you find Temu Darin as attractive as you thought you would?" Lynn asked curiously.

Peggy pondered a moment. "In some ways more attractive. There's an impetus about him he reminds me of a man with a secret love or a priest whose bride is the church."

"You've come pretty close to it," thought Lynn, and was tempted to add, "His bride is his sense of duty to his Prince."

Peggy helped Lynn with her coat while she spoke with seeming carelessness. "There is nothing between you and him, is there?"

Lynn parried. "Why do you ask?"

"It's hard to explain," Peggy regarded her intently. "It's not in what you say or do, but sometimes when you're standing together I get the oddest impression—as if you two belonged to a secret world of your own, different from mine; as if you'd been through things together of which I know nothing. Where were you both last night?"

"Sitting on the roof looking at the stars and quoting poetry," Lynn answered, taking the field-glasses from a shelf and handing them to Peggy.

"Did he hold your hand?"

Lynn laughed shortly. "Not he!"

"That's a clever way for a man to behave with a girl like you," scoffed Peggy. "Do you think you could fall in love with him?"

Fear Of Love

"Falling in love is losing one's identity. I'm afraid of it. Sam can't come to our rescue too soon to please me."

Peggy stared. "I believe you are afraid."

Lynn colored. "I believe I'd be a fool if I really fell in love, Peggy. I'd take it hard, as some people take religion; as Temu takes his loyalty to his Prince, fanatically. Let's go."

They stepped into the courtyard. Teong, the little shaven-headed Buddha with the bandaged wrist, was playing there in his gay red silk robe and skull cap.

He rose and joined the girls, showing them how to open the seldom used north gate that led up the cliffs behind the monastery. He took them to an eminence from which they could view the country in all directions. To the west, across the hills, rose the besieged Mohammedan fortress of Kiah-yu, appearing as romantic in the distance as a feudal castle on the Rhine.

Out across the plateau to the east and south, they could see the fires of smoldering villages and bands of refugees on the trails.

Far to the south, dust rose as if from the march of advancing troops, but in the sky above there was no sign of birdmen winging their way to the rescue of a pair of American girls.

Though the sun shone brightly the air was chill with a breeze from the Tibetan highlands. At intervals came the sound of hammers ringing on iron in the blacksmith shop within the walls where plowshares were being turned into swords.

Lynn lay down on the short, sweet grass while the other two roamed about looking for spring flowers. Larks sang and soared above; a herd of ponies thundered across a draw nearby. A pale, golden fly alighted on the toe of Lynn's oxford and proceeded to lick her wings. She watched him idly for a while and then suddenly sat up.

She had heard a faint scream suppressed as if by sudden violence. Peggy and the little Buddha were no longer in sight. Lynn rose and called. There was no response. She called once more and this time received an answer.

A bullet tossed up the dust at her feet.

Captured Again

A tall, thin, red-bearded Chinese rounded the hill. Lynn ran. Instead of firing, he dashed forward and intercepted her. She was helpless in his grasp. Tying a dirty saash around her mouth, he shoved her ahead of him. They rounded the far side of the hill where three other men held Peggy and the little Teong.

Lynn saw at a glance that these men were different from the pure Chinese. There was evidence of Turkish blood in their thin faces, aquiline noses, and the red-dyed beards of the two elder men. Evidently, they were members of a scouting party from the fort attempting to capture horses from the herd she had seen running past. And instead, they had captured two American girls and a plump, little, "living Buddha."

The men debated for some time; then they began asking questions of the boy who answered readily. Lynn presently discovered that the leader could talk a bit of "bright" English. He admired Peggy's red hair and, lifting a dirty hand, gave it a tentative stroke. She shrank away from the touch, almost fainting.

Lynn attempted to comfort her though she had no idea what might be in store for them. This was was, more grave even than brigandage. They might be held merely as hostages. They might be run through and left where they fell. There was the possibility of enslavement. In this vast, seething cauldron that was Inner Asia, two American girls could disappear as easily as two drops of champagne in the coarse sands of the Gobi.

The men hurried their prisoners along the ridge, and one snatched the red, silk cap from the boy's head and dropped back a moment. As they followed a winding path through the hills, the men stopped occasionally to fill huge sacks with grass pulled up by the roots. Avoiding the soldiers picketing the fort, they entered through an obscure gate in the east wall just after dark.

The prisoners were taken to the village magistrates, and fastened to the wall on the street side. Lynn quickly surmised this to be the custom with local prisoners before they were freed, punished or beheaded.

"We'll sit here in the dust and lean against the wall and be as comfortable and brave as we can," she said, suiting the action to the words. She drew the little boy down beside her and put a comforting arm around him.

"I'm told that events in themselves are neutral, and that our reaction makes them either good or bad," she went on. "If we can be wise and calm enough this experience should not hurt us."

Peggy looked up and blanched at the sight of a wooden cage in which festered a bandit's head. She began to weep. "I know we're going to die!"

"Hush!" whispered Lynn. "Oh, Peggy, please keep up your chin! Curious, angry people had begun to collect about them. Men, women and children, dull and anguished of eye, incredibly wrinkled and emaciated from starvation, stared, jabbered, and then attempted to claw at the captives, while their voices rose high and shrill and then sank low and menacing.

Lynn gathered that her captors had gone out to steal horses to feed their starving comrades and that the disappointment was great when they returned with human captives, though they hoped to make an exchange with the rich lamassery for many sheep and horses. And if they failed to bargain, the guard explained to his prisoners, he would kill them promptly. A starving people could not afford to keep slaves.

The grass the men had brought back from the hills was being distributed to the crowd who snatched it and ate ravenously, root and all.

SPORTS ROUNDUP
By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—Alva Bradley is hurrying here from Cleveland, and the boys are wondering whether he'll talk to Babe Ruth... Harvard coaches won't say so out loud, but they think they have a chance to upset Penn tomorrow... Where does Tennessee get all that high class football talent? Well, Coach Bob Neyland says he could put two better than fair teams on the field composed entirely of Knoxville boys.

Today's guess star.
C. L. (Pos) Parsons, Denver Post: "I am going into the tough Southwest conference for the week's most likely upset—Arkansas to topple a favored Rice eleven... It's homecoming at Fayetteville, and the Razorbacks have their bristles up for this one."
Feed box special.
Southern Methodist to knock off the Texas Aggies tomorrow...
Fats in your hat: Horace Stoneham says Mal O' will stay at the Polo Grounds as long as he can stand on two feet—also that the Giants aren't about to sell Harry Danning or their Jersey City farm.
Contrary to popular belief, not all comets have tails.

Campaign Methods To Be Studied In Literature
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—Politicians and public-spirited citizens were requested today to send all examples of "scurrilous and vicious campaign literature" used in this year's election to the special senate committee appointed to police the national contests.
Chairman Gillette (D-Ia), issuing the request, said the material would be used to give the "American people a complete picture of this type of campaign methods."
"Every campaign has developed some of this scurrilous material but this one apparently produced more than ever," the senator told reporters. "The committee will ask both national political headquarters to furnish copies of this scurrilous campaign literature."
Meanwhile, Senator Gillette said the full committee would convene this week to "investigate the results of an investigation" on charges of alleged campaign and election violations. The law or investigation
