MAN 98 SAYS TOBACCO IS HIS ONLY WEAKNESS

ASHVILLE, N. C., Nov. 5.—Noel Howington has just turned 98. He believes he would live "a sight longer than I'm going to if it wasn't for tobacco."

The aged man who has no idea how many great grand children he has, never, according to his own admission, took a drink of liquor, gambled, nor smoked.
He did do this. "I'll tell you what I did do. I always carried this with me." He pointed to a small old bible.
"I also always honored my father and mother. My father died when he was 94, my mother when she was 96."

The suit against the First Baptist church recites that the note signed by B. F. Bouldy, chairman of the board of trustees, L. H. Nett, trustee and A. L. Jackson, trustee, remains unpaid.

Superintendent Visits Schools In Eastland County

County School Superintendent Miss Beulah Speer spent the past week visiting rural schools of the county. Monday she spent at Scranton at the formal opening of that school.
The Scranton school building is the best rural school building in the county, Miss Speer said. It is a modern brick structure with four class rooms and an auditorium. They also have a wooden building almost completed for farm mechanics and home economics. Due to the fact that there has been many applications for help in the farm mechanics and home economics department and the Scranton application being late, the state will not be able to grant that school any help this year, Miss Speer stated.
Tuesday Miss Speer visited the schools at Nimrod, Haskell, Curtis and Sabanno, where she found the teachers busy engaged in making plans for the year.
Wednesday the county superintendent visited George Hill, Grigsby, Hallmark and Long Branch where the teachers were all found to be on the job and doing splendid work.
Thursday the schools at Union Hill, Griggs and Peak were visited. As at the other schools visited, the teachers and pupils in these schools were very busy.
At Peak, which is a two-teacher school, plans are being made to add farm mechanics and home economics. For two years Miss Speer has been ambitious to have these departments added to the Eastland county schools and Peak was the first of them to accomplish it. Peak's application has been approved by the state department of education. A sewing machine, cabinet, etc., needed in the work has been secured by the school.

Language Fight In Philippines Seen As Probability

By RANDALL GOULD (United Press Staff Correspondent)
MANILA.—Linguistic difficulties of the Irish Free State with Gaelic are being duplicated in the Philippines with Tagalog as the center of acrimonious contention.

Tagalog is one of the Philippines islands dialects. An effort is being made in the local legislature to make it the "national language" and to compel its introduction into the schools throughout the islands.
Supporters of the measure declare that all the native dialects are closely related, that anyone speaking Tagalog can be understood all over the islands, and that if Tagalog can be made a thoroughly universal and recognized official language it will make for unity.

All this sounds very good. But there are dissenters to the foregoing.
They point out that the Philippine islands harbor in their midst a total of 87 dialects. They deny that Tagalog at present has anything of a universal quality, saying it is restricted to areas close to Manila and that other dialects are in use as close as fifty miles to the capital.
Official documents do not at present rely upon Tagalog. President Coolidge's letter to the governor general with reference to the veto of the plebiscite bill last spring, for example, was put out by the Manila bureau of printing in a bound booklet containing the text in English, Spanish, Tagalog, Cebu-Visayan, Panay-Visayan, Ilocano, Bicol, Pampango and Pangasinan.

Tagalog is said to be an easy language to learn, but it abounds in words like "ng" "ng" and similar for hiding spectacles which may possibly be easy to say but are certainly hard to look at.

Apparently Breaks All Altitude Records

Pilot With Collapsed Bag Is Discovered Hanging In Tree

By United Press.
SPARTA, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Evidently the victim of high altitude suffocation, Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, Scott Field army balloonist was found dead in his balloon in a tree top at Stiles, Tennessee, seven miles from here today.

He left Belleville, Illinois, yesterday at 2:22 p. m. in an attempt to break the world's altitude record for balloons.
How near he succeeded was shown by the last notation in his log which read:
"Threw out last sandbags at 40,600 feet."
The record is 34,424 feet.
When found by boys early today, the bag of the balloon was collapsed but Gray's body identified by a note sewed to his clothing bore no mark of any kind, indicating the balloon came to a gentle landing with the dead pilot.
Physicians who examined the body said indications were he had been dead for hours.
They expressed the belief Gray had died either from suffocation or heart failure.
Gray's altimeter was taken from the basket and placed under guard by authorities pending arrival of air service officials.

Twenty-Seven Men
Report For Work,
None To Be Had

A Fort Worth employment agency sent a truck loaded with 27 men to Ranger Friday to work on a pipe line. When the men arrived here and made inquiries they were told that the company they were sent to out here was not wanting men for that purpose, as a telephone message to that company revealed that fact.

Among the twenty-seven men, according to chief of police Jim Ingram was the total sum of 80 cents. He saw that the men had their money were taken care of and telephoned to the employment agency in Fort Worth to telegraph return tickets for the men and sufficient funds to keep them until they could get out of town. The agency did as he requested and the men left Saturday very much disappointed because they did not get a job on a pipe line.

PERMANENT WAVES FOR WALNUT TREES PLANNED

By United Press.
NEW YORK.—Walnut trees with figured grain throughout the entire trunk may some day be cultivated as a distinct species, instead of being found only at rare intervals, if experiments now being conducted are successful. The experiments are being carried on under the direction of George N. Lamb, secretary of the American Walnut Manufacturers association.

Lamb was formerly a government forester and was trained as a botanist and plant breeder at the university of Nebraska. His first experiment consisted of gathering the top branches of a very highly figured walnut tree, the smallest limbs and grafting these branches to seedling walnut roots. This work was done by some of the country's most skillful nut culturists, and a few of the trees have survived and made a good growth. This method of propagation has eliminated the hazards and uncertainties of propagation by seeds and the possibility of a cross with an unfigured tree.

Gripings
 By GUS

Who'd a thunk it?
 We figured Eastland to lose to Abilene, but we didn't think they'd lose as bad as they did. They didn't seem to go as good against the Eagles as did the crippled Bulldogs. This Walters to Salkeld passing team is dead. Even as it was against Ranger, so was it against Eastland. Wonder how it will go against Cisco.

Then about this T. C. U. game. Unless our memory is bad, Arkansas made a touchdown from their 20-yard line on four consecutive plays, three of which were passes and one a line back for two yards.

That's passing to perfection.

Then for A. & M. to step out and trim S. M. U. is bad news to us. S. M. U. won't be so cocky now and may get in there and work hard for what they can get. Looks like Mann was out-hunted.

The Bulldogs beat the Bobcats by the narrow margin of the one necessary point. By so doing they have in all probability avoided decorating the bottom rung of the percentage ladder.

Win, lose or draw we're with them Bulldogs and if their lot happens to be on the bottom we'll be right there with them and we could name a hundred or so more fans that feel the same way.

There's one ambition we have in this sport writing business and that is to write a story next Friday night telling how them nubbins got out there and battled the Big Splash Cisco Loboes and come out on the top end of the score.

We want to tell about how did Bo got stood on his nose and bounced up, and how Mitchell and Tackett and T. Hinman and Blackmon held the Lobo line until a certain place froze over. The rest of the boys will get their share of the publicity, and—heck, our mind is somewhere else.

The wire just came in telling how Hinman intercepted a pass and toted it over for a touchdown.

But, getting back to our story: If we can just be permitted to write one story telling how these little old first-year players mopped up the Dam Big Loboes we don't care if they pass a law against us writing anything, and we thank you.

Island Being Deserted
 Gradual desertion of St. Kilda an island belonging to Scotland, has caused a recent prediction that within a few years it may be uninhabited. Its cliffs rise sheer out of the deep water of the Atlantic, and there is only one landing place, which for eight months of the year is practically inaccessible. Seventy years ago there were 100 people there, today there are only 44. The men must take great risks on the towering cliffs in search of puffins and other seabirds hanging over the ocean at a height of 1,000 feet, but consider it part of their daily life. The people speak Gaelic and on Sunday every man, woman and child attends church.

Public schools of Texas, including elementary and high schools, received approximately 45 per cent of their support from state sources, the remainder coming from local sources.

Tex Rickard may give another Dempsey-Tunney fight. That's one way of avoiding those big national surpluses.

When the oyster surrenders what little life it has, and lies buried in the ooze several hundred years, its shell is called mudshell. The dredger comes along, bores into the reef and pumps the shell into a barge and it is used for surfacing roads.

In recent years it was found that mudshell makes superior cement, and two such factories are in operation at Houston—a third is located in California—the only cement plants in the world that use mudshell. Thus, from a briny sepulture they are raised, milled and worked into concrete roads and lofty buildings. From its lowly origin the shell becomes more valuable than "the noble dust of Caesar" which Shakespeare says "might stop a crack to keep the wind away."

TAYLOR.—A new way of "riding" a mule was demonstrated near here by John Brunner of Taylor.

While crossing a narrow bridge in his automobile, Brunner met a mule coming from the opposite direction. Instead of turning back the mule attempted to jump over the car and landed straddle the radiator. The mule rode several yards on the car until Brunner stopped and helped it down.

Europe Starts
Campaign For
German Money

By J. W. T. MASON.
 Written for the United Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A new campaign for Europe to get Germany's money first is being started in trans-Atlantic financial circles.

It is sponsored by an interested group which is advancing the theory that if Germany ever defaults in reparations payments, Europeans will be entitled to seize all funds in Germany, public or private, destined to pay for loans floated in the United States. This excursion into postwar methods of high finance contains the possibility of serious losses to American investors and is an ingenious device to induce America to prevent Germany ever ceasing to pay tribute to the world war victors.

Since the Dawes plan went into effect, German local governments and many German industries have floated extensive loans in the United States through Wall street bankers. It is the opinion of various European financial experts that the Dawes plan has worked smoothly only because these loans were made. They established foreign credits for Germany which the German government used in making Dawes payments. There are two major problems in the Dawes plan. The first is how to raise the money for the payments in Germany and the second is how to get the money from Germany into the allied countries. The money raised in Germany is in the form of German marks. The money has got to be transferred into foreign credits before it can leave Germany. This second difficulty is the more serious of the two, since Germany lacks enough gold to make the foreign payments and her balance of foreign trade is not sufficient to establish the credits.

American loans have come to the rescue of Germany's European creditors in this respect, but the Europeans are now saying that these loans cannot be repaid as long as Germany owes anything on reparations account. The authority for this viewpoint is given as the clause in the Versailles treaty which assures priority to reparations payments. Objection is being raised in some quarters to this interpretation because much of the money borrowed in the United States has been by private German industries. While the German government may well be called upon to pay reparations first, there are some experts who assert that private German individuals should not be held accountable for any possible default by the government.

Nevertheless, the predominant opinion is that the allies will override this contention, if an emergency arises, and will compel Germany to seize the foreign credits of private German individuals should no other way of having the war indemnity be found. Having encouraged the Germans to make loans in America as an aid in meeting the Dawes plan demands, Germany's creditors abroad insist America's repayment claims have only secondary interest.

The situation which is thus developing is especially serious because the European nations refuse to specify a time when the German war indemnity shall come to an end. It is their apparent purpose to make the Germans keep on paying at least for a full generation and for two generations if possible. Furthermore, the reparations amounts can be increased if Germany's prosperity increases. The Germans can be kept on the verge of financial disaster indefinitely. Germany needs much more American financial help to put her industries on a sound basis. But, if payments on German private loans in the United States are subject to confiscation at any time under the Dawes plan, the Germans will have great difficulty obtaining any more help and for what they get they will have to pay insurance in the form of high interest rates. The higher the interest the Germans must find, the more difficult will be their problem of economic recovery.

This condition is far from being disturbing to France. The basic purpose of French diplomacy ever since the ending of the war has been to crush Germany permanently. France has tried time and again to cripple German recovery but every time has failed. Precedent, therefore, is against this new move, succeeding. Nevertheless, there is danger, which must be recognized, in the move to subordinate Germany's private borrowings abroad to the demands of the Dawes plan. It is certain that Germany will not continue indefinitely to pay tribute to the rest of Europe. There will be various tentative moves by Berlin to escape from the yoke and American investors in Germany may become the victims of the scrimmage that results.

An eastern university announces it has reached the "saturation point." The hip flask evidently has been successful.

The Grey Eagles upheld their reputation and kept their title as champions of the neighborhood football league by defeating the War Horses by a score of 6 to 0 at Lillard field Saturday morning.

The Grey Eagles used the same line up as the one used against the Unknown Eleven with the exception of Albin Ingram whose driving power was what was needed to put over their only touchdown.

Coach Fred Yonkers was very proud of his team's showing and is trying now to match a game for next Saturday.

The one objectionable feature about these kid games and at the same time a good feature, is that the loser never has anything to say. The winner always comes in and turns in a report of the game.

But these winners were not boastful by any means. They came in and gave a report on the essential points of the game and had nothing to offer regarding the losers. Thus the losers side must remain unsung and unsullied.

OLD RIVALRY TO BATTLE HARD IN GAME FRIDAY

Bulldogs and Lobos Will Likely Furnish Bitterest Fight of District This Year.

By GUS COLEMAN. Not in the history of Texas high school football has any greater rivalry existed between two teams than that between the Ranger Bulldogs and Cisco Lobos.

Since 1921, when Happy Schertz was team captain, these two rival teams have met each Armistice day and staged dramatic struggles for supremacy, with first one team winning and then the other but with the Lobos winning more games.

It has made little difference which team has had the best rating on paper, they have each gone in with a determination to win over the other and each game has been a thrill from the start to the finish.

Touted as favorites for the district championship at the start of the season, the Ranger Bulldogs have lost men through ineligibility from time to time, until at the present practically the whole team is composed of men who are playing their first year. The Bulldogs have lost three team captains and eight first string players through this cause.

Advance information on the Cisco Lobos rated them as about third place contenders, but their showing in games has been such that they are now favorites to win over Abilene for the district championship. Their crushing defeat of every foe to date is indication that they have the necessary punch and strength to carry them far into the race for the state championship.

The Lobos have the advantage of a rest over what the Bulldogs will have, in that they rest a full week, while the Bulldogs only have six days and will put in a full day of that on their return trip from San Angelo.

However, let's not concede the victory to the Lobos until after they have won it on the field of play. It is a well known fact that there is such a thing as inspired football. Players will develop superhuman strength and rise to heights far above their normal ability on such occasions as the game Friday.

Please remember that last year a bunch of little fellows beat the Cisco Lobos twice in the same year. Of course they had Buster Mills, Joe Taylor, Freshman Phillips, Glenn Seay, Phillip Shipp, Alfred Glenn, but at the same time, the Cisco team rated far above them on paper.

The members of this year's team all know that they have had to bear the brunt of having been last year's West Texas champions when, as a matter of fact, very few of the boys ever got into a conference game last year. This is a sore spot with them that will probably never heal, but they will try their level best in this game Friday to live up to the reputation that has been wished on them.

Then, too, on that day four pennants will float to the breeze from the 60-foot flagpole, telling the world in general that this is the home of last year's championship team. The 1927 Bulldogs have lost their chance of being the 1927 champions, but they can still go down as 1927 champions and they will have that distinction cinched if they win the game against Cisco Friday.

The Bulldogs admit that they lagged against Eastland. It is a known Coach Chapman is relying on Eddleman to buck through the line if his speedy pony halfbacks fail to go across the goal line Friday. Eddleman is the Lobo fullback who weighs nearly 200 pounds, and is a veteran of several seasons.

Here's the man Ranger must stop if it beats the Lobos Friday—Ollie Little, sensational halfback, whose speed and trickery have made him the greatest ground gainer seen in the Oil Belt district in years.

Garland Hinman, captain and fullback of the Ranger Bulldogs. Hinman has not entirely recovered from an injury received in the game with Eastland, but his powerful work in backing will be depended upon greatly in holding down the score of the Cisco Lobos.

David Whitehall, end. Whitehall has almost as much experience as the rest of the line put together and upon him will rest a great deal of the responsibility for the Bulldog's success against the powerful Cisco Lobos.

fact that they were crippled against Abilene, but if they can summon all their strength to go against Cisco and play the inspired type of football that is expected of them, they have a fighting chance to win.

Greatest Ball Player of All Time, Ty Cobb

By BILLIE EVANS
Ty Cobb has probably played his last game in the major leagues. I see that he has made an unofficial announcement to that effect. It is in keeping with what he said to me late in September.

Working back on the plate at Philadelphia in a game between the Cleveland Indians and the Athletics a recurrence of an old knee injury caused me to retire in the early part of the game. I was taken to the quarters of the Philadelphia trainer in the club house for treatment.

A few innings later Ty quit the game to catch an early train for the west, in order to make connections at Chicago for a hunting trip he had planned in Wyoming.

Coming into the trainer's first aid station he shook hands with me and remarked:

"I think today's game was the finish of my big league career. I have had a good season and, if I'm smart, now is the time for me to quit."

Retort of Umpire Correct

Both of us then enjoyed a laugh over a retort that I would always hand Ty when the two of us had some slight difference of opinion. It's the same old chatter that umpires always spill to stars during the heat of a dispute.

Often, when Ty would question my judgment or eyesight, I would ironically reply that possibly all he said was true but that I expected to be doing business at the same old stand when he was all washed up.

"Looks as if you would outlast me and make good on that sarcasm that you used to slip me as well as the other boys about being up in the big show after the rest of us had taken our final shower," said Ty.

That conversation strengthens my belief in Cobb's statement that he has played his last game as a big leaguer.

Greatest of All Players

It is a rather interesting coincidence that Cobb and I broke into the American League at practically the same time. He played a few months in the fall of 1905; I made my debut in the spring of 1906.

It so happens that Ty Cobb, at the close of the 1927 season, was the only player still in the majors who was a member of the American League when I started.

Cobb has seen hundreds of players come and go in his 23 years. Yet his last season was one of his best. He finished in the first five batters.

It is to be hoped that Cobb is sincere in his decision to retire, and I feel that he is. It would be a shame for him to keep on going when not physically fit to do his best, thereby dimming the many remarkable accomplishments credited to him.

The board of directors of the Eastland Building & Loan association met Friday at which time the secretary submitted his financial report for this month, which showed the association to be in a splendid financial condition. All members of the board were present.

The Eastland association was organized in March, 1926, and began making loans April 1, 1926. Since that time 34 loans totaling $45,000 have been made.

The association is now prepared to take care of all legitimate loans, giving special attention to loans of home owners and home builders.

The annual stockholders' meeting is held on Jan. 1, while the board of directors meet on the first Wednesday of each month. Any and all stockholders are invited to be present at any meeting of the officers and directors, however.

Successor To Ban Johnson Is Quiet Peaceful Man

By CLARK B. KELSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The era of a Great Calm has descended on professional baseball with the passing of Ban Johnson from the American league presidency.

The man who took professional baseball out of the alleys, and whipped it into the greatest of paid sports, a man of iron nerve, outstanding executive ability, a passion for clean baseball, and a man with the courage of his convictions has left a void which will not be filled. The hot stove league will have little to discuss, for there will be little static from American league headquarters to annoy baseball's commissioner, Judge K. M. Landis.

Ernest S. Barnard, Johnson's successor, is like that game old warrior, a former newspaper man. He is a smart baseball man with an even temper, and one who will not cross Judge Landis. When the judge fails to agree with Barnard, there will be no storm, for Barnard knows when it is wisest to talk, and when it is wisest to emulate the clam.

Born in Columbia, W. Va., in 1873, he attended Otterbein college. After graduating in 1895 he coached the Otterbein team, and it was under his tutelage that Otterbein whipped Ohio State university, a feat which makes life worth living for Otterbein graduates to this day.

Then Barnard took up sports writing, and worked on several papers throughout the middle west. His steadfast devotion to the American league when the new circuit challenged the National league supremacy as a lone big league loop, won him attention of the club owners, and in 1903 he became secretary of the Cleveland club. In 1910 he was made vice president and when James Dunn died in 1922 Barnard was made president of the club by Mrs. Dunn.

He has a fine record for sportsmanship, is well liked by all the owners, and particularly by Col. Jake Ruppert, of the Yankees. He has the support of the managers, and his word is never questioned.

Walter Hagan Is Champion Over Joe Turneso

By GEO. HUCKABAY
CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB DALLAS, Nov. 5.—Walter Hagan won his fourth consecutive professional golf championship this afternoon by defeating Joe Turneso, Elmsford, N. Y., pro one up in 36 holes.

Hagan showed 4,000 golf fans that he is the champion of champions. Starting the last round this afternoon two down due to a par round this morning against him, this sterling golfer fought his way to the front.

Hagan squared the match at the 29 hole when he made one of the famous Hagan shots across trees and into the face of the 333 yard par four hole. Joe played safe on the middle and around the dog leg. This left him a 120 yard pitch to the pin. Joe pitched 10 feet above the hole and could not prick the ball down the slight hill to the cup. Walter chipped dead and squared the match.

Turneso threw away a grand opportunity at the 39th green by missing a 3 foot putt and allowed Walter to have the short hole in one above regulation figures. At the 31st hole a dog leg of 391 yards Joe pulled his second shot slightly off the green and it came to rest six inches from a tree. He had a difficult shot and could get only 15 feet from the pin. Walter's second was 30 feet below the cup and he putted dead for a four.

Joe took three putts for a bad six and went down a position he could never recover from. From there to the home hole they halved. Joe had three opportunities on the last three holes to sink puts of four, eight and three feet to square the match. He was always inside on these holes and putted firmly but the little pill would not drop for him.

Walter after the match walked over near the club house and as the sun was fading out behind a clear sky allowed the photographers to snap him with his big black caddy boy—a thick lipped real Texas Negro, who has stuck to Hagan throughout the tournament.

The boy got a $20 bill for the days work—Walter will get, well, just added thousands to his already full purse.

Texas produces more than 12,000,000 pounds of butter annually and the dairying business is growing rapidly.

EAGLES SMOTHER MAVERICKS, BULLDOGS NOSE OUT BOBCATS

EAGLES AERIAL ATTACK DOWNS EASTLAND 36-2

Walters-Salkeld Combination Sweeps Eagles To Easy Victory.

The powerful Abilene Eagles swooped down upon the Eastland Mavericks Saturday afternoon at Maverick athletic field and let loose an offensive drive and a passing attack that the Mavericks couldn't break up, and won the game 36 to 2.

It was a case of too much Salkeld and enough Walters. Those two constituted an aerial team that swept the Eagles to victory. The diminutive Walters, Abilene quarter, shot passes from a crouched position to the always waiting hands of Salkeld. And the passes were long ones that terminated in touchdowns. It was also a case of the powerful Smith, Abilene fullback, and Sellers, half. The backfield worked in perfect unison and the Mavericks with their stellar defensive work were unable to cope with the ability of the Eagles to get the ball over.

The Mavericks played a losing game from the first quarter, but they played it harder than they have played this year. They were fighting against odds that smothered them but they hung on until they finally put a score over in the last few minutes of play.

The lone Maverick tally came just a few minutes before the final quarter was over. Osbourn got off a beautiful punt that Walters fumbled and muffed on the 10-yard line. The ball rolled over the goal line and Walters recovered but was unable to get back before the Eastland team was on him. They scored two points which was their sole contribution to the total score.

Long Passes.

The first quarter saw the Eagles cross the Mavericks' goal line three times. Their first count came early in the initial quarter when the Eagles pushed the ball from the 30-yard line to within a few inches of the goal. Smith, after being stopped once, made first down and on the next play he went over to start the adding machine working. Christian missed goal. From then on to the end of the quarter it was agony for the Eastland squad and fans. In the middle of the first quarter Walters intercepted a pass thrown by Hal Johnson and on the next play Sellers, Abilene half, hit the broken field for 42 yards and a touchdown. Christian missed goal again. Towards the end of the quarter Walters shot a pass—an almost impossible pass—to the waiting Salkeld, who ran for a touchdown.

The insistent Eagles again registered in the second quarter just a few minutes after the play started. Bull Johnson shot a pass which Smith intercepted and ran 60 yards for a touchdown.

From then on to the end of the half it was nip and tuck. The Mavericks were endeavoring to stop a more powerful team than they were and the Eagles were determined to put the game just a little farther in the ice chest. G. C. Smith, who had played a brilliant offensive and defensive game against the Eagles, was put out of the game on account of injuries and "Red" Jones went in for the rest of the fray. The half ended with the ball in midfield.

The third quarter saw the uncorking of a bottle full of the longest passes ever attempted on an Eastland gridiron. The stooping Walters and the giant Salkeld got together and put two touchdowns over while the crowd was wondering what had happened. Early in the third frame Osbourn punted to the 35-yard line. A plunge by Smith failed to gain. Then Walters got the ball, ran back a few feet and shot a 35-yard pass to Salkeld that resulted in a touchdown. Hardly had the team had time to draw a fresh breath when they again put the score on. Osbourn fumbled on his own 12-yard line and Black recovered for Abilene. Walters was stopped and Sellers was stooped on line plunges. Then Walters shot the inevitable aerial ball to Salkeld, who went over to end the Eagles' scoring for one day.

Mavericks Play Hard.

G. C. Smith played an outstanding game before he was removed. Foster played one of the prettiest defensive games that he has played this year. Once he stopped what seemed like another touchdown when he tackled Walters who had run 30 yards without being stopped and had a clear field ahead. Jimmy King played his usual spectacular game for the Mavericks and Daniels smeared plays by the handfulls. Osbourn, Maverick half, played stellar football. He carried the ball with a vengeance and he played the best defensive game he has played this year.

Walters and Salkeld, together with Smith, were the outstanding stars for the visitors.

Abilene made 14 first downs compared with nine for the Mavericks and suffered 45 yards penalties compared with 35 for the Mavericks. The Eagles attempted 12 passes, had one intercepted and completed six. The Mavericks tried 14, had two intercepted and completed 2.

Intercepted Forward Pass Gives Bulldogs Their Only Touchdown of Game.

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 5.—San Angelo handed Ranger a football game on a silver platter with all the trimmings Saturday. The score was 7 to 6.

A bad pass from center untouched by the Bobcats gave Ranger the ball with an open field and Hinman ran 25 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. Hammett kicked goal. San Angelo scored in the third period when Baker passed to Baldwin for 10 yards and ran 15. Baker missed place kick for the extra point. Evidence of the superiority of the San Angelo eleven was shown by their gains of 238 yards to Ranger's 128. San Angelo made a dozen first downs to Ranger's eight.

Ranger attempted three passes. Two were incomplete and one intercepted. San Angelo used six, completing four for a total of 63 yards, one incomplete and one intercepted by E. Whitehall.

Hammett of Ranger punted 10 times with an average of 35 yards. McCamey of Angelo punted twice, averaging 45 yards, and Baker three times for an average of 35 yards. Baldwin was the class of ground gainers, ripping off 103 yards for Angelo. Halley made 63, Baker got 58, McCamey nine and Morrison four.

For Ranger, E. Whitehall stepped off 62, Hamilton 41, Hammett 22 and Hubbard three.

Playing his first high school game, Alberie starred at end for San Angelo, while Munn grabbed his share of tackles.

For Ranger, T. Hinman, Bohannon and Mitchell were linemen who played outstanding football.

AGGIES BEAT MUSTANGS IN 39-13 GAME

A. & M. Team Unwinds Aerial Attack That Sweeps Meth- odists Off Their Feet.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 5.—A brilliant and powerful Texas A. and M. college football squad rose to the virtual 1927 championship of the southwestern conference here this afternoon by defeating the S. M. U. Mustangs 39 to 13.

The same aerial and running attack of the Bobcats and Mustangs used to win from a powerful Missouri University and Texas University was a boomerang today. The Aggies unleashed a passing attack that puzzled the Methodist lads and paved the way for the most crushing defeat they have suffered in three years.

The Aggies first drew blood in the first quarter when they held the Mustangs for downs on the Aggie 12 yard line and then passed and plunged across the field for a touchdown.

Again in the second period the Aggies led by the starting Joel Hurt, quarterback passed and plunged for a second touchdown. The third period saw the Aggies plunge through for a third touchdown.

Not until the fourth quarter did S. M. U. rally and net two touch downs in the closing minutes of play. But this was not until the Aggies ran wild and scored 3 touchdowns.

PORT WORTH, Nov. 5.—Arkansas university Razorbacks started southwestern conference football critics here this afternoon with a well earned 10 to 3 victory over the T. C. U. Horned Frogs.

The Razorbacks raced to victory in the final period when Glenn Rose, towering Arkansas end grabbed a lateral pass from Cole, half back and raced 35 yards to a touchdown.

In the third period the Frogs advanced the ball to the 18 yard line on two passes and Williams, quarter back drop-kicked goal. On the next kickoff Beavers, Arkansas, returned the ball in one play to the T. C. U. 20 yard line where Cole kicked goal.

The Sort of Feed Given Cows Has Much to Do With The Milk You Get

Any experienced dairy farmer who has been as observing as it will pay him to be, has found out that there is a world of difference in the values of feedstuffs.

Also any of them who have tried Ranger Ho-Maid Dairy Feed, the cow feed in which we specialize, will tell you it can not be surpassed for producing butter and milk.

The fact that Ranger Ho-Maid Dairy Feed is made right here at our mill and composed of home products is also in its favor because it helps every farmer in the county find a good and ready market for his surplus grain.

But the big point about Ranger Ho-Maid Dairy Feed is that it saves money to those who use it, and at the same time makes them some more money on what it does for the cows.

All these facts put together means a big lot of money kept at home if all the cow owners get to using Ranger Ho-Maid Dairy Feed.

STUDEBAKER'S ERSKINE SIX

(4-door sedan, fully equipped)

victor in test of speed and endurance

American Automobile Association certifies to record unequalled by any stock closed car priced below One Thousand Dollars.

NOTWITHSTANDING heavy rain and high wind throughout three-fourths of the test, an Erskine Sedan, fully equipped, traveled 1298.484 miles during twenty-four hours. This meant an average time of 54.103 miles per hour.

No stops were made except for oil and fuel and to change three spark plugs. These stops are included in the time. Immediately following the completion of the test the sedan went five miles at an average of almost 62 miles per hour—Think of it!

This record was made October 12-13 at the Atlantic City Speedway under the sanction and observation of the American Automobile Association. After the test the car was torn down by the technical committee and certified as a stock car in every respect.

What it proves!

Here is positive proof of extraordinary performance, of stamina and durability, of sound design from quality materials and superior workmanship in a car priced below $1000—proof of unusual pep and power whether or not you care to drive long distances with the throttle wide open.

What Owners Say!

Owners of the Erskine Six write us so enthusiastically you would think them to be salesmen. Send a postal inquiry to the Studebaker factory at South Bend and you will be sent, free of charge, comments which hundreds of Erskine owners have volunteered concerning their cars.

Make Your Own Test!

Or better still, let us loan you an Erskine so that you may drive it yourself and learn at first hand why it was able to establish the finest performance record ever set by a car in its price field.

ATTACK ON INHERITANCE TAX TO COME NEXT WEEK

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—A new attack on the federal inheritance tax will be inaugurated here next week, when representatives of state legislatures are to appear before the house ways and means committee to demand that congress leave this field of revenue exclusively to the states.
The committee, under Chairman Green, republican, Iowa, is holding hearings to determine the form of the tax revision bill to be presented to congress when it convenes Dec. 5.
Two years ago congress took a long step toward giving states the benefit of estate taxes, when a provision was enacted allowing a rebate of up to 80 per cent of the federal tax, for state inheritance taxes paid. Consequently, most observers believe the advocates of complete repeal have little chance of success at this time.
The state legislators' move is headed by Lee Satterwhite, former speaker of the Texas house of representatives. His organization, the National Council of State Legislatures, will meet here Monday. He has announced that seven state governors signified their intention to attend the meeting, as well as officials of 30 legislatures and many trade organizations, such as chambers of commerce and bankers' associations from Arkansas, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Florida, Texas, California, Oregon, Connecticut and other states.

ONE LONDON FOG COSTS RAILROADS THOUSANDS

By United Press.
LONDON.—"One of London's own particular fogs costs the railroad companies many thousands of pounds a day," states a railroad official, "and when it extends to the provinces causing dislocation at important junctions the burden increases still further."
"Millions of detonators, at 60 cents a dozen are needed all work on track repairs is held up; extra pay and overtime is incurred for the big staff of fog signallers used on the track; there is extra cost of fuel owing to slowing down of trains and a heavy loss of income through reduced freight traffic," he said.
"The fogs this year have already cost the railways approximately fifty thousand pounds apart from the curtailment of train services," he added.
"The slower speed of trains, when drivers have to feel their way along, means a much larger consumption of coal; the longer an engine is on the rails, the more fuel it uses," he declared.
"Every railroad company at the beginning of winter prepares a special schedule for the fog service which provides the minimum number of trains that can be run consistent with safety. This schedule comes into operation automatically whenever fog is prevalent and the 'fog men' who are normally plate layers, take up their unpleasant duty immediately."

We've hardly tagged the world war and put it away on the shelf when along comes Big Bill Thompson and wants to know who won the Revolution.

NAVASOTA—Raising quality cotton pays large dividends to John D. Rogers, Brazos county farmer.
Rogers sold 548 bales, his 1927 crop, here for $4 per hundred above the middling market, which was equivalent to $11,000 clear profit. The cotton brought 24.90 cents per pound, while the middling price that day was 20 cents per pound. Rogers' cotton was not the regular long staple, but a good grade of staple ranging from 1-8 to 1-16 inches.
"The spinners want a good staple and are willing to pay for it," Rogers explained. "I find it isn't any more trouble or any more expensive to raise good cotton than it is to raise the poorer grades."

The annual value of poultry products consumed at home and shipped out of the state is almost $75,000,000.

EASTLAND COUNTY DELEGATION OFF FOR EL PASO CONVENTION

DELEGATES FROM MANY TOWNS TO GO

Practically Every Women's Club in County Sending Delegate to Meeting.

Delegates to the state convention of Federated Women's Clubs en route to El Paso will probably catch an infectious spirit for the Sixth District candidate, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, when the special train passes through Ranger this morning. A party of at least twelve prominent Ranger club women, representing eight federated clubs of Ranger and including two state chairmen and the Eastland County Federated president, will join the train here and at the station will be half the town to see its delegation off, as well as to wish them luck. The high school pep squad, one hundred strong, aided by the high school band will add a dash of color, morose and white, to that body and pep things up when they sing to the tune of "Chinatown" a song written by Raymond Teal, especially for Mrs. Hagaman. Now this song bids fair to be infectious. There's a lift about the air as well as in the words which runs "Hagaman, Mrs. Hagaman, Sweetest one we know; Always working for the cause, traveling to and fro," and so forth ending with the line that she is "our president to be."

At Eastland and at Cisco other Eastland county women will join the special train, some of these from those two towns and other delegates from Gorman and Desdemona.

The Eastland county delegation will be one of the largest on the special, for Eastland county club women are like the American Doughboy, given to laughing their way over the hardest obstacles. The Ranger delegation goes with the same feeling of optimism that has characterized every move since the Ranger Federated Clubs had a tea for Mrs. Hagaman last spring. Mrs. Hagaman's hobby throughout her campaign has been the Biennial in 1928, at San Antonio and one of the high points of various speeches made at different club meetings has been the stressing of the necessity of club women being press agents for Texas at that time. In outlining her platform, she will probably urge that every member of the Biennial, as already promised Mrs. J. U. Fields, the Biennial chairman.

Another thing that Mrs. Hagaman has been the first to voice is the establishment of state headquarters for the Texas Federation at Austin. Mrs. Hagaman goes to the convention with the unanimous endorsement of the Eastland County Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Sixth District of the Texas Federation, the latter on May 4 endorsing Mrs. Hagaman as Sixth District candidate and asking for the first time for that honor for one of its members.

During Mrs. Hagaman's campaign she has been ably supported by Eastland county club women. Her own campaign committee has not left a stone unturned towards putting over for her a successful campaign and all of this committee goes with her today to El Paso to see her through her campaign.

It is a triangular campaign, two candidates from the first district forming two sides of it and one from the Sixth district the other and the election therefore rests on the knees of the gods and the efforts of the three women's supporters until the final count is taken.

Ranger women who will attend the convention are Mmes. M. H. Hagaman, J. M. White, both state officers, Mrs. W. W. Housewright, president of the Eastland County Federation, Mrs. Andy Anderson, Dolphian Club; Mrs. L. C. G. Buchanan, New Era Club; Mrs. C. E. May, 1920 Club; Mrs. John Thurman, Child Welfare Club; Mrs. O. L. Phillips, City Federation; Mrs. Eddie Horrigan, Columbia Study Club; Mrs. Rena B. Campbell, Junior New Era Club; Mrs. Barney Carter, Mothers' Self Culture Club and Mrs. John Gholson, 1920 Club.

Eastland will be represented by Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, president of the Music Federation; Mrs. Oscar Chastain, delegate from the Thursday Afternoon Study Club and Mrs. E. D. Baldwin, Eastland Music Club. Desdemona will be represented by Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass and her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Heater, representing the Embroidery and Twenty-One Clubs of that city.

Gorman will probably be represented by Mrs. Zilla Garrett. At Cisco a good sized delegation will join the special, among them being Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Mrs. John Moyer, Mrs. Jack Kelley, Mrs. Phillip Pettit and several delegates whose names have not been made known.

The special train will leave Ranger at 1:20 this afternoon, will arrive in Abilene at 3:25 and be guests of the Abilene clubs at a tea.

This interesting program was enjoyed by a large appreciative audience.

MRS. LILLIE HARRISON ENTERTAINS WITH DANCE.

By far the most elaborate social event of the pre-Armistice season, was a private dance given Saturday night by Mrs. Lillie Harrison at the country club, which was enjoyed by some one hundred guests.

From McAllen, Texas, had been shipped great masses of Spanish moss and this was the background for all the decorations of the country club. Festeoned from the big wooden cross beams, draped over the immense fireplace, banded on the piano, forming a nook for the punch bowl, the graceful moss, formed an unusual setting for the entire affair and especially for the rest of the decorations, carried out in varicolored balloons, green vines and autumn flowers.

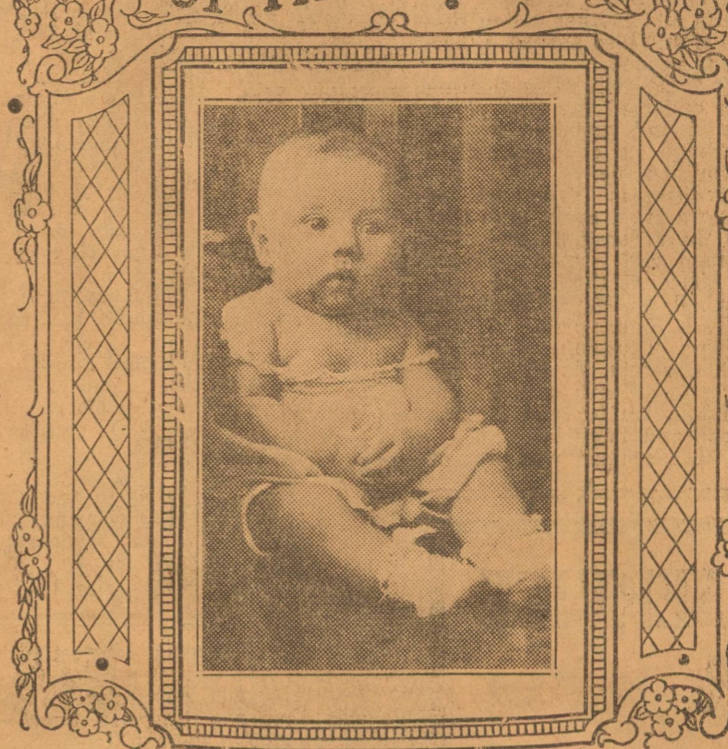

Added to the offerings of nature, were the balloons and many lantern shaped lights of the club, all covered with pastel shades, so as to create an atmosphere that suggested southern moons and romance, harmonizing with the importation from the valley.

A punch bowl, cleverly hidden in moss and vines, was a favorite resort for the dancers all during the evening, and refreshments of sandwiches and coffee, furnished another pleasing courtesy.

Music by Gus Coleman's Rainbow Serenade began at ten o'clock and continued on until it was time to play Home Sweet Home.

Guests were from a number of different towns and the list included Dr. Pettigee and Buster Watson of Strawn, Mrs. Lucas of Fort Worth and sister Miss Hill of Abilene, Mr. Kemp of Los Angeles, Mamie Sweeney of Cisco and the following Ranger guests: Messrs. and Mmes. D. H. Barnett, W. R. Bowden, Barney Carter, T. J. Champion, M. K. Collier, W. D. Conway, C. C. Craig, A. L. Duffer, E. E. Crawford, J. M. Gholson, J. D. Gholson, Howard Gholson, Louis Fleck, D. E. Murphy, Jones, Bagby, Chas. Dyar, Albert Dyar, T. L. Lauderdale, Van C. Tip-ton, Harry A. Logsdon, Roy Jameson, J. B. Stackable, Sam Thompson

Belles and Beaux OF THE FUTURE

She is Clara Fay Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Russell of Ranger. She is a real Irish type beauty with black hair and blue eyes and bids fair to be a real belle when she grows up.

TOMORROW IN THE WORLD OF FASHION

(Fashion Editor of Harper's Bazaar) NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The sweater and jersey cloth mode is one of the smartest in Paris at the moment. Heavy Jersey cloth, non-stretchable and of a texture resembling some new and flattering tweed, is used for an autumn sports ensemble by chanel. The jersey is woven in two dark shades of bottle green, which is shaded for the sports frock, combined with green satin, and for the long sports coat combined with light, almost cream colored fur. This is typical of the new use of the new jersey cloth, so different from the undependable sagging and unsympathetic fabric that jersey cloth started out to be.

Striped jersey is being used with plain fabric with extraordinary smart effect. O'Rossen, uses a wide, almost two-inch, striped jersey in shades of beige and rust, horizontally for the blouse of a three-piece costume.

For country club wear, or for motor-ing, a black and yellow heavy woolen diagonal weave fabric is used for a perfectly straight coat lined with jersey in the same shade of yellow and dark brown. An overblouse of the jersey uses the fabric with the stripes on the diagonal, and has a belt with a Galath buckle. The skirt matches the coat.

There is an air of perfect simplicity about these costumes that makes last season's jersey sports costumes look like something out of the gay nineties. There has been a curious refinement and a definite sophistication going on in sports costumes. Each small accessory that goes with these costumes must harmonize in spirit and material. The lizard bag from Hermes, the one with the "zipper" top that has become a classic; antelope slip-on gloves in beige or natural chamois gloves that slip on; reptile shoes, or combination kid and reptile, simply cut, of the oxford type, or the simple one-strap types; these are the logical complements for this type of costume. And always beige stockings; not a ping beige, but a tan beige.

"Modern" jewelry, made of gold and silver, combined in simple modern designs, like the jewelry of Dun-precious stones, is smartest with these clothes. Pearl chokers and earrings are often worn, particularly by American women, but they are not as smart as the newer stones and metal jewelry.

I have seen so many costumes of this type with the small skull-cap hat with ear-lans, or the beret and its variations, but these are really all wrong. The simple felt hat, like a man's hat, with a grosgrain or narrow felt band is much smarter.

Some of the houses in Paris are showing separate sweaters, hand-knitted in modern design in shades of brown and beige, dark green and light green, yellow brown, and shades of red, to be worn with jersey cloth or crepe skirts under tweed or jersey coats.

MRS. HARRISON GIVES DINNER PARTY ALSO. Mrs. Lillie Harrison not content with extending her hospitality to a hundred or more guests at a dance last night, entertained with a pretty dinner party, at the Gholson Hotel, prior to the dance. At tables gay in floral decorations, places were found by Mrs. J. L. Barnett, O. H. Miller, T. G. McCorkle, Messrs. L. P. and Dick Lawton, Art Conway, Miss Hill of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Jensen, Mrs. Lucas and sister from Fort Worth and the hostess.

AMARILLO.—Jack Wyatt, city health inspector, has an odd looking door weight in his office that even experienced dairymen would not recognize. It is a milk stool.

The stool is an arrangement of steel which looks like a foot stool. It is composed of a top and three legs and is easily sterilized.

CITY FEDERATION ENDORSES TREE PLANTING MOVEMENT

The city federation of Ranger met in its first regular meeting on Friday afternoon and swung right into action by cooperating with the men's clubs of the city in an extensive tree planting campaign.

Mrs. O. L. Phillips, president of the club presided and talks on what the city federation might accomplish in Ranger were made by Meses. E. H. Hodges, J. M. White, T. L. Lauderdale, E. H. Mills, Messrs. Wayne C. Hickey, Roy Gilbreath, B. A. Tunnel, M. K. Collie and S. P. Boon. All agreed that the organization of a city federation was a splendid move and the men delegates came with something specific in the way of work to offer at the first meeting.

Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of the Ranger chamber of commerce outlined briefly plans for a tree planting campaign that would need the cooperation of every home owner in Ranger.

M. K. Collie, who was later elected by acclamation as civic chairman, told of the tree planting campaign now under way in Breckenridge, where 5,000 trees are set for that city's goal. He stated that C. R. Webster of the forestry department of A. & M. college would come to Ranger just as he has to Breckenridge, without a cent of cost to the city—and make an investigation of the soil to see what kind of trees are best adapted to this town, as well as to help put over the campaign. Mr. Collie stated that the men's clubs would furnish the trees if the women would dig the holes and further stated that the college would also furnish a horticulturist, if needed.

The city federation after hearing these talks endorsed the tree planting campaign and promised to cooperate through its civic committee in every way possible.

This committee is composed of representatives from every club that has joined the federation and the following men and women compose its roster: Meses. L. C. G. Buchanan, R. B. Campbell, W. N. McDonald, E. H. Mills, T. L. Lauderdale, C. D. Woods, John Thurman, Saunders, Greg, G. D. Chastain, W. H. Burden, R. F. Holloway, Henrietta Ablard, Van C. Tipton, Duffer and Messrs. Hickey, Boon and Tunnel.

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman was present and in a brief talk made a plea for a community club house or auditorium where men and women's clubs can have their meetings and feel a pride of possession as well as create a real community center.

Mrs. R. H. Hodges read the by-laws and constitution of the federation. Clubs represented were the 1920 club by Meses. C. E. May and Chas. Moore, New Era club by Mrs. J. M. White, St. Rita's Altar Society by Mrs. Chas. Dyer and Mrs. W. N. McDonald, Delphian club by Mrs. H. C. Anderson, Woman's Missionary society of the First Christian church by Mrs. Herring, St. Mary's Guild by Mrs. T. L. Lauderdale, Childs Study club by Mrs. G. B. S. P. Boon was selected second vice president of the federation by acclamation.

The federation will meet the first Friday in each month.

CHARM CHATS
with Mrs. Ganette Serree

Ever feel as if you had been made of paper and then rained on? You know, something like the little pickaninny who said, "Shucks, they ain't no use o' nothin' nohow!"

Everything goes wrong. Grapefruit wooden, oatmeal watery, toast burnt.

Baby discovered with molasses pitcher amid gurgling pools on living room rug.

Cat catches neighbor's duckling. Much heated ado over backyard fence. Dog scratches up three prideful days work on flower bed and garden.

Cleaning and dyeing man returns favorite frock shrunken to unwearable proportions. Haggle, haggle!

Maid consecutively burns pie, drops electric iron to mortality, and takes a whole hour at the market to negotiate one listless head of lettuce. And keeps grinning.

Caller chooses creaky rocking chair. Man repairing gas stoves whistles through teeth.

Soap left floating in somebody's undrained bath. Toothpaste tube squeezed in the middle.

Postman deposits bulletins of concentrated grief. Bills. Bad news.

Contract Let For New Dormitory At Denton School

DENTON, Nov. 5.—The contract for the new dormitory of the College of Industrial Arts was given to Shirley Simons of Lufkin, who will act as architect, and W. W. Watkins of Houston, as associate architect, at a recent meeting of the board of regents.

The appropriation for the dormitory, amounting to $150,000, was made during the last session of the state legislature. The dormitory is to be built east of Lowry Hall. The questions of the exact site, financial arrangements, and time of construction of the building were left in the hands of the executive committee consisting of H. N. Fitzgerald, chairman; J. W. Deagan, and President L. H. Hubbard.

The regents also voted to extend the time during which college funds should be left with the Denton County National bank as depository to two years, beginning September 1, 1927. The bond as prepared by the attorney general was approved at this time.

And so on as long as the hours of the day progress.

But what do!

Borrow Cleopatra's asp a spell? Or put a stiletto through its paces? Well, here's another recipe. Try this first.

Get out and touch something real. Yes, the usual back-to-nature twaddle, if you see the original spirit of the phrase.

Put on some old togs and walk through the rain. Forget the umbrella and let it splash merrily in your face.

Steal out in the night and watch the magic starlight on frosted trees. Or in the thin morning hours and see the pearl mist turn gold in the east.

Make for the woods, or as far as the farthest carline will take you. Let your eyes rest on far horizons. Sniff the good earth odors. Take up with a rabbit or squirrel or wild pigeon; or falling these, some of the funny little crawly things under a fallen tree. Ever notice the eyes of forest things? Or even of hungry dog-waifs on city streets? There's something elusively meaningful in these things that smooths away the fretful hurts in our small workaday lives.

Chrysler Plant At Detroit Has Service School

A bulletin of unusual interest just sent out by the Chrysler Sales Corporation to its dealer organization announces that the Chrysler Service School is about to re-open its sessions at the factory in Detroit.

This school, now beginning its second year, proved to be remarkably successful last winter in point of attendance and of enthusiastic approval by those who went to Detroit to take advantage of its offerings.

The course is arranged for Chrysler service managers, shop superintendents and service field men, and is designed to put at the command of all the company's distributors and dealers the opportunity of providing in their home communities expert attention to every detail of practical and successful automobile service.

The course offered in the school covers every branch of service station operation. It includes among other subjects accounting, stock keeping, shop equipment, trouble diagnosis and correction, standardized maintenance and all technical and mechanical phases of Chrysler products.

Class lectures by selected experts in the famous Chrysler engineering and service staff are supplemented by actual demonstrations, illustrations and screen pictures. Many who attended the school last winter have reported to the company that not only has the training received proved invaluable but that the direct contact with others having the same problems and duties as themselves was found to be almost as profitable in their work after returning home.

The course prescribed requires a week's attendance. Sessions are held daily from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m., with an evening class Friday.

"From the very beginning of the company that bears his name Walter P. Chrysler has laid especial emphasis on the imperative necessity for providing continuously improving service to owners," said J. L. Kenyon, director of Chrysler Service, in explaining the purpose and plans of the Service School.

"He misses no opportunity to impress on his associates in this organization the part that service plays in determining customer satisfaction with car ownership and the vital need for constant endeavor to assure satisfaction. In the company's plants he has always made improved service a personal matter. He has encouraged the creation of new tools and machinery to make high grade service standard throughout the country's Chrysler organization.

"The development of the Service School was a logical extension of this unbroken policy. It trains Chrysler service managers and their important key men everywhere to use with the utmost efficiency the equipment evolved for them by the company and helps fulfill Mr. Chrysler's desire that every Chrysler owner have at his immediate command the assured ability to maintain his car at the highest point of satisfactory performance."

RANGER MAN CALLED TO BEDSIDE OF SICK MOTHER

Bob Wilson, of Ranger, was called to Rochester, N. Y., Thursday night by a message stating that his mother was dying. Friends drove Mr. Wilson to Fort Worth where he caught a train for that city. A wire today advised that he had arrived at his mother's bedside early enough for her to realize that he was with her, and that she was still alive.

A young man needn't look forward to being heavyweight champion or president any more. Any young fellow stands a chance of being chosen the average man.

MALT SALES BLAMED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Grand Jury Scores Sale of Malt, Caps and Cappers In Its Final Report.

That the wholesale and retail merchants of Eastland county who sell malt extracts, bottle cappers, and caps—with the possible exception of operators of stills—do more than anyone else to encourage the violation of the liquor laws in the county which, they state, are being openly and flagrantly violated, is the opinion of the 88th district court grand jury as expressed in their final report for the term just made to Judge Elzo Been.

The grand jury, which adjourned Thursday afternoon, was in session 13 days during the term, in which time they examined 265 witnesses and returned 128 true bills, all but one of which were on charges constituting felony.

The report stated that an examination of the county jail had been made and it was found to be well kept. Jailer "Dug" Barton was commended for the manner in which he performed his duties. Judge Been was also commended by the report.

The county attorney's department and the sheriff's department were highly commended in the report for their untiring efforts to suppress crime and the opinion was expressed that if the good citizens of the county would give these officers their co-operation and support they would rid this county of a large percent of the undesirable element.

In dealing with the liquor law violations and the violations of the automobile headlight laws, the report stated:

"We regret very much to report that our prohibition laws are being openly and flagrantly violated. We find many apparently good citizens who look upon our prohibition laws lightly. We realize that before this law can and will be enforced as it should it is going to require a concerted effort on the part of all law abiding citizens. There are several things which contribute to the violation of the above law. With the possible exception of the operations of stills, we firmly believe that the unscrupulous sales of malt extracts, bottle cappers and caps by the wholesale and retail merchants of the county does more to encourage the violation of this law than any other one thing. There has been shipped into this county this year two car loads of malt extracts alone and in our opinion five percent of this has not been used for legal purposes.

"We desire to call attention to the fact that many automobile owners

CISCO ORGANIZES TO FIGHT WILD ANIMALS

A move has been started at Cisco having for its purpose the organization of clubs for making war on predatory animals in Eastland county. Guy Dabney, Cisco banker, who organized trappers clubs in the San Angelo country a number of years ago that did much work in ridding that country of wolves, has suggested a plan for clubs to co-operate with government trappers.

The increasing number of goats, hogs, sheep, turkeys and chickens in Eastland county will make it necessary to start a fight on the wolves and other wild animals in order to protect the farm animals, it is declared.

Eastland Chamber Commence Move To New Quarters

The Eastland chamber of commerce is making preparations to move its headquarters the first of the week from the basement of the Texas State Bank building to the first floor of the Masonic Temple, which is located at the corner of South Mulberry and West Olive streets.

The chamber of commerce is moving because it needed to be on a ground floor, especially since the Bankhead Poultry Producers' association is to office with it and also because the space they now occupy is to be used by the Eastland county clerk when he moves out of the old court house. The Masonic Temple was the only building suitable for the use of the chamber of commerce and this was tendered the chamber of commerce by the Masonic lodge.

Clock Plays Many Tunes

A clock that plays tunes has just been put on display in London. Every part is hand made and engraved, and the timepiece is believed to be the only one of its kind in the world. It is a perfect timekeeper, chimes every quarter of the hour on eight bells, and at the hour after striking, plays one of six tunes on 14 bells, concealed in a gilt wooden box. The tunes are "Auld Lang Syne," "The Blue Bells of Scotland," "Robt' Adair," "Caller Herring," a Scotch reel and the Scotch national anthem. The clock was made in Glasgow, and required two years to construct. Some of the parts are minute and are perfect in detail.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO AID IN EASTLAND COUNTY

Judge Pritchard and Commissioner V. V. Cooper Lay Matter Before Department Member.

County Judge Ed S. Pritchard of Eastland and County Commissioner V. V. Cooper of Ranger, just returned from Abilene where they had a conference with Highway Commissioner W. R. Ely with reference to Eastland county roads and are highly elated with the outlook for improvement of Eastland county's splendid system of highways.

Commissioner Ely told the Eastland county representatives that the present administration expected to do more for Eastland county in the way of road work than the former administration had done. He said District Engineer Early was being sent into Eastland county to make a complete survey of the needed work.

While no definite program of work to be done in the county was outlined it is considered almost certain that the Bankhead highway, especially that portion of it between Eastland and Cisco, will be repaired. The Ranger-Pleasant Grove road, a portion of which adjoins the city of Ranger, has not yet been paved, will also be completed and possibly designated as a state highway and the maintenance of it taken over by the state.

At both Carbon and Gorman the highways leading through the towns is not paved. This may also be paved and the Gorman road extended east from Gorman to the Comanche-Eastland county line where it would connect with the road now being improved by the state. This same highway, No. 63, would be repaired and possibly parts of it reconstructed between Carbon and Eastland.

Other projects contemplated is the graveling or hardsurfacing of the Eastland-Carbon-Okra-Rising Star road and the Eastland-Staff-Stephenville-Desdemona road and the taking over of these roads by the state for maintenance purposes.

Highway No. 23 would also be considered and it is likely that that portion of the road from Cisco northwest would be completed, and the south end of the line in Eastland county, particularly between Romney and Rising Star, reconstructed and repaired.

The Cisco-Lee Ray road would also be repaired and put in good condition.

In fact Judge Pritchard and Commissioner Cooper feel that the entire system of roads in Eastland county on which some $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 have been spent, will be fully rounded out and those parts of it that have not been taken over by the state be taken over for maintenance purposes.

Not only has America been producing too much oil, but a lot of entirely superfluous oil cans.

Graham Brothers Sales Reflect Better Business

Greater business activity throughout the country is indicated by the present record demand for motor truck division of Dodge Brothers, Inc. For the two weeks ended Oct. 22, 2969 Graham Brothers trucks were shipped to dealers on customers' orders. This is the largest two-week period for Graham Brothers this year. While production at the Graham Brothers plants in Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto has been stepped up several times in the last two months, orders have kept pace and those now on hand total more than 2,500.

Advance schedules indicate that the number of Graham Brothers trucks shipped during Oct. will exceed even the big total reached in Sept. when 5,107 vehicles went to dealers on customers' orders. September in turn showed an increase in shipments of 17.2 per cent over August.

Graham Brothers complete line of trucks, augmented by the new 1-2 ton panel delivery car, just announced, has never before proven so universally popular, Graham Brothers statement points out, and the present general business activity gathers momentum, new records are predicted.

This bulletin, which has been prepared in the Bureau of Economic Geology of the university, contains a detailed account of the geology immediately around Fort Stockton, including a geologic map. The bulletin and map were prepared by W. S. Adkins, associate geologist in the Bureau of Economic Geology. The bulletin contains an account of the physiographic and geologic features of the region. UGLY GIRLS WORST WIVES.

Ugly girls make the worst wives, according to the latest prison report in Japan. The moral for Nippon's young men appears to be not to marry ugly girls, but to choose the prettiest they can find. At all events, this is the advice of the prison authorities at Tochi prefecture. They declare that the majority of criminal women are ugly. But officials say that perhaps there are not many ugly girls in Japan, for women inmates of Japanese prisons number only 910 in comparison with a total of more than 41,000 men.

Mrs. Ablard Asks Co-Operation In Health Campaign

The number of cases of communicable diseases appearing among Ranger school children renders the work of Mrs. Ablard, school health nurse, doubly difficult. Parents are requested to co-operate therefore to the end that such diseases may be reduced to a minimum and thus lessen the financial burden, as well as the suffering and loss of school time to the children.

Concerning these diseases Mrs. Ablard quotes the following rules: "When a child is known to have any communicable disease, viz measles, whooping cough, mumps, diphtheria, German measles, chicken pox, scarlet fever, he must be excluded from school for 21 days (at the discretion of the local health officer), from the onset of the disease and such additional time as may be considered necessary and may be re-admitted on a certificate by the health officer, attesting to his recovery and non-infectiousness.

"Minor diseases to be excluded during illness and re-admitted on a certificate by attending physician, attesting their recovery and non-infectiousness. Vaccination against small pox and the compulsory education law, which to some minds may seem burdensome, is really a blessing to both parents and children. Every child should be vaccinated against small pox before attending school, thus sparing them suffering and expense.

A test to determine whether a child will contract diphtheria may be made, at a very small cost and if the child is not immune may receive treatment to protect him against the disease.

The Dick test for scarlet fever, at a somewhat greater cost, can be secured in a like manner as for diphtheria. These tests and treatments are available at a small cost through the purchasing power of the city and through state public health service to the board of health of the city of Ranger. Mrs. Ablard or Dr. J. B. Stackable, city health officer, will give any information that may be desired in regard to the above tests.

Ranger Woman Seriously Hurt In Car Accident

Mrs. Katherine Williams, wife of Geo. T. Williams, of Ranger, is in the City-County hospital, Ranger, in a precarious condition, following an automobile accident early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Williams was returning from the Lone Star Plant, where she had taken Mr. Williams to work when something evidently went wrong with the steering apparatus of the car, as it was found on the wrong side of the road, turned over in a ditch.

Lindsay Walters, driver of a West Texas Coach, arrived on the scene about the time two other men reached there and found Mrs. Williams lying under the car. Others came and lifted the car off of the injured woman and she was placed in the bus and brought to the hospital.

Her injuries consist of a double fracture of the right leg, a back and head injury and shock. Saturday she was unconscious and her condition is considered grave.

Walters said that he thought she was unconscious when they picked her up, although she seemed to be stumbling.

Mrs. Williams was driving a Ford touring car when the accident happened. As soon as possible her family, consisting of her husband, a grown daughter, Mrs. Geo. Rogers and other children were notified and have been at her bedside constantly since that time.

Mrs. Williams is a prominent member of the Methodist church and has many friends who are shocked and grieved over the terrible accident.

The Second time

It's home, but it isn't perfect. You know more now than when you first hung up those curtains and moved your furniture in. You have lived with those walls, bookcases, radiators, cups and saucers long enough to know their merits and demerits. The kind you would buy the second time, and the kind you wouldn't buy. If you and Sarah could start all over again, you'd profit from that experience. Avoid what has proved unwise—study advertisements, home furnishing pamphlets—let the potatoes scorch and the lima beans boil dry—just comparing new refrigerators, bathtubs, patterns of delicate china. You'd want to make sure what you bought this time would please you as much tomorrow as today.

Yet day by day you are making that home-place over. "We do need some new curtains." "Hadn't we better get some butter knives?" The only difference is a gradual instead of a wholesale affording. And by knowing the advertisements you know the future of what you buy. You know by name, for instance, the curtains that won't sag or fade.

All the wisdom that your windows, your electric washer and ironer, the wind, sun, rain would write out for you slowly about those curtains, season by season—you get in one swift reading of the curtain advertisements. Experience usually deals with the past. With advertisements, it deals with the future! You buy the now and the will-be when you buy advertised wares.

Read the advertisements to know what is advertised—what is certain to satisfy you.

A daily reading of the advertisements prepares you for happy, safe Choices first times as well as second times—every time you buy.

NORFLEET The Manhunter's Own True Story As told to Gordon Hines. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. IMPERIAL PRESS—SUGAR LAND, TEXAS

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD. Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher, is swindled out of $45,000 by a gang led by Joe Furey, and he resolves to destroy the ring. He starts out following vague clues and his pursuit leads him back and forward across the country several times. Finally he gets a tip that leads him to Jacksonville and his young son accompanies him. They find Joe Furey in a Jacksonville restaurant. After a bitter fight which creates a near riot the police lead Norfleet, Pete and Furey to the station where Furey is about to be released on a cash bond when Norfleet shows the sergeant a warrant endorsed by the governor of Florida. He reluctantly turns the man over to them. A sheriff's deputy offers to drive them to the Georgia line. Norfleet is anxious to get his man out of Florida to avoid legal complications. After starting with them, the deputy suddenly recalls a previous engagement and gets them to engage another car for the trip. He suggests that they drive to a flag station, a few miles away and wait in the woods there until time to flag a limited train which would be the quickest way out of the state. Arriving at the flag station, Furey offers to reimburse Norfleet for his losses if he will release him. Furey gives Pete a note to the secretary of the fake stock exchange in Jacksonville, instructing him to pay young Norfleet $20,000 "on account." Pete returns to Jacksonville to get the money and the luggage left behind and Norfleet and Furey wait in the woods near the flag station. Furey bemoans the fact that they had swindled Norfleet in the first place.

chalk white. Then the blood came rushing back to his face and he was angry. He tried to read my face and believed that he did—fortunately for me and my bluff. "God Almighty, Norfleet! Did they squeal on me?" I nodded wisely. "The dirty— hounds! He almost screamed. "I paid them twenty thousand dollars! They had me at my home in Glendale and they set their price at twenty thousand! I swear blood to get that money!— I took part of it from my little boy!—the damned sons of snakes!" He covered his face with his hands, rending the air with curses, anathematizing Lips and Anderson with every known term. The veins in his hands swelled out as if they would burst, and he was so passionately angry that he trembled in every muscle. I tried to be casual, to conceal my excitement over this revelation. "I thought, Furey, that you were the one who always got the money." He could not answer for the moment. "I was afraid he was going to have an apoplectic stroke before I could drag the whole story from him. "I know they got the money, Furey,—know it all along. I think they lied to me about how they got it and How much they got. What's the straight of it? How did they manage it?" But Furey couldn't compose his mind. He rubbed his hands together, jingling the chains of his handcuffs, and his breath came in labored spasms. He didn't answer my question. "Norfleet, I haven't had one minute's peace since I left you in Fort Worth, except for the brief time I was in Europe. I should have stayed there. The first day I set my feet on American soil, I learned that you were hot on my trail. Remember when I got away in the boat at Key West? I went to England. But I couldn't stay there. I had friends there, but I couldn't fit into their English scheme and there was the wife and kid back in Glendale." His voice broke and he stopped for a moment. "When I got back home my little boy ran out to greet me, throwing his arms about my neck. I knelt down to catch him in my arms and those two bulls ran out of the house and pounced on me, tearing me away from the boy." He was almost sobbing. "I made a desperate break for liberty. The baby threw himself between me and the officers and I leaped over one of them and dashed into the house. My wife saw me and called out in a frightened voice 'Joe! Joe!' but I dared not stop. I raced out the back door and through the yard, the officers behind me. I made a high jump to lock my hands over the eight-foot fence. If I had got over into the orchard, I'd have had an open course to the park and a fifty-fifty chance. My belt caught on something, and I was held tight, struggling to get over. The officers hailed bullet about me and I finally fell into the soft earth. I thought, I was done for." He shifted on the stump, then resumed: "I wasn't long learning why they hadn't tried to hit me. A dead man can't pay off. Oh, if I had ever dreamed they intended to sell me out!" I was watching his face and, just then, I caught a peculiar flicker as if he had seen something. He was looking over my shoulder very intently. Suddenly, he shifted his gaze, glancing furtively at me. I could see that he was trying to be calm. I heard a slight rustle in the shrubs. "There was some one hidden behind me!" I jumped back out of Furey's reach and turned for an instant. I was looking squarely into a saved-off shot-gun, not sixty steps away! It was jerked back instantly. I sprang behind Furey and pressed my old forty-five against his head, just below the ear.

"Furey," I bellowed, so that the mysterious party could hear. "I'm selling out at a high price! Another crooked move over there in the brush will send you straight to hell! You'll never take me from me alive! You'd better tell them to go back where they came from!" Furey shook as one palsied. "Go back, men! Go back!" For God's sake don't start anything!" he implored over and over again. Not a leaf stirred. Not a twig cracked. The silence was deafening. My ears roared. Furey was throwing a fit on the stump, and it was hard to keep the cold steel against his ear. I admonished him to sit still, giving him a slight jab with the gun point. He uttered a little. My hope lay in Furey's head against the gun. I saw that I was looking death squarely in the face. Furey must have had a similar thought, for his suppications made the woods ring. The shotgun started nonplused.

There was not the slightest rustle of sound. "Listen, you!" I shouted. "You're over there in the palms. Stand up so I can see you! NOW!" I drew my other gun and held it in their direction. Four men sprang up like jumping jacks, their heads and shoulders above the shrubs. They were city men—probably good friends of the head deputy who was so solicitous of our welfare. He was the only man who knew where we had gone. These men were at least twenty steps nearer than the place where I had first seen the shotgun. They had been creeping up on me until I called for a showdown. A little closer and they would have had a broadside shot at me, and Furey would have been a free man. I calculated the range of their blunderbusses. I knew what my forty-five would do, and, since a sawed-off shotgun has a shorter range, I "Confidentially, Gentlemen, I'm With the J. P. Morgan Company" Image of a man in a suit and hat sitting in a chair.

Warning: You can escape them. Always consult your banker before making an investment. They are trained to detect fraud; to protect you from the depredations of the human wolf packs. Suave, well-dressed, dynamic, he looks the part, wins the confidence of the victim who has been carefully groomed for the slaughter. Step by step the sucker is led into the cleverly laid trap to be fleeced of all his savings; left to despair or die. Norfleet, in his story now appearing daily in this paper, reveals the hidden secrets of the underworld, exposes the methods of the master crooks; shows how they rob all classes of people, openly boasting that no one is clever enough to elude their traps. CITIZEN'S STATE BANK Every year the American public invests $600,000,000 in worthless securities or confidence schemes. Don't Be One of the Suckers!

hoped to keep them at a disadvantage. Furey must have sensed that, if it was to be a battle, it was now ready to start popping.

"Go back!" he cried, frantically. "Never mind who sent you or what you were told to do! Just go back! Go back!"

They stood in a row and stared, moving not an inch.

"Men," I demanded, as calmly as possible, "what is your business here? What do you want?"

One of them answered in a surly voice:

"You — old fool! Our business is to find out what your business happens to be!"

"Gentlemen—I hated to use that word—I am an officer of the law. This man is my prisoner. I am attending to my own business and I don't need your help. I expect it would be better for you all if you moved farther away!"

They moved closer together and talked in low tones, glancing up as Furey let out another yell for them to go away. Then they moved slowly back to the roadside and stood watching.

Long shadows stretched over us and across the road. The sun was lowering and its fading rays were split into streaks by the tall pines. The jungle-like wood was still as death. I wondered what time it was. Furey cast a nervous glance at the sun and fidgeted.

"Furey, Pete should have been here by this time."

He jumped and my gun patted his neck. He was extremely wrought up.

"For God's sake! Don't you hear a word about him! He'll be back before sunset, with the money! See, the sun is still yellow!"

"And so are you," I retorted, "but it will be black for you if that boy doesn't come back!"

Furey seemed to hear something and put his hand to his ear to amplify the sound.

"Listen!" he exclaimed. "Listen! I hear him coming! Don't you hear a car? Hear it? He'll be here in a minute now!" The man was almost in tears.

A car shot into view, coming toward us from the direction of Jacksonville. It ran up near the group of men, turned about and circled, headed back toward Jacksonville.

Three men got out, each armed with a riot gun. Furey groaned. The newcomers walked toward the other four men and a conference was held with each of them glancing occasionally furtive looks in our direction.

Things looked bad—worse than before.

"Furey," I said grimly, "if you've got anything you want to get off your conscience, you'd better unload. It looks like sundown for both of us!"

"Norfleet!" he cried, pleadingly, "what do you mean? You're not going to kill me? Oh, my God, man! DON'T!"

"It looks like my time has come," I replied, "and I'm not going alone if I can help it. If you've got anything you want to square with your Maker it looks like now is the time to be square."

Furey screamed: "Men! Men! Go back, for God's sake! Don't start anything! Go back! I'll take my chances alone!"

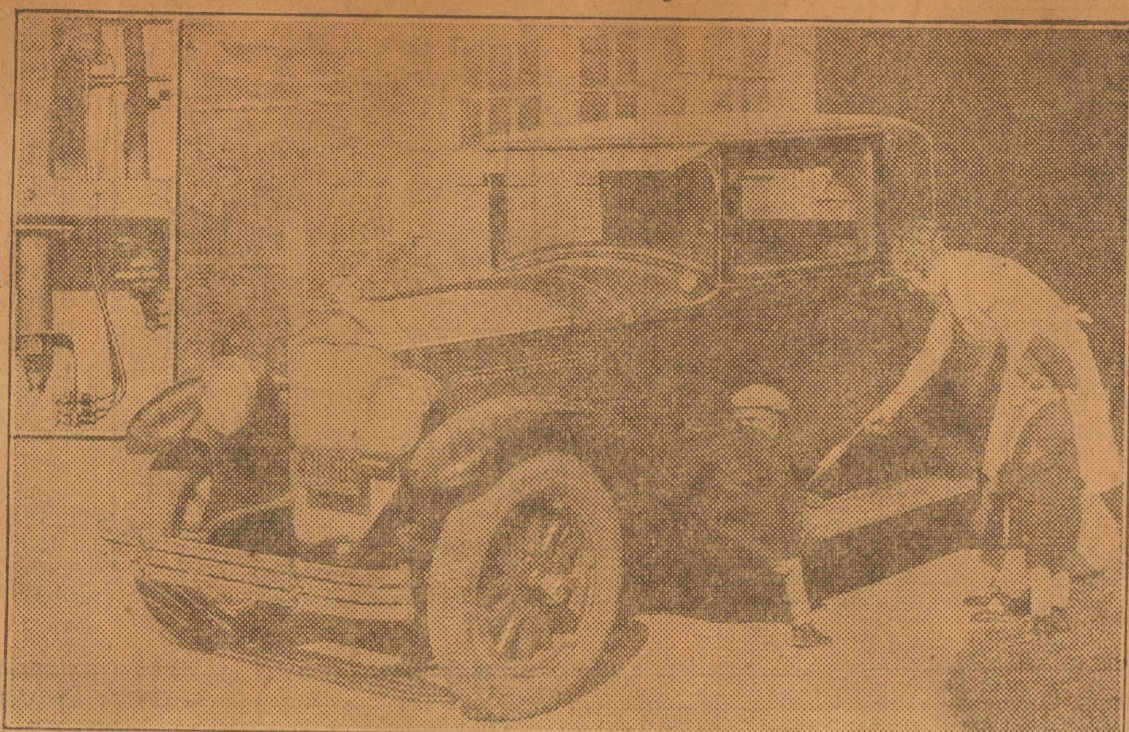

The men stood and stared. The sun had melted into a glowing red and its lower rim had touched the horizon.

It was the biggest, reddest sun I had ever seen. Perhaps I'd never look upon it again. I began to wonder if I hadn't better square a few matters with my Maker myself. I didn't want Furey to fare better in the hereafter than I. I couldn't help hoping we wouldn't both land in the same place.

The men examined their guns and scattered as if to surround us.

Buick Lubrication Easy and Positive

The ease with which Buick for 1928 may be greased is one of its outstanding features. There is no need of crawling under the car, for inaccessible chassis points are reached with grease gun through trapdoors in running board apron, as shown here. Inset shows portion of chassis with cluster of grease connections and extensions which make possible this refinement. Rear end connections are similarly extended.

Prohibition Has Hobbled Liquor Traffic In U.S.

By ROONEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON.—Down at Staunton Military academy, some of the boys began telling young Lamar Pickett that prohibition was a flop.

Haw, haw!

Lamar happens to be the son of the renowned Mr. Deets Pickett, research secretary for the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. Mr. Pickett probably knows as much about prohibition as any other man in the United States. One of the best things he does is to tell people about it.

"Dear Dad," wrote Lamar, "I wish you would send me all the data on prohibition you can rake up. Some of these boys claim that prohibition is a big flop. One fellow claims that the United States government has published statistics admitting that there are 200,000 bootleggers in the United States. Is that right?"

"Particularly have you any statistics regarding Buffalo?" My roommate says there is more hooch being sold there than ever before. Please try to send this information as soon as possible.

"LAMAR."

Mr. Pickett began by telling Lamar that it was a promising indication for the future national welfare when boys began to discuss great public questions independently among themselves. Here are some of the things the Staunton boys have been hearing lately from Lamar:

"Prohibition came after 100 years of discussion and experimenting with many other methods of handling the liquor traffic and liquor evil. . . . The liquor traffic corrupted the political organization in the cities and the nation. This corruption became perfectly amazing, so much so that an investigation by a senate committee during the war period revealed that brewers were actively hostile to the interests of America in an organized way.

"Submission of a constitutional amendment was preceded by thousands of prohibition victories in local option elections and state elections. . . . Certain people, sections and communities refuse to accept this verdict in regard to the question, although it has been reached by exactly the processes outlined by the men who made the American republic. The majority of the people in New York city, and other great cities where large masses of immigrants from Europe have been kept uninformed in regard to American institutions and ideas, led by some of their great newspapers, have tried to break prohibition down."

"Brewery owners and other liquor interests, wrote Mr. Pickett, had urged violation of the law and tried to 'create the impression that smart people, fashionable people, etc., do violate the law.'

"The existing situation is undoubtedly bad. Any situation in regard to liquor must be bad, but there is enormously less liquor consumed in the country today than before prohibition. . . . No body can run as fast with a brick tied on each foot and we have succeeded in tying a brick to each foot of the liquor traffic, which is still hobbling along."

"The benefits to the country have been marvelous," Mr. Pickett wrote, and cited business prosperity, higher standards of living, lower death rate, higher school and college attendance, less crime among boys, increased savings banks and so on.

Buffalo is a bad place, he told Lamar, but total arrests there had decreased 21 per cent and arrests for intoxication 32.4 per cent. Furthermore, the government had issued no statement about 200,000 bootleggers.

"With best wishes for all your friends, I am Yours affectionately, Dad."

Perhaps the most picturesque event of next week's show will be an exhibition of four-in-hands, driven by some of the famous "whips" of the horse nineties.

Four historic coaches, including William H. Vanderbilt's "Venture," Reggie Rieves' "Pioneer," and the famous old "Tantivy"—vehicles which covered many a mile in the days when a smart four-in-hand was the equivalent of the Twentieth Century Limited—will be driven around the ring on exhibition twice a day.

Sportsmen worth millions will be on the boxes "tooling" the four-in-hands, while from the box of each a veteran guard will "wind" the five-foot horn which in the old days always announced the coach's arrival at a town relay station.

SHANGHAI.—Nearly a year ago an aged woman appeared on the Garden bridge in the heart of the Settlement for the purpose of begging. She ignored police warnings and was finally arrested. She gave her age as 98 years and was discharged by the judge. Promptly she returned to the Garden bridge and renewed her soliciting. She was arrested and released six times in as many days. After each release she returned to the bridge. The exasperated police at last gave up and she now begs on the bridge unmolested.
