LINEMAN BLINDED THEN ROBBED IN EASTLAND ROOMING HOUSE

POCKET BOOK WITH $300 IN MONEY GONE

Blinding Substance Is Thrown Into Eyes Of The Victim

David H. Armer is today in the Eastland sanitarium suffering from burned eyes incurred when an unknown assailant threw acid or some other substance in his eyes and robbed him of $300 while he was sleeping at a rooming house on East Commerce street, Eastland, Monday night.

Armer stated this morning that he had retired about 9 o'clock and that about 12 o'clock he awoke with a burning sensation in his eyes and on getting up found that he was totally blind. He thought for the moment that it might be gas and applied hot water to his eyes but gained no relief. He had placed a pocket book containing the money under his pillow on retiring and on returning from washing his eyes he reached for it and found it was missing.

The room in which Armer slept is located at the top of the stairs in a rooming house. Four men occupy the one room and Armer was sleeping with a friend of his with whom he is working, W. E. Haynes. Stanley Heath, Armer and his friend are all occupants of the one room. Armer managed to wake the other occupants of the room and they took him to a hospital for treatment and notified the police.

Entrance to the room is by both front and back doors. Mrs. Graham, proprietor of the place, said this morning that she sleeps next to the front entrance and did not hear anyone enter the room and did not awaken until the occupants of the room were taking Armer to the hospital.

The nature of the substance that was used in blinding Armer has not been determined by the attending physicians and it is not known whether it was acid or pepper. The outer surface of the eye is not burned to any great degree, although the eyeballs are slightly sore.

Armer has been in Eastland only four days. He and the friends he was sleeping with came here last Thursday from Effingham, Ill., and both are employed as linemen with the Texas Electric Service company of this city.

Armer stated that he had no idea as to his assailant and did not know how long the robbery occurred before he felt the burning in his eyes. The Eastland sheriff department has made no arrests in connection with the robbery.

Fad Has No Place In School of Beauty

Instructions Are All Common Sense, Normal Suggestions for Normal Minded People

Madame Serree who is conducting a charm school at the American Legion Hall, Ranger, this week, under the auspices of the Ranger Times and Eastland Telegram, is in no way a fadist. She does not offer her classes any food fads nor instruct them to do anything but normal things. She urges them to drink plenty of water and has told them that a constructive diet with proper exercise will bring about certain healthy conditions. Where questions come up that are out of her province, such as the treatment of goiter, cancer, etc., she advises that questioner to see a physician.

In speaking of food Madame Serree advised her hearers to plan their menus with less meat, less white bread and fewer sweets, using instead more leafy vegetables and recommended the use of bran as a daily food. She told her audience that she had no formula that would work over night as it required time to correct conditions that have been existing for years. She laughingly asked the women present to dedicate the cathartics in their medicine cabinets to a past age at the same time by exercise and formulas showing them how to internal bath and exercises would replace those old time remedies.

"Every housewife must have some daily exercise in her home—ten minutes a day is enough if followed faithfully and then to the the sweat strains of exercise were included in this interesting demonstration. Madame Serree talked to women who long ago graduated from the geometry class but aroused instant interest when she told Monday's class that make up should be placed on the face according to the geometry of that face, as the way make up was placed on the human face affected its length and breadth. "An extremely long face can be made to look round and full by the proper placing of rouge and make up," Madame Serree said, and promised to show them just how this could be done at Tuesday afternoon's session, when the art of making up, the use of cosmetics, color of powder, rouge and lipstick to suit individual types will be explained and demonstrated.

Questions Answered. The question box brought forth many questions, ranging from "How old are you?" to "do you believe in Christian Science?" Madame Serree laughed when she picked up the question as to her own age and standing before her audience like the personification of youth for one breathless minute she led her (Continued on page three)

Several thousand ministers and laymen of the church had arrived this afternoon for the opening of the annual state Baptist convention tomorrow.

Old Stockholders Lincoln Company Sue Henry Ford

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 15.—Henry Ford was sued today for $6,000,000 by 2,000 stockholders in the old Lincoln Motor Car company, who allege Ford failed to keep a verbal promise to buy their stock when he bought the company from a federal court receiver in 1922. The suit was filed by Henry M. Leand, and his son, Wilfred C. Leand, president and vice president of the original Lincoln firm.

STAFFORD DRUG STORE ROBBED MONDAY NIGHT

Burglars Get Small Amount Money and Forty-Two Pints of Whiskey.

Forty-two pints of whiskey and $9.05 in money were stolen from Stafford Drug Store, 212 Main street, Ranger, some time during last night. According to Chief Jim Ingram of the Ranger police force, the thief broke out and not in, as the indications are that whoever committed the robbery was locked in the store last night. The thief effected an exit by breaking a bar that held a chain and padlock, attached to the back door.

R. R. Stafford, proprietor of the store stated this morning that he had attended a hospital board meeting and came in last night before it was time to close up the store for the night. He had some checking-up work in the back room to do and worked in the rear and that his force were busy putting goods in show cases behind the counters, until 10 o'clock. Mr. Stafford stated that it was the custom of the store to go over the premises each night before closing, to search for any possible miscreant that might be hidden and this was done last night as thoroughly as usual. He, armed with a flashlight, examined the rear of the store. He found two light under counters, behind stored goods, and the only place that he did not happen to flash his light last night was a cabinet in the rear of the store where he said it might have been possible for some one to have been hidden.

The loss was not discovered as soon as the store opened for business today. The store had been open about an hour when one of Mr. Stafford's employees asked him something about the cash in the register and it was then found that the cash was missing. Mr. Stafford immediately went to the back and found the back door closed but unlocked. An examination of the room wherein Mr. Stafford stored his prescription whiskey, revealed that the lock had been picked open and the contents of the whiskey room were gone. There was one full case and part of a case missing, making a total of 5 1-4 gallons. So far nothing else in the store has been missed.

The back door is so constructed that it apparently could not be opened from the inside and today the door is sprung so that it will catch as it swings to as it did before the robbery. It looks as though a crowbar had been used in breaking the bar that held the padlocked chain that secured it.

Marks of the chisel or file that was used in opening the door in the whiskey room, which is under the stairs in the front of the store, are very plain. The police department has no clue as to the identity of the thief, but is investigating the affair. Chief Jim Ingram said that the thief broke out and not in, as every indication was that he or they were in the store when it was closed for the night, but hidden so as not to be detected as the force of the store made their nightly rounds.

Chief Ingram said that inasmuch as nothing was torn up, the theft was committed by some one familiar with the lay of the store and by some one who wanted whiskey and knew where to find it.

Nationalists Enter Wuchang Reports Say

SHANGHAI, Nov. 15.—The Nanjing nationalist troops occupied the city of Wuchang, Monday night. Reports from Hankow indicate that city is quiet. Wuchang is the capital of the Chinese province of Hupen, on the Yangtze river, opposite Hankow. It is a walled town, the seat of great native and foreign trade and has cotton mills and factories. Its population is estimated between 500,000 and 600,000.

Woman Taken To Hospital After Crash Of Autos

Mrs. F. O. Fidler of Olden is in the City-County hospital, Ranger, suffering from wounds sustained about her head, when she was thrown from a car in which she, her husband and two children were driving early this morning, when their car collided with another car on top of Turber Hill. The cars, an Oldsmobile and Nash sedans, are both badly wrecked. Ella Mae Fidler 5, and Jack Fidler, 3, were also brought to the hospital following the accident but they sustained only minor injuries. The father was not hurt.

Accounts as to how the accident happened are meager as it has been impossible to get in touch with Mr. Fidler or the driver of the other car.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 15.—Miraculously saved after they had clung for 72 hours to the roof of the after house of a wrecked schooner in the north Atlantic, seven survivors of the four masted schooner Adelaide Day, of Georgetown, N. C., arrived in port here today aboard the rescue ship, Gulf Light.

The crew was rescued last Tuesday after their schooner was flooded and on the verge of sinking. The boat was proceeding toward Bridgeport, Conn., with a cargo of lumber when she ran into a storm.

Road Contracts Are Let By State Highway Body

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—Despite the recent warnings of highway commissioner Cone Johnson, that the body would be hunting a way to meet its obligations by December, the State Highway Commission Monday afternoon granted state aid to counties totaling $707,466 and let contracts for work costing $319,585. Hearing of applications continued today.

Chairman R. S. Sterling, who answered Johnston's charge that the commission was broke with a financial statement showing large sums available, yesterday was opposing some of the grants and Johnson favoring them.

TORNADO HITS NEAR WILLOW SPRINGS, MO.

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo., Nov. 15.—A tornado swept the edge of Willow Springs today and destroyed considerable property. Several persons narrowly escaped injury when roofs were blown from their homes. The tornado missed the business section but played havoc to trees and buildings in the edge of town.

TWENTY-ONE BODIES ARE TAKEN TO MORGUE

More Than Hundred In Hospitals Yet, The Reports Show

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Pittsburgh's relief army struggled today with the task of rescue and reconstruction in the demolished manufacturing district. From reports of squads which have penetrated the ruin caused by the explosion of two large storage tanks of the Equitable Gas company it was believed the death list might reach 50.

Twenty-one bodies have been taken to the morgue. Six were reported to be in a huge tank of water at the scene of the explosion and early today rescuers said they had found 23 more bodies in 16 feet of water in the basement beneath the wrecked plant of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot company.

Debris of twisted steel beams and timbers hindered the recovery of bodies. Seventeen bodies in the morgue have been identified. The list of missing mounted hourly and ranged in estimates from 10 to 40. An accurate check of the injured was impossible. Hundreds who received minor injuries were given treatment at hospitals and discharged. Others received first aid treatment from private doctors and at improvised first aid stations. More than 100 remained in hospitals today. A score of these were reported critically injured.

Governor Faces Problem Due to Death of Tobin

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—Governor Moody faces one of his most important appointments from a political standpoint as a result of the death of Mayor John Tobin of San Antonio.

The governor does not appoint Tobin's successor, but District Attorney Mack Chambers is almost sure of being Mayor Tobin's successor, it is believed. If he is, the appointment of a new district attorney for Bexar county will be up to the governor. Friends of Tom Newton are urging that the post be given to him. Chambers' friends are said to be urging Lamar Seelgison an assistant under Chambers.

San Antonio is recognized as one of the pivotal sections in determining Moody's strength, especially in the early days of his campaign before politicians began to "climb on the wagon."

It was announced support of the late Mayor Tobin that cinched San Antonio for Moody. Chambers recently was in conference with Moody. He sharply denied that he was feeling out the governor or on his probable successor, if he should resign as district attorney.

The attorney general's office will also be interested in the appointment as Assistant Attorney General Galloway Calhoun is acting with District Attorney Chambers in seeking to prevent dog racing near San Antonio. Seelgison personally voted for Moody. His father, an influential figure in Bexar county politics, supported Mrs. Miriam Ferguson's reelection.

Prohibition is Chief Issue at Colorado Polls

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Prohibition was the chief issue as voters went to the polls here today in a special congressional election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Representative William N. Valle.

S. Harrison White, former justice of the state supreme court, the democratic nominee, has vigorously supported modification of the Volstead act. State Senator Francis J. Knauss, republican, opposes any change in the prohibition laws.

COLORADO MAY BE INVADED BY I. W. W. REBELS

Nation-Wide Call Issued for Foot Loose Rebels to Come to Aid of Coal Strikers.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Colorado today prepared for a possible wholesale invasion by I. W. W. coal strike sympathizers from industrial centers throughout the country. Following a nation-wide call for the "foot-loose rebels" of the I. W. W. in the nation to go on strike duty in Colorado issued by "industrial solidarity," national organization of the I. W. W., authorities awaited arrival of the invaders.

Fight Promised When Committee Starts On Rates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The house ways and means committee today continued drafting a new tax reduction measure with differences over minor administrative matters indicating a strong fight later over major principles.

Republicans who are seeking to limit the cut to the $225,000,000 fixed by the administration received encouragement today in the support of Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee who now advocates the administration figure.

Formerly he stood for a $300,000,000 cut. The committee probably will be busy for two or three days on administrative features of the law, before it gets to the highly controversial rate schedule hinging around the estate tax, the corporation taxes, surtaxes, automobiles, amusement and "nuisance" taxes.

PROGRESSIVE AND ORIGINAL.
(From the Fort Worth Record-Telegram.)
Eastland county is in process of erecting a new courthouse. That is an interesting piece of news, as word of development of West Texas always is, but it becomes especially interesting when the fact is brought out by the architect's drawing that Eastland county officials are so "modern" that the orthodox courthouse with the waste space, the towering spire and the dome that must be its Siamese twin has been discarded for the modern office building type of architecture.

The architect's drawing shows a massive appearing structure with dignity and utility displayed in every lineament. It is "modern." That the other counties of West Texas will depart from the ancient regulations governing courthouse and city hall architecture we may well take for granted. Every county in that most progressive subdivision of Texas will be in the market for public buildings in the next few years. Then Texas will be due to create some new species of "surprise" in the minds of the cross country tourists who have never been able to visualize Texas from a map.

Eastland is to be congratulated. We need nothing in Texas quite so much as to come to be known as originally progressive. We should make our new buildings objects of appearance and utility to the point that they will help advertise Texas. City and county—even state—buildings of the present time are office buildings. They are as much headquarters for "going concerns" as are the modern skyscrapers and manufacturing plants. They should make a town take on a modern and progressive aspect. Incidentally, they should be occupied only by those who will carry out that idea to its logical conclusion.

City and county administrations are business concerns. The air of business offices and industrial plants should envelop the various departments composing them. Nothing can so thoroughly accomplish that result as models such as that used by Eastland for its new courthouse. In extending congratulations to Eastland for its enterprise and modern ideas, we are merely feeling—without any envy—how very much Fort Worth would like to have a city hall built on the same general plans, except about four times larger and containing that municipal auditorium that we will get some day.

IMPORTANT.
The convention to be held by the Highway Club of Texas and the Oklahoma Goods Roads association in Fort Worth on Nov. 28 and 29 is one of the most important conventions that has ever been held in the southwest. All those who can should attend this convention and its proceedings should be given the widest publicity, for upon them a great deal depends. Among the important matters to be discussed at the meetings are more roads and better roads.

Good roads are an aid to prosperity. It is evident to most anyone that the most progressive section of any state or any section of the country today is the section that is thoroughly provided with good roads. On the other hand that section of the state or that community that is fed by poor or indifferent roads is always non-progressive and it actually may be slipping backward.

HOUSTON.—The minister who gave a pint of his blood in an effort to save Mrs. Iris Eaton, Houston school teacher, from death also read the service at Mrs. Eaton's funeral a few days later.
Rev. Clark W. Lambert and Mrs. Eaton's sister, Miss Faith Williams, gave their blood when doctors resorted to blood transfusions for Mrs. Eaton. But life abbed and five days later Rev. Lambert was asked to conduct the funeral service.

As Secretary Wilbur might have said to Admiral Magruder: "He also serves who only stands and waits."

Gripings

By GUS

We were somewhat impressed with an editorial in the Record-Telegram this morning in regards to the apparent disrespect of the headlight law.

Since there's no danger of anybody becoming blinded by the lights on the Spirit of Ranger, we have a clear conscience in speaking our piece on those lines, for we have often had to take to the edge of the road at the approach of some guy with extra bright lights.

The law was originally drawn up and passed to make for safer night driving on the highways, but it seems to have acted as a boomerang. It makes it safe enough for the guy who totally disregards it and sets his lights to suit himself, while it makes it exceedingly dangerous for the meek and lowly "timid soul" who lets his lamps alone after they are tested.

According to our way of looking at it, the guy that prides himself on his self reliance and sets his lights to shine up in another driver's face and then races down the highway, sometimes half light, is a potential murderer. Most of the time the meek guy dodges or takes the ditch, but sometimes somebody gets killed. The potentiality then becomes reality.

But, when you stop to think of it, there's no more reason why one law should be respected than another. If one guy lets his livestock graze on the highways, why shouldn't another be permitted to fix his lights so he can see both sides of the road? Why shouldn't he be allowed to raise the focus line on his lights so he can catch the gleam of a cow's eye and save himself a wreck?

There was a time, and not so long ago, either, that when approaching a certain town back east in a gasoline buggy, you had to have a man walk ahead and warn the natives so they would hold their horses. Now, wouldn't that be a pretty come-off on the Bankhead highway?

Some of the present traffic laws are just about as useful to the present traffic conditions. They say you can't go faster than 35 miles an hour but still there's plenty of cars sold in Texas to make 70 and 80 miles. And most of them step it off, too, when they get onto the open road.

However, since no story should be written that does not have a conclusion, we would say that if you can't whip them you better join them. Of course, that's out of the question for us because we can't do either, but we hand it to you merely as a thought.

LOWERED VITALITY
Lowered vitality brings with it many ills. Many persons allow their systems to run down to the point where disease germs find easy entrance. In this day of hurry and bustle, it is easy to become a victim of chronic ailments unless the warnings of nature are heeded. If you feel tired, draggy, dull and listless, go to your nearest druggist and get a bottle of Waterbury's Compound a palatable and efficient tonic which has been distributed for many years and is sold in many parts of the world. It contains Vitamines A and D derived from Cod Liver Oil by action of the pancreas and spleen, combined with other beneficial ingredients to form a remarkable tonic. It is pleasant to take and results are generally apparent quickly. Send your name to the Waterbury Chemical Co., Des Moines, Ia., they will send their helpful booklet "The Truth About Vitamines" absolutely free and postpaid. It contains valuable information that any health seeker should know.

FAD HAS NO PLACE IN BEAUTY

(Continued from page one.) Listeners to think that she was going to tell that secret that every woman guards so zealously. "How old am I? Well, I'll just tell you, I am as old as my interest in life, as old as my ability to look to the future instead of back to the past—as old as my ambition to keep young," and that was the answer. "Youth," she continued, "is primarily an attitude toward life."

On Wednesday afternoon Madame Serrec will speak on diet and on the care of the hair and how to wear it. Her subject this afternoon was "Painting the Lily."

Serrec to the women of Ranger and Eastland who were present and in this introduction told briefly of Madame's accomplishments in Greek and interpretative dancing. Later Madame declared that dancing was fine for promoting beauty and grace. On Thursday afternoon the charm school director plans to give a talk on color, at Joseph Dry Goods store, telling at that time the color combinations that should be chosen by different types of women.

Madame Serrec is very interesting. She talks beauty business earnestly but there is a running fire of humor throughout her talks and her face is almost constantly lighted by a smile—often a laugh ripples out like music and the hours allotted to her daily talk slip away magically.

The charm school is bringing greater crowds each day—women young and old are visiting the school, one hoping to retain youth, the other seeking a fountain of youth, that will retain that charm that does not wither nor fade with the passing of time.

The charm school is absolutely free. It has been sponsored by the clubs of Ranger and is meeting their approval in every way. It is for all women of Eastland county—a free gift from the Times Publishing company to the readers of the Ranger Times and the Eastland Telegram. The seating capacity of the Legion Hall is ample. Every convenience for the comfort of the daily class has been attended to and the invitation to come and be the Times Publishing Company's guest each afternoon this week through Friday is cordial and hearty.

The University of Minnesota experiment station has opened a school for ice cream makers. Lectures are given in the morning and laboratory work in the afternoon.

SEASON FINISH TO FIND RANGER IN THIRD PLACE

Abilene Picked to Win Championship of District With Cisco Runner Up.

By GUS COLEMAN.
At the risk of bringing down the wrath of all the sport writers in the oil belt in one fell swoop, we are going to risk here and now a little prognostication as to the outcome of the race for district champion.

This forecast is made after a thorough study of the personnel of the teams and their playing and the results of their various games to date, coupled with our superior knowledge of the game and all of its aspects, contrary opinions and unwonted criticism not meaning a thing in our young lives.

The Cisco Loboes stand in the way of Abilene being champions right now, but in our feeble judgment they will stand there only until they play and then it will be "all hail the champion Eagles." And there is no sour grapes in the above statement either because we are going to be rooting for Cisco to win until the time of the game and then after that our total conscious energy will go toward pulling for the Bulldogs to beat Breckenridge and let Cisco take care of herself. But that's not what we started to say. Abilene will wind up with the 1,000 percentage that seems to be necessary to take home the bacon this year.

Ranger will occupy third place in the percentage column by virtue of beating Breckenridge on Turkey Day. The Bulldogs got a taste of real battle Armistice day and liked it pretty well and it's either third place for them or tied with San Angelo for the cellar honors. They might have that in mind when they play Breckenridge.

Eastland will last about as long against Cisco as a celluloid cat being chased through Hades by an asbestos dog. They don't have the desire to beat Cisco that they had to beat Ranger and the Loboes will be doing their damndest to score in the first quarter, so that's that.

Abilene will clean San Angelo's plow as bright as a 1928 dollar and that will be that.

Assuming that we have been correct so far in our deductions, it is but a simple problem in mathematics to figure how the percentage column will look at the end of the season and below are the figures:

Team	P	W	L	T	Pct.
Abilene	5	0	0	0	1.000
Cisco	5	4	1	0	.800
Ranger	5	2	3	0	.400
Eastland	5	1	3	1	.300
Breckenridge	5	1	3	1	.300
San Angelo	5	1	4	0	.200

Third place is a little lower than we would like to see our Bulldogs, but it is a little higher than a tie for the bottom place, and, somehow or other, we just can't figure but what our Nubbins will come through against the Buckaroos for their second win of the season.

Expect 12,000 at Abilene Game on Thanksgiving

ABILENE, Nov. 15.—Preparations are being made to accommodate 12,000 people at the annual Turkey Day grudge battle here on Nov. 24 between Simmons university Cowboys and the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets. An added attraction for the occasion will be the annual homecoming for the thousands of West Texas alumni and ex-students of Simmons university. The visiting exes will be given a free turkey dinner at the new cafeteria recently constructed on the university campus.

The Thanksgiving game between Simmons and Howard Payne has been an annual affair for several years. Last year the Cowboys defeated the Yellow Jackets at Brownwood and thus won the Texas conference championship. This year the championship will likely be determined at this game, and the husky West Texas youngsters who make up the two teams promise a lively scrap on that occasion.

Gilbert Sandefer, athletic manager for Simmons university, states that 1,000 reserved tickets have been placed on sale and the rapid rate at which these are going indicate a record attendance. Two years ago the attendance at the game here reached above the 8,000 mark.

Horned Frogs Are Preparing for Game With S. M. U.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—With nine days of practice between them and the big battle of the Southern conference football season, Texas Christian university's Horned Frog eleven today settled down to its final siege of practice.

There was comparatively little concern in the Horned Frog camp as to whether the Centenary game was won or lost, since it did not count in conference averages. However, for the breaks of the game turning against them, the Frogs would have come off the field at the Armistice day encounter in Shreveport victor.

It is the hope of Coaches Bell and Kubale to have every member of the Frog squad in tip-top playing condition for the S. M. U. clash. The hospital jinx has played no small part in the frog gridiron history this season, and every effort will be made to eliminate that element for Thanksgiving.

The Frog-Mustang game will be played before what promises to be the largest crowd ever assembled for a football contest in Fort Worth. Additional end seats are now being constructed on Frog field that will bring the seating capacity up to around 16,000. Thanksgiving day will be homecoming for T. C. U. and the Frogs will be straining to perform at top notch for the old grads.

RANGER MERCHANTS TO BANQUET NOVEMBER 22
On November 22, every group of the Ranger Retail Merchants association will meet at the Gholson hotel and partake of a banquet, Mrs. Alice True, secretary of the association announced today. Merchants, gasoline, and automobile dealers will all be included among those expected to be present.

Prepare for Big Crowd for Game Thanksgiving

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—"We'll seat everybody."

This welcome announcement for the members of the Texas Christian University alumni was confidently released today by athletic director L. C. (Pete) Wright while discussing plans for the first annual homecoming football game to be staged here Thanksgiving Day between the Horned Frogs of T. C. U. and the Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

Although reservations already made assure the breaking of all former attendance records for a football game here, Wright believes that the additional seats being constructed in the Frog stadium will amply care for the crowd.

The athletic director also announced today that the game will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Reserved seats and grandstand seats around midfield are going rapidly and fans who desire reservations in that section are urged to apply for tickets immediately, Wright said. However, there are plenty of good seats left in positions where every play can be seen. Wright stressed the fact that all seats, including the temporary stands, will be constructed so as to give fans an unobstructed view of the field of play.

While university and alumni officials are busy preparing for the season's most brilliant occasion, Coaches Matty Bell and Kubale are carefully grooming the Frogs for their final contest. The team has been definitely hurt by the injury of Clark and Acker Friday in the game with Centenary but the recovery of Captain Williams and Steadman will assure a strong lineup.

Austria has a university for hairdressers with a two years' course. This is the only university in the world to have a course where students learn how to bob, shingle and wave hair, to make wigs and false eyebrows and facial massage. Half the students are women.

MUSTANGS LOOK FOR HARD FIGHT THANKSGIVING

Ponies Recognize Mighty Defense of Frogs That Stopped Both Aggies and Tex.

DALLAS, Nov. 15.—When the Mustangs of southern Methodist University ran up thirty-four points on the Baylor Bears Saturday they registered the largest score that either team had ever made against the other in eleven years of playing. Last year the Mustangs scored thirty one points which was three points more than the highest scoring ever done by Baylor. In 1921 the Bears made four touchdowns against S. M. U. to win the Southwest Conference championship.

The Bears were easy meat for the Mustangs but a much harder battle faces them in Fort Worth Thanksgiving when they tangle with the Horned Frogs of T. C. U. The Frogs have always played sensational ball against the Mustangs holding them last year to a one point win when the dope had the Mustangs a heavy favorite.

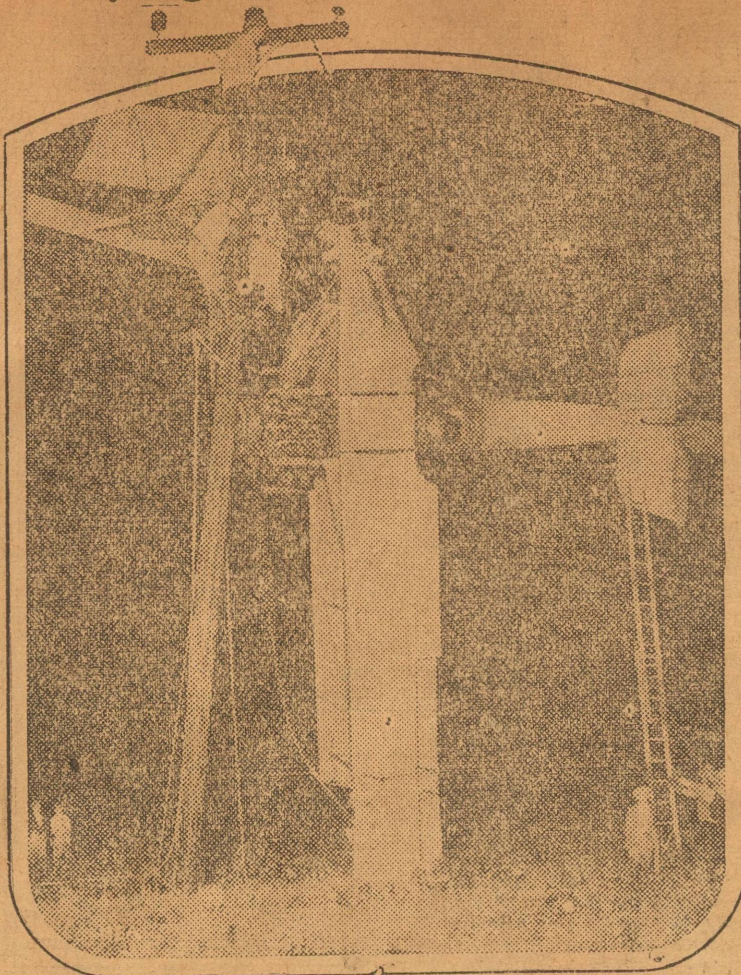

The next ten days will be spent by Coach Morrison in developing the plays which he hopes will penetrate the Frog defense, the defense that stopped Joel Hunt and the Aggies dead in their tracks to say nothing of the Longhorn backs. It will be a great offensive team against a strong defensive team, and a battle from the first to the last whistle.

The game at Fort Worth will see the passing of Gerald Mann, the finest quarter ever in the southwest. Along with him will go Doge, Dawson, Spud Tatum and Buddy Craig. If fight can put it over, the passing combination of Mann and Dawson will not be stopped as these two performers are determined to give the best performance of their career as they make their last appearance.

MISS ANN HARDIN IS RECOVERING FROM FALL

Miss Ann Hardin, secretary of the Eastland Retail Merchants' association, who suffered a broken hip last July, is again able to walk. She will not be on duty regularly at the office before December 1, however.

Flying Is a Lot of Fun, But—

"Come take a ride. It's lots of fun," Bryan O'Neil, military college student at Terrell, Tex., invited Miss Lillian Overton. In a few minutes O'Neil and Miss Overton were in the plane pictured above, hanging in mid-air between 66,000 volts of electricity and a long drop to the ground. The fire department and a ladder straightened things out. Miss Overton agreed it was lots of fun, but there were other nice ways of amusement, too.

Texas Will Have Large Part in Show at Chicago

An open rate of a fare and one-third to Chicago from all points in Southwestern Passenger association territory including Texas, New Mexico and Mexico will be in effect during the International Live Stock exposition, Nov. 26 to Dec. 3. Tickets will be sold from Texas and New Mexico points from Nov. 23 to 26 with final return limit of Dec. 9, and from Mexico between Nov. 18 and 24, inclusive, with final return limit of Dec. 12.

Sterling C. Evans, assistant Texas state club agent, is a member of the executive committee in charge of the National Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club congress which will be held in connection with the international.

C. M. Largent & Sons of Markel, Texas, will exhibit 13 Herefords at Chicago and the A. & M. College of Texas, College Station, will send an outstanding steer for the approval of the foreign judge, Walter Biggar of Scotland.

A. K. Mitchell, well known breeder of Hereford cattle on his Tequesquite ranch at Albert, N. M., will serve as official judge of the Hereford breeding classes.

Texas A. & M. college for the twenty-first time will send a team of students to compete in the intercollegiate livestock judging contest on the opening day of the international. Professor A. K. Mackey will select five men to take part from the squad composed of W. S. Amend, J. M. Bird, T. G. Greenwade, H. E. Howard, R. R. Peeples and N. E. Ryall. The Texas school captured first place in this contest in 1913 and 1919 and needs only one more victory to gain permanent possession of the handsome bronze trophy offered by the Union Stock Yard & Transit company of Chicago.

Texas juniors will take a prominent part in the National Boys' and Girls' Club congress which will be held in connection with the exposition. There will be a Texas entry in both the cotton and potato state contests. Homer Sheffield of Crosby fill represent Texas in the Moses leadership contest. Harold Smalley of Shallowater, champion baby beef club member of the state, has been awarded a trip to the international by Armour & Co. Each year the Texas delegation at Chicago is conspicuous by the uniform picturesque hats with which the members are supplied.

Dr. Burt R. S. Hurly, member of the board of education of Detroit, Mich., urges that a special window glass be made which will admit ultraviolet rays for the schools of that city.

RHEUMATISM
May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

EXPENSIVE ECONOMY

It's not worth the risk of losing your valuables by theft or fire when a safe deposit box costs so little. Put strong walls of steel between the things you treasure and the possibility of loss.

Junior College Directors Meet, Report Is Given

That the Junior college of Ranger is going concern, financially as well as otherwise, was brought out at a meeting of the Junior college board and the college donors, held last night in the green room of the Gholson hotel.
This meeting, which was featured by a dinner, was called so that the donors, to this institution might, as it were, take an inventory of what had been accomplished since the college opened its doors to students in September, 1926, and what might be expected of it this year.

W. W. Housewright, president of the Junior college board, presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers, who were John M. Gholson, Dr. L. C. G. Buchanan and Prof. Bachman, Von Roeder and Holloway.
A very flattering financial report was made in that a number of the donors had been led to believe that only a small per cent of last year's tuitions had been paid in, and the report revealed the fact that 80 per cent of the tuitions were collected last year and $150 of the 20 per cent remaining unpaid last year had been collected this year, leaving a balance of about $400 not yet collected.
In various addresses made during the evening a great deal of light was thrown on the college situation, its operation, prospects and it was the consensus that in the next two years the legislature would pass a law recognizing junior colleges by districts and let taxes from that district be applied to the upkeep of one junior college. Whenever that is done it will not be necessary for donations to be made for the maintenance of junior colleges, as they will then be taken care of by taxes.
Around the dinner table were 44 members of the board and college donors and everybody had a good time, as well as got the very exact financial status of the college.

TIRED, LISTLESS WOMEN ARE SELDOM POPULAR

Just look around you, note the really popular women among your friends and see if you can discover the secret of their popularity.
In some, it may be beauty of face and form; in others, personal magnetism and charm; but in nearly every instance you will find the principal secret of a woman's popularity is that radiant health and youthful vigor which enables her to take an active interest in modern social life.
Healthy, vigorous, active women invariably win the admiration of their friends; but tired, listless women are seldom popular.
If you are run-down, weak and listless, due to over-work or physical neglect, why not start taking a good tonic? Thousands of women who were in that condition have gratefully testified to the benefits of St. Joseph's G.F.P.
This rich, vegetable tonic contains Nature's own medicines in the form of roots and herbs which have been used for over a century to invigorate and strengthen women. Your druggist sells it on a money-back guarantee.

INJURED YOUTH SHOWS LITTLE IMPROVEMENT

The condition of Bernice Stevens, young Ranger boy, who was hurt in an automobile accident on the Strawn highway several weeks ago, remains unchanged, according to reports from the hospital today.
Mrs. Katherine Williams, who sustained a fractured limb and other injuries when her car turned over on the Pleasant Grove road, near Ranger, about 10 days ago, underwent an operation at the hospital this morning in connection with that wounded member.
Mrs. Alice Maidwell, mother of Mrs. Charles Bobo, and one of Ranger's old-time citizens, also underwent an operation at the City-County hospital today.

AUSTIN.—Feb. 7 has been definitely agreed upon as the date for reconvening the state text-book commission to consider offers on state free school books.
Following the regular session last month, Governor Moody objected that the prices submitted by the text-book companies were as much for the larger quantities of books bought by Texas as they were for single copies.

State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs is notifying the previous bidders that the same samples used for the October bidding may again be used though the new prices will have to be inserted.

NORFLEET

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher is swindled out of $45,000 by a gang led by Joe Furey and W. B. Spencer. Following vague clues Norfleet races East and forth across the country in hot pursuit. The three minor characters in the swindling ring are jailed before Norfleet succeeds in capturing Joe Furey in Jacksonville. Florida officers attempt to aid Furey and Norfleet has many bitter experiences before he succeeds in getting his prisoner back to Fort Worth. He now gives thought to the adjustment of his own financial affairs and plans for the capture of Spencer. While in California Furey had bribed two Los Angeles officers. Norfleet lays the facts before Thomas Woolwine, Los Angeles district attorney who asks Norfleet to aid in the prosecutions. Much to their surprise, the officers are arrested. While awaiting the trials, Norfleet learns of a plot to smuggle arms into the Huntsville, Texas prison to free Joe Furey. He communicates with proper authorities in an effort to defeat the plot.

CHAPTER 40 I immediately called Jesse Brown district attorney at Fort Worth, and asked him to take some action to prevent the break. He communicated with the governor and the chief executive passed the warning along to the warden of the penitentiary, but it came late. It seems that Mrs. Harrison, posing as Furey's financial agent, and Mrs. Furey had paid daily visits to the governor several days preceding the eventful Sunday. Captain Coleman, the warden, afterward told me that the women must have smuggled several small automatics to the prisoners. The little guns got inside the walls some way, and when the break occurred, they killed and wounded several guards. Armed with these tiny weapons, the prisoners forced their way to the arsenal and obtained larger guns. There was a bitter fight and much bloodshed, several men, guards and convicts, losing their lives.

Somewhere outside the walls, two women waited. Some distance away, in a field, an airplane stood, its propeller whirling slowly. When the riot was quelled and a roll call taken, forty-two men were missing. Joe Furey was not among them. Somehow, his plans had slipped. He is credited with having saved the life of the chaplain during the wild shooting. I've never been able to substantiate this. At any rate Furey failed to escape. A few days later, I went to see him and he seemed glad to see me. He lamented the condition of his health.

"It's too damned hot for me in this climate. I can't last long in this hell-hole," he complained. We chatted a while about common place things. Then Furey's manner quickened and he spoke with hopeful animation: "There'd ought to be some way out of this," he said. "Listen, Norfleet, you go to San Francisco and see Helen Harrison, Mable's daughter. Tell her to get in touch with Spencer—him—and tell him to dig up $35,000. Tell her to raise the balance of what you lost, plus the money you've spent in trailing us. I'll give you a letter to her and she'll do it. All I ask in return is that you see that I am taken to a prison sanitarium in some higher climate. I'll die here. I'll trust to your own honor to do this."

Captain Coleman told me that Furey's health was really failing and that he should have a change. I told him of Joe's proposal and it met with his approval. If I could only see that I got my money back, he would be glad to recommend his removal to an institution where his health would be better, but where his liberty would be just as restricted. Governor Neff also approved the plan, and he promised to help me as far as the law would permit. I left for San Francisco to place the proposition before Helen Harrison. I wondered what connection she had with the matter, but later learned that her mother's health was failing and that she was handling the affairs. Before calling on Miss Harrison who was then living at the Cliff Hotel, I employed the legal firm of Sheffey and Johnson to steer me straight in the transaction. Johnson was the young son of Senator Hiram Johnson, former Governor of California. I gave Sheffey all the credentials that Furey had given to me, and he prepared all the necessary papers which constituted Mrs. Harrison's authority to sell real estate belonging to Furey. The papers were to be served at once, and I was to see Miss Harrison next day and make arrangements for her and her mother to get the $35,000 from Spencer.

Until the money was safe in my own hands, I resolved to be vigilant and to try to learn all I could of Spencer's whereabouts. Perhaps I might get a hint that would save me months of future search. Then came another strange turn of circumstances. The hand of death laid hold of a principal in my little drama, Mrs. Harrison was very seriously ill. On her trip to Huntsville, she had contracted a severe cold, and on the long trip back to San Francisco, pneumonia had set in. Now she was in a serious condition. I insisted that no effort be made to serve the papers on her until she had improved money and property in no condition to be disturbed. I waited and worried.

"She has a fighting chance to live," the nurse told me, "but she hasn't the will to get well. After Furey's failure to escape from Huntsville, she returned home a broken woman."

There was nothing to be done. The woman was in the delirium of a raging fever and she passed out from a semi-conscious state. As "financial manager" for Joe Furey, everything he owned was under his name, and, thus, all of his property passed into the estate of the late Mabel Harrison. The legitimate wife and little son were left practically penniless, while Helen Harrison, her young brother and other minor heirs of Mrs. Harrison came into the fortune of stolen money and property. I had a brief talk with Miss Harrison, hoping that she might consider doing something for Joe Furey as soon as the estate was probated. At first she was scornful.

"From the stories I've heard about you, I expected to meet a brilliant man!" And she laughed in my face when I told her of Furey's request. Then she launched into abuse for the grief she said I had brought on innocent people. "You're satisfied now, I suppose?" she cried, dramatically. "Now that you have succeeded in jailing Joe Furey, one of the noblest men God ever made!" I smiled at that. I didn't particularly hate Joe Furey. He was likeable, in many ways, but that "Nature's Nobleman" stuff was laying it on pretty thick.

"Not only have you ruined him," she raved on, "but through his imprisonment, you have caused the death of my beloved mother!" And she launched into a tempest of tears. After listening to a composite of the opinions of the nurse and Helen Harrison's household concerning me, I remarked that there was consolation and privilege in dying on the outside of a prison; that Joe Furey would probably die within the gray walls. I honestly believe I had more sympathy for him than the girl did. I then told her that I had had the numbers of the Harrison menagerie for a good many moons and that I might have made it extremely warm for both her and her mother had I chosen to do it. "When did you ever see my mother?" she snapped. "At the Stanford Court Apartments. I could describe the inside of that apartment. I've watched you drive away many times, in your big limousine, haughty as queens. And as for you—I've danced with you, when you thought I was a green little hick from the country, and probably ripe for a trimming. Anything else you'd like to know about yourself?" Her dark eyes glittered, but her mood softened considerably, and we were able to get down to business. I outlined the proposition that had been intended for her mother. She agreed to fulfill Joe's instructions and said she would consult her lawyer and meet me in Los Angeles the following night at the Alhambra Hotel.

I reached Los Angeles next day and called on W. J. Stafford, the coming trial of Lips and Anderson. Later in the day, I had a call from Helen Harrison, and she asked me to meet her at the Vernon country club. I refused holding to our agreement to meet at the Alhambra, and she finally consented to come to the hotel. A few minutes later, she called again, this time from a prominent club, or so she said. She asked me to come there. I refused and she consented again to come to the hotel.

That was the last I ever heard of her. Evidently her counsel thought it better, or at least cheaper, to let Joe Furey languish in the prison at Huntsville. Another conference with Woolwine decided that I should remain in Los Angeles to do whatever I might be preparing the cases against Lips and Anderson, whose trials would come up in about thirty days. I stayed at the Alhambra Hotel and after I had been there a few days, I returned one evening to find a note in my box. Very cordially worded, it disarmed whatever suspicion I might have had regarding Mrs. Street's actions in New Orleans: "Do come down to our room and tell us all about everything. That night I left you in the New Orleans station, when you pulled your guns on those two men, I ran away into the crowd. I was afraid you were going to be shot. Charlie—my husband and I are eager to see you again. Come down this evening if you have no other engagement."

I was lonely and I was glad to drop in on them. We went out together to dinner and our visit was very enjoyable. We dined together almost every evening for thirty days. The date which had been set for Lips' trial drew near. I spent a great deal of time about the courts, listening to various cases. The conviction of O. C. Berry, a Los Angeles banker, was especially interesting to me. Berry was charged with having rendered assistance to a swimming ring by cashing victim's checks and handling large sums of money at that crucial moment in the con man's game when an honest banker might ask embarrassing questions. Berry got a stiff sentence. I left the court room and called the Streets, making an appointment to meet them for dinner. I had one more day to loaf before Lips' trial would begin and I was nervous and impatient. I had accomplished little in the gathering of other evidence, and I was disappointed with myself. We would have to depend, principally, on my own testimony and the affidavits of Joe Furey. If we could only get a little shred of substantiating evidence. Malcolm McLaren, Woolwine's head investigator, did valuable work in this case. He found a safety deposit box receipt when Anderson was searched and the box was found to contain most of the cash the officers had taken. Evidence produced at the trial tied Anderson definitely to the box and the money, although the box had been rented in the name of W. J. Stafford.
