Sugar

Some of the boys in congress are planning a surprise for Commerce Secretary Roper. They have learned from the best possible source that he was contacted in some legal capacity with Cuban cane sugar interests before he entered the Roosevelt cabinet. There is nothing wrong about that, except it will be very embarrassing if the administration tries to reduce the sugar tariff. It is what the boys have in mind. They want to make any move like that as embarrassing as possible.

Rows

President Roosevelt's main private duty recently has been to play peacemaker on inside rows. The worst occurred when Samuel Undermyer tried to muscle in on Fred Pecora's racket of exposing Wall Street. As attorney for the senate stock market investigators Pecora did not care for private advice he was getting from Undermyer who has no official status. It seems Undermyer wired him advising against the calling of Richard Whitney, head of the Stock Exchange. That is one of the main reasons why Whitney was called immediately. Things went alight like that until Pecora is supposed to have received an intimation that Undermyer would have him fired. The matter was laid before Mr. Roosevelt by one of Pecora's friends. The President naturally sided with Pecora because he is the official in charge of the job. Ex-sult Undermyer.

Ends Body Odor by Removing Cause
New Way Leaves No Tell-Tale Mercaine Smell

All who perspire freely know that bathing is often only temporary relief from body odor. That is because body odor is caused by stale perspiration deep in the pores. The thick, sticky lather of most ordinary toilet soaps is unaltered chemically to mix with this stale perspiration and flush it out. Instead it clogs the pores with curds. Now research chemists give you a 100% pure vegetable oil soap—Kirk's Coco Castile—that breaks into bubbly lather instantly, even in hardest water. This bubbly lather goes deep into the pores, actually removes stale perspiration curds, then rinses out completely. Thus it ends body odor at its source—the only effective way. And being odorless, it leaves no unpleasant M. A. (mercaine) smell, to betray its purpose.

Kirk's Coco Castile is made by the largest soap makers in America. And quite amazingly it costs no more than the average toilet soap, although it is half again larger. On sale at a new reduced price—the lowest in history. Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.

Today's 'Realities'

When the Japanese delegates withdrew from the recent League of Nations assembly, they expressed the pious hope that the world statesmen would give earnest attention to the "realities" of the situation in the far east.

Today, with all of Japan's province overrun by Japanese troops, with Chinese resistance almost entirely collapsed and with Japanese might rising completely victorious on the shores of the Yellow Sea, these realities seem more solid and unarguable than ever.

Yet it is easy to be deceived. The realities of one moment of world history are the hazy phantasms of the next. Today a speculative man might wonder whether the reality is the victorious Japanese army or the slowly rising determination in men's hearts that the law of jungle shall no longer be the rule for the conduct of international affairs.

Louisianans Seek Ouster Of Huey Long

Senate Is Petitioned To Institute Proceedings At Once

WASHINGTON — Removal of Huey P. Long of Louisiana from the senate was sought in a petition filed with that body Thursday by a score of citizens in the Pelican state who listed charges of personal dishonesty and corruption and said they could prove them.

Chairman George of the elections committee, to which the petition was referred by Vice President Garner, was unaware of its receipt until informed by newspapermen.

looks silly. The Mikado's troops are irresistible. Such harbingers of the new sentiment as the League Covenant, the Kellogg treaty and the Nine-Power pact look about as effective as the treaty guaranteeing Belgium's integrity looked in the fall of 1914.

But we don't know how these things are going to look 50 years from now.

In the year 190 A. D., the one reality was the might of the Roman Empire. No one but a witless dreamer would have predicted that it would give way before an obscure religious sect known as Christianity.

In 1789 the reality in France was the king's government, buttressed by a huge army and centuries of tradition. The Parisian mob that tore down the Bastille was only a mob, after all; men said contemptuously that it could be quelled at any time by a whiff of grape-shot.

Today the reality is Japanese victory in Manchuria, and those who believe in law and order in international affairs are helpless dreamers. But what will it all look like a generation later?

He' however, said that if it contained anything that "grew to the right" of the senator to hold his seat a "proper investigation" would be made.

Refuses to Comment
 Long waved away newspapermen when asked for comment.
 "I don't know anything about it and don't care," he said.

The petition carrying in all eleven formal charges, was referred in the usual way without its having been read to the senate.

John M. Parker, of St. Francisville, one of the petition signers, had asked that it be read to the senate. In a forwarding letter he said similar petitions would follow from "every parish in the state."

Other signers were from Laurel Hill, Bains, Wilson, and Plettenberg. Most identified themselves as farmers, although a lawyer and a surgeon were included.

The petitioners asserted they could furnish witnesses to establish that Long was "personally dishonest, corrupt and immoral," and added Long's continuance in office "is repulsive to the respectable and law-abiding citizens of Louisiana and to the nation."

Corruption Charged
 They contended among other things, that Long had "created and maintained in Louisiana a system of corruption and debauchery unparalleled in the history of the state, not even excepting the so-called Louisiana lottery."

"Because of the corruption of the systems of justice," they added, "there is no assurance in endeavoring to obtain relief by action in the state."
 "The only hope for relief is through the senate of the United States and federal agencies.

"Therefore, we appeal to you, as president of the senate, to cause the proper investigation to be instituted and conducted that the specific facts and instances in support of the above charges may be presented.

"Evidence is available, by the use of the proper processes of the senate, to substantiate all charges."

The tall right hander also walloped a triple to center in the fourth inning and made it four bases when Olson's relay struck him in the back and careened off to the grandstand. Additionally he singled in the sixth scoring Patchett.

Pioneer Promoter, Founder of Carlsbad, Commits Suicide

SAN ANGELO—T. J. Clegg, 70 years old, rancher, colonizer, real estate man and promoter of Carlsbad, shot and killed himself Wednesday night on the front porch of a ranch house which had been the headquarters of his thirty years of ranching activities in the North Concho Valley.

Mrs. Connell Clegg was at the house at the time and rushed out to find her father-in-law dead on the gallery floor.

Dr. J. B. Knight, superintendent of the State Sanatorium, was called and Miller Dalton, justice of the peace, held the inquest.

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Robert Massie Chapel with burial in Belvedere Memorial Park.

The Rev. J. Grady Timmons, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated.

Connell Clegg, a son of the pioneer, in recent years had charge of Mr. Clegg's ranching business. Mrs. Carrie Clegg, second wife of the well-known rancher and real estate man, lives now at 508 West Concho Avenue. She and Mr. Clegg had been separated several years.

One of Greatest Promoters
Mr. Clegg was one of the greatest promoters that ever fell under the spell of West Texas. Coming here in 1903 he bought 60,000 acres of land in the North Concho Valley in partnership with G. S. Mason and others and started to settle it with farmers from the middle-west. No man ever did any more advertising of West Texas than he.

He dug five or six wells for stock and other purposes on the land, found mineral water, laid out the town of Carlsbad, built the Carlsbad Inn and bath house and looked to the famous German spa of Carlsbad for a name of his new property.

The health resort at Carlsbad brought health to many and in a few years was publicized as one of the coming health centers of the southwest. It did bring much attention to this section which a few years afterward resulted in selection of the site for the Texas State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. Dr. McKnight, head of Sanatorium, a close friend of Mr. Clegg, was the first man called to the ranch after discovery of the tragedy.

The vast Collyns ranch of 60,000 acres which Mr. Clegg first took over was cut down by sub-division and sale a part of it going into the townsite of Carlsbad. Mr. Clegg more recently had an 8,000-acre ranch, the headquarters of which was near the town he founded.

He knew how to interest people and how to sell them and did a thriving business. He was one of the first advocates of the Sterling City branch of the Santa Fe out of San Angelo and was the largest contributor to its community financing, putting up something like $25,000 for the project, which was later taken over by the Santa Fe.

Mr. Clegg was one of the best cowmen in Texas. Success crowned many of his efforts, but his optimism left him unprepared for the hard years that hit West Texas. He was one of the few men who was less successful with sheep than cattle. The slump following the war found him with over a hundred thousand pounds of wool in storage upon which he had been offered 50 cents a pound. After keeping it for two years it went for only a fraction of that amount. This was a financial reverse from which he never completely recovered.

Thrifty women know
There is no Substitute for WHITE KING

TRUE soap economy depends on more than the size of the box! In the first place, you actually use less White King than fluffed soaps. —then, the condensed granules of White King contain only fine, pure vegetable oils that will harm nothing pure water will not injure. —and White King needs only lukewarm water, refreshing to fabrics and hands. Ironing becomes smoother and easier. Clothes require less rubbing, no bleach, no bluing. For soap economy, for soap satisfaction, for soap efficiency, there is no substitute for White King Granulated. Ask your grocer.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."

—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1458 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

One I Love

By LAURA LOU BROWN

CHAPTER NINETEEN

The door of the elevator slid back just then and both Janet and Van Bannister stepped inside. "Well—" he said, smiling persuasively.

He was a very good-looking young man. His eyes crinkled at the corners when he smiled and he had an air of easy assurance as though the world always had and always would go exactly as he wanted it. He was hatless and must have spent hours in the sun to acquire such a deep tan.

"Thank you," Janet said hesitantly, "but I think I'll walk."

"Nonsense! Why, the sun is blistering!"

Janet smiled. "I don't mind," she said.

They reached the ground floor and walked through the lobby to the sidewalk. There at the curb was a long, sleek, colored roadster. Van Bannister turned to the girl. "Listen," he said, "I'll bet you're going to Betty's mother's, aren't you? Well, I'm headed that way myself. Now hop in and let me take you to the door."

Janet found herself seated in the deeply cushioned seat. Bannister, beside her, started the motor and the car lurched forward.

"What a beautiful roadster!" she said.

"Like it?" he smiled. "Well, I like it pretty well myself. Out on a road where there's a chance to tear loose there aren't many that can pass her. Like to see how it's done?"

Janet said, "Why—yes."

"Fine. How about tonight?"

She shook her head. "I couldn't," she said.

"Well then, tomorrow?"

"I'm afraid not," Janet told him. "You see, Mrs. Curtis likes to have me stay with her."

"You don't mean to say you never have a night off?"

"Oh, sometimes, but I never know when it's going to be."

"Don't kid me!" Bannister told her. "You just mean you aren't interested. But I am interested. See? You have gray eyes and there's something about girls with gray eyes that I can't resist. You have light brown hair too and that's another of my weaknesses. You're—"

Janet stopped him. "There's the house!" she said. Bannister put on the brakes so quickly that they groaned.

"Don't you think you could change your mind about tonight?" he asked. "Say about 9 o'clock?"

Janet smiled. "I'm sorry," she said, "but I couldn't possibly."

"Well then, tomorrow?"

She was out of the car now. Janet shook her head and said, "Not tomorrow either. Thanks a lot for the lift. I'll have to go in now."

She turned and hurried up the walk. Of course she couldn't go anywhere with Van Bannister. He was just one of the members of Betty's crowd. One of the outstanding members, Janet knew for the name, Bannister, was an old one in Lancaster. It stood for wealth and social position. Van Bannister was probably a terrible flirt. Still he had been friendly. He knew she was Mrs. Curtis' secretary and he had insisted on driving her home. Yes, Janet decided she rather liked him, even though she'd probably never see him again.

She was mistaken about that. She and Van Bannister were to meet again.

There was no one in sight as Janet entered the house. She glanced into the living room and the library and then wandered out to the lawn at the rear. Mrs. Curtis was there, half-reclining in one of the deck chairs with the big umbrella tilted so that she was completely in the shade.

"You made a quick trip," she said. "Aren't you nearly melted? Sit down and rest a while."

Janet sank into the chair beside her. There was a book on the table at Mrs. Curtis' elbow but the book was turned face down.

"The sun is hot," Janet said, "but it's comfortable out here."

It was an attractive scene. A slight breeze rustled the leaves overhead and the branches cast a pattern of light and shadow on the grass. The sky was intensely blue and here and there a lazy cloud that seemed motionless. A low hedge surrounding the lawn gave privacy and the beach umbrella, gaily striped in orange and black, added a rakish note of color.

Mrs. Curtis sighed. "We complain about the heat," she said, "but when I think of the hundreds and hundreds who have to endure it without the comforts we have I feel ashamed."

"Yes," Janet agreed. "That's true. Right here in Lancaster there's a lot of suffering." She thought of Rosie and Tommy Silvan who had no place to play except the public playground. Their little home must be like an oven in this sun. And the Silvan's were better off than many others.

"I'm doubting my check for the milk fund," Mrs. Curtis told her. Janet straightened. "That reminds me," she said, "that I have those accounts to go over."

Mrs. Curtis raised a hand, protesting. "Let them wait. It's too hot for figures. I'd rather you stay here with me."

So Janet stayed. The house drifted on until Lucy brought a tray with tall frosted glasses, a

Crane-Upton Producers Vote Down Request For New Potential Test In Hearing By Commission At Midland

MIDLAND — Voting down of Weekley Oil corporation's plea for increased allowable of the Crane-Upton oil field after hearing of arguments, resulted Wednesday morning at a hearing attended by operators and interested parties of the field.

At the same time a proposal for a retesting of potential of wells of the field was defeated.

The meeting was held under the supervision of R. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

As to increase of allowable in the field, it was decided that the market demand does not warrant increase at the time. It was decided that when the demand warrants the matter will be taken up for consideration.

Some wells would have to be cleaned out for such a test, it was brought out.

Parker was assisted in the hearing by W. R. Bowden, deputy supervisor of Midland. The chief of the oil and gas division was a guest of Manager Cam Fanning, manager of Hotel Scharbauer, a friend of Parker since 1901, when the oil official was chief engineer of the I. & G. N. railway company in charge of putting through that company's line to Fort Worth.

Parker went to luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Connell. He married a niece of Connell's.

Stenographic reports of the meeting were kept by L. P. Boone, court reporter.

You have not asked me to spend money for personal benefit, and you have not asked me to employ additional help for political purposes, all of which is sincerely appreciated by your City Manager.

Total of all receipts during the fiscal year was $191,000.83. To this is added $29,754.21 cash on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year, making a total of $420,755.04.

Of the $420,755.04 expended during the year $181,181.88 was for erection of the city hall and municipal auditorium, which was financed from proceeds from sale of a bond issue. The amount of expenditures aside from those for erecting and equipping the new building was $199,573.16.

The $199,573.16 expended in addition to the cost of the municipal building was divided as follows: General fund expenditures (including $2,394 water service deposit refunds and $300 for purchase of a bond) $102,649.64. Interest and sinking fund $38,206.55.

The cash in banks at the end of the fiscal year included $29,754.21 in the general fund, $44,266.73 in the interest and sinking fund to care for bonds and interest that will mature prior to October 1, and $203.87 balance left in the city hall building fund.

At the beginning of the fiscal year there was on hand a total of $229,754.21. This added to the receipts during the year of $191,000.83 totals $420,755.04. By subtracting the amount expended during the year ($420,755.04) from the total receipts including funds on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year, $410,359.04, an amount expended during the year ($420,038.07) is arrived at.

Wages Total paid during the fiscal year for salaries and wages was $26,019.20 or 23 per cent of all expenditures during the year, excluding those for building the city hall and auditorium.

In addition to salaries and wages the following items of expenditure from the general fund are listed for the year: stationery and supplies, $1,158.72; insurance, $271.35; dues and subscriptions, $87; postage, telephone and telegraph, $923.97; heat and ice, $484.84; lights, $3,756.38; street light maintenance, $923.18; legal and auditing, $203; publication, $114.75; election expense, $41.38; auto and truck expense, $1,297.52; gasoline and oil, $1,499.58; travel, $285.31; janitor supplies, $177.05; freight and express, $208.85; repairs to buildings, $43.44; materials and supplies, $3,671.51; tractor and grader repairs, $712.52; tractor gas and oil, $894.99; street sweeper repairs, $69.03; street sweeper gas and oil, $44.64; pump station repairs, $632.74; meter repairs, $112.81; Board of City Development, $12; electric power, $11,312.86; pound expense, $67.10; feeding prisoners, $278; garbage removal, $45; miscellaneous, $513.82; medical care of employees, $20; refunds, $111.06; charity, $3,872.24; capital outlay, $7,009.96; rent, $1,707.50.

The total of general fund expenditures was $99,285.64. The budget appropriations for the general fund totaled $102,169.09. Included in disbursements were $234.19 interest paid, $512 for payment of a note; $900 invested in a bond, $72,044.81 transferred to interest and sinking fund, $7.18 cash short and $2,394.00 meter deposit refunds.

The total amount received in current taxes during the year was $54,262.96. Delinquent tax collections totaled $14,457.23. The water and sewer service revenues amounted to $88,218.71. BEER should be legalized. The vote was 134 to 6. AUSTIN (AP)—The house voted 99 to 50 to resolve into a committee of the whole to consider submission of a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

The action was taken after the house refused to table a motion to get into a committee of the whole.

The house action sidetracked the Mathis-Anderson bill, which would legalize manufacture and sale of beer by state, and which was pending business Friday morning.

AUSTIN (AP)—The house of the Texas legislature Thursday voted to call for the table a bill proposing legislation of the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer and the senate passed a bill providing for a statewide election to select delegates to a convention to consider repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The senate set the special repeal election for August 26 next. The house had sent the bill to the senate fixing the election for November, 1934. The bill will now go back to the house and if concurrence in the senate amendment is not voted a conference committee will try to adjust the difference. The senate passed the bill unanimously. Sponsors of the house beer bill decided suddenly to press for a vote on the bill and a motion by Representative John M. Mathis of Houston that it be taken up carried, 71 to 66.

Pending Business However, after the bill was laid out on the speaker's desk the house decided to recess. The beer bill was to be pending business Friday. The house planned to meet Thursday night but an agreement was had that only uncontested bills would be considered.

There was much confusion when Mathis sought to call the beer bill from the table. Members milled around the speaker's stand arguing about parliamentary procedure.

When a vote was taken on Mathis' motion some one discovered that the red affirmative light opposite the name of Representative R. J. Long of Wichita Falls was burning and that Long was absent from the house. A point of order was raised and some one wanted to start an investigation to determine who pressed the button that voted Long.

Long Rushes In A verification was asked and a roll of the 150 members was called. Just as Long's name was reached, the Wichita alle legislators rushed into the house and answered "Aye."

The house previously had voted down a resolution that would have requested the attorney general to give his opinion as to constitutionality of a bill legalizing sale of beer. Texas has both constitutional and statutory prohibition. Some legislators contended that should 3.2 per cent beer be held "intoxicating" the beer law then would be in contravention to the state constitution.

Twenty-one senators, representing a two-thirds majority of the upper branch membership, had signed a resolution proposing submission of a constitutional amendment to legalize 3.2 per cent beer. As amended tonight by a senate committee it would provide for a popular vote Aug. 26 the same date as proposed for the repeal election. The committee voted unanimously.

Before the constitutional amendment could be submitted to the electorate it would have to pass both houses by a two-thirds majority. The amendment would be self-enacting, not requiring action on part of the legislature to pass enabling laws.

Poage of Waco was unsuccessful in his move to have delegates to the repeal convention elected by senatorial districts instead of the state at large.

Poage asserted that if congress had desired a referendum vote in each state, it would have submitted the question to referenda instead of to conventions.

If the delegates are elected at large, 85 per cent of the voters of one district might vote dry yet that district might be represented at the convention by a wet," Poage said.

Senators W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales, T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, and Walter Wood of Houston contended for a statewide referendum. They pointed out that the senatorial districts were not of the same size.

"In my district," Senator Holbrook said, "we have only 35,000 or 40,000 paid poll taxes. In Senator Wood's district there are 30,000 qualified voters. It would be unfair to give my district as much representation as that of Senator Wood's."

Hopkins explains it out that if the election were by districts, it would be possible for the drys to win in 16 of the 31 senatorial districts whereas they might lose the state by 50,000 votes or more.

The movement to advance the date from November 7 this year as recommended by senate committee, to August 26, was opposed by Hopkins and Holbrook. They stated they would not have any objection to moving up the date but for the fact that a movement was on foot to submit the question of legalisation of beer at the same time. They contended that the questions should be submitted separately.

An amendment to advance the election to July 23 was offered by Poage. On motion of Senator John W. Hornsby of Austin, the amendment was changed to fix August 26 as the date. That amendment was adopted 17 to 14, after it had been defeated on the first vote, 16 to 15.

How They Voted House members voted on the motion to bring up the beer bill: AYE—Anderson, Beasler, Baker, Bedford, Bourne, Bradley, Butler, Calvert, Caven, Clayton, Colson, Coombes, Davidson, Devall, Dunagan, Dunlap, Davall, Dwyer, Engelhard, Ford, Fuchs, Glass, Good, Greathouse, Griffith, Hankamer, Harrison, Hartson, Hill of Brazos, Hill of Webb, Holkamp, Holland, Hopkins, Hyder, Jackson, James, Jefferson, Jones of Atascosa, Kayton, Kyle of Palo Pinto, Long, Lotief, MacKay, Mathis, McClain, McCullough, McGregor, McKee, Merritt, Moore, Morse, Munson, Nicholson, Patterson, Pavlica, Pope, Ragsdale, Reed of Dallas, Roberts, Roberts, Ross, Russell, Scarborough, Shannon, Stanfield, Steward, Stinson, Tillery, Walker, Welbert, West, Young. ed until today. The federalists in that day said "watch the Demagogue" because of Jefferson's democratic tendencies.

"It was during his administration that the Louisiana Purchase was consummated, bringing into the union many of our mid-western and western states and eliminating a wedge which France held in the midst of our domain."

Judge Brooks read Daniel Webster's address in which he weighed the strong personality of Jefferson and an article by Jefferson reviewing his religious opinions. The speaker declared that Democracy had produced the outstanding presidents—Jefferson, Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. F. C. Scott, invited to the meeting by Dr. Les O. Rogers, chairman of the club committee on behalf of the recent appearance here of the Barry Bird Revue, reported the club netted $150 for its work among underprivileged children and President Blomaheld said this money had been placed in a separate fund and that every bit of it would be used for the purpose announced.

Senior Players Please Audience With Presentation Of Comedy

A fair-sized and unusually attentive audience greeted the performance of "Cognateus Comitia" the annual senior play presented at the City Auditorium Thursday evening. Most of the audience was high school students; a sprinkling of adults braved the stormy winds but these were mostly teachers and parents.

Miss Dorothy Jordan directed the play. There was every evidence that she and the cast had put their time in to good account—for if there was any prompting it was so cleverly done that the audience couldn't detect it.

Polly Thomas, as the colored maid and Frederick Koberg, as the delivery boy, with the saching "dogs" appeared to be the favorite characters of the audience. They had the comedy parts and made a great team.

Jennie Lucille Kennedy has a handsome mother, Ola Mae Hartman carried an unusually heavy load and threw her whole soul into the part. R. V. Jones has the leading man's role and was very good. Mary Settles managed well the difficult trick of impersonating a small town music teacher. The other characters were well cast in most instances and all the girls were pretty.

The stage furnishings were by Barrow Furnishings Co. The full cast follows:

- Mrs. Ada Carter
- Jennie Lucille Kennedy

So no wonder there's a growing dissatisfaction with the modern baseball player. None of them are pretty decent gentlemen who arrive at the park on time, play a spirited but sportsmanlike game, take a shower, and then go home for dinner and an evening of cards, reading or the theater.

That's no way for a ball player to act. An Old Oriole never would have acted that way.

The Orioles! The Old Orioles! There were ball players for you!

Dramatization Of Crucifixion To Be Given At Church

Enshrouded in complete darkness, three players will enact the story of the crucifixion of Christ Sunday evening 7:45 o'clock at the Methodist church.

Then out of the darkness will come the moan of a woman following by the harsh growl of a Roman captain. The two, together with a soldier, enact the drama on Golgotha as depicted by Kennedy in his "Terrible Meek."

Part of Mary, mother of the Christ, is taken by Miss Jeanette Pickle. Jack Hodges plays the captain, and C. W. Corley is the soldier.

Slowly light floods the room while the choir breaks into "He Is Risen," by Simper. This will be followed by "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Mrs. Joseph Knapp.

Henderson's attorneys successfully contended the defendant shot the horse breaker to death in defense of his own life after he had been informed that day that Armentrout had been intimating with Mrs. Henderson and Henderson had gone to the ranch to demand an explanation.

The state had contended that Henderson shot Armentrout while the youth had his arms before his body attempting to ward off the bullets apparently striking him twice by passing through his arm or across his knuckles.

Mrs. Henderson, on the witness stand, admitted flirting with the slain man, said they realized they were "in pretty deep" and met to talk things over while riding over the Henderson ranch where Armentrout was an employee.

Henderson, on the stand in his own behalf, said he had not been physically strong since an operation two years ago, and said that on learning of the intimacy between Armentrout and his wife on Galveston...
