TEXAS LEAGUE HITTING STAFFS LOOK PROMISING

Fort Worth Has More "Old Reli-ables" Than Any Other Club.

By RICHARD FREEMAN, United Press Staff Correspondent. By United Press
DALLAS, Texas, April 11.—The Texas League outfield, considered last year one of the hardest hitting aggregations in minor circles is looking like a million dollars as the time approaches for it to start functioning.

Despite the loss to big leagues of several men of the caliber of Homer Summa, who led the league in hitting last year for Spuderville and Hendricks who played with the Galveston Sanderbats, the outfields of the various clubs seem vastly improved.

The Beaumont Exporters have what promises to be the best trio of "pastime pastimers" in the circuit. Kirkham, Demagrio and Edington have good outfield arms. As for hitting, they "don't do nothin' else but." The combined average of the three last years was over .330.

The Wichita Spudders have but one man left from the powerful outfield of last season, Bob Beacher. However, with the addition of Doc Silva, who pounded the pellet with Birmingham last year to the tune of .319, George Whiteman, ex-Buffalo player who hit .303 and Williams, a newcomer who is being highly touted in Spuderville, "Manager Walter Salm is telling the world that his outfield worries are null and void.

Fort Worth has the same quartet of sluggers who alternated in positions last year, Calvo, Sears, Steelbauer and Coombs. The combined average of the four last season reached .305.

Dallas has lost no outer gardeners except "Nic" Demaggio who was "loaned" to the Steers for the last part of the season. With Tommy Lovelace and Matt Donohue secure in their berths and "Pug" Allen practically assured of a position, Dallas has a strong trio. Lovelace and Donohue, who hit .330 and .324 respectively last year both look like coming big leaguers, while Allen, in early workouts, is promising a comeback from his .263 average of last year.

Shreveport has two veterans back this year, Storey and Jackson, and two newcomers garnered from Milwaukee, Echrodt and Simmons. Jackson, the "grand old man" of the Texas league, batted .344 last year, while Roy Storey, the possessor of one of the best arms in the circuit, had a bad year, batting only .257.

Houston's outfield is an undetermined factor. Bechtel is the only man who played Texas league ball last year and he is weak with the stick. Two newcomers, Ammons and Sperber are pastiming in most of the exhibition games.

The Galveston Sanderbats have J. Don Brown, Joe Munson and "Little Bill" Bittle, all well known in this circuit. The three gardeners had a collective average of .288 last year.

San Antonio has two returns from last season's outfield, namely Boone and Meyers who ran up an average of .311 and .251 respectively. Two strangers in camp are battling for berths, Todd and Boone.

DOGS IN POUND AWAIT COMING OF HOPED FOR FRIEND

Yelping, uncared for, disheveled and skinny dogs are calculated to touch even the heart of the flint-hearted man. Add to this imprisonment, then the picture of pathos is complete. Go out to the city pound on the Caddo highway, not more than a four-minute drive from Main street and such is the picture presented.

When someone approaches the long shed that houses the "unfortunates" it is a signal for joy on the part of the dogs. They start a rushing contest for the window. Appealing glances are shot toward the visitor. One dog crowds the other. Bones are forgotten. The canines seem to get the feeling that their opportunity for delivery has come.

By far the majority of the prisoners are bitches. As cast-offs, they soon become the object of the dog catcher's net. It is true also at least on the day a reporter visited the pound, brown dogs get in the way of the foe of canines more than any other colored dog. There were only two black and white dogs in the pound out of more than 10 dogs. They were mostly of the mongrel breed.

"Looking to see if mine is out here," said a Ranger man as he looked up to greet some newcomers. Still others ride out to the pound in hopes there might be some kind of a dog there he might adopt for his own.

ARMY AIRPLANES COMPLETE RECORD FLIGHT

Weeks greets flyers

Planes landing

Six army airplanes, carrying 12 officers, under command of Captain Thomas G. Lamphier, shown arriving in Washington, after the completion of a record-breaking 5,000-mile flight, which was made to prepare plans to "bottle up" the Caribbean sea in the event of an enemy naval attack. The planes traveled an absolute schedule from San Antonio, Texas, to Cuba and Porto Rico, returning to Washington, where they were greeted by Secretary Weeks, Assistant Secretary Dwight Davis, Gen. J. Mason T. Patrick, chief of the army air service; and Brigadier-General Hines, assistant chief of staff. The planes covered 5,400 miles in 61 hours, 13 minutes flying time. By reaching Porto Rico on schedule time they showed that within three days the entire American air force can be mobilized on that island to bomb and sink any approaching enemy fleet. There was not an accident on the flight.

OBREGON TO PROTECT MEXICO BY DRY ZONE

By FREDERICK G. NEUMEIER (United Press Staff Correspondent) MEXICO CITY, Mexico (By mail to United Press)—The Mexican border is going to lose that part of its population known as thirsty, if plans of the Obregon government are carried out.

A draft of a law is being prepared which will make a dry zone along the border 50 miles deep.

President Obregon has taken a strong stand against booze and dope along the border and is personally advocating the "dry zone."

"I am personally interested in seeing that these degrading vices are eliminated," he stated recently to the press.

The establishment of a "dry zone" at the border was agitated at the time of President Carranza but not much progress made.

President Obregon is of the opinion that such a zone is now necessary along the border, because of the vices imported from the United States and because, as he expressed it, "the frontier cities are rapidly becoming cesspools for American vices."

The government takes the stand that the practices along the border are not only hurting the dignity of the Mexican nation, but are also teaching Mexicans vices which in time would end in ruin for the border cities.

The establishment of the "dry zone" it is believed here, would make a great difference in affairs at Tijuana, where a race meet is conducted for one hundred days each year.

HIGH SCHOOL MANUAL TRAINING SHOP TURNS OUT GAVEL FOR COLEMAN

Gus Coleman, president of the Rotary club, was presented with a gavel by E. O. McNew, who preceded Mr. Coleman in the club presidency at the club luncheon today. The gavel was made from black gum, taken from the crating in which machinery for the manual training department of the Ranger high school was shipped. Mr. McNew appreciating the need of a gavel to bring the Rotarians to order for business had the gavel made as soon as the lathe was installed. "I'd have to hammer on glasses or the table," said Mr. McNew. "The gavel will bring better results."

THURBER WILL PLAY TWO COLLEGE NINES; IMPROVING GROUNDS

Two college games have been scheduled by the Thurber baseball club. John Tarleton will play at Thurber next Saturday. And on May 12, Abilene Christian College will come to Thurber.

A Sunday game will be played at Thurber when Breckenridge returns for a second game.

The Saturday game will be as usual, at 4 o'clock, and the Sunday contest at 3 p. m.

Improvements have been ordered on the club's baseball park. A new fence clear around the park is under construction. The outfield fence will be in the form of a quarter circle, with inside parking space for occupied cars. Most of the work will be done by Saturday, club officials say.

COYOTES OF THE PRAIRIE READY TO PLAY BALL

Club Reorganizes For Its Third Season and Ready For Action.

The Prairie Coyotes baseball club has reorganized for this season and will play the Ranger Paintors or Independents next Sunday, probably at Nitro park.

This club has been playing for two seasons and last year won 18 of the 28 games played.

Games with teams of the surrounding towns and cities are wanted by the team manager, C. Bradford, and he can be reached by addressing him in care of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, Terry Camp, Ranger.

Much interest in the club is being taken by its adherents and the players themselves which augurs for a successful season, according to Mr. Bradford.

The team's lineup follows:
Hawthorne, catcher; Wendland, second base; Cary and Higg, first base; Henige (captain), and Smith, pitcher; C. Bradford (manager), third base; Young, right field; A. Bradford and Burns, center field; Seale, short stop; Shaw, left field.

CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHWAY AMENDMENT TO BE INAUGURATED SOON

By United Press
FORT WORTH, April 11.—A campaign to put over the highway amendment to the state constitution which will be voted on by the people of Texas July 28, will be inaugurated at the annual meeting of the Texas Highway association at Dallas, April 20 and 21, Secretary-Manager Wheeler of the association has announced here.

Pledges from chambers of commerce from all parts of the state, to send large delegations to the meeting are being received daily at the headquarters of the association here.

The co-operation of every local, sectional and state civic organization in Texas, will be enlisted by the highway association to insure passage of the proposed amendment, Wheeler declared.

"We have every reason to believe the amendment will pass," Wheeler said. "But the matter is of such vital importance we must leave nothing undone which might contribute to this result."

Lieutenant-Governor T. W. Davidson has accepted an invitation to be one of the chief speakers at the meeting. Davidson has been an active supporter of the program of highway legislation, which proposes the bringing about fullest co-operation between Texas and the Federal government in the construction of a connected state highway system.

Judge W. R. Simpson of Tyler will deliver an address on "How the Rural Districts Will Be Benefited by the Adoption of the Amendment." A. B. Spencer of Crosbyton, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, also has accepted a place on the program.

Names of other speakers and their subjects will be announced as formal acceptances are received.

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will cut down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

Here's one reason: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 13 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a-year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

"BULL" DURHAM TOBACCO

★ What a place "Bull" Durham holds in the hearts of Americans! Can you think of any other brand that has been the favorite of three generations?

Look at its history. From the Civil War to the Great War "Bull" Durham has been the American's greatest standby. Sixty years.

There really is no smoke in the world so altogether satisfactory.

A "Bull" smoker never switches. You can't interest him in any new experiments. He carries his preference wherever he goes.

This is because the special flavor and aroma of "Bull" Durham make a cigarette that can not be duplicated.

Find out. You will never know how good a cigarette can really be until you roll your own out of "Bull".

when the great war began. He enlisted in the regular army and was transferred to the air service in which he eventually became a pilot. His ground school work was taken at Cornell university, then he was sent to Camp Dick at Dallas, where he joined the 14th squadron. From there he went to Memphis for primary work, then to Dayton, Ohio, Mississippi and various other stations, having been in 12 camps in two years. Finally he reached Hoboken and had waited there 12 days in readiness to embark for France when the armistice was signed. After that he took up commercial aviation mostly in Louisiana, and about three years ago came to Ranger with one of the oil companies.

For the last year and a half he has been in the automobile business and is now secretary-treasurer of the Hub City Garage.

"COP" RHETT

S. H. Phett, although a native of Kansas City, Mo., spent most of his early life in Omaha, Neb., attending public school in that city. After his school days were over, he took up railroading as a profession he followed without interruption until about three years ago when he came to Ranger in September, 1920, with the Texas Pipe Line company as traffic manager, a position he still holds.

During the war he was with the Texas & Pacific railroad at Louisville, Ky., and had the distribution of cars at that large center. He is a member of the Elks at Dallas and of the local Shrine club.

Mrs. Rhett's was Miss L. May Mullins. They have two children, Virginia, aged 10, and Edward, aged two.

"MISERY" CRAIG

Clyde C. Craig, dentist, is a native of Strada, Ark., coming to Texas with his family when merely a child and settling in Corpus Christi. As a young lad he was sent to Bunker Hill Military College in Illinois, and while there met and married Miss Amelia Oldenettel.

A year later he entered the dental college of St. Louis university, where he graduated in 1916, teaching two years afterward in the clinic. When America entered the war, Dr. Craig joined the sixth division, 52nd infantry of the regular army and was attached to the medical corps. He went overseas immediately and remained there until June after the signing of the armistice. Upon his return he spent several months in Corpus Christi with relatives, then came to Ranger where he has been ever since.

"HOT SHOT" HODGES

R. L. Hodges came to Ranger three and one-half years ago to enter the Ranger Battery Service with his brother-in-law, T. E. Baker. Although born in Strawn, Ill., he went to Holdredge, Neb., with his parents when a child, and spent most of his school years there. Later he entered the general mercantile business at Atlanta, Neb., spending several years there. He came to Ranger during the oil boom and finds it a good city in which to stay.

Mrs. Hodge, who was Miss Eunice Baker, was born in Ohio, but went as a child to Nebraska, and it was there that they were married.

"SKINNY" OWEN.

Ben A. Owen was born in Bloomfield, Mo., and attended public schools at that place until he was 12 years of age. Then the family moved to Oklahoma Territory, where he went to school in Davenport and Chandler, Lincoln county, until he graduated from high school, after which he attended Oklahoma A. & M. for two years. Two years of teaching in the public schools of Osage county, Okla., followed, during which time he also served an enlistment in Company B, 1st Oklahoma National Guard. He entered the employ of the Jarecki Manufacturing company at Cushing, Okla., in October 1914, and has been with the same company ever since, having been manager of stores at Cleveland and Shamrock, Okla., and Sedan, Kans.

In August 1918 he waived exemption, was sent to Camp Pike, Ark., and assigned to the 6th Co., 3rd batal-ion, Central Officers Training school, at which place he was discharged Dec. 8, 1918. On the 10th day of January, 1917, Mr. Owens was married to Miss Edna Bell Rhodes of Franklin, Pa. He came to Ranger in January, 1919, and built the store for the Jarecki Manufacturing company, was field salesman for them in this field for two years, and was then placed in charge of the store here.

"ASTHMA" LOGSDON

Dr. H. A. Logsdon, although a native of Sherman, Texas, spent his boyhood in Gainesville, where he graduated from the high school. He then attended Fort Worth university, graduating from the medical department in 1910, and was interne for one year at St. Joseph's hospital in that city. After seven years of practice there in medicine and surgery, he helped organize the Fort Worth Ambulance company, which was sent to Camp Travis for training on America's entrance into the war. After one year of training, Dr. Logsdon was sent to New Orleans for special work in surgery under Dr. Mathias, and went overseas as lieutenant with the 90th division, and saw service in the Meuse, Argonne and San Mihiel regions. He was with the army of occupation after the signing of the armistice, and returned in command of his company, coming soon afterward to Ranger, where he has been practicing for three and one-half years. He is now a member of the recently organized medical and surgical clinic.

Mrs. Logsdon is also a Texan. She was Miss Willie Conner of Fort Worth.

"FLU" FLEWELLEN.

L. H. Flewellen, of the firm of Pearson and Flewellen, is a native of Belton, Texas, where he graduated from the high school as valedictorian. He entered the State university at Austin, spending six years there, and graduated with honors from the academic and later from the law department. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. Upon leaving the university, he entered the law office of Dabney & Goggan at Dallas, but was there only a few months when America entered the war and he then went to the first training camp at San Antonio, from which he was later discharged on account of physical disability. He then entered the firm of Sullivan and Cunningham, San Antonio, and left there to enter the department of justice in order that he might do his share in the winning of the war. He came to Ranger in September, 1919, and has since been associated with L. H. Pearson in the practice of law. Mrs. Flewellen was Miss Jenna Van Doren of Belton. They have one son, L. H., Jr., two years of age.

"HAWKSHAW" HANSHAW.

T. T. Henshaw, a native of Tonpe, Okla., spent his earlier years there and later went to the University of Oklahoma. He entered business at Clinton, Okla., in a five and ten-cent store, the same popular business which he owned here in the Crest store and also in a store of the same name in Brokenridge. Coming to Ranger in 1919, he entered business with his uncle, J. D. Simpson, and became manager of the S. & H. store, ready-to-wear for both ladies and gentlemen. He married Miss Ola Smith of Ranger about one year ago.

"ADD" MURRAY

Walter Murray, president of the Times Publishing company, was born at Gatesville, Texas, and went to Fort Worth in his early teens, taking a paper route for the Star-Telegram. It was not long before he operated two paper routes and then added a dry cleaning plant for good measure. Later he entered the advertising department of the Star-Telegram, where he remained 11 years, leaving there to become advertising manager for the Fort Worth Record, a position he still held when he resigned to come to Ranger as part owner and advertising manager of the Ranger Daily Times, of which he is now the president and largest stockholder.

Mrs. Murray was formerly Miss Blanche Talley. They have two little daughters, Doris, aged 9, and Mavis, aged 3 years.

"ABIE" SHAW

James Shaw, a native of Cambridge, Ohio, came to Texas during the oil boom and has been with the Oil Well Supply Co. since February, 1920. He graduated from the high school in his native city, going later to Columbus and then to Washington, Jefferson university in Pennsylvania, where he spent three years. Later he returned to the Ohio university, where he was a student when the war was entered by America. He joined the army of Western Pennsylvania, 28th division and went overseas with the 112th infantry, seeing active service during the war. He returned to America in September 1919, and returned to Ohio university, but the call of the south and the oil fields was too strong and he left Ohio in a few months for Ranger where he has been ever since. His wife was Miss Imogene Cooper of Texas.

"ASAFETIDA" RALSTON

J. M. Ralston is a native of Nebraska, though he spent most of his boyhood in Oklahoma, attending public school there and later Oklahoma university, taking a special course in pharmacy. He enlisted during the war and spent 19 months in France with the Expeditionary Forces, being attached to the medical corps. Returning two months after the armistice, he spent a few weeks with his family in Oklahoma and then came to Ranger, where he has since been connected with the Crawford Drug company. His wife was Miss Gertrude Nicol of Ennis, Texas. They have one son, James Walter, two years of age.

"RED" WHITE

J. M. White, dry goods merchant, has had many years of experience in this line, having entered the business in Oklahoma when a boy of 19. His earlier years were spent in Bosque county on the farm, where he was born, and after three years of business in Oklahoma, he returned to Bosque, where he married Miss Grace Garber. Later he went to Haskell and spent six years in the automobile business, coming to Ranger where he has been a prominent merchant for the last four years. Two years ago he was ordained deacon in the Central Baptist church. He is an ardent baseball fan, and when in Oklahoma played on the league team.

Mr. and Mrs. White have three sons, James Garber, 12; Robert, 6; and J. M., Jr., four months of age.

"RABBIT" WOODS

H. D. Woods, more familiarly known as "Rabbit," is a native Texan, and attended the Abilene High school, going later to Southwestern university at Georgetown. He took graduate work from the University of Wisconsin and Columbia university, receiving from the latter the degree of M. A. Public school work at Wichita Falls, Cleburne and Ranger occupied him for six years. He was in the American Expeditionary forces holding a commission of first lieutenant, field artillery, and saw service on the western front. His wife was Miss Irene Maxwell of Hico. They have one daughter, Winifred.

"TUFFY" BROWN

T. A. Brown, finance commissioner of the city of Ranger, came to this city to enter the oil field supply business in 1918, embarking later in the oil producing business, operating with several strings of tools in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. He was born in Parker, Kans., moving to Texas with his family and living for several years east of Dallas.

He spent ten years in the bonding business in Texarkana and during that time represented his companies in more than 25 municipal bond issues in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas municipalities.

Mr. Brown is married and has one daughter, Miss Helen.

"VALVE-IN-HEAD" MCGINLEY

W. J. McGinley, although born in Norman, Okla., came to Texas with his parents when a small child and spent most of his life in Wichita Falls. Four years ago he went to Mineral Wells where he entered the auto sales business, coming to Ranger a year ago as manager of the Goad Motor company. His wife was Miss Ellen Adelle Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Robertson, of Wichita Falls.

"TUBBY" JACKSON

Dr. W. L. Jackson, although born in Oklahoma, came to Texas with his parents when a child and spent his younger days in Cook county, near Muenster, where he attended public school. Later he graduated from the Deatur Baptist college and then from Baylor Medical college at Dallas. He was an interne at the Baptist Sanitarium, now Baylor hospital in Dallas, when America entered the war. He enlisted at Fort Riley, Kansas, and was assigned to base hospital 136. He spent some time in New York, taking post graduate work at Bellevue hospital, then was sent to Camp Lee, Virginia, not being sent overseas until after the armistice was signed, but remaining there eight months. He came to Ranger in December, 1919, where he has establish-

Mrs. Jackson was formerly Miss Eva Lewis, of Cold Springs, Texas. They have one son, Walter Lee, Jr., four months of age.

"WAPCO" PEARSON

Harry A. Pearson was born in Nacogdoches, is the son of W. B. Pearson, now of Waco, grand secretary of the Masonic lodges in Texas. After graduating from Baylor university at Waco, Harry Pearson entered the wholesale grocery house of Cooper company, Waco, as traveling salesman. Later he located at Beaumont with the same company, going from them to the Waples-Platter company in their Gainesville branch house and came to Ranger in April 1921 as manager of the Waples-Platter Wholesale Grocery company of this city.

Mrs. Pearson was Miss Marie Paul of Nashville, Tenn. They were married in 1916 and have one little daughter, Phoebe Ann, three years of age.

"PURITY" POND

H. U. Pond came from the grand old state of Missouri, being a native of Doniphan, although he spent his school days in Springfield, where he graduated from the high school, and most of the time since then, until he came to Ranger, was spent in St. Louis, where he was fireman on the Rock Island railroad. He came to Ranger to get into the oil game and was scout for the Ranger Refining company and later superintendent of the pipe line going to Wichita Falls for the same company and remaining there for about two years. A year ago he returned to Ranger and bought the Ranger Distilled Water Works, which he now owns and manages.

His wife was Miss Lorena Herring, a native of Stephenville. They have one daughter, Mary Ruth.

"ANDY" ORTH

Andrew J. Orth, born in Chillicothe, Ohio, spent his early school days there and later went to Western Reserve College at Cleveland from which he graduated shortly before the war. He entered service in the Field Artillery but was not sent overseas. Soon after being discharged from the army he came to Ranger during the early boom days and was for some time with the Ranger Water Co., leaving there to organize the Orth Bottling Works which he sold a few months ago and went to Cleveland, where he intends to make his home. He is visiting in Fort Worth at present and expects to return to Cleveland about the first of May. His wife was Miss Katherine Neerman of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

"BUDDY" BEASLEY

J. H. Beasley, genial manager of the Ranger Garage, is a native of Abilene where he attended school. Like many young boys he had a fondness for electrical work and after graduating from high school entered the electrical business and continued in the same for ten years. When the war involved America he entered the aviation department and was attached to the 109th Aero Squadron. He trained at Camp Carruthers, where he had charge of electrical and telephone works on the field during the two years he spent there. This completed his war experience and when discharged he returned to Abilene. Shortly afterward he came to Ranger and opened the Ranger Garage which is a branch of the Fulweiler Motor Co., of Abilene.

His wife was Miss Pearl Petree of Florence, Alabama. They have one son, "Buddy" Bob, seven months of age.

"RUBBER" SAVAGE

W. F. Savage, who is associated with J. H. Beasley at the Ranger Garage is a native of Abilene, like his partner, and had all of his schooling there. For a number of years he was a traveling salesman and later was with the Pierce-Fordyce Oil Co. at Corpus Christi. At the beginning of the war he enlisted and was sent to Camp Green, Charlotte, N. C. where he joined the 13th Field Artillery. He entered the camp on the 13th day of December, was assigned to the 13th Artillery, sailed for overseas on the 13th and was discharged on the same date of the month many months later. He says 13 is his lucky number and has figured in many important events of his life. He spent fourteen months overseas, was in active battle on all the fronts and afterward in the army of occupation.

On receiving his discharge he came immediately to Texas, and after a short time to Ranger which he finds a good city to stay in.

"PHILL" PHILLIPS

O. L. Phillips of the Phillips Drug company is a native of Eastland county though his boyhood was spent in Baird where he attended public school. Later he attended Weatherford college and graduated from that institution. He says he was raised in a drug store and has been in this business in Rotan, Lubbock and Ranger coming here in 1918. His wife was Miss Alice Norton of Houston. They have two sons, Dick, a student at Columbia college, Missouri, and James Donald, 9 years of age.

"CASH" HOLMSLEY

T. J. Holmsley, born in Midland, Texas, lost his mother at an early age and spent most of his school days in Comanche, where he lived with his grandmother. Soon after he entered the State university, the first training camps for the war were opened and young Holmsley entered the first camp at San Antonio, only to be discharged soon after on account of physical disability. He then went to Oklahoma, where he entered a wholesale firm in Muskogee, going from there to the Pueblo Fuel and Iron company in Colorado, coming to Ranger to enter the First National bank. When that bank went into receivership, Mr. Holmsley went to the Peoples State bank as assistant cashier, a position he still holds. Mrs. Holmsley was Miss Leah Allen of Comanche, Texas. They have one son, Tom, Jr., two years of age.

"RUMP" JAMESON.

Aubrey M. Jameson of the Jameson Market & Grocery company was born in Waco, attended public school there and graduated from Baylor university. Since then he has been in the marketing and grocery business with his father, D. L. Jameson, and brother, R. A. Jameson. They came to Ranger in 1919 and established the business which bears their name. Aubrey Jameson is past exalted ruler of the Elks lodge of Ranger and an enthusiastic Lion.

"JOHN" RINGOLD

E. A. Ringold, city tax assessor, was born in Grenada county, Mississippi, and spent his boyhood on the farm. He finished grade school at Winona, Miss., after which he spent several years on the road as a salesman, settling in Oklahoma City in 1906. He was in the real estate business there until coming to Ranger in December, 1918. His first work in Ranger was volunteer service in the city postoffice, which was crowded with mail in the early days of the boom, with service crippled for want of help.

He was the first assessor and collector of taxes for the Ranger Independent school district and was employed by Ranger the day its charter was approved at Austin. He is still in the employ of the city and declares he stays because he likes Ranger and its people.

"SAFETY" WALKER.

Hall Walker of the Ranger State bank was born in Ranger and lived here all of his life, with the exception of a few years spent at Simmons college, Abilene, where he graduated.

He helped to organize the Ranger State bank of which he is now assistant cashier. He is also a director of the Times Publishing company.

"SPIKE" KILLINGSWORTH

J. F. Killingsworth, one of the charter members of the Ranger Lions Club, was born in Wise county, Texas, and lived there until 19 years of age, moving from there to Haskell county, where he lived about 18 years. About 15 years of that time was spent in the furniture and undertaking business. He came to Ranger in 1918 and has been in the same business here since that time. Although he has been through all the bank failures and troublous times of Ranger, he still believes in the city and that it has wonderful opportunities in which he wants to share. He is strong for better schools and believes that one of the finest things about Ranger is its splendid public schools and fine corps of teachers. Mrs. Killingsworth was Miss Iona Arrington, a native of Arkansas, although living in Texas since a small child. They have one son, Floyd, 15 years of age.

"PROTECTION" SCOTT.

T. B. Scott, bookkeeper for the Ranger State Bank, is one of the few business men of the city who can claim Ranger as native city. After completing grammar school here he went to the Tyler Commercial College, returning to Ranger after he completed the course.

He has experienced all the ups and downs of the banking business, having been with practically every bank in the city through their successes and failures. After banking hours he is agent for the Merchants Life Insurance Company. His wife was Miss Meta Jones, also of Ranger. They have one son, John Thomas, five and one-half years of age.

a native of Iowa, spending his boyhood in Ironton. He is a graduate of Iowa State University at Des Moines, and served during the war with the Y. M. C. A., being located at Camp McArthur, Waco. Here he met his wife, Miss Rose Lassater, and soon after the closing of the camp they came to Ranger where Mr. Hemmingson was connected with the Chamber of Commerce until April 1920, when the city of Ranger received its charter and he was made city secretary, a position he resigned recently in order to assume new duties with the Brown-Crummer Investment Company of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hemmingson have two sons, George, Jr. and James L.

"BLUE" TERRELL.

Charles E. Terrell, although born in Fort Worth, spent most of his boyhood in Haskell, Texas, where he went as an infant with his parents. He attended school in Haskell and during the war was in training at Camp Hancock, Georgia, but was never sent overseas.

Coming to Ranger as soon as released from the army he has been here since 1919 and is well known as an expert consulting engineer. He is unmarried.

"JAKE" MORGAN.

B. C. Morgan, general freight and passenger agent for the Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth railroad, has spent most of his life at railroading. Born in Oklahoma he attended school in his native state and when he came to Texas was chief inspector for the Frisco road at Ardmore.

Soon after the opening of the Wichita Falls, or as it is more familiarly known, the Jake Hamon road, Mr. Morgan came to Ranger to take the position which he now holds and has been here for several years. He is married and has one son, Trigg, four years of age.

"SCOUT" WOODS.

C. D. Woods, scout for the Texas Pipe Line Company, was born in Jacksonville, Florida, but spent his boyhood in Findley, Ohio, where he attended public school and business college. His early experiences in the oil game were with the Standard Oil Company in Ohio and Indiana. He came to Texas in 1912 and was with the Security Oil Company at Beaumont. Following his scouting instincts he reached Ranger in September 1917, ahead of the boom, and has been here ever since with the Texas Pipe Line Company. His wife was Miss Loubie Boyd of Louisiana.

The home demonstration agents in Bowie county, Texas, and Miller county, Ark., have undertaken to conduct a free circulating library for the rural people of the two counties. Books for the services have been contributed.

WHAT'S A LION?

(By Frank Maynard, of Rockford, Ill., U. S. A.)

What's a Lion? asked a man I wish you'd tell me if you can, For I am curious to know Just what makes these clubs all grow.

First I know, I heard one roar, Then it seemed a hundred more Joined the chorus bold and strong To boost the worthy cause along.

'Tis true that Jack and Ned and Glen All have joined the local den, I know they're fellows staunch and true, Whose banner is red, white and blue.

It seems the Lions have a care, And always do a lion's share To boost good movements day by day But, what's a Lion, anyway?

I'll tell you, Bill, then said his friend If you've a minute you can spend, It won't take long, it's all so clear; So, what's a Lion? Listen here.

A Lion in these modern days, Is just another homely phrase We give a man who's strong of heart And always tries to do his part.

A Lion is a man too strong To do another fellow wrong, Who loves his country and his home, And doesn't live for self alone.

A Lion is a man of truth, Of character, of brain and youth; Whose Creed he practices, you'll find, It's just the art of being kind.

So now, my friend, perhaps you know What makes the Lion family grow; And now, when fortune favors you, I know you'll be a Lion, too.

BANK TELLER'S DEATH BEING INVESTIGATED

By Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY, April 11.—Investigation of the circumstances surrounding the shooting of Benjamin F. Valentine, former bank teller, was continued today by police following the announcement that Marino Browning, nephew of John F. Browning, famous gun inventor, had admitted he killed Valentine in self-defense.

John F. Browning Jr., son of the inventor, was held in the county jail in connection with the shooting. Both Marino and John Browning declared they had come here to take Mrs. Valentine to her former home in Ogden, following domestic troubles in the Valentine family. She is a daughter of the inventor.

UNUSUAL INCIDENTS SEEN IN MID-OCEAN

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The standing request of the naval hydrographic office that mariners report any unusual incident of their voyages brought a strange grist of replies in today's mail.

The British steamer, Galileo, recorded having observed in mid-Atlantic the "image of a steamer upside down bearing north, and another steamer bearing east, having mast and funnels elongated to three times their normal height."

Captain J. R. Mitchel, of the American ship, Liberty Glo, reported an area of thick yellow water off the South American coast extending 50 miles and apparently caused by a set-hundreds of miles away.

Strange and uncharted tide rips and obstructions of various shapes were reported. One mariner solemnly recorded the adventure of a "bottle paper" which, set adrift in 1921 off New Foundland was picked up in March, 1923, in a port in France.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS SEEKS TO REVISE PSALMS OF DAVID AND SHORTEN TEN COMMANDMENTS

LONDON, April 11. — Drastic changes and elisions in the vivid Psalms of David in the Book of Common Prayer are recommended by the special committee of the House of Bishops, which has been sitting in solemn conclave on the subject for many months. The alterations, if sanctioned by the National Assembly of the Church of England, will constitute an alternative text of the psalms, to be used at the discretion of ministers. The proposed revision of the prayer book includes also the shortening of the ten commandments and the alteration of the marriage service.

The psalmist's vision of unforgettable doom for the ungodly is radically modified. Psalm 58 is to be omitted altogether. It contains such expressions as:

"Break their teeth, O God, in their mouths; let them fall away like water that runneth apace. Let them consume away like a snail. The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance; he shall wash his footsteps in the blood of the ungodly."

Verses are to be left out from eight other psalms, and in each case the sentiments are for death and condemnation, as, for example, in psalm 68, verse 23: "That thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thine enemies; and that the tongue of the dog may be red through the same," and in psalm 109, verses 9 and 10: "Let his children be fatherless and his wife a widow. Let his children be vagabonds and beg for their bread."

No fewer than 346 alterations are suggested in the wording of the verses of various psalms. A comparison of the revised version with the old text in a selection of these alterations is given below. In each instance the revised version is given first:

Psalm 37, Verse 20:
"As for the ungodly they shall perish; and the enemies of the Lord shall be as the flower of the field; yea, even as the smoke shall they consume away."

Psalm 62, Verse 9:
"As for the ungodly they shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall consume as the fat of lambs; yea, even as the smoke shall they consume away."

"As for the children of men, they are but vanity, the children of men are deceitful; tried in the balance they are altogether lighter than vanity itself."

"As for the children of men, they are but vanity: the children of men are deceitful upon the weights, they are altogether lighter than vanity itself."

Psalm 72, Verse 6:

"He shall come down like the rain upon the tender grass; even as the drops that water the earth."

"He shall come down like the rain into a fleece of wool; even as the drops that water the earth."

Urging that the suggested changes be rejected, the London Daily Express says editorially: "The committee of revision has been trying to modify the immortal songs of David to suit the less robust constitutions of today. The psalms of David were for a vigorous race, a race of conquerors. In their verses we have found the fundamental passions of a mighty people expressed with inspired genius. When the war and conquest was the theme there was the clash of battle in the very words. Hatred and anguish and sorrow were portrayed with the vividness of a storm among the hills. And when the psalmist sang of beauty it was in such accents as shall survive until the human race no longer responds to the appeal of music. The Book of Common Prayer is one of the twin glories of our literature. It has consoled and inspired the people since the days of Edward VI. Our modern Bolsheviks and Bowdlers have no right to degrade the psalter."

IN THE SPRING THE 'BARKER' CRIES LOUDLY, DO YOU WANT WORK?

NEW YORK, April 11. — The "Barkers" of employment agencies which cater to the Order of Casual and Migratory Laborers are again singing coaxing ditties on the sidewalks in front of their establishments, in an effort to obtain men to fill the increased demand for outdoor workers usual at this season.

"Hey, big boy, what d'ye say?" the burden of their song runs. "Long jobs, big pay, up state, down south, west, all over. Take a squint at the board, step right up and park yer 'war bag' here 'till shippin' time."

Many itinerants, faced with the dwindling of their winter's "stake," the savings of last summer's wages which enabled them to idle through the cold weather, are responding to the cajolings of the "barker," but others, it was said, are marking time until things "open up" a little wider.

Royal Murder Scene Once Becomes Scene of Honeymoon

Does Homicide Run in Families?

Glamis Castle, Scotland, where the Duke of York, second son of King George, and his bride will honeymoon. This is the castle referred to in Shakespeare's "Macbeth." Eight hundred years ago Macbeth murdered Duncan, King of Scotland, in the room marked by the cross. His lineal descendant seems to have inherited the family weakness for she is murdering husbands in grand opera today with remarkable success. CODE OF ETHICS

1. To show my faith in the worthiness of my vocation by industrious application to the end that I may merit a reputation for quality of service.
2. To seek success and to demand all fair remuneration or my just due, but to accept no profit or success at the price of my own self-respect lost because of questionable acts on my part.
3. To remember that in building up my business it is not necessary to tear down another's; to be loyal to my clients or customers and true to myself.
4. Whenever a doubt arises as to the right or ethics of my position or action towards my fellow men, to resolve such doubt against myself.
5. To hold friendship as an end and not a means. To hold that true friendship exists, not on account of the service performed by one to another, but that true friendship demands nothing, but accepts service in the spirit in which it is given.
6. Always to bear in mind my obligations as a citizen to my nation, my province and my community, and to give to them my unwavering loyalty in word, act and deed. To give them freely of my time, labor and means.
7. To aid my fellow men by giving my sympathy to those in distress, my aid to the weak, and my substance to the needy.
8. To be careful with my criticisms and liberal with my praise; to build up and not destroy.

CRUSADE ON BEHALF OF THE CHILDREN SO BETTER CITIZENS MAY BE ASSURED IN FUTURE

By FREDERICK ALMY,
Former President National Conference of Social Work.

The Children's Crusade, which set out to redeem Jerusalem in 1212 was of and by the children and ended in slavery and death. The miracles that were confidently expected did not happen.

The Children's Crusade of today is not of and by children, but for children, and is rescuing them from slavery and from living death. The miracle has happened, and as Dr. Phillip Van Ingen says in his able article in the American Public Health association's "A Half a Century of Public Health," from being a neglected, almost friendless member of society 50 years ago, the child today occupies the center of the stage.

The thousands of Crusaders who go to Washington for the fiftieth anniversary of the national conference of social work from May 16 to 23, will find that each of the seven days is given to a separate brigade of the social army. The school, on its day, Tuesday, May 22, will deal mainly with the child, but the home, the church, health, industry, public opinion and law and government, on the other six days, will also deal largely with the child, as "father of the man."

Half Century Progress.

Children were at first protected merely as "animals." In the famous Mary Ellen case in New York City a child was treated with great cruelty, but no action could be got until application was made to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The matter was taken under careful consideration, and referred to the counsel of the society, who decided that, the child being an animal, the society would act. This led to the formation of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in 1875, nearly ten years later than the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which was formed in 1866.

In 1874, only one year before the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was organized, the National Conference of Charities and Correction, now the National Conference of Social Work, was formed, and from its first day it has had a special committee on children. The president of the conference in 1911, and again this year on its fiftieth anniversary, is Homer Folks, who as secretary of the State Charities Aid association for 30 years, has always given special attention to children.

Charles Loring Brace, secretary of the New York City Children's Aid society, says that the first report of this veteran society, just 70 years ago, described, "wild, ragged little girls flitting about with basket and poker, gathering rags, or begging on Broadway, where they swept the street crossings to make the street passable, demanding pennies;" and that it described boys "sleeping in cellars, hallways and under docks, where they were known as wharf rats." This nightmare, from which we have now awakened, suggests Dickens and Hogarth.

Remember Chimney Sweeps.

Little Black Tom, the chimney sweep in Water Babies, who was surprised to find that he was really white, would think today that good Mrs. Doasyouwouldbedoneby was in power. The chimney sweeping bill of Jonas Hanway, the London philanthropist, who was notable also because he was the first man in London to carry an umbrella, was passed in 1788, after Hanway's death, but was generally disregarded, and chimney sweeping was not suppressed in England until 1940. We read that "chimneys a foot in diameter could be climbed by a boy of seven; but that there were a good many chimneys which even a younger child of five could not climb with anything approaching ease, being in fact only seven inches square; and these he had to sweep naked, as otherwise he was likely to be jammed by the mere rumpling of his shirt."

We shudder now when we think of the future citizenship of the suffering orphans of Europe, but although possibly this country has no known chimney sweeping, very many of our present men and women voters were, when girls and boys, street sweepers or wharf rats. They were, in fact, not very much better off than the children of Europe are today.

The only way to have a better city is to have better citizens; and the only way to have better citizens is to give them better opportunities for health, education, and morality. It is good business to do this. It pays, for the votes of the poor, the diseases of the poor, and the crimes of the poor, cross ward lines. The people who gather at Washington next May will give much thought to these future citizens.

BROWNSVILLE—A movement is under way to supply the Lower Rio Grande Valley with natural gas from the Starr county fields. It is understood here that a large company is being formed for that purpose.

LIONISM ORIGINATED IN TEXAS BUILDING ON PRINCIPALS OF UPLIFT AND PROGRESS IT GREW

tion of the so-called International association was held in Dallas, Texas, on Oct. 8, 9, 10, 1917. At this convention an international constitution and by-laws were adopted and the first set of international officers were elected: W. P. Woods, of Evansville, Ind., president; L. H. Lewis, of Dallas, Texas, first vice president; E. W. Kearcher, of St. Louis, Mo., second vice president; H. M. Meyers, Denver, Colo., third vice president, and Melvin Jones, Chicago, Ill., secretary-treasurer.

It was about this time that the first club was formed west of Denver, at Oakland, Cal., and then expansion into the north and west began. The organization did not really attain its stride, however, until after the convention at St. Louis, in August, 1918. The association had, prior to this meeting, been more or less feeling its way and endeavoring to get its feet upon a firmer foundation and expansion. The constitution was revised, the national organization unified and refashioned, the home office at Chicago put upon a business basis, and the system of district governors instituted.

Men to Remember.

The names of many men of this period stand out, names, intimately connected with what may be termed the old organization, some of whom carried over into the new. Foremost among these were Melvin Jones, who conceived the Chicago meeting of 1917, and was more than any one man or group of men, responsible for the birth of the association. Then there were L. H. Lewis, Dallas, Texas, elected president at St. Louis, and who ably filled the chair for the ensuing year; Jesse Robinson, of Oakland, Cal., and C. C. Reid, of Denver, Colo., who subsequently became International presidents; Ewen C. Cameron, of Minneapolis, Minn., than whom there was not then, nor has there been, a more earnest laborer for the advancement of Lionism; R. A. Kleinschmidt, of Oklahoma City, Okla.; J. J. Boyle and G. M. Cunningham, of Houston, Texas; O. C. Lasher, of Ardmore, Okla.; A. V. Davenport, of Tulsa, Okla., and Joseph Triensens, of Chicago, Ill.

Considerable progress was made during the fiscal year 1918-19, culminating in the International convention in Chicago in July 1919. It was at this convention that the association may be said to have assumed its real character. The very atmosphere of the convention, the mental attitude of the delegates and visiting Lions, and the dispatch with which the business of the convention was consummated marked the real beginning of Lionism in the United States, and reflected itself in a tremendous growth during the next fiscal year. The constitution was again revised, more power given to the district governors and International president and secretary, and officers elected as follows: Jesse Robinson, Oakland, Cal., president; C. C. Reid, Denver, Colo., first vice president; L. H. Brinkman, Shreveport, La., second vice president; O. C. Lasher, Ardmore, Okla., third vice president; Melvin Jones, Chicago, Ill., secretary-treasurer.

Spirit of Co-Operation.

The fiscal year 1919-20 marked a spirit of co-operation among the International officers and the directors that found expression in doubling the number of member clubs, the entering of 11 new states, and formation of several clubs in the Dominion of Canada, all of which marked the association "International" in fact, as well as in name. The great war was now over but its influence was being felt even more keenly than before, the spirit of "co-operation for service" had been "crystallized in the fires of trial and travel" into a unified and experienced public opinion among professional and business men, a public opinion demanding 100 per cent Americanism, clean standards of business and a higher type of citizenship.

This combination of sentiment and circumstance probably accounted for the rapid growth of the association during this period, so that when the fourth International convention convened in Denver, Colo., in July, 1920, the association had definitely assumed its place among the best, and one of the leading organizations of its kind in the North American continent, and its future power, growth and usefulness was assured.

C. C. Reid, of Denver, Colo., was elected to assume the leadership for the ensuing year, Ewen W. Cameron, of Minneapolis, Minn., first vice president; Harry A. Newman, of Toronto, Canada, second vice president; O. C. Lasher, of Ardmore, Okla., third vice president, and Melvin Jones, secretary-treasurer. The administration of President Reid for the fiscal year 1920-21 has only accentuated the previous rapid growth of the association, so that now, as the fifth international convention is convening in Oakland, Cal., the International association has developed into a machine, well oiled and unified in its functioning, a constant driving force for good such as its founders in the days of the Dallas and St. Louis conventions little dreamed of.

Much to Be Done.

This is the era of large things, of accomplishments on a scale at once so stupendous that without a centralized authority and careful organization little can be done. Everything from the small backwoods logging camp to the United States Steel corporation is organized, has its centralized authority, its intense organization, and the spirit of pull together for the common weal. If the International Association of Lions clubs would accomplish its mission to the fullest extent, if it would extend its influence to every corner of the earth, it would make the name of "Lion" one to be revered and emulated, it must function as a single unit, and to do this, its component parts—district, individual Lions club, and individual Lion members—must become and continue toward that same goal of clean business, good fellowship, and virile American citizenship. And so, to that end the growth of this great association continues and will continue until its principles spread throughout the English-speaking countries of the earth, carrying to the countless thousands its message of "co-operation for service." God grant that it may continue to grow, even as it has grown, founded upon the rock of Principle, pledged to Loyalty, Intelligence and Our Nation's Safety, and dedicated to all those things which make men's lives better and brighter through all the ages to come.

RUINATION OF RUSSIA LAID TO BOLSHIEVISM BY FORMER PREMIER

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 11.—The renewed interest of western Europe in the Russian problem is evidenced by an article contributed to the magazine Revue des Deux Mondes by Count W. Kokovtsoff, who was Russian minister of finance in 1894 in succession to Count Witte, and who filled the post of premier under the czar from 1911 to 1914.

Kokovtsoff takes up the present Russian economic situation from every standpoint and endeavors to prove that Bolshevism has, by steady and inevitable stages, brought about the economic ruin of Russia. For the reconstruction of Russia the writer believes that the right of private property must be re-established and that the Bolsheviks must renounce the system of monopolies and capitalism conducted by the soviet state which, he insists, strangles the economic development of the country. External and internal commerce must become the exclusive prerogative of private initiative; nationalized industry and transportation must be denationalized and, above all, elementary justice must reign in Russia and every Russian must be allowed to breathe freely on his native soil.

EDUCATORS TO HAVE THREE-DAY SESSION IN AUSTIN NEXT WEEK

By Associated Press
 AUSTIN, April 11.—Austin is expected to be the educational center of Texas educators for three days next week when conferences of three state-wide educational bodies will be held. The organizations meeting will be Association of College Teachers of Education, Conference of Problems of Educational Administration, and Superintendents' and Principals' associations. The conferences will continue April 19, 20 and 21.

Probably the principal address of the three conferences will be that on April 20, by Dr. S. D. Brooks, president of the University of Oklahoma, on "Some Problems in Financing Public Education." This address will be part of the program on educational administration problems. Other features of the programs of this conference will be: History problems, Miss Refita Murphy, Southwest state normal college; Economics, J. H. Wisely, Austin; Sociology, President J. A. Hill, West Texas normal college; Social sciences, Supt. H. D. Fillers, Corsicana; Cost of Teaching Social Sciences, Supt. H. W. Stillwell, Texarkana; Federal, State, County and Local Support, Principal J. P. Simmons, Austin; Growth of Secondary Education, E. D. Jennings, Southern Methodist university; Financial Problems, President H. F. Estill, Sam Houston normal college.

TREES NAMED FOR HEROES.
 DULUTH, Minn., April 11.—A large part of the activities of the Theodore Roosevelt International Highway association during the spring months will be devoted to the planting of trees along the right of way of the highway, each tree to represent a World War hero. Announcement of this program has been made at the international headquarters of the association.

"The idea," said A. W. Tracy, executive secretary of the association, "is thus to memorialize the heroism of officers and soldiers who gave their lives for their country, while the planting of trees throughout the length of the great highway will make it ultimately a beautiful road."

GALVESTON—Improvements to the local telephone plant due to increased demand for service will be made at a large cost during the current year, according to announcements by the company.

MARSHALL—Extensions of the plant of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to care for increased population and service demands will be completed within the coming two or three months.

Hoover Committee Recommends Action Now To Prevent Hard Times in Future

EDWARD EYRE HUNT

CLARENCE M. WOOLEY

JOSEPH H. DEFREES

The special committee on unemployment from the depressions in the business cycle appointed by Secretary Hoover, as chairman of the President's Conference on Unemployment, has made public the conclusions reached after more than a year's study.

The committee comprises: Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company (Chairman); Joseph H. Defrees, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Mary Van Kleeck, of the Russell Sage Foundation of New York; Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor; Clarence M. Wooley, chairman of the American Radiator Company, and Edward E. Hunt, Secretary.

The committee enlisted the services of more than 200 employers, labor leaders, economic experts, financial advisors and social workers. It was requested by Secretary Hoover that they make an exhaustive investigation into the facts and causes of periodic business depressions—hard times—and to see if suggestions could be made of remedial steps that might be taken by the business community to avoid such interruptions to prosperity and employment.

The committee has now issued its own summary of conclusions and suggestions. This will be followed at an early date with the complete publication of the facts and material collected.

The committee analyzes the various economic phenomena of the periodic business boom and sequent depression and its conclusions are that preventative measures must lie in the better handling of business in boom times because depression and hard times are due to over expansion, inflation, loss of efficiency, waste and extravagance of the boom periods; that therefore the first point of attack on the problem must be more informed action by individual business men in periods of rising markets in order that excessive expansion may be prevented and the extent of the decline reduced. Stress is laid upon the necessity for better understanding of the business cycle by the business executives generally. The suggestions for control of excessive expansion embrace recommendations as to the control of credit by individual banks, possible control of inflation by the Federal Reserve System, the control by individual business men of expansion in their own business and the retardation in boom times of Governmental and large utility building and construction.

The methods of reducing the extent of the decline lie in the building up of Governmental and public utility construction in times of depression, the use of unemployment funds and the expansion of Federal, state and farm employment bureaus. The better control of credit against our expansion and speculation through the individual banks and the guidance of business itself by danger signals of over expansion are fundamental.

The committee considers that before the banks, business men and others can take constructive action in the enlightened conduct of business in this relation, there must be recruited and constantly disseminated the fundamental information on which the trends in business can be properly adjudged by each individual business man, and it strongly recommends the recruiting of enlarged and more systematic statistical information by the Department of Commerce and its wider dissemination.

The committee calls attention to the fact that the ebb and flow in demand for consumable goods is less controllable than that of construction of buildings and equipment both Governmental and private; that the tendencies of boom periods is to thrust a double burden on the community of providing for increased consumable goods and at the same time undertake the larger burdens of construction; that, therefore, the construction industries are to some extent the balance wheel on the ebb and flow of boom and depression.

The committee points out the part that Federal Reserve Banks can play in restriction of speculation and over expansion and at the same time in liberalizing credit in times of depression, and it points out that at the present moment the Federal Reserve Banks hold a larger supply of gold than is necessary to support the credit machinery of American commerce, and suggests that consideration be given to earmarking a special reserve of this gold as against probable future gold shipments from the United States and thus accomplish the double object of preventing both temptation to inflation of credits on the basis of this surplus gold supply, and at the same time the great embarrassment of possible financial credit difficulties that would arise if foreign drafts were made upon the gold which had been used as a credit basis.

The Carnegie Foundation made appropriations toward meeting the cost of the inquiry. The National Bureau of Economic Research, The Russell Sage Foundation, the Federated American Engineering Societies, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor, the American Statistical Association, the American Economic Association, the Bureau of Railway Economics and the Department of Commerce were among the bodies which contributed services. The vast compilation of fact and opinion on which the committee based its conclusions was effected under the direction of the National Bureau of Economic Research, whose director, Wesley C. Mitchell is nationally known as an authority on the business cycle.

AUSTRIAN CONDITIONS BECOMING BRIGHTER

VIENNA, April 11.—Austria presents a brighter picture today than at any time since the war. The crown is steadily appreciating in value, unemployment is lessening, the cost of living is falling, and the spirit of the population is improving. The allied loan apparently has ushered in a new era for a people which has suffered bitterly during the last 10 years.

The budget shows a remarkable improvement, the deficit since November having been reduced by nearly three billion crowns (about $4,500,000), representing a reduction of 55 per cent. Bank deposits have notably increased, which is regarded as an indication of increasing confidence in the general economic and financial situation of the country, especially in the national currency. During January the total deposits increased by nearly thirty-six billion paper crowns, a record figure. This recrudescence of thrift is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that a portion of the public savings was also absorbed in the subscriptions to the internal gold loan, which has reached nearly five million dollars.

DEAN ARRAYS CO-EDS FOR SPINSTERHOOD TENDENCIES

OXFORD, April 11.—Speaking on the question of sex equality and equal educational opportunities for women, Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, declared that out of 2,600 women students at Oxford university only 657 were married. The rest—77 per cent—had taken vows of perpetual maidenhood. "I hope," said the distinguished London ecclesiastic,

"that this deplorably low percentage is not final. When I walk through the streets of Oxford and observe the very attractive-looking young students in their very fetching caps and gowns, I cannot believe that such a large proportion of them can be so hard-hearted as to ignore the other sex."

VERNON.—Club women of Knox, Baylor, Wichita and Wilbarger counties will hold a joint camp near Seymour this summer, under plans just completed. The camp will be under the direction of the home demonstration agents of the four counties. The plans were perfected at a meeting of the agents here.

A series of lectures recently has been given under the supervision of the Carnegie library at Cleburne.
