That "Something" You Either Have or Haven't in Dress

Manya woman is accepted or rejected long before one catches the color of her eyes. Hatted, booted and gowned in the height of fashion, yet something either is or isn't lacking in the ensemble. Men sense it, but only women will tell you that the missing "something" is—the proper corset.

What a simple thing to achieve those lines of grace—that is, if you know the secret. And the secret is a Modart Corset.

Such a splendid garment is the Modart, so in; dividual in design, so free, so personal in its feeling, that there isn't any corset like a Modart.

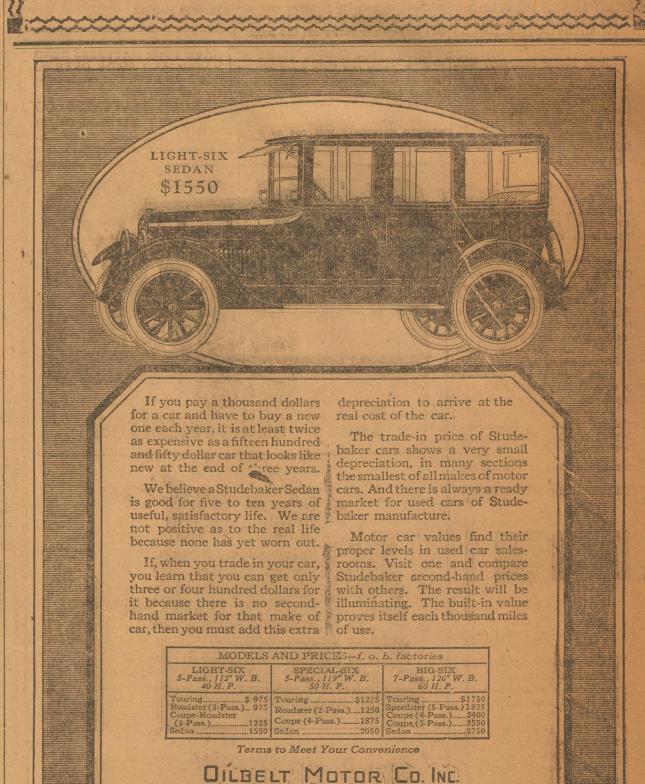

Think of the pure joy of possessing such a corset that makes others conscious of the effect, but never reminds you of the fact that you have it on.

A corset as splendidly designed as the Modart should figure. In our Corset De-partment we render this service without obligation, lovely corsets—just the right Modart which sets perfectly to your figure, you will realize that a Modart Corst; is the one corset for you.

Nature's Vanity Case For Girls Plays Part In National Health Effort Of Forces United To Give Children Here A Fair Deal

The little lady sitting at her dressing table is not a star of the stage, nor yet a daughter of wealth. She is just an Amprican school girl, lypical of hundreds of thousands in this country, and she is beautiful.

Her vanity case is responsible for her charms. Look closely at the accompanying photograph and you will find the secret of perfect health and happiness.

The components of her Vanity Case have been selected with infinite care and after long research by "Professor Happy" the wixard of the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is the president. The Association was formed by the merging of the American Child Health Organization of America, and one of its many purposes is to establish a child health aducation program in the schools that will interest the children of the country. "Professor Happy's" Sleep—will eradicate the squantages of a wise diet and other health questions, and he delivers his message in enteratining fashion.

thousands of years. Today the entire scientific world is greatly interested in the discoveries at the resting place of Tut-Ankh-Amen, the boy Pharoah who ruled Egypt 3,400 years ago and whose treasure filled tomb has justbeen opened by an archeological expedition under Lord Carnarvon of used great quantities of asphalt during the reign of the Pharoahs to mummify and preserve the dead. The bodies of the kings have been found invariably preserved with this age-old substance and that of Tut-Ankh-Amen is believed to be no exception. Two statues of the Pharoah found guarding the portals to the inner tomb, a black box, a figure of a swan and numerous other objects are of wood preserved with asphalt, or "bitumen" or "pitch" as the substance was then known. The bed or couch upon which Tut-Ankh-Amen was accustomed to recline was made of bituminized wood.

While the Egyptians were ex-tensive users of "bitumen," or asphalt, in embalming their dead and in waterproofing silos, tombs, monuments, cisterns, wells and small objects, they used it no more extensively than did the early Mesopotamians, whose nomads employed it in waterproofing their tents and Noah calked his Ark with it as did Utnapishtim, Noah's Babylonian counterpart. The basket in which Moses was concealed in the bulrushes when the Children of Israel were suffering under the bondage of Egypt was coated with asphalt to make it waterproof. Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, used "pitch" to darken her eyebrows. Nebuchadnezzar says he built Bab-ylon "with burnt brick and bitumen" and the Bible, in describing the erection of the Tower of Babel, de-clares that "they had brick for stone and bitumen had they for Asphalt was also used by the Sumarians as a cementing medium for attaching ornaments to sculptures, wood carvings and pottery. One of the most significant phases of the present building boom in this country is the great demand for permanent weather and fire resistant roofing materials such as asphalt shingles and roll roofings. The rapid development of this in-

Musical Clown Teaches Children Of United States Rules of Health; Acts for United Organizations Here

Musical Clown of the American Child Health Association, entertains the school children of America by introducing them to their best and oldest friends, Milk and Fresh Air and Vegetables. The Jolly Jester goes from school to school with wonderful tales of how to be strong and the best way to put roses in your cheeks. He rides a hobby horse from Health Land and he is generally accompanied by Minnie Spinnach and Charlie Carrot, two intelligent dolls who know all that there is to know about the value of vegetables. Sometimes he carries an infant clown, Harry the Ventriloquial doll, who is dressed all in white like the Jester himself and who, although he is only a doll, can converse with ease and fluency on all subjects pertaining to health and happiness. Talking cows and vegetables, the cackle of the hens as they lay an off-stage egg, all form part of the Jolly Jester's program as he travels from school to school in the different states.

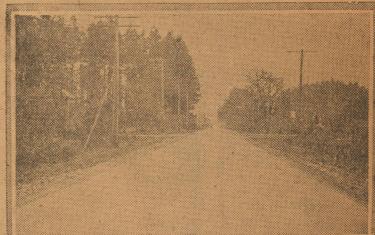

The Jolly Jester, important as he is, represents only one phase of the work which the American Child Health Association is doing through the parents, teachers and doctors for the children of the country. Among the other services its plans are a consultation service for mothers in

New Flexible Waterproof Roads Are Solving Traffic Problems

Pacific Highway, Oregon. Asphaltic Concrete.

ALIFORNIA and Oregon engineers ciently resilient to absorb the shock of have come forward with a type of heavy traffic impact and to maintain contact with the subsoil.

The first asphaltic concrete pavement in the East was laid with varying de-climatic problems wherever it has been installed. They claim that the type can be constructed at a reasonable cost and without resort to any material controlled by a monopoly. Local materials are used most exclusively. Since water is the chief enemy of roads the California and Oregon engineers are now applying the waterproofing principle to highway construction through the use of a combination of materials known as "asphaltic concrete", or "black base", with splendid results.

California and Wyoming produce tremendous quantities of crude petroleum. When the volatile parts have been removed the residue is asphalt. Sixty-five percent of the asphalt now used in the United States is recovered from crude oil imported from Mexico by asphalt refineries in Louisiana. New York. Chicago, Omaha and Denver later found it suitable to their wants. Chief Engineer Clifford—Pinekney of Manhattan Borough, New York City, now uses asphaltic concrete on Fifth Avenue, the finest and most heavily travelled thoroughfare in the world and a street traversed by 34,000 vehicles daily. The New York City engineer also uses asphaltic concrete for replacing street cuts as the type is especially adaptable to replacement because of its ready binding with the surrounding pavement and because it enables the engineers to expedite their work and keep the street open to traffic.

The base, or foundation, of asphaltic foundation, of broken stone for the type is now in use in rural districts.
