GOVERNOR FLAYS RICH FOR BREAKING LAW

OIL OPERATORS SHOW ACTIVITY IN ALL FIELDS

Litton Well Still Shows Good; Marks Extension Hoherty Pool; Start Wildcat.

Though there have been no large oil strikes within the past week, activities in the several fields indicate that operators are broadening out and covering territory on all sides.

The Litton well recently reported, is located about 4 miles from Frankell and, although a wildcat well, marks an extension of the Hoherty pool. Its production is reported to be holding up well.

Chastain, Outlaw, et al, were ready to spud in on the Bud Young near the Ware, which is also on extension territory Saturday.

Barkley & Gholson were down 2575 feet Friday on their well located at most exactly the same distance from Eastland, Ranger and Desdemona. They have already set their 8-inch pipe.

A wild cat test is being made by Barney Carter on the J. T. Falls lease about 1 1/2 miles southwest of Merriman and was down around 2,000 feet Saturday. This well is being drilled to the deep sand which they expect to pick up at about 3500 feet, it is stated.

Corzulus Bros. & Tzgart got a hole full of water at 480 feet on their well in the Hand pool, about 10 miles northwest of Ranger, and are shut down to set casing. The well is in Stephens county.

Good progress is reported in the Hahlsstead Oil Company's shallow well on the Earnest Webb lease in the Olden territory. This is called a semi-wildcat and if it proves up, will mark an extension of the Olden shallow pool.

Grand Jury Returns No Indictments In State Highways Mess

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Without returning any indictment in connection with its investigation into state highway affairs, the Travis County grand jury adjourned finally at noon today. No mention of highway matters was made in the grand jury's brief report, which stated that "such matters as have appeared in connection of final disposition at this time have been passed for the consideration of the next grand jury."

The next grand jury will be impaneled by Judge J. H. Hamilton at the opening of the December term, which is Dec. 7.

DAMAGE SUITS FOR TOTAL OF $77,000 FILED

Owners of McCleskey Hotel, Destroyed by Fire in July, 1924, Are Defendants.

Two suits were filed Saturday in the district court of Eastland county in which damages aggregating $77,000 are claimed for alleged damages sustained in the fire which destroyed the McCleskey hotel in Ranger, July 24, 1924. The plaintiffs are Ella Baugh and W. W. Bates, both of Fort Worth, W. L. McCleskey, Nolan Queen, C. L. Todd and Mrs. Emma Todd, all of Weatherford, and John McCleskey of Ranger, are named as defendants. Miss Baugh asks for $52,000 and Bates, $25,000.

The complaints allege that Miss Baugh and Miss Belle Bates, daughter of W. W. Bates, were guests of the hotel at the time it caught fire and that Miss Baugh had both legs broken, her right jaw broken in two places and her left jaw in one, that many operations involving doctor bills and hospital fees aggregating $2,000 were incurred, and that a leap from the third story window by Miss Bates cost her life.

Inadequate fire protection, inflammable building material used and other contributory factors are set out in the documents. Attorneys for the plaintiffs are Burney Braly of Fort Worth and Flewellen & Pearson of Ranger. Mrs. Elma Craig is named as manager of the hotel, but is not included among the defendants in the suits filed. It is said that the two young women were traveling salesladies and transient guests of the hotel at the time of the conflagration.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Germany's adherence to the Locarno peace pact, made binding today on Germany by the signing of the pact by President Von Hindenburg, was passed by the reichstag yesterday, empowers Germany to sign the treaty at London next week. Von Hindenburg placed his signature on the measure at noon today.

Chinese Authorities In Peking Preparing For Possible Trouble

PEKING, Nov. 28.—Foreign and Chinese guards in the legation quarters were strengthened today and new barbed wires placed in position in anticipation of a movement by strikers and students advocating a radical abolition program.

The proposed move promises to be a recurrence of last summer's trouble, when students and strikers sought removal of what was termed "unequal foreign treaties." It was rumored that soldiers were distributing arms and a general strike was anticipated.

A clash between the rebels and the forces of Chang Tso Lin was reported imminent in the north.

CROP YIELDS ABOUT GORMAN ARE EXCELLENT

Cotton and Peanuts Unusually Good and Feedstuffs Abundant.

GORMAN, Nov. 28.—Crop yields for the section of Eastland County known as the Gorman country, has broken the record this year, for the past several years, according to figures and estimates made by the Gorman Progress. There have been ginned to date of this season's cotton, 4,575 bales and it is believed that at least 500 more bales and possibly 750 more will be ginned before the season closes.

The peanut crop, which has been unusually good, is moving rapidly and the growers are receiving good prices for both the nuts and the hay. To date more than twelve carloads of peanuts have been shipped from Gorman and this is only the beginning of what will be shipped, it is stated. Eight-seven cars were shipped from Gorman last year. The turn-out this year has been greater on peanuts than last year, some farmers getting as much as sixty bushels per acre this year.

A number of home orchards will be set out by farmers of this section this Fall and many other plans for improving the farmers and making them more productive, are under way.

Ranger Must Raise Money Due on White Way or Lose It

Ranger is in danger of losing its white way, extending along Main street from Commerce street to Hodges street, which has given a brilliance at night time to the chief business district of Ranger and made this city distinctive among West Texas cities. There is an unpaid balance on the white way equipment which must be paid before the end of the year or the white way will cease to shine.

The total cost of this lighting addition to Ranger was about $5,000, all but $1,900 of which was raised from the merchants, chiefly those doing business in Main street. The full amount was to have been paid before the lights were turned on, but some leniency was allowed.

A committee of citizens has been called to meet at the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at 8 o'clock to make arrangements to raise the deficiency. Ranger has never yet contracted an obligation that was not met and it is believed this small debt of $1,900 can be raised. It is realized, however, that personal effort is necessary, and this will be enlisted at once. Without personal effort and co-operation on the part of the business people and property owners, Ranger will lose her beautiful white way.

MUSSOLINI MAY BE GIVEN POWERS OF A DICTATOR

ROME, Nov. 28.—The Chamber of Deputies today approved a measure giving Premier Mussolini increased powers. Under the new bill, the premier becomes responsible only to the king, instead of to the king and parliament. He is also granted special protection against slander. High penalties are provided for any statement or publication which he does not consider appropriate to his high dignity.

Bankrupt Railroad Having Millions to Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the bankrupt Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad will open here Monday. Properties of the road are valued at about 800 million dollars.

The call for the investigation was issued two months ago by the commission, following receipt of letters and complaints from stockholders in all parts of the country protesting against the railroad being placed in the hands of a receiver.

Advisory Board Organized to Aid Salvation Army In Ranger Raise Budget to Finance Work In Ranger

As the first step in raising funds for carrying on the work of the Salvation Army in Ranger during the coming year a spirited meeting of the local advisory board of that organization was held Friday afternoon in the directors room of the Ranger State Bank.

Arthur A. Diehl was unanimously elected president of the board and appeal chairman. S. A. Dean was elected vice president and W. W. Housewright was retained as secretary-treasurer of the local Salvation Army funds.

Mrs. John M. Gholson was elected to the board and also to the post of woman's chairman for the appeal. She will select her assistants and their names will be announced within a few days.

The home service report giving the details of the work of the Salvation Army here together with an accounting for charity dollars donated by the citizens of Ranger last year was read and was favorably commented upon by members of the board. Staff Captain A. B. Whitney who was in the city in connection with the regular semi-annual audit of the Army's records was present at the meeting and gave some interesting facts about the organization and work of the Salvation Army.

The Army had adopted the budget plan of financing and placed $3,500 as the amount necessary to carry on the work in Ranger. This budget was adopted by the board who also pledged their help and co-operation in raising the entire amount.

B. A. Tunnel was appointed chairman of the speakers committee and will arrange to have the accomplishments of the Army placed before the various clubs and organizations of the city. A new departure this year will be the functioning of an executive committee who will supervise the work of the Army and make regular reports so that those who give their generous dollars to this worthy cause will know how much good is being accomplished.

Appeal dates have been set as Dec. 8, 9, 10, and 11, and further announcements of teams, captains and workers for the drive will be made in the near future. The board feels confident that the citizens of Ranger will open their hearts as well as their purses for this worthy organization.

The Salvation Army advisory board for 1925 is as follows: A. A. Diehl, president and appeal chairman; S. A. Dean, vice president; W. W. Housewright, secretary-treasurer; J. D. Echols, Mrs. John M. Gholson, S. A. Lillard Jr., Dr. Harry M. Logsdon, G. R. Murphy, H. H. Hagaman, Morris Bendix, B. A. Tunnel, J. T. Killingsworth, John M. Gholson, R. R. Stafford, Mrs. G. H. Bohning and Mrs. A. L. Duffer.

Two Bandits and One Would-Be Bad Man In Kansas City Halted

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28.—Two bandits were captured and a negro axe wielder was shot to death in an attempted hold-up here last night. William McCullin, 19, was overpowered by Karl Metzeltin after McCullin had held up a filling station at which Metzeltin was watchman. Ray Ben Devera, filling station attendant, was wounded several times, but succeeded in holding Alvery Legg, who attempted to rob the station, until police arrived.

H. Hinkle, a negro, was shot and killed by Thomas Sewell after the negro had entered his restaurant and protested against the order barring negroes from the place.

Four U. S. Destroyers Ordered to Shanghai To Protect Americans

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 28.—The destroyers Hulbert, Noo and Edsall were being loaded here today ready to leave for Shanghai at a moment's notice. The destroyer McCormick left yesterday, following receipt of an order from Admiral Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet. It is understood here that American residents in Shanghai, fearing the Mukden uprising, appealed to have the destroyers sent there for their protection. The situation is described as tense.

Navy Preparing to Combat Testimony of Mitchell In Trial

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—War department prosecutors of Colonel William Mitchell turned their attention over the week end to his attack on the naval department, preparatory to rebuttal testimony. Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics and Commander John Rodgers, assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics and commander in the almost disastrous Hawaiian flight, will be called as witnesses.

Mitchell and his counsel spent the week-end quietly. With the decision of Representative R. Frank Reid, counsel for Mitchell, to let the dispute of yesterday drop, calm prevailed.

Pinchot Makes Public His Plan to Settle Anthracite Strike

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 28.—Governor Pinchot today made public his plan to bring a settlement of the anthracite coal strike. He proposes to create a board of investigation and award to go into all phases of the coal wage and working conditions.

He made the plan public after submitting it to both miners and operators. The miners are willing to consider it, the operators said they could do nothing until Monday. The governor wired Inglis of the operators committee he proposed to make the plan public today. Other phases of the plan are:

The miners shall return to work pending findings of the board. The operators will agree not to increase the price of coal above the 1925 schedule.

Two of the operators and two of the miners and three others to be selected will compose the board.

Wilbur's Post In Cabinet Is Drawing Fire

Secretary of Navy May Become Direct Point of Attack When Congress Meets.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today was free to resign on his own initiative to save embarrassment of his chief, or to remain at his post to face down the report that he has quit. President Coolidge has assumed responsibility for keeping Wilbur at his post through official white house denial that Wilbur was resigning.

Wilbur's administration of the navy department has been under fire almost constantly since the Shenandoah disaster and during recent phases of the controversy relative to blame for that tragedy, and it is almost certain that numerous shafts in congress will be directed against him. Wilbur may prefer to leave rather than to cause Mr. Coolidge any further embarrassment and face further possible investigation relative to aircraft in the navy.

Wilbur, however, has given no evidence whatever of any intention to leave. The belief exists in some quarters that Wilbur has been the victim of the navy system and that his removal might herald a change in that system.

Former Finance Minister Of France Insists on Increased Taxation

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Louis Loucheur, finance minister in the new French cabinet headed and announced by Premier Aristide Briand today, has tentatively laid down the foundation of the government's financial policy and will have its full details ready for announcement within a week. Increased taxation will likely be the keynote of his program, which will determine if France is yet ready to solve this most important of her troubles.

Loucheur, who is one of the wealthiest men in France, said that necessarily big taxes are inevitable.

Clinical Hospital Is Sold; Will Go To Cross Plains

A deal has been closed with Cross Plains interests, through Dr. Young of that place, by which the Clinical hospital, which has been operated in Ranger during the last five years, changes hands. A group of Cross Plains citizens, through the initiative of one of the churches of Cross Plains, has taken over the property and will move its equipment to Cross Plains within the next week, it is announced.

The change will involve only the hospital properties, it is stated. None of the physicians in charge in Ranger will change their residences or transfer their practices, it is said, and none of the nurses of the Ranger force had been engaged down to Saturday by the new management, it was stated. Drs. Terrell, Lauderdale and Holland will take their patients to the City-County hospital, it is announced, and hereafter, operate in conjunction with that institution.

Negotiations for the sale of the hospital have been under way for some time. It is expected to be closed Friday. The institution has been operated on the top floor of the Guaranty bank building so there was no realty involved or left on hand in the consummation of the sale. The City-County hospital is deemed ample to accommodate all patients, present and prospective, it is stated.

Oakley School, Near Ranger, Entertains At a Box Supper

The Oakley school, about six miles north of Ranger, was the scene of an entertainment and box supper Friday night given to help raise money with which to decorate the grounds, provide playgrounds equipment and equipment for the school.

It was a delightful affair, attended by a number of Ranger citizens, several of whom made brief addresses. L. H. Flewellen of Ranger made the principal address, his subject being "Thanksgiving." W. W. Housewright and W. E. Davis expressed their appreciation of the work the school is doing, which is one of the few in the State, not designated as a high school, where the pupils are carried all the way from the primary grade through the eleventh grade.

The school has organized a literary society with Mr. Webb as president, Alvin Moynihan, vice president, and Miss Grace Morton, assistant principal of the school, secretary-treasurer. Prof. J. E. Stephens is the principal.

Trustees of the Oakley school are: J. H. Webb, chairman; George Miller and R. A. Barker. The new school building, completed about ten days ago, is now occupied.

Former Governor Makes Denial In Vitriolic Language

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—James E. Ferguson, just before leaving the executive office for lunch, Saturday, said there would be no appointment today for state highway commissioner or adjutant general, and that no statement concerning a special session of the legislature would be made at this time.

In emphatic and vitriolic language, Ferguson denied the statements in dispatches sent to newspapers in the east that he had admitted he was governor of Texas and not his wife, and that he was interfering with his wife as the state's chief executive and usurping her power.

FEDERAL PROBE OF TEXAS ROAD MUDDLE COMING

Two Officials of U. S. Bureau of Public Roads Ordered To Make Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Capt. H. St. Julian Wilson, chief engineer, and W. J. O'Leary, administrative officer, today were ordered by Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, to Fort Worth, Texas, in connection with Texas highway matters as relating to federal aid.

The officers are being sent, McDonald told the United Press, because the resignation of two Texas highway commissioners has left the commission without any administrative head, and to determine whether the state has diverted federal aid funds to other obligations.

McDonald informed Senator Morris Sheppard today of the dispatch of the two men, and also that he was making a study to determine what amendment to the federal aid act could be worked out to prevent a repetition of the Texas situation. He requested suggestions along this line.

The department of justice has notified Senator Earle B. Mayfield that it can undertake no federal inquiry into the situation and has referred the matter to the federal road bureau.

Former Wife Heeds Dying Man's Pleas

Having Sole Knowledge of Affairs, She Looks After Will and Wires Family.

An incident connected with the last hours of Charles A. Hammond, well known railroad man, who died in a Ranger hospital the night of Thanksgiving, is fraught with deep human interest, according to his brother, Fred Hammond of Chicago, and numerous friends of Mrs. R. F. Morgan of Fort Worth, who speak of her as a good Samaritan whose deeds should be recorded in letters of gold.

Realizing he had but a few days to live, the sufferer during the intervals when fever did not rob him of consciousness, racked his brain for someone he knew intimately and someone who knew him and his affairs, to come to his dying bed, take his last requests and arrange his worldly affairs, as his aged mother was in Chicago and unable to come to him. There was only one individual within reach who could minister to him in these matters and that was his former wife, Mrs. Morgan, from whom, through some misunderstanding, he had become estranged after two years of married life, and who was happily married to one of his fast friends in Fort Worth.

So he called for Mrs. Morgan who was known to be visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darby at Baird. He had not seen her for years. Natural reticence had kept them apart although their families and that of her present husband enjoyed the closest and most friendly relations, it is said.

When the call came to Mrs. Morgan, she was in a quandary. Her womanly instincts called her to perform the duty no one else available could possibly perform. On the other hand there was the natural hesitation and a delicate few could understand. She consulted her best friends in her old home town, where both she and her former husband had lived many years. With one accord, they told her to go and do her duty.

It was she who took down the last requests of the dying man; she who ministered to him in the last hours of his life, during only part of which, she was conscious; she who sent telegrams to his brothers and sisters; she who, at 1:30 a. m., at his request, called up an attorney and had his will made bequeathing all his worldly effects to his mother; she who stayed by him and nursed him and consoled him during three days and nights—his last days on earth—and when he finally passed out, almost broke down under the strain.

Nurses, hospital attendants, friends and relatives of the dying man say they never have witnessed such self-denial and devotion to duty. "I only did my duty," she said, when asked about it, adding, "I don't see how anyone could have refused a dying man's requests, I could never forgive myself if I had refused."

GOVERNOR "MA" ASKS HELP TO DRY UP STATE

Offers Reward For Guilty Rich and Names Several Suspects In Proclamation.

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person worth more than $5,000 for violation of the prohibition laws, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today issued a formal statement scolding the "high-brows" of Texas. She characterized the prohibition law as one "for the rich and against the poor."

The woman governor made scathing remarks about judges who drank liquor themselves and sentenced home brew makers to the penitentiary. She said, in effect, that if the rich were to continue to be allowed to go free for liquor violations and the poor to be sentenced to the penitentiary, then "Justice becomes a mockery and law becomes a stench in the nostrils of all law abiding citizens. Following is the proclamation:

Text of Proclamation

"I, Miriam A. Ferguson, governor of this State, charged with enforcement of the laws of the State, do hereby offer a reward of $500.00 for the arrest and conviction of any citizen of this state for violating the liquor laws who is worth in property or money as much as $5,000. The funds at my command are limited, but I will use every cent available to continue this reward.

"The enforcement of the liquor law in Texas has become the enforcement of the law against the poor and for the rich. If a big newspaper publisher in a North Texas city can dispense punts of liquor by the dozen and, under the influence of liquor, display himself in a public place just because he claims he has a million dollars; and goes scot-free, while the poor and unfortunate in the same city are daily sent to the penitentiary for having in their possession only a thin pint.

"If a prominent ex-official and another millionaire in a big South Texas city can buy all the liquor he wants and transport it to his residence, in violation of the law, just because he has a big newspaper, and never be inquired into by any officer, much less be indicted in any court, while scores of poor people are being sent to the penitentiary for the same city for making a little home brew;

"If a prominent district judge in a Central Texas city can try bootleggers and send them to the penitentiary, at the same time, drink liquor;

"If wealthy men can fill their lockers full of liquor and boast in company about how much they have and the brands they have and not be molested, while the penitentiary is being filled with poor devils, who have neither friends or money, who have been found guilty of having a pint on their hips or making a little home brew;

"Then indeed, when all these things happen, justice becomes a mockery and law becomes a stench in the nostrils of all law abiding citizens.

"I do not undertake to justify the poor in violation of the law, but I here and now call upon all officers of this State, from the bench down, to put the same law in force against the rich that is now being put in force against the poor. Let our Methodist friends who seem so much exercised about the pardoning power get busy and help us detect and convict a few of the high-brows and we will then have done a great thing for law enforcement, and we will then have shown to the world that in this land of democracy all men, regardless of wealth or station are equal before the law.

"If the rich of this country were not patronizing so many bootleggers and aiding them to violate the law, the bootleggers would have to go out of business for want of business. If those who are so prone to criticize my administration for lack of enforcement of the liquor laws are sincere in their charges, I now tender them an opportunity to join me in the arrest and detection of those who are to be most blamed for violating the liquor law.

"Done at Austin, Texas, in the executive office, this 28th day of November, 1925. (Signed) MIRIAM A. FERGUSON, Governor of Texas.

FROM PARTS OF THE NATION COMES REPORTS OF GLANT POWER PROJECTS AND INCREASED INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES.

From all parts of the nation comes reports of glant power projects and increased industrial facilities. The chief trouble seems to be under-consumption.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In order to see life, BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, breaks with her fiancé BRUCE REYNOLDS, and gets a job on the Telegraph, of which ANDREW McDERMOTT, a close friend of her father before his death, is managing editor.

Barbara makes friends with BOB JEFFRIES, a rough and ready police reporter, and with him "covers" a big railroad wreck. After writing a wonderful story of the wreck, she faints in the newspaper office from excitement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

Barbara sat up on the little wicker couch in the women's rest room and stared about her. Adeline, the telephone girl, and Miss Badger were leaning over her, one with a smelling salts bottle and the other with a flask. "I mustn't ask 'where am I?'" thought Barbara. "But I'd certainly like to know."

Then it all came back. "I did what they said I'd do," she cried out, in a rush of wretched memory. "I fainted, just as the other girl did."

Miss Badger tightened her lips and said nothing. She nodded to Adeline to stay with Barbara, and left the room.

Adeline made up for Miss Badger. She fussed about Barbara, doing all the little useless, feminine things that make a patient feel comfortably pampered. Then she sidled closer, and said:

"That old thing asked me what you said when you were coming to, and I told her I didn't hear. You did talk about Bruce somehow, you know. But it wasn't any of her business or mine either."

"Mr. Wells said for me to get you a taxi when you felt better and send you home. Are you well enough to go alone?"

"Perfectly," smiled Barbara, feeling a glow of friendliness. "But I don't really need to go. I'll be all right."

"No," said Adeline, "you'd better do what Mr. Wells tells you. That's the only way you can get along with him."

Barbara took a long nap that afternoon in her own bedroom, and woke up to a dinner tray waiting on the table beside her. She felt blissfully rested.

Only the thought of her ignominious collapse at the very door of the Telegraph office remained to harass her. She closed her eyes at the memory and tried to shake it off. Then she settled down to the tray of food, with her mother hovering over her.

A thump sounded on the front porch beneath her windows. "The paper," said Mrs. Hawley, and went down to get it.

There it was—the wreck story and pictures, spread all over the front page of the Telegraph. In a column side by side with the main story was what Barbara had written, printed under her name.

Barbara gasped and looked a little harder. Then she read voraciously. It was her own story, slightly rearranged here and there, but essentially the same copy that she had laid on the editor's desk six hours before.

To the infinite danger of the dinner tray, she burrowed into the pillow beside her and began to cry.

Nobody knew, when Barbara came into the Telegraph office the next morning, that a conquering heroine had just entered.

Nobody gave any sign, for that matter, that yesterday had been any different from any other day. Wells was buried in his assignment book, as usual.

Barbara swung through the gate into the reporter's lair and with airy gesture, hung up her hat and coat. Nobody looked up, except Miss Badger, who gave her a sour good morning.

Barbara advanced to the city desk to get her clippings. Wells brought his head up with a jerk. "Nice work, Miss Hawley," he said. "You didn't give me a chance to tell you so yesterday. And any time you want to faint, after your copy is in, it's O. K. with me. Only you might choose a softer place to land than that tiled corridor."

Barbara smiled. "Your assignment this morning," said Wells, "is an interview with Alexei Nikolakoff. He is resting for his concert tonight. You may have some trouble getting in—but I don't think so." This last remark was accompanied by a significant smile.

She had no trouble at all. Nikolakoff's manager, an officious fat man, met her in the hotel lobby and ushered her to the suite in which the "world's greatest pianist" was staying.

Alexei proved to be a little man in a purple velvet morning robe, against which his long white fingers gleamed. He rose from the chaise longue on which he had been breakfasting and greeted Barbara with a calm "Good morning." The bustling manager departed.

Barbara found herself seated in an armchair with a cup of coffee from Alexei's tray in her hand.

The artist was drinking delicately, with tiny sips from the thin cup. His eyes were fixed upon Barbara with a gaze that brought the blood to her cheeks.

Seeing her confusion, the man dropped his eyes and began to talk of the beauty of the city, the comfort of American hotels, the welcome of American music lovers. Then he touched upon music.

Barbara listened, fascinated. It was needless to ask questions. She felt instinctively that it would not do to inquire of this cultured gentleman what he thought of the American flapper, or whether he considered bobbed hair a detriment to musical success.

The interview was being done for her, in the wealth of amusing anecdote, of lightning wit, of serious criticism upon life and letters, upon

"You are music itself, with your great child-like eyes and your shining hair and your smooth white throat," the great pianist said to Barbara, as he placed his hand on hers.

beefsteaks and politics, that flowed eagerly, interjecting an occasional comment of her own.

She took no notes, but she listened as swiftly as she had begun, the man stopped. He rose and took Barbara's coffee cup.

Then he rang for the manager, who hustled out with the tray. Nikolakoff called him back as he reached the door.

"Open the piano," he said curtly, "and arrange the light."

Then he turned to her. "I will play for you," he said, "some of the things I have never played for an audience. Come."

The next room proved to be an impromptu studio. In one end stood a black concert grand, shining richly under a floor lamp which repeated the color note of Alexei's lounging robe.

The man seated himself at the piano, waving Barbara toward a chair nearby. He began to play.

On he went, from waltzes of Chopin to Mendelssohn dirges, Bach fugues, Grieg etudes, MacDowell sketches, with here and there some wandering melody that Barbara felt sure must be his own.

She sat rapt, watching the miraculous finger, lost in the music, totally forgetful that time was passing and a greedy press waited for copy.

The music flowed, as his talk had flowed, as from a treasure house, all stored with beauty and knowledge and understanding.

It stopped as suddenly as the talk had stopped. Alexei whirled about to face her. "You like it," he said, more with the air of declaring a fact than asking a question.

Barbara nodded. She could not speak. Nikolakoff kept his compelling gaze fastened upon her.

Like an automaton, she rose and walked toward the piano. "Music," he said, and reached for her hand. "—You are music itself, with your great, child-like eyes and your shining hair and your smooth white throat. Why should I make music for you?"

His voice was serious and his eyes were grave, staring into hers. Barbara felt a surge of terror through her veins, but it was curiously mixed with delight. She wondered calmly what was going to happen next. But she could not tear her eyes away from his. He would not allow it.

He rose and put his hand on her shoulder. Barbara moved, retreated, knocked against something and heard a crash behind her.

When she looked at Alexei he was standing by the fireplace, lighting a long cigaret and flicking the match delicately into a porcelain vase upflowed, as from a treasure house, all stored with beauty and knowledge and understanding.

table. can tell about you women, particularly in America."

A thought of how much trouble he was making for the maid that would have to clean the vase burst ludicrously across Barbara's mind. She had a way of thinking ludicrous things at tense moments. She wanted to laugh, or to cry.

When he spoke it was in his calm and assured manner. The notes of emotion that had trembled through his last sentences were gone.

"I am very sorry to have startled you," he said. "There was no reason for fright, though in another moment I should have kissed you. You might have found it occasion for joy rather than for fear. But one never Barbara spoke stammeringly, like a school girl.

"I do not go in for those things, Mr. Nikolakoff. I care only for my work. I don't believe in emotion."

"Work," he said, "and a woman!" He laughed again, very musically. "Women were not made for work. They were made for life. You can't beat life, my dear."

He rang for the manager, who showed Barbara out.

She reached the Telegraph office six minutes too late for her interview to be used.

Why We Should Drink Plenty of Pure Water

There are types of difficult digestion that are markedly improved by the simple addition of one or two extra glasses of water at each meal...

"Just Rub It On"

Croup Relieved Without Dosing

Too much dosing is harmful to a child's delicate stomach. Often it lays the foundation for ill health in later life.

The next time a child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

If croup comes on without warning an application of Vicks usually brings relief in 15 minutes.

Vicks can be applied freely and often, even on the youngest child with perfect safety.

vincing to me. For some disorders such as types of heart trouble and high blood pressure, it is necessary to cut down water at all times.

There is one limitation that should be placed on water at meal-times. It should never be used as a stream to float food from the mouth to the stomach.

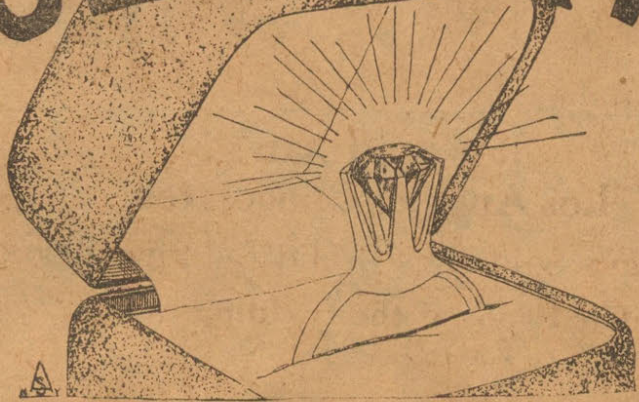

The value of drinking water is by no means limited to its beneficial effects in diluting the digestive juices.

That is why, after the digestive tract has rested overnight, one two or more glasses of water before breakfast are so beneficial in helping to prevent constipation.

COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE PERIOD HERE

Monday is the beginning of the compulsory school attendance period in the Eastland public schools and the board of trustees has served notice that all children within the confines of the Eastland Independent school district, who come within the age limit prescribed in the compulsory law, must attend school in accordance with the provisions of the law.

Members of the board of trustees and the school faculty are very anxious that the parents and guardians of the children, who come under compulsory attendance law, render the assistance possible in getting the children in school and keeping them there. If the necessity for it arises, the appointment of a truant officer to enforce the law, will be made, if, indeed, the appointment has not already been made.

MAIL CARRIERS TO HELP TAKE PIG CENSUS

Farmers Asked To Furnish Figures On Hog Production and Crop Acreage.

Since there is misunderstanding on the part of some farmers in this locality as to the usefulness of the information as to hog production and crop acreage obtained from the cards distributed by the rural mail carriers, the postmaster has requested this newspaper to publish the following statement furnished him by the United States department of agriculture.

These surveys are made with the help of the rural carriers, who either distribute the cards to a certain number of farmers along their routes, with the request that these be filled out, or the carrier fills out the card himself by interviewing the farmer. The carrier is instructed to get information from farms which will give a good average picture or sample of farms on his route, preferably by taking all of the farms along a part of his route, big and little, good and poor, owned and rented.

If a fair sample of all farms is returned in each state, figures for these farms should show the same changes as all farms. It is impossible to take an actual census enumeration of all farms each year, so changes in production and acreage each year must be estimated from samples. The nearer these samples are to being exact, the more correct will be the estimates.

The need and value of such information for individual farmers and agriculture in general hardly need be stressed. Without dependable information as to actual production and trends of production both of livestock and crops more balanced distribution are impossible.

The department of agriculture is the best qualified agency to undertake such work, but the accuracy of its estimates depends upon the accuracy of the returns made by farmers.

The beneficial effects that such information may have upon price is shown by the level of hog prices during the winter of 1924-25 compared to the previous winter. The pig surveys of June and December, 1924, showed a decided decrease in hog

Meaning of Christmas

To a person who has lived for half a century Christmas may be, in a sense, a very painful thing. There are always the memories of former Christmases that come flooding over him, and he is bound to miss the bodily presence at least of many persons whom he has loved in years past. Indeed it can be one of the most melancholy seasons of the year, and no doubt many persons who read this have, at certain periods of their lives, almost dreaded the coming of Christmas on account of the recollections of past happiness and joys it was sure to bring them.

The antidote for this very real sort of melancholy I suppose lies in the determination to realize Christmas as a spiritual meeting time for all those who have gone before, even though they are not present in the flesh. In other words, for the person who has lived for many years it must be either a spiritual occasion, shot through with all the colors of spiritual joy, or it becomes merely a material time of good living with many melancholy connotations. It is only by clinging to the thought that there is no death, that there can be no death, that Christmas becomes tolerable to many of us. So it is terribly true that unless you do make Christmas a really Christian festival, you do not have any Christmas at all. You have only a rather gross physical parody of the true spirit of the thing. The ostentatious giving without the giver's heart in the gift, the stuffing of one's self with too much rich food—these things go to make up a debased burlesque of Christmas. To repeat, it is a Christian festival, or it is not.

ing; you can't have it any other way; if you try to have it any other way, you simply don't have it. You have something else that is as foreign to Christmas as a pagan celebration.—Don Marquis in Designer Magazine for December.

What the liquor problem can be in a license country is shown by the fact that there is now one place for the sale of intoxicating liquor to every ninety people in the population of France. Let the average business man think what that means to the economic prosperity of the country.

production in 1924 compared to 1923. Marketings, however, during the winter from the 1924 crop were almost as large as the previous winter, and in December and January were the highest on record. In spite of these heavy marketings, hog prices were from $2 to $3 per hundred higher than during the winter before. The heavy marketings were rightly interpreted as being an early marketing of a smaller number of hogs caused by a short corn crop and not as indicating a correspondingly larger number of hogs. But unless these estimates can be kept dependable the trade will disregard them and will be guided either by private estimates or by actual marketings as these take place.

All-American Team Of Football Players Selection Is Made

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Selection of an all-American football team, for the purpose of naming the best players in the 1925 season, is most difficult, because it must be largely from personal observation, which necessarily is limited in a short season. From questionnaires submitted to 75 football coaches and officials, the following selections have been made:

Hess of Ohio state, left guard.
McMillan of Princeton, center.
Diehl of Dartmouth, right guard.
Parker of Dartmouth, right tackle.
Oosterbaan of Michigan, right end.
Friedman of Michigan, quarterback.
Grange of Illinois, left halfback.
Oberlander of Dartmouth, right halfback.
Slagle of Princeton, fullback.

Hollywood Highlights

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—The elite of Hollywood are now distinguished by the membership in the new "400 club." The million-dollar Bernheimer residence, one of Southern California's greatest showplaces, has been converted into a super-select clubhouse for the more exclusive stars of the cinema cosmos. It is of Japanese design, with beautiful sunken gardens and exotic atmosphere, and is proving a popular rendezvous for its members on week-end parties and between filmings.

It is conservatively estimated that more than 100 winners of national and sectional beauty contests in recent months are in Hollywood seeking parts in film plays. Less than a dozen are given regular employment as extras. None has received an actual starring role.

The Charleston dance craze has taken Hollywood by storm. Nearly all the feminine stars, including those who don't dance, have been photographed doing the dizzy steps. The photos show both the latest steps and sectional beauty contests in recent months are in Hollywood seeking parts in film plays. Less than a dozen are given regular employment as extras. None has received an actual starring role.

Many fashion foibles have their origin in Hollywood. The latest trick fad is the maschie walking-stick. Actors and directors are seen on Hollywood boulevard sporting a golf-stick instead of a cane.

Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey, the prize-fighter and movie actor, has hired a press agent and plans to return to picture making. She instructed the publicist to exploit her as "Estelle Taylor," not Mrs. Jack Dempsey.

Charlie Chaplin has determined on "The Suicide Club" for his next picture. It is to be completed in six months. It took Chaplin two years to film "The Gold Rush."

Cash Prizes Offered High School Students

Special Correspondence.
AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Every high school student will have an opportunity to win a prize by writing an essay on some historical subject pertaining to his own country, according to Walter Prescott Webb, associate professor of history at the University of Texas, who is conducting a history contest in an effort to secure a complete history of every county and to stimulate interest in historical events.

C. M. Caldwell of Abilene is offering prizes to the amount of $250 and the Dallas News has added $50 to this amount for the ten best essays submitted during 1925-26. In addition to this offer, The News has agreed to publish the articles, giving credit to the proper individuals.

Any subject may be used provided it contains the desired amount of local history, Webb stated. Interesting data may be found in the history of the county, the town, buildings and institutions, development of natural resources, foreign settlements, and events such as Indian fights and treaties, political campaigns, cattle stampedes, droughts, floods, feuds, lynchings, revival meetings, law suits, bank robberies, fairs and others.

Other interesting subjects which may be used, Webb stated, are biographies of prominent people and in this connection the lives of soldiers, Texas rangers, cattlemen, politicians, teachers, farmers, cowboys, trail drivers, "bad men" county officers, old settlers and others may be related. Interesting essays may also be written on one's own family.

There is an advantage in writing on a subject of account of the material being available without extensive research work because the majority of the people keep a record of their families.

Essays will be judged by their originality, evidence of careful investigations, interest, historical technique and bibliography.

It is reported that lodge of Masons in Cincinnati has had its charter forfeited by the grand lodge of Ohio because it failed to punish adequately one of its members for violation of the prohibition law. The man was suspended for two months by his lodge, but this was deemed insufficient.

NOTICE.
Monday, Nov. 30, is the beginning of the compulsory attendance period for the Eastland public schools. All children between the ages of 7 to 16 inclusive are expected to attend school each an every school day from this date until close of school. EASTLAND SCHOOL BOARD.

TWENTY-FIVE AVIATORS OWE THEIR LIVES TO UNITED STATES ARMY'S NEW PARACHUTES

By NEA Service.

DAYTON, Ohio.—Twenty-four men and a woman are walking the earth today when they should be dead.

A little package of folded silk and cord is all that stood between them and destruction.

Each one, dropping like a plummet through empty space, pulled a little brass ring and turned a headlong plunge to instant death into a gentle glide to safety.

These 25 men and women who were saved by the United States army parachute—a development that adds a new thrill to flying but, at the same time, reduces the risk.

McCook field developed this parachute, and it is proud of it. The field records here give the details on the 25 lives it has saved. The officers tell you proudly that England has scrapped its own parachutes in favor of the McCook field type.

Five Years In Service.

It was over five years ago that the first life was saved by one of these devices. The tabulation, of course, does not include test leaps, but only cases where it was a case of use or parachute or die.

W. C. O'Connor came to the field here to demonstrate another type of parachute. He was taken aloft by an army aviator, with his own parachute strapped to his back. Before he jumped, however, officials here insisted that he also wear an army parachute. Reluctantly he consented.

At 2,000 feet he jumped. Down he dropped like a stone, trying frantically to get his own parachute to open. It wouldn't. When he was a scant 500 feet from the ground he pulled the cord on the army parachute. It opened at once and he descended safely.

The official records of parachute jumps read like fiction.

Lieut. H. R. Harris, for example, took up a new monoplane for a test flight. At a 2,500-foot altitude—a bad place for accidents—a wing gave way. Harris stood up and pulled the cord on his parachute. It opened, and he was blown clear of the plane and descended gently to a grape arbor, while his plane fell with a crash that could be heard half way to Cincinnati.

Five Fail Him.

Lieut. Harris maintains that it's highly pleasant to make a parachute jump.

"You jump out of the plane and have no sense of speeding through space, except for the difficulty in breathing," he says. "Your arms and legs are absolutely free, body action is not hindered in any way. You just sort of rest in the wind."

"When the chute opens you feel a jerk, but it is the most pleasing jerk a fellow ever had. Then you fasten your eyes somewhere near the center of the chute, to avoid the swaying motion that makes a fellow sick, and just float down."

But he admitted that it's mighty thrilling, anyhow. When you land, he explains, you strike the ground with a force equivalent to what you would feel if you jumped from a six-foot elevation.

An exhibition jumper named C. Bottonfield last year went up at Kelly Field, Texas, to edify a throng with a "leap for life." He wore five of his own parachutes. Just before he went up the army officers got him to add an army parachute to his equipment.

He jumped at 4,000 feet. One after another, he pulled the cords on his own parachutes. They had become entangled with one another and not one would open. The army parachute saved him.

Only 150 Feet.

Walter Lees, veteran civilian pilot, has the distinction of making the shortest leap on record. A leap from a great height is the safest of all, for then the parachute has plenty of time to open. But Lees had to jump when his controls jammed at an altitude of only 150 feet. He made it in safety.

Lieut. John A. Macready, hero of the non-stop trans-continental flight, is the only aviator known to have made a parachute jump at night. When his engine went dead at 5,000 feet, he jumped into the darkness. His parachute opened safely, and as he glided down he saw his plane burst into flames and drop down like a plummet beneath him.

Usually when two planes collide in mid-air it means certain death for both pilots. But parachutes saved Lieut. C. D. McAllister and Cadet C. A. Lindburgh, at Kelly Field, early this year when their planes came together 5,000 feet up. Both landed without injuries while their planes fell and were broken to fragments.

Lindburgh made a second leap for life less than four months later, coming down from 2,000 feet after his controls jammed.

The one woman to be saved by a parachute had as thrilling an experience as any aviator that ever lived. She was Mrs. B. F. McFarland, and she went up at Cincinnati in June, 1925, to make an exhibition jump with her own parachute. When she jumped from the plane the cords of her parachute became caught in the landing gear and she swung suspended beneath the plane.

Cuts Hazel's Loose.

Fortunately she wore an army chute as an added precaution. So she cut the cords of her own parachute, opened the army one and came floating down to safety.

Most exciting of all, however, was the leap taken by Lieut. Leonard S. Flo at Selfridge Field, Mich., on Nov. 11 last. Flo had to jump at a 400-foot altitude when his motor stalled—and then he couldn't find the ring to open his parachute!

Down he dropped, head first—with only 400 feet to fall! He searched and fumbled desperately—and just 150 feet from the ground he found the string, opened the chute and came own safely.

These are just a few of the stories they'll tell you at McCook Field. They're proud of their parachute there.

FRIZES WILL MAKE A SINGING BIENNIAL

"A Singing Biennial" is to be the slogan for the next meeting of the national federation of Music Clubs, which probably will be held in Chicago in the spring of 1927.

The officers of the federation are determined not only to encourage music but to participate in it at their meetings. They have suggested to the forty-eight states that each state secure a state anthem, offering a suitable prize to bring this about. A prize of $1,000 in each state is recommended. Ohio took the lead at the recent meeting of the board in guaranteeing to raise that sum of money for a state anthem.

All properly accredited anthems will be sung at the next biennial. In addition the Presser Foundation of Philadelphia offers $500 for the best women's chorus, to be written and adjudicated prior to the next biennial. This chorus also will be sung by the entire convention.

Competitions in voice, piano and violin are traditional with the federation. Actual participation by the delegates for the inspiration that comes from singing is part of the new plan being worked out by the president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley, Oxford, Ohio.

Breeding Place of Eels Found After Eighteen Years Intensive Search

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—After eighteen years of intensive labor, during which time one of the four ships he used was wrecked and a World War had occurred, Dr. Johannes Schmidt has discovered the breeding place of the eel.

His findings as set forth in the report of the Smithsonian Institution, just issued, are a tribute to scientific perseverance. Since Aristotle, naturalists have speculated on the breeding place of the eel. Every autumn all the eels of the world move down the rivers and lakes to the sea and by winter there is not a full grown eel to be found. These eels never return, but in the spring and summer small eels begin a slow and arduous journey up the coasts and into the rivers and lakes.

It has always been believed that eels spawn in the abyssal regions of the sea. But this has never been anything more than a belief until Dr. Schmidt began his work science was too busy with other matters to concentrate its efforts on the eel. In 1906 Dr. Schmit started out aboard the research steamship Thor. When the trip began all felt that their work would be over in less than a year. But each year the field grew larger and the goal more elusive. Dr. Schmidt cruised over every portion of the North Atlantic from America to Egypt and from Iceland to Cape Verde islands.

Each year by a process of elimination he was arriving closer to the eel's breeding grounds. At last it was found and the discovery startled science as much as the mystery had puzzled them. For all the eels of Europe and the Americas are spawned in an area situated in the Western Atlantic, northwest and north of the West Indies. The ancient belief was well founded for this section is the deepest part of the ocean.

Immediately upon concluding this research Dr. Schmidt began a similar study of the Pacific and Indian waters to find the breeding grounds of the Asiatic and Australian eels. He believes he can reach the end of this trip before eighteen years.

In the Orthopedic Hospital at Orange, N. J., a radio receiving set has been installed, and beside each bed there is an outlet into which may be plugged a pair of headphones so that the patients may enjoy what is coming over the air. In all some fifty of the headphones are in use and the patients and nurses alike find that radio creates a more restful and cheerful atmosphere.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

That modern cities offer great investment opportunities. Everything necessary for profitable operation of many industries are to be found in them.

That the great development of these cities will carry with it many responsibilities for its citizens. They should accept these responsibilities and as the city goes forward, go forward with it.

That citizens who do not pep up and join in the work of making them bigger and busier cities will be left behind gasping for breath and wondering how it happened.

That the duty of citizenship imposes upon every citizen a duty to give support and assistance to every laudable undertaking that is good for the home city.

That means the giving of strength to all its various activities which inspires the home people with courage and a vision to move forward to better things.

The growth of a city is best shown by a thrifty, industrious citizenship, working together for the common good.

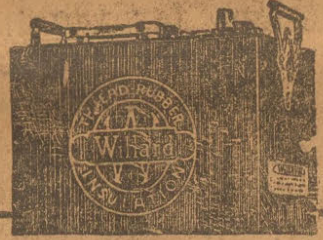

Cities that think of the future are fostering civic improvements, road building, extension of public utilities and the development of business and home districts.

(Copyright, 1925)

The United States Department of Agriculture estimates, upon the reports of 1,055 county agents, that this year more than 550,000 of the farms of the country have radio receiving sets. Last year the total was 365,000 radio equipped farms and the previous year the total was 145,000.

Chicago Police Lose Battle With Bandits

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—James Tarrall, a patrolman, and Ben Chester, a taxi driver, were killed and another policeman and a civilian were severely wounded here today by four men believed by the police to have been bent on robbery. The police at first thought Martin Durkin, the "shooting sheik," the leader of the gang, but after an investigation, Capt. Ben Enright declared the affair an attempted holdup.

Tarrall and Patrolman James Henry were on guard in a saloon on South Halsted street on a "tip" that Durkin was in the neighborhood. There was a rap on the door; it was opened and four men rushed in and started shooting. Tarrall and Chester fell dead and Henry and Steller dropped, severely wounded. The four men then ran out and disappeared.

LOS ANGELES URGED TO OWN ITS TRACTION LINES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—The street railways of Los Angeles may be taken out of the hands of private owners soon and operated by the city government.

After a two-year survey by a board of 60 utility experts, it was recommended to municipal authorities here that the city take over its $40,000,000 traction system, and operate it as a unit. The two-year study of the Los Angeles traffic problem cost $200,000. "Los Angeles can be best encouraged by a unified street-car system, either owned or controlled by the municipality," the report stated, summing up its conclusions.

The examining board, which included engineers of the state railroad commission, Los Angeles Public Utilities Board and representatives of the Los Angeles Railway company, declared outright in favor of municipal ownership.

An alternative scheme of unification under private ownership was suggested also.

Famous Norwegian Arctic Explorer Sponsors New Armenian Republic

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
GENEVA, Nov. 28.—Doctor Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, and High Humanitarian Commissioner for the League of Nations, has just assumed the sponsorship for the Bolshevik Republic of Armenia.

As the result of efforts undertaken by Doctor Nansen before the League of Nations as well as with various European governments it is probable that a large international loan will be floated for the purpose of permanently settling additional Armenian refugees within the borders of their new national home.

Since the failure of the Allies at the Lausanne conference to wrest from the Turks the creation within Turkish territory of a national Armenian home, the little Armenian Republic that has been fostered within the confines of Russia by the Soviets seems to constitute the one, last chance of the Armenians having at least a national home of their own, somewhat similar to the national home that is now being created for the Jews in Palestine.

The little state which goes by the name of the Armenian Republic of Erivan has a territory of 27,000 square kilometers or about the same as that of Belgium, and a population of 1,200,000 of whom 95 per cent are Armenians.

While the republic forms part of the Union of Soviet Republics it is nevertheless entirely self-governing with its own administration, law courts, university and schools. The official language is Armenian and the government is entirely free to grant concessions and carry on financial loans and operations on its own account.

The present government has been in office for four years. The Soviets having organized the little republic and sarcastically notified the League of Nations of the fact at the precise moment when the League, in spite of previous pledges to the Armenian people, was forced to limit that it was powerless to do anything.

According to Dr. Nansen the government has been able to reconstruct the whole social and economic system of the country.

With several hundred thousand Armenian refugees still scattered in Syria, Greece and the Balkans generally, Doctor Nansen is convinced that the new Armenian Republic offers the best opportunity of permanently settling at least as many of these as the country can be made to support.

The plan which Doctor Nansen now proposes is an international loan of about one million pounds for the realization of an irrigation scheme that will render enough more land fertile in Armenia to support between thirty and fifty thousand more Armenians.

These would be selected, especially the first contingent of fifteen thousand, from the congested centers of Greece and the Balkans. Dr. Nansen is convinced that provisions for fifteen thousand alone would permit placing all of the most urgent cases that now exist.

A city must be kept the sort of a city in which people will have a good place in which to live and work and prosper.

Stewart's Washington Letter

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — "The best luck a government employee can have," said an elderly chief clerk who has spent all his adult years in a bureau of one of the Washington executive departments, "is to be fired before he has time to become really dependent on his job."

"Under the old spoils system, when a general cleaning out usually followed a change in administration, there was some hope of this."

"The civil service commission practically has ended it."

"Today a federal appointment generally means a life sentence. The poor boob who gets one doesn't know it at the time, but he might as well be accepting a nice cell in the Atlanta Penitentiary."

"The chances for advancement are about equal in either case. In Washington maybe you win your way up to a chief clerkship. At Atlanta, if you're good, they make you a trustee."

THE old man pondered, his faded eyes brooding.

"On the whole," he reflected, "I think I'd have preferred Atlanta. Locked up young, I wouldn't have acquired a family to support on an inadequate salary. They tell me well-behaved prisoners are made very comfortable. At any rate, they don't have to worry. And if they don't like it, they can get out, sometimes. Their terms expire or they escape or are pardoned."

"In Washington—take me, for instance—I spend my waking hours figuring on schemes to make ends meet. At night I dream about it. It isn't only the necessities, I have a 'front' to keep up. My family and I must look respectable. My wife has to work, too, or we couldn't do it. And hardly anybody, once fairly settled in it, ever is able to get out of the government service."

MILLIONS OF TREES PLANTED IN ENGLAND

By United Press.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Between now and next Spring workers under the British Forestry Commission expect to plant 39,000,000 new trees, covering 22,000 acres of what is now waste land.

This is one of the steps in the plan of the Forestry Commission to plant more than 250,000 acres of unculti-vable land with trees during the next ten years, and which will involve the setting out of 450,000,000 trees.

More than 100,000 acres of trees have already been set out through the efforts of the commission since its establishment five years ago, half of which were planted by the Commission and half by local authorities and private owners working in co-operation with the Commission.

The largest single acreage being planted is at Thetford in Norfolk where a forest of 24,000 acres is being created. Most of the trees being set out consist of different varieties of fir and spruce, which are grown in the Commission's nurseries until they are three years old and then transplanted to the areas to be forested.

"BE YOURSELF!"

Seems to be quite a popular slogan just now, and it may well be observed in the fashion field.

Women never look more attractive than when wearing frocks suited to their particular types—styles, colors and fabrics that best harmonize with their own personalities.

Peggy Paige has sent to us this Spring a most comprehensive group of new styles. There are slender, boyish sport frocks for the outdoor athletic girl.

Graceful silk frocks, with soft feminine touches of lace and ribbon, for the tea and bridge-party girl. There are soft warm colors for darker complexions and bright, bold colors for the fairer skin. There are slim, straight lines for the stouter figures and fuller lines and larger designs for the more slender.

There's a style for you among them—a frock that will be an expression of your own personality. We are ready to help you choose it.

Famous Film Favorite of Early Days Left Behind In Industry's Advance

By United Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—His shootin' irons rusted, his saddles mildewed, his chaps frayed and moth-eaten, and his horses gone to bone yards or chicken feed, G. M. "Broncho Billy" Anderson, one-time film favorite, now depends upon charity of his relatives.

The disclosure was made when the former partner in Essanay film enterprises appeared in court here to explain why he did not pay a judgment of $6,081 secured by Nicholas Widder, New York music publisher.

Anderson told the court he had been unable to work for seven years because of illness. The serious career of Broncho Billy was meteoric. Entering the business in its pioneer days, Anderson rose rapidly to fame and prosperity in the motion picture field. From the Essanay studios in the Niles canyon near here at one time issued practically all the "Wild West" pictures shown on theatre screens of the United States and the world. It was at Niles that Charlie Chaplin first learned the comedy virtue of custard pies, and it was there, too, that Ben Turpin earned pay for his crossed eyes. Mable Normand and many others put in their first work and gained their first film fame in pictures made at Niles, working with Anderson or under his direction. The western type of picture faded in popularity, and Broncho Billy abandoned the business, selling his screen interests, to become a theatrical producer and promoter. Two years ago his old plant at Niles was sold for $1,500 overdue taxes.

Anderson's bid for theatrical fame was first made with "Fringolities of 1920," which closed in Kansas City with the actors stranded. Later Anderson took over a theatre here but experienced further financial disaster and in the past few years has hidden himself away from the spotlight.

SIGNAL CORPS HURT BY LACK OF TRAINED MEN

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Development in the network of army communication activities throughout the United States has resulted in an increase of nearly 300 per cent in the amount of traffic handled during the past year as compared with a similar period in 1922, according to the annual report of Major General C. McK. Saltzman, Chief Signal Officer, made public here today.

"A critical situation exists, however," Saltzman said, "in the proper functioning of the signal corps due to lack of trained enlisted men in sufficient number to operate and maintain the government radio and telephone system and for operating other signal corps activities of the army."

Saltzman declared that development of new communication equipment and appliances is being neglected for lack of funds, and that funds efficiently spent during peace times are insurance taken out against waste in time of war.

"If the Signal Corps is to keep abreast of the world in modern means of communication, it must necessarily spend money in the research and development of new equipment and new designs of old equipment. If adequately conducted in time of peace, it can be subordinated to other activities in time of war."

ANCIENT ADOBE HOUSE SUCCUMBS TO WRECKER

By United Press.
SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 28.—Built at the close of the eighteenth century, the oldest known adobe building within the limits of the present city is about to fall under the attack of the wrecker in the march of modern progress.

The adobe, of two stories and in fair state of preservation, had been almost forgotten, but was brought to public note when the structure on the front portion of the same lot was razed to make way for a new building.

Mrs. Andre Camous, whose husband once owned the adobe, said she had known its tenants over a period of 65 years, and knows that for two generations prior, it was occupied by the Mano family.

Your Credit

When opening a new account credit is based on three essentials:—

- FIRST—CHARACTER.
- SECOND—PAST RECORD OF PROMPTNESS.
- THIRD—ABILITY TO PAY.

First—This essential is explained by asking yourself this question, "Are you the kind of person to whom you, yourself would lend money out of your own pocket?"

Second—Can you name several firms from whom you have purchased goods or service and who will report you as "prompt pay?"

Third—Is your weekly or monthly income sufficient and sure enough to meet your current expenses and this new obligation promptly when due? Those who pay promptly seldom buy more than they can pay for—their honest sense of responsibility to pay monthly restrains them.

JUST HOW GOOD IS YOUR CREDIT?

Prompt pay assures credit in reasonable amounts, and "reasonable amount" is based on ability to pay. The merchant knows he will keep his word and is ready to give Mr. Prompt Pay credit when he asks for it.

Cards at the Retail Merchants Association give you merchant's the essential facts of your credit rating. Pay your bills this month when due and enter the Prompt Pay class, and if you are already in this class, we urge you to stay there.

Protect Your Credit Today, for You May Need It Tomorrow. It Pays to Pay Promptly.

BANDITS THREATEN EUROPEAN EXPRESS

By United Press.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The days of the stage coach and the Wild West are being lived over again here in the heart of the Old World.

Travelers by the Simplon Express, one of the "crack" trains of the Continental railroad system are protected today just as were the voyagers by the covered wagons across the great plains of the West in the fifties.

Following repeated attacks by train robbers on this express, most of which took place on Rumanian territory, railroad officials in Paris sought the protection of the Rumanian government. So troops have been assigned to guard this through train which carries many prominent voyagers to the Orient and now travelers ride through the Rumanian forest with armed guards standing in the corridors and riding "blind baggage."

Dean Inge's Denial of Heaven's Existence Arouses New Theological Storm In England of Gigantic Aspect

By KEITH JONES

(United Press Staff Correspondent) LONDON, Nov. 28.—Echoes of the theological bombshell exploded by Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral with his assertion that there is no place in the astronomical universe for a physical heaven or hell, and that Christ in consequence could not have physically ascended into heaven, are still reverberating throughout England.

Criticism ranges from frank approval to bitter condemnation. "If Dean Inge had promulgated some of these doctrines five hundred years ago, declared one London clergyman he would have been burned at the stake for heresy. I don't set myself up to be of the intellectual caliber of the Dean, but if I believed what he believes I would take myself out of the church of England."

Rev. Basil W. B. Matthews, of Holy Trinity Church: "The average Church of England priest does not look to Dean Inge for guidance." "If the Dean believes these things," said Rev. T. P. Stevens of St. Matthews, "he may be a Christian in mind, but he can not call himself a Christian in fact."

Scientific Support. On the other hand the Bishop of Manchester views Dean Inge's declarations as "merely a repetition of familiar views" and says that there is a steady tendency toward complete harmony between scientific and theological thought.

Chief of the points raised by Dean Inge in his essay in the book "Science, Religion and Reality" around which the storm of controversy swirls are summed up in his phrase that "mummified customs that have long outlasted their usefulness and dogmas that have lost their vitality" must go.

"The discovery that the earth instead of being the center of a dish with a dish-cover on it, is a planet revolving around the sun which is itself only one of a million stars, tore into shreds the Christian map of the Universe" he said.

"Until that time the ordinary man whether educated or uneducated, had pictured the sun of things as a three storied building, consisting of heaven, the abode of God, the angels and the beatified spirits; an earth and the infernal regions.

Heaven and Hell. "Most certainly Heaven and Hell were geological expressions.

"The articles of the Creeds, of the descent of Christ into Hades, and his ascent into Heaven affirm no less; and it is obvious that the bodily resurrection of Christ is intimately connected with the bodily ascension. The new cosmography of Copernicus and Galileo thus touched the faith of the Creeds very closely. New astronomical knowledge leaves no room for a geological heaven."

By implication the Dean would deny the miracles. He says: "If the whole of nature is purposive it is not likely that we can discern special purposes operating particular cases."

If the laws of nature are laws of an omnipotent and omniscient Being, we should expect them to act regularly and uniformly."

Other points raised by the Dean and which are now the subject of almost unparalleled controversy are: "The truth is that the great religions—Buddhism, Christianity, and Islam—date from the millennium which ends with the career of Mohammed; and all of them were at their best when they were fresh from the mint."

"It was a shock to many to hear that the human race has developed out of non-human ancestors; but the question is only about the methods of creation; Darwinism has inflicted no injury on the Christian faith."

"The future of Christianity as an institution is not a matter of supreme importance. It is even possible to speculate (though I would not go so far myself) as to whether the religion of Christ might not be a greater power in the world, if its professional custodians were removed."
