SENATE AGAIN PUTS RIDER ON PEACE TREATY

Move Accepted as Bringing Ratification One Step Nearer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The first of the reservations attached to the peace treaty last November was re-adopted unchanged and by an increased majority today in the senate after the treaty's irreconcilable foes, holding the balance of power, had fought the effort of republican and democratic leaders to secure modification in the interest of compromise.

The outcome, although involving the defection of four more democratic senators from the ranks of those who have stood against all reservations generally was accepted as solving the deadlock and bringing the ratification one step nearer.

Most of the debate preceding the roll call revolved about the treaty as a campaign issue and drew from the republican side a volley of criticism of the utterances made by Elihu Root, Senator Johnson, California, earlier in the year for the presidential nomination, characterized as "utterly silly" the declaration of Mr. Root that the United States should enter the league of nations without reservation and then improve the form of it later, after a new president is inaugurated.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican floor leader, declared that amendment of the covenant, once it was ratified, would be practically impossible and Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader among the republican irreconcilables, gave notice that he would carry on his fight before the people regardless of the action of the parties' national conventions.

The reservations on which the senate acted related to withdrawal from membership in the league, providing that this nation shall be the sole judge whether its obligations have been fulfilled in case it desires to withdraw and that notice of withdrawal may be given by a concurrent resolution by congress.

A vote on adoption of the reservation was forty-five to twenty, Kahn, democrat, joining the solid republican ranks by supporting it. Four democrats, Ashurst of Arizona, Fletcher of Florida, Henderson of Nevada, and Nugent of Idaho, had stood on all previous roll calls steadfastly against any qualification of the treaty.

Senator Ashurst announced before hand he had become convinced that ratification of some sort was a prime necessity and that he would vote his own convictions and not those of the president.

PAIR WITH 80 CENTS HIKE 100 MILES TO BE MARRIED

International News Service. EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 21.—Guided by Dan Cupid, Malinda Strange, who gave her age as 18, and Roy Greenwood, 19, (tramped 100 miles from Florida to East St. Louis to get married, only to have their plans spoiled by the stern hand of the law, after evading anxious relatives.

Humane Officer J. K. Ewing found the pair sitting on a railroad track eating pie. He took them both into custody and announced arrangements would be made to care for the girl—who has been parentless three years, and only recently left the Soldiers' Orphan home at Bloomington, Ill., according to her story to the officer. Greenwood, according to the police, was recently discharged from the St. Charles reformatory, where he had spent a year.

The pair had just 80 cents between them when the law stepped in and spoiled the elopement.

AUTO PLATE NO. 13 BRINGS THREE SMASHES IN HOUR

International News Service. MUSKEGON HEIGHTS, Mich., Feb. 21.—Rose Englebellman of this city, stepped into the police headquarters and handed the chief of police a battered city license plate No. "13."

"Never give me that number again," said Rose to the chief. "I have driven a car for years and never had an accident, and now I just got this number from you an hour ago and I have been in three accidents since."

"I want my dollar rebate and then I'll buy a new plate with a different number. Come to think about it, I will not need any city license because by the time the police repaired I shall have my state license."

SWEETENED TOILET WATER KILLS THREE IN MEMPHIS

International News Service. MEMPHIS, Tex., Feb. 21.—Three men died here the other day as a result of drinking sweetened toilet water, under the impression, it is believed, that it was real "wet" goods. A number of others are ill as a result of drinking the deadly concoction, but are expected to recover. The reported dead are Lee Henderson, Ed Denison and William Anderson.

BANKS CLOSE MONDAY. In accordance with custom, since Washington's birthday falls on Sunday, and in observance of the proclamation of Governor Hobby, declaring Monday, Feb. 22, as a legal holiday, the banks of Ranger will be closed for the day.

'TEX' RICKARD HANDS BOOST TO PARK DRIVE

Encouraging progress was made Saturday on the drive to raise $15,000 for the Ranger Park association, $2,665 having been raised up to Saturday night. The active assistance of every member of the Chamber of Commerce is sought, as the committee in charge realizes that only through this means can the success of the drive be assured.

Acting on a tip that Tex Rickard was in town, Ralph Stockman, one of the committee, Saturday mailed Tex for a donation. The famous fight promoter and all magazine lived up to his reputation for being a good sport by shelling out fifty bucks. He accompanied the gift with an expression of appreciation of the opportunity to aid in securing a ball park and athletic center for Ranger.

Rickard's generosity is all the more marked because he does not live here. But he is a clear sport first, last and in between times.

Four Texan banks did their share with $250 each, and $100 contributions were received from M. H. Smith, M. R. Newnam, Mayor M. H. Freeman, John M. Gholson and the Frick-Reid Supply company.

GIRL ASKS POISON; BELLHOP RUNS TO GET IT

International News Service. ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 21.—St. Louis is claiming to possess the most accurate hop in the country.

Hark to its evidence. A young woman registered at a Ninth street hotel under the name of Edna Howard. The police obtained her age as twenty, which is, of course, irrelevant to the story.

Answering a ring from the lady's room a gallant negro porter was met by a request to "go out and get me some poison. I want to commit suicide."

The porter hurried to a nearby drug store, put the proposition to the clerk and obtained a small bottle containing a white fluid. Hurrying back, he presented the bottle, down, then rushed out and called the police, who rushed the girl to City hospital, where investigation revealed that the bottle, labeled "poison" had contained only a harmless liquid.

AIR BOMBS CREATE HAVOC AT ABERDEEN

International News Service. ABERDEEN, Md., Feb. 21.—Two 112-pound bombs dropped from an airplane 8,000 feet in the air during a proving process at the Aberdeen proving grounds missed their mark, and falling on a railroad track in the aviation field tore up the rails for 300 feet and created consternation in the town.

Naval officers from Washington were at the grounds to see the proving. Many bombs were used, but only two went astray. Owing to the danger attending this proving it was decided that there would be no more of it.

'J. W. BAILEY NOT ELIGIBLE,' PAT M. NEFF

Former Senator No Resident of Texas, Opponent Says.

HILLSBORO, Texas, Feb. 21.—Pat M. Neff of Waco, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Texas, charged in an address here today that Former Senator J. W. Bailey, another gubernatorial candidate, was "ineligible to sit in the governor's chair under the Texas constitution."

The constitution, Mr. Neff pointed out, provides that a gubernatorial candidate must reside in this state at least five years preceding his candidacy. He asserted that Mr. Bailey was "in no way a citizen of Texas" as he resided in Washington.

Defending the administration of President Wilson, which Bailey had assailed, Neff said it had accomplished more during the past five years than has been accomplished by any other government on earth during any fifteen consecutive years in the history of the world.

W. C. T. U. WILL WAGE FIGHT ON BOOZE IN MEDICINES

International News Service. MACON, Ga., Feb. 21.—One of the next important steps to be taken by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be a campaign to secure legislation banning alcohol from all medicines. This was made known at the closing session of the South Atlantic regional conference of the W. C. T. U. here recently.

Mrs. J. R. Shepard, of the Virginia W. C. T. U., made this fact plain when she said that "the next important step will be the eradication of the ancient superstition that alcohol has any value in medicine."

"The surgeon generals of the army and navy are only awaiting enough physicians to lend their cooperation to remove alcohol supplies from the naval and military hospitals," she added. "The W. C. T. U. for years opposed the use of alcohol for medicinal purposes, and it is our intention to begin a more vigorous attack to have it done away with entirely."

EXHIBITED HANDSOME FLASK FULL OF SCOTCH—ARRESTED

International News Service. CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—A "rule of reason" should apply to prosecutions of persons guilty of carrying "hip liquor," in the opinion of Federal District Attorney Charles Cline. He held that Charles Neil Thomas, president of the Commonwealth Trust and Securities company, did not stay within the "rule of reason" when he proudly exhibited a handsome flask containing 100-proof Scotch whiskey in a restaurant here. The banker was arrested.

Strong Flows From Pair In Stephens Co.

Two Stephens county wells, one in the Nessity pool and another a mile and a half northeast of the Swanson territory, have been completed within the last few days.

Montreal Oil company's Harrison hit the pay at 3,240 feet and is reported to be making between 2,400 and 3,000 barrels. It is between Caddo and Breckenridge. Texas company's M. L. Bradshaw No. 1, a mile and a half east of Nessity, is at 3,173 feet and making 1,800 barrels. It is in section 18, block 6, Texas company's Lauderdale No. 3, in block 5, section 34, is making 200 barrels, incomplete. It is three feet in the sand, which was struck at 3,177 feet.

Water Distilling Plants Cost $5,000

The Ranger Distilled Water company has completed the installation of their new electrifying apparatus and is now providing this electrically treated water under the trade name of Electrozone.

The complete new machinery in operation is very interesting and is an indication of the thoroughness with which industrial plants in Ranger are preparing for big production.

HE'S SORRY THIEF DIDN'T HAVE BONE IN HIS THROAT

International News Service. CHICAGO—"Glory be, boss, Ah done got a fishbone stuck in mah throat, an' Ah'm gwine choke of yo' don' hook it out," gasped a negro after running into a restaurant here.

The Good Samaritan restaurant keeper peered down the negro's facial abyss in an effort to locate the fishbone. As he did so he felt a hard object protruding him in the ribs—the business end of a 44.

AWARDED POSSESSION OF ADOPTED SON AS ALIMONY

International News Service. CHICAGO—Probably the most unusual alimony award ever granted here was given to Mrs. Queenie Nazario in the possession, as an alimony settlement, of her 16-year-old adopted son, Nat Nazario, Jr., a vaudeville performer with an income of $1,500 a week. The award was made as the result of Mrs. Nazario's divorce suit against Nat Nazario Sr., also a vaudeville performer.

OIL AND GAS SOUGHT RIGHT IN PITTSBURG

International News Service. PITTSBURG, Feb. 21.—"Wildcatting" for oil and gas within the confines of the Pittsburg city limits is now being contemplated, and residents are wondering what will happen if some venturesome driller should make a hit.

The gas excitement that has turned McKeesport topsy-turvy is being reflected here. New wells are being brought in almost every day in the McKeesport field, and the operations are extending in all directions.

It is known that there is gas in some of the lower strata under Pittsburg. The late George Westinghouse, the inventor, drilled a test well on his estate near the city line a few years ago. The well produced a good quantity of gas, but not enough to classify it as a big revenue producer. Today the same flow would result in handsome dividends.

Sensing the trend of affairs, the city authorities have taken steps to control and regulate any operations that may be started. The possibility of drilling rigs being stationed on every vacant space and in the back lots of homes has made the city council pass ordinances that will insure safety for property. If as some people believe, a great pool of either oil or gas underlies the city the excitement should pale anything that has gone before.

TUBERCULOSIS SCHOOL PLANNED IN COLORADO

International News Service. COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Feb. 21.—Papers of incorporation for the formation of the Colorado School of Tuberculosis have been filed here and it is expected the new institution for teaching latest methods of treating tuberculosis will be opened this month.

The school will be open to physicians from all parts of the country and its purposes, as described in the incorporation papers, are "to furnish, without pecuniary profit, opportunity for special advanced study in tuberculosis to physicians and others, through the medium of regular courses of instruction and laboratory investigations."

A number of prominent Colorado physicians are among the incorporators.

ESCH-CUMMINS RAILROAD BILL PASSED BY HOUSE DESPITE LABOR PROTEST

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The compromise Esch-Cummins railroad bill was approved late today by the house, which adopted the conference report by a clear majority of 99 after four hours of debate. The vote was 149 to 150, in favor of the measure.

Adoption of the conference report came after the house had defeated, 228 to 171, a motion to recommit.

There never was any doubt as to the outcome, leaders said, although the effect of pressure from labor leaders against adoption of the bill was variously interpreted. Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, Democrat, in the closing argument against the bill, declared that labor leaders had caused at least a dozen members opposed to it to rally to its support.

During the debate, in which more than a score of representatives took part, Chairman Esch declared that the railroads would be handed back to their owners on March 1, regardless of whether congress adopted legislation meanwhile, but he warned the house that defeat of the bill at this stage would put half the railroads of the country in the hands of receivers in three months.

Representative Pou of North Carolina, Democrat, painted a more gloomy picture by declaring that the country would see the greatest financial disaster in years if it gave up the railroads without enactment of laws which would give them the right to earn a fair return.

Representative Kitchin said his opposition was not "in compliance to the demands of Mr. Gompers." He attacked the "insidious propaganda" which, he said, railway interests had conducted and declared the question of government ownership was not involved.

The roll call on adoption of the conference bill included the following:

For the bill: Black, Eagle, Parrish and Rayburn of Texas. Against the bill: Bee, Briggs, Buchanan, Connally, Garner, Hardy, Jones, Lanham, Mansfield and Young of Texas.

Representatives Blanton and Summers of Texas were both paired with Republicans. Blanton was for the bill, Summer against it.

VETERINARIAN'S GOAT LOST WHEN GOAT EATS $2 BILL

International News Service. TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 21.—Dr. Monroe Bodenweiser, a veterinary surgeon, had to endure much "kidding" when his friends learned of an incident that occurred while he was attending a sale of horses at Everett's livery stable. The veterinary was so interested in the sale that he failed to notice Everett's goat edging its way close to him. The goat had espied some $2 bills which Dr. Bodenweiser was holding loosely in his hand.

The goat sniffed at the money a few times and finally sunk its teeth in one of the bills. It had the bill well masticated before the astonished veterinary recovered from his surprise and put the rest of the money in his pocket.

THEY ROMP IN BATHING SUITS DURING BLIZZARD

International News Service. BOSTON—Stanley and Charles Allen, former residents of Gardiner, Me., don't think much of Boston's biggest blizzard. "It is a mere flurry," they declared during a lively argument in a Waltham undertaker's parlor, and to show their contempt they appeared on Main street, Waltham, in bathing suits.

They chased each other in front of the city hall, buried themselves in a snowbank and then, satisfied that they had demonstrated their point, went back to work in a local factory.

CONFINED TO INVALID CHAIR FOR THIRTY YEARS; CURED

International News Service. GREENLEAF, Kan.—After being confined to an invalid chair for more than thirty years as a result of rheumatism, August Lohemeyer, a farmer living near here, received the surprise of his life recently when he awoke one morning and discovered that he could walk.

Lohemeyer takes great pride in his new accomplishment and now takes long walks, "just to get back in trim," as he expresses it.

BROTHERS CLAIM COLLAR-BONE-BREAKING RECORD

International News Service. FULTON, Mo.—Henry Danuser, 11, and his brother, Walter, 9, sons of K. B. Danuser, are running a close race for the honor of being the one to break his collarbone the more often. Henry leads by a close margin, having three to his credit.

Five fractures sustained by the Danuser brothers have kept the family physician busy, as they have occurred in a period of two years.

TRIES TO THAW GASOLINE ENGINE—MAY RECOVER

CONCORDIA, Kan., Feb. 21.—F. C. Liebenow, fifty, is in a hospital here and little hope is held for his recovery as a result of burns sustained when he tried, the other day, to thaw out a gasoline engine with kerosene and gasoline. The can of gasoline with which Liebenow was trying to "prime" the motor exploded, sending him into a flaming torch, and his quick work by bystanders he would have been burned alive.

UNDERWOOD PUSHES FIGHT ON PRINT PAPER QUESTION

International News Service. WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Senator Underwood is pushing his fight on the question of print paper and the orders in council of the Canadian government affecting its production may be expected at any time. Senator Underwood, sponsor of the resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to deal with the Canadian government on the question, has announced that he will push the resolution to passage.

Under the provisions of the orders in council, first issued by the lieutenant governor in Quebec in 1910, citizens of the United States are unable to ship wood from crown lands to the United States, unless it is in the form of lumber, paper pulp or manufactured into paper.

Senator Underwood said the land was leased before the orders were issued and that he felt something should be done to permit the shipment of wood into this country from the leased land in its raw state.

"The manufacturers of paper in the United States would be forced to move their plants into Canada if the restrictions are not limited," Underwood said. "If the industry leaves the United States, an embargo at any time could cut off our supply of paper, and we would be helpless," he continued.

The resolution provides that a commission be appointed by the President to enter into negotiations. The rules committee will be asked to take up his resolution in the near future. "I think every publisher should get behind this resolution," Underwood declared. "I want to see them support it so that we can have immediate action."

BELIEVED BABY SHOULDN'T CRY; WIFE GETS DIVORCE

International News Service. CHICAGO—A physician's belief "that a baby shouldn't cry at any time" won a divorce for his wife here. According to Mrs. Jean Bare Gordon, her husband held the following maxims concerning their two-year-old son:

"A child should not cry at any time. A child should not cry for want of food, nor because it is ill or cold. A dead child is better than a spoiled child."

CONCORDIA, Kan., Feb. 21.—F. C. Liebenow, fifty, is in a hospital here and little hope is held for his recovery as a result of burns sustained when he tried, the other day, to thaw out a gasoline engine with kerosene and gasoline. ## Old Actors Say the Stage Has Reached Millennium in Modern Dressing Rooms

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Contrasts between the old and the new in the "land of make-believe" were sharply recalled here recently when a group of former dramatic, operatic, vaudeville and circus stars who now live at the Actors' Fund Home on Staten Island, were guests of honor at the Capitol theatre, New York's million-dollar motion picture house.

The actors and actresses, who recalled the days when a sumptuous dressing room contained a single shelf, a single chair, a broken mirror, were most impressed with the gorgeousness of the equipment of the modern theatre. They paid homage to the strides the theatre has made in this regard, but refused to concede that actors of the screen or legitimate stage are superior to the old.

"In fact," said William Payne, a famous English actor, "I should say one need not be much of an actor in such a wonderful place as this. The theatre, the music and the stage settings are more than sufficient to make one almost forget the caliber of the performer."

Mr. Payne, who admits of "more than seventy" starred years ago in "The Village Postmaster" and "Barrel of Money," and later enjoyed popularity and success in vaudeville, arm in arm, while he talked, stood Miss Alice E. Adams, of dancing fame as far back as the seventies and eighties. Miss Adams was the first specialty dancer appearing with the original "Black Crook" company, but, being true to her sex, insists that "age" has nothing to do with this party or the mention of herself.

Among the "old school" party was F. F. McKay, who, according to Mr. Daniel Frohman, is the oldest living actor in the world today. Mr. McKay, who, according to his own admission, is "eighty-seven years young," ento try his hand at building up another pennant winner.

With the exception of George Gibson, of the Pirates, there will be no new managers in the field this year, and a majority of the field pilots of both leagues are pretty well established in their managerial berths. Hughie Jennings is one of the older class of managers. He has been serving the Detroit Tigers since 1907. He was preceded at Detroit by George Stallings, Frank Dwyer, Ed Barrow, Bobby Lowe and Bill Armour.

The White Sox have had a good many managers, too. Clark Griffith, Jack Padden, Jimmy Callahan, Billy Sullivan, Hugh Duffy and Clarence Rowland held the reins in Chicago prior to Kid Gleason's appointment. The Red Sox have had Jimmy Collins, the Red Sox have had Jimmy Collins, Ed Barrow at the wheel since the American league came into existence. The Cleveland Indians have had a good many managers. Jim McAlone, Bill Armour, Nan Lajoie, Jim McGuire, George Stovall, Harry Davis, Joe Birmingham and Lee Fohl held sway there before Tris Speaker was appointed last July.

In Washington Clark Griffith was preceded by Jim Manning, Tom Lofus, Jake Stahl, Joe Cantillon and Jim McAleer. The Yanks have been piloted by Clark Griffith, Kid Elberfeld, Hal Chase, Harry Wolverton, Frank Chance, Roger Peckinpaugh, Bill Donovan and Miller Huggins. The Browns by McAleer, Jack O'Connor, Bob Wallace, George Stovall, Branch Rickey, Fielder Jones and now by Jimmy Burke.

National league clubs, most of which have been operating much longer than any in the American league, have also seen many managerial changes. The Reds have been managed by more different men than any other National league team since 1900. Bob Allen, Bid McPhee, Joe Kelley, Ned Hanlon, John Gangel, Clark Griffith, Hank O'Day, Joe Tinker, Buck Herzog, Christy Mathewson and Pat Moran have managed the Redville gang in the order named since the American league broke into the field.

SAYS NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFLICTED WITH LUXURY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON.—The national capital is afflicted with luxury. You may take it from Representative Nelson C. Messersmith.

"Stand on F street almost any Saturday afternoon and in an hour's time you will see $100,000 worth of fur coats worn by women, mostly those who work. Take your place on Sixteenth street on a fair Sunday afternoon and you will see in a single hour a million dollars' worth of autos. There is no let-up on luxury."

Luxury is the capital's great affliction, the Missouri legislator is convinced.

POISON OLIVES ARE SOUGHT IN NORTH STATES

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Federal and state food inspectors in fifty-two towns of eight northern states are making frantic efforts tonight to locate and destroy dozens of bottles of ripe stuffed olives containing the deadly bacillus botulinus.

A single case of olive poisoning at Kalispell, Montana, is the only one reported so far. Federal chemists are making every effort to reach and confiscate the bottles and a warning has been sent broadcast advising housewives to return unopened all containers holding suspected brand.

The brands involved are "Batavia," "Ferndell" and "Richellen." Only ripe olives, stuffed with pimentos and sold in bottles, are affected. J. L. McLaughlin, superintendent of the Illinois division of food inspection, said investigation disclosed that no blame for the condition of the olives attached to either the packer, wholesaler or retailer.

CONNIE MACK AND M'GRAW 'OLD MASTERS'

BY JACK VEIOCK

International News Sporting Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—John McGraw and Connie Mack, veteran field generals of the National and American leagues, and rivals of long standing, will commence their eighteenth year as managers when the baseball season opens next April.

These veterans have records that speak more eloquently than any word picture of their ability as pilots of winning ball teams. McGraw has won six National league pennants with the Giants in his seventeen years as a manager and has captured one world's championship.

Mack's famous Athletics—famous in years gone by—have also annexed six pennants under his leadership, but they have outdistanced the Giants in the matter of winning world's championships, having pulled down three.

When the bell rings April 14 Mack and McGraw will go out to get the jump on each other in the matter of winning pennants. They hold the record in modern baseball as pennant-winning managers and there is a questioning the rivalry between them.

McGraw's Giants were fairly outdistanced by the fast-going Reds last season. But this is another year, and despite rumors that he would probably retire at the close of the 1919 season, the connor spring will find McGraw again on the bench and the coaching lines urging his team on to victory.

Mack's Athletics, composed largely of young players, will enter the coming American league race in the "dark horse" class. But Mack is through selling stars. He is going years, while in normal years it is constantly kept filled by the regular flow. The stream has failed to run only seventy-eight days in the last two years, one of which was the driest ever known in West Texas. The normal flow of the stream will produce 1,000 horsepower.

D'ANNUNZIO MAKES HIS OWN MAP; STONES MARK BOUNDARIES

Artificial boundary line between Fiume and Jugo Slavia, established by D'Annunzio and soldiers guarding it.

The lake is essential in elevation to Stamford, but not sufficiently high to make possible the flow of water by gravitation to the city, a distance of seventeen miles. This has been remedied in a unique and inexpensive way. The lake will provide sufficient waterfall normally to operate a large turbine to generate 1,000 horsepower for the operation of a large pump. If necessary, later an electric plant may be installed here. The pump will inject water through the 16-inch pipe from the lake to a large settling reservoir four miles west of the lake.

This reservoir is now being built. It will be one mile long, one hundred feet wide and twelve feet deep, with a capacity of 42,000,000 gallons, a sufficient quantity to furnish Stamford normally for four months. This reservoir may be filled as many times a year as needed by the hydraulically driven pump at the lake. The basin for this reservoir is now being scooped out by a large Bucyrus steam shovel of List and Gifford. Each dip of the shovel brings up two cubic yards of hard pernian clay. The bottom of the basin is of bright red clay so impervious to water that none escapes except by evaporation.

The settling basin will be completed in the next sixty days. A 16-inch pipe connects it with the lake pumping station, and a 12-inch pipe connects it with Stamford. Three-fourths of the pipe line has already been laid.

The reservoir is twenty feet higher than Stamford, twelve miles distant. Two miles from Stamford a control station equipped with an electrically driven pump will increase the pressure in the city to any extent necessary during big fires or emergencies. The reservoir has been built in the shape of a sweeping curve so that water entering it from the lake will gradually make its way to the outlet and settle as it moves. Likewise the sweep will prevent the hard winds moving the water to the outlet before it has had sufficient time to settle thoroughly.

magic dash of pure water. Mayor R. L. Penick of Stamford stated to the writer that with the increased price of materials and labor the dam, the pipe line and the reservoir could not be duplicated today for $550,000. The city has already defrayed one-twentieth of the cost of the structure and meets the annual payment of one-fortieth without the necessity of providing a sinking fund. When the city takes over the water system of Stamford the water rates for domestic consumption will be set at 30 cents for the first 1,000 gallons, 20 cents for the second 1,000, and 10 cents for the third 1,000. In time Stamford expects to give water sales which will enable the city in a few years to pay off the entire debt without taxation.

A Recreation Spot, Also.

Mayor R. L. Penick likewise sees the esthetic feature of the lake. It will be forty feet deep in various parts and will provide an excellent recreational park for eight miles for all towns in this section. The great body of water is fringed with stately pecan and walnut groves giving a cool shade. Four miles above the dam the hills are plentiful and the small reaches or estuaries will make a fairy-like playground that cannot be surpassed for scenic beauty and comforts anywhere in Texas. At this particular place where the water will be twenty feet deep and the lake a half mile wide, a beauty spot touched by one of the state designated highways, will be set aside for a Stamford-Albany-Anson-Abilene park. HOW STAMFORD SOLVED PROBLEM SIMILAR TO ONE RANGER FACES WITH IMMENSE ARTIFICIAL LAKE

(Hamilton Wright, Publicity Manager, W. T. C. C.)

STAMFORD, Feb. 21.—Not a similar instance on record in the Southwest can be cited to parallel that of Stamford in its effort to redeem itself from drought and depression which left it straggling in the richest agricultural section of the state without water even for drinking purposes in the summer of 1918—the devastating drought year of West Texas.

How a miniature metropolis of less than 5,000 inhabitants harnessed a stream to provide an abundance of water not only for a large city, but for a number of smaller ones, all at a time when its finances were at low ebb, is a marvelous story which has not been sufficiently circulated in the state press to furnish an example for other towns hampered and discouraged over prospects of reaching the cherished goal of citydom.

Stamford, youngest of Texas large towns, and incidentally a paragon of progressiveness and industry, had risen in 1918 to a status of 5,000 population in careless disregard of its water resources. It had done like so many other towns of the West—built storage reservoirs of 500,000, 000 gallons of water trusting that they would satisfy the growing needs of their towns. Ordinarily that size reservoir would provide ample water for all purposes, because occasional rains replenish depletions. But during very dry weather consumption is increased and depletion by evaporation extraordinarily great.

Hence, it was nothing unusual for state papers to record that water was being hauled both by wagon and by train into Stamford in 1918. The supply of its great lake had been exhausted. Any one cognizant of what this means can readily conceive of the disaster it entails. Stamford received a black eye among folk who had contemplated moving here. Some citizens moved away. Property owners had their interests here so that they could not well afford to leave. Yet to them the water situation was extremely grievous and burdensome.

An experience like this twice endured paved the way for Stamford to swat the dry beast in the face for all times. Mayor R. L. Penick conceived the idea of damming the Clear Fork of the Brazos seventeen miles east of Stamford. Here lay, as he saw it, the only solution. Consequently he began to talk it; he preached it; and he insisted that it was the only solution. Stamford had from further depressions. So impressed were Stamford citizens with the feasibility of the proposition that they called an election in 1918 and voted to authorize the issuance of bonds to the amount of $440,000 for the construction of the Clear Fork dam and a pipe line from the lake to Stamford.

The bonds readily sold. Contract was let to List and Gifford of Kansas City and work was begun in July, 1919. Work has proceeded as rapidly as men and material could be commanded, with present prospects that the dam will be completed by July 1 and Stamford provided with an abundance of pure water thereafter at probably the lowest rate of any town in West Texas.

How It Was Done.

The Clear Fork of the Brazos is being dammed one mile east of Lueders, at a point which is the boundary line of Shackelford and Jones counties, part of the dam being in Shackelford county and most of the lake in Jones county. The dam itself will have a 48-foot base, with 16-foot width at top, and will be 85 feet high. The length with spillway will be approximately 1,000 feet, with a levee to the west 1,700 feet long, made of red clay but not exposed to the water. The dam itself will be of pure Lueders hard limestone.

Most of the masonry work of the dam has already been finished but the gap has not been closed. The flume for escape water has been set and the dam will be built over it, permitting an outlet until the entire masonry work has been completed, and the turbine installed. To prevent undermining below the dam several concrete and stone wings have been run into the banks and swung back to the dam. The base of the long levee is ripped with hard limestone boulders. The levee itself at no time comes in contact with floodwater. The spillway makes a graceful curve to the southwest for a distance of several hundred feet so that run-off water is carefully carried away from the dam to prevent undermining.

The dam is founded on a solid underground bottom of rock six feet beneath the surface of the stream. The foundation has been acclaimed by Consulting Engineer J. D. Trammell and City Engineer H. J. Bradshaw and other dam builders as the best to be found anywhere in Texas. The large Lueders limestone blocks with which the dam is being constructed are being cemented together with concrete that hardens with time, and the entire whole is veneered over with a thick coat of concrete to minimize erosion. During highest water no additional strain is put on the dam proper, as the floodwater runs off over the several hundred feet of spillway, somewhat lower than the main dam.

2,500,000,000 Gallons of Water.

The lake formed by the structure will be eight miles long and a half mile wide at various places. The capacity of the lake so formed will be approximately 2,500,000,000 gallons. While not the largest lake being built in West Texas, it is probably the greatest water source now being developed, because it will fill from five to ten times a year in the driest

SWING AROUND CIRCLE LEAVES COMMISSIONER MORE ENTHUSED ABOUT RANGER THAN AT START

Returning from a "swing around the circle" and after having visited many cities in the north, middle west and east, Commissioner M. R. Newnam is more enthusiastic than ever before in regard to the prosperity and growth of his home city. In a statement to the Daily Times Saturday he gave a few impressions gathered on the trip. A keen observer of conditions, a shrewd judge of business values, of cities and of men, his conclusions throw a valuable sidelight on this city as compared with other cities of the country.

Mr. Newnam found business good wherever he went; trains crowded, hotels crowded and banks full of money. He discovered that dealers "rob" in other places as successfully as in the oil fields and that Ranger does not deserve the reputation of being the highest priced city in the country. Health conditions are so much better here than in many other places he visited, that this city "really deserves to be advertised as a health resort." He landed in Detroit when the thermometer was away below and the next day it almost went through the roof. Hailing from Texas, the land of "extremes of heat and cold," the abrupt behavior of Detroit thermometers never bothers him.

Ranger Well Admired.
Wherever he went he found that people are well informed concerning Fort Worth, Dallas and more especially Ranger, and many people in other states are as well posted regarding oil values here as citizens of Ranger.

He is more than ever convinced that determined efforts should be made to rid the city of its "rob" characters. "Even though Ranger is ahead of other cities in its size commercially," he said, "it is not on a par with the others morally, and we might as well admit it."

Mrs. Newnam went with the commissioner on the trip to Florida, joining him at New Orleans.

Commissioner Newnam's account of his trip follows:
"I did not find a hotel on my trip in any part of the country that was not full. I slept in upper berths most of the time, and found it very difficult to get a room anywhere, even by wiring three or four days ahead. In fact, the country is very prosperous. I did not visit a city but what the people seemed to be very prosperous, and the banks were all full of money. Labor conditions are considered very bad everywhere, and consequently, you don't get the service in any line of business that you once got."

Ranger a "Health Resort."
"By this three weeks' trip I am more impressed with Ranger than ever before for several reasons. The word has been going around that they 'rob' you here in Ranger, in the cafes, stores, and hotels, but I find that in other places they are doing some 'robbing' also, if that is the way you want to put it, and so far as I am able to determine, Ranger is just as reasonable a place to live as any other city you find now-a-days. In fact, I consider it more reasonable on some things than other places. It has also been said ever since the oil field 'boom' came in here that we were going to have lots of sickness, and that we had lots of sickness, and that we were going to have an epidemic 'unheard of' in other places on account of conditions here. I am convinced that we should advertise Ranger as a health resort. There is less sickness here from the flu and other diseases than any town I have visited, and in Detroit at the Dodge Brothers factory one-third of their employees are laid off on account of the flu and pneumonia. The Ford Motor company has between seven and ten thousand employees laid off on account of the flu and pneumonia. The other big automobile companies are in about the same shape, and while I was not in Chicago, they tell me that conditions there are even worse than in Detroit. Cincinnati is also in a bad shape on account of the flu."

"They say that the Texas climate is very changeable—hot one day and cold the next. The day I arrived in Detroit it was fifteen degrees below zero, and the next day forty above. I don't remember any changes like that here. In every city that I was in they knew something about Ranger. There seems to be three cities in north Texas that they know something about—Dallas, Fort Worth and Ranger, and nobody mentioned any other north Texas town to me. Even away down in Miami, Fla., I found a man who had an interest in a well drilling near Ranger, and while he had never been here, he knew something about Ranger, and knew considerably more about the property surrounding the well he had an interest in than I did, although I live here, and he had never been here. I find that the oil-buying public generally are pretty well versed on the oil property in the Ranger field. In fact, they know more about it than many of us who live here.

Speaking of Paving Delays.
"Miami, Fla., is a very beautiful city of about 45,000 people in the summer and about 100,000 people during the winter months. It has about eleven miles of paving, which they have been ten years in putting down, and they think they have made wonderful progress, and they have considered the time that has been spent in building the other cities. Ranger expects to have down about five miles of paving in eighteen months, and I believe that we will have that much in that length of time if the weather permits. Ranger has, conservatively speaking, as much building going on as there is in any other five towns its size put together, in the country I have been over.

"I am glad to get back, for I enjoy seeing the progress that Ranger is making when we happen to have a few days of sunshine, and by this time, I think that everyone who has had serious thoughts concerning the towns in the oil field, will agree to a map, if he is honest, that Ranger is to be the big city in the oil field, and with good weather, which will surely arrive in the future, we should make wonderful progress here in the next few months."

"There is one thing, however, that we should do, that the bad weather has not prevented us from doing, and that is, better our moral condition regarding gambling and women. Even though Ranger is ahead of other cities its size, commercially, it is not on a par with the others morally, and we might as well admit it. It is our weak point, and we must 'straighten up.'"

RUTHLESSNESS ARMY RULE IN N. W. RUSSIA

International News Service.
LONDON.—Methods employed by the leaders of the northwest army of General Yudenitch during the advance on Petrograd are graphically described in an interview with a former officer in Yudenitch's forces. High has been forwarded to the Manchester Guardian from Helsinki by its special correspondent. Publication of the name of the officer, the Guardian states, is withheld because to make his name public would expose him to danger.

"I am convinced of one thing," the officer said, "that this whole business of war against the Bolsheviks leads to nothing but destruction of Russia itself and to honor, men on both sides. We started out with a belief in words like democracy, but the moment our advance looked like being successful the northwest government was pushed on one side like a baby, and the real intentions of our leaders became clear. I have heard of the Red Terror. It could not be worse than the White Terror, in which I have actually taken part."

Informed that certain English newspapers had announced that there had been only a very small number of executions—something under forty—on the road to Petrograd, the officer said:

"It is false. The general order, not so far as I know, in writing but understood by everybody, was 'Kill all Communists and all Jews.' One officer boasts that he alone killed sixty-four. It was said that that was quite just, as they are all Communists. I asked if he was particularly bitter against the Reds and was told that he had lost an estate. As most Communists retired with the Reds we killed people who had any connection with Soviet institutions. They even wanted to kill a girl of 17 or less who was a Communist. I begged her off, and she kissed me publicly, which was very awkward. I was also able to save a schoolmaster."

"Was he a Communist?"
"No, but he had been on friendly terms with them. They caught the wife of a Communist—a woman with a child at her breast—and were going to shoot her, but with great difficulty and the help of a friend I succeeded in preventing that."

"If these things came under my personal observation you may imagine what was the total of terror on the whole front," the officer proceeded. "The worst of it was that we did nothing but destroy. I am convinced from what I saw that before our coming there was a more or less efficient working organization of local government in the village Soviets. We destroyed it and put back a local autocracy in the persons of officials and military commanders whose object was to get out of the villages what they could. As a man with some feelings of humanity I suffered from what I saw. We captured big estates run by agricultural communes—a sort of state farms. Considering all the difficulties they were in good condition, well stocked with beasts, cheese, etc., all well cared for. We literally sacked them, handing them over to soldiers, who killed even the cows, after which we restored the estate to its pre-revolution owner."

"What became of these owners when you left?"
"They retired with us," the officer replied. "They had been living in or near their homes. We came, destroyed, gave them back the ruins for a few days, then allowed them to become refugees with us. And even if we had not retired what could they have done? Our people had sacked the estates which the Reds had organized, and the old owners have no capital with which to run these things themselves. It was the same everywhere. The Reds had preserved palaces, etc., absolutely untouched. There was a different story to tell after we had left them."

HOW STAMFORD SOLVED HER WATER PROBLEM

large pavilion, boat houses, large and attractive summer hotel and several club and boat houses will be erected. Electric lights and other modern conveniences will be installed.

Amusements of every sort and nature will give the place a setting similar though restricted in magnitude to that of the famous Galveston beach. Small motor boats will operate from the pleasure resort to Lueders, where the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway crosses the lake. The lake will be stocked with game and other fish so that fishing will be one of the greatest diversions. This stream at present is famed over West Texas as second to none for its fine fish.

At present a large force of men is elevating the railroad bridge and embankment several feet a mile above the dam in order that railroad traffic may pass without danger of being inundated. The pleasure park is expected to be largely patronized by the many towns located thereabouts, it being almost equidistant from them.

The creation of the water source at Lake Penick means probably more territory than any other lake in the entire state. Not only will Stamford, for which it was built receive the major benefit, but the little towns of Lueders and Avoca will receive their water supplies from this lake, furnished by the municipality of Stamford. Lueders is a town of about 700 and Avoca 500. Many consumers of water have already made application for hydrant connections. Gins and other industries will draw from this source. Likewise between Lake Penick and Stamford, a distance of seventeen miles, are hundreds of large farms and farm houses, all of which will have hydrant water furnished from the 12-inch pipe line that runs to Stamford.

Irrigation Projects.
Application of small truck farms and gardens will be encouraged between the lake and Stamford, but no extraordinary use of water will be permitted at the present time because the lake was built purposely to make Stamford secure for all times against a possible water famine, not to provide water for irrigation purposes.

With the completion of the great compulsory connecting up of all houses with sewers owned by the city, thereby making the city the only one in West Texas owning its own system and having no surface toilets.

"There was a time a few years ago when Stamford could easily have grown to 15,000 before the end of the year," said Mayor R. L. Penick, for whom the lake was named. "It was a crucial hour in our history. We were building as rapidly as any town in West Texas and had a chance to become a great metropolis. Pride went before a fall, for about the time when we were expecting the greatest things, our water supply almost completely failed. You know the folks here, faithful saying, 'You can't build a city without water.' We have now sealed our water supply as well as any town could wish. Our investment of $440,000 has solved the water situation here even until we reach 100,000 inhabitants. With this fact before the minds of the world we have no doubt whatever that Stamford will reach the pinnacle of citydom in a few years."

ITALY IS ANXIOUS FOR SETTLEMENT ADRIATIC QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—President Wilson's note on the Adriatic settlement did not go forward to the Entente premiers as had generally been expected but probably will be cabled early next week. It is reiterated that while the president set out his argument with a great degree of finality, the note will not close the doors to further negotiations, through the usual diplomatic channels.

The situation in Italy is again reported as serious with both labor and socialist leaders anxious that the Adriatic question be settled so normal conditions may be resumed as rapidly as possible.

Demobilization in Italy is reported to be proceeding with extreme care and slowly because of the fear among the people that the Adriatic situation may lead to another war and because of the scarcity of work.

VOTERS GIVEN CIGARS, BILLS STATE CHARGE

By Associated Press
GRAND RAPIDS, Feb. 21.—Coaching of a grand jury witness, repairing a house on Newberry money, passing out cigars wrapped in tin foil and $10 bills, marking ballots for Indian voters, and hiring campaign workers through a janitor who holds a bank directorship as a side line, were points presented in government testimony at the Newberry election conspiracy trial today.

The bill-wrapped campaign cigars were an incident of the campaign in Flint. Perry Corcoran testified he found $10 on each of two foil covered cigars handed to him by Fred Henry, deputy state factory inspector.

The capitalist-janitor was John Netrikiewitow of Grand Rapids, who wields a broom in the federal building and holds enough bank stock to make him a director. He told of getting $30 from Frank McKay for workers at the November polls.

OFFICIALS VISIT "COUNTRY CLUB"

Festivities at the "Country Club," just outside the city limits on the Eastland road were interrupted at 10:30 p. m. Saturday when a Texas ranger stepped in at the back door, and county officials at the front and 250 players were asked to leave their names and $20.70 each with the officers.

Silver and paraphernalia disappeared as if by magic when the officers appeared. Several of the men found exit through a convenient back door, which the officers were not watching.

Music in the dance hall furnished a pleasant accompaniment throughout the proceedings.

McADOO AND PERSHING LEAD RACE FOR PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS; MANY OTHERS DEVELOP STRENGTH

By Bascom N. Timmons
Staff Special to the Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—George Washington's birthday has arrived and the nation is in the first presidential election since the two great parties never approximated in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of political wigwags or observers of political skies.

Place all the names of democratic aspirants in a hat and draw out any one of them and let it be your guess as to the nominee, and it will be as good as anybody's guess. Do the same thing with the G. O. P. list and the same is true.

It's a long, long road to San Francisco. It is also a magnificent distance to Chicago. Every day increases the certainty that both conventions will be wide open and that no candidate is going to either the foot of Lake Michigan or to the Golden Gate with anywhere near enough delegates to nominate.

Only one candidate, Governor Jas. N. Cox, of Ohio, has been so situated that he could actively get into the race for the democratic nomination. While a strong supporter of the Wilson administration, Governor Cox is not in the position of William G. McAdoo and Attorney General Palmer, who must, of course, hold back until President Wilson makes known his attitude toward a third term. No one expects that the president will seek a third cup of coffee, but until he definitely says so, neither McAdoo or Mr. Palmer can get the booms out in the open air.

Indeed, the situation is altogether favorable to Governor Cox and he may get a start that will make it difficult to head him. The boom for Herbert Hoover apparently has blown over. That is not saying that Mr. Hoover's boom may not come back strong. But it will require some new force to give it enough impetus to carry it to San Francisco.

Party men say that Hoover did his candidacy great harm by his statement that he will not align himself with a party until he knows what that party stands for. These men argue that if a man is big enough to be a candidate for president, he is big enough to align himself with a party and fight to have the principles he espouses written into that party's platform.

On the republican side, the most noticeable happenings of the last week was the development of a creaking in the Lowden boom, which many take to mean that the machine in which the Illinois governor has been riding toward the Chicago nomination may soon fall by the wayside.

The principal thing wrong with the Lowden candidacy has been too much money. It began to look too much like the Pullman millions had been put to work to make the Illinois governor the G. O. P. standard bearer. It is coming to be the belief in Washington that whatever may be the present strength of the candidates, the two booms less likely than any others to run into trouble are those of Wm. G. McAdoo for the democrats and General John J. Pershing for the republicans.

Despite the fact that his campaign has been held back, talk of McAdoo continues. That he has strength in the West there seems little doubt. He also is strong in New York state, where democratic chances are becoming brighter every day.

With Governor Smith, the most popular democrat in the state up for re-election, and with either Frank L. Polk, present acting secretary of state, Norman E. Mack, Franklin D. Roosevelt or George R. Lunn, all strong men, to be the senatorial candidate against Senator Wadsworth, who is popular with the women voters, McAdoo has an excellent chance for the nomination.

General Pershing has steadfastly declined to do anything to further his own interests, yet sentiment is rapidly crystallizing for him. At every place where General Pershing has spoken on his present tour of inspection his straight-from-the-shoulder talks on Americanism have won friends for him.

The announcement of O. G. Smith, president of the National Farmers' congress, that he will support Pershing means that he will have strong farmer support, and organized labor has expressed approval of his attitude. Throughout his tour, General Pershing has been championing the cause of labor and given it high credit.

CADOMENE THE "MIRACLE MEDICINE"

Many People Have Written of the Seeming "Miracles" Performed by Cadomene Tablets.

They Are Only Recommended For Worn-Out, Impoverished, Nervous People, But—

People have testified that they have been cured of rheumatism, headaches, stomach disorders, pains of neuralgia, etc., through the use of this great medicine- tonic, Cadomene Tablets. It only means that the Cadomene has helped to build up the strength of all organs and then nature has a chance to bring the cure. Therefore, if you are tired, sluggish, and your feet and hands are cold and clammy, and nervousness overwhelms you by sleeplessness, irritable temper, and your heart flutters while dizziness and trembling seize you at times, you may ward off serious consequences and become full of vigor, red blood and health for every vital organ of your body. Mr. J. W. Riggs of R. R. No. 3, Fort Worth, Texas, writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find them to be good in every way for an old man of 60." F. W. Darbeau, 1327 Inca Street, Denver, Colo., writes: "I have taken one package of Cadomene and it has put me on my feet and I feel fine."

Cadomene builds up nerves and bodily vigor. All druggists.—Adv.

it for its part in winning the war. At Portland, Oregon, he said: "Organized labor has been libeled by reports that its Americanism is unsound and that its ranks are soil for the propagandist. It is not so. The laboring people stood behind the government during the war and they will stand by it again."

Growing former-soldier and business man's support for General Pershing makes it appear that his candidacy is based upon a more solid foundation than that of any other republican entry. Mark W. Woods, of Lincoln, Neb., Pershing's manager, today declared that the general will have more pledged delegates at Chicago than any other man.

Indications are that Attorney General Palmer will have the fifty-eight Illinois delegates at the San Francisco convention. Palmer has created close association with democratic organizations in Illinois, and he brought cheer to democratic hearts in Chicago last week when he very emphatically said in his address to Iriquois club members: "We are going to win the election in November."

Present indications are that Mr. Palmer will have Illinois and Pennsylvania on the first ballot, with a few scattering delegates from other states.

The candidacy of Governor Cox has progressed far enough to make it appear he will have Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia certainly, and with good chance of picking up a half dozen other state delegations and scattering votes here and there.

Senator Owen will have Oklahoma as long as he wishes to hold them to their pledge, but it is doubtful if he will be able to pick up any other delegates. Hoover may have California and Oregon.

Administration supporters here say that the Lansing incident will have no effect on the campaign. The erstwhile secretary of state was without political influence and the sort of party friends that make trouble. There is no denying that President Wilson has been severely criticized for discharging Mr. Lansing. Some of the president's closest friends say he "did the right thing in the wrong way."

But the biggest feature of the split is the fact that among the people generally—bankers, business men, lawyers and workmen—the opinion prevails that Mr. Wilson has come back, and come back with a vengeance. His railroad letter appealed to business men and labor alike.

His note to the powers on the Fiume controversy is regarded as evidence of a purpose to remain true to the purpose which inspired him when he went to Paris.

"The old man still has a punch," one politician said today, "and even though many regard it as misdirected in the case of Mr. Lansing, still it is something to avoid."

Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio expects to have the Texas delegation at the Chicago convention. In his speeches at Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio the Buckeye solon expects to meet many party leaders.

CANADA ASKS CONGRESS' AID AGAINST FLOOD

FARGO, N. D., Feb. 21.—Congress will be asked during the first session of 1920 to appoint an international commission to act jointly with Canada in perfecting a drainage and flood control system for the valley of the Red River of the North in both nations.

This action was determined at a conference of representatives from North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota just concluded here. A delegation from the tri-state conference will go to Washington to present the case to congress.

Similar action, aiming at international co-operation, has also been taken at a conference in Winnipeg, attended by representatives from the three states. This conference was arranged with Minister of Public Works Grieron after federal and provincial officials pronounced the details acceptable.

Recognized as one of the greatest garden spots of the world, the valley of the Red river represents a vast acreage of wonderful fertility. Thousands of acres are being broken to plow every year by incoming settlers who are attracted by the rich crops and the low cost of the land. Many thousands more that are now subject to overflow in spring floods can be transformed into productive farms through an adequate system of drainage and flood control, according to a report made by the war department that is already before congress.

The war department has recommended an appropriation for the improvement of the Lacquaire reservoir, on the report of its engineers, headed by Major Strunk. The delegation which will go to Washington will urge the appropriation be made at once.

It is further proposed that an international commission shall be appointed by the governments of the United States and Canada to devise a comprehensive plan for the entire valley. Prominent in the activities of this state are O. E. Blanding, of Harvey, president of the North Dakota Flood Control association; Dean E. J. Babcock, of the University of North Dakota, and Engineer Robinson of the North Dakota Highway commission.

"EVERY HOUR OR SO"

He Had to Arise at Night Because of Kidney and Bladder Ailments.

Tells of the Good Balmwort Tablets Worked.

Mr. W. E. Goff, connected with the D. L. & W. R. R., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For two years I had suffered from disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Distressing pain in the back and hips, depression and extreme nervousness. Also a frequent desire to urinate, many nights every hour or so, I would have to arise, as the pressure in bladder region was unbearable. My ankles swelled and my skin became dry and harsh. After using Balmwort Tablets I noticed relief and continued taking until now I feel wholly relieved of pain and suffering. I am glad to recommend Balmwort Tablets as a most reliable beneficial medicine."

Y. M. C. A. WORK AHEAD TO COST $21,000,000

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Work to which the Young Men's Christian Association is already committed among American soldiers at home and overseas, and among allied forces in the troubled areas of Europe and Asia, will cost more than $21,000,000, the National War Council announced today.

Recommendations made at a recent joint meeting of the executive and finance committees of the council are to the use of any unexpended balance included continued support of welfare activities among American forces, and among forces of the allies "beyond 1920 if the seriously unsettled conditions occasioned by the war continue."

A reserve fund for Y. M. C. A. service in any "grave national emergency" to be held for at least two years, was urged.

Continuance of the educational program for former service men and study of the needs of wounded veterans now receiving vocational training were advocated.

It was recommended that use of approximately $500,000, "the total amount that now seems to have accrued in the operation of the canteen" be made for the benefit of former service men. This should be accomplished, the committee said, either through an appropriation direct to the American Legion, or to the relief of incapacitated veterans, or to such other purposes for the benefit of former service men as may be agreed upon between officers of the council and those of the legion. In this connection, it was pointed out that the canteen fund is larger than anticipated because of cancellation by the American and French governments of charges aggregating $2,500,000 for which the organization had maintained a reserve fund.

More money than was anticipated for all of the work is available, it was shown, because the demobilization of military and naval forces was more rapid than expected; the government took over the association's educational work shortly after the armistice was signed, assuming the support of about 460 association workers and reimbursing the organization for a large amount spent for text books; the French government remitted the large item of railway transportation; and the American government remitted freight charges on transports and American railways in France. Charge for certain large items, such as oil and gasoline used in motor transport also were cancelled.

An approximate unappropriated balance of $17,000,000 was shown in the financial statement covering the council's activities from its organization in April, 1917, to Jan. 1 of this year, made public simultaneously with the joint committee's recommendations. William Sloane, chairman of the council, reported that the council had received a total of $161,722,642 from campaigns and other sources in this period. A total of $38,809,642 was spent on soldiers, sailors and marines in the United States, and the amount for those overseas, less income from salvage operations and the operations of the post exchange was $52,382,736.03. The sum spent in service of the allied armies and prisoners of war was $19,782,192 and other expenses involving the work both at home and overseas, such as training and selecting secretaries, and general activities expenses aggregated more than $7,000,000.

Mr. Sloane emphasized the success of the organization's salvage operations, total receipts from which up to December 31 last were more than $5,000,000.

Salvage operations overseas were exceptionally successful. Sale of motor transport, and that the market was overstocked with cars not in running condition. So a plant was organized for rebuilding cars, and 300 French mechanics employed, with fifty American Y. M. C. A. secretaries who were experts in motor mechanics acting as executives. Here approximately fifty rebuilt cars a week were turned out, and these were disposed of rapidly at excellent prices. Much the same procedure was followed in the reconstruction of pianos, talking machines, organs and other articles.

WHERE FOXES WORTH THEIR WEIGHT IN GOLD ARE RAISED

Looking "down the avenue" at the Rosebank furs farm. Animals at both sides of the picture are being fed. Fabulous profits are being made by those who know the game—in the raising of silver foxes. Each silver fox pelt sells for $200 to $2,500. The picture above shows a portion of the Rosebank furs farm, Prince Edward's island, the center of the silver fox industry. The animals are under constant care and are fed the choicest food. Their pens are constructed on the latest scientific principals.

More than 500,000 francs were realized from the sale of theatrical materials, including 13,000 costumes which had been used in traveling soldier shows. At first these goods seemed to have little if any salvage value.

LIGHTWEIGHT KING OF AUSTRALIA SET FOR BOUTS IN U. S.

Lew Edwards.

Lew Edwards, lightweight champion of Australia, recently arrived in the U. S. and, under the management of Tom Andrews, Milwaukee promoter, is seeking bouts with the U. S. lighties in the hope of eventually getting a match with Benny Leonard.

Huts proved the most difficult problem, but many were disposed of at a nominal price to the Belgian government for use as school buildings. Others were used as churches in the devastated areas. Receipts from huts, tents and similar materials to October 31, 1919, amounted to $476,000.

Salvage operations in the United States have been on a much smaller scale. Salvage headquarters were established in New York, and here the stocks returned from overseas, consisting chiefly of athletic goods, for which little sale was found in France, were placed.

Except in Germany and Silecia, the salvage operations overseas virtually have been closed. In the United States they are being continued as fast as materials and supplies are made available.

The result of the post exchange or canteen operations, as shown by the books to October 31, is a "book profit" of $666,553, which was reduced to $508,899 by subsequent adjustments. The report points out that no charge has been made against the canteen, however, for wages or living allowances and expenses of canteen workers, for rent of huts, cost of construction of canteen facilities or for any of the expense at the Paris headquarters office.

The book loss of $1,478,084 in the report published last March is explained by the fact that the difference between that and the present book profit represents adjustments made necessary by government action in relieving welfare organizations of freight charges on transports and American railways in France.

RANGER CLUB REACHING OUT FOR PLAYERS

Jim Galloway already is reaching out for material that, whipped into a fighting team, will carry Ranger's standard into the West Texas league baseball battle this season. He has started dickering for a young pitcher who has shown considerable promise during the last two seasons in the Northwestern league.

Several outfielders are about to put their names on Ranger contracts and Jim is of the opinion that the year will be a bright one for the local pastimers.

Not neglecting to provide for a well maintained park—and what infielder, or outfielder, either, will not testify to the discouragement of playing on an unkempt field—Jim has secured for ground-keeper a veteran of the Texas league, who formerly was guardian of the diamond for the Waco club.

Sunday Mr. Galloway represents Ranger at the league meeting at Mineral Wells. Last preliminary plans for the season will be considered.

The Very Fascinating Style Show Now In Our

GARMENT SECTION

WE are wonderfully well prepared to supply early buyers with the choicest Spring modes in Tailored Suits, Street and Afternoon Dresses, Coats in sports and other styles and all the fascinating Skirt modes. It is a veritable "Style Show" in the Garment Section these days, where the new attire for Spring is daily making its appearance.

Taffeta Frocks and Other Newest Dresses

Most prominent for the new season is the Frock of Taffeta, and the styles we are showing are of a most alluring nature. The new short and three-quarter length sleeves, the masses of pleats and frills—the many that are richly embroidered—bespeaks the latest style departures.

Georgette DRESSES

Smart Georgette Dresses, also Georgette combined with Taffetas and Satins, trimmed with the new Crystal and Colored Beads, also rich and rare creations in Tricolette Dresses—wonderful colorings—here in variety.

The styles are of a most distinctive type—the most exclusive ideas in Dresses for smart afternoon wear. We invite an early inspection.

SPRING SUITS—Tailored Suits in Eton Models, others Ripple Coats, Straight-Line and Box Coats—beautiful garments made of fine Serges, of the stylish Tricoline, Poiret Twill and other rich Spring fabrics.

The past week we received some real innovations in Three-Piece Suits.

MEN SHOULD SPEND MORE ON RAIMENT

LADY BEECHAM.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Should a husband spend more or less than his wife on clothes?

Prominent London women believe women should spend less, while the opinion among British men is divided. Lady Beecham, wife of the opera producer, says a wife should spend less, because she has the opportunity of making many pretty articles of clothing for herself.

"There are few men today who spend enough on clothes," says Lady Beecham. "Though all nature loves brightness, the average man is a drab looking object. Men are often responsible for some of the most beautiful creations in feminine attire. I believe it to be really urgent that they should spend more money on their clothes and dress better and more picturesquely."

The Marchioness of Townshend believes women should not spend so much on dress, for "far too many of them depend entirely on their clothes to provide their attractiveness instead of upon character. A husband should spend no more than to insure his being neat. This should also be the wife's standard."

Miss Bessie Ascoug, fashion artist, says a man should spend at least as much as a woman on clothes because a woman can "effect many little economies in dress and not sacrifice anything in appearance. But let a man even begin to economize on his clothes and tell-tale signs of drabness appear."

Sir Alfred Yoo, M. P., is envious, saying: "Women have many more virtues than man. Therefore they deserve to be better decorated."

George R. Sims, author, says a husband is justified in spending more for clothes than his wife, who stays at home more.

"A woman," he says, "can and does knit a jumper. But a husband cannot interview clients and walk about in an overcoat made by himself. Yet every time the fashion changes the husband pays the piper to please his wife. Fashions are tyrannical, and a woman's dress bills constant—and altogether too heavy—as compared with a man's. A man shows much better taste in dress than a woman, whose bills are heavy because she dresses to annoy female acquaintances."

Charles Garvice, another author, declares any woman is entitled to spend more on clothes than her husband.

"A perfectly just division," Garvice points out, "would allow a wife at least twice as much money. Why? Because dress is a matter of self-respect to her. She must look well to do her husband credit. The husband should be well dressed because that is an indication of success. But he does not need to set as high a standard as his wife. All clothes have gone up in price, but women's clothes have advanced more than men's."

Lord Curzon, former foreign secretary, and past mayor of London, says: "I spend very little on dress. I confined women of today spend far too much. Men, I hope, will never take the extravagance of women-folk as a standard."

UNITED STATES TAKES GERMAN PLACE ON SEAS
BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 29.—Germany which, before the war, was second only to England as a purchaser of Argentine products, is beginning to resume her trade with Argentina. Exporters say the prospects are that Germany's business with this country will be revived on even a larger scale than before the war as soon as she can get enough ships. Dutch ships are carrying to Germany full cargoes of Argentine's wool and hides.

Meantime the United States has succeeded to the position formerly held by Germany in the Argentine trade, according to port statistics. "Argentina will have three great clients, England, the United States and Germany," says a financial writer. "Argentine exporters will enjoy the race."

FT. STOCKTON HAS NO WORRY ABOUT WATER

Special to The Times.

PORT STOCKTON, Feb. 21.—Way down here where the annual precipitation is only 15.50 inches per annum, Fort Stockton, the largest town between San Angelo and Alpine, a distance of 232 miles, does not have to sit up nights solving a water famine. The Comanche springs, among the most remarkable in the southwest, make a daily flow of 55,000,000 gallons, or 20,975,000,000 gallons a year. The springs never vary in flow. This is a sufficient quantity for any city in Texas. The water is suitable for all purposes. The research department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce recently estimated that 8,000 acres of land contiguous to Fort Stockton is being irrigated. Springs on the Leon near here augment the available supply for irrigation.

While the precipitation here is not dependable, Fort Stockton people are resorting to irrigation in increasing numbers until this section is becoming quite a fruit, alfalfa and truck region. The city is approximately thirty miles from the celebrated irrigation district of the Pecos river. Thousands of acres have been put into cultivation. It will be only a short distance from the large territory which will be irrigated from the Red Bluff project which Pecos, Zimmerman, Bucan Vista and other towns in the Pecos valley expect to share in.

Port Stockton has made rapid strides in the last two years. Probably not at any time in the past has there been such an influx of people, who have been attracted by the exceptional water supply, the virgin soil, prospects for irrigation, the splendid climate and altitude of 3,052 feet. Many opportunities are open here for men of stamina and progress. From here to Alpine, a distance of about seventy miles, the country rises until it reaches an elevation of 4,481 feet above the sea. Practically none of that stretch has been utilized for farming purposes, though some cattle are run on it.

Fifteen wells are being drilled within in a radius of thirty miles of this place, many of them having gone deep enough to warrant the belief that oil in paying quantities will be found in a short time. Drilling has proceeded here in a haphazard manner for the last three years.

ALLIES HARSH IN ATTITUDE TOWARD HUN

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Professor John Maynard Keynes, of Cambridge university, who acted as official representative of the British treasury at the peace conference at Versailles and sat for a time in the Supreme Economic Conference at Paris, asserts that the terms imposed upon Germany are so heavy as to be impossible of fulfillment. He declares in a book he has written on "The Economic Consequences of the Peace" that attempts to carry out the peace terms will result in dire consequences to all Europe and, indeed, to all the world. Out of the spirit of revenge, he writes, the Allies have gone dead against their own interests, are killing the goose that laid the golden egg and are endangering their own existence.

In demanding great quantities of German coal, he says, the Allies are in the position of demanding bread from a baker and at the same time taking his flour away from him; for Germany by means of her coal, can promote industries with which to pay her indebtedness to the world.

EDHOBBY, A New Railroad Town

On the main line of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Ft. Worth Railroad, where the great Ranger pool meets the wonderful Hog Creek territory Will be Opened MARCH 1st

EDWIN HOBBY

Treasurer and Director of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad, for whom the new town of Edhobby was named. He is a brother of Gov. William P. Hobby of Texas and is one of the most widely known and popular bankers in Texas, being Vice-president and Cashier of the Security National Bank of Dallas.

EDHOBBY is now the center of production in the northern extension of the Hogg Creek Oil Field. It is surrounded by drilling wells, and within the past thirty days a number of big producers have proven the territory in every direction. It is between the big wells on the Anderson land, which is a mile and a half south of the town, and the Hogg Creek Jr. well, which is two miles east of the town. It is just south of the new well of the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company on the Garner land, and every indication points to the development here of a pool equal to the Ranger pool or the Hogg Creek pool, which lie on either side of this town.

Edhobby is twelve miles south of Ranger and eight miles north of Jakehamon. It is the first town on the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad to be served by trains. Tracklaying on this new railroad began at Ranger February 10, proceeding at the rate of a mile a day southward. Trains will be operating into Edhobby before the date of the opening of the town unless construction is prevented by a long period of bad weather. The railroad will probably be operating to its southern terminus at Dublin before the last of April.

The townsite of Edhobby was selected by Jake L. Hamon, who, with Frank Kell, is building the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad, as the best possible site for a center of the oil field business—of the hauling and industries incident and necessary to a great oil field—in view of the trend of production and the structural characteristics of the country. Early favorable reports by geologists on the territory adjacent to Edhobby have been amply proven by tests that have recently been drilled, and the townsite is much nearer the present heaviest production in the southeastern part of Eastland county than any other railroad town.

Edhobby is the best place for profitable investment in town property now open to the people of this marvelously profitable oil region. It is an opportunity for business and industrial activity such as is seldom found by the most sapient seeker after such infrequent conditions—where a dollar multiplies in increased values over night and business comes clamoring to yield profits beyond the dreams of the men in settled and sedate communities. The investor in this new railroad town in the Eastland county oil fields stands to make money according to the best records of successful city investments—and many of the world's largest fortunes have been made from investments in city real estate and its increase in values.

Nobody who has seen the advance in values and observed the prosperity of business in the older oil field towns of Texas, where men have gone into business with small capital and retired with fortunes in less than two years, will fail to see the opportunity that is presented in the new railroad town of Edhobby that has been placed and designed to afford every facility for reaping profits of many hundreds percent on any sized investment in lots or in business enterprises. Edhobby is now the railroad center for a great oil field. It is a present opportunity of superlative merit that offers immediate action and continuing profits—for its setting is an enduring oil

A Financier's Opinion

Edwin Hobby, Vice-president and Cashier of the Security National Bank of Dallas, one of the largest banks in Texas, says:

"I believe the new town of Edhobby will be a greater town than Ranger. It is situated in every way to make a great oil fields center. The territory on all sides of the town promises to become a great oil pool. Proven territory adjacent to the townsite is ample to make it a metropolis of the fields. It enjoys the facilities of the new railroad that is being built to serve the oil fields, and is the first town on the new railroad to receive the benefits of that transportation. I have seen many new towns, not a few of them that have become great centers, but I can not gaze upon the development work now under way in the Edhobby territory and see the results of it in oil produced without being convinced that here is the best new town that has ever had its start under the most favorable conditions of a great wealth-producing environment. It will be the supply and industrial center for one of the greatest oil fields in the world."

field and is attracting the millions of the world and producing millions of profits. It is the clearing house and trade center for an empire of wealth.

Plats of Edhobby will be ready at the townsite on the day of the opening. They will bear the printed prices of all of the lots, and these prices are fixed. The sale of lots will begin March 1 and will continue from day to day at the office of Hamon & Kell on the townsite. Thirty per cent of the purchase price of the lots is payable at the time of sale. The remainder is payable in seven equal monthly installments.

SUB-DEB ELOPES WITH MAN FAMILY SNUBBED AT PARTY

Miss Josephine Widener. A few hours before she was to be presented to society, Miss Josephine Widener, affectionately known in Philadelphia society as "Fifi," eloped to Knoxville, Tenn., with Carter R. Leidy and was married to him there, according to dispatches. The Widener family had failed to invite Leidy to the coming-out ball, it is said. The bride is seventeen and prominent in society athletic circles.

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, etc.
I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say, C-U-R-E-D, and NOT merely patched up to return again. Remember, I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting 12 years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured, all I ask is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TODAY, I will send you a Free Trial of mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

ABILENE TO IMPOUND FIVE BILLION GALLONS FOR WATER SUPPLY

Special to The Times. ABILENE, Feb. 21.—The underground flow of water in Elm Fork of the Brazos at the Abilene lake dam to impound five billion gallons of water for the city and for irrigation, has been estimated at 200,000 gallons a day, sufficient to furnish the domestic needs of Abilene. The dam being built by the city has been constructed so as to catch this underground flow, says the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, so as to keep the immense lake always filled. The lake will be finished this fall and will be the largest body of water in West Texas. It will be fed by springs and floodwater from a territory of sixty-four square miles, scantily populated and free from polluting objects.

VIENNA, Feb. 21.—A court here has just acquitted a man named Breuer who was hanged in 1914 after conviction on a charge of communicating with the enemy. After the armistice, his relatives demanded that the case be reopened on the ground that the woman who accused him was hysterical and that the affliction has since become acute.

W. T. C. OF C. ASKS POSTOFFICE AID FOR NEWSPAPERS

Special to The Times. STAMFORD, Feb. 21.—Newspaper publishers and subscribers have had a hard row to hoe in West Texas for several months, due to delayed paper deliveries at postoffices. Acting on the complaint of a number of dailies, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been promised that an immediate investigation will be made by the postoffice department by the detailing of an inspector to the various towns. The dailies have been particularly hard hit by failure of postoffices to put up Sunday papers until Monday. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce considers the early delivery of daily papers almost as necessary as the putting up of important letters.

WORD "HUNGARY" BANNED.

By Associated Press. PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 21.—The minister of education has prohibited the use in this country of the word "Hungary." He argues that as a political unity, the group of races that once were governed under that name has ceased. Hereafter it is to be called here "Magyar" or "Magyar Land."

Karl Payer. Karl Payer holds the important post of minister of safety in the cabinet of the Hungarian government, which has been recognized by the allies.

POPULAR ENGLISH DANCERS MAY HELP ENTERTAIN U. S.

Mme. Karina, sitting, and her dancers.

Mme. Karina may bring her classic dancers to the United States in the near future, according to reports. The dancers are now music hall favorites in England and on the European continent. They have been on an extensive tour of Europe and have won wonderful success and favor. American managers are now bidding for the services of the dainty misses who are shown above with Mme. Karina. The dances given by the troupe are said to differ from the set ballet dances taught by the Russian artists and have a more general popular appeal for theater goers.

Most Caricatured Man in World During Spanish-American War, Still Active; Kindly and Generous at Home

MADRID, Feb. 21.—General Valerino Weyler, who during the Spanish-American war was the most caricatured and headlined man in the United States, is still, despite his 90 years and the serious illness that he suffered last year, one of the most active and energetic men in Spain.

His automobile, taking him from his residence near the Royal Palace, across the city to the ministry of war where he, as chief of the general staff, presides over the daily sessions of that body, is invariably the first to be seen on the streets of late-rising Madrid. With the little figure in a worn uniform, or later in the year wrapped in a great coat, the car makes a quick dash through the empty streets bringing the aged captain-general to his office long before his younger, but more active colleagues.

Being a captain-general, General Weyler cannot be retired according to Spanish military law, having in this respect one contemporary, the aged Captain-General Primo Rivera. Since the Spanish-American war Weyler has held many offices in Spain and even now, is always called into consultation by the king and government in times of crisis or impending crisis.

As chief of the general staff during the world war, he saw to it that the army was kept up to strength in case of emergency and that the arsenals were full, so that if Spain should be drawn in, she would not be found unprepared.

General Weyler pays very strict attention to his work as a senator, and he is one of the most regular attendants at the sessions of that body, defending always the prestige of the monarchy, his country and the army.

Between the morning at the war office and the afternoon in the senate, the general finds time for a ride through the park of Madrid, or when the senate is not in session, for a longer trot over the Casa De Campo, near the city. Mounted on a huge charger, whereupon his little figure appears tinier than ever, still in his worn uniform, the general goes forth unattended, but sitting majestically, with his arm thrown back as though holding a field-marshal's baton, or sitting to a sculptor.

This little man, whom all Spain respects, saved a good deal of money while doing duty in Cuba and the Philippines, which he invested in Madrid residential property and, with his well rented residences and apartment houses, the general is now a wealthy man. He lives in one of his own houses with several of his sons, he is separated from his wife, and within these four walls he is a gentle and kindly old man, dropping altogether the roll of the strict disciplinarian, which he is when on official duty, and dispensing charity with a liberal hand. He brushes aside criticism and even ridicule. The newspapers sometimes caricature him in costumes of 40 or more years ago, which he sometimes wears. His sons resent this and have often threatened to "call out the authors," but the general who is credited with having fought many duels in his

"SUPERMAN" DIRECTED GERMAN ZEPPELIN RAIDS

By Associated Press
LONDON, Feb. 21.—Captain H. J. Round said the other day that British naval intelligence operators would like to meet the "one operator who in the war controlled German Zeppelins and warships." They imagined, he said, it was one particular man who was a super-operator. On several occasions, with nine or ten Zeppelins in a raid, all frantically communicating with home for bearings, the wireless got into a terrible tangle. At that moment, said Captain Round, the "superman" would arrive, take control and in a twinkling all would be in order.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY D. M. BANGS.

Leo Dietrichstein has acquired the American rights to Eugene Brieux' play, "Les Americains Chez Nous."

The vehicle for Theda Bara's stage debut is "The Blue Flame," which is a Woods production.

Booth Tarkington has achieved his third play of the present season. The latest in "Poldekkin," with George Arliss as the star.

Manager Palmer of the Liberty theatre has his new pipe organ now installed. More good music for theatre goers here.

Work started Saturday on the new stage at the Hippodrome theatre. Things are happening around that place now. Everyone is a moving actor.

The pipe organ at the Hippodrome has been repaired this week by an expert from Dallas and is now furnishing music for the first time in months.

Barney Bernard has played the role of Abe Potash more than two thousand times. He established his record recently in "His Honor, Abe Potash."

Holbrook Blinn and Mary Nash are appearing in "Man and Woman" under the Brady management. It is expected that this play will be given a metropolitan showing in the near future.

The Coburns have terminated their careers as stars of "The Better Ole" after having played it for nearly a year and a half without stopping. They will now produce a musical comedy, "Three Showers," with Ann Wheaton as the star.

The greatest long-run record ever made outside of New York or Chicago in this country has been established by "Civilian Clothes" in Los Angeles. It closed recently after having played thirty-three weeks.

H. S. Cole of the Lone Star theatre has just finished booking some very fine comedies, which assure his patrons of many a good laugh. How do they sound? All booked for one theatre: Arbuckle, Sennett, St. John, De Haven, Troux, Harold Lloyd, Cuckoo, Christy and other comedies including some of the best cartoonist work.

Billie Burke has closed in "Caesar's Wife" and is making more pictures. She will revive "The School for Scandal" next month.

Last Tuesday the contractors finished laying the cement floor in the Hippodrome theatre. This improvement gives a cleaner aspect to the theatre and makes it more sanitary. This is just the beginning of the new $75,000 theatre that is going up on the present site. The next step that Manager Olive has contracted for is rebuilding the stage. When finished the building will be fireproof throughout, making it one of the finest theatres in the state.

HE GOT PAID FOR BOSSING HIS WIFE

All he has to do is boss his wife! Who? Allen Holubar, the genius who has just completed what critics proclaim "the latest masterpiece," "The Gorgeous Canary." One of the closest corporations in the motion picture field is that formed by Dorothy Phillips and Allen Holubar (the lucky one). Not only are they co-workers in the industry but they are husband and wife, seven years ago they met when they were both playing in Henry W. Savage's production "Everywoman."

Holubar is the director of the combine—Dorothy Phillips the star. He states there is no situation too big or dramatic for his productions because Miss Phillips mounts to the highest of dramatic perfection in whatever requirement is put before her.

She, on the other hand, can safely undertake any dramatic expression because she knows that Holubar will be encouraging her when the big moment comes. Their joint efforts have resulted in such masterpieces of the silent drama as "The Heart of Humanity," "The Right to Happiness," and their latest production, "The Gorgeous Canary."

No longer did he treat you with gentle consideration and whisper loving words into your ear; he was gruff and oppressive, and sharp words were all he uttered. What would you do? How would you treat him? Would your love for him still remain?

Cattle thieves, organized into a powerful band that had grown rich and defiant through long operation—thieves whose word was law throughout a wide district—who secretly controlled the government of cities and towns—who banished their enemies and terrorized decent citizens—such is the basis of one of the most absorbing photoplays ever produced.

"Fierce, implacable, steeled to any outcome, quick like a panther, sombre as death."—From Zane Grey's novel, "The Lone Star Ranger."

Into this action comes a man sworn to break up lawlessness and bring the leaders to justice. Success is within his grasp when he finds the leader of the gang is the father of the girl he loves. It's a situation to try the soul of the bravest man, but The Lone Star Ranger meets it as only a hero could.

ity, has been perfected by Eric von Stroheim, a Los Angeles motion picture director.

At first sight a photodramatic scene made by pastelography appears to be slightly out of focus. The impression, however, is set aside after the first few feet of film have been run off. The effect is that of a soft diffusion, without the murky fuzziness that makes some of the ultra-futurist photodramas so difficult for the eyes to follow.

Eric von Stroheim worked out his system of pastelography in collaboration with Ben Reynolds, the cameraman who filmed "The Devil's Ranskey," which Stroheim has just finished at Universal City.

The process has not been divulged by the inventors for public information.

THIS BOY A STAR AT AGE OF SEVEN

While many of us of supposed mature age are spending several hours a day wishing we were screen stars little Benny Alexander, seven, is adding stellar productions to the list of "Alexander productions." His latest appearance before the camera was in "The Triflers," A Universal special.

At the age of seven, Benny Alexander is regarded as a finished actor, able to depict the delicate shades of emotion with the accuracy of a veteran of the drama.

Benny has been before the motion picture camera for three years. At the age of five, he was noticed by George Seigmann, the man who recently directed "The Trembling Hour," at Universal City.

Some days later, D. W. Griffith asked Seigmann if he knew where he could find a clever little kid player about five years old. Mr. Seigmann suggested that Benny be given a trial. So capably did the little fellow depict a minor role that he was given an important part in "Hearts of the World."

Through such productions as "The Turn in the Road" in which he was featured; in "The Better Wife," with Clara Kimball Young; "The White Heather" and "Tangled Threads," he achieved screen reputation that resulted in his being called to Universal City to appear in "The Triflers."

LIBERTY.

Danger. Look with No Longing Eyes at "Other Men's Wives."

That it is a dangerous thing to look with longing eyes on other men's wives, is the moral brought out in Thomas H. Ince's latest Paramount picture, "Other Men's Wives," in which Dorothy Dalton is starred with a remarkably strong cast supporting her.

The story concerns a young girl in desperate circumstances who is used by a designing man as a cat's paw to scratch the domestic felicity of another man's wife. He who disdains the sanctity of the home is in love with the creed that all is fair in love. The husband is above reproach and the only hope or divorce grounds is to catch him in some compromising position.

The young girl, played by Dorothy Dalton, is used for this purpose. In the dramatic development it turns out her character is too strong and she crosses the intrigue. The crisis revolutionizes her own life and wins for her the respect of an honorable man that later develops into a true love.

The picture will be shown at the Liberty commencing today. It was directed by Victor L. Schertzinger, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. In the supporting cast are Forrest Stanley, H. H. Herbert, Del Tuone, Elsie Larimer and Hal Clements.

SAN SOCKS, SALT AND PEPPER, HIS LONG-LIFE RECIPE

Henry Bressler displaying his sockless, canvas-clad foot.

Henry Bressler of Cincinnati, who at seventy-five, says he feels like a young man of twenty-five, says that if man will discard socks, underclothes and all tight clothing, eliminate salt, pepper, meat and sweets from his food and drink very little water he can live to be 150 years old, Henry expects to live that long.

LONE STAR.

Wallace Reid Scores in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A."

Wallace Reid has injected his breezy personality into another screen romantic comedy with the usual pleasing results. This time it is "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." adapted from the stage play in which Douglas Fairbanks appeared on Broadway. The picture is being shown at the Lone Star theatre today.

There are several good reasons for the increasing popularity which this young star is winning, and all of them are in his latest film. According to the story, he and Harrison Ford are two law clerks, not too well heeled with money, who are making an economical tour of Europe in a rented automobile. Down to their last five-franc note, Wallie risks it all at Monte Carlo and breaks the bank, intending to visit Venice with their wealth, they are misdirected to the little kingdom of Bovinia. Here Wallace Reid follows his breeze-blown cap over a wall and meets the Princess Irma.

The country is in the throes of a revolution, which is right to the liking of the star. By a lavish display of greenbacks and a few honeyed words he quells the revolt, then proceeds to turn the kingdom topsy-turvy, infecting American pep and business methods until a year later finds Bovinia a thriving land. Thereupon the old king decides it is time to discard aristocracy altogether and proclaims the country a republic. So Wallie's charmer, the princess, becomes merely a Miss and they are free to marry.

It is a wholesome spirited kind of fun that Wallace Reid dispenses. He and Harrison Ford, an accomplished comedian on his own hook, make an excellent "jazz duo." They proved it in the previous Reid release, "The Lottery Man." In his new film they reveal a new and even funnier bag of tricks. The plot is slender, of course, but one is too fascinated with the agility and debonair love-making of the pleasing Mr. Reid to be disturbed about that. Besides the story is an excellent antidote to the H. C. of L., strikes and other modern brain-whirlers.

The funny part of it is that, though you know the story is quite possible, the pepful and systematic manner in which Wallace Reid is about converting the little medieval kingdom to American methods almost convince you that he can do it. At any rate, you must pardon a slight expansion of the chest at even the slightest exploit of your fellow-countryman.

Currier heal the cast of the Screen Classics, Inc., all-star special photograph, "Should a Woman Tell?" from the story by Finis Fox, which will be shown at the Lamb theatre today.

As the title implies, the picture is a dramatic depiction of the struggle within a woman's heart between her desire to confess her whole past to the man she loves and her fear that such confession may cost her his adoration. The heroine of the story is Meta Maxon, a fisher girl in a little village on the Massachusetts seacoast, transplanted by circumstances seemingly kindly enough at first.

What occurs after her introduction to Boston society under the sponsorship of Miss Clarissa Sedgwick constitutes the item of Meta's past of which she dare not speak later to the man she is to marry, yet which she feels she must not conceal in fairness to him.

Direction of "Should a Woman Tell?" was done by John E. Ince, the excellent photography by Sol Polito, and unusual artistic effects have been achieved by his co-operation with the special art director, Amos Myers. The production was supervised in entirety and personally by Maxwell Karger, director general of Screen Classics, Inc.

The setting of the piece for the most part is in the village where Meta was born and lived until the advent of the Bostonian society woman, who takes an immediate fancy to the young girl and forthwith determines to do all within her power to improve her condition in life. This Miss Sedgwick accomplishes by sending Meta to a fashionable finishing school and later bringing her out as she would have her own daughter. This precedes the incident which later was to bring to the girl the necessity of deciding her terrific soul problem.

QUEEN.

Regular Indian Fight in Fairbanks Picture, "The Lamb."

No wonder that Douglas Fairbanks bowls over a whole band of Yaqui Indians in a real fight which furnishes one of the thrills in the Triangle play, "The Lab." He learned to fight back in 1902, when with three friends he "embarked" for Europe as hay-steward on a Leyland Line cattleboat. Stokers and cabinmen were the raff of the world, and anything started a battle royal. After seeing "The Lamb" at the Queen theatre today one has to admit that the actor learned his lessons well.

While these two society leaders from Detroit are sunning themselves on the warm sand at Palm Beach news dispatches in papers to be purchased at the beach tell of more snow and storms for their home city. The unusually severe winter has made the southern pleasure resorts doubly alluring this season, managers report.

Olive Thomas Stars in "The Spite Bride."

Beautiful Olive Thomas is seen at the Hippodrome theatre this week in "The Spite Bride," a drama of youthful impulse, produced by Selznick Pictures corporation. Never has Miss Thomas looked more beautiful, and never was she cast in a better role than that of Tessa Doyle, one of the partners of the Dennis and Doyle dancing "sisters."

Tessa was a high type of show girl—straight, sweet and clean. When Rodney Dolson saw her he immediately decided that she was the girl for his friend, Billy Swayne, to marry. God had impressed Billy with the fact that he must get married—to spite Millicent Lee, the girl to whom Billy had been engaged and who had jilted him, so that she could not get out her publicity first. Rod's idea was his: marry the girl, hand her a thousand dollars and then give her a trip to Reno.

Billy, a scion of one of New York's oldest families, married the girl, but when he proceeded to give her the thousand, he met trouble. Trixie, Tessa's astute little partner, had sized him up and had come to the conclusion that he could afford to pay more. Billy refuses to be blackmailed and she and Rodney abduct the girls and take them to his yacht, which catches fire the next day and the entire party is forced to take to the life boat. They are picked up by a tramp steamer bound for Cuba a couple of hours later. The captain falls in love with Tessa and gives her a card to his mother in case she ever needs a friend. A year later Tessa is knocked down by a truck and the card is found in her purse. How she once more meets the captain and later her husband and his mother, brings this delightful picture full of thrills and action to a happy but unexpected ending. Charles Giblyn directed directed and a fine supporting cast is headed by Robert Ellis, who was leading man in "Upstairs and Down."

GOOD ROADS AND TRADE.

The notion that the building of good highways in Eastland and Stephens counties and the completion of the Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth railroad, affording direct access to the many small towns and settlements of the rich oil regions surrounding this city, will "take people out of Ranger" is a fallacy. An examination into the question leads to the contrary belief.

Good roads and better railroad facilities will mean that some of the retail trade now enjoyed by merchant of this city will go to smaller towns. People who now come here from Cad do and Breckenridge and Desdemona to do their trading because they have to come here anyhow for oil well supplies and other needed things, will do some of their trading at smaller points in the fields.

But, on the other hand, the amount of traffic into Ranger will be increased rather than diminished. Good roads lead people to travel. Thousands of persons who now make the trip to Ranger only when called by urgent business will come here for pleasure, or to buy things which cannot be secured in smaller towns. A careful observer can measure the rise or fall in trade here by the condition of the roads. Two weeks of pretty weather will cause every road leading into town to be jammed with traffic.

The logical future of this city is as a wholesale and jobbing center. Every town established in the oil fields surrounding Ranger will contribute its quota of trade to the city, once it secures a sufficient number of wholesale houses.

The growth of Ranger has helped Fort Worth to build, because Ranger is a "feeder" to Fort Worth. In the same manner the growth of smaller towns in this region will be of direct benefit to this city.

Traffic makes a town. The amount of traffic here now taxes the railroad and the highways to capacity. With another railroad and permanent highways, the volume of traffic passing through Ranger will be doubled and doubled again.

This city is already headquarters for oil well supplies, for grain and feed houses, and for wholesale grocery establishments. If the right opportunities are offered by citizens, many other wholesale establishments will locate here.

Ranger should be the greatest wholesale and jobbing center between Fort Worth and El Paso. The next two years may see it the rival of Fort Worth, in this respect.

POSTOFFICE AND FEDERAL BUILDING.

Settlement of the question of a new site for the Ranger postoffice, a question that has been in abeyance for several weeks, promises a more speedy betterment of the service than had been in sight since the proposed change was placed in stalemate by inability to agree upon terms of the contract. These difficulties have been cleared away.

With the construction of the proposed building, which will be started immediately, difficulties that have made efficient service impossible will be removed and the Ranger office given a chance to give Ranger patrons service from a building that in size and equipment will be adequate to the city's needs.

This is the most immediate remedial action that could be taken. It has been a question, for many weeks, of more room, of adequate quarters and an office which could be fitted up with some idea of permanence.

The mistake should not be made, however, of forgetting other ambitions that have been held for Ranger, particularly that of a federal building that will be a permanent home for the postoffice and a concrete expression of the confidence of the city, the city's well-wishers, and the national government hold in the future of Ranger.

The step that has been taken by local city builders to improve the present situation is not one intended to stand in the way of any permanent improvement that can be gained through congress and the postoffice department. Nor should it be held that a continuation of the work to the end of gaining a federal building is not playing fair with the men who are putting their money into the present project.

The move for a federal building, such as Ranger wants and will have, must pass through the elaborate and rather involved channels of governmental and departmental business. It is not a question of a few weeks, or a few months.

Once it is assured, it will be a matter of many months to get under way and completed the type of building that is in mind for Ranger.

LIECHTENSTEIN PERISHING.

International News Service. GENEVA—It is reported from Buchs that the little independent principality of Liechtenstein is perishing economically, as no business is done in the hotels and the principal shops are closed. Nobody accepts Austrian money, and only Swiss money is current.

Emigration is increasing to an alarming degree, and sleeping sickness has appeared in the capital, where much misery prevails. Prince Edward of Liechtenstein has arrived at Berne in order to arrange an economic treaty with Switzerland in the hope of saving the principality from utter ruin.

With Associated Press, International News Service, Central Press association and other reliable, speedy and newsy services, the Times furnishes its readers with the news that's worth reading, while it is news.

International News Service. LONACONING, Md.—John Broadbeck, a miner, had the thrilling experience of rolling 600 feet down the mountainside while on his way to work. He escaped with a couple of fractured ribs and bruises. Broadbeck slipped from the path and slid on the ice which coated Big Vein mountain. He landed against the company stable.

ONIONS AND GARLIC A CURE FOR INFLUENZA

International News Service. AKRON, Ohio—"It will not get the flu if he eats this."

This was the comment made by a Slovak woman when she called at the county jail and left a large package for one of the prisoners. Because of the epidemic of grip, flu and hard colds among the prisoners she was not permitted to see her imprisoned relative.

The package contained onions, garlic and cooked meat, seasoned with garlic.

This incident has recalled to mind the claim that when an epidemic or plague raged through England in the sixteenth century, thousands dying in every locality, the Jews, as a rule, escaped.

It developed that the disease was ward off by the Jews using onions and garlic freely.

It is claimed that the juices of the onion and garlic stimulate the body and aid digestion, enabling one to ward off disease germs.

Just for Me and Mary and Among the Whispering Pines are both songs of meory, one going back to Mary and her livers listening to the wedding chimes and the other to a little spot of ivy among the whispering pines where a first love lies waiting. ## Abilene Railroad To Cross Plains Talked Again

Special to The Times.
ABILENE, Feb. 21.—Bringing in of the Vestal well three miles north of Cross Plains has revived talk in Abilene of a railroad from Abilene to Cross Plains to connect at the latter place with the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad's spur.
This road has been under consideration for several years, and now that the oil field has been moved to within thirty-five miles of Abilene, the agitation for it is taking on new life. It is believed that the line could be entirely financed in Abilene, and it is probable some definite action will be taken at an early date.
It is understood here the Katy may be considering such a line, running from Cross Plains through Abilene to Rotan to connect with its Texas Central property, with a possibility that the road would be continued on to the Pacific Coast.

ABILENE LOT BRINGS $15,000 FROM JAMES ET AL.
Special to The Times.
ABILENE, Feb. 21.—Fifteen thousand dollars was the price paid by Henry James and associates for a lot facing fifty feet on Cypress street joining two lots bought by the same parties a week ago from Ed S. Hughes for $45,000. The third lot was bought from Henry Sayles.
All three lots are vacant and the price of $60,000 is one of the largest ever paid in West Texas for bare lots. The property, however, is considered among the most valuable in town.

Do the young folks want to dance? All right—here's the newest fox-trot. Sing?—here's the song that's got all Broadway humming. Learn?—all opera opens its pages.

Not mere talking-machine music, mind you! But RE-CREATED music! The very music which, given at some notable concert, draws people miles through any weather. The New Edison gives the life, the spirit, the enthusiasm, the soul of the music, gives you everything the living artist can give, excepting his physical presence.

If you'll stop in for a few minutes, we'll show you what a New Edison really is, and how you can have it sent right out to your home.

EASTLAND HAS GROWN TO CITY OF 12,000 IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS AND IS CONTINUING TO EXPAND

By S. L. BAGBY.
 EASTLAND, Feb. 22.—Eighteen months ago Eastland had a population of about 900; today it has a permanent population of 12,000.
 More than 1200 new dwelling houses, costing from $2,500 to $25,000, have been built in the last twelve months. Modern flats representing an investment of nearly $500,000 have been built in the last six months. More than 100 dwellings of the best type are under construction now.
 Business houses representing an investment of nearly $2,000,000 were completed in 1919. At this time, new construction representing an investment of $2,500,000 is under way. Included in this are a $300,000 hotel, two $250,000 bank buildings, a $100,000 city hall, two $60,000 school buildings, a $100,000 theatre building and a $100,000 oil company office building.
 Contracts have been let and material is being assembled for an additional construction work in the business district that calls for an expenditure of $1,000,000. Among these contracts is one that calls for a $100,000 home for a wholesale hardware company, and one for a $100,000 motor truck and accessory distributing plant.
 Plans have been drawn and accepted for a ten-story office building, and for a modern department store building covering an area of 100x100 feet.
 Eighteen months ago, Eastland's taxable values were expressed in figures that showed a little less than $900,000. Now they run $7,000,000, conservatively estimated.
 More than 100 blocks of cement sidewalks recently have been laid and contractors are busily engaged in laying more as fast as they can get material.

 Fourteen miles of water mains have been laid and an ample supply of water has been secured for the present needs. A dam is under construction across the north fork of the Leon river to impound 2,000,000 gallons of water, or enough to supply the industrial and domestic needs of a city of 50,000 population.
 A modern sewage disposal plant is being constructed and twelve miles of sewer mains have been laid. Seven blocks of six-foot cement storm sewer are almost ready for use.
 Natural gas from nearby oil fields is distributed throughout the city for domestic and industrial use.
 A recently enlarged electric light and power plant supplies the city with electric current. It is building a high tension line by way of Gorman and DeLeon to connect with the Texas Power and Light company's Brownwood line at Dublin.
 The Oil Belt Power and Light company is preparing to erect a $5,000,000 power plant a short distance east of the city to furnish electric current throughout the Eastland county oil fields.
 Nine lumber yards and one wood-working plant, representing an investment of more than $1,000,000 in the aggregate, have been opened in the last six months in response to the enormous demand for building material.
 The Eastland Brick and Tile company has just opened its plant in the southern part of the city and has enough orders booked ahead to keep it running for many months. Eastland is surrounded by deposits of brick, potters and tile clay of every description and of the best quality.
 Most important at this time is a north and south railroad which John Ringling is building. This road was projected by citizens of Eastland. Work was begun on it last April and twenty-five miles have been graded from Mangum on the Texas Central branch of the M. K. & T. to Eastland, and from Eastland to Wayland in the southern part of Stephens county, local money paying for the grade. A few weeks ago the road was turned over to Ringling on the condition that he complete it to trunk line connections at both ends. He is now laying rails with the intention of having it in operation inside of ninety days.
 The road may be extended southward to meet the Sant Fe at Brownwood. Thus two outlets to South Texas and the Gulf ports will be opened, the first being by way of the M. K. & T. through the Mangum connection.
 On the north the road will be extended to meet the Rock Island or some other trunk line reaching Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago. It will split open the rich Stephens county oil fields that need only transportation facilities to become the scene of the greatest development that has Eighteen months ago Eastland had two banks, with combined resources of less than $1,000,000. Now it has four, with combined resources of more than $6,000,000.

 A third railroad for Eastland was obtained a few weeks ago. It is now building between Desdemona and DeLeon. It is under contract to have trains running between these towns by September 1. Then it is to begin construction between Desdemona and Eastland. Progressive citizens of Eastland subscribed $100,000 to the project with the understanding that the road shall reach Eastland in eighteen months. An extension from DeLeon to Comanche is contemplated. Connection with the Cotton Belt and Frisco lines will be made to Comanche.
 The Harrell Refinery and Pipe Line company is putting in a large plant east of the city. Pipe lines will be laid to production throughout the field and a tank farm will be established.

NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER TAKES SIDE OF LABOR

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Morris, the former Newfoundland prime minister, takes the side of labor in the much debated question whether labor is fit to govern an argument precipitated by Winston Churchill, secretary of state for war, who answered the question the other day in the negative.
 Lord Morris, speaking as the guest of the London Commercial club, said that he had seen in the newspapers the statement that labor was not fit to govern and he added:
 "If it is correct that such a statement was made by anyone in authority, no greater aid, in my judgment, could have been given to Bolshevism than to make any such statement. I am quite satisfied that among the masses of this country or indeed in any country, men could be found as well able to govern as in any other class. Some day the labor and industrial classes will find with what little wisdom the world is governed."

The Alamo Refining company has received the stiffs for its plant in the northern part of the city, and will begin operations about the middle of February.
 Eastland can justly lay claim to distinction in agriculture. Eastland county has produced as much as 53,000 bales of high grade cotton in one season, and can produce much more in response to intense cultivation. During the year 1919, crops of wheat, corn and forage that were worth more than oil, comparatively speaking, were grown in the country.

The local camp of the Boy Scouts is showing renewed activity following the reorganization of the institution here. W. F. Owens is now scout master and Frank Eysars assistant scout master. The camp meets every Friday night at the Methodist church. The strength of the local organization has been increased lately from six members to twenty-five. A membership drive now being carried on is expected to increase the strength to sixty or more.
 The boys were entertained at the Liberty theatre Friday. "The Girl From Nowhere" was the feature, and
