They'd Keep Your Doorbell Ringing

T SURELY would be an awful bother if every merchant in Big Spring had to visit your home to tell you all about the good things he has to sell from day to day. About all you would have time for would be admitting eallers - the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker would keep your doorbell ringing. What a nuisance . . . your nerves and the doorbell would be a wreck.

Instead, the better mer chants of Big Spring give you this news through their advertisements in the Herald throughout the week. They are spending many dollars to let YOU know what is going on in their stores.

Every day in the Herald you will find advertisements filled with leading items from the better stores.

Form the habit of reading the ads every day. Read them just as you would the news of the day, for, in most cases, it IS news that has a direct bearing on the economic life of the home.

SYNOPSIS: Dagger Marley, 16-year-old niece of a Texas rancher, rescues Blaine Howard. American vagabond adventurer, from some Mexican insurgents. At the ranch Howard wins the respect of old Jim Marley, Dagger's uncle, and of Dick Welling, an Englishman crippled by the loss of an arm who has come to the ranch to forget some past trouble. The paths of Howard and Welling have crossed mysteriously in the past. Dagger falls in love with Howard, who has a wife he does not love, but he resists the temptation to return Dagger's affection and joins the Allied armies in France. Later he is reported missing in action and probably dead. Meeanwhile Welling leaves the ranch to-join a British commission buying horses for the army. Dagger, heartbroken by the loss

CHICAGO, Aug. 4-4P-Dave Barry, who gained the sobriquet of "Fourteen Count" after the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldiers' Field in 1927, was knocked out early today by a Niles Center policeman.

Barry, according to Robert Bowman, was parked along a suburban read within the village limits of Niles Center, and the automobile had no lights aglow.

The policeman investigated but Barry refused to answer questions. At the Niles Center station, the prize fight referee refused to leave his ear, but when Officer Bowman attempted to drag him out, "fourteer count," jumped to the ground and assumed a fighting pose. Barry led and Bowman came ODESSA, Aug. 14. Charles E. Horan, department of commerce engineer, with offices at El Paso, has been Odesan during the past week on preliminary work for the establishment of an intermediate mail service beacon station in Ector county. At present the work of clearing and grubbing 125 acres 25 miles northwest of Odessa on the Atlantic Pipe Line company's property is under way, the Odessa News-Times says.

As soon as the work of clearing and grubbing is completed the 125 acre plot will be fenced and bea con lights, water and gas will be installed. A residence will also be constructed for a regular attendant, and a repair shop will be built and equipped. The probable cost of the total $20,000, it is said. The work of actual construction will start not later than August 15, and specifications call for its completion by No. vember 1. It is understood that the last addition to the station will be a government sounding station for all
