

West Texas—Tonight and Saturday, partly cloudy; probably thunder showers in west portion.

West Texas should have the right to what rain falls out in this country regardless of the fellow who lives down near the Gulf of Mexico?

He was taken to a hospital and is in a serious condition from loss of blood.

Vare And Smith May Frighten Way Into Senate

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON—“No need to shoot me,” pleaded the cowboy who couldn't pay his bill as the bartender pointed a gun at his head. “You'll just mess up your saloon.” Washington wonders now if in like fashion the Hon. William S. Vare, senator from the state of Pennsylvania, will plead with the Senate leaders who have long been sharpening their axe for use upon his neck. Similar sentiments no doubt will emanate from the Hon. Frank L. Smith, senator from Illinois. Vare and his friends have been grasping at almost any old straw which offered hope that he might obtain the Senate seat to which he was elected after spending a huge sum in the primary. Now they appear to be confident that they can frighten the Senate into turning the Vare question over to the committee on privileges and elections. Tax reduction, flood relief, farm relief, deficiency bills and other important legislation are on the cards for the first session of the Seventieth Congress. Past and efficient work will be required if satisfactory accomplishments are to be achieved in time for everyone to leave Washington in advance of the national conventions next year. Even with Vare and Smith in their seats, the next Senate will be a balky one, considering its political lineup. Conditions are not all favorable for fast, smooth functioning. On the other hand, if Vare and Smith are kept out from the start, the Senate will be indefinitely delayed in getting under way. There will be a grand fight over whether they should or shouldn't be seated, and no one can tell how long the fight would last, to the detriment of all else. It will be recalled that Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Vare's champion, is a past master at filibustering—it was Reed who tied up the Senate in its closing days last year.

Ramsower No. 4 Has Resumed Drilling Due In This Week

Ramsower No. 4, in the Gordon pool, northwest of Ranger, is expected to begin drilling today. On account of the terrific gas pressure which Wednesday blew the tools out of the hole, drilling in of the well has been delayed. In the Gholson pool, south of Ranger, Gulf Jones No. 1 is drilling at around 3,200 feet and will probably be a week-end completion. In the Cross Plains section the Prairie Oil & Gas company has made two locations west of Cross Plains. The T. E. Brown No. 2 is an offset to the 250-barrel Bradstreet well. Another location away from No. 3, is the T. E. Brown No. 2, which offsets Hill & West well. In the McCamey district the Prairie is drilling four wells, two of which are nearing completion. The newly located wells are on the Lancaster and the Church and Fields block, while the two that will soon be in are on the Lane lease near McCamey.

By United Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic aviator, announced today he would attempt to recapture the airplane endurance record set by him and Bert Acosta and which was broken today by two German fliers. “All I need is a ship,” Chamberlin said. “A plane such as I used a few weeks ago with Acosta can fly from 60 to 70 hours without stopping. I saw some good ships in Germany but not as good as are made here in the United States.”

Wife of Accused Man Testifies In His Defense

COURT HOUSE, Franklin, La., Aug. 5.—Fighting for her man, Jim Beadle's dour little wife, went to the witness stand today in the courtroom where Beadle, Dr. Thomas E. Drehr and Ada Bommer Lehouf, are on trial for the murder of James Lehouf. Each moment she sat there she risked her life, for doctors say her heart is weak and any shock will kill her. Yet this woman seemed wooden as she gave the lie to part of Dr. Drehr's story, as she told of the weary routine from kitchen stove to child birth that has been her life. She didn't say very much, but her dull toneless voice twisted something deep inside of those who heard her.

New State Bank Commissioner Is Native Texan

AUSTIN, Aug. 6.—James Shaw of Taylor, who becomes state banking commissioner on September 1, is a grandson and namesake of James Shaw, cavalryman in Sam Houston's army at San Jacinto. He came to Texas in 1833 from Ohio. The present James Shaw is vice president of the City National bank of Taylor, home town of Governor Moody. Here's his autobiography by himself: “A native son, an ordinary human, an ordinary banker and an average citizen.” On the day that he becomes state banking commissioner he will have completed his 25th year to the day with the Taylor bank. Shaw was one of the foes of the recently repealed state guaranty fund law. With that out of the way, he said on a recent visit to Austin, the banks generally will be much better. “I have always taken the position that it is wrong for a good banker to be penalized for mistakes of a weak banker and for the defalcations of a crooked banker,” he said. “That is just what happened under the guaranty law. “I shall be guided by experiences of the past in handling the affairs of the department. I might fail but I will go down hard at work, doing what I believe to be right. I shall expect to conduct the banking department in a common sense way and I hope by surrounding myself with a force of high standing and capability to be able to run the department as it should be run. It is a department that above all others should not play politics, for the financial structure of Texas banks is one that vitally affects the welfare of Texas people and Texas prosperity.”

NO VIOLENCE FEARED BUT PRISONERS GUARDED

Officials Do Not Look For An Eleventh Hour Effort To Save Them

By United Press. BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The state of Massachusetts today proceeded with its plans for execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, early next Thursday morning. Few were optimistic enough to believe that desperate last minute efforts to save the men whose case has stirred the world, would succeed after the failure of every legal recourse for nearly seven years. Officials said they felt reasonably sure no violence would result. Nevertheless police had the prison very well surrounded to keep spectators at a distance.

West Texas C. of C. Has Good Growth During Summer

STAMFORD, Aug. 5.—Results of the proverbial summer lethargy of the South are not apparent in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce membership report of the past two months. June and July ushered in two entirely new members for the regional organization of the West, saw six places come in whose memberships had lapsed for varying periods of time, brought in five West-torn cities with 100 per cent gains or over, and gave renewals and substantial increases in more than a score of other points. Denton, a city in the ten thousand population class, located in a strip of territory skirted by the borders of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and yet embraced in the region designated by the East Texas Chamber, came in for the first time with membership in the regional organization of the West, at the same time affiliating with the East Texas body. Newlin, in the Texas Panhandle, a progressive town of Hall county, was the other entirely new point to take out membership with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Megargal, Mason, Rankin, Richland Springs, Fort Stockton and Bridgeport are the places who re-affiliated with the West Texas body after lapses of time varying from twelve months to more than four years. Sonora and San Angelo came in for 100 per cent 1927 memberships, Menard, Eden, and Odessa renewed for over 100 per cent. Smaller increases in affiliation were taken at Eastland, Idalou, Junction, Iowa Park, Van Horn, Abilene, Decatur, McLean, Barstow, Cross Plains, Midland, and Pecos. Other renewals for June and July included O'Donnell, Happy, Southland, Ranger, Henrietta, San Saba, Olney, Weatherford, Hedley and Roaring Springs.

Commons said investigation tended to show Warner fired directly at the youth.

Very little detail concerning the accident could be obtained, as Mr. Adrian telephoned his wife very briefly, so that she would know that he was not badly hurt. The mail truck was empty.

RULE OR RUIN.
 (From Editor & Publisher)
 Alabama's legislature offers to the publishers of the United States a slight indication of just how far ignorance, bigotry and impudence can go when in the seat of power. The Birmingham News, one of the strongest papers in the south and the nation, has been making a brilliant fight against the un-American Ku Klux Klan. This crusade, as heretofore noted in Editor & Publisher, has been based upon sound intelligence and fair argument. The K. K. K. element in control of the state sought to retaliate and, first in a facetious spirit, but latterly in dead earnest, proposed that a tax be imposed at the rate of 5 cents per column inch on newspaper advertising in cities of 15,000 or more population. The bill actually passed both houses. The assumption of its sponsors was that the burden would fall on the newspapers. It was a delightful little piece of spiteful vandalism, they thought.

Naturally anything so pernicious, so false in economic theory and unjust to the advertising merchants of Alabama cities, must fall of its own weight. That is precisely what happened. The bill was withdrawn and will probably not be heard from again. Such a law in action would, of course, be ruinous to any newspaper that attempted to pay the tax. The burden would fall on advertisers, invariably the best merchants of every city, and if they attempted to pass the cost to the public the non-advertising or cheap-John merchant would be given the advantage. As a tax measure we have never heard of anything more grotesque or unjust. But that is the way the K. K. K. fights. Its theory of government is rule or ruin, which in the end means both.

MAKE EFFORT TO ARRIVE AT COST OF GOVERNMENT
 Tions than are asked in these tax surveys questionnaires. They are being sent, however, to county auditors and county clerks and statistical officials accustomed to such forms.
 Things that will be developed if comprehensive answers are received will be the first accurate data ever compiled in Texas on what government costs.
 The questions are directed to permit classification. From them it is expected to be determined how much is spent for real government; for protection of life and property; for education; for health; for the various public functions, not strictly governmental. These will include parks, playgrounds, nursing, home economics and the various other tax-supported aids.
 The county questionnaire on expenditures has fifteen general headings. They include general government, protection of persons and property, conservation of health and sanitation, highways, development and other districts, other public service activities, agriculture and other commercial activities, charities, education and recreation. The others deal with accounting for funds going into permanent structures and equipment, interest and such matters.
 An interesting phase of the survey is the effort to ascertain something definite about the annual expenditures to pay off public debts. It will develop also the length of time bonds or other indebtednesses run.
 Concurrent with the gathering of information on how public money is spent, the commission is seeking to ascertain from the same questionnaire just how public money is received.
 Lack of uniform accounting and lack of any central agency to which reports must be made, has resulted in no such information being available. Whether the tax survey commission will be able to gather it accurately enough for benefit remains to be seen.

The Navy's Speed Merchant

Three hundred miles an hour is the official flight record that Lieut. Alvard J. Williams of the U. S. Navy is seeking. A specially built plane, designed by himself, has just been built for his attempt. It will be driven by a 24-cylinder motor. Williams probably will represent the navy in the Schneider Cup Races in Italy this year.

COWES WEEK

LONDON, Aug. 2.—“Cowes week,” society's most brilliant marine function, opened at 10 a. m. today under the auspices of the Royal Yacht Squadron and the Royal London Yacht Club.
 The number of yachts in commission this year is far greater than at any other period since the war, and during the past week yachtsmen have taken advantage of the breeze to give their vessels a final tuning-up.
 Tourists returning home from Southampton on Saturday obtained a fine view of the early arrivals as they lay in the Solent, awaiting the commencement of Tuesday's brilliant festival.
 Twenty cups will be competed for in addition to $4,045 prize money. The program, which consists of 29 races, will be carried out in the usual order, commencing with a handicap for yachts of 15 tons register and upwards for the King's Cup, which is open to members of the Squadron. On the same day there will be handicaps for yachts exceeding 110 tons T. M., and races for the 12 and 8 metre classes.
 King George, having re-conditioned his old cutter, Britannia, hopes to see his vessel put up some good races against her old opponents the Shamrock, White Heather, who recently won her hundredth race, and the American-built schooner Westward.
 The annual Cowes week dinner of the Royal Yacht Squadron, which is usually honored with the presence of the King, will not take place this year as a mark of respect to the late Duke of Leeds who was Commodore of the Squadron.
 On Friday, the concluding day, there will be races for yachts of the 6, 8 and 12 metre classes after which the regatta will end with the usual display of fireworks. Numerous parties and balls will be given on board the steam yachts.
 The vestibule train was invented by George Mortimer Pullman in 1887.

 Just as the harvest moon falls on Aug. 10, Ranger dancers will gather at the Country club to enjoy a harvest moon dance. Music for this eventful affair will be furnished by the Rainbow serenaders and they will tune in at 9 p. m.
 The posters for this dance are very attractive with their background of harvested fields and clever wording. They state, “the harvest moon only shines once a year and nowhere is it more beautiful and romantic. Dance in its light.”
 A full moon, soft music and a cool night—what more could be desired?

 Miss Vera Herring of Wichita Falls has returned home after a short visit to Miss Jennie B. Rucker.
 J. Frank Champion is in McCamey for a few days.

To be sure that Texas would get the original New York company which was playing ‘Countess Maritza’ on Broadway when the booking committee of the State Fair directors saw it and selected it as the attraction for the Auditorium during the fair, a copy of the program, with the names of all the principal actors, singers, comedians and dancers, was written into and made part of the contract between the State Fair and the Messrs. Shubert.
 Investigation reveals the probability that the giant meteoric stone now on the grounds of the State Fair of Texas and which will be marked with an explanatory tablet by the Dallas Astronomical Society before the fair opens, October 8, is a part of the famous Biela's comet, which went to pieces in 1885 and one part of which, now in the National Museum, in Washington, was found across the border in Texas. The State Fair meteor fell somewhere between Brownwood and San Angelo and the fair management is seeking more information as to the exact locality.
 Eighteen Vera Cruz police officials have been held for trial on a murder charge. Clever, these Mexicans. They are only a year behind Canton.

PAN-ASIATIC FEELING HAS NOT TAKEN ROOT IN PHILIPPINES

By WILLIAM R. KUHN (United Press Staff Correspondent)
 MANILA.—The Pan-Asiatic movement, with its flavor of Bolshevism, and nourished by racial animosity, has apparently passed over the Philippines without taking root.

Senator Quezon and other Filipino leaders, in interviews with the United Press and public speeches, have frequently acknowledged human curiosity about the movement but never an aggressive, active interest.

Recent declarations of Admiral Summer Kittelle and other American officials, to the effect that radical Filipino societies have been plotting the destruction of naval ammunition supplies and other violence, have thrown the spotlight on what appears to be a vast, powerful, unorganized, “pan-Asiatic movement” bound together by a growing sense of unity against foreign domination.

Signs of the existence of a sympathetic pan-Asiatic union are unmistakable. The headquarters of the secret service in Manila has a great mass of records, photographs and documents indicating that radical and anti-foreign agitators throughout Asia, the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies are in constant communication with each other.
 Emissaries of a dozen Asiatic nationalities have visited the Philippines, chiefly since the successful Chinese Nationalist movement, inflamed all Asiatic imagination. These emissaries are still in the islands. Their movements are watched constantly by the secret service and the Philippine constabulary.
 Filipino leaders say that they have no definite personal link, by correspondence or financial support, with the formally organized movement. Well informed persons believe that this is true. Official investigations show that the Filipinos are little interested in the activities of those behind the movement.
 Aside from the question of formal membership, however, the unorganized “spiritual” pan-Asiatic movement has not only taken root but has grown in the past two years to be one of the most powerful forces in Filipino life. Nationalism comes first, according to all tests, but the Indo-Chinese variety of anti-foreignism takes a close second.
 The substance of the pan-Asiatic movement is a thing of doubt. It has periodical resurrections after months of inaction, and delegates gather from the four corners of Asia and the south sea isles for a discussion of mutual problems and how to face the foreigner with more assurance and more chance of an even fight.

 Like many secret societies in the Philippines, now facing unhappy days the pan-Asiatic movement may possess the power, noted in many Oriental organizations, of playing dead. But regardless of what happens to the organized movement, it is the unorganized movement, say the best informed opinions, that the powers must eventually reckon with.

The United Press has just completed a survey of opinion among both American and Filipino officials high in the councils of the insular administration and the unanimous belief is that there is no cause for alarm. The Filipinos are essentially peaceful, they say, and their nationalistic aspirations do not spring from any deep hatred of America.
 There are secret societies and there are plots. In the Philippines, under a warm sun, where other distractions are few, they sprout on the slightest provocation and luxuriate in the imagination of local newspapers, civil officials, admirals and citizenry.

insist that their position is impregnable, the wets insist that the tide has begun to turn.

This picture of the situation, it might be well to point out, is given by an official of the league who does not contend that the organization is at this moment marching on to fresh victories.

What has happened is that the dries although they pressed on after the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment and achieved the Volstead Act and other gains, have had to stop to prepare for counter-attacks.

Fighting Al Smith
Their great object right now is to prevent a possible stampede in the Democratic party for the nomination of Al Smith. They don't want a wet presidential candidate in either party and they are making a heroic stand against that possibility. They are raising a special campaign fund for the purpose.

Millions of copies of the pamphlet "Al Smith's record as Tammany legislator and governor" have been sent out over the country, according to the league's headquarters here, and these will be followed by millions more. This pamphlet was compiled by the New York Anti-Saloon League, with comment.

"We don't believe the Democrats can win the election in any event," says the aforementioned official whose name cannot be used. "But both the league and most Democrats would rather see the party lose with a dry candidate than a wet one."

"We're trying to make the other Democrats see that they're 100 per cent certain to lose if they nominate Smith. The league is non-sectarian and only interested in law enforcement, but it realizes that the anti-Tammany feeling and the anti-Catholic feeling in some sections would react against Smith."

League Has Lunatic Fringe
As for the league's defensive position, this man says:

DISCIPLES OF KRISHNAMURTI ASSEMBLE IN OMMEN, HOLLAND

By United Press.
OMMEN, Holland, Aug. 5.—Hoping to receive a divine revelation from the "World Teacher" through His earthly vehicle, J. Krishnamurti, the slim, handsome Hindu Messiah, some 3,000 disciples from all parts of the world gathered here this morning to attend the Sixth International Congress of the Order of the Star in the East which opens this afternoon. The sessions, which will last until August 13, will be held in the open with mystical seances at night around a sacred fire.

Dr. Arnie Besant, famous theosophist and Protector of the Order, will take a prominent part in the Congress and will deliver a number of addresses. The religious ceremonies, however, will be personally presided over by the young prophet, who, with his black flashing eyes, olive skin and striking features, is said to resemble the late Rudolf Valentino.

"The defense position is always the hardest. The wets come at us like so many mosquitoes and it's difficult to swat them all at once, even though they make no headway. Dry fanatics are among our worst enemies. Our 'lunatic fringe,' outside the league is constantly making absurd statements which are good targets for the other side and which we can't get out of our way to disprove."

The league, our informant continued, laughed at the rumor that Republican politicians had decided to let up on prohibition enforcement. On the contrary, it is sure the party will travel the "high and moral road" in 1928 because, frankly, it dares to do nothing else.

Although the congress will be replete with mystic rites and occult forms there will be no attempt on the part of the mundane "Voice" to perform miracles. Unlike other prophets of history, Krishnamurti does not believe in them and has ordered that persons suffering from diseases, ranging from boils to leprosy, be excluded from the meetings regardless of their devotion to the faith.

The open air village of the Order, which is open all year around, has been greatly enlarged for the occasion. Several hundred extra tents and huts have been erected to accommodate the delegates.

In order to prevent any scandal, all the women will sleep on one side of the camp and the men on the other.

The delegates who arrived here today form perhaps the most motley gathering in the world, running the gamut from white-haired old women from China to pretty little flappers from America. Many of the followers of the fascinating teacher are Buddhists and Mohammedans while there are also a great number of Christians, Jews and Brahmins.

Although Krishnamurti is a master linguist, speaking fluently seven or eight languages, he will make his lectures in English. In moments of inspiration, however, especially about the camp-fire at night, he will chant weird songs in Sanskrit.

The Order of the Star in the East was founded in 1911 by Dr. Besant when she was traveling in India. She came across the young Krishnamurti, who at that time was only 12 years old, and perceived the aura of his spiritual nature. She has trained him ever since, always with the purpose of fitting his mind and body for the receipt of divine messages from God. Since their encounter, the youthful prophet, who is proclaimed by many to be the Second Christ, has travelled all over the world, studying people and languages. For at least three months of the year he lives in California in a retreat not far from San Francisco.

He never glorifies poverty and drives a Rolls-Royce and lives in palatial residences wherever he goes. He sums up his teaching as that of universal brotherhood and makes an attempt to follow the example of the early saints in the Christian religion.

The majority of the Theosophists accept him as their teacher and prophet but there is no official connection between the Star in the East and Theosophy.

We are always happy to serve you.

By BILLY EVANS.
 When Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, expresses an opinion, he doesn't mean maybe. Mr. Ball is always very much in earnest when he speaks.
 The other day the owner of the Browns, disappointed and disgusted at the showing of his club, announced that he would immediately start to scrap the entire team with a very few exceptions. Said Phil Ball:
 "The St. Louis club is full of players who have had every chance to make good in the majors and have failed. Also, there are several disturbers on the club, who haven't helped. The dead ones, as far as St. Louis is concerned, must go."
 "Only four players of the 25 on the payroll are worth while and George Sisler isn't among them. He is still a great player but would do better elsewhere."
 Mr. Ball admits the club has lost about $200,000 in the last two years. Of course that isn't very pleasant. However, that sum of money doesn't mean a great deal, as baseball is a mere sideline with him. What he wants is a winner.
May Keep These Two.
 It looks very much as if the St. Louis club would finish seventh this year. That is its position at present and certainly the announcement by Mr. Ball that only four players are worth retaining won't help the morale of the club or improve its play.
 I am inclined to think that there is a guessing contest on among the players as to which four are certain of their whereabouts for next season.
 Looking over the personnel of the club, I am sure I can cut the four to two, by naming Harry Rice and Fred Shulte as two players certain to be held over for 1928.
 Shulte is the young man who cost the Browns $100,000 last fall. He was just begging to prove he was worth that amount when he crashed into the concrete wall at the St. Louis park, suffering injuries that have put him out of the game for the rest of the season.
 Few outfielders in the majors have more natural ability than Harry Rice. He appears ripe to cash in on his assets.
 Manager Dan Howley has, in Rice and Shulte, the basis for a really great outfield. Both of these players do everything well and are young in years.

Sisler May Go Away.
 Sisler is certain to be traded. Early this year three American clubs were dickering for him. The Browns should get some good material in return.
 It is unfortunate that illness may end the career of Oscar Mellilo. Few better infield prospects have ever broken into the majors than Mellilo. He may beat his illness, pronounced as Bright's disease, and deliver.

Of the pitching staff, Milton Gaston will be much sought after should he be placed on the market. I wouldn't be surprised if he was one of the four to be retained.
 Frank O'Rourke at third has been one of the most valuable players on the Browns. Secured for utility roles he has more than made good. He seems certain of retention in that role if not as a regular.
 While Wally Schang and Steve O'Neill are veteran catchers, both still have several years of good service in them.

On the surface, it looks like an entire new infield for the Browns next season, one new man in the outfield and an entirely rejuvenated corps of pitchers, with some youthful material added to the catching staff.
 New faces for a time at least will serve as a tonic to renew interest in American league baseball in St. Louis, which at present is at low ebb.
 Napoleon's sister, says a new biography, insisted on having a milk bath every day. There's something else to make the cows contented.

"And not only is this true of Eastland, but any of the towns in the oil belt seem to be much livelier than those of other sections," he added.

This age finds Camel worthy of leadership

THE people of this modern, busy age are always anxious to recognize quality, and they have placed Camel first among cigarettes.

Modern smokers have an experienced taste that quickly learns to know good tobaccos. Camel is their favorite, because they recognize in it the choicest tobaccos grown, blended to bring out their exquisite taste and fragrance.

Camel has won its way to the top in the hardest-to-please age ever known because it has the qualities of goodness that make smoking a pleasure. You will revel in the enjoyment of these cigarettes. No better smoke can be made. "Have a Camel!"

Parks Have Much To Do With High Records At Bat

(By BILLIE EVANS)
With ball players of major league caliber mighty scarce, I have often marveled how highly capable performers are allowed to drift to the minors. I have in mind Gene Robertson, who for the past six years has played utility infield roles for the St. Louis Browns with great credit. For some reason waivers were asked on Robertson last winter. How all the major league clubs waived on him is beyond me, but apparently they did, and Robertson was sent to St. Paul in the American Association.

The other day I had a chat with four members of the staff of umpires of that league and when I asked them who was the best ball player in the organization there came the unanimous reply:

Gene Robertson.
In all probability some big league club will be paying $25,000 or upwards this winter to acquire his services for another shot at the majors. His passing will always remain a mystery to me.

Browns United Nats
Baseball is a funny old game in that it so often refuses to run true to the advance dope and past performance chart.

When the Washington club recently invaded the west for its second tour of that end of the circuit, the team had a winning streak of 10 straight games that was finally shattered by the Yankees.

Playing Cleveland first in the west, Washington returned to its winning ways by taking six straight from the Indians, then came one out of three from Detroit and four out of five from Chicago. With only St. Louis to be visited and the Browns playing poorly, the Nationals seemed certain to return home with the best road record in years.

Then came the unexpected, three straight defeats at the hands of the lowly Browns, who had just been trimmed four straight by New York. To make matters worse, two pitchers discarded by Washington, Crowder and Ballou, scored two of the three wins.

Simply proving there are no soft spots in a major league schedule no matter how poorly a certain club may be going.

Sox Park Reduces Hits
What part does a ball park play in the making of .300 or better batting averages? On the surface, that may sound like a rather foolish question, yet in reality it is a most logical one. American League ball players are agreed that the Chicago park is the most difficult one in the circuit in which to gather base hits.

While the park is an excellent one to see on, there is always a stiff wind blowing in from center field. This, of course, gives an added advantage to the pitcher and handicaps the batter by preventing him from getting distance.

The White Sox players suffer most from this condition because they play 77 games at home.

"Playing 77 games on the White Sox park during the season just about erases 25 points from every regular Chicago player's average," said Babe Ruth after a recent four-game series in that city. "You just can't get distance hitting into such a wind as is usually blowing into the batter's face."

I am inclined to think Ruth's estimate fairly conservative. Perhaps that is one of the many reasons why various White Sox teams have been known as the "Hitless Wonders."

Home Run Habit Regarded Joke, Common Now

(By BILLIE EVANS)
The home run habit has become a joke, thinks Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club. I am inclined to agree with him.

Unquestionably a circuit wallop is one of the big thrills of baseball. I am surprised that it has retained its great popularity when one considers the monotonous regularity with which the players make them.

Many pitchers, weak batters, who have always regarded the making of a home run as more or less of a fairy tale, have broken into the select circle within the last few years.

Twenty years ago any player capable of amassing a total of 10 home runs for the season was sure to lead the league in that respect. Now a league leader usually boasts about 40 home runs.

There is no denying that some of the modern home runs must be rated at least a pretty good laugh because of the many joke features connected with them.

For years the regulation home run distance was 225 feet from the home plate to the stands. Recently it was increased to 250, but the extra 15 feet made the making of a home run no more difficult.

It is President Griffith's thought that the minimum distance should be 320 feet. Certainly any ball traveling that far into the stands or over the wall, must be rated a fairly respectable home run.

In advocating such a change, President Griffith is fortunate in owning a ball park that can well handle such restrictions. Washington has one of the best playing fields in the majors. Any home run made in Griffith's ball lot is a "legit."

Washington's right-field wall is 323 feet from the home plate, while the left-field distance is 358. Either takes a real drive to clear.

Four clubs in the American League—Philadelphia, New York and St. Louis—have playing fields that will not admit of Griffith's 320-foot home runs at the four-line limits.

Enforcement Of Prohibition Law Is Real Problem

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(NEA Service Writer)

WASHINGTON.—The country is slowly beginning to realize that the country is facing an unusual prohibition situation.

The eighteenth amendment is not in danger of repeal, modification or the Volstead Act is not an imminent possibility, and the voters are not about to elect a wet Congress.

But despite the reluctance of politicians in both parties to grapple with the issue, the question of prohibition enforcement and the amazing filtration of prohibition into nearly every angle of political thought and political action present an increasingly large mass of undigested food for thought.

Ever the drys admit prohibition enforcement is far from satisfactory, and the thoughts which immediately arise concern the causes for such a state of affairs and the question of what the future holds.

The immediate danger center, from the viewpoint of the drys, is the fact that the Civil Service Commission will not be able to put the prohibition enforcement service on a new and sound basis until Congress, in its wisdom and in its own good time, appropriates the money for reorganization in its next session.

Andrews Force Fades Away
The Andrews enforcement organization, since the general's resignation, is rapidly disintegrating. Thousands of men were to all intents and purpose discharged from the enforcement service when it was placed under Civil Service. Some of them, perhaps, were inefficient to begin with. The rest, despite the fact that some may be able to hang onto their jobs through high ratings in the Civil Service examinations in the face of open field competition, are resigned to the fact that the ax is suspended above them and is bound to fall.

Under such circumstances, human nature to greater zeal in such an ex-tremely difficult task as theirs.

Violations of the prohibition law would be even greater if the Coast Guards and Customs service were not patrolling the coasts and borders.

New Officials Untried
When the new crop of prohibition enforcers is finally on the job, which will not be for another six months, it may be confronted with a great deal of debris as a result of the present situation. Furthermore, it will be an untried, inexperienced organization which may require a long time to reach the high water mark of enforcement set by Andrews and his crew of ex-army officer administrators. What it can and will accomplish is at this moment a matter of guess work.

Since it is an impossibility to change the concrete stadiums to provide the extra distance, the fault can be remedied by a zoning system.

The stands in the parks that are less than 320 feet could be so marked that balls passing on one side of a big white line would be two bases or three bases, as might be agreed upon, while hits to the other side of the line would be regulation home runs.

This would necessitate the umpires following more closely all drives into the bleachers, but would entail no great added task or responsibility.

The home-run situation needs consideration, regardless of whether or not a zoning system would solve the problem. The home-run must be taken out of the joke class.

Gripings by Gus

We reiterate: GRIPINGS GET RESULTS. After our little remark to the effect that we were doing a poor job of batching yesterday, we have been besought by many who were anxious to take us out and feed us. The invitations continue to pour in.

They have poured in to the extent that we are becoming more or less particular and request the donors to list their menu alphabetically so as we can compare. We seldom get further than the second letter before making up our mind whether to accept or not.

In passing the corner of Pine and Marston this morning our attention was called to three or four gallons of old rusty nails out in the street. It's not our job to pick up that many nails but we can gripe about it and maybe the department of street cleaning will attend to it in a few days. They'll have to hurry though or all the nails will be picked up by the tires of passing motorists.

Bedford News

Special Correspondence.

Bedford, Aug. 4.—Homer White is teaching a singing school at Bedford school house. A number of pupils from Yellow Mound are attending.

Miss Delza White has returned to her home in Abilene.

James Wedekind of Mineral Wells visited Arch Sprull last week.

Viola Millican is suffering from a badly cut foot.

Nina and Johnson Smith have returned from their week's stay at the farmers' short course at College Station. They expressed it as being "grand." Bedford is indeed grateful to the chambers of commerce in neighboring towns for making it possible financially to send these representatives.

Word comes from Lillian and Lucille Sprull, who are attending summer school at the State University, that it's very hot down there. Lillian writes: "I had the pleasure of serving the Governor and his lady for dinner last evening. We attend the Methodist Sunday School and Dan Moody is our teacher; have all the recreation and entertainment in which I have time to indulge, and will be glad when the next four weeks elapse so we may again feel the cool breezes of Eastland county."

The following friends gathered at the home of R. W. Smith, Monday night and enjoyed a few hours of music and singing: Warner Hatten and John Pope of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Spence of Ranger;

Mrs. Merritt and daughter of Missouri and Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson. Ice cream was served.

Hunter News

Special Correspondence.

Hunter is boasting a healthful and happy community with the exception of Miss Lena Ackers who has been sick for some time.

Mrs. Gustus Harper and children of Stephenville have been visitors at Hunter for the past few days.

A number of the families of this community attended church at Alameda at the Sunday evening services.

Much interest is being taken in the Singing School which is showing marked improvement under the supervision of H. A. Reynolds. A large number are attending and everyone is invited to come out and help Mr. Reynolds perfect a lively singing class.

CHENEY NEWS

Special Correspondence.

CHEANEY, Aug. 5.—Everything is lovely around Cheaney. The rain last week made feed and peanuts fine and cotton is doing much better.

We are all looking forward to the community fair at Cheaney Sept. 17. Mr. Cartes and daughter, Mrs. Vandever of Yellow Mound, were at Cheaney this week.

Brother Jones of Desdemona held a weeks meeting at Cheaney and had a good meeting.

The Christians will start their meeting at Cheaney the third Sunday in August and the Baptists the fourth Sunday.

J. A. Strickley is building J. A. Gentry a nice house.

The pest found in Indiana, says a newspaper headline, was thought it a new political mess, but were surprised on finding it was only the corn borer.

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE BOARD PLANS PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

The Ranger Junior college board and the board of trustees of the Ranger independent school district met in joint session in regard to the program for the coming term of the Junior college. After lengthy discussions, the chairman, W. W. Housewright, appointed a committee composed of R. F. Holloway, Rev. G. D. Robison and Mrs. R. H. Hodges to draft a set of reasons why the Ranger Junior college should be given consideration by the people of Ranger, and adjacent towns and communities.

The following reasons were given:

1. Ranger Junior college offers a regular standard college course for the freshman and sophomore years. This means that a pupil having taken the two years work offered by our college may enter any other college for the junior and senior years, spending only two instead of four years away from home. When you consider the early age at which most of our young people are getting through high school and the crowded condition in most colleges of these two classes you must see that with an efficient faculty and a comparatively small student body each pupil will get individual attention at a time when it is most needed.

2. Teaching school is one of the very best means by which a young man or woman may keep intellectually fit and at the same time do a worthy work and secure sufficient funds for completing his education. Any one finishing the two years work offered by Ranger Junior college will upon application be granted a state teachers' certificate which may be of material aid in helping the pupil himself to solve the problem of the other two years.

3. Not many parents can pay $500 to $1,000 a year for four years on one child and reasonably hope to do the same for the three to five others in the home. There are so many boys and girls who make no plans to go to college because of the prohibitive cost. Last year more than 35 boys and girls in this community took their first year in college because an enterprising and an educationally enthusiastic group of citizens backed our superintendent, Prof. R. F. Holloway with money needed to supplement the $100 tuition charged each pupil. There is a lot of difference between paying $100 and paying for that new trunk and a lot of other things that the children just must have when they "go off to school." There's the railroad fare, the tuition and board in advance and the incidentals. How they mount up. Not many can make it for less than $500 and many spend more than $1,000.

4. We gave 39 students educational advantages that would have cost at the minimum estimate of $500 each, $19,500, had they gone elsewhere to college. The actual cost to students and their parents was $3,900 in tuition, $5,000 special fund raised in the community. The community was benefitted in having five M.A. teachers who received $9,000 salary, a large part of which was spent in Ranger.

5. There is great gain educational, socially, religiously and economically in having these college teachers and pupils with us these two years. Other communities where four year colleges are established realize this and some are seeking to discredit the junior college idea chiefly because they want our support.

6. We understand that the 1920 and New Era clubs are ready to consider applications for loans to worthy students who wish to attend Ranger Junior college. Dr. L. C. G. Buchanan is chairman of a committee pledged to assist young people who find it necessary to work to pay part of their expenses.

One young lady said, "I prefer to go to Junior college because as a student here I have the best opportunity to secure the confidence and lasting friendship of my home people. We all need friends."

Employ Trained Fire Fighters In Eastern Texas

By United Press.
TROUP, Texas, Aug. 5.—A force of 45 trained men is employed by the Texas forest service to fight fires in the extensive pine region of East Texas.

An average grass fire kills over 90 per cent of the seedlings less than one year old, in the long leaved pine region, according to H. J. Eberly of the Texas forest service.

The duty of the East Texas forest patrolmen is to prevent such disastrous fires and otherwise protect an industry which pays approximately $22,600,000 annually to 23,000 workmen.

Airplane Is Used As Regular Mode Transportation

By United Press.
DALLAS, Aug. 5.—In order to handle his affairs which carry him to different parts of the state, J. F. Dexter, road contractor, uses an airplane for transportation.

Dexter uses a Ryan M-2 monoplane. He has two engines for the ship and while he is on a visit a mechanic overhauls the spare engine in the hangar at Love field. When Dexter returns from a trip the spare engine is put into he plane and it is ready for instant service.

"It is cheaper to maintain and fly the plane than to operate an automobile," says Dexter. "I go anywhere in the state at any time. Every business man with outside interests will come to it eventually."

CHAPTER XXXVII
 "What did he do?" the old man repeated.
 "Nothing except to cut his finger so that the blood would draw the piranhas and make them attack us. If you know anything about their characteristics you know that blood makes them perfectly mad. If we had waited a few minutes longer they'd have come in swarms and torn us to pieces."
 He dragged the prisoner roughly back to the camp, kept him under strict guard, then at dawn when the expedition started on its way again slackened his bonds so that his feet were free and put him at the head of the train, where the wasps and fire ants were apt to be most irritating and the dangers from the jararaca and deadly coral snake greatest. Much as Vilak wished it, no jararaca struck him. Instead, one of the negroes, through carelessness in crossing a swamp, was bitten by a loathsome sort of copperhead and died before an anti-toxin could be administered.
 The last tragedy deepened the gloom which had begun like a cloud to overhang the travelers.
 The murmuring among the men increased. When the cook was preparing supper the other albino shuffled forward to Vilak, and announced that he and his fellows would go no farther. It was certain death for all of them if they proceeded, he mumbled. Everyone except foolish white men knew that the country which they were approaching was haunted; the closer they came to it, the tighter the evil spell was woven about them. He and the other natives had decided to turn back.
 To their astonishment, Vilak quietly replied that he and his friends were at liberty to depart any time they liked; further, that their departure would delight him.
 At dawn the expedition split, the five mutineers sullenly going back in the direction from which they had come, while the three whites and the silent Indian guide, who after some vacillation had refused to join in the rebels' councils, tramped on toward the west.
 As they traveled the three friends conversed little, the humid heat of the jungle and their steady, unflagging pace consuming all the energies of Elise and the old man.
 Day after day they went on unintermittedly through the tangle of firm, towering trees, always with the feeling that they were being watched, followed. Soon the increasing density of the underbrush made traveling extremely difficult for the remaining mules, which, on the point of exhaustion, were now mere breathing skeletons through the ravages of tiny winged and crawling parasites.
 Reluctantly Vilak decided to abandon them, shift as many of their burdens as possible onto human shoulders, and for the rest, live on the country. Two days after they had so decided they came upon a tribe of dwarfed, blackish Indians, almost pygmies, who lived in the branches of trees or in mere windbreaks which they hastily constructed wherever they might be.
 The chief, whose favor Vilak won by a gift of jewelry, said in answer to the other's question that he had heard from a neighboring chief how strange men had passed that way not long before. But he could only say what he had heard from the lips of others; none in his own tribe had seen.
 "Where you white men go?" he grunted in thick Guarany.

followers murmured a dismal ceremonial chant, kindled a fire.
 The newcomers sat around it to eat birds' eggs and a large sort of squirrel. Their hunger satisfied, the women danced, then the chief folded his legs under him, and like Bagarundi, began to tell the heroic legends of his race.
 He continued until his shrill, piping voice grew weary, bade the visitors good-night and slowly climbed up into the trees, the other men and women following, leaping from limb to limb and liana to liana with all the dexterity of monkeys.
 "More proof that there is a pronounced Oriental influence all through the Indians," Vilak said to Nunnally as they sat by the fire.
 "Even a tribe in such a low state of development as this one. This chief, too, told the story about the man who walked through the fire and became a god. These men probably got the Oriental traces in their culture indirectly through the Incas, whose civilization was undoubtedly an Oriental one, possibly Egyptian."
 "Certainly that's where these fire legends came from, for the Incas had the most elaborate fire worship ritual the world has ever known."
 "Incidentally, if we keep on going west this way, we ought to be getting out of the jungle onto the uplands pretty quickly and probably see some Inca ruins. We're heading straight for the Andes plateau, and they weren't confined to that narrow area by any means. They were too vigorous and too colonizing a people. They were spreading out tremendously when the Spanish came and put a sudden end to their empire."
 Another week they traveled through the gloomy, unbroken forest. Then they lost their last native adherent. They had seen a jaguar lurking in the underbrush as they were about to pitch their camp. Vilak and the Indian guide had gone out to stalk it to prevent the animal from springing upon them while they slept.
 They separated to approach it from two sides; Vilak killed it with a well-placed bullet. Striding back to the camp, he rejoined Elise and the old man. The guide did not return. Vilak and the others began to beat the brush.

 The setting sun swiftly put an end to the search. Long into the night, they sat by the fire shouting and shooting their rifles to guide the other back to the camp.
 "Either he's lost in the thicket or he's chosen to disappear for his own purposes," Vilak grunted. "Almost certainly the latter, for he's one of the few men I've met who really know the jungle. However, we'll look again in the morning."
 At daylight they renewed their efforts until Vilak decided that they could afford to look no longer. They pushed on. The next day the jungle began to lessen perceptibly. The trees became fewer and smaller, and the trail they were following became a narrow but well-beaten path. Soon the jungle was behind them, and they were on a wide rocky plateau covered here and there with dwarfed palm trees with leaves like knives, or patches of spiny cactus and thickets of thistles and thorns. Great vulture-like carrachos circled in the sky, hopefully searching for some dying bush deer which would soon provide them with a sumptuous meal; tiny gossamer spiders drifted everywhere on their fine webs. Mountains showed dimly in the distance. The trail led toward them.

 Vilak and his companions come up on a strange city and are mysteriously attacked and overcome.

Many Women Use This Home Remedy
 Your family physician will tell you that such roots and herbs as Blessed Thistle, Blue Cohosh Root, Squaw Vine, Life Root Plant, Helonias Root, Star Grass, Cramp Bark, etc., have been recognized for years for their peculiar properties in building up and strengthening women.
 Now that women and girls can get these ingredients of uniform strength and freshness, conveniently put up in a vegetable compound known as St. Joseph's G. F. P., and recommended by dealers everywhere, thousands of them are using it in the privacy of their home to build them up and strengthen them.
 Miss Dolly Babcock, who lives at 1519 Franklyn St., Houston, Texas, says, "Although I am only on my second bottle of G. F. P., I feel so much stronger, I am back on my job again and my work seems easier than it had been in a long time."
 In many instances St. Joseph's Anker-Powder used externally in connection with St. Joseph's G. F. P. will be found very soothing.

Big Crowds Attend Eastland Union Revival Service

Speaking on the subject, "Getting Busy," Rev. Mr. Green, who is conducting the union revival on the Eastland High school grounds, spoke last evening to the largest crowd that has yet faced him at this meeting. His appeal was largely to the professing Christian to put aside their lethargy and work in earnest for the bringing in of souls to Christ.

The song service, which is one of the leading features of the meeting, was conducted by Mr. Ziess. Mr. Ziess also sang a touching solo, "I've a Savior," that went to the hearts of his listeners. Rev. P. W. Walthall, pastor of the Christian church of Eastland, presided over the meeting. Rev. L. R. Hogan, pastor of the Eastland Presbyterian church, led in the invocation and Rev. W. J. Nelson, pastor of the First Baptist church, pronounced the benediction.
