

BETTING TAX ROUSES DEAR OLD ENGLAND

By United Press.
LONDON, March 2.—Since its introduction last November, the betting tax has caused a greater storm of indignation than did the whiskey tax, beer tax, income tax or any of the numerous taxes under which the Britisher labors.

Cash transactions are allowed on a race track, but it is illegal to call on a bookmaker; one must speak over a government-owned telephone. The man in the street must not hand a betting slip to a man he sees on the sidewalk, but he may go to a neighboring telephone booth and make bets that way provided no money passes.

The betting tax was expected to bring $30,000,000 a year on which the government hoped to raise $7,500,000 by March 31st. According to Ronald McNeill, M. P., financial secretary of the treasury the latter figure was put down as a rough guess and not very likely to be reached.

Further the full revenue-producing power of the tax he thought would begin after flat-racing commenced on March 21st.

Hurts Horses.
The greatest antagonists are the bookmakers who went on strike against it within a few weeks of its inception. Some oppose it on principle; others declare they are being ruined by its operations, maintaining that lawful betting has decreased at least sixty per cent. Furthermore, they draw a parallel between prohibition in the United States and the bets tax over here, the obvious sequel, according to them, being the marked increase of betting which is now done by breaking the law.

Breeders of thoroughbreds are not so unanimous in their opinions and statements. Some maintain the tax has already hurt the great bloodstock industry, prophesying the end of betting, and as a consequence ruins both racing, and the breeding trade that depends upon it. Others maintain that the evidence available is all to the contrary. Taking the record December sales as an example of the ever-increasing value of all classes of bloodstock. The same optimists draw attention to the enormous demand for the services of the leading sires in the country, all booked up for 1927, 1928 and 1929, according to the "Racing Calendar."

With owners, trainers, race executives and the racing public generally, the present tax on turnover is unpopular. Many favor some alternative scheme with the approval of the vast numbers of those interested in racing. Some alternative schemes suggested are a tax only on net winnings of layers and backers; a tax registration scheme for both bettors and bookmakers; or a stamp method of taxing all accounts.

Prominent racing folk are of the opinion that Churchill will not attempt to alter the tax in the forthcoming budget and if the proceeds of the betting tax do not come up to expectations, 1928 may see the legalization of cash betting and the introduction of the pari-mutuel on the race tracks.

Film World Has Gay Night Names Stars

By DAN CAMPBELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
HOLLYWOOD, March 2.—Hollywood's gayest night of the proverbial three hundred and sixty-five nocturnal revelries has passed for another year and thirteen movie starlets are shining on the horizon of movie fame.

In a blaze of color and with spectacular effect the Wampus, genius publicity surveyors of the world, presented their choice of the thirteen feminine players, who in their opinion had the potential qualities that pave the road to stardom.

The sixth annual frolic and ball drew the elite of the artistic and social world to the Ambassador Hotel where for hours before the stars began to arrive, thousands of curious screen fans lined the corridors, waiting for a glimpse of some favorite player.

Preceded by a program that presented some of the most famous personages of the stage and screen, the baby stars of 1927 were presented to the vast audience of more than 3,000—a dazzling array of stunning gowns and in a brilliant setting.

Wampus has achieved the acclaim of the film colony, a city in which triumphs are commonplace.

Little Eva is dying again, this time for the movies, and the entire Universal lot, where Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal novel is being filmed, suffers with her each day.

Virginia Gray, the child actress who has won fame overnight, has touched the heart strings of immobile directors and cameramen with her histrionic ability and an air of gloom pervades Universal City.

Hollywood's claim to having among its habitues one member of any trade or profession from flea trainer to dirigible operator has been questioned. Casting directors' files, Main street side-shows in Los Angeles, and beach resorts were combed for an expert Punch and Judy operator for "Too Many Crooks" which brings Mildred Davis back to the screen.

It was finally necessary to seek aid in San Diego where an artist of that ancient profession was found and brought back to Hollywood.

Oil Belt Exes Will Celebrate Independence Day

L. H. Flewellen of Ranger, will extend a welcome to all of the Texas University Exes of the Oil Belt association at the fourth annual banquet to be held tonight at the Methodist church, Ranger. V. L. Shuttleff, of Breckenridge will respond to the address of welcome.

In addition to these feature addresses, the high school orchestra will play, Leo Underwood's cornet quartet will render several selections and there will be other musical numbers by Ranger folks, and programs will be put on by the visiting Exes.

Election of state officers of the Ex Student association and of officers for the Oil Belt association will be held.

Mr. Flewellen said this morning that responses were coming in fast and that every indication was that the affair will be largely attended.

"There will be plenty of eats and plenty of entertainment," Mr. Flewellen said today.

All Texas Exes, their wives and sisters, are urged to be present. The Woman's Missionary society are to serve the banquet and the church will be fittingly decorated in the university colors for the event.

C. I. A. Explains What Use Will Be Made of Coin

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.
DENTON, Texas, March 2.—These specifications asking for a total of $44,550 are included in the bill for the College of Industrial Arts' appropriation now before the state legislature.

A sum of $3500 has been asked for remodeling and refurnishing the present library quarters for use as classrooms as soon as the new library building is completed. An additional sum of $8,000 is asked for the summer session.

Another item on the bill requests an appropriation of $32,850 in order to put a number of teachers on the state payroll instead of drawing salaries from the college fund. President L. H. Hubbard has expressed the wish that C. I. A. be put on the same basis with other state institutions in this respect.

Walsh Donates $100 to Home Town Contest

DALLAS, March 2.—Col. C. C. Walsh, of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas, has mailed his personal check for $100 to the Stamford office of the West Texas chamber of commerce to be awarded by that organization to one of the successful winners in the annual Home Town contest at the yearly convention.

The competition, open to all high school boys and girls, who will boost their home towns, carries with it several hundred dollars in cash prizes as well as scholarship awards from Texas Technological college, the West Texas state teachers college and others.

The contest will be held during the two-day session at Wichita Falls, May 16 and 17 when huge delegations from scores of West Texas cities will gather at the annual gala convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

C. I. A. Observes Independence Day Goes to Dallas

DENTON, Texas, March 2.—Wednesday, March 2nd is being observed as a holiday in the College of Industrial Arts. Scores of faculty members went to Dallas by special interurbans early Wednesday morning to attend the sessions of the National Educational association.

Students are not permitted to leave town for the day.

Dog Saves Lives Of Couple From Suicides' Graves

VIENNA.—Their dog's antipathy to suicide, or at least to gas as a way of committing suicide, was responsible for the rescue alive of a Viennese accountant and his wife who attempted to asphyxiate themselves.

The accountant and his wife discouraged by their troubles closed the windows and doors of their apartment, opened all of the gas jets, and lay down on the bed to die in each other's arms.

By accident or maybe because they wished that their dog should accompany them into the beyond, they had shut their dog up in the house with them.

The dog had different views. As soon as the gas became unpleasant he sought fresh air by jumping through the glass window pane.

Running to the porter the dog barked until the latter investigated. The dog's master and mistress resuscitated and now all three are again trying to make the best of life.

DICK BARTHELMESS AN INVALID, BROKE FOOT

Dick Barthelme is an invalid these days, having broken a bone in his foot while playing tennis. Fortunately for First National, "The Patent Leather Kid," from the pen of Rupert Hughes, which they are producing at a cost of $1,000,000, has not been delayed by the accident.

The final sequences of the picture which necessitate Dick's appearance in a hospital cot are being filmed first.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRET FOLSOM while swimming with a party of friends at Ocean Town, N. J. At the Hotel Majusaca, where they all had been guests, an inquiry is begun, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

Folsom's companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death had been standing next to NED BARRON, who was one of a party including his wife, MADELINE, ANGELICA FAIR and her fiancé, ROBIN STARS, and his father CROYDON SEARS.

"Of course, my dear sir. I thought you realized that. It would be a sheer impossibility for a man to kill himself in that manner. So as there is no doubt as to the fatal wounds, what other theory can you suggest?" "An accident?" stammered Neville, floundering in his speech.

"Anastasia Folsom is one of the most decided characters I have ever known. She is fearless and outspoken to a degree. And you can count on her for help, if needed, in solving the mystery of her brother's death. I suppose it is a mystery?"

"But—but who could have done it, sir?" the man asked, as the tale came to its close. "Almost nobody down here knew Mr. Folsom at all, and those who did were his friends."

"CARD OF THANKS We take this method of thanking our neighbors and friends for the kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our beloved son, May God's richest blessings be bestowed upon you all in the memory of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Harrell and family.—Adv.

withdrew, and as a result the water of the ocean washed away all stain of blood from the garment Mr. Folsom wore, and anyway, there was very little blood outside.

"Yes," said Dixon nodding his head. "That is all we want of you Mr. Neville. And Mrs. Valdon, also a friend of Mr. Folsom's sister, will tell her that we—the management—have done all we can to obey the law and also keep the matter as—er—private as possible."

Carmelita Valdon smiled a little. "Personally, I should thank you Mr. Dixon," she said, "for keeping things quiet. But I may as well tell you that Miss Folsom is not like that. She is—how shall I put it?—rather given to publicity, rather fond of—er—notoriety. I do not mean that she would make capital of her brother's death to bring herself into the limelight, but she is not at all averse to prominence in print."

"You amaze me," Mrs. Valdon, Dixon said. "I had pictured the sister as a shrinking, retiring sort."

"That is the word, sir," declared the doctor. "Extraordinary, indeed! Not the fact of the inconspicuous wound. That is accounted for by the water of the ocean, which precluded any crimson stain. But the extraordinary thing is the possibility of an assailant finding opportunity and time to drive that blow unseen and unnoticed by the scores of people crowding about him!"

"An assailant?" cried Roger Neville. "You mean he was murdered?" "Oh, no," Carmelita exclaimed

Merchants Plan Spring Opening Week of April 7

Spring will be officially opened up by the merchants of Ranger on April 7, according to plans that were made last night at a committee meeting of the Ranger Retail Merchants association. This committee, which was composed of W. W. Housewright, J. M. White, John Hassen, W. O. Brown, Sam Tharpe, R. N. Curry and Mrs. Alice True, secretary of the Ranger association, gathered at dinner in the Green room of the Gholson and worked out plans for a pre-Easter opening. A publicity and finance committee were appointed, with W. W. Housewright general chairman. On the publicity committee are J. M. White, John Hassen and W. W. Paschall. W. O. Brown, Sam Tharpe and R. N. Curry constitute the finance committee. On the evening of April 7, the stores and banks of Ranger will hold open house, and the former will have on display many handsome garments, the last word in spring styles. This will be followed out for 10 days, closing the night before Easter. While all the program is not yet ready for publication, hints are that this will surpass any former openings and while arranged differently it has many possibilities for pleasure and sight seeing.

Rangers Little Theatre Enters Dallas Tourney

Ranger Little theatre will present "Wreckage" in the Little theatre tournament in Dallas, during the Little theatre tournament week, beginning April 4. This is the first time that Ranger's Little theatre has attempted to enter the state tournament.

"Wreckage" is a snappy one-act play. It lasts just about 20 minutes, but is chuck full of action from beginning to end.

It will be presented in Ranger prior to being taken to Dallas. Since the Little theatre is just about 18 months old, and it will have to compete with organizations much older, it speaks well of the director's, Mrs. M. F. Peters, confidence in her cast to put them against older Little theatres.

The Queen's Birthday Cake

Queen Marie of Roumania was recently presented with a delicious Birthday Cake—made in the model Calumet Bake Shop by Master Calumet Bakers.

The presentation was endowed with a touch of dainty charm, the cake being cut with a glittering sword by Mrs. Samuel Insull, eminent Chicago social leader and fascinating star in "The Runaway Road" and "Dice of God" recently staged at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

Should be used in all your bakings.

This cake weighed sixty pounds and was prepared with Calumet Baking Powder. It was made in several layers and filled with fruit. Beautiful flowers molded of sugar adorned the cake, and it was topped with a royal crown, made entirely of palatable sweets.
