REG'LAR M'LEAN & MAY MATRIMONIAL FARCE SCREAM AT MAJESTIC

"The Very Idea," Fritz Field's Follies production at the Majestic, demonstrates without the aid of logic and analysis, but through the medium of comedy and music, the fallacies of circumstantial evidence. The curtain is rung up on the law office of Spivens & Dooley, caterers to that clientele seeking severance of marital relations. In the absence of the firm, the office is under the competent steno who chews neither gum nor rag, but is strictly business. Spivens' wife arrives to question the stenographer concerning Spivens' relations with the "co-respondents" who, through the office of her husband, in the ensuing conversation with her employer's wife Billie Blaine in the role of the delectable steno injects some fast and highly amusing lines, finally defining her position with the statement that she is a typist, not a champion. Spivens (Fritz Fields) becomes aware of his wife's suspicions and the comedy reaches its height when he "frames" his wife in a scene in which a client is told in tones of finality that, because of personal scruples, the firm of Spivens & Dooley is not engaged in undoing the work of ministers. Mrs. Spivens is gratified to know that her suspicions are without foundation, and departs in satisfaction. The lay audience is then given a new angle on the functioning of an up-to-date law office when the partners look over the "revised statutes of '86—Scotch tea in a brown bottle, which is guzzled to the evident satisfaction of the law and the irritation of the audience. The plot arrives with Charles Curtis (Ben Rhye), who explains that financial interest in a roadhouse has occasioned frequent visits there, the nature of which visits are doubted by his wife. Therefore he is selling out to keep peace in the family and begs that Dooley draw the legal papers and accompany him that evening to the Blue Mouse to witness their signature. Dooley agrees. Spivens enters from his private office as the partner leaves in company with

Curtis. A moment later Curtis' wife, in pretty clothes and perfect cosmetics, arrives to insist that Spivens accompany her to the Blue Mouse that evening to secure evidence against Curtis, whom she would divorce. Discretion tells Fritz to refuse. But she is so easy to look at, and the tea that had been in the bottle has sufficiently dissipated his better judgment, that he accepts her invitation to dine.

The scene at the Blue Mouse that evening repeats with situations that make for laughter. James Spivens as the cabaret waiter upholds the reputation of his profession for tact, an deserves a seductive drink to all comers. Myrtle Burch, feminine lead, is clever in the role of bibulous innocence. She really is on the wagon, but since the drinks are on the house she orders a flock of assorted liquors. Her Adam's apple turns three handsprings and she floats through the wastes of oblivion, raving at random.

The arrival of her husband and Spivens' wife precipitates a small riot, followed by explanations and the conventional conciliatory finale.

The chorus is decidedly in voice and shaves, among other things, a pleasing tousle.

One of the best Fritz Fields offerings.

LAMB William Farnum Here in "If I Were King."

Extensive preparations are being made at the Lamb theatre for the appearance of William Farnum in "If I Were King" the William Fox special screen production based on Justin Huntly McCarthy's famous play in which E. H. Sothern made a tremendous "hit."

"If I Were King" will open today for two days run.

There is something about Justin Huntly McCarthy's story of "If I Were King," that forever lingers in the memory—not only because the play was a success, perhaps, but also because the book was so widely read; in fact, still is being read. How many persons can remember the plays in which Mr. Sothern has scored success? Yet you will find that if you mention Sothern's name you will get the response: "Oh yes, he played in 'If I Were King.'"

The character of Francois Villon, enacted on the stage by Mr. Sothern, seems peculiarly fitted for William Farnum, and the Fox star is said to portray it with all the artistry that years of stage experience have given him.

William Farnum has done some splendid work for the screen. His pictures are always worth seeing; but when he appears in a story like "If I Were King" he stands out above all other film stars.

headline the bill at the Opera House theatre the first half of next week. The "Overseas Revue," is the title of this spectacular production and in it are featured Blanche Latell and Billy C. Welp with a cast of New York favorites in support.

The "Overseas Revue" was originally produced as a musical satire to entertain "Our Boys" over there with Elizabeth Brice and Will Morrissey in the stellar roles. Its presentation in this country is under the personal direction of Will Morrissey and his selection of the famous comedienne, Blanche Latell, well known on the legitimate stage with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Cub," and "Naughty Marietta," and of Billy C. Welp, also of "Naughty Marietta," and a well known Broadway comedian is a positive assurance of the quality of this production. Three distinct scenes and twelve musical numbers are combined to make the production notable.

YOUNG WEEKS HURT WHEN BACKED INTO BY MOTOR TRUCK

Cleora Weeks, 17-year-old son of Captain Tom Weeks of the police department, was badly bruised and slightly injured internally yesterday by being backed into by a motor truck. The accident happened in the eastern section of the city. Young Weeks was riding a bicycle and the added impact of his momentum probably added to the seriousness of his injuries. The boy was carried to the offices of Dr. Carl Wilson and given medical aid.

The past year and word from other cities indicates a similar revival of interest in equestrianism. Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America said here today. "A San Francisco stable says that its patronage has tripled in two years. The Minneapolis Saddle and Bridle club now owns more horses than ever before, and with Kansas City is extending its bridle path."

TYPHOID FEVER ON INCREASE IN NORTH STEPHENS DISTRICT

By Staff Correspondent IVAN, Oct. 22.—An alarming number of cases of typhoid fever among oil field workers in this section is likely to lead to a call upon state health officials for an analysis and aid in curbing the activities of the less conscientious water sellers, who are thought to be the cause of the prevalence of the disease. Most of the water in this section is brought from carriers and water wagons. Though no definite basis for the charge is at hand, it is the belief of consumers that the methods of obtaining water are not wholesome and that in some instances tank and creek water are substituted by the water carriers, who find this method of supplying their customers more handy than making the long trip to the Brazos, where pure water is available.

The German army now numbers 150,000 men.

Miss Kathryn Watson has returned from a short visit to the Dallas fair. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Killingsworth left yesterday for Dallas, where they will spend several days visiting the State Fair.

P. K. Lindsey of Abilene was in Ranger on business yesterday. Mrs. E. S. Doze and daughter, Miss Leona, of Waxahachie are visiting friends and relatives in Ranger.

The expense of the maintenance of the French army on the Rhine until last March amounted to nearly two billion francs, and of this sum Germany has contributed slightly more than 400,000,000, or about 20 per cent.

COSTS $140 YEARLY TO ATTEND BEREA COLLEGE, FAMOUS SCHOOL FOR KENTUCKY MOUNTAINEERS

By Associated Press
BEREA, Ky., Oct. 22.—Berea college, which has enabled thousands of mountaineers of the South to earn an education, will inaugurate a new president here today. The successful administration of William Goodell Frost, president of Berea for twenty-eight years, ended last June. His successor, William James Hutchings, comes to this position from a distinguished career at Oberlin college. President Frost made Berea famous as "the mountain college of the South" where no one is turned away because of ignorance or poverty. The studies range from A. B. C.'s of the "foundation school" to the A. B. course in college. All expenses can be met with $140 a year and all can earn part of this by labor, the college reports. Students' earnings exceed $50,000 a year. More than 2,100 of the 2,560 students at Berea last year came from the mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Alabama and Georgia. The predominance of mountain students is reflected in the inauguration program, today and tomorrow "pageant of the mountains" will be staged on the campus picturing the historical significance of "Appalachian American," and on Oct. 23 a conference on mountain problems will be held by experts in rural education and by other educators.

AMERICAN COWS NOT WANTED BY GERMAN FOOD CONTROLLER

By Associated Press
BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Food Controller Hermes' opposition to the admission into Germany of the 5,000 cows donated by American farmers and against the importation of flour from America is said to have been offered by New York bakers has aroused the wrath of some of the liberal Berlin newspapers.

They charge the food controller with interposing objections which have complicated the negotiations with the American company which is assembling the cows donated by the American farmers and declare that the ministerial pedantry which threatened for a time to deprive Germany of the American gift of cows will be made the object of interpellation in the Reichstag.

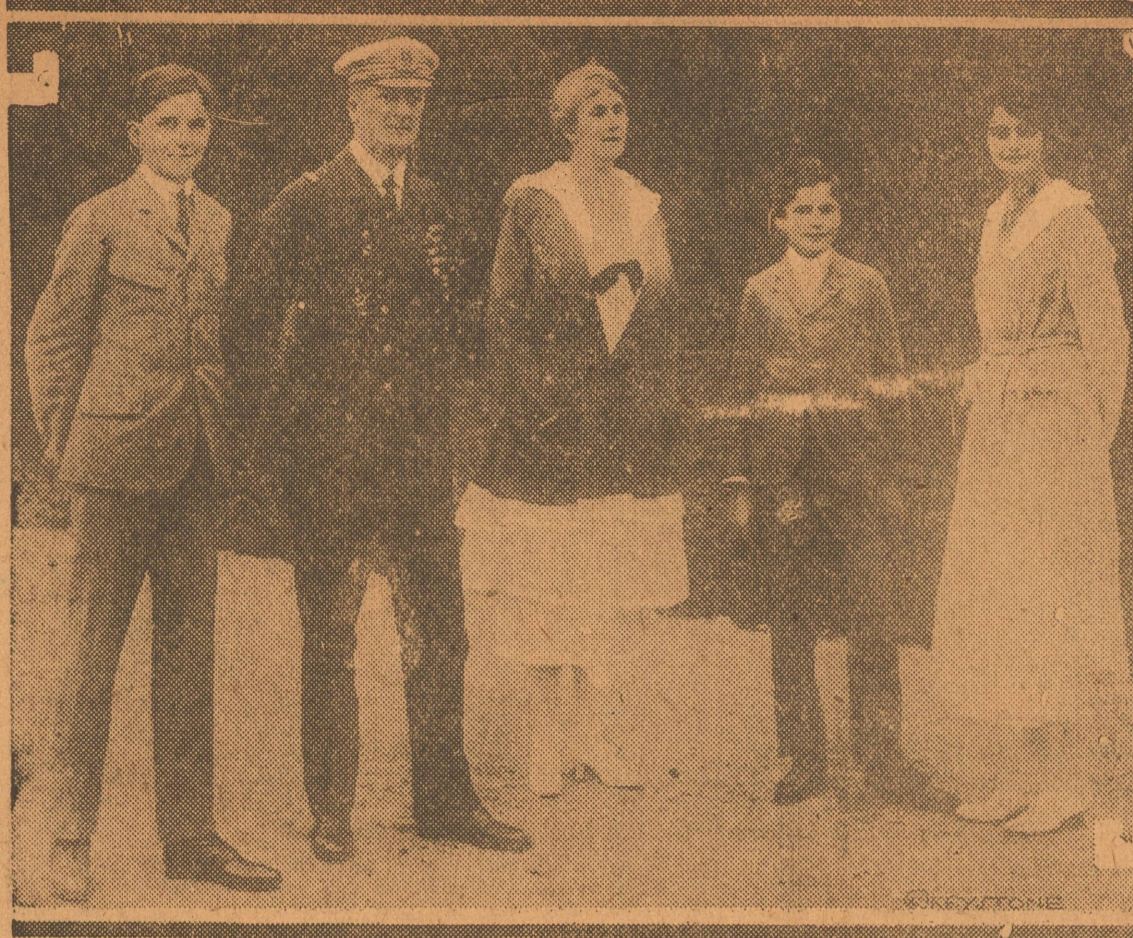

The food controller demurred to accepting the cows on the ground that their transportation across the Atlantic was not feasible and that there was a shortage of fodder for them here.

Hi seritics say that if the Americans could send across the ocean 1,500,000 soldiers with fighting equipment and food, they ought to be able to move 5,000 cows across. They add that the cows will only take the place of those delivered to Belgium and France which would have been fed in Germany.

The food controller's opposition to uncontrolled importation of American flour was based on fear that it would disrupt arrangements already made to ration the people. The Berlin bakers are anxious to have the American flour sent here in the hope that it will break the monopoly now held by German farmers.

The fall in birthrate due to mobilization of 38,000,000 men during the world war is estimated at 20,200,000.

SOLDIERS BARRED FROM IRISH DANCES

DUBLIN, Oct. 22.—In many parts of Ireland friendly relations prevail between the soldiers and the people, and nowhere are they regarded with the bitter hostility displayed toward the police, and particularly toward the recently imported English police known as the Black and Tans. But a change has been noted of late.

At Omagh a dance was being held at which several men of the Kings Royal Rifles and the Inniskilling Fusiliers had paid for admission and were enjoying themselves when a note was handed in by a masked man to the effect that, if any English soldier was allowed to take part in the dance, drastic steps would be taken. The soldiers took the matter in good humor, and left rather than cause any unpleasantness.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

The Course of True Love.

It was a dripping, gloomy day when the Woman boarded the Ninth Avenue Elevated at Barclay street, and, unusual occurrence, an "off" hour for passengers so she couldn't fail to notice that the dampness and gloom were not confined to the weather. Beside her sat a neatly dressed girl, plainly under great mental distress. Big tears welled up in the large Irish blue eyes and were wiped away, only to make room for more. In a timorous tone, with just a trace of brouge she ventured to ask if the Woman would tell her when her train reached Twenty-third street, adding that she was an utter stranger in the city. The Woman must have registered interest and sympathy—and indeed she felt both for the girl poured forth a story of disappointment so recent that she was still crushed.

Wishing to return to her beloved Ireland, which she had left six years previously to find employment in a Massachusetts town, and acting on the different advice of the steamship agent there, she came to New York, expecting to get passage on the Carmania, only to find on her arrival that there was no berth to be had and no chance of any future booking until late in August. The Woman essayed comfort by advising her to tell her story to the head of the religious home where she was staying temporarily, suggesting that she perhaps might help her out. The relief of telling her troubles calmed her somewhat, and with a rosy blush she explained shyly: "Sure and it's myself that feels bad enough, but it's my sweetheart will be sore broken-hearted after waitin' so long when he finds I'll not be there to marry him as we planned. And him with the cottage rented and all." Again the quiet tears flowed and she furtively wiped them away with a very moist little kerchief.

The guard called Twenty-third street and a low, "I feel better just for the tellin' to you," the girl was gone.

Many times since has the Woman thought of the little happening, hoping almost against hope that Cupid might look after his own; that after six years of working and saving and longing the two faithful young lovers would be reunited, and occupy their "wee bit cottage" according to their eager planning.

Exclusive.

Nettie is so capable that her employers wonder at her versatility and have come to rely on her as one does on the rising of the sun, the shining of the stars the sound of the sea and the cool of God—an old time Southern mammy, unspoiled by forty years of "pamperin' by the wind—for she is a natural Gift of her folks." Recently Nettie has been doing days work for a select few, not caring for the grind of an all-time job on her skill with the needle when called upon to do a trifling alteration on a gown one of her ladies said, simply as a compliment and not as a suggestion, "Nettie, you are a treasure! Why in the world don't you go as a seamstress in some fashionable tailoring establishment; You would make your mark."

Nettie paused, needle in air. "What ma'am, me work with all that trash what Ah don't know nothin' bout! No, ma'am Ah works fo' quality—Ah's private, Ah is!"

Many foreign born men who answered the call to their native lands when the war broke out are now returning to the United States. A large percentage were Italians who were employed in the coal mining districts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

THE COTTON CRISIS.

There is a reign of terror throughout the cotton belt. Gins are being destroyed or closed under threat of destruction unless operations cease. The price of cotton has dropped in the last thirty days from 40 to 17 cents. Planters are desperate. Commission houses that have advanced money on the crop, which now can neither be marketed nor prepared for market, are seriously involved. Producers and middlemen have joined in appealing to the government for relief, but no practicable method has as yet been proposed. In the meantime, Europe needs our cotton badly. It is said Germany alone wants 2,000,000 bales. She cannot buy it. She lacks money and credit and war-time restrictions still obstruct trade. So the great cotton crop which was grown partly in response to the earnest entreaty of European spinners last winter, cannot be utilized to meet the urgent needs of ragged humanity. Responsibility for this dreadful condition is chargeable largely to the stupidity and damn-the-consequences policy of the senate's refusal to ratify the peace treaty. Had the treaty been ratified promptly the world would still be confronted by problems of magnitude; but at least the deadly stagnation which now exists would have been lifted. The senatorial cabal that set out to down Wilson has measurably accomplished its purpose, but it has done it at a staggering cost. Here in St. Louis we shall presently feel that cost. A considerable part of our trade and prosperity depends on cotton. The cotton belt is St. Louis territory. It buys vast quantities of goods here. It will be out of the St. Louis market to a great extent unless means are found for reopening the legitimate channels of commerce by which Europe can buy our cotton. The world needs peace. The United States needs peace. It is not a sentimental need. It is not only a moral, but an economic need—a stern bread-and-butter need. St. Louis can see that need clearly from the top of a cotton bale.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A ROAD TO UTOPIA.

A solution of the labor-capital controversy which is coming more and more to the fore is the plan which might be termed community buying, although the groups are united rather on racial or industrial lines than on residential unity. A case in point is the financing of the purchase of a large ocean liner by the Poles in America, each contributing only a small sum individually, but the whole making an imposing aggregate. Another recent example is the announcement of the machinists' union, that it is buying large blocks of stock in industries which employ its members, the funds being derived from a small assessment on the individual members. The magnitude which this movement attain will be revealed by a more consideration of the number of members involved. There are many trades which have 100,000 or more members, and a dollar a month from each would make a respectable fund within a year—enough if wisely used to purchase control of the industry. We will see in this a new method of buying that when they are employees, there will be no more reverses, and the men will participate in their decisions, with assurance that they will benefit themselves. However, that the reverse will be a business, they will have to have an interest, and having an interest, other elements will be more reasonable in the making of wage adjustments, than they sometimes are under present conditions.

will be more reasonable in the making of wage adjustments, than they sometimes are under present conditions.

"What became of the movement started here to uplift the stage?" "It fell through." "Lack of interest?" "Quite the contrary. All the tired business men in town wanted to be on the committee to censor girl shows."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

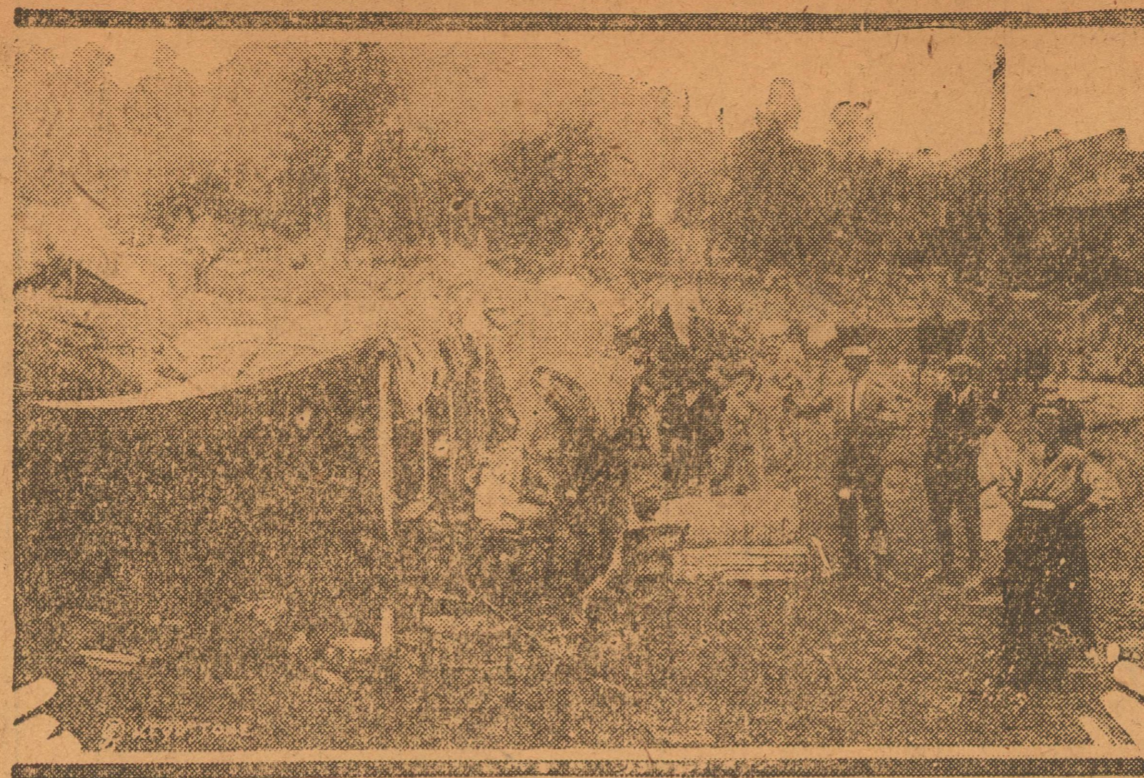

DONE IN THE DARK.

Our benevolent imperialism in the Caribbean has never been shown in a worse light than in the report of Major-General Barnett, belatedly and reluctantly given out by Secretary Daniels, on the conduct of the American marines in Haiti. When a former commandant finds it necessary to report that "the Marine Corps has been sadly lacking in right and justice" the public may surmise that the case is not understood. The statistics given by General Barnett indicate that it is not. Three thousand two hundred and fifty natives have been killed and counted by the marines and by native gendarmes commanded by marines during the five years of American occupation. How many more were killed and not counted, how many were wounded, and how many of the wounded died can only be conjectured. More than half of the total number were killed in the bandit attack on Port-au-Prince and the operations immediately following. In five years the marines lost twelve men killed and twenty-six wounded.

This is not warfare. It is, as General Barnett calls it, "practically indiscriminate killing." The evidence indicates that hundreds of Haitians, conveniently described as bandits, were killed by our troops with not much more risk than is involved in going into the Maine woods during the deer season or crossing Fifth avenue on a busy afternoon. Secretary Daniels had knowledge of the situation a year ago. Yet no later than nine days ago he had the effrontery to state, in a foreword to the whitewash report rendered by General LeJeune, that "with a very few exceptions the officers and men carried out in letter and spirit the order to set an example in helpfulness and kindness in the discharge of a difficult duty." The method adopted is characteristic of Washington officialdom. The secretary and his subordinates first issued orders which put a stop to the "indiscriminate killing," and then tried to hush the matter up. They might have been successful had it not been for the exposures made by the New York Nation—publications which Secretary Daniels well described as "calculated to produce the impression that the marines had been cruel and inhuman."

General Barnett's naive assertion that the marines probably killed fewer natives than would have been killed by bandits had the marines not been there need not be disputed, nor need the question of benevolent imperialism in general be entered into. The damning fact is that these crimes were committed by men in the pay of the American people, but without the American people's knowledge or consent. At long as our Caribbean exploits are done in the dark we may expect, from time to time, the same results. Full, free and unretiring publicity is the only remedy. If the present administration will not give it perhaps Mr. Harding's administration will.—New York Globe.

So O Possum hid himself by the side of the cornstalk to wait till all the Forest creatures were asleep.

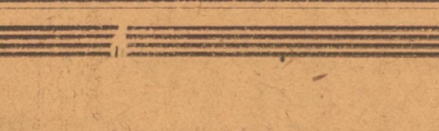

Now and then he heard a sound from a nearby tree that told him that even Jerry the Jay was not sound asleep yet. Of course Jerry could not see him, but if there was the least sound that Jerry could catch he would have a story about it the next day that would make all the Forest dwellers sit up and take notice.

So O Possum climbed up the cornstalk to the window and looked in, and this is what he saw—the King and Lady Duck were sitting by the fireplace. O Possum tried to jump through the window, but his feet were fast to the magic cornstalk.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

We was having the languidge lesson in school today and Miss Kitty was telling the class about certain words that people awt to use correctly and dont jest out of pure ignorants, saying, Now take lie and lay for instants, 2 perfectly simple words and yet so many people have no ider how to distinguish between them. Now who thinks they can give a sentence in wich the words lay and lie are correctly used?

Wich Pops Simpkins waved his hand and Miss Kitty sed, Well, Charles? Some people lie like the mischief but it takes a hen to lay a egg, sed Pops. Well, that's not exactly the kind of lie and lay I ment, sed Miss Kitty, I will give you a good hint, lie is present and lay is past, now who can give me a sentence?

Wich Leroy Shooster waved his hand, saying, The boy lied about the present he got for his berthday and his father gave him sutch a licking he couldnt hardly lay on his past. O my, Ill try to make it plainer, I lie in the present but in the past I lay, now surell some one is brite enuff to give me a correck sentence, sed Miss Kitty.

Wich Lew Davis waved his hand, saying, The present was a bewtiful folding bed and I lie in the present, but if it had went past I would lay. This is fearful, sed Miss Kitty, now listen, I lie down, thats present, now suppose I was talking about lying down yesterday, how would I say it; Wat would I say, Sidney Hunt?

You'd say, yestidday is past, so I think Ill lay down, sed Sid. O, lets go on to the joggriffy lesson, sed Miss Kitty. Wich we did.

racing they put a few in jail. And then they're fined so lightly they think it's all a joke, and leave the courtroom brightly, and make their autos smoke. Through highways residential, through traffic busy marts with arbor pestifential they run their deadly carts. They wing the fleeing baker, they maim the frightened clerk, and now the undertaker gets in his grewsome work. The doctor's nerves are busted, so many victims yelp, the coroner's disgusted and wildly calls for help. And still the crazy motors go rushing through the town, and slay the adult voters and mow the children down. And when I stand protesting the speed fiends scorn my rhyme and jauntily go questing for some one they can climb.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

CLXXI. DREAMS OF ASHES.

There are many who believe that night-visions of ashes are mostly evil and many dream interpreters have encouraged this error. Let me assure you that they are mistaken. Merely to see ashes is no particular omen, further than a hint that, perhaps you may not be able to leave your house for several days. But to have ashes in your hand, or in your pocket, is a very lucky vision. It tells you that a great joy will come into your life.

In the case of young married women, this dream always means the birth of a healthy baby and the remarkably speedy recovery of the mother.

Since women who have this dream will experience a marvelous improvement in their condition. If they are poor, they will become well-to-do; if they are ill, they will become well; if they are unhappy in love, they will find happiness. Ashes strewn on any object-mark this article as having something to do with your fate. To give you an example: If you find them on a chair, you will sit in this very chair when your lover asks you to become his wife.

However, to touch hot ashes is a sign that you will receive and finally accept money which you should not take—it is neither honestly gotten nor given in a way that should make you happy. If your clothes are dusted with ashes you will, in a few days' time, for some reason or other, put on your best attire.

Ashes in your mouth are tokens of the unpleasant truth. You will, after ripe judgment and consideration, say something to some person which will be displeasing to hear—but deserved. In the case of girls engaged to be married, it often foretells the breaking off of the engagement of the girl's free will—whereafter she will be happier and well-rid of a man who, had she married him would have made her life miserable.

In the next chapter I shall tell you of dreams of Angels.

OKLAHOMA GIRL, 16 AND PRETTY, HELD ON FORGERY CHARGES; WAS MODEL IN HER OWN HOME TOWN

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 22.—With a record of $100 a week for six weeks Nina Noakes, pretty 16-year-old school girl from Picher, Okla., is in the Kane County jail at Geneva, following a hearing upon the charge of forgery. Her broken-hearted mother arrived this week to make a plea for the release of the girl, promising that she would never repeat the offense and offering restitution to all her victims. The mother believes that the girl was the victim of an older and shrewder person, who suggested the means to get money and then decamped when the girl was taken into custody. According to the story of the parent Miss Noakes was a model girl in her home town. She never missed her Surtzlag school classes and never retired at night without praying. A junior in the high school at Picher, the girl was regarded as a model pupil. To the consternation of her parents, she suddenly announced her intention of quitting school and going to work. She was urged to remain until graduation. Instead of doing so she disappeared from home and her parents knew nothing of her whereabouts until word was received that she had been arrested as a forger.

Starts in Kansas City.
The first effort of the youthful forger to defraud by means of spurious checks was made in Kansas City, where a lead line store handed over $120. Encouraged by her success, she went to Joplin Mo., where she got $50. She went to Cleveland, O., where she obtained $80

Toledo, Detroit and Chicago each yielded $35 and the ease with which the money was obtained emboldened her to plan a systematic tour of the country, to include many states, the program calling for only short stays in various cities.

At Elgin, Ill., she took in $150. She met her downfall in Aurora. In all cases the girl would enter a store, purchase a bill of goods, order a delivery to some fake address, present a check for a larger sum than the purchase aggregated and receive the difference in cash. She was always tastefully gowned and showed a winning smile. She patronized the electric lines in preference to the steam roads, shrewdly surmising that the latter would be watched more closely.

Capture an Accident.
It was by accident that Miss Noakes was captured in Aurora. She had cashed a check in a store handling electrical fixtures and, after she left, the proprietor noticed that the address she gave, to which the goods were to be forwarded, was a vacant lot, as his men had just completed a job of fixture installation in the same block. The police were notified, the girl was trailed and arrested when about to board a train for Joliet. In her possession was a book giving the items of her speculations in the various cities. Under the heading of "income," she noted the sums realized through checks while under the heading of "expense," she recorded expenditures for carfare, hotel

'T WAS SOLEMN MOMENT WHEN ORCHESTRA PLAYED 'MY LITTLE BROWN JUG'

A sad and solemn moment gripped the diners in a local cafe last night. To a man they reverently bowed their heads in the attitude of those who are attending the last sad rites. Waiters ceased their hurrying and for a short time stood with upraised trays and down-cast eyes.

The feeling of sadness extended to the passersby on the street, and one by one they gathered in the doorway with their hats in their hands and more than one tear was hastily wiped away.

The cafe orchestra in sad, slow music was playing "My Little Brown Jug."

restaurant and other bills. Under another heading marked "route" she had placed the names of Dwight, Bloomington, Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, St. Louis and a series of Western cities, with the date she planned to visit each.

The mother of the prisoner conferred with the state's attorney and hopes that there will be no prosecution if all the money illicitly obtained is returned.

Man Implicated, Thinks Mother.
Despite the insistence of the girl that she operated without a confederate, the mother is confident that her daughter with her limited knowledge of banking methods, could not write checks so as to successfully deceive so many business men. The mother believes that a designing man wrote the checks and retained the major portion of the money realized on them.

Miss Noakes is being held in bonds of $4,000. Many of the victims have indicated their intention to prosecute her. The case will be heard at the November term of court.

HOSELESS HOSE WAGON DRIVER SHOCKS FOLKS, SUSPENDED--AND TRIED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Because he drove the motor truck of the Reliance Hose Company of Rockville Centre, L. I. in his bare feet, William C. Elder was suspended last week and Monday will have to face charges of insubordination. Elder has been a volunteer fireman nearly five years.

Several weeks ago a house was struck by lightning. Elder, in his anxiety to get the apparatus to the scene, is said to have rushed from his home partly clad, mounted the truck and driven to the scene without shoes or stockings.

When Fire Chief Harry A. Curley heard of this, he is said to have rebuked Elder. The latter is alleged to have threatened to strike the fire chief. Capt. Holmuth then was directed to appoint another chauffeur for the machine.

Elder says it is not his bare feet that caused the fuss, but that politics are the cause of the controversy.

Giving the Devil His Due.
An old Scottish woman always had a good word to say for everybody. One day a friend said, "Janet, I believe you would find something good to say of the devil himself."
"Weel," remarked Janet, "he's a very industrious body.—Edinburg Scotsman.

Town Clock Would Never Do!

"A Citizen" Wants One—One That Will Strike the Hours—But He (or She) Cannot Have Considered It's Effect on Alibis.

A writer whose sex is indistinguishable either from the signature or the writing but who signs the letter "A Citizen," writes to the Chamber of Commerce wanting a town clock that strikes the hours.

Something in the manner of "He stood on the Bridge at Midnight, the Clock was Striking the Hour," not meaning, however that "A Citizen" would stand on a bridge at midnight; probably he or she would not, but it is something like that that the writer wants.

A timepiece that rings out the passing day, and which would, as the sad hours of the night approach, send its chimes echoed by every Spout, Spout, Tige and Tower, in the confines of the town, in mournful bayings that would bring forth a valley of shoes, empty bottles or anything else that could be used as by an outraged citizenry as a missile to stop the canine recital of "Grays Elegy" rendered in a hundred different keys.

It is doubtful if "A Citizen" gave a striking clock due consideration before offering the suggestion, else he or she sleeps in a sound-proof room.

The writer says in his letter that no two clocks in the city keep the same time, making it difficult for churches, schools, and workers to arrive at a given point at a given time. The argument is agreed with, but imagine the trouble that would be brought on the heads of the male population by a striking clock.

There is Dad, for example. Dad's trusty Ingersoll has a habit of lagging at times and he is late for dinner, but he has unanswerable proof that he is not late. With a free conscience and perfect abandon he dashes the hands of the Ingersoll back and forth at will. When the accusations are falling thick around his head he flashes the silver mounted time-piece, and She has to hush. If a town clock rang out the hours, Dad would be ruined. No argument about that.

A clock that had its tongue extracted might be a help and an ornament but one that rang out the hour—never!

COMMA WILL PLAY BIG PART IN SETTLEMENT OF OKLAHOMA-TEXAS BOUNDARY DISPUTE

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 22.—The islands which lie in the Red and Arkansas rivers are not the property of the United States, according to the voluminous testimony taken in half a dozen cities all over the United States in the Red River controversy, which has been raging between the government and the states of Oklahoma and Texas for months. Oil is behind the long-standing quarrel.

Late developments in the testimony indicate, however, that half a dozen states might be drawn into the dispute. For the Arkansas and Red rivers take their course through Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana.

Some believe the United States never received the islands from Spain when it obtained the land encompassing the river beds.

Whether the United States ever did and does now own the islands in the Red and Arkansas rivers apparently hangs upon the significance of a tiny punctuation mark in the treaty drawn up between America and Spain more than a century ago. A mere comma may decide it.

It is the comma which follows the word Sabine, in the following quotation from the treaty of 1819 between the United States government and the government of Spain, respecting the boundary between the territories of Texas and Louisiana: "There belongs to the United States all islands of the Sabine, and the Red river, and the Arkansas river," etc.

This is the exact copy of the treaty wording. The significance of the punctuation mark and the rather unusual wording was brought out in testimony before a United States commissioner appointed by the supreme court. The witness was a young woman of Spanish extraction in the University of Texas. Testimony has been taken in Oklahoma City, Lawton, Wichita Falls, Austin, St. Louis, Washington and various other points along the Red river.

The treaty of 1819 was written in both Spanish and English and the originals are on file at Austin, Texas. The young woman referred to was called upon to read and interpret the Spanish copy. She asserted that the comma deprived the United States of title to all islands in the Arkansas and Red rivers, but gave it title specifically to the islands of the Sabine river.

Attorney-General S. P. Freeling of Oklahoma, who was present and who questioned the young lady at length on the rules of punctuation, declared that there was no doubt that the English copy of the instrument specifically granted to the United States the Red and Arkansas islands. The testimony is now part of the record of the case now being prepared for submission to the United States supreme court.

The taking of testimony in the river-bed controversy was concluded recently in Washington, and the clerical force of the commissioner is preparing it for submission by Nov. 15. The chief purpose of the testimony at the present time is to establish the boundary in law between the states of Oklahoma and Texas. A decision is expected by Jan. 1, after which proof will be submitted touching the matter of boundary in fact.

The testimony in the case is of such length that it fills nearly 2,000 typewritten pages of manuscript besides documentary evidence and exhibits which were submitted.

The testimony touches principally upon the exercise of jurisdiction over the bed of the Red river by Texas and Oklahoma in the last 50 years. The Oklahoma side presented witnesses to prove that all railroads save the Rock Island which have recent years paid taxes to Oklahoma to the south bank of the river. The Rock Island has paid to the middle of the stream. The toll bridge at Byers has paid taxes to the states. That at Terral has paid to Oklahoma. Ferries have paid in Oklahoma some of them in Texas.

The local officials in misdemeanor cases at least two murder cases and jurisdiction on the south side of the middle of the stream.

Take 'Upper Road' to Breckenridge, Truckers' Advice

Although the rainfall was comparatively slight, traffic on the roads leading from Ranger into the Stephens county fields has been retarded greatly within the last two days. According to autoists and truck drivers who have made the trip between Ranger and Breckenridge since the rain, it is wise to take the upper road on the highlands to the left of the Hamon-Kell tracks on the way to Stephens county and environs. The lower highway, to the left of the tracks, never well conditioned, are declared to be well high impassable.

Since the rain unfortunate drivers have left six or eight trucks bogged or out of repair stranded along the road between the two points, according to drivers. These abandoned cars, in addition to worn out tires, pieces of oil field machinery, casing couplings and other jet-sam, gives the road the appearance of a graveyard for automobile junk.

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly, for the benefit of Times readers.

Tomorrow the Richardson-Brown company will put on special sale a line of suits and silk and wool dresses priced at $18.00 and $19.45.

For all kinds of bead trimmings, tassels, variegated and bugle beads and chenille tassels, call at the Winner Store.

Saturday the Agnes Dillard Millinery will sell all tam-o-shanter hats for half price. This includes some handsome hand-made ones originally priced at $30.00. The new prices will range from $2.00 to $15.00. One-third off will be given on all sailors, including the late arrivals. Saturday will also be double coupon day at this shop.

The Boston Store announces a 20 per cent reduction on their entire line of silk goods, beginning today. Among the new things just arrived at this store are a beautiful mink jet throw and gray squirrel coat.

A beautiful selection of blouses with the original Madam Plandens fastened inside the belt is carried by the S. & H. Store. These are of the distinctive style and designing that can only be obtained by hand work. Very handsome is the one designed of dark blue crepe meteor with a band of oriole satin at the bottom and sleeves. Above this band a deep border design of gold braid is applied on, both in front and back. The neck also has a band of the satin and the slit front is edged in braid.

WANTED EYES TREATED; GOT BEAUTY MESSAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Claiming that an operation which he understood was to aid his eyesight was merely a beauty message for which he received a bill for $200, Pierre de Saisset, son of a wealthy French family and prominent in musical circles in this city, has filed a complaint against Mme. Adele Millar, proprietor of a beauty parlor at 245 Stockton street, charging her with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Attorneys for De Saisset stated that following the hearing of the criminal charge a suit for $50,000 damages would be brought.

The Republican party does not need Texas this year to win.

But—

Texas needs the Republican party if the producers of this state are to be protected against pauper labor.

Note what price is being paid for cottonseed!

Note what price is being paid for peanuts!

And remember the Orient is dumping billions of pounds of vegetable oils in this country duty free to depress the prices received by Texas farmers for their products.

Spencer Injured When Shop Employee Hurls Red-Hot Iron

H. B. Spencer, Hamon-Kell employe, was badly cut and burned as the result of a fellow workman throwing a heavy piece of red hot iron through a window of the company's shops just at the moment when Spencer was passing on the outside.

The man inside had just cut the piece of iron in two and following a custom tossed the remnant through the window.

A bad gash was laid open in Spencer's head, which required medical attention.

Conscience-Stricken Merchant Strides to Altar, Confesses Crime for Which He Had Been Acquitted

GLEN FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 22.—A strange case of religious fervor and "conviction of sin" has developed in the South Glen Falls Methodist church, where, at the close of prayer meeting, M. B. Linindoll, a merchant of that village, arose from his pew, strode to the altar and, flinging himself on his knees before it, confessed that he was guilty of a crime for which he was tried before a jury in Washington Cemetery and acquitted.

Linindoll accompanied his startling demonstration with a downpour of tears and remained on his knees in prayer and lamentation for one hour, while the congregation gathered round him and wrung his hands in sympathy. It was 11 o'clock that night before the prayer meeting broke up. The pastor of the church, the Rev. C. P. Hogle, declares that never in his experience as a minister has he witnessed so sincere an expression of penitence and religious emotion.

In 1909 Linindoll conducted a second-hand store in Fort Edward, Washington county. A freight car was one night burglarized in the railroad yards in that village. A quantity of women's fur-lined coats was among the loot. The police later found the coats in Linindoll's store. He was indicted for receiving stolen goods.

The jury before which he was tried found him not guilty. The judge who presided at the trial and the District attorney who prosecuted Linindoll are both dead. The lawyer, Erskine C. Rogers, of Hudson Falls, who defended him is now the County Judge.

When it was suggested to Linindoll that his confession might lead to a prison term he replied:

"What is ten years in Dannemora to eternity in hell?"

At one time Linindoll called himself by the title of "Reverend." He conducted a "rescue mission" in this city several years ago. "Cottage prayer meetings" were frequently led by him.

After his acquittal, in 1909, he went through bankruptcy. Then he disappeared from this section and returned about six months ago, when he opened a store in South Glens Falls.

from the rear of the building just after Mrs. Abington had left in her car to go to the office for her husband to bring him home for dinner. No one was at the abington house except the aged uncle and Clara Abington, 4 years old. The little girl stated that the negro was in the kitchen during her mother's absence.

The Gatewood girl on the stand flatly denied her guilt.

Her bond was fixed at $5,000 and upon failure to furnish it was placed in the county jail to await trial in the circuit court.

DISMISSAL OF IRISH TRAINMEN PUTS END TO PASSENGER SERVICE

DUBLIN, Oct. 22.—Refusal of Irish railwaymen to carry munitions or armed men which from time to time holds up trains for which soldiers or police are considered as passengers has now led to the stoppage of passenger trains over nearly 600 miles of railway.

Every time a train crew refused to carry soldiers, police or munitions they were dismissed. There are now not enough men to keep the traffic moving and the service has had to be cut down accordingly. This has led to great inconvenience and traders are everywhere entering protests. An attempt has been made to relieve the situation by motor truck lines which in many places are regulated by Sinn Fein order.

DERELICT STEEL BARGE MENACES NAVIGATION

By Associated Press
FORT ARANSAS, Texas, Oct. 22.—Navigators on this section of the Texas coast are on the lookout for a derelict steel barge reported lost by the Steamship Eldorado, bound from New Orleans to Tampico, Mexico, during the recent tropical storm. The barge broke adrift in latitude 27-16 north, longitude 29-44 west and when last sighted was drifting north. Mariners say that salvage of the barge would bring good returns but on the other hand they are seeking to avoid chances of a collision.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

tabs, the Purified and Refined Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess calomel tablet called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—Adv.

"LEAVE GOVERNMENT TO MEN," SAYS DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER

Declares She Is "Old-Fashioned" Enough to Hold the Opinion That Men Should Run Government of England or Any Other Country.

By EARLE C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—"I am old-fashioned enough to hold the opinion that the government of this or any other country should be left to the men."

So speaks the Duchess of Westminster with an emphasis that may come as a shock both in America and in England where the right of women to help govern has been so widely recognized.

She is even more emphatic in opposition to the woman's party idea advanced by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

"I do not believe there should be too many women in parliament," she said. "One or two, yes, but an opposition of women—no! And I shudder to think of the chaos that would result from a majority."

"Personally I feel that the women of today have rather lost their sense of proportion. They feel that because they did men's work during the war and drew absurdly high wages they ought to continue to do so."

"Although no one is a greater admirer of the work done by women during the great emergency than I am, I think that they should—to use a slang term—get back to earth."

The duchess prefers that her government be composed of sound common-sense business men and public men whose travels and training generally fit them to govern.

"Though I am not in favor of women in parliament I realize that there are many considerations and arguments both for and against it."

"But I feel that, although our first women M. P., Lady Astor, is the mother of children, if women ever enter parliament in any great numbers they will for the most part be the type of woman who will not be married."

"After all, how can an unmarried woman really understand the lot of the all too many poor mothers who exist in England today? I venture to say that, in spite of the high wages which are today in vogue to meet the cost of living, there are many married women who do not receive any more housekeeping money than they ever did."

"A parliament of women could never govern this country, and the best that can be said is that a leavening of women in a mostly male parliament will help the male element in legislating for the women of the country.

"A mother in parliament can help poor women by using her influence in legislation to relieve their lot."

"We might, of course, have a separate house consisting entirely of women to legislate, under control of the present parliament, on all domestic subjects. But women can do more with the vote than by entering parliament."

"Let them combine to purge the political atmosphere of its present impurities and, above all, not take the elections as jokes, but seriously."

For seven years Miss Eva Hotzenpulle, of South Bend, Ind., has been business manager of the official magazine of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

KIDNAPED A DUMMY.

Patrolman Rescued Her and Seized Alleged Abductor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—After Patrolman Gauderl of the Morrisania station prevented the kidnaping of a woman and arrested a man as the abductor, he found that the victim was a clothing store dummy. Then he changed the charge to burglary, and the man was held in $2,500 bail for examination.

The policeman explained to Magistrate Tobias in the Morrisania court that the story began with a fire in a cellar on Melrose avenue. Mrs. Catherine Samsel saw men break the plate glass window of David Jacoby's clothing store at 2963 Third avenue, enter the store and come out carrying a woman. Then she gave the alarm.

Negro Girl, 15, Said to Have Put Arsenic in Soup

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 22.—Muriel Gatewood, 15-year-old negro girl, is being held in the Butler county jail awaiting the action of the circuit court in January, charged with murder in the first degree. The case has attracted wide attention.

She is charged with having placed arsenic or rough on rats in soup being made by Mrs. Carl Abington in the Abington home here on September 17 which resulted in the death of George Abington, 83 years old, and the serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Abington, Mrs. Florida Curry, mother of Mrs. Abington, Ed L. Abington, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Norton.

A few days before the poisoning the Gatewood girl, then employed as a maid in the Abington home, had been discharged by Mrs. Abington following the theft of $20 and several other articles. It is said that she admitted taking the money but promised to repay it if permitted to hold her job. This was refused, the girl returned several times begging reinstatement, the last time on the day of the poisoning. "The girl went away very angry, when I refused to re-employ her," said Mrs. Abington.

At dinner that evening the home-made soup was served and Mrs. Abington sent some of it to the Horton family, who are neighbors. Immediately after eating the soup everyone became violently ill. A physician was called and before he could administer to all the patients, George Abington collapsed. He died in a short time. Mrs. Curry and E. L. Abington were rushed to St. Luke's hospital in St. Louis and placed in the care of a specialist.

In the preliminary hearing before Justice Hershner Dr. G. H. Bristow, professor of chemistry in St. Louis university, testified that he had analyzed a portion of the soup and found arsenic "in a very considerable quantity" in the soup.

In the testimony neighbors of the Abingtons testified that they had seen the Gatewood girl go into the Abington home

Skin Sufferers Do Not Want Mere Temporary Relief

Of course, if you are content to have only temporary relief from the terrifying itching and burning of fiery, flaming skin diseases, then you are satisfied to remain a slave to ointments, lotions and other local remedies applied to the surface of the skin.

Real genuine relief from eczema, tetter, scaly eruptions or any other form of skin irritations cannot be expected until you free your blood of the germs which cause these disorders. And for this purpose there is no remedy that gives more satisfactory results than S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that goes down to the source of every blood disorder and routs out the germs which cause the trouble.

S.S.S. is sold by all druggists. Begin taking it today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 155 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

WETNESS OF NEW YORK MAYOR'S DINNER REMAINS DEEP MYSTERY; ACCUSING 'MUCK RAKER' VERY SHY

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Whether any one had dope served on his dumping the night of the farewell dinner at Villepigne's Inn, Sheepshead Bay, a week ago last Sunday, at which Mayor Hylan, District Attorney Harry Lewis of Brooklyn and other city and county officials and a number of sporting men were present, is still a moot question.

Reporter J. C. Daschbach of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, who for a month has been endeavoring to show that the residents of Manhattan spend their days and nights thinking up new ways of violating the Volstead act, and who is responsible for the yarn that the festivities at Villepigne's that evening were as wet as a leaky water spout in April swelled up like a boiled prune when United States District Attorney Leroy W. Ross extended to him an invitation yesterday to keep a swivel chair from blowing out the window in his Brooklyn office, while he narrated for the delectation of Mr. Ross the going on at Yr Inn that eventful Sabbath evening.

Mr. J. C. Daschbach may be young and he may be from Philadelphia and all that sort of thing, but any one who thinks he has failed to place himself in harmonious proximity to the gentle art of disguising genius under a short hair cut is making a fatal mistake.

He Fails to Appear.

Young Mr. Daschbach, it appears, had been thinking things over and after mature consideration had arrived at the definite conclusion that his story of the Villepigne "deluge" had made him the custodian of a little more publicity on the half shell than he thought he could use. So he refrained from flat wheeling over to Mr. Ross's office in Brooklyn. Mr. Ross, unused to such a manifestation of coldness and neglect, opined out loud that it might be necessary to subpoena young Mr. Daschbach, which he did.

W. Lee Smith, for eighteen years head writer at Villepigne's, and Preston Rock who for fifteen years had been selling back to Mr. Villepigne's customers their hats and golf caps, were not as exclusive as Mr. Daschbach. They are Democrats to the backbone and don't think any more of talking to a United States district attorney than a milkman would of saying good morning to a cop. They got an invitation from Mr. Ross and accepted.

Mr. Daschbach had referred the Mayor to Messrs. Smith and Rock for corroboration of his Tale of the Wayside Inn. That accounts for Mr. Ross's interest in them.

W. Lee Smith Grieved.

W. Lee Smith, the head waiter seemed pained and grieved when he was asked if there had been "drinking" at the inn on the evening of Oct. 3. He said no one thousand (1,000) times no. He had been careful, he said, to see that not one drop of liquor had been toted across the threshold of the inn. In fact he carried this precaution to the extent of subjecting to a narrow-gauge search any package carried into the inn by any guest.

Of course, the head waiter explained, he could not project matters to the point where he backed patrons up into a corner and frisked them for hooch. He left it to their sense of fitness of things. Guests at the Villepigne Inn knew that W. Lee Smith, the head waiter, was a gin whiskey and vermouth and brandy and wine and beer and things and he felt in his heart none of them would ever think of abusing a head waiter's child-like faith and confidence, by smuggling anything like hooch in on "the hip."

Preston Rock told some story from the view point of a check room baron. He was sure, oh, heavens, how sure he was, that no hooch flowed on the evening of Oct. 3, at the Inn when His Honor Mayor Hylan was there.

Issues Some Subpoenas.

So United States District Attorney Ross believed both Smith and Rock and forthwith promptly and instantaneously issued subpoenas for young Mr. J. C. Daschbach, Dock Commissioner Murray Harbert, ex-sheriff Daniel J. Griffin who has characterized Daschbach's story of the orgy at the Inn as "Philadelphia scamp." William Hanna, Chief Clerk in the Court of Special Sessions, also received a subpoena from Mr. Ross, and others were: Charles E. Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club; Raymond G. Carroll, a newspaper man of the Quaker city, and Joseph J. O'Brien, Brooklyn tugboat man who permits his craft to tow garbage scows thirty-five miles out to sea where they are dumped. Mr. O'Brien, it is said, will participate largely in next year's appropriation for final disposition of New York City's garbage. Mr. O'Brien was the Mayor's host at the Villepigne party.

Neither Mayor Hylan nor District Attorney Lewis were subpoenaed by Mr. Ross. Mr. Ross did intimate however that should either His Honor of Mr. Lewis become possessed of an uncontrollable desire to attend tomorrow's session either or both will be made to feel as if he was on his own front porch.

The mayor still seeks refuge in taciturnity.

So, there now.

BOLSHEVISM INFECTS FOREIGN WORKMEN IN U. S., SAYS HUNGARIAN

BUDAPEST, Oct. 22.—Bolshevik doctrines are spreading among the Russian and Polish and Magyar workmen in the United States, says Charles Huzzar, former premier of Hungary, who recently returned from America, which he visited to induce his countrymen there to contribute toward the repatriation of Hungarian war prisoners still suffering in Siberia.

The American workmen seem to be largely free from the bolshevik infection," said Mr. Huzzar, "but there is a certain influx of dangerous bolsheviks from Prague and Vienna. On board the ship in which I crossed the Atlantic, I met some notorious reds going to the United States. I saw indications that there will be trouble from immigrant workmen but I believe the American government will be able to localize and suppress it."

Discussing the reports in foreign newspapers that Hungary was making war-like preparations, the former premier characterized this as nonsense and said that "whoever gets a true glimpse into the feelings of the population knows it to be entirely pacific. The Petite Entente (Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania) is being or pretending to be anxious about Magyar invasion. They are much more haunted by the dawning knowledge that they are too weak to retain their newly-won territories."

60 CENT CORN "SCARE" AIDS "THIRD PARTY" IN NEBRASKA

Farmers Reported Rallying to the Movement Since Crop Prices Began to Toboggan.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 22.—The possibility of 60-cent corn in Nebraska, which raised this year the largest crop in its history, has given such impulse to a "third party" movement that has been flapping along through the campaign, that Republican and Democratic party managers are fearful it will result in the loss of governor, a congressman in the third district, two state officers and control of the legislature.

This "third party" movement is entirely divorced from any national organization. It was fostered by the Nonpartisan League, which has 25,000 male members in the state, and originally began as a combination with labor. Faced as the farmers now are with wheat much below $2 and corn away under a dollar, the appeal of the combination has met with a tremendous response in the last few weeks, a response entirely lacking in the early days of the campaign.

As many as 5,000 farmers and their wives have turned out to the political rallies held in the interest of this ticket in the last few weeks. These have been held on the farms, because of town opposition that had its origin during the war when the league, because of its large German membership, was an object of suspicion as to their loyalty. In Omaha the labor unions have organized so thoroughly that in a three-cornered contest they are likely to carry the city. Some league candidates for the legislature were named on both party tickets, and all the other vacancies are being filled by petition candidates.

The appeal to the farmers had fallen flat in a considerable measure previous to the time when crop prices took the toboggan, but now they are "madder than hornets," declaring it to be the work of market scalpers and speculators. The low price of December options they ascribe to failure of the railroads to give them cars now when they desire to sell. Last winter the bankers beat a co-operative farm bank bill in the legislature, and now that the farmers cannot get bank loans to help carry their crops in an effort to force up prices by withholding them from market, they are easily reached by the argument that the Republican and Democratic state chairmen are both bankers, as is the Democratic candidate for governor.

Combination's Proposed Program.

The program of the League-Labor combination is to have the state build or buy a terminal elevator, flouring mill, packing plant and sugar factory to compete with private ownership on the theory that this will break prices. The farmers have offered, if labor will back the ticket, to give labor the eight-hour day, take the teeth out of the new industrial court constitutional amendment, recognize collective bargaining, pass laws giving labor as security, better factory inspection tax exemption for workers' homes, return they want exemption of farm improvements from taxation; grain-grading law with food value as the basis; full opportunity for co-operative enterprises to develop, and laws that will prevent ownership of more than half a section of land.

Together they appeal for the soldier vote by promising a compensation law which will give soldiers a bonus and take it out of the pockets of war profiteers by taxation, and to the school teachers by promising to raise wages.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE TURNING BACK TO EUROPE

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 22.—American trade has not, unfortunately, afforded to South America the facilities the latter was accustomed to receive from Europe in the way of long credits and strict compliance with contracts, says La Epoca, government organ, commenting on the efforts being made by the United States government and business men to retain the South American markets obtained during the war. This is the reason, the newspaper continues, why the majority of merchants here are turning again to European markets.

Institution of a body of commercial attaches who will get first hand knowledge of trade conditions in these countries and who will serve in the state department at Washington is expected to help retain the hold American commerce has obtained here, the newspaper adds.

GENIUS GARBED AS LABORER SEARCHES BRAIN FOR IDENTITY; KNOWS ART, SCIENCE, NOT NAME

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—How can a man who knows the canals of Venice, the wharves of Liverpool, the boulevards of Paris and the plains of Australia, who can quote Shakespeare, Homer, Aeneid, and who can prove the binomial theorem, still not know his name, his birthplace or his parents?

That is a problem puzzling doctors in the city hospital, who today spent hours questioning a man in the garb of a common laborer, but whose brain wears the clothing of a college professor.

Stranger than the mythological "No-man," who came knocking at the Cyclops' door, is the tale of this wanderer, who was brought last night to the city hospital.

He can remember Sienkiewicz's story of the feasts of Nero centuries ago in "Quo Vadis," the wandering of Ulysses from the shores of Ilium, and the campaign of Douglas against Abraham Lincoln, but he doesn't know that Patrolman William Walsh of the Sixth District found him wandering last night at Second and Perry streets and brought him to the station.

"Oh, him? Why he's some kind of a lunatic," said the desk sergeant of Angelica street station this morning.

Man of Letters, Police Say. "He must have been a college professor," said Dr. William C. Henske, who examined him for two and a half hours last night.

This nameless toy of chance lives in the days of the Caesars, the Medici and the Calhouns. In his imagination he lives in lives and their loves over with them, he doesn't know where he was an hour before the time the question is put to him.

He can remember neither father nor mother. He doesn't recollect ever having had a childhood. He may be married and have children waiting for him to come back to them. If he has, he doesn't know it.

Memory of Present Gone. He lives just in the present, now. He couldn't recall today having been brought into the hospital. But he did remember that someone had said this was Anno Domini 1920, and that he was in St. Louis.

He's a Democrat but doesn't know why. He doesn't know who is Democracy's candidate. He speaks English and French, his English with that accent that only life and association with Englishmen gives. His conversation is of the finest, his clothing of the poorest. His hands are calloused and his finger nails worn, showing that he has worked hard recently.

Dressed in Blue Denim. He wore rough tan shoes, corduroy trousers, a jumper of blue denim and a fleece-lined top-coat when found. In his pockets was a leather bill fold with three initials written in black paint. The first is half erased. It seems to be either a "D" or an "O." It is followed by an "H" and an "S."

In it were a postage stamp and two white and a black bone button and a door key.

Hair hair is black but beginning to silver. He is tanned and healthy, about five feet, eight inches tall, weighing 165 pounds and apparently 50 years old. His eyes are brown and his features sharp.

He speaks in the gentle, drawing voice of the classroom. He remembers having seen the bridge of sighs, the Eiffel Tower in Paris, the Palace of Music, Berlin, Unter den Linden and parts of Australia. Why he was there and what he was doing and when he can't remember.

Conversant With Algebra. Dr. Henske found him conversant with Algebra and geometry. The physician worked out problems. If they were correct the man said so. If they were wrong he knew it. But he can't solve a theorem himself.

He regards Rudyard Kipling as the greatest modern day writer. To him, "Quo Vadis" is outstanding because it heralds the dawn of Christianity in the dungeons of the Circus Maximus.

The wooden horse of Troy and Phoenixian Dido's feast for Aeneas are familiar to him. He has wandered with Odysseus past the isle of sirens, but whether he walked to St. Louis or wandered in by freight train he doesn't know. He can hum snatches of "Bohemian Girl" and "Fairest and know of Dr. Faust and Marguerite, but the "blues" of 1920 grate his hearing.

He can remember having sailed the seas and knows that President Wilson suffered a long illness. All these things he knows, but he doesn't know himself.

UP-TO-DATE FINANCE. He Who Would: Lemme foah bits, Sam. He Who Wouldn't: No, sah, never lend money. He Who Would: Jus' till tomorrow; then Ah'll give you six bits back. He Who Wouldn't: Now, yo' sure don't get it. Yo' can't Ponzi me, niggah.—New York Post.

THE FAMOUS HOLMA LOUISIANA OYE ERS

POLICE IN KOREA WATCH CHURCHES OF CHRISTIANS

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 22.—The semi-official Seoul Press prints an interview with a police official asserting that some Korean places of Christian worship are still used as meeting places by Korean political conspirators, and that, as the result of recent arrests, the authorities will have to keep an eye on Christian churches and chapels.

An official statement says the decision grew out of the arrests of Dr. Yi Wonsik, and eleven other Koreans on the charge of secreting seditious literature from Shanghai in the compound of the Chongkyo chapel at Doyongdong, which is in charge of the Methodist church south. Subsequently, it is asserted, Yi Wonsik took refuge in the chapel at Insadong, in charge of the Rev. Mr. Clark of the North Presbyterian mission, and concealed in the chapel coal shed over 1,000 copies of the Independence Journal.

There is no charge against American missionaries, but the police apparently wish to have it known that Christian property in Korea will be watched.

PREFERS CALF AND CHICKENS TO WIFE AND CHILDREN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—When Kamir Dyrkowski told Judge Edmund K. Jarecki the other day that he preferred to live in a tent in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains with his calf and twenty-five chickens, rather than support his wife and two children, whom he deserted last April, he was sentenced to one year in the house of correction.

French government employes, numbering 2,882, have been arrested, dismissed or suspended in the connection with the sale of left-over American, British and French war stocks. It is said that the American stocks proved a great attraction to the employes, who were imbued with the idea that liquidation began at home.

CHAMBERLAIN, STILL DRAWING ARMY SALARY

Aviator, Convicted of Falsely Reporting Exploits, Awaits President's Review.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A new angle in the case of Captain Edmund G. Chamberlain, the marine corps aviator, whose alleged marvelous exploits while on a visit to a British air squadron in July of 1918, brought a courtmartial in Paris and London and later in the United States, was brought to light here when it became known that Chamberlain has been waiting since last December for President Wilson to pass on his sentence of dismissal. Meantime he has been drawing his pay regularly, and is still wearing his uniform, though not assigned to duty.

Capt. Chamberlain's sentence, ordered as the result of his courtmartial, was concurred in by Secretary Daniels, who reviewed the records. As in cases where dismissal is at issue, the case went to President Wilson.

Name House in Case. The delay has added interest in view of the fact that Chamberlain is in the Name House in Case. The delay has added interest in view of the fact that Chamberlain is in the Name House in Case.

insisting on the youth's high character. It is also declared that Chamberlain's father, who lives at San Antonio, had interested E. M. House in the case.

The circumstances of the flight which precipitated the court martial and for which Capt. Chamberlain was at first said to have been recommended for the Victoria Cross and the Congressional Medal of Honor, have never been cleared up despite the findings of the courtmartial. After the reports of the flight had created a sensation both in Europe and America, Chamberlain was ordered to produce evidence that he had made the flight.

Account of Flight. The story he told was that he had gone while on leave from his own unit to a British air squadron operating near Touquin, in the north of France. There he was alleged to have been given a machine with which he claimed to have brought down two German planes, and to have rescued a wounded French officer, after he was forced down when his machine was crippled by enemy fire. On entering the British lines, Chamberlain was reluctant to give any details of his exploit, insisting on the "unofficial" character of the flight. It is a well known army regulation that British squadron commanders permitting anyone other than its own pilots to take a machine is liable to denotation and courtmartial, and the defense stressed this feature of the American's reluctance to make known his exploit.

As a result of the investigation, which brought out much conflicting testimony very little of which was direct, the courtmartial declared "proved" that Chamberlain had failed to advise his commanding officer that accounts of his alleged exploits which were being transmitted to Washington were false. Chamberlain was also accused of having forged reports, of this exploit, but this charge was not sustained. It was declared "proved," however, that he knowingly transmitted false reports of his exploits to a superior naval officer.

PE "CAN" OR PE "CON?"

DALLAS, Oct. 22.—Only one pronunciation which defied solution was encountered by the recent national convention at Austin of the National Nut Growers' association. That fact was brought out when A. S. Perry, secretary of the association declared the association had gone on record as recognizing two distinct pronunciations of the word "Pecan."

East of the Mississippi river, Mr. Perry said, the word is almost universally pronounced with the accent on the last syllable and the same as the word can as in tin can. West of the Mississippi the nut is called pe "con," with the last syllable emphasized and rhyming with the word John. This is the Texas pronunciation.

The secretary said he favored the former, but admitted that the fact that approximately 60 per cent of the pecans of the nation are produced in Texas was a strong argument that Texans know what they are talking about when they say pe "con."

BELLHOP MADE FLYER ON TIPS; WON $500,000

But "Regular Alger Hero" Ends Course in Bankruptcy Court.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Stephen Danko was a bell boy in the old Bismarck hotel in 1905. With nothing but his tips for capital, he decided to take a flyer in the hide business. Yesterday an involuntary petition of bankruptcy filed against him in the United States district court showed that he had raised his meager ante from nothing to more than $500,000 in the last fifteen years.

The recent slump in woollens and hides was given as the cause for the filing of the petition by Michael Gesas, attorney for the petitioning creditors. Danko's liabilities are set at $200,000 and his assets at $40,000.

Seek to Regain $100,000.

The charge was made in the petition that Danko had distributed $100,000 in property and cash among his friends and creditors after the recent wool decline had made him insolvent.

"We know where all these assets are," said Mr. Gesas, "and they can be recovered with the help of the court. Several weeks ago, when Danko saw his business was declining, he began to pay off preferred creditors. If this sum can be recovered it will leave only an uncovered liability of $60,000."

BUILD A 'WHITE HOUSE' IN EVERY COUNTRY, AS MATTER OF SENTIMENT

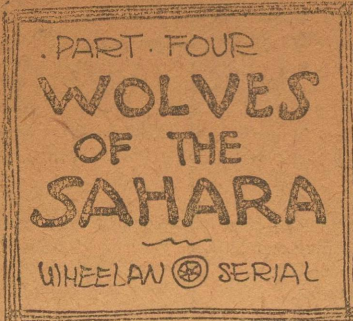

PEKING, Oct. 22.—Americans traveling abroad would one day have the gratification of seeing a reproduction of the White House in every capital housing the American legation or embassy, if the dream of Representative Stephen G. Porter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House foreign relations committee, ever came true.

It was with this in mind, he said on his recent visit to Peking, that he put through the measure raising passport visa fees from $2 to $10, on the theory that those who travel and thus avail themselves of our diplomatic establishments in foreign parts should pay for the privilege.

The representative further proposed to build the White Houses by employment of American labor. It was suggested that such a plan might involve needless expense, especially in China where the American would compete with coolie labor, but Mr. Porter contended that in a matter where sentiment was concerned the additional expense was not worth considering.

Bermuda, Oldest Self-Governing British Colony Celebrates 300th Anniversary; Once Part of Virginia

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 22.—Bermuda has been celebrating the 300th anniversary of the founding of its House of Assembly, one of the oldest representative bodies in existence and coming next in age to the British parliament.

Bermuda shares with Virginia the honor of the earliest representative institutions on this side of the Atlantic. Its history is closely linked with that of the Old Dominion.

The first general assembly for Virginia was held at Jamestown, July 30, 1619, while the first general assembly for Bermuda was convened at St. Georges, the ancient capital of this colony, on August 1, 1620.

Virginia was settled in 1607 while Bermuda was settled in 1612, though the latter reached the stage of self government more quickly than their Virginian fellow colonists.

When Sir George Somers was wrecked on the island in 1609, he and his company of adventurers were bound for Virginia to settle. But after their unexpected landing in Bermuda they decided to stay on here and later secured letters patent from the crown which included the Bermudas in the limits of the Virginia colony.

The distinction of being the oldest self-governing British possession is proudly borne by Bermuda and its tercentenary is one of the notable celebrations in connection with the English settlement of America recently held at Plymouth and Southampton, England.

The ceremonies included meetings in old St. Peter's church at St. Georges where the first legislature met 300 years ago, and in the former state house in that town. They are now concluded with the visit of the Prince of Wales.

The highest French decoration, the Medaille Militaire, was recently conferred upon General Pershing. Among the few general officers who have received this high decoration during the world war are Marshals Joffre, Foch and Petain and Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig.

Why India Exports Wheat While Famine Stalks Thru Land

Seeming Cruelty of Move Revealed as Practical Course.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—How it is that notwithstanding reports of famine in India that country is exporting wheat was explained here today by the Rev. Dr. Benson Baker, who has been for many years a missionary in the heart of India. He now represents the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church in Chicago, working in connection with the committee on conservation and advance.

"The reason is very clear," Dr. Baker said. "The people of India are so poor that the great mass of them live on the coarser grains, such as barley, rye, rice, etc. Wheat is eaten only by the wealthy people, and is grown largely for export, so that even in the face of famine it is better to export the wheat, and to use the money received in buying coarser grains, which the poor people are accustomed to eat.

"There are always good crops in some parts of India, and now with their modern railroad systems, the government is able to transport grain from one part to another, thus in some measure alleviating the rigor of famine.

"Just now famine is due very largely to our old friend H. C. L. The cost of living in India has risen in proportion more than it has in America and the people there are totally different economies basis, have had a frightful time of it. Until some readjustment in wages and living expense has been made, something akin to famine conditions is bound to obtain. If India can sell its wheat, which is comparatively a high priced product, to the outside world, the money obtained will help to solve the great problems there."

Dr. Baker added he was "convinced that the great mass of people in India are satisfied with British rule, and under the new reform schemes, we are going to see India make tremendous advances."
