WASHINGTON
By RAY TUCKER
Division—
Unless President Roosevelt steps on the two publicity-struck chairmen—Messrs. O'Connor and Black—the double-barreled lobby investigation will turn out to be a dud.
In this inquiry the utilities are making a last-ditch fight for all suffering interests. Their successful mobilization of protestant stockholders has taught a useful lesson to all corporations beset by Rooseveltian policies. Prospective victims of tax and railroad legislation are mimeographing lists of stockholders so as to play the same game. If the utilities get away with their vast expenditure of money—possibly $2,000,000—in this sort of "scare" campaign, business has a new form of dominance over government.
Both sides realize that they are playing for high stakes. That's why the utilities rejoice at the division among their enemies. Personal and political rivalries among the politicians benefit them. You can gauge the sincerity of the Congressional investigators by watching what happens to the proposal that House and Senate sleuths pool their forces and finances.

Truth—
House Rules Chairman O'Connor will do a better job than Senator Black if he dares carry on. Although suspected of greater animosity toward White House representatives than toward utility lobbyists, he may turn up some real sensations.
Mr. Black has started out along old-fashioned lines. He wants to know how much the power people have spent to influence votes. Everybody knows—the utilities admit it—that they spent plenty. He will dig up nothing new by proceeding up that alley.
What the public wants to know is the result of the impact of the power expenditures upon members of Congress. What Congressmen consorted with lobbyists and what was the result of their conniving? How many members succumbed to telegrams and letters attacking the "death sentence"? How many checked up to discover whether these protests were simulated or real? Mr. O'Connor has asked House members to supply this information. If they tell the truth, they—and not the utilities—may have some explaining to do.

Perhaps—
President Roosevelt is catching more Congressmen with molasses than with vinegar. His recent conferences with members of House and Senate have been love feasts instead of occasion for trading and bickering.
Mr. Roosevelt has listened to Senators who never before had a chance to whisper in his ear. They complained of patronage neglect. They explained that his dictatorial demands sometimes made them appear as "dummies," lessening their prestige with the public and especially with constituencies. They told him they were tired and anxious to get home. They expressed their resentment at the tactics of some of his over-enthusiastic liaison men.
Mr. Roosevelt listened to all this Congressional cackling. He made no specific promises—that is not his way—but the boys felt better when they got their groans off their chests. They left the President with the impression that he will give more weight to their advice hereafter, and not spend all his time listening to the "Brain Trust."

Memoranda—
Rep. George Tinkham, the blue-bearded big game hunter from Boston, has a novel scheme for keeping the United States out of future wars.
Mr. Tinkham is a Mayflower descendant and an intense nationalist. He delivers two speeches a year—both designed to delight the Irish and Yankees in his district. He demands no "involvement" in foreign affairs and full payment of the war debts. Before prohibition he used to castigate Bishop Canon once a year and thereby insure a 100 per cent vote in Irish wards.
But now George is all for forgetting the war debts. He'll announce that Europe's failure to pay these obligations is the finest assurance against American participation in another world war. And cheap at the price of $11,000,000,000! So he may sponsor a resolution waiving payment and dedicating the unpaid debts as a "monument to the folly of war."

Ethiopian Emperor Calls Troops To Follow Him In Battle For Liberty

Says Country Will Fight To Bitter End

Calls Upon Subjects To Unite And Co-operate For Country's Defense

ADDIS ABABA (UP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, addressing parliament and soldiers Thursday called upon all Ethiopians to follow him into battle, declaring it will be better to die free than live without liberty.
He called upon his subjects to unite and cooperate for defense of the country, saying he would lead troops into war.
He appealed all not to fear death. He also said the Italian military preparations proved Italy's intention to conquer Ethiopia, adding Ethiopia did not wish war, but would defend herself to the last man if attacked.
He said Ethiopia did not desire hegemony, did not menace its neighbors, but would fight to the bitter end defending her integrity, independence and sovereignty.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2

Temporary Commitment Of Insane

Proposition No. 2 on the August 24th special election ballot has to do with the temporary commitment of insane persons, preliminary to a trial by jury.
Under the present constitution whereby everyone is guaranteed a jury trial, it is impossible to commit a mentally ill person to an institution for treatment or observation without the necessity of a jury trial. It has been pointed out that this is often very inconvenient and embarrassing.
The proposal, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann, if passed, would authorize the legislature to pass such laws as would permit mentally ill persons to be confined by county courts in institutions, presumably, or under the care of physicians or experts for a period of ninety days prior to a jury trial. It is presumed that the ninety day period of confinement would be for the purpose of observing such person.
The provisions would apply only to persons not charged with a criminal offense.
The amendment specifically sets out that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, but that in the particular case of insane persons a confinement period of ninety days for observation may be prescribed without the necessity of a jury trial. At the end of that time a jury trial would be had.

Bodies Of 7 Miners Found

Kentucky Miners Entombed By Explosion Wednesday

VAN LEAR, Kentucky (UP)—Bodies of seven of nine men entombed by a coal mine explosion here Wednesday were recovered Thursday. Hope was abandoned for the other two. Some of the bodies were crushed by falling slate and coal. John F. Daniel, Lexington, chief of the state department of mines and minerals, believed all nine were killed instantly by gas.

NEW BONUS MARCH ON CAPITAL FAILS

WASHINGTON (UP)—A new bonus march on the capitol, a faint echo of the blood-spilling march during the Hoover administration, Wednesday fizzled out almost before it got under way.
Two hundred "marchers" for the bill introduced by Representative Fish (R-NY), which would pay the bonus out of the $4,000,000,000 works fund, were ordered off the House steps soon after they appeared. The ex-soldiers departed, finally holding their rally down below Capitol Hill.

WINK MAN CHARGED

Under terms of the order Catholic priests who are religious teachers would be tolerated hereafter only if they change into a Nazi propagandist.

Old Settlers Reunion Plans Rounded Out

Vice-President McKinney Reports Donations From Local Merchants

Plans for the eleventh annual old settlers reunion, being July 26, were being rounded out Thursday at the reunion grounds, at Cottonwood park east of Big Spring, are being cleaned and benches and tables repainted.
T. J. McKinney, vice-president of the organization, said that donations from several local merchants had been received.
He listed several old timers who had told him they would be here for the get-together. Many of them now reside in other localities, he said. He recalled names of a dozen men and women who came here in the 80's or 90's who would take part in the affair.
It was made plain by officials of the reunion that old settlers and their families are to bring their own picnic lunches. Beans, bread, and ice water will be furnished by merchants.
Persons who have been in Howard, Dawson, or Glasscock counties thirty years are eligible to attend and bring their families. In other words any person who was here in 1905 is eligible to take part in the celebration.

Controversy Over Relief Expenses Is Same As Of June 1

The city-county controversy over bearing of expenses incidental to administration of relief stood Thursday just where it has stood since June 1 when the city checked out of the picture.
Since that date building owners have asked repeatedly for rentals on their buildings for housing the relief headquarters. They have and still are being stalled.
Neither city or county has shown any indication of yielding a point.

Rodeo Grandstand Contract Is Let

In addition to these stand seats there will be 26 boxes.
Seating facilities will be erected on the northwest side of the arena. Driver estimated the job would be completed by the middle of August.
He said that 18 flood lights had been received here and would be installed on 35 foot poles by the time the stands were completed. Electrical engineers designed the lighting system for the grounds to give mid-day light effect.
Other improvements will be completed in plenty of time to give the entire plant a thorough testing before the rodeo starts. Driver said.

All in all, it hardly seems that our gold reserve has been in any great danger. Digging a pit for it at Fort Knox may provide some one with good exercise, and give the garrison at Fort Knox a feeling of importance, but it is a little hard to see what other really important end it serves.

COWBOYS CLASH WITH DALLAS TEAM HERE SUNDAY

GUARANTEE VISITORS SMALL SUM

Harris Bargains With Manager T. & P. Railway Club

After wrangling around for several weeks over guarantee, Manager Miller Harris of the Cowboys has finally reached an agreement with the Dallas Texas & Pacific Railway team, and the Dallasites will skirmish with the Cowhands here Sunday afternoon on the East Third diamond.

Harris bargained with the business manager of the T. & P. team and finally got away with a twenty dollar guarantee. With any sort of luck the Cowboys should clear real money for the first time this year. Heretofore the Cowboy management has been just barely getting by—at financial parlance.

The Cowboys recently guaranteed the strong San Angelo Sheep Herders forty dollars to play a double-header. They went ten last in the red. On the Trent game last Sunday, which called for fifteen dollars, the locals made forty-five cents.

Admission to the game here Sunday will be twenty-five cents. Harris said. Miller urged all who could donate the use of a car to transport players and spectators to the field to get in touch with him.

The Cowboys conquered the Dallas Railway team here last year after a struggle.

Martin and Hall hit safely in an attempt to put the Vets on even terms in the seventh, but the former was out on base and Majors and Bruce were thrown out to kill their victory chances.

The Recknegal forces put the Type Lice down in order in the first inning of the second game but the Heradites hit their stride in the second, scoring five runs, Hall and Driver belting out home runs. Driver's circuit clout came with the bases loaded.

The Harrismen added to their advantage with six runs in the third added three in the fifth, and finally terminated their scoring spurge with a counter in the sixth.

The Vets confined their hitting to two innings, the second and third, and recorded their only run when Prescott crossed the plate in the third.

J. V. Gant was the "fence buster" for the Newsies, recording two home runs and a pair of singles in five trips to the plate.

The Southern Ice, dropping out of the league, forfeited to the Herald, giving them credit for 19 victories this year.

Steer Coaches To Attend Meet

Will Witness All-Star High School Game

Several West Texas High School coaches are making plans to attend the coaching school in Dallas, Monday, July 29, to Aug. 3.

The school, lasting one week, is being conducted under the auspices of the Texas High School Coaches' Association with several nationally known instructors lined up for the course.

Heading the list of coaches that will instruct is E. E. "Bud" Welman, line coach of Princeton University, Ted Cox, head coach of Tulane University, and Ed Walker, head coach of the University of Mississippi.

Attention is being called to the discussion to be held about the 18-year rule that is to become effective in 1936. Roy Henderson, chief of the Texas loop, will appear on the program and discuss the new rule.

All demonstrations will be held at O'wmy field, Southern Methodist University field, at Dallas.

On Saturday the closing day of the school, an all-star game will be held among the graduating players of the past season from class A and B schools of the state.

Fees for the week's school for high school coaches, if the coaches are members of the Texas High School Coaches Association will be $10.

Coaches Harry Taylor and Tonto Coleman from San Angelo High School will attend the meet as will Bob Nail of the Reagan county high school at Big Lake and Clyde Park, head coach of the Fort Stockton high school. Many others from this section are expected to attend.

NEW RECORD ON MUNY COURSE

Obie Bristow lowered the many contrast record one stroke. Bristow got a 34. The old record, 35, was held by Pro Charles Akey.

Obie three-putted No. 9 green, "Just lucky," the golfing coach commented. "The ball had to fall somewhere and it kept pretty well in the fairway on that round.

SAN ANGELO, (Spl.)—If the carefully laid plans of Obie (Over-the-Fence) Bristow work out, San Angelo will lose the Monte golf trophy for the first time this year. On next Wednesday, July 24, the coach of the Big Spring Steers will lead his all-stars against the best of the Concho Country in the annual event which is attracting more and more attention.

In 1930, M. L. Mertz of Angelo donated a trophy to be completed each year. A team of 10 San Angelo players clashes with an equal number of stars from other West Texas points as the pre-tournament feature of the annual San Angelo Country club invitation. In the morning they play two ball foursomes over 18 holes and in the afternoon there are eight singles matches. Not since the trophy was put in play in 1920 has the all-star team been able to defeat the homebreds, losing by one point last year.

This year, big Bristow is captain of the all-stars, while C. E. (Red) Covington heads the San Angelo team. Bristow is working hard to get a crack team together. With the announcement that Jack Speer of Waco, Jimmy Walkup of Fort Worth, J. T. Tammert of Ft. Worth, Cole of Ranger, Don Schumacher of Dallas, Shanty Hogan, Jack Kinnard and several others from Abilene would be on hand, he should have the best talent in several seasons on his team.

According to reports, Bristow has already been assured that Jack Speer of Waco, the 1925 state champion, will play on his invading team.

Herring Plants Reopen LATOUCHE, Alaska (UP)—A herring price double that of 1934 has brought a sudden boom to this section of the Alaska coast. Old processing plants have been reconditioned and new ones constructed for handling the small fish, caught in large quantities by boats at sea.

1st Round City Joust Completed

Three matches Wednesday completed the first round in the championship flight of the city golf tournament. The Cornelison brothers, Roy and Day, were both ousted, and C. F. Wolfkill took out A. L. Rogers, 2 up. Day was defeated by Val Laitson, Country club manager, 5 and 3. Hayden Griffith tussled with Roy Cornelison, winning the match 1 up.

In the first flight, Lee Hubby defeated Joe Pickle, 5 and 4, and Thurman won from Runsey by a like count.

C. W. Cunningham swept aside W. T. Strange in the second flight, 7 and 6.

Favorites came through true to form in the championship flight of the ladies' tourney. Mrs. G. I. Phillips, who holds the course record for women on the Muny lay-out, won her first match from Mrs. J. M. Aldredge, 7 and 6. Mrs. Theron Hicks, who pushes Mrs. Phillips for golf honors, won her first match from Mrs. E. O. Ellington, 8 and 6. Mrs. Carl Blomfield trimmed Mrs. Travis Reed, 1 up.

Second round pairings for the championship flight: Hicks vs. Griffith, Bistow vs. Laitson, Rainey vs. Robbins, Wolfkill vs. Eddie Morgan.

Palentine Hospital Aided NEW YORK (UP)—One of her last acts of philanthropy before the Baroness Edmond de Rothschild died a few weeks ago was the contribution of $7,500 to Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, to repair the Hadassah hospital in Safed, Palestine.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestines, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass thru the bladder 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help you wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

1936. They are Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, and Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., Mr. Roosevelt's New York neighbor.

Other men, especially Borah and Vandenberg, may crave the honor as much as Messrs. Knox and Fish, but they are lying low. Mr. Knox's friends are quietly campaigning for him in the Middle West and the Northeast. They seem to be spending real money, too. Not so long ago Mr. Knox recalled to the Chicago office a veteran Washington correspondent who is the confidant of almost every GOP leader in the country.

Mr. Fish is traveling, speaking and flirting. In more than thirty states in six months, by 1936 convention time he will have spoken in every state in the union. He is fishing for American Legion backing as a nucleus for his candidacy. His friends warn him that the early fish often get the hook.

Open—

State Department diplomats are piqued at reports that Stalin outsmarted Cordell Hull in negotiating the recent Russo-American trade agreement. They think the Tennessee horse-trader put one over on the slick Soviet dickers.

According to the inside view, Mr. Hull was not thinking solely in terms of present exchange of goods. All he got was the Russians' promise to buy $30,000,000 worth of American products each year in return for the Soviet's right to benefit from tariff reductions accorded to other countries. Thus he gave Moscow nothing which her competitors do not enjoy. The Russians won't get fat on these privileges.

Our European competitors, however, are giving the Soviet credit in a mad drive for their trade. Mr. Hull will not follow suit until Moscow agrees to payment of pre-war debts to American claimants. For threatened to sever all trade relations, and to throw Russia into the commercial arms of France, Germany, England. Now he counts on this new treaty to keep the door open to American goods until more fundamental differences are settled. It affords us a breathing spell.

Gamble—

Americans anxious to enlist under Ethiopian banners and suns against Il Duce should watch their step. As a result of many inquiries from soldiers of fortune, State Department experts are scrutinizing laws grown yellow and dusty since exciting pre-war days.

An American who signs up in this country for service under a foreign flag is liable to imprisonment and a $1,000 fine. He may escape this penalty by enlisting abroad. But if he is captured by the enemy he cannot expect Uncle Sam to extricate him from a military death or hoosegow. Should he swear allegiance to the emperor for whom he fights, he loses his citizenship.

American sentiment as reflected at Washington favors the Conqueror of Judah against the Roman Lion of Rome. Privately military experts give Mussolini only a 10 per cent chance of subjugating the Ethiopians. Diplomats are hopeful but fearful that it may turn into another Sarajevo.

NEW YORK
By JAMES McMULLIN

Complete—
New York conservatives are pained to note that the government hasn't abandoned its plans for regulating private industry—even temporarily—as a result of the NRA setback.

The pending bill backed by labor would authorize the President to require certain standards of wages, hours and working conditions for all government contracts with private manufacturers. But that's not the worst of it. It would also empower him to demand that a bidder for a federal contract bind himself in advance—if he got the award—to obey any executive order issued for the purpose of carrying out a mandate from Congress. You might put it that anyone wishing to do business with Uncle Sam would have to agree to sign a blank check before he can qualify. Since most large corporations sell something to the government—directly or indirectly—this statute could be used to hamstring their plans to fight the Wagner Labor Disputes Act in the courts and you can imagine how they would love that.

Furthermore, they would find it hard to escape the long arm of the White House even if they deliberately sacrificed their federal business—because the same authority would apply also to state and local projects, wholly or partially financed by federal funds. This makes it pretty darned complete.

Hateful—

Here's the background to the bill as financial insiders get it. Not long ago Admiral C. J. Peoples had the bright idea of hitching up New Deal reforms to the persuasive powers of four billion dollars as above. He thought it could be done by simple executive fiat.

Then—as our Washington column reported at the time—Comptroller General McCarl horned into the picture. Mr. McCarl has two annoying habits. He wants proof of legal authority before he approves contracts and he declines to kowtow to the wishes of the executive branch. He represents a serious obstacle to the force play. In the crisis some genius in the administration remembered that the Comptroller is obligated to heed the will of Congress whether he wants to or not. That indicated a detour—easy as pie—just pass a law giving official legislative sanction to Admiral Peoples' solution and McCarl is checkmated.

The bill is now being smoothed up behind the scenes to make it easier for the legislators to take. There will be terrific yells from industry when it is introduced—but impartial observers rate its chance for passage as excellent. In that case "regimentation" will be back in the driver's seat. Already industrial circles are moaning about the proposed innovation in "government by intimidation"—but they will scuttle a lot of prejudices if they have to. They need their share of the four billion too badly to hold out in earnest even if they do resent such interference with private initiative.

Surrender—

Dealers in municipal bonds are all wrought up about the proposed change in the municipal bankruptcy law. What irks them most is the secrecy and speed with which it is being pushed through. The Investment Bankers' Association and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce both had strenuous objections to offer, but nobody gave them a chance.

The change would give RFC authority to pay off defaulted bonds of political subdivisions at any price it chooses to offer—and with no redress available to creditors. They wouldn't even have to be consulted. Under existing law no bankruptcy plan can go into effect without the approval of a substantial majority of creditors and they can't see why they should be summarily deprived of this bargaining power.

The worst of it all—from the creditors' standpoint—is that Jesse Jones will be anxious to settle defaulted municipal bonds as cheaply as possible. If he's to be judge as well as an advocate holders of lower grade liens of political subdivisions might as well surrender any hope for a financial comeback.

Help—

Not all utility leaders are pleased about prospective substitution of the House holding company bill for the Senate death sentence version. One of them remarks: "The only difference is that instead of setting the date for execution the prisoner is turned over to the warden with permission to execute if and when he pleases. How can we rely on the warden's mercy when his boss is so anxious to kill us off?"

Those who take this gloomy view find only two consolations in the House's action. One is the revolt against FDR (already largely offset by the vote on the TVA amendments). The other is the vagueness of the House bill which improves the chances that it will be held unconstitutional for failing to set up standards. That last may turn out to be quite a help in the long run.

Crocodile—

China has been howling murder ever since we adopted our silver policy. But experts say there would be a high speculative amashup in that country if we were to abandon it now. The Orientals—and their English associates—have made heavy commitments on the promise that we will follow through. So there is something of a crocodile quality to their continued moaning about our ruthless trampling on their economic welfare.

Last—

Even Wall Street was shocked by the bills totalling $2,222,000 for services of lawyers, trustees, receivers, etc., rendered to Paramount Public. You hear caustic comment about the people who get very indignant about high taxes and themselves seek to extract the last nickels from the beggar's cup.

Sidelights—

New Yorkers fall to share Secretary Hull's enthusiasm for his Soviet trade pact. They claim $30,000,000 exports a year to a country with Russia's purchasing power is chicken feed. . . . The Securities Exchange Commission is relieved to have gotten safely over its hurdle of compulsory registration of listed corporations. It doesn't quite know what it would have done if most of the big ones had refused to register—but it doesn't have to worry any longer.

Mexico City To Entertain Lions In July

International Convention To Begin July 23rd

CHICAGO—For the first time in history Lions International is holding its annual convention in a non-English speaking country. On July 23 an estimated 6,000 Lions and their friends will gather in the capital of Old Mexico for their four-day nineteenth annual meeting. They will reach the Aztec capital by special train, by plane, by boat, and if the highway is in good condition, hundreds of them will drive. Director General of Highways, Senor Gonzalez, has ordered the Laredo-Mexico City highway closed until July 15 to prepare it for the convention traffic.

The convention program will be opened at 2 p. m. Tuesday, July 23, when International President Hascall of Omaha, official of the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska, will take charge of the sessions. His report, which will cover the record made by the association during the past twelve months and will include recommendations for the new fiscal year, will be one of the highlights of the business session.

Besides the business sessions for delegates and officers, there will be an unusual amount of typical Mexican entertainment and hospitality. On Wednesday evening the President of the Republic of Mexico, Senor Lazaro Cardenas, will receive the delegates, and prior to this American Ambassador Joseph Daniels will receive delegates at the United States embassy. Some of the convention proceedings will be broadcast over a national hook-up in Mexico, which will be relayed by a number of American stations. Trips to the famous pyramids of the Aztecs and the floating gardens of Xochimilco, a Mexican circus, and trip around Mexico City are among the special features arranged for the delegates. The convention sessions will be held in the magnificent Palacio de Bellas Artes, recently completed, while many of the evening affairs will take place in the newly erected Foreign Club. It is expected that a large portion of the delegates will take advantage of the post convention tours through Central Mexico which have been arranged for them by the Lions Club of Mexico City.

A unique feature of the convention is the use of a "Pullman City" for the accommodation of the delegates who will not be able to secure hotel rooms during the convention. Every hotel room and available apartment and a good portion of the accommodations available in private homes are already reserved. Hundreds, possibly thousands, will therefore stay in Pullman City during the convention, where they will have their own lighting system, their own police force, a special cabaret, restaurant facilities, shops, baths and even carefully laid out streets and boulevards lined with trees and flowers.

The convention will mark the close of a particularly successful year for the Lions organization, during which sizeable increases in both the number of clubs and the total membership of the association were made.

Tires Withstand Accidents That Demolish Cars

What happens when racing motor cars traveling 100 miles an hour get out of control is shown by the accompanying pictures taken at the Indianapolis Speedway. They also demonstrate how helpless even the most expert drivers are under such conditions, particularly the illustration at the right, which shows Al Gordon, one of the world's best racing pilots, climbing over a concrete retaining wall.

Al Gordon smashes head-on into concrete wall at 100 miles an hour. The tires showed no evidence of damage.

This car hit the speedway retaining wall at terrific speed, and bounced many yards off the track. The chassis was completely wrecked, yet the tires suffered no injury.

The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle claims the distinction of not missing an edition since it became a daily newspaper 98 years ago.

A 21 per cent improvement on Arizona ranges over 1934 has been reported by the agricultural statistician stationed in Phoenix.

performance of the tires. Though the chassis were wrecked, the tires were found fully inflated and undamaged.

Racing officials and drivers at Indianapolis cited this particular tire performance as a "concrete" demonstration of the value of speed contests in developing better automotive equipment for general use. For many years, Firestone engineers have been designing and building tires that would withstand ever increasing speeds and punishment. That race drivers, who choose their tires with unusual care and buy them outright, appreciate these efforts is shown by the fact that practically all entrants in the Indianapolis and other important speed events for more than a decade have used Firestones exclusively.

Preferred Way To Feed Your Garden

Science Has Displaced Naphazard Methods With Correct Ones; Here Is New Way

Like all other living things, plants need food, and will thrive only when well supplied with the necessary food elements. Amazing results have been obtained by scientists who determined just what plants needed and just how to give it to them. Unfortunately, the why and what of it is not as clear to most gardeners as it should be, and they are likely to get advice from so many sources and of such varying kinds, that they are often confused.

There is one method of plant feeding that is preferred by a majority of successful gardeners. It has several advantages over other methods, the most important of which are its simplicity and its positive results. The scientific way of feeding plants is gaining in preference steadily over the pet methods of individuals which call for a handful of this and a pinch of that and a pinch of something else if conditions seem to warrant.

Just as cookery experts have abandoned the old guesswork method in favor of exact recipes, so gardeners are turning to scientific plant feeding with complete, balanced plant food. Today, anyone can be sure that they are supplying their garden friends with all of the plant food elements they need for greater beauty. No longer need the gardener worry that bacterial action in the soil will not be quick enough to make the organics (manures and bone meal) available when the plants need food most. Even more important, automatic release of large quantities of plant food at a time detrimental to plants is no longer a problem. The use of modern, complete plant food gives the gardener complete control of his feeding problem.

Here is the new way of feeding plants which gives such sure results:

1. Don't overfeed plants. Four pounds of complete plant food for 100 square feet of lawn or garden area is the right amount to use in spring. More is wasteful and sometimes harmful.
2. In feeding established lawns, be sure the grass is dry—not damp from dew or rain. As soon as the grass is dry in the morning is the best time to apply plant food to the established lawn.
3. Always mix the plant food thoroughly with the top few inches of soil before seeding a lawn on garden. It is advisable, but not necessary, to wait a day before planting.
4. Keep the plant food off stalks and stems of established plants. If some gets on plants, just wash off with water.
5. Read the directions which manufacturers furnish. The finer results that you will get from your garden from proper use of plant food warrants the little time necessary for careful reading.

"Will the next bottle taste as good as the last?"

A little-known fact about beer quality

HAVE you ever noticed a man TAKE a glass of beer and THEN say, "It doesn't taste THE same as the last BOTTLE I had." THIS happens so often THAT a lot of people think THAT beer is never TWICE alike. They think IT is all a matter of luck AND they change

FROM one brand to another UNTIL at last they meet A FELLOW who introduces THEM to Schlitz and THEY are all set for life WITH a beer that never varies BUT is always at the peak OF perfection. NOW, like everything else IN the world, there is a GOOD reason why most BEERS vary and Schlitz DOES not.

IT is a simple reason, too, WHEN you understand it. ALL BEERS are ripened by ENZYMES... just as fruits AND vegetables are ripened. BUT Enzymes are TRICKY things. THEY'LL ruin their own GOOD work if you give them HALF a chance or an EXTRA few degrees OF temperature. But SCHLITZ doesn't LET this happen, because SCHLITZ has developed ENZYME Control to an EXACT science. Its beer IS never a FRACTION under-ripe or OVER-RIPE. Next time

DON'T trust to luck. Ask for SCHLITZ... in the BROWN bottle that PROTECTS its fine, mellow FLAVOR from the light.

Famous Old Pike Restored NEW ORLEANS (U.P.)—As the first unit of a nine-mile Louisiana Purchase Memorial Park, extending along the Old Spanish Trail, eastward from New Orleans, restoration and beautification of Fort Pike has been completed.

Endurance Driver Attempts To Break 91-Hour Record Larry Dale, driving a Pontiac touring car for Keisling-Webb Motor company, in an effort to break the world's endurance driving record of 91 hours, was shackled to the steering wheel by Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday. The driver is accompanied by a trained nurse and a local boy. At noon today at the end of the first twenty-four hour driving, Dale was said to be in first-class physical condition, and expressed the opinion that he would break the world's endurance driving mark. He will be forced to drive until 3 o'clock Sunday morning if he breaks the record.

Dale is driving throughout the city and county making Fort Coahoma and other communities nearby.

GINGER SAVES SWIM SUIT, DRESS

When Ginger Rogers and her actor-husband, Lew Ayres, had to cancel a trip to Honolulu because of studio schedules, she found herself with the meager wardrobe of one dress and a swimming suit. All her other clothes had been shipped to the islands. Here she is in half her wardrobe being photographed by her husband. (Associated Press Photo)

SERVE IT IN NESTS OR CASES OR "PATTY-SHELLS ALL IN A ROW"

Serve it in a shell, sometimes! A "shell" of course, may mean a patty, a "case" or a "nest" but in any case it's a form of service that is attractive, "partified" and mightily convenient because the portions are already individual ones, ready to serve.

There are all manner of shells for your foods: shells of pastry, meringue, cake, or gingerbread for desserts; shells of grapefruit, orange, tomato for salads; "bread cases," "nests" of fluffy boiled rice and green pepper shells for main dishes. There are umbrellas, rosettes and English muffins; and even durable little wooden or composition shells which may be washed and used again. Sometimes the food itself provides the shell, as in the popular combination in which baked beans are served in cornucopia shells of boiled ham.

Patty-Cake
Patty-shells are among our best known shells and are made of puff paste or "chow" paste; included also in this family are vol-au-vents which are the deep, large patties. Flaky pastry shells are acceptable, however, are "the thing" for tarts and desserts, and are much easier to make. To make them, fit the pastry over outside of muffin tins, prick all over with a fork and bake. The tart shells may be kept after baking for some time, if they are stored in a tightly closed tin; reheat on using.

A "hollow-shell" (of its former self) is as successful as its filling; here are some prime ones!
Banana Cream Tarts
Sliced ripe bananas are a filling par excellence for cases of pastry, sponge cake, gingerbread or meringue; availability and the economy of the fruit makes this recipe a regular standby in many homes.
6 tart shells, 3 bananas, 1 tbsp. candied orange peel, 1 cup cream, whipped.
Slice the bananas and arrange in tart shells. Cover with whipped cream and garnish with candied orange peel cut in small pieces. Two tablespoons powdered sugar may be added to the cream if desired. If the orange peel is not used, flavor cream with one tsp. vanilla.

Puffs with Bagdad Filling
Shortly before serving make a slit in the bottom of cream puff shells and fill with the mixture below. If the shells are made very small (about 2 dozen to the recipe), they are delicious for afternoon tea service.
1 cup marshmallows, 1-2 pkg. pasteurized dates, 1-2 cup nut meats, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-2 tsp. vanilla. Few grains salt.
Cut dates and marshmallows with wet scissors. Chop nuts coarsely. Beat cream, add vanilla and salt, fold in dates, marshmallows, nuts.
Piquant Salad in Tomato Shells
6 medium tomatoes, 1 green pepper, 1-4 cup celery, chopped; Salt, 1-2 cup cucumber chopped, 1 tsp.

onion, chopped; Pepper, piquant dressing.
Put tomatoes in boiling water to loosen skins before peeling. Peel and place in refrigerator to chill. Remove pulp with chopped pepper, celery, onion and cucumber. Season to taste. Make Piquant Dressing as follows: Mix 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; add yolk of 1 egg, mix well and add 1-2 tablespoon vinegar. Mar. 1-2 cup mayonnaise drop by drop at first, then more quickly beating continuously with rotary egg beater. As mixture thickens thin with 1-2 tablespoons more vinegar and continue adding more mayonnaise until 2 cups have been used. Add 4 tablespoons ketchup and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Blend salad ingredients with enough dressing to hold mixture together and fill tomato shells.

Rice Nests
Fluffy boiled rice is an "extender" as well as a base for creamed fowl, meat, or vegetables, as in this recipe:
1 cup rice, White soup stock, 1 cup thick white sauce, Egg, fine crumbs.
Wash rice thoroughly. Cook in soup stock until tender, drain, cool and mix with thick white sauce. Spread on shallow pan to depth of 2 inches. Cover with waxed paper, place weights on top to make mixture compact when cold. Cut into cheques of equal size and hollow out inside of each to form a "nest". Dip each in fine bread crumbs, then in egg (beaten lightly with little water to spread easily). Roll in crumbs again and place in ice box several hours before time to use. Fry in deep hot mayonnaise till golden brown. Serve hot filled with creamed chicken, chicken and mushrooms, creamed fish, sweetbreads, peas, and the like.

S. S. Class Honors Mrs. C. W. Willis

Charter Member Of First Baptist Church Is Feted

The Dorcas Sunday School class of the First Baptist church gave an unusually clever birthday party honoring Mrs. C. W. Willis, charter member of the church Tuesday afternoon. The party was held in the church parlor, special guests of the class were charter members of other churches and old time friends of Mrs. Willis.

The parlor was decorated with old-fashioned flowers such as hollyhocks, sinlins.

Mrs. A. T. Lloyd, vice president, presided. Mrs. Buchanan gave the devotional from Psalms 103. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Harry Stalcup and Mrs. F. J. Gibson, who sang solos.

Mrs. B. Reagan told of the early days of the church and the Rev. Ricketson related tales of his grandmother's day. Mrs. R. C. Hatch read a birthday card from Mrs. A. G. Hall.

Mrs. M. E. Barrett, charter member of the First Christian church, was present, also Mrs. A. G. Hall and Mrs. D. F. Painter of the First Methodist.

A delicious refreshment plate of sandwiches, ice tea and a dessert course was passed at the close.

Mrs. Willis was presented with a basket of lovely gifts by little Misses Louise Ann Bennett and Marijo Thurman while Miss Gertrude Davies of Santa Monica, Calif., made a gracious presentation speech.

Present for the occasion were: Rev. and Mrs. Robert Ricketson; Misses M. E. Barrett, Clara Hanson, W. S. Davies, Earl Parrish, W. R. Dawes, C. S. Holmes, S. C. Bennett, M. B. Elkins, of Lexington, Okla., A. G. Hall, F. W. Bettie, Ella Crawford, D. F. Painter, J. D. Stamper, F. J. Gibson, J. R. Copeland, W. B. Buchanan, E. M. Hilley, A. T. Lloyd, K. S. ### "DODGE BLAZES ECONOMY TRAIL" says ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS

Sturdy, rugged Dodge helped me blaze a way through trackless wastelands in the Far East," writes Roy Chapman Andrews, famous explorer. "And now Dodge blazes a new trail—the economy trail. I know my new Dodge costs less to run than a small car."

Dodge owners everywhere are getting gas and oil mileage heretofore considered beyond reach. Many figure it costs less to own a Dodge than a small, competitive make. They say their gas and oil savings quickly make up the difference in price.

In proposing to lay a tax graduated according to the size of corporation income the president gave a number of reasons. It may be useful to analyze his arguments with a view to finding out whether they furnish to congress a clear policy for legislation.

The president begins with a tribute to those large-scale enterprises which have brought about "substantial economies and lower prices." We may assume from this that he thinks well of those big corporations which have passed on to the consumer the benefits of economies in mass production. It would follow that he thinks badly of those big corporations which have not lowered their prices, either because they have achieved no economies or because they have exploited a monopolistic control of prices. This line of thought would lead to the idea, possibly a very fruitful idea, that it is not size as such, but a monopolistic price policy which should be attacked through legislation and a modernized Sherman act.

However, as the president proceeds with his argument, he drops this distinction between size which benefits the consumer and size which exploits him. The president then argues that small enterprise is inherently desirable and that size is inherently evil because "size begets monopoly." He, therefore, takes the position that because size tends to beget monopoly, size should be penalized even though it has not begotten monopoly.

Having taken an unqualified stand against size rather than against monopoly, the President then invokes, as an additional reason for the graduated tax, the ability to pay. He argues that a large corporation income can pay a larger tax than a smaller income. This is true. If there is more income, more can be paid. Yet the larger total income of a big corporation may represent a smaller profit and a smaller real income on the capital invested than the smaller income of a smaller corporation. The president seems to have confused the ability of a corporation to pay with the ability of individuals to pay. He has treated a corporation, which is an artificial person, as if it were a real person. He would graduate his tax not according to the ability of real persons to pay but of a soulless organization which in itself has only the ability to pay out the income of its owners. Thus a man of moderate means owning shares in a big corporation would be taxed at a higher rate than a rich man owning shares in a smaller corporation.

That this proposal is really contrary to the principle of ability to pay may be shown, I think, by an illustration which will commend itself to all those who, like the president, have in the past opposed the sales tax. There is no doubt that if you take the nation as a whole, treating it as one corporate entity, a universal sales tax would yield the largest possible revenues, because it would tax the largest number of individuals and the largest total mass of income. The ability of the nation as a nation to pay would be enormous. But such a tax would impose the heaviest burden on those who, as individuals, have the smallest ability to pay.

The ability of individuals to pay and the ability of a collective mass to pay are not only different, things but contradictory. To graduate taxes on individual incomes is to make the burden proportionate to the incomes. To graduate them according to the size of the pool in which many individual incomes happen to be collected is to tax men not in proportion to their ability but because they invested in large corporations rather than in small ones.

That might be a desirable policy if the purpose is to penalize investment in big corporations. But it should not be confused with the absolutely different policy of taxing individuals on the basis of their ## ability to pay.

The underlying confusions in this section of the tax program are superimposed upon the confusion of the program as a whole. The president does not seem to know, and congress does not know the purpose of these new taxes. One day the emphasis is on revenue, but since the new budget is not available no one knows how much revenue needs to be raised. At other times the emphasis is on the redistribution of income, but no one in Washington will touch with a ten-foot pole the vital question of substituting visible for invisible taxes, as the indispensable safeguard in a policy of redistribution. The president recognizes some virtue in corporate size but in his proposals he would penalize indiscriminately the virtues and the vices of size. He invokes the ability to pay as a principle and proposes a tax which in fact denies that principle.

My friend, Mr. Mark Sullivan, may see in all this the deep planning of a highly intellectualized Brain Trust. But to my eye it looks much more like the absence of any plan and the lack of intellectual effort, the work of tired brains, relying on their wishes and their prejudices and throwing out casual suggestions which they are too hot and bothered to think about.

SPORT SLANTS

The huge municipal stadium in Cleveland, where the all-star game was played, proved to be a pitcher's paradise, for the American league losers at least. National league batters pounded the offerings of Lefty Gomez of the Yankees, and Mel Harder, of the Indians, far and wide but their efforts went for naught when the outfielders hauled their smacks down for put-outs.

"What a spot!" remarked Gomez after the game. "You just toss it up there and let 'em hit it; someone is sure to catch the ball."

The National leaguers made only four hits off the combined efforts of Gomez and Harder. Three hits in six innings was Lefty's yield while Harder gave but one in the three frames he pitched.

The Cleveland mound ace didn't have quite the chance to steal the show in this year's all-star affair that he did in the game last year but he shared the pitching honors with Gomez. Perhaps Harder needs a setting like the inter-league meeting to inspire him to do his best. He did not disappoint the home folks who went wild when he stepped out on the mound in the seventh inning.

Harder seems to be headed for the best season of his big league career for he already boasts an even dozen victories against five defeats. He turned in 20 victories last year but had 12 losses charged against him. Even so he ranked second only to Lefty Gomez in the earned run averages with a mark of 2.61 runs per nine-inning game.

Combs Still Going Strong Even after Earle Combs flashed his old time form in the early games of the season the skeptics insisted that his come-back would be halted when the warm weather set in. Well, the warm—and even hot days are here and have been with us for some time. But there has been no sign of faltering on the gray-haired Yankee's part. Instead Combs seems to be moving forward all the time.

One might reasonably expect that the near-fatal accident in St. Louis last summer would take its toll but apparently it has not for Combs insists that he feels stronger and faster than he did last year. He doesn't mean that he feels as spry as he did four or five seasons ago—that would be silly—but he does feel that he is going better than he has at any time in the last couple of years.

It's chasing flies in the outfield that makes him realize that he is slipping a bit as far as his speed is concerned. Fly balls that would have been easy catches a few years ago now take a bit of extra pressure to snare. That's one of the reasons Earle is coming through with so many spectacular catches this year.

Double-headers, too, have a way of getting the veteran down for they take so much out of him that it is days before he finds his stride again.

Couldn't Stay Away For 25 years A. H. Rick Woodward, an owner of the Birmingham Barons of the Southern association, followed the fortunes of his team as closely as a mother hen watches her brood of chicks. And then a few weeks ago he decided that he had enough of baseball, or thought he had, and quit.

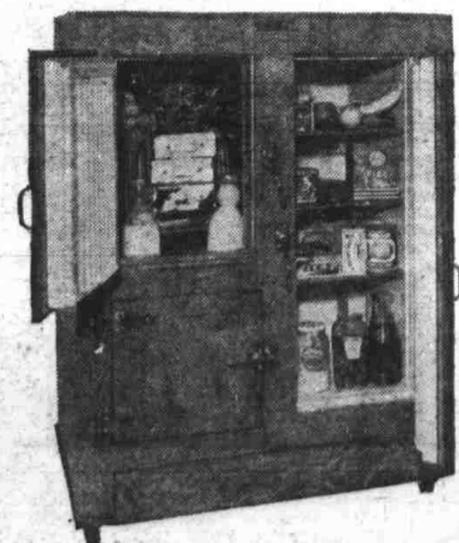

A few weeks of leisure away from the boys convinced him that he could not be happy in his self-imposed exile. So back he went to the bench beside his players.

Woodward has always been one of the most popular owners in baseball so it is no wonder that his return was greeted with cheers by his friends and associates in the Southern loop.

Although neighboring towns all around long had been in the hands of British soldiers during the American revolution, Augusta, Ga., did not fall until 1778.

"it runs for just about a Nickel a day"

She's talking about her new electric refrigerator. She's agreeably surprised to find out that she has all the advantages of electric refrigeration—constant temperatures below fifty degrees, plenty of ice cubes, large food storage space and so on—for just about a nickel a day operating expense.

She's only one of more than a hundred thousand Texas homemakers that have found out that electric refrigerators are best suited to withstand the rigors of Texas' climate. Refrigerators that do a good job in more temperate climatic conditions just can't handle the situation down here. It takes reserve power and lots of it—and that's electric refrigeration's long suit.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

Chapter Nine
WORSE TANGLE
 Laurie had made a kind of cult for Rex, as she had made for Mark Albery, in her hero-worshiping way. She had heard so much about him from Belle Mason, who adored him and would have been his wife, if she had lived.

So much that she had seemed to know him. His gait, his kindness, his bursts of temper, that were over in a moment; his restlessness when he was bound to earth. As she had told him a few minutes ago, when she thought of how she and Glad had been saved and had prospered because of him, because of her at first innocent masquerade, she had told herself that, if he knew, he would forgive her. He wouldn't mind. But, then, of course, she had thought he was dead, and she had felt the dead would understand.

How he must have changed! She remembered that he had been blind, and her warm heart went out to him for a moment. And that he had probably saved her life the other day.

But why must he force her into this odious position? Surely, he could have found a way out? The logical part of her mind saw the justice of it. But his last words had stung her on the raw—"When the time comes to pay, you don't like it, and you squeal!"

He was a selfish brute and he despised her. And she hated him for coming back and upsetting her life. She would pay and she wouldn't squeal. But she would punish him, all the same, for those insulting words.

In the morning Laurie could almost have thought the episode had been a dream. She had slept surprisingly soundly after the shock and stir of the encounter.

There was no word from Rex Moore. By the post only a scrawl from Gladys, saying that their tour was being shortened, and she would probably be back in London in the middle of May. A "rest" was indicated. She hoped to goodness it wouldn't be for long.

Laurie waited, feeling a fool, a few minutes beyond her time for work she left for the office, which was within an easy walk. But nothing happened.

So she set forth and did her day's work as usual, following the routine with a kind of intelligently vacant mind. Nobody said anything to her. Evidently the news of Rex Moore's return had not filtered through from above.

Mark Albery did not send for her. She had half expected that he would.

When she got home, Rex Moore met her on the pavement.

"I found out when you left the office," he said. "I've been with Albery nearly all day. Everything went off first-rate. May I come up with you, Mrs. Moore?"

His grim chuckle had the usual effect on her.

"I suppose so," she said coldly. "Are you determined to go on rubbing it in?"

He did not answer until they were up in her sitting-room. Then he looked at her, smiling in his unexpected way, but without mockery. Then she saw that his face could be nice. He wore a new grey flannel suit, and his hair had been cut and trimmed to conventional smoothness.

"No, I won't do that," he said casually. "Why not treat it like a joke, which it really is?"

"I don't see it in that light at all, Mr. Moore."

"I should try to. Do you mind if I smoke?" He did not sit down without being asked.

She stood facing him, and suddenly felt foolish. She pointed to a chair, and sat down herself, refusing a cigaret.

"So you went to work as usual today?" he asked abruptly.

"Of course."

"You intend to go on with it?"

"What do you mean?" She stared in amazement.

"Only that Albery asked me. I said I didn't know. Perhaps it would look better if you didn't."

Laurie's eyes blazed.

"Nothing would induce me to give up my work. I would rather tell the truth. You haven't any right to ask me to."

"I won't, then. Don't hit the ceiling! It's only that he is offering me a very decent salary, and it might seem queer."

OLDEST BATTERY IN BIG LEAGUE

"It wasn't difficult. She believes everything I say. I only had to tell her I'd met you near our home in the country, and we were married secretly after poor Belle died. Glad was away for six months, working on an orange plantation, before we went to Sydney. She didn't know Belle; she went to a different school. She's five years younger than I."

He looked at her straight in the eyes. For the first time her antagonism faltered.

"I guess you've been through a bit," he said quietly. "Well, that's all right. You'll send the good news to your sister right away." His smile was mocking again.

"She will be coming to London soon."

"Then she can stay with us and watch our cat and dog life. Better to have a witness on your side, so it can be all my fault."

"You're perfectly disgusting!" Laurie exclaimed furiously. "I don't believe I'll do it after all!"

"It's fixed. You can't get out of it now. By the way, you know my first name. What's yours?"

"Laurie."

"It suits you. It's uncommon—like you. I say, must you look so bit," he said quietly. "Well, that's all right. You'll send the good news to your sister right away." His smile was mocking again.

man of the photograph. "I haven't said I'm grateful to you, but I am. Albery is all over me. You see, I've got to make money. It's the main thing for me to make lots of money."

He stepped abruptly, as if he had forgotten himself in a moment of rare relaxation.

"I'll make it easy for you," he added. "And I'll get off now, and come back in the morning. Albery sent a message. You're not to go back to the office anyhow for a few days, until we're settled in. Can you move tomorrow?"

"I suppose so," she said ungraciously.

"Right! Good-night, then!" Laurie was confused when he held out his hand, but she put hers in it. A lingering went through her that made her pull it hastily away.

Her "good-night" was a whisper, as she fought for self-control.

WIDOW OF PROMINENT TEXAS DRUGGIST DIES
 DALLAS, (AP)—The body of Mrs. J. A. Skillern, 70, widow of the late J. A. Skillern, founder of the Skillern Drug stores, is expected to arrive in Dallas Wednesday from Bella Vista, Ark., where she died Tuesday afternoon at her summer home.

Funeral services were held Wednesday.

Mrs. Skillern and her husband, who died in 1916, lived in Sherman from 1892 to 1898, and one of the 22 Skillern drug stores is at Sherman now. The others are in Dallas.

A model of the Mauretania has been presented to Winchester cathedral in England.

CONTRACT

1935 RULES EXPLAINED

By TOM O'NEIL Elimination Play

End plays permit success with some contracts when finesse would fail or there is no possibility of finesse.

Some hands can be played so that after exhaustion of adverse trumps there are trumps left in both hands of the contracting partnership. All other cards of side suits are played or eliminated from both hands and a defender is forced to win a trick at a time when anything he leads will be to the advantage of the declarer, either a lead up to a tenace, such as ace-queen, or a lead that will give the declarer a ruff and a discard.

Other hands require elimination of suits from the cards of a defender. In illustration: The bidding by South and North in a rubber game at Bridge House, New York, was one club; three no trump; six clubs.

Unable to avoid loss of a trump trick, the declarer could see no possibility of losing a heart trick.

and was one set. But sitting North, Edna Marlow broke her silence. "The distribution enabled the hand to be made by an end play on East. When the queen of hearts was led and taken with the king North, East played the seven. That should have given you hope.

"Then you should have played the ace and king of clubs, and you would know that East had the queen, another thing that should show the right way to play the hand. Then the three high diamonds should have been played, followed by the king and ace of spades and the ruff of a spade in the South hand.

"A heart should have been led to the ace. East would have played the nine. There would be confirmation of East's possession originally of only two hearts.

"Lead a club from the North hand. East, winning with his queen, would have left a diamond and a spade. In the North would be a club and a heart. In the South hand there would also be a club and a heart.

"Whatever East led could be trumped either North or South and hand. The last heart could then be trumped for the slam contract."

Midland Bar Talks Plans for Getting Federal District

MIDLAND—Midland Bar association entertained with a dinner in the private diningroom of the Hotel Scharbauer Tuesday.

No set program was presented. After discussion it was decided to wait until congress adjourns and then take up with Rep. R. E. Thomson the matter of having Midland made the center of a federal district. In this way the matter would be dealt with in a bill to be offered to the next session of congress.

One out-of-town visitor, Attorney Row, was present.

Members attending were: Col. John Perkins, Ed. Whitaker, Judge Chas. Klapproth, Frank Stubbsman, Joe Seymour, T. D. Kimbrough, F. W. Hamilton, W. K. Wilson. Four members were absent.

The association will hold its next dinner in September.

Officers of the organization are: President, Judge Klapproth; vice president, Col. Perkins; secretary and treasurer, W. K. Wilson.

Army Buyers Acquire Horses Near Midland

MIDLAND—Major Canant and Lieutenant Bennett of Fort Reno, here to buy horses for national guard and R. O. T. C. troops, completed the purchase of the required 21 head, making a car load, late Tuesday.

Fourteen were bought from Clarence Scharbauer, of the Five-Wells, Goldsmith and Crowley places; four were bought from the Midland Farms company's C-ranch, two from Elmer Jones and one from A. C. Frances.

The horses were given a test prescribed in army regulations, and which takes 48 hours to complete. Those located outside the city were being brought here Thursday and will be shipped to Fort Reno. A price of $150 per head was paid by the army buyers.

In An "American Cavalcade"

Tapping a virgin source of screen material, RKO Radio presents "The Arizonian," starring Richard Dix as an exciting cinema account of frontier marshall's activity in curbing the renegades who infested the west in the young stages of formation and settlement, showing at the Ritz Friday and Saturday.

Historical figures like Wild Bill Hickok, Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp were once involved in the fierce conflict between the police and bandit factions. Notable peace-makers of history, they blazed away with six-shooters, risking life and limb to preserve order and establish equity.

A composite of these characters is played by Richard Dix. He portrays Clay Tallant, an itinerant bandit chaser en route to California. He halts at Silver City, Arizona, to visit his brother and encounters a graft and outlaw-ridden community. When the unscrupulous sheriff's mechanisms involve his kin and sweetheart, he dons the marshall's badge, reforms a notorious killer and purges the town. Blood is shed on the streets of Silver City, but the West had to be fit for peace and progress.

Richard Dix's role in "The Arizonian" has been likened to his in "Cimarron." As Yancey Cravat, it will be remembered, Dix characterized a pioneer who regulated an Oklahoma community at the point of a gun. Critics say that "The

Reception Is Held In Church Parlors After Prayer Meeting

The Board of Stewards were hosts and hostesses for a reception Wednesday night at the First Methodist Church honoring Dr. J. Richard Spann, former pastor of the church, and his aunt, Mrs. C. C. Usery, both of Baton Rouge, La.

Dr. Spann spoke at the prayer meeting service, after which the meeting was adjourned. Those present went to the church parlors for an informal session and a visit with Dr. Spann and Mrs. Usery. Music was furnished throughout the evening by the violin trio, Misses Evelyn Jackson, Lovelle Bell and Margaret Wade, and by the Boys' Harmony Trio, John Vestine, Wesley Butts and Horace Penn.

Dr. Spann and his party are planning to leave Friday for Houston and Galveston and plan to be in Baton Rouge by next Wednesday.

Charter Granted To Midland Fair

MIDLAND—Charter was granted by the secretary of state a few days ago to the Midland Fair, Inc., a $30,000 corporation recently organized here to buy land and erect a new fair grounds for the purpose of exhibiting livestock and agricultural products, staging fairs, rodeos and entertainment events.

The charter was secured at Austin by Foy Proctor, president of the corporation, and Roy Parks, a director, on the trip they made there last week with architects and school board members inspecting physical education buildings.

The directors had been in session much of the time for two days, working out arrangement of the new plant before beginning construction. A tract of 100 acres of land was bought from Frank Elkin, of the eastern limits of the city. Representatives of manufacturing firms were here today, placing bids for providing steel grandstands and other equipment.

"ARIZONIAN" AUTHENTIC

Much exciting action is said to take place in "The Arizonian," which many claim to be the most authentic drama of the Old West produced to date. Margot Grahame is seen in the leading feminine role opposite Richard Dix with Preston Foster, Louis Calhern and James Bush in important supporting roles.

"Arizonian" offers Dix as the public likes him, a strong character with a sense of righteousness. "The Arizonian" is distinguished in its supporting cast. Margot Grahame and Preston Foster, who appeared in "The Informer," have prominent roles in this production. Louis Calhern, Willie Best, Ray Mayer and J. Farrell MacDonald are also among the cast. Charles Vidor directed from a scenario of Dudley Nichols' story, under the supervision of Cliff Reid.

Sterilization Urged To End Crime In U.S.

WILMINGTON, Del. (UP)—Sterilization of criminals and criminally minded people is a better antidote for the prevention of crime than the whipping post, according to Dr. Mesrop A. Tarumian, state psychiatrist and superintendent of the Delaware state hospital for the insane.

"We have to face the fact," he said, "that the nation is being poisoned by the rapid production of mental and moral defectives and to insure the survival of the fittest we have to control defectives."

Under the Delaware sterilization law, which has been in operation since 1923, approximately 425 persons, both male and female, have been sterilized. One was a prisoner, who had the operation performed at his own request.

Law Applies To Three Felonies
The sterilization of criminals who have committed three felonies is one of the developments in the sterilization law sponsored by Dr. Tarumian which was added to the earlier law during the 1929 session of the legislature.

"Before this part of the law can be carried out, however," the psychiatrist said, "the co-operation of the court and the attorney general is needed."

Dr. Tarumian contends that Delaware's law is the best that has been set up anywhere. "Every safeguard is provided for the person, and at the same time the public is fully protected against those mentally deficient," he added.

Confinement Not Factor
"Regarding the case where a man has committed three felonies, the law makes possible the sterilization of such persons even though they aren't confined to an institution."

It was explained by Dr. Tarumian that every person who was sterilized underwent the operation with the permission of the family or the patient's nearest relative.

Final authorization of sterilization comes from the State Board of Charities, which also acts upon the recommendation and report of the mental hygiene clinic of the state hospital and the superintendent of the state hospital or other institutions in which the person is confined.

TEXAS TOPICS
By Raymond Brooks

University of Texas regents a few years ago dreamed a hard-headed dream of practical achievement, and then set to work to make it come true. The dream largely in a pliancy now, and the rest of it is coming true in pleasing fashion.

This week, federal allotment to complete the fourth of a series of dormitories was made. Application for another is near the stage of final action in Washington.

This makes 14 new buildings of the program envisioned by the regents when they began replacing old wooden shacks with a modern plant designed to serve 10,000 students.

Three important buildings are now under construction—the final unit of the main building-library and its 328-foot tower; a men's dormitory, and a women's dormitory. The new building for which funds have just been found should be started before either of these is completed. The first library unit, Hogg auditorium, the Union building, classroom structures, a new power unit, and the university junior high demonstration school are among recent completions.

The goal of 10,000 students has been reached, counting summer enrollment separate from long-term enrollment; but 10,000 students at one time will be a reality just as soon as the plant and faculty can care for them. Enrollment has absorbed all the new plant facilities as fast as they have been provided.

The dream of the greater university program was conceived when the late Judge R. L. Batts of Austin was chairman of the board; and it took form and reality under the leadership of Batts and then of Beauford Jester, recent chairman. It reaches fulfillment in the present biennium.

Different political writers have taken the same premises and reached precisely opposite conclusions. One has guessed that Governor James V. Allred would become a candidate for the United States senate if the dry defeat the prohibition repeal amendment this summer, on the ground it would show such a strong dry sentiment as to sustain his principles.

Now a writer in the Dallas News expresses the opinion that Allred would make the race only in case the wets win this summer, thus showing a theoretical repudiation of the dry sentiment led by the incumbent Sen. Morris Sheppard.

A third angle which recently has seemed a good guess is that Allred has dropped the senatorial race from his mind and will seek a second term as governor, regardless of the outcome of the liquor contest, so far led by General Apaty.
