NAVY'S SEARCH FOR THE DEAD CONTINUES

INJURED SHOW IMPROVEMENT; MEN PRAISED

To Change Methods In Building of Houses For Storing Munition

By United Press.
DOVER, N. J., July 13.—Detailed searching of the ruins of the Lake Denmark arsenal destroyed Saturday by lightning, was pressed by the navy today, in an effort to determine exact conditions in the arsenal and to learn if more bodies were in the ruins.

Late today a flag draped box was removed near the arsenal gate, but officials would not reveal whether another body had been found. The official death list still stands at 19, with five unidentified and several listed as missing. Approximately 45 of the injured are still in the hospital, including about 30 service men. They are all reported as improving. Patrols of marines and sailors were sent into the area of the Lake Denmark naval arsenal again today. They resumed search for victims of the explosion on Saturday, which wiped out the arsenal. Thus far the death list of known dead has run up to 20, with several still missing. The men not only will go into the arsenal grounds, but squads will search the woods nearby, and probably will drag the lake for one or more bodies that were reported seen. Secretary of War Davis arrived here late yesterday afternoon and made a personal inspection of the ground with staff officers of the Army.

"The government must change its methods of building arsenals and magazine store houses," he said. The old system of grouping buildings has proven to be too dangerous. This was demonstrated in the Lake Denmark disaster. Buildings should be far enough apart, so if one is set off, it in turn will not explode the others. At the same time he paid a high compliment to the Marine Corps, an organization that has never failed, also to the officers on duty, especially to Lieut. George W. Bott Jr., stationed at the Pickapenny arsenal. In the meantime the damages are mounting up higher, because of the havoc wrought to property as far as thirty miles distance. It is thought that the loss will reach approximately $100,000,000.

Mother Of Noted Mrs. McPherson With Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—Visibly agitated, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, appeared before the Los Angeles grand jury today and related her version of her daughter's mysterious five weeks absence from Angelus temple. The business manager of the large religious order maintained a frigid silence when questioned by representatives of the press before entering the room. Within she recounted the same story as already told the authorities, which corroborates in detail, Mrs. McPherson's own story of the kidnaping in Mexico.

RIFF LEADER EXILED TO AN ISLAND

By United Press.

Community Services Draw Good Attendance

An unusually large crowd greeted Rev. W. H. Johnson and his singer, Rev. Mr. Vaughn, at their meeting last night, however, the dark clouds that covered the sky, dispersed the crowd before the services were concluded. Large placards, six feet by twenty-nine inches, bearing the words "Community Service, 8 p. m." and pointing the way to the lot on which the meeting is held, are placed at Pershing and Young streets so that there may be no difficulty in one finding their way to the place set aside for these services.

AGITATION HAS NO EFFECT ON COMMISSION

Must Present More Evidence To Get Any Better Terms

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—France's agitation for the modification of the debt settlement, with America, appeared futile as the situation stood today, following an announcement of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, that any modification proposal will have to be made to congress and not to the American debt funding commission.

The present settlement pending in the senate after passage by the House, has been condemned by some democrats and insurgent republicans as "too lenient" and a virtual cancellation of parts of the legal debts. These groups indicated today they would not make what would be regarded as a "double concession" unless France presents much more evidence that she has, that she cannot pay more.

It was the opinion of the secretary and other members of the commission that France has a more liberal agreement than any of the others. In the meantime France is bleeding Germany for every cent possible as well as making her make good all her promises. In the minds of some of the commission, France wants the debt wiped out. The parades and protesting against the Bergere settlement will not affect the United States' stand, was the expression of several members of the commission. All the other nations have come to terms, and now France wants more than all the others combined.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN QUARTERED

By United Press.
BOSTON, Mass., July 13.—The body of a young woman cut into eight pieces, was found in two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag beside a stone wall bordering on the new Calvary cemetery today. The head and torso were wrapped in a brown paste-board box which bore the name of a florist. Other parts of the body had been divided in a smaller box and bag.

Medical expert Timothy Leary, who has begun an autopsy, said he had found a fresh incision on the body, indicating an operation for appendicitis. The body had been dismembered by an expert surgeon, Dr. Leary said.

Eastland Farmers Report All Crops In Fine Shape

Eastland is already beginning to feel the result of the ripening and marketing of the melon and other garden crops the turnover at the banks and business houses showing a marked increase according to information gleaned this morning.

Farmers Monday and Tuesday hauled truck loads of the fruit to stores where they experienced no difficulty in disposing of their products while others in possession of good trucks hauled their goods to Fort Worth and Dallas.

Farmers also stated that they had gathered the largest hay crop in the history of farming in this district, while others said that the cotton flea that threatened to wipe out the cotton crop had mysteriously disappeared from the plants. The cotton was now coming on fine but fears were uttered that the hard rains of the past few days might cause an influx of boll weevil and cotton worm. The grasshopper pest reported in the northern sections of the county seemed to have drifted away, it was stated.

AUSTIN, July 13.—Permit to do business in Texas was granted today to Graton & Knight Company, Worcester, Mass., said to be the largest leather manufacturers in the world. Dallas is to be the headquarters for the company, which has a capital stock of $2,500,000.

Wounded In Action

Corporal M. E. Prather of the United States Marine Corps detail at the Lake Denmark ammunition depot here is being bandaged after receiving serious injuries in the explosion which wrecked the place. Physicians at the temporary hospital in Dover, N. J., said he probably would lose the sight of an eye. Mrs. E. R. Church, a volunteer nurse, and Private D. M. Huntley of the marine corps, are standing by.

Explosion Pictures Received By Air; Newspaper Service

Pictures of the explosion of the Navy and Army arsenals near Dover, N. J., that appear in this paper were received by air mail. They were dispatched to Fort Worth, where they arrived last night, and special delivered here early this morning.

This is in keeping with the ideals and objects of this paper to render to the citizenship and families of Eastland county service second to none, metropolitan papers included.

The Fort Worth morning edition received the cuts last night and had one of them in this morning's paper, had this paper published a morning edition, it would have had the pictures also.

The service is the object of this paper, and it is doing its best to give the readers the best paper in West Texas. It has no political axes to grind, and it does not propose to grind any. Development of Eastland county is one of its main objects, and also to print the news fit to print first as was the case Sunday morning when this paper was the only one in the county to carry the news of the disaster; that took several lives, the pictures it is printing this afternoon.

DRUSE OPEN WAR AGAIN ON FRENCH

PARIS TURNS OUT IN GALA ATTIRE FOR THE SULTAN

By JOHN O'BRIEN, United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS, July 13.—"Praise to Allah! This is the Prophet's Paradise," repeated time and again Mouley Youssef, of Morocco and commander of the faithful, to Theodore Steeg, French high commissioner, as they rode down the brilliant Champs-Elysees today through the vast Place de la Concorde, along the stately and historic rue de Rivoli, passing the Louvre and the Gardens of the Tuileries, on their way to the city hall for the official reception by the municipality.

It was the sultan's first view of the Ville Lumiere apart from the fleeting glance he got yesterday on his arrival from Toulon. Bewildered by the magnificence of the buildings, the streets, the beauty of the women and the cheers which Parisians lavish on all foreign potentates, Mouley Youssef could merely clasp his hands, mutter phrases intelligible only to the Arab interpreter, bow his turbaned Moroccan monarch but his Black bodyguard, composed of the 100 caids, or chief men, of all the great tribes of Western Islam, from Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia, came next before the battalions of infantry and cavalry of the French army.

FIRST YEAR IS GREAT SUCCESS FOR PRODUCERS

Bankhead Eggs Now Served On Dinners Of Leading Roads

No liabilities, no debts, and assets amounting to $1,998.15 are some of the high points that are set forth in a financial statement recently prepared by the Bankhead Poultry Producers' Marketing association. Many of the facts set forth in the statement will doubtless be interesting to the members of the association and those who have contributed, as each fact tells a bit of its history and the struggle since April 1, 1925, to June 26, 1926. Eggs and cases sold, $44,836.87; poultry sold, $10,963.14; feed bought, $14,830.24, and a number of other necessary items including salaries of $3,150, totaling $72,857.79.

On April 1, 1925, they had no surplus and on June 26, 1926, their record showed a gain from operations of $198.15, assets of $1,998.15, and best of all, no liabilities and no debts.

This report was given in to before the directors of the association when they met in Cisco, Friday, July 9, at which time Michael Rogers of Gorman was elected a director to succeed Henry Capers of that city, resigned. The directors voted to appropriate $100 each toward the expenses of J. B. Eberhart and Jack Spner if they would go to Petaluma, Calif., to study the poultry industry for the benefit of the association.

While the association did not begin actual activities until April, it was organized several months prior to that time and was fostered and fostered by R. G. Lee of Cisco. At the time of organization, the various chambers of commerce of the county agreed to contribute a certain amount of money to the association until such a time as it became self-sustaining, and that time really came (Continued on page two)

FROM GREATEST BOOK TRUE GREATNESS—"The Lord God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many more as ye are, and bless you, as he hath promised you!" Duet, 1:11.
PRAYER—God of our Fathers be the God of thine succeeding race.

ROBBING POSTERITY.
The parent who takes the child out of school before completing course of study prescribed in the free public schools of the state is robbing posterity, the child and his nation.

Competition in the race for a livelihood is too sharp. Training is needed in all lines. Without training dire want will result. The world needs trained men and women today more than ever in history. Men and women should be given the best training possible. It is a selfish parent who takes his child out of school before the course is finished saying, I have worked for you these many years and you now must quit school and work for me.

The old hit and miss way of farming and other lines of endeavor have seen their best day. Farming has become a science, and trained men and women are needed on the farms as well as elsewhere. The trained mechanic of today is an educated man. He must know his business in a scientific way to get ahead. The prisons, eleemosynary institutions and soup houses are filled with men and women who are untrained.

An educated person is heir to the world. It is better to provide the child with an education than to leave that child rich in money. Dollars are round and can roll away, as has been demonstrated. A man may meet with misfortune, have sickness and other things may cause him to lose his riches. If that child has any stamina in him or her, and have an education, they can put that to use. Riches often have wings. An education is something that no one can rob you of. Trained men and women with a desire to work usually are the ones who make the headway. If it is necessary to make further sacrifices, the parent should give the child at least a common school education.

The courses in the common schools should be strengthened. A person can make headway without a college education, but where the parent is able and the child shows a disposition to want to get ahead, that child should be given a college education.

A ride through any section of the country will reveal the scientific farmer. Where scientific methods are used, under ordinary season conditions; the scientifically worked crop will show bigger dividends than the old slipshod method.

Men should strive to leave the world better than they found it. By educating your child you are doing that. You are preparing your child for citizenship. The late world war demonstrated the value of training. Trained men and women were given promotion over the untrained.

The world needs more practical education, and men and women educated along practical lines. The world needs more avocation schools, more junior agricultural and mechanical colleges, Texas needs more of them. The avocation departments to the schools aid the citizenship and builds up the community.

The writer's father left an admonition to his family when he saw death approaching and asked the widow to be sure and give the children an education if nothing more and if they could not make a living they were not entitled to one.

Training is needed, and the better the training, the better citizen the boy or girl will become. Don't rob your child by taking it out of school until the course has been finished, unless absolutely necessary. Remember that what was good enough for you will not be good enough for them. We are living in an age of electricity, flying machines and autos. This is a fast age and training is needed to compete with others in all lines of endeavor.

$1,000 Collected.
In the beginning $1,000 was collected and turned in to the association with the understanding that the balance could be called for when needed. The purpose of the organization was to supply the demands of the people of this vicinity and to find a good market for any surplus production.

William Jarrett of Desdemona was named salesmanager and concentration points were Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Gorman, Rising Star, Okra, Star and Staff. Each egg bought by the association was stamped with their seal and numerous people in many parts of the United States have eaten Bankhead Poultry Producer's eggs.

So sure are they of the quality and age, that they have been adopted by the Texas & Pacific and Santa Fe diners, as the eggs for their menus.

At a trade trip of Dallas merchants last spring, the members had the pleasure of breakfasting on Bankhead eggs, each egg stamped with the name of the man to whom it was served.

The activities of the association, and their absolute dependability has done much to promote the growth and the stability of "the egg-basket of Texas."

The deceased was an only child and leaves his parents and a grandmother and a host of friends to mourn his untimely passing out.

Two Rangerites Turn Cooks When Trout Is In Sight

That men can live without cooks has been clearly demonstrated by John Thurman and Clarence May, both of whom are "summer widowers." On Saturday when the fishermen returned from Colorado, they gave these two a nice lot of mountain trout, that they had brought home well iced, so a menu was arranged to go with the fish and was carried out, even to the washing up the dishes and "reddin'" up the kitchen, Sunday at the Thurman home.

They cooked squash, corn on cob, beans, corn bread and fish and the fact that their wives were away had no terrors for them. After dinner Mr. Thurman got in his Ford and went to Coleman to spend the night with his mother and incidentally get a little of "mother's cooking."

Paris Turns Out In Gala Attire For the Sultan

(Continued from page one.) Ville, the sultan and his sons and M. Steeg were welcomed at the entrance of the city hall by George Guillaumin, chairman of the municipal council; Paul Bouju, prefect of the department of the Seine, and Chief of Police Alfred Mauvain. In the Hall of St. John were grouped the municipal councillors and the members of the general council of the Seine, the mayors of the various quarters of Paris and the suburbs.

Doumergue Greets Him.
President Doumergue was accorded the same honors as the sultan, on occasions such as this the municipality of Paris being the host even of the chief magistrate of the republic.

Prefect Bouju, Chairman Guillaumin and the chairman of the general council of the department made speeches emphasizing the fact that the presence of the sultan in Paris indicated clearly to the world that there was peace in Morocco and that the protectorate accepted by France was having the effect aimed at by the Franco-Spanish agreement of 1912. High Commissioner Steeg replied in the name of the sultan, thanking France for the long continued efforts she had made, at a high cost in blood and treasure, to bring Morocco into the realm of civilized nations.

This evening there will be an official reception for the sultan at the Elysee place, the residence of the president of the republic, at which the leaders of both houses of parliament, eminent figures in the world of art, literature and science, distinguished diplomats and officials who have taken part in the Moroccan negotiations will be the chief guests. Tomorrow, Bastille day, the sultan and President Doumergue will be present at the grandiose military review at Longchamps.

AIRPLANE VIEW OF SMOKE-VEILED EXPLOSION SCENE

The vast acreage of the navy ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., here is seen as one smoking field of destruction as viewed from an airplane at daybreak, the morning after lightning touched off its tons of explosives. This remarkable photograph was taken by Bob Dorman, NEA cameraman, who sped to the scene by airplane from New York and rushed the picture back for distribution to NEA client papers. Smoke is rising from every building in the arsenal area, while here and there may be jicked out small distinct smoke flashes of individual shells still detonating.

Scattered Destruction

A roof crashed in at the town of New Hope, N. J., a mile and a half from the navy ammunition depot at Lake Denmark. Shells were hurled in all directions over the countryside by the explosion and a barrage rained down as terrific as on a battle front in wartime. The population fled madly from the stricken region, and scores of civilians were injured by the bombardment.

CANDIDATE LITTLER IS RANGER VISITOR

Judge John B. Littler, associate justice of the court of civil appeals, of place No. 1, was in Ranger today and a visitor to the Times office in behalf of his candidacy for his first elective term. Judge Littler was appointed to the office he has so well filled on May 1, 1925, when the court was opened in Eastland.

Judge Littler formerly lived in Big Spring and his long and successful legal career has made for him many friends in West Texas.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
John and Fay Milburn buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

Noel and Vera Boyd, whose marriage is strictly "modern."
Pat and Marian Forbes, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies. Previous chapters told how:

John was fascinated on meeting Nell Orme, of whom Forbes hints that she is having trouble with her husband.

Fay took Judith, the baby, to visit her parents, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When Fay returned, gossip had related some of his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him "out on a tear." Fay, learning he had been out with other women again, threatened to leave if it was repeated.

John finds that people are talking about him, and Nat Graham, his partner, chagrins his actions as damaging the firm's reputation. John later, by accident, meets Nell Orme at Vera Boyd's. He resolves not to go there again, realizing she is carrying him off his feet, but he does, and the day comes when he takes her madly in his arms.

Fay, learning of it, leaves, and gan to trail aimlessly through the house. The dining room—a small, cheery little room. What was it Fay had said when they had first gone through the house—that she preferred small ones, inasmuch as dining rooms were going out of style anyway? And the kitchen—the mammoth porcelain sink, its nickel faucets gleaming bravely. He turned quickly away and went upstairs, thinking to look for some shirts that he had forgotten to pack.

"Howard and I can never be happy," she said.

At the end of the hall was the nursery, and through its west window he caught sight of the descending orange sun. He felt suddenly lonely; the day was done—just like his own happiness. He turned quickly away from the window and his foot stepped on something soft that emitted a faint squeak. He was startled, and looked down to see what it was. And then he was overcome with such a vast feeling of loneliness that a great sob escaped him. The thing was Judith's rubber doll. How she was not overlooked. She merely thought she'd quit. "Well," he said with a sigh. "I'm sorry. Hope you'll think it over and change your mind. I might as well be frank and tell you that competent secretaries are really hard to find." And then one day later in the week Miss Knisely telephoned to say that she was sick and was unable to get down. The day Nat Graham came back he learned, through Briggs, that she had gone to work for Kelly and Jones.

"Well, can you beat that?" he complained bitterly to Graham. "Why didn't she say that they had offered her more money? We could have met it. It sounds to me like downright disloyalty. I had thought she was to be trusted completely."

Graham frowned, and, staring at the pencil in his fingers, said something vague about "not blaming her." Everywhere he went, if seemed, people were talking about Graham & Milburn and seemed to thi well he remembered the day he had bought it for her. And how indifferent she had been to it first, but later how much pleasure it had given her!

"I'm a rake, and nobody ever bothers me."

"Judith!" he cried. "Judith! Fay!" This terrible feeling was simply more than he could endure and his eyes, as he gazed at the little toy, were wet.

With a great effort he pulled himself together and thrust the doll in his pocket. He would have to send it home to her, he decided—but no second thought he told himself no, he'd keep it for himself.

He closed the front door gently. What a terrible place this house had become, he was thinking as his feet plodded wearily down the front walk. Just across the street was the home of the Blodgetts, of hateful memory, and were his eyes deceiving him or was this really Mrs. Blodgett who had turned the corner and was swiftly approaching? Yes, it was she, and he saw her suddenly come to a stop, till her head indignantly bristled up the steps to her front door.

When he got back to his apartment that evening, he placed the little rubber doll in a dresser drawer, but first he held it in his hand and gazed at it for a long time.

The next day, at the office, he thought he detected some uneasiness in Miss Knisely's actions. The stenographer and girl of all work several times seemed to be on the point of saying something to him, but each time she hesitated, and the feeling grew on him that she had something on her mind.

He was not long in doubt about it. At the close of the day Miss Knisely, in a small, timid voice, told him she was resigning. The announcement caught him completely by surprise; he had never even imagined such a thing. Why, what would "What's the trouble?" he asked. "Want more money?"

But it wasn't that, she told him. She thought she needed a rest. "You'll give us two weeks' notice—until we can break someone else in?" "He'd be glad to do that, she told him."

John asked several more questions. Was the work too hard for her? Did she think she needed some assistance? If she did, he'd be glad to take it up with Mr. Graham and see what could be done. He wanted to be perfectly fair with her. She had done very satisfactory work; "ey'd grown so used to her, he hardly knew what they'd do without her."

But the effect of all this was to embarrass Miss Knisely still more, No,

Soldiers Destroy Wheat Fields Around Peking

By United Press.
PEKING.—Impoverished farmers around Peking who saw their first hope of escape from famine when wheat sprouted in their fields this spring have been forced, despite anguished appeals and kow-tows to the ground, to watch the horses of marauding soldiery trample and devour the grain, according to stories brought in.
Just as harvest was near large bands of troops appeared, quartered themselves on the people, and turned loose their mounts and pack animals. Many farmers were beaten for defending their fields. A few fields where grain was nearly ripe were placarded by the soldiers and the owners forbidden to touch the grain.

Many Women Are Martyrs to Modesty

St. Joseph's G. F. P. is Being Used in the Privacy of Their Homes by Many Now With Remarkable Success.

The stories of the suffering and pain endured by women for the sake of modesty remind us of some of the stories of the cruelties practiced by the ancients. Yet, knowing that they are bound to suffer still more as time goes on, they prefer to keep their sickness and pain to themselves, trying many things which have no merit, rather than even to discuss it with their best friends. This results in such a condition that pain becomes a regular habit with them and they almost forget that they were ever free from it.

Constant suffering tells on those unfortunate women and in a comparatively short time their need of proper treatment is reflected in nervousness, extreme nausea, constant headaches, increasing and longer periods of pain in the back and sides, that awful feeling of depression, sallow complexion and an advanced old age.

One of the outstanding features of this age-long suffering of women is that no one seemed to know or was able to find the cause of it, until the discoverers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. announced that they had found the mysterious malady which is responsible for most of woman's suffering and pain.

The overwhelming success of St. Joseph's G. F. P. in stamping out this dreaded disease, which causes so much misery and pain among women, is evidence enough that its discoverers were right in their theory that catarrh of the generative organs is responsible for most of the ailments of women.

Women Now Depend on St. Joseph's G. F. P. To Restore Their Vitality

"THE VANISHING AMERICAN" AT THE LAMB THEATRE

LOIS WILSON IN "THE VANISHING AMERICAN" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

The final epic of the American Indian reached the screen at the Lamb theatre yesterday in Paramount's picturization of the Zane Grey story, "The Vanishing American," which features Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Noah Beery, and Malcolm McGregor.

Here is a picture of indefinite heart appeal, of glorious action and of eternal romance.

"The Vanishing American," adapted for the screen by Lucien Hubbard and directed by George B. Seitz, treats of a subject near to the hearts of all of us—the passing of the Red Man. There is no part of American history that is more romantic, more interesting, more epochal in quality than the story of the first Americans—the Indians.

Dempsey may be world champion heavyweight fighter, but these women who reduce deserve honorable mention.

People Who Were Once Good Looking

A heartrending and yet interesting thing happened in a downtown store when a middle-aged lady got into a loud argument with a clerk. "I know what I want," she kept saying. "I have tried all those other things, but I know from what I saw it do for some friends of mine that it is Black and White Ointment which gets rid of those pimples and blotches. I was just as pretty as any girl when I was young, but I got careless and now I am in the fix you see."

So many people are now insisting on Black and White Skin Soap, to get rid of pimples, blotches, eczema, rash, tetter, ringworm, "breaking out," etc., because they see and hear of the thousands of others who now know they can depend upon it. And they are more economical, too. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and Soap.—Adv.
