Adjustments—

But you can fool people—even Senators—only so long. Lately they have studied Prof. Frankfurter's fine hand as revealed in his writings. Here is what they find:

Example—

Jim Farley may yet balance his budget on anti-New Deal mail. The apparent success of the utilities' chain-letter lobby has proved an inspiration to corporations which are flitting within the White House.

Warned—

Senatorial bookies are laying heavy odds that Huey Long won't taint Carter Glass any more. Bets will be paid off when debate starts on the Virginian's omnibus banking bill.

Headache—

Framing eligibility rules for work relief roles offers two-edged problems. Rule No. 1 was that workers should be taken from the relief army. Rule No. 2 was supposed to be that anyone on relief who turned down a bona fide offer of a private job should not become a ward of Harry Hopkins.

YOUR LIFE AT STAKE

During 1934, accidents of all kinds caused 101,000 deaths—the highest total on record—in addition to almost 10,000,000 non-fatal injuries.

The total of these accidents, including wage loss, medical expense and property damage, amounted to $3,500,000,000.

Accidents are responsible for more deaths to persons between the ages of five and nineteen than any other cause. Among persons of all ages, only three diseases result in more deaths than do accidents.

These are facts that should make the public talk, think and remember. The waste of accidents, both in lives and materials, is complete and irrevocable. It cannot be repaired. And it is almost entirely unnecessary.

Of all forms of accidents, those caused by the automobile are of course the most serious. Between 1918 and 1934 motor vehicle deaths increased from 4,227 to 36,000 a year, while other kinds of accidents dropped from 78,233 to 65,000. That is largely due to the increased number of cars in use—but the fact remains that at present motor accidents per thousand gallons of gasoline consumed, are on the rise.

The reckless driver is becoming more reckless, the incompetent driver is becoming still more of a menace to all who use the streets and highways. The automobile record is in striking contrast to that of industry, which has made magnificent progress in reducing both the severity and frequency of accidents in even the most hazardous factory operations.

The war on accidents is every citizen's war, and every citizen should "join the colors." Thousands of lives, to say nothing of billions of dollars, are at stake—and your life and your dollars are among them.

THE HOOD BEST IN STRENGTH

Marvel Boasts Finest Record of Any Middle-weight in World

In the pink of condition, the mysterious unknown of the wrestling world arrived last night from Amarillo where he has been following a stiff training grind for the toughest of all tough matches tonight with one of the strongest middleweight contenders in the United States—Victor Webber.

The Marvel has the finest record of any middleweight mat man in the world. Even the world champion can not boast of a two and a half year stretch of victories. The Unknown has never stepped from the ring a defeated man in that length of time. Sometimes he loses a fall but he always comes back with a vicious attack that gives him the match.

Will that astounding record be shattered tonight? Maybe yes and maybe no. Webber's record is not quite so imposing, but he is terribly dangerous. The Marvel, too, is dangerous, but in a different way. Their attacks vary so greatly that it is extremely difficult to compare the two, except to say that they both know the very, very fine points of their business. They know when to go with a hold and when to resist. When to go for the ropes and when to try this form of attack and that form of attack. Diving for the ropes is not necessarily cowardice. Sometimes it is smart wrestling. Many wrestlers can win by keeping on the defense, while others prefer to keep mixing it.

Marvel Deceptive From the spectators view-point it sometimes appears that the Marvel spends the greater part of the time behind the ropes, but closer observation will reveal that he usually has about seventy-five percent of the holds. He is nervous, high strung and extremely fitgety in a tough match. A referee who works a match close often causes him a great deal of trouble, almost as much as his opponent. That has come very near beating him several times. Fuhrer is a very active ref, and unless the "Hood" watches his step Webber will take him. Webber watches close, and would be quick to snatch a fall if the Marvel should relax for a few seconds. There's no stalling in a match like this. Plenty of action and fast work.

When it comes to outright speed on the mat and bouncing off the ropes the Marvel probably has the New Yorker bested. Vic has just enough speed to keep from getting caught.

The Marvel does not have the appearance of a goliath, but his strength is great. It is almost impossible to smother him for a fall. The strongest in the game have been unable to force both shoulders to the mat at the same time for the short count of three.

Takes A Knock-Out A knock-out punch is about the only thing that will do the trick, and unless the first lick clicks the Marvel whips under the ropes for a few seconds safety to get his bearings so to be able to combat rough stuff.

Big Spring fans have liked both the Marvel and Webber for their clean tactics, but don't be surprised if they sling a few knuckles tonight.

The Unknown, because of his almost unbelievable record, will be very difficult to whip. He'll fight like a wildcat to keep from losing now.

Jack Demar, sneering middleweight from the western country, will mix it up with Red Michael in the semi-go. Demar is stocky, broad-shouldered, and greatly resembles an ape, but he's usually not quite as mean as he claims to be.

In meander than the meanest, Demar says. But he spends just about as much time out of the ring as in.

Michael, a former Panpa schoolboy grip star, is a likable chap and peace loving. His matches, usually fast, are always interesting to watch.

Claude Swindell, a short, stocky speedster who helped inaugurate wrestling here several months ago, will return to the local arena tonight to meet Cliff Chambers in the special event.

YOUNG VIC IN FIGHTING POSE

Swindell is a meek appearing fellow but very active. Chambers is not a bad grunt and groan artist himself, but usually tries too much rough stuff.

OBIE BRISTOW TELLS US that he got two drives in the fairway when he played in the Atlanta Invitational. Bristow is a consistently long-hitter but his drives seldom stay in the fairway.

THE BIG BRISTOW WAS OUT looking for a football the other day. Wanted to give a young girl hopeful named Traynor a little practice. Traynor, we have been given to understand, may develop into a demon tackle. He's a new recruit and the coach thought it wouldn't be a bad idea to get him used to handling the ball early.

CHARLEY AREY, THE MUNY pro, is very hopeful that enough feminine golfers will enter the city tournament to have a sixteen player flight. Fourteen feminine shot-makers have already declared their intentions of entering.

TOMMY CONNOLLY, TRAVELING umpire-in-chief for the American League, during his active days of calling 'em, officiated in eight world series—and the American league won seven of them. EARL AVERHILL, OF CLEVELAND, who missed this year's all-star baseball game, was the best sun-driver inner in '33 and '34, scoring one with a pinch single the first year and three with a pinch double and a triple in '34.

AL SCHACHT, COACH AND comedian of the Boston Red Sox, drew some of the team's pitching in exhibition games. He hurled three innings at Williamsport, Pa., giving up but one hit and no runs. BIRKLEY BELL, THE TUMBLING Texas, has finally given up hope of getting a tumble by the Davis cup squad pickers and says he intends to turn pro next winter.

Ostermueller's Bad Luck Keeps Boston Sox Glum

BOSTON (AP)—The Red Sox, delighted as they are at the evidence that Lefty Grove is really retaining his old-time form, are saddened by the compensatory hard luck of their second-year star, Fritz Ostermueller.

Two halted balls have kept Ostermueller, who came up with 10 victories in 1934, his first big league season, from seeing much action since the opening weeks of the campaign. A drive from Hank Greenburg's bat struck him in the face and put him out for two weeks, and shortly after getting back from that mishap another batted ball, in practice, whacked him on the knee and laid him up for another month.

Leaders Lose To Cosdenites

By HANK HART The Cosden Oilers ended the Mellinger Angels' brief stay at the top of the Big Spring Softball loop by defeating them 3-2 Monday evening. But it took them nine innings to turn the trick.

Smart base running by Freddie Townsend kept the Angels in the game that long, although Fred Simmons had the Harem men at their mercy, coming through with a three hit performance.

The Oilers collected a total of seven base hits off Good Graves and his successor, Bucket Hare, and would have closed out the game at the end of the seventh had not Townsend, watching Simmons return to the mound, raced in and with a perfectly executed slide, scored the tying run.

The Cosdenites tallied early off Graves, who heretofore had been a thorn to the Henninger team. The Angels made it interesting with a run in the fourth and finally pushed the game into extra innings with Townsend's brilliant play.

and went for a double. Howard Searcy retrieved the ball to hold Greer at third but Mesley on the next play grounded to Cordill at third who threw to Cordill at first instead of making the play at home.

Cordill attempted to catch the runner who was streaking into pay territory, but his throw was hurried and Greer crossed the plate safely.

Simmons went back on this hill to force Wilson to roll to Martin Hare to ground out to Baker, and Cordill to 'sky-out' into the outfield.

The loss enabled the Fiewellen Stationmen to again take the lead leadership, a few percentage points in front of the Mellinger team.

Wichita, Kas., Is Nation's Host In Diamond Tourney

WICHITA, Kans. (AP)—A new national baseball tournament, offering cash awards to the top-flight semi-pro clubs of the nation, will be held in Wichita's new relief-ball, 30,000-capacity Lawrence stadium August 13-25. The sponsors have made arrangements to accommodate teams competing in the Denver Post tournament, an annual affair attracting talent from all over the country, which ends August 15 this year.

The prize for the winner of the 63-game "double elimination" event will be 12 1/2 per cent of the gross receipts. Ten per cent of the "gate" will be spread among all contenders, for mileage.

A team receives $25 for each victory and will be "cut in the money," the sponsors say, if it wins three games. The winner of the state tournament here received $2,080 last year.

Honus Wagner has been engaged as the headliner for the opening program in the steel and concrete stadium close to the center of town. Games will be played day and night for two weeks.

Inquiries have been received from nearly 100 teams desiring to enter, but the field will be limited to 32.

Among those which have posted bonds for entry or otherwise assured their appearance are:

Winners of state tournaments at Des Moines, Ia., Lincoln, Neb., Phoenix, Ariz., Oklahoma City, and of the all-Indian tournament at Wewoka, Okla.; teams from Appleton, Calif., Kansas City, Bismarck, N. D., Benton, Ark., Chicago, Buffalo, St. Paul, Minn., Memphis, Tenn., Okla., Patterson, N. J., Overton, Tex., and Detroit.

First, second and third place winners in the Kansas tournament will be in along with an all-star team selected by scouts from the other contenders.

'SILENT' BERNIE BIERMAN FINDING IT HARD NOT TO TALK IN SUMMER

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP) — "Silent" Bernie Bierman is talking a lot of football this summer.

Naturally reticent, Minnesota's head football coach not only has to "talk football" but has to show how it is done.

Following completion of the three weeks course in football which he is conducting at the University of Minnesota summer session, Bierman was heading for Mississippi State college for a coaching course the last half of July.

From there he will go to Lubbock, Texas, to conduct a coaching school the week of August 5 at Texas Tech.

In addition, Bierman will handle football lectures and demonstrations at a coaching school at Spirit Lake, Ia., and will then return to Minnesota and resume his duties at Camp Lincoln, near Brainerd.

"The snow is no sooner off the ground than the Fourth of July comes around and then in 10 minutes or so it will be September 10 and we'll all be out for football practice again," Bierman said.

Under a changed conference rule, practice in the Big Ten will begin five days sooner than usual this year. Minnesota's first game, with North Dakota state, will be played September 28.

Chapter One YOUNG WIDOW

I hope you will have a very good time, Mrs. Moore. You deserve a rest. I've been working you hard these last weeks."

Laurie Moore looked at her employer, her blue eyes softly bright with gratitude. "It is so kind of you to give me a rest, Mrs. Moore. You deserve a rest. I've been working you hard these last weeks."

All Saturday they rehearsed at the theatre.

the extra day, Mr. Albery," she said. "I shall be able to see my little sister's first night on Easter Monday."

Yes, I miss Gladys very much when she's on tour," the girl said. "And she hasn't been in London for three months."

"Oh, no, Mr. Albery, I'm sure you could not do too much for Fax Moore's widow," the man said. He had a curious voice, smooth and rather toneless, but commanding. "One sometimes wonders whether the firm might not be responsible in a way, some slight technical flaw that was overlooked. Anyhow, such tragedies bring things home."

"I saw a good deal of him at one time," he went on. "I never met a man so full of life, so completely fearless, so highly strung, and yet so self-controlled. For his age, he was incredible. And a genius in the air. Born for it. I looked for the greatest things from him, and I'm sure he would have done them if he had lived. It's a grand game, Mrs. Moore, but a risky one. It's always risky as far as we can see. A patch of bad weather—who can fight against that? A great loss to England and to aviation all over the world."

down house in Westminister that she kept always bright and cozy as a home for her little sister to come back to.

Those were four happy days that Laurie Moore spent in Liverpool with her sister. Good Friday and Easter Day she had her all to herself. All Saturdays they rehearsed at the theatre where the new Revue was being produced. In which the troupe of dancing girls that Gladys belonged to was one of the brightest attractions.

The first night was a brilliant success. They were both so excited that they could not sleep, and sat up talking in Laurie's room until broad daylight.

And yet, as Laurie walked along the station platform to the London train on the Tuesday afternoon, there was a little anxiety in her heart.

Was Glad just a bit too thin? Was the life too hard and exciting for her?

work relief officials of the reliefers' refusal to accept. Washington officials see in this maneuver an attempt to drive down wage scales. They don't want to become a party to it. On the other hand, there are many on relief who prefer handouts to earning their own living at work relief wages. Where and how to divide the workers from the drones is a headache.

Profits—Emperor Haile Selassie's appeal to the United States to invoke the Kellogg pact as a discourager of Mussolini's war moves did not get anywhere, so far as direct action is concerned. But it helps the cause of Senators who are working for passage of legislation to shut off munitions to belligerents, to prohibit passports to Americans entering war zones and to prohibit loans. The administration is known to be sympathetic with the proposal to change neutrality rules. But it might not be easy to put through legislation that would deprive Americans of war business. The temper of Congress on that question has not been tested, but it is generally assumed that sentiment against our complications has become stronger. The business argument is that other countries will profit at American expense if munitions exports are embargoed.

Experts—Washington lobbyists have received reinforcements. It is another example of the fact that necessity is the mother of invention. A New York firm has notified lobby headquarters that it will give cheap club rates for mimeographing, mailing or delivering their propaganda to members of Congress and the Washington press corps. It will also go in the field back home and supervise a literary bombardment of Congress. In short, it will fix it so that all the lobbyists must do is draw their pay. Just like members of Congress!

Notes—Harry Hopkins proposes to make the dollars fly, even if the dirt doesn't—he has put the first relief workers on the payroll. President Roosevelt now confines his hope of vacation to a month at Hyde Park in October. House leaders give out the dark hint that Congress is empowered to levy taxes "for revenue only." There is great reluctance in passing the Guffey bill, but it's coming along. Air Corps men have a hard time guarding war plane "secrets" from military attaches—and American attaches abroad are equally inquisitive.

NEW YORK. By JAMES McMULLIN. Monument—Well-posted sources say the real conflict between the White House and Senator Glass on the banking bill is a matter of fundamentals that hasn't been mentioned publicly. Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is that New York has had the concentration money condition corrected by transferring it to Washington. Mr. Glass agrees that New York should not have it, but believes that moving it to the capital would only make matters worse. His objective is to distribute it nationally.

This was the purpose of the original Federal Reserve Act—of which the Virginia Senator was a fond parent. In practice it got twisted out of this pattern because Benjamin Strong—former governor of New York Reserve Bank—was able to seize and hold powers he never intended to have, thus giving New York a big jump on the rest of the country.

Glass is said to feel that Title II of the present bill as he has drafted it goes a long way towards achievement of a truly national banking system—adding to and strengthening the Federal Reserve Act so it can accomplish what he first planned for it. He considers it will be a worthy monument (its passage is assured with no important changes) to his grasp of banking problems and his extraordinary courage and persistence in the face of the physical handicaps of old age.

Peak—The Committee for the Nation and other advocates of a Federal Monetary Authority are not discouraged because the banking bill is about to go through without the Goldborough amendment they wanted—which would have made it mandatory on the Federal Reserve Board to maintain a stable price level.

On the contrary, they have fresh hopes. They reason that the banking bill in its latest version is purely that and omits monetary matters entirely. Therefore why not start a new drive for monetary legislation—perhaps including a new Federal Authority—to round out the program? Some of the more ardent enthusiasts sincerely believe there's still a chance to put through such a law at this session and will do their darndest to stir up Congress about it.

Dispassionate observers call that the peak of optimism. They can't see the President taking such a proposal under his wing at this late date. He has shown no interest in it up to now. Nor can they figure Congress getting excited about a debatable new measure of this sort with Washington heat coming on—especially after the campaign for the Goldborough amendment flattered so badly.

Surprise—Agricultural groups retain a lively concern about monetary affairs. A meeting will be held by the National Co-operative Council in Ithaca, New York, beginning July 18, chiefly to discuss monetary policy and what to do about it. The principal speakers will be Professor George Warren, James Harvey Rogers and Oliver M. W. Sprague. Warren—in case you've forgotten—sponsored the plan for raising the price level by jacking up the price of gold which was tried out in the fall of '33. Rogers was a monetary adviser to the administration at about the same time. While his views didn't exactly coincide with Warren's, he shared the latter's faith in monetary maneuvers as the most effective cure for the depression. Both are in sympathy with the farm objective of higher prices and you would expect to find them present on such an occasion.

But Sprague is a real surprise. Perhaps you recall that he was one of the first conservative administration advisers to jump the traces—to the accompaniment of righting cheers. He has always been thoroughly orthodox on monetary questions. Even the organizers of the meeting are not certain whether he comes as a convert or a missionary to the heathen—but he's probably the former. Certainly he's in strange company on the basis of his record. The gathering will be important as an attempt to organize national agricultural sentiment for more positive political action along monetary lines.

Satisfied—Insiders are betting that the holding company bill will be more peaceable than most people expect. Senator Wheeler and others will roar about the need for the death sentence—but it's predicted the conference will report back a measure differing very slightly from the mid House version—and that both Houses will accept it with hardly a murmur.

That will put it up to the President to sign or veto a bill without the drastic features he has fought so hard for. No informed New Yorker seriously believes he will veto it despite much talk to that effect.

He's credited with cagy tactics in his continued insistence that the House bill must be stiffened. If he intimated he would take it as it would undoubtedly be weakened further. Wise sources figure he's better satisfied than he can afford to let on.

Outsmarted—New York sharp rate England's threat of an economic blockade of Italy if Mussolini gets too tough with Ethiopia as a bluff with a busted straight. There isn't a chance that any other important nation will play with her on it. France is far more likely to give Italy open support in retaliation for the Anglo-German naval treaty. Germany has too many fish of her own to fry to get caught in a jam of that sort. We certainly will have nothing to do with it—nor will Japan or Russia.

What's more, the bluff may bounce back on Britain with a sickening thud. If she doesn't go through with it—her prestige will suffer. If she does—or tries to—she will simply cut herself off from a good export market and court a political isolation that will be anything but splendid. It looks as if John Bull had outsmarted himself for once.

Easier—One thing NRA did not accomplish was to cure business men of their fear of the 40-hour week. This has worked pretty well on the whole and most important industries will continue it without argument even though they can now renege without penalty—except possible strikes. The Federation of Labor keeps on hammering for 30 hours but is privately gratified that 40 hours is holding up as a stepping stone. Now that business in general has absorbed one cut in hours without undue pain, the next reduction may come easier. FIRM—A curious and almost unnoticed amendment to the banking bill provides that no officer, director or employee of a Federal Reserve member bank shall serve in a similar capacity for "more than one" other bank. If this gets by, the same man could be president of two large competing institutions. Wall Street thinks it would be fun if something of the sort happened. Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate material. "With certain exceptions, the West Texas Memorial Museum should be a regional museum, devoted largely to an exposition of West Texas and Big Spring communities. As such the museum can excel. The wide area should be available to interested groups by means of loan exhibits.

"The West Texas Memorial Museum should rank as an educational institution and be so constituted that it may work in coordination with schools, libraries, science and art clubs, the general public and research groups.

"The exhibits program and plan should embrace the fine arts, the folk arts of the pioneers, the cultural history of this region, regional archaeology and ethnology, regional natural history, regional industries and educational extension.

White No. 1 Snyder Draws More Interest

Wildcat Between Chalk And East Howard Nears Objective Horizon

Interest is focused on the White & Eastland Oil Co. No. 1 Snyder wildcat between the Chalk and East Howard pools as it nears the objective horizon. The test is located in the southwest corner of section 28, block 30, T-1-S, T. & P. survey.

It was running something like 129 feet higher, when solid gray lime was topped at 1,798 feet, then the two nearest tests drilled in the area.

They are the Magnolia (formerly Cheats and Henshaw) producers in the center of the southeast quarter of section 34, and the Greene & Hetty No. 1 Snyder. The well was completed in 1925 and is still being pumped twice a week for 50 barrels.

It topped lime 375 feet above sea level, whereas the Snyder well topped it 504 feet above the sea level.

A mile and a half to the north the Greene & Hetty Oil company No. 1 Snyder topped the gray lime at 475 feet above sea level. Despite a showing which indicated a small producer, the well was abandoned without shooting. It was in section 27.

Shell Petroleum Corporation has been reported active in the immediate area, buying three tracts half a mile north and south of the test. The company paid D. H. Snyder $20 an acre for the northwest quarter of section 28, 225 to M. H. O'Daniel for the south half and northeast quarter of section 29, and $50 to John I. Moore, who worked up the test originally, half in cash and half in oil, for the west half and southwest quarter of section 33.

Federal Jury Must Decide If Waley Confession True

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Despite the insistence of Margaret Waley that she participated in the $300,000 George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, a federal court jury will have to agree with her before she can take the same route her husband took—to prison. The defense procedure probably will be further unusual in that Mrs. Waley's chief witness, according to her attorneys, will be her husband.

The trial will be held July 8, soon after opening of the summer term of United States district court. The scene will be the same courtroom where throngs heard the wartime Major Crankite-Captain Rosemblyth "target range death case." On the bench will be the veteran Judge E. E. Cushman, often described as "stern but just." Mrs. Waley's chief counsel will be John F. Dore, former mayor of Seattle, and for long a colorful figure in Washington's political and criminal court battles.

Mrs. Margaret Waley, 19-year-old wife of Harmon Waley, serving 45 years for the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, will have to stand trial in federal court July 8 before it can be determined if there is any legal truth in her insistence that she participated in the kidnaping. Prominent in the court battle will be United States District Attorney J. Charles Dennis, left; Federal Judge E. E. Cushman, center, who will hear the case; and John F. Dore, right, chief counsel for Mrs. Waley.

Waley Said Wife Innocent. He's chubby, red-faced, small—a lawyer of the old school who laughs and weeps with the jury, tantalizing and opposing counsel. Associated with him will be Stephen J. O'Brien, appointed by the court at Waley's request. Opposed to Mrs. Waley's counsel will be tall, spare, elderly United States District Attorney J. Charles Dennis and his assistant, Owen P. Hughes, young, husky, blond and handsome.

When Waley entered his plea of guilty and received his 45-year sentence, he declared his wife knew nothing about the "snatch" until two days after she and the fugitive William Dainard, alias Mahan, abducted George. This caused Judge Cushman to reject Mrs. Waley's plea of guilty and insist she stand trial.

The old market hunters put over some fast ones on the "city slickers" in their day. One punner had an order from a Chicago commission house for all the mallards he could get at $3 a dozen, dressed.
