Civil Service Bill To Be Introduced At Next Legislative Session

By United Press.
AUSTIN, June 4.—Adjournment by the senate until Monday morning at 8 o'clock without reaching a vote on the civil service bill not only killed that measure but carried along with it the Stuart highway bill and the bill by Fairchild appropriating funds for lateral roads.
Under the senate rule no bills except conference reports can be acted on during the last twenty-four hours of the session and the session ends Tuesday at noon. It requires a two-thirds vote to suspend the rule and proponents of the civil service, highway and lateral road bills cannot possibly muster that strength.
Senator Pollard, author of the civil service bill announced that he would at the next session of the legislature introduce another bill on the same subject and he predicted it would be passed.

Eastland C. of C. Asks Payment Of Assessments

President John W. Turner of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, has issued a letter which is being mailed out to the members of the organization asking them to pay their assessments for this year in order that the outstanding obligations of the Chamber of Commerce may be liquidated.
Some few months ago the city took over the Chamber of Commerce, which is now being supported by the taxation plan. This plan places a tax of five cents on the $100 valuation on property in the city, and which greatly reduces the amounts paid by a majority of the contributors to the Chamber of Commerce.

George W. Briggs of the Chamber of Commerce stated that the members were being asked to pay their assessments this year in order to pay off the indebtedness brought about by the fair, and that no funds were being asked for current expenses for the year.

DYNAMITE IS EMPLOYED TO HALT FIRE

Two Firemen Overcome By Heat Many Civilians Are Slightly Injured

By United Press.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 4.—Firemen tonight succeeded in halting with dynamite a most devastating fire after it had caused damage of about $2,000,000. The fire, which started about 1 p. m., in a trash heap at the end of the wholesale district, went through the entire district aided by a gale that caused it to leap from building to building.
By planting dynamite in the Sable Drug store on Lee street, and completely demolishing the structure the fire fighters were able to prevent the flames from reaching the Gay Teague hotel, one of the city's largest buildings, and also from reaching powder stored in the basement of the Loeb Hardware company building.
There was sufficient powder and high explosives in the hardware store to blow up all of Montgomery, police said.
Fire Chief R. H. Nixon and two firemen were overcome by heat early in the battle and were taken to the hospital.
A number of other firemen and other citizens recruited to aid them were less seriously hurt when cut by glass.

Fake Reports Of Visit by Royalty Stir Embassies

By United Press.
LONDON.—Life for a social secretary at an embassy is not always a path free of stones.
The social secretaries of both the American and Spanish embassies awakened one morning here recently to learn that some one had apparently "put one over" on them. The newspapers announced that both of the embassies would shortly "have the honor of entertaining his majesty the king."
Supper was called out of bed and even the palace showed signs of activity. During the day society asked society but one question "have you been invited?" Both embassies were besieged by their nationals and every other embassy's nationals for an invitation, for both the Spanish and American ambassadors are known as lavish entertainers and a "good show" was predicted.
From the American embassy came the reply for everyone—"Nothing is known of any such affair, nor is one anticipated."

Capt. Lindbergh Travels Home At A Snail's Pace

By United Press.
ABOARD THE U. S. S. MEMPHIS, EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, June 4.—Charles Lindbergh was headed home tonight as the guest of the navy and the United States government. He traveled to Europe at 100 miles an hour but he was going home at 28 miles, high speed for a trim navy cruiser, but a snail pace for a flyer. A commandeer in the navy vacated his suite so the Missouri national guard captain could travel in state from the scene of his great European triumph to the welcome from his homeland which promised to outshine the ovations of Paris, Brussels and London.

DESTINATION IS MYSTERY MAY GO TO ROME

Heavily Loaded Plane Makes Second Attempt Before Leaving Field

By United Press.
NEW YORK, June 4.—With the interior of Europe its goal, the Bellanca monoplane was headed this afternoon into the North Atlantic on the most ambitious non-stop flight ever attempted. The plane which started at 6:05 this morning from Roosevelt field, Long Island, where Charles Lindbergh began his New York to Paris flight 2 weeks ago, carried two men.
One was Clarence D. Chamberlin, a daring American civilian flyer, the other Chas. A. Levine, wealthy owner of the plane who is in no sense an aviator and started on the trip with only a few brief lessons from Chamberlin in the rudiments of flying.
At Halifax the plane went out to the Atlantic and unless it made a half turn to the north it probably has said goodbye to the North American continent. Chamberlin announced the objective was to fly over Paris, and keep going into Europe as far as the 48° latitude of gasoline would carry him and beat the record of Lindbergh's flight.
The crowd that witnessed the start at Roosevelt field was staggered when just a few minutes before the take off Levine started out in civilian clothes and took his seat beside Chamberlin.
The wealthy man who started his fortune in the junk business, started off casually on the dangerous voyage, wearing an ordinary business suit and wearing no hat.
He was smiling happily but he left an almost breaking heart behind him. The reason for his melodramatic scramble into a Trans-Atlantic flight at the last minute became apparent as the motor roared tooting up for the start.
Mrs. Levine was in the crowd and when she saw the stocky little figure of her husband climb into the plane she screamed in terror and fainted.

IF WORKING PROPERLY SHIP WILL HEAD FOR ROME

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Bellanca trans-Atlantic plane will head directly for Rome, if weather conditions are satisfactory when it reaches the banks of New Foundland and the United States coast guard was advised today by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York.
Fish advised Admiral F. C. Ballard, that Mrs. Charles Levine, wife of the owner of the plane had told him that if the plane was working properly and the weather was good the pilot would head directly for Rome.
"The plan was to make a longer trip than did Lindbergh, if possible," Fish said.
"The pilots were uncertain when they started and the alteration to the Rome destination would be Berlin, England or France," Fish said.

GOOD SUGGESTION.
 Elsewhere on this page will be found a letter from an attorney of Ranger which contains some very timely suggestions regarding the proposition of a new courthouse for Eastland county.

The burden of the letter seems to be that the present Eastland county grand jury should make a thorough investigation as to the safety of the present structure. The letter dismisses the question of adequacy with a statement, the substance of which is, that the inadequacy of the building is too well established to permit of any argument.

We agree with the writer of this letter that some one in authority should make some investigations regarding the present courthouse and then advise the people of the county as to these findings so that voters may go to the polls and vote on the question of a new courthouse intelligently and without bias.

If the present building is unsafe, and there seems to be good reason to believe that it is, there are two elements entering into the question of safety or danger. One is the protection of human life and the other is the question of protecting the valuable records of Eastland county. Recognition of either one of these dangers should be sufficient to convince anyone of the necessity of a new building.

There are many men and women, servants of the voters of Eastland county who are working daily in the Eastland county courthouse. If their lives are endangered the people of the county are at fault.

Of course you may not have a near relative or a close friend working in the old courthouse but that doesn't alter the situation, it doesn't shift the responsibility to those alone who have relatives or friends in the building or to those whose daily occupations take them into the building.

The other element, that of safety for public records, touches every property owner in Eastland county. There is not a property owner in the county who wants the title to his property destroyed but from indications these titles are subjected to great danger so long as they are allowed to remain where they now rest.

The question of a new courthouse is not a political question and all partisan feeling should be eliminated. If the new building is erected it will not be erected solely for those in office at this time. They will not be there forever. It will not be built for the next administration for it too will pass out in a short time and others will be coming into office.

If it is built, the building will be for every voter and every property owner in the county. Your deadliest political enemy may be in office now, but that is no good reason why you should oppose the new courthouse. He can't stay in office always, so why jeopardize the title to your property and the title to every other man's property in the county simply because you might be opposed to some of the present administration?

Let us rise above petty difference and cheap politics and vote the bonds for the new courthouse. In making this statement we are assuming that the need for it actually exists.

If it is established beyond a reasonable doubt that the new courthouse is needed every voter in the county should forget politics and cast his vote for his own good and the good of his neighbor.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

In regard to the proposed new court house, I desire to request of the present grand jury that their body make a full and complete examination of the present structure with particular regard as to its safety. It's inadequacy is too notorious to require examination. This request thus publicly made, is not a personal one; but is made at the suggestion of a considerable number of voters who desire an official report in order that they may vote intelligently and without bias. Some time back a grand jury of which, I think, Mr. Poe, now of Cisco, was foreman, reported the dangerous condition of the structure, acting upon the advice of Messrs. Lang & Wichell, architects, of Dallas. Nothing was done about the matter, however, and it was allowed to lie in abeyance except for sporadic remarks by those who had occasion to be engaged upon "repairs" that amounted to no more than patch-work, until the present time. In connection with the work of examining the physical condition, it has also been asked that a report on the financial conditions facing the county be made with a view, particularly, of ascertaining the exact status of the old court house bonds and sinking fund, together with a report on the cost of the present temporary leasing of outside accommodations, the great inconvenience of present arrangements is beyond dispute and is beyond exact computation.

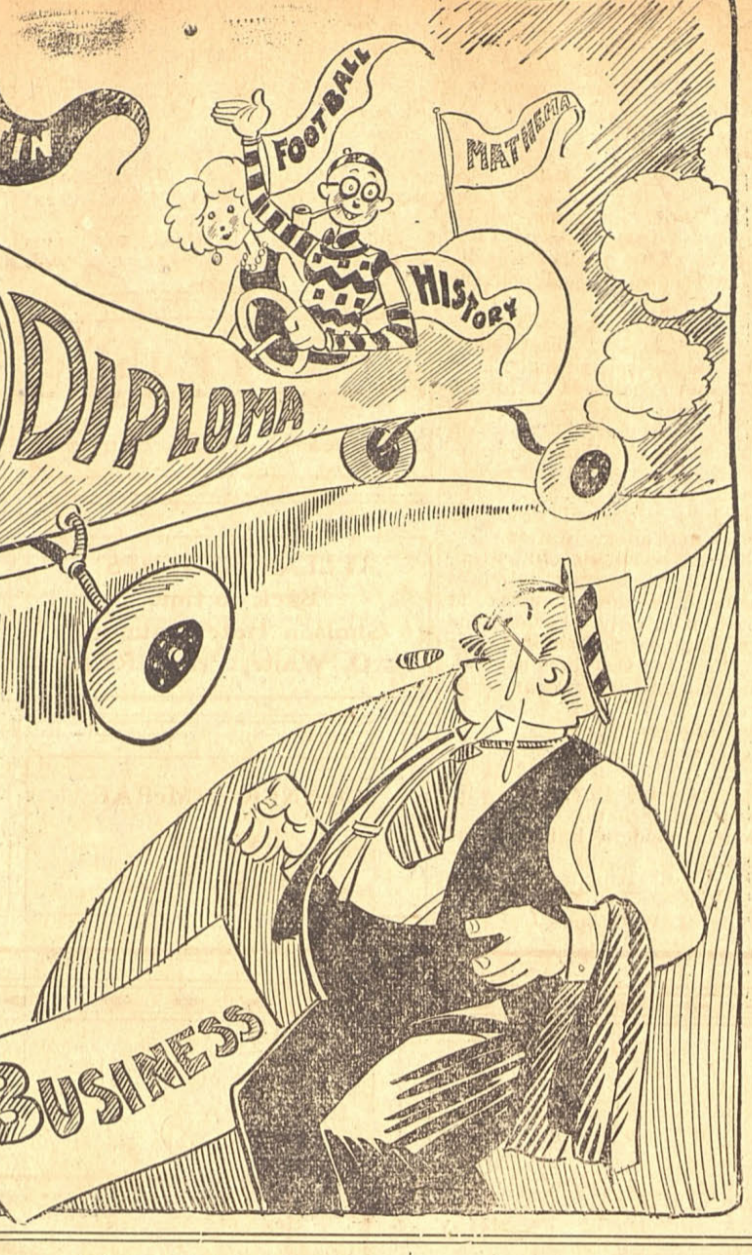

In respect to the necessity for concerted action, the criticism of the Ranger Times of recent date was evidently written before the facts became generally published. The orders of the commissioners' court the notices of election and their publication had all to be accurately prepared and submitted to counsel for approval before adoption. This has been finally done and the notices have been posted by the sheriff and the newspaper advertising is under way. Incidentally this was no small matter, for a slight error might affect the entire work. It was the gratuitous labor of a generously public-spirited and able lawyer. Steps for an organized campaign are now under way that an absolutely candid and dispassionate discussion may be had and the voters generally advised as to all conditions surrounding the subject.

The commissioners' court feels the need, I believe, of action, but very properly consider that in a matter of such moment, it is for the people to decide what is needed and how far the court should go. Further, that body evidently feels that it will be proper to build such a structure as shall embody the greatest amount of usable space, together with absolute fire security and the least possible "gingerbread" ornamentation consistent with a dignified appearance. I do not say this on behalf of the members of the court, but it is my inference from personal expressions of some of the members. May I add, that it is precisely in line with my own views upon the subject. Some of these gentlemen do not accord with me in political matters; however we are in delightful harmony upon this subject, wherein politics have no place. It is strictly a business proposition in which the entire citizenship of the county is directly and gravely concerned. It involves the safe preservation of records involving titles to millions of dollars of land and other property values, together with the security of human life and the convenient transposition of public business. Such things are entitled to earnest thought, grave consideration and prompt action, and nobody could appreciate more highly than I the very conservative action of the commissioners in submitting it to the popular will.

TEXAS HIGHWAY COMMISSIONERS MAY ATTEND WEST TEXAS C. C. MEET

ABILENE, June 5.—Interest of the Texas Highway Commission in two forthcoming events of the west has been enlisted this week by the West Texas chamber of commerce, who, through its manager, Homer D. Wade, has extended cordial invitation to the state body for attendance at both these affairs.

The entire membership of the State highway commission has been invited to attend the first executive session of the West Texas chamber of commerce board of directors appointed at the ninth annual convention, May 17. This official meeting is to be held at Cisco, Texas, June 13, and will be attended by about fifty of the most representative business men throughout West Texas. The invitation given by Manager Wade was addressed to Hon. Cone Johnson for the entire membership of the commission group.

The second invitation issued by the West Texas chamber of commerce to the state highway body urged all its members to join with the west on the motorcade tour of the Davis mountains and East New Mexico, and invited them if unable to make the whole trip, to go at least as far as El Paso.

The motorcade, as outlined to the highway commissioners in the official invitation is to assemble July 2 at Sweetwater, Texas, from which point it will proceed by easy stages to Odessa and from Odessa to Fort Stockton and on to Alpine. Here the Big Bend district convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce will be held July 4 and 5 in connection with the cowboys and old settlers reunion. From Alpine the motorcade will travel to Marfa and other points. From Fort Davis the caravan will move up the Bankhead highway into El Paso, making stops on the route including Sierra Blanca. Two days or more will be spent in El Paso.

Leaving El Paso, the motorcade will go to Alamabordo, New Mexico, and will arrive in Cloudcroft, New

Claim Majority Senate Against Highway Bill

CLEVELAND, June 4.—Jazzmad youth, the type that turns night into day in a continuous whirl of activities featured by liquor drinking, parties and irregular meals and sleeping, is gradually increasing the tendency to tuberculosis in the opinion of Dr. J. C. Placak, president of the Anti-Tuberculosis club of Cleveland.

Anything that inverts or subverts ordinary health habits, Dr. Placak believes, tends to lower resistance, and lowered resistance means susceptibility to disease; the disease which creates greatest havoc because of lowered resistance is tuberculosis.

The "wild party" makes its attacks in several vulnerable spots, and resistance is battered down more readily, he asserted.

"The modern tendency to turn night into day," Dr. Placak said, "is harmful to children and adults alike. It is criminally harmful to children.

"Sleep is the time when the body recharges its batteries. If the stomach is overloaded before retiring, or the worries of the day are carried over into the night, the body does not have the chance to renew its energy for the tasks of the morning.

"I have been asked whether the growing habit of cigaret smoking among young women is especially harmful—whether it is more harmful to them than to their brothers. There is nothing about a woman's constitution that makes smoking any more harmful to her than to a man. Smoking undoubtedly sets up an irritation in the throat and bronchial tubes, and when the mucous membrane becomes irritated, it is very easy for tuberculosis or any disease germs to enter the system.

"So, too, indulgence in alcohol lowers resistance, principally because the person who is drinking does not eat properly, or he has gotten his digestive system in such shape that his food fails to nourish.

"Food and rest are the bricks and mortar that build the ramparts of resistance, and resistance is the only barricade of the human race against the ravages of tuberculosis."

Finger Prints To Be Taken By Ranger Police

Burglars who go a-burgling, from now on in Ranger had better wear rubber gloves, for a finger print system is to be installed at the city hall.

Chief of Police Jim Ingram had some fine specimens of finger prints at his office Saturday and stated that he had everything he needed for that work except a camera.

He is prepared to take the prints, and for the time being will file them away for record of identification.

Ranger Auto Men Invite Dealers From Oil Belt

On Tuesday evening, June 6, the Ranger Automobile Dealers association will explain to all the dealers of the Oilbelt a little secret that it has worked out. Members have sent out circular letters to the various dealers in the county which state in toto that the Ranger dealers think they are paying too much for used cars and are not pushing bad credit hard enough and are spending too much for donation and charity.

They state that they have no iron clad restrictions on any member with regard to used car trades, but they have a plan that is working and getting results.

They intend to pass this secret along and ask that visiting dealers do not eat before they come and they expect "to put on the feed bag here."

Dealers from Eystland, Cisco, Gorman, Breckenridge, Strawn, Carbon, Rising Star, Putnam, Caddo and Mineral Wells are expected.

ADVERTISING CONTEST BOOSTS SALES SAYS BOTTLING CONCERN

"The $30,000 cash prize contest is directed to the consumers of course," said W. E. Jarrett, of the Coca-Cola Bottling company, Eastland, when speaking of the nationwide Coca-Cola contest that is being carried on in one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever staged by any company.

"It is being conducted through advertising—in a number of the leading magazines, newspapers, outdoor signs, window displays, and refreshment stands and soda fountain decorations. The basis of the campaign is to find six keys to the popularity of Coca-Cola. These keys are the reason that people have given for liking Coca-Cola and they are being illustrated and presented in Coca-Cola advertising between the first week in May and the last week in August. The prizes are sufficiently large to attract the attention of the public," he said.

"The first prize is $10,000, the second $5,000. Altogether there are 635 prizes and the announcement of these master prizes is causing people everywhere to look more closely at Coca-Cola advertisements.

"Our dealers tell us they are selling more Coca-Cola as a result. People ask them about the contest. As part of the plan, we have supplied these dealers with booklets and circulars so that they are able to give their customers complete information on the contest. The dealers are entering the contest themselves.

"We think the value of newspaper advertising and all our advertising is more than doubled by having a direct tie-up with what the dealers is doing and by giving him a big part in the whole plan. The business that doesn't make money for the dealer can't make money for itself."

Playing Role Of Napoleon Makes Actor Napoleonic

By JOHN O'BRIEN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS.—French cinema producers are worried about the strange fate of actors who depict Napoleon for the screen. They become obsessed by the personality of the Corsican who made himself practically the ruler of the world and forget their own identity. It is reported here that Charlie Chaplin suffered from this mania after having spent months studying the life and gestures of the "little corporal."

E. Gomez Carrillo, writing in "Comedia," tells a similar story of Albert Dieudonne, the famous French actor who incarnates Napoleon in the film by Abel Gance. Dieudonne gave so much thought to Napoleon's character that he became in a sense intoxicated with the Napoleonic idea. He read everything Masson wrote of the great emperor. He studied David's paintings. He imitated every gesture and movement.

"Well," said he one day, "as a matter of fact I have at least this in common with Napoleon. I was a corporal during the war."

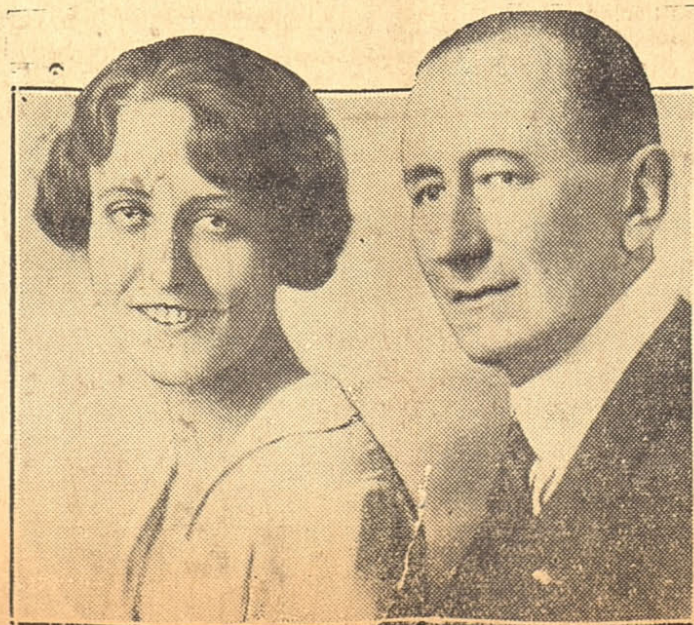

Dieudonne's friends in the Cafe Napolitain need a change in his way of talking. He used language scarcely ever heard nowadays. It was the French of a century and a half ago. He was heard to murmur: "Tomorrow on the battlefield." "I have a rendezvous with Barras for Thursday." "What are the Prussians going to do now?"

This mania lasted only a few months after he had finished the film. He took a rest and forgot all about the emperor. He smiles now when the subject is mentioned. But all the same he sometimes gets serious about it and says:

"All very well. But that fellow Napoleon does get on your nerves."

BRITISH ACADEMY BARS NUDES AT THIS YEAR'S EXHIBITION

By United Press.
LONDON.—Because very few nudes—and no shocking ones at all—were accepted for exhibition this year at the Royal Academy of Art here, cynics are humorously suggesting that perhaps the fact is an indication of the reasons which prompted the judges to reject over 8,000 artistic efforts.

Possibly, it is argued, many of the contributions turned down were paintings which depicted undraped subjects in artistic attitudes which would have been checking material for the censor.

At any rate, although the 738 oil paintings which now hang in the Royal Academy of Art, may not actually indicate the entire trend of British Art, judging by the proportion of pictures depicting what are undeniably some of Britain's most beautiful women, there seems to be a distinct tendency here to enhance, if possible, the figures represented by draping them in the most gorgeous colors.

Indeed, with scarcely more than a score of nudes scattered throughout the galleries for public inspection, were it not for the fact that exhibitors which depicted beautiful women, it might appear that most of London's painters had become women-haters and that artists' models have deserted this very conventional city for Paris, where nakedness is woman's most admired adornment.

Paris, incidentally, is represented at the exhibition by a most stunning—and conventional—portrait of "Mrs. Heathcote" by the famous French artist, Jean Gabriel Domergue.

The fact that the representative of the nude-loving "Gay City" presented a completely draped subject, has provoked the sarcastic remark that surely the judges purposely saw to it that no shocking nakedness should cause visitors to this year's Royal Academy exhibition to shiver sympathetically, in a modesty-loving city like London.

With nudes nearly banned and modernist paintings conspicuous by their absence, the feature of this year's exhibition seems to be the extremely vivid and brilliant coloring of a number of pictures.

Portraits seem to predominate, one of which will be of especial interest to Americans; Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, painted by Sir John Lavery, of the Royal Academy.

There are also portraits of King George, in full uniforms, Queen Mary, the Duke of Connaught, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Madame Titulescu, wife of the Rumanian Minister to the Court of St. James, Admiral Count H. Togo, late chief of the Japanese Naval General staff and Sir Alan J. Cobham, the famous aviator, and other prominent personalities, although perhaps none is attracting more comment than A. Stuart Hill's portrait of a colored man, Mr. Turner Layton.

A number of paintings are devoted to the subject of children, one of which is remarkable for color and composition, "A Little Girl with Cockatoos" by Marietta Cotton.

The subject of the war has been practically untouched, being represented by two realistic images of the British fleet in action at the Battle of Jutland and R. Caton Woodville's "Hallow'een, 1914," showing hand-to-hand fighting on Messines Ridge, all three of which reserve a permanent place in some war museum.

An American subject painted by an American and the works of two American sculptors and one Canadian, are among those accepted at this year's exhibition.

Canada's contribution to the exhibition is a forceful bronze bust of The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Laird Borden, one-time Premier of his country, the work of the well-known Canadian sculptor, Lionel Feibery.

Jo Davidson, American sculptor whose studio is well-known to the American colony in Paris, successfully entered a stone bust of the late Field Marshal, Sir John French, Earl of Ypres, and a remarkable statuettes group of marble and copper, entitled "Europa," by Paul Manship of New York, is the second American sculpture exhibited.

In his work, which is likely to attract wide attention, Paul Manship shows a nude woman leaning her back against a golden-horned steer whose head is turned toward one of the woman's arms.

The artist's idea is original and daring, and it displays talent of a kind which is eminently typical of the coming "invasion" of American art.

"The Return of Commanders Byrd and Bennett from the North Pole by Aeroplane to Spitzbergen" is the title and subject chosen by F. W.

Stokes, of New York, for his oil painting in which the icy North is vividly depicted by the artist.

Eight thousand works are said to have been refused a place in the Academy's art galleries this year. How many were presented by foreigners is not known, however, because no mention of nationality is required upon the slips which must accompany each work which is submitted.

It has, however, become known, and the information has stirred artistic London, that a painting by the Hon. John Collier, of George Bernard Shaw, was among those which the judges turned down.

The fact that a portrait of Aldous Huxley, by the same artist, was given an excellent place at the exhibition has led "G. B. S." to express the opinion that it is likely that in this case, the judges "took exception to the sitter," the artist's reputation being unquestioned since his picture of the younger author, Aldous Huxley, was accepted.

When questioned, the artist himself declared that he considered his painting of Shaw was better than the one which passed the judges at the Academy.

What to Do With Our Colonies Is Big Question

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—What are we going to do with our colonies? This question is not causing many of us in this country to lie awake nights, but it is one of tremendous interest to the more than 13,000,000 persons outside of the United States over whom we have placed the American flag.

The Philippines, Alaska, Porto Rico, Samoa and the Virgin Islands

all want a different form of government. Especially do they want to elect their own governors, although their aspirations range from the Filipino's desire for complete independence to the Alaskan's ambition to be a citizen of a recognized sovereign state of the federal union.

None of them is inactive in pressing claims for attention.

Seek Uniform Government.
A movement is now under way to ask the Seventieth congress for a constitutional amendment which would accord the several territories and possessions a uniform type of government which, while it would not immediately grant statehood to any of them would remove them from their present condition of political inferiority under which they are governed by presidential appointees with absolute power above that of their legislatures.

If this movement takes definite shape, it will be backed by resident commissioners and delegates of at least three "colonies"—Porto Rico, Alaska, and Hawaii. It might also be joined by the two Filipino resident commissioners, who realize that independence for them is not an imminent possibility.

Felix Davila, Porto Rican commissioner and principal proponent of such an amendment, holds it necessary to break into the constitution so that this new type of government, whatever it might be called, would not be subject to alteration at will by future congresses.

Divergencies of race, aspirations and qualifications, however, seem likely to defeat this constitutional amendment plan. A better chance is seen for Carmel Thompson's proposal of a bureau of insular affairs which would be responsible only to the president. At the present time, Porto Rico and the Philippines are under jurisdiction of the war department, Hawaii and Alaska under the Interior Department and the Virgin Islands, Guam and Samoa under the department of the navy.

SPORTS ODDS AND ENDS

Track.
By United Press.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The best of America's track and field athletes from high and preparatory schools streamed into Chicago today, to wind up training for the national scholastic meet here tomorrow and Saturday. The national prep meet is the 23rd in the series of outdoor championship events sponsored by the University of Chicago.

Some of the preliminary trials are to be held at Stagg Field, but all final events are to take place in Soldier field, where the national collegiate meet is to take place the following week end. Soldier field also was the site of the 1926 army-navy football game.

Aside from the Chicago schools, Mooseheart, Ill., put in the heaviest entry list, with 31 nominees. Coffeyville, Kans., had the smallest entry—a lone contestant—but he is Boelch, who has run the hundred yard dash in .09.8 this year—which equals the record made by Simpson of East High, Columbus, O., last year.

Following Mooseheart in the entry list was Froebel high of Gary, Ind., with a 19 man team. Rensselaer, Ind., and Osage City, Kans., two other schools with a record for point scoring, are ready with a heavy entry list.

Brazil, Ind., has a strong relay team which is counting on garnering a medal in the Stagg meet.

Leachville, Ark., Janesville, Wis., Cameron, Mo., East Aurora, Ill., Birmingham, Ala., and Junction City, Kans., are others among the strong representative schools.

Bert Francisco, crack bread jumper, who leaped 20 feet, 6 1-2 inches in last year's meet, is Mooseheart's outstanding athlete in the meet.

Fraternity and club houses on the University of Chicago are uniting to entertain the prep athletes during their visit here.

all primed ready to defend their crowns against the mass of foreigners who have threatened to invade this country's rivers throughout the season.

For some months past reports have been reaching British rowing circles that 1927 will be a record year for foreign competition, especially at Henley, the world's greatest attraction to rowing men.

British rowing clubs, however, are determined to put up a stubborn defence and leave nothing to chance. In past years the principal clubs and their members have been content to take matters easily during the winter months but recent visits to Putney Maidenhead, Henley and other training centers, reveal the fact that crews and single scullers alike have been keeping in trim right through the year.

Experts believe that the threat of foreign competition is responsible for the return of rowing to its pre-war popularity. New clubs have sprung up recently and the old ones are increasing their memberships. Already some minor regattas have been held and racing men have taken these opportunities to give themselves a try-out.

The Leander club has gathered together a powerful combination of Old Blues—former members of Oxford and Cambridge crews—which, it is believed, will be capable of staving off any attacks by foreigners, while J. Beresford, Jr., and T. D. A. Collet, have been working hard throughout the winter and sculling experts believe these two will, with luck in the draw, meet in the final of the Diamond Sculls at Henley.

Among the foreign entries for Henley are an American schoolboy crew which will row for the Thames cup and a German crew, intent on wresting the grand challenge cup from British hands.

Experts, however, declare that both these crews will have to be exceptionally good if they are to come through with flying colors.

CHANNEL SWIMMING

BERLIN—Broadcast music would facilitate future attempts to swim the English channel because it is more invigorating than the music of frequently seasick bands aboard the accompanying tugs," declared Otto Kaemmerich, German long-distance swimming champion after an hour's swim in the North Sea when he tested a novel swimming cape equipped with earpieces.

After crossing the turf, Kaemmerich distinctly and uninterruptedly received the broadcast program of the Hamburg station 200 kilometers distant.

OLYMPICS

AMSTERDAM.—Preparations for the Olympic games next year, are proceeding apace.

The construction of the stadium is going on satisfactorily and there is every reason to believe that the stadium will be ready in time for the games.

The cycling track has been finished, and the football field is in the final stages of being turfed.

The subways through which the competitors will make their way to the different fields are ready, and the stands are partly completed.

Gridiron Stars Participate In Football Game

In the Tiffany production, "College Days," by A. P. Younger, who adapted "Brown of Harvard" for the screen, are assembled the foremost college gridiron stars who have made football history.

The collegians were used to show their skill in the great football game one of the exciting features of the story of college life. During the playing of the game there were numerous casualties, the boys playing as if the honor of their Alma Mater depended on every move they made.

In the line up were the following players:

Henry Le Febvre, one of the star players from the University of Southern California and who has recently been signed as coach for the football team of one of the large universities.

Howard Jones, brother of the famous "Tad" Jones, famous Yale coach, who formerly coached Iowa and for three years held the big ten championship of the central states. He is coach at the University of Southern California and has been responsible for the numerous gridiron victories of the football team.

William Bradbury an all-state lineman, playing right guard, a gridiron player of note.

Jessie Hibbs, from Illinois, who was captain of the 1925 Freshman football team of the University of Southern California and playing tackle on the 1926 varsity team.

Morley Drury, who is listed by some of the foremost coaches of the United States as all-American half-back of 1925.

Manuel Laraneta, considered by Coach Glen (Pop) Warner of Leland Stanford University as one of the greatest forward pass defensive half backs he has ever seen.

Lamb Today—Marceline Day and Charles Delaney

Don Moses, one of the greatest high school football stars in recent years who enrolled for Princeton and switched to the University of Southern California.

Otto Anderson, a graduate of the University of California and in his day one of the fastest sprinters and best punters in football.

Other prominent players to be seen in the football game are, Aubrey Devine, all-American quarter-back; Gene Dorsey, one of the fastest ends on the Pacific Coast; Vic Orsatti, the quarter-back flash, and Clarence Duhn, one of the best linemen developed in the University of Southern California for years.

"College Days" will be the feature attraction at the Lamb theatre today.

Great Game, This Zitz, Played By Oregon Youths

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PORTLAND, Ore., June 4.—"Dearie, do you play Zitz?" That's a proper question for ultra-moderns for if one does not play Zitz, the youth of Oregon feel that he should learn pronto.

There is no other game like it. Zitz—be it known, is the latest wrinkle by way of juvenile entertainment. At present it is popular in Oregon. Strange as it may seem, to date no casualties have been reported.

The requirements are simple—as must be the players. Unlimited nerve, ability to dodge comes in the hands of elderly gentlemen and to sight whisker-covered elderly gentlemen whisker-covered faces now and then are all one needs.

A group decides to go "Zitzing" for the afternoon—Calm, peaceful Sundays when lots of strollers are about are considered the best. The group gathers at a corner and waits. The first member of the party to see whiskers on a human face points a finger at that spectacle and shouts "Zitz." Seeing, pointing and shouting must be done first to count.

One hundred points make a game and consistent losing may cost one the treats for the entire crowd and dire things like that.

Scoring is just as simple as the game and its players. A full beard is a strike and marks 25 points in favor of the person who "Zitzes" it first. A bearded lady in herself is an entire game. A moustache and wattle count 15 points as does hair on the upper lip and side whiskers. Chin whiskers of the Uncle Sam type are worth 10 points while a lone moustache counts only 5 points.

As though to prove that there is honor in all pastimes, the true Zitzer has a few iron clad rules and violation of them spells banishment from the Exalted Order of Zitzers.

BRITISH TO TRY FOR AMERICAN GOLF RECORDS

By BILLY EVANS.

Great Britain seeks to regain its golfing prestige. With that goal in view, there arrived recently on our shores, eight of the leading British professionals, each bent on winning the United States open.

In recent years our best players, amateur and pro, have invaded England in great numbers, seeking to carry off the leading titles of that country. On the whole they have been mighty successful.

For instance, last year Jess Sweetser won the British amateur, while Bobby Jones captured the British open. Losing these two major titles to the American invaders was most annoying to the British.

It seems the American pro has a much better opportunity to cash in on his golfing prestige than the British stars. Practically every one of the Americans paid their own expenses and gambled with the chance of cashing in on their probable success.

Big Title Sought. This year, however, its going to be different, England is making a concerted attack—on the United States open title.

Eight of the best golfers in all Great Britain are now in our midst, prepping for the big event. I have talked with a half dozen of our best pros on Britain's chance of taking down our leading title and most of them regard it as a most excellent one.

A successful campaign, which realized the amount of $15,000, is the reason why British golfers are attacking the United States. A prominent London golfing magazine sponsored the idea and put it over with a bang.

Four of the eight invaders, George Duncan, Ted Ray, Arthur Havers and Archie Compston, are well known to American golfing enthusiasts. All have toured this country in recent years.

The remaining four are George Gadd, A. Boomer, C. A. Whitcombe and Fred Robson, all of them boasting golfing reputations worth while.

England is hopeful that one of these eight stars will prove to the satisfaction of the United States that Great Britain is still very much in the running as golfing foes.

Good Records. If Ted Ray, the veteran of the British team—he is 50 years old—wins the title, it will be his for the second time. Back in 1920 he won at Toledo. He also has a British open to his credit.

Three others have been victorious in the English classic. George Duncan won the British open in 1920. Arthur Havers accounted for it in 1923 and Archie Compston captured it in 1925.

Arthur Havers, after winning in 1923, came to this country the following years to pick up some soft money on his foreign prestige. During his stay here he showed he was a golfer extraordinary.

Two of his most remarkable feats in this country were defeating Bobby Jones in a 36-hole match and trimming Gene Sarazen in a 72-hole affair. Havers is the youngest member of the team, being 29.

George Gadd, while he hasn't the titles the others boast, enjoys the unique distinction of having made eight holes in one.

If the cream of our American players are able to turn back this crack British outfit, it will be only after a bitter struggle.

CITY OF LENINGRAD SINKING INTO THE SEA

By United Press.

LENINGRAD.—Leningrad is slowly sinking into the sea, Finnish and Russian geologists have discovered. Like fabled Atlantis which is said to have sunk under the waters west of the Pillars of Hercules, Leningrad is found to be subsiding. The speed of subsidence is only 1 1/2 centimeters every hundred years, but the streets of Leningrad are built so near to sea level that the danger of floods is increased by even slight drops in the land level.

The massive St. Isaac cathedral, one of the largest and finest structures in Europe, was erected by Peter the Great on such soft ground that it must be reinforced and set perpendicular almost every year. Like other parts of Leningrad, the cathedral is doomed for eventual destruction under the sea, the geologists believe. They anticipate that the city will have vanished from sight in 3,000 years.

Until recently, the land of Leningrad was rising, the measurements showed. In the past century and a half, the islands in the Neva river at Leningrad increased their surface by 60,000 square yards through the lifting of the earth's crust. But since 1880 the islands have ceased to grow and some have begun to shrink appreciably as the land again sinks.

CORPUS CHRISTI.—Construction projects totaling $1,255,000 started in Corpus Christi during May.

1. It is not considered good form to play Zitz at meetings of pioneer associations, House of David conventions or to invade Old Folks homes.
 2. Bribing one's uncle, Grand Dad, or someone to stray around the corner selected in considered very bad form.
 3. Fake whiskers do not count but it is bad manners to challenge another person's scored Zitz on this ground, and only in case of a tie may the doubting party yank the whiskers to test their moorings.
 4. Color of whiskers have no bearing on the count but it is considered good judgment to Zitz red whiskers at a safe distance.
 5. A blind man be Zitized the same as anyone else, but if he is being led by a whiskered dog, the facial advertisements of the animal do not count.
- And that is all there is to Zitz.

Gave Whisky

Whisky is outlawed for medical uses by the state of Tennessee but it saved Gov. Austin Peay's life when the governor (top) was fighting pneumonia, according to Dr. Frank Fessy, noted Nashville physician. Dr. Fessy (below) favors amending the Tennessee law so that physicians may prescribe whisky without violating the law. The situation is similar to that in Indiana, where the governor and the attorney general had to break the prohibition law to get medicinal liquor for members of their families.

Aged Negro Only Is Left to Mourn Ancient Morgue

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent. ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 4.—The old morgue, for more than half century St. Louis' house of death, has been abandoned to its ghosts.

The last scene in thousands of tragedies, the old building has gone the inevitable way of the victims it housed. It will be razed to make way for a new $1,000,000 municipal service building.

The morgue started its gruesome career in June, 1875, as one of a group of public buildings, housing courts and a jail. St. Louis was then a hardy river town where justice was rapid.

One room in the morgue housed gallows, an efficient arrangement. The scaffold has long since been removed but many of the morgue's oldest ghosts bear the marks of hemp.

In those early days the morgue might have been impressive. Now it is a grimy little building, crouched in the shadow of surrounding skyscrapers. It looks its part as a catch-all for human debris.

Even the glamor of violence has been taken from it. In recent years its patrons were largely the victims of traffic accidents. Occasionally the body of a slain gangster enlivened its routine.

But for Cal, an aged negro employe, there was none to regret the abandonment of the morgue this spring. He alone seemed to enjoy the passing show in which death was always the star, the show now robbed of its old backdrop.

"I've seen a lot of 'em since I came here," ruminated Cal when the morgue moved to temporary quarters in the city hospital. "Ten thousand of them at least."

"We used to have one a day at first but last year we averaged more than three. There are a lot more accidents nowadays with automobiles so common."

"The biggest month for murders was June, 1924. We had 20 that month, mostly gangsters. They all end up here. Hardly one of 'em more than 24 years old either."

The new municipal service building is part of an extensive program of construction started here. Virtually all public buildings are to be replaced.

Harry Snodgrass Entertains At Liberty Theatre

The king of the Ivories, Harry M. Snodgrass and his famous announcer J. M. Witten, were in Ranger in person Saturday and appeared in matinee and evening programs at the Liberty theatre before a large and appreciative audience.

The stage setting was very beautiful. One could imagine one in a lovely drawing room, and being entertained by Harry M. Snodgrass, broadcasting from station WOS, Jefferson City, Mo.

The tones of J. M. Witten, the most popular radio announcer in the United States came just as they do over the radio. "This is station WOS, Jefferson City, Missouri," and then the notes of "Mighty Lak a Rose," drifted out under the fingers of the king of the ivories, a title which the young musician well deserved.

Snodgrass, seated at a grand piano which was draped in a black Spanish shawl, embroidered in gold, went from one popular selection to another, while Witten, seated at a desk before a microphone announced his numbers and read telegrams from admiring fans.

One telegram was a request for the Holy City, but since it was from Berger, the announcer thought it must be a mistake.

Witten said that Paul Revere was the first broadcaster and that radios dated back to the Garden of Eden with Eve as the first loud speaker, and also having the first head set—when she set her head on eating the forbidden fruit.

Over Adventure's Old Trails

With only her horse and her dog for company, Evelyn Estes of Memphis, Tenn., is hitting the old western trails of Buffalo Bill and Calamity Jane, adventure her goal. She will ride over the great cattle ranges of Idaho and Wyoming and means to stop at the gold camp at Weepah, too. Evelyn enjoys swimming, riding and hunting, and doesn't dance, play golf or smoke.

Snodgrass played "Maple Leaf Rag," "Three o'clock in the Morning," and a number of selections, responding gracefully to encore after encore.

The ability of the pianist had not been over-praised for Snodgrass handled the ivory keys easier than most people handle a glass of water. His fingers just glide from melody to melody and he plays with the ease that can only result from true artistry.

Witten, a world war veteran, and wounded at that, smiling said when he glanced down at his crippled leg, "it might have been worse," is a great part of the act and the voice that so many nights has droned out "Station WOS, Jefferson City, Missouri, presents Harry Snodgrass, king of the ivories," is just as pleasing from the stage as it has been over the radio.

The party is making a trip by motor. It will show in Eastland today.

Making Effort To Hold Underwood As Band Master

Plans are on foot to get Leo Underwood, band director, who recently left Ranger to take a position in another city, back to Ranger.

The band committee consisting of R. F. Holloway, Walter Harwell and Rip Galloway, have been busy in the business district the past few days getting enough money to guarantee a definite amount a month toward the maintenance of the bandmaster's salary.

The committee met on Saturday afternoon at the chamber of commerce and checked up on the list that had already been circulated and found it short of the desired quota, as the list must be signed by a sufficient number to carry a surplus to offset those who do not always pay or who leave town.

Any one wanting to get in on this list can get in touch with any of the committee.

When it was announced that Leo Underwood was leaving Ranger, a number of people expressed themselves as feeling that it was a calamity to Ranger, so now they can avert that calamity by showing in dollars and cents just how hard they want Mr. Underwood to stay in Ranger. The committee will be out again Monday.

Foreign Legion Continues Work Through Africa

By JOHN O'BRIEN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS.—Although the surrender and exile of Abd-el-Krim definitely ended the campaign of the French troops against the Riff tribesmen, there is still sufficient desultory French and Spanish zones of Morocco to provide opportunities for heroism and conduct on the part of the famous band of daredevils known as the Foreign Legion. Here is one instance which has been brought to the notice of the public by an official citation.

Captain Fontanel was in command of a battalion of the historic regiment in the region of Ouezzan, where the tribes never have been fully disarmed and are always on the warpath. The French were ambushed by a large force of Riffians in a defile near Kelouch, a first line outpost, and fierce fighting followed. One section of the battalion was encircled and men were falling fast under the deadly fire of the Riffians.

Grabbing the rifle of a soldier who had just been laid low at his side, Captain Fontanel dashed against the enemy, shouting: "Forward, my boys, these schleuchs (bandits) are no match for us!"

A bullet struck him in the face. He continued to advance until a second ball pierced his forehead. As he dropped he cried: "Vive la Legion!" His last word was "Jean" the name of his son.

Well Responds To Shot With Flow Of 3,000,000 Feet Gas

The No. 1 Briden well of Shaw and others 15 miles northwest of Ranger and over the line in southern Stephens county was shot at 6 p. m. Saturday and was shot at 6 p. m. Saturday and was shot at 6 p. m. Saturday. A charge of 135 quarts of nitro was placed at 3,855 to 3,900 feet. Following the shot the well responded with a flow of 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas which is coming through the bridge.

The well has been making 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas for several days. Owners of the well believe that when the bridge is cleaned out the well will produce oil.

Former Eastland Resident Buried At Long Branch

Funeral services for H. C. (Hossa) Poe, who died Wednesday at his home in Kansas City, were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church in Eastland, followed by interment in the Long Branch cemetery, four miles south of Carbon.

Rev. L. R. Hogan, pastor of the Presbyterian church and Rev. George W. Shearer, pastor of the First Methodist church of Ranger and former pastor of the Eastland church, conducted the services. The floral offering was one of the greatest yet seen in Eastland.

The pallbearers were Gene Day, Elzo Been, Clyde L. Garrett, Dr. J. L. Johnson, Bob Jones and Allen D. Dabney.

Mineral Water Company Buys Additional Land

A deal was recently consummated by which the Eastland Mineral Water company, a corporation of which Dr. R. C. Ferguson of Eastland is president, and C. D. Knight, Eastland, secretary, purchased two acres of land just north of the city limits and adjoining property on which the company has a number of mineral water wells.

The Eastland Mineral Water company, which is capitalized at $25,000, has already begun the construction of both houses and a clinic on this recently acquired property. The city of Eastland has contracted to pipe water to the bath houses.

The analysis of the water obtained from the wells of the Eastland Mineral Water company is said to show the water to be superior in curative powers to much of the water at many of the now famous watering places in this and other states.

Girl Nutcrackers Of London Strike For Higher Wages

LONDON.—A curious trade has been revealed by the announcement that one hundred girls employed by the London Nut Food company are now on strike for better wages and working conditions.

These girls are employed as nutcrackers and they have to crack brazil nuts with a hammer and clean the kernels, being paid seven and one-half cents a pound for unbroken kernels.

The girls alleged that girls of 14 to 18 years of age are paid an average of $1.75 a week, and that girls from 18 and 23 receive $3 weekly. The girls also claim that although they are employed as piece-workers and start work at 7 a. m. they are fined six cents if they are a few minutes late.

Their case has been taken up by the National Union of General and Municipal Workers and the girls have been hastily enrolled as members of the union. Pickets have been put on duty.

S. J. Thomas, managing director, declared that if the girls liked to work hard they could earn nearly $8 a week.

Books On Etiquette Are Many But Are Seldom Read and Few of Them Emulated

Are Your Manners Stored in Mothballs Or Just Missing?

By RENA B. CAMPBELL
Some one suggested an article on manners. It sounded easy and yet on looking around it seemed as if almost everybody has shed their formal manners with their winter "undies" and put them down in mothballs.

Some wit has aptly said "manners is or ain't—mostly ain't."

It's hard to say which state of manners is peculiar to Ranger, but it's open season all the year round hunting good manners.

Some one wants to know what constitutes good automobile manners. Should a man assist his "lady friend" out of a car as he did back in the days of the buggy—he should but mostly doesn't.

In the olden days a man only permitted his own wife or sister to alight or get in unaided.

Manners of guests are often bad. They criticize their hostess rigidly and left for forgetting how many times they have been beneficiaries of her hospitality. They do the things that are expected of them but they also do a lot of things that are not expected and are downright rude, such as poking fun at the food, saying to another, "I wonder why she asked that frump," and "her prizes are always cheap," and so forth.

The day of pretty manners is fast vanishing. Folks are too busy to take time to do the thousand and one little pretty things that constitute good manners. Volumes have been written on etiquette, but few of them have been read. But good manners are charming and stamp the training of a man or a woman, while bad manners are repulsive and give the status of those who know better or are careless.

RANGER HAS REVIVAL OF BUILDING

The pessimist says in regard to buying Ranger real estate: "Wait 60 days and you can buy it at your own price—the worst is yet to come," but on the other hand the optimist says, "There never was a better time to invest in Ranger real estate than now and if you wait much longer the choice locations will all be gone," so there it is.

But the sounds of hammer and saw are heard in many directions around Ranger. At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon one real estate man in Ranger had two houses for rent and two applicants came in his office for houses during that hour.

No matter which way one travels, one will see building of some kind in progress in Ranger.

The handsome Conway home has caused a revival in real estate on Main street.

Across the street from the Conway home, E. A. Ringold has started a new home and further up the street a whole block of ground is filled in preparatory to being improved.

On the west extension of Walnut street, Prof. R. F. Holloway is building an eight-room house with double two-story garage.

The C. D. Woods brick home on Cherry is almost ready for the family to move in and is a most beautiful little cottage.

In the business district ground has been broken for Mrs. C. A. Jones' brick garage-storage building on south Austin street, and a brick sandwich-cold drink stand is almost completed on the Bankhead highway on Commerce street.

Lindbergh Plane Equipped With Silvertown Tire

Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, who in a little over 32 hours wrote in the sky across the Atlantic ocean the most amazing accomplishment in aviation history, was the first trans-oceanic flier to carry pneumatic-tired landing gear to the end of his journey.

This is the gist of a bulletin just received by F. E. Vaughn, local Goodrich Silvertown dealer, from the Goodrich factories at Akron. Captain Lindbergh had his famous plane equipped with Silvertown airplane cords at the hanger in San Diego, Calif., several weeks before he hopped off on the first leg of his epochal 6,100-mile flight to Paris.

According to Mr. Vaughn, these tires, which were 30x5 inch stock Silvertowns, were not tested in any way, but were merely picked out of the tire racks at the factory of the Ryan Airplane company by Lindbergh and applied to the wheels by himself and a helper.

"Although Lindbergh's plane carried normal loads when it hopped off at San Diego and St. Louis, where it stopped on its way to New York, its load for the Paris hop was considerably above its normal. Five thousand one hundred and fifty pounds hammered and battered the mono-plane's Silvertown equipment on the quarter-mile of runway before it lifted clear and sailed off for Paris. Had one of these tires collapsed under his weight, amplified as the plane bounced on the ground, a serious accident might easily have resulted, and the intrepid Lindbergh and his plane would not have left the ground.

"The first thousand feet and the last thousand feet of an airplane's journey are distances of grave stress on the aviator's landing gear and its tires. A blowout in New York would have spelled the end of Lindbergh's magnificent venture. A blowout in Paris might have brought a tragic end to such a glorious accomplishment.

"But Silvertowns held! Their strength, their sturdy cushioning stood the stress and strain that had doomed a thousand flights.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. Q. Curtis, millionaire owner of the Curtis department store, selects three girls from his establishment to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further certain worthy ambitions. Billy Wells, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is genuinely ambitious. Nyda Lomax, and Winnie Shelton lie to enjoy the old man's generosity.

When, unknown to him, the girls learn that T. Q. intends to adopt one of them when the year is up, Winnie and Nyda turn the house into a place of intrigue and draw Billy into the contest against her will. Billy is infatuated with Dal Romaine, nephew of Mrs. Meadows, the hostess. She fears he is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton and when the two leave town over the same week-end, her suspicions are heightened.

In spite of this infatuation, Billy tenderly remembers Clay Curtis, son of her benefactor, who has disinterested himself and is boarding with Mrs. Wells in a poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy loses interest in her violin and finally she has a breakdown. She and Constance Bradley, a charming, wealthy girl, decide to go to a lake resort for a month.

The night before they leave Billy secretly meets Romaine in the summer house at midnight. He suavely puts her doubts at rest. Returning to the house Billy sees Eddie Banning, Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, stealing from Nyda's window and leaving by the fire escape. When Billy rushes to Nyda's room to see if any harm has befallen the girl, Nyda is furious at her and tells her she is lying when she says a man was in her room. Billy goes to her own room and stumbling over Mrs. Meadows who is peeping through the keyhole of Nyda's room. During the month that Billy and Constance spend at the resort, Billy hopes she has banished Romaine from her heart.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

Billy and Constance returned to Colfax on a train arriving at five o'clock and the two girls parted affectionately at the station. Constance driving away in the Bradley sedan with her mother, and T. Q. taking charge of Billy and her luggage in the Curtis limousine.

"Good girl!" It was hard to recognize the brusque old millionaire in the fatherly, beaming man who gathered the sun-burned sturdy little girl's hands in his when the car was picking its sedate way through the downtown section.

"You're looking great, child. Feel up to a little party tonight?"

"I never felt better in my life," she laughed, laying one of his hands against her cheek. "And I've led such a quiet life that I'm spoiling for a good party. What's the program?"

"Dinner for twelve at the house, then the young people want to whisk away to the Country Club. The big Saturday night dance, you know. But you mustn't overdo, Billikin."

Mrs. Meadows seemed delighted to have her back again, and even Nyda and Winnie were faintly friendly, when they came to room before dinner.

"I haven't a thing to wear," Billy mourned, looking at the sleek newness of their dresses with envious eyes.

"That dress what came from that Madame Dubois, or whatever you call her, would be nice for tonight," Viola the colored maid, contributed, eagerly. "My, Miss Billy, that dress is a dream—a dream what I mean." She abandoned her work of unpacking Billy's wardrobe trunk and hurried to the clothes closet. "Now, Miss Nyda, and Miss Winnie, I asks you—ain't that dress a dream?"

Billy took the dress in her hands almost reverently.

Billy's profound amazement passed unnoticed for Nyda and Winnie were wholly engrossed with the dress which Viola had so proudly displayed. She had ordered no dress from Madame Dubois.

"It's stunning, Billy," Winnie cried her voice a little shrill with envy. "But you'd better try it on. It may have to be altered."

Billy took the dress into her own hands almost reverently. It was a beauty—and those particular shades of yellow and green had always filled her with covetous delight.

"Got a label on the neck!" Viola crowded. "It say, 'Madame Dubois, Exclusive Models—the Daffodil.' That's what you are now, Miss Billy, a daffodil. An' that name ain't no lie, neither, is it, Miss Winnie."

"It's lovely," Winnie conceded. "I don't know why she didn't show it to me. Goodness knows I've spent more at her old shop than you have, and she knew I was looking for a dress just on that order."

When Nyda and Winnie had gone to their rooms to add last-minute touches of make-up, Viola drew a tiny envelope from her apron pocket and handed it over, with a rich chuckle.

"This here note was pinned on the dress when it come, Miss Billy." Inside the small envelope was a card, covered with the minute printing which was Dal Romaine's entire distinctive handwriting.

"This is your dress, Mignon. It was created especially for you. And it's from me to you, with love, Dal."

The "spell" rushed back upon her, recaptured her, shook every nerve in her exquisitely clad little body. She understood. This was his answer to her charge, her bitter, unjust charge, only half uttered but understood by him, that he had "lured" her into Madame Dubois' shop and caused her to spend more money than she could afford, so that he might profit at her expense. Viola was not looking, and Billy laid the card against her lips, in a passion of reawakened love.

She was bitterly disappointed that Dal Romaine was not among the dinner guests whom T. Q. had invited to do her honor on her home-coming. But she laughed and talked gaily of her experiences at the big resort hotel. Constance, who had known for days of the prospective dinner party, was among the guests, and before her Billy could not bear to be less than gay and charming. For she knew that Constance had guessed the secret of her infatuation for Dal Romaine.

The party included Ralph Truman, Bruce Kruger, Gil Warburton, son of Presley Warburton; Carl Boswell, in whom Nyda seemed to be interested and Peter Conroy, who, like Carl, did not "quite belong" to the Kruger-Bradley-Truman set, but who had been invited because Winnie so evidently liked him; and, besides the three girls of the house, Constance Bradley and Kathleen Kruger, a vivacious little red-headed flapper, who had recently announced her engagement to Gil Warburton. At ten o'clock the young people piled into cars which hurried them away to the country club.

Billy was dancing with Ralph Truman, who had treated her all evening as if nothing unpleasant had ever occurred to mar their friendship, when she was startled by an explosive "Damn!" from the lips which had just been smiling at her with comradely affection.

"What's the matter?" she demanded as his arm tightened about her. Then she looked toward the door of the club ballroom and saw the cause of his annoyance. Dal Romaine stood there, a slight smile on his thin, perfectly cut lips, his teeth gleaming as white as his polished shirt front, his Tuxedo fitting his trim figure with exquisite precision.

Ralph swung Billy to the opposite end of the room, dancing there in a small area for several minutes, while he talked of a dozen inconsequential things. When the music stopped Billy excused herself to Ralph and hurried away, as if bent on some important mission, but she had only one need—to see Dal and to speak with him alone. She was so shaken with emotion that she wondered how she could walk steadily, and she felt that her eyes were burning with such a light that anyone glancing at her would be blinded by it.

The music started again while she was still hunting for him. Bruce Kruger swept her into a dance, but she scarcely knew whose arms were around her. She was glad of their support, however, when she came abruptly upon Dal Romaine, dancing with Nyda Lomax. Nyda, who was as tall as Dal in her three-inch heels, was dancing far closer than good taste permitted, her face almost touching the man's dark cheek.

"Let's dance over to the balcony, Bruce," Billy pleaded. "Feeling faint, old dear?" Bruce asked solicitously, when they reached the open window by the balcony. "Wait here, Billy. I'll get you a glass of iced punch. Don't revive and whirl away with some other chap while I'm gone."

"I'll wait for you on the balcony," she told him, stepping through the open French window as she did so. She was feeling faint, she realized with surprise and self-pity, as she stretched out in a big wicker chair drawn up to the stone balustrade of the balcony. The cool spring breeze laden with the sweet, fresh scent of new-cut grass on the billowing golf course that lay below the club building, revived her.

How foolish she was to be nauseated with jealousy just because Dal Romaine danced with Nyda Lomax! What if he did look at Nyda as if he adored her? Dal could not help paying whimsical, knightly deference to women. He had teased her often about her jealousy. Though she had never stooped to the ignominy of putting that jealousy into words, of course he flirited!

As she reasoned with herself, her eyes brooded upon the moonlit scene below her. A couple, walking arm in arm, crossed the field of her vision. With a tightening of her whole body, she realized that it was Dal and Nyda, their heads bent so close that Dal's breath must be playing upon Nyda's cheek. Before she could realize the pain that the sight caused her, a man leaped from the shadows of a high box hedge, and hurled himself upon Romaine. She had time to note that the attacker wore the semi-military coat and glistening cordovan puttees of a chauffeur before her recognition of him was confirmed by Nyda's shrill scream:

"Eddie! Eddie, for God's sake—" Billy's instinct was to throw herself over the balustrade of the balcony, regardless of possible injury to herself, and rush to the defense of the man she loved. But her defense was not needed. Before she could move or cry out, Romaine, as if by magic, since he was at least thirty pounds lighter than the chauffeur, had thrown his attacker over his shoulder.

"Jiu Jitsu, by golly!" Bruce Kruger's voice behind her exclaimed with sincere admiration, "Wonder where he learned that?" Billy did not answer. Her eyes were straining toward the group below. Dal stood over the fallen man, spoke to him, apparently, with quietness and without gestures. Banning flung a threatening arm about, but as Romaine talked, he grew quieter. Then Nyda stooped beside him, helped him to his feet. The chauffeur limped on down the driveway, after a minute or two of feeble threatening, the words of which Billy could not hear, and Nyda and Dal returned to the club house.

A few minutes later Dal, with a smile of untroubled poise, "cut in" on Bruce Kruger, who was dancing with Billy. She was still pale with fright, but the conventional contact of his arms in the dance made her crazily happy.

"I saw what happened—from the balcony," she whispered, as soon as they had swung away from Bruce. "Why did he do it, Dal?" "Forget all about it, Mignon, my darling," his voice caressed her, but his eyes commanded her. "Banning will not bother me again. He put himself in my power tonight—and someone else, too," he added so softly that she hardly caught the strange, frightening words. But his lips closed in a thin, cruel line, and his narrowed eyes glinted in a way that made her shiver.

(To be continued) Romaine apparently knows something about Nyda that he won't tell and Billy's efforts to get it out of him are in vain.

Drive the "70"
and you'll truly appreciate "70" Leadership

ONCE you have thrilled to the Chrysler "70's" responsiveness which neverfailingly swishes you into the lead—

Once you have enjoyed its lithe ease and smoothness that makes seventy on the speedometer seem as effortless as thirty-five—

Once you have felt its instant obedience to your slightest touch on the steering wheel, its relaxing comfort, and the assurance of its hydraulic four-wheel brakes—

You'll understand why the sweeping public preference for the "70" has made every other motor car builder in its price field strive to equal the marvelous performance which has built Chrysler's great reputation.

Allow us to place a "70" at your disposal for a real demonstration—you to select the route and to drive, if you wish, in the way you are accustomed to drive.

U. S. Chinese Policy Is Analyzed By Observers

Administration Not Concerned About Its Foreign Policy

Editor's Note: Tientsin has two famous "fighting editors" who are known throughout China. They are H. G. W. Woodhead of the Pekin & Tientsin Times, and Charles James Fox of the North China Star. Woodhead is British, Dr. Fox is American, and the product of their typewriters brings memories of those heated days when Greeley scrawled philippics in New York.

The United Press asked these editors to give their ideas on "America in China" for parallel presentation. The result appears below. Woodhead's article was written both for the United Press and for his own paper, and it has been cut somewhat to conform with space requirements, but it is believed the full sense has been retained. Dr. Fox's article appears as written specially for the United Press.

By CHARLES JAMES FOX, Editor The North China Star. Two of the numerous causes of the present quite unsatisfactory condition of Sino-American official relations ought to be especially emphasized at this time, in the hope that publicity will bring the relief we all desire. First, the protocol powers in Pekin are attempting to function as a Little League of Nations in which one or more of the predominating powers try to use the organization to further their own individual ends. The United States is not a member of the League of Nations, and from a legal, as well as from a political standpoint, she should not regard herself as a member of Pekin's league of protocollans. The protocol of 1901 was never ratified by the United States senate and therefore has not in American law the status of a treaty.

Furthermore, just as foreign statesmen failed to understand that President Wilson could not bind the United States to the league, or to league policies, so foreign diplomats in Pekin fail to appreciate that the American minister, however good his intentions may be, cannot bind the American government, or especially the American nation, to any policy of joint action in this country, such as armed intervention to which the consent of the American congress would really be necessary. Mr. MacMurray tries hard to work with his protocol colleagues and sometimes even to lead them in the direction Great Britain, or some other power, wishes to go, but unfortunately, or otherwise, Mr. MacMurray cannot deliver the goods, and gets criticized, here and at home, both for trying and for his failure.

Second, the present "boishevik peril" out here that is causing such fear, feigned or otherwise, among several of the protocol legations, is regarded as a joke, or "bullshevism," by a large section of the American public. The S. O. S. of the legation on the red peril, throughout China in general and in the legation quarter in particular, has apparently been received in the United States in the same spirit in which the American public laughed at the famous "red flag" on the white house warning issued by former Secretary of State Hughes several years ago.

From the best information I am able to obtain it was the American minister who took the most active part in inducing the Chinese in Pekin to raid the Russian embassy, with the British minister, the main instigator, remaining quietly behind the scenes, and the Dutch minister, the dean of the diplomatic corps, giving the actual permission. The Japanese minister is said to have been quite lukewarm on the proposition.

But, however effective it may have been in Pekin diplomacy or politics, the red peril is not taken seriously in America, according to all indications received out here.

By H. G. W. WOODHEAD, C. B. E., Editor The Pekin & Tientsin Times.

The American administration is less concerned with the situation in China than with the prospects of the republican party in the presidential campaign of 1928. For two years or more the American people have been "doped" regarding the China situation. They have been led to believe that the present upheaval is a genuinely nationalist movement, free from bolshevik influences, and that "foreign imperialism" and the "unequal treaties" lie at the root of China's troubles. And so we have witnessed in Washington, a policy expiring in its flabbiness and indecision. It seems, indeed, as if a Washington journal which suggests that "as soon as the Americans can be withdrawn from China they should be withdrawn," reflects the views of those who at the moment control America's foreign policy. It is not surprising, in the circumstances, that those Americans in China, who imagined that they were living and pursuing their daily avocations under treaty rights, and the protection of their government, have become indignant at the latter's passivity. They perhaps find it difficult to understand why the administration should adopt a strong hand in Nicaragua, where there have been no such series of outrages as have occurred in China, while apparently regarding wholesale evacuation as the only policy in this country.

Americans—business and professional men, missionaries, etc., owe the fact that they have been able to reside and pursue their lawful avocations in China entirely to the so-called "unequal treaties." But, they did not secure these treaties by force but by semi-parasitism. Except for Mukden and Antung—the opening of which to foreign trade was provided for in the Sino-American commercial treaty of 1901, not a single one of the 50 towns in which foreigners are permitted to reside and trade was opened by virtue of an agreement between America and China. American envoys followed in the wake of the victorious armies and fleets of other powers, and without sharing in the risks and hazards of war, secured from the Chinese the same (or similar) privileges as those which had been won by other governments.

Canton, Shanghai, Tientsin and Hankow were all opened to foreign (including American) residence and trade by British treaties; Nanking by a French treaty. American business, missionary, educational and other interests in China have been founded and built up on rights secured by Britain and France over 80 years ago. And though a great majority of American business men appreciate this, and resent the parasitical attitude of many of their lesser-instructed countrymen who boast of their government's righteousness in refraining from demanding concessions,

American Legion Boys from Ranger At Coleman Meet

Ranger was well represented at the quarterly convention of the seventeenth district of American Legion, convening in Coleman today.

Among the members of Carl Barnes post who went were Al Tune, Felton, Julius Krause, L. R. McPherson, H. O. Pope and Max Starr. Post Commander Brashier said Saturday there would probably be others going and also stated that he had received a wire that the chicken dinner-gold fish banquet had been postponed until the next meeting, which will be in Abilene in August, so the buddies won't have to eat goldfish today.

This is the six-cylinder Sport Cabriolet that has taken the nation by storm. But there's nothing strange in that. Its vivid beauty places it in the very front rank of America's smartest cars. And its famous six-cylinder engine provides all the spirit and dash and stamina that such a swanky type requires.

Spanish leather upholstery inside the cab and in the spacious rumble seat as well. Appointments that are unobtrusively rich. And a truly arresting color scheme—Brevoort Green fenders, top and quarters; Cherokee Gray Duco on body and hood; orange striping for brilliant contrast.

Never in any low-priced six has the appeal of the intimate closed car type been so admirably expressed! Never has any six of the type provided such commanding value! For here are all the basic advantages of Pontiac quality, endurance and economy, plus a smartness and style you cannot resist at a price that cannot be matched.

ANNOUNCING The Senior Line A REMARKABLE NEW SIX by DODGE BROTHERS

Another Page Turns in Dodge Brothers History

A new line of Sixes by Dodge Brothers is presented to the public today.

It has been rumored, and hoped, for years that Dodge Brothers would ultimately produce such a line—more refined and, of course, higher in cost than their present car.

To combine the sturdy worth of Dodge Brothers standard product with those refinements which greater cost permits, could not fail, it was conceded, to produce a motor car of unique distinction and fitness.

The Senior Line is Dodge Brothers answer to this demand—and Dodge Brothers have answered well.

These are remarkable cars. Brilliantly vital and alive—surprisingly quiet—impressively smart. And built, like all Dodge Brothers motor cars, for years of dependable service.

See one and drive it and you will marvel that performance of this quality and character could be provided at a price so low.

MAYFIELD TO URGE NEW FEDERAL BUILDINGS RANGER-EASTLAND

Deeming that the time had come when a new federal building for Ranger is in order, the junior United States senator from Texas, Earle B. Mayfield, at a banquet given in his honor at the Gholson hotel in Ranger, Friday night said, "I believe that you ought to have a better post-office. The present one is a disgrace to the city. I am not long on promises. I had rather surprise you than disappoint you. I'll put my shoulder to your shoulder—fight together with you and do everything possible not to disappoint you."

He had seen the postoffice at Eastland and classed it along with the Ranger postoffice building and reacted to the fact that Eastland as well as Ranger needed a new federal building.

At a banquet which terminated the social events of a day that began at 7 o'clock Friday morning when a party of Ranger men and women met Senator and Mrs. Mayfield in Abilene, drove them to Ranger, thence to Breckenridge for lunch, and then to Cisco and Eastland, forty-one Ranger men and women were present to extend the hospitality of Ranger to the distinguished couple.

Mayor John Thurman, as master of ceremonies, introduced Dr. Harry Logsdon, who after briefly outlining the many good things that Senator Mayfield stands for, expressed the appreciation of the citizens of Ranger for the opportunity of having Senator and Mrs. Mayfield as guests in Ranger and accorded them a most hearty welcome.

Senator Mayfield expressed his appreciation not only of the courtesies shown, but for the nice things that Dr. Logsdon had said about him. "It's a pleasure to a public official," the senator said. "There is an opportunity to serve and the greatest thing in the world is service. When a fellow goes among his people and gets treatment like we have received here, it makes things worthwhile. You've been very kind to us and hearts are full of love to the Ranger people."

Then came the talk about the post-office and every Rangerite present felt most kindly toward the speaker as he dangled before their eyes the possibility of his help toward a new postoffice.

Immediately after dinner the senatorial party was driven to the Methodist church, where the speaking was held, and after a word of prayer by Rev. G. D. Robison, Mayor Thurman introduced Leroy Pearson, who in turn presented Senator Mayfield. Mr. Pearson said that he thought it was a rare privilege for Ranger to have as its guest for an entire day a man of national prominence like Senator Mayfield, whose name for the past twenty years has been linked with the affairs of our country.

Senator Mayfield's subject was "Divine Providence Revealed in the History of America," and standing on that thin dividing line between statesmanship and ministry, he took for his text, "Blessed is the Nation Whose God is Jehovah," and with a masterful touch he took his audience back to the days when Columbus looked on his voyage as a missionary journey and painted again that picture of the brave navigator erecting an altar on the coast of an unknown country and proclaiming it for the Christ, as his first act in the new land.

"Our nation has been blessed because she has her origin in Divine Providence and the United States is the last and noblest effort of Divine Providence in the human race."

"The Pilgrim fathers did not come to America in search of gold, but they came in search of God and the first building in the United States was a church. It has been truly said that the Declaration of Independence is the greatest article ever written since the Magna Charta," the speaker said, and then came down to history a bit nearer home when he spoke of our government's treatment to Spain in the Spanish American war, to China in the Boxer rebellion and of the part it played in the World War.

"When I saw the Stars and Stripes waving in the breeze as we came into Ranger this morning, my heart throbbled with emotion as it always does at the sight of the flag. It has never trailed in defeat for the flag has always stood for everything good and true in the world."

He took each of the colors of the flag and told what they stood for, the red in the flag for courage, the blue for loyalty and the white for purity, and after a wonderful tribute to the flag before which every American stands in reverence, he added: "The flag stands for the principles of the Christian religion—courage, loyalty and purity."

Commenting upon some of the legislation which he sponsored during the session of Congress recently adjourned, Senator Mayfield said:

"Of course, I am disappointed that my railroad bill, permitting existing carriers to make extensions without being required to secure the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, did not pass the house, however, I feel sure the measure will be enacted into law by the next congress."

"I secured the adoption of an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill that directs the secretary of agriculture to make a study in the potential uses of cotton and its by products, including new and additional commercial and scientific uses. The department of agriculture is now conducting that investigation and hopes to bring about an increased utilization of cotton. Undoubtedly the surest way to decrease the surplus of cotton is to bring about its increased consumption, and under my amendment this is what the department of agriculture will make an effort to do. By wrapping the cotton crop of the south in cotton bagging made of low grade cotton instead of jute bagging, and by using cotton sacks instead of burlap sacks in which to ship rice, potatoes, sugar, cement, meat and all such commodities, it is estimated that we can find a market for at least 2,000,000 bales of low-grade cotton.

"Under the terms of the cotton classification act, relating to surplus or carry-over cotton, of which I was the author, the secretary of agriculture will make a survey of all the surplus cotton in the United States and will issue three annual reports as to grades and staple length of cotton. Under this law the low-grade or dog tail cotton, which is untenderable under the law on future contracts, and which so seriously affects the price of good cotton, will be separated from the high-grade, commercial spinnable cotton, which is tenderable under the law on future contracts."

Senator and Mrs. Mayfield spent Friday night in Ranger and left early Saturday morning for Fort Worth where the senator had an engagement at 10 o'clock.

A car for her, too!

In thousands of average American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives away to work.

And women find in Chevrolet a remarkably comfortable car. Long semi-elliptic springs extend over 88% of the wheelbase—providing easy riding over any road. The large, deeply cushioned seats are set at the most comfortable angle. Turnstet window regulators and remote control door handles are further fine car conveniences that women appreciate.

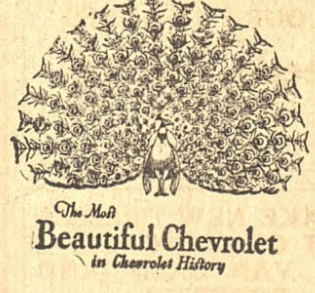

And the family car has such an infinite degree of usefulness! Downtown shopping, taking the children to school, afternoon calls, meeting trains—and the many additional trips that must be made to and from the house as a part of every day's routine.

No other car is so admirably suited to a woman's requirements as the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

With striking new bodies by Fisher, and finished in pleasing colors of lustrous, lasting Duco, it provides in abundant measure the comfort, charm and elegance that women admire in a motor car. It is easy to start because of its Delco-Remy electric starting system—famous the world over for its excellence. It is easy to stop because of powerful, over-size brakes. And it is easy to drive and park because of a modern three-speed transmission, smooth-acting disc clutch, and a semi-reversible steering gear.

The remarkable economy of Chevrolet ownership is another vital reason for Chevrolet's wide and increasing popularity. Extremely low first cost, exceptionally high fuel and oil mileage and the very minimum of upkeep expense—all combine to make Chevrolet a car of outstanding economy.

Visit our showrooms and see the Most Beautiful Chevrolet. Note the wide variety of body types. Mark their sweeping lines and carefully executed details. Resale Values Help Chrysler Dealers Sales

One of the explanations assigned by Chrysler officials for the phenomenal demand which their cars have met ever since their first appearance and which this spring is breaking all company records is their high resale value in the used car market. That this resale value is a general characteristic of automobile conditions in all parts of the country, the officials declare.

KING GEORGE 62 EMPIRE JOINS CELEBRATION

By United Press.
LONDON, June 4.—Almost every man, woman and child in the United Kingdom was reminded that yesterday King George celebrated his sixty-second birthday, by the firing of royal salutes from guns which boomed in London and by troops reviews which took place throughout the country.

Also, in honor of the king's birthday, the Union Jack and the Royal Standard flew from the flagstaves of every government and public building throughout over 13,000,000 square miles of territory composing the British empire.

Hundreds of telegrams of congratulation poured in all morning from notabilities all over the world, including messages from foreign kings, queens and presidents, which kept the king busy from the time he arose for breakfast.

Attendants at the palace spent most of the morning and were kept on the run throughout the rest of the day, announcing official visits being paid by practically every diplomat in London, on behalf of their respective governments, and many members of Britain's higher ranking nobility.

Although the king is taking his usual active interest in the public celebration of his birthday this year, the intimacy which even royal husbands and fathers long for was his only late in the evening, after a strenuous day of watching other people enjoy the holiday which is granted them but is denied him.

Oakland Factory Uses Light Beam To Get Balance

Instruments, once confined to the laboratories of the scientists, are now found as every day working tools in some of the finer automobile factories, so exacting have become their measurement and fit requirements, in their endeavor to whip vibration and lengthen the life of wearing parts.

With higher standards have come closer limits of fit and balance. The ten-thousandth of an inch supersedes the thousandth and the thousandth replaces the hundredth which has necessitated new scientific instruments to gauge the finer limits and assure the results expected.

One among the many scores of scientific devices used in measuring the close limit operations in Oakland six factories is the crankshaft vibration balancing machine, an instrument which uses a light beam under octagonal prism glass to measure the unbalanced condition and to indicate its location and amount at any point on the crankshaft.

For years the light beam has been used for experimental work in fine limits in the scientific laboratories because a light beam will pass through the most minute opening—an opening which can neither be seen nor determined by any other type gauge.

Thus as the crankshaft spins in its testing machine, the operator detects the exact point where the vibration is set up and by grinding a few minute grains of steel from a point that brings the crankshaft into almost vibrationless travel.

This balance testing instrument is a development of the General Motors Research division and the Oakland division is pioneer in its use in factory production.

Some idea of the ruthless demand of engineers for more severe limits may be appreciated when it is told that 33 operations in Oakland six engine parts are rigidly held within three ten-thousandths of an inch, 30 operations within five ten-thousandths, more than 140 within one thousandth and more than 200 within two thousandths of an inch.

Ranger Rejoices That Mrs. McCoy Will Sing Here

When it became known in Ranger that Laura Townsley McCoy formerly of Ranger, would appear on the chautauqua program this year, the chautauqua took on a new meaning for Ranger people. An opportunity to hear Laura McCoy sing is one that every Rangerite grasps, as was demonstrated when she sang at Breckenridge recently with Madame Schumann-Heink.

Ranger is watching with great interest the flight of its little songbird, and it is rumored that while she is in

LAURA TOWNSLEY MCCOY
Sensational Prima Donna with
"The Firefly."

Ranger this time something very nice in the way of entertaining her will be done, and maybe more.

Laura McCoy is the prima donna in "The Firefly" a beautiful opera that follows right in the footsteps of "Rose Marie" and "The Vagabond King."

Some of the songs "Love is Like a Firefly," "Giannina Mia" and "The Dawn of Love," are recalled with thrilling heartbeats.

Laura McCoy appears as "Nina" and is an enchanting figure and with her lovely soprano voice sings her way into the hearts of her audience.

The little prima donna lived in Ranger during the boom days and she claims that while she had always sang she found her voice in Ranger and that since leaving here it has grown, as is evident to her friends who almost went wild with joy when she was chosen by the great Madame Schumann-Heink as her assisting artist and acclaimed by her in public as a singer with a great future.

For the second time this spring Laura McCoy will come back and sing for Ranger and for the second time this spring, Ranger will welcome her and lavish courtesies upon her.

"The Firefly" will be the concluding number of a most splendid chautauqua week, which promises to be one of the best weeks ever enjoyed in Ranger during the stay of a chautauqua. All other numbers on the program are on the same high plane of talent as is "Firefly."

Maybe Secretary Mellon decided to cut down the size of paper money just for the change.

Fair Store Buyer Goes to Eastern Markets Sunday

His mother, Mrs. Starr, Sr., and sister, Mrs. Lash and her son, Marshall, will accompany Mr. Starr on his trip.

---THE PURPOSES

OF OUR ASSOCIATION

ARE TWO-FOLD

When you send a garment to one of our members for cleaning, you are going to get it back in as good condition as the combined knowledge of our members can produce. We never hesitate to ask each other for advice.

We believe that in the exchange of ideas and information we not only benefit each other but benefit the patron as well.

WE EXCHANGE

OTHER INFORMATION

As a protective precaution we also exchange credit information. From experience, we have learned that a patron often, for various reasons, will change from one cleaner to another, and overlook payment of his account with the former cleaner.

This is not treating the former cleaner right, and, therefore, we unhesitatingly condemn such practice. To impress the public with our sincerity, the association authorizes this statement:

NONE OF OUR MEMBERS WILL KNOWINGLY OPEN A NEW ACCOUNT SO LONG AS THE PROSPECTIVE PATRON IS IN DEBT TO ONE OF THE OTHER MEMBERS.
