FROM THE BIBLE
The Lord is Near.—The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit. Psalm 34:18.
Prayer.—May we, O God, ever be conscious of Thy presence and offer to Thee the sacrifices of a broken spirit, a broken and a contrite heart, O God, Thou wilt not despise.

THE VISITING HOUSEKEEPER.
The "visiting nurse" has become an established institution. Now comes the "visiting housekeeper". She can come into a home when it is temporarily upset by the absence of the mother or other regular housekeeper, take charge and carry on until the family straightens out.

An institution in Brooklyn, N. Y., has started this innovation, offering to supply competent housekeepers on request, to serve as long as they are needed.

There ought to be a demand in any community for such services, especially in this age when mother is assuming so many different activities, and when sickness and travel interfere so often with the domestic machinery.

There ought to be plenty of available material, too, if it were once thoroughly understood that there was nothing menial or undignified about such service. Any difficulty of that sort should soon straighten itself out, if persons of the right type and training were supplied.

It requires no mean ability on the part of any person to step into a strange household, take up the reins and run it smoothly and efficiently. The job should be respected accordingly. And in more homes than would be willing to admit it, such a visitor might contribute ideas and methods of great value, if the family were willing to learn.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

England
London and Paris are both plentifully supplied with drug stores, but, if you cannot find one and need to ask your way of a London policeman, ask him for a "pharmacy." The same word pronounced in a French and written "pharmacie" will result in a Paris "agent" leading you to the nearest druggist.

If you want the waiter to bring you the bill of fare in an English restaurant, show your knowledge of French and ask for the "menu." This tip will, of course, serve you equally well in Paris or London.

American shoppers will, when in London, do well to remember that the king's English for "store" is "shop."

Remember that in England you will be given pound "notes" in exchange for the required number of dollar "bills." In Paris you will also receive "notes" but principally from your hotel cashier and porter, whose bills they represent. The result of this mixup is that in London five-dollar bills always will more than pay for a one-pound note, whereas in Paris the "note" for a one-day stay at a first class hotel is seldom settled with as little as five-dollar bills.

Little Joanna Barrett is Dead At Fort Worth

News has come to Ranger friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Barrett, formerly of Ranger, now of Breckenridge, that their little 10-year-old daughter, Joanna, died Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a Fort Worth sanitarium.

The little girl will be buried this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Greenwood cemetery, Fort Worth.

The greater part of Joanna Barrett's life was spent in Ranger, as she came here with her parents in 1921 and only left here this spring, when her father, who was manager of the Ranger office of the Texas-Louisiana Power company, was made district manager and moved to headquarters of the company in Breckenridge.

The illness that terminated in her death extended back over a number of months during which time every thing possible was done to relieve a heart affection suffered by the little girl.

Rev. W. H. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ranger will conduct the funeral services at the Harveson-Cole funeral home in Fort Worth.

C. A. Reeves, manager of the local gas office and a brother of Mrs. Barrett's, also attended the funeral services.

Secretary Back From Convention At Port Arthur

Mrs. Alice True is again in her Ranger office after her trip to the 27th annual convention of the Retail Merchants association which was held jointly with the associated Retail Credit men of Texas, and the Texas Retail Secretaries association at Port Arthur, May 23 to 25th. She spent a few days with her mother at Decatur on her return to Fort Worth.

Several hundred secretaries and delegates, a number of very noted lecturers and speakers on "Credits and Credit Work," wonderful entertainment and bushels of mosquitoes, all tended to make the trip very interesting and one long to be remembered, she said.

Some very interesting addresses were given by Senator Earl B. Mayfield, George Mendell of Austin, general counsel of the R. M. A. of Texas and others, also a very interesting address on "Farm Problems" by Miss Susan London of Dallas, representing the Texas Farm bureau cotton association.

The annual convention in May, 1928 will be held at Wichita Falls.

R. R. VACUUM CLEANER DOES SECTION GANG JOB

By United Press.
BOSTON, May 28.—Thanks to the inventive genius of one Walter M. Spring, local research engineer, American railroad soon may benefit from a novel device which resembles nothing so much as the vacuum cleaner.

The invention, described by Spring as an "automatic cleaner," has been designed for use on trap rock railroad beds in the removal of cinders and refuse, thus sparing railroads the enormous expense of having this work done by hand.

The cleaner consists of three galvanized iron suction chambers that would overhang the rear of the flat car to which it was attached. These chambers feed into a main chamber which, in turn, is connected with a large metal suction chamber containing a powerful fan operated by a 70-horsepower motor.

General use by the railroads of the invention would effect an annual saving of some $6,000,000, Spring believes.

Treasure Hunt Is Being Staged Now In Peking, China

By United Press.
PEKING.—A true Tom Sawyer buried treasure hunt is in progress within the secret walls of the Purple Forbidden City of Peking—a hunt for fifty golden bars which cost the lives of two lovely concubines of the Emperor Kwang Hsu.

An aged Chinese woman who, thirty years ago, was attendant to the two concubines is teller of the tale which led to this search.

According to her story as told to officials of the Palace Museum, the late Empress Dowager who is famed as China's last strong ruler, and who ruled the weakling Kwang Hsu with the proverbial rod of iron, resorted to sale of office to gratify her desire for funds with which to carry out such projects as the building of the New Summer Palace west of Peking.

This demoralized the whole Imperial Household, and two concubines accepted a bribe of fifty golden bars from an official of Fukien province.

Learning of this, the Empress summoned the concubines and demanded the golden bars. Upon being refused, a refusal made worse by the concubines' counter-charge that she herself had spent them a bad example, the Empress ordered them into close confinement and subsequently caused them to commit suicide just before the flight of the Court when the foreign Boxer Delief Force arrived in 1900.

The woman who tells the story was then a girl of nineteen, and she, as attendant to the two captives, helped them conceal the booty. Several buildings have been constructed on the site and initial search has been unavailing, but, with the promise of three gold bars as reward if the treasure is found, the woman is helping in a vigorous hunt.

Banner Ice Cream Company Has Its Big Day Saturday

In Ranger Saturday something besides the mercury in various thermometers in the city made new records. It was the banner day in the history of the Banner Ice Cream company as it put out the largest volume of ice cream for any one day in the history of the company.

Saturday was a hot day. Drug stores were flocked with people trying to forget the heat by partaking of ice cream and other cold drinks. Ice cream cones by the hundreds were consumed. At a picnic in Cisso 300 gallons of Banner Ice Cream was consumed.

Ice cream was a favorite dinner dish in many homes in the oil belt and its innings kept pace with old Sol.

The Banner Ice Cream company is furnishing practically all of the surrounding territory with ice cream and ships daily a large volume to its various customers, but Saturday broke all previous records.

The company met the demand and nobody who had wanted ice cream failed to get it.

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE CO.

"Death Valley Scotty" Hits Pay Dirt, Hires Special Los Angeles to Chicago

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer
LOS ANGELES, May 30.—"Death Valley Scotty" is coming down from the mountains once more, a wild gleam in his eyes and an unquenchable desire for an old-time bender in his breast.

"Death Valley Scotty," otherwise known as Walter Scott, is one of the last of the old school of prospectors.

He lives in the desolate crags up behind the famous Death Valley, where he has a modest ranch that serves as his base of operations. Civilization sees him only at very rare intervals; most of his time is spent on secret prospecting trips through the wilds of eastern California and southwestern Nevada, where, from time to time, he makes a fabulous strike.

Out For a Thrill.

At such times he shakes off his isolation and heads for the flesh pots of Egypt while all the west marvels, agape. This is one of those times.

Scott proposes to travel from Los Angeles to Chicago on a special train in less time than any other train ever covered the distance. He has chartered a Santa Fe train, consisting of locomotive, baggage car, diner and Pullman, and insists the trip be made in exactly 38 hours—25 hours less than the fastest time on record.

The trip will start at 2 p. m. on July 4. At 4 in the morning of July 6 it will reach Chicago providing that its unheard of speed has not caused it to leave the rails and deposit its passengers in another and more distant destination.

Railroad officials didn't want to agree to a 38-hour schedule, but Scotty held out.

"They wanted me to make the trip 'as fast as is safe,'" Scotty explained. "There's no point in doing that. It wouldn't be any fun. Why, if I wanted to ride as fast as it is safe I could ride like a gentleman in one of their regular trains for $150."

This little trip will cost Scotty $25,000. He will ride alone, unless, as he says, "any newspaper reporters are crazy enough to travel with me."

The distance from Los Angeles to Chicago is 2365 miles. To cover this in 38 hours the train must average 59.6 miles an hour, including stops. This means that most of the run must be made at a speed of 90 or 100 miles an hour—or higher. Considering that more than half of the route lies over mountains where the tracks twist and turn dizzily, such a speed is pretty near suicidal. But Scotty must have excitement.

"I'm not promoting anything and I'm not trying to sell anything," he says. "I'm going to make this trip just for the fun of it. Living up in the desert as I do, I have to have a little excitement once in a while."

An Epic Trip.

Some 20 years ago Scotty did the same thing. That time he made the run in a little over 44 hours, clipping nearly 24 hours off the regular schedule. That trip has become an epic among old-timers and town dizzies, what with Scotty's penchant for giving $10 tips and all.

Scotty is proud of the fact that during his career he has made—and spent—more than $4,000,000. He is something of a mystery, this hard-bitten old prospector. His sources of wealth are more or less secret. At times he is flat broke, but sooner or later he makes another strike and comes down to Los Angeles with his pockets bulging with $50 bills, which he spends as if they were too hot to hold.

Just now he is said to have a platinum mine somewhere. But whatever he has, he is making money out of it—money that he will toss away on a grand and glorious fling, after which he will disappear once more into the fastness behind Death Valley to toil and struggle until the next time.

There's such a thing as being too lucky. A New York man drew eight aces in a pinochle game, and dropped dead.

"Death Valley" Walter Scott

EARLY PRODUCTION OF NEW FORD CAR EXPECTED, SUPERIOR IN LINE

DETROIT—Early production of a new Ford car superior in design and performance to any now available in the low-priced, light-car field, was announced today by the Ford Motor company.

Henry Ford, designer of the car, and Edsel Ford, president of the company, both stated that within the next few weeks they will give a complete description of the new model.

The famous Model T Ford, which still leads the automobile industry after twenty years of manufacture, will continue to be a substantial factor in Ford production, in view of the fact that about ten million cars of this model are still in use and will require replacement parts and service.

"The Model T Ford car was a pioneer," said Henry Ford today. "There was no conscious public need of motor cars when we first made it. There were few good roads. This car blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It is still the pioneer car in many parts of the world which are just beginning to be motorized. But conditions in this country have so greatly changed that further refinement in motor car construction is now desirable and our new model is a recognition of this."

"Besides the Model T itself, another revolutionary element which the Ford Motor Company introduced twenty years ago was the idea of service. Some of the early manufacturers proceeded on the theory that once they had induced a man to buy a car they had him at their mercy; they charged him the highest possible price for necessary replacements. Our company adopted the opposite theory. We believed that when a man bought one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we could and at the lowest upkeep cost. That was the origin of Ford service."

"The Model T was one of the largest factors in creating the conditions now make the new model Ford possible. The world-wide influence of Ford's car in the building of good roads and in teaching the people the use and value of mechanical power is conceded. Nowadays everybody runs some kind of motor power but twenty years ago only the adventurous few could be induced to try an automobile. It took a harder time winning public confidence than the airplane has now. The Model T was a great educator in this respect. It had stamina and power. It was the car that ran before there were good roads to run on. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people of these sections closer together and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are still proud of the Model T car. If we were not we could not have continued to manufacture it so long."

"With the new Ford we propose to continue in the light-car field which we created on the same basis of quantity production we have always worked, giving high quality, low price and constant service. We began work on this new model several years ago. In fact, the idea of a new car has been in my mind much longer than that. But the sale of the Model T continued at such a pace that there never seemed to be an opportunity to get the new car started. Even now the business is so brisk that we are up against the proposition of keeping the factory going on one model while we tool up for another. I am glad of this because it will not necessitate a total shutdown. Only a comparatively few men will be out a time while their departments are being toolled up for the new product. At one time it looked as if 70,000 men might be laid off temporarily, but we have now scaled that down to less than 25,000 at a time. The lay-off will be brief, because we need the men and we have no time to waste.

"At present I can only say this about the new model—it has speed, style, flexibility and control in traffic. There is nothing quite like it in quality and price. The new car will cost more to manufacture, but it will be more economical to operate."

Sister of Andy Anderson Dies In San Antonio

Andy Anderson of Ranger, received a message at 12 o'clock last night advising him of the death of his sister, Miss Jennie Anderson, 37, in San Antonio.

Funeral services will be held at Hallettsville, Texas, the old home of the Anderson family.

Mr. Anderson received the message too late to attend the funeral. This is the third death in the Andy Anderson family within a month. On Saturday before Mother's Day, Mrs. Anderson's mother died suddenly in Electra. After the funeral services, a brother of the deceased woman, remarked that he would be the next to go, and that week passed away at his home in Bowie with a heart attack.

They're Already Slinging Mud On President Cal

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON—The scope of "Coolidge economy" has perhaps only begun to be realized.

The president's policies of thrift are effectively aided by the fact that no one likes to dun him for a bill. Of course, the president figures quite innocently in this situation, for he undoubtedly is glad to square all personal as well as political and governmental accounts, but the fact remains that no one cares to press the chief executive for payment.

It is in such a predicament that the senate postoffice has found itself for several years, ever since Mr. Coolidge, as vice president, was the senate's presiding officer.

As a matter of fact, the president only owes a cent—as the result of a letter that required a postage due stamp—but the senate postoffice is very particular about those things and you can just bet that if any mere senator owed that penny he would long ago have been dunned for it and forced to pay up. Sometimes senators owe the postoffice as much as 85 or 90 cents in postage due charges, but they always have to settle by the time their terms expire.

The senate postoffice doesn't admit that it still has that cent coming from the president, but the fact is learned on unimpeachable authority, and if one of the office force were to take the penny from his own pocket and throw it into the cash till it would be illegal or something.

Furthermore, if President Coolidge remains in office as long as many think he will, the compound interest on that sum, by the time he retires, will amount to a small fortune.

The senate postoffice is still receiving occasional mail for such figures as Mark Hanna and Botes Penrose. The house postoffice similarly receives mail for Uncle Joe Cannon. Inasmuch as these men have gone to their reward, the communications are turned over to Vice President Dawes or Speaker Longworth for determination whether they should be delivered to the men who now hold their seats.

Thousands of people over the country apparently have never been able to distinguish between a United States senator and a state senator. The result is that much mail comes here for state senators who should have been addressed at their state capitals. Thus, the senate postoffice keeps handy a list of all state senators which are checked whenever the senator addressed can't be found in the upper house of congress.

Preparations Made For Encampment By Baptists at Lueders

When you're wrong kiss and make up, a writer advises married couples. But go sparingly on the rouge men, go sparingly.

Wm. Penn—5 Cents—A Good Cigar.

The Lueders Baptist encampment begins July 11 and extends to July 22. For the past three years it has been the largest encampment in Texas in the point of attendance. An extensive Sunday school, B. Y. P. U. and W. M. U. study course has been planned. Some of the ablest speakers in Texas will be on the program.

Dr. Geo. W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist church of Dallas will preach morning and evening. He is claimed to be the world's greatest preacher. Literally thousands flock to hear him wherever he preaches.

Extensive arrangements have been made for the play period. Large sums are being expended on the grounds. Both banks of the river will be open to camps this year, a thing never done before.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Billy Wells, Nyda Lomax and Winnie Shelton, employees of the T. Q. Curtis department store, are taken into their employer's home for one year as his wards, because he wants to help them further ambitions which they have expressed. Billy, who desires to become a concert violinist, is the only one who is sincerely ambitious, the other two having lied to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity. When the girls accidentally learn he intends adopting one of them when the year is up, a battle ensues for his affections. Billy is unwillingly drawn into the secret contest, and this, coupled with her intonation, for Dal Romaine, nephew of Mrs. Meadows, a hostess hired by Curtis, causes her to neglect her violin. Through everything she tenderly remembers Clay Curtis, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family in the poor part of town, working in the Truman factory by day and writing music at night. Dal Romaine makes ardent love to Billy but urges her to keep her romance a secret. He calls on her at times, when Curtis, who dislikes Romaine, and the others are absent. Ralph Truman takes Billy through the automobile factory and there she sees Clay, his sensitive face drawn with nervous agony. She asks Ralph to leave her alone with Clay. She points out to Clay then that there is a certain cadence and rhythm in the noise of the big machinery and that the other men have caught it and are working in harmony. Gradually he hears what she hears bits. I'm going to go back to my music, this very night. Remember what you said about—"The Song of Toit?" His voice was embarrassed but very earnest. "Well, honey, that's going to be the theme of my symphony. I've been crazy to write a symphony, one with a real American theme. Can you imagine it—the marvelous orchestration we can get into a thing called "The Song of Toit?" I'm going to begin writing it. I've had experience with symphonies. Of course you can do it, dear," she told him warmly, her own love tragedy fading into the background for a moment. "And Billy, it came to me 'all of when you were standing there, that I love you with all my heart. I can't talk about it very well, honey, but—maybe you know how I feel—why, I've been in love with you since that very first night when I walked into your house out of the dark and cold, pulled in by the music of your violin. Funny how blind I've been. Why, I didn't know what the matter with me, even when I proposed to you before you went to live at Dad's." "If you'd known then that you loved me, I'd have married you," Billy told him in a voice so low and sad that he could hardly hear the words. They had stopped on a dark corner and Billy leaned weakly against the bulky trunk of an oak tree. "It is too late now, dear," he took her hands and touched her fingers with his lips. "Oh, Billy, I love you so much! Don't you love me at all?" "I did love you, Clay," she answered in an uneven husky voice, for tears were slipping down her cheeks. "I loved you so much that I prayed over you—that night when I held your head in my arms. You remember? I—I prayed, Clay, I prayed you would love me as I loved you. Her voice was dragged with hopelessness. He could not answer her for a moment, but he bowed his head very low above her hands against his heart. "Then, Clay, I—I went away, and something happened to me. I became terribly infatuated with someone else." "Is he such a fool as not to love you?" Clay demanded harshly. "Oh, he loves me—in his way," she acknowledged, wearily, "but it's such a consuming, restless, agonizing thing, this being in love with—with this particular man." She could not utter his name to save her life. "I want to love you again, Clay. Oh, that's not putting it right! The odd thing is that I do love you, underneath this fever, this madness. I am more at peace with you than with anyone else in the world. I want to live with you always, work with you, play music with you, dream with you—" "Then we'll get married, and you'll forget all about this other chap, who doesn't make you happy," Clay laughed exultingly. He kissed her, and she was surprised and ashamed to find that her lips wanted to cling to his, that passion and tenderness surged in her heart for him. But there was none of the wildness of longing with which she clung to Dal Romaine, none of the sharp ecstasy that was compounded of passion and pain and doubt and fear. "We'll get married," he repeated shakily, when he had released her. "I'm making enough now to support us—" "Three of us?" She could not keep the sharp edge of sarcasm off the words. "Oh, Clay, darling, it's no use! I admit I'd marry you tonight if we could manage it, so that I could escape—everything." She was thinking of Dal Romaine, and Winnie—how she hated Winnie Shelton!—and Nyda's snaky venom—that whole house of dreadful intrigue. "I'm making forty-two dollars a week now," he told her stubbornly.

"I've got to go home with you, Clay."

"You and your mother used to get along on twenty-two—" Dal and Annette—Dal and Winnie—Dal and Billy—oh, God! Then she felt that old need for him, for Dal, pulling at her. It seemed to her that she could actually hear his voice calling her. She wanted to shout—"I'm coming, Dal!" Coming! She began to run. She did not realize that she was miles from the Curtis mansion until a taxicab pulled up at the curb and a voice urged her, "Taxi, lady!" When she reached home at last, in a dazed, disheveled condition, a maid handed her a letter. "Mr. Romaine waited and waited for you, Miss Billy, 'nen he left this for you." (To be continued)

Dal Romaine is called away on business. And, oddly, Winnie goes away at the same time for a week end visit.

Don't be a Victim of "Spring Fever" You Can Easily Avoid the Deleterious Effects of the Changing Season. In the Spring, many people find themselves losing appetite, are overcome by a lack of energy, and a run-down feeling takes possession of their whole body. Spring is a great renovating season, when Nature throws off the accumulated impurities and prepares the system for the change it must undergo before merging into the coming Summer. At this time, the energies relax, and an unspeakable languor pervades the entire system, giving that worn-out, good-for-nothing feeling, so commonly called "spring fever." The important thing, therefore, is to put your system in tip-top condition, so as to be able to resist the common ailments so prevalent in Summer. You must build up the tissue and repair the wear that the system has undergone. Now is the time to take S.S.S. It is unequalled for restoring strength, vitality and a keen appetite. You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles; it improves the processes by which the body is nourished, and it is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. Get your S.S.S. at any good drug store. It is sold in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

RANGER LEGION PAYS TRIBUTE TO CARL BARNES

Ranger re-buried her immortal dead today. At ten o'clock members of the American Legion auxiliary, members of the family of the boy who made the supreme sacrifice, a "buddy" who trained with him and a minister, gathered at the grave of Edgar Carl Barnes in Bullock Cemetery and with fitting ceremony reburied the boy who gave his all for his country.

It was impressive and beautiful. A mocking bird singing in a tree just beyond the grave, trilled and warbled just as some of its ancestors trilled and warbled, when Carl Barnes was a barefoot boy dreaming under the big trees on his father's farm near where he now sleeps. Close to the graves of his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnes who died grieving for the one who fell so young. Members of the auxiliary circled around the gray granite marked grave while Mrs. J. B. Heister paid a tribute to the flag, which she then placed in the center of the grave. On one side of the colors for which he died, the Legion and Auxiliary placed a bouquet of carnations and on the other side the family laid a bunch of blood red roses. Then one by one the auxiliary members laid poppies on the mound. Rev. H. B. Johnson said a word of prayer and the brief ceremony was over, but not before all present had rededicated themselves to the memory of the boys who fell in France.

Carl Barnes, as far as is known, is the only world war hero buried in the vicinity of Ranger and his, therefore, was the only grave that was decorated today by the post and the auxiliary, which bears his name.

Carl Barnes never reached France. He did not even have the chance to fight out in the open—but he went down with the Lusitania, on February 5, 1915, and with many others was the victim of that scourge of the sea, a German submarine.

He was born in Ranger and received his education at Bullock, near his father's farm and was the son of one of Eastland county's pioneer families. He entered the service and trained at Camp Travis, and was later transferred to a machine gun company in the 357th infantry.

He was aboard the transport Lusitania on his way to France, when it was sunk off the coast of Scotland and was buried on Scotland soil. His body was later brought to Ranger and placed in the family lot at Bullock with military honors by the post then known as the John Barnes post of Ranger. At the time of the tragedy that cost him and many other Americans their lives he was 25 years old. His grave was the worst. "He made the Supreme Sacrifice."

The Yankee Clipper Is Great Picture At Lamb Theatre

The saying "Britannia rules the sea" has been repeated so many times and for so many years that it has become an adage. Undoubtedly it was true, when it first came into use. But the fact remains that, for a score of years or more, the United States ruled the seas, at least so far as commerce was concerned. This was the period immediately preceding the Civil War, the era of the American clipper ship. For more than a quarter of a century the American flag was supreme on the high seas. It is this era that is so graphically portrayed in "The Yankee Clipper," a remarkable picture production by Rupert Julian, supervised by C. Gardner Sullivan, for the Cecil B. DeMille Pictures corporation. It features William Boyd, Elinor Fair, Walker Long and Junior Coghlan and will be on view at the Lamb theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. The supporting company embraces many notable players of the screen.

That was the age when there was romance on the seas, when great ships, looking like white clouds with their enormous spreads of canvas, carried the American flag and American products to practically every port in the world. There was beauty, romance and glamour in life on the seas in those days. Also there were hard work, hard men and hard living. Then came the "ten kettles" with their iron hulls and engines, and the great white birds vanished before their utilitarian ugliness.

Ranger Observes Memorial Day, Displays Flags

Memorial day is being observed in Ranger today by flags flying at half mast as a token that Ranger has not forgotten those heroes whose blood for centuries has been spilled for liberty.

The postoffice was closed and a memorial service at the grave of Ranger's world war hero, Carl Barnes was the most outstanding feature of the day.

As a forerunner of the day, Ranger bought poppies to the amount of $114.50 on Saturday from the women of the American Legion auxiliary.

RANGER WOMAN'S FATHER DEAD IN OKLAHOMA

Mr. Grossman of Walters, Okla., and father of Mrs. Pete Jensen of Ranger, died Sunday at Norman, Okla.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jensen in Ranger were advised of his passing yesterday. The deceased has been an invalid for some time, and it was the habit of the Jensens to motor to Oklahoma every few weeks to visit the sick man and his wife, so on this week end visit, death came and released the sufferer.

Lion Club Show Promises Big Entertainment

"The Hit of the Year," is the way Lions club show at the Liberty theatre Thursday night is being billed, and offering the variety of entertainment that it does, it will surely be the hit of the year.

When the major part of this show was given at Weatherford for the Lions club there, Miss Florence Aliea Palmer kept her audience enthralled while she was presenting her dance. Miss Palmer is the daughter of Dr. W. C. Palmer, a past president of the Lions club and is a talented young dancer, having studied with some of the leading dancing teachers of Kansas City before coming to Ranger.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion F. Peters will repeat their one act playlet, "The Time Table." It is filled with such realism that one might think that the players came on the stage to do their act and then got into one of those friendly exchanges of sarcasm that so often happens to married people—you know.

These with five other acts go to make up the show. In the "Five Birds Going West," it is hard to say just what kind of a bird Paul Lacey represents. He sings in a beautiful tenor voice that is somewhat foreign to any of the feathered tribe, and his natural playfulness aided and abetted by his deceiving make up is enough to provoke laughter from the proverbial wooden Indian.

Negro Shack In Ranger Destroyed By Fire Sunday

Added to the blistering heat of Sunday afternoon was a fire down in the flats of Ranger, just off Cherry street. A negro shack, belonging to A. C. Rice was totally destroyed, together with its contents, about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The fire department did good work in preventing the blaze from spreading to other houses as close at 10 feet to the blazing frame and beaver-board structure.

The negro who lived in the shack is known as "Slim" and is porter at the Hodges Motor company. He and his family were sitting on the front porch when they discovered that the house was on fire.

It is thought that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in a closed up storeroom, which was a part of the house.

An estimate of the loss was not obtainable this morning.

RANGER PARTY RETURNS FROM FISHING TRIP

"We caught some pretty big cat fish," J. C. Smith of the J. C. Smith company, Ranger, said today on return from a week's fishing and camping trip in the Devil's river country. They also fished in the Pecos river near where it empties into the Rio Grande.

In the party besides Mr. Smith were W. L. McCullough, W. B. Trammell and James Smith.

Casting off his eight-year-old solid tires, the combination truck of the Ranger fire department has had its wheels cut down and fitted with brand new pneumatic tires.

I SUPPOSE THIS GIANT CAME TO THE HOME OF
ONE OF YOU BOYS, AND CARRIED OFF YOUR BROTHERS AND SISTERS, AND PERHAPS DE-STROYED YOUR HOME. DON'T YOU THINK YOUR FATHER AND MOTHER WOULD FEEL VERY BADLY OVER IT.

YOU BOYS HAVE CARRIED AWAY THE LITTLE BIRDS' HOME, AND THE EGGS YOU
TOOK WOULD SOON HAVE BEEN LITTLE YOUNG BIRDS. DON'T YOU THINK THE BIRDS FEEL VERY SAD WITH THE HOME
THAT THEY HAVE WORKED SO HARD TO BUILD GONE?

WE NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT,
SLIM.

THERE SLIM, TH' NEST IS BACK, JUST AS IT WAS BEFORE, AND TH' EGGS ARE THERE, TOO.

ATTA BOY,
TOMMY!

THERE, BOYS IS A LITTLE SURPRISE I'VE BEEN SAVING FOR YOU.
WE'LL PUT THEM UP IN THE TREES NOW.

CHEE-WHIZ!
BIRD-HOUSES!

LOOK, BOYS!
THE BIRDS ARE ALREADY COMING TO THOSE WE HAVE PUT UP.

CHEE!

HOW'S THAT,
SLIM?

THAT'S JUST FINE!

HEY, SLIM,
LOOK!

HALT!
YOU ORNERY
PEST!

HIT IT UP KIDS!
I KNOW WHERE WE CAN GIVE 'EM
DE SLIP!

SH-H-H!
KIDS!

DAGNAB IT!
I'D LIKE TO KNOW
WHERE THAT LONG-LEGGED EEL GOT TO!
