Oil Production Shows Increase During The Week

The Eastland, Brown and Callahan county areas of the Central West Texas district saw an increased production of both oil and gas during the past week.

The Moody corporation's Dyer No. 1, in Eastland county and near the Eastland, Shackelford and Callahan county lines, is making 38 barrels per hour from a depth of 3,843 to 3,883 feet. This well opens a new pool and is creating much interest in that section.

The Mid-Kansas Oil company has a 70-barrel producer on the Waldrop tract, in the southeastern portion of Eastland county.

The Briden well, five miles northwest of the Gordon pool, in the northwestern portion of Eastland county, is estimated making 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas at a depth of 914 feet in the Ranger pay.

T. E. Davis et al.'s J. D. Harwell No. 1, Callahan county, is making 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas from a depth of 914 feet.

P. E. Hill's L. L. Childress No. 1, Brown county, is making 647,000 cubic feet of gas and three barrels of oil from a depth of 914 feet.

Applications for permits to drill 13 new wells in the Central West Texas district, seven in Brown county, three in Callahan and three in Coleman county, were filed with the deputy oil and gas supervisor for May 18 and 19.

Braves Ocean Hop Alone

Captain Charles Lindbergh, youthful air pilot who took off from Roosevelt field this morning in his monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, on his attempted flight from New York to Paris. Young Lindbergh took off in the gray dawn, saying to a friend at the side of his plane, "Don't worry a bit, I expect to be in Paris tomorrow safe and sound." Lindbergh's nerve, who is only 25, has astounded and delighted aeronautic enthusiasts.

CHINESE ARMORED RAILROAD TRAINS IN NOVEL TUG OF WAR

By RANDALL GOULD, United Press Staff Correspondent.
PEKIN.—A locomotive duel in which "the best engine won" and resulted in an armored train as its prize. This is the engagingly modern novelty introduced into Chinese warfare by contending factions in Honan province, according to the tale brought to Pekin by officials of the Ankuochun, Marshal Chang Tso-lin's united northern forces.

It all happened on the fighting front near Chengchow, where a Cantonese armored train had been making daily expeditions up and down the Pekin-Hankow main track and harassing the northerners with its Krupp gun. The northerners had a train too, but it was under repair in the Chengchow yards.

One misty morning, without the knowledge of the southerners, the Ankuochun train was made ready and it started slowly backing down toward the southern lines with intent to give them a dose of three-inch field guns. It chanced that at the same moment the southerners decided this would be a fine morning to "straff" the northerners once more, and they started backing their train northward.

WICHITA FALLS, May 20.—A meeting was scheduled to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon between committees of chamber of commerce of San Antonio, Waco and Austin and second assistant postmaster general, Irving Glover, in regard to proposed extension of the air mail route.

The route which now terminates at Arlington is under consideration of being extended to Austin, Waco and San Antonio. Glover is here attending the convention of postmasters.

China Dog Costs Ranger Youth The Total Sum of $15.70
It was just a big reddish china dog, the kind that adorn carnival booths, and which "a dime—ten cents" might win for one, if old lady luck was looking over the right side of one's shoulder when one played the wheel.

Five dollars would buy a booth full of 'em, but it cost a Ranger youth $15.70 to have one of the China monstrosities in his possession last night.

Col. James S. Wright of Rockport, Ind., never has drunk stimulants of any kind, not even coffee or tea, and never chewed or smoked. Now, at 95, he is the oldest Mason and K. of P. in the United States, having been a Mason for 73 years. He is a Civil War veteran.

Twenty Seventh District Firemen Meet at Gorman

The last meeting of the 27th district of the Firemen of Texas, was held last night at Gorman and resolved itself into a real social affair, as the ladies of that city served a splendid lunch, which had on its menu plenty of fried chicken and was further embellished with cut flowers and a musical program.

Chief George Murphy, Mayor John Thurman and Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce W. C. Hickey were representatives from Ranger, the two former ones responding to a request by City Manager J. H. Cheatham of Eastland, who presided, for a few remarks.

Ranger, Gordon, Gorman, Eastland, Strawn, Thurber and Cisco were all represented. Breckenridge did not send a representative.

This will be the last of a series of eight meetings that have been held in the last eight weeks, so that the report of the district that will be presented at the Annual Firemen's convention to be held in San Antonio soon, may be one of the best presented.

All of the meetings have been well attended and all mutually beneficial to the various towns participating.

Shallow Well To North of Ranger Makes 100 Barrels

A well that came in a few days ago as a small producer on the Riddle lease, near the Isaiah Lasater place, 11 miles northeast of Ranger, is now making 100 barrels and opens up a vast lot of new territory in that locality.

Daring Youth is Off Defying Elements of Air and Sea

Lucky Boy Crawls From Bed After Two Hours Sleep, Takes Breakfast of Ham Sandwich, and Starts Daring Flight

ROOSEVELT FIELD, New York, May 20.—Captain Charles Lindbergh took the air for Paris today at 7:52 a. m., alone in his speedy silver colored Ryan monoplane. It started out a damp foggy morning but was clearing when he took off.

The youthful pilot, a dark horse in the race across the Atlantic and scarcely considered as a candidate a week ago, had the field to himself. Both his rival planes were land bound, one by incomplete tests and one by quarrels and an injunction.

Lindbergh, 25 years old, former air mail pilot and a marvel of nonchalant, cheerful youthfulness had been waiting impatiently for nearly a week while bad weather over the Atlantic made it foolhardy to start the flight.

When weather conditions last night showed slightly more favorable he crawled out of bed after two hours of sleep and started fueling his plane. Ships at sea and wireless stations united in reporting a favorable clearing of atmospheric conditions over the route to be traveled.

Lindbergh, the lucky boy, who has escaped death in four airplane accidents went bravely about defying the jinx which has beset the trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris.

Four men have been killed and two are missing as a result of attempts to make the flight or in tests of planes for just such a flight as Lindbergh plans.

Lindbergh wasn't worried, although extraordinary precautions were taken just before he started to keep the crowd from him, lest his nerves become unsettled.

He has had nothing to eat since last night at 8 o'clock except a ham sandwich. The ham sandwich was his breakfast. He will eat nothing but concentrated food tablets on his long flight.

It was 7:40 a. m., when the propeller was started for the final test. Four more planes took the air.

A plane which had been up said visibility to the northwest was low and that a fog hung over the ocean. At 7:51 the plane started down the runway and a cheer went up from the crowd.

Lindbergh, always foolhardy, took off from the west end of the runway. He was doomed to have been heavily than ever before, failed to rise he would have crashed into a row of buildings at the end of the field. Had he taken off from the east end he would have had an open field to the end of the runway.

The plane took off without accident, however, and its silver body glowed as it sped across the dawn. A rhythmic roar swept down over the crowd from the motor which he expected to carry him safely over the 3,600 miles of his adventure.

He was doomed to have been heavily than ever before, failed to rise he would have crashed into a row of buildings at the end of the field. Had he taken off from the east end he would have had an open field to the end of the runway.

FROM THE BIBLE

A great transformation—Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me: Lord by thy help, Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing; Thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness. Psalm 30:10-11.

Prayer:—O Lord, mine eye hath seen all this, mine ear hath heard and understood.

THE ACCIDENT TOLL.

According to figures compiled by the Texas Council of Safety there have been a total of 518 accidental deaths in the state of Texas this year, up to May 15. During the same time there were a total of 1,809 other persons injured in various accidents, many of which could have been avoided, of course.

It is needless to say that the automobile leads all other agents in its toll of accidental injuries and deaths. During the week ending May 15 there were a total of 143 persons injured in Texas by accident, of which number 59 were injured in automobile accidents. During the same week the automobile took a toll of 13 deaths out of a total of 34 for all kinds of accidents. It is interesting to note that during that period interurban cars, street cars, and motor cars accounted for not a single death while only four persons were injured from these three sources.

There is a movement on foot now by traffic and safety experts to entirely remove, that is as far as possible, the human element in the fight against accidental injuries and deaths. Those who are favoring such a measure might draw some consolation from these figures. For it is known that interurban lines and street car companies have gone about as far as possible in making their carriers mechanically safe. They do not depend on the average American to look out for his own safety but they have surrounded him with mechanical safety measures that he cannot well overstep.

The movement on foot now is to make the city streets and the country highways as safe by mechanical means as it is humanly possible, in an effort to reduce the accidental death toll from automobiles.

FUTURE NEWSPAPER.

Newspaper men with vision are looking forward to a day when electricity may do away with the newspaper as it is known today and substitute in its place something entirely different to spread the news of the world—a method of printing papers in the homes of subscribers. In an interview the magazine Editor and Publisher has had with Milton Garges, traffic manager of The Associated Press, a great deal is said about the future of television by which pictures or images are broadcast by radio and reduced by receivers to their original appearance and about other electric means of transmitting pictures and printed matter.

In the coming revolutionizing of the newspaper, Mr. Garges believes "a subscription to a newspaper will mean a monthly or yearly payment for the installation of a machine in the home just as we pay our telephone bills today." The only way he can conceive by which the distribution of news can be made swifter than it is today is by replacing the mighty presses and the cumbersome system of delivering papers by an army of men and boys. He thinks it probable that automatic printing machines will be developed for homes and offices that can be connected with some central broadcast plant.

The time may come, Mr. Garges thinks, when, during the night, a radio machine working silently in the living room will receive, put in type, bind, fold and lay on the table the morning newspaper for dad to pick up and read, much to mothers' disgust, at the breakfast table. Mr. Garges believes newspapers in some form will always be essential but that electricity will issue them.

Span of Life Not Shortened by Kiss White Contends

By United Press.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 20—William Allen White, famous editor of Emporia, attributes the increase in crime to "loose talk of scientists," exemplified in the recent statement of a psychologist that each kiss shortens life three minutes. White was the recipient of a sharp reprimand from Dr. C. J. Elmore, professor of biology at William Jewell college, for stating in an editorial that if, in his case, each kiss meant shortening of life three minutes, he would have had to die "six months before the revolutionary war."

Dr. Elmore remarked that White was "as loose in his statements as he accuses scientists of being" and with a great mass of figure proved, to his own satisfaction, that White would have had to die "five times every four minutes, including Sundays and holidays, 16 hours a day."

"This is not at all unreasonable, nor is it improbable that Mr. White has done this, especially since he has his statement to that effect," Dr. Elmore remarked. "I have always suspected scientists and especially psychologists were corrupting youth, provoking people in middle life and saddening old age with their rash and unfounded statements. It is encouraging to know that at least one journalist is capable of calling a halt on them with his conservative and mathematical statements."

To which White replied: "Time spent indulging in osculatory exercises passes quicker than it does in the ordinary humdrum events of the day. If Dr. Elmore knows as little about kissing as he knows about mathematics he has probably never enjoyed a livelier thrill than grandma's kiss when he left home for college and to conquer the big, wide world."

Petition to Ask Stock Election In Eastland County

The Eastland county commissioners' court will be asked to call a county-wide stock law election, if petitions that have been drawn and are now being circulated for the required number of signatures, receive the signatures of sufficient numbers of voters, according to Assistant District Attorney Sterling Holloway.

An election called under the terms of the general stock law will apply to cattle, horses and mules, and a special election would apply to hogs, sheep and goats, it is stated. One hundred signatures of freeholders in the county are needed on the petition which is now in the hands of the district attorney and where it may be seen and signed by anyone interested in doing so.

It is planned to have the election called so as to permit the voters to vote on the stock law at the same time they vote on the courthouse issue.

Bloating Spells, from Indigestion,
Put an Oklahoma Man in a Miserable Fix, But He Found Relief.

Swink, Okla.—In describing how he suffered from indigestion, Mr. S. T. Strain, of this place, says: "I have been a user of Black-Draught for four or five years. I have been taking it for stomach trouble. I suffered after eating with bloating and a 'tight feeling'."

"I had spells when I could not eat much of anything. I had severe headaches. I would be nauseated and hurt a lot. I was in a pretty bad fix. "I began taking Black-Draught. It seemed to help me wonderfully. I hadn't found anything that benefited me as Black-Draught did. I certainly can recommend it."

"There were times when I just did without anything to eat until I was too weak to go. I was just miserable, and when I ate, my system seemed clogged. "I had very severe headaches. So I didn't know just what to do. I knew I couldn't work if I didn't eat. Seemed like what I spit up was bitter as could be. I took Black-Draught pretty regularly and got where I could eat, and I don't have to take it so regularly now." NC-177 the Tribe's followers for something more than sentimental reasons tomorrow. It will be recalled that the stalwart first baseman was judged the American league last season. Also he clouted 84 two-base hits, another record for the league in 1926.

Burns can justly be called the backbone of the team. Never has any major league team boasted a harder worker, more consistent player of earnest contributor to a club's welfare. Be the going rough or smooth, and it's generally rough for the Indians, "Smiling George" is out there doing his bit. Aside from his loyalty Burns is always an asset to the team as his fielding and batting records will testify.

Defeat never embittered Burns. In fact, knocks to the club always seem to give him greater impetus. Only his close friends and team mates are aware of many of the personal sacrifices Burns has made for the team and baseball in general.

A committee has been appointed to make "Burns Day" a formal and civic celebration. Besides the diploma emblematic of the most valuable player to his team, Burns will be given some material reward for his sterling performance in 1926.

From present indications, Burns is well on his way to establishing some of his past records again this season. Although he is slightly behind his two base hitting record of the corresponding date in 1926, he ranks high with the sluggers of the rest of the league with two-ply clouts.

The oil industry, facing an over-supply, looks around for a dictator. It's not the oil that's bothering most of us but the cans. A dictator might be used though. He could bring those missing Fall-Sinclair witnesses from Europe. We just knew there was something the matter with that gasoline price, with the detouring season beginning and all.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

This age of high standards welcomes the Camel quality

MODERN smokers are the most exacting ever known, and they place Camel first among cigarettes.

For Camel was created to succeed in the hardest-to-please age ever known. It was made to satisfy those who demand the utmost, and modern smokers have given it such popularity as no other cigarette ever had.

If you're downright hard to please, just try Camels. Tobacco taste and fragrance will be revealed as never before, for Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, supremely blended. This modern cigarette exceeds all other standards but its own. To light one is to find taste fulfillment. "Have a Camel!"

DAUGHTERS of MIDAS

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

Billy did not enjoy herself at the small dance at the Bradleys that evening. She felt conspicuously overdressed, for one thing, though her judgment of values, sharpened by years in the Curtis Store, told her that probably every one of the half a dozen girls, including Annette Truman, had paid more for their apparently inexpensive and careless frocks than she had paid for the jade green chiffon velvet.

"I look like a Christmas tree," she accused herself scornfully. "Oh, no, I look exactly what I am—a shop girl playing society and not knowing the rules of the game."

Ralph Truman was studiously attentive, except at those times when the six couples rested for a while from dancing to radio music, and knotted together in a tight, intimate little group, exchanging gossip and comments on people whom she only knew as customers buying gloves or as names in society columns.

It was only when she was dancing with Dal Romaine that she was at all happy, for then her blood sang a wild, exultant song of unholy joy, but those times were paid for a hundred times over when she saw him dancing with Annette Truman or Constance Bradley, a tall, pale, thin girl of an extraordinary fascination which Billy could not define but which she knew was bound up somehow in a cool, sweet aloofness and perfect breeding.

They did not mean to be unkind, for she realized that they were too well bred to be discourteous to a guest. But she had never felt so out of place in her life. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley asked her polite questions about her ambitions as a violinist, and hoped to hear her play some day. Constance Bradley put a thin, cool white arm about her shoulder as she led the way to the dining room for a buffet supper. But she knew she did not belong; she was miserable, talked badly, either with misplaced impudence or with stammering self-consciousness. She was almost tearfully glad when Ralph Truman broke up the party with the announcement that he and Billy, two hardworking members of society, would have to call it a night. Annette and Dal Romaine, Bruce Kruger and Constance Bradley piled gaily into Bruce's sedan, bound for another couple of hours of dancing at the White Bear, a recently opened roadhouse on the state highway, five miles north of Colfax.

"I like you, Billy—lots," Ralph Truman settled back in the driver's seat, and reached for her hand. "Don't!" she cried sharply, withdrawing her fingers angrily from the touch that was so odious, because it was not Romaine's.

"Sorry!" His mouth twitched with the beginning of an amused smile. "Didn't mean any harm. But most girls expect it, you know, with a few preliminaries, such as I began my ill-fated attempt with. But the truth is, I do like you—lots. And I want to be your friend. Fact is, I've sort of promised old T. Q. to keep a brotherly eye on you. I think he's afraid some good-looking gypsy is going to try to abduct you."

"I can look out for myself, thank you," she was unreasonably furious. "I did it a good many years before T. Q. Curtis consulted himself my protector. I wasn't born yesterday. I can take care of myself," she reiterated, as if trying to convince herself that she could.

"I wonder," Ralph Truman said softly, his eyes narrowing as he peered at her through the windshield. "A while ago, as she was still resentfully silent, he continued softly, 'I'm worried about Annette. She hasn't made a howling social success since she came out, in spite of the scandalous number of the Truman millions. Excuse the bad taste, lady, but I'd hate like to see her come over the gypsy fellow who looks like a magician doped up in 'what the well-dressed man will wear at Deauville.'"

She slept so badly that night that she took only a languid interest in preliminaries, such as I began my ill-fated attempt with. But the truth is, I do like you—lots. And I want to be your friend. Fact is, I've sort of promised old T. Q. to keep a brotherly eye on you. I think he's afraid some good-looking gypsy is going to try to abduct you."

with each other in telling enthusiastic lies about their passionate interest in their school work.

It was plain to Billy that the girls had begun their campaign to win T. Q. Curtis' heart and fortune. Of course he had no idea that any of the three knew that he intended to adopt one of them as his daughter when the year of probation was up.

She caught the stern-faced but almost absurdly pleased old man looking at her questioningly once or twice as if he wondered why she alone held aloof, silent, apparently sullen. But she could not bring herself to today to him to compete, at least at this stage of the game, for his affection. And the odd thing was, she told herself, that she was, undoubtedly, the only one of the three who really cared whoop for the lonely man.

There was a queer little smile on Mrs. Meadows' thin, wrinkled lips as she paused beside Billy in the hall, before going up to her room to rest for an hour. The thought crossed the girl's mind that Mrs. Meadows knew the truth, too; that she was watching the amazing game with cynical amusement. But Billy dismissed the thought as absurdly unlikely. T. Q. would hardly endanger his secret by entrusting it to anyone besides his lawyer.

"Won't you play for us this evening after dinner, Billy?" Mrs. Meadows asked, in her charming, cultivated voice, as she stepped upon the stairs.

"If you like," Billy answered indifferently. But she could not suppress the thought that in her violin, and the appeal of sentimental music to the lonely philanthropist, she held a powerful trump in the game which she had been warned would be played ruthlessly by the other two contestants.

"Mr. Curtis would be pleased," Mrs. Meadows smiled upon her. "And so would I—and Dalhart," she added, her eyes softening at the mentioning of that name. "The dear boy is passionately fond of music. Especially the violin. Oh, by the way, girls," she added, as Winnie strolled closer to hear the conversation, her light blue eyes hard and suspicious. "Mr. Curtis is sending a decorator over this afternoon to confer with you on the refurnishing of your rooms. I understand that Mr. Curtis has already approved of your plans, but I would suggest that you allow the decorator to advise you. May I also suggest that you be—ah—reasonable as to expense? I think it would be very unwise to antagonize Mr. Curtis by taking advantage of his generosity."

The interior decorator proved to be a flattering, rather arty-looking woman of thirty or so, a Mrs. Belcher, who had recently opened a studio on Colfax's most exclusive shopping street. She inadvertently let it cut that Mrs. Meadows had been instrumental in getting her the assignment to do over the rooms for the girls, and Billy wondered, surprised at her own suspiciousness, if the chaperone were not adding a feather to her nest in the way of a fat commission from Mrs. Belcher. It was amusing to watch Nyda and Winnie as they yawned over elaborate plans submitted by the decorator, plans which subtly flattered their expressed tastes but which added innumerable items of expense to what was bound to be a very large bill.

"I don't think so," Winnie murmured, as Mrs. Belcher suggested an exquisitely draped and terribly expensive canopy for the fourposter DuBarry type of bed. "We really mustn't be too extravagant. Poor Mr. Curtis!"

"Rich Mr. Curtis," Mrs. Belcher corrected coaxingly. "In the end, both Nyda and Winnie regretfully rejected some of the most expensive ideas that Mrs. Belcher put forward, their eyes on a far bigger prize than a beautifully appointed bedroom. But each tried to make the other, and Billy, succumb to temptation."

"How unselfish you girls are!" Mrs. Belcher smiled upon them, snapping the clasp of her portfolio. "Each of you seems determined that the other will have the most charming room. It is refreshing to see such altruism."

"You don't know the half of it, lady," Billy felt tempted to blurt out in her old impudent way. But she held her tongue while Nyda and Winnie basked in the artist's praise. "Of course you girls are the talk of the town," Mrs. Belcher went on cheerfully, now that she had an enormous order ready for the rich man's O. K. "The pictures in the papers certainly don't do any of you justice. If Mr. Curtis had chosen you three youngsters by way of beauty contest, he couldn't have picked lovelier girls. And I am sure you are all as sweet and good as you are beautiful. It will be a real pleasure to serve the Cinderella girls. And it will be a marvellous advertisement for my business, too."

Her prophecy proved to be well founded. When the three rooms were finished about ten days later photographers and reporters descended upon the Curtis home again, and T. Q. Curtis, proud of his generosity toward the girls and not adverse to favorable publicity, allowed the exquisite chambers to be photographed for the Sunday papers.

On the Monday evening following the appearance of the new barrage of pictures and stories of his strange philanthropy, the department store owner appeared at dinner wearing a troubled frown, which Winnie's cuddly affection and Nyda's charming deference could not wholly dispel.

Finally, in answer to Winnie's wistful, affectionate wheedling, he answered somberly: "I'm afraid I've made a mistake, as far as the store is concerned, to let the papers in on just what I'm doing for you girls. Miss Simmons and Mr. Hoskins have been jumping on me today with both feet—they say the morale of the store is all shot to pieces."

"They're jealous, I suppose," Nyda said softly, her throaty contralto registering sympathetic regret. "Is there anything we can do to help, Mr. Curtis?"

Dal Romaine lures Billy away from her violin and Winnie and Nyda continue their campaign getting in "solid" with T. Q. Curtis.

It was amusing to watch Nyda and Winnie as they yawned over elaborate plans submitted by the decorator, plans which subtly flattered their expressed tastes but which added innumerable items of expense to what was bound to be a very large bill.

Ranger Grammar School Girl Has Unusual Record

Frances Glazner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Glazner of Ranger, who will graduate from Cooper school tonight, holds an unusual record, as she is finishing grammar school at 11 years of age and has never had to take a final examination, being exempt in all of her studies since she entered school. She made seven grades in five years. Frances is just a normal girl, full of life, and does not look like a book-worm, but she has studied just as hard as she has played, and hence her splendid record. She is class salutatorian.

A cheap tube can cost you 10 times its price.....

THIRTY-NINE YEARS of tube-building experience has proved to Dunlop that "cheap tubes" do not pay.

That is why Dunlop tubes are made casing shaped. It costs a little more than to build them on a straight pole, as cheap tubes are built.

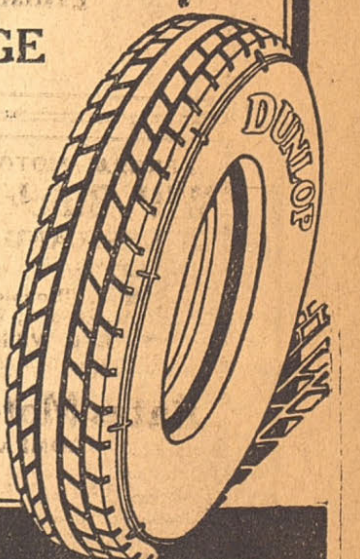

But a casing-shaped Dunlop tube is strong everywhere. The outside edge is not weakened by excess stretch. The side next to the rim has no wrinkles to crack with age and blow out. A Dunlop tube protects your casing, because it fits. And your casing is worth ten times the cost of the tube.

We strongly recommend a Dunlop tube for every casing

WHITE SOX TEAM SHOWS FINE HAS GOOD PITCHERS

By BILLY EVANS.
So far the Chicago Americans have surprised the talent. This has been pleasing to baseball fans, because Ray Schalk, White Sox pilot, has always been a big favorite with the public.
"If we just had Johnny Mostil back with us, going at top speed!" is a daily lament with the Chicago players.
Johnny Mostil was the best outfielder in baseball last year. No team can lose a player of such remarkable ability as possessed by Mostil, without suffering a severe handicap.
Alex Metzler, the former Athletic rookie, is doing a fine job in Mostil's place, but think how much stronger the club would be if Mostil was in center and Metzler in reserve.
Chicago has a better ball club than a lot of people think, when it has its full strength of first string men in the lineup. Just how capable the second string men are is a question. I fear injuries to several star regulars would be a terrific blow to the White Sox.
Good pitching has been a prominent factor in keeping Chicago well up in the race. It looks as if the White Sox might get that sort of hurling all season.
Three Great Pitchers.
No man in baseball is better fitted to judge the relative merits of pitching than a star catcher. Manager Ray Schalk of Chicago, ranks as one of the greatest receivers the game has ever produced.

Recently in discussing his club, pitching in particular, Schalk commented thusly:
"I look for the White Sox to continue to get good pitching. If our fielding and batting continue on a par with the twirling I feel we should get, my club will prove troublesome."
"In Ted Lyons, Ted Blankenship and Al Thomas, I really believe I have the best trio of young pitchers in the major leagues."
"Lyons definitely arrived as a great pitcher two years ago. Blankenship learned last season a change of pace and improved his curve, making his fast ball all the more effective. Al Thomas, with 15 wins against 13 defeats in his first year, should win 20 ball games this season."
"I wouldn't be surprised if Lyons, Blankenship and Thomas win 50 games between them, maybe 10 more. I'm optimistic. For three pitchers to average 15 or more games each is a great thing for a ball club to work on."
I agree with Schalk that he has three great pitchers in Lyons, Blankenship and Thomas. Incidentally he has a couple of other mighty valuable hurlers.
Hurlers Please Schalk.
I saw the veteran "Red" Faber work for the first time this year against Washington recently and he won a most impressive victory. He informed me that he had been having trouble finishing, but he looked as good as ever in trimming Washington.
George Connally is a most capable relief pitcher, a much-needed asset in these days of th lively ball and free swinging batters. Connally is called "Rubber-Arm," because he is always ready to rush to the rescue of some faltering twirler.

MAIL ORDER BRIDES, SENIOR HI PLAY, PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Mail Order Brides, the senior play which was the opening event of commencement week of the Ranger high school, was presented at the Liberty theatre, Ranger, last night to a large and well-pleased audience. Starting promptly at 7:30 the Ranger high school music club, directed by Miss Gillian Buchanan, gave a number of orchestra selections prior to the curtain, which rose at 8 o'clock on the scene of a living room of a ranch home and it was here that a story of the Nevada cattle ranges was cleverly enacted. Ruby Heart ranch, had plenty of men but only two women and one of them an Indian squaw. Two of the cow punchers looking over a mail order catalog, decided to order a bride; the order is tampered with and three lone females arrive on the scene, and then the fun begins. John Stacks and David Lawson, with their chaps, 45's in their hip pockets and cowboy hats, looked and acted like they belonged to a real range and were just ready to go on a round up. Nick Henshaw played by Ray Knott, the ranch owner, who hated higher education, especially when it took the form of poetry and play writing and made war on his two children, Nance Henshaw, played by Olena Burch and Bob Henshaw, played by Fred Owens, all of whom were splendid in their respective parts. Lolita Connelly, as Princess the Indian servant, was one of the outstanding characters, and played the part of an Indian squaw to perfection. Belva Dixon, as Rose Crandell, a maid, and Olga Mitchell as Jane Hamilton, the daughter of Wm. Hamilton, owner of the mail order house, introduced a bit of city ways into the ranch home and proved to be equal to the unraveling of the mail order problem. Dick Alworth, the blase son of Wm. Hamilton, was the butt of the two cow punchers, who tried to Americanize him, with the help of old Baldy, the king of the pasture. The three mail order brides were Marjorie Maddocks, Margaret Gallo-way, and Alta Bearden, who filled the order, and expected to get their man—and two of them did, the third going back to her job in Chicago. T. J. Melton as Wm. Hamilton, arrives on the scene in the last act and as a member of the firm of Hamilton and Balke, straightens out the mail order successfully and all ends happily. Two choruses "School Day Sweethearts" and "The Swing Song" were pleasing between curtain specialties. For these two numbers, Joe Rowland played the piano, Olga Mitchell the violin and Bobbie Sanderford the saxophone. Mrs. Marion F. Peters directed the play. Wm. Shaw was stage director and ushers were Mildred Bryant, Buster Mills, Chas. Cooper, Les Swafford, Glenn Seay, Harry Heath, Melba Busby, Byron Reeves and Phillip Shipp. Those taking part in the choruses were: Lila Brashier—Elton Mitchell. Lucille Mosse—M. B. Taylor. Lois Johnson—Rayphord Faircloth. Mildred Bradley—Archie Mills. Zada Walton—Max Ratliff. Elva Richardson—Ceil Cole. Gladys Murray—Plummer Lemoiz. Adrain Hagaman—R. L. Phillips. Lottie Watkins—Rex Alworth. Mabel Eddy—Seth Hubbard.

MOTHERS NEED HELP AFTER STORK'S VISIT
Women are often robbed of the happiness Motherhood should bring, because of a weakened and run-down condition which often follows this wonderful event of bringing a new life into the world. Nature foreseeing this, provided certain roots and herbs of peculiar strengthening properties, such as Blessed Thistle, Blue Cohosh Root, Squaw Vine, Life Root Plant, Helonias Root, Star Grass, Cramp bark, etc., which the makers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. combined into a vegetable compound and which women and girls have been using for more than fifty years. How successful G. F. P. is proving is best shown by the words of thousands of women and girls who are now coming out in public to praise it. Mrs. Pearl Conn, of 7639 Avenue F., in Houston, Texas, says, "I started using G. F. P. right after my baby came and now I am as strong and healthy as I ever was. I wish every young Mother knew about St. Joseph's G. F. P."

Women have used St. Joseph's G.F.P. for over 50 years!

Mrs. Hagaman Is Made Member Of Chautauqua Body

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, of Ranger, a charter member of the 1920 club and candidate for the office of president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, has been made a sustaining member of the Southwestern Chautauqua association. At a meeting of the 1920 club yesterday afternoon, it was made known that an unknown donor has honored Mrs. Hagaman with a membership in the association, in recognition of her splendid services.

The third unit of the Southwestern Chautauqua is to be established in the Davis mountains, thus putting the best that Eastern culture has to offer within a few hours drive from most points in West Texas. The membership in the association is limited to 2,000 in each of the ten states in the association and can be had by invitation only.

Club Women Want Ban On Carnivals During School

Declaring war against street carnivals, especially during school terms, the women of the 1920 club of Ranger, voted at a meeting yesterday afternoon to ask the city commission to consider putting a ban on carnivals in Ranger during the school months.

Mothers who said that in their own families during the past week or ten days, there had been pitched battles because the children wanted to go to the carnival and the parents wanted them to stay at home and study for their examinations, were fervent in their desire that the city commission take some action toward eliminating carnivals.

Mrs. Saunders Gregg, R. H. Hodges and R. M. Schmitt were appointed as a committee to present the matter to the city commission.

Merriman School Renders Operetta To Large Audience

The Golden Whistle, a juvenile operetta, given at Merriman ward school of Ranger last night, was a most decided success from the dance of the merry elves to the grand finale chorus, "Sing Heigho."

Miss Nellie Lovett, director of the operetta, played the accompaniments. Those having solo parts were Ruth Smith, the fairy queen, Pauline McGowan, Alcea, lovely maid who was turned into an old woman; George Allison as Beffo, small mortal boy to whom the old woman gives the golden whistle which, when blown summoned different fairy folks from elves and roses to larks and butterflies.

The Little White Rabbit, tiny

Harvey McGowan, was very cunning, in a white suit with cotton tail and long ears. He hops in and steals the golden whistle when Beffo drops it in his song, which he gave so naturally that the audience felt sorry for him "because his rabbit heart was sad, for stealing was very bad."

All the costumes were new and fresh and pretty little operetta was well received by a large audience composed of patrons and friends of the school.

In some parishes in England the old custom of distributing the "Pax Cake" is still kept up on Palm Sunday. Plain cakes are given in church, the idea being that those who have quarrelled during the year should "break the Peace Cake" together, saying "peace and good-will," thus ending their disputes before the Easter Communion.

Pine Street Lots Bought by Bobo To Be Improved

Buying back property he sold in 1917 because he thinks it's a good investment, is the recent act of S. W. Bobo, one of the largest property holders in Ranger.

In 1907 Mr. Bobo bought 122 1/2 feet on Pine street, just west of the old DeGroff hotel and about 1922 he sold the lots to Mrs. Emily S. Fleming, now of California. Mrs. Fleming had several houses on the opposite of Pine street, which she had to move when work on the Ranger High school building was contemplated. She moved five houses on the lots and although she has been away from Ranger all these years, they have never been empty only for a few days at a time and have brought her in a good revenue.

The deal was made through Maddocks & Son of Ranger, and the consideration while not definitely stated is understood to be around $6,000. They stated that the property would be improved.

Mr. Bobo said that his reason for buying back the property was that he had faith in Ranger real estate and expressed his opinion that any one buying real estate in Ranger was making a good investment.

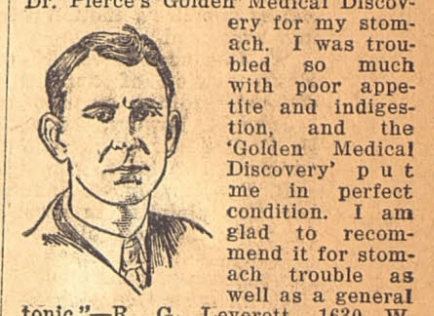

On account of the former Charles Cholson property, adjoining these lots, having recently been bought by Albert Duncan, who has moved in a good home on one of them, and who has improved the other lot, this property bids fair to be one of the most attractive on Pine street.

PREPARING EXHIBITS FOR STATE FAIR OF TEXAS
George W. Briggs, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, stated this morning that exhibits for Eastland county were now being collected for the State fair at Dallas this fall.

Eastland county won seventh place at the Dallas fair last year, eighth place the year before and thirteenth place the year before that.

In the first Boston directory, published 138 years ago, the names were arranged in order of prominence. Thus John Adams headed the list of "A" and John Hancock was the first "H."
