The Navy's Latest, Full of Planes, and Secrets

Here is the way the navy's new giant airplane carriers, the Saratoga and the Lexington will look when in commission. Note how all the superstructure has been grouped along the starboard side, so that the huge deck will be clear for airplanes. Note, also, the unusual design of the bow.

Ranger Will Bid For Big Packing Plant To Be Built

Ranger will have a bid in the locating of a packing plant and cold storage, for the Bankhead Poultry association, which is to be located in one of the three towns on the Texas and Pacific railway in Eastland county, it was learned today.

Wayne Hickey, secretary of the Ranger chamber of commerce attended a meeting of the Bankhead Poultry Producers' association in Cisco last week at which time the future operation of the association was discussed and plans for a future packing plant and cold storage large enough to afford ample storage for the entire output of the association during heavy production, was launched to the extent of a committee being appointed to negotiate such plans.

This committee was composed of Geo. W. Briggs, J. E. T. Peters, Wayne C. Hickey, J. F. Robison and J. B. Chandler.

The building which will be built either by the association or some individual, should the committee be able to work out the project, should be ready for use not later than January 1, 1928.

Farmers Advised To Examine Their Crop For Boll Worms

AUSTIN, July 15.—Suggestions to farmers to examine their cotton and report finding of boll weevils to department of agriculture, were made Friday by Geo. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, who reported that one large cotton farm in Caldwell county which he inspected recently was so badly infested with boll worms that yield would be decreased by 50 percent.

Speeding Car Turns Over; Kills One Boy And Injures Two

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 15.—John Levison, 21, son of City Engineer Henry Levison was instantly killed and Hugh Black, and Jaci Giles, were probably fatally injured when their auto overturned in a ditch near here today. Martin Scoggins, Houston, driver of the machine was unhurt. Witnesses said the car was traveling at high rate of speed when accident occurred.

UNITED STATES WILL HAVE TWO SUCH VESSELS AFLOAT

Hangars, Landing Equipment and Safety Devices Provided, Many Appointments Are Kept Secret

The two largest vessels ever constructed by any navy soon will be added to the fleet of the U. S. Navy. They are the U. S. S. Saratoga and Lexington, airplane carriers de luxe.

These ships are the “remnants,” so-called, of six authorized in 1917, when Congress planned to build six super battleships, the Constellation, Constitution, Lexington, Ranger, Saratoga and the United States.

The world must have drawn an extra breath at the sheer immensity of the navy's dream. Each ship was to be nearly 900 feet long, 106 feet wide and to have an armament of eight 16-inch guns, sixteen 6-inch guns and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes. Each was to be the last word in naval construction, with a complement of 1500 men and a speed of 34 knots an hour.

The Lexington and Saratoga represent the ultimate in airplane carrier construction. They are in general sister ships. As one can easily imagine, building these ships has been a whole of a job, for many things are embodied in them no other ship has known.

First, of course, is the peculiar construction above the water line. A carrier must have an adequate place for planes to land and take off. The U. S. S. Langley, our first carrier, prepared her deck by tearing away the coaling gear top hamper which she employed as a collier. Then was built a flat deck covering the ship. The smoke stacks on the Longley fold out of the way and the ship has no masts.

Now, however, the two new ships have the regulation superstructure, without the mainmast. The carriers have their superstructure on the starboard side of the top deck, called the flight deck. The navy calls this grouping the “island,” and such it appears to be.

Can't Be Mistaken
This grouping is sufficient in itself to identify these vessels as a distinct type. No sailor searching his way home after dark ever will peer thru the fog and swear a volume, wondering what ship looms up ahead.

These ships literally “loom up” ahead. The bow, for instance, instead of coming to a point, starts from the water like a clipper and is cut off to facilitate landings, leaving no sharp point against which the ships of the air may strike. Nearly 900 feet from the bow the flight deck stretches, ending at the stern in another novelty. Here a ramp overhangs to permit the easier landing of planes from that direction.

Viewed from the side, the ships present another odd appearance. Along the sides in special galleries they carry their small boats. Such arrangements as these are due to the necessity of keeping every non-essential off the flight decks.

Inside may be found other interesting development, markedly different from common shipbuilding standards. The planes are stowed in a huge hangar space, the immensity of which hardly can be appreciated by one who has not seen it. When you recall that the ships are as long as four 200-foot city blocks, perhaps this size can be appreciated and understood. Figures here are forbidden.

EXECUTE THREE AT JOLIET FOR KLEIN MURDER

Grinning at Those Who Come to Watch Them Die, Prisoners Appear Not Afraid of Death.

By United Press.
JOLIET, Ill., July 15.—Death claimed its stakes today in the daring garb three men made to escape the punishment for murder.

At 6:14 a. m. Roberto Torrez, Charles Duschowski and Walter Staleski were hanged simultaneously from the same gallows, paying the state of Illinois the supreme penalty for murdering deputy warden Peter M. Klein in their escape from the state penitentiary in May, 1926.

All the prisoners appeared unafraid. They grinned at those who had come to watch them die.

Dry Forces Get Considerable Shakeup by Doran

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 15.—A shakeup in Texas-Oklahoma dry forces designed to improve enforcement conditions was ordered today by Dr. J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner. Chas. A. Warnken, legal adviser of the district, has been named administrator succeeding Frank V. Wright. Wright was made deputy administrator at Oklahoma City.

Doran said the change was made for the good of the service. “There is no evidence of corruption or inefficiency in this matter but a move to improve enforcement work,” he stated. Coincident with change in field leaders a general shakeup will take place in prohibition officers of the two states.

Community Gives Triplets Home

In addition to this general stowage place, there is room for stowing disassembled planes; there is a huge power plant, which can generate enough power to meet the needs of a Boston, a San Francisco or any other large city.

Sailors will delight in the fact that the deck will be painted. Thus they will be spared the necessity of holly-stoning a broad expanse of teak, nearly 90,000 square feet. The luxury suggested by this statement will be carried into the "insides" for, for the first time in the navy's history, all first and second class petty officers will sleep in individual bunks, while cooks and bakers will produce their viands by electricity. And as for life safety, nets will stretch nearly around the ship to save airplanes and men when the former become unmanageable.

The pseudo-scientist would delight in the complete photographic laboratory, optical repair shop and the various ship's repair shops. Dental and sick bay facilities include an X-ray machine, while a passenger elevator is included for the convenience of those who will live aboard these ships. The best the world can provide has been installed in the laundry and galley, with a most modern hot and cold air circulation system.

Everything accomplished on other ships is carried out by electricity on these two carriers, and many things hitherto regarded as impossible are also done by electricity. Sixteen boilers in 16 fire rooms will provide the power necessary to propel the ship and carry on all other activities. Horsepower to a total of 180,000 is generated.

Oil storage, masthead heights, expected steaming radius, plane capacity and provision cannot be discussed they are military secrets. The radio equipment in itself would fill a volume. It may be remarked, however, that the marvels of these ships are so many that all others in the navy would be deserted could all those who want assignments here be accommodated.

The background of the construction of these ships is not a new story. The six named earlier were to be built at Newport News, Philadelphia, Fore River and New York. Both government and private yards were to handle the work. Contracts were signed as early as 1917 and work proceeded until March, 1919, when a shortage of funds caused a cessation of activities. Later the same year more money became available and it looked as though the super-ships, then one-third completed, would be finished.

Then came the disarmament conference and four of these fell by the wayside, while the remaining two were completed for a different purpose. Ghosts of sea fighters, whose keels never felt the rise and fall of an ocean surge, they died while on the builders' ways.

Eastland county will have a representation of about forty in attendance at the A. & M. College short course which begins on July 25. Of this number fourteen are boys and fourteen are girls, members of the various 4-H clubs of the county. Six farm women are going to attend the course, besides a number of farmers and both the agricultural and home demonstration agent.

The county is assured of a rich harvest from these efforts on the part of the agricultural and home demonstration agent and the interest that the young farm people are manifesting in enlightening themselves on farm and home problems. There is scarcely a community anywhere in the county that hasn't a delegate going to the short course, and thereby every community in the county will be benefited by what these young people learn about modern farming.

These boys and girls and men and women are going to study the vital problems of farm life. The boys and men are going to learn more about tilling the soil, raising better crops, judging stock and marketing of the farm's products. The women and girls are going to study the various methods of making the farm home more attractive and more habitable. They are going to study cooking, dress making, the art of properly canning and preserving different foods and fruits.

As we see it this is about the best remedy for farm troubles that has been put forward. If more counties would follow the examples of Eastland county, if more farmers and more farm boys and farm girls would spend this short period each summer in the diligent study of farm problems there would be more satisfaction on the farm and less criticism of the government and less crying for relief for the farmers.

A little of this will accomplish a lot more good for the farmer as a class than all the complaints that can be registered at Washington. By this method the farmers of the county can help themselves vastly more than the politicians at Washington or anywhere else.

In an astonishingly short time Eastland county may expect as the result of its interest in these short courses, to find more stock on the farms of Eastland county and a far better grade of stock. It may expect to find more of the farm homes of the county provided with better living conditions and it may expect to find more farms of the county producing first of all the things that are consumed on the farm.

As a result of this interest the county will in a very short time be producing more hogs, more dairy cattle, more poultry and more of all the natural products of a well balanced farming community.

When that is done times will be better, the farmers of the county will be happier because they will have more of the things they really need and their bank accounts will be gradually growing.

More power to the agricultural agent and the home demonstration agent. More power to the young men and the young women of the farmer class.

They are on the right trail. And if they follow it faithfully and long enough they will change conditions on every farm in Eastland county.

"Miss Eastland" To Be Selected, Will Go To Cisco

The Eastland chamber of commerce is sponsoring a move to select "Miss Eastland" for the bathing beauty contest at the dedication of the bathing beach at Lake Cisco, July 22. Cooperating with the chamber of commerce in this move is the Connellee theatre.

Attendees at the Connellee theatre for the next three days will be given blanks upon which to nominate their choice for "Miss Eastland." The seven ladies getting the seven highest numbers will be declared the nominees and then for three days attendees at the Connellee will vote on one of the seven to be the Eastland representative, the girl receiving the highest number of votes being declared the winner.

The chamber of commerce will pay the expenses of the young woman who is finally chosen as "Miss Eastland."

Motion picture concerns such as Pathe, Fox and Paramount will have camera men at Cisco on the date of the contest who will take pictures of the entrants, screen tests will also be made of the contestants by a casting director.

To date 14 towns have entered the contest and will have representatives at Lake Cisco.

Finger Prints By Radio Offers New Crime Weapon

LONDON—A device for the transmission by wireless of finger-prints, hand-writing and fashion-plates is being perfected in the laboratory at Chelmsford by G. M. Wright of the Marconi Company. This invention, if successful, will result in one of the greatest revolutions in wireless telegraphy of the century.

Up to the present time such messages have been transmitted over only a distance of a few miles and the inventor is now hoping to extend this distance until the system becomes as extended as the radio.

The development which would be made possible by the success of this invention are amazing. An open letter or a post-card could be transmitted by wireless and received in the exact handwriting of the sender. A man in an airplane during an operation would be able to make notes or sketches of enemy activity and they would be transmitted automatically to headquarters without his having to tap out Morse messages or speak by telephone. It would make the Morse code obsolete in many important branches.

The finger prints of a suspected person arrested in some distant city would no sooner be taken by police officials than they would be verified by the police of another city. Perhaps of another continent. The latest fashion-plates of Paris could be sent in this manner to New York. And since pictures could be transmitted in the same way it would mean that the telegraphic news pages of the newspapers would be graphically illustrated with telegraphic pictures.

Wireless pictures are already possible, of course, but the new system through its speed and clarity promises to supersede all others.

The invention would also result in remarkable changes in newspaper production. Tests that have been carried out show that in the simplest way each page can be flashed from one office to another. This indicates that the time is not far distant when the copy of a New York paper could be flashed across the Atlantic to Paris for its European edition.

It is exposed that at least several more months will be necessary before the scheme is perfected for use.

SPAIN PAYS TRIBUTE TO FIRST CIGAR SMOKER

MADRID—Spain is preparing to do homage to the memory of the first European to smoke cigars, a Spaniard named Rodrigo de Jerez, the last Rodrigo de Jerez, an Andalusian born in Ayamonte, province of Huelva, accompanied Christopher Columbus during the latter's first trip to discover America, and was one of those who returned with him.

Among other things, Rodrigo brought back tobacco cigars that were smoked in America, a practice totally unknown in Europe at the end of the fifteenth century.

It appears that the habit imported by the Andalusian sailor was not immediately appreciated here because some people charged Rodrigo was possessed with the devil, and inquisition authorities punished him. But finally he triumphed and died famous in his native town where a commemorative plaque will be placed on the house he lived in.

The women are taking to flying, say the public prints. How can they ever resist the temptation to pry into the air pockets?

MOTHERS NEED HELP AFTER STORK'S VISIT

Women are often robbed of the happiness Motherhood should of a weakened bring, because of a weakened and run-down condition which often follows this wonderful event of bringing a new life into the world.

Nature foreseeing this, provided certain roots and herbs of peculiar strengthening properties, such as Blessed Thistle, Blue Cohosh Root, Squaw Vine, Life Root Plant, Helonias Root, Star Grass, Cramp Bark, etc., which the makers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. combined into a vegetable compound and which women and girls have been using for more than fifty years.

How successful G. F. P. is proving is best shown by the words of thousands of women and girls who are now coming out in public to praise it.

Mrs. Pearl Conn, of 7639 Avenue F., in Houston, Texas, says, "I started using G. F. P. right after my baby came and now I am as strong and healthy as I ever was. I wish every young Mother knew about St. Joseph's G. F. P."

Women have used St. Joseph's G.F.P. for over 50 years!

Alleged Heirs Of Copper King In Fortune Fight

SYDNEY—More claimants in Australia for the huge fortune of the late Senator William A. Clark of Montana have found alleged proof of their right to inherit a portion of the estate. There are 17 alleged heirs, all living in the State of New South Wales. They and their financial backers believe they will have little difficulty in persuading the Montana High Court that their claims are genuine.

The claimants declare that they are the only living descendants of William Clark's two brothers who emigrated to Australia when Clark and another brother went to the United States. According to their story each of the four brothers when leaving Mongahan, Ireland, was given a family Bible showing the family tree. Two of these Bibles are said to be in the possession of the trustees of the Clark fortune. The remaining two are in the hands of the New South Wales claimants. These Bibles are said to be an important link in the evidence supporting the Australians' claims.

Another piece of evidence in the possession of James Clark, chief of the local claimants, is proof that when William A. Clark visited Sydney 40 years ago, after his own children had died, he offered to adopt James Clark, but the latter's mother balked at the sacrifice and refused to part with her boy. Seven of the descendants of the two Clarks who emigrated to Australia reside in the Sydney suburbs. The others live in the S c others live in the Newcastle and North Coast districts of New South Wales. James Clark is chief of the Newcastle family, and three residents of that city have raised $100,000 to finance Clark's claim. They will accompany him to Montana to help fight his case before the High Court there towards the end of July.

We are awaiting the new question that will undoubtedly be the next to go on insurance policies—about the wife's temper.

Billie Evans Is Giving Readers Some Hot Jokes

By BILLIE EVANS
Moe Berg, former Princeton star, now playing shortstop for the Chicago White Sox, is a much educated young man. Baseball is more or less a sideline with him.

Ever since he graduated from Princeton with any number of degrees, including one in baseball, Berg has dabbled in major league baseball but always secondary to his studies.

Attending college during the spring training period, he has always missed that arduous task. Since most colleges do not close until some time in June, he has always been very late reporting for actual play.

The above conditions set the stage for one of the best laughs I have had this year, Spencer Adams, of the St. Louis Browns, nailing the wisecracker. Adams, it will be recalled, formerly played with Washington and New York of the American league, the Browns being his third venture in an effort to win a regular job.

Adams Puffed This.
Recently, injuries and illness almost wrecked the St. Louis club. Manager Dan Howley being forced to call upon his reserves in great numbers to present something that resembled a big league lineup.

Adams, who played utility roles while Washington and New York were winning pennants, was pressed into service at short, third and second. He performed well in the field but simply couldn't get going at the bat.

There is nothing more difficult than trying to solve his league pitching after spending a couple of months warming the bench. While Adams hit the ball fairly well, he just couldn't seem to get it safe.

In a series between St. Louis and Chicago, Shortstop Peckinpaugh of Chicago suffered a leg injury and Manager Schalk sent Berg into the game to take his place.

Adams gave him the first touch chance and Berg came through with a sensational play. A few innings later he robbed Adams of what looked like another sure hit.

"Did you ever think of taking a course in some summer school, Berg," yelled the disgusted Adams as he saw two much-needed hits slip away.

Ump Laughed Last.
One of the best bits of pantomime

I have ever seen on the ball field had two present members of the Chicago White Sox and Umpire Conolly at the actors. The players were Manager Ray Schalk and Second Baseman Aaron Ward, then with New York, with Ward at the bat.

The first pitch didn't suit Umpire Conolly and he ruled it a ball. Catcher Schalk of the White Sox thought it should have been called a strike. He said nothing but, removing his cap, dusted off the home plate.

The second pitch was ruled a strike by Conolly, much to the disgust of the batter, Ward, who also said nothing, but like Schalk, removed his cap and dusted off the home plate.

With the count three balls and one strike, Ward swung at a ball above his head and missed. Had he let it go, it would have been called a ball and he would have been entitled to first.

Then to cap the climax, Umpire Conolly, walking around catcher and batter, removed his cap and proceeded to dust off the plate, while the crowd roared.

Life of Jack Sharkey

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, July 16.—During a professional career that has been comparatively brief, Jack Sharkey has been one of the most active boxers in the ring. But until very recently he had never been in what he profession calls the "big dough."

Up to the time that he fought Mike McFigue last winter he said he had cleared less than $30,000 and could not afford an automobile.

"I socked all the ready cash I had in a home and I've got it tied up so that they can't take it away from the family. From now on we can afford to get some fun out of the dough," Sharkey told friends.

His first purse money in the navy was $15 per bout and a beating from the sailors who had bet on him. His first big shot was $17,000 for the fight with Harry Wills. He got a nice slice out of his last fight with Maloney and he'll get at least $250,000 for the fight against Jack Dempsey on July 21. If he gets by Dempsey he will get more than that sum for fighting Tunney.

Sharkey perhaps could have gotten bigger purses if he had used the gun on promoters but he could not have secured as many engagements as he did and he figured it was better for his future to fight oftener for smaller purses than to loaf around between big shots.

He became somewhat discouraged, however, and ordered Johnny Buckley, his manager, to get him into "some of the big dough." He said he was willing to fight any man in the division and the bigger they were the more money it would mean.

The afternoon before the Dempsey-Tunney fight, Sharkey and Buckley were standing in front of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel in Philadelphia with a rather mournful look.

"Rickard says it's a sure sell out. That will make a nice split for the fighters," someone remarked to Buckley.

"Yes," Sharkey spoke up. "Pretty nice for them. Rotten for me. I can lick either one of them and here I am buying tickets to see 'em."

Even though he must have cherished the hope then that he would get a shot at either Dempsey or Tunney it hardly is probable that he had any idea that within a year his chance would come and with the chance enough money to retire him in comfort.

Sharkey's tastes are simple. They say it costs Dempsey $100,000 a year to live but Dempsey has to live up to a social circle where it takes plenty of money to keep up the front.

Sharkey doesn't like to have his picture taken romping around the floor with the two little kiddies or in an affectionate pose with his wife but he is a home man first, last and always and he lives just like an ordinary young business man.

He has a pretty home in Boston, not ornate like the Dempsey mansion but dressed into the most excellent taste. Mrs. Sharkey took care of that and in explaining the simplicity of its appointments she said she arranged the furnishings with the idea of having Jack feel perfectly at home in every room.

His future prospects are bright. He is young, of clean habits, happily married and in the money, as the boys say. If he gets over Dempsey he probably will be the favorite against Tunney and will have a better chance to win the championship than any other man in the class.

If he should win the championship he probably would be able to realize more money per annum out of it than Tunney has because he has a lot of color and he is of the type that appeals strongly to the customers who support the game.

He hasn't any fancy ideas about fighting. "Just get in there and sock," is his logic and it has worked very well for him. And to hear him tell it, it will continue to work.

Lon Chaney Comes To Lamb Theatre In "The Unknown"

"How am I going to get you to register hatred when you have no hands or arms?" Tid Browning the director asked Lon Chaney during the making of "The Unknown." "That's easy" said Chaney, where-with he clenched the toes of his feet just as one would double up their fingers to clench their hand. "Lon, you're a wonder" said Browning.

Chaney in his most recent starring vehicle, "The Unknown," which comes to the Lamb Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, appears as an armless wonder performing stunts with his feet to amuse the crowds that gather under the tent of a traveling circus. He shoots and throws knives at a human target and it looks as easy as "rolling off a log". In his wagon house are shown intimate glimpses of how he eats, smokes, and does other uncanny things with his feet. In fact he does everything with his feet usually done by the hands.

Joan Crawford and Norman Kerry support Chaney in this story of sunny Spain.

By United Press.
 SWEETWATER, Texas, July 15.—Members of the Sweetwater club are looking for side saddles, a gentle old-fashioned horse that won't shy at a woman's flowing riding skirt, covered wagons, "valler" dogs and some men who will grow luxuriant beards.
 With these wants supplied they will be able to go ahead with plans for the historical pageant and parade to be staged here in October at the opening of the Midwest Exposition.

CHINESE MASS MEETING SHOUTS MANY SLOGANS

By United Press.
 SHANGHAI.—A foreigner with a bump of curiosity, a knowledge of Chinese and no little courage, braved possible physical injury in attending a mass meeting of Chinese in chapel, in the Chinese section of Shanghai.
 The meeting brought together officials of the Shanghai Chinese general chamber of commerce, the Shanghai peace maintenance corps, the farmers' association and other local Chinese bodies, in addition to some 15,000 odd persons—some of them described as being very odd.
 The foreigner gained a place at the side of the speaker's stand, ignored resentful glares, and carefully watched the proceedings. He reported that the following took place:
 1. Meeting called to order.
 2. Slogans shouted.
 3. Three bows to the flag.
 4. Slogans shouted.
 5. Reading of the will of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen.
 6. Three minutes of silence for martyrs.
 7. Slogans shouted.
 8. Report of object of meeting.
 9. Slogans shouted.
 10. Speeches.
 11. Slogans shouted.
 12. Passing of resolutions.
 13. Slogans shouted.
 14. Three bows to the flag.
 15. Slogans shouted.
 16. Reading of circulars.
 17. Slogans shouted.
 18. Slogans shouted.
 The slogans shouted, the foreigner stated, included "overthrow imperialism," "overthrow the Fengtien militarists," "boycott the British," and "expel Borodin." The meeting terminated with a short parade, during which slogans were shouted.

NEW BEAUTY—NEW COLORS and Surprising Price Reductions!

—made possible by the efficiency and economies of the world's newest and finest motor car factory

Enriched in beauty by new and fashionable color combinations and offering all those amazing qualities of performance and luxury which have sent Pontiac Six popularity to record-breaking heights—

—Pontiac Six is announced today at new low prices on every body type!

This surprising price reduction comes at a time when Pontiac Six Sales have been surpassing all previous records—and is made possible only by the economies of increasing production in the new $12,000,000 Pontiac Six Plant, which in facilities for efficient quantity production and precision manufacture, represents one of America's industrial achievements. As a result, manufacturing costs on the Pontiac Six have been reduced.

So now at a base price of only $745 Pontiac Six offers the following features which constitute definite assurance of lasting satisfaction and which are obtainable in no other low priced six: (1)—Bodies by Fisher—with all the Fisher advantages in styling, comfort and safety. (2)—The smoothness, power and snap of the largest engine used in any six priced up to $1,000. (3)—The endurance and stamina assured by an oiling system which forces 250 gallons of oil an hour through the engine at 35 m. p. h. (4)—The convenience and luxury of such features as tilting beam headlights with foot control and Fisher VV windshield.

These are four great factors of satisfaction which every buyer of a low-priced six has the right to expect. Yet not one of them is provided on any other six, at or near the new low prices of the Pontiac Six. See this triumph of efficient production and advanced design which makes possible the enjoyment of six-cylinder performance and Fisher body luxury at the lowest price in history!

THREE NOTED JAIL BREAKERS DIE IN TRIPLE EXECUTION

By United Press.
JOLIET, Ill., July 15.—Three men who wagered life against freedom died on the gallows today in the first triple execution in the history of Illinois.

The victims were Charles Duschowski, Walter Stalesky and Roberto Torrez known now as the "Klein slayers."

Shortly after the break of day today the three were led from the grim Will county jail into the court yard adjoining and there on a triple scaffold the nooses were fitted and death claimed the stakes in the wager the men made when they were inmates of the state prison more than a year ago.

The picture was grim. On one side of the scaffold stood the dirty jail with the scaffold throwing a dim shadow over the barred walls. On the other side was the sheriff's home. Inside the jail yard a hundred or more persons gathered to watch the execution. High board fences protected the view from outsiders save for persons passing by on transcontinental limits on the elevated tracks close by the jail.

It was just a trifle more than a year ago that these three men, with four others, decided to stake their lives at a chance for freedom. They were all imprisoned in the state penitentiary on the outskirts of the city and were serving life sentences for murders.

The seven filed into the office of Deputy Warden Klein to protest against certain prison conditions. While all other prisoners were back in their cells the seven men beat and hacked the warden to death, calmly filed to the entrance of the office and commandeered the warden's motor car.

Abducting a prison guard they rolled through the gates of the penitentiary and were well on their way to liberty—with one more murder recorded against them.

One by one they were captured, save one man who was killed by guards.

Torrez and Stalesky were captured early. Then Charles Shader was caught. Bernardo Roa was caught. Finally Gregorio Rizzo and Charles Duschowski were recaptured.

The six men were tried in the Joliet, Illinois, criminal court in a trial that was lacking—save for one instance—in glamour. That one instance was when Nathan Leopold, one of the thrill slayers of Bobby Frank, appeared to testify. He had been implicated in the murderous escape but proved he knew very little about the prison break.

They were convicted and sentenced to hang February 11.

The triple gallows were erected and it was planned to hang the men in relays of three each. A stay was granted however pending an appeal to the supreme court.

While the appeal was pending the men again risked their lives in a wager for freedom. They clubbed guards in the jail, broke open cell doors, and finally Roa, Torrez and Rizzo got away. The other three were unsuccessful.

The three Mexicans fled to Chicago where there was a revolver battle with the police. One patrolman was killed. Rizzo was dangerously injured and recaptured. Torrez was recaptured but Roa escaped.

Twice more escape attempts were started but failed.

Finally early in June the men again started out of the Will county jail. They reached the jail yard, seized Sheriff Albert Markgraff and attempted to get away. In the battle that followed Rizzo was killed and Shader escaped. Stalesky was injured and recaptured and Duschowski was caught later.

The supreme court finally ruled against a new trial and today the remaining members of the "terrorist Klein killers" band paid the stakes of their gamble for freedom.

Nursery School Owned By Labor Unions Is Plan

By United Press.
CHICAGO, July 15.—Plans for opening a "labor-owned" nursery school and child psychology research establishment here next fall have been announced by trade union leaders.

The school, to be attended by children between 2 and 5 years of age, will mark what is believed to be the first effort of labor unions toward education of young children in practical fashion. Violent opposition to child labor has been based in some measure on the contention of the unions that prevailing systems make it impossible for working boys and girls to obtain an education, but as far as known, no practical steps have been taken by the unions hitherto to improve the intellectual average of their number.

In addition to instructing children too small to attend the public schools, educational work will be carried on among unions in child care and education and experiments will be undertaken to add to the present knowledge of the subject.

The movement is sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Labor, local typographical unions and the American Federation of Teachers.

Cool Weather And Heavy Rains Over North, West Texas

By United Press.
DALLAS, July 15.—North and west Texas reported cool temperature and intermittent showers today while other parts of the country sweltered in extreme heat.

The northern part of the state received soaking showers during the night while across the border in Oklahoma torrential downpours caused near floor conditions at Ardmore and Durant.

The heaviest rains in Texas were reported in the vicinity of Brownwood and Abilene where the fall ranged from one to three inches.

Cool temperatures and scattered showers were predicted for most of the state today.

Negro Indicted For Murder Of Justin Farmer

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, July 15.—Jess Brinkley, alias Willie Robinson, negro has been indicted for the slaying of J. C. Terrell, Denton county farmer, near Justin Sunday night. The indictment returned against him late Thursday at Denton charges murder and burglary of a private home at night time.

He will be tried for his life as soon as he is able to be removed from the Dallas county jail where he is now in the hospital ward having been wounded in a fight with the posse vapping him early Tuesday morning, according to county attorney.

An organization has been formed in Washington to try to persuade the country to stop kidding congress. We're ready to quit—if congress is.

Once Famous Bar Of Juarez Is Now Convention Hall

By United Press.
EL PASO, Texas, July 15.—One famous for its shiny mahogany bar, polished brass rail, bright lights and night life, and known to every tourist the old Tivoli gambling hall in Juarez, just across the border in Mexico, has become a placid gathering place for barbecues and conventions.

Under the auspices of the El Paso chamber of commerce more than twenty barbecues have been held in the old hall during the past two months.

Shortly after the hall closed all gambling paraphernalia was moved out, a dance floor and barbecue stand installed and now the place is headquarters for conventions in Juarez.

Once the headquarters of the notorious bandit Pancho Villa, the old building now only arouses curiosity when visitors are told that the Tivoli once paved a gambling toll concession at $250,000 a month.

[Don't buy a car of any make until you see the new Ford; you'll be sorry you did not wait.]

"The Last of the Mohicans"

WELL, FOLKS, the time is now at hand for us to get rid of everything we have on hand. The new model Ford will soon be out and we'll need the space and here's your chance. We'll soon be taking inventory and want to be able to write it all on a postage stamp if possible. We've cut prices and cut prices and sold our used car stock down to eleven cars and trucks. BUT THIS IS NOT ENOUGH. We're cutting some more because we propose to dispose of every used car in our stock regardless of price or terms. We are cleaning house for inventory.

HERE'S THE CROP

1926 FORD COUPE—Rebuilt, repainted and in A-1 shape; will give you thousands of miles of real economical service.	$375
1924 FORD ROADSTER—This car at one time was a "jelly bean special" and had extra good care; cheap as dirt at.	$125
1924 FORD ROADSTER—Not the best looking car extant, nor yet the worst; it'll take you there and bring you back.	$50
1924 FORD TOURING—Just the thing for fishing trips and other service, where looks don't count; the tires are fair.	$50
TWO 1924 FORD TOURINGS—Cars not so good as these are bringing $150 and up, but you can have either one of them for.	$75
1925 TOURING—Chances are that this car will be running when many 1926 or '27's will be forgotten; you might say it's just broken in good; maybe you could use it at.	$150
1924 TRUCK—Many trucks not half as good as this one are making their owners a good living; a little nerve and this truck will put you on easy street for.	$100
1924 TRUCK—You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, but you can take this truck and make yourself a nice piece of money.	$150
1925 TRUCK—New cab, new body and motor completely overhauled; good as new, but we couldn't eat a new one either; it's yours for.	$350
1923 BUICK TOURING—Ego and false pride is all that has kept this car from selling; you couldn't beat it for real money's worth.	$275

LINCOLN FIVE-PASSENGER—New paint, top and tires; in perfect condition. We'll trade it for anything of value—house and lot or what have you? Do not buy any car from anybody until you have seen and driven this car. We will give you the same guarantee on this Lincoln as on a new one. It is positively as good as new.

Tough Tires — at easy prices!

More mountains climbed, more inspiring scenes found. There are millions of motorists on your trip this month—and the ones that climb the mountain trails on Silvertowns are getting to get extra service, make more trips, because there is extra toughness and added mileage in every Silvertown.

It's the contrast between high mileage and economical cost that makes Silvertowns stand out!

Their tough treads are just as much at home on the trails you follow on vacation trips as on the boulevard.

And nothing saves as much time—or as much money—as tires that get you to the end of your trip without a stop and without a thought.

For vacation or business—this year and next year—buy Silvertowns now.

Moscow Hopes To Unite Women In Anti-War Move

By VICTOR W. KNAUTH, United Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW.—Women are to be actively drawn into the anti-war movement and the agitation for Chinese liberation, according to plans published in a formal resolution of the comintern, the third international.

The program laid down by the international calls for demonstrations of women and children at the railroad stations and docks from which troops may start for China service, also of mass demonstrations by women, children and invalids in front of the various houses of parliament or other seats of government of nations which have stationed military contingents in Chinese cities. The women's clubs and other organizations are also to be encouraged in anti-war propaganda under the comintern's proposals.

"International proletarians, protect your proletarian fatherlands," is the slogan put forth by the international for use in the Chinese revolution. This appeal for fatherlands is a departure from earlier policies of the international, which had preached the main idea of a proletarian group without national lines and with a class loyalty regardless of race or geography.

The struggle "against imperialism" in China is really "a defense of the working classes in all the world against the attack of capitalism," the international's resolution declared. It added that "the fate of four continents, Europe, America, Asia and Australia, is bound up in China because the tactics there will inevitably grow into a new world war unless curbed at the start."

Jungle Breath

Fosing at times as a barber, and others as Attorney Davis, a curious man called Vilak has come to the queer little town of Porto Verde, in west central Brazil, to help his cousin, Elise Marberry, solve a strange mystery.

Elise, a beautiful American girl, has inherited a coffee plantation and other property adjoining Porto Verde. Several mysterious deaths occur, including that of one of her foremen. She herself has been threatened and warned to leave. Vilak, learning that Lincoln Nunnally, a famous American chemist and once a teacher of his, is in South America, sends for him.

Vilak believes that Gaylord Prentiss, a mysterious and forbidding man, is somehow involved in the deaths. He tries to visit Prentiss but is ordered to stay away. Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped and Prentiss is suspected. Vilak tracks the kidnapers, who are on horseback, and finally he and his companions come upon the kid, unharmed and being cared for by a gang of railroad laborers in the charge of one Carlos D'Albentara.

Vilak tells Elise she and the child must leave on the next boat. He and Nunnally return that evening to reward D'Albentara and his men with some wine. Before they come away, Vilak, through a seemingly accidental fall, manages to get hold of a rivet which he says he snatched from the finger of D'Albentara's half-breed foreman.

Returning, they hear a man's cries and dash into a clearing in the woods to rescue an Indian from torture at the hands of two ruffians. Vilak is stabbed in the wrist in the encounter.

CHAPTER XVIII
Vilak felt the Indian's pulse. "No, Don't worry. He'll be all right in a minute." He brought some water from a nearby pool and dashed it on the Indian's forehead. "Amazing what these jungle people can stand."

In a moment the aborigine's eyes opened again. He looked about him wonderingly, then pulled himself to a sitting posture and indicated that he wished to rise. Vilak shook his head. But the Indian, notwithstanding the tremendous pain the effort must have cost him, rose to his feet an instant, then dropped to his knees before Vilak and began a violent series of prostrations, alternately beating his cheek with the flat of his hands, then rubbing his forehead against the tip of Vilak's boot.

He continued these movements for five minutes, granting frenziedly all the while in spite of Vilak's attempts to check him. Then he looked up at his savior with a smile obviously intended to be radiant, but which his animal-like filed teeth made only bizarre. This done, still smiling, he sat upon the ground, curiously examining with his finger the thick mud around his feet.

In a few moments Vilak, through impeded by his wound, had fashioned a rude crutch from a small tree limb, and demonstrating to the Indian how it should be used, put it under his arm.

"We'll take him back to his camp," the Indian said as they moved off in the direction of the road. "Don't say anything about this to Elise. I've tried to frighten her enough when I thought it would accomplish anything, but now that she's agreed to go, there's no use of increasing her worries. Frankly, once I get her out of here I don't intend to let her back. Where things are going to end, God only knows—Will you please not look constantly at my hand and shake your little pellet of a head so guiltily? It isn't your fault, I tell you, that my hand was hurt."

The old man took off his thick glasses and wiped them jerkily. "They might have killed you—er—killed you—But you can count on me—I'll never do it again—er—never—er—why did they torture him so?" "Why do criminals do anything?" Half carrying the wounded Indian and actually lifting him when they reached had places in the path, they came to the road again. They had not walked far when they perceived three men coming toward them. As they neared, they saw that the newcomers were three other Indians from the railroad camp. By the way they combed all the dark places along the roadside, it was easy to see that they were searching for their comrade. They received the lost one with excited greetings; the wounded man himself pointed to Vilak and began a renewed guttural declamation. Vilak and the old man walked toward Elise's fazenda.

Elise as usual came forward to meet them. She caught sight of the bandage about Vilak's hand; her thin lips quivered. "You're hurt," she said quietly. "Badly?"

He laughed. "A little cut in my hand. A test tube broke when I was working with it. Nanny has accidents like that every day in his laboratory."

"I don't believe it." Her voice was low but determined. "You were hurt on account of me?"

"I'm sorry if my word means nothing to you," he replied. "Nanny can testify; whether I am telling the truth. He was there when it happened. Don't give me credit for being heroic, when I was merely being careless. Look and see for yourself, then."

He unwound the bandage and bared the wound. The tiny cut indeed looked as if it might have been made by broken glass.

"All right, I'll believe you," she murmured, bright once more. "But it's a nasty wound, just the same. Sure there aren't any pieces inside it?"

"Positive."

"At least let me put a proper looking bandage on it. That one you have is terribly amateurish. I have to have something to keep me in practice or I'll completely forget that I trained for war work."

"Good, if it makes you feel superior."

She departed and returned with some boracic acid and a bandage. These she deftly applied to his hand. "I must keep you in good repair, my esteemed and erminological cousin," she said banteringly. "You're quite valuable to me, even necessary at the moment."

"Valuable or not," he retorted, "the thing in which I'm interested is whether you're getting ready to leave Thursday with Tinky."

"I'll have everything ready by noon tomorrow. After that there'll be nothing to do but to wait two days for the boat." She motioned toward the tiny bed which could be glimpsed in a dark room inside. "I've moved Tinky where I can watch him all the time. At night I keep him in my room, and I'm going to take Hannah out of the kitchen and let her take care of him in the day time for a few moments that I can't be with him. Hannah was my nurse when I was a child and I know she'd let herself get killed before she'd let anything happen to him."

They talked a few moments longer, then Elise retired for the night. The old man, weary and exhausted, followed her example. Vilak, left alone, read for half an hour, strode outside the house and listened intently to the myriad sounds coming from come back. Perhaps he might even die in the mountains.

The proprietor drowsily expressed a polite wish that such might not be the case and with pleasure accepted the month's rent for the barber shop which Vilak put in his hand. Having thus interred barber Riggers for as long a time as he wished, Vilak returned to the tiny establishment of which he had been the head and sole employe for several months, and was making final preparations for his departure, when he noticed knots of natives gathering in the street, talking loudly and gesticulating in the excited fashion that he knew meant something had happened in the town.

Hurrying out, he strode up to one of the villagers, a barefoot old man with a long beard and a huge pancake-shaped hat of straw which rested insecurely on his hairless head. "What's the matter, Julius?" he demanded.

KOKOMO NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Kokomo, July 15.—We have had a great deal of rain this week, which will delay the farm work for some time.

The literary program last Friday night was a great success. A large crowd attended even though the roads were muddy.

Miss Zelma Johnson left Monday morning for Personville, where she will spend a week or two with her sister and family. She expects to go from there to Houston and spend August and September with another sister.

Mrs. M. P. Johnson left Saturday morning for Arkansas, where she will spend three weeks with relatives near Little Rock. It has been twenty-six years since she was there.

A number of our singing class attended the all-day singing at New Hope last Sunday and all report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Blardon of Mesa, Arizona, visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Johnson, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Goodwin of Grandview spent the night with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Everton, Monday night.

Sunday night was Bro. Leggett's regular night to preach here but he was in a meeting and could not come. His substitute filled his place wonderfully by reading the twenty-third chapter of Psalms. He took his text from the first verse: "The Lord is my Shepherd."

Our singing for Sunday will be postponed for this time on account of the league meet at Cheaney.

Saturday evening a large crowd of neighbors and friends met at the home of Mat Johnson and enjoyed the evening eating ice cream, playing games and listening to music produced by Jess and Quint Hagan.

MANGUM NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Mangum, July 15.—People of this community are overjoyed with the nice rain which began falling Tuesday morning.

The member of the Baptist church are building a tabernacle at the church, preparing for the revival meeting which begins first Saturday night in August. Everyone is especially invited to attend these services.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ellison and Miss Lois Ellison were in Eastland Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Monroe Ragan and daughters, Miss Faye Hagan and Mr. and Mrs. Leonrad Todd motored to Fort Worth one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ellison attended prayer meeting at Cisco Wednesday.

Roy Smith was a business visitor in Eastland Tuesday.

Burl Turner attended the show in Eastland Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Artie Liles of Eastland visited Mrs. Liles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boon Wednesday night.

Miss Frances Beeson was a German visitor a few days ago.

Mr. J. A. May was a business visitor in Eastland this week.

Mrs. W. B. Ellison is ill at this writing.

Don't forget that next Sunday evening is regular singing afternoon at the church.

Remember prayer meeting every Wednesday evening.

Several from this place attended the singing at New Hope last Sunday and report a good time and lots of cats.

Best wishes to the Telegram and its many readers.

W. P. Cochran, known in Ranger and elsewhere as "The Fence Rider," has broken into song and his book called "Texas Him Book" is just off the press.

Its clever from "kiver to kiver" and typically "Fence Riderish."

The front cover has a map of the Lone Star State and up in the Panhandle corner the author has written "We've got a map like a woman's lap"—from Him No. 83, and with characteristic touches the idea of the other states that touch the Texas border as applied to laps, is carried out.

The book is dedicated to the Empire of Texas and the edition that came to Ranger is dedicated to the "West Texas Empire" and its capital, Fort Worth.

The songs cover Texas subjects, such as "Good Old Texas," "T-Double U-C," "Texas Whoop," "Good Old Texas Gravy" and a number of others.

"Climbin' Up the Mountain on the Old T. P." is perhaps the one that will strike the most responsive chord in the hearts of West Texans.

The only omission the Fence Rider seems to have made is "A Stranger in Ranger" a classic that could go in every Texas Him Book.

Mr. Cochran was formerly with the Ranger Times. He and his ole bronc rode the trails around here for several months until they got mixed up a typhoon from Amarillo and the Big Dan Lobos at a football game in Cisco two years ago and both got crippled up for a while.

MID-SUMMER SPECIAL. Guaranteed Permanents $8. Come in for a test curl. MARINELLO BEAUTY SHOPPE

Balloting For "Miss Ranger" Began At Noon

Interest is perking up in the "Miss Ranger" contest. Four new names have been added to the list. They are Mrs. Hiram Brimberry, Mrs. Bon Neilson and Misses Olga Mitchell and Berna Avery. Voting began at the Lamb Theatre today at noon. Thirty-five votes will be allowed with each thirty-five cent ticket and ten votes with each ten cent ticket.

In addition to the handsome bathing suit and expenses paid, Ranger's representative to the Cisco Bathing Beauties Revue will be given a free permanent by the Graziola Beauty Shop and if she already has a permanent or naturally curly hair, then the Shoppe will doll her up with anything that she may choose in the way of beauty treatments.

The hours will be arranged for "Miss Ranger's" convenience—either day or night.

The Lamb Theatre will give the $25 for the bathing suit and expense money. On account of the free entertainment that Cisco will extend the Bathing Beauties, expenses are expected to be almost nil. If any young lady desires to stay in Cisco after the dance, she will be entertained in some prominent Cisco home.

Ranger now has sixteen entrants for "Miss Ranger" any one of which can qualify with the best in pulchritude. Voting is expected to be heavy. The winner will receive a loving cup, a screen test, appear in movie pictures, be guest of honor at all the social functions of the official opening of Lake Cisco, and receive a bathing suit of exquisite beauty, as well as all expenses to and from and in Cisco paid.

Get your coupons at the box office each day or night, write in your favorite for Miss Ranger and watch the paper for the daily standing.

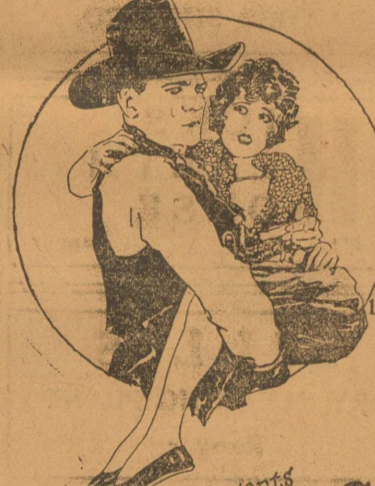

In 1926 there were 465,642 Texas farmers who produced 315 items with profit and sold them for $228,887,000.

Accidents will kill 300,000 in the next ten years, according to safety men. You'd think people would learn to quit trumping partners' aces pretty soon.
