CHAMBERLIN TAKES BELLANCA TO BERLIN

LEGISLATURE TAKES CARE OF ALL APPROPRIATION MATTERS

SECOND CALL SESSION IS NOT VERY LIKELY

Departmental Bill As Agreed to Carries Total of $11,301,086

AUSTIN, June 7.—Agreements reached at noon today by the free conference committee on the departmental appropriation bill assured that all appropriation measures will have been finally disposed of before sine die adjournment of the first called session of the 40th legislature tonight.

The departmental bill as agreed to, carries a total of $11,302,086, of which $5,735,090 is for the first year and $5,565,996 for the second year. This is the last of the appropriation measures to be reported out of conference.

It appeared certain at noon that Governor Moody will not call an immediate session of the legislature. He plans to leave Friday for Atlantic City to attend as a delegate the Imperial Shrine Council. The governor, however, has not yet announced definitely that he will make the trip.

The house worked this morning with a heavy majority while the senate had a full membership present.

At high noon today Representative Benn Woodell of Marshall, raised the point of order that the time of the special session had expired. Speaker Bobitt overruled the point of order, holding that the time did not expire until midnight tonight.

IRISH FREE STATE TO HOLD ITS ELECTION THIS WEEK

By J. W. T. MASON (Written for the United Press)

The Irish Free State will hold a general election on June 9, the first parliamentary contest since southern Ireland adjusted its boundary and its financial differences with northern Ireland and the British Government.

Previous elections have been held amid conditions of unusual stress and excitement due to the uncompleted part of the government's national policy. Southern Ireland, however, has now reached a condition of self-control over her own destinies which removes from practical politics many of the dominant issues of the earlier years of the Free State's history.

The most burning controversial questions in southern Ireland since the establishment of the Free State constitution have been the boundary dispute with Ulster, the difficulties over the Council of Ireland and the heavy Free State debt due to charges for the British national debt and pensions. After difficult negotiations among the three powers concerned, the existing boundary between northern and southern Ireland was left unaltered and officially ratified. At the same time the Council of Ireland, a body created to maintain an official connecting link between the Free State and Ulster, was abandoned.

The Free State did not pursue its half formulated objective of seeking to obtain more territory at the expense of northern Ireland and in such respects there might have been a successful political offensive against the Dublin ministry but for the victory which was won in the financial arrangement with Great Britain. The Free State negotiators succeeded in having the famous "Article 5" of the Treaty of 1921 creating the south Ireland government abrogated. This article provided for the Free State assuming its share of the British national debt and contributing toward war pensions. By the cancellation of "Article 5" the Free State was released from its financial obligations to the British government. In consequence the Free State undertook to assume all liability for "malicious damage" done in Ireland during the civil strife of 1919-1923.

As the result of these negotiations, the Free State capital debt, estimated at $300,000,000 was wiped out, and was replaced by a new national

SHIPS AT SEA SHOW HONOR TO MEMPHIS

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 7.—As the cruiser Memphis neared mid-ocean today on its voyage to Washington, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh still enjoyed the rest and quiet of the ship. He was storing up many hours of sleep in anticipation of late hours and early rising during the first week or so after his arrival at the capital on Saturday.

The Memphis had the distinction of being the most sought and honored vessel on the Atlantic. In addition to ordinary courtesies at sea all ships passing were giving salutes in honor of Lindbergh.

At dinner with the officers in the ward room last night Lindbergh was presented a cake in the form of his airplane "The Spirit of St. Louis."

TEMPLE—Surveys are being completed for bringing natural gas to this city. A movement is under way at Belton also to secure natural gas service.

Should the committee not decide on the sites near Lake Cisco, other places in the county will be considered, it is stated.

Plans Completed For Scout Melon Spread In Ranger

The Ranger Council of Boy Scouts met last night at the Citizens State Bank and made plans for the watermelon feast to be held in Ranger on the night of June 10, for the boy scouts of Eastland, Cisco and Ranger.

The plan is for the scouts to meet at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock and go from there to Main street, where games will be played for forty-five minutes.

Fifteen minutes will be given to the boys to demonstrate scout training and somebody is scheduled to make a three minute speech.

From Main street the boys and their respective scout masters will go to a place on the side of the hill in Hodges Oak Park, where there will be a camp fire. The big chief will take his seat, the medicine man will slay any devils that may be lurking about, and then as many ice cold watermelons as a large number of boys can consume will be cut and devoured.

Games will be played after the feast, and then "taps."

WELCOME TO LINDBERGH BY AIR MAIL

Every man, woman and child in the United States can have a part in welcoming home Captain Charles Lindbergh, if they desire. All it takes is a brief word of welcome, a letter dropped into the local post-office, marked "Via Air Mail Only," with air mail postage of 10 cents per half ounce and mailed prior to June 10.

Postmasters are in receipt of a postal bulletin, which carries a story of an air mail reception to Captain Lindbergh.

The president in his desire to have the welcome to the valiant airman a nation-wide one, and more especially since Captain Lindbergh as an air mail pilot was connected with the postoffice department, suggested that the postoffice department authorize every postmaster in the United States to advise every mailer in their respective communities of a proposed air mail reception to the conqueror of the Atlantic, who is due to arrive in Washington not later than June 13.

It is hoped that all who are interested in Captain Lindbergh may send him a greeting by mail, to be delivered on his arrival in Washington.

The postoffice department will give it special handling and see that each greeting is delivered to Captain Lindbergh. These letters may be deposited in any postoffice box.

Woman Living Near Desdemona Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Elax Parks, 23, living four miles west of Desdemona, is in a critical condition at the Gorman sanitarium where she was taken Sunday suffering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Physicians stated this morning that gangrene had set up in an injured foot and that the foot would be amputated today in an effort to save her life.

Mrs. Parks, with her husband and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ables, had started fishing Sunday. Mrs. Parks was riding on the running board of the car on one side, while her husband was riding the running board of the other side. A tire blew out, causing the car to suddenly swerve from the road and strike a tree. Mrs. Parks' left foot was caught between the running board of the car and the tree and almost severed from her leg. It is said that when she reached the sanitarium at Gorman where she was rushed for treatment, the foot was only attached to the leg by one leader.

Physicians, in an effort to save the foot, performed an operation in which the foot was sewed back in hopes that it would knit. This, it seems, was unsuccessful due to the fact that the foot was so nearly severed and the length of time that elapsed between the accident and getting to the sanitarium.

CHARMAN COUNTY YOUTH SUSTAINS BROKEN THIGH

Charles, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Branger of the Duster community in Comanche county, underwent an operation for setting a broken thigh at the Blackwell sanitarium in Gorman this morning. The child was playing about the home Sunday when he fell and broke his thigh. Surgeons cut into the flesh, re-set the bone and placed a metal band around it. At last reports Charles was doing nicely.

TREMENDOUS OVATION IS GIVEN TO FLYERS

Congratulated By Von Schubert on Behalf Of German Government

BERLIN, June 7.—Clarence D. Chamberlin arrived today in Berlin in the monoplane, Columbia, completing his record breaking flight from New York to Berlin which was interrupted twice and which almost ended in disaster in swampy land 80 miles southeast of here.

Chas. A. Levine, backer of the Bellanca plane's flight who leaped aboard the craft just before it soared away from New York Saturday morning was in the cabin with Chamberlin today. The pair left Cottbus, where they had remained over night at 4:15 p. m. and landed here at 5:57 p. m.

Chamberlin, Levine and the Bellanca received a tremendous ovation. The entire city was attracted to the open air by the roaring of the 20 airplanes which composed the Columbia's escort. The planes circled over Berlin while townspeople stared upwards from streets, roof tops and other places of vantage. Thousands assembled at Tempelhof field and cheered loudly.

Police reinforcements were summoned. United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman, invited Chamberlin and Levine to be his guests at the embassy.

Chamberlin did not leave the monoplane immediately, remaining at the controls while the craft was pushed to the landing floor near the air-drome. State Secretary Von Schubert congratulated Chamberlin in behalf of the government and spoke in tribute of the planes' wonderful achievement.

GENEVA, June 7.—The ability of the League of Nations to cope with the problems of the Balkans in which Italy is interested today rapidly was approaching a crucial test. An upheaval in the entire Adriatic and Balkan region was considered possible.

FROM THE BIBLE

Truth and Goodness:—For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth. He loveth righteousness and judgment; the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord. Psalm 33:4, 5.

AT LAST.

At last the people of Eastland county are to be given the facts concerning the need of a new courthouse. At least they are to be given the facts in so far as the grand jury is able to determine.

Judge Davenport, yesterday charged the grand jury in his court to investigate the need of a new courthouse and charged that this investigation should be made, minus political influence. He expressed the hope that such an investigation would only bring him out the fact and that it should not be used either for or against the proposed new building.

This is as it should be. The people of the county are entitled to know the facts—the truth. Then they will be able to vote intelligently at the coming election on the courthouse movement.

Judge Davenport is to be congratulated in taking a step that will give the taxpayers of the county the real facts regarding the adequacy and safety of the present courthouse building in Eastland.

TAX REDUCTION DEPENDS ON MANAGEMENT.

Objectives of taxpayers' associations, as revealed by a survey of taxpayers' associations of the United States by the national industrial conference board, may be distinguished as (a) the prevention of current extravagances in appropriations of public funds or instances of faulty financing, and (b) general improvement of the system of taxation.

Miller McClintock, director of municipal research of Harvard university, whose work takes him all over the country, and who has a large acquaintance with city halls, makes some interesting statements on the workings of government in the Cambridge, Mass., Tribune of April 23. Mr. McClintock claims that the type of government depends more upon the kind of men who are administering it than upon superficial changes in the form itself. He points out that no government is as bad as its opponents try to make out, and none so good as its proponents claim. The public gets the kind of government that it has the interest and intelligence to demand.

Mr. McClintock likened government to business and said that industry is no longer made up of only capital and labor. A new group has come into industry known as the management group which performs duties for both capital and labor. These duties have become more and more of a profession. Had it not been so, industry would never have reached its present state.

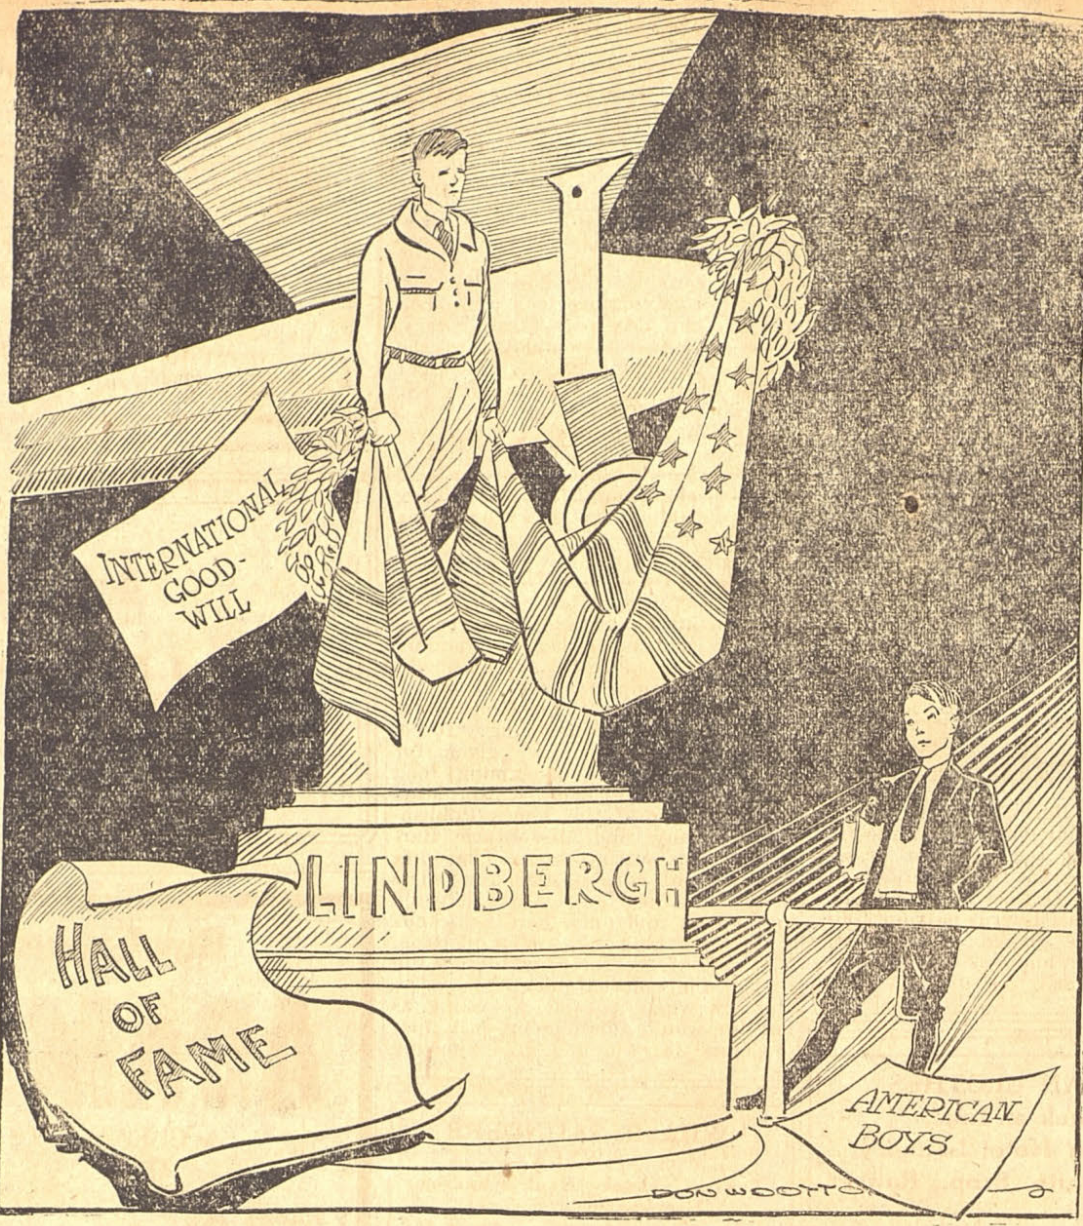

Stockholders (owners) rarely exercise any discretion at all he declared, and asks, "Does that not teach us something about government as well?" Municipal government after all, isn't a matter of politics, he continued, but a matter of complicated business. Business is having a substantial effect upon government.

Just as the management of the modern industry is a thing separate and apart from mere ownership, so must management of public affairs become a thing apart from mere politics if government is to be most efficient and taxes reduced to a minimum.

"Broken Out" Faces Are Not In Style

The girls who can't wear clothes which are in style because they have eczema, rash, tetter, scrofula or a "breaking out" where it would show are more to be scolded than pitied, because there is no need for them to be unattractive in out-of-style dresses when they can get rid of these skin troubles so easily now.

Black and White Ointment, and Skin Soap, are surprising thousands of girls who have had to deny themselves the attention which more attractive girls get because they quickly remove all trace of these skin troubles.

They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.

Ranger Notaries Public Will Be Qualified Today

Ranger notaries public can from this afternoon swear all they want to provided they are paid, as R. L. Jones, county clerk of Eastland county arrived at the Citizens State Bank, Ranger, this afternoon, administered the official oath and turned over commissions to new and old notaries public.

The custom of notaries was rather upset this year, as heretofore prospective or old notaries have arranged their bonds, filed their applications, taken the oath of office and qualified as notaries. A close reading of the statute sets forth that the law says that the secretary of state shall forward to the county clerk the commission of notaries public for the county and that upon a receipt of these commissions the clerk notify the parties to appear within ten days, make bond and be qualified.

C. E. May of Ranger, who has made a number of notary bonds, was advised by telephone this morning that Ranger notaries would have an opportunity to complete their applications in Ranger without a trip to the county seat, on Tuesday afternoon. Since June 1, 1927, when all old notary public commissions expired, Eastland county has been without notaries public.

The summer program which consists of outings such as picnics and swimming parties are to be discussed at tomorrow evening's regular meeting. Last summer five DeMolays represented the local chapter at Bear Lake Colorado. It was the greatest number of delegates from any one chapter in the United States and gave the boys something to brag about upon their return. This summer there should be even more to make this trip but preparations have not yet been made.

Wednesday evening is regular meeting night and every member is especially urged to be present to help map out a program for the summer months.

CHANGE OF PACE GOOD BASEBALL SAYS EVANS

A change of pace in baseball can be used to advantage in more ways than merely from a pitching standpoint. When the opposition is taking liberties with a twirler's fast ball and curve, usually a change of pace on the part of the pitcher will solve the situation.

A manager by mixing 'em up can very often get a club out of a slump by a shift or two in his lineup. Donie Bush recently did such a thing with his Pittsburgh club and attained excellent results.

After playing the first 25 games of the season the Pirates boasted an average only a few points better than .500. Feeling the club hadn't shown enough offensive strength, Bush shifted his infield to bring about the desired result.

Hal Rhyne, batting perhaps 50 points below normal, was removed from the lineup. Grantham was shifted from first base to Rhyne's position at second. Joe Harris was pressed into service at first base.

Immediately the Pirates showed a complete reversal of form, went out and hung up the longest winning streak of the year in the majors, 11 straight, and hopped into first place with a comfortable margin.

Earl Whitehill's ambition. Manager George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers seems to think this is Southpaw Earl Whitehill's year.

Joining the Tigers three years ago, Earl pitched first ball from his very debut and now has a record that shows 15 more victories than defeats covering his big league career.

A constant improvement in his style, a move that now holds the runners close to the bases and a better fast ball, due to added poundage, make Whitehill a highly capable performer. He has always boasted an excellent curve.

It is Whitehill's ambition to break into the select list of major league pitchers who have won 20 or more games. In 1924 he won 17, while last year he captured 16 victories.

Whitehill wants to win 20 games this year to make George Moriarty's managerial road all the softer and the Tiger leader feels that he will do it.

Pumper Kills Big Rattle Snake Near Ranger Tuesday

Frank Hall, pumper for the Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil company at Jennings lease, about five miles from Ranger, killed a monster diamond back rattler that lay in his pond, yesterday.

The big reptile, which measured four feet and three inches in length, had eleven rattles and a button, and was brought to the Ranger Times office yesterday afternoon for inspection. Its age was estimated as twelve years.

Mr. Hall said that he was going to a well, following a path he uses daily when something compelled him to look down and there lay the big snake in his path. He killed it and a relative of his who is in Ranger, is going to skin it and take the skin back to Oklahoma with him to show the children what kind of snakes they have in Texas.

RANGER TIMES FORCE ENJOYS CHICKEN FEAST

Between twenty-five and thirty barbecued chickens, from O. S. Driskill's chicken ranch, a bushel of toast, two gallons of potato chips, several cases of soda pop, a gallon of pickles, two ice cold watermelons and two and one-half dozen ice cream bricks, were consumed by employees of the Times Publishing Company, last night at the Ranger country club in their first annual picnic.

Early in the afternoon Gus Coleman and a colored chef reputed to be from New Orleans went out and made preparations for the feast. Gus assembling the cats and the chef barbecuing the chickens and making the "sop."

At six-thirty o'clock, George Washington Manning, officer in charge of transportation started the force on the way and succeeded in rounding up all except a few mavericks. At 7 o'clock promptly, plates of barbecued chicken, potato chips and pickles were dished out to the hungry force.

There were no prizes given for record breakers in consuming food but it was judged that Walter Murray, manager of the Times Publishing company, and Miss Marie Barnett, who is putting on the Times annual special edition, tied for first honors as they modestly admitted eating one and one-half chickens with everything else in proportion. The rest of the force, including Jim Smith, the colored porter, were no slackers when it came to eating as not one would admit being on a diet. Cigars for the men and chewing

You'd delight Blanche Ring if you offered her a Lucky Strike She'd say to you:

"The life of an actress is one of nerve-strain. If she sings, also, her worries are doubled. Her audiences reflect her moods. If she is mentally tired, she cannot help but convey her fatigue to those out in front and the result is a form of ennui on both sides of the footlights. I have found a sure cure for such fatigue, on the part of the player, is a good cigarette. For years I have smoked Lucky Strikes and the mental balm and real enjoyment I have derived from them have helped me marvelously. In addition they have protected my voice. I use no other brand."

Mussolini Plans Development of Radio In Italy

By THOMAS B. MORGAN, United Press Staff Correspondent.
ROME—Broadcasting on a world basis is the latest program of Premier Mussolini. The Duce has reserved to himself the right to appoint the president of the new central radio body, which is to bring radio here up to the level of other European countries.

A special law, authorizing the creation by the newly formed corporation of nine new transmitting stations, has been passed. Rome is to have a 25-kilowatt transmitter, instead of the present 3.5-kilowatt station. This will bring it up to the level of the big high-power stations of Daventry in England and Radio-Paris. It will be inferior in power only to the 30-kilowatt Berlin station, at present the most powerful in Europe.

Milan is to have a 7-kilowatt station, and transmitters of 3 kilowatts will be built at Florence, Genoa, Naples, Turin, Bologna and Palermo. The present system of charging the equivalent of $5 a year to possessors of radio sets will be maintained, but, in addition, a trifling tax is to be imposed on all house-holders, whether they have sets or not.

Italy, at present, possesses only three radio-casting stations, namely Rome, Milan and Naples, the first named running on 3 kilowatt power, while the other two work with 2.5 and 2 kilowatts respectively.

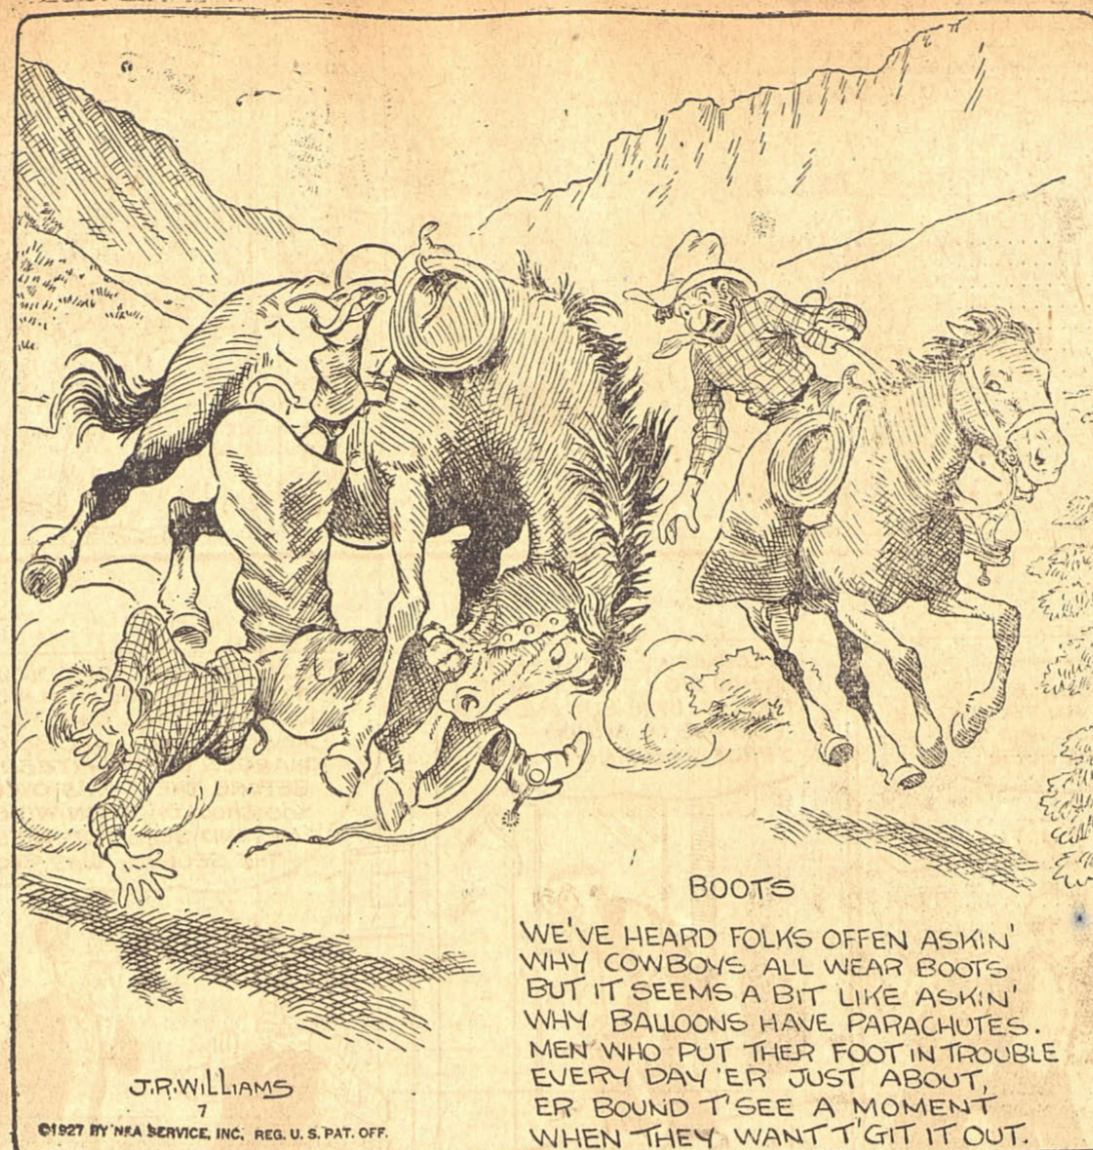

While radio was received with great enthusiasm on its introduction into Italy some two and a half years ago, it has languished of late, though a certain impetus was given to it again by broadcasting, during the recent season, of the operas given at the municipal opera house in Rome.

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH

By Morris De Haven Tracy
CHAPTER SIX
When Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at the Lincoln Aircraft Company's offices in Lincoln, Nebraska, late in 1921, and enrolled as an aviation student, they thought so little of his chances of ever becoming anything much in the way of an aviator that no record was kept of the date of his arrival.

Apparently the immediate impression was of a sort of a "Merton of the Movies" person who had dreamed of flying and finally came with enough money to pay for some instruction, but who never would do much more.

Ray Page, president of the company, described him as typically a country lad, green, gawky, gangling and bashful.
"He blushed when he came to us in a way that would have done credit to any high school girl," said Page.
He was turned over to some instructor, and no one knows just who it was, to be taught a bit about airplanes.

He was given the ground training, which consisted of a study of airplane construction and explanation of the theory and mechanics of flying.
He was not talkative, was very quiet and unassuming, but when he got into the pilot's nest, what a difference there was, said Page, telling of this training period.
"As soon as he was permitted to take a plane aloft, everyone began to notice him. He was a changed man when he got his hands on the controls. He wasn't bashful or blushing any more, and he didn't appear gawky. He made airplanes behave like no beginner ever did before."
"He was never reckless, that boy, but daringly courageous."
"Pretty soon everyone around the field was talking about the kid being

Clara Bow Shows Today in Children Of Divorce at Lamb

A famous author once defined stepchildren of the moon as that group of people who are not gifted, but who are of the class in life which applauds the artists—the children of the moon. Yet it seems that in his definition of the stepchildren of the moon he omitted a group of people who are the real sufferers in this life, for they suffer because of the mishaps of others. They are the children of divorce who because of the mistakes of their parents walk the gang-plank of this existence blindfolded. Their eyes are closed to the real and sincere happiness that is obtainable only through love and truth. How then can they live love and truth when it has basically been separated? Groping for the realness and depths of life they stumble over the rock of temptations—jazz, night life, dance, song and mockery. Who can blame them? Where is their guidance? Clara Bow is one of these in her latest picture, "Children of Divorce," which comes to the Lamb theatre, Ranger, today.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Billy Wells, Nyda Lomax and Winnie Shelton are selected by T. Q. Curtis from his department store, to come into his home for one year as his wards, because he wants to help them further certain worthy ambitions. Billy is the only one of the three that is sincere. She wants to become a concert violinist. The other two lie to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity.

Billy is infatuated with Dal Romaine, nephew of Mrs. Meadows, the hostess. She fears Dal is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton and when the two are absent from the city over the same week end, her suspicions are strengthened.

In spite of this infatuation, Billy tenderly remembers Clay Curtis, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family in a poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night.

The girls, unknown to T. Q., learn that he intends to adopt one of them when the year is over and to gain his affection, a series of intrigues follow which mysteriously involve not only the three girls, but Mrs. Meadows, Eddie Banning (Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of other days) and Dal Romaine. Billy loses interest in her violin. She has a breakdown and leaves for a month, during which time she feels she has recovered from Romaine's spell. The night of her return, however, at a country club dance, she falls again under his strange, fascinating powers. While waiting on a balcony for her partner, Billy sees a scuffle between Romaine, who is strolling with Nyda, and Eddie Banning. When Billy later asks Romaine about it, he tells her that Banning has put himself and "someone else" in his power.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLII
Although Billy had felt those last days in Crescent Lake that she was entirely well and equal to anything, she was surprised to find, after her return to Colfax, that her nerves had merely been rested, not cured. She was glad to stay in her room until almost noon each morning, having her breakfast in bed brought up by the adoring Viola, who also served up the gossip of the household.

On Thursday, a little less than a week after Billy's return, Viola relayed a message to her from Nyda. "Miss Nyda she say will you do her a favor, Miss Billy, play with her them brats in the kindergarten room this afternoon. They four of them now, Miss Billy, and Miss Nyda sure do hate to be bothered with them kids. She say she got a 'portant engagement' this afternoon, else she wouldn't ask you." Billy asked interestedly, "I thought there were only two—Mrs. Moore's little grandson, Tommy, and the cook's little girl, Beatrice."

"Sure, Mr. Curtis got two more kids for her to teach kindergarten stuff to," Viola chuckled up. "She's got three new ones is, and first Miss Nyda cottoned to 'em somethin' comical, but now she plum tired of the whole shootin' match."

Billy laughed. "Tell Nyda I shall be glad to help her out this afternoon, though I don't know the least thing about kindergarten work."

When Viola had left, Billy lay back in bed and reflected disgustedly on herself, Nyda and Winnie. What a fine trio of frauds they all were! Winnie had pretended that she wanted to become a private secretary and the very sight of a dictionary gave her a headache. Nyda had stammered on the questionnaire, and in that "fine" letter of hers on "What I would do with a hundred thousand dollars," that the ambition which burned in her heart was to become a kindergarten teacher and social service worker among the children of the poor.

Well, she was getting her fill of it now. Billy told herself grimly. Since old T. Q. had fitted up a model kindergarten in his home she had been saddled with the care of two children for two days a week, when all her pleasure-loving nature cried out against this sacrifice of even four hours a week to the work she had professed to love with all her heart. And now T. Q. had added to her burdens by increasing the number of her charges to four. Billy wondered who these children were. "Society" children, Viola had said.

Poor Nyda! She did not dare rebel openly. Her strongest hold on T. Q. her only "edge" on the other two girls, was her professed love of children. Her choice of a profession had touched T. Q. profoundly, had endeared the tall, handsome, black-haired, dark-eyed girl to him as nothing else could have done. So Nyda had to play her part, no matter how much she hated the role she had chosen, if she expected to win in the strange contest to become T. Q. Curtis' adopted daughter.

Winnie, Billy reflected somberly, was playing her cards more skillfully than Nyda. Nyda was selfish, hard, concerned only with her own pleasure, and pleasure with Nyda meant the adulation of men, but she was not vicious, not really an accomplished schemer. Left undisturbed in her natural environment, as queen of the cosmetics department in the big Curtis store, and as the acknowledged "vamp" of that city within a city, she would have continued to be happy in her way, and would eventually have married Eddie Banning or someone like him. No, there was no real evil in Nyda, or there had not been until T. Q. Curtis, unknown to himself, had dangled a fortune before her dazzled eyes. But Winnie—Winnie's hands clenched at the very thought of Winnie Shelton—Winnie was a shallow, lying, scheming, clever, cruel, un-moral little beast, who would stop at nothing to get what she wanted. And now, since she had become T. Q.'s "ward" she wanted two things with all the energy of her mean nature—she wanted to win in the contest to become T. Q.'s daughter and heiress and she wanted Dal Romaine.

She was marvelously cunning in her campaign to win T. Q.'s heart. Although it must have irked her very soul, she was spending at least three evenings a week at home, working prettily and with many features of office and butler at T. Q.'s desk, taking dictation, obligingly slow, and a check of speed with shorthand, and transcribing his letters on a sheet of paper that he had bought for her. She was anxious, even tearfully, to please him as he made corrections on his hastily jumbled letters, which Billy was sure were never mailed.

Oh, it was sickening, sickening. Billy groaned, and turned her face into her pillow. And she, Billy Wells, who had so prided herself on her sincere ambition to become a great violinist, who had leaned over backward with a sturdy, peasant sort of independence—she was just as bad as either of those other two. What had she really done to justify her existence in T. Q.'s home, as his ward there to prepare herself for her career?

She had neglected her violin until now she was ashamed to pick it up. She had squandered the money which should have gone for violin lessons on clothes bought for the sole purpose of catching and holding Dal Romaine's eyes. She remembered with a guilty shudder that she had not given her mother a cent this last month. And she had promised to give her a hundred and fifty a month!

What had happened to her? Here she lay when it was almost noon, coddling her body in a luxurious bed. Lazy, idle. After all, wasn't she exactly like Winnie Shelton?

Fired by the fury which she had worked up against herself, Billy hurried down to the music room to practice on her violin. Of course she still loved music! She tried to recapture the thrill with which she had once lifted the beloved instrument to her chin, but it could not be done. Her mind was buzzing with a hundred problems, schemes and perplexities. When she broke a string, in her angry impatience to conquer her mood, she was almost glad. Then she reminded herself that the doctor had said that she must not practice again for many weeks, do no serious work on her violin for months.

But of course that was absurd. She would just rest a few days longer, then set herself seriously to work on her music. A cold fever of love at the end of the year would bring to her shivered along her overwrought nerves.

She had a luncheon engagement with Dal for one o'clock. She was to meet him at the Marquette Hotel, for he did not like to antagonize T. Q. Curtis more than was necessary, and T. Q. had made it unmistakably clear that he did not like Romaine.

When she was seated opposite Dal at a table for two in the most secluded corner of the dining room, Dal took her most "exclusive" hotel, she searched his eyes hungrily for assurance against the swarm of doubts and fears that tortured her when she was away from him.

"Dal," she asked suddenly, "please don't be angry with me, but tell me

—do you see Winnie Shelton often, meet her, as you do me?"

Dal's eyes narrowed, so that she could not possibly read the expression in them. But his thin, perfectly cut lips parted in that flashing smile which she knew so well.

"What a suspicious infant it is!" he teased her tenderly. "Of course I see Winnie occasionally. I had tea with her twice while you were in Crescent Lake, took her to dinner once with another couple, and we played golf once at the country club. My engagements with Nyda Lomax total about the same. Don't torture yourself with jealousy, dear heart. I never ask you for an accounting as to your own engagements, and unless we are to give our secret away, both of us must be seen with other people. Oh, pardon!" He spoke with calm courtesy to the waiter who had come to stand patiently with order pad and poised pencil, at his side.

"What shall it be, dear?"

But she did not care what she ate. It was food and drink to her to sit opposite him, to hear his low, caring voice, to watch the quick grace of his satin-smooth brown hands as they flashed about the table.

"Oh, dear, I must hurry!" she remembered resentfully at two o'clock. "I have to take Nyda's work with me this afternoon. By the way, Dal, will you let me ask you just one more question?"

He nodded, smiling at her indulgently, but his eyes were narrowed, watchful.

"When you said the other night that Eddie Banning had put himself in your power, and someone else, too, at the same time, did you mean—Nyda?"

"But how, Dal, how?" she persisted, excitement rising swiftly to her cheeks. "What has Eddie Banning to do with Nyda Lomax now? He used to be engaged, but why should he attack you, why should Nyda see him in her room at midnight? Oh!" she cried, ashamed, "I didn't mean to say that. You will forget that I said that, Dal, won't you? Can't you tell me? After all, we're engaged to be married, dear. By the way, take me into your confidence?"

"Maybe I didn't mean anything," he teased her, reaching for his wallet to pay the check. "But—just for your own peace of mind—you have not a thing in the world to fear from Nyda Lomax." His voice hesitated seriously between the two parts of the name, but Billy was too absorbed in wondering what he meant by his strange words to notice that faint, significant hesitation.

In the next chapter Nyda Lomax

betrays herself to T. Q. Curtis, and the latter, hurt and disappointed, begins to think he has been a fool.

COMET AND ECLIPSES OF SUN AND MOON IN JUNE

Pons-Winnecke Visitor Speeds Toward Earth 24 Miles a Second

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
June will be an auspicious month for science and superstition. The sun will be darkened the moon will be obliterated and a great ball of fire with an enormous tail will appear to threaten us in the sky.

Years ago special prayers went up, people shut themselves in and others even committed suicide under the awesome spell of any of these events. Now we prepare differently for these great spectacles of scientific significance.

The darkening of the sun and obliteration of the moon are eclipses of these great bodies in space, and the great ball of fire we know now as a comet.

The first event of the three to occur this month is the eclipse of the moon. The earth will come between the sun and the moon, completely shutting off direct sunlight from our satellite. This will occur in the night of June 14-15 and will be seen all over the western hemisphere.

First the moon will cut through the outer shadow or penumbra of the earth and will slowly cross into the umbra or dark shadow, which it will reach at 1:43 a. m. eastern time, June 15. For the next hour and a half the moon's eclipse will increase until it will be totally eclipsed at 3:13. This totality will last 21 minutes, after which the moon will move slowly out of the earth's shadow, only to be obstructed from our view by the coming dawn.

Comet Comes Next.

A week later the day becomes the longest of the year, with the beginning of summer, at 5:22 on the morning of June 22.

Almost at the same time, if we happen to be up and point a weak-lensed telescope toward the rising sun, we may be able to detect a stranger in the sky, coming toward us. It is the Pons-Winnecke comet, discovered in 1819 by a doorkeeper at the observatory at Marseilles and since then noticed every six years.

Comets are a strange lot of heavenly bodies, each a collection of fiery meteors and dust particles grouped together by some sort of electric attraction and whirling around the sun at an enormous speed and over a huge ellipse, or flat circle. Some of them have tails of thin gas, so thin that we on earth don't feel their presence, even when we might be passing right through them.

The Pons-Winnecke comet is approaching us at the rate of 24 miles a second, faster than the earth is traveling, and on June 26 it will come nearest to us—a distance of 3,600,000 miles.

If we stay up until 3 in the morning of June 26, eastern time, we may see the comet perhaps without aid of a telescope, but barely visible in the sky almost directly above us. It will be moving southeast almost as fast as the moon seems to move, but the presence of a waning moon at the same time may drown out the view of the comet.

Sun's Eclipse June 29.

Of far more importance to science although invisible in the United States, will be the sun's eclipse on the morning of June 29. As the sun rises that morning, the moon will get between it and the earth so as to cast a circular shadow 30 miles in diameter, moving northeast across the earth.

This shadow will start a little west of the Bay of Biscay cross the Atlantic and pass over the populous section of Lancashire in England.

It will proceed along the length of Norway, the north of Sweden and Lapland and over the desolate region of the Arctic ocean north of the Siberian coast. It will go on over the eastern end of Siberia and leave the earth at sunset at the tip of Alaska.

Scientists have been preparing for this event for a whole year. Some American scientists are going to points in Norway to set up instruments by which they may study the sun's corona, the great prominences of fire that can be seen favorably only when the moon covers the disk of the sun. They want to know what materials form it and exactly how.

For this long preparation the scientists will have no longer than 50 seconds to study this phenomenon. That's the longest the eclipse will last in totality. In England, where British scientists will study the eclipse, it will last only 22 seconds.

But enough material, it is hoped, will be gained to reward the scientists for their long preparations.

Hoping that it's a clear day!

PLAN PAGEANT TO CELEBRATE SOVIET RULE

By VICTOR W. KNAUTH,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
MOSCOW.—Ten years of soviet rule will be celebrated next Nov. 7 and preparations for pageantry, decoration and anniversary are already under way.

Several thousand foreigners, including many from the United States are expected to come to witness the spectacle. Travel bureaus have already made inquiries from the soviet government, preparatory to organizing tours for the occasion.

The jubilee celebration will take a number of interesting forms and the best talent of the Russian people is at work. Maxim Gorky, the celebrated Russian writer, now in Italy, is reported to be occupied with a new book to mark the tenth anniversary of the soviet socialist government.

Meyerhold, foremost Russian theatrical producer with a world-wide reputation, is also engaged in developing new productions with the help of some of the country's most famous authors. The moving picture studios, from which came the celebrated "Battle Cruiser Potemkin" film, are also busy in preparation for the tenth anniversary celebration.

The palace of Kashinsky, the petite and lovely ballerina who was favorite of Czar Nicholas II, is to be adorned with a large statue of Nicholas Lenin, who made the dancer's home his headquarters while he directed the bolshevik revolution in Leningrad. Smolny institute in Leningrad, once the most fashionable finishing school for daughters of the aristocracy and later the buzzing center of the bolsheviks in the days of October, 1917, is also to be marked with statues of the principal revolutionary leaders who worked there after the young ladies had fled from their classrooms.

The famous Russian ballet corps, the grand opera, the symphony orchestra and the theatrical companies all are being included in the elaborate preparations. All the resources of the Slav people, rich in romance and drama, are being called on to make the occasion brilliant.

The festivals will take place all over the soviet union but will be focused on Moscow, the seat of the government. The anniversary jubilee, according to present plans, will continue for several weeks, culminating on Nov. 7 in exercises on Red Square in Moscow, facing the ancient and beautiful Kremlin wall with its splendid towers, and in front of the stern tomb of Lenin. A military parade and a demonstration of civilians, in which it is expected that close to one million persons will take part, will be the climax.

SHAMROCK.—By a vote of almost two to one the people of this city decided to sell the municipal light plant to the Central Power and Light Company. The city, by this sale, has been able to extend water mains, retire bonds and reduce the tax rate from $1.50 to 75 cents.

SLATON.—A franchise for natural gas service has been granted by this city to A. J. McMahon of Oklahoma City.

Oil and gas lease, T. Matthews et al. to J. E. Lewis & Co., northeast 1-4 of section 59, block 4, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, consideration $120.

Boys of Today Are Taller Than Their Forefathers, Why?

American boys of today are at least two inches taller than their grandfathers were at the same age, according to Dr. Horace Gray of the Institute for Juvenile Research in Chicago. Dr. Gray bases his statement upon measurements of the heights of over 1,000 boys born of American parents, compared with the height of boys another scientist measured over 50 years ago.

Whether this increase in height can be attributed to increased knowledge of health and disease control is an interesting speculation. Dr. Gray believes it can.

"Thinking of the difference in size of experimental rats, for instance, that have been fed a proper diet in comparison with those fed deficient diet, it would seem that Dr. Gray's conclusion is justified," points out Miss Lydia Broecker of the National Dairy Council.

"Good food and hygienic living should build nearer to the superman. If I were wanting to add an extra inch to my height at the growing period, I should feel much surer of doing it, if I drank a quart of milk every day and used plenty of butter with its concentrated vitamin. A far
