COOLIDGE NAVAL CONFERENCE FACES POSSIBILITY OF DEFEAT

WASHINGTON REFUSES TO YIELD TO BRITAIN

British Show No Signs Of Changing Demands On Cruiser Tonnage

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 8.—Officials here today faced the possibility of failure of the Coolidge naval conference at Geneva.

The administration definitely decided not to agree under any conditions to a maximum tonnage of more than 350,000 or 400,000 as maximum for Great Britain and the United States.

Much to the surprise of Washington the British show no signs of receding from their demands for 71 cruisers totaling from 500,000 to 600,000 tons. The present British "modern" cruiser tonnage including ships under construction is 305,000 compared with 95,000 tons for the United States.

FORT WORTH, July 8.—Homer L. Bond, 23, and Miss Frances Hooker, 19, died in a local hospital Thursday night from wounds inflicted by Bond early Thursday when he called at the girl's home.

Witnesses said there were no words exchanged immediately preceding the tragedy.

KELLOGG EASY FILIPINOS POOR

By RODNEY DUTCHER.

NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON.—With China, Nicaragua and Mexico pretty well off his mind, Secretary of State Kellogg is allowing himself more and more humor at his press conferences. Kellogg, as has been remarked, is an ardent golfer. Those who know how nervous he is marvel that he can hit the ball once in 10 swipes, but the fact is that he plays a fine game for a man of his age.

Golf is often mentioned at the Kellogg press conferences. "Going to play 18 holes, Mr. Secretary?" one correspondent asked the other day.

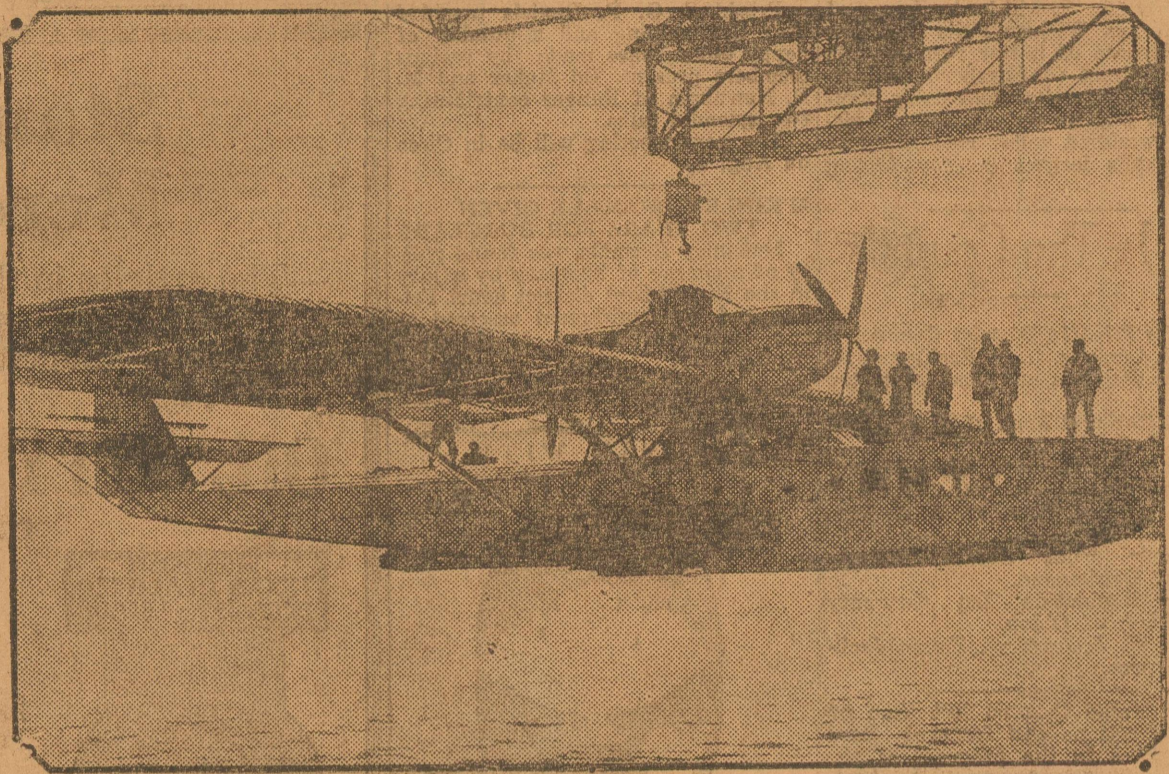

"Well, maybe I can do 36," replied Kellogg, meaning just what he said.

It was raining cats and dogs outside and someone called attention to the fact.

"Young man," said Kellogg, "nothing ever spoils golf!"
When the Honorable Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, read the assertions of Governor General Leonard Wood, on arrival in this country, that the Filipinos were prosperous, happy and well paid for their labor, his reply was brief and to the point. It was made through your correspondent, because few others pay much attention to the non-voting Filipinos.

"There are 135,000,000 pesos in circulation in the islands and there are 12,000,000 people there," said Guevara. "The peso is worth 50 cents. That means that each person has $5.50 to his name, on an average. But the 135,000,000 pesos include all the money in banks, 65,000,000 pesos a year for government expenses and all money hoarded away. This means that countless Filipinos never even see any money. And even the poorest Igozotte in the most uncivilized section needs some money to buy a loin-cloth."

Now Comes 60-Passenger Flying Boat

The huge new all-metal Dornier "Super-Wal" flying boat with capacity for 60 passengers, is pictured above. The plane was tested recently at Friedrichshafen, Germany. It is capable of maintaining a speed of 180 kilometres an hour and is equipped with two 500-horsepower Rolls Royce Condor motors in tandem. A plane similar to this will be used by Captain F. T. Courtney, British flyer in his trans-Atlantic flight scheduled for the near future.

Hot Enough For You, Is One Big Question Now

"Hot enough for you?" is the universal greeting the last two days. A Ranger thermometer yesterday registered a mere 96, but today at noon it crawled up to 99 degrees—and it's hot enough, but not as hot as some other days have been this summer, as just a few days ago the mercury raced up to 102.

Yesterday was a sweltering hot day and so is today, but it might be worse as there are several more degrees left on the thermometer.

Officers Stage Exciting Man Hunt in Ranger

An exciting man hunt took place this afternoon about 3 o'clock at Main and Austin streets in Ranger. Officers, including Ranger city police and members of the sheriff's department were sure they were on a hot trail. Their prey was a man which they claim they have been wanting for some time. In their own minds they had him cornered in the attic of the Citizens State bank building. Officers completely surrounded the building to prevent the possibility of an escape by the hunted man.

At one time the hunted one was said to have been attempting an escape by means of the fire escape on the bank building. Then the guard was increased a little. The object of the hunt is said to be wanted in connection with some liquor investigations.

As the Times went to press the guard was still maintaining vigil about the bank building but no capture had been made.

Looking Into Future Of Aviation In U. S.

United States Army Has Made Persistent Efforts Toward Furthering Aviation. Stimulated Through Army Air Act.

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 8.—The army did not need the object lessons of trans-Atlantic flight to stimulate its interest in the conquest of the air. Since the world war a persistent effort has been in progress to obtain generous congressional support for the army air program.

This effort culminated in the Sixty-ninth congress on July 2, 1926 when an act was approved "to provide more effectively for the national defense by increasing the efficiency of the air corps of the army of the United States, and for other purposes."

This act, after drastic cuts in the proposals of the Lassiter Air Board, provided for a five-year expansion program at the end of which time there were to be 1800 effective airplanes, 1650 commissioned officers and 15,000 enlisted men, including 500 flying cadets. Provision for the first year of this program has already been made.

When the United States entered the world war the national army air strength consisted of 65 officers and 1987 enlisted men, and later reached a maximum strength of 18,089 officers and 133,644 enlisted men.

The army air act provided for the creation of a new post of Assistant Secretary of War for Air, to be appointed by the president, whose prescribed duties were "to aid the secretary of war in fostering military aeronautics, and to perform such functions as the secretary may direct." This position is filled by F. Truette Davison.

Chamberlin was showing Drouhin the tricks of the Bellanca ship out of courtesy to a fellow pilot, although he and Levine have broken off the partnership which began when they started to Berlin from Roosevelt field.

Ford Withdraws Charges, Regrets Fight With Jews

By United Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—The long and bitter fight between publications sponsored by Henry Ford on the one hand and Jews of the world on the other, came to an abrupt and unexpected end today.

A signed statement by Ford made public here withdrew all charges against Jews made in his publications, expressed regret that they had been published and explained the motor magnate must have been unaware of what had been printed in the publications.

The statement came like a treaty of peace. It was followed closely by announcement in Detroit by William H. Gallagher, attorney for Aaron Sapiro, that the latter's $1,000,000 libel suit against Ford probably would be withdrawn.

Cisco Business Man Accidentally Killed Thursday

Jim Smith, brother of Mrs. Clarence Herman, formerly of Ranger, was accidentally killed yesterday afternoon in Cisco when a gun in a car he was getting out of a garage was accidentally discharged, killing him instantly.

According to reports here, Mr. Smith had gone to get the car out of the garage about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His family, consisting of a wife, a seven-months-old baby and a sister-in-law, who was in the house at the time, heard the shot, but as they did not hear anything more from him, they became uneasy and upon investigation found him dead.

Mrs. Herman, who was Miss Lorena Smith, passed through Ranger this morning on her way to Cisco. She was just returning from a summer vacation.

TWO ARRESTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO DATE

Padded Payrolls May Reach $7,000,000 Is Latest Report Made

By United Press.
AUSTIN, July 8.—With two men charged with diverting state funds already apprehended and released under $1,500 bond, a diligent search is being carried on to locate the third suspect.

The arrest of H. Joschke and S. C. Tompkins Thursday afternoon, came as a culmination of a month's investigation carried on by the attorney general's department of the highway department funds beginning with June, 1926, up to December of the same year.

Assistant Attorney General Calhoun, who led the investigation, declared the probe uncovered a "padded" payroll involving the misappropriation of $7,000,000 of the state's money.

Short Course To Draw Many From Eastland County

If present plans materialize, Eastland county will be well represented at the agricultural short course held at the Texas A. & M. college during the last week in July. Indications now are that at least 30 people, including representatives of the boys' and girls' clubs, women's clubs, poultrymen, dairymen, truck farmers, bankers, newspaper men, etc., will make up the Eastland county delegation that will make the trip on a special Pullman from Eastland.

County Agent Patterson states that he is very anxious that bankers and other business men as well as poultrymen, dairymen, and others make the trip. Special courses are to be offered during the short course in many of these lines and he believes it is well worth the time of anyone interested in any of them to make the trip.

According to County Agent Patterson, the trip can be made for $18, which includes transportation, room and board. At this price it is well worth the time and money of any farmer, business or professional man or woman to go on the trip.

Plans are being made to have the Eastland county delegation leave Eastland in a special Pullman on the afternoon of Sunday, July 24, at about 2:47 o'clock. Those traveling on the Pullman will not have to leave the car until reaching College station.

Ranger's First Mayor Favors New Court House

"We have got to have a new court house sooner or later," M. H. Hazeman, Ranger's first mayor said today when speaking of the election to be held tomorrow.

"The time is coming quickly when a new courthouse will be a necessity and I think that we just as well go ahead and build it now and give Eastland county the benefit that the building activity would bring about. That work together with road and street work that is being done over the county would keep a great many men that are now idle employed and at the same time give Eastland county a courthouse that it certainly needs and would be proud of."

FROM THE BIBLE.

A New Creation: Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.—Psalm 51:10.

Prayer:
 "Take my heart and let it be Always only, Lord, for Thee."

TOMORROW.

Don't forget to go to the polls tomorrow and vote for the $300,000 of bonds for the building and equipping of a new courthouse for Eastland county.

The present courthouse is unsafe—endangering the lives of those who are forced to work there day after day. It is inadequate—many departments that ordinarily are housed in the courthouse are forced to pay high rents for quarters elsewhere. It is unsafe for the valuable records that are stored there—a fire hazard that may permit these valuable records to be destroyed any day.

Indications are that there is sufficient sentiment in the county in favor of the new courthouse to carry the bond election. But the danger is that those favoring the bond election may not get to the polls.

If those favoring the voting of the bonds go to the polls Eastland county will soon have a new, safe, adequate courthouse.

TEXAS TODAY.

Texas Today is the title of a handsome little booklet published by the Manufacturers Record. The occasion for the publication and distribution of the booklet was the recent visit of the "All Texas Special" to Baltimore and a reception for the tourists by Col. Robert Edmonds, publisher of the Manufacturers Record.

The booklet contains a comprehensive survey of the industrial and agricultural possibilities and opportunities of Texas. It is a brief synopsis of the magnitude, the power, the wealth and the resources of the great state. It abounds in concrete examples of the great success made by certain individuals in various lines of endeavor in Texas.

Col. Edmonds who was one of the most gracious hosts who entertained the Texans on their trip to the north and east pays a glowing tribute to the people of Texas. He declares that the greatest resource of the state is the people of the state.

"Great as are the material resources of Texas," says Col. Edmonds, "vast as is its area and marvelous as has been its material development, the most commanding fact in the study of Texas with a view to its future is to know the people of Texas. The vastness of the area of that state seems to be typified in the broadness of the vision and energy of its people. Though it was said of old that 'there were giants in those days' it might truthfully be said of Texas today that there are giants in intellect, in energy, in initiative, in daring conceptions and in the daring fulfillment of them."

"The greatest resource of Texas is not its prairies stretching for mile after mile; not its superb seacoast with its cooling breezes of the summer; not its rolling plateaus of seemingly endless extent as one rides over them; not its magnificent mountains of which the world at large seems to know comparatively little; for great as are all of these, the one outstanding resource of Texas is its people. Such is their energy that they could build a great state in a desert, but in Texas they have as their tools resources of soil and climate, minerals and timbers, as limitless as are their vision and their energy."

"It might truly be said that where the great opportunities of Texas and the great people of that state meet, there will come forth a civilization which will match anything that the world has ever seen."

Could any man pay a more glowing tribute to the people and their people than Col. Edmonds has done in the foregoing paragraph? One cannot doubt the man's sincerity, for Col. Edmonds is truly a friend of Texas and Texas' people.

A CORN ROASTING IS NOVEL, BUT APPETISING

A corn roasting is novel in the country, where so many take their corn differently, but one given by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Glover at their home in Terry Camp, last night brought a custom from Iowa, that while new to Texas, was none the less appetizing and delightful.

The lawn of the Glover home was lighted with electric lights and at one end of it glowed a big wood fire where roasted dozens of roasting ears. When they were done to a queen's taste, they were served the guests with plenty of butter, pepper, salt and coffee, followed by a dessert course of old fashioned cookies.

Groquet and other outdoor games were enjoyed by the large assembly which consisted of a large number of Mr. and Mrs. Glover's camp neighbors and the following Ranger guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Higgs and son, Mrs. Higgs Sr., and N. Higgs, Mr.

The last message took her into a room, where a lot of attractively tied parcels were awaiting her attention and when these were opened up, what a vast store of beautiful things they revealed—all gifts of her P. A. L. S.

Mrs. Reeves then served refreshments of sandwiches, olives, potato chips and iced tea to Mrs. Pulley and Misses Hilda Andrews, Ella V. by Gus

Now comes one Rena Bonner Campbell to the rescue and sends in what is to date the best letter we have received on how to spend a vacation, though broke. It is as follows:

"Griping Gus:
"If I lived true to form and didn't take a vacation but stayed home and paid up all my bills so that my creditors wouldn't have a chance to say, 'I wonder how in the dickens that pencil pusher can afford to take a vacation—she owes everybody in town,' the first thing I would do would be to muffle the phone, throw the clock out of the window, and sleep until nature woke me up. Then I'd get me a good reducing diet, and while I was resting I'd improve my 'figger' and as the pounds vanished, I'd be rubbing the footprints of smiles, that are called by some folks 'wrinkles' out of my face by cold cream, and anything the drug stores advertised that would restore one's face to that of youthful contour."
"I'd get a lot of the best sellers and read up on all the latest things in human emotion. I'd refuse to see anybody but the ice man, and he is a necessity, not to me, but to the ice box."
"I wouldn't gripe if I missed your 'gripings.' In fact I think I'd exclude the newspapers, especially the Ranger 'Times' from my vacation, 'cause if it was running along with- out me, I'd think I wasn't missed and if it was going to the wall 'cause I was not there, I'd feel that I ought to curtail my vacation."
"But after all, what a drab vacation."

Ban Johnson Is Retiring And Not Resigning

By United Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—Ban John- son has decided to retire as pres- ident of the American league.
The only hitch in turning over his affairs to a successor is the length of time it will require him "to put his house in order." Johnson ex- plained his status today during a special meeting American league club owners in session at Hotel Bel- mont to deal with his retirement. "I have been thinking of retiring," Johnson told newspaper men. "Get that retiring not resigning."
"I don't intend to do it until I can get my house in order." Asked what he meant Johnson explained he has records as far back as 1893 when western association became the American league that required straightening out before he stepped down from the office he has occupied for more than quarter of a century.

Marty McManus at Second and Pitcher Whitehill Below Early Expectations.

By BILLIE EVANS
You never can tell in baseball for the athletes do not always run true to form.
In the spring, all of the experts, in sizing up the Detroit ball club stressed the importance of the addition of Marty McManus at second. Likewise, they said many kind things about Earl Whitehill, Tiger south- paw.
When I looked the Detroit club over at San Antonio in early April, I realized why so many of the travel- ing scribes had enthused over Mc- Manus. The former second sacker of the St. Louis Browns looked in great shape and appeared all set for a big season.
Whitehill, a great southpaw, also seemed further advanced than the rest of the staff and expressed the belief that he would win 20 games for Detroit.

Manager Moriarty, in figuring his chances, made it apparent that he was placing much dependence in both Whitehill and McManus.
With the season half over, spring predictions have failed to work out. So far it has been a poor year for the two above mentioned stars.
Row Makes Gehringer.
Disagreements occur on every ball club, so it was nothing out of the ordinary when Manager Moriarty took issue with Second Baseman McManus and removed him from the lineup.
As a matter of fact, McManus is a sort of protegee of Moriarty. When "Morrie" was made manager of the Detroit club one of the first things he did was make a trade for him. Knowing McManus' great ability plus the close friendship that existed be- tween the two, he hoped it that Mar- ty would play the greatest game of his career for him.
Things failed to pan out as Man- ager Moriarty had hoped relative to McManus but nevertheless some good came out of the rumpus between pilot and player.
Having relegated McManus to the bench, the second base job fell to Charley Gehringer. It gave him the big opportunity and he has made the most of it. No one in either major league is going any better at the position.

Gehringer is destined to become one of the game's greatest second basemen. He can field, hit, run and throw. All he needs is a few years' experience to be an outstanding star.
Case of Earl Whitehill.
The breaks must favor a pitcher if he is to be a consistent winner. They have been going just the other way for Earl Whitehill this year.
In several games he has been cheated out of a victory by a big inning rally on the part of the op- position late in the game, when it seemed as if he was in. In others, lack of a timely hit has been disas- trous.
There are some who believe that the weakening of Whitehill in a number of games has been caused by too much relief work. Earl has been used in the rescue role quite often this year with only fair success.

Some pitchers insist that relief work for a couple of innings at high pressure takes more out of them than a whole game. Whitehill is listed as such a pitcher. Believe it or not.
In the recent winning streak staged by the Tigers, the southpaw ace was the least effective pitcher on the staff. If he strikes his winning stride it will mean much to the chances of the Detroit club to finish high in the first division.
Thus, with the season half over, the two players figured to keep De- troit in the running, have failed to run true to form and the club has suffered.

DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY GIVES WASHINGTON POLICE TROUBLE

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—Back in George Washington's time, a negro coachman one day drove the pole of his team into a pedestrian with fatal results. When an attempt was made to arrest him, it was found that he was a servant of the British ambassador and hence entitled to diplomatic immunity. Ever since, the matter of diplomatic immunity has been a problem to the Washington cops.

Theoretically, a diplomat here can get away with murder. Fortunately, few of them try to do so, and, practically, they can't, for the state department is likely to squawk to their home governments unless they misbehave within certain limits.

Many a cop has cussed roundly when confronted in an aggravating case by the fact that the member of a foreign mission can't be arrested.

Perhaps the majority of the ambassadors, ministers, secretaries and attaches are both gentlemanly and cultured, anxious not to abuse their privilege and ever mindful of the fact that when one is in Washington one must eat Washington pie. But some of them have difficulty in fitting into our laws and customs outside their legations and some of them, according to police officials, seem to act on the theory that they can do as they darn please.

Traffic Offenses.
Traffic offenses, however, provide the principal complaint of the cops. This may give away a secret of state, but one is given to understand that Mr. Kellogg's department has sent to all legations and embassies a select set of rules of the road with the suggestion that it might help all around if everyone followed them.

The heads of missions are generally tactful enough to keep out of trouble, feeling that any gross breach on their part would react on the prestige of their respective countries. Hence it is more often the under-officials or member of their families who collide with the police.

The latest instance of the intermittent warfare between diplomatic folk and cops involved Sarsfield Smiddy, the son of the minister from the Irish Free State, who was undiplomatic in more ways than one. After Sarsfield had been stopped early one morning for speeding across a bridge at 34 miles an hour instead of the permitted speed of 22, he was asked for his driver's permit. He replied that he was a legation attaché and had left it at home. The police then found they say, that he had never taken out a permit. So the commissioners of the District of Columbia forwarded a complaint to the state department about it.

Occasionally one of the big boys gets into a jam, however. The Swedish minister some time ago smashed into a newspaperman's car, damaging it considerably. It appeared that the fault was the minister's but there was no way for the newspaperman to collect repair costs without suing in Sweden, which was out of the question. The newspaperman says that the minister subsequently offered to pay $100 if he would take the blame, and that the offer was indignantly refused. The state department had an ear in before the matter blew over, but the newspaperman paid the bill from his own pocket, as the minister pleaded personal poverty.

Looking Into Future Of Aviation In United States

direct command of Major-General Mason M. Patrick, who will retire soon because of age. Under the law the chief of the corps must be chosen from among officers of fifteen years' commissioned service who have demonstrated by actual service in the corps their qualification for appointment.

One of the most important army air activities since the war has been the removal of the supply division (technically known as material division) from Washington to Dayton, Ohio, where all of its sections have been consolidated in proximity to the Wright Field, which is the leading center for flight tests.

The army air corps has practically standardized three types of airplanes—pursuit, training and observation, and is giving much attention to modern bombing-planes. The army has also given much attention to the Loening Amphibian type, which was used in the Pan-American flight with satisfactory results.

The corps takes special pride in its efforts to promote the safety of flights. It has given special attention to aids to navigation, the demonstration of which is one of the primary motives for the projected army flight to Hawaii. The corps has encouraged the use of parachutes, which must be worn by all of its airmen.

National guard organizations in various states have been assisted by the army air corps. The guard squadrons now number sixteen with 271 officers and 1376 enlisted men. Congress has provided for aid to the national guards in securing modern equipment.

The army air activities also extend to the civilian sphere. Extensive assistance has been given in the designing of Civilian types of planes, designing competitions have been encouraged, and civilian inventors have been liberally encouraged. Army planes have sprayed cotton areas to combat the boll weevil, made forest patrols against fire in the west, and conducted nation-wide work in aerial photography and mapping.

In the more sensational field of activities, the army has sponsored a long series of spectacular "stunts," the most important of which was the Round-the-World flight of the Douglas cruisers. Army flyers Lt. Kelly and Lt. Macready plotted an army plane on non-stop flight from New York to San Diego, May 2-3, 1923; and Lt. R. L. Maughan made the trans-continental dawn-to-dusk flight from New York to San Francisco, 2,645 miles in 21 hours and 48 minutes, in July, 1923. The army has many records for speed and endurance, and its flyers have won laurels by flights to Porto Rico, Panama and South America.

DALLAS, Texas, July 8.—More than 5,000 persons were expected to jam Love Field here this afternoon when the airplanes entered in the Ford reliability tour reach here.

Many of the throng came here from other cities of the state. The planes in the tour will remain overnight, leaving here about 10 a. m. tomorrow for Oklahoma.

A huge banquet will be held to night in honor of the visiting aviators. All civic organizations of the city joined with the Dallas Flying club in arranging the banquet.

The planes were expected to reach here about 4 p. m. this afternoon. Immediately after their arrival most of the planes will participate in an exhibition of safety flying.

Lieut. Frank Hawks of Houston, who is making a honeymoon of the tour, will be greeted here by his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. E. Bowie of Weatherford, Tex. Mrs. Hawks is the only woman accompanying the planes on their 3,500 mile jaunt.

The tour includes stops at 25 cities in the north, east and middle west. Dallas is the only city in this section where the flyers will stop. The tour started June 27 at Detroit and the planes entered are competing for the Edsel B. Ford trophy and $12,000 in cash prizes.

SOVIET SPENDS $17,000,000 FOR OVERALLS FOR FACTORY WORKERS

By VICTOR W. KNAUTH.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
MOSCOW.—Work clothes and overalls cost the soviet government, which runs practically all industry in Russia, the large sum of 33,000,000 rubles (about $17,000,000) last year. Under the socialist system, all the principal factories and industrial plants of Russia are operated as public utilities and the government feels itself especially bound to give workmen the best possible conditions. Providing them with suitable clothing is one of its important items, even at a staggering cost.

The 33,000,000 rubles were spent mostly for leather coats and heavy felt boots for workers with out-of-door employment, such as messengers and train crews, for overalls for workers engaged in heavy or dirty employment; for eye-shades and face-protectors for those working in foundries; for heat-resisting garments for those toiling at furnaces; and for a thousand other special jobs requiring special clothing.

A congress of safety engineers, recently concluded, worked out a new form of safety overalls for men and women engaged in tending machines. The new garment is designed to minimize the danger of catching in whir-ing gears or pulleys. The design was approved by the government and the change from the old style will be made as rapidly as possible. It is expected that it will greatly increase the government's bill for clothing its workers properly in the coming year.

Jungle Breach

by NEA SERVICE

Illustrated by Paul Kroesen

Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED:

Lincoln Nunnally, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of Porto Verde, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, Vilak, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, Elise Marberry, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, Tony Baratta, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of Limey Potts, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of Gaylord Prentiss, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them. He and Nunnally, on their way to Prentiss', sight a party of natives working on a railroad. Nearby is a fire, though the night is hot. Nunnally regards this as strange.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY:
CHAPTER IX.

Their presence had been noticed. One of the laborers, who appeared to be a sort of foreman walked behind a dilapidated freight car on a siding. He reappeared in a moment, followed by an immaculately white-lined individual, whose bearing immediately marked him as the chief. His skin was dark, but it was the tan that comes from long exposure to the tropical sun; his face was well molded, the nose long but thin, the mouth sensitive and small. On his upper lip was a small, carefully trimmed mustache. He was obviously a white man, and judging by the blackness of his hair and the perfection of his intonation, a high caste Portuguese.

He bowed politely to the visitors. "You would wish something, cavalheiros?" he asked. His manner was unmistakably that of one who could be as much at ease at some stately reception in one of the European capitals as here with 25 section hands in the jungle of Porto Verde.

"Nothing, cavalheiro," Vilak replied with equal urbanity. "We merely ride, see the torches, and walk over to look. You come to protect the tracks from the rising river?"

"Yes, senhor. We come from Aviloz." He pulled a leaf off a palm tree and began fanning himself. "At Aviloz there is fear that the floods will be very bad. Many think the great dam will burst. I hope it is not so. It is not pretty, a flood. Nor cheap. It costs us on the railroad much money. Many, many reis. And it is not a great railroad which runs only a few hundred kilometers to the coffee plantations and the Englishmen's mines in the mountains. Nor is it rich. Each year in the rainy season we come. Here I will raise a track, here I will make strong a bridge, here I will drive a pile. And perhaps shall I start to survey a new line, one which shall go from Porto Verde to Santo Crato. They talk of this, but yet I do not know."

"Do you think you will be here long?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Two weeks a month perhaps. I cannot say. There is much to do."

An altercation broke out between two of the laborers driving a stake. One of them jerked out a knife. The Portuguese hurried over. Coolly, quickly he snatched it away; the argument ended. "They are troublesome, my villains," he said, as he returned to the visitors. "No worse are there in all Brazil. But on the railroad we take what we can."

Vilak offered him a cigarette. The other took it. They chatted amiably a moment, then the two Americans left. They remounted their horses and rode up the narrow lane which led to the higher ground above the town and the parasol pine marking the fatal occurrence of the afternoon. Reaching the trees, they dismounted again and tied their horses.

All about them was a blackness almost Stygian, but though there was little light, the variety of sound was infinite. Here a swelling brook murmured and by its murmur repeated the story of a possible flood; there the peevish whistlers its great flat leaves rubbed again one another in the wind; there a screech owl called shrilly as it swooped through the dense woods ahead; there a fallen twig rustled under the weight of a coral snake stalking its nightly prey. As the chemist's eyes grew accustomed to the darkness, he could make out the opening in the thorn thicket which his companion had told him led you home, my dear Nanny," Vilak declared, as he began examining the gate. "If I knew the purpose back of the recent improvements on this wall, I wouldn't be here investigating. Incidentally, this is the place where the mastiff came out and attacked Elise. Be on your guard. I'll agree with you that this is an excellent wall. Old Prentiss put it up. He was an eccentric old devil. Like father, like son. Though in those days there was some need for a wall like this. Even wilder here than it is now and it was a very definite protection. Every house of consequence had something of the sort.

"Seems to me they will need walls as far as any improvement in the population goes. Old Prentiss in particular had to have something to keep out unwelcome visitors. He was always getting into trouble with the natives, or his European neighbors, or even the government. Almost stood a siege here once, I've heard. The son had that new wire put on about two months ago, shortly after Elise's first visit to him. Had it sent up from Rio. Must have cost a good bit of money."

He went over, ran a finger along the edge of the ponderous gate, and gave a grunt of satisfaction. "Thought I might find it. Two copper wires concealed here so that when the gate opens an electric circuit is broken, probably ringing an alarm bell in the house. Good job. Tremendous gate, this. He's spread the story that the barbed wire all about here is carrying a high voltage current. I might believe it, except for the fact that the only respectable dynamo in the neighborhood is on Elise's plantation and I know he's not getting power from that. Still he might have rigged up something. We'd better be careful. He withdrew a small wire from his pocket and began to pick the massive lock. As he did so, the brush on the other side of the creek cracked loudly. Both men started.

on the curious Prentiss, whose actions grow more baffling than ever.

There are nearly twice as many married persons over 15 than single ones in the United States. In 1920 the census showed 22,500,000 single persons, and 43,000,000 married ones.

Many New Tests Start In Face Of Low Crude Price

Due to the continued low prices prevailing in the crude oil market and the further fact that in the summer months with their extreme heat are at hand, activities in the oil fields of Eastland county, have slowed down considerably. It would seem that only wells that must be drilled to hold leases and for other similar reasons are being drilled.

Notwithstanding this, however, a number of new wells are being started and new producers are being brought in every few days. The Thorpe No. 2 of the McEster Oil corporation, which is in for a 1,000 barrel producer in the Gordon pool in the northwestern portion of the county, being the last new producer to be added to the producing column.

Chestnut & Smith and numerous other operators are busily engaged just at this time in securing acreage in the southern portion of the county, especially in the vicinity of Gorman, where, it is stated, that a number of both shallow and deep tests for oil are to be made in the near future.

In the McAllister pool Chestnut & Smith have a crew of men at work building the big gasoline plant, which they have planned to take care of the gas production in that section. One or two small units of the plant have been complete and are now in use, but it will be some time before the entire plant is completed. This company is making preparations to erect a large oil loading rack on the M. K. & T. railroad at Carbon.

Crop Conditions Are Favorable In Eastland County

General crop conditions in Eastland county continue favorable. Farmers generally are getting up with their work and are beginning to lay their crops by.

Cotton, a poor stand in some portions because of the dry weather prevailing at planting time, is doing exceptionally well other than the damage being done it by the cotton flea and the boll weevil which are becoming rather numerous and active.

Peanuts, of which a large acreage is planted, are somewhat late, but with an abundance of moisture and other favorable growing conditions, are doing well.

Wheat and oats, which yielded only a light crop, are being harvested, most farmers already having them in their barns.

Native corn, is unusually good for this section when the crop is taken as a whole, and is virtually made. June corn is doing well with almost enough moisture in the ground to mature the crop.

Grain sorghums are looking well and the large crop promises an abundant yield.

A machine that matches colors has been invented. A little something to help friend husband out.

POSSIBILITIES FOR FOREIGN CAPITAL ARE BRIGHT IN CHINA

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of the Hankow series by Randall Gould.

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HANKOW.—Foreign capital has a bright future in China, but it will have a hard row to hoe until the foreign businessmen in China learn as much about the people in whose land he lives as he already knows about racing ponies.

The statement came from Michael M. Borodin, member of the Communist Party in Soviet Russia, but working for the Nationalist Government in China in the capacity of High Advisor.

"What I personally may feel to be China's best future course will not determine the future," declared Borodin. "The Chinese themselves will determine the future. From present indications, I believe the possibilities for foreign capital here are bright.

"But what can one say for the vision of the foreign business man in China today? Is he in any position to work constructively for the good of both China and himself? He is not. He knows little or nothing of China, but he has an excellent knowledge of racing ponies. In this small community of Hankow alone, you will find three race courses.

"What does the foreign business man here read about China? Very little, almost nothing. He reads the work of men of his own kind. Woodhead, who knows all the facts of China but doesn't understand them; Rodney Gilbert, who is the business man's prophet; that man who, like a cat, always on the fence—Lenox Simson. Those are the men he reads.

"Besides this he reads nothing but trash. Filthy trash, at that. When we took over this apartment, furnished by a Hankow foreign business man, I looked at the books and had to grieve many of them to be removed. Filthy, nothing less."

Borodin pointed at a round picture conspicuously displayed on the wall. It was the head of a race-horse.

"That is the one thing which the China foreign business man really knows thoroughly. He does through his business day dealing with the 'Chinks,' as he calls them, but his real interest is reserved for the moments he can devote to racing. You will find, if you question him, that the foreign business man—the 'China hand'—knows all about not only the racing ponies of his own town, but the Shanghai or other larger centers as well. But he knows nothing of Wang Ching-wei and other Chinese leaders; he has no conception of what they are trying to accomplish."

Only through a new viewpoint and a new interest in the vital happenings in China today can foreign business achieve anything, Borodin believes. On the other hand, he implied that if foreign capital cooperates with the new China it will be richly rewarded.

"Only understanding can help the foreigner here," he continued. "At present, the Nationalist government is the victim of such labels as the word 'communist.' It is used like the word 'boche' during the war—to hit at the thing one doesn't like. Enemies of the Nationalists had to fasten on a label for the mob."

"It cannot be too often repeated—there can be no communism in the poverty-stricken China of today. Tomorrow—perhaps. It will be for the Chinese themselves to judge what

Many Women Use This Home Remedy

Your family physician will tell you that such roots and herbs as Blessed Thistle, Blue Cohosh Root, Squaw Vine, Life Root Plant, Helonias Root, Star Grass, Cramp Bark, etc., have been recognized for years for their peculiar properties in building up and strengthening women.

Now that women and girls can get these ingredients of uniform strength and freshness, conveniently put up in a vegetable compound known as St. Joseph's G. F. P., and recommended by dealers everywhere, thousands of them are using it in the privacy of their home to build them up and strengthen them.

Miss Dolly Babcock, who lives at 1519 Franklin St., Houston, Texas, says, "Although I am only on my second bottle of G. F. P., I feel so much stronger, I am back on my job again and my work seems easier than it had been in a long time."

In many instances St. Joseph's Antiseptic Powder used externally in connection with St. Joseph's G. F. P. will be found very soothing.

Women have used St. Joseph's G.F.P. for over 50 years!

Pottery Found In Burial Mound Put on Display

AUSTIN, July 8.—From a funeral mound worn away by the shifting course of the Red river there has recently come to the University of Texas a collection of fifteen pieces of primitive pottery. The collection was bought by J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology of the university, who learned of it through a northern collector who had tried to buy the pottery for a museum. The owner, Mrs. Jennie Watson Smith of Clarksville, refused to sell the collection, however, to the northern buyer as she was anxious to have the specimens remain in Texas.

The Watson collection, as the pottery will be known, is now being kept in a class room at the university, pending a time when Texas will have a permanent state museum for the housing of this and similar collections.

The pottery along with a human skull were found in Red River county on the S. S. Watson place at the mouth of Pean Bayou. There were undoubtedly more remains which were washed away by the stream, said Mr. Pearce, for the funeral mound covered at least half an acre and was twenty-five to thirty feet high.

In his estimate as to the age of the collection, Mr. Pearce said that no doubt the vessels were made by ancestors of the Caddo Indians of East Texas who were makers of remarkably good pottery. The skull evidently came from the upper portion of the mound and represents a later burial than the pieces of pottery. The skull is at an extreme estimate probably 500 years old, in the opinion of Mr. Pearce.

A funeral mound was a custom of many primitive people, said Mr. Pearce. It was a monument to the dead and their spirits. These mounds date back to an indefinite time. They were still being made by Indians in the lower Mississippi valley when the white people came and the primitive people had been making them for many years prior to that time.

Much information regarding primitive man can be obtained by the archaeologist who studies the remains to be found in the funeral mounds, said Mr. Pearce. The skull found in the Watson collection, for instance, he said, bears a depression, showing where a band had been placed around the head when the individual was an infant to shape the head to conform to the primitive peoples' ideas of personal beauty. The pottery of the collection shows the intelligence of the maker as to the practical use of the vessel as well as the sense of beauty. Fine red clay smeared over the surface of several of the vessels was an attempt to make them waterproof and most of the pieces bear intricate patterns, well-balanced and artistic in their design.

SCIENTISTS STRIVE TO MAKE AUTOS AND TRAINS COOLER

Motor Cars and Rail Coaches May Carry White Tops and Wet Burlap Sacks, Lowering Temperature From Eight to Twelve Degrees

Automobiles of the future will have white roofs along with railroad trains and homes while each will carry a wet sheet, a strip of damp burlap or some other cooling device for combating the extreme heat of torrid zones or seasons, if elaborate ventilating tests being conducted in the United States Bureau of Mines in Pittsburgh mean anything.

Leading engineers in the motor car industry and officials of several of the big railroads are giving their active cooperation in experiments which seek to make transportation of all kinds, as well as home and school life, more comfortable and healthful by mechanically controlling the air and climatic conditions of mother nature.

The Southern Pacific and other western railroad lines have offered the use of several railroad cars for the experiments and will haul these cars with scientific apparatus through the hot sections of Arizona and Southern California in efforts to bring relief from the suffocating heat. The Pennsylvania has offered the use of its equipment after the scientists complete their tests in the laboratory.

That colors have definite reactions not only on the psychology of people but do deflect or absorb the heat of the sun's rays have been definitely established by these tests, according to F. C. Houghton, director of the air research laboratory of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating engineers in the Pittsburgh bureau of mines. Houghton and his staff testference of eight to twelve degrees in the temperature. Physiological tests showed that air motion created by the ventilating fans gives the body a further cooling sensation and actually lowered skin temperatures.

"The point is that we have definitely established the fact that if motorists occasionally sprinkled the tops of their cars it would cause a noticeable cooling effect on the hottest days of summer," Houghton said. "Some of the railroads have aided in the experiment to the extent of placing a sprinkler system on the tops of railroad coaches. Small ventilating fans are used inside to keep the air moving in the right direction and to help handle the dust nuisance. Experiments successfully conducted in both automobiles and railroad coaches have shown that an ordinary bed sheet, table cloth or strip of burlap, soaked in water and hung up like a drape or curtain produces the feeling of a lower temperature. This method is frequently used in India in trains and other public vehicles there to help relieve the effect of terrific heat."

"Some of the railroads have considered placing small refrigerating plants in coaches to cool the air but it was believed that a simpler and more economical system of cooling by evaporation could be worked out."

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE BOARD URGES MORE STUDENT INTEREST

The Ranger Junior college council met Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce office and discussed ways of launching a Junior college student campaign this summer. Following a talk by Prof. R. P. Holloway in which he stressed the point of creating a greater school spirit in Ranger, W. W. Housewright, chairman of the board suggested that a letter be written to all members of the eighth and ninth grades, urging them to finish school. Mr. Holloway brought out the fact that a large number of pupils in these grades stop there and do not finish school, which operates against the functioning of the Junior college, as one of its main supply of students is from the graduating class. At that age so many boys find profitable work and stop school it was set out and where the Ranger High school now has 40 or 50 graduates yearly it should have 75 or 100, Mr. Holloway stated.

Plans for arranging for boys to work during the school term were turned over to the promotion committee, which will see various merchants in the city and get a list of possible positions for those students who have to work in order to meet their expenses while attending school.

Work on making a canvass of the various high schools in the county for students for the 1927-28 term will start next week. The naming of committees to attend to this work will be done Monday night when the publicity committee will meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock.

In a roundtable discussion of the prospects for the Junior college this year, it was brought out that a number of students here had signified their intention of attending and that the county was full of high school graduates who were all possible timber for this year's registration.

Mr. Holloway read the program of the all-state junior college conference, sponsored by the University of Texas, which is to be held in Austin on July 11, which will be attended by presidents, deans, faculty members, boards of education of colleges and universities, as well as many others in Texas, who are interested in the junior college movement.

Speakers on the program will be some of the most renowned educators in Texas.

The fact that high school graduates can have two more years of schooling at home instead of going away to college, the fact that tuition in the Ranger Junior college is much less than it would be elsewhere, to say nothing of the saving in board, room and laundry, and the fact that adults desiring to work on their college degree can get two years work at this school, were all touched on at the meeting.

Everything Is Fair In Love and War And In Politics

By RODNEY DUTCHER,
NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON—Some of the highest ranking naval captains who were passed over recently when the navy selected 11 new admirals are probably wondering why they lost out.

There is one doughty captain, high up among the leading 30 from whom admirals are chosen, who knows very well why he will have to retire on a captain's retirement pension rather than an admiral's.

This officer has achieved a brilliant and spotless career up to the recent occasion on which he commanded a fleet which anchored off the capital of a South American republic wherein our country maintains an embassy and an ambassador.

The ambassador is a political appointee supposed to have been honored in recognition of valiant service for his party which was not fully appreciated by the voters of his state. At any rate, he has put on some very lively parties at the embassy which have always been appreciated by naval officers and our captain, on the occasion in question, was invited to only as a guest of honor.

For the captain, at least, the function grew more and more successful. The ambassador had carefully left his copy of the Volstead act back home in the states, and an excellent time was being had by all, including the ambassador and the ambassador's wife.

Then, in a moment of hilarious horseplay, the captain overstepped himself. The exact details may not be quite clear to him, but it appears that he gave the ambassador's wife a playful spank.

The lady herself, it is understood, took this in good part. But the ambassador, who observed the incident, did not.

The ambassador reported the captain to his government in Washington and the unfortunate officer was raked over the coals unmercifully by his superiors.

It was the only stain, if it can be called that, on the captain's record, but when the admirals were picked the other day, our hero was one of the most conspicuous of those left unpromoted.

That was a costly spank, for under the naval promotion system all captains who are not made admirals within a certain time are forced to retire and make way for others. An admiral's retirement pay is $8,000 a year and a captain's retirement pay is but $4,500.

CONAN DOYLE EXPECTS TO CONVERT A BISHOP

"Spiritualism," he said "is now being recognized and both the Church of England and the Non-Conformist churches are becoming reconciled to the spiritualist view and are quietly adopting it.

"SHADOWY HAND" TERROR MYSTIFIES ITALIAN TOWN

By United Press.
AOSTA, Italy.—Priests and spiritualists, using respectively exorcisms and mediums, are seeking to probe the mystery of a shadowy hand, which for some weeks now has been disturbing the family peace of a modest workman, Giuseppe Della Villa, who lives here with his wife and four children.

Some months ago, a brother of Della Villa who lived in the house, died, and a few weeks ago, the family hung up a photographic enlargement of the deceased in the room in which he slept.

The first signs of the psychic phenomenon were noted by Della Villa and his wife one night about ten o'clock. The clearly defined shadow of a hand appeared on the wall close to the photograph and the fingers opened and closed as if trying to grasp something.

The neighbors were called in, and the phenomenon was repeated in the presence of half a dozen people. The dead hand was shadowed on the wall near the photograph on several other occasions, always at night time and the parish priest was called in to pronounce an exorcism.

This seems to have produced no effect on the shadowy hand, which continued to show up every other night about bed time.

Some local spiritualists then in-

Samoan Dancer Accepts Suit of Native Pastor

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa. The delicate hand of Sami of Pago Pago, the most sought after of Samoan belles, will set shape history by her favoring a faifeau (pastor) from among her many suitors.

She has now determined to withdraw all her rights as a taupou (chief maid). In accordance with Samoan custom, she has tipped her talking chiefs with fine mats and tapas so that she may be free to marry a graduate of the Maulua missionary training college.

The ceremony was the largest of its kind. People flocked from all parts of Samoa to attend it. Miss Sami Mauga, daughter of District Governor Mauga, is a highly desirable young lady of distinguished beauty. She is now 20 years old and is well known as a girl of charm and character. Like her mother, she is possessed of an extraordinary personality.

Never in the history of Samoa were as many fine mats and tapas displayed when Sami said "tofa" (good-bye) to her talking chiefs and friends. The ceremonial distribution took several days as practically all the villages of the Samoan group were represented. The presents given by Sami were valued at thousands of dollars. A big Samoan feast followed the ceremony. She will be married in a church when her lover returns from college in British Samoa.

Sami is known to all tourists of Samoa, performing a siva (dance) every steamer day. She would entertain her "white" visitors in fluent English when they came to her beautiful island. She is graceful as a dancer and played an important part in the social life of American Samoa.

Interested themselves and brought a medium to the house. According to the medium, the dead brother, who is trying to convey a message to the family. What this message is, the medium does not pretend to know.

The bishop of the diocese, hearing of the case, ordered that a solemn funeral mass be said for the deceased, and since then, it is stated, the mysterious hand has not appeared.

The party is also fitted with a portable moving picture projector and will show the natives the first motion pictures they ever have seen.

C. C. Julian, Los Angeles promoter who owns station KMTR, started out one night recently to broadcast the "inside facts" of the collapse of the Julian Petroleum Company, with which he formerly was connected. Experts say another station interfered.

NEW CAPITAL OF TURKEY RISING ALONG SIDE SQUALOR OF OLD

By United Press.
ANGORA, Turkey.—Side by side with the ancient village of Angora, which was thrust into prominence when it was made the capital of Turkey, a new city is arising. This also will be named Angora, but will be a city more worthy of the name of capital, more hygienic and more scientifically built, and work on its construction is rapidly progressing.

The "old town"—whether it be the purely antique Turkish quarter on the hill of the citadel or the lower quarter on the edge of the plain—is too difficult a problem for any radical scheme of town planning improvement. Already built over in unsanitary days, it now only admits of minor changes such as the cutting off of dangerous corners and the widening of streets, especially in view of the hundredfold enhanced price of all landed property at the new capital, which makes expropriation prohibitive.

The "new town" will run out a distance of seven kilometers or more along the plain and up the slopes of Tchankaya where Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey, resides. Its main artery will be the "Grand Boulevard Ghazi" a double road forty meters wide, centred by a platform of trees. One kilometer of its length has already been completed.

ed over by their builders in a few months. At the same time the problem of tree planting, parks, arbors, children's playgrounds, and all the modern adjuncts of a properly planned "new town" are not being neglected. Over a quarter million trees—the saplings, which came from other parts of Turkey, had been acclimatized here for two years—have been planted out towards Tchankaya. Live to foreigners and fit for its inhabitants. The national assembly has granted half a million Turkish pounds out of the state budget and the Prefecture itself is adding another half million towards a ten year program involving an expenditure of 27,000,000 Turkish pounds—about $15,000,000.

Sugar the thing in canning

YOU'VE found that in the canning of peaches—or any other fruit—sugar plays an important part. It must be good—clean—pure cane sugar—for best results. Thousands of housewives have learned to depend on Imperial Sugar. This sparkling white, pure cane sugar is refined to the 9th degree in one of the most modern refineries in the United States. The most expensive filtration process is used in refining the raw crystals and they are vigorously washed with clear, deep-well artesian water that requires no chemical doctoring. This gives a sparkle to the finely granulated crystals that is distinctive to Imperial Sugar. All of the sweetness is there—with all the non-sweetening elements eliminated. Those who have made careful tests, find that Imperial Sugar goes farther—actually sweetens more with less. Of course you want cane sugar—the Imperial trade-mark is your guide to the highest grade of cane sugar. Your grocer can supply you with Imperial Sugar in convenient 2, 5, 10, and 25 pound sacks. Say Imperial—and be sure.
