

PROBE OF COUNTY ROAD WORK MAY RESULT FROM MEETING TO BE HELD SATURDAY AT EASTLAND

Representatives From All Towns Will Gather to Discuss Conditions.

Special to the Times.

CISCO, July 7.—That the road building situation in Eastland county should be investigated was the sense of a mass meeting of local citizens held in the Huey building Tuesday night.

The meeting last night was called as the result of a visit to Cisco yesterday morning of a committee from Eastland which conferred with several representative citizens and laid before them information which they declared warranted a thorough investigation of the building of the county roads.

In the discussion last night which preceded Mr. Huey's selection as a representative to the Eastland meeting, the opinion was freely expressed that Eastland county is not getting the roads she is entitled to—that it is not enough to show for the time and money that has been spent on the roads, that there has not been good judgment used in the system of building the roads, that they have been torn up too long, and proper attention has not been given to providing ways for traffic to move while the roads are under construction.

Claude C. Wild, who presided, explained that the Eastland committee had asked that this meeting be called and they claimed that there was sufficient ground to warrant an investigation. It was the desire of the Eastland committee, Mr. Wild explained, to have Cisco send a representative to the Eastland meeting Saturday and that this city bear its share of the cost of employing an auditor and an engineer to check the road work that has been accomplished to date and the expenditures for same.

Several citizens spoke and all favored some action that would speed up work on the highway system and also keep up the dirt roads until the highways are in use.

BRECK GAS MEN MAY ASK GRAND JURY FOR "EVEN BREAK" ON SUNDAY LAW

Special to the Times.

BRECKENRIDGE, July 7.—An even break on the Sunday closing question is the objective of the service station owners within the city limits, and having been thrown back in a petition to the city administration and parried in a thrust at the county commissioners, they are considering a push against the grand jury, with the hopes of an answering barrage of indictments.

Service stations in the city represent an investment of $125,000, they point out. They are closed Sunday, under the state law which permits a livery stable to remain open, but which has seen no amendments since the days of the horseless carriage. Competitors, stationed on cheaper ground, in cheaper plants outside the city limits, offer difficult competition under any conditions, and when they are permitted to stay open Sunday, supply the needs of all the motorists.

Sunday closing is in favor with the service men, who signed the petitions to the city and county; but they want all stations closed, if any are. Those making the move, which they mean to follow through, are Shirley Vulcanizing company, Service garage, Stephens County garage, Breckenridge garage, Central garage, B. & T. Tire company, Bass Oil & Tire company, Bennett Motor company, Ruth Motor company.

INQUEST FAILS TO REVEAL HOW OR WHEN MABEL MORRIS RECEIVED FATAL FRACTURE

No Mention Ever Made of Blow on Head Until It Was Discovered After Three Days' Illness; "I Don't Know," Her Answer When Questioned.

Silent as her cold lips are the circumstances surrounding the manner in which Mabel Morris received the blow that caused her death Tuesday evening. Not even a rift in the fog of mystery resulted from the inquest held yesterday by Justice of the Peace Fenlaw. Everyone who was in contact with the girl during her illness and subsequent death were examined. Each told the same story almost in detail.

Apparently for four days she lay, her life slipping away—and neither by word or sign did intimate that she had received a blow on her head.

All her friends who were examined at the inquest declared that none of them knew of the wound until Sunday and none knew how or when she could have received it. One girl friend dressed the dead woman's hair on Thursday, following her illness of Wednesday night and at the hearing she stated that the wound never came to her notice.

LET JAZZ BE UNCONFINED AND FREE TO ALL, EDICT OF BRECK'S CITY DADS

BRECKENRIDGE, July 7.—Certainly dancing is fine exercise and commendable amusement for the young. It tends to ward gracefulness, quickens the step, brightens the eye and vibrates muscles whose very exercise was doubted before it became popular to quiver to the quaver of a jazz clarinet. These things were in the minds of the Breckenridge city commissioners last night, and accordingly, a long ordinance was passed to first, second and final readings and became law.

DEMOCRATS LEAD OFF IN TARIFF BOUT

One of First Clashes Expected Over Proposed Duty on Crude Oil.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The gong sounded today in the house for the opening of another "heavyweight political bout."

The two great political parties are fighting over that much worked political issue, the tariff. The fight over the Republican permanent tariff bill in many respects marks the opening of the congressional conflict of 1922 and the presidential contest of 1924.

The challenging Democrats opened the bout by making a sweeping attack on the entire bill in a minority report. Submission of this report will be followed by general debate lasting for ten days or two weeks. Despite the overwhelming odds, the Democrats plan to fight the battle every step. One of the first clashes probably will be over the oil tariff.

G. O. P. ACTION ASSAILED.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Democratic members of the ways and means committee in the minority report filed in the house today, denounced the administration's tariff bill as a "conspiracy to benefit a few favorites at the expense of all humanity."

The report continues, "like every conspiracy, it has been hatched in secrecy and we record our solemn judgment that the measure is a plan to plunder the people of our country and oppress the people of every country for the benefit of a few men who have succeeded in usurping for all practical purposes, the taxing power of this government, using it primarily to enrich themselves and secondarily to finance the political power which tolerates, encourages and facilitates the usurpation. The report declares that tariff was not an issue in the last campaign.

Criticizing the Republican majority for withholding the bill from them and from the house membership generally, permitting only a week for its study, Democratic members declare there has not been sufficient time to draft a substitute. Emphasis was placed on the probable effect of the bill on American commerce and the world industrial situation generally. Pointing to rapidly decreasing American trade, the report says, "We need no tariff to cut off imports and exports of the United States."

The committee also will make arrangements for a dance to be held Friday night, July 15 at Shamrock pavilion. This will be an exclusive Shrine affair and delegations of Shriners from several towns are expected to participate.

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber wanted her husband, D. F. Kaber killed so that she could collect his $50,000 insurance policy and marry a college professor, according to testimony given at her murder trial today by Mary J. Wade, self-styled "mind reader."

MOB ATTACK ON SUSPECTED GIRL SLAYER FEARED

TEXARKANA, July 7.—The motive impelling the slaying from ambush of Miss Callie Howell, 20, of Bowie Hill, Cass county, while on her way to a Fourth of July dance Monday evening with Roy Whitworth, still remains a mystery.

It is thought the preliminary hearing of S. C. Rodgers and E. G. Cowley, both married, arrested on suspicion today, will throw some light on the situation. The hearing may extend into Thursday, according to officers. Rodgers and Cowley were arrested shortly after the shooting, following a number of conflicting stories volunteered upon their arrest at the old ore plant at Bowie Hill, where they were employed. One of these, officers say, was that they were shooting at a bull that had broken loose and which they claimed was on the road. Another that they had shot intending to scare the girl. Still another was that they had killed a man and feared mob violence.

Both men appeared in court under heavy guard today following their removal from the Queen City jail when officers feared an attempt would be made to break into it and seize the prisoners.

District Attorney A. C. Wheeler, for Cass and Bowie counties, is personally conducting the case.

Miss Howell and her escort were making their way to a dance in a buggy piloted by a single horse, according to Whitworth's story, and when he lost his cap he got out of the vehicle and started to search for it. Before he could regain his seat he claims three shots were fired, one striking the horse which subsequently ran away and dropped dead 200 yards down the road. The two others struck Miss Howell, one in the left shoulder and the other behind the left ear.

'DUCHESS' AND SON FAIL IN SUICIDE PACT

PARIS, July 7.—Mme. de Guise Hite, an American, self-styled duchess, and her son, George Harbough, 24 years old, were near death in the American hospital today from veronal poisoning, as the result of a suicide pact.

The suicide attempt, which was made Tuesday night, was discovered yesterday morning, but was only made public early today. It was said to be the result of financial difficulties.

Mme. de Guise Hite recovered consciousness momentarily this morning and asked if there had been a cable from her first husband, George E. Harbough, a millionaire, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, who has remarried since the divorce, and is now living in El Cajon, Cal.

NOTED ACTRESS SAYS 'YES' TO PROPOSALS TEN TIMES TOO OFTEN

NEW YORK, July 7.—Who are the eleven men, New York is asking, whose ardent suits have won Miss Virginia Lee's "yes" and who expect on her return from abroad to become her husband.

Undulant, slender-hewed Miss Lee whom Howard Chandler Christy enthused over as "the ideal Christy girl," has confessed to friends in Paris that she is afraid to return to New York "because I've got eleven fiancés and they'll all be waiting at the pier."

Among her intimates in New York the names of several men who may be on the list have been mentioned. Three of these were in eager attendance when Miss Lee appeared as a show girl in "The Greenwich Village Follies." But none of her friends can list the entire eleven. And perhaps their names will remain a mystery until the vessel docks.

Recently her charms and ability in the ballet of the "League of Nations" in London won for Miss Lee the enthusiasm of the Maharaja of Kapurthala, a man of tremendous wealth.

Miss Lee was born in Mexico City, Mo., and educated in New Orleans. She is 21 years old.

It was recently reported from London that a youth named Guinness, grandson of the originator of Guinness Stout and a relative of Mrs. Benjamin Guinness of New York, became so enamored of Miss Lee that his mother appeared at the theatre in which she was appearing and entered vigorous protests with the manager. The young man's attentions ceased forthwith.

Ward Combs Observer

This automobile was struck by a passenger train at the crossing shown, where the usual safety rules were not observed by the driver. One occupant was killed and four others were permanently injured.

Because of the astounding increase of automobile accidents at railroad crossings this year, the Pennsylvania railroad, through its Safety First department, is making a special effort to curb these unusually fatal accidents. Throughout the entire Pennsylvania system, wherever its tracks are laid, observers are on the lookout for careless motorists who persist in taking chances. They take the number of the automobile, and in a day or so Mr. Motorist receives one of the above postcards. It is a gentle reminder and warning which he is not apt to forget, and by this means the railroad expects to save many lives.

TOWN DRUNK ARRANGES GRAND FINALE TO SCHOOL TABLEAU

Skilled Gum-Shoemen Lean on Trail of Hootch Hound With Built-in Thirst, Who Blew Up the Blow-Out at Rural Institution of Learning.

DENVER, July 7.—Belated reports of the unfortunate termination of the grand Fourth of July exercises at the Moonvire schoolhouse at Valverde have sifted into the headquarters of the Denver police department, with the result that the detective department has detailed skilled operatives to don their hemp Grogans and their O'Sullivan's and lean on the trail of one Herman Peasley, the village drunk who is accused by the board of school directors of dynamiting the patriotic celebration which was nulled off Saturday night at this far-famed rural institution of learning.

"We had figured on a big blow-out for Saturday night," said the chairman of the entertainment committee to the chief of detectives in explaining the lamentable situation. "We had a big program arranged with declamations, singing, flag drills, reading of the Declaration of Independence and an old-fashioned grand, red-fire tableau as the wind-up feature. Folks drove in from miles around to cut in on this Roman candle holiday and a good time was being had. The place was packed as full of people as a Globeville street car on pay night, and I had on my new flame-proof collar and cuffs and my silk tie that I got at the Yeoman reunion, and was acting as chairman of the committee, reading off the names of the kids which was doing the stunts on the stage.

"Finally I hear a ruction in the front part of the house and when I goes down to see what the fuss is about I learns that the floor manager has just refused to admit this here Herman Peasley and his built-in thirst, account of him being drunk as a tree full of hoot owls—him having gone out a short while before and got all clowned up on some of the silly syrun that the roadhouse out our way is selling. We finally succeeded in slipping the bum's ruse to the pie-eyed Herman and sent him away trying to trade knives with himself—he was just that drunk. We thought no more about the matter and the program was resumed with Little Ina Goofberg singing her new song, "Married Men May Have Better Halves, But Bachelors Have Better Quarters."

"The time comes presently for the big patriotic, inspirational tableau. We git all the kids parked on the stage just where they belong and gits ready to wave the flags and present the stupendous spectacle entitled 'Ajax Defying the Rent Collector.' The red fire powder which is to be burned is put in carriers at the side of the stage and matches are touched to the stuff.

"We yanks back the curtain but instead of a handsome, heart-soothing red glow raring up and diffusing itself over the glad faces in the audience, there is a loud bang, a blinding flash of light and the four kids nearest to the saucers of powder gits their eyelashes burned off. Little

SHACKLETON TO MAKE NEW VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY SOON

LONDON, July 7.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, who commanded the British Antarctic expedition in 1907-09—which reached within ninety-seven miles of the South pole—and also the Antarctic expedition in 1914-16, will be the leader on a new voyage of discovery covering thirty thousand miles of uncharted sections of the southern Atlantic, the Pacific Antarctic seas.

He will sail from the port of London the end of August in a 200-ton ship, brigantine rigged, named "The Quest." He will have with him a small picked staff, including six companions of former Polar expeditions. The Daily Mail publishes this announcement.

The expedition, which will be called the Shackleton-Rowett Oceanographical and Antarctic expedition, will be financed by John Queller Rowett of Agricultural Research, and Frederick Becker, a well-known paper manufacturer. "The Quest" will be equipped for every branch of scientific research. A specially constructed seaplane will be taken, and air currents will be charted.

The first objective will be the Salvages, a group of rocky islands in the Atlantic between the Canary and Madeira islands, then the vessel will proceed for St. Paul's Rocks, a little known island on the equator; thence to Trinidad where Shackleton landed in 1901 from Captain Scott's ship "Discovery" and saw the great petrified forest, which will be explored.

Shackleton will then go to Tristan Da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, and Gough's island, eight miles long and four thousand feet high, which has been only once visited before.

Soundings will be taken of the ocean plateau about Gough's island in an endeavor to settle the surmises regarding an underwater continental connection between Africa and America.

The vessel will continue on to Capetown, whence begins the exploration of Antarctic regions where no keel has been in the last ninety years. Enderby land will be visited. This is a large tract, but whether a continent or an island is unknown, as its limits remain unmarked.

The vessel will emerge from the Antarctic by the Weddell sea and call at the South Sandwich islands and South Georgia. She will then proceed eastward.

The next country to attract "The Quest" will be New Zealand and the Pacific will be dredged for the lost island of Tuanki, which has been mentioned in old nautical records and native legends, but has since disappeared.

"The Quest" is now at Southampton. She is 111 feet long and 12 feet in depth with a 23-foot beam. She was built in Norway in 1917, is of oak, pine and fir and has been tested in heavy sea. Its sides are two feet thick and her bows are of solid oak sheathed with steel. Her steaming radius is 9,000 miles, and under sail with a stiff breeze can make eight knots. She carries wireless equipment.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 7.—Police today began investigation of the alleged kidnaping and whipping of William Ware, waiter, by a band of masked men here last night. Ware was suspected of complicity in the kidnaping of Malcolm Ethridge. A reporter who witnessed the whipping of Ware at the request of the masked men, said Ware confessed his part in the kidnaping, and implicated two other men and a woman.

Police today were searching for these parties.

HEAVY HITTING OF BEARCATS OVERCOMES NITROS' EARLY LEAD

Ballinger Wins, 11 to 6, After Both Teams Count Four in First Inning.

Special to the Times. BALLINGER, July 7.—The Nitros looked like sure winners in the opening round here Wednesday when they counted four times, but Baldridge stopped them after that and his teammates hit heavily. Ballinger won easily, 11 to 6.

In the opening session, Hamilton walked off before it got nearly over and Tate on. Lovelace singled and Lefty Adkins cleaned the sacks with his thirteenth homer.

The Bearcats promptly came back and matched the count at four all, bunting two singles, two doubles and a sacrifice with Hill's error at short. Speegle's single and King's triple put the home team ahead in the second round.

The Bearcats got to Tate again in the fifth on a double, a walk, a single, Speegle's double and Fuller's three-base swat. They added another in the eighth.

The Nitros sprinted in the ninth, counting two runs, but the rally ran out of breath before it got nearly far enough. Red Hill connected safely and counted when York smashed a triple, through Fuller. Jody Tate's safety counted York.

Ranger used a badly matched-up lineup, with pitchers taking a prominent part in the fielding festivities. The score:

TWO OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST HITTERS

Georges Carpentier and Babe Ruth.

Here is a picture of Georges Carpentier, who has recently coincided with the view of the American sport public that Jack Dempsey is the greatest prizefighter in the world, together with Babe Ruth, as they were out for a subpoena gathering in Babe's new boat. Note the concentrated expression on Mr. Ruth's face. The skiff in which they are posing cost him many thousand bones, part of which was paid when the car was delivered and the balance payable at the bar of justice in fines of varying amounts.

GEORGES WILL HAVE ANOTHER CHANCE TO SHOW WARES SOON

Ring Experts Divided as to Most Logical Opponent for Frenchman, With Brennan Favored Over Tom Gibbons; Future Dempsey Victims Few.

One thought frequently expressed at the ringside, immediately following the classic battle between Dempsey and Carpentier, was: "The Frenchman is not able to beat the world's champion; but he can beat any other man in America."

In line with this suggestion, the restless Tex Rickard is now contemplating a bout between Tom Gibbons of St. Paul and the hard-hitting and clever European—just as though Gibbons deserved the right to be considered the second best fighter in the United States. He may be, but a majority would consider big Bill Brennan entitled to a hearing in this matter.

But he it Gibbons or Brennan, either will meet something new and dynamic if the match is made. What Carpentier showed in his fight with Dempsey was more cleverness and craftiness than has been exhibited by a heavyweight in this country in many seasons. He has it all except one thing—he is not equal to all the American tricks of infighting and clinching the other fellow.

If any American beats him, it will be because of this weakness. At straight, clean boxing in the open, at all the arts and wiles of footwork, and in generalship and courage he will have to be ranked with the leaders. But he will also have to Americanize considerably if he wants to protect his mid-section—which seems to need it.

Silent as to Misto Wills. Nothing was said of matching either Carpentier or Dempsey with a fighter generally considered second best in the country—Harry Wills. It is probable that the dusky heavy will never step into the enormous Jersey City arena to face any opponent owing to the fear of exciting graver opposition to the game than that developed by the Dempsey-Carpentier show.

All who saw Dempsey's sledge hammer pounding of Carpentier Saturday will, however, need no further demonstration to believe that Dempsey is in a class alone. Those who worship at the shrine of the wallow are firm in the conviction he is greater than the great John L. in his heyday, and those who admire shock-absorbing faculties admit that the title holder is greater even than that glutton for punishment, Bat Nelson.

Combining the greatest power to inflict damage with the supreme ability to resist it, he is for the present unassailable. Dempsey is all, all alone in the pugilistic world of today and many think of all time. There was some talk before the battle of Gibbons being the coming man; but if he meets Dempsey he will share the same fate as the others. He is too small. While his record of eleven or twelve successive knockouts made recently seems to indicate he is the possessor of a finish wallop, one or two fights will discount this. In the East they are not strong for Thomas, "Beaucouf" fromage, accompanied by the compression of thumb and forefinger on the nose, is the reply to questions concerning Tom. It appears that Gibbons had essayed to stop that ancient and well-soaked hulk of heavyweight Dan "Porky" Flynn, some weeks ago, over on the Jersey side, and it took Gibbons eleven rounds to do it. "Enough is too much" remarked the New York critics, and permitted Thomas to languish in indifference.

But it can't be as bad as that. He is a good scrapper and should prove a good match for Carpentier.

Popboy Tells Why He Should Have Won—and Some Facts in the Case

Why Popboy Smith refuses to play another game to decide the first half championship in the West Texas league is "explained" by himself in a message to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. Because it is good perusing, The Times reprints it, and after Popboy has had his say, will endeavor to throw a little more light on the subject. Popboy says:

ABILENE, July 6.—"My reasons for refusing to play off the game with Angelo. On Friday morning I called Mr. Weatherford, secretary to J. Walter Morris, president of the West Texas league, and asked his understanding of league. He said Angelo was one-half game ahead of Sweetwater, so I was in doubt about that and after game Friday we won and Angelo lost. So, according to Secretary Weatherford, Sweetwater was one-half game to the good Saturday morning, but knowing it was, I could win easily as I know I had a double-header with the Orphans Saturday, and I went to find out for sure Friday night to Fort Worth and still Weatherford said I was a half game to the good. I asked him if we played a double-header Saturday and he said, 'No.' We could not. I insisted that we had to play the double-header and he put me off that we did not and would not play the double-header. He said the Orphans did not have any pitchers. I showed him where the Orphans' club that had not pitched against me, also Earnshaw, an infielder, that had pitched against other clubs in the league could pitch one of the games against me, but he would not listen to me.

"Next morning Mr. Morris, president of the league, came in Fort Worth, so I asked him about double-header and after a hot argument he decided if he could find a pitcher that he would play me double-header which was scheduled and wished that said pitcher could beat me. I said if pitcher did, that I would lose the pennant today, Saturday, as I had to win both games. So the young pitcher who was supposed to pitch against me was gotten.

"J. Walter Morris and myself went to Star-Telegram Saturday morning and worked three hours with the assistance of the sporting writers of the Star-Telegram and went through the files from April 20 to Friday night, June 1st, and found that I was one game behind San Angelo and it was quite exciting as Mr. Morris told everyone he met in Star-Telegram office that today decided the pennant, and we had to look up the standings of the clubs now.

"Now, after we looked up the standings the employees of the Star-Telegram as we were going out, asked myself and Mr. Morris how we stood and both Mr. Morris and myself said I had to win a double-header and Angelo had to lose for me to win pennant. If I split in my double-header Angelo was the winner.

"Saturday night after winning a double header and Angelo losing one game, Star-Telegram called me up and congratulated me on winning the pennant, thinking and knowing the conversation that was held in Star-Telegram office Saturday morning.

"The young pitcher who was supposed to pitch against me rode in automobile with me to Weatherford, saying he was supposed to pitch against me. When we got to Weatherford and played first game, beat them, Orphans 11 to 1, they refused to pitch young pitcher and pitcher from San Angelo arrived in time to pitch second game. We beat the pitcher that San Angelo sent 7 to 0.

"According to the by-laws of the West Texas league, Angelo could not send the Orphans a pitcher to pitch against us, but with the assistance of the president of the league they did. Angelo wanted to send their star pitcher, Herbert Hill, to pitch against us, but I refused in Fort Worth, finding it out from Weatherford. Their young pitcher which the league sent over was sent back to Fort Worth unpaid for his trouble and at the league meeting in Ranger was in cafe eating lunch and pitcher came in and said he did not know what to do as he just had money enough to get back home as he could not get paid. I have his name and he said he knew I was being did wrong. Also the argument was brought up in case of a tie where the game would be played, and I said I thought it should be played on neutral grounds and suggested Fort Worth, but also said that would have to be left up to the clubs, meaning presidents of clubs.

"I won the pennant from Angelo the way all pennants are won, on the ball field, with players against players.

"It is just a case of me drawing one more card and drawing out on a man that thinks he has me beat. I got congratulations Sunday morning from all over the league. Also Angelo, as everyone thought I was the pennant winner of the first half of the West Texas league and the fans and players still say that I should not play the game off as the league closed the night of July 2. As I have in my possession a paper from San Angelo stating that the series in Ranger closes the series and the Brones are ready to open the second season at San Angelo with the Swatters on July 4th.

"It was never known in baseball after a season was over to play postponed games unless the two leading clubs were tied for first place, so why should I, being almost a full game to the good, play off a club that I have beat fair and square?"

Now in understanding the dispute

June 30, which would give the pennant to San Angelo.

In the second place, if Popboy insisted on playing the July 3 game in case he lost, he should have to play in case he won out in the July 2 games. A rule that won't work both ways isn't very fair. We believe San Angelo is entitled to the first half championship, or at least the right to play for it.

DEMPSEY'S NAMESAKE GETS PAIR OF SHOES FOR BIRTHDAY PRESENT

PITTSBURGH, July 7.—Before the echo of the resounding whack that sent Carpentier out to take the count had died away Saturday the latest Pittsburgh baby to arrive had been named "Jack Dempsey."

His exultant dad, running around crowing about the event, met his brother, who happened to be an ardent Carpentier fan. The father and the uncle were soon engaged in a bitter quarrel. Both were arrested.

In police court Sunday morning the uncle was sentenced to buy the baby a pair of shoes.

PRODUCING NEAR MARKET.

Ranger people, many of them, complain that they cannot enjoy spring fruits and vegetables because the prices are higher than they can afford.

Down in Erath county, it is reported, less than 100 miles from Ranger by air line, these truck products are so cheap they are not worth selling, because there is no local demand for them.

It is the old problem of transportation and distribution over again. Somewhere between the producer and the consumer there is either such heavy expense or such heavy profit-taking that both ends get the worst of it.

This illustration is typical; over abundance in one section; little if any in another, and it would seem that the only way to remedy it is to raise truck in the same region where the market is.

The Ranger territory is settled with almost metropolitan density, at least judging by Texas standards. But there is plenty of land not now under cultivation, and it is said to be truck land of excellent quality. It would seem, then, that it would be profitable for truck raisers to locate here, where they have ready access to market, and it also would be a boon to working people, who do not wax extremely opulent because they draw a few dollars for their daily toil.

This may appeal to the real farmer as book farming; nevertheless we have been told truck raising is practicable here, and if it is, it would certainly be profitable. For the experience of the last three years has shown there will be no surplus of green stuff at reasonable prices. And where there is no surplus, there seems always to be a profit.

HARDING'S CABINET

The Secretary of War. In John W. Weeks, secretary of war, the army has at its head a navy man.

Weeks, former senator from Massachusetts, graduated from the United States naval academy in 1881. His studies for the navy have not dulled his enthusiasm for the army, for Weeks has been known to labor in his office from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m., with but short periods for lunch and dinner.

The new secretary of war is striving to give the United States a small but highly efficient army organization. To back-stop the comparatively small regular army, Weeks is encouraging extension of the officers' training camps.

Weeks dislikes to be bothered with petty details. He expressed his views as follows: "Every time an officer gets a stomachache he has to run to the secretary of war about it."

This outburst followed a trying morning when he was nearly inundated with a flood of petty details.

Weeks is big, good-natured, with wide political experience and knows how to "play the game" with the senators and congressmen who can help or hinder him in the task of reorganizing the army to an effective peace basis.

S. PARKER GILBERT APPOINTED UNDER SECRETARY OF U. S. TREASURY

S. Parker Gilbert of Bloomfield, N. J., at the age of twenty-eight, has been appointed under secretary of the treasury by President Harding.

He becomes the ranking officer of the department, next to the holder of the portfolio, Secretary Mellon. At the age of eleven, Gilbert was graduated from the grammar school in Bloomfield at the head of his class. He won similar honors in graduating from the Bloomfield high school at fifteen. In his four years at Rutgers college, where he won his B. A. and M. A. degrees, he was awarded more than fifty prizes for efficiency. He graduated at the age of nineteen and entered Harvard Law school.

Penniless, Young Artist Wins Most Coveted of Art Awards

The story of Frank Schwartz, 26-year-old artist, of Greenwich Village, New York City, reads more like a novel or play than a real true account. For Frank Schwartz, penniless and about to be dispossessed from his $12-a-month "studio," is today the most-talked-of person in the world of art. He has won the most coveted of art awards, the Prix de Rome, which is a three-year fellowship in the American Academy of Art in Rome, carrying with it transportation expenses and an annuity of $1,000 during the three-year course. Schwartz won the award with his painting, "A Tribute to Heroism."

Too poor to pay the $12 a month rent for his "studio," Schwartz had received an eviction notice five minutes before a postman called with a letter stating that he had won the great art prize. In addition to the Prix de Rome, the painting also won for its creator a summer course at the Tiffany Foundation of Arts at Oyster Bay, Long Island. Schwartz is the son of a New York waiter. He is a native of Chicago and studied art there, working as a bus boy in restaurants in order to earn his meals and a dollar or two for lodgings. He is a war veteran, having served in France as a member of the camouflage section. As a rule, when a Prix de Rome winner returns to the United States he finds success awaiting him, so Frank Schwartz has jumped overnight from mediocre poverty to fame and perhaps fortune. The illustration shows Schwartz and his painting, "A Tribute to Heroism."

HARDING HAS MADE MAJOR DIPLOMATIC APPOINTMENTS

Two Editors, Two College Presidents, One Lawyer and Two Business Men Comprise Harding's Staff of Appointees to Important Posts.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES International News Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, July 6.—With the appointment of Charles B. Warren of Michigan as ambassador to Japan, President Harding has put the bulk of his foreign appointments behind him, and the conduct of American affairs abroad for the next few momentous years at least has been shifted to shoulders other than his.

It was a great relief for President Harding to get the Tokio post filled. It was generally regarded as the most important appointment in the diplomatic corps, because of the delicacy of Japanese-American relations and the great number of problems of an irritating nature which the new ambassador to Japan will be called upon to face. It is no secret in Washington that the President worried not a little over filling the Tokio post.

Up to today the Harding administration has made seven major diplomatic appointments since it came into office four months ago. It is interesting to look at them en bloc. Two editors, two college presidents, one lawyer and two lawyer-business men comprise the chief figures of the Harding diplomatic force. They are: Great Britain—Col. George McClellan Harvey of New York, editor; France—Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, lawyer-business man.

Japan—Charles B. Warren of Michigan, lawyer. Italy—Richard Washburn Child of Massachusetts, editor. China—Jacob Gould Schurman of New York, college president. Chile—William Miller Collier of Washington, college president. Spain—Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, lawyer-business man.

Outside of the countries with which the United States is still at war, or with which its relations are only partially existent, there remain only a few ambassadorial appointments to be made, although there are a number in the legation class. Belgium is yet to be filled. Brand Whitlock, beloved by the Belgians, is reported to be very anxious to return home at the earliest opportunity.

HISTORIC STATUE IS STOLEN IN BROOKLYN A bronze statue of a soldier which was rescued from Verdun at the time of the bombardment, and brought to this country through the French high commission for exhibition in museums and elsewhere, has been stolen from a warehouse leased by the French government at the foot of Commercial street and Newtown creek, Brooklyn. It became known today that detectives of the Thirteenth Branch Detective bureau, Brooklyn, have been assigned to find the statue. Leonce Armand, chief of personnel of the French high commission, confirmed the report of the theft. He said the statue is five feet high and weighs 135 pounds. He believed it was taken away in an automobile truck. No reason for the theft has appeared.

The statue is valued as a work of art at $12,000, it was stated, but it is not believed the robbers could dispose of it as such. The statue represented the figure of a soldier, with part of the right arm shot away, struggling across a battlefield. It was one of the few relics saved from Verdun, and was owned by the French ministry of fine arts. It was to be returned soon to France.

"Reporters Are Lowlife and Never Buy," Says Wife of Jasper Jones—and Thus Is Friendship Shattered

"I've found that you've got about as much standing at our house as Dinty Moore has with Maggie," Jasper Jones told the reporter as the pair, with never a regret for the deep collar on their near-beer mounded for a future emancipation. "It is all because of this stuff you have been writing about me and our little afternoon parties. In the last one you intimated that we had been drinking whiskey. I went home that evening and my wife jumped right on me. 'Jasper Jones,' she said, 'you've got to cut out that lowlife reporter. He inveigles you into those nasty saloons and you buy him drinks. You can't tell me. I know them reporters; they are always drinking but they never buy.' 'Besides I would be ashamed of myself, being led that way. Why you know you don't like the stuff. You told me so a hundred times that you drank just to be friendly, and from the way you've been perfumed up lately you certainly are acquiring a bunch of friends.' 'Of course I had to let what my wife said pass, but I had to snigger at the idea of my being led to a drink of real hooch. Led—that's good. If I am led a-tall it is an instinct that leads me to a friend that has something on the hip, or to the haunts of an honest bootlegger.' 'Harking Back. 'I thought though, I kind'a had to defend you some. 'Lissen, my dear,' I said, 'that reporter ain't no low-brow. He is a pretty good fellow and anybody needs livening up. Why you remember when we was younger in the good old days, when you hadn't been educated to the standard of auction bridge you now maintain, and I had a blacksmith shop instead of a garage, nearly ever evening we would slip the ol' can from behind the stove and I would go over to the Dutchman's place for a can of beer? Don't you remember how you called the recently-appointed provisional patrolmen of the police department is endeavoring to answer as assiduously as our fathers used to toil and moil over the question, 'How old is Ann?' Like this— 'When the recent anti-vice crusade orders were issued to the police sergeants, each sergeant directed his men to 'clean up' their respective beats—meaning, of course, that all commercialized vice should be driven to cover. Police Sergeant Fred Reed explained the matter to his 'coppers,' one of whom was the provisional man referred to above. 'Clean 'em up and do it quick,' explained Reed to his squad. 'And Thursday afternoon when I made my daily rounds through Hop alley and vicinity,' said Reed to Chief of Police Williams, Friday, 'I encountered a strange sight. We all know that the average Chinese hates work worse than Rip Van Winkle was reputed to dislike it, yet from one end of the alley to the other, there stretched a line of sweat-covered Celestials with hoes, rakes, buckets, brooms, mops, dust pans and other utensils of the white wings squad, all busy raking up the trash and litter which usually festoons the thoroughfare of the poppy pipe. 'And there, walking in and out among the groaning and panting Chinamen was my rooky patrolman, doing a Simon Legree—cussing the Chinks and asking them what they meant by lettin' their alley get so dirty. He kept tellin' them the sergeant had ordered the place cleaned up, and, by gravy, he was gonna see that the order was obeyed. 'The poor Chinks had raked and scraped up barrels and barrels of trash that had been rotting in Hop alley for years, and each of 'em had done not less than two dollars worth of work. I called off the slave driving cop and explained what real clean-up meant. But it never feazed him—too deep—clear over his head. But the Chinks were sure sore, all right.' 'I saw right away I had made a mistake. My wife with her bridge clubs and things would like to forget that our gang of pirates in the garage used to be only one of boy, who made me six-bits or a dollar a day shoeing horses. Why it is I can't see. Them was good folks we knew in those days. My wife has borrowed many a cup of sugar from the old widow Mulligan, who lives over there yet, but if she should meet her now—well, we keep a flivver and Mrs. Mulligan doesn't. 'So because my wife thinks you haven't the dignified standing in the community you should have, our little parties are off. Of course I am sorry. I enjoyed these little moments almost as much as I used to when the gang met at the Dutchman's once in a while and went home later singing 'How Dry I Am,' only they were a long way from being dry, believe me.' Jasper left the place. And the reporter sat a few minutes alone. He knew he had lost a lot of good material for copy and he was sorry. Besides he liked Jasper Jones. Knowing something of the nature of women, he wondered if it would have helped any if he had bought a drink once in a while himself. He doubted it. Then to nobody in particular he said: 'I will miss old Jasper Jones. I wonder if the public will? I wish I knew.'

NEW YORK, July 7.—Does Ethel Hallor, a Zeigfeld beauty, smoke too many cigarettes, associate with the wrong sort of persons and properly reside in an apartment hotel on Fifth avenue?

Her mother wants to know. So Magistrate Silberman in the Essex market court will do the King Solomon act, or something like it, on Wednesday when the young woman will appear before him on a summons issued at the mother's request.

The stage beauty shed copious tears when she learned of the action taken by her mother. She insists that a young woman who is 18 and who has contributed to the support of her mother for seven years, is entitled to live her life according to her own ideas.

She declares that she loves her mother dearly in spite of the "disorderly conduct" charge which she will face at the demands of her mother.

Miss Hallor states that when she appears in court she will have reinforcements in the shape of character witnesses and that "Mr. Zeigfeld himself" may be among them.

Miss Hallor is tall, blue eyed, with wavy bobbed blond hair. She explained the case thus: "I love my mother, but since this is the United States and not Europe, I believe that European ideas of maternal authority should not prevail. Mother believes in the European idea."

GOVERNMENT WINNER IN GERMAN LOTTERIES

BERLIN, July 7.—If you gamble in Germany you must play against the state—private quiet games run the risk of being raided by the police. Gambling by cards or roulette is punishable. The national German government attempts to satisfy the citizens' instincts for gambling by conducting state lotteries.

You buy a numbered ticket which costs you 400 marks. At certain intervals the numbers are drawn and the winners are advertised in the press. The usual high prize is 500,000 marks, the smaller prizes decreasing to 1,000 marks.

The explanation of the government conducting the lotteries is that a private individual might cheat you; the government wouldn't think of such a thing. So you take a chance and perhaps may draw the half-million mark prize.

First you plan exactly how you are going to spend the half million. Then you go around to draw your money. The cashier hands you 420,000 marks. Twenty per cent was retained by the government as its profit. You are informed that a list of the winners is given to the tax authorities to prevent your dodging on your tax returns. The tax collector relieves you of 195,000 marks income tax on the 500,000, for on your tax certificate is a special question as to your lottery winnings.

You still have 225,000 marks to report to the authorities as your capital increase for the year. The capital increase tax (a first cousin to the excess profits tax) costs you 100,000 marks. You have 125,000 marks remaining to build your castles originally planned on the basis of 500,000.

Germans gamble with the state because it's a sure thing—you simply can't be cheated. CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico.—The first man of the state of Chihuahua ever printed, giving the boundaries of the 65 municipalities that constitute it, will be issued early in July. Among information will be the location of all the mining camps of the state, both old and new, all towns of more than 200 inhabitants, railroads, trails and wagon roads.

WASAFF DROPS OUT OF RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

In a letter to the public, Sam K. Wasaff of Ranger, today withdraws from the race for representative, to be contested in the election on July 16. Mr. Wasaff's letter follows:

"To the public: Owing to pressure of business I am unable to make an active campaign for representative for the One Hundred and Eighth district and have decided to withdraw from the race. Should I remain in the race and not make an active campaign it might result in election of Mr. Russell of Callahan county. I have no objection to Mr. Russell but I am in favor of my home county electing the representative. There-

MOTORCYCLE RACES AT SAN ANTONIO IN JULY OF NATIONAL INTEREST

San Antonio speedway, five miles from the city. The oval is one of the largest dirt tracks in the United States. It covers a distance of two miles. The remarkable part about the track is that the riders can be seen from the grandstand at all stages of the race.

Two big automobile racing meets have already been staged at the speedway, and both automobile and motorcycle racers declare the speedway is one of the best in the United States.

The racing meet to be held here July 23-24, in a measure, preliminary to staging a national sweepstakes race here in 1922. This event, a 300-mile affair, is considered the cream of the motorcycle racing world.

The importance of a motorcycle race meet is shown by the fact that Dodge City, Kan., a hamlet of 5,000 population, accommodates from 35,000 to 40,000 speed fans annually at the national sweepstakes.

San Antonio is so situated that at least 60,000 fans could attend the event here.

President Henry Mathews, of the Speedway association, received word that Fred Ludlow, who made a record of 112 miles an hour for twenty-five miles at Beverly Hills track in California recently will be one of the competitors in the meet to be held here in July. In addition to this speed king Ray Wishear, "Shrimp" Burns, Otto Walker, Ralph Hepburn, all of whom are champions, have signified their intention of competing.

A unique feature of the program will be the one which will determine the Texas state champion motorcycle racer. This championship race will take place on each day of the race meet. It is open to all Texas riders on any machine, excepting those having eight valves.

There will be five events each day of the racing meet. The time trials will open the first day, followed by the closed club novice race of five laps, and then comes the open professional of fifteen laps, or thirty miles. The Texas riders' championship is the fourth event at twenty miles, and the open professional, at twenty miles, will close the first afternoon.

On the second day one of the interesting features will be the dispatch riders' race of ten miles, in which enlisted men of the army, riding regular government machines, will compete. This race has been sanctioned by Major-General Joseph T. Dickman, commander of the Eighth corps area.

Any records which will be made will stand as official, because the race meet has been sanctioned by the Motorcycle and Allied Trades association, an organization similar to the A. A. A. in the automobile racing world.

LIBERTY.

Then word the body of the story somewhat as follows. One of the strangest and most tragic cases in criminal history is that of Jacqueline Florio, who was brought to trial on a charge of murder. It so happened that her case was set for trial in the court over which her former husband presided. Not knowing the identity of the penniless woman the authorities appoint a young lawyer to defend her. The attorney turned out to be her son and— Find out the rest by seeing Pauline Frederick in "Madame X" at the Liberty theatre today.

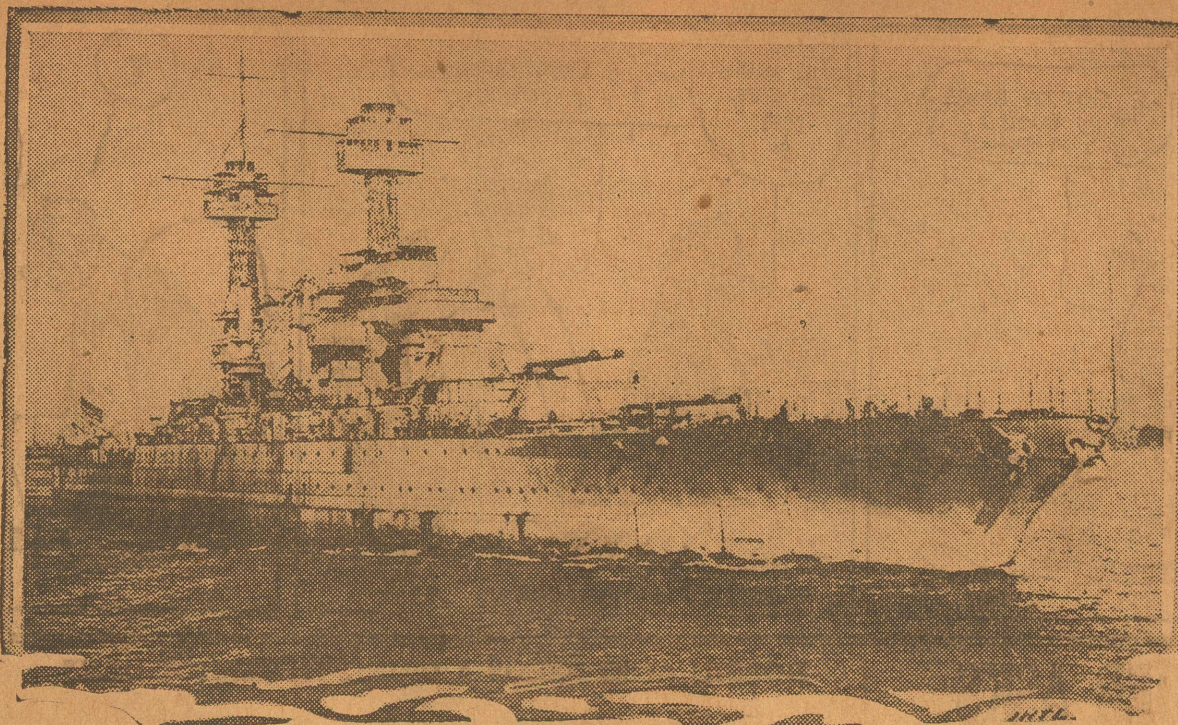

TEMPLE.

Another nice crook who reforms and becomes a perfect gentleman is the hero of "White and Unmarried," a Paramount picture starring Thomas Meighan, which will be the feature attraction at the Temple theatre today and Friday. The picture is an adaptation of John D. Swain's story, "Billy Kane, White and Unmarried," and the author has made such a bully good yarn of it that no one is going to give a hang if it never could have happened.

As a light-hearted bit of romance and adventure, with a versatile second-story man as the central figure, it's the goods. Who is going to try to resist a crook-hero who goes about his business of picking up other people's property with a smile on his face and ransack a bureau drawer without suggesting the need of sneaking music, who reforms the instant he falls heir to a million, who lands an upper-cut on the jaw of French thug, cleans up a band of Apaches, saves the French government the trouble of executing the two leaders by filling them full of American bullets and rescues the heroine in the best approved style?

Tom Meighan admires, and they are legion, will hand him nothing but well rounded applause on this feature. HARTFORD, Conn., July 7.—The Aetna Insurance company employs more than 6,000 young women in its main office here and its branch offices throughout the United States, but hereafter none of them will wear bobbed hair if they wish to keep their jobs.

Frank K. Daniels, president of the Hartford board of aldermen and employment director for the Aetna company, said Sunday night that no more young women with bobbed hair would be employed, and he intimated that those already on the payroll and having that style coiffure would be gradually eliminated.

WOMAN WEDS SAME SLEUTH THREE TIMES

CHICAGO, July 7.—Detective Sergeant Frank H. Freemuth and his wife, Marie Freemuth, were married Saturday for the third time in their careers.

Mrs. Freemuth married her detective husband for the first time on July 24, 1912, and for seven years thereafter thought herself his lawful wedded wife. In September, 1919, however, she discovered that she had been married to Freemuth less than a year after his divorce from a former "life partner." So she married him again to make sure the tie was binding.

On Oct. 30, 1919, only a little more than a month after this marriage, Mrs. Freemuth, sued for divorce, changing her husband's name to her own. In the course of time the divorce was granted, and it came to pass that Saturday they thought they would try once again.

FILM SMILES and so forth By Hi Speed

WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN FILM TITLES

OLD reliable "love" is being displaced by "woman" as the film-title drive proceeds for feminine favor. But there is something wrong with a system that makes "What Every Woman Wants" several hundred film-feet longer than "What Every Woman Knows."

"Patty" Arbuckle must be gaining weight prodigiously. He is coming to the screen "Via Fast Freight."

"Don't Call Me Little Girl" is a title that indicates somebody under thirty is getting peevish.

Possibly the "Borrowed Wings" in Elaine Hammerstein's new Selznick pictures means that they are beginning to steal airplanes.

Caution in Titles "What's Your Reputation Worth?" "See My Lawyer."

Producers brag about their pictures with a "punch" but "Home Stuff" may carry an additional "kick."

Sub-titles are words thrown upon the silent screen, and from what we hear at the movies they have an audible rebound.

Owen Moore thinks that "The Forgetters" is a film-title to be remembered.

Some girls "Come Out of the Kitchen" to go on the stage. Then they marry "Out of the Chorus" to avoid going back to the cook stove.

Snapshots at Films Ralph Ince will direct William Faversham in "Justice."

Barnum's birth-rate, "One a Minute," is to be photoplayed.

Conway Tearle will be seen in "After Midnight" afternoons and evenings.

"Safety First" film-titles include "Too Much Speed," "Dangerous Curve Ahead."

Eugene O'Brien asks "Is Life Worth Living?" "It's a Great Life," says another title.

WOMEN SMOKERS TO SHOW CONGRESS HOW THEY INHALE THE PILL

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Women will puff cigarettes and even smoke pipes if they want to, before members of congress, when the anti-smoking bill comes up for consideration.

Since Representative Paul B. Johnson, of Mississippi, introduced his bill prohibiting women from smoking in public in the District of Columbia, the house District of Columbia committee, which was given charge of the measure, has been besieged by supporters and opponents of the right of women to smoke.

So Chairman Benj. K. Focht has issued a general invitation to the many groups and organizations of Washington ladies who are protesting against Mr. Johnson's proposed discrimination to appear before the committee and show members of congress how it is done.

No date has been set for their appearance, but Chairman Focht said Sunday that a public hearing will be had on the Johnson bill within a few weeks and that the women will appear and smoke then.

Chairman Focht is keeping secret the identity of the women who have signified their willingness to show the members of congress how they puff cigarettes in the hotels and other tea rooms of the capital.

Virtually all of the reform organizations that maintain headquarters and lobbies in Washington are behind the bill and are deluging members of congress with demands for its passage.

The advocates of the anti-smoking bill have been asked for a public hearing, Chairman Focht said, and when he decided to grant it he arranged for the women to show, if they could, that it does them no harm to puff a cigarette occasionally.

MEANEST MAN STEALS WIFE'S ONLY SILK HOSE TO MAKE HIMSELF SOX

By International News Service KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7.—This narrative deals with the "meanest" man.

Her face registered extreme weariness; her shoulders were stooped; and she looked as though she would soon drop from sheer exhaustion, as she walked into the office of W. J. Burke, attorney for the Free Legal Aid Bureau.

"My husband has not worked for months," she started, on one of the common "regulation" pleas which are heard daily at the bureau. "He is a plumber and able to work."

"I work to support my three children and keep them in school. I prepare lunches for them to carry, and my husband takes their food. I do not want to sue him, because of the children, but I am at the end of the road."

"Last night he wanted to go to a dance as usual. I had only one pair of silk stockings—the first I ever owned. He found them and cut off the tops, so he could wear them to the dance."

The attorney told the woman to secure a non-support warrant.
