STRAY SAND IS FOUND IN PARSON FIELD

DRILLS STRIKE HEAVY GAS AT NEAR 1,000 FEET

Lease Bring Big Price; Other Activities Show Development Is Active

A stray sand, heretofore unknown in the Parson's field, was picked up yesterday, by the Parham Oil & Gas Company, drilling their No. 3 on the J. R. Wright lease, where they encountered one and a half million feet of gas, at 992 to 1014 feet in a sand without any water in it.

This well will be drilled deeper for the pay that has been found so frequently in this pool, which conservative oil men say has just been scratched.

Amy and Hart's well on the Bourland, has been shut down at around 1600 feet. The Harry Shinholt well, found five and a half million feet of gas at the 1200 foot sand but not very much oil.

In the Parsons pool, are very few small operators. Practically all the acreage is owned by the large companies, including the Humble, Prairie, Gulf, Eastland Oil and Refining and the Parham Oil & Gas.

Leases are high. It is said that there is very little chance to buy leases therein, except at a fancy figure, but that the field is due to undergo a lot of exploration in the next few months as there is a lot of land to be developed in that section.

On the map this pool looks, and is generally known as an extension of the Olean shallow field. It is being tested out in every direction and the structure is reported to be most promising.

Drilling continues on the Britton well one half mile south of town and they were down 3185 feet Wednesday night, and were drilling in black lime. The well is making about fifteen barrels per day and the storage tank is almost full. Mr. Gordon, one of the owners, was here Tuesday from Fort Worth and said he was well pleased with the showing.

It is thought the Ranger sand will be found at a depth of about 3250 feet. The crew is working only in day time and progress is rather slow.

The Thomas test west of town is down about 3400 feet and they have a fishing job on hand and indications are that they will probably strike pay sand within one hundred more feet.

40 FLORIDA PROMOTERS IN ROUND UP

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 20.—A round up of more than forty real estate promoters named in Federal indictments following a sweeping investigation into Florida land frauds began today with the mailing of warrants to the cities in which the defendants are said to live.

The warrants were issued yesterday after the federal grand jury had returned true bills against seventeen persons who promoted the Fullford-by-the-Sea near Miami, and twenty-five who promoted Arcadia gardens near Arcadia.

SPECIAL TERMS OF COURT TO BE HELD JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 20.—Special terms of the court to try Arthur Dunas, and M. C. Tebbetts and more than forty of their associates, charged with using the mail to defraud and conspiracy to defraud, will be asked for November, U. S. District Attorney W. H. Gober, announced today.

ANTI SALOONERS AFTER SCALP OF CZAR ANDREWS

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writes WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Indications are that the Anti-Saloon League is going after Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews' official scalp.

That the general will resign shortly as dry czar is a foregone conclusion, but the assumption is that he will do it on the ground of prohibition's unenforceability.

This is what the League wants to lead off, Wayne B. Wheeler plainly said in a recent formal statement that officials who aren't in sympathy with the dry regime shouldn't be permitted to quit, declaring it a failure--their jobs should be taken away from them and given to real dries.

He didn't mention Gen. Andrews' name but everybody knew whom he meant.

The League's executive committee will meet in Washington in September and then it is expected the campaign for an honest-to-goodness prohibitionist at the head of the government's dry-enforcement activities will be launched.

The administration, on the other hand, is altogether opposed to a change until after election--is even trying to get Gen. Andrews not to resign before November.

A radical dry, starting in hammer-and-tongs, in the midst of the congressional campaign, might make bad work for the party in power at the polls. He probably wouldn't convert many Democratic dries to Republicans and he almost certainly would antagonize a great many Republican wets.

What a real prohibitionist--like Wayne B. Wheeler, for instance--could do with prohibition, in Gen. Andrews' place, is anybody's guess. Roy A. Haynes was a real one, but he hadn't anything like the cash resources and other facilities that Andrews has possessed. No reasonable person doubts that Andrews honesty has tried, but he hadn't the crusader's spirit. The task isn't one he likes, as Wheeler probably would.

CONSTITUTION MUST STAND AS IT IS WRITTEN

Mexican Executive Makes His Position Clear On Subject

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—President Calles of Mexico has definitely rejected the true proposal advanced by the Catholic church, and has dispelled any hope on the part of the episcopate that the religious situation will be changed before the opening of congress in September, if then.

The president, however, pointed out that there were political and religious recourses open to the church. Since the disorders broke out here when three persons, two of them members of the Mexican chamber of deputies have been killed, extraordinary precautions are being taken by the administration. The police force has been doubled and more troops placed in charge in interior points.

HUERTA DENIES CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, August 20.—Questioned by Federal investigators, Alfredo de Huerta, former president of Mexico, denied here today that he had aided Enrique Estrada in his alleged plans for a revolution in Mexico.

Huerta was found at his home here after several days of search but department of justice agents.

He was quizzed by Lucien Wheeler head of the department of justice, who revealed at the same time the "inside story" of the proposed "Mexican revolution."

SLAYER OF 2 TO BE TRIED TEXARKANA

TEXARKANA, Arkansas, August 20.—Keener Wagner, held on charges of killing Sam and Will Carper, brothers, and wanted by Tennessee and Mississippi authorities, probably will not be returned to either of those states unless a capital offense judgment awaits there, local authorities said today.

A long distance telephone conversation between Sheriff Barber here and the Tennessee authorities this morning, further confirmed Wagner's identity as the alleged desperado and murderer wanted in two southern states.

It is understood here that Wagner was given a judgment of hanging in Tennessee but that the state supreme court reversed the decision and ordered a new trial.

Held Without Bail for Murder

Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, New York broker, neighbor and cousin to Mrs. Frances Hall and "Fireman" Willie Stevens, cousin to Mrs. Hall are enroute to jail charged with the murder of Hall-Mills, Episcopal rector and choir singer four years ago. Preliminary examination has just closed.

Mexican Rebel

Here is Gen. Enrique Estrada, former Mexican Secretary of War, who was arrested at San Diego with 150 other men on charges of plotting a revolution against President Calles. An armored car and large quantities of ammunition to be used against Mexican towns along the border were captured by the sheriff at San Diego.

ARGUMENTS IN MURDER CASE CLOSE

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 20.—Talking his time to present his final arguments, O. H. Luning, government attorney, talked three hours this morning in the Osage murder case, and announced at recess for lunch, that he still would require thirty minutes this afternoon, allowing Federal Judge Cotterall the minimum time to give his final instruction.

Offering classical, logical and brilliant arguments, Luning held the jury and the court almost spell bound, despite his lengthy arguments.

W. K. Hale and John Ramsey, on trial charged with murdering Henry Ross Horse, Osage Indian, during the "Osage reign of terror" sat unmoved as the events that are to shape their destinies moved rapidly to a climax.

CLINE ALSO IS GIVEN FREEDOM, KILLED DEPUTY

Dimmitt County Was Scene of Alleged Crime Of Murder

AUSTIN, Aug. 20.—Former General Jose Rangel, was given a full pardon from the Texas penitentiary today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Rangel was convicted in 1913 of an attempt to organize a revolution on American soil to invade Mexico.

Rangel and his followers were marching through Dimmitt county when apprehended by American officers. Deputy Sheriff Candelario Ortiz, was taken prisoner by Rangel's hand and later executed, before a firing squad, according to the records of his conviction.

Governor Ferguson also gave a full pardon to Chas. Cline, an American, alleged accomplice of Rangel. On September 11, 1913, Rangel and Cline at the head of a band of heavily armed revolutionists organized in Dimmitt county, Texas, started for the Mexican border.

Dimmitt county officers, who had been warned of the expedition by the Mexican secret service, attempted to block the revolutionary band. Rangel's party was intercepted by Sheriff W. F. Gardner, and a posse of deputies, and a battle resulted. The revolutionists were successful in the fight, and captured Deputy Sheriff Ortiz and Eugene Buck.

Shot to Death. Ortiz, according to testimony given at the trial of Rangel and Cline, was shot to death at the command of Rangel, while Cline, it was charged, agreed to it.

After the Dimmitt county officers were captured they were loaded down with packs and forced to walk. Ortiz became exhausted, according to the story told by W. P. Buck and because he did not obey commands to move on was shot to death.

Before the border was reached, a detachment of the Fifth U. S. Cavalry rounded up the rebels and captured all of them and rescued Buck. Served Sentence. Previously, Rangel served a term in the Leavenworth Federal penitentiary for conspiracy to violate the law in organizing a revolutionary army in San Antonio. He was given a sentence of either two or three years which he served. He was sentenced in San Antonio Federal court in 1910. It was while Porfirio Diaz was president of the republic.

Paroled Last Christmas. Last year, the governor paroled Rangel for ten days during the Christmas holidays so that he could visit his children living in San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth. Two of his daughters lived in Fort Worth at that time. Both of his daughters were with him when he was tried in San Antonio for violation of the neutrality law.

CUERO MAN CONFESSES TO MURDER

CUERO, Texas, Aug. 20.—William Nack, stockman and farmer today confessed that he killed Jans Johnson, 60 years old, and threw his body into the Guadalupe river.

Mrs. Nack, who has been grilled by the officers since the first clew pointed toward Nack as the slayer, was jailed today on a murder charge. Nack had previously been charged with murder.

Two Injured Aviators Are Seriously Hurt

FROM THE BIBLE
 And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom you will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye dwell; but as for me and my household, we will serve the Lord, Joshua, 24-15.

PRAYER—Teach us service so that we may better serve Thee and our fellow man, believing service is the highest tribute we can pay Thee, O Lord.

THAT CUT IN THE SCHOLASTIC PER CAPITA

As a result of the cut of three and a half dollars in the allotment per capita of scholastic in Texas by the authorities, Eastland county school pupils will lose approximately $100,000, according to an estimate of a leading educator in the county. The school children of Ranger will lose approximately $6,000, the other towns, Eastland, Cisco, Gorman, Desdemona, Carbon, Rising Star and other places proportionately as much. It is estimated that the rural districts will lose approximately $35,000. These figures seem to us to be very conservative. There is a squabble on between Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and candidate Attorney General Dan Moody about how it could have been avoided. One defending the actions of the state, and the other condemning the cut to $11.50 from $15. It's not our purpose to take up the fight for either one. We do not propose to grind the political axes of either one of them, but we do propose to agitate and work for better schools, longer terms of free public schools in Texas. We do propose to fight the battles for a stronger educational system in Texas from the kindergarten on up through the university and technical colleges. We do propose to keep up the fight for education until the child in the rural districts are given as good opportunity to get an education as the urban child.

Texas is one of the richest states in the union in resources. It is one state, and the only state, that owns its own school lands. Texas should have the best school system in the nation and should rank among the highest in literacy, because of the wealth back of it, but instead, Texas ranks low down in the list. The schools and colleges, practically the entire system, have been the hand ball and football of the politicians and have been handled and kicked about by them for no good purpose as the result will show, because of the low standing Texas has in the states in education and literacy.

Lopping off the $3.50 is nothing short of robbing future generations of what they are justly entitled to. It is nothing more nor less than taking bread out of the mouths of the future citizens. The child of today is the voter of tomorrow. Texas, above all, needs an educated and trained citizenship. That education should be given the child in the public schools of the state. If the authorities would cut off some useless bureau or expense, and give it to the school children, the state would be better off.

Where there is a will, there is a way. Some way can be found whereby the school children of the state will not be robbed of their heritage. We favor taking the school system out of politics. It must be done.

When you lop off as much as has been chopped off the per capita this year, you compel the schools to either cut short their terms or employ teachers that are not fully qualified.

Something must be done and done soon to eliminate making the schools and colleges the footballs for politicians.

ELKS SCORE A BIG SUCCESS

The Ranger Elks scored a big success last night when they entertained with a dance at their club rooms in the Halburn building. The musicians, the California Red Jackets, certainly came up to expectations in every way, and nothing said of them in advance was too flattering, for they did not in any way fall short of the advance notices.

They were a peppy bunch and their music was very original and delightfully rendered—one easily understanding why they have been in such demand by radio fans over the various stations from which they have broadcasted.

Over 100 couples were present, representative people from all over the oil fields, as well as from Ranger, and all expressed themselves as being delighted with the music. In spite of a rising thermometer late yesterday afternoon, the ballroom was very comfortable, rendered so by a number of electric fans and opened windows, and while the crowd was of good size, the floor was not too crowded for comfortable dancing.

This orchestra is scheduled to play here on Labor Day night for the Elks dance on that night provided the plans go through alright.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT
 (Written for the United Press)
NEW YORK—Costume designers are covetously keeping their Fall styles under cover, guarding their silhouettes as a mother hen guards her chicks. It is as difficult to see an original Fall model these days as it is to get into a Broadway theatre without a ticket. However, certain fashion ideas which are being hatched by several Parisian gown houses are already bursting from the shell.

Bronzed bodies combined with slender-fitting skirts, for instance, will be among the new silhouettes. There is a tendency towards more fullness above the hip-line and slender hemlines. Skirts will be about four inches below the knee which means that they will be slightly longer than they have been.

Waist lines of many evening frocks of broad variety dip at the rear and mount higher in front. Young Misses' frocks show a raised waist line as where a narrow belt is placed almost at the normal waist line. The average waist line for Fall will be placed at the hip tops.

Sleeves remain long. Collars are small or entirely absent. Arm holes in some instances are cut very deep with the sleeve narrowing toward the wrist.

Braided effects are prominent on skirts of dressy or semi-dressy type. Fringe often forms the tier effect for Fall. Another skirt idea is the slender foundation with over panels.

Some salaries were cut, and so far no successor to B. H. Peacock has been named.

Study of Cancer And Its Causes Attracts Scientists

By WILLY MEYER, M. D.
 Member Gorgas Memorial Institute
 (Written for the United Press)
CHICAGO—Medical men have known for many years and the public is beginning to realize and to appreciate that scientific medicine is definitely in the age of preventing disease.

Much has been accomplished. Some scourges which formerly decimated the people of the earth, and the causes of which are known, are under control, as for instance, smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid, provided those to be benefited by these discoveries show good will and sensible co-operation by allowing the family physician to rub into their skin, after superficial scratching, or inject with a clean syringe and needle beneath it, that vaccine, antitoxin, or serum which has been found efficient.

However, there is one disease, the most terrible of all, which has baffled the ingenuity of scientists all over the world—cancer. As soon as we know what causes cancer the foundation will have been laid to preventing its occurrence and development.

Work Together
 Fully aware of their handicap, medical men are directing their attention to early recognition. Those most carefully diagnosed to determine whether they are cancerous. If found to be so and not too far advanced, they are promptly submitted to operation, to treatment with rays which are emanated by the x-ray tube, or to application of radium.

Stone Almanaco Reveal Yucatan Occupancy by Maya

By HERBERT MOORE
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON—Almanacs of stone discovered at the ruins of the ancient Maya city of Coba in Yucatan show that the Maya occupancy of Yucatan took place at least a century and a quarter earlier than supposed, according to statements made by Dr. Sylvanus Morley, director of the Carnegie Institute excavation expedition.

It is now fairly certain that the ancient Maya had begun to colonize the peninsula during the early part of the fourth century, A. D., rather than at the close of the fifth century as native accounts indicate. The discovery is expected to lead to startling results in the Yucatan puzzle.

Tumors Studied
 In the center of this terrace stood a magnificent stone monument, ten feet high and four feet wide, elaborately sculptured on all four sides, with figures of rulers and their slaves and columns of hieroglyphics. This discovery led to the finding seven other similar monuments nearby.

The discovery is especially significant because of the fact that never before in Yucatan has more than a single monument ever been found at a single site. In Northern Guatemala, in what is known as the "Old Empire Region" of the Maya, some hundred miles southwest, groups of monuments have been located.

The provision for bringing about progressively instead of immediately the suppression of all forms of slavery was inserted so as to permit those countries which have a large economic system based upon slavery to bring about the change gradually without precipitating an economic crisis or upheaval.

The remainder of the treaty has largely to do with measures towards breaking up the slave trade, and with rendering mutual assistance to that end.

THE VANITY CASE

By Carolyn Wells
1926 by G. P. PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Mrs. Prentiss sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the Heath household next door one night, and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of Myra Heath and the disappearance of her husband, Perry.

House guests of the Heaths are Lawrence Inman, heir to Myra's fortune, and Bunny Moore, vivacious, golden-haired to whom suspicion points because of her refusal to answer questions.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collection glass, and it was a rare old whiskey bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily made up and garbed in gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore an Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by Sam Anderson, Heath's rival for the club presidency; Al Cunningham, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Anderson disagrees. Todhunter Buck, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, suggests to Cunningham that Heath also may have been murdered.

Emma, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent.

Detective Mott learns from Herrick, the Heath butler, that Myra and Perry Heath had quarreled over Bunny the night of the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV

While the confab was going on in the Heath studio, Mrs. Prentiss was sitting at her window, wondering whether to go over to the Heaths' house or not.

Her curiosity was so strong as usual and her inclination was to go, but a strange sense of caution held her back.

She felt, intuitively, that she could do no good over there and might do harm. Moreover, she could have a report of what had transpired, when her nephew and her guest reappeared, and so, Mrs. Prentiss sat, waiting and thinking.

The telephone rang, and Mrs. Prentiss answered it herself. This was her custom, for quick curiosity never could wait for the intervention of a servant's offices.

A man's voice said, "May I speak to Miss Moore, please?"

"Who is calling?" Mrs. Prentiss responded, in a tone which she endeavored to make sound like that of a servant.

"No matter. Merely ask Miss Moore to come to the telephone. This is important."

The voice was cold, dictatorial and impatient. Clearly, the speaker was in a temper.

Now, Mrs. Prentiss did not know Perry Heath well, but her ever present intuition hinted to her that if might be she was listening to his voice.

It didn't sound exactly like Heath, but some voices are different on the telephone, and she couldn't be sure.

Taking a chance, she said, still in the deferential tone of a servant: "Is this Mr. Heath? Miss Bunny said she would not speak on the telephone to anyone else."

Mrs. Prentiss heard the astonished gasp at the other end of the line and grinned with satisfaction.

But the reply came: "Heath? No, this is—this is Jackson. Please tell Miss Moore I must speak with her. You may say I have important news for her."

Suddenly Emily Prentiss felt that she was overstepping the bounds of propriety. She was a gentlewoman, not a detective, and she had no right to intercept or eavesdrop upon a private communication.

So, she said simply: "Miss Moore is next door at the Heath house. If you wish, you can call her there."

"Thank you," was the response, and without further goodby, the voice ceased.

The advice, however, was followed for a few moments later the telephone bell rang in the Heath studio.

Inman reached for the receiver, but Mott was too quick for him.

Grasping it first, the detective said, briskly: "Hello!"

"Hello," said a man's voice, "I want to speak to Miss Moore, and make it snappy!"

"hello!" was answered only by a mocking laugh, and a jeering goodby. "That was Heath," he said, with conviction.

Mott called Central, and immediately had an investigation ordered that must result in knowledge of where the telephone message came from, at any rate.

Then, the detective turned to Bunny. "You know where Perry Heath is?" he said, accusingly, and the sound of his stern accents roused the girl from her crying spell.

"I do not," she declared, and faced him with angry eyes. "See here, Mr. Mott, I'm tired of your prying into my affairs, of your innuendoes and questions. Now if you suspect me of a hand in my friend's death, then I'd rather you'd say so straight out, and stop this beating around the bush."

"All right, I will, Miss Moore. As you asked me to do, I am speaking straightforwardly. The time has passed for mincing matters. To my mind, the death of Mrs. Heath must have been brought about by one of three persons, her husband or one of her two house guests. Her husband is out of the question, because of what was impossible for him to get out of the house and leave it locked and bolted behind him. Also, Mr. Inman is not a likely suspect, because he was in love with the lady."

"I am told that Mr. Inman's affection for Mrs. Heath was known not only to her husband and household, but to most of her friends and acquaintances. Now, even granting that he would be inheritor of her estate, Mr. Inman is not going to kill the woman he loves. Then, where can we look for the murderer but to her girl friend, the visitor of Mrs. Heath, who is, incidentally, in love with Mrs. Heath's husband, and will doubtless some day marry him?"

"What? Bunny's face was deadly white and her eyes stared in horror and dismay."

"That's the way things look," said Mott. "Also, it must be remembered, that Miss Moore's finger-prints are on the broken bottle which was used as the weapon of death."

"Mine are there, too, I am told," exclaimed Larry Inman.

"Yes, but yours are over those of Miss Moore—superimposed upon hers. This, as you can't help seeing, proves that the bottle was first used by Miss Moore, as a deadly weapon, and afterward picked up or examined by Mr. Inman. Perhaps he was present at the time, and wrested it from Miss Moore's hand, thus leaving his prints above her own. Now, the matter of the vanity case. It has been proved, to the satisfaction of the police, that the make-up on Mrs. Heath's face was applied after she was dead, and also that the materials used are the same as those in Miss Moore's vanity case. It is further assumed, though of course this cannot be a matter of actual proof, that the color was applied by either a woman or an artist. Had an intruder such as a burglar or midnight marauder, committed this crime, he would not, probably could not, have applied the make-up with such a degree of skill and artistic taste. But an artist could do it, or a woman could do it! Miss Moore, did you apply the cosmetics to Mrs. Heath's dead face?"

Mott intended this as a bold stroke. He turned suddenly and faced Bunny with his question, spoken in a brutal, threatening tone, and accompanied by a stern, accusing glare.

Bunny turned white, attempted to speak, then swayed in her seat, and toppled over sideways.

Plover Season Is Closed Under The Federal Law

A continuous close season has been prescribed throughout the United States on black-bellied and golden plovers, according to the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which is charged with the enforcement of the migratory-bird treaty act. Hunters are reminded by the bureau that persons killing these birds are subject to prosecution in Federal court. Greater and lesser yellowlegs, however, may still be hunted legally during certain open seasons, which are as follows:

In Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia from August 16 to November 30.

In the District of Columbia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, and Alaska from September 1 to December 15.

In Vermont, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Nevada, and that portion of Washington lying east of the summit of the Cascade Mountains from September 16 to December 31.

In Utah, Oregon, Idaho, and that portion of Washington lying west of the summit of Cascade Mountains from October 1 to January 15; and in Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana from November 1 to January 31.

The Heartbreaker: John Barrymore in "Don Juan"

When a man protests that he has no other purpose in life than "maintaining the supremacy of love"—ah—then take warning and beware his smooth tongue and ingratiating person.

Ten women, all beautiful, all young, all charming and ineffably lovely, adored this master of romance—Don Juan—so delightfully portrayed by John Barrymore in the Warner Bros. production which had its premiere at the Warner Theatre, New York, on Thursday evening, August 5th.

All the excellent advice in the world, however, could not have deterred a single one of these women from her desired goal—a place, no matter how small, in Don Juan's large and fickle heart. He loved 'em all, and left 'em all, in the photoplay that Warner Bros. have produced from the poem of immortal fire and love written by Lord Byron. All of Mr. Barrymore's erstwhile romantic roles pale before the characterization of "Don Juan," that undimmed, audacious figure of legend.

SCREEN REPORTER SPURNS NOTEBOOK

Strange as it may seem, Johnny Hines, who comes to the Lamb today and Saturday in the role of a cub reporter, does not produce a notebook to jot down notes while on the job. For years newspaper reviewers and critics have delighted in calling attention to the fact that newspaper reporters never use a notebook, but that film reporters are invariably shown doing so.

In "Rainbow Riley," an adaptation of Thompson Buchanan's stage play, "The Cub," Johnny Hines, who is cast in the role of a reporter, never appears with the troublesome notebook in hand. In fact, he is kept so busy trying to evade trouble in the Kentucky mountains where he has been assigned to report a feud that notebooks or any other kind of newspaper equipment are a burden instead of an aid.

In his role of the cub reporter Johnny might be forgiven even if he did use a notebook, since he is employed because of his nerve and not because of his experience. Johnny isn't on the job more than a few days when he is given the Kentucky feud assignment, and as soon as he reaches his destination the action comes so fast that his main concern is to save his neck instead of worrying about his story.

But despite his hectic experiences, he not only manages to obtain a scoop for his paper, but finally brings peace to the feudists and happiness for himself when he wins the girls of his dreams.

Mussolini Saves Roman Bootblack From Losing Stand

ROME—How Mussolini intervened to save a Roman bootblack from losing his stand is narrated by the shoe-shine himself in an interview published here.

Antonio Morichini, ex-police officer, had worked for a number of years a profitable stand on the Corso, the Broadway of Rome. New traffic regulations, recently carried into effect, deprived him of his money-making stand, where for years he had done first class business. The authorities ordered him into a back street, where few customers passed.

Antonio Morichini saw his earnings dwindle away. His daughter, moreover, fell sick. In desperation, the old police officer decided to write to Mussolini himself, which he did, setting out his case.

In two days he had an answer. A sergeant of police called upon him, made a few inquiries as to his past conduct, looked up his record, and then gave him a new license to pursue his calling at an even more favorable position than the one he had lost.

English Hillside Threatens to Slide Down Into Valley

LONDON.—A constant watch is being maintained over a hill in Durdene Park near Dorking in Surrey which is threatening to slide down into the valley.

A million tons of earth are involved in the pending landslide which has already opened a four-foot crack toward the top of the hill which has broken a water-main and split several 100-year-old Spanish chestnut trees. A main highway near the foot of the hill toward which the landslide is moving has been deserted.

Somehow the diligent man constantly runs into streaks of good luck. Somebody must fill in big places—why not you?

Port of London Is Improved By Shipping Docks

LONDON—London is trying to come into her own as a world port. A contract for extensive developments at Tilbury—the Thames River port about 20 miles from the heart of the city—has been let by the Port of London Authority.

The works will include extensive constructions of new facilities for the largest ships afloat. Among these will be a new entrance lock 1,000 feet in length and a 750-foot dry dock, capable of being extended to 1,000 feet if the occasion arises.

Developments in the London port will eventually divert much of Liverpool's and Southampton's heavy shipping to the city and eliminate the long overland hauls with expensive rail freight rates, it is said.

They are denaturing alcohol with gasoline. What they need is some way of denaturing people.

So many shirts for the men, so many play clothes for the kidlets, so many tub frocks for yourself—not to speak of household linens and dozens of "little things!" The very thought is a burden—but it needn't be! Use Savex—use it in a washing machine, use it at tub and washboard, use it for hand-bowl pick-up pieces—it will be equally successful. No boiling or bluing is ever necessary, and only when clothes are badly soiled need you soak or rub.

Washed with Savex, cottons and linens become dazzling white, colored things remain bright and silks and woolsens retain their textile beauty. Of course, care must be used with delicately tinted fabrics.

There is a delight in using Savex, too. Besides being safe and easy for washing, its qualities of good soap, water softener and bleach will also protect and improve the looks of your hands.

Lions are Victors In Real Game Nitro Park, 1-0

In the prettiest game that has been played in the Business Men's League, the Lions Club won a hurling match from the Leveille-Maher team at Nitro Park Thursday afternoon.

The game was all Hodge and Galloway, with Galloway having the best of the deal. Hodge struck out two more men than did Galloway but he yielded up six hits while Galloway only allowed one. There were only two errors in the entire game and they did not count in the scoring.

Lambert, shifted from first base to second handled four chances with put out a slip while Craig at short and Fitcher Galloway each had three assists. Boyd who was so sorely missed in the last game of the Lions will have to look to his laurels, as Chief Murphy caught a good game, after being out for some time, Cherry robbed Vaughn of a long hit in the sixth which had it gotten away would have been good for at least a double. Had he been safe the Lizzies might have tied the score for there was only one out and there is the possibility that he could have stolen third and scored on Davis infield out.

Davis played a wonderful game at third for the Lizzies, getting four put outs. Three of these were foul flies that he snagged after hard runs. Bill Knight covered lots of ground at short, twice making good catches for outs. So sure did they look like safe hits that it bewildered the Lions when his honor, the Umps called them out. Besides playing a good game at third Davis got the only hit off Galloway, a hard hit ball that rattled the boards in right field on the bound.

CHAMPION ATHLETES ALWAYS BRING UP AN ARGUMENT WITH FANS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York—Any sport fan in the mood for an argument can always be satisfied by suggesting a debate on who was the greatest athlete of all times in any line of sports.

Take baseball. Who is the greatest player of all time?
Without delving into the infant period of the game, before salaries of $52,000 a year were paid to stars, before million-dollar stadia were built, and before 5000 spectators were considered a bad day by the business office, and you will find noisy support for Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Christy Mathewson and scores of others.

Baseball
Babe Ruth generally is recognized as the greatest home run hitter of all times, but even his claim is not without qualified dispute. The old-timers will tell you that slugger just as mighty as Ruth played in the old times but that they had no lively ball to hit, no short fences to shoot at and pitchers who were not handicapped by tight pitching rules.

Football
Take football and ask who was the greatest player of all time?
No one ever agrees on Red Grange, George Gipp, Jim Thorne, Eddie Mahan, Ted Coy, Heston, Chick Harley and others too numerous to mention.

Sprinting
Take foot racing.
The same arguments result between the supporters of Charley Paddock, Jackson Scholz, Roland Locke, Ted Meredith and others.
Meredith's records still stand but the old-timers protest that split-watch seconds weren't used in the old days and that there were old professional distance runners as good as Nurmi.

Tennis
Bill Tilden is generally accepted as the greatest tennis player of all times and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen as the queen of the courts.
But you can find an argument that Anthony Wilding was just as good as Tilden and protests that Mlle. Lenglen picked her spots.

Golfers
Bobby Jones and Walker Hagen are regarded as the greatest golf players of the present time and Jones has been picked by some critics as the greatest golfer of all times but the choice is not unanimous. Many of the British experts think that Abe Mitchell is just as good as Hagen.

Fighters
Suggestions that Jack Dempsey is the greatest fighter of all times bring roars that he would have been a mark for Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Johnson or Jim Jeffries and it is even disputed that he is the greatest heavyweight of his own time.

Benny Leonard could get any number of votes naming him as the greatest lightweight boxer of all times but the argument comes there that Joe Gans was the greatest of all and would have been a cinch to beat Leonard.

Swimming
But ask at any cross-road town in the United States or perhaps in the world who is the greatest swimmer that ever lived and the overwhelming response will be—
Gertrude Ederle.

Times, rules and conditions under which all games are played have changed from year to year. Equipment used by baseball players, golfers, tennis players and track athletes have been developed by science from crude forms to the last word in perfection.

Her feat was probably the greatest achievement that ever has been

COACH CHERRY ISSUES CALL FOR FOOTBALL STARS

Blair Cherry, former T. C. U. captain and star end, the present athletic director of the Ranger junior college, and Ranger high school announces that practice for the Ranger high school team will start on Sept. 1, while the Ranger junior college candidates will be called out Sept. 10. As usual, the Ranger Bulldogs are expected to provide strong contenders in the Oil Belt district, known as one of the hardest districts in the state. With conference games at home with Abilene, Breckenridge, Cisco on Armistice Day, and with games away from home with Stephenville, Brownwood and Eastland, the season proves to be full of action. Besides this series of conference games, several other games will be played. The Bulldogs open with Strawn who always has a fast hard-fighting team at Ranger on Sept. 18, and plays the first conference game at Stephenville on Oct. 2, at that place. The first conference game at home will be on Oct. 16, with San Angelo, who plays here.

Lead by Captain Cooper, the Bulldogs are expected to give a good account of themselves. With Buster Mills, one of the outstanding backfields of West Texas, Freshman Phillips, and Shipp, end; Hinmon, Alfred Glenn, Troy Grubbs, Victor Short, letter men from last year, and Cornelius, Whithall, Knott, Homer Short, Swafford, Phillips, Thompson, Starr, Knight, Cole, Pepper, Love, Hamlen, and a wealth of other material, Ranger High School will put a good team on the field.

The junior college of Ranger expected to be ready to meet schools of the same class this year on the gridiron. With Roy Wilson, captain of the Ranger Bulldogs of 1924, Homer Shipp, Eugene Glenn, T-Bone Shell, last year's football captain, Tubby Gullahorn, and several other of the former Ranger high school players, and several new ones from each of the surrounding towns, the prospects look very good for a hard hitting, hard fighting team for the first year. Equipment is being ordered for the junior college team, and everything will be ready on Sept. 10, the first day of practice for the junior college squad.

Athletic Director Cherry expects to take an intense course in football tactics before the season starts, Assistant Coach Wallace Davis is taking a course under Rockne and Meadwell, as did Cherry last year. Another coach will be added to the staff in a few days to help Cherry with the two squads.

Winds of Space Sweeps Across The Universe

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON.—According to British interpretation of recent experiments by Professors Millikan and Bowen, American wizards of the infinite, the old poetical expression, "the winds of space" may yet be proved to be founded on fact.

Basing their conclusions on recent X-Ray demonstrations before the Royal Society taken in connection with Bowen's and Millikan's experiments tending to prove that all space is filled with "cosmic rays" so powerful they will penetrate six inches of solid lead, British scientists have evolved a theory that the voids of the universe are filled with "light winds" which whistle past the earth at the astounding speed of 186,000 miles a second. For light, according to the latest theory, is no longer to be considered as wave lines in ether, but comes in lumps of assorted sizes which have both mass and inertia.

In the words of Dr. E. E. Fournier d'Albe, a well-known British writer on scientific subjects, "By virtue of this mass and speed, light exerts a pressure on the arid plains of Mars, the broken silicate mountains of the moon, and the cloud-wrapped summits of Venus.

"This is the new wind of space. It blows ceaselessly from those foundations of light and life which we call the suns and stars. It is forever new. For the universe is infinite and inexhaustible.

"Lord Kelvin's gloomy predictions of a degeneration of energy ending in complete stagnation is no longer justified. His conception of atoms and atomic energies has been entirely superseded by the electronic view of matter and we have learned to look forward to a ceaseless and boundless unfolding from within outward, not of energy and power alone but of life itself."

As to the origin of the cosmic rays which are the Winds of Space, Dr. d'Albe says, "These rays may be due to the destruction of matter itself in the distant abysses of the universe. Such destruction may be brought about by the collapse of the electric system of atoms, which we now look upon as a sort of solar system consisting of a central 'proton' with its attendant electrons. And the seat of this stupendous action may well be found in those distant suns density is over a hundredfold the density of lead."

Niagra Falls Repair Work To Wait on Canada

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON.—Repair of Niagara Falls must wait on elections.

Plan for the repair of the famous honeymooners' mecca, the edge of which is disintegrating, threatening destruction of the scenic value of the falls, has been held up by the United States and Canadian governments until after the Canadian elections. It is felt that the government commissions can act with more authority then.

A "sore tooth" cavity is causing the damage. A V-shaped notch on the edge is causing convergence of the waters, rapid eating away of the edge, much mist to spoil the view, and a promise to destroy the wide gorge. The notch is in the middle of the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side.

One plan is to build concrete islands in Niagara River above the falls to turn the flow over the other parts of the falls.

The edge of the falls has been receding an average of seven feet a year for many years, but heretofore its steep edge has been evenly preserved, according to Commerce Department engineers working under Secretary Hoover on plans for saving the place.

The falls on the American side are not wearing away so speedily. The engineers assert that the beauty of the American falls is not being lost due to the even distribution of the water, which totals only 9,000 cubic feet a second, compared with the 150,000 cubic feet on the Canadian side.

Besides the concrete islands, plans have been suggested for reinforcement of the fringe of the cliff with concrete, and also for a submerged concrete weir, or dam, to be constructed above the falls. The concrete islands, it is pointed out, could be covered with trees and sod to prevent impairment of the natural beauty of the cataract.

Don't Tease Apes Is Placard Now Placed In Zoo

By United Press.
VIENNA.—Monkeys are the chief victims of the playful whims of visitors to zoos, according to the findings of the management of the Vienna Zoological Gardens. Deviating from the usual highflown language of officialdom, the management has now posted the following proclamation on the monkey-cage:

Don't feed the apes. Remember that three-fourths of the monkeys at this zoo are afflicted with intestinal disorders as the result of indiscriminate feeding by well-meaning but misled public.

Don't tease the apes. Any one who isn't ashamed to torture a caged and defenceless animal is himself deserving of the name of a mischievous monkey.

When you stand in front of the monkey's cage, behave in such a manner that no one is tempted to make any invidious comparisons between your intelligence and the apes.

Coolidge Emmissary in Philippines

FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE PROBLEM NOW BITTER WOOD, QUEZON FIGHT

By United Press.
MANILA.—Leonard Woods vs. Manuel Quezon!

That is what the problem of the movement for immediate independence for the Philippine Islands bids fair to become during the next few months when the fiery Filipino leader goes to America to start what he declares will be his greatest fight for separation of the Islands from American rule.

Both sides have drawn their battle lines carefully—Quezon backed by his new Supreme National Council, which Filipinos will tell you is destined to become a sort of super-government, and Wood by the President of the United States and the vast majority of the American population of the Islands as well as hundreds of Americans at home. The fight has been an open battle ever since Major General Wood came to the Islands as Governor General five years ago.

Wood is known to many thousands of Americans as a great army officer, an able administrator in Cuba, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and a man of undoubted achievement in organization and politics.

Study of Two Men
The two able men opposed to each other are physically and mentally as far apart as the poles.

General Wood is in his 66th year, grey, solid, enormously determined to see a hard task through to a successful conclusion. In Manila he is referred to as the "Old Man," or the "Rock of Malacanang."

Quezon is in his 49th year but gives the impression of being 10 years younger, slender, with a mane of well-cared-for black hair, radiating nervous energy, quick of speech, and also enormously determined to see his job through.

Wood is of New England stock, Quezon mixed Spanish and Malay.

The Governor-General works quietly, dominating Malacanang, the palace of the executive head of the Islands, patient, confident, unruffled by political tempests.

The Filipino leader works feverishly, traveling through the Islands, haranguing the people, a vivid figure of action, driving the Filipino congress, impatient, quick to see the seize an opportunity, exhibiting a well learned lesson in American pep.

Simple Office
General Wood receives visitors in his office in a building attached to the palace. It is not particularly hard to see him. He apparently feels it his duty to talk to visiting Americans. But he does not give indiscriminate interviews for publication. Talking out of turn decidedly is not one of the characteristics of the American Governor-General. His views on the Philippines' problem are well known and he repeats them to visitors who ask for them.

Not Ready Yet
The Governor-General does not believe that the Filipinos are as yet ready for independence. He believes it will be from 25 to 50 years before the Stars and Stripes can come down from flagpoles throughout the Archipelago. If independence discussion could be stopped for 50 years, he believes, Filipinos then would not want it. He looks on the Philippines problem as a much larger one than whether or not the Islands shall be made independent under their own leaders or retain the autonomy they at present enjoy with American protection. The Governor-General sees the Filipino question in its relation to the whole question of the Far East—as related to Dutch rule in Java, British rule in Singapore and the Federated States, American prestige in the Pacific and the problem of defence and military and naval bases.

The Governor-General does not believe that anything like a majority of the Filipino people realize just what independence means or the responsibilities they would have to assume as a responsible nation. If we grant the Filipino independence, Wood argues, we must get out of the Islands and stay out. The Filipinos cannot expect us to assume responsibility without authority.

The Other Man
Senator Quezon answers all these arguments with the skill of a trained debater.

"Filipinos are ready for independence now," he asserts. "Look at the thousands of children we have in our schools. Look at the record of our people since we have been given a measure of control of our affairs through the Jones Act. If you don't think a majority of Filipinos know what independence would mean and are ready to assume its responsibilities right now, go out and ask them—at random. You will find them solidly for it."

Talks Seated
General Wood talks seated in a straight-backed chair in his simply furnished office. He uses no gestures. His voice is low but well modulated and distinct. He seldom smiles but glances keenly from listener to listener to see if his remarks are appreciated. His conversation shows a clear thinking, methodical mind, which has formed what he considers solid conclusions based on thorough and impartial investigation. He gives the impression he would be slow to alter these conclusions. The Governor-General shows always the complete knowledge of Filipino affairs he gained during his long service in the Islands with the army and as chairman of the Wood-Forbes commission during its investigations in the Islands.

Quezon receives visitors in any one of half dozen places, preferably in his rambling house in the outskirts of Manila. One waits for him in a large room which seems a combination office, library and study. It is furnished comfortably in haphazard fashion—a massive, long table made of some highly polished native wood of red color, native rattan chairs, long cases filled with legal and official books in English and Spanish, random pictures on the wall, one of the framing of the Malolos Constitution of the short-lived Filipino Republic, a metal plaque mounted on hard wood showing that Manuel Quezon is a 32nd degree Mason.

Neat Dresser
The Nationalist leader is neatly but not elaborately dressed in a suit of yellowish pongee, soft shirt and collar, a gray enough four-in-hand cravat, tan shoes. As he talks he hunches in a big chair, runs his slender, well-shaped fingers through his hair, sits on one foot when he feels like it, smokes a cheap native cigar or accepts one of yours with the quiet remark it "may be better."

Quezon talks well and knows it. Although he learned English well after childhood, he speaks with little accent. He is decidedly fluent. He knows words and does not hesitate in choosing them. He has an expressive voice and can use effective but unaffected gestures. He has repeated his views on independence hundreds of times but he does it always in a fresh and fervent manner.

As a political orator the Senate President holds great power over his countrymen. He can address an audience in English, Spanish or his native Tagalog with telling effect. In a campaign he can wear the native Camisa de Chino or the Barong Tagalog gracefully. He is genial, quick, a fencer ready to shift his attack the instant he sees a first plan is not effective.

Solidity
General Wood radiates solidity. Jig hands which he keeps quietly folded in his lap, a strong, large nose over a carefully clipped, gray mustache. He limps slightly from an old injury as he walks.

Quezon steams nervous energy, slender hands with which he illustrates his point with a Latin facility for gesture, a firm nose, smooth-shaven. He walks with a spring of youth.

PLENTY OF FAT FRYERS

Wife of Soviet Ambassador Is Society Leader

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—Berlin society is agog over the prospect that Madame Krestinski, wife of the Soviet ambassador, is to become the high arbiter of fashion and etiquette of the Berlin diplomatic corps. And Madame Krestinski herself is more wrought up over that prospect than anyone else.

For one thing, it means buying more clothes; fashionable gowns and modish hats, laces, frills and knick-knacks. But that, relatively speaking, is a mere trifle. The real problem is far more serious.

Accustomed to her life as a practicing physician and to her shirt-sleeve work in the charity wards of Berlin hospitals, Madame Krestinski is now confronted with the duty of becoming mistress of ceremonies among the social luminaries of the German capital. Wife of the representative of revolutionary Russia and herself a revolutionary, Madame Krestinski is about to be plunged into the maelstrom of performed social life here. The imminent plunge, according to trustworthy reports, is causing Comrade Vera Moiseyevna—as Madame Krestinski is known at home—some amusement and considerable apprehension.

Her impending job is almost tantamount to becoming the First-Lady-of-the-Land. The incumbent of this position until now, Lady d'Abernon, has conducted something resembling a royal court, or at least something as close to that majestic institution as is possible in this republic. But Madame Krestinski, a working woman and a "Red," has neither the training nor presumably the taste for such high-flown roles. The result promises to add new zest to Berlin social life.

Actually, the impending elevation of Madame Krestinski to be doyenne of the diplomatic corps has provoked more of a stir here than the conclusion of the Russo-German neutrality treaty earlier this year.

Dean of Corps.

Her appointment as doyenne arises from the circumstance that the dean of the corps, the papal nuncios, Monsignore Pacelli, is, of course, a single man, that the next ranking diplomat, the Spanish ambassador, Pablo Soler y Guardiola, is likewise a bachelor and that the husband of the present doyenne, Lord d'Abernon, the British ambassador, is to be replaced by a younger British representative. The mantle of social pace-maker therefore falls upon the surprised, proletarian shoulders of the Soviet ambassador's wife.

Her new duties will be manifold. Whenever a new ambassador or minister plenipotentiary arrives, Madame Krestinski will be obliged to "do the honors" by way of introducing the new arrival's wife to all other members of the diplomatic corps. Another of the doyenne's functions is to arrange the seating of guests at diplomatic affairs and to decide which gentleman shall be ordered to escort a certain titled lady to table.

Arbiter.

The doyenne must serve as arbiter on all disputed points of social etiquette. Her views carry greater weight than the obiter dicta of Beatrice Fairfax or the late Lillian Russell.

Since the husbands of numerous ladies of the diplomatic corps represent governments which have hitherto refused to recognize the Soviet government, Madame Krestinski's role as social arbiter is likely to evoke delicate situations.

Thus, for instance, the wife of the American ambassador, Mrs. C. G. Schuman, according to tradition, would be constrained to accept the verdict of Madame Krestinski on any point of social etiquette in the diplomatic corps, although Ambassador Schuman represents a government which declines formally to acknowledge the very existence of the Soviet Union. Wives of the ministers of South American republics will find themselves in the same predicament.

Friend Guide.

Finally, it will be the task of Madame Krestinski to act as "guide, friend and philosopher" to the ladies of the corps who require counsel on any question of social etiquette.

As a woman whose primary interest is her activity in the medical profession, her work among children of Berlin's slums and her devotion to the revolutionary movement, Madame Krestinski is faced with a dilemma which might cause worry and perplexity to much sturdier women. It is an open secret that Madame Krestinski's personal inclination is promptly to decline the distinction of being doyenne. But since the Soviet government has recently adopted the policy of increasing its "social prestige and respectability," it is doubted whether the Moscow ambassador's wife will be permitted to disdain laurels which are being thrust ruthlessly upon her dodging head.

Rabbit Rancher Sells Everything But The Old Hop

By United Press.

LETHBRIDGE, Alberta.—Everything but the jack rabbit's hop is utilized to return profits on a rabbit ranch operated near Lethbridge.

Nothing is wasted in covering the little animals into cash, according to the proprietors of the ranch. Rabbit skins are cured and shipped to Eastern Canada where they are dyed to imitate costly furs. The pelts average 10 cents apiece. Rabbit meat from the farm is marketed locally at from 25 to 35 cents a pound. Bones and heads of rabbits are turned into poultry feed. Flesh of old rabbits is manufactured into biscuits for silver foxes. Unmarketable portions are ground into fertilizer.

Cabbage isn't fattening. But if people eat too much cabbage it will increase the price of cigars.

The time may come when four hours will be a working day, but we are optimists and maybe it won't.

What Mother Love Will Do

The five sons of Mrs. Fred Compton, 68, of Falls City, Neb., are under arrest charged with killing a man during a holiday they staged. Their father, a cripple, cannot work. Mrs. Compton has been supporting the family. Two years ago she had to spend all her savings to defend one of her sons against a charge of burglarizing a whisky warehouse. And now she is going to mortgage her home, shown below, to provide funds for their defense in the approaching murder trial.

Plan Extensions Of Nation's Capitol At Next Session

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Those colored postcards showing the massive steps of the United States Capitol are being seized upon by the state architects here as proof of their intention that the building is all awry.

A plan has been advanced for extension of the center wing to put the big dome in the architectural center of the edifice.

The building has been constructed piecemeal through plans made in 1860 and formally presented to Congress in 1864. Plans were formulated 70 years ago by Thomas U. Walter, to make additions which would balance the building.

These plans will be put before the next session of Congress by Senator Dale, Rep., Vermont, and Representative Montague, Dem., Virginia, in the Senate and House respectively.

It is not generally known and few of the hundreds of thousands of visitors annually notice that the dome which towers 287 feet is over one side instead of being over the center of the building. This is due to extensions made in 1861, which added the present Senate and House chambers. These extensions contemplated also the ultimate extension of the central portion of the building to even up the plot of the building.

The new work proposed is: Extension of the east front where inauguration ceremonies are always held and rebuilding of it in marble. Replacement of the west front in marble. Replacing of the west terrace steps in granite and repairing the terrace. Reconstruction of the cellar entrances and elevator system.

The cost would be about $4,000,000 and the appropriation must be authorized by Congress before the work can be undertaken.

Another Poison Is Suggested To Kill Crop Pests

By R. R. REPERT
(Entomologist, Extension Service, A. and M. College.)

The supply of calcium arsenate, Paris green, and lead arsenate as recommended by the Entomologist, for the control of leafworms, is apparently exhausted and farmers are in need of another poison.

Mixtures of white arsenic and soda compounds, unless very carefully used, will result in injury to cotton, and are ordinarily not recommended. However, in the present emergency it probably means either use of these materials with injury in some cases or the total loss of the crop by the attack of the insect, and we are giving below formulae which farmers have themselves used.

Boil together 5 pounds white arsenic with 5 pounds sal soda in 5 gallons water until all the arsenic is dissolved. Ordinarily this will be accomplished in about 15 minutes. If sal soda is not available, use instead, five cans of concentrated lye such as may be obtained from grocery stores for soap making. These five cans will be equal to about four pounds.

After boiling until the arsenic is dissolved, some water will have been lost by evaporation; more should then be added to make up exactly five gallons of the stock solution.

Two quarts of this stock solution should be added to fifty gallons of water for immediate application to the cotton. Large drops of this dilute mixture or excessive amounts of the liquid on the leaves will burn, consequently a machine should be used that breaks the liquid up into a very fine mist and so the foliage is merely moistened without running or dripping from the leaves. Farmers have reported using one quart of stock dip in fifty gallons of water with success, spraying in the same manner.

Experience on the part of farmers has indicated that if a gallon of stock lime and three or four gallons of back molasses are added to fifty gallons of water, along with the stock solution, the danger of injury will be reduced.

In handling these mixtures the danger to men and animals is so great that we decline to accept any responsibility for any injurious results.

Several companies in Texas handling arsenical poisons are preparing and have for sale, the mixtures as given above. These may not be in the concentration that we have named, and in diluting, persons should be guided by the directions given by each company for their own product.

Centennarian Approves of Bobbed Hair of Flappers

New Lightning Rods are Placed On Saint Paul

LONDON.—St. Paul's Cathedral, which Benjamin Franklin first protected against lightning bolts, is being fitted with a new system of lightning protection.

The new equipment of the latest design, is very similar to that which Franklin erected. The principal difference is that the modern lightning rods now hang placed on masts of copper, which is a better conductor of electricity than the iron rods which Franklin used.

Pacific Ocean Gives Up Supply Of Ethyl Gas

By United Press.

OAKLAND, Cal.—Germany leads the world in the production of ethyl gasoline, but California sea water may become the foremost source of this fuel, which is derived mainly from bromine of ocean water.

The governmental experimental steamer Ethyl, now working off the California coast to determine if bromine can be extracted in paying quantities, has been producing approximately 100,000 pounds a month, according to officials in charge of the work. They claim the California sea water, especially off the southern coast, carries a high content of the liquid element.

Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, famed for his submarines and long white whiskers, is a passionate lover of flowers.

But he likes the cruder, more savage growths better than the dainty flora. He has cultivated a rare collection of cactus plants in his own garden.

He despises politics and recently complained to a friend that the Reichstag debates are "an incessant bore." Although a Reichstag deputy of long standing, he has held only one speech in that august assembly. That speech was written by a fellow-member of his party and von Tirpitz read it, fumblingly and bashfully, causing unseemly mirth among the other deputies.

Producers Place Ban on Nude on German Stage

BERLIN—German's musical comedies and girl shows are to be characterized by less nudity and slogan intelligence according to the slogan proclaimed by the leading German show-master, Erik Charell, following his recent return from New York, London and Paris.
 "The public everywhere has had enough nakedness," announced Charell.
 The German showman was most pleased by Sascha Gultry's revue in Paris.
 "This revue," he said, "consists almost entirely of esprit. As I see it, this suggests the only future for revues. We must abandon nudity; but we must also discard the excessive pomp and blatancy of our shows. There is virtually nothing more in this treasure-trove of extravagance and nudity which we can offer our audiences. They've had an eye-fel. What they want now is intelligence. "Nudity is obsolete. At first, it blinded us with its brilliancy and tickled our senses. Nowadays it leaves us cold."
 Charell has announced another daring intention: During the coming season he will forego the engagement of foreign (notably American and English) dancing girls and present a German chorus.
 "Moreover," he asserted, "I have hopes that I can put a German chorus across, even if the girls wear clothes."

Name Committee On Music For The Coming Revival

At the co-operative prayer meeting last night in the Christian Church to act as a music committee to work in co-operation with E. H. Martin the Hogg party singer, E. T. Walton chairman, J. T. Killingsworth, Mrs. J. M. White, Mrs. Jas. Cox. Through this committee an urgent invitation is given all singers of Ranger to sing in the big chorus Choir in the meeting. It was decided last night to have another meeting this evening at 8 o'clock at the Christian Church for the purpose of prayer and song and finishing the organization of committees.
 Mr. Martin is expected to arrive today and will lead the singing in the meeting this evening. All the executive committee appointed at another previous meeting is expected to be present. The ministers and workers of Ranger were enthused over the prospects of a gracious revival.

Bugs Can Increase Faster Than Man Can Possibly Count

WASHINGTON.—Man has lost out to "bugology." New species of insects are increasing at a rate that makes it impossible for any one student to cover the field, according to Dr. A. Wetmore, of the Smithsonian Institution. About 6,000 new insects have tabulated every year but man is way behind, he said.

Wold's Wildest Island Is Scene Of New Gold Rush

By United Press.
SYDNEY. — Adventurers have found a new El Dorado in the South Seas.

According to authentic reports from Morobe (New Guinea), a rich gold strike has been made in wild mountainous country beyond Salima. Four centuries ago Alvaro de Saavedra and his hardy Spanish voyagers, sailing from the western coast of Mexico, coasted along the northern shores of New Guinea, and gave to the country the name Isla del Oro (Island of Gold). It is claimed now that for the first time the name is to justify itself.

Already shipments of gold from the new field have arrived at Sydney, and outgoing vessels are carrying increased passenger lists. But men experienced in the country say that the story of the Salima field will be the same as many others where nature has hidden her gold from men — a story of whitening bones and ill-rewarded effort.

The field is situated in a district which has more than 200 inches of rainfall a year. Malaria, dysentery, and worst of all, the dreaded black-water fever, play havoc with travelers who venture into its area. The natives are the fiercest in the whole of New Guinea, and have not yet come under the spell of the white man's civilization.

Tools, stores, and even food, every ounce of it, have to be carried over a screeled range of high mountains from the seaboard. The field lies but 15 miles from the nearest port, as the bird flies, but those 15 miles are converted into many more by the rough untamed nature of the country. It takes a fully-laden native carrier—the only method of transport—seven or eight days to travel those few miles.

Such is the citadel in which the yellow god has fortified himself in this new El Dorado. Despite official warnings of the difficulties ahead, many Australian adventurers have already set out to woo fortune in this new world.

The field is in the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, formerly German New Guinea, and the known rich auriferous belt in this country is said to be one of the reasons why Germany is so anxious for the return of this former colony.

FADS OF THE FAMOUS
Charlie Chaplin
Fiddling is Charlie Chaplin's hobby.

The world's funniest screen actor never made a study of music, but he has a natural sense of rhythm and harmony, and plays a variety of musical instruments.

The violin is his favorite, although he performs equally well on the piano, violoncello, mandolin or harmonica.

Quick to grasp a new tune, the comedian plays all the current popular numbers, and with a quaint finesse all his own, Charlie can play all the standard classic, on violin or "tw" have you?

Between scenes, while filming his pictures, Chaplin often "sits in" with the studio orchestra. The regular musicians use their scores, but Charlie plays without notes, and without adding any discord.

At the Coconut Grove and other famous Hollywood cafes, Chaplin is friendly with the dance orchestras, and he often thrills the patrons by having his table to take up the baton, or one of the instruments, and add his bit to the music of the evening.

Does Cleopatra Sleep Beneath Flowers of Paris

By United Press.
PARIS.—Is Cleopatra buried under the geraniums of the National Library in Paris?

Myriam Harry, a woman novelist, and student of the Orient, declares that the mummy of the famous Syren who vamped Caesar and Anthony was brought back from Egypt by Napoleon and handed over with a score of others to the nation.

Mme. Harry declares that what she asked Roland Marcel, one of the most noted Egyptologists, about her discovery, he replied:

"Why, of course, the idea is not new. It is certain, at least, that Napoleon, after his triumphant campaign in Egypt, brought back many mummies. One was so extraordinarily beautiful, moreover, that the Emperor had it placed in his tent and spent an entire day contemplating it. He said it was Cleopatra. Was that merely his fancy? Was the mummy that of the famed Circe? We cannot say."

You'll come through life all right if its trails do not convict you.

Brother Isaiah Is Endowed By Fellowmen

By United Press.
SEATTLE, Aug. 20. — Washington's "miracle man," snow-haired Brother Isaiah, continue to draw thousands to his tent church at Kirkland, near here.

Attracted by stories which admirers tell of his marvelous cures, citizens come many miles to ascertain for themselves the truth of reports that he has made the sick well and enabled the lame to throw away their crutches.

Brother Isaiah came to Kirkland from Los Angeles. Later he went away, back to the levees of New Orleans where he first attracted national attention.

But enterprising Kirkland business men saw in the picturesque figure an attraction that would bring visitors to their city and boost real estate, business and bank clearings. A fund was raised and Brother Isaiah was brought back. Now he has a new tent, electrically lighted, with plenty of benches in it. There are walks about it.

Merchants have set up lunch counters to serve the thousands who come to hear the gray haired man who has brought the town into public attention.

Negor Anxious To Go; White Dies Saying Innocent

By United Press.
OSSISING, New York, Aug. 20.—David Demaio and William Hoyer were executed in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison late last night. Hoyer was a negro.

Hoyer was eager to end the ordeal, while Demaio died protesting his innocence.

Demaio is the father of six children and was convicted of killing two Mount Vernon street car employes in a hold up last fall. He is alleged to have shot them.

"I deserve to go. I ought to go, and I want to go," were the last words of Hoyer, who was sentenced for shooting his five years old daughter.
