

OBREGON IS ANXIOUS FOR RECOGNITION

Will Communicate With Summerlin on U. S. Memorandum From Sec. Hughes.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—George T. Summerlin, the American charge d'affaires, who recently returned here from Washington, called at the foreign office this morning but it was explained his visit was merely to thank Foreign Minister Pani for the courtesies extended incidental to his return.

With the memorandum of the United States regarding recognition of Mexico in his hands for consideration, President Obregon, it is stated officially, will communicate with Mr. Summerlin early next week regarding his views. Mexican officials declined today to be quoted on the subject, declaring the matter was entirely in the hands of the president.

Last night's conference between President Obregon and Mr. Summerlin was hurriedly arranged as soon as the foreign office was advised that such a meeting was desired by the American charge d'affaires. Mr. Summerlin, accompanied by a foreign office representative, met the president and for more than an hour discussed the memorandum with him.

Conference Cordial.

The conference was said to have been an extremely cordial one and it is stated President Obregon expressed a desire for an amicable arrangement. Mr. Summerlin is understood to have told President Obregon that Mexican affairs had occupied the United States state department for some time and that special concern had been felt in Washington over rumored Bolshevik activities in Mexico as exemplified by the recent tragedy in Morelia and the invasion of the chamber of deputies by radicals.

President Obregon, according to reports, is declared to have assured Mr. Summerlin that the Bolshevik movement was being watched closely and that all safeguards were being taken to prevent its assuming menacing proportions.

VANDERBILT $75,000 VICTIM OF BLACKMAIL GANG'S THREAT

Trailed to Europe and Back, Millionaire Who Died on Lusitania Paid to Avoid Murder by Men Mixed Up in Recent Shooting.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The name of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who lost his life when a German U-boat sank the Lusitania, has been brought into the investigation of the blackmail exploits attributed to the gang mixed up in the shooting of John H. Reid last Sunday. Mr. Vanderbilt is said to have given up $75,000 to squelch threats of death and avoid publicity.

Vanderbilt is supposed to have been one of numerous victims of the gang, which is said to have made its rendezvous at the house of Mrs. Hazel Warner, at 1592 University avenue, where Reid was shot. The police are looking for Arthur Tourbillon, otherwise known as "Dapper Don Collins," as Reid's assailant. Tourbillon is a police character and through his connections have come the leads toward blackmail. At first, a woman's love was believed to explain the shooting. Vanderbilt's name was brought into the case by District Attorney Glennon, who is quoted as explaining the plot as follows:

"The name of Alfred G. Vanderbilt unfortunately comes to the surface. In the year before his death (1915) he complained to a private detective agency in Manhattan that his life had been threatened at the horse show in Madison Square Garden.

It is guarded by Scotland Yard.

"He went to Europe and my understanding is he was followed across the ocean by the blackmailers who again threatened his life. His alternative was to pay a large sum of money to prevent a suit that would have brought him unpleasant publicity.

"Believing his life in danger he complained at Scotland Yard and was given a guard while on British soil.

RUNAWAY INDIAN PRINCESS FOUND IN CHICAGO

Below: Mrs. Jessie Hansford

The confining dormitory walls, the restraints and supervisions of the teachers and watchers, the Indian blood restless for the outdoors, for freedom, were too much, so Allie B. Burton, Choctaw miss of 17, ward of Uncle Sam and worth a million dollars in oil lands, answered the call and fled from the Forest Park university of St. Louis. Keeping stealthy step with her as she felt her way at midnight to the school's front door was Jessie Hansford, 13, years old, likewise an heiress and, like the Indian girl, thrilled with the thought of wandering free from any supervision. W. S. Hansford, grandfather of Miss Hansford and for years the friendly adviser to the Indian girl, came to Chicago, appealing to the police to help him search the city for the pair of missing girls. They were located in Chicago.

PERSHING AND WEEKS TALK OF MEMORIAL DAY

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Memorial day messages bespeaking a reaffirmation of loyalty and service to the nation on the part of the American people were issued tonight by General Pershing and Secretary of War Weeks.

General Pershing declared that Memorial day should symbolize "a new consecration of our lives to service," while Secretary Weeks said it was, on Memorial day, "in the presence of our dead, that Americans can renew their faith in our ideals and institutions and reaffirm their pledge of unceasing loyalty to the republic."

Memorial day each year comes to us in the height of springtime with all nature in blossom," said General Pershing. "It is the season when the world bursts forth in the beauty of new life and new hopes and when warm sentiments fill the human heart. In the midst of these surroundings, our thoughts turn back toward the memory of loved ones and we gather to honor the heroism of those who gave their lives to the country. We live over again with them the days of pleasure and sorrow as we review their service and their sacrifice. While our hearts are saddened, I like to think those who remain here with us and that we understand why we are assembled. I like to feel that new resolves spring from the rich heritage that they have left us. The season should symbolize a new consecration of our lives to service. It should cause us to re-awaken our own patriotism and re-view our ideals of brotherly love and devotion to country. It should move us to search our souls for evidence that life is not a mere selfish pursuit of pleasure or wealth or fame. It should teach us to understand that each one is called upon to contribute to the well being of mankind and that the greater our devotion and our sacrifice the more worthy we will be.

"Test we forget," said Secretary Weeks, "there comes a time in the spring of each year when the nation turns from its business and industry and its citizens lay aside the instruments of its vocations and trades to gather in the secluded and shady national cemeteries to do honor to the nation's dead. It is a day when we turn our faces to the past instead of the future and recall the heroic dead whose sacrifices have made and preserved us a nation."

"I do not think we could adopt a more beautiful way of remembering our dead than our custom of placing flowers on the graves of those who have passed through the gateway and it is in the light of their example that Americans can renew their faith in our ideals and institutions and reaffirm their pledge of unceasing loyalty to the republic."

HOUSE MEMBERS AT ODDS OVER TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Republican members of the house ways and means committee, preparing a final draft of the general tariff bill, were said tonight to be at odds over four important schedules in the new measure. What was described as an open split occurred in the writing of schedules for chemicals, cotton, wool and silks.

Despite the lack of agreement on these schedules and the fact that some others have passed only the subcommittee stage, Chairman Fordney held to his prediction of June 10 as the date of introduction. Some members of the committee, however, declared the house would not receive the measure short of June 20. The chemical schedule, it was said, has resulted in a continuation of a fight originating in the senate against the use of restrictions other than by tariff rate on the importation of dyestuffs. Mr. Fordney is understood to have announced his vigorous opposition in the committee to any plan favoring of an embargo, although he was willing to allow the application of high rates.

COMMUNIST TEACHER OUSTED FROM GERMANY

HAILE, Germany, May 28.—Parents of school children in the Ruhl public school called a strike and refused to permit any children to attend the school in a protest against Dr. Neubauer, a teacher who had been teaching communism in the classrooms. "I feel it my duty to incite the principles of communism and the proletariat revolution in the country's youth," declared Dr. Neubauer before an examining board. The Thuringen government has ordered the school closed during an investigation and Dr. Neubauer has been requested to resign. Another school strike is reported in Pösch, where the teacher was preaching atheism to the school children.

SILENT KLAN AIDS FAMILY IN DISTRESS

Ku Klux in Dallas Send $150 to Newspaper for Widow and Children.

DALLAS, May 28.—The Ku Klux Klan came to the aid of a destitute family today, in as mysterious a manner as it last Saturday night paraded the streets of Dallas. One hundred and fifty dollars was sent for relieving the needs of Mrs. Frank Hoffman, a widow with five children, living in a shack in Oak Cliff. Mrs. Hoffman is said to be tubercular and frequently is confined to her bed. She takes in washing when able to work.

The letter, sent to a local newspaper, begins:

"The eye of the unseen has seen and observed that Mrs. Frank Hoffman is living in a corrugated iron shack on the Beckley road." With the message, which was written on Ku Klux stationery, was included fifteen crisp, new $10 bills. The letter asked that steps be taken to relieve the family and suggested that the children be sent to an orphanage and Mrs. Hoffman removed to a sanitarium, where proper care could be given her.

SHIP WORKERS CONFER WITH CONCILIATORS

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Representatives of marine oilers and firemen, cooks and stewards, water tenders, radio operators and seamen conferred today with Hugh L. Kerwin, director and Dr. Fred E. Davis of the board of conciliation, regarding terms of a proposed agreement for settling their controversy with the shipping board on wages and working conditions, but the discussion went over until Tuesday when they will meet in conference with Secretary Davis and Chairman Benson of the board.

While the unions were understood to have agreed to the same general terms as those accepted by the marine engineers it was said certain working conditions which were not involved in the engineers dispute were considered today and must be put into any agreement reached. This agreement, like that of the engineers would apply only to shipping board vessels and no effort is to be made at the present time to confer with ship owners.

WHY WOMEN SCREAM AT SIGHT OF RATS IS SOLVED AT LAST

LONDON, May 28.—Sir James Cantlie, at a lecture in West Hampstead town hall, said that in the First Book of Samuel we learned that rats carried the plague. Yet until recent times scientists did not know that fact.

Why does a woman scream when she sees a rat? Because she knows instinctively it carries disease. Women had that instinct of abhorrence from God. Mar, the silly ass, would pick up a rat—the fleas flying from it would bite him. The man would then go home, taking the plague into his own household. "Therefore," Sir James added, "I would advise the women to go on screaming."

PENROSE SEES FAULTS IN PRO ENFORCEMENT

Ineffective, Wasteful, Demoralizing, Otherwise O. K.; Will Try to Mend It.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Declaring the present prohibition enforcement system is ineffective, wasteful and demoralizing in many of its aspects, Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee announced tonight that conferences would be held next week between his committee and Commissioner Blair of the bureau of internal revenue, looking to changes in enforcement procedure.

The whole subject of "rehabilitation" of the enforcement system will be gone over, Mr. Penrose said, adding that the advisability of transfer to the department of justice, the designating of an enforcement superintendent for each of the states or each jurisdictional district and other suggestions would be taken up.

Senator Penrose said he personally was in favor of the department of justice taking over the enforcement work. The question will be discussed with Attorney General Daugherty before the finance committee takes action, he said. Secretary Mellon already has expressed approval of the proposed transfer and Mr. Blair is understood to favor the step.

One of Mr. Blair's first acts as commissioner, it was said tonight, would be designation of a new prohibition commissioner in place of John F. Kramer. For the place, Newton Fairbanks of Ohio, has been frequently mentioned.

MEN ENDANGERED BY SHORT SKIRTS REFORMERS SAY

CHICAGO, May 28.—Short skirts may lessen the number of accidents to women, but they increase injuries to men.

This was the reply made Wednesday by Chicago reformers to the claim of Frederick Rex, city statistician that short skirts had reduced the number of accidents to women.

Men are so interested in watching women wearing short skirts that they fail to keep an eye out for their own safety, the reformers contended. The figures showing there were more accidents to men in the last year than the average, indicated their contention was correct, they said.

"Watch the men going along the street today," said Arthur B. Farwell, "and you will see that half of them have their eye on some woman with a short skirt. They cannot protect themselves from street accidents while they have their attention concentrated below the skirt line."

FILIPINOS ARE KEEN STUDENTS OF POLITICS

Want Education Along Progressive Lines Not to Preserve National Things.

By Associated Press.
MANILA, P. I., April 10.—(Delayed).—The Filipinos, in their national life, have followed two types of civilization—the religious type and the political type declared Dr. Trinidad H. Pardo de Tavera, native of the Philippines and one of the three Filipino members of the Philippine commission appointed by the president of the United States in 1901, in an address at the eleventh annual commencement of the University of the Philippines.

He said he would attempt to show that the present generation of Filipinos gives so much consideration to the political aspect of their lives that social interests are forgotten. He asserted that politics predominates in their social life at present just as religion predominated in the past. He advocated an education that conforms with the present mould of progress and enlightenment, not an education to preserve national things.

Should Abandon Errors.
"We Filipinos should not continue our former errors," he said. "Instead of that narrow false and primitive conception we should adopt a broader, more just and more certain criterion of 'people' or 'nation.' We are the result of the union and fusion of very different races, and although the Malay race enters in the combination to a great extent, yet the part played by the Chinese, Japanese and others, especially the Spanish race, is by no means small. We should not recall our origin, because it will be of no avail in strengthening our union, which should be our objective."

"In our modern education, too, we must inculcate ideas diametrically opposed to those of the past, in order to attain welfare and happiness in present life. Business, agriculture and industry are the activities that should attract our youth, who are now after politics and administrative careers."

"The Filipino people need three things for perfect harmony. They are liberty of conscience, English as a common language, and the establishment of true democracy."

Remove the Cause

Chiropractic Attacks Disease at the Source

Some people have the notion that a Chiropractic adjustment is a sort of ordeal like pulling a tooth or setting a broken bone. If a 100-pound box fell on your foot, would it HURT to have someone lift this weight from your foot? Then why should it hurt to have such a pressure removed from one of the nerves in your body? The only feeling is sometimes a slight tickling sensation which lasts only a few seconds and is certainly not painful.

This picture shows how an adjustment is given. It will be noticed that no embarrassing exposure of person is necessary. The Chiropractor finds the "subluxation" or misplaced bone and with a quick thrust of the hand puts the bone back into place, the pressure on the nerve is removed, the source of the trouble has been done away with. The body again functions and you are a healthy man or woman.

Chiropractic appeals to people who go on reason because it is founded on a logical idea, and a proven one. Pressure on nerves cause disease, Chiropractic removes this pressure, and health results. Could anything be more logical?

ELECTION FOR SENATOR IN NEW MEXICO INTERESTS WASHINGTON

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS. WASHINGTON, May 28.—Much interest is being shown here in the election to be held in New Mexico on September 29, to choose a United States senator for the place now being filled by Senator H. G. Bursum of Socorro, who was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Fall, who resigned to become secretary of the interior.

The election being the first since the Republican landslide of last fall, it is looked upon as of the greatest importance. New Mexico is always a doubtful state of the most doubtful variety, with dyed-in-the-wool Democrats and thick-and-thin Republicans about equally divided, the elections usually being decided by the swing of the independent voters.

In the election last fall New Mexico went the way of all doubtful states, landing in the Republican column by a comfortable margin. But with the grudge against the Wilson administration paid and with the Republicans now the "ins" instead of the "outs," the situation is a wholly different one.

Both parties realize the moral effect to their next year's campaign of the off-year-by-election in New Mexico. Republicans plan for the campaign there are being held up pending the selection of a successor to national Chairman Will H. Hays. Once this man is chosen the G. O. P. will get into the fight in earnest.

Much Speculation. There has been much speculation here as to whether or not President Harding will follow the example of President Wilson and appeal to the people of New Mexico to elect a Republican. There was formerly much opposition to presidential interference in state elections, but the Harding administration has followed in the footsteps of the Wilson regime in so many things that his intervention in the New Mexico test would not be surprising.

It is probable that the Democratic fight will be made under the leadership of the present chairman, George White. Within the last few days there have been reports that Thomas B. Love of Texas, Robert W. Woolley and other anti-Cox Democrats, would seek to supplant White again in June.

The report, however, has been met with the same sort of reception that it did in January when the Love-Woolley faction was routed. The general view among Democrats seems to be that White was induced to accept the post with some reluctance; that he was kept busy trying to get enough money to keep headquarters open and really never had a chance to demonstrate his leadership. Moreover, there seems to be no one in the Democratic party with demonstrated ability for the post.

Therefore, it seems altogether probable that Chairman White will have his first test in the New Mexico contest, and will be arrayed against a new Republican chairman, probably John T. Adams of Iowa.

Attitude of Journal. Another interesting feature of the New Mexico campaign is the probable attitude of the Albuquerque Journal, owned by Carl Magee. Magee, it will be remembered, is the Republican editor who last fall made public the fact that agents of the Republican national committee were presiding over the Cox touring party and asking Republican newspapers to give as little space as possible to the Democratic candidate.

This, and a number of other things, caused a break between Magee and the Republican organization. Subsequently some notes against the Journal plant became due, and Magee was unable to meet them. It was openly charged that the Republican leaders in the state were attempting to force a foreclosure. Magee took the case to his readers, who raised $60,000 in small amounts, enabling him to meet the notes.

The Journal is the most influential newspaper in the state, and Magee is of an independent turn of mind. It is generally believed that he will wait until the candidates are announced before taking a stand.

The campaign this fall in New Mexico will be a prelude to the one in November next year when thirty-two senators, sixteen Republicans and sixteen Democrats are to come up. Democrats are counting on gains through factional fights among the Republicans engendered by Attorney General Daugherty's method of handling patronage.

Senators Up Next Year. Of Republican senators up next year, Senator Freylinghuysen of New Jersey, Haic of Maine, Johnson of California, Kellogg of Minnesota, Knox of Pennsylvania, McCumber of North Dakota, McLean of Connecticut, Page of Vermont and Townsend of Michigan, all Republicans, figure to be re-elected or have Republican successors.

The Democratic senators apparently sure of re-election or of having

ATTORNEY SAYS CONVICTION OF MOONEY UNJUST

District Prosecutor Promises Relief to Man Sentenced for Preparedness Day Bombing.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—A statement that the district attorney "believes that an injustice was done in the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney for a 1916 preparedness day bomb murder and will present to the governor evidence substantiating this belief that will compel him to act," was made by Milton U'Ren, assistant district attorney, in opposing a motion to release Mooney under a common law pleading.

"When Governor Stephens commuted Mooney's sentence from hanging to life imprisonment it demonstrated that there was a doubt in his mind as to the defendant's guilt," U'Ren said.

When U'Ren said there was "no remedy at law," for Mooney, Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of Mooney, arose and cried:

"Why don't you find a remedy?" The district attorney was compelled to oppose the present action on behalf of Mooney on the ground that if the common law writ was granted it could be invoked successfully by every criminal, U'Ren said. The action is an effort to obtain Mooney's release on a writ designed to obtain relief from fraudulent judgments under the basic law.

Mooney's counsel contended that his conviction was brought about by perjury and that all relief under the statutory law and been denied him. Argument on the writ began with Mooney present. He was returned to the state prison. The court took the motion for the writ under advisement.

A committee is still to consider on what terms licenses should be issued to private enterprises.

CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY OF UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA IN HONOR OF THOMAS JEFFERSON

By International News Service
 CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 28—More than 5,000 delegates, returning alumni and guests will honor the University of Virginia's centennial anniversary next week. Beginning May 31 and continuing four days, exercises marking one of the outstanding educational events of the year will be held. From ten foreign countries and from 119 American universities and colleges educators will come to pay tribute to the genius of Thomas Jefferson, father and founder of the old Charlottesville institution. The foreign delegates will include delegates from France, England, Belgium, Spain, Switzerland, Chile, China, Norway, Canada and Scotland. The overseas educational institutions represented include the universities of Cambridge, Oxford, Shanghai, Brussels and Toronto, the Academic Franchise and the Royal Society of London.

Among the American educators are fifty-two university presidents. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, as well as every Southern college of note, will be represented by its chief executive. The University of Virginia's president is Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, formerly of Tulane. Dr. Alderman is now completing his seventeenth year of service.

The influence of the university in the religious life of the nation will receive recognition at the opening exercises in Cabell Hall on May 31. Dr. William Alexander Barr, '92, dean of Christ Church, New Orleans, will preach. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton University, will speak at vesper services.

The new McIntire amphitheatre will be dedicated on Tuesday evening with a recital by Humphrey John Stewart, municipal organist of San Diego, Calif.

Jusserand to Talk.
 The delegates will enroll on Wednesday morning in the rotunda, with a fountain of marble, which was imported by Thomas Jefferson from Carrara, Italy. This building was swept by fire in 1895, after it had been saved from destruction during the civil war through the intercession of John B. Minor, who pleaded with Sheridan's army chiefs to spare it. Following the presentation of credentials and greetings to the various institutions, the delegates will attend a reception.

They will be welcomed in Cabell by President Alderman and by Governor Westmoreland Davis, of Virginia. Responses to speeches of some will be made by His Excellency Jules Jusserand, ambassador to the United States. Dr. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university; Dr. Julian A. Carroll, president of the College of William and Mary, and Dr. Albert Ross Hall, president of the University of Missouri.

On Wednesday afternoon a tablet containing the names of eighty University of Virginia men who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war will be unveiled. John Stewart Bryan, rector of the university, will accept the tablet from Captain Alfred Dickenson Barksdale, representing the alumni, and M. Gabriel Honotaux, commander of the French Legion of honor, will speak.

A reception at the president's METCALF CAFE
 "A Good Place to Eat"
 Opposite T. & P. Station
 Tables for Ladies

home will follow, and in the evening visitors and guests will witness the university's pageant, "The Shadow of the Builder," given in the amphitheatre by a cast of 1,000. Led by the class of 1921, the alumni and guests will parade to the amphitheatre on Thursday morning to hear addresses by Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, and Dr. John Bassett Moore, '80, of Columbia university. The Right Rev. Dennis Joseph O'Connor, Catholic bishop of Richmond, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Henry Wilson Battle, pastor of the Clottesville, will pronounce the benediction.

The visitors will make a pilgrimage to Monticello on Thursday afternoon, and Dr. Archibald Cary Colledge of Harvard university, a lineal descendant of Thomas Jefferson, will address delegates and guests from the porch of Jefferson's home.

Richard Thomas Walker Duke Jr., '74 whose ancestors were intimate with Jefferson, will also speak. The pilgrims will visit Jefferson's tomb and decorate it with flowers. A dinner to delegates will round out the day. Speakers include Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of North Carolina; Dr. Hugh H. Young, head of the Brady Foundation of Orelody, Baltimore, and president of the university of Virginia general alumni association; M. Gabriel Honotaux and John Stewart Bryan.

FRANCE WILL GET BIG HORSE POWER WHEN RIVER IS HARNESSSED

By NEWTON C. PARKE, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, May 28—Financial experts and engineers have set to work on the gigantic project by which France plans to harness the river Rhone within the next few years at a cost of about half a billion dollars.

The undertaking will begin in 1924 and is expected to take more than six years. When it is completed France expects to derive benefits in electrical power, navigation and for the irrigation of huge tracts of land that will more than wipe out her economic losses of the war.

President Millerand has just completed a tour along the Rhone. He was accompanied by a score of engineers and by officials of the departments through which the Rhone flows. Swiss officials met him near the Swiss frontier and informed him that their government had approved the plans.

The Rhone project contemplates the erection of seventeen big power houses, from the Swiss border to the sea. It is estimated that the Rhone waterfalls will develop more than 1,700,000 horsepower, of which 800,000 can be utilized, energy equivalent to that produced by 6,000,000 tons of coal.

It is estimated that 400,000 acres of land can be irrigated and put under cultivation when the work is completed. Furthermore, a wide stretch of waterway connecting the river Rhone with the Mediterranean sea, long the dream of European engineers, will be available.

The government plans to defray a large share of the expense, cities and departments directly benefiting paying the remainder. A number of private corporations which have been allotted concessions will subscribe large sums.

Unearthed Mastodon Skeleton.

 ARLINGTON, Ore., May 28—The complete skeleton of a mastodon with tusks nine feet long and twelve inches in diameter, has been discovered in Butcher Knife Canyon, four miles east of here. All the bones have not yet been unearthed, but it is believed to be a complete specimen. Arlington citizens plan to have the find exhumed and brought here to be mounted and placed on exhibition for automobile tourists.

William Marshall, sheep herder, made the discovery. He noticed what he thought was a stake protruding from the ground which on closer investigation proved to be one of the tusks of the prehistoric mammoth.

The oldest woman in Central Europe, is said to be Miss Anna Dobek, 123 years old, who lives in Chocholow, Poland. She is reported still to be mentally and physically active.

SCOUTS HIT HARD WITH MEN ON BASES AND BEAT NITROS, 7 TO 3

Bratcher and King Wield Terrible Mace on Harding's Offerings.

Special to the Times.

CISCO, May 28.—In a fast, well-played game, Cisco won from Ranger, 7 to 3. Johnson was too many for Ranger's heavy hitters, striking out Adkins twice. He was able to tighten in the pinches better than Harding, though they yielded the same number of hits.

Harding was wild at times, which caused his downfall, walking the first man to face him in several innings. Cisco scored three in the first, three more in the fifth and one in the seventh. Ranger tied the score in the fifth, but the Scouts forged to the front again in their half.

BEARCATS RAP JOSH BILLINGS HARD, WIN 16-4

SAN ANGELO, May 28.—After losing eight straight games since entering the West Texas league, Ballinger slaughtered San Angelo this afternoon, 16 to 4. The Bearcats rapped Josh Billings, former Cisco manager, for twenty-one hits, many for extra bases, while Frank Baldrige held the Broncs to six scattered bingles. The visitors' defense also excelled that of the Nags, who had eleven left on bases to Ballinger's thirteen.

Knight led the sluggers with five hits in six times up, while Langford got four out of six. In spite of the loss, San Angelo retained the league lead, both Abilene and Ranger losing.

Forced to save Baugh and Hill for Sunday's double-header at Sweetwater, and with two pitchers crippled, Manager Robinson left Billings to his fate.

NITRO AVERAGES

Unofficial averages of the Nitros show that for games up to and including May 25, Hamilton is leading with the handsome average of .526, with Johnny Singleton topping the "regulars" and Charley Clapp setting the pace for the boys who have played in practically every game.

Charley Clapp has compiled thirty-nine hits. Fifteen of these were extra base knocks, which put him well in the lead on total bases, in spite of Adkins' four-base clouts. Lefty had nine homers (and added another Friday at Cisco) and these put him third in total bases, as Singleton has thirteen extra base drives, including six homers, for a total of sixty bases.

In fielding, Hill and Carter still have a perfect record. Following are the averages:

WOMEN WORKERS ARE FORCING MEN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT NOW

CHICAGO, May 28.—In the old melodrama it was a young girl who pleaded: "Oh, Sir! I have wandered through the streets for days looking for honest employment, and have been turned away from every door. There is work for men but none for the poor woman. What, what, I ask you, is a poor girl to do?"

But it is different now, according to William Peart, territorial commander for the Chicago district of the Salvation Army. He says the situation has so changed that now it is the young man who pleads with trembling lip:

"Oh, lady! I have looked for work but without the slightest success. Everywhere I go they say, 'We have plenty of work for women but not any for men.' What, what, I ask you, is a poor fellow to do?"

CARPENTIER STARTS FIRST REAL TRAINING

In the presence of a host of newspaper men, Georges Carpentier, French heavyweight champion, got into his working clothes and for the first time since his arrival in America went through a period of real training for his match with Jack Dempsey at Jersey City, July 2. For forty-five minutes the Frenchman-worked like a beaver. He shadow-boxed, punched the bag, skipped the rope, went through rigorous setting-up exercises, and then, without any sign of fatigue, shadow-boxed some more. Carpentier is in splendid condition, and his speed, powerful smashes at the heavy sandbag and his lack of fatigue after his fast and hard workouts greatly impressed those present.

NEW BOXING RULES WILL HELP CARPENTIER IN BIG JULY SCRAP

The International Sporting club's boxing rules, formulated last year, will be an advantage to Georges Carpentier in his championship battle with Jack Dempsey, in the opinion of William Henry Nugent. Mr. Nugent in the American Legion weekly gives a history of boxing reforms from the old days when men fought with bare fists and without rests until one was battered to the ground, on through the rules up to the present.

The international rules of 1920 have revolutionized the sport. Many old customs and malpractices have been given the air. "Gaze at this rule in regard to the championship battle between two rounds, the swinging of towels and two rounds may assist a fighter, and they must remain seated and silent and shall not throw water on a principal and in any way assist him" during the rounds.

One wonders how Monsieur Francois Deschamps, manager of Carpentier and chief second in all his fights, will behave under these restrictions at the Dempsey fight. Francois has a habit of jumping into the ring if he thinks Georges is not getting a fair deal. He climbed under the ropes at London to claim a foul over Gunboat Smith.

In general, the new rules tend to curb the once noisy and view-obstructing second. Now only the chief second may consult with the referee. Only the chief second may accompany a boxer to the center of the ring to receive final instructions, thus removing from the flashlight picture of the boxers shaking hands that great array of towel-swingers and bucket-toters who used to drape themselves melodramatically beside the fighters.

Only the chief second may toss a towel or sponge into the ring as a symbol of defeat. But even then, before the referee can stop the contest, he must first ask the chief second if his man has really and truly enough.

Dempsey's rare admirers will tell you that the new rules in two respects favor Carpentier. First is the regulation which sends a fighter to the farthest corner after knocking down a rival and forbids the referee to start the count of ten unless the man actually goes to the far-away nook. Should Carpentier be knocked down as quickly as Willard was felled at Toledo, he will have the advantage of the brief time it will take Dempsey to travel from the farthest corner—eighteen feet or more in some instances—before he is tumbled to the ground again. This chance Willard did not get because Dempsey kept on top of him and struck him down the instant he lifted his hulking form on his two wobbling legs.

The second advantage to the Frenchman is the restriction on the use of handgrips on the hands. Soft cloth instead of heavy tape bandages must be worn. With soft bandages on his knuckles, Dempsey needed a dozen rounds to flatten Bill Brennan. Carpentier may find these little advantages big ones the day of the fight.

must keep his hands off the fighters except when they fail to break from a clinch. The judges, in opposite corners, keep track of the points made by each fighter based on effectiveness and taking into account clean hits, skillful attack, defensiveness, ring generalship and clean fighting. Points must be deducted when a contestant delays the action by clinching, lack of aggressiveness, unintentional fouls and stalling tactics.

A new official, the director of the bout, a duty sergeant and supply sergeant rolled in one, looks after the details of the contest, has charge of the equipment, provides the gloves, fans, buckets, resin, gong and stools for the principals and their handlers, instructs the seconds in their rights and duties and sees that the contestants get in the ring on time.

The announcer introduces the contestants, giving their exact weight, and announces the decision of the decision of the judges and referee. The physician passes on the pugilists' physical condition.

The timekeeper strikes the gong with a metal hammer. This minimizes the danger of someone's jerking the rope to sound the bell and thereby shorten the round. A man from the front of the ring must blow a whistle ten seconds before the end of a round and ten seconds before the start.

The weights and classes have been changed. Ringside weighing in has been abolished. Instead, contestants must go on the scales six hours before the fight, giving them time to eat a nourishing meal. Gone is the practice of a fighter steaming away his stamina and health in a boiling Turkish bath a few hours before the fight to take off a few ounces of flesh in order to save forfeit money.

The new weights and classes are: Heavyweight, over 175 pounds; light heavyweight, 175; middleweight, 160; welterweight, 140; lightweight, 135; junior lightweight, 130; featherweight, 122; bantamweight, 118; junior bantamweight, 115; flyweight, 112; junior flyweight, 109.

Construction of the ring has received much care to minimize accident and to improve the view of the spectators. Padding half an inch thick must cover the floor. Metal posts, padded carefully, replaces the old wooden ones.

The ring has been reduced from twenty-four feet to not less than eighteen feet and not more than twenty feet square, thus calling for more action and fewer masterly retreats.

Contestants under the new regulations must snap out of it. All boxers, including champions, must report to the director of the bout two hours before the time set for the battle. They must not rub grease or oil on the body or dip their gloves in oil or pepperment or belladonna to injure the sight of a rival.

They must fight fairly. No goferish tricks are allowed. Boxers face disqualification for using foul and abusive language, for deliberately holding a clinch, for the pivot blow and the kidney punch, for slipping an opponent with the open glove or any other unsporting act.

Draft dodgers are barred forever from the ring. The American flag may not be worn by contestants as a belt.

OFFICERS TELL OF DEATH OF THEIR COMRADE IN ARMS

By Associated Press
EL PASO, May 28.—J. F. Parker and W. B. Guinn, prohibition officers who were with Officers Beckett and C. A. Wood when they were shot to death March 21, while on their way to search for liquor on the Shearman hog ranch, today took the stand for cross-examination in the case of C. P. Shearman, his sons, Neil, John and Allen, and Thomas Mendoza, a ranch hand, charged with the murder of Wood.

Each officer corroborated the testimony of the other. Each swore he saw the elder Shearman fire a shotgun at them and that he saw Neil Shearman on the spot during the shooting. Each admitted that they searched C. P. Shearman's automobile on the public road during the day and that they found no liquor in it. They also testified that the warrant authorizing them to search the house was made out in Neil Shearman's name but that C. P. Shearman listened to the reading of it.

SWEDENBORG SAID TO HAVE ANTICIPATED EINSTEIN'S THEORY

International News Service
BOSTON, May 28.—Professor Albert Einstein in his theory of relativity of space and time was anticipated by Emmanuel Swedenborg by 175 years, according to the followers of Swedenborg in Boston. Rev. B. A. Whitmore, in referring to Einstein's theory, says:

"As to the relativity of time and space, Professor Einstein was anticipated by Swedenborg by 175 years. The great Swedish scientist maintained that while events in the spiritual world seem to happen under conditions of time and space, yet time and space there are totally different from what they are here. He deals with this paradox at some length. Perhaps Professor Einstein might get some additional points from him on this subject."

RED PROPAGANDA IS BLAMED FOR MURDER OF PROFESSOR

Chancellor Day of Syracuse University Says Shooting of Dean Wharton Last Month Is Traceable to Destructive Socialism in Colleges.

SYRACUSE, May 28.—The murder of Dean J. Herman Wharton by Professor Holmes Beekwith, both of Syracuse University, last month was a direct result of Red propaganda in the big Methodist school, Chancellor James R. Day declared today in a letter to the alumni.

The colleges of the country have avoided their duty in failing to fight bolshevism to a finish, the chancellor said. "The second day of April an awful tragedy occurred here, without precedent in the history of American education," the alumni letter reads. "The shooting of Dean Wharton is traceable to increasing prevalence of destructive socialism in the colleges, secretly propagated by certain teachers. It has become more dangerous by reason of the war and through the terrible propaganda emanating from Russia and taking insidious form in 'parlor socialism' and soviet clubs. The colleges have erred in not making it an issue because of a mistaken fear of being charged with denying academic freedom. This form of socialism differs as far from the socialism of early Christianity as the fall of Lucifer differs from the coming of Christ."

Dean Wharton of the College of Business Administration was killed by Holmes, an instructor of economics in the college, after the latter had been dismissed because of constant difficulties with students due to an excess of discipline. Holmes then killed himself. He left a 5,000-word letter, "To Whom It May Concern," defending the act. Holmes was a theoretical and unactive socialist. According to dotors, he suffered from "exaggerated ego" to the point of insanity.

Syracuse is not the only American university campus on which the specter of bolshevism has arisen recently. Daniel Russell Hodgdon resigned as president of Valparaiso university after charging that the school was a "hotbed of bolshevism, communism and other cults." The charge was immediately resented by the trustees and student body and the reply made that the president had quit in a tiff because of inability to introduce effete customs into a democratic school.

President Harding Weeps Over Bier of War Heroes

With bowed head and solemnity dominated by impressive silence, President Harding recently paid tribute to 5,112 soldier dead at Pier 4, Hoboken, N. J. The presidential smile was succeeded by a look of grief as the nation's chief delivered his address. As he spoke over the coffins of the heroes who died in foreign lands tears fell from his eyes. "It must not be again," he said of the war in an emotion-choked voice.

ONE LITTLE SMILE FROM PEGGY WAS WORTH $1,400,000 TO JOYCE

Pretty Actress-Wife of Millionaire in Divorce Scandal Declares He Offered That Sum in Will; Tell of Him Giving $100,000 Diamond to Visit Her.

By International News Service

CHICAGO, May 28.—The Orange blossom romance of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, thrice married actress, and James Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumber prince, was barred in all its settings of spendthrift gold, glittering diamonds and half hearted love in an exclusive interview published today by the Chicago Evening American.

The stage star described, with twinkling eyes, her honeymoon trip to Miami, Fla., where Joyce lavished jewels, gold and clothes on her.

She admitted that Joyce had insured himself for $400,000 in her favor and bequeathed her $1,400,000 in his will—merely to win a smile from her. She told also in lurid detail, how Joyce had lost 10,000 pounds to British confidence men in a "wire tapping" game.

Aglow With Diamonds.

The actress also revealed for the first time a hitherto unheard-of divorce, granted her from her first husband in Denver, in May, 1912, which she says bursts the bubble of Joyce's charges of bigamy.

Peggy was ushered into her interviewer's presence, wearing a $100,000 diamond and a bewildering circle of diamonds and emeralds.

She was carmine but cool, except for the glowing tip of a cigaret. She was blue-eyed but curious, with just a trace of hysteria. Tears seemed to lurk behind her eyes as she talked.

"It is said you married Hopkins, your second husband, at Bel Aire, Md., Sept. 1, 1913, while not divorced from Eyvette A. Archibald, a Denver clubman, whom you married at Salt Lake City, May 18, 1910," she was informed.

Peggy hurried to a desk and returned with a document, which told of a divorce granted her by Judge Carlton M. Bliss, in Denver, May 3, 1912. The charge was desertion.

"There, that proves I'm not a bigamist," said Peggy. "Besides that first affair was silly, just a couple of 'kids' who ran away to get married.

"I was only 17, but I told the license clerk 19—had to fib to him you know, to get the license. That was nothing—just a kid's trick.

Tells of Joyce's Will.

"Is it not a fact that Joyce made a will in your favor at the St. Regis hotel, New York, just before you sailed to Europe in May, 1920, in which you were bequeathed $1,400,000 in case of his death?" she was asked.

"Not at my request," replied Peggy. "He did tell me he had made out a will at the St. Regis and said he was leaving me quite a bit of money."

"I asked him if he expected to get killed on our trip abroad. He said no, but that accidents would happen. Of course women and children are first in the lifeboats if the ship sinks, but he'd be there too before they pulled away from the wreck."

"Why should I worry about his leaving me any money in a will. He was giving me all I could spend at the time and besides I was too busy to think of such things as wills."

"Didn't he make you beneficiary for $400,000 in life insurance?" was the next question.

"Not at my solicitation. He did take out a lot of insurance. It may have been $400,000."

Peggy then told of a $100,000 visit of Joyce to her boudoir. She had

Hurry up to the Temple theatre and see Harold Lloyd Now or Never who you have another such opportunity to forget your troubles and revel in the sense of complete relaxation and happiness that permeates one's being when entertained by Lloyd.

"Now or Never" is three reels of Harold Lloyd at his best. No higher praise could be given any comedy. From the time the begoggled comedian appears on the screen in one of the funniest automobile escapades this reviewer has ever seen, to the final fade-out, "Now or Never" hardly gives your face a chance to relax from a roaring laugh into a grin. And, as is always true of the Lloyd brand of fun, it is clean and genuine.

The action, except for a few opening scenes, takes place in a train or more truthfully, on a train, for the agile comedian is in it, on top of it, and under it, and gives you several gasps and thrills. His efforts to amuse a precocious four-year-old girl left in his charge, to put her to sleep, and then to get her dressed, are as full of human interest as they are of humor; while his antics in the washroom are a riot!

in the presence of his wife. Then she cast him out.

Asked concerning the "wire tapping" game which cost Joyce $10,000 in pounds in London, Peggy said the facts were correct.

"I had gone to Torquay. When I got back, he told me he had lost a lot of money. It was the wire tapping game, whatever that is. He had evidently gotten terribly drunk, lost a lot of money and then squealed. A terrible piker trick wasn't it—but then I guess any man would squeal who lost that much to confidence men—I mean, tell the police."

That was what Joyce had done—he told Scotland Yard.

Peggy was then asked her age. "Believe your baby or believe your eyes," she lifted. "I'm 80 years old today. I feel all of that, I've had rheumatism and a bad tooth."

Then she became serious. "I told you I fibbed about my age at my first marriage. I'll tell you in confidence now and its a fact, I'll be 26 at my next birthday but after that I won't be responsible for what I say. That's the dead line, positively."

"I'm No Money Grabber."

"Now that's settled. Please listen. I know nothing about plots and I'm no money grabber. My husband was not a piker in his gifts to me. The whole world knows that. But he is terribly unfair in wanting them back again. If he insists, very well, I'll go to court and fight him."

Peggy then touched on the charges that she was intimate with a number of other men.

"As to those charges of affairs with men," she said, heatedly, "they're all groundless. Barton French at Torquay, Henri Lotellier at Venice, E. James and Maurice, the dancer, in London and Evans Spaulding in New York—the charges are all terribly false."

"They were just friends of his and mine—mere acquaintances. Maurice—why I merely danced twice with him in my life. The rest meant no more to me."

Peggy then talked of her future.

It will be either the stage or pictures. I have had offers from both. You work too hard though in the movies. But I can't do anything in this condition. I want to get out of this country, near Paris, where I can find quiet and rest. I hope to have a few friends left, a man or two among them. But—

"Maybe you'll marry again in time?" ventured the interviewer.

"Never, never! Never another man in my life," said Peggy. "I should say not."

Thus the interview ended.

Worry 'Cause a Man Misses Change of Shirt? Nay, Sadie

Many persons have been worried over other persons for many reasons but the latest is a "bird" worrying about a friend because he did not come home and change his shirt. Now can you feature that? as Sadie would say.

This man went away and stayed two nights and three days without leaving any address. His friend became worried. He was on the eve of calling out the police and everything. "Why," he said, "I never did know that boy to go two days before without changing his shirt. I just know something has happened to him."

Just as he was thinking very seriously of sending for the police to try and find his friends the friend appeared. He said he came home after a fresh shirt.

IMBECILE "FRIEND" OF FAMILY SCARE CHILD WITH "BOGEY" STORIES

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—Victim of one of those persons who find pleasure in terrifying children by telling stories of mythical monsters, Agnes Kathleen Hughes, 6, daughter of J. F. Hughes, is a helpless paralytic.

Mrs. Hughes resorted to public appeal for a doctor to seek to enable the girl to walk and talk again. Local specialists failed to effect a cure.

A friend of the family told Agnes one day that there was a "bogy man" in a dark room into which the child was going. Gripped by terror, the girl went into hysterics. From that time she was frightened by shadows. Dark corners were peopled with hideous creatures.

Gradually she became unable to walk. Then she lost the power of speech. A younger sister, Evelyn, is her devoted attendant.

SCHOOLS BRING CITIZENS.

Schools build a town. If there were doubters, one casual remark of a Ranger teacher should convince them.

"There will be fifty families leave Ranger for the summer," said this teacher. "They will go out into the oil fields and camp, in order to be near the head of the family. BUT THEY WILL BE BACK IN RANGER NEXT FALL TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE SCHOOLS HERE."

That one statement proves the wisdom of the Ranger school board in its plans to make the Ranger schools so good that the best other towns can hope to do is to equal them. It proves the need for the speedy construction of the new high school.

For schools help make a town. The chief city of any oil field is the town which not only is a headquarters for supplies and other material requirements, but also the town which offers schools, and housing, and a proper environment for the children. Oil men call such a town home, although their avocation takes them away from the family for weeks at a time. A place offering these advantages, plus the ease of communication with all parts of the North Texas field which Ranger soon will have, with the completion of the Wichita Falls road, will inevitably attract more and more of this type of citizens.

Therefore, if Ranger is far envisioned, it will look to the various items which men would like to have in which oil men go to make their families reside. It has good schools now, and will have still better ones. It has the churches. It has homes, but needs more. With a proper utilization of these resources, and an adding to them, the assets brought from material advantages will be vastly increased.

TO RAT HUNTERS.

Killing rats is at once a sport enjoyed by some and a civic benefit. However, Sanitary Commissioner Hodges would seem to be correct in the statement that the benefit depends upon the disposal of said rat after extraction.

Someone evolved the fanciful theory that if the animal is thrown on the pavement, it will soon be crushed flat under the wheels of passing vehicles. Tanned, in other words, and swept up like any other rubbish.

This theory may possibly be correct, if one overlooks the time element. But it is not an instantaneous process. Some motorists overlook the target. Others are poor shots. So it may be a day or so until the spot on the pavement fails to become nauseating to refined senses.

The commissioner's request that rat hunters put their trophies of the chase in the garbage cans might well be followed.

BETTER PATENT YOUR NAME.

If the shade of Grover Cleveland could be interviewed, what would he say of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, who has dishonored the good name that was given him?

He would probably ask: "Why didn't they pick on Benedict Arnold when they were naming that boy?" Great men have no protection against infringement on their names by the unworthy. We read of a George Washington Somebody-or-other who is arrested for beating his wife. And occasionally one hears of a boy named William McKinley doing something he shouldn't.

The William Tafts and the Theodore Roosevelts are still children, as are the Woodrow Wilsons. And we must wait till 1940, at least, until we hear anything good or bad from the Warren G. Hardings of whom there is now a numerous tribe.

The boys who were named after Ulysses S. Grant are middle-aged men by now and they must be law-abiding, quiet citizens, for they seldom get their names in the papers.

Still, if Grover Bergdoll has sullied a great and good name, the same name has been honored by none other than Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was a good soldier and is a great pitcher. Parents who confer upon their children a great man's name are under obligations to see to it that their children live up to that name.—Columbus (O.) Citizen.

A TAX ON CHILDREN.

Whether one agrees with Robert B. Reed of the New York Board of Trade regarding the sales tax, one cannot help agreeing with him about the tax on children. It is a very simple matter. Heads of families making out income tax returns are now allowed an exemption of $200 per child, and a personal exemption of $2,000. Mr. Reed says it should be $500 per child. The disproportion between $200 and $2,000 is evident, and in practice it becomes more apparent than in theory. Some children may cost only a quarter of what an adult does; most of them run closer to two-thirds. A $200 exemption is really a $200 tax, and is a positive discouragement to marriage and families. Since the Senate is going to make over the whole taxation system under President Harding's approval, it might consider this feature of the income tax on its merits. The majority of marriages, however satisfactory they may be with regard to affection, are founded on shifting economic foundations. Children add to the load above and do not strengthen the underpinning. Consider what a $500 exemption would have meant to the gentleman in Connecticut whose wife recently presented him with quadruplets.—New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser.

WHAT FARMERS HAVE LEARNED IN TEN YEARS

By Associated Press.
URBANA, Ill., May 28.—Lessons of the last ten years for American farmers were summarized here today by Dean E. Davenport, head of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois. He said: "The experience of the last ten years has taught farmers that the cost of production is of more importance than yield, that animal production is especially costly and hazardous, that our marketing machinery is inadequate for the bulk and complexity of the business, and that a credit system built up for commercial purposes is not adapted to agricultural purposes."

IRISH INTERNMENT CAMP NOW CONTAINS 1,727 PRISONERS

By Associated Press.

BALLYKINLAR, Ireland, May 28.—The internment camp for Irish political prisoners established here last November is now filled with 1,727 men. It was originally used as a training camp for Ulster troops in the war and is divided into two enclosures which are called "cages."

Within each of these are rows of brown huts and an extensive recreation ground, the whole ringed about thickly with barbed wire and overlooked by a number of high sentry boxes.

There have been no escapes from Ballykinlar and no attempted breaks. "Tunnelling would be impossible," an officer said, "because the water comes close to the surface of the ground."

The men are housed 25 to a hut, each being provided with a plank bed, straw mattress and four blankets.

The Associated Press correspondent and a representative of an English agency were the first newspaper men ever allowed to visit the camp, which is about 30 miles from Belfast.

Scarcely a drearier spot is to be found in Ireland. The camp is pitched on a flat which is swept by all the winds that sport on Dunrum Bay.

"We have a lot of rain here," said one of the British army officers in charge. "We get the maximum rainfall."

The prisoners were shy of the newspaper men. Joseph McGrath, a member of parliament from a Dublin district, a prisoner who holds the post of the Irish "Supervisor of Internees," voiced his distrust of the correspondents who sought to interview him about prison conditions.

"How do I know who you are?" he asked. Any outsider allowed to come into this camp is bound to be a suspect from our point of view. You could not come unless the military authorities consented.

Censorship Strict.
"Even if you are what you say you are, anything I told you would be subject to censorship before you were allowed to publish it. I am willing to give you a written statement if you can undertake to print it as submitted. The Irish people will never learn the truth about conditions here until we are released and can tell them ourselves."

Dr. Hayes, another member of the Dail Eireann, also refused to make a statement, but both men talked at some length with the visitors.

Two sleeping huts inspected by newspaper men were clean and well-kept and there were stove fires burning. Prisoners do the cooking under the supervision of a British army sergeant. The interned men were at their evening meal in the messroom and looked up with curiosity at the sight of strange civilians. They ranged in age from youths to elderly men.

One of the first prisoners encountered in the camp was a Dublin barrister whose long white beard gave him the look of a patriarch. He complained to the escorting officer that he had failed to receive the literary supplement of a London paper to which he had subscribed.

Except for supervision by the military authorities, the prisoners "run their own show." They are organized in units of about 100 each under a company captain. Each of the two camps has a supervisor of internees who, until a few weeks ago, was known as "Camp Commandant." The prisoners had regular military drill daily and, according to Mr. McGrath, they were "ready for rifle practice," when the authorities put a stop to the drilling and changed the titles of the "commandants" to something less military in sound.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S HOPES.

In his role of prophet, wherein he has scored fizzle after fizzle, with unvarying precision, Mr. Bryan has at last rung the bell. When he says, as he did at Columbus, Ohio, that the Democratic party's hopes of rehabilitation lie "in the matter of taxation," he is unquestionably right. And if the Republican party fails to give the people relief from present crushing tax burdens the Bryan prediction that "the Democrats will go back into power with a bigger landslide than they went out with" will be fulfilled.

Hidebound partisans may contemplate such a result with expectancy or anxiety, according to whether they are out or in. But the most of us, to whom party victory or defeat is of no great moment, are concerned with getting this relief, not with the fortune of the party that brings it about.

Admittedly, the reduction of taxes is a difficult thing for a party in power to mean economy, efficiency, the dropping off of useless offices, less patronage—all of which are heretical, at variance with the practice of the party in power, regardless of what name that party bears. It is easier for a rich man to go to heaven than it is for an administration to abolish a job. A political plum that has once blossomed, budded and matured immediately becomes a perennial.

Things, of course, are different now, though the officeholders don't realize that fact. For the first time the American people know what it is to be oppressed by taxes. But is there an evidence anywhere that officialdom is trying to lighten the load? Pleasing pledges may be made in speeches, but is retrenchment visible in administration policies? The Federal government, for example, might furnish substantial relief in taxation by reducing armament expenditures through international agreement. It refuses to do it. If Mr. Harding's ideal of a "nation so powerful that no one will dare to provoke her wrath" is the administration's objective, as it must be presumed to be, no relief may be looked for from that source. Congress will continue to appropriate billions and the people will continue to pay.

It is the same story in the state of Missouri yielding $5,000,000 annually. To be sure, we have lately been told that the governor will include a reduction of that tax among his recommendations to the special session of the legislature, but unless the special session run far beyond any practicable period it will be unable to consider the accumulation of issues that will be submitted to it. The reduction of the income tax, it may be ventured, will have to go over for want of time. Meanwhile, it should be remembered that Governor Hyde, himself, by his veto power, is responsible for the fact that this tax was not reduced.

Bryan is right. If the Republicans don't reduce taxes the people will turn to the Democratic party, provided that party evolves a leader of force and conviction.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

BUSINESS IN GREECE DEAD AS DOORNAIL

Only Ships Arriving in Three Weeks Bring Dead and Wounded Men.

By Associated Press.

ATHENS, May 28.—Business in Greece has fallen off to such an extent that American commercial representatives find themselves without anything to do. Trade in all lines has become stagnant. The shipping business is prostrated. The only vessels to arrive in Saloniki harbor during the last three weeks were two hospital ships bearing dead and wounded from the Anatolian front.

The government is buying nothing except a limited quantity of food supplies for the army. It is withholding payment on all outstanding accounts. Every franc is needed for the Asia Minor campaign.

The Greek franc (or drachma) has only one-third its former value. The cost of life was never higher, the morals of the people seldom lower. The price of bread was advanced 40 per cent a few days ago. The army is costing 4,000,000 francs a day. Foreign observers are agreed that the country cannot go on without a financial crisis.

The defeat of Venizelos and the return of King Constantine has affected all business in a country where commerce and politics are closely associated. The blockade of foreign credits, the rapid decline in the drachma, and uncertainty as to the future has resulted in commercial paralysis.

Can't Use Money in U. S.

Greece feels especially her inability to use the $33,000,000 credit she has in the United States. The American state department has made it clear that this cannot be touched until the question of recognition of the King is settled. Constantine insists he never abdicated, and refuses to recognize the legality of his son Alexander's reign. This attitude may have an important bearing upon America's policy toward Greece and the question of the $33,000,000 credit.

The docks, warehouses and customs house in Piraeus (the port of Athens) are choked with merchandise, due to the inability of the purchasers to pay for it. The same conditions prevail at Saloniki, Smyrna and Constantinople. Orders have been cancelled by the wholesale.

Retail prices have increased to a point where they are prohibitive. Taxes steadily are mounting. The government is faced with the necessity of issuing more paper money. Bank rates on short loans to stock exchange brokers range as high as 40 per cent. There is huge speculation in exchange, manipulators buying large amounts of foreign money on margin and then selling it at a profit.

Greece's public debt, including her share of the Ottoman debt prescribed by the Sevres treaty, is nearly 6,000,000,000 drachmae. (In normal times equivalent to about $1,200,000,000. Her total national income is estimated at 5,000,000,000 drachmae. Her budget deficit for this year is 1,000,000,000 drachmae. Her issue of paper money is nearly 2,000,000,000 drachmae. Her exchange reserves are held by gold reserves and by securities in foreign countries. The state's indebtedness to the National bank doubled during the last year, amounting on Jan. 1, 1921, to nearly 1,500,000,000 drachmae. The greater part of this money was used for Asia Minor campaign.

NEW JERSEY ATTORNEY MAY BE SOLICITOR-GENERAL

James M. Beck, prominent New Jersey attorney, who was recently recommended as Solicitor-General by Attorney-General Daugherty, according to reports from Washington. Mr. Beck had for some time been mentioned as probable Under-Secretary of State. It is a foregone conclusion that he will be confirmed for the post, in which case he will take office during the first days of July. Mr. Beck conferred with President Harding in an advisory capacity during the campaign. From 1900 to 1903 he served as Assistant Attorney-General. He has argued many important cases before the United States Supreme Court, including the famous Danbury haters case. His duties as Solicitor General will make him the representative of the Government before the Supreme Court.

GHOST OF ANN PALMER GUARDS STORY OF HER WICKED CAREER FROM WRITER DOWN IN JAMAICA

Wraith of Woman Who Murdered Three Husbands 'Hants' the Superstitious Negroes and Seals Their Lips, So They Say.

Very little ever happens at Montego Bay. It is a quiet dreary corner of Jamaica, where tropical verdure edges the blue Caribbean, where the weather is always warm and the air frazzles with the scents of growing things, and beauty fills the soul with peace, writes Marion Ryan in the London Mail.

But something has happened recently which has stirred everyone out of the habitual somnolence. The negroes declare there is a "hant" wandering round the fields and plantations. It comes from Rose hall, and it is the "hant" of Mrs. Anna Palmer, who lived her stormy life there over a century ago.

It was such a stormy life that she has never been forgotten, and while many people have declared that they saw her ghost wandering about the ruins of Rose hall, she has never wandered elsewhere till recently.

She Murdered Three Husbands.
When she was mistress of Rose hall—then the greatest estate on the island of Jamaica—her power was unlimited. She killed and tortured her slaves, murdered three husbands, and would probably have made away with the fourth, for her "slogan" a few months after marriage is said to have run, "If I survive I will have five."

No One Cared to Live There.
No one cared to live in Rose hall, nothing prospered there, and finally it fell into ruins, undisturbed by the wraith of Mrs. Anna Palmer, who was sometimes seen by a frightened negro chancing to linger there after the shadows fell.

For years the ghost has seemed to be at peace or else the negroes have forgotten to invent stories of seeing it, but regency Ann Palmer has taken to disturbing Montego bay by an occasional stroll.

More than one negro has come with trembling lips to his white employer to say that he has seen a woman clad in a long white night dress, her black hair floating in the breeze, her hands clasped as if begging for mercy.

It is the beautiful, wicked Ann Palmer—or rather her "hant"—and to see the "hant" of such a woman must mean trouble for the luckless negro upon whom her glance may fall.

"But why has she appeared again?" I asked.
It seems that she is resentful of the fact that there is a novelist in the neighborhood looking up details of her life and career. He intends to write her story in full, and he spends much time at Rose hall. He, however, has never seen the "hant." She has not appeared to him—only to distracted negroes who have been telling tales of her to their fathers or grandfathers told them.
It is difficult since her wraith has been seen to get any more of these stories, so the novelist told me.

PSYCHOLOGY IS NEW METHOD REPLACING 'THIRD DEGREE'

Police Seek Confession of Four Murders by "Silent Treatment," Keeping Life-Long Bully in Dark as to Why He's in Jail.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27.—A fascinating experiment in psychology is being conducted upon Emil Schutte, the farmer, held in the Middlesex county jail at Haddam on suspicion of having killed his aged father, Denis LaDuc, a few weeks ago, and three members of the Ball family in 1915. All four bodies were burned.

The experiment is this: The county and state authorities are endeavoring to have Schutte's own conscience convict him, if he is guilty. He has not been told just why he is being confined under the unusually high bond of $10,000. He knows he was arrested for pursuing his wife with a revolver and that the technical charge is felonious assault.

But the officials have given him no hint that he is suspected of four murders. They are keeping all newspapers from him, though he constantly demands them, and his guards have been cautioned to reply to no inquiries as to why he is treated thus.

He has repeatedly asked for a visit from his wife or one of his eight sons. But none has appeared, partly at the suggestion of State's Attorney Ingraham and State Police Captain Hurley, and partly because they have not cared to see him. The wife and children all say Schutte was a hard-fisted tyrant, and not one of them has escaped his blows.

Kept in Agony of Suspense. The officials believe that a man of this type—a bully, used to having his own way in everything—cannot long withstand the confinement, the suspense, and the air of mystery which surrounds him now. They believe that if Schutte is really guilty of murder, his memories, his conscience, will before long cause him to beg for leave to tell the whole story. And when he is ready to do that—if such a state of mind comes upon him—Captain Hurley, a quiet-tongued, friendly, but relentless cross-examiner, will be ready to take down what he has to volunteer.

Today Schutte continued nervous and apprehensive. Each time the door leading into his corridor was opened, he sprang up from his cot, and peered out, with his dark eyes scrutinizing eagerly each passerby.

He is short, squat, broad-shouldered, powerfully built, of dark Prussian type. Today he spent a good part of his time writing. The jail officials, pursuing the "silent treatment," did not even ask him to let them see his closely-covered sheets.

The investigators learned that on the night after the disappearance of LaDuc, and on the night of a big fire on a hilltop, a mile from the Schutte home, Schutte harnessed a team of horses and made a mysterious trip to the heights.

As previously reported in the press, August, the twelve-year-old son of Schutte, saw LaDuc's body with the head smashed lying in the old farmhand's bed in a shack close by the family residence on April 25. The next day, when he looked again into the shack the body was gone. That night, April 26, was the night of the fire.

Oil Cans in Tool House. The spot where LaDuc's burned and dismembered skeleton was found last Friday in the ashes of the fire, is only a few hundred yards from a tool house which Schutte maintains on the heights. In this house were found, it now develops, two empty five-gallon cans which had contained kerosene.

While the authorities are certain that the bones they found were Laduc's, a jack-knife, some buttons and buckles and some fragments of cloth are the only marks of identification.

A cheap watch that LaDuc used to carry has been found in the Schutte household among the prisoner's effects.

Various odds and ends of information came to the ears of the investigators today regarding Schutte's alleged record as a firebug. The searches were told that many years ago he was "run out of New Jersey for starting a fire."

Then they learned that sixteen years ago, shortly after he had been sued by a neighbor in Killingworth, Conn., that neighbor's barn was burned. There have been other mysterious fires too.

Revolver at Fire Scene. There has been no move made yet to exhume the skeletons of Joseph Mary and Jacob Ball, found in a fire that destroyed their shack home near Schutte's, after Joseph Ball and Schutte had quarreled. Sheriff Bert Thompson and others hold strongly to the theory that the Balls were shot as they rushed from the flames.

A revolver was found outside of where the door of the place had stood. A man who used to live near the Ball home says he heard several explosions, resembling pistol shots, the night of the fire.

Schutte's hearing on the charge of assaulting his wife will come up June 16. The coroner's inquest into LaDuc's death will be delayed for perhaps a month. The grand jury does not meet until September. Meanwhile the investigators will go on with the mental ordeal they are putting the man through—perhaps it might be called the "fourth degree," for it is quite the reverse of the notorious third degree.

WOMAN JUROR GETS JAIL TERM AND FACES CHARGE OF CONTEMPT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 28.—Mrs. Ellen Griffith, tentatively seated as a juror in the perjury trial of former Judge William H. McGannon, was fined $50 and costs, banished from the jury and sentenced to ten days in jail by Common Pleas Judge Florence E. Allen on a charge of contempt of court.

Mrs. Griffith was accused by Miss Catherine Chambers, a woman bailiff, of having said it would be worth $500 to an organization of which Mrs. Griffith is a member if McGannon were found to be guilty.

While being examined as a tentative juror, Mrs. Griffith swore that she had not talked with anyone concerning the case. Judge Allen called Mrs. Griffith, Prosecutor Stanton and Special Prosecutor David in a private conference, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Griffith was placed on the witness stand.

"Am I correctly stating the case when I say that you informed Miss Catherine Chambers that an organization to which you belong will receive $500 if Judge McGannon is convicted?" Judge Allen asked.

"You are," replied Mrs. Griffith.

It was upon this that the contempt charge was based.

CLEVELAND HAS MANY FOREIGN BORN FOLKS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 28.—The cosmopolitan character of Cleveland's population is shown by the naturalization records of the board of elections. These indicate that approximately 40 per cent of the city's male citizenship are of foreign birth.

The total number of male voters registered in Cleveland is 126,696. The number of naturalized male voters who have during the last thirteen years filed their citizenship papers with the election board is 49,847. The per centage of naturalized men who vote on their papers without having them recorded is between 1,200 and 1,500.

Since Jan. 1, naturalization papers have been filed with the election board by 2,492 foreign born Cleveland residents, and it is expected that between 1,000 and 1,400 will have their papers recorded by the end of May.

'WHY GIRLS GO WRONG' ALL DOPED OUT AGAIN BY WOMAN LECTURER

This Time It's Because They Go Through Life Letting Men Pay Their Way, Instead of Paying Their Own in Order to Avoid Sense of Obligation.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 27.—While speaking to an audience of 300 prominent business men at a local club here today, Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen, lecturer and psychologist, created a decided sensation when, in discussing the causes for girls going wrong, she emphatically stated that, if parents, and especially fathers, would teach their daughters, from the moment they begin going out with young men, always to pay their own way, wherever they go, very few girls would go wrong.

"Girls do not want to do wrong things but many of them begin what often results in an unfortunate climax, by allowing their boy friends to kiss them good-night," said Mrs. Paulsen. "They do it because they feel they owe something for the money the boys have spent on them. If parents were to teach their daughters to pay their own way, the girls would not feel that they must give their perfectly beautiful selves to every man who pays them attention. Girls everywhere, when urged to keep themselves pure and sweet, say in perfect innocence, 'well what can we do for the boys for all the money they spend on us, and the boys say to our untrained girls, 'what do you suppose we are spending this money on you for anyway.' Since the girl has entered the business world, there is no reason why she should not train her to pay her own way when in high school and college. It will make her a better business woman and certainly a better wife and home keeper."

Mrs. Paulsen accused the fathers of young girls of being the chief contributors to their daughters' wildness. She stated that fathers have a more important home duty in this day than ever before in their lives.

and I are raising, and the girls are not to blame as much as we are. The boys say, 'There is nobody home.' They say that they go to the home of the girl, knock at the door, she comes to the door and without even asking him in, she says, 'Well, where can we go tonight?'

"She has to go to a movie, a theater, have a box of candy and something to eat after it is all over. The young men say their perfectly good wage is practically gone by the time the evening is over. Do you know what the worth while young men, those who are trying to establish themselves, are doing? They are just not going with the girls, they say they cannot afford it, and socially we are all losing out, as well as morally and from the standpoint of home ideals."

The Woman of Yesterday. "The woman of yesterday was protected by her father, then married and was protected by her husband or, in case she did not marry, her brothers protected her," Mrs. Paulsen said. "The girl of today goes into a different environment and surroundings.

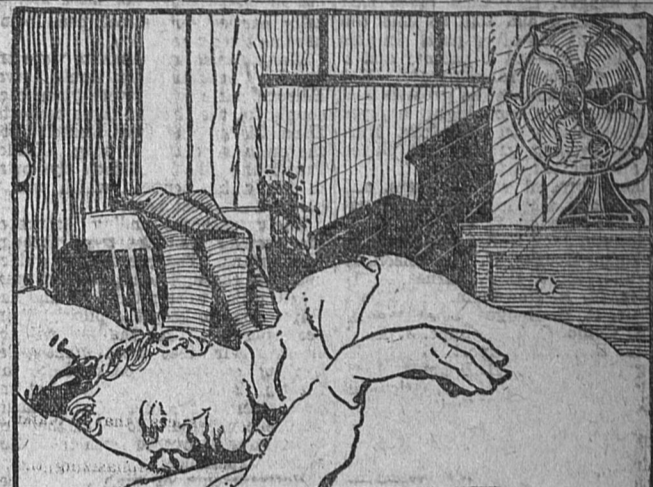

"Fathers know the conditions that surround the girls in the store, the office and the factory. They know the dangers of the automobile as the mothers do not. It is not a square deal to the girls for the fathers not to teach them to know life so well that they can be sweet and pure and still earn their own way. One often hears men criticizing the way girls act and dress in the business world. It would be well for some to ask them this pertinent question, 'Are your daughters going to dress and act any differently when they go out to work for some one?' Then answer that question by saying, 'If they do, it is going to be because you teach them, they cannot get this intimate knowledge from books nor schools.'

"The twentieth century boy is complaining very bitterly of the girls you

1920 CLUB PICNIC.
 Mmes. French, Liles, Maddox, Gullahorn, Jones, Lauderdale, Hodges and Hodge were hostesses at a delightful picnic given last week complimentary to the 1920 club members and their husbands. After the picnic grounds were reached and the gentlemen became hungry, they were given part of a postcard and told to find the lady holding the other part. In this way they obtained a partner and a box of delicious refreshments. Hot coffee was made on the grounds and ice cream cones were highly enjoyed by all, especially the little folk. During the evening games were played and all reported a fine time.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mmes. John Gholson, M. H. Hagaman, Fred Hodge, S. P. Boon, C. C. Chenoweth, Jack Gullahorn, Ralph G. Stockman, Hodges, H. P. Gholson, A. Vandersvoort, E. J. Barnes, A. SENIOR CLASS PARTY.
 The senior class of the High school and friends were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. E. H. Mills in Cooper addition. The guests were welcomed at the entrance by Mrs. Smith and were ushered into the living room, where the class colors of green and pink were artistically carried out, sweet peas being used as the flower.

Many games and contests were enjoyed. Questions that would rival Edison's famous test were given each couple for the first of these contests. Edna Clark and Ray Russell took the prize, a "diamond" ring. Eunice Pruitt and Bill Mills took the prize in the watch-contest, which was a bouquet of sweet peas.

The most heart-rending feature of the evening was the trip through Wonderland. The guests were guided upstairs, through long, winding passages, which were pitch dark and had only a rope to keep the pilgrim from becoming lost. At the top of the stairs their feet were startled at treading on feather beds. Later all sorts of "snakes," "mice" and hot and cold water bottles and other obstacles were encountered. Some of the girls never quite recovered from their dizzying experience.

Refreshments of pink and green brick cream and cake brought the delightful evening to the close.

Those present were: Misses Edna Brashier, Merkel Mills, Pauline Dutton, Blanche Niver, Mamie Ruth Langton, Blanche Niver, Mamie Ruth Langwell, Walker, Azaline Cox, Velma Barrett, Edna Clarke, Mildred Master, Chaney Brashier, Arvilla Clemmer, George Connell, Eunice Pruitt, Claudia Cox, Allie Walker, Messrs: H.  Mrs. Wilbur McFarland entertained the Cooper addition Methodist Sunday school one evening last night. About twenty couples enjoyed the occasion, which included a wienie roast and picnic lunch on the lawn.

WITH MISSES GARBER.
 Misses Ruby and Pansy Garber entertained the Baptist Sunday school class at their home in Cooper addition. Refreshments were served and sweet peas were given as favors. The color scheme for the occasion was pink and white. About forty guests enjoyed the evening.

MRS. OBENCHAIN'S RECITAL.
 Mrs. Josephine Obenchain of Dallas gave a reading Friday night to an appreciative audience at the Methodist church. She depicted the old-fashioned "mammy," whom so few of the present generation have been privileged to know. Her rendition of "Mammy's Superstitions," "The Prudential Son," and "Aunt Viney at the Movies" were particularly enjoyed and when she gave an original reading entitled "Bedtime," depicting "old mammy" singing to a little sleepy boy, everyone realized why the old-fashioned darkies are so dear to the South.

BOSTON PICNIC.
 A swim, good things to eat and a ride back home in the moonlight filled Tuesday evening full of joy for the employees of the Boston store. The picnic and swim was at the Sinclair lake, which is becoming a Mecca for pleasure seekers.

BARGAINS IN BATTLESHIPS

Twenty-one Obsolete Naval Fighting Craft Now Carried on "Second Line" List, Likely to Be Sold and Broken Up Soon.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A "bargain sale" of obsolete naval vessels including battleships and destroyers, may be held by the navy department soon. A study is being made of various ways of getting rid of a large number of useless war craft, and it was indicated that the example of Great Britain might be followed in selling useless ships to be broken up for junk.

There are twenty-one battleships and as many destroyers now carried on the "second line" list, and officers say that more than half of the former should be disposed of. All except two of these battleships are of the "mixed battery" type, most of them carrying four twelve-inch guns, and eight eight-inch guns, while the Kentucky, Illinois and Wisconsin mount obsolete thirteen-inch main battery rifles.

Included in the "second line" list is the famous old battleship Oregon, but it is doubtful if the department will order her scrapped because of sentimental considerations. The latest and most useful battleships on the "second line" list are the Michigan and South Carolina, both launched in 1908, but in the opinion of naval men, long since practically valueless except for training purposes.

Besides the twenty-one odd battleships, the navy department has already taken steps to dispose of four other vessels. The Indiana was sunk by placed bombs and big gun fire, the Massachusetts became a target for the guns of coast defense batteries in Florida, the Iowa is being used for radio control experiments, and is destined to take a prominent part in the coming bombing tests, and the Kearsage has been tentatively allocated to the army for use in aerial bombing experiments this summer.

The most modern of the twenty-one "second line" destroyers was launched in 1912, while most of the others were turned out in 1909 and 1910. Nearly fifty submarines are carried on the "second line" list, and there are also a large number of minor class vessels rated as of little military value.

PROHIS ASK MORE DRASTIC LEGISLATION

Volstead Act Too Tame So Dry Forces Plan to Stop All Leaks.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Sahara will be a glistening lake compared to the United States, if the plans of the prohibitionists meet with the approval of congress.

The "dry" forces, unsatisfied with the effects of the Volstead law, are mapping out a vigorous campaign to be conducted in the present congress in an effort to stop up the leaks in the dry law dike.

Prohibitionists are certain that the present congress is just as "dry" as was the last and they are hopeful that their campaign will meet with success, although they realize that with elections two years distant, pressure can not be as easily applied to this congress as to the last.

The first step in the campaign to put the lid on intoxicants has been taken by Representative Volstead in introducing a bill to prevent the use of beer and wine as medicines. Only the future can determine the fortunes of this bill, but the "drys" are watching its course with great eagerness to determine the sentiment of the present congress.

Propose Drastic Measures.
 Other planks in the "dry" platform which will be presented to congress, are set forth as follows:
 1—Congress shall cut off importation of liquor for at least five years.
 2—The further manufacture of whiskey shall be prohibited until the present stock is down to a very small reserve basis.
 3—The present stock of liquors shall be concentrated by giving the commissioner power to move liquors when such action will conduce the enforcement of the prohibition law.
 4—The total prohibitive tax shall be assessed against offenders for each offense.
 5—Only alcohol, not liquors or wines, shall be allowed to be used as a base for "medicines."
 6—Alcohol to be used for legitimate purposes, such as the manufacture of toilet commodities, shall be denatured at the place of original manufacture.
 7—The employees of the enforcement organization shall be placed under civil service.
 8—If the prohibition enforcement department is transferred to the department of Justice, careful distinction shall be made between these parts of the law which involve criminal investigations and prosecution and such sections as provide for the enforcement of the law, the power to establish a national prohibition day, which shall be given power to try misdemeanor offenses against the prohibition law.
 If these laws fail to check the enterprise of their opponents, the SELMA, Iowa, May 28.—Walter Oliver, son of a wealthy farmer, died yesterday on the sixtieth day of self-imposed fast.

Oliver was a conscientious objector and was sent to Federal penitentiary when he refused to don a uniform at Camp Dodge. Upon his return to his home here he became a recluse and began his fatal fast.

The Rev. David Duncan Irvine, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Richmond Hill, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was denied an application for citizenship by Justice Lewis L. Irvine Justice Fawcett said, in part: "It is astounding to the court that such an applicant should seek the great privilege of citizenry with such a character. He is a hypocrite of the blackest kind and should undoubtedly be unfrocked. I am denying this application on the grounds of immoral character with prejudice against its applicant."

JUANITA'S "LILY LOVE" PROVES CAVE MAN AND BRIDE OF ONE SHORT MONTH CHARGES CRUELTY

Daughter of Poet Miller of the Sierras Declares Soulmate Juan Uncovered Bad Temper and Numerous Unpaid Bills.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Juanita Miller's Lily Love has turned out to be a cave man.

In place of the spiritual soulmate of her dreams, the daughter of the Poet of the Sierras finds her bridegroom of the tulip bed a man with a "buried past."

His failure to disclose that past—whether it be good or ill—is one of the grievances which has combined with others to make the heroine turn inquiringly toward the legal path toward freedom.

Marital Troubles in Offing.
 Far from the "heights" Wednesday came word of the marital difficulties of the couple whose wedding a month ago was heralded with the music of timbrels and celebrated with the feast of roasted kid and home brew.

As evidence of the charges of cave man which Juanita makes against her husband, she showed a bandaged arm and bared a bruised breast, mute but colorful testimony of the "physical cruelty" which she says will be one ground for the contemplated divorce.

But the physical bruise is only part of the hurt which Juanita says is hers, as the result of the disillusionment wrought by her tiger-like husband.

Juan Refuses to Make Bread.
 For Juan of the golden locks and the buried past has failed to make good on the domestic part of the bargain. False to his pre-nuptial promises he had not done his share of brushing up the floor or of making the bread.

"I still love him, although he has turned out to be a cave man instead of my lily love," said Juanita Wednesday. "I am contemplating divorce on the grounds of cruelty and non-support, but I am not going to take definite action until a little later, after a stated number of days."

And then the bride of a month disclosed another rift in the nuptial lute. "Before we were married Juan said he had no bills and was not in debt, and now it turns out that he has unpaid bills," according to Juanita, and his wish to repay the debts led to their first financial dispute.

The break between the two became an open one over a mere theatrical contract, wherein Juanita was to receive the family pay at the rate of four to one. Juan objected, demanding at least an even break in the family bank account, because of those back debts. And the history of the debts and the years in which they were incurred have been an increasingly irritating spot in the background.

CHICAGO GIRL ADMITS PART IN AUTOMOBILE HOLDUPS

Margaret Lawrence, alias "Gertie the Gun Girl," alias "Lucille DeVoe," photographed in Chicago where she is under arrest charged with having lured and robbed drivers of motor cars. Margaret confessed to the police saying: "It really was so terribly easy. Sometimes I'd work it alone and sometimes another girl would go with me. We'd stroll along until we saw a real sporty looking car with a sort of sporty looking fellow in it. They kind of go together. I'd direct him to drive us to a lonely spot to meet another girl. There, instead of the boys with revolvers, had him up and even take his car away from him. Oh, it was too easy."

DICTAPHONES TO RECORD TALK OF JUNGLE FOLKS

Missionaries Will Be Armed With Scientific Aid to Learn Dialect.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 28.—The use of dictaphones in the jungles of Central Africa to aid the missionaries correctly to reduce the various native dialects to writing has been introduced by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, it was said by Dr. F. M. North, New York, at the meeting of the committee on conservation and advance here. He said: "The task of correlating the speech of the bush natives into an organized grammar which can be expressed in chiographic symbols is regarded as an important aspect of Methodist missionary work in the different parts of the dark continent. The Rev. Herbert C. Withey, Methodist missionary to Angola has just completed the translations of the new testament into the language of the lubole cannibals of the interior, and similar work is being done in the Congo and Rhodesia.

"The fundamentals of education thus established have become popular among the native Christians who are thus enabled to obtain better wages from employers and to gain more prestige in their tribal councils. When these people have learned to read they are insatiable, and become as eager book-buyers as the reading classes in this country, according to missionary reports. The four Methodist mission printing plants in Africa are kept busy turning out matter for them. The plant at Kambini, Portuguese East Africa, in three weeks shipped 1,500 volumes ordered by native Christians from Inhambane, now working in the mines at Johannesburg. In Angola Portuguese West Africa, the natives have committed to memory practically everything produced in their language and are desirous of more and varied literature."

The committee announced that the Methodists will send out more printers from this country to enlarge their output literature in the various dialects of the Bantu language. Slavery was introduced into the United States in 1619, by the captain of a Dutch trading vessel who bought twenty negroes which he sold to the tobacco planters.

TIMES CIRCULATION MANAGER RETURNS FROM HIS VACATION

C. F. Underwood, circulation manager of the Times, returned Saturday from a two weeks vacation trip with friends in Nashville, Tenn. "They can all rave all they want to over the Tennessee momshine," Underwood said, "but the best I could find was some home brew made by a Dutch uncle of mine." Being proud of his adopted city it is feared that Underwood was inclined to boast of the local product. While away he stopped over at Eldorado, Ark. They told him there, he said, that they had an oil field in the making, but he did not personally investigate the claims.

NEW HOSPITAL WILL BE UNDER WAY IN NEXT THIRTY DAYS, BELIEF

G. H. T. Washburn of Eastland, who was awarded the contract for the architectural work on the new hospital, was in the city Saturday for a conference with the city commission. A few details will be made in the blue prints. This should be completed by Wednesday and directly after that the bids for the erection of the new building will be asked for. It is believed now that the hospital should be under way within thirty days.

BIG GAME HUNTERS IN NEBRASKA ARMED WITH PICK AND SHOVEL

By Associated Press. AGATE, Neb., May 28.—The annual big game hunt of trained geologists and paleontologists of the world is under way at the Agate Springs ranch near here. Instead of using high-powered rifles to bag their game, these expert-hunters of rhinoceros mastodons, camels and deer use a pick and shovel. The animals sought are not live ones, but are the bones of prehistoric earth travelers of a million or so years ago.

The Agate Springs ranch, owned by Captain James H. Cook, extends along the Niobrara river for ten miles in Sioux county and is about twenty-five miles southeast of Harrison. On it is located what is said to be the greatest prehistoric bone quarry in the world.

Since its discovery thirty years ago, persons interested in the study of fossil remains have been making explorations. During the coming season, the quarries will be worked by the United States National museum, Smithsonian Institution, under the direction of J. W. Gidley, and others. The American museum of New York will have the usual party here taking what they desire but continuing the search for Dinohyus—an ancestral hog about the size of the ox in height and weight. A fine skeleton of the Dinohyus was secured in 1904 by the Morill Geological expedition. It stood nearly seven feet in height.

WAS WATER HOLE. In prehistoric times, the place now called Agate Springs ranch is believed by some to have been a water hole, similar to the modern African water holes where at times great herds of animals gathered to drink.

Other scientists believe the place to have been once a lake and that carcasses drifted to this spot and their bones dropped. Captain Harold I. Cook, son of the owner of the ranch and consulting engineer says it seems more probable that the bone bed is the result of a great eddy in a cove along the shore line of an immense river. The carcasses of various herds and individuals are believed to have been picked up by the moving water and lodged in the cover. This, he believes, would account for the partial segregation of types as well as the miscellaneous mixture of animals found in the quarries.

The Titanotherium, or giant beast, is the largest animal's bones to be found in this region. It is about the size of an elephant. The most common fossil mammal in the bad lands of Nebraska is the Oredon—an herbivorous animal about the size of the domestic sheep. As many as eight or ten skulls of the Oredon have been found frequently in a space no larger than the floor of an ordinary room.

It has been discovered here by scientists that America is the home of the rhinoceros, the camel, as well as that of the horse and many other animals now to be found only in foreign countries or not at all. Mr. Cook says that Nebraska is the home of the rhinoceros and their wanderings led them into other parts of the world. At Agate, their bones and skulls occur in heaps. He says they became extinct in Nebraska at the close of pliocene—half a million years ago.

The fossils collected from the bone beds at Agate Springs ranch are entirely mammalian. Only a few are, however, attract general attention, such as titanotheres, oredon, rhinoceros, horses, hogs, bovine, mastodons, mammoths, camels, deer and carnivores.

OMAHA, May 27.—Mrs. Edith Johnston, for twelve years head of the lip language department of the Nebraska school for deaf here, leaped to her death from the seventh floor of a hotel here today. She had been in ill health for some time.

WHY NOT SPEND YOUR VACATION ON YOUR OWN ISLAND?

VACATION CLUB ON WAY TO CAMP IN ONTARIO'S - A COZY CABIN IN THE PINES

How would you like to own an island in the Northland, an island holding a snug summer cabin? There is no reason why you should not own one if the idea appeals to you. Ontario's vast waterways contain countless islands of all sorts, shapes and sizes. Most of them belong to the provincial government and are for sale at ridiculously low figures. Ten dollars per acre is the average price. As many of the islands are less than an acre in extent, you may purchase one of them for a nominal sum. In the French River district, so well beloved of sportsmen, are many island-dotted lakes. Most of these waters are little visited and well stocked with fish. Trout Lake, reached by an eight mile boat ride from Paget station, is noted for its excellent fishing and scenic beauty. This beauty is due, in large measure, to the pretty islands. Some of them have been used for several seasons by camping parties, but nearly all still belong to the government and hence are available for purchase. Working northeast from Trout Lake, the wide expanse of Lake Nipissing is entered. Here are many islands with fine beaches. One of the larger of these islands will hold a boys' camp this summer. Crossing Lake Nipissing, the town of North Bay is reached. This is the gateway to a lake region that stretches northward. Timagami Lake, 72 miles north of North Bay, an octopus-like lake with nine long arms, contains 1,600 islands. Count 'em. They have all been numbered by the government. They range in size from a few square feet holding a lone pine, to Timagami with its 3,000 acres of forest trees. Timagami's islands provide sites for many charming summer homes. There are a number of Cleveland and Pittsburgh families among the summer colony. The area of Lake Timagami is 85 square miles, exclusive of its islands. This insures against the possibility of crowding, even though several hundreds of families make their summer homes there. Bear Island, 1 1/2 miles from Timagami station, boasts an Indian Village and a Hudson's Bay Post and is the center of island life. Several launch services afford ample means for getting about those who do not have their own launches. Fishing and scenery all that could be desired. Trout, pike and trout are taken in a boat trip among the islands. A boat trip among the islands sends a kaleidoscope of ever changing views of the beauty.

MASKED MOB CUT WHISKERS OF WAR VETERAN

Disguised Villagers "Convict" Octogenarian of Beating Crippled Wife in Ohio.

AKRON, Ohio, May 27.—Whatever penalty common pleas court of Summit county will decree for James T. Martin, 80 years old, Greensburg, farmer and civil war veteran, when he is arraigned on charges of assault tomorrow, it will matter little. A sentence pronounced and carried out by twelve men, wearing pillow slips over their heads in the fashion of the Ku Klux Klan, has broken his spirit.

The veteran paced the narrow confines of his cell in Summit county jail tonight until exhausted. On his narrow cot he still was unable to sleep and muttered to himself.

Yesterday Martin is alleged to have come home in a rage, and, taking a crutch from his 50-year-old wife, who has lost a limb, beat her on the head with a cane while she was defenseless. Children summoned help and the wife was taken to the home of a neighbor, who immediately started to Akron to swear out papers for Martin's arrest.

Before county deputies could reach the scene, however, a group of young men banded together, and, with their faces concealed in pillow slips, descended upon the Martin home.

Martin received an opportunity to testify in his behalf, but the court, composed of members of the party, found him to be guilty of unjust cruelty and the leader passed sentence. The sentence struck the old man to the heart. He implored mercy to no avail.

Willing hands held him in a chair while Martin's gray whiskers, nearly a foot long, his chief pride, were shorn from his chin. When county deputies reached the home, Martin was pacing the floor, mumbling to himself, tears streaming down his weather-beaten face as he fingered the irregular stubble where once had been a luxurious hirsute foliage.

At the jail today the veteran was indifferent when he was told he would be arraigned on charges of assault tomorrow. He stared vacantly at the keeper, then turned on his heel and continued to pace the floor, mumbling to himself.

BOSTON, May 27.—An indictment charging Ensign Joseph J. Lynam, former paymaster of the U. S. S. Chester, with embezzlement of $21,419 was returned by the federal grand jury. Lynam fled to Montreal but returned and surrendered to federal authorities saying the money had been stolen from him.

His home is at Newport, R. I., where he has a wife and two children.

DISABLED VETS TO DISCUSS MANY THINGS

Questions of Vital Interest Will Be Taken Up at Convention in June.

By Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., May 28.—Questions of vital interest to disabled service men, including a national legislative program with respect to vocational training, war risk insurance, hospitalization, medical treatment, compensation, and a bonus, will be discussed here during the first national convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to be held here June 27 to 30, inclusive.

Each chapter of disabled war veterans in the country is to be represented at the meeting, under present plans. A permanent national constitution will be adopted and the organization will be incorporated under a national charter. Permanent national headquarters will be selected during the convention and a national emblem decided upon. A national ritual of the organization is to be framed.

The convention is expected to bring together the largest delegation of disabled war veterans ever assembled in America, according to Judge Robert S. Marx, president of the national executive board of the organization.

Among the speakers of national reputation who will address the convention is Uel W. Lamkin, director of the federal board of vocational education and U. S. Summings, surgeon general of the United States public health service, who will discuss hospital needs.

Officials of the organization's national executive board announce Cleveland and Buffalo will send approximately 200 delegates each to a meeting, while Cincinnati expects to send 100. Other cities that have thus far announced large delegations include New Orleans, Tucson, Ariz., Seattle, Wash., and Passaic, N. J.

STRONG FLOW OF GAS MAKES SLOW MUDDING

Necessary to Mud-off Water Before Further Drilling Below 1,830 Feet.

Special to the Times

PECOS, Tex., May 28.—Gas which shot mud and water over the top of the Bell No. 1, twenty miles north of Pecos is interfering considerably with efforts to mud-off a stratum of water had just above the gas, and it is necessary to handle this water before drilling operations below 1,830 feet can be resumed.

The gas flow, which has been designated as pure petroleum gas, has been coming from the well for some time, and the explosion occurred when mud was being poured into the well. The concentration of the mud allowed the gas to gather strength. Several times the gas has flung mud and water over the casing, but it had never before reached higher than the derrick.

In addition to the Bell gasser a number of very favorable showings have been had on the east side of the Pecos River. Free oil shows consistently on the bit of the River No. 2, which is drilling in permian and rock salt at 1,700 feet twelve miles east of Pecos, while an oil saturated sand and shale which carries some free oil of a brown color is had in the Trans-Pecos 12 miles northeast of Pecos.

Sweet Green Oil. The showing in the latter well is had at less than 1,000 feet. The oil coming from the River No. 1, is a sweet green oil. The discovery of these showings under the red beds and salt rock formation and the comparison of these logs with those of the numerous deep tests drilled in eastern Pecos county, show that they are very similar below the red beds and salt, while the logs of these latter deep tests show that small amounts of oil was secured under these formations.

Due to exposed structural conditions in the Ward County wells referred to above, the general belief is that a larger concentration of oil will be found under these formations. Casing has reached Levison for the test of the Weoh Petroleum Company at the intersection of Reeves, Culberson and Jeff Davis counties. This hole is down 550 feet. The Owens No. 2, to the north of this location is now drilling at well below 1,400 feet in a dark line formation. After two unsuccessful fishing jobs on the Owens No. 1 in that neighborhood, a decision has been reached to again skid over the rig and start a new hole. One hole was pushed to a depth of 750 feet with a showing of oil while another has made a depth of 575 feet.

DUTY ON IMPORTS INTO CHINA PUT UP TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Ratification by the senate of the treaty with China authorizing imposition of ad valorem duties on imports into China which will yield five per cent was recommended today by the senate foreign relations committee.

The committee also approved recommendations of the president and the secretary of the treasury for withdrawal of this nation from the international sanitary convention of 1903.

CUBANS COMPLAINING OF RENT PROFITEERS

HAVANA, Cuba, May 28.—Bitter complaints are being made here against rent profiteering. Attacks are made almost daily in the newspapers on profiteering landlords. Numerous cases of three-room apartments for which $150 a month is demanded, with one month's rent in advance and two months' rent as deposit, are cited.

One relief project being considered for submission to the city council provides for the appropriation of $1,000,000 yearly for a number of years to construct four-room homes for the poorer people at a cost of about $3,000 each.

By selling these homes on a partial payment plan, it is declared that the proceeds, turned into the construction of more homes, would soon solve the housing problem, and, incidentally, eliminate the rent profiteer.

Fordson

Power Farming With the Fordson

The Fordson Tractor is taking care of every power job; it is taking the drudgery out of farm work and solving the labor problem. Power farming with the Fordson reduces the cost of preparing land to almost one-half what it would be with horses, and saves a third to a half of the farmer's time. What machinery does for the factory, the Fordson Tractor is accomplishing on the farm—it is increasing production at lower costs and making farm life attractive.

Apply this power farming idea in your threshing. More and more farmers are making themselves independent of unfavorable conditions by using the Fordson tractor linked up with a light threshing machine. By seizing the right moment and being able to do the job without waiting and in quick time, crop losses are avoided and profits increased.

The Fordson operates with kerosene. When used on belt work, running at full power at 1,000 R. P. M., the fuel consumption does not exceed 2 1/2 gallons per hour. It will run the electric light plant, operate the milking machines and straw baler—will take care of every kind of belt work.

The Fordson plows 6 to 8 acres in a 10-hour day handling two plows with ease in the average soil. It requires an average of only 1 1/2 to 2 gallons of kerosene to the acre.

It is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways such as road work, hauling grain to the elevator, pumping water and moving granaries.
