

Martial Law Declared In W. Virginia

HARDING WILL TELL BUSINESS WHATS A MATTER

President Impatient at Failure of Retail Prices to Come Down.

United Press Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Harding prepared some outspoken advice to the business world today which will be delivered in a speech in New York city Monday.

The rough draft of this address, which the president is understood to be working on today indicates that he is growing somewhat impatient with the failure of retail prices to go down toward a pre-war level.

President Harding is trying to stop the habit of bringing all labor disputes and economic troubles to the White House, and in his speech he will make a plea for cooperation between employers and employees.

WAR CREATED GREAT NEED FOR MINISTERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 20.—The great war played havoc with religious vocations, and there is a great need for ministers, according to the report of the executive committee on the Christian Education and Ministerial Relief, to be presented to the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern), here.

Touching on Christian education, the report asserts that purely secular education is impossible, adding that religion "alone has the real solution for the deep mysteries and perplexing problems of life."

"The great war," says the report, "has affected very seriously the ministerial forces of the church."

Only forty-one candidates for the ministry will be graduated from all of our theological seminaries in May. This will leave fifty-three in the second year and forty-nine in the first year class of the seminaries.

MERCHANTS OF RANGER ALTER THEIR BY-LAWS

Hereafter Seven Men Will Compose Board of Directors and Manage Body.

The by-laws of the local organization of the Retail Merchants' association were changed last night to vest the management of the association in seven directors. From those seven men a president, vice president and treasurer will be chosen by the votes of the membership. This election will be held at the annual dinner of the retail merchants to be held next Thursday night at the expense of the organization. M. O. Burt, secretary, was present at the meeting and recounted many changes that had been advocated at the state meeting of the Retail Merchants which has just been concluded at Brownwood.

At the state meeting resolutions were adopted whereby local organizations over the state are asked to indorse a standard form for those applying for credit; asking that members of local bodies not do any advertising except through standard newspapers and pictures without the consent of an advertising committee to be appointed from local memberships.

Law Explained.
George Mendall, attorney for the state organization explained the working of the co-partnership law whereby all partners in an unincorporated concern must file their names with the county clerk. This law becomes effective June 12. Mr. Mendall also explained why the present law is not adequate to prosecute givers of worthless checks and at the next session of the legislature the association will attempt to have an amendment passed that will cure this defect. Under present conditions persons who accept worthless checks must show that there was an intent to defraud on the part of the givers before the giver can be prosecuted. The association hopes to have an amendment passed whereby prima facie evidence of fraud will be established where a giver of a bad check has been notified that it is worthless and has not replaced the amount within ten days after notification.

Credit Form.
The form to be adopted as a basis for retail credit will call for certain given information before the credit is advanced and will be adopted by every association within the state if the resolution of the state meeting is followed.

The standard newspaper through which merchants are to advertise is thought to mean any paper under control of the government postal rates.

The co-partnership law as explained by Mr. Burt, means that when a partnership is formed or in those now existing each person's name and his interest in the business must be filed with the county clerk. It also sets out that in case a member of such a firm sells his interest the burden is on him of filing this information with the clerk or he will be liable for suit at any time until the information has been filed.

To Aid Efficiency.
The Brownwood meeting suggested that merchants of local associations have meetings wherein courtesy and salesmanship will be studied. By this means it is thought that these two items so necessary to retail merchandising may be increased to a much higher efficiency.

The meeting was addressed by Earl Mayfield, railroad commissioner, and Mr. Walsh a banker of San Angelo. The commissioner spoke along the lines of the government taking cited the fact that if it could take railroad control from the state. He away one state right it could take all. The meeting next year will be held in Fort Worth.

DISARM!

The United States was expected today to take the first step towards naval disarmament.

A vote was scheduled on Senator Borah's proposal empowering President Harding to invite Great Britain and Japan to confer with this government on a 5-year program of naval building reductions.

Indications were that the senate would adopt the measure and that favorable action would later be taken by the house.

Well informed observers believed that Japan would welcome a "naval holiday" providing it were initiated by either the United States or Great Britain.

A similar attitude by Great Britain was reported in United Press dispatches from London.

Irate southern senators temporarily blocked the senate vote on the Borah disarmament amendment to the naval bill, as well as other provisions scheduled to be disposed of today.

Led by Senator Smith, South Carolina, they began what threatened to amount to a little filibuster against the bill unless the senate included in it a provision for construction of a dry dock at Charleston, S. C.

SINN FEIN IN ATTACK FROM AMBUSH SLAIN

By Associated Press.
GALWAY, Ireland, May 20.—Sixty armed men ambushed the district inspector of the constabulary and twenty policemen under him at Westport today. One constable was killed, one wounded, four of the ambushing party killed and six wounded. The police attacked the ambushers' entrenched position and carried it. Men defending the position were routed and fled across the country pursued by government forces. Arms, ammunition and bombs were captured from the defeated party.

MAN CHARGED WITH TIRE THEFTS RETURNS

G. B. Hinkle, under charge of theft in connection with the loss of many automobile tires from the warehouse of the Oilbelt Motor company, was returned to Ranger yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Edmondson. He was arrested in Lawton, Okla., several days ago.

The tires are said to have been taken from cars stored in the warehouse of the motor firm.

CHILDREN'S SHOW AT LIBERTY SATURDAY

Bill and Bob "Catching the Bobcat" and an Edgar comedy, "Edgar's Little Saw," will compose the bill for a special children's show Saturday morning at the Liberty theater. There will be shows at 9 and 10:30 a. m.

The children's matinee is given under the auspices of the Central School Parent-Teachers' association.

BOLSHEVISTS ISSUE APPEAL FOR REFUGEES TO RETURN

REVAL, Estonia, May 20.—Appeals to Russian refugees abroad to return to assist the Bolshevists in reconstruction work have recently occupied considerable space in the Moscow and Petrograd newspapers.

M. Litvinoff, Bolshevist envoy to Estonia, was recently asked what would happen to these refugees upon their return, and the circumstances of their admission. The printed appeals inferred they would be welcomed with open arms.

Clock watchers are not exactly "minute men."

ODESSA LIKE MADHOUSE, SO WOMAN THINKS

By Associated Press.
CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20.—Mrs. Anna Keiser, of Philadelphia, who recently arrived here after having been allowed to leave Odessa as a British subject, says that in leaving that city she felt as if she were escaping from a madhouse. Odessa now is ruled by the Bolsheviki. Mrs. Keiser is the widow of Eli Keiser, formerly of Philadelphia who died in Odessa and she is the daughter of Mrs. B. Wilber of 1355 North Irving Avenue, Chicago, to whose home she hopes to return.

"I want to spend the rest of my time until Bolshevism falls telling what terrible people they are," she said. "It is a crime in Soviet Russia to criticize. If any of us complained of being hungry we were taken before brutal and illiterate officers who are trying to do away with intelligent people and were then thrown into prison to die of typhus and hunger."

"I got along partly because I wasn't afraid. After my husband died I didn't much care what happened to me. I lived by giving lessons in English. Once, when women without working papers, mostly widows and daughters of well-to-do families were being gathered together and sent to the farms and garrisons to clean up for the soldiers, the guards tried to take me. I said, 'you can shoot me right now, but go I won't.' So they let me pass."

"I had to leave as a British subject because I was always told that the Americans had not been asked for as was the case of the English, Italians or French."

Describing the marriage laws of Soviet Russia, Mrs. Keiser said: "Officials ask, 'for how long do you wish to be married—one month, two months?' A couple can even be married for a day and get a divorce on the minute by appearing together and asking for it."

Mrs. Keiser said that Henry Potter, an American who used to be employed in the American Consulate as a courier or servant and who was left there to take care of the effects of the consulate, was executed in Odessa last June because papers addressed to the American State Department and complaining of the soviet system were found in his possession. "He had a list of papers, files and furniture missing from the American Consulates at Petrograd and Odessa," said Mrs. Keiser. "He tried to help me escape."

'WORK AND EAT' ORDER CLEANS UP FT. WORTH

Street Corners in Once Populous "Mexican Town" Deserted by Idlers.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, May 19.—Street corners in Fort Worth's "Mexican Town," once loafing places for the idle, are practically deserted, except for passing pedestrians. Where several weeks ago numerous groups of hungry, ragged Mexicans gathered daily, seeking some way to obtain food, few men from the southern republic are now seen.

The cause for this change is the city's new "work and eat" order, adopted as a means of providing for the destitute Mexican families here. Nearly 700 Mexicans have been employed by the city to clean up the parks and work on other municipal projects the men being paid in food and clothing.

Idle Mexicans will be arrested, according to Harry Hamilton, chief of police, and given their choice of working for the city or working in the county road gang. Few idle Mexicans, however, have been found since the new order became effective, as the offer of food in return for labor apparently appealed to them.

For months most of the city's Mexican population, numbering several thousand, has been destitute. Unemployment took away their bread and from day to day, the men went about the city, attempting to obtain enough money to provide until the next day. But requests for work were unanswered. There were no jobs for the members of the groups that congregated daily on the street corners of "Mexican Town."

Welfare workers found deplorable conditions in the Mexican settlements here. Two and three families occupied one room, for which they paid a weekly rental of several dollars to a member of their own race. Mothers were sick and their babies lacked sustenance.

Attempts were made by charitable organizations and individuals to provide the destitute Mexicans with food and medical aid. Leaves of bread, meat and other articles of food were distributed. Subscriptions were taken up, a benefit baseball game was played and the city appropriated a sum to be used in caring for the starving population.

The demands for help, however, outgrew the ability to aid and the American Red Cross was called upon for assistance. That organization declined to aid in the work, however, because, officials said, the condition was a local one and was economic, not social.

Arrangements have been made with the Mexican government for the deportation of many of the destitute people who desire to return to their native country. One train load already has departed for the border and another is expected to leave shortly.

A local committee, composed of representatives of charitable and civic organizations and city officials, was organized. Possible solution of the problem lay in public work, the committee decided at a meeting. The members suggested that the Mexicans be employed to clean up the city's parks and the grounds around Lake Worth, a municipal pleasure spot, and on the roads near there. The plan was adopted by the city and by the end of the first week the number of Mexicans employed under the "work and eat" plan grew from 200 to nearly 700.

"AMPHIBIOUS BOAT" SUCCESS ON THE CONGO

BRUSSELS, May 19.—An "amphibious boat," which is intended to obviate difficulties in Congo navigation entailed by the rapids underwent a very successful trial here recently in the presence of the King of the Belgians.

The boat consists of two boats joined together by shafts. When rapids are reached the craft will hitch onto an overhead rail above them and will "shoot" the rapids suspended in the air, afterward taking the water again and proceeding as usual.

Because "riches have wings" may explain why gilded youths "fly high."

TWO CARS OF HAMON PASSENGER TRAIN GO INTO THE DITCH

The early morning train on the Hamon road climbed a switch just after it left the station this morning and two passenger cars went into the ditch. The cars remained upright and no one was hurt. The rear trucks of the first passenger car completely left the tracks and buried themselves in the dirt. The following trucks also buried themselves in the dirt and the car skidded along them for almost its length. The coaches were left standing almost at right angles to each other. The Pullman remained on the track. A second train was made up and after transferring the passengers, picked up the baggage cars and went on to Breckenridge.

The wrecked train was in charge of Engineer Cox and Conductor Davis. Ed Cooper was firing.

It is said the train was only traveling about ten miles an hour which accounted for the wreck being no worse. Several freight wrecks have occurred at the same point, it is said.

RUSSIANS WHO LEAVE AMERICA ARE GLAD TO ESCAPE BOLSHEVIKI

By Associated Press.

LIBAU, Esthonia, May 19.—Russians who leave America either as deportees or willingly in hope of finding a new land of promise in Soviet Russia, receive their first hard jolt on being turned over to the Bolshevik mission which greets them here and arranges their transportation to Moscow.

Many of them who have signed a statement in America that they desire to go to Russia as American consular and Red Cross officials here after they have had a few experiences with the Bolsheviks, and ask that they may go back to the United States.

The Bolshevik personnel here consists of about fifteen persons. As soon as the boat arrives with Russia-bound passengers aboard, agents of the Bolshevik consulate board it and questions all Russians aboard. Every effort is made to prevent anarchists from landing. Those who are permitted to board the train for Moscow are generally told that they should give up all their extra money and extra clothing to help the Bolshevik cause.

Some of the enthusiastic ones do this, and, in return, they are given coupons entitling them to meals in Russia for periods of time commensurate with the amounts they have given.

If they refuse to give up their money, the Bolshevik consulate "changes" their foreign currency for them at an official rate, giving them Russian rubles which they find generally have no purchasing power.

FORTUNE WON IN LOTTERY PROVES UNLUCKY FOR HER

PARIS, May 20.—Sudden wealth won in a lottery has brought sorrow for Mme. Hofer, a woman employed as a servant in a bar, who in 1905 drew the winning ticket, worth $160,000, in the French Press lottery.

She became for a time a character of national note, bought a house and a carriage, employed ten servants and lent money right and left to friends and other applicants. In six months she had only $32,000 of her fortune. This she has lost in speculation, in connection with which she has brought an action against her lawyers.

MEMORY LOST ON TRIP OVER ROCKY MOUNTAINS

IN WEST VIRGINIA.
It may be important to know how to bound West Virginia. Mr. Edison thinks so, since he has included that question in his examination paper which flunked so many college graduates. But it is a good deal more important to know what has been happening in West Virginia, and why.

Just at present a bushwhacking battle is in progress, along a 15-mile front, in which some 200 men are engaged. The casualties are four dead and two wounded. The figures are negligible, viewed through the memory of reports that roared and splashed across the papers a few years ago, but as occurring in an American state in times of profound peace they are disquieting.

Moreover, the present battle is not a sporadic outbreak of lawlessness, it is a continuation of the warfare, not figurative, but literal, that has been waged in West Virginia for years between the hired troops of the coal companies and the miners, with the forces of law and order divided in sympathy and unable or disinclined to suppress the violence.

How much longer this condition of anarchy is to exist may not be an answerable question, but why it has been tolerated as long as it has been ought to be answerable. The question however, should not be submitted to college graduates looking for a job; it should be referred to the Government at Washington. More especially, it should be directed to those eloquent Senators who periodically regale themselves and the country with passionate declarations of fidelity to the Constitution. If that covenant can travel all our ships at sea in behalf of total abstinence, if it can follow the flag to the far Philippines in the interest of trade, why does it shrink from crossing the boundaries of West Virginia to uphold itself?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

She got into the local subway at Seventy-second street—a short dumpy little woman with a worried frown on what seemed to be a naturally comely face. With hands folded tightly together in her lap she sat on the edge of her seat, opening and shutting her mouth with little nervous cluckings that bespoke her perturbation. At Fifty-ninth street she started to her feet, and turning to the man next her asked excitedly, "Is this the Pennsylvania station?"

The man assured her it was not, and the old lady sat down again, but still gingerly, on the edge of the seat. At the next stop she was up again.

"Is this the Pennsylvania station?" she said, more excited than before. The woman, sitting on her left, sought to console her. "No you have two more stops before we get there. I'll tell you when the time comes."

The old lady nodded, but she was evidently still far from at ease. At Fifty-fifth street she kept herself in her place by an extreme effort, and at Times Square she broke loose again. "Isn't this the Pennsylvania station?" Her voice was insistent.

"Next stop," soothed the woman, and drew her gently back to her seat as the car started forward.

When a few seconds later the train pulled into Thirty-fourth street all eyes turned toward the old lady.

"Here you are!" said the woman triumphantly. "To her complete amazement, the old lady settled comfortably back in her seat and an expression of content came over the kindly old face."

"Thank you so much. You see, I'd never seen the new station, and I was so afraid I'd pass it without knowing!"

And when the woman got off at Sheridan Square the old lady was still nodding her head with the satisfied air of one who has realized a dream long cherished.

Logic is Logic.
Teacher is a fluffy, yellow-haired little person whose coiffure spreads impartially over her entire head. Both dainty ears are securely protected by large and ingeniously arranged "buns," which always recall to the Suburban Lady pictures in her old geography of the ladies of the Malay Peninsula, where most of the toilet consists of elaborate hair dressing.

On a recent morning the Suburban Lady invaded the school where her pet nephew is receiving his early education at the hands of the fluffy little teacher. Now Jimmie, the nephew, is a very kind little boy of serious mien, who is observant and longs to be helpful. Billy, his neighbor, essayed at teacher's behest to read, and his diction proved unpleasing. Sharply Teacher rapped for attention. Severely she proclaimed her inability to hear Billy's words.

Then very gravely Jimmie rose, and to the consternation of Teacher and to the amusement of various adult visitors, said pleasantly, "Teacher, I think you could hear Billy if you'd take your hair off your ears!"

Boomerangs.
"Come to dinner with me and we'll go to the movies or something," said the woman to one of her congenial associates at the end of a day of rush and confusion.

"Can't. It's mother's birthday. Party tonight." She hesitated a moment and her eyes twinkled. "I gave mother a silk petticoat last week. She didn't like it and gave it to me." A discreet flick disclosed changeable silk flounces. "Then I gave her this pin. See I'm wearing it." She indicated a pretty silver and lapis brooch that had earlier caught the eye. "Did you notice my veil this morning?"

There was an unspoken thought in both minds and the Associate giggled merrily. "There's a certain bag I want—I think I'll give her that! I'm going to get it now. Goodby." She flew, leaving the woman speculating about "Mother." Was she over-generous or over-particular?

JERRY HAS HIS SAY.

"Jerry, Jerry, Jerry," cried the King, "you are just the fellow I'm looking for. Why didn't I think of you before? Come here till we have a talk about it all. You see this ferry is a wonderful thing to have for the Forest dwellers and we must improve it still more. They will need some one to carry messages. And they will need someone who will cry out when they see something going wrong like when you saw Billy Mink trying to frighten Three Legs, the Muskrat, into giving him a better job."

"O King, I will be delighted to take the job as messenger for the ferry company. But Billy Mink doesn't like me because I talk too much; and if he gets a chance he will take every feather off my back, and hang my body up to dry. Do you think, O King, that he will do me any harm?"

"Jerry, haven't you been long enough with me to know that the King of the Forest will protect you from harm on the part of any creature in the Forest, so long as you do the things that are right? Here comes Billy Mink now. I will talk to him about it."

Billy Mink came up out of the water very carefully because he was not sure what the screaming he had heard meant. Tinker Bob watched him till he was very near to the Hollow Stump Station again and then he spoke. "Billy Mink, come over here till I talk with you a little."

This frightened Billy nearly as much as when he heard the screams. But knowing the voice of the King he did not jump into the water this time. "O King," he said, "I am so much afraid that the least voice stales me. You see this baggage business makes me so nervous that I can hardly sleep at all, and when I do sleep I dream so much about someone coming after me that I get no rest at all. I really think that I should have something else to do besides looking after the baggage all the time."

Then it was that Jerry spoke up and told the whole truth about what he heard Billy say to Three Legs, the Muskrat. "Thief, thief, I know all about your trouble. The only thing that matters with you is that you want to run the whole ferry business."

Just then Long Neck, the Turtle, pulled up to the shore, and Three Legs, the Muskrat, came out of the Hollow Stump and announced the first trip across the river.

Who do you suppose wanted to ride this time?

Jasper and the Reporter Won't Go to the Dutchman's Any More; It's Too Painful

Jasper Jones and the reporter wended their fruitless way over to the Dutchman's last night. Fruitless because at the end there was nothing but a pale lifeless beverage that recalled days when going to the Dutchman's meant something. The sandwiches are still good but they do not rat zest into a round-table discussion concerning the best method of overthrowing the republican party or winning the smiles of the queen who presides over the cash register at the "Sign of the Greasy Spoon." These subjects when discussed over the connection which has been foisted upon personal liberty lovers are as tame as the beverage itself. Last night even while Jasper was sipping "hisn" he yawned as he insipidly mentioned the subtle charm of the hash-house queen. In other days a mixture of "Bock" and pale-moonlight would have made Jasper poetical to the last degree.

Time Was—
After about the fifth round he would have waxed eloquent as to her face and figure. Her smile he would have told the reporter was as the morning sun breaking over the rippling waters of an opalescent sea—whatever that is. The reason the reporter knows Jasper would have said that is because there was once a time when going to the Dutchman meant something besides a visit—he has heard him say those things and others.

He once was long on adjectives himself in the Bock beer season. In those days he would pick up a glass of amber fluid and begin a dissertation something like this:

"By what subtle alchemy has nature made a beverage with a color of such sparkling light; a taste so enticing and yet has placed it within reach of the puny purse of even a newspaper reporter?" There was more to it, but that is sufficient. When Jasper goes to the Dutchman's now he usually says "gimme a glass of that delusion that foams and sparkles like beer but kicks like branch water."

Songs of Other Days.
In the old days after about the tenth round there was a winding of arms around manly shoulders and voices that cracked now and then as they were lifted in song. Then the knights of the round table wended their way home, singing to the moon as they went. The reporter remembers one occasion when Jasper was found by a cop with his arm around the bole of a telephone post asking it in his most dignified manner "why don't you ching." The cop being of the human kind placed Jasper's arms around his own shoulders and joined him in singing the pathetic little ballad "Just as the Sun Went Down." Jasper was in a weeping mood brought on because he thought the post was a friend who had deserted him in his time of need.

A Dismal Failure.
Last night the reporter and Jasper drank two rounds of the beverage

EDUCATION IS TAKEN ON 'DEAD RUN'—EDISON

NEW YORK, May 19.—"D—n it, I want college men, but I want 'em to know something! Most of 'em seem to have gone through college on a dead run, and didn't bring anything out with 'em!"

Thus spoke Thomas A. Edison today, denying recent stories that he was opposed to education by the college plan.

The report followed publication of Mr. Edison's questionnaire, the list of questions he submits to every person seeking to enter his employ.

This week there will be a new questionnaire. The electrical wizard was drawing it up today, obtaining ideas from magazines and newspapers.

"There won't be anything intricate about the questions," Mr. Edison said. "They merely will be based upon everyday events."

"What I desire to find out is how much the man who wants to work for me observes. I want a man to know what is going on around him."

Edison chuckled and dived into a great bunch of papers—answers submitted by college graduates.

"What do you think of this?" he asked, and proceeded to read the following questions and answers:
Q—"Where does most of the coffee come from?"
A—"Java."

Q—"What is the capitol of Alabama?"
A—"I don't know."
Q—"What country do most of the textiles come from?"
A—"India."

Q—"Who was John Hancock?"
A—"President of a life insurance company."
Q—"Which river in the United States runs from South to North?"
A—"The St. Lawrence."

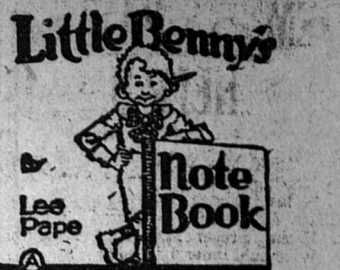

"And that's the way they run, said the wizard, and smiled ruefully. "Seems to me the young men of today don't know how to keep their eyes open."

Today in school I was eating gum drops out of a bag, and had ate 4 without Miss Kitty seeing me and it was getting kind of monotonous eating just one at a time, me thinking, I wonder if I could eat 3 at once without her seeing me.

Which I tried it to see, putting 3 gum drops in my mouth all together, making a pretty big size of a bump on the outside of my face, on account of being extra big gum drops, me thinking, Gosh, if she sees this bump she'll suspect rite away.

Which jest then what did she do but see it, me quick thinking, G, I'll hurry up and take the hole bag up to her and give her the rest of them for a present and she'll think that's wat I brant them for and she'll think she made a mistake about seeing me eating.

And I quick got up and took the bag up to Miss Kittys desk with the 3 gum drops still in my mouth feeling bigger instead of smaller, and I put the bag on Miss Kittys desk saying, Heers a present I brant you, Miss Kitty.

Being a fearse hard thing to say on account of my teeth stinking to the 3 gum drops, and Miss Kitty looked at me fearse as anything, saying, Wats that you're saying?

Which I tried to say it again wishing I was eating 3 easy-things like 3 chocolates instead of 3 gum drops, and Miss Kitty sed, Have you got the mumps?

No mam, I sed wishing I had, and she sed, No, you've got a mouth full of candy, haven't you?

Me jest looking at her pilty without saying anything, and she took the bag and threw it in her waist paper basket saying, Bribery is one of the yerst forms of sins, you will please remain an hour after school is dismissed.

Which I did.

REMEMBER to ask your grocer for Calumet Baking Powder and be sure that you get it—the Indian Head on the orange label.
Then forget about bake day failures. For you will never have any. Calumet always produces the sweetest and most palatable foods.
It never varies in quality—And now remember, you always use less than of most other brands because it possesses greater leavening strength.

Now Remember—Always Use

There is no waste. If a recipe calls for one egg—two cups of flour—half a cup of milk—that's all you use. You never have to re-bake.

Calumet is absolutely sure. In any baking—any time, whether the can has just been opened or whether it is the last spoonful.

Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by U. S. Food Authorities—and is the product of the largest, most modern and sanitary Baking Powder Factories in existence.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

INDEMNITY PAYMENTS WILL HELP U. S., NEW YORK THINKS

NEW YORK, May 20.—As the markets all through the readjustment period have been directed more by considerations of the future than by things of the present, it is natural that they should now be seeking to discount the results of the German reparations agreement rather than the arrangement itself. Germany's consent to pay some $33,000,000,000 is already old news; it is most interesting to estimate what the acceptance means in terms of American cotton, grain and copper.

The uncertainty in outlook in respect to raw materials and foodstuffs may, perhaps, be described completely in recounting that last week, after the agreement was reached, cotton developed more weakness than had been seen in several weeks, while wheat prices advanced with less vigor than they did preceding the decision at Berlin, and copper clung rather closely to the established figure of 13 cents a pound.

It is evident that the reparations are going to mean most to France, Belgium, England and the United States when initial payments are begun. There cannot immediately be a cash realization for the bonds for which Germany is required to give, and, in the meantime, the shadow, instead of the substance, of actual reimbursement for war expense and damage, must suffice. When the time arrives for converting these bonds into money or loans, then, and probably not until then, will the concrete value of the reparations decision be discernible.

Home Problems Uppermost.

The financial and business signs point toward a turn of thought in this country to domestic problems soon, leaving the reparations as something to be taken up later. What of the railroads and industrial conditions in which evidence of unsatisfactory results have again appeared in reduced or eliminated dividends? The last week in the stock market was noteworthy for what seemed to be a reversion of sentiment to the pessimistic condition of last February. Industrial shares fell with considerable comment to the effect that the rise of April had been built on a false bottom. With the railroad issues the movement of the week, while less pronounced than with the producing company stocks, was downward. The market process was in the way of unweeks or more.

But the question may be raised whether one looking for a sign board toward future occurrences did better in examining the foreign exchanges than the stock market. Exchange quotations undoubtedly were directed forward by the reparation agreement itself and also by expectation of better trade to grow later out of the reparations. The foreign exchanges seemingly discounted the future in the rise of sterling to $4 to the pound while stocks were concerned with international effects of the recent speculative advance.

Cotton and grain probably were retarded by the sheer weight of supplies, present and prospective, but the exchanges acted as though freed of shackles which had been holding the rates back for practically a full year. The virility of European rates suggested that under the known conditions of trade, which showed a theoretical debit balance of more than $8,000,000 for the United States on merchandise and gold movements in April the exchanges were paving the way for an increase of foreign purchases in this country. As exchange rises foreign currencies will buy more and more in our markets. While the advance of exchange has unquestionably been partly the result of a declining merchandise flow from our shores, the upturn makes easier purchases here later on.

Signs of Encouragement.

There is, perhaps, as much, if not more, encouragement for business in the rise of exchange than in reports of dullness in steel, the automobile trade and elsewhere. In time the recipients of reparation bonds will be able to establish through them credits abroad, but before this time arrives it is more than possible that other forces working in the international money market will have done much toward the reestablishment of foreign purchases in the United States and other countries.

A little light is coming out of the railroad darkness. During March they earned 38 per cent of the net operating revenue calculated as necessary to make the prescribed return upon their investment. That is poor enough, to be sure, but a great deal better than the deficits of January and February. In March the higher freight rates were sufficiently able to overcome a fall of traffic to return a gross revenue almost the same as in March of last year. And operating expenses were nearly 5 per cent lower than in March, 1920, which meant that instead of 35 cents of every earned dollar being paid out in costs the outlay was 87 cents of every dollar taken in.

The railroads are meeting with some success in controlling their expense accounts. This is partly due to the reduction by 300,000 of working forces since last September, and if there may be shortly a reduction of basic wages the outlook for economical operation will be better in a few weeks. Cutting expense will not, of course, solve the problem of profits and dividends, but if the movement of the foreign exchanges and the relaxation of lending rates for money, and credit mean anything it is the probability of a traffic improvement later in the year.

DALLAS SKYSCRAPER TALLEST IN SO'WEST

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, May 20.—Dallas will have probably the highest office building in the southwest in 1922, when the new structure of the Magnolia Petroleum company is completed, according to the builders.

The building, which will be twenty-nine stories high, is of steel construction, with walls of white rock and marble and floors of concrete reinforced with steel. Some of the steel joints weigh 17 tons.

The building will have two basements. It will be 400 feet above the street, 100 feet underground and 115 feet wide, with a 15 foot three story offset. The entrances will be on three streets. A spacious tunnel will connect the new structure with a large hotel across the street.

Alfred C. Bossom, the architect, declared that the new building is "the largest under construction in the world today." Work was started on it in December, 1919.

WHEAT RAISING COST SOUGHT BY FARMERS

By Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., May 20.—How much does it cost to produce a bushel of spring wheat? Nearly 300 farmers throughout North Dakota have taken to keeping books to answer this question.

"The farmer should know what his products cost him and should make his prices accordingly," says H. B. Fuller, secretary of the North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation. "Then there would be fewer farmers who fail."

With costs determined and with the national sales agency established, prices fair to both producer and consumer can be put into practice he believes.

The present campaign to establish wheat production costs is being directed by the federation and by the state agricultural college. In each of the 32 counties in North Dakota which have county farm agents, from 5 to 10 (and in some cases more) farmers are noting the cost of all labor and material and all overhead expense of producing wheat. These figures will be turned over to the agents and assembled at the college here.

Mr. Fuller emphasizes the importance of correctly estimating overhead expense.

"A horse, for example, must be fed all winter to have him on hand during the seeding and harvest time," he explained. "If you want to hire a team at that time of the year you cannot do it. Yet many farmers figure the cost of their teams on the basis of team hire during the dull season."

"Well," inquired Plute Pete, "what're you going to do about it?"

There would be fewer farmers who fail."

With costs determined and with the national sales agency established, prices fair to both producer and consumer can be put into practice he believes.

The present campaign to establish wheat production costs is being directed by the federation and by the state agricultural college. In each of the 32 counties in North Dakota which have county farm agents, from 5 to 10 (and in some cases more) farmers are noting the cost of all labor and material and all overhead expense of producing wheat. These figures will be turned over to the agents and assembled at the college here.

Mr. Fuller emphasizes the importance of correctly estimating overhead expense.

"A horse, for example, must be fed all winter to have him on hand during the seeding and harvest time," he explained. "If you want to hire a team at that time of the year you cannot do it. Yet many farmers figure the cost of their teams on the basis of team hire during the dull season."

"I see you with my own eyes," said Three-Finger Sam. "You were dealin' off the bottom of the deck."

"Well," inquired Plute Pete, "what're you going to do about it?"

"I'm undecided whether to denounce you to the Crimson Gulch public or change the game to bridge and choose you for a partner."—Washington Star.

Mineral Wells Franchise Goes to Ballinger

NITRO RALLY FALLS ONE HIT SHORT; EAGLES TAKE BATFEST

Spotted to Six-Run Lead, Eagles Get Scare in Final Round.

The Nitros lost another yesterday. Ball game? No, batting practice. It counts for a game though. The final score was 13 to 11. However, the Nitros went down fighting, and a last-inning punch that came within an ace of doing the impossible set a pleasant taste in the mouth of those who stayed through to the finish.

A bunting attack that the Nitros failed to handle, followed by Kizziar's clean single after the bases were loaded and that backed up by Etheridge's drive over the right field wall, gave the Eagles a six-run edge in the first round, and they maintained it somewhat around that number until the ninth, though sometimes the lead went as high as eight and again it dropped as low as three.

The Nitros' persistent attack and the wildness of Hollis gave indication that miracles might still happen and the Nitros pull out on top. But every time the gang pounded over a few more tallies and got within reaching distance, the Eagles put over a few themselves.

Almost a Rally.

Those who kept the light of hope trimmed and burning were rewarded at the end. For after Milam had lifted one over the fence in the seventh, Red Hill stopped the attackers, and in the last chance round, Gomez Hill, who relieved Hollis, had his usual batting. Ten men faced him. Four hit, with two walks sandwiched in between the safeties. That put over four runs, one at a time, and as each tally sifted across, the situation grew tighter. It reached its climax when Singleton came to bat after Hill had failed to toss Lovelace out on an easy chance. Three were on, but the Nitros failed to get any more than two runs behind. Johnny had already belted three to the outer gardens.

Could he make it four? He couldn't. He liked the first one and the ball sailed out and up, but it was just a medium sized fly which Hartwick gathered in. Lost again.

But the Nitros didn't look so bad at that. Especially on the attack, they showed fine. For their hits were numerous and timely and most of them spanked with strength and precision. They should have won. They would have won hands down if the infield had been in shape, even though the Eagles were timely rappers themselves. For the six runs in the first, largely because of the infield performers wouldn't trust each other. They either tried to handle the other fellow's job or failed to hold their own because they couldn't figure the other fellow's actions. After that the combination worked better, but the damage was done.

With Pete Cawthon on the job today, the inner byastworks should be working fine and dandy again and it's the Nitros' day to win.

HILL HOLDS SWEETWATER TO FOUR HITS

SWEETWATER, May 20.—The San Angelo Brones capped the first of a rather important three game series here Thursday by a 10 to 3 score. Hill pitched invincible ball, allowing the locals four widely scattered hits. No two hits came in the same inning and Hill, backed by excellent support, was never in trouble. Both Richburg and Word were hit hard and consistently and the Brones outplayed the Swatters at every angle.

Brown led the attack with two singles and a triple in four attempts. Charlie Johnston, recently released by Mineral Wells made his initial appearance here as an umpire and performed well.

Nitro Notes

Pete Cawthon is here. That means, if Pete is anywhere near up to his reputation, that shortstop will be plugged this afternoon. Lovey, who has been filling in at that post, will go back to the outer gardens, after being a willing performer at a strange position. And there's quite a difference in taking 'em off the ground and dragging 'em out of the air. At that, Lovey hasn't done so badly. He has made errors, costly errors, at times, but he has played a strong, aggressive game and the worst thing that can be said of his work there is that his teammates failed to figure how he was going to play. He left third uncovered once yesterday, which cost something, but he evened up by making a nice stop and heading off a runner, only Tolar dropped the ball. They just didn't know what he was going to do. Today, if the infielders will hold their jobs down and figure that Pete will hold his, the Nitros are due to win.

Two two-baggers in a row without a run is something unusual, but that is what Abilene got in the fifth yesterday. After Kizziar had rapped one down the left foul line, Etheridge lifted a fly to right center, close to the wall. Lefty eased back to the fence, and waited. Seemed like half an hour. Would he catch it, or was it over, was the question. Neither. It hit the fence high up, and Kizziar could only make third. Both scored later, for Milam and Comstock followed with safeties.

Lefty Adkins had another big day with the stick, slapping the apple three times. He drove in three of the Nitros runs and counted two himself. His daily homer was in the number.

Joe Lewis is sitting on the Eagle bench with a badly split hand and a broken finger. A foul tore his hand open between the thumb and forefinger and when he broke in a few days later the third finger of his throwing hand stopped another cracking. Joe says he will be back in as soon as the soreness leaves. There are several other cripples and semi-cripples on the Eagle squad.

Frank Keck was in uniform yesterday, but he is still a mere spectator. He expects to get in a game or so before the Nitros hit the road.

That right field fence is costing the Nitros dollars several times a day. Three homes and one foul went over it yesterday. And they never come back. They say the kids over in that section have so many balls they use them for marbles.

SCOUTS SCORE SHUTOUT; WIN SNAPPY GAME

CISCO, May 20.—The Scouts took a fast and snappy game from the Resorters in their final appearance in a Mineral Wells uniform. It was the best game Cisco has seen this year and was witnessed by the largest crowd. President Walter Morris and directors of all the West Texas clubs saw the contest.

Anderson held the Resorters to six hits and was given fast support, while Thompson, though hit hard, turned back the Scouts several times. Earnshaw led the Scout attack with four hits out of four times up. One of his raps was a homer and another went for three bases.

PRICE $3,000, 'LOCK, STOCK AND BARREL'

New Entry Comes in With "Low Man" Standing; Here Sunday.

Ballinger today succeeds Mineral Wells as a member of the West Texas league, as a result of the decision of a meeting of the league held Thursday night in Cisco. The sale price was set at $3,000, "lock, stock and barrel," which means all assets of the club except the park.

This decision was reached after several hours of argument, during which the Mineral Wells men held out for $5,000 and the Ballinger representatives said $3,000 was their limit and they "wouldn't flip a coin for a nickle more." The Resorters bosses finally agreed.

Then another fuss arose when Mineral Wells discovered the sale price included the clubs' deposit with the league, which was originally $1,000 and is now something less. The league was firm, however, and gave positive instructions that the sale was to be completed today.

Ballinger will come in as "low man" with a standing equal to Cisco's. Their original demand was a $500 average, but they were convinced that that wasn't hardly right.

Willard Wooden, who played with the Fort Smith team in the Western association several years ago, will pilot the Ballinger entry. He is now manager of Ballinger's fast semi-pro organization and will make up the Ballinger entry from the two teams. He figures about six men of the Ballinger nine are good enough to stay in the circuit.

Leroy Nicholson, C. S. Guin and Robert Lusk represented Ballinger at the meeting.

The western end of the circuit will be in fine shape with Ballinger in club owners out that way believe. There will be no Sunday ball, but with four towns spotted in about forty miles of each other, they expect fine week-day crowds. There are good roads and there is a heira when the teams play at nearby towns. One hundred and sixty Sweetwater fans were at Abilene Wednesday, it is reported. The clubs out that way plan to cut hotel bills by going over in autos and coming home after each game. A week-day crowd of 800 is nothing unusual at San Angelo Sweetwater and Abilene.

John L. Kelley, the Elk's secretary, is the new business manager of the Cisco team. It has been decided to retain the present park, but discontinuing Sunday games. Free transportation will be provided to the ball park and business men have subscribed to a monthly fund for the maintenance of the club. It also is felt that attendance will pick up. Flager, the Scout shortstop, will succeed Josh Billings as manager, it is announced.

'CAP' LEIDY HERE ON IVORY HUNT; LOOKS AT LEFTY

George (Cap) Leidy, scouting for Ty Cobb's Tigers, was in Ranger Wednesday and Thursday, seeing what he could see. What he saw he did not say, but it could be noticed that he missed not a motion that Lefty Adkins made yesterday. Lefty's husky sticking must have pleased the veteran ball tosser.

Leidy is well known to old fans of the Texas circuit. He managed the San Antonio Brones back in 1908 and 1909 and in 1908 copped the only pennant that San Antonio has ever landed. He also handled the Beaumont club in 1914 and knows Sled Allen well. He sat on the bench before the game Wednesday and told many tales of his experiences, and just to show that all good teams have their downs, recalled to Sled's mind how he took a bunch of cripples and misfits over to Houston and trimmed the Buffaloes three straight when that team was making a runaway race and was a 15 to 1 shot on every game.

Leidy also managed the Augusta team of the Sally league, and Ty Cobb broke into baseball under him. He has scouted for the New York Yankees, but Cobb's friendship won him over to the Tigers.

EL PASO CAMPAIGN FOR AMERICAN LEGION HOME IS STARTED

By Associated Press

EL PASO, Texas, May 19.—A campaign for $80,000 is on in El Paso for an American Legion home. A site three blocks from the heart of the city, on which is situated a large two-story stone residence, has been contracted for as the site for the home. It will be remodeled, enlarged and will be equipped with a gymnasium and a swimming pool.

The city already has assigned a man to take care of the proposed site, to keep the lawn mowed and the flowers watered and the place generally cared for, without charge to the legion post.

SUES CAFE FOR $5,300 FOR GLASS IN SANDWICH

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—There was more than chicken in the sandwich John Miles Donahue bought at a restaurant in January, according to his damage suit.

There was a piece of glass an inch long which the hungry Donahue bit lustily. He fractured a jawbone and loosened two teeth. The suit against the catering company asks $5,300 damages.

VERBIAGE OF MURDER CHARGE PUZZLES HIM

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—William Klomp, arraigned in the circuit court at Edwardsville, listened attentively while an indictment was read to him. He looked more and more puzzled as its legal verbiage strung along.

"Wait a minute, I don't get that," said Klomp. "It's too strong for me." "I'll just tell you, then," said Judge Gilham. "It says you are charged with murder." Klomp pleaded not guilty.

DESTRUCTION OF EUROPEAN MARKETS FELT

Held to Be Responsible for Destruction of South's Cotton Market.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 20.—The destruction of European markets is responsible for the present difficulty in marketing the cotton crop of the south, according to Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, who addressed the students of the University of Texas recently.

"The industrial revolution brought about economic problems which had never been settled in the halcyon days before August 1914," Sir Auckland said. "The introduction of machinery caused the marriage and birth rates to go up rapidly and the increase of population in Europe could not entirely be offset by immigration. Great masses of the population of Europe depended upon foreign trade and the present economic troubles of Europe are the result of the collapse of foreign markets. Half of the buying power of those markets was destroyed by the war."

"There are great masses of the population of Europe whose means of sustenance has been removed by the economic changes brought about by the war. Numberless masses of these people will flow out of the less crowded lands of the earth. They will build up a new intelligentsia wherever they go; because they come from an atmosphere of unrest. The disposal of these swarms of people and the settlement of Europe's problems is of the greatest importance to the rest of the world. Isolation is impossible. No nation can successfully insulate itself by artificial barriers from the economic problems of the rest of the world. You, here in America, will be profoundly affected by the intellectual unrest of Europe, as well as the economic unrest."

"You university men and women are going to find that the economic difficulties which beset the world today will haunt your footsteps until they are solved. Try to get a true picture of the inter-dependence of nations and, in so far as you can, a knowledge of the social problems which will perplex the thinkers of your day."

LOS COMWANEROS, NEW SOCIAL CLUB, ELECTS OFFICERS

Los Comwaneros, Ranger's new social club which gave a very successful dance Wednesday night at the Summer garden, effected permanent organization at a meeting held at the Elk's club. Officers were elected as follows:

Guy Wetzel, president; W. B. Collins, vice president; Aubrey Jameson, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Logsdon, A. H. Kihard and John Pulks were named as a committee to prepare a constitution and by-laws for the club.

PITTSBURG, May 19.—City planners should be able to forecast at least twenty-five years ahead to provide for changes the airplane will make in commerce.

So John Ihlder, manager of the civic development department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said before the thirtieth national conference on city planning.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, May 19.—Congress has ratified the agreement by which Costa Rica becomes a member of the Central American Union.

MRS. KELLEY TAKES ADVICE OF HER PASTOR

"I had long thought that no medicine could do me any good; but Tanlae has done for me in just a little while what I had tried for years to get other medicines to do and my enthusiasm for it is unbounded," was the statement made recently by Mrs. G. M. Kelley, wife of G. M. Kelley, well-known employee of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., residing at 420 Highland street, Covington, Va.

"My stomach pained and worried me all the time for four years and everything I ate gave me awful cramps. At times I couldn't retain a bite of food, and even a crust of dry bread would nearly throw me into spasms and I had such gagging spells I was afraid I would burst a blood vessel. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep, and my forehead, neck and back hurt awfully. Sometimes I couldn't straighten my neck, and my back was drawn so at times I couldn't stand up straight. Finally I got so bad off I just had to quit doing any of my housework and spent most of my time lying down."

"Well, after everything that seemed possible was done for me, the Rev. W. C. Richardson, a Methodist minister, told us he thought Tanlae was what I needed. So I started taking it and while on my first bottle I got so much better that I knew Tanlae was just what I had been needing, and now I'm in such fine health I'm really enjoying life for the first time in years. I have a wonderful appetite, never have a touch of indigestion, and can keep at my housework all day long without sitting down, except at meal time, and still feel good. Tanlae is simply grand."

Tanlae is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—adv.

OWNERS OF OIL WELLS PAYERS OF MOST TAXES

AUSTIN, Texas, May 20.—The oil well owners are the largest contributors to the state treasury through the workings of the gross receipts tax, according to the report of John W. Baker, state treasurer, for the year ending August 31, 1920. For that year the oil well owners paid gross receipts taxes amounting to $2,981,848.77, the report showed.

Insurance companies came second with the only other mark over a million dollars, $1,112,881.23, which was less than the contribution of oil well owners by more than a million and a half dollars. Express companies took third place with $284,397.42 and telephone companies were a few thousand dollars behind, paying in $227,604.03.

Street railway companies paid the state $121,312.68. The Pullman Car company paid $109,236.69 and the rest of the agencies applicable to the tax dropped under the $100,000 mark.

Under the regulating pipe line tax the state got $98,743.59. Water, light and power companies paid $69,298.67, telegraph companies $68,771.52, pipe line companies $64,376.11, oil dealers $36,821.55, text and law book dealers $32,841.44, receipts from the quarter tax when beginning business $25,836.06, pistol dealers $4,725.18, car companies $4,197.64, collecting agencies $2,269.22.

The total tax collected for the year amounted to $5,244,447.65. By the provisions of the constitution under which the state tax board operates, of the total amount collected $1,286,099.54 was deposited within the available school fund, the general revenue fund received $3,659,804.52 and the regulating pipe line fund received the remainder of $98,743.59.

CHARGE OF MURDER AGAINST "BABY BRIDE" CHANGED IN DEGREE

FARMINGTON, Mo., May 20.—The charge of murder in the first degree against Letta Parsons, who shot and killed her 6-year-old stepdaughter here, was dismissed this morning. A new indictment, charging manslaughter in the fourth degree was returned and the case set for the juvenile court. No definite date for the trial was set.

Letta, 13 years old, and a bride of six days, admitted she shot the girl, but said it was an accident.

Attorneys declared it would probably be several days before the date of the trial would be known.

ONLY SIN CAN KEEP MAN OUT OF HEAVEN
EVANGELIST SAYS

“Nothing can keep a man out of heaven but sin,” said Evangelist Wallace at the Church of Christ in speaking upon the “Remission of Sins,” Thursday evening. “One sin was so terrible in the sight of God it brought death upon the whole human race.” “Sin can't pay any dividends only in terms of disappointment, disgrace and anguish which lead to death.” “Surely if God forgave the double sin of David in committing adultery and murder after he grieved in the dust and uttered the agonizing prayer for forgiveness, he will forgive men today of any and all sin if they will humble themselves in His presence.” “One word from God assuring the forgiveness of sins is worth more than all other testimonies combined, including the variable feelings and emotions of men.”

Discussing a portion of the “sermon on the mount” at the Friday morning service the evangelist quoted, “Where thy treasure is there will be your heart also,” and continued, “The mansions we occupy in heaven will be built out of the material we send on before.”

“Many people spend more time thinking about what they shall eat and wear than about their souls. A man ought to spend some time brushing up the rough spots on his character.”

S. M. U. WILL CONFER
MANY DEGREES IN JUNE

By Associated Press. DALLAS, May 19.—One hundred and seven degrees will be conferred on June 14, according to R. L. Brewer, registrar. This is the largest number of degrees to be given since the founding of the university six years ago. Of these, 87 will be the degree of Bachelor of Arts, 5 of master of arts, 5 of Bachelor of Music, and 10 of Bachelor of Divinity.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. C. M. Bishop, president of Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, on Tuesday morning, June 14, when the degrees are conferred in the university gymnasium. At this time, Dr. H. A. Boaz, president of the university will make his annual report.

NEW BRIDGE PLANNED BETWEEN EL PASO AND JUAREZ ON BORDER

By Associated Press. EL PASO, May 19.—Plans and specifications for a free international bridge between El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, will be presented by a delegation from the Juarez Chamber of Commerce at the first meeting of the International Merchants' Congress in Mexico City, June 20 and 26, according to Camilo L. Arguelles, secretary of the Juarez chamber.

A delegation from El Paso probably will be sent to Mexico City during the convention in the interest of the proposed bridge, R. C. Semple, acting mayor, said. The local chamber of commerce backing the city in its effort to secure the new bridge, will send a delegation to the conference with instructions to put the proposal before the congress for endorsement.

While in the Mexican capital, the El Paso delegates will confer with government officials on the project, the chamber announced.

JIMKURN STOCK PENS
NEARING COMPLETION

Special to the Times. JIMKURN, May 20.—The stock pens on the W. F. R. & FT. W. railroad are nearing completion and soon cattle trains will be on the road to Fort Worth markets, being able to make the run in less than twenty-four hours time after leaving Jimkurn. The cattlemen in and around Jimkurn have already contracted to ship over 5,000 cattle within the next sixty days. The stockmen see a great advantage in the Jimkurn station, being able to deliver the cattle on the cars without the long drive heretofore necessary in reaching the loading station, also that their shipments can be delivered within so short a time, saving shrinkage, thereby enabling the producer to command the highest market price.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The supreme court today dismissed, for want of jurisdiction, the appeal of the City of New York from decrees of lower courts holding that the 80-cent gas law was unconstitutional. The dismissal was ordered on the ground that the city had no property or other legal interest in the suit.
