U. S. Civilians Leave Nanking Shanghai Is Also Being Evacuated

NANKING, Nov. 5. (AP)—All American dependents in the Nanking-Shanghai area are being evacuated as rapidly as ships become available.

Earlier Americans were urged to leave the two cities. As the notices went out, all signs pointed to a coming showdown in central China.

About 1,000 wives and children of Americans will leave the two great Chinese cities, which may be attacked by Communists before long. At the same time, Gen. Barr said U. S. military personnel will remain at their posts.

Such tactics were used by Ceh's forces in capturing Tsinan, Shantung Province capital. That defeat and the more recent disaster in Manchuria wiped out some of the government's best armies.

Winds Are Feared In California Fires

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5. (AP)—Two fires—one destroying scores of homes and forcing hundreds to flee—smoldered over 16,000 brush acres of drought-dry southern California today.

Some 2,000 more residents of Topanga Canyon were prepared to evacuate if winds again whipped up the mountain area blaze near the Pacific Ocean.

The other fire, inland in the Santa Ana district, still raged out of control on two 10-mile fronts, forcing the closing of State Highway 18.

Fourteen German War Criminals Hang At Munich

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 5. (AP)—Fourteen German war criminals were hanged at Landsberg Prison today in a speed-up of executions.

No deaths were reported, although some 20 cases of minor injuries and burns were treated at the Topanga Canyon fire.

The Topanga blaze was brought to a temporary standstill last night by back-firing, but fire fighters feared wind might arise again to fan the flames southward toward the 400-home community of Fernwood.

Today's executions brought to 43 the number of men hanged since the war crimes executions were resumed at Landsberg Oct. 15. The sending of 14 to the gallows in one day reflected the increased tempo.

SAYS POLLS CAUSED IT GOP Blames Overconfidence For Stunning Dewey Defeat

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5. (AP)—Overconfidence—that more than anything else is what the people around Gov. Thomas E. Dewey are blaming for his defeat in the presidential election.

failure of the vote to reach the 50 million mark was a big factor in the outcome, he is known to be thinking differently about that now.

For a while he cautioned that it would be dangerous to let down. Then that seemed to be forgotten. Dewey took the outcome for granted like millions of others.

He said this meant "superiority in all aspects of this field, not only in weapons but in basic science, agriculture, industry, power, nutrition and in all the other fields which this field of knowledge touches."

Important new developments in atomic energy are being explored, Lillenthal said. He gave no details.

He said this meant "superiority in all aspects of this field, not only in weapons but in basic science, agriculture, industry, power, nutrition and in all the other fields which this field of knowledge touches."

Time To Study Again Need For Prison System Reforms

In the heat of the political campaigns, football season, harvest and a number of other things, attention had drifted from the proposed program of reform for the Texas prison system. It is therefore heartening that the junior chamber of commerce board has announced that it will discuss the prison system at its annual meeting.

The Jaycees of Texas have made reform of the system according to the Ellis plan, their No. 1 project for the year. The timing of their revival of the project for early in November is well, for it will serve to focus the public mind once again on a problem that needs and must have action at the hands of the next legislature.

Doing something about the prison system is one of those things to which it is so easy to give lip service and let it go at that. The time is too long delayed when more concrete evidence of the understanding of the needs of that institution must be exhibited.

There are two things that must be remembered: That conditions in Texas prisons are an abomination to a people with a sense of justice and decency; that even though the work of prisons is with people who have developed anti-social attitudes or committed anti-social acts, they still must deal with human beings. Texas can do better than it is doing by its prisons, and it ought to get at the job.

Answer In Productivity May Turn Up Some In Other Fields

The volume of productivity necessary for profitable operations is moving up constantly, according to a survey of industries. This is what men in the business call the "break-even" point. When it moves up as the volume of business slows on its ascent, there is cause for worry.

Most of all the industries mentioned employ productivity as a factor in the advancing of the break-even point. This simply means that it is taking more personnel to produce what less personnel formerly produced.

There are a lot of people who often confide that they would like to see the good old days return so that they could squeeze more effort out of employees of else make a change right quickly. Well, that's one way to get up productivity.

Perhaps a better way is for labor and management alike to get down to some serious and fundamental study on the subject; to begin by trying to put out of mind preconceived notions and prejudices each may have on the subject. Many concerns are taking steps in this direction.

Out of such cooperative probing, labor can come to a better understanding of its responsibility in productivity, and management can discover that the whiplash of fear after all is not the best incentive. In getting at the matter of productivity, the answer to a lot of other problems may be turned up.

Truman Used Bare Knuckles, Dewey Wouldn't Muss Hair

WASHINGTON, (U.S.)—ONE MAN USED bare knuckles. The other wouldn't get his hair mussed.

That was one of the chief differences between the campaigns of President Truman and Governor Dewey.

And it's one of the things that may have cost Dewey the election.

Dewey, with all the public opinion polls and the experts telling him he was a cinch to win, campaigned as if he believed it. And if he was such a cinch why bother making specific promises, or at least very many of them?

He didn't act like a man in a fight. It was as if he already had the presidency home safe in the refrigerator.

So he never gave off much heat. And he didn't come down off the mountain to slug it out with Mr. Truman.

HE TALKED MOSTLY IN GENERALITIES. Mr. Truman derided him for talking about "home, mother, unity, and efficiency."

True, Dewey might not have wanted to make too many promises for fear Congress, even though controlled by his own Republicans, might block him.

The President campaigned the other way. It was an uphill fight for him and, when he talked, he talked meat and potatoes.

He was for something, or against it. You might disagree with him but you never had to wonder where he stood or what he'd try to do if elected.

He stated the things he thinks need doing. He said he was kept from doing them by the 80th Congress, controlled by Republicans.

It Was The Year 2248 And Horses Ruled The Earth

NEW YORK, (U.S.)—IT WAS THE YEAR 2248, and horses ruled the earth.

A gay herd had gathered at Upside Downs, the fashionable new human racing park. They were there to watch a picked field of people compete on a fast track in the biggest race of the season. The horses sat in the stands, wearing sun glasses.

Galloping past the clubhouse, a society reporter with her pencil in her teeth hurriedly scribbled an item and tossed it to her copy pony to trot back to the office. It read:

"Happiest filly at the track today was Sandy Lady, wearing a new pink blanket from Paris. Her seatmate, as usual, was tall dark and handsome War Fever, owner of the biggest stable of racing humans in history. He wore a diamond-studded collar."

BUT SANDY LADY REALLY WASN'T happy at all. She was having a lover's quarrel with her beau—big War Fever.

Spotlight Hasn't Been On Thomas' Draft Dealings During The War

WASHINGTON — Public indignation over Congressman J. Parnell Thomas' practice of getting salary "kickbacks" from low-paid clerks and stenographers has diverted attention from another little Parnellian practice—namely keeping men away from Army combat and then collecting from their families.

During the war, when Thomas also was a member of the important Military Affairs Committee, he got two soldiers—George Tipkitt of 182 Fifth Ave., New York City, and Edward Allen Kimmel of Long Beach, N. Y.—transferred away from combat. Later they and their families contributed $850 to Thomas' re-election campaign, though they did not live in the congressman's New Jersey district.

However, humble apologies are offered to Congressman Thomas for underrating his ability in this direction. The two men mentioned above were not his only achievement in war-service-dodging.

On Nov. 16, 1944, Thomas wrote a letter to John Flag, of the Watson Flag Engineering Co., 24 Morton Street, Paterson, N. J., which read in part:

"Dear John: 'As you probably know, the Dies Committee is winding up its affairs this year. We have had with us for the past six and one-half years a man by the name of Robert Stripling, whose title has been chief clerk and chief investigator. Stripling... now finds himself in a position where he either has to get a position with a company doing defense work or be drafted.'

"He is 32 years of age, he has a wife and one child, and is making his residence in Washington. But would be willing to move anywhere in the East... If you think that he would fit into your setup, I am quite sure that he would be pleased to talk the matter over with you. Let me know if there is any interest."

FOUR TIMES DEFERRED The fact was that Stripling, chief investigator for a committee supposed to set an example to the world of good Americanism, was four times deferred. At that date, just before the battle of the Bulge, men considerably older and with more children were being inducted.

So when Stripling's draft board refused to defer him any longer, Congressman Thomas tried to get him a "war" job.

EXIT FROM ARMY The dodge, however, did not work. Stripling was finally taken into the Army. But not for long. That great example of Americanism, J. Parnell Thomas, once again came to his rescue.

Stripling was with a military government unit at San Antonio, supposed to leave for Japan to help Gen. MacArthur police the country just after V-J Day. The unit had been especially trained for this duty.

But although Stripling had been in the Army only nine months, whereas some men he was supposed to relieve in Japan had been in four years, Congressman Thomas took up the matter of his discharge with Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, chief lobbyist for the Army on Capitol Hill.

And on Oct. 15, 1945, Gen. Persons replied that he was keeping "Pvt. Stripling in this country" in order to have his discharge arranged. The general wrote Thomas as follows:

"In reply to your recent inquiry with respect to the manner in which Pvt. Robert B. Stripling should proceed to apply for discharge based on his importance to national health, safety or interest, the following information is submitted."

Then, after advising Thomas how Stripling should apply to his commander with supporting statements from the congressman emphasizing the "national importance of the work," Gen. Persons concluded:

"In accordance with our conversation, the War Department has arranged to hold Pvt. Stripling in this country for a sufficient time to permit his discharge application to be filed and acted upon."

Accordingly, Pvt. Stripling's unit sailed for Japan. He was discharged and came back to Washington.

THE DULLES CASE

On Nov. 9, a case comes up in the U. S. Court of the District of Columbia which should throw interesting light on John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate to the United Nations.

The case is U. S. vs. American Bosch, and involves a deal whereby the Dulles law firm drew up an agreement hiding the American Bosch Factory in Springfield, Mass., under Swedish ownership shortly before the war. This concealed its true Nazi ownership in order to avoid seizure by the U. S. government.

The case is loaded with dynamite, and three U. S. judges so far have shied away as if it was going to explode in their hands.

Bob Hope Is Definitely Looking To Television

HOLLYWOOD (U.S.)—Now that Bob Hope is immobile with a sprained leg, I figured, "Is a good time to corral him on his television plans."

When I arrived at his, San Fernando valley home, Hope was standing on crutches by the front door.

"I've been in bed for three days—longest I've been in one place in my life," he said. "This sort of thing has got to go."

He hobbled into a car and said he was going to take a treatment in the training room of the L. A. Rams pro football team. As we drove over, he explained that the lame leg was due to his over-acting. He had to scramble up a gangplank for a movie scene and on the seventh try his leg folded up. The film is wryly titled "Easy Does It."

"Crosby said my hurting my leg taught him a lesson," Hope snorted. "What a laugh! Crosby never moves that fast. The only time he really moves is when he goes to the bank."

"What about video?" I interjected, having heard he had passed up an offer from General Motors four video-casts at $50,000 per shot.

"I just didn't have time to do it," he explained. But I'm free from Paramount and I'm a sponsor to do whatever I want on television—and it won't be long now."

When he arrived at the Rams H. Q., Hope was examined by the trainer and his ailing leg was Judge Edward Tamm refused to hear the case because, as former FBI assistant director, he had probed American Bosch. Timorous Judge Matt McGuire refused to hear the case for reasons best known to himself. His remark, however, was significant.

"Father, Son and Holy Ghost couldn't get me to hear this case," remarked Judge McGuire. Presiding Judge Bolitha Laws also declined to sit, on the ground that he had prosecuted American Bosch in World War I for the same thing.

"I know them too well," he said, "and would be inclined to consider them guilty in advance."

So the case has now been referred to Judge David Pine who has agreed to hear a motion Nov. 9 as to whether the Wallenbergs, the Swedish industrialists who took over American Bosch, should be required to come to the USA to testify.

The Dulles law firm opposes this motion, contending that the Wallenbergs should not be made to testify. The Justice Department argues that their testimony is necessary.

In the cloakroom agreement, it is specified that if the new Swedish-American head of American Bosch dies or fails to serve, his successor shall be appointed by John Foster Dulles.

Secret papers regarding the cloakroom deal were discovered by the American Army behind the wall of a bomb shelter in Stuttgart after U. S. troops entered Germany.

TO PLAN; CONTRIVE; USUALLY WITH EVIL INTENT; TO SCHEME TO DO HARM

NEW YORK—Lest I become known as the Philip Wylie of 51st Street, I rush to assure you and myself that I love Broadway. Still, there are a few frightening little paradoxes which keep me wondering if indeed things are as wonderful from The Circle to the Square as my departed com-patriot, O. O. McIntyre, always suggested.

Having mixed in these gaudy circles and saloons these many years, I've come upon a smattering of disillusionment, some big, some slight.

For some time I considered a certain former star, now somewhat of a ha-been, to be an amiable, sometimes stupid, but always well-intentioned character. He'd always seemed to be professionally genial. Loved everybody, had a good public word for anyone in mention. Seemed to take his interestingly shabby decline with easy grace. Until, that is, I really got to know him.

On closer terms, he turned out to be far from the publicly contented soul he seemed. He is seething with hatefulness toward everyone, frequently and notably including his wife. He had a decidedly small circle of friends, all of whom have run for the social exits away from him these last few years. The armchair psychiatrists, without portfolio or Hippocratic Oath, have it all figured out.

He is a victim, these couchless analysts say, of his own decline and won't admit even to himself that it is his own fault. I, like most of his former close friends, duck him every chance I can. I can't stand that much envy, expressed in such despairing style.

Case History Number Two: Former bootlegger, former bigtime gambler, stock market player of equally fabulous success and failure. Generally, he's considered a "gangster," although he hasn't carried a rod since Prohibition, to my knowledge, and the only time I've seen him lift a fist with mayhem intended was to belt a guy who was beating a woman. He's gentle, an imaginative gambler ready to wager a few or a million bob on anything from a World Series to a Dow Jones average, but always without ostentation.

He's owned a Josen Broadway night club, always the silent, unpublished money man. He's never to my knowledge waded his whiskey. He is a source of great prohibition lore in the lax hours before the dawn. Damon Runyon introduced me to him. Damon said he was a sort of Robin Hood, with lots of indigents on his daily payroll.

No punch line to this brace of stories. Just an off-day peek at Broadway and its characters.

As a drama critic who must of professional convenience sit through about 100 productions a season, and make up my mind in a hurry thereupon whether the play I'm watching is good, bad or embarrassing, I find that the latter reaction is the toughest on my nerves.

Give me a play wherein everyone whales away professionally to no apparent good end, and things are bad enough. A well-acted but poor play will send a few sympathetic shivers along my brain and a good play in which someone blows his lines has me enduring the tortures of the damned. I know some folks, including a critic or two, who seem to think such misfortune is a reason for derision. For me, it is dismaying. Several in a row would give me an ulcer.

Dean Jagger, an actor friend of mine, says it is one of the worst feelings in the world to be on a stage in such a perplexing contingency. In this case both Dean and I died a few thousand sympathetic deaths in his recent appearance in a flop play, "Dr. Social."

National Election Can Be Compared To Football Game

This national election business, 1948 style, can be compared to Southwest Conference football if anyone cares to dwell upon two unrelated topics at one and the same time.

I am surprised that some of the commentators or forecasters did not mention such a comparison Tuesday night after the election returns began rolling in. They never thought of it, of course, because many of them did not know what to think after about 10 p. m. Tuesday.

The persons who call the political shots in advance, however, did pursue a course that is similar to one followed year after year by a prominent element associated with Southwest football. That would be the same path that football writers and commentators tread after the various teams begin grinding their August predictions into confetti. Following the August predictions come the September, October and November predictions in the order named, but they usually encounter no more success than the original set.

In all fairness to the political forecasters it must be remembered that they were pressed for time in getting out their November predictions. Their big "game" was called for the second day of the month, you know. Obviously, many of them merely revised the October standings and re-submitted them. Disastrous haste? Well, they probably can think of harsher terms to use themselves by now.

Now that some of the smoke has cleared, and only the charred remains of those forecasts are visible, it is easy as pie for me to understand how any conventional football coach could have made a correct analysis of the situation several days in advance and in less time than it takes to tell. To start things off, the Elephants, who comprised the team favored by the dopesters, intimated on the day equipment was first issued for practice that they would win easily without bothering to play their best quarterback. They went ahead and selected their idea of the best quarterback on the squad anyway, but the football coach will tell you that such confidence invites disaster.

The quarterback shared the confidence and proceeded to help spread a thick layer over the eyes of the dopesters. There it began to multiply, and before many weeks had passed the dopesters had developed a surplus of a more soothing variety, which they passed back to the quarterback. The new ball milled the quarterback until he could see no necessity for continuing a strenuous practice grind. A few days before the game, he told both his followers and those of the opposing team, the Donkeys, that he was tapering off the heavy work of his own accord.

Meanwhile the Donkey quarterback, who had shown a tendency to pass from his own goal line early in the first quarter, and negotiate other "strategy" of equally unorthodox appearance, was turning on the lights for over-time sessions on the practice field.

A perfect setting for an upset, the football coach would say.—WACIL McNAIR

Affairs Of The World — DeWitt MacKenzie

Rest Of World Sees No Difference In Truman Win

WHEN THE RESULT OF THE U. S. presidential election reached United Nations circles in Paris, A. A. Aruntian, a Russian delegate who also is a member of the Soviet Foreign Affairs Department, told American newsmen the outcome "really makes little difference (abroad) because of your bi-partisan foreign policy."

That seems to be a shrewd appraisal of the position from the standpoint of international affairs. It is recognition of the vital fact that the rival political parties stand together when faced with a foreign crisis. Apropos of this we see Governor Dewey telling President Truman in a message of congratulations:

"I urge all Americans to unite behind you in support of every effort to keep our nation strong and free and establish peace in the world."

IT IS WELL THAT THIS TRUTH BE emphasized abroad lest there be misunderstanding among those who are on the alert to take advantage of any seeming weakness in America's armor. It is well, too, that it be recognized by the many nations which are looking to the United States for leadership in the political life-and-death struggle with Communism which we know as the "cold war."

When there is global conflict, oppressed countries try to hitch their wagons to the American star. Sometimes that is from purely selfish motives but more often it is because of desperate need and because of recognition that the United States is the world's paramount power.

During the darkest days of World War One I was on the British front in France and shall never forget how time and again officers came to me as an American and begged to know: "What is the latest news from Washington? What does President Wilson say today?" They wanted to hear from America's head of state, and not from anyone else.

THAT SAME THING IS TRUE TODAY as the anti-Communist forces combine in defense against the Red aggression. Of course the situation is simplified by the fact that Washington's policy regarding the Bolshevik aggression already has been defined under the Truman administration and that this regime is being continued. The broad principles under which America is proceeding are well known.

Naturally one would expect developments of policy to meet future emergencies. The defense against Communism is the greatest international problem with which the new American government will have to deal, and it hardly can be expected that this will be solved without resorting to new measures. However, we must assume that future strategy will be based on established principles.

We have seen, for example, the actual working of the policy of helping needy countries defend themselves against Red aggression. The Marshall plan for European rehabilitation already is in full operation. American military preparedness for emergencies is moving apace.

These things are out in the open for all to see. So the whole world knows what President Truman's fundamental policies are and what trend he is likely to pursue in his new term. The world knows too, (or should know for its own good) that Americans stand together in emergencies, irrespective of politics.

He had a decidedly small circle of friends, all of whom have run for the social exits away from him these last few years. The armchair psychiatrists, without portfolio or Hippocratic Oath, have it all figured out.

He is a victim, these couchless analysts say, of his own decline and won't admit even to himself that it is his own fault. I, like most of his former close friends, duck him every chance I can. I can't stand that much envy, expressed in such despairing style.

Case History Number Two: Former bootlegger, former bigtime gambler, stock market player of equally fabulous success and failure. Generally, he's considered a "gangster," although he hasn't carried a rod since Prohibition, to my knowledge, and the only time I've seen him lift a fist with mayhem intended was to belt a guy who was beating a woman. He's gentle, an imaginative gambler ready to wager a few or a million bob on anything from a World Series to a Dow Jones average, but always without ostentation.

He's owned a Josen Broadway night club, always the silent, unpublished money man. He's never to my knowledge waded his whiskey. He is a source of great prohibition lore in the lax hours before the dawn. Damon Runyon introduced me to him. Damon said he was a sort of Robin Hood, with lots of indigents on his daily payroll.

No punch line to this brace of stories. Just an off-day peek at Broadway and its characters.

As a drama critic who must of professional convenience sit through about 100 productions a season, and make up my mind in a hurry thereupon whether the play I'm watching is good, bad or embarrassing, I find that the latter reaction is the toughest on my nerves.

Give me a play wherein everyone whales away professionally to no apparent good end, and things are bad enough. A well-acted but poor play will send a few sympathetic shivers along my brain and a good play in which someone blows his lines has me enduring the tortures of the damned. I know some folks, including a critic or two, who seem to think such misfortune is a reason for derision. For me, it is dismaying. Several in a row would give me an ulcer.

Dean Jagger, an actor friend of mine, says it is one of the worst feelings in the world to be on a stage in such a perplexing contingency. In this case both Dean and I died a few thousand sympathetic deaths in his recent appearance in a flop play, "Dr. Social."

NEW AND OLD—Pictured here are the three new Girl Scout uniforms created by Maindocher, noted designer, and introduced this fall. The insert shows the first uniform worn by the Girl Scouts of 1912. The new uniform is of bright green cotton covert cloth. Subtle modern tailoring features include action backs, button-down lapels, and flared skirts. The new hat for troop leaders is of classic shape with stitched adjustable brim. Seniors will wear becoming overseas caps and Intermediate Scouts will continue to wear berets.

'By Their Fruits, Know Them' Theme Is Taken By Presbyterian Women

Mrs. Lucian Jones presented the program entitled, "By Their Fruits Know Them" at the fourth meeting of the Presbyterian Women for Home Mission study during Prayer and Self Denial Week. Mrs. T. S. Currie entertained the membership in her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Jones led the group singing of "Trust and Obey" and read the scriptural text from II Cor. 1:12 and John 10:9. She reviewed the leadership and progress of the Latin speaking residents of Tampa, Fla., of the Italian missions in Kansas City, Mo. and of the native inhabitants of Puerto Rico. In conclusion, she offered a prayer for each of these missions.

GM President Praises Truman

DETROIT, Nov. 5. (AP) — "As an engineer," President C. E. Wilson of General Motors Corp. takes off his hat to President Truman. Wilson, in a speech to an automobile industry group last night, observed with respect for Mr. Truman's successful election campaign: "As an engineer, I have a great deal of respect for a good technician and President Truman has proven himself one." Wilson is a Republican but he said the result of the election wasn't going to disturb him. "We choose one group or another—always what is best for the country," he said. "Only in our country, with its concept of freedom, can such a thing happen."

School Board Hears Report On Inspection Of Gas Lines

School board members spent a good part of the regular meeting Thursday listening to a variety of reports. Among them were those dealing with gas inspections; a check on buildings; plans for American Education week observances starting Sunday; and recommendations by school administrators for interschool athletic league programs. Tax collections, W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, amounted to $194,682.52 for October, which is approximately two-thirds of the current roll. This figure is gross, including the $5,992.77 earned by the three per cent discount for first month payment.

This Coming Tuesday

MAMA, PAPA CAN GO TO SCHOOL - IF THEY ACCEPT INVITATION

Mama and Papa can go to school Tuesday evening. They can—that is—if they accept an invitation being sent to all high school patrons, W. L. Reed, high school principal, said Friday morning.

After a brief program in the gymnasium at 7:30 p. m., they will be sent through the same schedule followed by their children, he said, before they all gather at the cafeteria for refreshments and a social period. "Enrollment" blanks will be sent home by high school students Monday and parents are urged to fill them in and report at the gym Tuesday evening as a part of the American Education Week observance.

Quin Grigsby will extend a brief welcome; Mary Jane Hamilton, high school vocal music director will sing, and Mrs. Janell Davis, speech department head, will give a reading. A short orientation by Reed will precede "classes."

Regular teachers will be on duty and members of the student council will be in the halls to give directions to patrons, who spend eight minutes in English, math, social science, home-making, or whatever subjects their children are studying. In each instance teachers will call the roll, then versely summarize the program and objectives of the course. Four minutes will be given between classes, and if any parents run into trouble, they may be sent to the office of Reed, or referred to W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, or to Zaida Brown, guidance director.

The program is similar to one used last year when parents pronounced it a real success. A large participation is expected.

LETTER TO ED.

Communism Lowers But Christ Raises

Dear Sir: The theory of communism may be summed up in four words: "Abolish all private property." Under communism you own nothing, not even your own soul.

Recently in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, the police entered every shop and store, closed it, took the keys and notified the owner that his establishment hereafter was owned by the government.

Government clerks were sent in to take inventory and set the amount which was to be paid each owner for his shop, payment to be made in government bonds, the value of which was determined by the government.

Apparently, the average communist here in American believes that a communist state is a sort of Utopia—the end of hard work, the equal distribution of all wealth, etc.

Rather, it can be best described as a "land of perpetual fear." Officials, as well as common people, spy upon each other, and all are well aware they are under constant surveillance of the secret police.

A prominent clergyman puts it this way: "Communism sacrifices individuality and initiative. Christ does not. Instead of bringing the highest to the lowest, He brings the lowest to the highest." Let's keep America free and stay on God's side.

Sincerely, W. R. Hoard 4401 Vinson Fort Worth, Texas

Burrow To Start For Angelo Rams Gerald Burrow, 178-pound tackle from Big Spring, will be in the starting lineup for San Angelo Junior college's football team when the Rams play North Texas Agricultural College in Angelo.

Cecil Gilstrap, another local boy and, like Burrow, a tackle, is sure to see a lot of action.

Holbert To Head Vocational School Billy M. Holbert, instructor in the Howard County Vocational School for the past five months has been named teacher-coordinator of the school.

This appointment was announced following a meeting of the board of trustees for the Howard County Junior College. He replaces Fain Coffman, who resigned to accept a similar work in New Mexico. Holbert holds a masters degree from Sam Houston State Teachers college.

Named to succeed Coffman as an instructor in the school was Edwin Swartz, formerly a vocational school instructor in Jones county. He holds his bachelors degree in agriculture.

DEMOCRATIC DOC

Cauble, Fooled By Pollsters, Has To Chase Cattle Back To Pasture

Friends of I. B. Cauble will be pleased to know that Democratic Doc hasn't been bedridden—just pretty busy. When Cauble, who is more than lightly a democratic partisan, failed to appear Wednesday morning in the wake of the Truman upset, his acquaintances began to worry. Dire things concerning Doc's health were imagined when he didn't show up Thursday for an impromptu victory speech.

Friday, however, Doc came to town, sporting several days' growth of beard due to press of business and not bad bets.

He admitted he had been fooled by the pollsters, too, for he had rounded up all his cattle for sale. Only 50 top cows and key herd bulls were to be held back during the republican administration he said he dreaded.

But when he got word Wednesday

Plans Laid For Education Week Observances

American Education Week will be observed here beginning Monday.

W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that a substantial amount of materials had been secured for distribution in connection with the special observance which takes the keynote of "Strengthening the Foundations of Freedom."

Physical education classes in the system will get pamphlets with material they may take home for parental scrutiny. Brochures on the American education problems are available, some to be distributed at the special events in schools.

Among these will be an open house affair at the high school, similar to the one last year where parents "matriculated" and went through a complete schedule during the compass of an hour or so. Parents of elementary school children will be encouraged to visit the classroom during the week, and Blankenship said this would be accomplished on a scheduled basis.

Churches are due to mention the week in announcements Sunday and student speakers are due to appear before service club groups.

ELECTION SUNDAY

DeGaulle Requests Vote For Followers

PARIS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Gen. Charles DeGaulle has called for the election of his followers to the upper house of parliament Sunday. He said this would save France from anarchy.

DeGaulle said last night that if his French People's Party (RPF) gets control of the upper house, it will use its influence to bring about new general elections for the powerful lower house—the national assembly.

The electoral college will name 267 of the 520 members of the council of the Republic Sunday. The others, representing overseas territories, will be picked later.

The council, by contrast with the assembly, has no real legislative powers, but DeGaulle said that if it were dominated by his RPF, it could "do much to provoke a return to democracy and a consultation of the people."

DeGaulle has contended that if general elections are held, his party will win and he will return to power in France.

Last Oct. 18 municipal councils throughout France picked 100,011 electors they, along with 3,032 general councillors and 546 assembly deputies, will choose the members of the council of the republic.

The Communists were badly defeated in the Oct. 18 voting. They conceded that DeGaulle's Rightist Party and the Middle Radical Socialists probably would dominate the upper house.

Five Miners Die As Smoke Blown Into Mine Shaft

KITZMILLER, Md., Nov. 5. (AP)—A shed housing a ventilating fan of a coal mine caught fire yesterday, the fan blew the smoke into the mine shaft, and five men suffocated.

The sixth man, George Nethken, escaped and gave the alarm. But rescue squads were unable to revive the five men, who had been caught in a "pocket of smoke," less than 150 feet from the entrance to the horizontal shaft, authorities reported.

The dead were identified as: Robert Jackson, 25, "outside man" at the mine who had gone into the shaft to warn the others; Clarence Keller, 60, and his brothers, Herman, 42, and Martin, 61; Charles Kifer, 45, of Mt. Storm, W. Va.

Seven Convicted On A Conspiracy To Riot Charge

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5. (AP)—The Maryland state director of the Progressive Party, and six persons who helped him arrange an interracial tennis match, have been convicted of conspiracy.

The case grew out of an encounter between police and a mixed White-Negro group on a city tennis court last summer. Police who attempted to enforce city segregation rules met with a torrent of jeers, and several tennis players who sat down on the courts had to be carried to paddy wagons.

The Maryland Young Progressives said the matches had been arranged to test the segregation rule. However the trial, purposely delayed until after the presidential election, closed yesterday without a ruling on this issue. The state arranged to test the segregation charge and substituted charges of conspiracy to riot and disturb the peace.

Bodies Of 13AAF Airmen Recovered

GLOSSOP, DERBY, England, Nov. 5. (AP)—The last of 26 bodies of American airmen were recovered Thursday from the wreckage of a B-29 superfortress that crashed and burned yesterday on a mist-covered mountain near here.

All aboard, three officers and 10 enlisted crew members, were killed. It was the first superfortress accident in Britain since 90 big bombers of the Third Air Division arrived here last summer.

Names of the dead are being withheld. Seven bodies were found last night but, because of fog, the search was interrupted until this morning.

Truman May Have Name On Street

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—The city council is going to reconsider a proposal to change the name of a street to Truman Road.

The proposal has been pigeonholed for two and one half years. Said Councilman Reed O. Gentry:

"We intend to discuss the matter today. To my mind the only question is whether the naming of the street is a high enough honor for our President."

The move to change 15th street to Truman Road was referred to a council committee in February, 1946. There has been no further action on it.

Man Leaves Fund For Party In Will

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5. (AP)—Friends of Fred Owens have been invited to a party. But Owens, who wrote the invitation, won't be there. He died Oct. 25.

His last wish, in his will was "a big party for my friends and God bless them all."

However, Probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer is not sure he will approve it since there were no witnesses.

If he does, Atty. Louis A. Perry says there is about $350 set aside for the event. If he does not, the estate will go to his daughter, Mrs. Betty Bowers of Columbus.

Perry says she is willing to waive the money in favor of the party.

G. E. No Longer Recognizes Union

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 5. (AP)—The General Electric Co. says it no longer recognizes the CIO United Electrical Workers Union as the bargaining agent for employees at its atomic energy installations.

The company's action Thursday night was a sequel to an order from the Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday. It directed the company to "withdraw and withhold" recognition of the union in atomic plants in Schenectady.

The AEC said the action was "necessary" because union officers had refused to take non-Communist oaths under the Taft-Hartley law.
