

GERMANS SAY HAVE NO PLANES TO FIGHT REDS

Declare Allies' Seizure of Machines Hinders Air Scouting.

International News Service. BERLIN, March 28.—After heavy fighting the Security police have captured Sangerhausen, in Prussian Saxony, from the communists. Elsewhere in middle Germany the government, supported by artillery, is dispersing armed bands of Reds. The government admits, however, that conflicting reports are being received from some sections where trouble has broken out. The Germans complain that confiscation of military airplanes by the allies has made air scouting impossible, hindering attempts to get information from danger spots. Reports from Munster are that the Ruhr district is quiet, although small fights have occurred between the communists and police detachments, in which the police confiscated machine guns and ammunition. The communists attempted to blow up the electric power station in the suburbs of Standau, throwing Berlin in darkness. Little damage was done, however. Two railroad bridges were blown up by the Reds near Willhausen. It is declared in official circles that the real crisis will depend on whether the workmen will return to the factories or go on a general strike. This climax may come tomorrow. A general strike has been called at Leipzig, and there are agitators in other communist centers, notably Erfurt, isolated Eislerbe, Elberfeld and Leuna.

NEFF VETOES 3 BILLS PASSED BY OLD BODY

AUSTIN, March 28.—Governor Neff today vetoed three bills passed by the last legislature. One was a bill appropriating $125,000 to match the federal appropriation for federal vocational training schools in Texas, authorized by the Smith-Hughes act. The governor said the measure as passed does not meet requirements and is defective and he would submit it at the next session. One of the other bills proposed to give defendants thirty days after a motion for a new trial before they are compelled to satisfy a punishment in the nature of a fine. The third proposed to authorize county auditors to audit district school books.

SHRIEKS IN THE NIGHT PART OF GIRLS' PASTIME OF "CHASING THE MOUSE"

CHICAGO, March 28.—Hair-raising shrieks, sudden turning on and off of lights, visions of thinly clad figures dashing hither and yon in Willard hall, the girls' dormitory at Northwestern university, have disturbed the peace and serenity of the students at Garrett Biblical university, which is opposite Willard hall. Today it all was explained. The co-eds in Willard hall have been conducting a massacre, and already have accounted for fifty victims. They have been killing mice. Armed with ink bottles, books, pillows, brooms, slippers and other feminine weapons, they have been stalking the pestiferous mice. Standing on chairs, they would smite the mice as they came out in search of bits of food and fudge. The secret of the midnight affrays and the excitement came out when the faculty asked for an explanation of various ink stains on the walls and floors, broken broom handles and other signs of warfare in the dormitory.

MYSTERIOUS KILLING.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 28.—Mystery surrounds the killing of George Brundage, farm hand, found shot to death on the state road late yesterday. International News Service. NEW YORK, March 28.—A fresh element of mystery was added to the Stillman divorce sensation when it was learned that a third woman, whose identity is being carefully concealed, is about to figure in the case. Counsel for Mrs. Stillman, it is learned, have developed an entirely new plan of action in their fight against her husband's efforts to get a divorce and establish that baby Guy is illegitimate. There is a strong report that the crux of the new plan is a motion for discontinuance of the case, which would mean the abandonment of the old double divorce action. This was not denied by Mrs. Stillman's counsel. In the meantime, however, while both sides are waiting for Justice Morschauer's decision on her motion for $10,000 alimony and $75,000 costs, it was learned that new and sensational letters have been unearthed by the husband's counsel.

International News Service. EL PASO, March 28.—Francis Holden, two years old, and Harold Witherspoon, thirteen, are dead here today from suffocation following the collapse late Sunday of a cave in which they were playing. RANGER BOY, JAILED TWICE, IN BAD AGAIN

Nixon Waldrip, aged 10; Wiley Potter, 12, and Jim Winningham, aged 16, are being held in connection with the robbery of the cash register of the Burton-Lingo company Saturday morning, in which $110 was stolen and recovered a few minutes later. Young Waldrip has only recently returned from Dallas, where he had been twice placed in jail charged with theft. Through the efforts of Lytton K. Taylor he was released and returned home. The Winningham boy told Justice of the Peace Feniaw this morning that he had nothing to do with the theft. However, he admitted that the two boys were with him at the lumber yard and that he went in and asked for a piece of lumber and that while Jesse Marlow, the only attendant present, was getting it for him, the register was rifled. It is believed by officers that while Marlow was getting the lumber, the Waldrip boy robbed the till and the Potter boy stood watch outside. The discovery was made when Marlow returned from his errand and found young Waldrip leaving the register. This was his second trip and when caught he told where he had hidden the cash under the office building of the lumber company. Judge Jones of the county court has set the trial of the three boys for April 4.

KISSES BEST ANTIDOTE FOR DIVORCE GERM, SAYS PRIEST IN HIS SERMON

International News Service. JOLIET, Ill., March 28.—Kissing is the best antidote for the divorce germ, Rev. T. F. Quinn, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church here, believes. In an address on "Love, Courtship and Marriage," Father Quinn declared that young men should keep up their courtship after marriage. "Before marriage he wouldn't think of calling on her without bringing a box of candy or sending flowers," the priest said. "He should bring candy and flowers after marriage. He should remember little things like morning and evening kisses. They prevent divorces. "When a young man begins to call steadily and burn the electric lights until 11 and 12 o'clock he is under obligations to pay the light bills or marry the girl."

MANY EUROPEANS WANT TO COME TO U. S. BUT FIND SELVES TOO POOR

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Great numbers of laboring classes in England and France want to emigrate to the United States but find it difficult to do so because of inability to save enough money and adverse exchange rates, according to the report of Roland Mahany, who was sent to Europe by the Wilson administration to attend sessions of the international commission on immigration and emigration. The report stated that there is a strong note of optimism and better times in England, but a lack of optimism among the poorer classes in France.

BERLIN, March 28.—There are 3,000,000 war orphans in Germany, according to official figures. They are being given state and local care, but it is said they form a large percentage of more than 1,000,000 children in Germany being aided by foreign relief workers.

NO SPORT FOR A PARLOR PARTY

How would you like to wrestle with an alligator as this young man is doing? He is Henry Copinger of Miami, Fla., known throughout his state as "the Alligator Boy." Copinger's business is the catching, raising and exhibiting of alligators. He has lived in or near the Florida everglades all his life and has made a life study of the dangerous reptiles. Copinger thinks nothing of diving into a stream or swamp infested with the "igators" and tossing one upon the bank. He has no fear of the snapping jaws or slashing tails of the alligators, having studied the reptiles so closely that he can handle them with comparative safety.

Georgians Aghast at Orgy of Slaying on Rich Planter's Farm

Officers Delve Into Williams' Past; Seek Disposition of Ten Other Hands Who Disappeared; Kept Men in Stout Stockade Under Guard. International News Service. MONTICELLO, Ga., March 28.—With the first chapter of Georgia's gruesome murder investigation closed since the discovery of the last of the bodies of eleven negroes in Jasper and Newton counties, officials of Jasper county today took steps to bring to trial at once Clyde Manning, confessed black executioner, and John Williams, planter, whom he implicated as instigator of the killings. Officers here have started a quiet but thorough investigation of the past of Williams, who owns a large plantation near here. They want to know what has become of ten other farm hands said to have mysteriously disappeared.

'SHORT LINES' NOT CUT IN ON 600 MILLIONS

Community Stunned. Leaders in business, civic and social circles here are stunned by the swift developments of the last few days. These investigations began when Manning, arrested on suspicion of having helped make away with two negroes, confessed suddenly that he and Williams had slain or helped to slay eleven hands who had worked on the Williams plantation. He showed officers where these men had been buried. Six were pulled from watery graves in the Yellow and Alcovy rivers. Five were found buried in shallow graves on the Williams plantation. Sympathy Turns. At first there was a feeling of sympathy for Williams when Manning made his charges, but since then the tide has turned. Anger and indignation have taken hold of the citizens who have witnessed every statement of the negro farm hand borne out by investigations. It is charged Williams has been a notorious "nigger worker" and that in Monroe county, where he formerly lived, he was burned out for cruelty to employees. Maintained Stockade. It has developed that Williams kept his negro workers on his plantation in a strong house which is nothing short of a stockade. Stout wooden bars were on the windows and heavy doors guarded the entrances. This place was guarded during the night by Clyde Manning, who was an employe of Williams for fifteen years, and by Charley Chisholm, trusted negro, who later, according to Manning's confession, was slain by Williams.

TRADE WITH REDS DEPENDS ON BIG CLAIM FOR CASH

U. S. Will Demand Acknowledgment of Debt of $350,000,000 as Condition.

International News Service. WASHINGTON, March 28.—Acknowledgment of American claims aggregating more than $350,000,000 it is believed will be insisted upon by the United States as one of the conditions which must be complied with before there can be any trade agreement with Soviet Russia. Of this amount $187,720,750 was advanced by the United States government to Kerensky as head of the previous Russian government, while the remainder represents Russian loans floated in this country by private banking corporations, and unpaid interest. By far the greater part of the private loans were handled by J. P. Morgan and company and the National City Bank of New York. State department officials point out that in the trade agreement recently with Great Britain the Soviet government acknowledges in principle at least, all British claims for services of goods supplied to the Russian government. It is regarded that equal concessions will be demanded by the United States. There is no suggestion, however, that immediate payment will be demanded.

ANY 'ICE'? NO? YES? PRO-SLEUTHS FIND NEW BOOTLEGGERS' MARKET

NEW YORK, March 28.—Thousands of pushcart ice peddlers and milk wagon drivers, astute in sensing the profitable stimulus among their housewife customers, have developed this potential bootlegger market into wholesale proportions, federal prohibition enforcement agents revealed. Most of the pushcart ice men, they said have headquarters in apartment house basements. By a simple working agreement, their unseen customers along the dumb waiter shafts are able to make known their real wants simply by answering "yes" or "no" to the ice man's call of "ice" with a rising inflection. Milk wagon drivers operate somewhat differently, the enforcement agents said. They either carry hip flasks, which are sold while on their rounds or else deliver liquor in opaque containers.

BLAZE EARLY SUNDAY DOES $5000 DAMAGE

Fire at 4 a. m. Sunday broke out in the Golden Rule store at Pine and Rusk streets, doing damage of about $5,000 to that and adjoining businesses. The Golden Rule, owned by Sanger Brothers of Dallas and managed by Morris Cohen, was the heaviest loser. Its loss is estimated at about $3,000. The stock was protected by insurance. The Liberty cafe on the north and the Wide Awake cafe on the west both suffered from breakage and water damage.

This loss, with that of the Heart Drug company on Rusk street will run about $1,000. All the buildings are the property of the Farmers and Merchants bank and are damaged to the extent of $1,000, the loss being protected by insurance. The Golden Rule store had $180 in checks and currency burned in the fire. This amount totaled the sales of the firm after banking hours and was hidden in the building in a shoe box. The majority of the checks were from local oil companies and Cohen expects to have them replaced. The source of the fire has not yet been determined. It is said that it started in the roof of the Golden Rule building. Others are certain that it started in the front end of the floor of the same store which is of pine construction. The fire department has been unable to get reliable report as to its source. The Wide Awake cafe was not operating. It was closed several weeks ago. The Liberty will probably be re-opened for business shortly. Mr. Cohen went to Dallas last night to confer with the owners of the Golden Rule as to its disposition. It is thought that it will also re-open shortly.

BACHELOR, 67, CAN'T ADOPT PRETTY GIRL, 29

NEW YORK, March 28.—Surrogate John P. Cohalan today peremptorily denied to Herbert Custis, 67 years old, bachelor and retired business man, the pleasure of being the daddy by adoption, of twenty-nine-year-old Mary Lois Fox, who was described in Mr. Curtis' petition as a "professional entertainer, singer and elocutionist." "Wait until you get married. Then bring your husband around and I'll let you adopt this old man as your son if you desire," the surrogate told Miss Fox as she sat in the witness chair. Mr. Curtis, a stately and vigorous old man, presented Miss Fox upon the stand. He told the court that he met Miss Fox six years ago, when he went to take lessons in modern dancing. He said he had found her to be competent and had taken lessons from her for two years. Mr. Curtis asked the court for permission to adopt the young woman because of his high regard for her. "Well, you won't do it with the aid of this court," the court said. "I've never heard of such effrontery. I'm too startling. It's a parody on all the laws of society and common decency. If I were to be a party to such an adoption it would have a lot of young folks coming here wanting to adopt young girls."

TEXAS FRUIT MISSED FROST IS BELIEVED

DALLAS, March 28.—Early fruit and truck crops in Texas escaped damage by the sudden return of the wintry weather Sunday with the possible exception of the extreme northwestern sections and the Panhandle country. The thermometer reached freezing at Wichita Falls last night and apprehension is felt that tender vegetation might have suffered but it was unofficially reported that fruit had advanced to such a stage that damage is improbable. Abilene reports a thirty-one degree above zero and business shortly. Mr. Cohen went to Dallas last night to confer with the owners of the Golden Rule as to its disposition. It is thought that it will also re-open shortly.

PROGRAM

TEMPLE—Douglas Fairbanks in "The Nut," also comedy and Selznick News. LIBERTY—Nazimova, in "The Red Lantern," also comedy, "Kiss Me Again," and "The Avenging Arrow." LAMB—"Milestones," all-star cast also comedy and Pathe News. MAJESTIC—Frank Mayo in "Honor Bound," also comedy.

MAJESTIC.

Jacques Jaccard, cinema chemist, making "Honor Bound" his test tube in the laboratory of life-as-it-might-be, transplants two men from civilization to savagery, adds equal portions of liquor and tropical inertia, and permitted us to see the results last night at the Majestic theatre.

Frank Mayo is the star in Jaccard's story, which Jaccard also directed for Universal. The role is one calling for intense dramatic effort, and although the action occurs within a space of one year, Mayo uses three separate make-ups in three characterizations in one part. First he is the vapid college boy; then, banished to South America because of a dangerous prank, he speedily hardens and enters into the spirit of work; finally, back to face with a primitive experience, he reverts to type—"the throwback"—displaying the savage instincts of his ancient ancestors.

Dagmar Godowsky plays a half-breed native girl—a savage, wild, un-moral beauty who is as much animal as woman. Helen Lynch, Irene Blackwell, Edward Coxen, Charles Brinley, Gordon Sackville and Max Willink are seen to great advantage in well-sustained parts.

Jaccard in his story advances the theory that morality is only a matter of geography, and that environment and heredity are stronger factors in a man's life than his will power. Whether or not we can agree with him, we must admit he has written a highly dramatic story to support his contentions, and that it is no less fascinating as pure fiction because he has infused in it a little psychological propaganda.

TEMPLE.

It appears that Douglas Fairbanks' success has been due in a great measure to his deviation from the conventional and traditional in motion pictures. This is especially true of his most recent production, "The Nut," which is now playing at the Temple theatre.

In his story Fairbanks takes the part of an eccentric fellow whose hobby is invention. He is deeply in love with a girl who lives in the apartment above him in Greenwich Village. Having laid siege to this lady's heart, he invents ways of pleasing her and he also invents ways of getting out of trouble caused by his inventions.

Complications develop in the story when Doug undertakes to win the heart of the girl by obtaining from her the permission to use the home of a number of wealthy persons in a philanthropic project through which he hopes to make better citizens of New York's slum children.

He is opposed in this plan by a very plausible chap who poses as the girl's benefactor, but who in reality is the proprietor of a gambling house. The character portrayal in this picture is excellent because none of the characters are overdone, all true to life. As Charlie Jackson, Fairbanks gives one of the best character portrayals of his career, not only does he endow the role with a humanness and sympathy, but he injects a droll humor into his work which brands him as a comedian of the highest rank.

Marguerite DeLa Motte has the leading female role and William Lowery is the villain of the piece.

A Light Bill Is Sometimes a Heavy Expense—

By BILLY DE BECK

CARNIVAL HERE WITH LIONS LAW WOULDN'T SEIZE

The H. W. Campbell shows make their second appearance in Ranger this week, this time under the auspices of the American Legion. They are established on the 400 block on Pine street, just west of DeGroff hotel, and will remain through Saturday night.

This is perhaps the largest carnival touring the state, traveling in its own train of thirty cars and is said to number about 400 persons. Its attractions include a ferris wheel, carry-us-all, a whip, sea plane and trained wild animal act.

They had a lot of fun over those animals at Breckenridge last week. It seems that following a civil suit at Corsicana over the title to four lions, a court order directed Sheriff Head to take charge of the animals.

"All right, there are your lions," Campbell replied, "take 'em along." The order didn't provide for cages, and the sheriff didn't have any, so he left the pets right there. Every deputy sheriff who came to town was given the order and went up against the same difficulty, so everybody had a lot of fun.

The lions came to Ranger with the carnival.

STOLEN THRIFT STAMPS AND LIBERTY BOND FOUND IN REAR OWNER'S STORE

A Liberty bond and thrift stamps to the combined value of $75 and other papers of much greater value to their owner were found Saturday by Bob Tugles of the Ranger Water Works company in the rear of the Farmers and Merchants bank. Tugles had dentered the small space between the bank and the adjacent building on Rusk street to read a water meter when he found the papers scattered near a cash box of heavy tin. They were identified as the property of J. A. Killingsworth of the Jones-Cox company and returned to him before he had discovered the loss.

Since his property has been returned Mr. Killingsworth is certain that the box was stolen from the firm's safe Friday afternoon by two small boys who were in the back end of the store during the afternoon. One of them was noticed going out the rear door with a bulky object under his coat but no attention was paid to the occurrence.

It is supposed that the boys thought they were stealing money, but when they opened the box they had no idea as to the value of the bonds and stamps. Among the papers were insurance policies and other documents of value only to their owner.

The police have been given a description of the boys who are thought to have committed the theft.

MOST AUTO NUMBERS ARE "PIE" FOR THIEVES, SAYS RANGER POLICE OFFICER

Automobile numbers sunk into the casting of the engine instead of raised are "pie" for auto thieves, according to George Murphy of the local police department. Murphy says that a smooth thief can take a tool and change the numbers until it takes an expert to detect the change.

For example, he says that 1679 could easily be cut to read 4098 by converting the 1 into a 4; the 6 into a 0; the 7 to a 9 and the 9 to an 8. This work is aided by other factors such as an acetylene torch.

On cars having raised numbers they are filed away until the space is smooth and the numbers are then changed by being sunk into the casting of the engine. However, the bogus numbers in this case are readily apparent to those who know which class of cars have their numbers raised and which have them sunk in the castings.

PERSONALS

J. H. Fraser of the W. F. R. & F. W. railroad, left Saturday on a short business trip to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lovelace of Elvasville, spent Sunday in Ranger, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Shrum.

Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I just think Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For ten long years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most severe pains in my back, hips and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my arms hurt me to my finger tips. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and life had become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac when I noticed my appetite was improving and I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is really astonishing. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after-effects. I sleep just fine at night and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this statement, hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results, which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial.

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

ALARMED NEGRESS ALARMS NIGHT HAWKS WITH SIX-GUN BARRAGE

A series of shots disturbed the 3 a. m. quiet around the postoffice Sunday morning. At least six were fired and one bullet struck the sidewalk in front of Weiss Bros., though its landing there didn't jibe with the story told to officers. The bullet landed close to three persons.

Investigation revealed an excited negress in a snack back of the post-office, who claimed someone had tried to break in and she had fired the shots through a south side window as he tried to rip the screen off. There were no holes in the screen, there were no casualties, and officers are at a loss as to whether the shooter was really repulsing invaders, had a duel with a lover or was just feeling fine.

ABUSED WIFE PROMISES JUDGE TO STRIKE BACK

EL PASO, March 28.—Police Judge Charles Pollock said he would "board" David Aguilar free for ten days if his wife would promise to quit turning the other cheek and strike back the first time David hit her after he was released. The wife promised to hit back "if you will take him off my hands for a while, judge," she said.

David told the judge he applied the rod occasionally, but added that he thought he had a right to. "You have a right, like a fish," said the judge. "Your wife has promised to use a stick of wood and call the police the next time you touch her after we have taken care of you for ten days and if she doesn't do it we are going to get her up here for contempt of court or something else."

FAMOUS CHARACTER HEADS SMUGGLING RING ON BORDER

Aliens, Liquor and Drugs Cross Rio Grande, Govern- ment Learns.

EL PASO, March 28.—That a smuggling ring exists in Juarez for the purpose of smuggling aliens, liquor and drugs into the United States, is known among federal officials in El Paso, they said.

According to information given out by the government agents, the ring is well organized, headed by a character, famous on the border and known as "the Indian," who is regarded as one of the most clever smugglers ever known along the Rio Grande. For the past two years, immigration, customs and prohibition men have been trying to capture him, but have never been successful as he directs the operations in Juarez, sending his agents across the river with the smuggled goods and never appearing himself. One of his alleged lieutenants was recently captured and is now confined in the county jail awaiting trial. The others are in Juarez and are more cautious about showing themselves than before.

Playing upon the fear and ignorance of the peons and their families who come to Juarez seeking admission into the United States, "the Indian" and his gang do a thriving business importing them into this country.

It takes some time even for the educated American or Mexican traveler to unravel the "red tape" connected with the passport regulations, so that the ignorant peon is frightened at the thought of facing the American officials and being subjected to the literary test, the physical examination and other requirements.

Even those Mexicans of the lower classes who are entitled to entry into the United States allow their fears of the unknown details of passport regulations to make them victims of the smugglers. There was the case of a Mexican woman whose husband lived in the United States and who had been visiting her relatives in the state of Chihuahua. Returning by way of Juarez, she was approached by one of the smugglers who convinced her that it would be impossible for her to get back to this country and persuaded her to give him $50 to take her across the line. In El Paso she was so afraid of federal officials that she would not take a train for Arizona where she lived. United States officials finally heard of the case and gave her a passport.

Gang Has System.
Members of the gang have a system whereby they approach practically every immigrant coming into Juarez with an offer to transport them into the United States for a nominal fee varying from $5 to $50. Agents meet the trains coming in from the south and comb all the hotels of the city in search of their prospective victims. They easily convince the simple peons that they will be unable to meet the immigration requirements and that they can get them into the United States with little trouble and cheaper than if they went through the legitimate channels.

Immigration officials say that the present head tax and the $10 consular visa is in a large part responsible for the success of the ring. A peon arriving in Juarez from the south with the intention of coming to the United States must have a passport vised by an American consul, which costs $10. Then he goes to the bridge where he may be rejected by the public health authorities. If he is admitted he is charged a head tax of $3, making a total of $13 which the immigrant must pay for admission.

El Paso has never been a port for immigrant Europeans, but with the tightening up of the passport regulations at the Atlantic ports, immigration officials have noticed a decided influx in the direction of this port, especially during the past three or four months. Germans, Austrians and other aliens have been caught on the American side after they were alleged to have been smuggled over the border by the Mexican ring.

Big Rush Coming.
According to the figures at the immigration office, an average of 200 aliens are coming to Mexico on every boat that arrives there and the majority of them plan to enter the United States. While this in itself is constituting a problem for the local office the big rush has not begun, they think, for if the proposed restrictive immigration law is passed by the net congress, thousands will pour in, where now there are only a few hundred.

"There are millions in Europe who desire admittance into the United States and the Mexican border offers the only opportunity," said Clifford A. Perkins, United States immigration inspector in charge of the border patrol at El Paso. "We have received reports of their landing in Mexico but we cannot send men into the interior to follow their movements. It is all that we can do to check them when they appear on the border. Aliens who cannot get in rarely come by way of the seaports or Canada, because they stand no chance of admission, for the Canadian immigration laws are nearly as strict as ours. Then, too, in Canada we have United States inspectors at all the principal ports and if the immigrant is coming into the United States he is inspected when he lands and if he is not acceptable, is sent back to Europe and the steamship line must bear the expense of his deportation. This makes the steamship companies more careful as to whom they bring over. In Mexico there are no such regulations. All that the passenger must have is his passage money."

Congress has been warned of the expected rush on the border, Mr. Perkins said, and additional funds have been asked by the local service. It is not known whether this request will be complied with, but it is expected that some extra provision will be made for this district.

REDISTRIBUTING WEST TEXAS WILL BE PUSHED

Special to the Times.

QUANAH, March 28.—It is understood here that at the Panhandle Press convention in April at Amarillo the question of agitating for the division of the state so as to make the Panhandle and Plains an entity in the union will be brought up. It is said that an organization will be perfected for the purpose of inaugurating such propaganda. It is known that many of the towns in the Panhandle are not leathe to a division whereby the Panhandle would become a new state. Opposition to senators from other parts of the state who declined to help redistrict the West is rampant, it is said.

MAKING UP FOR EASTER.

Next to a woman—a woman as personified in the funny papers and by experienced husbands, that is—nothing is more variable and disturbing than the weather vagaries?

Why is it that Easter Sunday is so given to bad temper, for example?

It seems every year, when most everybody has gone to considerable expense and devoted considerable time to the pleasures of shopping, in order to do honor to the occasion, that it either turns cold, or rains disagreeably, or does both.

Verily, Easter is out of joint. It is a menace to baseball and the successful making of spring training guarantees.

However, today demonstrates the woman—and the weather—of it. Clean and gloriously bright just as we had been no sullessness yesterday, no temper to be taken out on everything and everybody.

For which Stockman et al. are very thankful. If old Sol will dominate his heavens tomorrow and next day, and the women will doll up in those new headgears and such like that couldn't be exhibited yesterday, and come out to the ball park with from one to half a dozen swains each, the situation may yet be saved.

WORK IS ENTERTAINING.

The story of the mail carrier who went over his route every day for three years without taking a vacation is known to practically every person. It may be in the school books for all that we know.

This mail carrier, you will remember, finally got a vacation—and spent it by coming down the next morning and riding around with his substitute.

That's a good joke. It is especially good because it is true. For instance here's Whitey, on his day off, down here to watch the rest of us get out the Times.

However, this tendency to tall shop and stay around the shop is more than a joke. It is an indication of a habit in life which makes much to ward stability and success. A man doesn't do very well at a work he doesn't like. And if he likes his line of endeavor, it is entertainment to him as well as a source of food and divers.

That isn't so much realized perhaps, until that "day off" come around. Then a man will find that his trade or profession is something very real and worth while, aside from the income it brings.

Peace has been arranged between Poland and Russia. Russia is going to be so busy killing her own citizen this season that she will not have time for any foreign adventures.—New York Telegraph.

They used to say it was no disgrace to be poor, but that it was very convenient. Finally the income tax collector made poverty convenient.—New York Herald.

These are indeed cutting times. Capital is cutting expenses by cutting wages, while labor, with cutting remarks, talks of cutting jobs.—Columbus Dispatch.

Why should folks "mirate" so much about the laws of grammar being broken in Chicago? Aren't all the other laws violated out there?—Columbia Record.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

The woman had stopped in the "Five and Ten" for a desperately-needed hair net. It was the noon hour and the girl behind the counter was being hailed from all sides by impatient customers who held out their purchases for her to wrap "at once."

Next the Woman was a befuddled Young Person greatly distraught over a purchase she was trying to return. "I bought it yesterday. The envelope said 'cap shape,' as you can see for yourself, and when I opened it up it was straight and not cap at all!"

The salesgirl held out a thin hand. "You're right, Miss. But to exchange it you'll have to go to the floorwalker down the aisle. We're not allowed to do it here."

"Oh dear!" the Young Person's voice was peevish. "I haven't time. I'll just have to lose the money, that's all. But it seems to me a ridiculous rule. Surely, you can see?"

"Sure, I can, Miss," the little clerk was all sympathy. "I'm not allowed to make exchanges, or I would. But it'll only take a minute. See, there's the floorwalker right down the aisle, Miss."

"Oh, never mind. I can't bother. Just give me another and I'll pay for it. I'll lose the dime."

"Oh, Miss," the girl behind the counter was in consternation. "I wouldn't have you do that, Miss," and like a flash she broke through the line of waiting customers, calling out "Mr. Speizer, Mr. Speizer, 'change, 'change, please."

She was back in an instant, a smile on her tired face. "See, it didn't take me a minute, Miss. Here's your new hair net, without losing the dime after all. And then turning to the Woman as the Young Person with an embarrassed "Thank you" sped off, "I hope you'll excuse my keeping you, Ma'am, but I just can't bear to see no one lose money when they ain't no need."

Matrimonial Psychology.
The returned bridegroom was jubilantly telling all the details of the wedding to his old friend, and the Woman sat back smiling at his account.

"The wedding was out at her house, you know, and I had to go to Chicago on Tuesday and take the train out to Sioux City from there. When I got on the dinner I saw a man and a woman, very evidently newly-weds, sitting at the table in front of me, while directly across were two men making sundry little jibes at the couple. One of the men caught my eye and, pointing his thumb to the pair, whispered, 'Bride and groom,' with the usual knowing look.

"Do you say a word," I said to him. "I'm coming back the same way tomorrow myself." "Good Lord!" he exclaimed, "so am I!" There he was going to Mason City to get married the next day and I was going to Sioux City. Wasn't that the funniest coincidence you ever heard of?"

The Woman smiled to herself at the age-old habit that every bridegroom has of thinking himself the only person in history who ever conceived the brilliant idea of taking a wife. It occurred to her that there was one of those strange differences in sex psychology—the woman wants to be married because all the other women are the man wants to be married because he thinks it's being different from all the other men. And probably both of them are right.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON

REAL STUFF.
Grown tired of all the modern books, in which sex stuff prevails, I said, "Ods bodkins and gadzooks, I'll say some old time tales. The authors of a bygone time wrote works that hit the spot, but modern authorship's a crime, and modern books are rot."

I took a Cooper story, then—a "Leather-stocking" yarn; the sight of it brought back again our old ancestral barn; there I would sit among the hay when I was but a child, and roamed with Cooper far away, in forests dark and wild. But now I turned the pages o'er, and heaved some very sighs; I found each character a bore, a preacher in disguise. The paleface hero strove to teach a lesson worth our while; the noble red men paused to preach in every forest aisle. The lovely damsels robed around in silks black and white, and preched a while when'er they found an audience in sight. The luckless captive didn't screech when burning at the stake; he merely saw a chance to preach, and windy maxims make. I read that book an hour or two, then threw it on the floor, and sighed, "Great Scott! Can it be true that once it didn't bore?"

And I was ever young enough to think that story fine? And did I ever read such stuff and thrill all up my spine?"

MALE TAGS ON FEMALE
DOGS SAVES FOUR BITS

By Associated Press.
EL PASO, March 28.—Tax Collector W. B. P. McSain believes "some people will falsify about most anything when money is involved." He said so when he learned that more than 100 dog owners had bought tags for their male dogs and had placed them on female dogs to save 50 cents. A tag for a male dog costs $1, for a female $1.50.

Tags for female dogs are heart-shaped, for males they are round.

LAND.
"Tap, tap, tap," and the King of the Forest and Silky the Monkey were on their way to some place—the King knew not where. He did know, however, that it was a place where the Creature of His Desire would show him something wonderful that he had never seen before. This was what he wanted.

"I never did see such a basket as this before," said Silky, who was hanging on to the edge of the basket for fear he might fall out. "My what a wonderful country this is, but I'm afraid I will fall out."

"Don't worry about falling out," said Tinker Bob, "You can't fall out of this basket. Just see here." Then the basket turned upside-down and Silky's heart was in his mouth, but nothing happened, for he did not fall out of the basket as he expected.

"You see this is a magic basket and it is controlled by the Creature of My Desire. All I have to do is to tap the Stones and this Creature comes with the basket at once."
This was the finest thing Silky had ever seen in all of his life in the Forest. Of course he had climbed to the top of the tallest trees many times but that was nothing compared with this ride over the tops of the trees and over the hills and the valleys in the Wonderful basket.

Tinker Bob didn't know where he was going only that he was going to see something wonderful, and something that was all new. The Creature of His Desire suddenly changed her course and came to the earth, and Tinker heard a peculiar sound. It was a little like the whine of Jack the Rabbit when he was caught in the Hunter's trap. He looked around but could see nothing. Then he listened again, and Silky listened also and again they both heard the whining sound. Silky was a little uneasy but Tinker knew that it was the voice of a creature whom he had never before seen.

with ink and fountain pins." It's come to this.

Without question the mothers declared drastic action to be vital and adopted resolutions favoring corrective measures including:

- 1. Putting all high school students to bed at 9 o'clock every night except Friday and Saturday.
- 2. Spanking them to bed if no other method will get them there at high school students.
- 3. Adopting uniforms for all girl school students.
- 4. Putting a stop to all dances save those sponsored by the high schools.
- 5. Chaperoning of all high school dances by some of the parents of students taking part.

For two hours the mothers listened to facts regarding their children's welfare from the grade principals. Mothers and teachers discussed their problems relating to dress, recreation and rest to the subject of sex hygiene. A mother's circle was organized to meet monthly in order to keep tabs on the "goings on" of their offspring.

"Our girls are the finest in the world, but the trend of the times, I suppose, since the war, is peculiar and the girls need directing," said Miss Alley. "You do not want your daughters to occasion such remarks as come to us from the men in charge of the school corners, why don't you tell your grade girls how to behave around boys at the recess hour?"

"Everything has become free and easy since the war, and it is shown in the young people's conduct. 'May we ask you to please see that 'make-up' cases are left at home if you permit their use. We have had to consider taking the looking glasses out of the lockers because of the primping. Two girls today were sent out of the room to wash their faces.' Miss Alley went on to tell the mothers that there were dance halls downtown where corsets and petticoats were quite out of style, checking facilities being offered for the articles in some; the "No corsets checked" sign up in others.

"If your boys or girls go to dancing school see that it is an accredited one. The parties given by Greek letter societies in the downtown hotels, often poorly chaperoned, and where 'robber dances' are the vogue have placed some of the girls in this school in a very embarrassing position."

Miss Alley urged that mothers keep their children home four nights in the week and see that they are not disturbed by friends "dropping in" on them.

"The next generation will be known for its nervous, high strung women, unless the girls get more rest," she said.

"Every girl in this school needs nine hours' sleep. Edison gets by with six, but these girls are not Edison's."

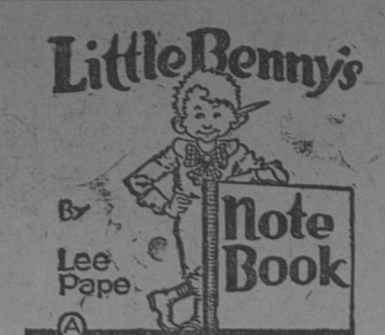

"And these girls need vigorous exercise to keep growing, and that should not consist of riding down on the street."

It was decided at the meeting that steps would be taken to bring on some such authority as Dr. Mabel Ulrich, of Minneapolis, or Dr. Miriam Parker, of New York, to present correctly the subject of sex hygiene.

Girls Speak Their Mind.
But let the girls have their inning. Two of them interviewed at the school, were unanimous on two points:

- "1. We will not wear uniforms. They give no chance for a girl's personality."
- "2. Everything is extreme nowadays. We don't claim to be angels, but we do claim we are not as black as we have been painted. Extreme styles in dancing and dress are prevalent in the so-called best society, and among our elders; so why pick on us, if we follow our elders?"

News of the receipt of liquors from abroad by Ambassadors in Washington is likely to be followed by record-breaking attendance at embassy receptions.—Boston Transcript.

Me and Skinny Martin each had a cent and there was a man with a push cart selling froot down at the corner. Skinny saying, Lets ask him how much those big red apples are, if theyre 2 cents apiece we can put together and buy one and each have half.

Which I asked him and he sed, 15 cents a pound.

G I dont meen holesale, I meen how much apiece? I sed, and the man sed 3 cents.

Being a tuff looking man with a big mustash, and me and Skinny started to wisper, me wispering, I tell you lets wat, lets one of us pertend to trip and bump into the push cart and maybe one of the apples will fall off and get a little squash on one side or something so he'll sell it to us for 2 cents reduced.

Which we matched cents to see who had to do the tripping and Skinny lost, and he tried to trip about 3 times and missed each time and all of a sudden he bumped rite in the push cart and a apple started to fall off and the man grabbed it jest in time, saying, Hay, hy, wats going on heer? And he grabbed a hold of Skinny, and I sed, He didnt do it on permiss, he's kind of nerviss and it makes him bump into things, aint you Skinny, dont it, Skinny?

Sure, Im nerviss as the dooce, sed Skinny.

Well then take yourself a walk and go somewares elts and be nerviss, sed the man. And he gave Skinny a push making him trip for reel, and he landed in a setting position and got up agen and me and him wawked away, Skinny keeping on pertending to trip every once in a while to prove he was nerviss in case the man was watching, and wen we got eround the corner we stopped and tried to think of some other way to get one for 2 cents.

Which we couldnt.

THE BANISHED BUNNY HUG.

Setting bounds to the restraint upon immorality appears to be about as brilliant a performance as the lashing of the sea by Xerxes. Yet there are those who strive to accomplish the impossible. They are moved by the curious belief that what is grossly evil in one place may be chaste good in another, as the learned philosopher said about polygamy. Reformers throughout the ages, next to feminine attire, have attacked the dance as a prolific source of sin. They are still seeking to correct its extremes.

There is today scarcely an American community of any size that is without an ordinance regulating dancing, and many of them have officers, mostly women, who go about seeing to it that the law is enforced. Only recently the council of a large Ohio city adopted an ordinance in which the forbidden postures and movements were described with meticulous care. At the end of the instrument, which prescribed heavy penalties for violation, there came as a postscript the extension of all private dancing parties from its terms.

What follows, therefore, is the fact that sensual salutory indulgence is forbidden only in public halls or platforms. To go through identically the same steps, slides and whirls in a hall to which admission is gained by invitation is permissible. At this point the inquirer, like Japheth searching for his father, begins a quest after the suppression of immorality, wondering meanwhile whether the Supreme Lawgiver recognizes the legal hair-splitting of this program, which is based upon a mere human bill of rights guaranteeing privacy to citizens of a state.

Reduced to a single term, the inhibited immorality, if any is to be found in the place and not in the act, and this being the case the ordinance is stark legal foolishness. It is merely a piece of class legislation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JUDGE HEARS SAMPLE OF OATHS, ORDERS SOAP TO CLEANSE USERS' MOUTH

By Associated Press.
EL PASO, March 28.—Two women and a man were arraigned before Justice of the Peace R. B. Rawlins, charged with using abusive language. Some of the things the three had said in a quarrel were reported to the justice to show him how vile the defendants had talked.

"Such language is unbecoming any man or woman," said Justice Rawlins. Then tossing a half dollar to a deputy constable he said:

"Go get me three bars of the strongest soap you can find. Tell the defendants to wash their mouths out with this soap or be fined. See that they do it. If they don't, bring them back in here and I will fine them. Warn them also that the next time they come here on such a charge they will have to cleanse their vile mouths behind the bars.

They used the soap.

WIFE BEATER GETS NINE YEARS IN QUANAH COURT

Special to the Times.
QUANAH, March 28.—Last week a jury in district court gave H. R. Brock, self confessed wife beater, a term of nine years in the state penitentiary. Refusing to employ counsel and confessing to the charges the defendant threw himself on the mercy of the court. It was brought out that Brock soon after his marriage grew jealous of his wife and on several occasions disfigured her, grinding her hand with his heel and burning her cheeks with a match.

An Advertising Editorial of Interest to Readers—

Lower Prices Made Possible By Advertising

Advertising plays a decidedly important and beneficial part in the price of merchandise.

In order to advertise successfully in the face of competition, a dealer must offer better goods, better store service, lower prices or easier terms than he might otherwise do. This means that he must increase his sales; instead of waiting for the trade to drift his way he must reach out and attract it to his store.

He must multiply his invitation to persons who need his goods; he must enlarge his field of operation from a few hundred to thousands—and he can do this in no other way than through the medium of advertising.

The larger business produced by advertising enables the dealer to spread his selling cost and overhead expense over a wider range and thus lower the price of the goods he sells. It is simply a question of smaller profits, but larger sales.

Half Holiday Tomorrow! All Out To See Ty Cobb

Ty Cobb himself will lead his Detroit Tigers into Ranger tomorrow for a two-game series with Columbus. This will be the big-time act ending the Senators training season here, and Wednesday night they start the long homeward jaunt.

It is planned to make tomorrow a half-holiday, in order that all residents of this section may have a chance to jar loose from the job for a few hours and behold the baseball wizard of all time in action. Ty will bring his first team out from Fort Worth and a great day is expected. Merchants and other business houses are asked to close in a proclamation which Mayor Hagaman issued this afternoon.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, today Tyrus Raymond Cobb, America's greatest ball player and manager of the Detroit Tigers, has honored Ranger by bringing his team here for a series with the Columbus team, and

"Whereas, Ranger should show appreciation for this visit by turning out in as large numbers as possible, both to greet the visitors and to give a farewell sendoff to the Columbus players who have been with us for the past month,

"Therefore I urge upon every business house, the operation of which is not absolutely essential, that it close for the necessary portion of the afternoon, and I further urge upon all citizens to gather at the baseball park that through their presence this occasion may be a complete success.

"M. H. HAGAMAN, Mayor."

COLD WEATHER DRIVES FANS TO HOTEL HEARTH

Herzog Tells Tales of the Funny Side of Big Time Baseball.

Our old friend Keats once was moved to poetry by the cold. Our old friend Jim and a lotta other ball players were moved to cussin' yesterday by the cold.

For that zippy zephyr made a sad turnover from the warmth of the preceding day, and utterly spoiled an afternoon in which Jim and his Marines had hoped to get even with Columbus for the drubbing handed them Saturday.

All sport was of the indoor variety. The huge chimneys in the Gholson lobby were the centers of attraction. At one of them sat Charles "Buck" Herzog, and as the innings passed by, more and more Columbus players, Dallas players, Ranger players, plain and fancy fans and newspaper men gathered around. For Buck was telling events and episodes and incidents of his big league career—the folks he had known and the things they had done—and it was an interesting affair.

Buck devoted a lot of time to "Rabbit" Maranville and his doings. It seems that Rabbit, aside from being a star shortstop, is a "cuckoo" as well. One time the Rabbit went out to the park feeling extra fine, Buck related, and when the fray started was still feeling pretty good. Hank O'Day was umpiring on that occasion, and the spread of his legs interested Rabbit. Suddenly he made a nose dive between O'Day's legs while the pitcher was delivering the ball. It looked funnier than it sounds. It so entertained Rabbit that he tried it several times more, and got away with it.

That was a sample of the stuff that kept the audience amused until Buck decided to eat.

Brainard and Pechaus arrived here Saturday night, completing the Senator squad. Both were regulars last year, and felt they had a little leeway in reporting. Brainard said he did the same thing last year and was ready in three days, as he kept in shape all the time. Pechaus, last year's third baseman, is rated by the players who know him as the flashiest infielder in the league. He probably will break into one of the games with Detroit, Manager Rowland said last night.

The Dallas team headed homeward last night. They had a tentative ar-

TEX RICKARD IS CHAMPION OF PROMOTERS

Famous Fight Director Is Not Basking in Light of Past Achievements.

By JACK VEIOCK, International News Sporting Editor. NEW YORK, March 28.—Tex Rickard is without doubt a "champion du monde" in the line of fistic promotion.

No promoter, past or present has staged so many big matches and no one man has matched as many champions.

Rickard is not through yet, by a long shot. He has the big Dempsey-Carpentier match to come off July 2 and he plans to continue promoting boxing at Madison Square Garden or some moons, as he has a lease that covers a period of ten years. So if boxing holds its ground in the Empire state, and Rickard stays in the game, he will be sure to hang up a record for promoting boxing classics that will never be equalled.

"What good is a champion if he doesn't fight?" asks Rickard.

"He's a blank," came the answer.

"And that's why I went right out after the champs as soon as I got the Garden." Tex continued. "People want to see the best boxers. They'll stand for the second and third raters part of the time, but the champs and near-champs are the ones who bring them out."

Acting on this theory Tex went after the biggest cards in the knuckle-dusting fraternity and to date he has staged six championship bouts, all in a period of a few months.

Jack Dempsey knocked out Bill Brennan in Rickard's arena in twelve rounds.

Jack Britton vanquished Kid Lewis in a struggle for the welterweight title and Joe Lunch uncrowned Pete Herman in a fifteen-round bout that brought down the house, causing the Garden to tremble with the uproar.

Lastly, Tex got Johnny Wilson and Mike O'Dowd together.

The Dempsey-Carpentier mitt-pushing fest will be the seventh title event pulled off under Rickard's supervision within eight months' time and before Patrick Kiibane and Andy Chaney or some other likely opponent for a featherweight title bout.

With Jimmy Wilde preparing to return to the United States it is not unlikely that Rickard will make a match between Wilde and one of America's best-pocket editions of pugilism for the world's fly-weight crown. Wilde is also ambitious to annex the bantam championship and would not be averse to a meeting with Joe Lynch or whoever holds the bantamweight title when he gave away twelve or more pounds and successfully combed via the kayo route.

But Levinsky, the light heavyweight champion of America, despite his defeat at the hands of Georges Carpentier, is still in the game looking for trouble and he may defend his American title.

Tommy Gibbons who is paying Jack Dempsey, Bill Brennan, Charles Wienert, Bob Martin, Bob Roper, Bat Levinsky or any other heavy or light-heavy who longs to mingle, will be under Rickard's supervision sooner or later. Rickard wants to put Gibbons on but so far has been unable to land an opponent for him.

BOSTON BRAVES RAPIDLY WHIPPING PLAYERS INTO SHAPE AT GALVESTON

By Associated Press

GALVESTON, March 28.—Although the Boston Braves were among the last of the big league clubs to reach their training camp, so sympathetic has been the weather here that Manager Fred Mitchell's Braves are rounding into top-notch condition much earlier than had been expected. So far only one rainy day has broken into the Braves' schedule, and then only one practice period had to be called off.

The training down period will arrive when the Braves start wending their way northward for the opening of the National league season. Recruits, either released unconditionally or farmed out to minor league clubs, will be carried as near their homes as possible, Manager Mitchell has announced, as the Braves work north and east with their series of exhibition games. Recruits from the western coast will be exceptions to this rule, as well as those who are booked for Texas league berths.

WEST TEXAS IS PUTTING MUCH MONEY IN ROADS

Seven Counties Will Have $4,400,000 for Permanent Highways.

By W. HAMILTON WRIGHT, Times Staff Correspondent.

MIDLAND, March 28.—The tier of counties in West Texas through which the Texas & Pacific railway runs is spending probably more funds for permanent highways than any similar number of counties in the state, according to information received here.

Counties which have already voted bonds for a continuous permanent highway, which shall become known as the Bankhead highway, the transcontinental tourist road, together with the amount represented in bonds, are: El Paso, $282,000; Hudspeth, $50,000; Jeff Davis, $80,000; Reeves, $115,000; Midland, $125,000; Martin, $60,000; Howard, $800,000 and now Pecos comes forward with a bond issue of $100,000. The Toyah district in Reeves county recently voted $80,000 in bonds, of which amount $68,000 will be used on the Bankhead highway.

To match the amount of the bonds voted the federal and state departments will put up three for one, insuring an immense fund for the Bankhead and laterals. It is reported that the seven counties west of Big Spring have already voted $1,100,000, making a total of $4,400,000 which will have been expended on this system of good roads when they have been completed.

A lateral from Saragosa to Head Springs in the famous alfalfa belt of the Pecos valley will be built to make possible a drawing card from interior sections and stimulate diversion for a time of some tourists crossing the continent to the famous Davis mountains, which have no peer in the Southwest for scenery and pleasure retreats. Over $35,000 in bonds have been issued in that section, which will be supplemented by an equal amount from the part of the state highway department.

The construction of these admirable roads is providing an unusual amount of employment to the idle of West Texas, especially at a time when business is at a low ebb. Many persons figuring on leaving until conditions became better are now content to help their counties and state in constructing the highway in the Southwest.

Colorado and Mitchell counties already have splendid roads, which require some repairs to make them up to the standard required by the federal engineers. The excessive rains of last summer damaged these roads somewhat, but the injury can be repaired quickly and economically.

TELLS POLLS AUTOMOBILE TIRES

QUANAH, March 28.—The best fish story of the season has just come to light here. A Quanah lad while fishing in railroad lake here got a "bite," and upon pulling up his line and hook, brought four perfectly new automobile tires to the surface. They are valued at $75. It is believed they were thrown into the water to hide until later.

Low Priced Product of South Has High Value for Purpose.

Special to the Times.

DALLAS, March 28.—With the continued low price of cotton linters, increasing interest is being manifested in the manufacture of pulp from this material, according to the research department of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, which has received many requests for information of this new industry. Plants have been erected, or are in the process of erection at Commerce, Texas, Memphis, Tenn., Augusta, Ga., and Hopewell, Va., for the manufacture of paper pulp from cotton linters, and letters have been received by the Texas Chamber of Commerce from other cities where the advisability of erecting such factories are now under consideration.

The forest products laboratory of the United States department of agriculture recently has made an exhaustive study of the value of cotton linters as paper material, and their conclusion states that "Pulp made from cotton linters and shavings is well suited for the manufacture of book, writing, blotting and other high grades of paper, and is at least the equal of the best grades of wood pulp used for this purpose; if the paper industry will avail itself of this new source of raw material, there is every indication that a large tonnage can be produced and at a cost to complete with woodpulp."

Government specialists who made this experiment also declared that "second cut cotton linters and shavings can easily be pulped with approximately one-half of the consumption of chemicals required to reduce wood by alkaline processes of digestion, and bleached with a very low bleach consumption."

Makes Good Paper.

A number of the largest paper manufacturing concerns of the nation have been experimenting with cotton linters as a possible substitute for wood pulp for manufacturing book and writing paper, and some of them, it is true, are not as enthusiastic as the government specialists. None of them deny that splendid paper can be made of cotton linters, for high grades of paper are now being manufactured from second cut linters and shavings; the specialists of some of these concerns, however, expressed the fear that a rise in the price of cotton linters might make the cotton linter paper concerns unable to compete with the wood pulp mills.

Opinions received from some of the oldest and most reliable paper mill engineering houses in the United States, however, expressed considerable optimism for the new industry, and figures have been produced to show that cotton linters paper could compete with wood pulp products even at a much higher price than the present market quotations upon linters.

Before the outbreak of the war, cotton linters were used as a stuffing for upholstery, mattresses, horse collars, cushions, etc., as well as for the manufacture of smokeless powder, pyroxylin, varnishes and plastics. During the war cotton linter consumption was largely diverted to government use to meet the big demand for this material for the manufacture of nitrocellulose. So great was the demand, in fact that the government appealed to cottonseed oil mills to increase their supply of linters by closer cutting of the seed. Previously only 50 or 55 pounds of linters had been obtained from a ton of seed, but during the war, many mills installed machinery which would take as much as 180 pounds of linters from a ton of cotton seed.

One of the large paper concerns of the north, writing to the Texas Chamber of Commerce, expressed the belief that cotton mills will gradually make it a general practice to trim the first cut from cotton seed (about fifty pounds to the ton of seed) for purposes for which it was formerly used, and then utilize the second cutting (100 to 130 pounds) in the paper industry. The length of fibers of this second cutting is usually about two millimeters, and makes an excellent quality of paper.

Plants Established.

While some of the large paper companies with which the state chamber research department has been in correspondence, expressed a hesitancy to enter the cotton linter paper field at present due to the tendency of both linters and paper to fluctuate in price, other firms are experimenting and declare themselves ready to enter this end of the industry. One of the largest manufacturing concerns in the United States has already invested considerable capital in two plants.

Estimates upon the costs of equipment vary widely, according to information received by the Texas Chamber of Commerce from a number of sources including industrial plant engineering concerns and paper and pulp mills. A mill which manufactures 90 per cent dry pulp will cost anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 for each ton of daily output, i. e., a mill with 20-ton daily capacity would cost from $300,000 to $500,000, according to local conditions and type of machinery installed. One engineer placed the figure as high as $82,500 a ton. For pulp and paper mill combined, the cost would be $85,000 to $50,000 for each ton of daily output, or $700,000 to $1,000,000 for a twenty-ton mill. A working capital of from $250,000 to $500,000 is advised by every specialist who has written upon the subject, and most of them advise against the construction of a mill with less than 20 or 25 tons daily capacity.

The prevailing opinion that paper mills should be operated by water power is wrong, says one of the engineers, since the factories can utilize the steam from the engine exhausts in the manufacture of the pulp. A considerable supply of fresh water is needed, however, for the washing process.

Much information has been collected by the Texas Chamber of Commerce and compiled into a report which is intended to give the reader the good features and the possible disadvantages of this new industry, as well as supply him with a list of sources of information from which he can draw further information. This report is available to anyone interested in it.

SORGHUM SEED IS GOOD FEED FOR CATTLE

BY W. HAMILTON WRIGHT, Times Staff Correspondent.

STAMFORD, March 28.—Following the announcement of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that it would identify itself with the plan to stimulate the feeding of the sorghum grains to blooded cattle of West Texas to bring about a better price for the grain "on the hoof," Homer D. Wade, city manager of Stamford, announces that the three local banks have agreed to finance twenty-five Stamford school district boys in the purchase of Hereford calves and the formation of the Stamford "Baby Beef Club," under the management of W. C. Hudson, a local farmer.

The purpose in encouraging purchase and feeding of this stock is to help in the diversification idea that we have now come to practice because of the incentive to grow cotton having been curtailed. The plan of C. C. French in his campaign with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is to promote the utilization of more of the sorghum grains, which have been almost as much a drug on the market as cotton, although recent experiment station tests reveal the fact that these grains have practically the same feed value as corn. Mr. Hudson is very enthusiastic over the prospects of bringing his "baby beef club" to the fore as a force for the development of the stock business in West Texas, not only helping the farmer to look more to bred cows, but to the consumption of the grains which he himself raises and now has no good market for. The promotion of this idea, it was pointed out, will result in quite a curtailment of inbound shipments of grain for livestock when the use of the sorghum grains gets a better hold among the stock farmer.

It has been estimated that not less than 60,000,000 bushels of the sorghum grains were produced in West Texas in 1920 and an equal amount the previous year. It is hard to arrive at figures to indicate the amount of this production still in the hands of the farmers. In some of the years when the corn in central, east and other portions of the state did not produce sufficiently, much of the surplus grain sorghums of this section were shipped to them. However, in the last two years the corn production has been high and there has been no reason to call on the West for a substitute. Hence, the farmers here have been compelled to retain the production, some of which is wasted and ruined by weather because of the insufficient storage facilities on the farms. The North does not yet appreciate the value of the grain sorghums, and hence do not make any demand upon the West for its surplus. The West has reached the crossroads where it will seek to utilize its own grains in producing better and more beef animals.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT.

"No, Bobby," said his mother, "one piece of cake is quite enough for you!"

"It's funny," responded Bobby with an injured air. "You say you are anxious that I should learn to eat properly and yet you won't give me a chance to practice!"—Boston Post.

NOT SO SURE.

An elderly man was persuaded by one of his sons to go with him to a football game.

The son, intent upon giving his father a good time, had bought two seats in the grand stand.

"Now," said the son, joyfully, "you'll see more excitement for your $2 than you've ever seen before."

The old man grunted. "I don't know so much about that," he said dismally. "Two dollars was all I paid for my marriage license."—Houston Post.
