TEXAS GRADS OFFER AID TO SERVICE MEN SEEKING EDUCATION

AUSTIN, Aug. 24.—In order that former service men and women who require financial aid to attend the university of Texas may experience no difficulties in borrowing funds to launch their education, if they desire to do so, the Students Memorial Loan Fund has been placed at their disposal, Will C. Hogg, president of the ex-student's association announces.

The fund was originated over a year ago as a memorial to the university soldiers who died in service and is made up by subscription, there being approximately six hundred men and women in the state subscribing $50 or more to it.

During the past school year fifty-four ex-service men received aid from the memorial fund to whatever extent it was necessary in order for them to be able to attend the university. No special account was taken at the time of the awards of the previous scholastic attainments of the applicants, but the committee has expressed much gratification at the uniformly good work done by these students and the really excellent records made in many cases. Ex-service men and women receive the preference in the award of these loans, but it is thought that some loans may be possible this year outside of the preferred group. In the case of applicants other than former service men the previous scholarship record will be considered.

ARMISTICE TERMS DRAW ULTIMATUM

LONDON, Aug. 24. Great Britain and Italy will refuse recognition of the Russian Soviet government if it does not immediately withdraw the demand presented in the Minsk peace terms that Poland raise a proletarian army.

This move was decided upon at a meeting of Premiers Lloyd George and Giolitti at a meeting held in Lucerne, Switzerland and it is understood there that a virtual ultimatum has been sent to Moscow by the two premiers.

Presentation of the clause in the peace terms laid before the Polish delegates at Minsk after Kamenoff, the Soviet representative here, had announced that nothing important would be added to the peace conditions made public by him in this city last week was denounced as a gross breach of faith in the premier's statement, which said that negotiations of any kind with a government which so lightly treats its word become "difficult if not impossible."

The premiers indicated that they would secure for Poland use of a corridor south from Danzig and if necessary would use troops to carry out their plans.

Speedy Returns Urged by S. Fisk County Chairman

All judges of election in the county have been sent instructions by G. Fisk, chairman of the county Democratic committee, urging that they make as good, or better, showing in the second primary, next Saturday, as was made in the first primary.

His preparations to insure a speedy gathering of the returns are outlined in this letter to the election judges: To the Judges of the Election:

Eastland county won a reputation by rapid counting and making quick reports in the last primary and I hope that we will be able to even do better this time, August 28th.

The ticket is short and we should be able to keep up with the counting if we are ready to begin immediately after the polls open.

Take a ticket and copy the total vote of each candidate just as soon as the counting has been finished, go to the nearest telephone and call me at Cisco, collect. Do not talk to anyone else, and give me the results, and ask for any information that you may wish.

We should guard carefully the ballot box and see to it that no person belonging to some other party votes in this primary. We should urge all Democrats to vote, but persons belonging to other parties should be turned down. The judge has the right to challenge and to swear the voters and the party will hold each election judge responsible. The election judge should refuse to permit a person to vote whom he knows is not a democrat, just as he would a person who has not paid his poll tax. No ticket which has the pledge scratched will be counted. The judge of election should be careful with each and every ticket so that he may account for every one of them. If we should have a contest let us so guard the election that we may "come clean."

The commission is sitting today to hear the claims of the express companies.

The action of the local body followed a telegram from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce asking that if or similar action be taken.

RAILROADS TO PROTEST TEXAS COMMISSION RATES

AUSTIN, Aug. 24.—The difference between the annual revenue Texas railroads would receive under the advanced interstate rates allowed by the Railroad Commission and the increased interstate rates the roads have announced they will request the Interstate Commerce Commission to promulgate is approximately $11,000,000, according to figures compiled by the Texas commission.

The railroads contend that the Texas commission has no authority to fix a lower rate than the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Texas commission contends that it complied with the act of Congress by fixing freight rates which will yield the roads 6 per cent on the valuation of their property.

The Interstate Commerce Commission considered the southern division as a whole when fixing a rate to yield the roads 6 per cent on the valuation of their property, while the Texas commission considered only valuations and earnings in this state, the commission says.

In June of each year the fee is returned and members receive rebates based upon the amount of goods they have purchased. The society was organized in 1890, when a store was established to handle students' supplies in a small room of the main building. Since that time the business has expanded until the society owns a brick building adjacent to the campus and handles a complete stock of school supplies, athletic goods and toilet articles.

Says Lots of Things Going on of Which Harding Knows Nothing.

DAYTON, Aug. 24.—Governor Cox today declared in a statement that he would "prove" his charges as to the magnitude of the Republican campaign funds. He said he would present this information in his address next Thursday night at Pittsburgh.

The statement of Governor Cox follows: "Senator Harding denies my charges about the campaign fund the senatorial oligarchy is raising and I am prepared to believe he knows nothing about a lot of things that are going on around him. This reveals the very dangerous system I have been discussing. In my Pittsburgh speech I will advise the country of the matters the senator claims to be ignorant of and will prove my charges."

TEXAS DIVISION OF BANKHEAD HIGHWAY THOUSAND MILES LONG

AUSTIN, Aug. 24.—Progress of construction of highway No. 1, known as the Bankhead highway, the longest state highway of the United States in its stretch of 1,080 miles from Texarkana to El Paso, was outlined by R. M. Hubbard, chairman of the state highway commission, in a speech before the military convoy which is touring the Bankhead highway proper.

"We have completed 115 miles of the Bankhead in Texas," he said. "We have under construction 198 miles; construction work on 337 additional miles will be begun soon and we have every reason to believe it will be only a short time before all the Bankhead in Texas will be entirely constructed."

Texas counties traversed by the Bankhead transacting highway have voted $27,405,000 in road bonds since the first of the year, the commissioner said. Dallas county voted $6,500,000 of this amount and Eastland county $5,000,000, while Rockwall, the smallest county of the state, voted $800,000, or $800 per voter, to construct a concrete pavement on the Bankhead from county line to county line.

KINGSVILLE WORKMEN CONTEST HIGH RENTS

By Associated Press
 CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 24.—Southwest Texas has its first tenants' association. A notice published in a Corpus Christi newspaper informs "all landlords" that as a committee representing the Federated Crafts of Laboring Men residing in Kingsville, Texas, we desire to notify you that said laboring men will not in future pay the exorbitant rents often demanded for a dwelling house. We are willing to pay promptly and cheerfully a rental of which will yield a fair return upon the reasonable cash value of the property; if an exorbitant demand is made we expect to tender you such reasonable rental in lieu thereof.
 The notice further stated that tenants belonging to the Federated Crafts of Laboring Men will refuse to vacate rented premises upon the demand of the owner "unless and until we can obtain another shelter for ourselves and our families at a reasonable rent."
 The signers of the notice suggested a board of arbitration to pass upon rental disputes to be composed of one member selected by the landlord, one by the tenant and the third by the two members thus selected. "The decision of such board after reasonable notice and full hearing to be final and binding."

Bodies of American soldiers buried in Belgium will be removed after Oct. 1. Some of the bodies will be returned to the United States, while others will be placed in permanent cemeteries in Belgium.

Beaumont B. Buck

By DICKEY DONAHUE
 It was at the hour of his homecoming after having lead the charges of Texas soldiers at Chateau Thierry that I met Major General Beaumont B. Buck at Dallas.

A band and a drum corps reception committee had forgotten to do him honor. He made an effort to evade the committee and seek refuge in an automobile, but he was surrounded and forced to join in an impromptu parade to one of Dallas hotels. There another delegation of Dallasites talked to him.

Gen. Buck did not seem bored by the proceedings, neither did he seem to enjoy them. He just appeared a bit abashed. He was accompanied by a military aide, a young major who acted as aide, and both of them were many times during that morning on the verge of fleeing in pure timidity.

Buck was a tall, soldierly man. He typifies the West Point man of the earlier nineties. Had he been swathed in a blanket with only his face showing, it would have been plain to even the most unobservant that Buck was a military man. He talked very little while the group of well-wishers was thick about him, but later, in the privacy of his room at the hotel he became more talkative and even at times grew absolutely vivacious.

He would talk very little of his war record. If information were bluntly asked he would refer the question to the young major and the modest young major would dodge the issue and try to shut you off onto a conversation of siding. But Buck would talk about Dallas and the people he knew during his younger years there. State Senator McNealus, an old friend of Buck's, was with him during his whole stay in Dallas. I had already arranged with the senator to question Buck for me, the idea being that the senator could keep the mind of the general in the proper channels more advantageously than I could hope to. At one point McNealus reminded Buck of a certain young lady who got real, in those days an apprentice printer, used to squire about. I was amazed to see the somewhat pallid face of the general suffuse like a boy in his teens. He recovered quickly, however, and followed up the same train of thought by talking of many "solid citizens" of Dallas, who, it seems, according to his reminiscences, were not always god-like and great. He looked keen delight in slyly jabbing local letitits with tales of their younger years. One thing occurred during my interview with Buck that had it been any other person, I would have suspected him of being in the employ of the tobacco trusts. A woman interview on another Dallas newspaper asked Buck, casually how long he had been smoking. "Three years," he replied. "And had I known the benefits of nicotine, I would have begun smoking twenty-five years ago."

DODGES WIFE; BUYS PISTOL; SHOOTS SELF

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Gossip that her husband had been paying attention to another woman, while she was at the seashore, prompted Mrs. Samuel Smukler to confront him in Newark yesterday and repeat to him the stories she had heard. Within an hour Smukler lay dead in his suite at the Aberdeen Hotel, No. 10 Washington Place, Newark, a suicide.

Smukler was in the offices of the Travelers' Insurance company, at Broad and Market streets, when his wife visited him with their twelve year old daughter. After a short talk the couple left. They walked along Broad street and broke into a violent quarrel. Mrs. Smukler said she was pleading with her husband to forego his alleged attentions to the other woman when he finally declared angrily: "I'm tired of this and I'm going to end it all."

Mrs. Smukler told the police she tried to drive the idea of suicide out of her husband's head. She thought she had succeeded until he visited a sporting goods store and bought a revolver. He repeated his threat, she said and ran away from her, boarding a trolley car. Mrs. Smukler said she did not know the address of the Aberdeen but when she found it, took a taxi and rushed there. Going to his rooms on the third floor she heard a shot just as she reached the door. She rushed in and found Smukler lying on the floor, dead, the revolver in his hand.

Although the Smuklers had not been estranged, the wife said she had noticed a coolness in her husband's attentions. She said she had heard he had been attending to another woman more than two years. Three months ago she went to pass the summer with her daughter, and seven year old son, at No. 501 Fifth avenue, Bradley Beach. Since then, she said, she heard more stories concerning her husband and decided to go to Newark and plead with him.

LARGE ACREAGE OF VOLUNTEER WHEAT BRINGS WEALTH TO MANY KANSAS FARMERS; CROP HEAVY

By Associated Press
 TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 24.—Stories of sudden wealth in the Kansas wheat belt are numerous this year, due to the unusual acreage of "volunteer wheat," a crop grown from seeds which fall in the previous harvesting. Officially estimated there was 1,500,000 acres of volunteer wheat in Kansas this year, or about a sixth of the total harvested acreage. This wheat yielded probably 40,000,000 bushels or representing a monetary value of about $100,000,000. The total Kansas crop of wheat is estimated officially at 150,000,000 bushels.

The large acreage of volunteer wheat is due to the fact that a great deal of this acreage was deserted as wheat land by the owners, after last year's none too bountiful crop had been harvested. The 1919 acreage was in excess of 11,000,000 by far the record for any state in the union. A wet fall caused the kernels of wheat which had fallen to the ground during the harvesting season to germinate. Finding the "volunteer" crop making a stand, farmers did not disturb the estimate by the state board of agriculture.

The one big drawback to the Kansas wheat growers' prosperity this year is lack of facilities in which to transport his wheat to the market centers. Cars are still scarce, especially in the central and western parts of the state but the situation is not as desperate as it was two months ago, grain dealers report.

Favorable summer rains have practically assured a big corn crop in Kansas this season. The crop has been officially estimated at 140,000,000 bushels and the official forecasters now assert that the continued favorable weather means the yield will mount still higher. The Kansas weather bureau here reported that it is the first year in its 32 years existence that Kansas had "bumper" wheat and corn crops the same year. A banker who has lived in Kansas 5 years is authority for the statement that such a favorable crop combination never before occurred.

Similar conditions prevail with the oats.

BELIEVES ADAM AND EVE WROTE A POEM OR TWO

By H. B. TOURTEL, Assistant Editor of the Bailey Express. LONDON, Aug. 24.—Angels with flaming swords were posted to guard the gates of Eden after the expulsion of Adam and Eve. In spite of evidence to the contrary, I have an idea that they—Adam and Eve—must have written some poems.

ADMIRAL JELlicoe IS CRITICIZED BY NOTED NAVAL EXPERT

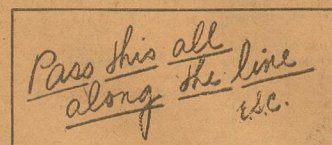

LONDON, Aug. 24.—"In January, omitting the French and Japanese destroyers, we had 320 torpedo boat destroyers, of which 283 were in the home waters, and by June the number in home waters had increased by fifty-eight, but only six of these were American boats and two were old boats, presumably under repair by January," writes A. H. Pullen, a well-known naval writer, in his criticism of Lord Jellicoe's new book, "The Crisis of the Naval War," in the Sunday Times.

DEAR PETE:

Just blew into Pittsburg to close that N and P purchase. While I was waiting for the contract to be signed who ambles in to the G. M.'s office but President Holt! Asked me if I had a cigarette. Slipped him my "Camel Garage." Remember, he hit the "straight" boys when I met him last year? Pete, you ought to hear Mr. Holt talk Camels! Gee, I thought I was some Camel spieler. But he went right to the mat with the subject. Say, if I could have shorthanded that line of super-stuff I'd have the job writing Camel ads by noon today!

Pass this all along the line etc.

writes, "was to give the convoy system a trial." Pollen declares that this is a damaging admission and concludes with the statement: "The American help was not, could not be a decisive factor." "Lord Jellicoe's plan for combating the under-sea menace, as told in his book, was with depth charges, depth charge throwers, special shells, smoke apparatus, hydrophones, paravanes, the arming of merchantmen, aircraft, decoy ships, new types of gunboats, net protection, coastal motor boats, mines, flares and electrical detectors and he admits quite frankly that his plans were not ready in time. His principal reasons for fighting against the adoption of the convoy system is that merchantmen could not keep pace in the convoy, and that there were not a sufficient number of destroyers for convoy work.

TRAFFIC POSTS.

The traffic posts on Main street, originally designed and placed to fill a need which the city felt, and equipped to handle the jam of traffic with the Stop-Go system, had the justification of utility when they were installed, though they are not ornamental. Now they are neither useful, in their present shape, nor ornamental. They are unsightly.

The traffic handling system which the city used at the times these slender iron posts in their concrete bases were placed is not necessary and passed out of vogue months ago.

The old Stop-Go signs have been battered and shifted, bent by careless drivers and the iron pipes above the concrete bases are drunkenly askew.

If posts are needed, and they do serve the purpose of keeping drivers from cutting corners, put in neat and sturdy ones, not testimonials to civic shiftlessness, but monuments of neatness. Better none than the present relics.

USE SUBWAY GARAGES

By Associated Press CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—A plan to relieve congestion in Chicago by parking cars in subway garages under Grant Park, on the lake front, has been received. It was originally broached by Mayor Carter Harrison in 1913.

Under the proposed plan, seven garages, each the size of a city block, would be constructed under the park. A four foot layer of loam on the concrete roof would provide soil for grass, flowers, and shrubs. Each garage would have a capacity of 225 cars. Entering by an inclined drive way from one street, the motorist would stop at the garage office to receive the number of his stall and the key to a locker at the foot of his parking space. In the locker he could keep robes, coats, gloves and other loose articles. All traffic in the garages would move in the same direction, with the exit on the side opposite the entrance.

At the time the plans were prepared, seven years ago, it was estimated the garages would cost $125,000.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

C. DREAM OF HOT WATER In various ways, dreams of hot or boiling water very frequently come to women between the ages of 20 and 40. At times they are accompanied by quite exciting episodes, at others they are blurred and seemingly inexplicable, and the only impression that remains vividly in the memory, is the hot water.

The meanings of such dreams are peculiarly varied. I will enumerate those which happen to come to my mind. In asking for interpretations of such visions, be sure to mention your age and whether you are married or single. The difference in significance may be considerable. If you dream that you are drinking hot water under compulsion, you will be made the victim of an unruly passion and it will be well for you to be very much on your guard. But if you are drinking hot water voluntarily, then you will be the one to be filled with a wild longing and only the exertion of your full will power will make it possible for you to withstand your straying impulses.

To step into hot water and to feel the painful sensation, is a sign of injury to come. But to handle a vessel filled with hot water, without scalding yourself, is a very good omen. It not only signifies lucky escape from all danger, but also foretells ventures at considerable risk.

If you dream that some one pours hot water on you, you are indeed fortunate. For this means that some one is trying hard to get an opportunity to do you a good turn.

In a similar way, when you are pouring hot water on some one, you will soon do a dear friend a favor which will be highly valued and will help him or her considerably.

A dream of seeing water boil is one of expectation. In a little while you will have reason to wait breathlessly for something that will make you happy.

When a woman dreams that she sees a steaming lake or well, indicating that, like the geysers' nest, it is filled with hot water, she will experience something that will make her very proud. In the case of married women this usually means that the husband will score great and well deserved success; in that of single women, that the man who will be their choice, may be depended on to make his way in the world.

Hot rain signifies sympathy, love affection. Hot snow, an exceedingly rare dream, a happening which will arouse all your anger and yet make you love the source of your indignation.

In the next chapter I will tell you of Dreams of Lamps and Candles.

AMERICAN HOSTAGES OF REDS SEEKING TO ESCAPE TO SAFETY

TERIJOKI, Finland, Russian Frontier, Aug. 24.—A thousand foreigners, including thirty-five Americans, are at Moscow, hoping for action by their governments to remove them from Russia before winter begins. They include, besides the Americans, 700 French, 100 British, and 100 Scandinavians.

Aside from the thirty-five of undoubted American citizenship, there are large numbers claiming American citizenship, who have gathered from all parts of Russia because of the impossible living conditions and who are awaiting permission to leave. They are the last of Russia's pre-war foreign resident population.

Inquiry by the Associated Press correspondent prior to his deportation to Finland from Moscow because he had not received advance Soviet authorization for a trip from Vladivostok to the Soviet capital, developed that numerous foreigners have been refugees in Moscow for more than a year.

A trainload of French once was sent to the Russian frontier and then returned because of the attitude of the French government toward the Bolsheviks. The Americans in Moscow say that their status is worse than that of the citizens of any other country.

They are held virtually as hostages while the Soviet government tries to force the Washington government to negotiate officially with Moscow or the Bolsheviks agents.

The officials of the Bolshevik foreign office consider the United States to be the most uncompromising of all nations in her attitude toward the Soviet. Although not as yet antagonistic as the French or British.

Five Americans are known to be imprisoned in Moscow. Among them are Dr. A. W. Stickney, geologist, and Mrs. Stickney, who recently arrived in Moscow from Siberia. Others are Royal C. Keely, a man named Lamark and a naturalized American-Greek named Callindianov, who has been imprisoned for a year and a half, charged with having been a spy.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Fearfully Learned "That would have annoyed Sir Walter," the woman who had been gazing idly at the graceful spires of St. Patrick's Cathedral as they towered above the turmoil of traffic on the Avenue, glanced inquiringly at the man who shared her seat atop the bus, whose cryptic remark was evidently addressed to her.

"Sir Walter Scott, you know," he continued affably. "He was a great stickler for correctness in heraldry. Thought no boy's education was complete unless he knew all about lions passant guardant and double tressures flory counterflory and all that sort of thing."

He was speaking English, but somehow the words didn't seem to make sense. The puzzled lines between the Woman's eyes deepened. The man noticed her bewilderment.

"It's that shield over the doorway," he explained. "It has stars on it." The Woman noticed the coat of arms of the United States carved in stone over the door leading to the north aisle of the church. Evidently that was what would have annoyed Sir Walter.

"Well," she said with some trepidation, "shouldn't it have stars?" "Nary a star," was the answer. "I don't know much about heraldry," the man went on, "but an architect ought to. I can't tell you, for example, whether the United States bears paleways thirteen pikes argent and gules, a chief azure, or whether it bears argent six pallets gules, a chief azure; but I am certain that the chief, which is the upper third of the shield, is plain blue and not star-spangled. And I know, too, that unlike the flag, the outer stripes are not red, but white. Evidently the architect put those stars on as an afterthought, or perhaps to satisfy someone who thought they ought to be there. You may not have noticed it, but six of them have already fallen off. Perhaps time will correct the error and leave the chief clear. I hope so for Sir Walter's sake."

And the only reason the Woman could remember this was because of certain last notes she made on her Evening Sun. She hopes she got them right.

Brought up With a Round Turn

She's a strangely mature child "going on eleven," she will tell you, with a precision of enunciation that many a public speaker might well emulate. Lately her mother has been troubled by her little daughter's tendency to withdraw into herself and to offer no explanation of her moods and tempers. This, coupled with a reluctance to be caressed and a chariness of endearments, made Mother decide upon a talk on affection between parent and child.

"My dear," she said, "I want you to understand that love between parent and child cannot live without signs of affection. If we don't express our feelings for each other by words or caresses it may die." And then she launched forth into what she felt sure was an eloquent pontifical on the subject of mother love.

Helen listened politely, but with eyes that rested on a volume of Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," from which she had been lured. Irritated by what seemed lack of attention, Mother spoke more sharply. "Are you listening, Helen? I want your undivided attention."

"Yes, mother, I'm listening," came patiently from Helen. "I am very much interested in your philosophy of love. But if you've finished I think I'll go back to Ellet (the shrill shrill shrill shrill in my reading.)"

Helen's mother stopped at this point in the telling of her tale. And she is wondering just what to do next if Helen's present state of indifference continues.

EXIT SOLITUDE

The little essay by A. P. Herbert on modern science, reprinted in yesterday's Globe from Land and Water, opens up a subject concerning which any ordinary commuter ought to have enough to say to fill a full length book. Mr. Herbert is subjecting to the efficiency of modern inventions in undermining the privacy and irritating the individual. Progress, he says, quoting the "Gloomy Dean," seems to be "a process of making life more and more disagreeable." It was the telephone, in his opinion, that wade a world war possible. Huge masses of troops could not be handled without electric communication. And civilian life, he avers, will never be the same again, after the wireless telephone comes into general use. There will be no escaping it. It will push into every lonely fastness and seek out the hermit among his rocks. Go where you will, you will be followed by the intelligence and curiosity of his fellow men. And when the fellow who calls you up sees you as well as hears you there will be an end to all independence. The truth, which everybody has been dodging since the dawn of civilization, will come out about us all. Our thoughts will be recorded on a ticker in the tower all and it will become a crime to wish there was more than one-half of 1 per cent. —New York Globe.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Miss A. L.—"I am a fall bride-leet and have received at a shower, among other things, a dozen orange spoons. I would like to know if it would be proper to use these spoons for dessert too?" Answer—The housekeeper whose list of silver includes orange spoons should make a practice of serving orange gelatin hardened in halves of oranges; that is, simply make the jelly in the ordinary way, using granulated gelatine, and instead of moulding it in an ordinary mold, pour it into halves of oranges which have had their juice and pulp removed (but the membrane divisions left) and let it harden in these. For a guest dinner, whipped cream may top each half orange.

This is the only way in which you could use your orange spoons in the desert course—for their shape is especially designed to scoop out an orange and they are not suitable for any other use. I believe that a woman should make the most of things she possesses and should often plan her desserts and other dishes in accordance with the containers or silverware she possesses. So often we see housekeepers who have such things as orange spoons and who have used them but once or twice in their lives.

A Housekeeper—"Could you tell me what will remove medicine stain from a white dress skirt?"

Answer—You did not say what kind of medicine was spilled on your skirt, but it is reasonably certain that alcohol will remove it, as most medicine stains will yield to this fluid. If alcohol is not successful, apply ether or chloroform.

A Reader—"Will you kindly tell me what will take blackberry stains out of a lawn dress?"

Answer—Fresh fruit stains can be removed by pouring boiling water thru them, but stains that have been neglected are more difficult to get rid of. They may be bleached in the sun, and if that fails they may be treated with an application of Oxalic acid. Oxalic acid is used in proportion of 1 teaspoon of the crystals to a cup of boiling water, and for very obstinate cases the strength may be increased.

Javelle water is another reagent which is successful in removing fruit stains; this may be purchased at any drug store and should be used with equal parts of boiling water, into which the article is dipped. After using either the Javelle water or the Oxalic acid the article must be thoroughly rinsed in ammonia water and then in clear water.

Mother of Five—"Please tell me the easiest way to treat my hardwood floors. I have so little time for fussing with waxed brushes, and so forth."

Answer—Buy a can of any one of the excellent brands of prepared wax on the market and put the can on the stove, leaving it there until all the wax is melted. Then sink the can almost up to its rim in a pan of very hot water (to keep it soft) and apply this softened wax to your floors with a cloth. Do this twice a year and you need do nothing else to your floors except sweep them.

Tomorrow—Recipes for Pickles and Preserves.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—Editor.

Probably the most interesting exhibit in the great new war museum that was opened at the Hotel des Invalides, in Paris, is a map presented to the French by Marshal Foch. The chart was taken from the Marshal's headquarters, where it was used daily during the final four months of the war. A steadily advancing blue line represents the sectors in which the American contingents daily advanced. The map bears Marshal Foch's signature, dated November 11, 1918, the day the armistice was signed.

Tinker Bob

Stories by Carlisle H. Holcomb

SAMMY SQUIRREL GETS PECKED

Now Major Pole Cat was so excited that he didn't know what to do. He, too, felt the mystery connected with this Mr. Musk Rat with his four legs. Where he came from he did not know, and what had happened to Three Legs he did not know. He rubbed his eyes to be sure that he really did see four legs on this fellow. "I shall go to see the night watch," said he. "I'll find out if anyone was seen about the Forest while we were all asleep."

The little bundle of weeds was left unnoticed, for Major was more interested to find out about this stranger than anything else. He took Jack the Rabbit with him and started off in search of Mrs. Night Hawk and Bobby Hoot Owl. He wanted to go to the King, but he knew that Tinker Bob was not yet up. It had been a tiresome day for the King to look after all of the Forest Dwellers, and he needed rest. And then Major knew that he had no right to disturb the King unless there was something very important to talk about.

"I will find out from the Night Hawk if there was anyone moving about in the Forest last night," said Major, "for she always sleeps with one eye open." Major knew that Mrs. Night Hawk would be asleep now, but he was not afraid to awaken her or Bobby Hoot Owl.

They journeyed to the tallest tree in the Forest, for it was in the top of this tree that Mrs. Night Hawk stayed during the day. "Now I cannot climb," said the Major. "And I can't either," said Jack. "Well, how can we make Mrs. Night Hawk hear? I can't talk very loud," said Major. "And I can't either," said Jack. They looked at each other for a moment.

"Why didn't you think of that when we started?" asked Major. "Why didn't you think of it yourself?" asked Jack. "This is a foolish journey if we can't reach Mrs. Night Hawk," said Major. "I thought you could climb," said Jack. "And I thought you could," said Major. "Well, you are the Major in the Great Forest, you ought to know who can climb and who cannot," said Jack the Rabbit.

Major Pole Cat was not going to argue about what he ought to know because he might give himself away for sleeping so many times when he ought to be on the job. It is strange how things just happen in the Great Forest, but they do sometimes. For while they were arguing little Sammy Squirrel came along and saved the day.

Said he, "I'll go see Mrs. Night Hawk for you." Major told him to go and he went to the top of the tree where he found Mrs. Night Hawk sleeping soundly. She was angry when he awoke her and nearly pecked him to death before he could tell her his message.

Tomorrow—Mrs. Night Hawk Was Asleep.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

The Loafers I ply my lyre the whole day long, and have since long ago, and ship out bales of deathless song at fifty cents a throw. And if I faltered in my zeal, the sheriff would appear, and promptly place his large red seal on all my worldly gear. And when my harp gets smoking hot, its cooling system clogged, to some calm park or kindred spot I oftentimes have jogged; and there the loafers always sit on benches, day by day; they do not toil, they do not knit, they never strive for pay. I see the same old misty groups by day, and after dark; barred out from all the city's coope, their home is in the park. They seem to think there's nothing wrong; they burble and they laugh, until some peeler comes along and prods them with his staff. How doth the seely little shirk still find existence nice, when men who buckle down and work can barely raise the price? How doth the boozly little lum contrive to stay on earth, when we must toil and make things hum, to gain our board and berth? It is a mystery, I wot, that needs solution, much; and when my air cooled harp gets hot, I muse, to beat the Dutch.

OVERTURNING STREET CARS IS DIVERSION OF DENVER MOB

How Denver street car strikers wrecked cars.

Overturning street cars which the company attempted to run in spite of them was the favorite diversion of strikers in Denver. Many cars were thus wrecked, resulting in a loss of many thousands of dollars. The photo at the upper left was taken just after two cars had been overturned, and some of the men who accomplished this are shown. At the upper right overturned cars are seen in front of a church. When attacked by organized strikers, the strike breakers on these cars ran into the church, pursued by the angry strikers, bent on violence. Police intervened and saved the unhappy strike breakers. The lower picture shows crowds of sightseers who turned out to see the fun.

GRACEFUL SCARF OF "ICE WOOL" IS NEW IN WORLD OF KNIT THINGS

This wool shawl in a delicately woven design is a new fad which has been adopted by the leaders of fashion. It is made of the very finest quality of wool and is called ice-wool because of the luster which it has. It is of very generous proportions and will be very smart for wear on the cool nights with thin dance frocks. A rather quaint idea in this modern day.

A big crowd of Londoners recently turned out in the rain to witness the unveiling of the St. Gaudens statue of Lincoln, presented by the American people to Great Britain. The Lincoln statue has as fine a site as could be found in all England. It is in the Canning enclosure, just facing Westminster Abbey. The photo was taken in the midst of the unveiling ceremony.

TRAMWAYS OF COUNTRY FACE DISSOLUTION UNLESS MEANS OF FINANCING ARE FOUND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Satisfactory solution of the problem presented by the electric railway industry can be reached through application of principles of ordinary economic and business common sense is the unanimous opinion of the seven men who composed the Federal Electric Railways Commission appointed by President Wilson in 1910. The report of the commission, prepared after extensive hearings and examination of nearly 100 witnesses, was made public today and says:
"The commission can go no further than to point out the principles upon which the readjustment should be based. The task really is that of the state and local authorities upon the one hand and of the companies on the other.
"Failure to rehabilitate the industry and the service is possible only in case upon whom the responsibility rests fail to undertake the work or pursue it in a spirit that makes settlement impossible."
In a summary of its conclusions and recommendations the commission says:
"The electric railway industry as it now exists is without financial credit and is not properly performing its public function.
"This condition is the result of early financial mismanagement and economic causes, accentuated by existing high price levels of labor and materials and the failure of the uniform unit fare of five cents prescribed either by statute or by local franchise ordinances or contracts to provide the necessary revenues to pay operating costs and to maintain the property on a reasonable basis.
"The industry can be restored to a normal basis only by the introduction of economies in operation, improving its tracks, equipment and service and securing a reasonable return upon the fair value of its property used in public service when honestly and efficiently managed.
"Restoration of credit involves a readjustment of relations which will remove public antagonism, provide public cooperation and insure the investor the integrity of his investment and a fair rate of return thereon."
Full cooperation of labor is essential to the prosperity and usefulness of the electric lines, the report says, adding that employees should receive living wages and have humane hours and working conditions.
"They should have the right to deal collectively with their employers," it continues, "through committees or representatives of their own selection. All labor disputes should be settled voluntarily or by arbitration and the award of such a board should be final and binding upon both parties."
"It is intolerable that the transportation service of a city should be subject to occasional paralysis, whether by strikes or lockouts."
A satisfactory solution of the problem

Invincible Shook Makes 4152 bbls. After Heavy Jolt

After being shot with 200 quarts of nitro the Shook No. 3 of the Invincible Oil company, a quarter of a mile north of the Hilborn discovery well in the Hilborn pool at Rising Star, gauged 173 barrels an hour or 4152 barrels a day, according to authoritative scout reports reaching here. This brings the production of this well considerable above any other in the pool. The nearest competitor is the Hilborn No. 2, the second completion in the field, which is running about 600 barrels behind the new find.
The new well augments the daily production of the Hilborn pool to approximately 5,000 barrels daily. Another well is being completed by the Invincible company after a shut-down due to a fishing job.

City Prisoners Suggested for Clean-up Workers

City prisoners will be used to clean the city streets of the accumulated mud if the proposed plans of the sidewalk committee of the Chamber of Commerce work out.

This committee was in session last night and after considering bids submitted decided to withhold action until the city officials could be consulted as to using the prisoners.

It was found at the meeting that to pay for the cleaning of Main street would involve the expenditure of $60 or more per block.

Beverly S. Dudley, city attorney, said this morning that he could not see why the plan would not work out very well.

PERSONALS

A. J. McKenzie, president of the McKenzie Construction company of Ranger, returned yesterday to his home in San Antonio after spending several days inspecting the paving work his firm is doing in the city.

H. S. Cole, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is in Dallas for several days on business.

TWO 'HIGHJACKERS' ROB MANY PERSONS IN BRECKENRIDGE

BRECKENRIDGE, Aug. 24.—C. R. Hassell, a drifter of Breckenridge, was robbed of a sum of money last night when he was knocked unconscious by a blow from a blackjack while passing near a lumber yard. It is thought that the robbery was committed by two young men who have held up or "highjacked" a number of pedestrians in much the same manner lately.

The two highjackers work around the outskirts of the city where they stalk unwary visitors who are forced to leave the well lighted portion of Breckenridge and seek rooms in the darker streets.

'SPINACH TRAINS' TEXAS TO NEW YORK, PLANNED

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 24.—Wonderful crops this year have brought prosperity to the farmers of Dimmit and Zavalla counties, according to R. F. Schultz, traffic manager of the A. A. U. & G. railroad. Fifteen hundred cars of onions, raised on 2,800 acres, each car containing 530 crates and netting the farmer $1.75 cents were sent out. The same district sent 217 cars of spinach netting the farmers over $100 an acre on that crop alone. Big cabbage and lettuce crops were harvested. Because of the scarcity of express cars, the railroads plan next spring to run freight trains loaded with spinach direct to New York City.

CENT A THOUSAND.

International News Service, TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 24.—It cost Governor Henry J. Allen just 80 cents to be nominated by the Republican statewide primaries the first of the month. He spent that amount in mailing out petitions to friends to circulate for him that he might be placed on the primary ticket.

A coincidence is that the governor's majority over his opponent, C. B. Snow, may reach 80,000, and, if so, it will have cost him just one cent for each thousand majority.

2. Suits or coats? This very important question occurs again and we wonder which will be more fashionable or more becoming to us. But the makers of a person has more to do with it than fashion or anything else. Most busy persons like a suit, and women who dress on rather limited incomes would be lost without that suit which serves them well for most any occasion.

3. The materials and colors of some new suits now being shown are unusually pretty. There is velveteen, a lovely soft fabric which makes a dressy suit. I have in mind a navy blue one of this material made with medium long coat, narrow belt and wonderfully beaded and embroidered in jet beads and silk thread. We have had beaded dresses, hats and blouses before but beaded suits are the newest.

4. Duvet De Laine is of the duvetyn family and is going to be popular. Equally as charming as the new materials is the variety in subdued colorings. The oriental shades were never so popular before. Imagine having a suit of nanki shade or "checco" which is greener and leaning to dull, dark jade; or sycow, a subtler, darker green, the shade of a museum rug and most becoming. I saw a suit of this shade yesterday in the Duvet De Laine material. The box coat had a narrow belt across the front and small triangles of pin tucks inserted at the bottom of the coat gave a slight flare to it. This year the coats are a little longer, with a moderately wide flare not full nor exactly straight up and down and the skirts are moderately narrow but quite short.
