Three are Seriously Injured in Ranger Fire

SIMS FAMILY BURNED WHEN GAS EXPLODES

Leaky Jet Cause of Disastrous Blaze Last Night.

Three were badly burned, and a dwelling owned by the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company on the McCleskey lease with its contents was destroyed by a gas explosion fire at 8:30 o'clock last night.

The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Jake Sims and their four-year-old son. The loss of the house and contents is placed at $1,200.

Both the man and the woman are badly burned about the head and arms. Mrs. Sims had the hair burned from her head and both she and her husband are in a critical condition.

Following the explosion, both Mr. and Mrs. Sims ran out of the house, the woman rolling in the grass and weeds to extinguish the flames on her person and the man jumping into a cistern containing water.

According to officials of the oil company the man was repairing the jet on a one-inch gas line which became broken. All the gas lights were turned out but the occupants of the house did not know that a flame was burning in a stove which was the cause of the gas exploding.

Dr. A. K. Weir and the ambulance of the Milford Undertaking company were called following the accident. The injured persons, however, were not brought into town, but cared for on the lease.

All the clothing of the family together with their furniture was a total loss.

TURK PROPAGANDA WRITTEN ON FACE OF PAPER MONEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 17.—Nationalists are spreading their propaganda for a boycott against the Greeks by writing on the five-piastre notes an appeal urging Turks to buy from Armenian or merchants of allied nationalities any article they cannot get from the Turks.

There is no metal money circulating here now so that the small currency notes are used generally.

A Mustafa Kemal Dasha circular widely distributed in Anatolia reads: "To our great regret, France and Italy have associated themselves with the Boulogne conference's recent decision to accept the offer of Venizelos to have the Greek army enforce the peace treaty terms. This is a part of the British policy for exterminating the greatest Mohammedan power, Turkey. The Greeks are trying to destroy the cradle of our forefathers. They have transformed mosques into churches. They have massacred our brothers and plundered their shops in Smyrna. These events have been confirmed by the Allied commission whose report favored us."

"The very powers that disapproved of the Greek atrocities are throwing these pirates against us. We must fight."

"A period of training is necessary. Enlist! Offer your sons! Advise deserters to return to the army. We shall smash the enemy by the aid of our Prophet."

CHICAGO MAULER FIRST HAD TO BUCK CHAMPION DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey's first battle in New York after the boxing law goes into effect will be with Knockout Bill Brennan, the big Chicago mauler.

This became a certainty when Jack Kearns, acting for Dempsey, and Leo P. Flynn, Brennan's manager, met and drew up articles for the contest.

The bout is to go to the promoter offering the best inducements, and must be staged before January 1, next. The boxers agree to wait for thirty days from August 11 for the submitting of bids.

While the articles as signed are but temporary and are to be superseded by a contract covering every point of the match, they, however, make it positive that Brennan will be the first boxer to get a crack at Dempsey's title in New York state.

T. & P. MAKES COUNTER MOVE, H-K. EMBARGO

Through Freight-Passenger Service North From Cisco Planned.

As a result of the embargo placed against the Texas & Pacific railroad by the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railroad the Texas & Pacific may institute a through passenger and freight service from Fort Worth by the way of Cisco over the Ringling road into Breckenridge. At present it is diverting such freight as it can over this road to Parks Camp and from that place it is being hauled into Breckenridge by truck.

The embargo of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth road prohibits the shipment of freight over the Texas & Pacific road for transfer over its line. The embargo however does not include shipments over the Frisco to Dublin, thence over the new road into Breckenridge.

According to local T. & P. officials the move of the rival company is to secure freight revenue for itself from Dublin to the terminal of the road instead of only from Ranger. Officials of the Hamon-Kell line, however, claim that its action is only because of freight congestion in its local yards and will be lifted when the congestion clears. If the plans of the Texas & Pacific road go through they will also carry through Pullman service from points north of Ranger directly into Breckenridge, by way of Cisco.

Local officials of the Texas & Pacific road said this morning that an effort had been made to adjust the matter with officials of the rival road, but no agreement could be reached because the new road is holding out for 45 percent of the revenue for accepting the freight at Ranger and transferring it from Ranger to Breckenridge.

MISSING GIRL IS BELIEVED HIDING WITH BOY LOVER

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Alice Miller, pretty 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Florence Miller, 408 Twenty-eighth avenue, whose mysterious disappearance from an overland train on July 20 has puzzled the police of three states, eloped with a boy lover and is hiding in a small town in New Mexico, in the opinion of Fred F. Phillips, special agent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, who declared today that he expected to locate the girl within twenty-four hours.

The information, which is expected to clear the mystery, was contained in a letter received by Mrs. Miller, who is divorced from the girl's father, from Mrs. Miller No. 2, in Newkirk, Okla.

According to the railway detectives, the Miller girl was in love with Roy Smith, a 19-year-old clerk of Newkirk, and, fearing an elopement, the parents decided to "break up" the boy and girl affair. Miller bought the girl a ticket to San Francisco to send her to her mother. She left Newkirk July 19 and the last heard of her was a telegram from Hutchinson, Kansas, informing her father that she was aboard the overland train and well.

According to Smith's sister, who furnished the information after a severe grilling by the girl's parents, young Smith had declared several times that he would "have Alice in spite of all opposition." He left on his vacation, supposedly, the same day the Miller girl started for her mother's home here.

The sister said that she believed her brother and Miss Miller may be in hiding at Estancia, New Mexico, a small town on the New Mexico Central railway, where he has an aunt living.

Statement Clears Case.

According to Special Agent Phillips, this statement will clear up the case, since, in order to reach Estancia, the girl must have left the overland train at Kennedy, forty miles east of Albuquerque. Her ticket was taken to Albuquerque, a trace of the number showed, and no Pullman ticket was used. Phillips declared today he believes the boy and girl rode in the chair car, since questioning of the Pullman porters on the San Francisco car revealed the fact that no girl of her description had a berth in that car.

Phillips has wired to officials of the New Mexico Central, asking them to locate the youth's aunt at Estancia and telegraph information regarding Smith's whereabouts.

TO REORGANIZE BUREAU.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Reorganization of the bureau of immigration has been ordered by Assistant Secretary Post. Officials of the department say the action is taken because of conditions indicating "utter disorganization of the bureau both here and in its field service."

World's Bloodiest Cockpit in 1920

There are many wars now in progress, but the greatest of all in 1920 is the bloody struggle between Poland and Soviet Russia. This war was brought on by the hunger of the Poles for Russian territory. The map shows Poland as the Poles would have it, with boundaries stretching eastward almost as far as Kiev and Smolensk. The dotted line running from Grodno and Brest-Litovsk south to the Rumanian frontier marks the eastern boundary of Poland as fixed by the treaty of Versailles. The shaded areas mark disputed territories where plebiscites will be held. The map shows the important railway line from Warsaw to Danzig.

JAP MERCHANTS IN SOUTH SEAS LOSE DOMINATION

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—The influence of Japanese merchants in the South Seas has declined owing to the resumption of operations by foreign shipping companies which were compelled to suspend their services to that part of the world during the war.

In pre-war days Dutch and British ships dominated the shipping trade in the direction of the Dutch East Indies, Singapore, Bangkok and Hongkong, but during the war they were largely superseded by Japanese companies.

The position of Japanese ships has now become less favorable owing to the fact that merchants are shipping direct from the Dutch East Indies instead of from Singapore, to Europe. Japanese ships have gradually withdrawn from the South Seas trade and the only Japanese concern now maintaining a regular service in that part of the world is subsidized by the government.

MANNIX REFUSES PREMIER'S OFFER, SCORES INTENTIONS

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Proposals of Lloyd George in the house yesterday that every facility be given to the mother of Archbishop Mannix of Australia, to come to London to visit her son, were denounced as "preposterous" by the prelate here today. Archbishop Mannix says that his mother could not possibly travel because of great age. He denied that he wanted to go to Ireland for personal reasons. "If I go to Ireland it will be with all the freedom of a free citizen," the prelate said. He said that he still adhered to his intention to visit Rome at Christmas time.

REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE

DENISON, Aug. 17.—At the recent convention of Grayson county Republicans it was decided to put a complete ticket in the county race this fall and to make a vigorous campaign of the county. G. C. Carney of Sherman was re-elected county chairman. The convention endorsed the work of the national convention, pledged their unstinted support to Harding and Coolidge and condemned the Democratic administration as "unbusinesslike."

FARMERS TO MEET

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—The fourth annual State Farmers Institute is to meet here on Sept. 8 for a three-day session. President of the Institute Fred Davis, state agricultural commissioner, declared that matters of urgent importance to the farmers of Texas will be considered, including the price of the 1920 cotton crop.

TRUNK MARKS LEAD TO HAUL OF NARCOTICS

Morphine which would sell for $3,000 at prices charged by a "shot" in Ranger has been captured by Tom Pigg, special officer of the Texas Pacific railroad. The narcotic was hidden in a trunk which was packed with quilts, pillows and other articles. No arrests have been made.

Mr. Pigg said that the trunk had been shipped and received by the Ranger office about six times and he suspected that it was being brought into the city. On its last trip out he pasted two very small pieces of paper cut into triangles upon it for identification. Friday it returned and was immediately examined and about two ounces of the drug found.

This amount of morphine will almost fill a half gallon measure. Two men, Mike Redner and John Ketchum, who the police say are drug addicts, who were arrested with narcotics in their possession, were sent to Abilene yesterday in the custody of Baylor Crawford and Archie Woods, United States revenue officers. The men will be turned over to the federal courts.

Ketchum, the police say, stole about two ounces of morphine and codene from the McCleskey Drug company.

U. S. MINT TURNS OUR LARGEST SUM OF COIN IN WORLD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The Philadelphia mint turned out 501,000,000 coins in the last fiscal year. Mr. Baker recently returned from the United States mint, gave out the figures after inspecting the institution. New die-cutting machines, electric furnaces and carrying devices have been installed within the last year and efficiency methods adopted which greatly increased the output in the mint.

The increase last year was about 25 per cent over 1919. In 1916 a little over a million coins were produced. Mr. Baker recently returned from the San Francisco mint, where he is preparing to install improved machinery similar to that in the Philadelphia mint.

"With the recent conditions," said Mr. Baker, "the Philadelphia mint is now not only the largest mint in this country but manufactures a larger number of coins than any other mint in the world."

NICKER AND CHEAPER

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 17.—Albert Stonerstock announced, after paying a fine, that he is going to sleep in hotels hereafter. It's cheaper.

It cost him $5.72 in police court for sleeping on the sidewalk.

SINN FEIN COURTS ISSUE ODD RULINGS IN MATTERS OF LAW

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—Some of the decisions of the recently organized Sinn Fein courts disregard all precedent of court procedure and reflect much of the imagination of a highly temperamental race. They must resort to subterfuges in criminal sentences because they have no prisons but their findings in civil cases sometimes are most unusual.

A will case was recently tried in a district court. Two brothers were to operate their father's farm jointly after his death until one of them should desire to marry. Then it was to be divided between them. One of the brothers became engaged and maintained that as he was the first to set up a new home of his own he should divide the estate to suit himself. The other objected. The new Sinn Fein jury decided that the engaged man should be allowed to divide the farm but that his brother should have the right to select the division he wanted.

A man who stole something from a farmer was sentenced to work 30 days for the farmer and return the article. Another who stole a set of harness was paraded through the village streets with the harness tied about him then taken to the owner and made to apologize as he returned the harness.

SHIPPING PERMIT PLAN CONTINUES

GALVESTON, Aug. 17.—The elastic system whereby wheat for export is fed into Galveston in proportion to the ocean tonnage available will be retained until the coal shortage throughout the country is relieved, according to E. E. Bolte, the chairman of the emergency car service committee here. Under this arrangement shippers must apply for a permit from the local committee before railroads will accept cars destined for this port, the application showing points of origin, the rail and ocean routing, name of Galveston consignee and the elevator through which the wheat will pass.

CHINESE SCRIBES VISIT JAPAN.

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—Japan is receiving the visit of a party of Chinese newspaper men since feeling between the two nations became strained. With one exception, all the members of the party are Canton men. Japan's trade with South China is steadily growing with Canton as the gate for Japanese goods. The party contains a journalist who was prominent in the anti-Japanese boycott in China and the visit is welcomed by a sign of alleged amelioration in the relations between the two countries.

Many Indians of the United States enlisted in the infantry, and served as guides and snipers.

RUSSIANS ARE THRUST BACK FROM WARSAW

Reds Retreat in Confusion as Poles Riddle Ranks.

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—The Russian Soviet hold on Warsaw has been broken, according to allied officials here. A Polish counter attack is declared to be in full swing at various points. Soviet forces are falling back in confusion. Russian pressure on Warsaw has been relieved, according to an official Polish dispatch, just received. The statement reported that General Pilsudski directed the counter stroke effecting release.

An additional communique announces that the Poles are following up the counter offensive. They have advanced along the entire northern front. Polish aviators are firing on the retreating Soviets with machine guns.

BRITISH ATTITUDE ASKED. LONDON, Aug. 17.—Soviet Russia, through Leo Kamenef, head of the trade mission here, has asked Lloyd George for precise definition of the British attitude toward General Wrangler, the anti-Bolshevik leader in Southern Russia.

MIDDLE RESULTS FROM GOODS SOLD TO UKRAINIANS

PARIS, Aug. 17.—A job lot of American war stocks sold to a Ukrainian cooperative society last spring for $6,000,000 and later taken back by the American authorities, has caused the French War department almost as much trouble as the liquidation of the remainder which sold for $850,000,000.

One part of the stocks is today warehoused at Langres, France, where the French courts have undertaken to determine their actual ownership. Another part is warehoused at Marseille in the name of the Ukrainian society and cannot be touched by the American authorities although up to this time any disposal or departure of the stocks has been prevented.

The larger part of the stocks, warehoused at Bordeaux, was ransacked by the Ukrainians for clothes hats and later by thieves but the remainder has just been recovered by the American authorities and sold to the Jugo-Slav and Czecho-Slovakian governments. The only boat that managed to sail with a cargo of the stocks was turned back in May by an American destroyer after it had left Constantinople and the cargo later was disposed of there. Little money remaining after the freight charges had been repaid to the Ukrainians.

The stocks, consisting largely of clothing and medicines, were sold on the understanding that they would be used for the Commission which was then in France accepted in payment notes guaranteed by the Ukrainian government of that period. Some months afterward it was discovered that the agents of the co-operative society were peddling the stocks about France and the commission decided to take them over.

GERMANY PLANS TO SEND IMMIGRANTS TO RUSSIA IN FUTURE

BERLIN.—Germany's official emigration bureau is encouraging emigration of workmen to Russia, at the same time putting every possible hindrance in the way of Germans wishing to emigrate to North or South America. The government refuses to give permission to leave the country to Germans whose travel expenses are to be paid by a foreign government, according to the Auswanderer Zeitung.

Germany is making every effort to increase her commercial and industrial relations with Russia, and a stream of German workmen is beginning to flow eastward into Bolsheviek land. They are cordially welcomed by the Soviet authorities, who require skilled labor to put Russia back on its feet.

The first transport left via Stettin, Reval, according to the Tagliche Rundschau. Two hundred German metal workers are assigned by Moscow to the industrial town of Kolonna, where they will work in the railroad shops, rebuilding and repairing locomotives, badly needed in Russia.

The German government has granted permission to emigrate to Russia to 1,000 additional metal and railroad workers. A German government commission has arranged to make an inspection trip through Russia to make certain that the emigrants are receiving the promised working conditions, pay and food.

E. A. RINGOLD CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Audit Shows Shortage of Local Municipal Funds.

A complaint charging E. A. Ringold, city tax assessor and collector, with embezzlement of public funds to the approximate amount of $14,359 was sworn to this afternoon by H. S. Cole, president of the Chamber of Commerce, A. Davenport, police commissioner, and E. J. Barnes.

The complaint followed the report of auditors who audited the city's books about two weeks ago. The shortage of city funds, however, did not appear on the report made by the auditors and was only discovered after a minute examination made by Mr. Cole and Mr. Barnes.

Mr. Cole stated this afternoon that the tax collector had signed a receipt for money owed him by the city to restore part of the shortage.

SUN GODDESS IS TOLD OF END OF WAR BY JAPANESE

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—Conclusion of the peace is being reported to Amaterasu, the Sun Goddess and Grand Ancestress of the Emperor by Prince Fushimi, who as Imperial proxy is visiting the Ise Shrine, as well as the museum of Jimmu Tennu, the first Emperor of Japan and that of Emperor Meiji. Whenever any event of national importance occurs in Japan a messenger is sent by the Emperor to make a report to the Sun Goddess. After the war with Russia Admiral Togo returned thanks before the national shrine which was founded 1,900 years ago and which contains the Sacred Mirror, emblem of the goddess.

MONEY MARKET IS READY FOR MOVEMENT OF CROPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The Midwest money market is prepared for the strain of moving the nation's big crop and there is, in the words of leading financiers, "absolutely no danger of a severe crisis."

"Financing the crop movement during the next few months will not be as great a strain on the money market as has been generally believed," said George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank. "Throughout the crop movement railroads will remain in a state of congestion. It is not likely any particularly heavy movements will take place at any one time. As a result, credit requirements will be spread over the entire period."

Movement of new wheat to Chicago, which for several days after July 15 equalled only one-fourth of normal, has been rapidly increasing. The general situation was materially improved by resumption of trading in wheat for future delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade, which tends to stabilize prices and prevent losses through congestion and like causes.

While shrinkage of Wall street stock market loans to the extent of several hundred million dollars in the last few months may help the situation, financing the grain movement to market in the Central West is done from Chicago as a center. Comparatively little local money is devoted to New York stock market loans. After the crops have reached Chicago elevators and the movement starts east, then there is a larger degree of New York financing. But this takes place after the original crop movement from farm to market."

HUSBAND WOULDN'T WORK

ANY, DIDN'T WANT ALIMONY. CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Alimony means nothing in the life of this Cleveland woman. She was testifying in her own behalf in Common Pleas court, seeking a divorce.

"Since you haven't found your husband," said Judge Foman, "I'm going to let the Bureau of Domestic Relations try its hand at it."

"It's no use," answered the woman. "Well, maybe we can get alimony for you too," added the judge.

"I don't want alimony," she retorted. "Just give me a divorce. He never keeps a job anyway, so I would be out in the long run."

The woman will get her divorce, the judge indicated.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

MADAME E. GUERIN, wife of a president of a federal court in France, recently arrived in America to start a campaign to raise funds for the impoverished children of France. She is the founder of the American and French Children's league, which is an important offspring of the war.

Madame Guerin is now in San Francisco establishing a branch of this society and she expects to establish branches in all parts of America. The money realized through these branches will go to the aid of the children of the devastated regions of France. One of Madame Guerin's first money-raising plans was a "poppy day" sale held in San Francisco and thousands of dollars were realized.

Mme. Guerin.

The poppies were made in France. Another plan she has thought out is to have motion picture actors get out their address books and inaugurate a national sale among their thousands of admirers. Madame Guerin is a noted war veteran and carries many citations for heroic work during the world war.

Y. W. WORKERS LEAVE RUSSIA

According to a cable received recently by the Y. W. C. A. national board, Y. W. C. A. workers in Warsaw have been withdrawn and are reported safe in Cracow, where they are awaiting transportation. Miss Martha Chickering of Piedmont, Cal., attached to the headquarters staff of New York City, and Miss Georgia L. Ely of Buffalo were the last of the unit to leave Warsaw. Both are now in Danzig preparing to sail for England.

This unit, which is best known as the Polish Gray Samaritans, with Miss

Had to Fight For Breath, She Says

Mrs. Cheever Gains Twenty-Five Pounds and Ends Troubles By Taking Tanlac.

"Since taking Tanlac I have gained twenty-five pounds and feel better than I have in years," said Mrs. Merry A. Cheever, who lives at the corner of 55th avenue and 102nd street, Portland, Oregon. Continuing she said:

"I have suffered twenty years with rheumatism and stomach trouble and a few months ago had to give up completely and take to my bed. I had pains all over my body and my muscles would draw up so tight I could hardly keep from screaming. At times I had a pain over my kidneys nearly all the time. Nearly everything I ate seemed to turn to gas and caused my heart to palpitate so bad I feared I had heart trouble, and I thought every breath would be my last. I was badly constipated, too, and had simply terrifying headaches that would last a week at a time. I was so nervous I felt like crying out at the top of my voice and I lost so much weight I only weighed seventy-five pounds.

"A friend advised me to take Tanlac and it was simply wonderful the way I improved right from the start. I have now taken four bottles and my indigestion is entirely gone. I eat anything without the slightest trouble, my rheumatism has just about left me, I never have a headache and my nerves are steady as a clock. I am never constipated any more and my general health is so good I want to tell the whole world about what a wonderful medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

Chickering in charge, went to Poland on relief work among children and civilian population before the war with "Soviet Russia began. Members of this unit, with few exceptions, will return to this country. They all enlisted from the United States and are largely of Polish parentage and descent.

Workers reported safe in Cracow include: Amy Tapping, New Hartford, N. Y.; Zoria Sleanora Kosoucki and Anna Kopeck of Trenton, N. J., and Lecladya Muszynska, Rochester, N. Y. Among those who have arrived in Antwerp are Catherine Cusick, Elmira, in Danzig, en route to Antwerp are Marjorie Paret, Montclair; Clair Ling, New York City; Martha Graczyk, Rochester, and Josephine Vzarink, Trenton.

GERMANS DERIDE FRENCH ATTEMPTS TO KILL WAR LOVE

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—It's an internationally accepted platitude that the German people absolutely lack a sense of humor. Perhaps the German is a little slow to laugh at himself, but he is beginning to squeeze out a few grim smiles about his former enemies.

The German believes his country going to the "bow-wow." Dirty, ragged, underfed, with their overworked government presses unable to print enough paper money to meet the demand, ever on the verge of civil war, the German gets his humor from ridiculing the Allied propaganda that Germany has a powerful army hidden up her sleeve. The French measures to draw the fangs of German militarism lead the Deutsche Zeitung, formerly the newspaper read in the officers' casinos, to the following sarcasm:

"The Entente is preparing a new note for Germany, the contents of which have been suggested by General Foch. Our reporter, through his special relations to the French, has had an opportunity to see the document before it was sent. It reads:

"The governments of the Allied Powers have noticed with the greatest uneasiness that the German government has not taken sufficiently energetic steps to oppose the militaristic preparations for a campaign of revenge. The Supreme Council of the Allied Powers has therefore unanimously decided with the agreement of the technical military advisers, to make the following demands of the German government:

"All arms and walking sticks now existing in Germany are to be confiscated immediately and to be delivered to the Allies. The German government is to issue an order forbidding the manufacture of wooden sticks resembling those articles more than 20 centimeters long; the German government guarantees that this regulation will be enforced.

"The manufacture of field-gray material, of metal buttons and leather legging within the German borders is to be forbidden, those articles having a tendency to awaken thoughts of a military nature.

"The German government will order all militaristic words, such as 'war, army sword, gun, etc., to be withdrawn from the German vocabulary; their use either in writing or speech is to be severely punished.

"The description of all militaristic action in theatres, plays and books is to be prohibited. All printed matter in which such events are mentioned are to be destroyed at once.

"It is forbidden for two or more people of German nationality (this includes both sexes) to walk together in step, as thereby militaristic thoughts are awakened. The use of the right hand is to be restricted to the utmost degree, as it serves militaristic purpose. At any rate, the right half of the body is considered reactionary.

"All male persons who, before or during the war, as well as after it, have belonged to unions and associations of a military nature are immediately to be delivered up to the Allies for punishment.

"The German government is given one half hour's time in which to carry out these regulations to the letter. If, after the expiration of this time, any item of this program has been neglected, the Allied powers reserve the right to declare the German Empire dissolved and to invite all Germans over two weeks old before the Allied courts for punishment."

The basis for this sarcastic attack is the French regulation in occupied territory forbidding turnverries, forbidding wand or stick drills and punishing any school teacher who directs or permits his class in school exercises to march in military step.

Sir Oliver Lodge

(Tomorrow: Emma Goldman.)

By DICK DONAHUE
Sir Oliver Lodge is not a jovial man at best. When he stood in front of a purple drop that curtained off a part of Exhibition Hall at Kansas City and talked in a cracked, quavering voice on psychical phenomena, it was not cheerful. Later when I cornered him in the almost empty auditorium and interviewed him with regard to his beliefs in the "outer ether" and the "transmigration of the soul," his dull, toneless voice echoed back and forth amid the rafters of the vast building and the effect was downright spooky.

I do not know Sir Oliver's age. He must be 80 years old. And he looks it. When he talks he does so in a faltering, apathetic way. His gestures are few and half-hearted and even his eyes are dull and uncheerful. Add to this the somber tones of full dress and you have a combination that will give you goose-flesh in a half-darkened auditorium of vast dimensions where every word is caught upon by echoing imps and bruited about unendingly.

Sir Oliver's words from the mouth of another enthusiastic man would form engaging if not interesting conversation. Coming from him, in a deadly monotone, it made me feel as if I were interviewing a phonograph capable of answering questions. He differed from most other faddists, champions and lecturers in that he did not seem overly interested in his doctrine of life after death.

I remember having once interviewed a man convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged who assumed the same attitude toward questioners. Replies were mechanical, like those of a doomed man, who answers out of courtesy to the questioner and not because he personally has any particular interest in the thing at hand.

Though he indicated in his lectures that the study of spiritualism would result in a greater optimism on the part of humanity in the presence of death, Sir Oliver individually did not seem to be inculturated with the theory.

The distinguished Englishman had his subjects well in hand and his arguments for the augmented study of spiritualism and renewed research and investigation, were buttressed on sound logic. The thing that made his statements sound so unreal was the uncanny way he had of presenting them.

To me he talked of spooks he had met and conversed with. I could almost believe he was about to introduce them there in that empty building. He never changed his manner of speaking when he referred to prominent figures of the past with whom he had communed in ghostly form. His statements were convincing because they were put in such a matter of fact way, but they did not tend toward the end for which the lecture trip presumably was being conducted. They did not encourage the layman to go in for the thing.

When the show I talked with him I arrived at one real conclusion with regard to Sir Oliver. He is not a faddist, a fanatic or a faker. A faddist would be more affected in the presentation of his beliefs. A fanatic would be more interested, and, hence, more interesting. A faker could not have the solid base for exposition that Sir Oliver claims to have.

I asked him how he liked America. He replied that during his latest trip he had seen little of it. Subsequently I learned that he lived between his lecture appointments and railroad Pullmans in hotel rooms, scarcely ever venturing out.

All in all, Sir Oliver Lodge impressed me as a tired old man who embraced spiritualism as a last resort—as an interesting theory in which a learned old man might squander his few remaining years. If Sir Oliver really saw anything in spiritualism I believe he would have been more eager to assure acceptance of his beliefs. As it was he talked like a man who was sadly disappointed in his last fond hope.

A THOUGHT FOR ICE CONSUMERS

In weather like this, with clouded skies and cool nights, ice don't melt fast. We need your business the same as any other time, but don't get all of it for various reasons which we hope are satisfactory to your conscience.

When "Old Sol beats down," and the thermometer reads around 100, and ice is among the few things that you really want—then we get your business for the simple reason that we are the only ones who can supply you. Everybody else retires from active business for the heated term, leaving us with the bag to hold, which we have very gracefully held.

We have averted an ice shortage in Ranger, by serving the home folks first, last and all the time.

We have proven our ability to serve you during a period of unusual scarcity of ice, and you may now reciprocate by using RANGER ICE during this unusual scarcity of ice business.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

The Next Day It Rained

The Business Girl was off on her vacation. She is a fussy creature, and while she longed for rural delights, she also wished to retain the conveniences of city life—and all this at a moderate price.

After a long train journey through miles and miles of sandy country and layers and layers of gray dirt, she arrived, ready for that bath. There was the nice white tub, as promised.

"Why," said that obliging lady, "you just take that big tub, pointing to a portable, circular wash-tub, 'fill it and put it out in the sun. It gets good and warm—after a while!'"

The Business Girl cherishes no grievance. There was the tub, there would be warm water—in a day if the sun did shine—and surely that was all the time in the world. So she returned to her room to make war on soft coal dirt with a cold cream and a soap that she is not allowed to mention lest this be thought an advertisement and allowed her mind to paint glowing pictures of her lady laid beside her warming bath in the sun.

Sweet Home

Each of the two middle-aged colored women had a preliminary in tow. The small daughter of the tall, stout, comfortable-looking "sistah" was plump and comfortable-looking also, while the thin, worn, pessimistic-looking "sistah" had a thin, worn, nervous daughter by her side.

"Well, well, and so you is married again!" The thin nervous one addressed her stout companion in a tone that combined surprise and condolence.

"Oh, y'as, y'as, I'se married again," and the addressee beamed her satisfaction with fate.

"Well, well," continued the suffering sister, "when I heard that I sez to myself, 'See like if I got out of it as nice as Katy Blue did, I wouldn't want to go marrying again never.'"

"But," and the cheery one beamed, "You has your home! You has your home!"

"Oh, y'as, you has your home!" agreed the other drearily. "You has your home, but 'tis a harding! 'Tis a harding!"

Window Yearning. In the "Century" for May there was a delightful essay on "Window Yearning."

If you regarded the window yearner as a sinner you had to admit that his immediate rewards were many, but the chances are that you yourself became a window yearner if you read the essay.

The Woman did. One night, quite late, as she was returning from a dinner party she stopped at the front door for a final word with her escort. The first floor window of the next house showed an attractive interior, with a dim light burning in the tiny foyer.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- ---A Gentlemanly (?) Game

FRANCE WILL NOT DISCOURAGE USE OF OLD DIALECTS

International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—France has no intention of trying to abolish the Alsatian dialect, or even of attempting to replace the dialect and the German tongue by French. While the provinces, Alsace and Lorraine, were in the hands of the Germans the use of French was banned. It was forbidden to teach French in the primary schools, and that language was known only to the wealthy who had private teachers for their children.

In the long winter evenings in the Alsatian valleys before the war which re-deemed the provinces from Prussian sway, children would ask their grand-fathers or grand-mothers to tell them about France, for which the older generation maintained a profound attachment.

Constance Binney may not be the smallest star on the screen, but she comes very near to it. Miss Binney's exact height is five feet, three-fourths of an inch.

When some of Napoleon's entourage made fun of the antics of Kellermann, Rapp and Lefevre, his famous generals, the emperor retorted: "Let them babble in their dialect all they like. They always fight in French." Fifty years from now, when the little children of Alsace ask their grand-parents to tell them about the war and the liberation of their country they will listen to the story in Alsatian dialect.

Children who have received primary instruction in German will continue to study in that tongue, with French instruction on the side. Children who entered primary after the signing of the armistice will be taught French by the so-called "natural method," that is, by the use of images showing the meaning of the French words.

The Alsatian dialect has a harsh sound in comparison to French, but it is said, it translates exactly the Alsatian mentality. It cannot be used for a psychological treatise or a scientific discourse, but it is admirably adapted to songs, folk

DRESS SUITS ARE WANING IN STYLE IN LONDON CLUBS

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Coincident with the announcement that men's clothes are going up again a fashionable club in the elite West End of London sends out invitations for an overall dinner.

The invitation to the dinner reads that no member of the club will be admitted on the night of the dinner unless they are in overalls.

This desperate attempt to fight the ever increasing price of clothing is being anxiously watched throughout England. Full evening dress was compulsory in every club of reputable standing here at dinner time before the war, and that the tailors, with a sinister twist only possible to London tailors, sanctified the Tuxedo.

The Globe, sponsoring the club's movement, says that during the war the men were promised that they would never have to return to "soup and fish" again. It also adds that the Tuxedo brings out the vitality of the young athletic and leads an air of juvenility to the aged and comely, and that if the dinner is a success it might sound the death knell of the full evening dress as a little hole in the dykes of Holland lets in a sea of water.

Advertising Manager, RANGER DAILY TIMES, Ranger, Texas

There are some things which are bound to appeal to a tired business woman. —'s advertisement of Wednesday is one of them.

It stood out as a page of sane, common-sense business advertising. Every article received its own little compartment, with the name of the article in large type. How simple to find what I wanted!

Beneath each heading was a simple, honest description of the article, no lengthy eulogy or impossible description. Many illustrations helped the tired brain to picture the article with the least amount of effort.

My few precious minutes of shopping would now be profitably spent without unnecessary waste of time or energy. I am,

Is it because you see a bargain, or is it because somebody's advertisement called to your attention that now is the time? Why do you read the advertisements? COMPENSATION AGAIN.

Texas' service men, members of the American Legion, will meet in state convention starting next Monday at Houston. The question of compensation doubtless will be brought up. They will consider in that, a milder form of question that now is plaguing England, "Will the heroes of war become the outcasts of peace?"

Compensation, a word with a host of meanings, has been the subject of varying views, discussed pro and con in the columns of the Times. Both extremes have had their proponents, in men who stoutly maintained that any compensation, in land, loans, or favor, would go against the grain of the legioner; on the other hand, men who held that a cash bonus, on as liberal a basis as could be obtained, was the solution.

The measure which should have the approval of the majority of the ex-service men is that which will aid the man who is eager to regain what the sacrifice of the war entailed, provide the best chance for the disabled to become self-supporting, encourage independence by furnishing incentive to effort through loans, or give protection through paid-up insurance policies.

American Legion men are not selfish and self-seeking. They believe they are entitled to what help the country for which they fought can reasonably give, in such way that it may be accepted with pride. They will stand for just that.

BOLSHEVIK RECRUITING PROPAGANDA

Having computed the size of that hole in a doughnut which might be baked from the flour of the 1920 wheat crop, and run out of something to compute at home, he is making a special trip to Niagara where he will estimate the number of times a string of water, composed of the drops that go over the falls daily, placed end to end, would reach to the moon and back.—Tulsa World.

FOOD.

The earth, undaunted by the way men have been acting the last five or six years, continues to yield bountifully. The rain, falling on the just and the unjust, on the farmer with the mortgage and his neighbor, the profiteer, with his immense acreage, on the lands of rich and poor, foolish and wise, has happened to choose the right day for it in a majority of cases, and presents us with the prospect of a bumper crop. The predictions of the Department of Agriculture, made July 1, have been ratified and improved upon, fill now we find ourselves with more food in store than we were able to get together by extraordinary efforts during the war.

If the machinery of civilization worked as smoothly as the natural process that will fill our barns this fall we should have nothing to worry about. As it is, we may be justified in wondering whether certain human factors will be equal to the occasion. Will there be enough farm labor, for example, to keep up with the harvesting machines? Will the farmer get an adequate return for his labor, or will he find that the greater his output becomes the lower the market quotations fall, till all he seems to get out of bigger Off on a Great Journey.

When Tinker Bob heard the words of Mr. Musk Rat he was not surprised, for he was expecting sooner or later to hear from him about this foot. You remember, the Hunter found it in the tray when he expected to find Mr. Musk Rat himself. Ever since that time he has been called "Three Legs by the Forest dwellers, and he didn't like it at all, because all of the other Forest Creatures have four legs.

"I don't want anyone to know about this, O King, but I just felt that you would want me to have my foot and be like the other creatures. You see, it feels many times just like I had my foot here and I go to sit on it without thinking and then I get a fall." Mr. Musk Rat hung his head and there were tears in his eyes. "And I don't like to have the other folk call me Three Legs when I ought to have four."

Tinker hadn't known that he felt so badly about his condition. "I'm sorry you feel that way about your three legs. You should be thankful to think that the Hunter did not get you instead of your foot; if he had, your skin would be hanging about someone's neck in the great city. As it is, you are safe and the Hunter only got your foot and now he has given that to me." Mr. Musk Rat began to brighten up.

"I know you are a great King, and you understand everything in all the world. And I know that you could put my foot back in its place if you wanted to. But I was afraid you would forget it because you are so busy, and that is why I came here in the midst of the night."

Tinker Bob looked out of the window and saw that it would not be long till Mr. Sun would begin to send his light upon the Forest again, so he decided to get ready for a great journey. If every thing was well he could complete his journey before Mr. Sun came around and before any of the forest creatures were awake.

"What are you hurrying for?" asked Mr. Musk Rat.

"We must get away from here before Mr. Sun comes up or he will tell."

"Tell what?" /Mr. Musk Rat did not know what the King had in his mind to do. "Are you going to take me away O King. Tell me."

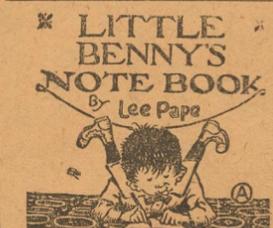

"I'm going to take you to the land where they put feet back in the right place. Now you must promise not to complain if anything hurts you a little, for in the Land of Healing they take that to mean that you don't want to be healed. You see, they will have to use a hammer and a chisel, and a needle and thread. But if you want to be happy with another foot you must not say a word about how much it hurts."

Then Tinker Bob tapped the Stone of Healing against the Stone of Knowledge—and without anyone in the whole Forest ever knowing it, they were off to the Land of Healing.

"We Must Get Away From Here Before Mr. Sun Comes Up or He Will Tell"

Tomorrow—The Realm of Healing.

Yestidday was Nora's day off and ma had to make supper, saying, Deer me, I don't know wat to have, there's so much lam left over I'd make a lam stew if your father like it, O well, I gess I'll make a lam stew.

POLAND'S DEFENDERS PHOTOGRAPHED IN WARSAW AS VICTORIOUS REDS APPROACH THE DOOMED CITY

ARCTIC REGIONS AS SOURCE OF NATION'S MEAT SUPPLY, THEORY OF EXPLORER; WILD GAME HERDS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—That the Arctic regions may become a new source of meat supply is the opinion of Steffansson, the explorer, who has recently returned to England, and who speaks in high praise of the American experiment of introducing reindeer into Alaska. The readiness with which the animals increase under favorable conditions has already made them abundant there and has relieved many of the native tribes from the starvation they formerly experienced yearly.

converting a certain number into meat will be considered in the near future. The interesting discovery has been made that the herd at Elk Island park, though originally of the same stock as the herd at Buffalo park, are developing under the different environment divergent characteristics, both in regard to physique and coloration. A government veterinary official reports that the heads of the Elk Island buffaloes are finer and the fore and hind quarters better developed. The skins are also much darker, the long hair on the forehead of the body being black and lustrous.

Herdling presents little difficulty and Bishop Stringer of the Yukon gave keen support to the scheme on the ground that it would provide a source of steady employment for the Eskimos and northern Indians, who are being demoralized through idleness and contact with whaling crews. The notion of Arctic regions as barren lands is quite erroneous; there are ample supplies of vegetable food all the year round; grass, moss and lichens in the various seasons, and thick frozen crusts of snow such as often bring starvation to the reindeer of Lapland are never formed. Once the herds had been thoroughly established and a surplus was available for killing, the selected quota could be driven down across country to Port Nelson on the Hudson Bay, which will soon be reached by railway from the interior and subsequently have a regular shipping service. Abattoirs could be erected and a profitable trade in caribou meat developed, especially with populations which find the ordinary beefsteak soaring in price beyond the reach of their purses.

The musk ox, which is of the sheep species, is another strange and valuable denizen of the northland. Capt. Bernier, another well known explorer, testified to the commission that their meat was excellent, superior even to caribou, and that their hides made splendid robes; he estimated there were more than 400 musk oxen on Melville Island alone. New industries often develop slowly, and the day may come yet when lands that were taken from Tarraxas and other exiles and given to the poor people is not known.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

XCV. SENSIBILITY IN DREAMS. With men or boys, with married women over the age of 35 and with maidens over that of 40, dreams of Sensibility have nothing to do. If ever they do come they convey no special message. But unmarried girls and women up to the age of 40, and married women up to that of 35, are advised to read this chapter carefully. It is one not easy to understand, for it has less to do with facts and incidents than with emotions. For this reason such dreams are doubly important. Likewise, they are hard to remember and to relate.

The only definition of the word "Sensibility" which counts in this respect is that corresponding to the related term "sensitiveness," which is usually given as "delicacy of feeling." All other dictionary definitions must be discarded. Such dreams usually come in a jumble of events. The clearer the latter, the less important is the vision because its real significance comes from the fact that the emotion itself is the predominant sensation. The more material happenings must be overshadowed by the state of the dreamer's mind.

The most characteristic dream of this sort is one in which the sleeper has the sensation of a feeling of embarrassment or almost of shame. Were she awake, she would feel herself blush. Yet there is no tangible reason for her confusion; and when there is one, the dream most likely belongs to an entirely different category. Such a dream-feeling foreshadows:

- 1. In the case of a girl under 30, that she will fall suddenly in love, forgetting or ignoring all previous attachments and fastening her hopes and wishes upon her newly-found ideal only. Her infatuation will know no bounds.
- 2. In the case of an unmarried woman between 30 and 40; A long forgotten, almost buried love will be revived and the flame will burn as brightly as ever it did. Some dream interpreters go further than this. They claim that in the case of such a dreamer the man she loved married another woman, but that he will become a widower and offer to marry her. I would not care to go this far, though I would not care for the meaning may well be chosen. However, I prefer to diagnose such a case merely as reawakened love, without either qualifying, restricting or completing the adventure. 3. In the case of married women under and up to 25: Such dreamers have, in one way or another, become somewhat estranged from their husbands. I do not mean that there has been outright incompatibility or enmity, but the former close association has slackened. The coming of such a dream is equivalent to a new turning point, and almost over night all the love, profound and forgiving, which during their early years of married life made both unspokeably happy, will return with flaming ardor.

The poet has well expressed the dream emotion which I have here indicated: A sensitive plant in the garden grew, And the young winds fed it with silver dew, And it opened its fanlike leaves to the light, And closed them beneath the kisses of night. The next chapter will be of Dreams of Faces.

REDUCE WANTS; BE CONTENT. International News Service. COLUMBUS, Aug. 16.—"Man's escape from economic bondage lies in reducing his wants to a minimum." This is the philosophic declamation of Roger Payne, self-styled "hobo philosopher," who hit Ohio's capital for a "spell." "The essentials of life are few—simple food, plain clothing and a little shelter," declared Payne. "The man who is content with these can devote the time saved from the pursuit of non-essentials to his own development, or to helping others." "Most people work six days a week and live a few hours on Sunday, I work one day a week and live six." Payne declared, however, that "what the world needs is more work and more production." Carrying a traveling bag weighing thirty-five pounds on his back, Payne is tramping across the continent. Since he came to the United States from England eleven years ago he has been tramping north, south, east and west, studying social and economic conditions. Two With Resorters Today; Who Owns Shortstop Ezell?

It's been a simple matter to follow the clubs of the West Texas League for the last ten days. It could be all wound up in less than a minute, involving as it has the reading of some such item as this, in the "How They Stand" column.

RESULTS, YESTERDAY No Games, Rain. GAMES TODAY. Double Headers Everywhere. Then, for a change, the following day. NO DOUBLE-HEADERS, RAIN. Having lost the chance to play the Cisco Scouts two Sunday, the Nitros hoped to open with the Resorters Monday. They had not played Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, but had sneaked in a victory, Saturday, between showers, making a total of three games played last week.

Three have been scheduled and none played, so far this week. Lefty First Out. The schedule today calls for two with the Resorters and the chances look brighter for play today. The sun was out, a while this morning. Any of the staff may be called on to work, Lefty Adkins first out.

The question of who owns Homer Ezell, who has been short-stopping for our club for some time, probably will be determined by the National Commission, in the fall. Homer is on a full-fledged Ranger contract, since reporting to the Nitros. He has signed a scrap of paper offered him by a St. Louis Brown scout, agreeing to report to that club in the spring. The question of real ownership will be determined when the commission meets—baseball contract vs. I. C. U. Not that Ezell will play in this company another year. He's too much class for this league—smooth fielder, aggressively quick and smart, a fair batter, and a flashy base-runner. But should the commission rule for Manager Jim, a sale will be made, probably putting Ezell with a faster club than that which first picked him off for the big time. He should be worth more than any player sold thus far by the Nitros.

The Draft Rule. In this connection, it is not beside the point to discuss the probable change in the draft rules, back to the old style, at the fall baseball meeting.

As it now stands, only the minors may draft, starting with the Association and Coast League, which may draft from class A, or Southern and Western, which in turn may draft from Class B, such as the Texas, which may draft from Class C, which may pick up from Class D. It works right down the scale. Baseball has had two years to become rehabilitated since the war. By next season it will have filled out fairly well with new players to take the place of those whose prospects were nipped by the war.

The minor leagues again will be developing youngsters, and the majors again will want the privilege of the draft, which permitted all clubs down to Class B to pick from any grade below them the majors having first choice and so on down. One club could not be picked for more than two players in this way, and the drafting club paid a definite price.

The majors, it is to be supposed, will ask for the restoration of the old rules which are more sensible and direct. They will meet, in return, a counter request, or demand.

"Lay Off the Lots!" "Lay off the sand lots," will probably be the word returned by the minors to the majors. And with due cause. Charlie Barrett's activities this year have been an example. The old card expert, who purchased our Smoke Boyer after one work-out, has been taking them from every corner of the lots. Most of the men he has signed for next season have been secured from independent clubs.

Most of them will not make good with the Cards next season, but those who are called out in the spring training trip may be peddled back to the minors, with a profit to the Cards over training expenses, if Charlie has been a good picker. This gives the minors no chance. They should have the chance to scour the sticks and the independent clubs for good baseball timber. The minor league club, for the most part, depends for its success upon the location and development of good youngsters, whose playing gives the club zest while he stays, and adds velvet to the coffers when he leaves. For the minor league club must make its money on sales, for the most part. Only in rare instances do profits come in at the gate.

With scouts like Charlie Barrett active, what chance have the smaller leagues? That's why the answer will go back to the majors, "Lay off the lots." And should the change be made, on that basis, there will be no doubt as to the ownership of Homer Ezell.

Longhorns Ready for Gridiron Work Starting Sept. 15

By R. J. McLEAN. AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—Everything is about in shape for the opening of the football training season at the University of Texas, Sept. 15. A force of men have been at work on Clark Field all summer, erecting new bleachers and getting the field in first-class condition. Substantial bleachers, with a capacity of over 4,000 have been built on the east side of the gridiron, at a cost of over $6,000. The grass on the field which has been watered and allowed to grow during the summer is now being cut, and the football warriors will have a beautiful, soft turf on which to fall.

Head Coach Berry Whitaker has been in Austin for the greater portion of the summer, giving a course in football for teachers. Freshmen Coach Clyde Littlefield arrived several days ago, and will be in and out during the training season at the University. Assistant Coach Charles Selden is expected to arrive between the tenth and fifteenth of September. B. D. Bryant and Albert Penn, the student assistant coaches, are also expected about the same time.

The season will open in Austin with the strong Simmons college team as the Longhorns' opponents. The Simmons' boys, coached by East-erday, have for several years past been undefeated, although they have met many of the strongest smaller colleges of the state. It will be remembered that they gave the Longhorns some of the stiffest competition they met last year in basketball and baseball, and with the advantage of an earlier start, they are likely to put up a great battle against 'varsity.

The Simmons game will be followed on successive Saturdays by Southwestern and Howard Payne. Howard Payne is the team that came so near defeating Rice last year, and Coach Kirkpatrick says he will have an even stronger team this year.

On Oct. 16 the Longhorns journey to Dallas to play their annual game at the State Fair. This year it will be Oklahoma A. & M. instead of Oklahoma university as in former years, the Sooners having joined the Missouri Valley conference, which forbids their playing on neutral gridirons. The Oklahoma Aggies expect to have one of the strongest teams in their history this year, and have a great schedule, meeting such teams as Henry Kendall college, Baylor, Texas A. & M., Oklahoma university, Haskell Indians and Colorado, in addition to the Longhorns; thus, the Longhorns will have an excellent opportunity of seeing how they stack up with some of the leading teams of the South and West.

After the Dallas game, the Longhorns will have a let-down game with Austin college in Austin, after which they meet in succession the Rice Owls, the Phillips Haymakers, S. M. U. and A. & M. All of these are likely to be very strong games. The Owls always have an excellent team, and the Haymakers last year humbled State to the tune of 10-0. This game will also give a line on A. & M., as Phillips meets the Farmers two weeks before journeying to Austin.

The season will close with the annual Thanksgiving game with A. & M. This is always looked upon as the crucial game of the season, and the one which usually decides the Southwestern championship.

Preparations are already being made to accommodate the huge crowd that is expected to make the trip to the capital city to witness the game and the 'varsity home-coming.

RAYMOND CHAPMAN, INDIAN SHORTSTOP, DIES FROM BLOW

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Raymond Chapman, shortstop for the Cleveland Americans, who was hit on the head by a ball thrown by pitcher Mays in yesterday's game with New York, died at St. Lawrence's Hospital here today. He never regained consciousness after a mid-night operation in which a portion of the skull was removed by surgeons. News of the death cast gloom over members of both teams and the base ball world generally. Today's game between Cleveland and New York was called off because Carl Mays was overcome with grief when the news was told him.

Gibby Has Knack of Co-ordination Applied to Pirates

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—When George Gibson returned from the International league to the National and took over the management of the Pirates, an old-time manager in Pittsburgh baseball began to show rejuvenation. The man who did the bulk of the work behind the bat during the long term of years Fred Clark managed the team and who stuck along while Jimmy Callahan piloted the team seems to be the only one of several tried out in Pittsburgh who has the ability to put across a pennant contender. Johnny Evers, who virtually is in charge of the Giants these days, trite-fully expressed it a short time ago when he remarked that George Gibson and George Whitted constitute a combination in Pittsburgh that speaks nothing soft for any ball club, even though the Giants have managed to make the Pirates play dead most of the season. Gibson, he contended, possesses that trait so rarely found among big league managers—the ability to co-ordinate every factor in a club until it works perfectly at the direction of the manager. There isn't a sore spot on the Pittsburgh club. Every member of the famous old team is putting his heart into what he does and is striving to do it Gibson's way. Whitted's worth to the team, according to Evers, lies in the fact that he is one of those rare birds—a fighter who never knows when he is licked. "Give me two Whitteds on a baseball club," remarked the Trojan. "and I'll find the rest of the players to go with them and come mighty close to winning the pennant." Whitted's influence with the other players may be found in the fact that he can play practically any position on a ball club and do a star job of it. He is generally looked upon as an outfielder, but with Pittsburgh he has played so many games in the infield as he has at any other post. He recently has been sojourning at third base, but he has also handled chances at first and second, in addition to doing an outfield beat occasionally.

Swedish Runners Hope for Laurels in Middle Distance

ANTWERP, Aug. 17.—The Swedish Olympic team for track and field events does not expect many brilliant victories here but hopes to make its best showing in middle distance running events. Since the Olympic games in Stockholm in 1912 much training has been given to the younger athletes of Sweden the results of which have been shown in the qualification tests. In the 100-meter dash Engdahl is counted as good for 10.5-7 seconds and he is the hope of Sweden in the 200-meter race. In the 400-meter race Engdahl, Bolin and Sandblad are believed to be good for 49 seconds. Still Sweden is expected to have only a little chance in the short distances. Her best men are in the distances ranging from 800 to 10,000 meters. Much reliance is put on John Zander, the wonderful Swedish miler and record holder who is expected to show his great speed again in the 1,500-meter race. Zander ran the distance in 1918 in 3 minutes 53.1-5 seconds and his trainer assured the Associated Press that he is able to do that again. Zander is expected to show up well too, in the 800-meter run where Sweden also will be represented by Bolin and Lundgren. All three of these are able to cover the distance in one minute 52.2-5 seconds to one minute 53 seconds. Both Lundgren and Zander will be strong competitors at 5,000 meters. In this event and in the 10,000-meter run, Sweden will be represented also by Falk and Backman, both of whom have run the distance in remarkable fast time. Backman was easy winner of the English five-mile championship in 1919. In the 400-meter relay race the Swedish team will consist of Holmstrom, Malm, Engdahl and Sandstrom. The team has repeatedly run the distance in 41.1-10 seconds. Sweden is not expected to win the hurdle races. In the running broad jump W. Patterson has jumped 7.260 meters and is considered good for 7.350 meters. Sweden sends F. Johansson and K. Sahlin as competitors in the hop, step and jump. Their records this year are respectively 15.28 and 15.16 meters. In the pentathlon and decathlon, Sweden's best men will be Everit Nilson and Bertie Olsson. The pole jump will be contested by Mattson and Higstrom, who have jumped over 3.80 meters but do not seem good for anything better. Sigfried Edstrom heads the troop of athletes which numbers fifty-one.

Whitted was a member of the Braves of 1914 when they sensationally won a pennant and a world's championship. So was Evers. So John undoubtedly knows whereof he speaks when he mentions the nerve of his former clubmate.

Gibson was bedeviled by Hugo Bezdek when the football gentleman undertook to mould a team for Barney Dreyfuss. John McGraw didn't waste any minutes seizing upon the wandering catcher and signed him to coach Giant pitchers, a very wise move in the estimation of many, for it was he who finally taught Fred Schupp that curves can be thrown with accuracy. Schupp was largely instrumental in the Giant's 1917 pennant conquest. Later Gibby got a chance to do duty as a manager in the International league and McGraw, following an old-time custom, gave the veteran his release. Gibson's success as a leader in the International started Barney Dreyfuss to thinking when he and Hugo had a little the falling out and the results was that Gibson has returned to his first love to lead it to another pennant if such a thing is possible. And, strangely, Babe Adams, another Pittsburgh old-timer, is getting his bones most successfully about the league under Gibby's direction.

Adolphe Jean Menjon, who supports Mable Normand in "Head Over Heels," was decorated by the queen of Italy for his heroic exploit.

Whitted's worth to the team, according to Evers, lies in the fact that he is one of those rare birds—a fighter who never knows when he is licked. "Give me two Whitteds on a baseball club," remarked the Trojan. "and I'll find the rest of the players to go with them and come mighty close to winning the pennant." SINGLE SMITH JAZZ FIVE WILL PLAY AT FRIDAY NIGHT PARTY

Ranger's dancing enthusiasts will give a rare treat Friday evening. The services of Single Smith's jazz band has been obtained and they have the reputation of being one of the best dance orchestras in the state. It was the original intention to give the dance in the Lone Star building, but owing to the fact that the floor is not yet finished for dancing, the dance will be given in the Summer Garden. Single Smith has combined his two orchestras in order to give us the best he has and will bring a five-piece orchestra, piano, clarinet, trombone, saxophone and the traps. Those who have heard Fort Worth's famous orchestra know what they can do and everyone is sure of having a good time. Refreshments will be served and the dance will start at 9 o'clock and will stop in time for the musicians to catch the 2:55 train for Fort Worth.

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly, for the benefit of Times readers. If any of the articles described meets your needs, you may learn the shop where it may be purchased by calling the Times, telephone 224, and giving the shopping editor the number of the paragraph which tells of your particular bargain. 1. Suits or one-piece dresses? Always an important question and one which is never pre-determined by the fashion-makers but by the women who wear them. It happens now, though, that there is nothing set in styles and it is very much up to you to wear what you like best. The early one-piece dresses are very fascinating. The lines of some of these frocks seem to be quite Russian. One is made of mid-night blue tricotine and trimmed in bright colored beads; a line of beaded designs extends straight down the back from neck to bottom of long tunic, around the bottom of which there is a four-inch beaded band. A very narrow belt marks the waist line. 2. Navy and brown tricotine and serge combined with black satin embroidered and sometimes trimmed in bands of duvetyne of contrasting shades are among the most admired early frocks shown. Vests, collars and girdles of duvetyne in gray, tan, sapphire and "Iodine" orange as well as the brighter shades of Chinese blue braided or embroidered in dull gold in running scroll designs form some of the newest trimmings. White and silver braid and "patent" are fashionable trimmings for the dark blues and browns. 3. Coat frocks are among the new models shown, those which will just precede the winter models and, of course, be worn into the winter. Some of these trimmed in military something pretty for yourself you braid and buttons are very smart. 4. If you are interested in making can get foulards this week, the $5.50 seller, for $4.00 and crepe de chine and georgettes reduced from $4.00 and $4.50 to $2.50.

Firemen's Dance Will Swell Fund for Injured Men

A firemen's ball, for the benefit of the relief fund of the fire department, will be given Aug. 20 at the Summer Garden. All revenue derived from the dance will be used by the department in paying a part the doctor's bill for an injured fireman and to care for such bills in the future.

At present the fire department is in debt for physicians' bill and medicine to the extent of $110. It is expected enough money will be secured from the dance to pay this bill as well as to leave a balance.

Firemen receive $135 per month for their labor, which is for a twenty-four-hour day. No provision is made by the city to care for injured or sick men of the department. In case of illness they pay their own bills and they are paid by the relief fund.

In the past, money has been made available for this purpose by people sending checks of appreciation for good work done by the department. Several recent injuries suffered by firemen and several illnesses have used up this fund and left a deficit.

The department expects to sell tickets over the city at $1 each.

FUNERAL OF WORLD'S BEST STUNT FLYER ATTRACTS BIG THROG

The air of past military glory was taken on again by Fort Worth Sunday when that city turned out 50,000 strong to pay the last solemn, strong tribute to her most illustrious flier, Ormer Locklear, master of the air. Uniforms were very much in evidence throughout the day. Many Dallas aviators, aviators' wives and members of the Royal Flying Corps took a part in the funeral.

Locklear and his "buddy," Lieutenant Mill Elliott, who trained with him at Barron Field in Fort Worth, and who has been his pilot in all his dare-devil stunts over the country, met their deaths last Monday night when they fell 10,000 feet, as they were taking a final scene for the Fox Film Co. in Hollywood, Cal.

The Fox Film Co. sent special camera men to film the funeral cortege.

The gray crepe casket, draped with the flag, was surrounded by great banks of flowers. Airmen who trained with him at Barron Field acted as pallbearers. A huge wreath of everlasting California flowers was the tribute of Louis Lovely, the aviator's leading lady in the fatal picture. Other floral offerings significant of aviation were the offerings of other Fox stars. A model airplane six feet from wing to wing was made and covered with asters by a boyhood friend of Locklear.

Greatest Stunt Flier.

So ends the career of the world's greatest stunt flier and foremost trail-blazing pioneer in the science of aerial navigation. Through his fearlessness and skill he has contributed immeasurably to the art of flying. He was the first to change from one flying plane to another at a high rate of speed, and the only man who could sit on the tail of a ship with nothing to hold on to in a 90-mile wind. Glenn Curtis said it couldn't be done.

"I don't do these things because I want to run the risk of being killed," Lieutenant Locklear once said. "I do it to demonstrate what can be done. Somebody has got to show the way."—Helen Brown in the Dallas Dispatch.

Phyllis, the Phone Girl, Passes Judgment on Suitor Whose Aroma of Djer Kiss Serves as Warning

Gosh Mister, you sure did get me into a dickens of a mess with that cabaret party that wrote a letter to the Times calling me down for the way I talk and everything.

I just betcha the name of "Fair Phyllis and the Phone Girl" is taboo in the best cabaret society circles from that date on. Gee, ain't that a saddening thought and me honing to be made queen of the Labor Day parade, too. My friend, he has been working for a month getting things fixed for him and me to be right behind the band and now them dames will be saying that I am worse than Benedict Arnold and ought to be shot at sunrise. Can you beat it? You can't, you can't even come close to it and all because a girl tries to be natural.

Gosh, Mister, I haven't gotta' thing against the cabarets. It's that line'a talk them silk shirted sports exudes I hates. Golly, I been waiting to use that high browed word for a week. I picked it off the chief. Her and old Noah Webster is great little pals. A date is not a date with her, but an engagement. What'a you know about that? Believe me, Mister I ain't going to be engaged but once and that is going to be about two minutes before I see a preacher.

I know all about that stuff. These guys get a girl oozey over them and than they hang a sign on her front door that says keep off the grass; trespassers will get their ear knocked down.

Then after all the rest of the guys reads the sign and gets in the habit of going around the block each time they pass that away, he takes a hopee and hunts up a J. P. and marries his sweetheart's best friend.

Gosh, Mister, I know more about men than Solomon knew about women and they say he had 'em stuck around his boarding house so thick that he had to have a secretary to keep up with his dates.

How did I acquire such a vast store of knowledge in my eighteen short years upon this mundane sphere? Gee you're the educated guy ain't you?

Canned satire? What's that? Something to eat?

Oh I know, it's this funny stuff these birds "can in New Jersey" and let loose on the world with a music machine. Oh you said, Can the satire.

Gee I thought you were knocking some of the jazz artists. You want me to quit trying to be cute, is that it? Oh it is, eh You nasty thing. Just for that I ought'n to tell you about Saturday night. Gosh, that was a cream puff it was so rich.

A bird what Maxine knew called up Saturday and wanted a date to go out to Shamrock Park that night. Maxine was all filled for the evening and asked me would I go with this friend of hers. Golly, she is a poor picker. I told her to trot him along that I would take a chance on any thing that had a suit of Palm Beaches rather than stay home alone, my friend he being gone from town.

So he come and Maxine introduced us. When I seen him I told myself that here is where little Phyllis is going to have to look out that she ain't vamped. He was all dolled up and smelled of Djer Kiss perfume.

I know that kind, Mister, I knew he would spend a few dimes at the park and on the way home he would try some of this old Adam stuff. Gosh, and they say women is the cause of the garden growing up on weeds? Can you beat it? Little Phyllis was right. When he was coming home we come to a dark spot and he put his arm around my waist. Gee it felt natural and I wished for my friend that was gone from town.

I didn't do any thing for a minnit and he squeezed me kinder tight. Then I said, "My friend that bottle of Bevo you drank went to your head and you may think this is a lamp post that you are hanging onto but I am going to let you into a dark secret that has two meanings. If you turn loose it ain't, but if you don't it is, and you are spiffed and I am going to call a cop."

Gosh, he was sore, but he didn't try that trick any more.

But Gee, Mister, that arm felt kinder good, it being Saturday night and all, with me lonesome and my friend gone from town. But me, I'm a lady and I never did let no bird hug me—not the first time I ever went out with him, anyway.

Ever see him again? Sure, he's got a date for tonight to go to the movies.

Well, goodbye, Mister. Thanks awfully for the drinks. Next time we will go where the service is not so rotten.

Stylish Fall Dresses

—Arrived yesterday to add additional charm to our already splendid showing of the new modes.

They are indeed most delightful, these chic new Dresses for Autumnal wear. The material range is unusually wide, including among others, Tricotines, Poiret Twill, Serges and Satins. Trimmed with original little touches of embroidery, braid or buttons. While the prices run as low as $30, and as high as $75 you will find the majority around $35 to $40, and you'll agree they're remarkable values at these prices too.
