RAMSEY'S TESTIMONY FAVORS ELLIS

LIGHT VOTE ONLY FEAR OF SCHOOL BOND ADVOCATES

Believed Everyone Sees Need of Extending High School Facilities.

Patrons of the schools, educators and members of the school board have expressed themselves as being sure that the school bond election to be held Jan. 22 will carry with a majority. Their only fear is that the number of votes cast will be so few as to defeat the issue when it comes up for the approval of the attorney general. It is thought that at the time of the election most voters will take the attitude that the issue will carry by those who do vote and it will not be necessary for them to take the trouble to go to the polls.

In advancing this cause for anxiety it is remembered that when the election was held to vote the bonds for the ward schools this condition prevailed. The number of votes cast was so small that the attorney general's department held that it was not a true test of the people's wishes in the matter and the issue was dropped. This resulted another election. To avoid a recurrence of this possibility, those interested are making an effort to interest every voter in the outcome of the January election in order that they will vote.

New High School.
The purpose of the bond issue is to erect a new high school building and an additional ward school. It is thought that one will be needed. The high school will be on the present site and the ward school somewhere in the northern or western section, if it is decided that such a school is needed.

With the completion of these additional buildings, which will allow for all advanced courses which cannot now be taught for lack of space, it is said that Ranger's school system will stand on a par with the best in the state.

It is thought that children will be sent here from all surrounding towns to attend school.

The bond election will be held in the directors' room of the Farmers & Merchants bank.

PENNSYLVANIA SOLDIERS TO ATTENDED INAUGURATION

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 5.—Pennsylvania, as in many previous inaugurations, will be well represented at the induction of President Harding on March 4. Arrangements for the state's participation are already under way. Political organizations of the state have also taken up the question of sending marching clubs.

City Commission Will Regulate Baggage Transfer Rates; Sidewalk Ordinance Up at Next Meeting

An ordinance making sidewalk construction compulsory in sections designated by the city commission will probably be passed to the first reading at the next meeting of the city commission. The ordinance was presented to the commission at its meeting yesterday afternoon but due to its length and because it covered phases of sidewalk building not needed in Ranger at this time, it was decided to shorten it to the city's needs before it was passed. It is thought that this will be done before the next regular meeting.

While in session the board of commissioners considered the fact that travelers are forced to pay $1 or more for having to have their baggage transferred from one railway station to the other. They decided that the prices charged were in excess of what should be charged and will draft legislation that will fix the charge for this class of drayage. While the matter was not settled it was thought that because of the short haul and the good streets that now exist 50 cents would be a fair price to be asked.

STORIES OF THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS ATTRACT WRITERS

By Associated Press.

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Jan. 5.—Interest aroused in Tahiti by the latter day appreciation of the paintings of Gauguin and that rather unpleasant novel said to have been founded on incidents in Gauguin's life—Somerset Maugham's "Moon and Sixpence," has attracted a number of artists and writers to the islands. All aspects of scenery and life are being committed to papers and canvas with great diligence.

Every steamer brings new recruits and the offices of editors and galleries of art dealers are threatened with an early avalanche of South Sea Island material, which mannae the pre-eminence of copra as the principal article of export from the Port of Papeete.

Toughs Join in, and Attacked, Attackers and Police Have Merry Time.

The fight continued for half an hour. The attackers being reinforced by toughs from the neighborhood, whose only reason for joining the fray was the love of a good scrap. Ten arrests were made.

TOO MUCH MARGIN 'TWIXT COTTON AND SOX, BELL COUNTY THINKS

TEMPLE, Jan. 5.—Bell county in 1920 produced 110,000 bales of cotton, averaging at least strict ordinary. One bale, it is estimated, will produce 8,000 pairs of 50-cent socks. The total yield would produce 880,000 pairs with a retail counter value of $440,000.

The average weight of a bale is about 500 pounds. The weight of Bell county's yield would be 55,000,000 pounds, which at $8.25 a bale, would have derived $3,437,500 from a yield that grossed $440,000,000 to retailers.

STAMP SALE IN BERLIN NETS QUARTER MILLION

By Associated Press.

During the first day's sale there was a rush for rare Argentine, Brazilian and Bolivian issues.

United States issues included the only known cancelled copy of the "Franklin Carriers," brown orange error, of 1851; the "Livingstone" (Albanian) 5c blue, of 1861, and three blocks of the new U. S. 10c and 30c issues, of 1869, with flags inserted.

PROFIT SHARING SYSTEM DOESN'T SUIT WORKERS

New Plan Netted Workmen 20 Per Cent Less Than Recent Wage Cut.

NEWBERN, N. C., Jan. 5.—For the second time in less than a month, once after their wages had been reduced 10 per cent and once after they had tried out an income-sharing plan, several hundred employees of the foundry and shops of the Newbern Iron Works and Supply company have ceased their labors, declaring they cannot work for the wages they received in both instances.

When the wage reduction of 10 per cent was made the management announced that falling market prices for manufactured products from their plant made this necessary. The men remained away from their work for a day and then returned.

A week later the management announced a further reduction of 10 per cent in their wages was necessary. It was then that the income sharing agreement was suggested and agreed upon, the company operating the plant to take out the actual operating and overhead expenses and then divide the remainder among the employees.

Last Friday afternoon the men received their first weekly wage on this scale. It amounted to 20 per cent less than they had received before their wages were cut the first time, or a drop from 76 cents an hour to 71 cents an hour. The men declare they intend to remain out, that they cannot work for less than 75 cents an hour.

ALLIED MANDATES BUT VILE THEFT OF GERMAN COLONIES—DERNBURG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—"The mandates over our former colonies invented for the purpose of safely steering around President Wilson's fourth point, serve merely to veil the annexation of our colonies by our enemies. The whole matter is no less than typical of the sophistry and dishonesty by which not only the Germans, but also the Americans, whom the President, after all, represented, were deceived."

This sentiment is made in an article in the Berliner Tagblatt by former Imperial Minister Bernhard Dernburg, who conducted German propaganda in this country before the United States entered the war. A copy of the article was received in a communication from Berlin today.

Dernburg says: "The mandates the English, French and Belgians distributed among one another, and there they exercise full sovereignty and act toward Germans and German property in a way completely violating the Wilson points."

"The responsibility of the mandates is now only a moral one, as no one can be responsible toward himself except in moral respects. This exclusively moral responsibility entirely removes the Wilson idea and the whole amounts to no more than a farce with the aim of robbing Germany."

WILL TRY TO AMEND ROBERTSON LAW IN NEXT LEGISLATURE

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 5.—The ten-year-old proposition of permitting the returning turn to Texas of nineteen life insurance companies which withdrew from the state because they declined to comply with the provisions of the Robertson insurance law, without requiring payment of certain taxes claimed to be due the state, probably will be brought up again before the coming session of the legislature, according to present indications.

Charles C. Johnson, deputy commissioner of insurance, said that he expects a swift contest in the legislature should a plan to permit the return of these companies be submitted including a proposition to eliminate the question of payment of the alleged back taxes, which, he said, would exceed $1,000,000. That question has blocked efforts in previous legislative sessions to permit the companies to return.

E. M. Gibson, former state senator from Fannin county, recently expressed the opinion that if the 37th legislature would enact a bill relinquishing the taxes it would mean much to the state and that it would make possible obtaining cheap money in Texas.

SPANIARD GETS TWO YEARS FOR STEALING CASE OF EGGS

100-GALLON STILL TAKEN IN STRAWN RAID

Sixty-five Cases From Oil Belt Will Be Heard by Federal Grand Jury.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 5.—Federal prohibition enforcement officers in this district, who returned today from raids in the oil field district, report the capture of a 100-gallon still in a ravine near Strawn. They confiscated twenty barrels of mash, according to their report.

As a result of the holiday raids, sixty-five cases, involving violations of the prohibition amendment, will be presented to the federal grand jury at Abilene, when it convenes on Jan. 17.

SHORTAGE OF MATERIALS WILL DELAY HOTEL

Workmen Say They Could Complete it This Month if Shipments Arrive.

Although fifty or sixty men are busily engaged, delay in receipts of material will probably hold up completion of the Gleson hotel until nearly March 1, in the opinion of men on the construction force. Marble and tile setters are now laying the lobby floor and setting the marble facings for the mezzanine and lobby. Carpenters are putting in the mill work, such as door facings and moldings. The elevator is here, but has not been assembled. Plate glass arrived yesterday. Plastering has been nearly completed above the ground floor.

It is said that the contractors could complete a floor each four days, if all materials were at hand, which schedule would enable them to turn over the building about Jan. 25. It is estimated that it will take at least a week longer to install the furnishings since the ground floor will be the last one finished; work cannot start on this until all building work is completed. McClure & Hubbs, the lessees, will give shipping orders in ample time to have the furnishings here in time to prevent unnecessary delay in opening, they say.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY REBUKED BY JUDGE FOR LANGUAGE USED

He Calls S. B. Johnson, State's Chief Witness, Many Names; Bribery Charge Related in Detail by Roadhouse Man.

BY JULIAN G. KENT, Times Staff.

BRECKENRIDGE, Jan. 5, 1 p. m.—J. M. Ellis, former deputy sheriff and Texas ranger, on trial here for murder of two alleged bootleggers, was occupying the witness stand at 12 o'clock today when the court recessed for lunch. His story had been told, but he had not yet been cross-examined.

The evidence of W. F. Ramsey (Cadillac Bill), also was given this morning. Ramsey was driving the car in which Herman Stevens and A. E. Lockhart, the two alleged bootleggers, were killed as they were being transported to Breckenridge by Angelo Hughes and the man on trial. Ramsey virtually substantiated the story told by the deputies at the time of the killing.

A thrill shot through the crowd that had jammed the little red courthouse yesterday as S. B. Johnson, self-confessed bootlegger, and the man responsible for the arrest of the ex-officers, took the stand.

Charged "Protection" Bought.

Johnson testified that the two former deputies openly connived with gamblers and illicit liquor dealers, extorting a usurious toll for protection and aiding in the transportation and caching of intoxicants which were brought from the Mexican border, finally killing in cold blood two of those with whom they had been identified in the traffic. He stated that he and associates had for months paid the former deputies $50 a day flat rate and $20 a case on whisky and $10 on tequila.

Johnson admitted under cross-examination that he had remained in Breckenridge several days following the alleged murder, debating whether to go to Austin and "spill the beans" and told of Hughes, subsequent to the killing of Lockhart and Stevens, showing him a warrant for his arrest with the remark, "don't worry; I will tear it up before I will arrest a friend."

Ramsey's Story.
Ominous quiet pervaded the halls, jammed with men and the expectant faces of those who had secured seats, this morning as "Cadillac Bill" took the stand and related the same story that Ellis and Hughes have since the killing, insisted was the true account of how the men came to their deaths. His demeanor was calm and his story straightforward as he told that he had driven Ellis to Johnson's roadhouse about 9 o'clock on the night of the killing. Word had come to Ellis, he said, that Hughes was being held by Stevens and Lockhart. When they arrived at the roadhouse they found Hughes standing outside with a flashlight in one hand and a gun in the other, both trained on his captives.

Ellis asked him what was the matter and he said he was going to "take these two men to town."

The witness testified that the two men were placed in the back seat of the car and that the deputies occupied the turned-down seats between the two main seats. They had gone about three-quarters of a mile, according to the witness when he heard some one cry, "Slim, they have my gun." This voice, he thought, belonged to Hughes since that was the name by which he addressed his companion. On the heels of the cry the witness heard one shot and someone scream out, "My God, they have killed me." Ramsey could not identify this voice. At about the same moment he heard other shots the number being nine, he thought.

Drive us to Town.
After the men were dead, the witness declared, that he said: "Well, somebody say something." Whereupon Ellis said, "Drive us to the courthouse."

The witness stated that he drove to that place at the rate of thirty miles an hour. When they arrived the bodies of Stevens and Lockhart were carried into the building and the two deputies went into the sheriff's office and gave up. No amount of cross-examination could shake the witness from this story.

Ellis on Stand.
Ellis, when he took the stand, testified to every detail of the story as had Ramsey with the exception of the fact that the car driver said that Ellis had alighted from the car at the roadhouse and had had a short consultation with Hughes. This Ellis denied, saying that he stayed in the car while the prisoners were being loaded.

The testimony of Johnson given yesterday was corroborated by Mrs. Fay Temple. She swore that she witnessed all that transpired at the roadhouse until Hughes ordered her to return to town. In part the woman testified:

"I went to the roadhouse to meet Lockhart and we were together when we heard a car coming. Lockhart said he suspected it was the law so we went to the roadhouse, which is nothing but a tent and hid in the brush. He hid in one place and I in another. Ellis found me and told me to leave. Instead, I later went into the tent where Hughes (roadhouse proprietor) and Stephens (employee of roadhouse) were sitting. They were quarreling and I heard Lockhart say he was not able to give them, presumably meaning Hughes and Ellis, $100 a case on liquor when he was paying $200 for it. Hughes got mad and when they started to leave the room, Hughes, who was behind, pulled his gun and made them give up their arms. He started swearing and threatened to shoot. After calling them dirty names he gave Johnson back his gun, saying he thought Johnson was all right, and ordered me to leave the tent and go to town."

In the cross-examination which followed the testimony of the Temple woman, attorneys for the defense endeavored to gain an admission from her that when she entered the tent Hughes was being threatened by Lockhart and Stevens. The woman refused to qualify her original testimony.

Other Witnesses.
The three witnesses following Par Temple were Ben Coffland, Mable Tucker and Billie Moore, the latter being designated as "Johnson's woman." The state sought to prove through these witnesses that Hughes and Ellis were receiving protection, not only from the roadhouse, but from other persons engaged in illegal traffic. Their testimony regarding what happened at the roadhouse being to the effect that there was evident trouble brewing between the principals just prior to the tragedy. The Tucker woman testified that Hughes had told her to return to town, early in the evening, and sent Ellis out. She went to town, she asserted, but was unable to find Ellis. The woman was vague in recalling what had carried her to the roadhouse and what transpired during the hours preceding the shooting. Her answers were framed with deliberation and delivered in evident fear of perjury, being unmistakably in at ease through the cross-examination, when she nervously fingered an expensive sable, while beads of perspiration, which dotted her forehead, sparkled in the incandescent light and ried in brilliancy with the jewels she wore on her fingers.

"Billie" Moore swore that Ellis had come to her room in Breckenridge and told her that she was an immoral woman and unless she paid him $20 then and the same amount at stated periods, he would have her arrested on a statutory offense. The woman paid the money, she said. However, she denied that she was morally depraved or that she lived with any man.

Ben Coffland, from the witness stand, admitted that he was a bootlegger but maintained no establishment. In answer to a question he said he "shot it from the hip." By his testimony he was the man who first took Hughes and Ellis to the Johnson house. However, he knew nothing about what happened there, he said. After arrival, he testified, he never left his car but returned shortly with Ellis who was on trail on another bootlegger, Johnson Unshaken.

In spite of a withering fire of cross questions by B. Y. Cummings, Johnson while he was on the stand maintained his story. At no time did he appear to be bothered by the rapid fire questions. The defense baited him with such terms as criminal, bootlegger and white slave. At one time he asked the witness what his initials were and when the reply was given that they were "S. B." he declared that even they were suggestive. For this he was roundly rebuked by Judge Bateman.

Throughout the afternoon yesterday and this morning much wrangling has gone on between the attorneys as to the admissibility of evidence.

SENATE VOTES FIFTY THOUSAND FOR EXPENSE OF INAUGURATION

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—After an hour's debate the senate this afternoon passed by a viva voce vote the Knox resolution appropriating $50,000 toward the Harding inaugural ceremonies on March 4. The senate refused to reduce the appropriation to $10,000, as provided in an amendment offered by Senator Norris,

EXTRA! LOCAL LIMBS OF LAW LAND IN TOILS

Three local county peace officers, a justice of the peace, a local attorney and a private citizen were ordered into Judge E. A. Hill's court at Eastland yesterday to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for violating an injunction issued by the court. After the hearing they were dismissed. They were: Roger Fenlaw, L. R. Pearson, J. B. Ames, S. R. Black, R. L. Faircloth, and Nelson Hemon. The cause that led to their arrest is said to have been through the issuance of distress warrant granted L. R. Pearson against the furnishings of the Ranger Amusement company, which is composed of Minnie H. Dudley, Louise Hadley and Laura Kincaid, and who acted through J. E. Ingram, their attorney in fact.

When the warrant was issued an injunction was granted by Judge Hill restraining the fixtures from being interfered with in any manner, it is said. Shortly after this Mr. Pearson appeared before Judge Hill and pleaded that the restraining order be dissolved, which was done. He returned to Ranger and had the property, which was in litigation, again restored to the Opera House from a car on the Houston tracks, where it had been taken.

While this action was in progress and had not yet been completed, it is said that Mr. Ingram went before the judge and asked that the injunction again be made effective, which was done. It was violation of this order for which the men were arrested yesterday.

Present limits are bounded on the west by Marston street, on the north by Cherry, on the east by Pecan and on the south by Elm. The limits proposed, which have been forwarded to the interstate commerce commission for approval and permission to put into effect, are:

These extensions, which are expected to be granted by the commission, will involve an equipment and personnel increase here.

Reopening of "Building Trust" Probe by Joint Committee Might Involve Many New York Bankers

Three Special Grand Juries Are Conducting Investigation and One Hundred and Twenty Indictments Have Already Been Returned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The great financial institutions of New York state—about to be given searching inquiry by the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust, which will soon begin an extended probe of the loan market.

This committee, which has started the nation with its amazing revelations regarding labor union graft and building materials "rings," Samuel Untermyer, its counsel, has announced will now seek to prove that the banks and saving banks have funds available to invest in mortgages and thus aid a building boom.

Mr. Untermyer has stated that he is prepared to show these money lending institutions that they will be better off by furnishing money for housing.

Through publicity, he adds, he hopes to break down the present alleged "bonus" system of loans and high interest rates.

Without mortgage money building operations cannot be resumed on a scale wide enough to provide 125,000 homes now needed in New York, the committee's counsel stated.

Already according to Mr. Untermyer, the great industrial and financial interests of New York are carrying on an "insidious campaign through hired propagandists" to defeat the contemplated work of the committee in investigating the loan market.

Testimony purporting to show that combinations of building material men and grafting labor chiefs have robbed the public of millions of dollars has already been heard by the committee.

Despite alleged political and financial opposition, the committee continues to plunge ahead with its work and is unravelling facts that are attracting nationwide attention.

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly for the benefit of Times readers.

Several new spring hats are displayed at the Agnes Dillard millinery shop. One especially interesting has crown of to-mato red, with raffia embroidered flower on one side, and rolled brim of shirred ribbon in the new shade of gray. These new hats are most attractively priced. All dresses at this shop are reduced to $25. These are excellent models, and formerly sold at from $49.50 up.

The Vogue has received a shipment of new spring blouses. Some of the most attractive of these are of heavy crepe de chine, beautifully tailored, and very reasonably priced. One tailored model of heavy white satin is priced at $12.75. A few models of handkerchief linen, handmade, are on sale at reduced prices.

Mattresses, comforts, blankets and pillows are very reasonably priced at Jones Cox Co. One $40 felt mattress is offered at a special price of $26.50, and other prices are equally interesting. This store also has special prices on aluminum cooking utensils.

PERSONALS

O. C. Williams, manager of Walker-Smith Co., has returned from a short trip to Brownwood and Abilene.

Fred Rhea, of Waples-Platter, has returned from Fort Worth, where he has been spending a few days at the headquarters of the company.

Barefooted zealot brings banner here. Barefooted, with long, flowing beard and hair, dressed in coarse clothing that surrounded his figure in voluminous folds, and carrying a banner flying from a crooked staff upon which was written "The Gospel Banner," Christ's understudy arrived in the city last night.

The man looked as though he is 50 years old. At the police station it was noted that he was a religious crank, and that he had been ordered from Fort Worth two days ago.

Hawaiian planters refuse wage increase to employees. HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 5.—The Hawaiian planters association at a recent meeting, decided not to grant the demands of plantation laborers for an increase in the basic wage scale from $30 to $40 a month under the present conditions of the sugar market.

Filipino laborers recently submitted to the association a demand for a straight daily wage of $2.50 without a bonus.

Explosion Carried Far. Five tons of nitroglycerin exploded in a powder mill in Canada, and incidentally shattered every pane of glass in the windows of a train crossing a bridge over the Richelieu river, more than a mile away.

There will be an old fashion revival held in Ranger starting Saturday, January 8th.—Adv.

Investigates Open Shop. One of the most sensational developments of the inquiry was testimony regarding alleged methods employed by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation, and other manufacturers of fabricated steel; to force their open shop policy upon the builders of the country by reducing their structural steel unless it was to be erected by non-union men.

Several days were taken by the committee in investigating the activities of the National Erectors' Association, which under the direction of its counsel, Walter Drew, is conducting an "open shop" movement. Testimony purporting to show that the National Erectors' Association and the steel corporation worked hand in hand and had an extensive "union spy system" was heard by the committee.

Testimony purporting to show a combination of wrought iron and steel pipe men has also been heard by the committee, and inquiry has also been started into the activities of the Marble Industry Employers' Association and the National Association of Marble Employers, which Mr. Untermyer declares is one of the tightest combinations in the country.

120 Indictments. Three grand juries diligently at work grinding out indictments on evidence furnished by the committee, but they are so far behind in their work that an additional panel is to be drawn.

More than 120 indictments have been returned against builders, material dealers and labor leaders, charging extortion, violation of the state anti-trust law, destruction of records, grand larceny and contempt of the legislature.

One of the first results of the inquiry which began October 20 last, was the disbanding of the Cut Stone Contractors as-

Imported Wine's Adventures Ended; in Toils of Law

Two barrels of port wine, 110 gallons, the Lord knows how many drinks, yesterday afternoon wound up an adventurous career when they came into possession of state rangers, after diligent search lasting more than a week. To the highly developed sense of smell of Ranger Rooney is laid the credit for the final discovery. That's Rooney's theory, anyway.

The liquor, imported, manufactured for purposes of meditative imbibing in halls of sparkling melody and mirth, has seen wild life. It has been kidnaped, hijacked, buried and arrested.

Trundling peacefully through Ranger, destination unknown, on a Texas & Pacific train, someone broke open the car, and a few miles out of town rolled the barrels forth and buried them from sight. There it remained for some days until the moon being right, these same parties hastened hither with a truck, dug up the prized fluid, and trundled peacefully back toward Ranger. Peacefully, for part of the way. Then came another truck. Issued a demand emphasized by the point of a gun, and forcible transferring of the barrels from truck to truck. And thus the liquor disappeared again.

On information gained, Rangers Rooney, Crow, Cole, Taylor and Wall, acting under orders of Captain Blackwell, searched a row of shacks within the city limits. One looked O. K., but something in the air told Rooney things were not right and he took another look. Carefully tucked under a pile of quilts in one corner, he found the barrels. And the barrels took the air in a truck once more.

One man is held for the federal authorities.

SAND CAR HOSPITALITY IS SNARE AND DILLUSION

The sand car on the Texas & Pacific tracks just north of the station is always nice and warm. If one is a "drifter" and is not warmly dressed, a warm sand car has an appeal that is rarely ever resisted. The door stands open and a fire glows ruddy inside. The winds whistle by the B. & P. D.'s of the drifter as he looks in and he is lost—he will spend the night in the sand car.

But he does not, dear reader—verily, he does not. That car is a snare and a delusion. One who enters its confines would save time by going to the police station and registering. The drifter no more than gets warm and drops off to sleep when a policeman sticks his head in the door and says "come on Bo, we want you!" And of course they come. In the past month possibly fifty men have been charged with vagrancy for sleeping in the car.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB APPOINTS COMMITTEES

At a meeting of the Business Women's club in the Chamber of Commerce hall Tuesday evening, the formal organization was completed. Sixteen members were present. Manager Temple Peters of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the club of "Jobs in Jobs." The club also had as guests Mrs. Howard Gholson and Mrs. D. B. Liles. Constitution read and adopted as corrected.

Mrs. Verna Crawford was elected employment officer for the club and chairmen for committees were appointed as follows: Miss Nell Gilpin, education; Mrs. Lena Hight, membership; Mrs. Minnie Campbell, athletics; Miss Bobby Lino, financial; Miss Selma Goode, entertainment.

There will be a meeting of the executive board in the Chamber of Commerce hall Friday evening. The next regular business meeting will be held the first Tuesday in February.

Explosion Carried Far. Five tons of nitroglycerin exploded in a powder mill in Canada, and incidentally shattered every pane of glass in the windows of a train crossing a bridge over the Richelieu river, more than a mile away.

There will be an old fashion revival held in Ranger starting Saturday, January 8th.—Adv.

TAILOR'S 'HUNCH' GOOD BUT THIEF OUTWITS HIM

Promised Policeman He'd Frustate Holdup; Loses $68 to Customer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Charles Kohn, proprietor of a tailor shop, 1508 South Grand avenue, had a premonition of impending danger. From whence the message came police have not learned, but nevertheless Kohn scouted trouble and sought the counsel and advice of the patrolman who walks the beat in his neighborhood.

It was 7:30 p. m. and Patrolman John Grismer was on his way to the Magnolia street station when he noticed Mr. Kohn in the door of his store. Mr. Kohn wished the patrolman a happy New Year and Grismer returned the salutation.

Then Mr. Kohn asked him for advice on how to act in the event he was held up. Grismer gave him complete details, so he said in a report of the occurrence to his superior officers today.

"If possible hold the bandits until we get there," the officer advised. Mr. Kohn was no coward and he told the patrolman that when a bandit did come into his store he could expect trouble.

But instead of a bandit who should walk in at 7:30 a. m. today but a business prospect. The prospect looked over the stock and then decided that all he needed was a button on his vest.

Mr. Kohn courteously ushered the customer to the rear room. There the man removed his vest and Mr. Kohn took up his needle.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

TWENTY NATIONAL LEAGUE BATSMEN HIT .300 IN 1920

Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals, Captured Batting Championship of His League with Top Mark of .370—Cardinals Led in Team Hitting with Average of .289—Max Carey, of Pirates, Heads List in Stolen Bases.

By JACK VELOCK. International News Sporting Editor. NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Twenty players, headed by Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals, hit in the .300 class in the National league during the season of 1920, according to the official batting averages made public today. Hornsby captured the batting championship of his circuit with an average of .370, a mark that has been beaten but four times since 1900 and excelled only nineteen times over a stretch of forty-five years during which batting championship records have been kept. The batting average of the new champion topped that of Fred Nicholson of the Pirates by ten points and Hornsby took part in 149 games, six less than his team played. In the first ten with Hornsby are Ross Young, New York, with .351; Ed Roush, Cincinnati, with .339; Smith, St. Louis, .332; Zack Wheat, Brooklyn, .328; Eddie Eaves, Boston, .328; Fred Williams, Philadelphia, .325; Milton Stock, St. Louis, .319, and Charles Hollocher, Chicago, .319. Of the first twenty batsmen, all of whom hit .300 or better, seven played in less than one hundred games, which leaves thirteen batsmen who proved their right to be classed as .300 hitters by being consistently in 130 games or more. Cards Team Averages. The batting strength of the St. Louis Cardinals is shown in the team averages. The Cards led their rivals as a team, hitting .289, an exceptionally fine average, and part of the answer is shown in the list of the "charmed twenty," in which Hornsby, Smith, Stock and Fournier appear. The champion Brooklyn Dodgers also had four consistent .300 hitters last season, in Wheat, Koney, Grimes and Myers, and Brooklyn finished second in team batting with .277. Max Carey, the first Pirate outfielder, led his team once again in stolen bases, pilfering a total of fifty-two. Carey has long been the best base runner in his league. Hornsby made the most hits, 218, and also leads in two-base hits with forty-four. Milton Stock is the leading one-base hitter, with 170 singles. "Ty" Myers leads in three-base hits, with twenty-two, and Cy Williams occupies home-run honors with fifteen home runs. Rogers Hornsby leads the long hitters with 329 total bases, for a percentage of .550. Two players—Rogers Hornsby, of St. Louis, and Ross Young, of New York—gathered more than two hundred hits as their season's portion. Only thirteen National league batters have reaped more hits per season than his Hornsby, with Willie Koeler, of Baltimore, the leader, with 243 hits during the season of 1897. Made Most Scores. George Burns, of New York, leads the run scores with 115 runs. Not since 1911, when James Speckard of Chicago, tallied 121 runs, has any player reached this high mark in runs scored. George Cutsbaw, of Pittsburgh, is the leading sacrifice hitter, with thirty-seven sacrifice hits. Five players engaged in every game which their club played, as follows: George Kelly, New York; James Johnston, Brooklyn; and Milton Stock, St. Louis, 115 games each; Louis Duncan, Cincinnati, 154, and Norman Beckel, 153 games. Milton Stock went to the bat the most times, 639. There were forty-nine cases of hitting safely in ten or more consecutive games, with Eddie Roush, of Cincinnati, the leader. Roush on August 27 began a streak of safe hitting that endured for twenty-seven successive contests and yielded forty-six hits in 114 times at bat, till September 22, when Charles Adams, of Pittsburgh, stopped Roush. Six Hits in Row. David Baneroff, of New York, was the only player that got six hits in six times at bat in one game. This Baneroff did on June 28, against Philadelphia. Eleven players garnered five hits in a game, one player Ross Young, of New York, performing the feat twice. Walter Maraville, of Boston; Earl Smith, George Burns and Ross Young, of New York; David Robertson, of Chicago; William Southworth, of Pittsburgh, and Clifton Heathcote, of St. Louis; Turner Barber, Chicago; Emil Meusel and Gene Paulette, of Philadelphia, and Jack Fournier, of St. Louis, were the other men who made five hits in as many times at bat. Eight players tallied four runs in one game during the past season, viz: Fred Williams and Emil Meusel, of Philadelphia; Charles Hollocher and George Paskert, of Chicago; George Cutsbaw, of Pittsburgh; Henry Groh, of Cincinnati; Jacques Fournier, of St. Louis, and Peter Kilduff, of Brooklyn. Many Shutout Games. There were 106 shutouts scored last season, the clubs being shut out as follows: Chicago, six times; Boston, ten times; Brooklyn, St. Louis and Philadelphia, twelve times; New York, thirteen times, and Cincinnati twenty-four times. St. Louis leads in club hitting with a percentage of .289; made the most hits, 1,588; the greatest number of total bases, 2,117; most singles, 1,223, and got the greatest number of two-base hits, 99; and Philadelphia batted out the greatest number home runs, 64. The goods secured consisted of two hams, two strips of bacon, several pairs of lard, several hundred pounds of flour and two casings. The police were notified of the steal.

HAWAII EXPECTS TREMENDOUS SUGAR FOR PRESENT YEAR

HONOLULU, Jan. 5.—There are prospects for an enormous sugar crop in Hawaii in 1921 with comparatively low prices prevailing, according to a review prepared by the Hawaiian Trust company and published by the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. According to this source, Hawaiian planters will receive an average price of not more than 6 cents for next year's crop. On the other hand, says the review, there are indications for an increased consumption of sugar next year. The Hawaiian plantations are expected as being on a sound financial basis despite the present depression, but some of them, says the review, will show little, if any, profit next season. The Hawaiian Trust company's report says that the Crockett refinery in California, approximately 90 per cent of the stock of which is owned in Hawaii, has suffered a loss of several million dollars this season owing to inability to dispose of sugar at a price in keeping with the figure at which purchases were made. Consequently, the review points out, while many of the Hawaiian planters seemingly have made large profits in 1920, their losses incident to the situation of Crockett refinery have reduced income considerably. The report adds: "We understand that since July 14, 1920, the Hawaiian sugar plantations under the contracts have shipped to the Crockett refinery in the neighborhood of 120,000 tons of raw sugar. We understand also that the carry-over on Dec. 31, as now estimated, will be in the neighborhood of 80,000 tons."

N. J. CITY HAS NO SCHOOLS.

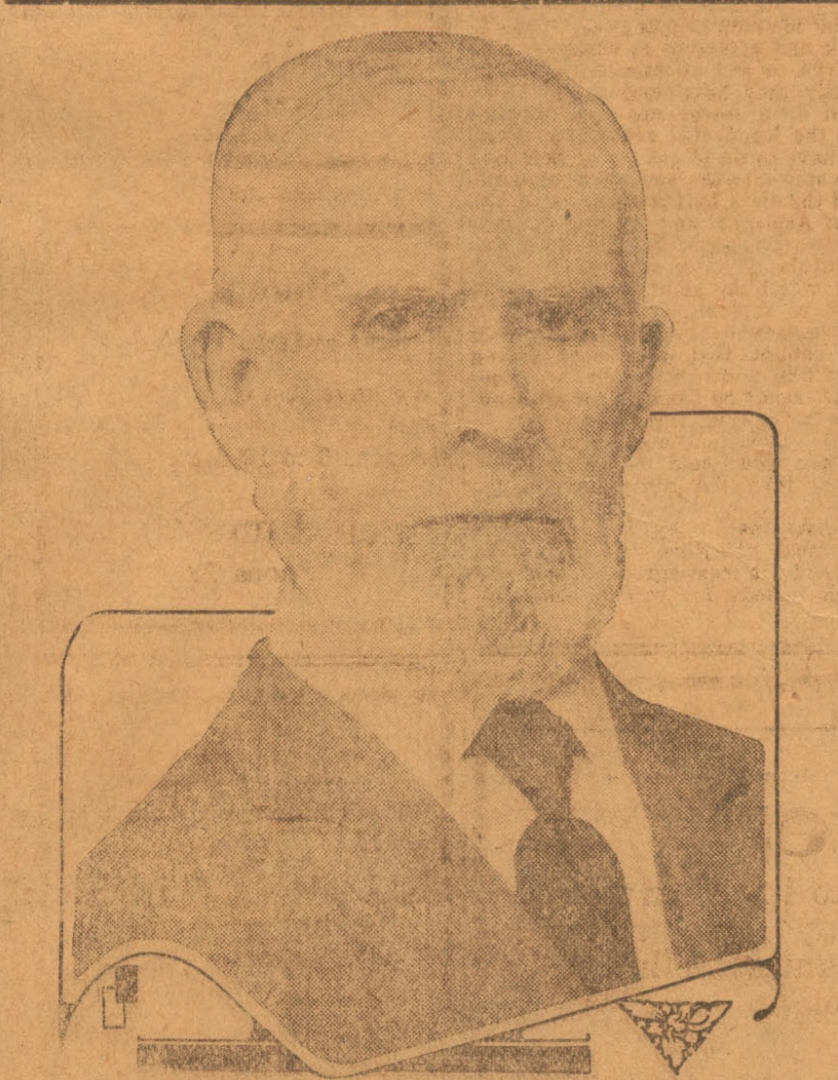

satisfactory compromise is effected. BRIG ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 5.—Unless a maintain a school for one pupil, the son of the city will be forced to open and erect guard, and the only child on the of Jesse Gaskill, a member of the federal island. The boy is now attending a private school in Longport, and Mayor Smith of Brigantine received a letter from his father today in which he asks the city to pay the cost of his tuition owing to the fact that the city maintains no schools. Mayor Smith stated that there is $500 of school money in his possession, but from the appropriation made ten years ago, when the schools closed. There are but ten inhabitants of the city, which was once a prosperous summer resort.

THE RURAL SPORT.

"My sister from the city was there last night and we were up very late. We did not go to bed until 9 o'clock," said Farmer Brown. "Well, a thing like that won't hurt you once in a while," said Farmer Johns, who was broadminded and something of a sport.—Judge.

Quaker Minister Is Grateful to Tanlac

Rev. Parker Moon, Carthage, Missouri

Nearly everybody in southwest Missouri either knows or has heard of the Rev. Parker Moon, who for a full half century has devoted his life and talents to Sunday school and organization work for the Society of Friends or Quakers. He resides at 628 Howard avenue, Carthage, Mo. "Uncle Parker," as he is more familiarly known, came from fine old rugged Quaker stock, and there is not a better 'down or more highly respected citizen in that part of the state. In referring to his remarkable restoration to health by Tanlac, he said: "About five years ago I suffered a general breakdown. My principal trouble was nervous indigestion. My appetite was very poor and my food seldom agreed with me, and I had to live on a very restricted diet. I suffered a great deal from headaches and dizzy spells. I had severe pains across the small of my back and was badly constipated much of the time. In fact, I was so weak and run-down I was not able to attend to my duties. "This condition made me very nervous and I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would lie awake most all night and was in that condition more or less for five years. My physician said he could not do anything for me and suggested a change of climate. I then moved to Texas and went back and forth three times but did not get the relief I had hoped for. Finally, I got so bad off I was also told I had heart trouble. "I had read about Tanlac and, as it had been very highly recommended to me, I decided to try it. I got a bottle and had taken only a few doses until I could notice a marked improvement in my condition. I noticed especially that I was not troubled any more with sour stomach after eating, which was a great relief. "I kept on taking Tanlac until I fully regained my health. My appetite is splendid. I enjoy my meals and I do not find it necessary now to take any laxative medicines of any kind. I can sleep much better and am not nearly so nervous. "I take great pleasure in recommending Tanlac to anyone who needs a good system builder, or who suffers with stomach trouble. I have recommended Tanlac to a great many of my friends and am pleased to reach others by giving this statement for publication. "Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

ROBERTSON LAW AGAIN.

That another fight on the Robertson insurance law will be made when the thirty-seventh legislature convenes at Austin is indicated in a special dispatch to a Fort Worth paper.

That the Robertson law, passed about 1907, clearly meets the approval of the people of Texas was shown by the sentiment brought out in 1916 when an attempt was made by the faction then in control of state policies to repeal the law. This sentiment clearly and emphatically demanded that there be no repeal.

Any attempt this year will meet the same fate. It is possible that some amendment might be made, but the vital feature that three-fourths of Texas receipts shall be invested in Texas securities, will not be changed, if the people have any say in the matter.

The same arguments advanced at the time of the repeal were that Texas interest rates were higher than in other states, and that the "big" companies were anxious to invest money here if given the opportunity, thereby giving funds for development and lowering the interest rates. As a matter of fact the law provides that they must take advantage of such opportunity.

The "big companies" withdrew in a huff when the proposition was first put up to them. They are free to return if they will pay up their back taxes and other obligations to the state. That is all there is to it. If these "big companies" can get along without Texas business, Texas can continue to get along with the insurance companies which are amenable to a reasonable and just statute. There will be no repeal of the Robertson law if free discussion is allowed.

FIGURES WHICH LIE.

A Temple "figurer" figures that the latest cotton crop of Bell county would be worth $140,000,000 if made into 50 cent socks. The argument seems to be that Bell county farmers are entitled to the $140,000,000.

That is the common tendency of workers, to figure that the total profits of the ultimate product belong to those who complete the various stages. The Temple man for instance, does not take into consideration the handling, transportation, manufacturing, reshipping and ultimate sale of the retailer of those socks, at a final price to the customer of 50 cents. He does not take into account that billions of dollars worth of property and thousands of men are needed for the various processes of handling.

If a Sawyer in the pine forests should claim that he was entitled to the price of the lumber in the trees he fell after they had been converted into a California bungalow, it would be to laugh. But the proposition is the same.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Capital Puts a Crimp Into Labor.

They sat near the Woman in the tea room—two smartly dressed women who had met for the first time since their return to town in late November. The place was so small that, like the Wedding Guest upon the Stone, so she "listened in" with a clear conscience at their adventures and experiences. For Coat related a tale of tranquil summer days, passed beneath the accustomed ancestral roof tree in New England. And then she inquired of Taime Velvetten what kind of a season had been hers.

T. V., it appeared, had been at the seashore, after many summers spent in the mountains. "And," pursued T. V., "my dear, I assure you we had an awfully close call! We decided to try the shore and rented a bungalow before I thought to consult my maids about the choice. You know how long we've had Thyra and Della, and they're so good and so used to our way of living. Well, I told them about it quite casually and saw at once they were far from happy at the prospect. Thyra spoke first and said she guessed I'd better find someone else, as they couldn't consider the shore. I was so overcome that for a moment I considered changing our plans. Then I rallied and inquired their objections.

"Well," confessed Thyra, "you see, our hair is always out of curl at the shore." "That was an objection, indeed. But the house at the shore was just what I wanted, the two maids just suited me, and I had an inspiration. "If that is all," said I, "I'm sure we can fix that. I'll make an appointment for you both at my hair dresser's for a permanent wave. That settled the matter and their coiffures were perfect all summer long."

A Test of Faith. There's a certain small ten-year-old whose idol and ideal is his Mother. Until this November she has been a being without fault or imperfection. But lately he has begun to wonder. It so happens that Mother and Father are devoted adherents of President Wilson and the League of Nations. And while Father confined his efforts to elect Gov. Cox to good sized checks toward campaign expenses, Mother took to the stump and did her best to block the trend toward Harding. Mother is a real spellbinder! But the odds were against her.

She lunched with the Woman the other day at the University Club and chatted gaily about her experiences on the rostrum. Then she turned to the subject of Harold. "Dear little soul," she said, "I fear his idol has fallen. When I got home the day after election, when the ghastly totals were still heading, he kissed me with more than usual fervor. But not till I was helping him undress for bed did he speak of what was uppermost in his mind: 'I thought, mums, that you were a good speech-maker. But you don't seem to have done much, do you?'"

It was the same Harold who later, when he reached that place in his evening devotions where, ever since he could utter a petition, he has prayed for the president, lifted wondering eyes, to ask in dismay: "Will I have to pray for Harding, Mother? Gee, that's going to take some religion!"

Bloom of Youth. The Suburban Lady had had a hard morning of shopping and turned her attention to the last and most important item on her list—a coat. The prices quoted soon eliminated a fur coat from the list, and a long hunt for a less expensive but good looking garment began. At last a gray coat, with big squirrel collar was found, and the Suburban Lady was helped into it, with a sigh of content. But, alas, what was her horror to find the color too mental for her tired, pale face.

"Oh, take it off at once! It is most unbecoming," she wailed. "The coat is very becoming, madam," answered the optimistic saleslady. "And if it weren't you can always go to a drug store and get something to make it so." Then scrutinizing the Suburban Lady more closely she added earnestly: "Why don't you go now and get something to give you a little color? Gawk forbid we should ever lose our youth!" and she gave a satisfied glance in the mirror at her own blooming cheeks.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE PEPTIMIST.

The peptimist is one who works with most exceeding vim, and sets example. So many men, with dragging feet, go to the shirks who may keep tabs on him, their tasles each day; with frowns they shake the ears of wheat and thrash the bales of hay. With scowls they ply the shining saw or wield the useful churn; they're only happy when they draw the pay they think they earn. And when there's a slump in trade, and workmen must be fired, these delegates are first to fade—they've made the bosses tired. The peptimist has taken pride in labors safe and sane, whatever tool he may have plied, a reclaimer of a plane. He did not go with dragging step when morning whistles blew; in every motion there was pep, no sulky fits he threw. And when a slump in trade appears, and workmen are laid off, the boss announces, through his tears, "Well keep this hustling toff. We can't afford to let him go he's such a good man, we'll keep him, though it 'ton and Joe we must attach the can." The peptimist is in demand wherever commerce dwells; he makes his progress through the land, and wears his string of bells.

CHARGES WIFE WOULDN'T ALLOW HIM TO KISS HER

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5.—Claiming the speech his wife made with another woman, Mrs. Elsie M. Koch asked for a divorce from Albert G. Koch, well known local real estate dealer. Denying the accusation of his wife, Koch charged that repeatedly since three days after their marriage, which took place thirteen years ago, his wife told him she "made a mistake" in marrying him and did not love him. Once he tried to kiss her, he said, but she pushed him from her and "would not allow it."

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlisle H. Holcomb

PRESENTS FOR THE KING.

Well, Tinker Bob was getting used to surprises for he saw so many of them that he couldn't help it. What do you think his wife when he looked away from Lady Duck? Of course he had been so greatly interested in what Lady Duck was telling him about the way it happened—that is, the way that they caught the Cotton Mice—that he did not even think it possible that anyone else was near. But there were a great many creatures about him when he turned from hearing the story of the capture.

"Well, what is this I see before me?" he cried. "I never saw such a sight before. Why, there are dozens of those creatures, but where in all the world did they come from? Look, there are still more coming!" This wasn't a dream either. It was true. There were dozens of them and they seemed to come from nowhere. Each one had in his arm a bundle.

"Quick, quick," said Lady Duck. "That is the way they looked when I saw them the first time, only they didn't have any bundles!" Sure enough, they were all members of the tribe of Cotton Mice and they were all marching to see the King. "What does all this mean?" asked Tinker Bob of Mr. Mouse, who seemed to be the leader of the tribe.

"These," said Mr. Mouse, "are all members of my tribe and they are coming to bring you each a present from their home in the cornfield." Tinker Bob sat down on a large stone, and the tribe of Cotton Mice gathered about him. First came the queen, and in her arms was a bundle. She climbed upon the King's knee and laid it in his hand. Then she climbed upon the King's shoulder, and there she stood till all of the creatures saw her and then she spoke to them.

"Come now and give the King of the Forest your presents that he may know the tribe of Cotton Mice. Come and climb upon the King's knee and show him that we are not afraid."

The King was not so anxious to have all of these mice climb upon his knees at one time for he could not watch them, and he knew what would happen if he did not watch them. At least he thought he knew. But up they started—a string of them up each knee. The little ones were holding to the tails of the big ones. Tinker Bob did not want to offend them, but he did not want them all at one time on his shoulders, for just so sure as they were there some one of them would find the way into his pocket where he carried some fine big apples.

"Help, help," came a cry and it came in a squeaky voice. Sure enough, some one of these little fellows was in trouble. Tinker looked about and saw just what he had expected. But what in the world was there to do? We will see tomorrow.—Into the King's Pocket.

WHAT LAWMAKERS WILL WRESTLE WITH DURING LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS OPENING SOON

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Tax reform and new means of raising revenues will take first place for discussion in at least 15 state legislatures now about to open, judged by reports from correspondents of the Associated Press forwarded here from many state capitals. Retrenchment, budget plans and abolition of needless departments will be next in importance in twelve or more legislatures, with questions of public improvements, utility corporations and public welfare ranging in order close behind. Dry law enforcement acts are contemplated in not less than five states—California, Connecticut, New York, Ohio and South Dakota—while anti-blue laws will be fought pro and con on the floors of the legislatures of New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Vermont. Constitutional Revision. Revision of state constitutions will be undertaken in the Pennsylvania assembly which convenes tomorrow, and in the Colorado and New Hampshire legislatures whose sessions open next Wednesday. Soldier bonus bills come up for discussion or action in Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Montana. Labor legislation, including at least in one instance the question of industrial courts, will be pushed in California, Connecticut and Iowa. Public welfare bills have strong sponsors in Arkansas, Connecticut, Colorado, Delaware, New York, Texas, West Virginia, Wyoming and Oklahoma. California will take up the question of combating radicalism. Public improvements will be advocated in at least eleven states—California, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Texas, Vermont, West Virginia, North Dakota and Oklahoma. These include a $750,000,000 irrigation project and a 5500-mile public highway. Economic Measures. Programs of economy, involving the consolidation or abolition of state departments and budget systems will be considered among many of the forty-eight states, notably by Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio and Oklahoma. Legislators of Wisconsin and Texas will wrestle with radical taxation measures. In Wisconsin, the legislature of which opens tomorrow, the state division of marketing has proposed a tax on unused land, in effect a single tax. The state tax commission has also recommended repeal of the personal property

Little Benny's Note Book. An advertising editorial of interest to Readers and Advertisers.

Pop was snoring and thinking and ma was crowding her cross-hatching and my sister Gladis was setting there, hissing to her riot watch not going, and I sed, Hay pop, hay ma, hay Gladis. Hay yourself and make it unanimous, sed pop. Who wants to contribute to buy a New Years dinner for poor boys? I sed. Well well, at last, he's thinking of somebody's stomach besides his own, sed pop, accept my congratulations. Yes, sir, how much do you want to contribute, pop? I sed. Put me down for a dollar, sed pop, who all are working for this charity? Me and Puds Sinkins and Leroy Shooster and Skinny Martin and Sid Hunt and Ed Wernick, I sed. Well it does you all grate credit, ill contribute 50 cents, sed ma. Ill cheerfully donate a quarter to the cause, sed Gladis, and pop sed, Who are to be the recipients of this New Year dinner if I may make so bold as to inquire? Sir? Me and Puds Sinkins and Leroy Shooster and Skinny Martin and Sid Hunt and Ed Wernick, I sed. Well ill be shot to pieces, sed pop, I cannot say subscription, sed pop, and ma sed, Well who ever heard of such a thing, and Gladis sed, You poor fish, wats the matter, dont you expect to get eny dinner on New Years? Yes but we wanted to try a experiment, I sed, we wanted to try to not eat anything but candy all day New Years. Cannot my subscription, sed pop, and ma sed, And mine too, and Gladis sed, And mine. Wich I did.

Great was the dismay next morning, however, when it was noticed that most of the hair and all of the shine were gone from the dog. The quality of the glue with which the "dog wig" had been attached was a trifle lacking. And a perfectly good mongrel was left in the place of the erstwhile aristocratic pooodle.

FARMERS FILL MUGS AT 'BOOZE TRUCK' WRECK

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5.—No formal invitations were sent out for recent "barbies" held in the neighborhood of Port Deposit and the Conowingo hills, Maryland. When dawn broke a big automobile truck was disclosed wrecked in a field. There was no sign of the crew. The truck was loaded with the "bottled in bond" stuff. News of the "find" spread. The word acted like magic. Farmers with every conceivable kind of container—pickle jars, molasses mugs, wash stitiches and other things—gathered.

VILLISTAS' PARDON VALID, AS ARE THEIR REARRESTS

SANTA FE, Jan. 5.—Pardons granted by Governor Larrazolo to sixteen Villistas serving terms in the state penitentiary for their participation in a raid on Columbus, N. M., are valid, the state supreme court. It upheld, however, the action of Luna county officials in rearresting the men before they had been released. The Mexicans will be kept at the state penitentiary pending trial on new charges of murder in connection with the raid.

HOME OF SACRED COD NOW WORLD'S FISHING CENTER

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—This city was said to have become the greatest fishing port in the world with the announcement that 122,226,000 pounds of ground fish had been brought here during 1920. This shattered all records. It is estimated that at least 13,000, 000 pounds will have been added to this total before the year closes. The heaviest previous receipts were in 1910, when the total reached 100,232,968 pounds.

ARMY MEN DEMONSTRATING NEW CATERPILLAR GUN MOUNT

An invention that bids fair to simplify the cutting of ice this season is an ice saw driven by a gasoline motor. An automobile engine was used in building the model shown in the photo. The operator merely directs the course of the machine, the saw teeth themselves drawing it ahead at a speed sufficient to make a clean cut through the ice. The next cut to be made, the saw is pushed by the marker shown on the wheel in the foreground.

THE RANGER DAILY TIMES. A Great Merchant Once Bought a Dog and Thereby Learned a Great Lesson. Addresses were given him of various dog shops in the neighborhood of Seven Dials, where he betook himself to make a selection. After looking over canines of various sizes and pedigrees he finally chose a small one, with a long-haired, shining coat, and ordered him sent to the hotel. In due time the animal was delivered in a fancy basket, and presented to a delighted child. The trusting merchant points the moral as follows: First: It is a great thing to know where to buy. Second: And to know what to buy. Third: And to have some kind of a guarantee that when the goods are delivered they are what they appear to be. Speaking further on the subject—this time from a business man's point of view—the merchant continued: "This applies to more things than dogs. Few people know the actual value of properly made furniture, furs, jewelry and precious stones, which have to be bought with a confidence that does not change over night." The application covers advertising as well. Certain store names in this city, for example, are as great a guarantee of integrity in trading as a government bond. Think of this a moment, and it may also occur to you that you have become familiar with those names through seeing them so constantly in your newspaper. Faith in these advertisers has been built up because they have never failed to live up to their advertising promises—and so their printed word is accepted without question or doubt. This newspaper has the faith of its readers in thousands upon thousands of homes, representing four times as many people. These homes have faith in our advertisers, and our advertisers both are thus doubly assured and insured on these three points: "First: Where to buy. "Second: What to buy. "Third: A guarantee that when the goods are delivered they are what they claim to be in the printed page." (Copyright, W. G. Bryan, 1921.)

NAKED, STARVING GREEK REFUGEES DIE LIKE FLIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Six thousand Greek refugees, at Batum Trans-Caucasia, their clothing worn to shreds, are "living like wild animals in dens" and dying at the rate of from thirty-five to fifty a day, writes Dr. W. E. Rambo, a Near East Relief worker, of West Philadelphia, Pa., in a report from the Black Sea port received here.

In what he calls a "tragic exodus that bids to become historic" Dr. Rambo says the Greek government already has repatriated 20,000 who immigrated from the near east to colonize Thrace and that from 10,000 to 12,000 remain to be transported from Batum back to their homeland. Most of these, he says, are physically strong but 6,000 refugees from other regions who flocked to Batum in the expectation of relief have been in that city five months, waiting in vain for help, their condition daily becoming more desperate on account of the rigors of the present Georgian winter.

The Greek government, Dr. Rambo explains, disclaiming responsibility for the plight of the people has undertaken through humane considerations only to feed and doctor the refugees but, so far, has declined to transport them to Greece on the ground that there is insufficient housing there to shelter them.

"Meanwhile," the letter says, "the 6,000 are overcrowded in barracks unfit for human habitation. The families have no privacy. Some are lying in bed day and night because they have no clothing to protect them from the cold or cover their nakedness. Unless speedy relief comes to these people most of them will die during the winter. Already the remnants of the original refugees are in despair. One of them said to me: 'We are no longer waiting for ships; we are waiting for death.' Of 5,767 in this party in the beginning only about 2,400 remain—3,397 are dead. Another party of 6,800 has 2,000 survivors—4,800 are dead. Of the survivors, 700 are ill."

"Back to Farm" Move Brings 500 Persons Here

The "back to the farm" movement suggested by the Times and followed up by the Chamber of Commerce has added at least 500 people to the population of the Ranger trade territory, according to an estimate made by O. C. Hammons, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Hammons has had charge of the work and while no tabulated list of farmers who have settled on farms has been kept he personally knows of many places that will be in cultivation the coming year. This information has been gained through landlords who have stated that the tenants sent them by the Chamber has been secured. The estimated increase in population includes the families of the men who have rented farms.

Many of the places that are now tenanted are said to be in the Caddo valley, which is rich in fertility, and nearly if not all the tenants have expressed their intention of devoting their time to dairy and poultry products and to vegetables. With the coming of spring it is said that from these sources a part at least of the demand for these articles will be supplied.

Kentucky Output for Year 1920 Was 875,000 Barrels

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., Jan. 5.—Kentucky crude oil production for the year now ending will aggregate 8,750,000 barrels, according to estimates. The year's output will fall below the figures of the preceding year by about half a million barrels.

New production developed in Lee county, the principal producing center of the state, failed to offset the natural decline in yield of old wells, which is showing the principal loss in output. Western Kentucky counties for the first time figured to an important extent in oil production, but lack of marketing facilities prevented the fields of Warren, Simpson, Allen and Barren from making as good a showing in production as developments justified.

In the extreme eastern fields of the state the counties of Lawrence, Johnson and Magoffin helped in offsetting the decline in output of the older districts of Upper Kentucky. In these counties some important pools were developed during the year, production showing a decided gain.

Prices Are Favorable. While showing a decline in output, crude oil production resulted in a bigger revenue for operators than ever before, due to the higher prices prevailing during the present year. A price of $4.25 to $4.50 per barrel was maintained throughout the year, with an estimated total return of $38,000,000 to operators.

Field developments for the week just closed were without special feature. Many wells are closed down because of the Christmas season, and operations will not be renewed on a general scale until after the beginning of the new year. It is estimated that 1,200 rigs are up and well are drilling in the Kentucky-Tennessee districts and this total is enough to assure the busiest winter season in the history of developments.

Brazilian Money's Low Rate of Exchange IS BLAMED UPON U. S.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 5.—Considerable anti-United States sentiment in Brazil is resulting from newspaper comment on the unfavorable situation growing out of the high rate of exchange for the American dollar in the last five months. During this period the value of the Brazilian milreis has dropped from 25 to 16 1/2 cents to the dollar its lowest mark in more than 20 years.

Almost daily one or more newspapers editorially charge United States banks and trusts with being responsible for the local situation, urging merchants to discontinue purchases from North America and suggesting governmental action to prevent control or native products by United States trusts. Most of the local newspapers ignore explanations of foreign bankers that the drop in exchange is due to lack of balance in trade.

United States banks operating in Brazil are charged in these editorials with exchange speculation, while North American trusts are declared to be attempting a monopoly on Brazilian products, particularly rubber, which some of the more violent editorials attribute to the "expansionist policy" of the United States government.

President Pessoa is charged by the anti-government section of the press with unduly favoring United States capital and commercial interests.

They tell the story of a negro who applied to a justice of the peace to marry him. He had no money and offered a string of fish as the fee. After a year had passed the judge met the man and said: "Well, William, how do you like married life?" "Well, sah," was the reply. "I wish to de Lord I eat dem fish."—Irish World.

SEEK NATIONAL LAW TO PROTECT MIGRATORY FISH

New Jersey Fishermen Declare Supply Is Decreasing at Rapid Rate.

By Associated Press
NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 5.—A movement has been started in New Jersey to save from extermination the migratory fish which spawn in one place and move along the Atlantic coast with the changing of the seasons—such as mackerel, menhaden, herring and numerous other varieties peculiar to certain localities on this coast. Experienced fishermen declare that the supply of these migratory fish has been seriously depleted by the pollution of the areas in which they spawn and by the reckless manner in which they have been caught in nets.

The method proposed by the New Jersey Fish and Game Conservation League to prevent from extermination is to induce the United States government to take control of and regulate the catching of these fish and stop pollution of the spawning areas. It is contended that only in this way can the increasing cost of fish food to the consumer be checked or reduced.

The four fundamental points in the New Jersey league's proposal for national legislation are:

First—Protect spawning areas against pollution.

Second—Prevent fishing in spawning areas.

Third—Regulate the size of the meshes of nets so the immature fish can not be caught.

Fourth—Protect the natural food supply of eatable fishes.

The fourth point has to do with one of the most perplexing phases of the salt water problem—the matter of the menhaden industry. The menhaden, otherwise known as mackerel, which once swarmed along the coast in incalculable numbers, attracting hordes of edible fishes that preyed on them, have been slaughtered right and left to produce oil and fertilizer. In the view of experts their end is not far off and with their passing will disappear from Atlantic coastal waters many of such edible species as now remain.

Efforts to cope with the problem throughout state regulation here have failed utterly, the last straw being the complete breakdown of the state board of fisheries, which had been created by legislative enactment with a view to increasing the supply of food fishes and reducing the cost to the consumer. The five members of the board resigned in a body in July, 1919, and there have been no reappointments.

Investigation by a committee of veteran coast men disclosed an equally deplorable condition, it is said, in other seaboard states. It was learned, also, that fishermen officials of Connecticut and Maryland agreed with those of New Jersey that a federal law was the only remedy.

JAPAN STILL FIRM ON LAND CONTROVERSY

State Department Denies Report That She'd Abandoned Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—State department officials stated today that Representative Kahn of California, who conferred yesterday with Roland S. Morris, American ambassador to Japan, was mistaken in his impression that Japan had withdrawn opposition to the California anti-Japanese land land adopted in the November elections in that state.

They said abandonment of the position Japan has assumed was not to be expected, at least, until after the close of the negotiations now in progress.

Preparations by the United States government for negotiation of a treaty with Japan defining the property and other rights of Japanese nationals in the United States have been broadened to include consultation with leaders in congress. The suggestion that congressional leaders be called into conference is understood to have been made by state department officials with a view of insuring approval by congress of various provisions of the proposed treaty.

Representative Kahn, after his conference with Mr. Morris, said he had called a meeting of house members from his state for tomorrow to discuss a proposal that the California legislature be asked to enact a substitute statute which would prohibit any alien from acquiring land in California.

PENNSYLVANIA EMPLOYEES TO GIVE UP SEATS TO PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Employees of the Pennsylvania railroad in Cincinnati, to whom annual passes will be issued for the year 1921, are receiving from the president of the company printed reminders of the fact that the privilege of free transportation carries with it a duty to surrender seats in crowded trains to regular passengers.

The message from the railroad's chief executive says: "Even with a slackening of traffic, which is already making itself evident, our passenger facilities will in all probability continue to be somewhat overtaxed for some time to come. It, therefore, seems appropriate to remind all of

IF YOU NEED MEDICINE YOU SHOULD HAVE THE BEST

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefitted, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Dinghampton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

The railroads are judged in the public's mind as much by the conduct of their employes as by any other single factor.
