NEW SCHEDULE OF GAS RATES GETS C-C "O. K."

Recommendation to Commission Will be Immediate Adoption

Gas rates proposed by the Sammies Oil corporation to allow what is considered a fair return on the investment of $362,000 which the company has made in Ranger will be recommended for adoption by the gas committee of the Chamber of Commerce at the next meeting of the city commission.

Flat rates of 17 cents a thousand feet for all amounts above 300,000 feet and to all users of 1,000,000 feet or more a month apply, just as under the old schedule. Small users will not be affected. The increase will be borne by commercial gas consumers between the domestic and the industrial extremes—that is, by hotels, rooming houses, cafes and large business houses.

The rates which will be recommended are:

Between 1,000 and 100,000 feet, 60 cents a thousand.

Between 100,000 and 300,000 feet, 50 cents a thousand.

All above 300,000 feet and to all users of 1,000,000 feet a month, 17 cents a thousand.

The schedule is recommended for immediate adoption, to become effective with July readings.

The old schedule reads: Between 1,000 and 10,000 feet, 50 cents.

Next 10,000 feet, 45 cents.

Next 10,000 feet, 40 cents.

Next 70,000 feet, 35 cents.

Next 150,000 feet, 21.86 cents.

Comparisons with the Eastland schedule, brought up at the commissioners' meeting, were answered by J. B. Owens, general superintendent of the Sammies in Ranger, with the statement that the new schedule offered as good rates to large commercial users as the Eastland schedule or the old schedule; that the Eastland company is at present running at a loss and will be forced to ask for increases soon to continue in operation.

P. W. Melvin, chairman, L. S. Reavis, John M. Gholson, J. F. Castellaw, H. S. Cole and Manager J. E. T. Peters represented the Chamber of Commerce at the conference this morning. Mr. Owens, V. K. Sparks of Oklahoma City, general auditor of the Sammies, and Fred S. Dudley, attorney for the Sammies in the state of Texas, represented the company.

PROFIT OF 10 PER CENT To Mr. Cole's question of what return was anticipated on the investment of $362,000, of which amount $208,000 was spent in extensions last winter, Mr. Sparks replied that the company would be "tickled to get 10 per cent profit."

"The government allows us 20 per cent depreciation," said Mr. Sparks. "The proposed schedule will not give us a return of 10 per cent profit and cover that depreciation. We are gambling that our depreciation will not run that high."

"In January, our returns were $14,000 and under the new schedule, figuring that we get top price in each division, it would have been $19,000. In May, a low month, the return was $7,400 and under the new schedule would have been $10,000."

MEETING BACKS ADMINISTRAT'N IN CLEAN CITY

At a joint meeting held last night in the offices of Brooks & Turner by members of the American Legion and a committee representing organized labor, a resolution was passed indorsing the administration of Mayor M. H. Hagaman, Police Commissioner A. Davenport and Chief of Police Byron Parrish "so long as they shall enforce the statutes of the city of Ranger and ordinances of the city of Ranger." Seven members of the legion were present at the meeting and two dissenting votes were registered to the moorment.

Organized labor was represented by a committee of four who signed the resolution. When the question came up of indorsing the entire administration of the city, it was pointed out that the other commissioners were not under discussion.

The chief of police made a talk asking the co-operation of the legion and organized labor.

R. H. Hansford indorsed the statement of the chief and his request for co-operation was indorsed by Leon D. Brooks.

"Whereas, in a joint committee meeting of committees of the American Legion and organized labor of the city of Ranger, the following resolution was adopted:

"Be it resolved by these bodies, That we hereby indorse the administration of the present mayor, police commissioner and chief of police of the city of Ranger as long as they shall enforce the law as set forth in the statutes of the state of Texas and ordinances of the city of Ranger."

(Signed)—American Legion: Leon D. Brooks, post commander; R. H. Hansford, R. S. Holloway, D. N. Tillotson, W. T. Cunningham. Organized Labor: Edw. Duggan, Glenn A. Pace, L. Donegan, Tom Windham.

CONVENTION WAS BEST EVER SAYS TEXAS DELEGATE

HOUSTON, Texas, June 24.—H. F. MacGregor, republican national committeeman from Texas, upon his return here from the recent gathering at Chicago, observed: "It was the most satisfactory convention I ever attended."

"It was the feeling of the convention to put out a strong ticket," he added. "I do not believe a stronger one could have been selected."

Asked concerning the possibility of a cutting down of the representation of the Southern states in future Republican conventions, Mr. MacGregor said: "The convention adopted a basis of representation which is the same as prevailed in 1916. However, a resolution authorizing the national committee to take further action should it be deemed wise."

The national committee appointed a subcommittee to look into the southern situation, although the appointments have not been made. The reason for this was to get rid of the contests from the South, and there is a feeling in some quarters that the subcommittee is supposed here, therefore, they should not have any representation. That is true in only a few states, however."

YAQUI INDIANS TAKEN TO CITY TO HELP FIGHT

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—Once again the monotonous but ominous "tom-tom-tom" of the Yaqui Indians is being heard outside the confines of Sonora.

General Hilaro Elias Calles, provisional secretary of war and marine for the new revolution, is taking with him more than a thousand of "Sonora's finest," on his 1,600 mile trip from Agua Prieta to Mexico City to assume the duties of his new office.

The strumming of the Yaqui drums long has been a cause of uneasiness among many of Mexico's other soldiers. Bearing the reputation of being a fearless and ferocious fighter, the Yaqui has frequently been said to be able to put his enemy to flight by the mere sound hue and the band of bright red they wear around their hats. The routine of their camp life is quiet and orderly.

The Yaqui had its origin in an atmosphere of war. Should his father fall in battle, the boy picks up the necessary rifle and begins the realization of tribes chiefly by their peculiar copper his martial destiny.

There is another and less sinister side, however, to the life of a Yaqui soldier. He carries his home life with him to the battle-field. His wife, his children, his birds all form part of his impediment.

When not in action, the Yaqui warriors do not present formidable figures. They may be distinguished from other of his burro-skin "tambores."

ending May 31 shows $85,000 receipts, $73,000 running expenses."

Brief analysis of the running expense convinced the committee that a monthly overhead of $7,300, exclusive of interest and depreciation, was not excessive.

"As it presents itself to me, the situation is that the new schedule is not unfair to small users, nor to large users. It is out of line to the others," said John M. Gholson. His opinion was that the scheduled returns were not at all unreasonable.

This opinion was unanimous with the committee and its recommendation to the commission will be made for immediate adoption.

THEY WANT TO RUN COX AHEAD OF M'ADOO

Democracy's "Big Three" in conference at French Lick before leaving for Frisco resulted in an alliance to boost Governor Cox's boom to the destruction of McAdoo's presidential aspirations.

Three Injured In Gas Blow-up At Brazos Well

Special to The Times. WEATHERFORD, June 24.—Three men were injured, one of them seriously, in a gas blow-out at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Empire Gas & Fuel company's No. 1, at Brazos, Levell, one of the workers on the well, was badly hurt. "Blackie" and "Gahri," who were working with him, also were injured.

The well, a strong gasser, had been plugged. The three were working in the derrick when the plug blew out last night. There was 12,000,000 feet of pressure behind it.

INDIAN NEARLY CENTURY AND A QUARTER OF AGE

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., June 24.—Cherokee Bill, veteran of the plains and soldier in the war of 1812, has just celebrated his 123 birthday at the county home near here.

Cherokee Bill is the only name he knows. In the early days of the country he fought with bow and arrow with the aborigines and even used that primitive weapon, he says, when he fought the British in 1812, enlisting in the army when he was 15 years old. He was born June 6, 1797 and was twice listed in the United States census as the oldest native of America.

The aged Indian recently made a cap for himself out of the down of cat-tails and wears this proudly when he hobbles along the streets occasionally with the aid of a cane he has owned since the Civil war. He is getting feeble, though he still has a good appetite.

JAPANESE BANK LENDS MONEY TO AVOID PANIC

TOKIO, May 25. (By Mail)—The Bank of Japan advanced money to relieve the financial situation with such generosity that early this month its outstanding loans amounted to $55,000,000 yen. Some urge that the bank should raise its interest rate, for the effect of its present policy might cause a recrudescence of speculative fever. The generosity of the bank has already caused a decline in the rates of interest on short loans and the general public is less cautious than before.

LATE BULLETINS

SCRANTON, Pa., June 24.—The general public and the mine workers were declared to be the joint victims of profiteering by coal operators by Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, in presenting today to the Federal Antitrust Coal Commission the demand that workers in the Pennsylvania anthracite field be granted a minimum wage of six dollars a day.

SMYRNA, June 24.—The Greek army has begun an offensive against the forces of Mustafa Kemal Passa, a Turkish nationalist leader, according to an official statement issued by the Greek army headquarters today.

MEXICO CITY, June 24.—A request for the cancellation of all petroleum taxes promulgated by the late President Carranza and the right of unrestricted exploration and exploitation of oil lands was presented to Trevino, Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor by representatives of the foreign petroleum interests, said the "El Universal."

Trevino declared he had not authority to discuss the constitutionality of the decrees.

RYAN FORCED TO WITHDRAW FROM STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 24.—Allen J. Ryan, chairman of the Stutz Motor Car company, who became involved in controversy with the officials of the New York Stock Exchange at the time it was alleged that a corner existed in Stutz, has been expelled from the exchange according to an announcement made today by the board of governors.

The announcement followed a prolonged executive session in which many witnesses, chiefly brokers who figured in the alleged corner last March were examined. Ryan was charged with principals inconsistent with the just principals of the trade. Ryan in turn characterized the attitude of the governing body as unjust. He did not attend the session.

The first woman official of Mercer county, N. J., is Mrs. Jennie M. McDermott, who was recently appointed Deputy Surrogate.

G. L. Davenport Appointed Judge In 91st District

Telegraphic information of his appointment to the position of judge of the Ninety-first judicial district, Eastland county, was received this afternoon by Judge G. L. Davenport. The appointment was accepted by him. The telegram from Austin read: "Judge G. L. Davenport: It is the governor's pleasure to appoint you judge of the Ninety-first judicial district of Eastland county, Texas. Please wire acceptance."

"S. RAYMOND BROOKS, Assistant Secretary."

This answer was sent: "S. Raymond Brooks, Assistant Secretary: Your message notifying me of my appointment by the governor as judge of the Ninety-first judicial district of Texas received. I hereby accept the appointment. Please advise the governor accordingly, expressing to him my appreciation."

Excessive demands on the present district court, the Eighty-eighth, caused the creation of the new district, the Ninety-first, by the special legislature. Judge Davenport's appointment to the position was recommended by many leading Ranger citizens.

According to the terms of the bill, the first session of the new court will begin the first Monday in August.

Judge Davenport's successor as police judge, a position he has held since Ranger was incorporated, has not been named.

'Hello, Texas' And 'Howdy,' Greetings On The Board Walk

ATLANTIC CITY, June 24.—"Hello Texas" came the greeting to a group of the orange hat-banded, blue coated, white tressed Texans on the board walk at Texas headquarters, or at the convention hall, and the answer is the cheery and informal "Howdy," that has become the standard salutation of the Texas delegation of 300 attending the national rotary convention.

Texas are everywhere and the delegation, because of its distinctive dress breezy air and cheerful friendliness seems one of the most popular, as well as one of the largest state representations at the national meeting.

A Luther Stark of Orange, was elected governor for the Eighteenth district, succeeding Dr. R. E. Vinson of the University of Texas. Dr. Vinson, retiring governor, was presented with a handsome diamond stick-pin by the Texas Rotary clubs.

Texas railroads were the only ones to maintain schedule in getting the Rotarians to the convention and also furnished the best, according to word from the Rev. Charles M. Collins, representative of Ranger Rotary.

Two hours were devoted to stunts in the stop-off at Washington and a half a dozen Western states took part in "working the natives" there, according to Mr. Collins' letter to the Times.

SEVEN DEATHS IN FIRES REPORTED FOR MAY THIS YEAR

AUSTIN, Texas, June 24.—A toll of seven deaths and thirteen injuries was exacted by fires in Texas during May, according to reports of the State Fire Insurance Commission just made public.

Three of the deaths and nine of the injuries were due to fires originating from gas, kerosene and gasoline. Two children were injured and two were killed.

Deaths since the beginning of the fiscal year due to fires in the state, according to the commission's report, number 141, injuries number 262.

HE'S HOPEFUL

If the platform is made and a mob plan insisted, no one would expect the Texas Democrats to balk at it, however dry they are. This is the idea of the wet and moist people. They declare that the doubtful states could be carried easily with such a plan, and the South regarding oil properties and were paying dividends out of the money obtained from stock sales. The companies involved are the Ranger Oil Company, the W. P. Williams Oil Company, the Great Western Petroleum Corporation and the Crown Oil Company. The brokerage concerns involved are nearly all of New York.

The indictments are said to be the beginning of a nation wide campaign against alleged oil stock swindlers who are credited with cleaning up millions in the last few months. The first batch of indictments was returned after a long investigation by postoffice inspectors.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Herrera government in Guatemala, which succeeded that of Estrada Cabrera is to be recognized by the United States, it was announced at the state department today.

TENNESSEE GOVERNOR CALLS LEGISLATURE TO TAKE VOTE ON SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

BIG BOSSES ARE MOVING TOWARD DEM CONVENT'N

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Two figures newly arrived on convention scenes attracted particular attention today. One is Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, fresh from Washington, and generally reported to have brought President Wilson's draft of the platform.

The other is Charles F. Murphy of New York, leader of Tammany Hall, who came direct from the widely heralded conference of the old line party strategists at French Lick, Ind. Both are busy and silent.

The prohibition issue continues to grow and it is generally predicted the lines of division will not be sharply drawn until the convention gets under way Monday. One element tending to keep the problem uppermost was the uncertainty of many regarding the position of Wilson. The Virginia state platform approved by him is silent upon the subject.

Physical preparations at the convention hall were virtually completed today with the final perfection of a system of electrical megaphones to carry the speaker's voice to all parts of the hall. Installation of this system was started on a report that President Wilson was expected to address the convention by long distance telephone. This report was denied from the White House.

As things stand, it would seem that the controlling factors in the convention will prevent a "wet" or even "damp" plank from getting in. But a row on the subject is in the making and it promises to be of such duration and potency as to warrant consideration of having the nominations made and the nominee selected before the platform is adopted.

In 1912 the Democratic convention reversed its usual procedure of proceeding to the nomination. It nominated first, it repeated this course in 1916. Now with a possible long enduring fight over some of the platform planks, the subject has sprung up again. Chairman Cummings of the national committee, speaking of "possible tactical advantages" which might be considered as involved, there would be a meeting of the respective candidates' managers before the convention was held to determine what course should be followed this year.

McAdoo a Central Figure The dispatches from Dallas state that the Texas delegation is still for Mr. McAdoo and this goes far to discourage the boosters of the other candidates, who have been asserting that the New York gentleman has retired from the race. Many of these are old stagers in politics and have not forgotten the tenacity of the Texas delegation in its support to Wilson in his fight at Baltimore for the nomination. The Texas delegation won much applause and likewise criticism for its obstinacy on the occasion mentioned, and some of the old politicians who are opposed to Mr. McAdoo fear that the delegation may stick and its course now may have much influence in bringing Mr. McAdoo back into the race.

The suggestion of Marshfield of San Antonio that Governor Cox would make a strong candidate if Mr. McAdoo does not run, is construed to mean that he is not wholly averse to a platform which would slightly mollify the student ex-cen Cox is a most candidate, as Governor Edwards is known as a wet candidate.

If the platform is made and a mob plan insisted, no one would expect the Texas Democrats to balk at it, however dry they are. This is the idea of the wet and moist people. They declare that the doubtful states could be carried easily with such a plan, and the South regarding oil properties and were paying dividends out of the money obtained from stock sales. The companies involved are the Ranger Oil Company, the W. P. Williams Oil Company, the Great Western Petroleum Corporation and the Crown Oil Company. The brokerage concerns involved are nearly all of New York.

The indictments are said to be the beginning of a nation wide campaign against alleged oil stock swindlers who are credited with cleaning up millions in the last few months. The first batch of indictments was returned after a long investigation by postoffice inspectors.

WAGE BOARD IS DIVIDED INTO THREE SECTIONS

CHICAGO, June 24.—A well-confirmed report in labor circles today said the railroad labor board has divided three ways, the labor group holding out for an award which the company and public representatives think is exorbitant, and the company group is refusing to concede the award which the public group thinks is reasonable.

George W. Hangar, the member representing the public, declared today he sees nothing in the present situation to warrant the assumption that the board faces a deadlock. He said there is every indication of a satisfactory agreement being reached within a reasonable time.

Union leaders are not so optimistic and brotherhood men who have adopted passive neutrality later became hostile and declared they believe the board will be wrecked on the same deadlock that ended the previous tripartite attempt to solve the railroad problem.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The President received a promise from the railroad board to expedite a decision in reply to yesterday's message.

WOULD OUST MEN WHO TOOK MONEY FROM GOV. LOWDEN

SEDALIA, Mo., June 24.—A letter from former Governor Herbert H. Hadley declared he is in sympathy with the move to oust Jacob L. Babler, national Republican committeeman, and W. L. Cole, state Republican chairman of Missouri, both of whom admitted before the Senate investigating committee that they accepted money from the Lowden managers.

Hadley expressed surprise that anyone familiar with Missouri politics should be surprised by the revelations made. The letter said:

"Many of these men have been engaged in these practices for years. In 1918 they received money. I was told, amounting to $15,000 to deliver the delegation to Senator Fairbanks. When they found sentiment strong for Taft, they laid down on Fairbanks but kept his money."

OIL SWINDLE IN NEW YORK FOUND BY PALMER'S MEN

NEW YORK, June 24.—Four oil companies, ten brokerage houses and about fifty individuals have been indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of using the mails to defraud investors out of millions of dollars. Federal agents throughout the country are now rounding up the men indicted. They are charged with having made gross misrepresentation regarding oil properties and were paying dividends out of the money obtained from stock sales. The companies involved are the Ranger Oil Company, the W. P. Williams Oil Company, the Great Western Petroleum Corporation and the Crown Oil Company. The brokerage concerns involved are nearly all of New York.

The indictments are said to be the beginning of a nation wide campaign against alleged oil stock swindlers who are credited with cleaning up millions in the last few months. The first batch of indictments was returned after a long investigation by postoffice inspectors.

Violet Heming in "The Cost." "The Cost," a Paramount-Artcraft dramatization of the novel by David Graham Phillips, was shown at the Lamb theatre yesterday and is billed again for today.

She takes the character of a girl in love with a rich young man in a Middle Western town. Her lover is leading a life of dissipation and the girl's father finally forbids her to see him and sends her to college in the hope that she will get over her infatuation.

But her other lover visits school, after having made a business success in New York City, and persuades her to marry him. The marriage is kept secret for some time. Scarborough proposes to her and she tells him about the wedding.

She goes to live with her husband at the end of school. For a time she is happy but later she discovers her husband's unfaithfulness. The remainder of the story furnishes many exciting moments.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA ARE NOT RECOGNITION

BOULOGNE, June 23.—Agreement that the economic negotiations instituted in London with the Russian economic delegates will be resumed with the understanding that the meeting does not imply recognition of the Soviet government was reached at a conference of the Allied Premiers here, according to a communication issued following the adjournment of the conference.

LEGION DANCE TONIGHT.

P. I. Girls Are Taught One Man Is Usual Quoto

MANILLA, P. I., May 26.—Practice of polygamy in the Philippine Islands is being reduced through education of girls of the leading families of the outlying provinces, according to Frank W. Carpenter, retiring governor of the Department of Mindanao and Sulu.

Mr. Carpenter is here to turn over administration of his office to the Secretary of the Interior who will act through the Bureau of Non-Christian Tribes in accordance with a new territorial law. This law leaves in effect a treaty under which the Sultan of Sulu renounced all pretensions to temporal sovereignty but gained recognition as ecclesiastical head of the Mohammedan church in the Sulu Archipelago. The treaty guarantees to the Sultan and his people "the same religious freedom had by all adherents of all other religious creeds, the practice of which is not in violation of the laws of the United States."

"It is important to note," said Carpenter in one of his messages written as governor, "that this includes a limitation as to religious practice which necessarily includes the abandonment of polygamy. There can be no question that it will disappear as the relative number of persons of the two sexes reach an approximate natural equality. An effort to impose upon the people of the Sultan at this time the invalidation of polygamous marriages heretofore contracted, the prohibition at this time of polygamy or the discontinuance of divorce, must unavoidably result in the active resistance of a people imbued with a determination to die rather than submit to a privation of their religious liberty in matters they believe to be fundamental and sanctioned by divine authority."

Mr. Carpenter said that girls of prominent families in Mindanao and Sulu are being sent to Manila public schools where they associated with Christian girls and gradually become imbued with the monogamous ideas held by the Christians. The girls are advised to adhere strictly to their own Mohammedan religion as their influence, it is said, would be destroyed if they abandoned it. When they return to their own people their influence tends to eliminate plural marriages, according to Carpenter, who predicted that the practice will be virtually wiped out in the course of a few years.

ZIONIST ENVOYS OFF TO CONVENTION WHICH WILL MEET IN LONDON JULY 4

NEW YORK, June 23.—Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States supreme court, honorary president of the Zionist Organization of America, and Nathan Straus have left New York to attend the International Zionist conference which convenes in London July 4. They are the advance guard of an American delegation of thirty-nine elected at the extraordinary Zionist convention which was held in New York city May 9 and 10 last. The remainder of the party will sail within a few days.

The International Zionist conference, which will be attended by large delegations from every country in Europe and delegates from Palestine, Argentina, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, is the first world Zionist conference to be held in six years. It is regarded as one of the most important assemblies ever held in Jewish history, as it will be called upon to deal with practical questions involving preparation of Palestine as a Jewish homeland, in accord with the San Remo declaration by the peace conference. This conference recognized the Jewish claim to Palestine as its traditional and historic homeland, and placed that country under a British mandate, at the request of the Zionists, for the specific purpose of establishing such a homeland, with an eye to its development into an autonomous commonwealth.

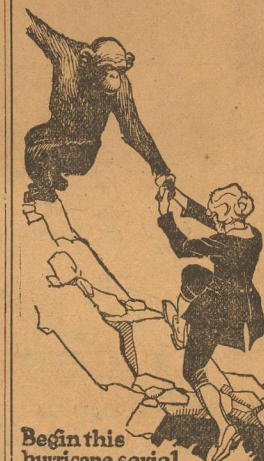

The conference will therefore meet with the consciousness that the political aim of Zionism for which the movement was organized in 1897 has been achieved, in spite of apparently insuperable obstacles and bitterly persistent opposition.

The deliberations of the conference will be watched with intense interest by millions of Jews in the pogrom-haunted countries of Europe, for whom Palestine is the only means of escape from the intolerable conditions of persecution, expropriation and massacres in which they have lived since the outbreak of the war.

LVII. DREAMS OF LINEN and LINEN THINGS.

Strange hints will I give you this day so that you may be able to understand the meaning of your night-visions. Of linen and linens shall I speak, of the white, cool things, that,

Woven by woman's hand, bring joy To woman's heart, glistening in shining layers, A tribute to her diligence and art.

This is the rule you must observe: No matter what the dream, no matter how significant may seem its various incidents, if linen or linens figure in it, nothing else counts but these. Let us take an example. Suppose you were to see a dying man stretched on a bed and the sheet under him were to attract your attention. The man, the impending death and all the other episodes, become non-meaning. The sheet alone counts.

Linens spread on grass, dry, mean domestic quarrels, unhappiness, separation, discontent. If wet, illness is their omen. Hanging up, they mean changes of a propitious sort. If they blow in the wind, they tell of pain, of beatings, of lumps. Bandages, on the other hand, are signs of solace. If you wind a bandage around your hand or foot, you will be relieved of sorrow or anxiety, your troubles will vanish, heart's-ease will come to you; if you bandage another, you will bring relief and comfort into the lives of those you love.

To see linens piled up, in bolts, is a sign of gains, almost of riches. Men who have such dreams, will gamble and will win, married women will receive money gifts from their husbands, single women, precious presents from lover or friends.

Shreds of linen or torn sheets are signs of torn souls, of mental agony, of broken hearts. To mend linen shows that you have made mistakes and are trying to atone for them, but in vain. To see crumpled linen is an omen of marriage in haste and repentance at leisure, and to carry linens is a sign that you will be restless, dissatisfied, undecided.

Pillow-cases are signs of fatigue—that you will be forced to work more than you can stand and that you will yearn for rest. If you spread a sheet over an object, or see it spread, you will try to hide something you have done from those around you, and to the extent that you succeed in your dreams in covering it, to the same extent will you succeed or fail in concealing your error.

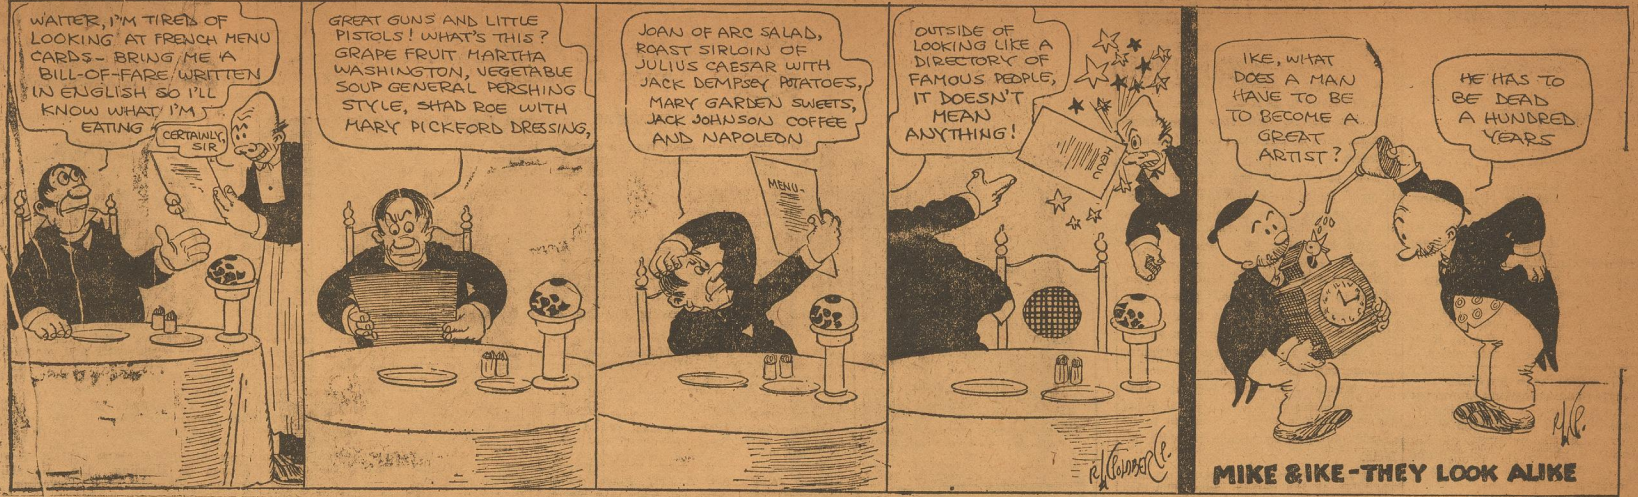

To see a sheet or other piece of linen whisked away by the wind is a warning against theft. Lock your doors, dishonest people are looking through the windows. To have linen snatched from your hand means the loss of respect—your friends and associates will soon think less of you than they have in the past, and it will be your own fault.

To see stained linen is very bad luck. If the stains are mud or other dirt, scandal's tongue will assail you with good reason. If the flecks are blood, you will have an accident, and if you see fruit stains on linen, you will have need for a doctor.

Tomorrow's chapter will deal with Stones and Rocks.

IDLE DREAMER—Your dream means that you will receive news, pleasant news, but with some exciting incidents, from a man or woman whom you have not seen in years, and you will in all probability receive guests at the house in consequence. So far as your husband is concerned, I believe that he will undertake a new venture to which you will object. If the other dream, about the tomatoes, followed later, it indicates that your family will have exceeding good fortune, perhaps in connection with the new undertaking referred to.

Reader of the Ranger Times—The boy friend you refer to will be the subject of ugly gossip, not founded on fact.

D. K. B.—Dreams of flowers do not mean death. Your present vision is very easy to interpret. It means that you are about to enter upon a venturesome period in your life, that you will come into contact with a man whose friendship you will learn to value and that it will last. Whether it will ripen into love I am unable to say from the details you have given me.

Needles. "Can your little brother talk yet?" a kindly neighbor inquired of a small lad. "No, he can't talk, and there ain't no reason why he should talk," was the disgusted reply. "What does he want to talk for when all he has to do is yell a while to get everything in the house that's worth having?"—New York Evening Post.

SOLDIERS IN FULL CONTROL OF ERIN'S REBELLION CENTER

LONDON, June 24.—More British troops arrived in this city. Their efforts to protect life and property had a quieting effect. Only an occasional shot was heard since midnight. The soldiers attack snipers with an armoured automobile and machine guns and also rescue citizens from the battle zones. The gas supply is exhausted and the inhabitants in some sections without light, bread or fuel are in a serious condition.

TOWARD A BETTER RANGER.

Few persons interested in the city of Ranger will regret the closing of the cabarets; as a matter of fact, it is probable that even the proprietors themselves have reached a place where they are somewhat indifferent. The cabarets were survivors of the boom days, and while they existed, Ranger was just that much farther from recognition as a going community. Western dance halls they were, though perhaps not quite of the character of a few years ago. However, there is no one totally ignorant of what went on behind the scenes.

To the present time, but more particularly a few months ago, the cabarets served as one of the chief curiosities of the oil field town. Visitors to the city on their first night, male visitors, of course, were taken on a tour of the dance halls. Those who came from without the circle of Ranger publicity were amazed.

But as with every other thing taken up in the city, it is but one step in a weary journey towards the final goal, the city beautiful. There is no one so foolish as to advocate a sudden upheaval destroying all that is bad in the community overnight. The process of transition must be somewhat gradual, but it must be steady. The cabarets are closed. Those enamel queens of the Great West who starred there a few days ago will remain here or in the vicinity for a short time, then following the course of their existence they will drift on, "nobody knows where—and nobody cares."

When they are pushed out or absorbed into the community, really a rapid process for such individuals, for, like the rest of us, they must live, another step must be taken that will remove another drag from the neck of the city. Something else may be attacked and exiled to a new field far removed from Ranger. As each group is thus supplanted, its place will be taken by a higher strata of society.

Ranger exemplifies the truism that the good and bad cannot live side by side. Either a city must be preponderantly good or controlled by the vicious element. Thus far the latter rule has held good, but day by day a stabilizing influence has manifested itself. It was a long while ago that criticism was first heard as a weak small voice, unheeded.

But the voice has grown in strength, it is still the voice of the minority, it is possible, but daily the element fighting for a clean and progressive city is gaining strength and each day sees the culmination of its campaign closer to realization. It is a slow process, this fight between good and bad, one that has discouraged people everywhere, but one that has failed in but few instances.

The history of the world teaches that every country has run the gamut, that every day the world is just a little better than it was the day before, ignoring here the protests of cranks and cynics that the present day is the worst the world has ever seen and that people of all countries are going to the eternal bow-wows. Ranger need not read history and strive and fight for the dominance of the law-abiding over the vicious element of society. Progress and advancement are evolutionary processes that can not be stayed when loyal forward-looking people with a vision before them are hard at work.

Then It Happened. "I wonder if you could?" mused the Rummy as he poured a drink of witch hazel into a glass. "You wonder if I could what?" demanded the barkeep as he pulled a gun from his hip pocket. "Why, I wonder if you could call a pillow a knapsack?" replied the Rummy as he headed for the door.

HOW TO DO UP THE FLY.

French scientists, we read, have discovered that the fly, at whose feet is placed the blame for many of the evils to which human flesh is heir, possesses what might be termed an anti-esthetic temperament. The fly flies, they say, from the color of blue. It likewise resents the perfume of flowers, as it does any odor that indicates purity, cleanliness and disinfection, such as hot sapsuds or washing powders.

The purpose of experiments which brought forth these discoveries, we assume, was to make life unpleasant for the fly, that it might become more pleasant for humanity. This appears to be a worthy work. Even the organization which recently protested against the use of gas to combat the greedy grasshopper could hardly object to discouraging the fly's activities by such gentle means.

If a robin's egg blue barn, a sapphire garbage can flanked by beds of peonies and carnations or a well-scrubbed back porch can drive the wicked fly into fields beyond our ken, surely science is to be thanked for putting us in touch with the facts.

But in the meantime, swatters are still available at the corner store. The day is at hand when the fly becomes festive. In the absence of blue paint and flowers, we may still occupy our time with some profit and entertainment by resuming the annual sport of swat.—Chicago Tribune.

PARKS AS SOLDIER MEMORIALS.

In the desire to pay fitting tribute to the men who fought in the war, countless projects have been launched throughout the country, some grandiose, some grotesque, according to the ruling spirit of communities that gave birth to them. The usual soldiers' memorial by convention is destined to be something sculptural; beyond that it may serve some useful purpose or no purpose at all. Some cities or towns have proposed, in a more practical spirit, the erection of auditoriums, bridges, community houses or playgrounds where the service or advancement of the public was to be considered.

New Jersey, through its state forester, Alfred Gaskill, comes forward with a plan for the preservation of state property of a great forest tract extending thirty-six miles along the Kittatinny mountains from the Delaware Water Gap to the New York state line. It is described as "ideal for camp sites, having well stocked streams and a chain of lakes." With official approval, the proposal will be submitted to the people of the state for their judgment.

In what better way could the service men be remembered as they deserve than by the creation of fine state parks, open for all time for the use and recreation of the people? The cost must be considered, but in the end the public will be the richer for the tax money so wisely invested.—New York World.

PUBLIC FORUM

Ranger, Texas, June 24, 1920. Dear Sir:—You surely deserve to be commended for your persistent efforts to try to get the city officials to take some notice of the condition of Oak and Lamar streets.

Now, the attempt in February to grade Oak street seems to have resulted in digging out great low places in this street and the carting of the dirt to raise the grade of a private lot. This street has scarcely been less than a lake of water, mud and slush for the past sixty days. Property owners are suffering and the health of the vicinity is endangered by this nuisance.

We know this street cannot now be paved. The truth is, we never expect to see it paved, but the dirt that was hauled out of this street should be replaced and the ditches opened up so that this street would be restored to its once natural drainage at least.

What has become of our Chamber of Commerce to which many of us have contributed? They are continually sending out questionnaires to know what is needed. Why not one or two of them mount horses and try to see how things look east of the T & P Railway—a gateway to the City for about thirty percent of its population?

To make Ranger a greater city, it is going to take lots of work as well as some wind. So let's all get to work and do the job right.—Yours truly, Wm. N. Raffield.

DAINTY NECKWEAR SHOWS GOOD TASTE

It is very true that it is the little things that count in life and it applies particularly well in the case of women's clothes. The woman who is careful about the little things, the many small accessories of her wardrobe, is always the well dressed woman. Clean gloves, neat shoe laces, pretty veils, carefully chosen pins and other jewelry, and most important of all, pretty, attractive neckwear, are some of the "little things" in a wardrobe which mean a successful costume.

Here is an exquisite collar and cuff set which would be a smart and dainty addition to any frock. It is made of fine ecru lace with inserts of fine embroidery. This style collar would be particularly fetching in some of the simple one-piece summer frocks of gingham, organza or even georgette. It is also a very good collar for the overblouse which usually fastens on the shoulders or in straight, turn-back style and would be very effective with the collar, if worn on one of the fashionable new black sweaters.

TESTED RECIPES

Fruit Sherbert. One quart of any fruit you prefer, 1 quart water, 1 pint sugar, 2 eggs, 2 eggs, 1 pint cream and the juice of 1 lemon, if desired.

Bring water and sugar to a boil, let cool and add fruit and lemon juice and freeze. When ready to freeze, add whites of eggs and cream.

Canning Hint. After sealing fruit jars, turn them on the side and roll. Any air holes may be readily detected in this way.

Cleaning Bottles. A little rice added to the water will clean milk or other substance from bottles if you have no brush.

Grape Jam Without Sugar. Two pounds concord grapes, 2 pears, 3 apples and 1 quince.

Wash the grapes and put the juice in a sauce pan on a quick fire, and most of the apples, pears and quince, which have been peeled and sliced.

Cook and stir until the grape juice has been reduced to a thick sirup. To know when the jam is cooked enough, pour a few drops of it on a dish and if it does not roll off when turned over, it is ready.

A Potato Hint. Well cooked home made potatoes in the proportion of one-third to two-thirds is very palatable. This may be used in making hash, croquettes and most dishes made from left over vegetables and meats.

BEAUTY HINTS

Washing the Face. Many women will consider it a waste of time to read directions about so simple a matter as washing the face. But—Do you know that there is a right and a wrong way of washing the face, and that a surprising number of women follow the wrong method? And do you know that the pulling and twisting of the face in the wrong method is really harmful—that is, it tends to pull down the muscles and deepens the wrinkles? It takes no longer to do it wrong—and it's quite easy.

First of all—lift the muscles as you wash the face. That is, wash with all motions going upwards instead of downwards. Use very warm water and a mild soap, and always rinse in water as warm as the first you used; and in clear water—otherwise, soap will stay in the skin—and then end by a cold rinse. This does not take any more time than the slipshod method.

Some women soap the washcloth full of—well, any old sort of soap, then lather over the skin, scrubbing about and pulling and jerking at the face any old way. The natural tendency is to bear hard on the downward stroke—watch yourself when you wash the face and you will see what I mean. This pressure comes particularly around the mouth, whose corners are pulled downwards.

Now all motions should be up—to raise the muscles that will sag downwards soon enough after you have passed 30 years. There is no reason why face washing should not be a beauty treatment as well as a cleansing one, you know. The washing should clean and stimulate the complexion, should bring new blood to the surface, and should leave the face feeling fresh and rejuvenated.

Not Her Idea of Heaven. The conversation around the long dinner table ended, as do most conversations nowadays, with the subject of spiritualism. The guests and the members of the family gave their opinions as to whether or not the dead could communicate with the living, but it remained for "Sweet Sixteen" to present the only original thought on the subject.

HINTS FROM READERS

Will the letters from readers containing "discoveries" continue to come in. It is splendid to see how much altruism there is in this old world in spite of constant charges of commercialism and indifferent selfishness. When a housekeeper—the busiest of women—will pause in her full day to drop a postal or write a letter to me in order that other women who read the "discovery" which her letter or card contains may be benefited—well, who dares to say the Golden Rule is not practiced as much today as it was in the day of our ancestors?

Mrs. J. N.—"Here is my recipe for White Bread: Quick Method.—Dissolve 1 cake of yeast and 2 tablespoons of sugar in 1 quart of luke-warm water; do not allow to stand more than 10 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons lard or butter melted and 1-2 quarts sifted flour. Beat until smooth; add 1-2 quarts more flour or enough to make dough that can be handled. Add 1 tablespoon salt to last flour. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl, cover, set aside in a warm place for two hours. Mould into loaves. Place in well greased bread pans, filling them half full. Cover and let rise for 1 hour, or until double in bulk. Bake 40 to 50 minutes. This is a splendid recipe and if once tried you will never use any other.

Annie L.—"My husband will not eat grapefruit without sugar, but I discovered a way to sweeten them without using this high-priced product: I put 1 tablespoonful of honey into each half grapefruit and stand the fruit on ice a while before serving. He likes it with sugar. This way even more than with sugar."

Sarah K.—"In summer we use a great deal of lemonade in our family but I never waste a bit of lemon-pest, before cutting the lemon in half to squeeze it on the glass lemon-squeezer. I grate off most of the rind, put in a glass jar, sprinkle it with a very little sugar, and add a tiny bit of water—just enough to keep it moist. This gives a pure lemon flavor and consequently I make a good many more lemon cakes than any other kind—but they are appreciated."

Minnie L.—"Last year I read in your column a hint about dipping the ends of shoe laces in glue to stiffen them; when the metal tips came off, I have done this and found it a useful bit of advice, but now I have discovered a still better way: I run a piece of fine copper wire down the center of the tipless lace 3-4 of an inch from the end, then wind the wire around and around the lace, till I have bound it with wire for 3-4 of an inch up where I started from. I finish off the work by running the wire back and forth through the lace several times, cutting it off, and pressing the cut-off end with an iron."

Bride.—"My husband and I could not afford to buy a cedar wood chest to store our winter things in, so he made a cedar chest in this way: he put a linged lid on a pine box and put putty along the corner cracks. Then he painted the inside lavishly with cedar oil and let it sink into the wood and dry. When it was perfectly dry we covered the inside with cambric and the outside with thick cartridge paper, using brass-headed tacks on the exterior. We have used this box during the two years of our married life and have not been troubled with moths. The cedar will still retain its strong odor and we expect to use the chest many more seasons."

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

A CALL FROM THE TREE-TOP

Tinker Bob rested out in the front of his Forest home. The Forest breezes were singing their songs of joy because the summer had come. Jerry the Jay was acting quite like a fine fellow since the experience with Mrs. Hawk's pine pitch. The King Cat was taking care of Red Fox, keeping him out of trouble with the Forest dwellers. Chief Porky was, as usual, sleeping near the palace door—it seems that the joy of his life would be sleep and eat; he never cared to work unless he had to, but if the King desired him to go on a journey he was always willing.

As the King was resting, he nearly went to sleep listening to the songs of the Forest. He was hindered from sleeping, however, by the touch of a soft nose on the back of his ear. It did not startle him as it might have startled you, as he knew it was one of the creatures of the Forest desiring to tell him a story about someone or something.

The little soft nose sniffed about Tinker Bob's ear until the King spoke. "Who wants to talk to me now?" He asked. Then there was an answer in a sneaky voice, "I want to tell you something that has happened in the tree-top." Tinker Bob knew at once who it was. It was Rufus the Tree Mouse.

All right, Rufus, what have you to tell me today? Rufus had his nose so close to Tinker's ear that his whiskers tickled the King's neck every time he opened his mouth.

"Something has happened in the tree-top," said Rufus, "and I am afraid it will cause some trouble." Rufus was very serious.

"Tell me," said Tinker Bob, "has some one been hurt?" The King was anxious also to know what was the trouble.

"Well, I'll tell you." Then Rufus sat down on the King's shoulder and began to tell the story that had caused him to leave his home in the tree-top and make a journey to see the King.

"You see, I was out looking for some food and I saw the strangest sight that had ever been seen in the tree-top before. It makes me tremble to think of it. You know Lady Song Sparrow has her home in my tree, and in her nest were five little eggs. She has taken so much trouble to turn those eggs every day, looking forward to the time when there should be some little birds."

"But, alas, I'm afraid there will be no little birds! While she was away for a few moments, searching for something to eat, Mr. Black Snake came along. I asked him what he might be doing in my tree. He said, 'I've come up here to eat you up and all of the eggs in that Sparrows nest. So I came right down here to see you, Oh King.'"

And Tinker Bob rushed off at once to see what he could do to help Lady Sparrow.

Tomorrow—The King Sees George.

NEW YORK DELEGATES FOR COX, WITH SMITH AS RUNNING MATE; TAMMANY SOLID FOR OHIOAN

By Associated Press. COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 23.—Cox and Smith!

That's the ticket that Tammany proposes to support at the San Francisco convention. The braves from the Fourteenth street wigwam long ago determined to hang the Indian sign on William G. McAdoo. When the Western newspapers conveyed to them the information that McAdoo would not run under any circumstances, therefore they felt more certain that Governor James M. Cox of Ohio would be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency.

Confident that the combination of New York, Indiana, Illinois and "liberal states" that Tammany has been able to effect will be the dominating factor in the convention, "the boys" from Fourteenth street feel that they will figure more prominently and conclusively in the San Francisco convention than they have in any national powwow during the present generation.

The Tammany delegation believes that Governor Cox is the strongest man who can be named, as it is said to be a virtual certainty that he can carry his home state against Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee. Satisfied that Governor Alfred E. Smith has made a record in New York that entitles him to promotion, his associates from the Empire State feel that in forcing his nomination for the vice presidency they will add to the strength of the Democratic ticket.

When McAdoo's disclaimer came to the attention of the Tammany party this morning several members of the delegation wired to Governor Smith at Chicago, asking him to stand for the Vice Presidency on the ticket with Governor Cox. At a late hour tonight an answer had been received from the New York governor.

Tammany, however, knows that Governor Smith does not desire to run for re-election, and that he will regard the vice presidential nomination as a welcome opportunity to side step another term at Albany. The Tammany Hall delegates, therefore, go upon the assumption that he would be in a receptive attitude should the San Francisco gathering call upon him to become Governor Cox's running mate.

Whether or not Governor Smith is to be the Vice Presidential nominee, it is virtually certain that all of New York's votes will be cast for Ohio's Governor.

Every delegate on the train appears to have a special preference for Cox. New York's predilection for him is based upon Governor Cox's broad views on matters of personal liberty and his inclination to treat with organization leaders.

There is no sentiment among the New York delegation for Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. The Senator's friends have been bombarding the delegates with telegrams ever since Tammany's special train left Chicago.

One delegate who is a man of great influence, was requested specifically to line up the New York delegation for Senator Glass. He telegraphed back an answer which said that New York intended to be for Cox "first, last and always," after giving to Governor Smith a complimentary vote on the first ballot. The Tammany delegation enjoyed a sightseeing tour of Denver this morning and this afternoon visited the Garden of Gods. The delegates are attempting to arrive at San Francisco earlier. They feel that, inasmuch as Mr. McAdoo definitely has declared himself to be out of the race, there will be a great deal of bargaining on the coast, and they wish to be on hand to assist in the promotion of Governor Cox's boom.

Democratic Convention Snap-Shots THE STORY OF 16 NOMINATIONS By A. H. Vandenberg

CONVENTION OF 1912.
When the historical Democratic National Convention of 1912 met in Baltimore on June 25, Bryan (although not himself a candidate) was still the stormy petrel of Party affairs.

The National Committee designated Judge Alton B. Parker of New York as temporary chairman—against Mr. Bryan's protest that Judge Parker was not sufficiently "progressive"—taking this action by a vote of 31 for Parker, 20 for Ollie James of Kentucky, and 2 for Senator O'Gorman of New York. Mr. Bryan promptly carried the fight to the floor of the convention, where he was defeated by a vote of 570 to 510. In this preliminary line-up delegates favorable to the nomination of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey threw their support solidly to Mr. Bryan and the coalition ultimately determined Convention destiny.

Senator James of Kentucky—one of Mr. Bryan's closest friends—became permanent chairman of the convention and Senator Kern of Indiana, who had been Mr. Bryan's choice for temporary chairman, became head of the resolutions committee after Mr. Bryan had declined this honor.

The "unit rule" was rejected—for the first time in Democratic National Convention history—by a vote of 535 1-2 to 491 1-3. This was another Wilson-Bryan victory because it particularly involved 18 district delegates from Ohio who had been instructed by primaries to vote for Wilson, but where the state convention controlled by the Harmon forces had invoked the "unit rule" binding all Ohio delegates to the Ohio governor.

It was apparent as the Convention progressed that the main presidential contest would lie between peaker Champ Clark of Missouri and Governor Wilson. On the fourth day, the first ballot gave Clark 440 1-2, Wilson 324, Underwood of Alabama 117 1-2 Harmon of Ohio 148, Marshall of Indiana 31, Baldwin of Connecticut 22, Sulzer of New York 2, and Bryan 1. Under the two-thirds rule, 728 votes were necessary to a choice.

Subsequent roll calls up to the ninth showed few changes. Then came the first big break when New York swung 90 votes from Harmon to Clark. On this ballot, the tenth, Clark reached the high-water mark of 556—a clear majority, but 170 votes short of the necessary two-thirds to nominate. On 13 ballots, the following day, Wilson gained 51 and Clark lost 90. When the Convention adjourned over Sunday, the Wilson forces were confident and the Clark forces were particularly bitter against Bryan for his anti-Clark posture.

At the end of the forty-second ballot on the following Monday, the Convention was still dead-locked, with 494 for Wilson and 430 for Clark. On the forty-third ballot, Illinois and West Virginia swung to Wilson. On the forty-fourth, Colorado followed suit. Before the forty-sixth ballot was under way, Senator Burkhead of Alabama took the platform and released the Underwood delegates, with the result that Alabama, which had started every roll-call with 24 Underwood votes, changed to Wilson. Senator Stone of Missouri took the stage and released all delegates who had been pledged to Clark. State after state then followed Alabama's example, and Governor Wilson was nominated with 990 votes to 84 for Clark and 12 for Harmon.

A tired but finally united Convention quickly completed the ticket by nominating Governor Marshall of Indiana (over Governor John E. Burke of North Carolina) for Vice-President on two ballots.

To be continued tomorrow with the story of the Convention of 1916.

ELWELL MURDER MYSTERY AS FAR FROM SOLUTION AS EVER

NEW YORK, June 24.—(Special)—winning thousands at a sitting. He owned the Beach stable of race-horses, runners of mediocre class. He played the market in Wall street with varying luck, but always seemed to have plenty of money. His chief interest was in women. He had many affairs, being suave, witty and entertaining, and possessing a fascination for the other sex. Women frequently visited his house. Several had keys for his front door.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, his friends, who live at No. 387 Fifth avenue, the husband being of the wealthy banking and brokerage firm of Lewisohn Bros.

Viola Kraus, good-looking young divorcee, friend of Elwell. Miss Kraus is a sister of Mrs. Lewisohn.

Signor P. Figurea, a young journalist from South America, friend of the Lewisohns.

Victor Von Schlegel, former husband of Elwell. Has bachelor apartment which figured in the divorce obtained by his wife. Had affairs with women, which caused the divorce.

A Young Woman (name withheld by the police), friend of Von Schlegel.

Mrs. Helen Derby Elwell, wife of the victim. Got $200 monthly allowance from him. Separated in 1916.

Richard Elwell, aged fifteen, son of the victim. He had been in preparatory school and had not seen his father in years.

Mrs. Marie Larsen, Elwell's housekeeper, who went to his home each morning to keep it in order and who discovered him dying June 11.

COURT STRIKES IN PROTEST OF INTERFERENCE

OPPELN, Upper Silesia, June 3. (By Mail)—A delegate and difficult problem which confronts the International Plebiscite Commission is the strike of Upper Silesian judges and court officials who resent what they term the Commission's unauthorized interference with the German judiciary. All the courts of Upper Silesia are officed by Germans.

The strike grew out of the Commission's decree granting amnesty to political prisoners. Sitting en banc, five Upper Silesian judges declared the decree unconstitutional. Judge Heldenheim, president of the court, was ordered to leave the district the day after the decision was handed down. Another judge accused by the Commission of negligence in the prosecution of a German policeman who killed a Polish workman and of refusing to supply the commission with information regarding the case, also was deported.

Having gone on strike in protest, the judges sent in an ultimatum to the commission demanding satisfaction for the treatment of the deported judges and declaring that the judiciary would not tolerate further interference from the commission. The Italian members of the commission are trying to adjust the trouble.

According to the treaty of Versailles, the commission is given all the powers that were exercised in Upper Silesia by the German or Prussian governments with the exception of those powers having to do with the making of laws and levying of taxes.

The striking judges assert that the commission is attempting to make laws. One of them, Dr. Hertel, of Oppeln, told the correspondent that the judges did not oppose the commission's amnesty decree provided it was applied only to cases already disposed of or those awaiting trial.

"But we refused," he said, "to brook interference in those cases that were before the courts. Such trials must proceed. Not even the Kaiser himself would have attempted to stop them."

The German government, the correspondent understands, has informed the commission that it approves of the amnesty decree. Throughout Germany the newsmen are excitedly discussing the situation.

slayer was a wronged and jealous woman or a husband, father, brother, lover or losing gambler with a grievance against Elwell.

A Newsboy, who sold Elwell a sporting sheet early in the morning of June 11 in the vicinity of 42d street and Broadway.

Friend of Elwell's, who drove him home in a high-powered roadster, arriving at the Elwell home at 3:45 a. m.

Chauffeur of a Taxi or private car which may have taken the slayer to Elwell's house and away from it after the shooting.

Two Men and a Woman, with whom Elwell danced at the Cafe Montmartre, 50th street and Broadway, between 11 and 12 after 2 a. m. and 3:30 a. m.

The Known Action.

Viola Kraus, having recently obtained a decree of divorce from Victor Von Schlegel, takes part in a dinner on the night of June 10. There are present, besides herself, Elwell, the Lewisohns, and the South American journalist, Figurea.

They dined at the Ritz-Carlton. They were all familiar with the place. It was frequently patronized by Von Schlegel, Viola Kraus's ex-husband. It was no secret that Von Schlegel and a young woman prize to any of the party apparently, guest were dining a few tables away that very night, June 10.

After dinner the members of the party went from the Ritz to the "Midnight Frolic" in the Roof theatre of the New Amsterdam, 42d street, west of Broadway. They saw the show, and Elwell danced with Mrs. Lewisohn and Miss Kraus. They departed between 1:30 and 2 o'clock a. m., June 11.

The Lewisohns and their guests, Miss Kraus and Figurea, went home in a taxi. The last they saw of Elwell he was turning away, apparently toward another taxi.

But he did not go right home, though he might have taken a taxi. He went to the Cafe Montmartre, where he met two men and a woman, with whom he appeared on friendly terms.

A rather noisy motor car of the roadster type stopped in front of Elwell's home at 3:45 o'clock. A neighbor observed this. Elwell alighted and entered his house alone. The man who had been driving the car said a cheery good-night and drove off.

The milkman, leaving his daily supply, found the outer door of Elwell's house unlocked at 6:45. The postman, leaving some letters, found a similar condition a little later. This was nothing unusual.

Mrs. Larsen, the housekeeper, arriving at 8:30, found the outer door locked, to the best of her recollection. Entering, she discovered Elwell in an armchair in a little reception room on the first floor, dying from a bullet wound through the center of the forehead. In his hand was a letter from the trainer of his horses in Kentucky. A sporting sheet lay close by Elwell was pajama-clad. A single empty shell from a .45 automatic pistol was the only trace left by the murderer.

The Unknown Action.

What was the exact procedure of Elwell after leaving his friends? Did he buy a racing paper, look it over for the odds, as a racing man would? Did he then go, either afoot or by taxi, to the Montmartre to dance, feeling wide awake and not tired?

Whom did he meet there? Were the "two men and a woman" old friends or chance acquaintances of a cabaret? Who was the man who drove him home in the roadster and said "goodnight" without leaving the machine?

What did Elwell do upon entering the house? Peruse his paper further, then get into his pajamas? Was there some one there waiting for him? Did he undress first, then sit down to smoke and NITROS BACK FRIDAY. The Nitros return to their home grounds Friday for a trio of games over the week end with the Mineral Wells Resorters.

Special to The Times. ABILENE, June 23.—The breaks were bad, very bad in fact, for the Ranger Nitros, and they dropped the second game of the series to the Abilene Eagles here this afternoon by a score of 4 to 0.

Manager Galloway saved the Nitros from disgrace and prevented the Eagles from rolling up a bigger count when he replaced Hamilton, who looked every ball that came to him.

WILD CATTING IS PRECARIOUS OIL ADVENTURE

Oil is a game of good business but it is also a game of chances. The most expert management and the highest specialized organization cannot remove the element of chance and luck. Big companies expect heavy losses at times and big gains at other times.

The biggest chance taker of the oil game is the lonely wildcatter. With him the saying is true that "nothing succeeds like success." He pits his judgment against a thousand natural difficulties and obstacles and against the hundred to one chance that his well will fail to open a new territory.

Once in a great while a wildcatter makes a real strike. Then people point to him as an example of a man favored by the gods. Years of disappointment and dozens of failures may have been his lot. They are forgotten by the crowd who are eager to worship at the shrine of success.

The wildcatter is looked on with more or less suspicion wherever he operates. If he drills a well to 3,000 feet and decides that the job is hopeless and closes down, many residents of the neighborhood will spread the tale that he has discovered oil and is "lying low" for speculation. If he has a good showing of oil, others will declare that there business and that the wildcatter is merely trying to create excitement in order that he may "get out from under."

At this time many large companies are conducting operations in various parts of Texas, while a great deal of the exploration work is being carried on by small concerns, often organized by business men of the locality, and by individuals playing a $50,000 or $75,000 stake against the chances of making a real strike.

The usual procedure of the wildcatter is to lease sufficient acreage to make him a large fortune in case of promising development. But the "discovery well" is not always brought in by the man who is able to take advantage of the find.

The Spindle Top field, which produced more oil to the acre than any other field in the United States, was ushered in by a man who had spent his last dollar in putting down a hole. One day, when he had reached the end of his rope and was starting down to the well to tell the hands that he had no money to go further, he heard a roar and saw a stream of oil going over the top. The well had blown itself in.

This man is reported to have lost his fortune eighteen months after he saw his faith in the Spindle Top region justified.

At the present time, wildcating is being carried on in Texas on a scale never before attempted in any state. Millions upon millions of dollars are "going into the ground."

COLORADO WELL SHOWS SIGNS OF GOOD PRODUCTION

COLORADO, Texas, June 24.—The Texas and Pacific No. 1 of the Underwriters Producing and Refining company, eleven miles west of here, is creating interest among oil men and scouts from other parts of the country. The well is drilling at a depth of 2,424 feet and has passed through more than seventy feet of oil-bearing sand. If a flow is not encountered at a deeper level the well will be plugged back and shot, company officials say. A good showing of oil and some gas pressure have encouraged the operators.

DEEP OIL SAND IS STRUCK IN MORAN FIELD

Snyder No. 2, of the Associated Oil Company of California, two miles west of Moran, struck a new oil sand at 2,800 feet and is making a good show of oil and a million feet of gas. The well is a mile west of the Texas company's shallow well.

Moran has been producing oil from a shallow sand for years. The discovery of a deeper pay west of the town may turn oil circles topsy-turvy.

The shallow pay in the Moran district is probably as long lived as any in Texas. A well of the Texas company has been producing it for seven years. It has just been cleaned out and is now making 125 barrels on the pump.

Last nite after supper I went around on Broad street with the fellows and listened to some man waving his arms and talking about Socialism, and when I got home pop was up in the setting room snoring and thinking with his feet up, me saying, Pop, do you believe in Socialism—do not, and never did and never will, sed pop, every man on his own merits, that's my motto, I dont believe in this dividing up bizness.

Well we not, pop, aint all men born equal? I sed.

They may be born equal, but they don't stay equal very long, the most in equal ones are always Socialists, sed pop.

Well G, gosh, pop, I sed, the man erround on Broad street sed aint fair for working and other men to do all the work and not get hardly any.

Let me tell you something, my earnest young thinker, sed pop, if all the rich men divided their money with all the poor men to have all the money without working and other men to do all the work and not get hardly any.

How long, pop, 2 weeks? I sed, and pop sed, Well, that would be a trifle sudden, say 5 years, yes 5 years, in 5 years the intelligent men would have most of the money just as they had at first.

Yes, 5 years, sed pop, 5 years is a conservative estimate, man.

Wed gosh, G, pop, I sed, we couldnt they divide up every 5 years then, and keep on making it even?

Yee gosh, sed pop, good arguments rolls off you like wattr off a ducks back, go to bed his late.

Wich I did.

Mrs. Felts, proprietor of the Summer Garden dance hall, will open a new business under the name of the Smoke House, in the Guaranty State Bank building, about July 15. A line of tobacco and confections will be carried in the new business. Mrs. Felts has just returned from Dallas, where she purchased a large electric sign for the new place.

50 Years Ago

a young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

HOUSTON, TEXAS.—"Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an excellent medicine. I have taken it for feminine troubles and when run-down, weak and nervous, and it was very quick in building me up and relieving my of my trouble. I always felt better."—Mrs. H. E. WILLIAMS, 2424 Freeman Street.

JAILS ARE FULL; CRIME CONTINUES WITH CONFUSION

BERLIN, June 24.—The wave of criminality in Germany shows no sign of abating. Jails are filled to capacity with the thieves of the big city streets. Very often new arrivals have to be temporarily released from custody owing to lack of room in the penitentiaries. Here are some of the principal thefts and robberies reported in the last few days.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, June 24.—A campaign against rats in border cities and towns of Texas is being urged by Dr. C. W. Gouillard, state health officer, as a precaution against the spread of the bubonic plague from Mexico to Texas.

"I understand you gave your youngest baby a nightgown name?" "Yes," said the veteran printer, "I suppose a great many people will think it strange calling a girl 'Bible Jenkins.'" "What made you do such a thing?" "I don't like the way folks have gotten into of using small type indiscriminately. I made up my mind I would see to it that there will be at least a few occasions when Bible will have to be spelled with a capital B."—Washington Star.

Nationalist Is Adventurer Says Turkish Leader

NEW YORK, June 24.—Vahan Cardashian, of the American Committee for the Independence of Armenia takes issue with the recent statement of Damad Ferid Pasha, Premier of Turkey and brother-in-law of the Sultan, as cabled from Constantinople. The Turkish Premier stated that the provinces of Van, Bitlis and Mosul, said to be claimed by the Armenians have only five per cent of Armenians and that the leaders of the Turkish Nationalist movement were not really Turks but adventurers from other countries. Concerning this Mr. Cardashian says:

LOUISVILLE WOMAN'S SUFFERINGS LASTED FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Mrs. Menne Says Her Condition Had Become Almost Desperate When She Began Taking Tanlac

THOUGHT OPERATION WAS HER ONLY HOPE Decides to Try Tanlac First And Was Astonished At Her Rapid Improvement—Gains Twenty Pounds

"At the time I began taking Tanlac a month ago, I was so bad off I was not expected to live much longer, but since then I have actually gained twenty pounds in weight and am now able to do my housework for the first time in many years," said Mrs. Mand Menne, 332 West Jefferson Street, Louisville, Ky.

his parents were from Saloniki and were Danes, that is converts, as were the parents of Talat and Djavid. Rustem, whom he presents as a Pole, is of Polish extraction as Enver. He is a Moslem, was the Turkish Ambassador in Washington in 1913 and was the director of Turkish propaganda during the Great War. Faud, I do not know who he is. But, the majority of the Turks are of foreign extraction. Of the 33 Grand Viziers up to 1909 seventeen were of foreign extraction.

bite without being in misery afterwards. Sometimes I wasn't able to retain a thing and would bloat up with gas until I felt simply awful. My heart would palpitate so I became alarmed for fear I had heart trouble. My nerves were completely shattered and it was impossible for me to sleep good. I fell off in weight until I lost about fifty pounds and was actually so weak I couldn't raise my hands to my head. I was almost a perfect wreck, and in spite of all the money I spent and the medicine I took I grew worse instead of better. Finally I was told that an operation was my only hope.

"However, I decided to try Tanlac first and was astonished at the way Tanlac began to build me up. My appetite returned and I started eating things I had not dared to touch in years and my lost weight and strength began to come back. I have now finished my third bottle of Tanlac, can hardly realize what a change it has made in me. I am eating anything I please and I am never troubled one bit afterwards. Already I have gained back almost half my lost weight and I am still gaining every day. My nerves are just as calm and steady as can be and I sleep like a child every night."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 24.—Among the curios recently acquired by the chamber of commerce through Sydney Anderson, banker, is a perfectly made copper arrow, discovered six feet beneath the surface on bedrock of Clear Creek. It is of Indian origin apparently, and indicates that the aborigines were copper workers many years ago.

An Atlanta husband, having offended, came home the evening of the quarrel with a parcel under his arm. "Darling," he said to his wife, "look here, I've got something here for the person I love best in all the world." She came forward with a shrug. "Humph! What is it?" she said.
