Hamon's Death Result of Clara Smith's Third Attempt to Slay Oil King, Says Attorney Freeling

PACKING HOUSE WORKERS OF 400 UNIONS WILL TAKE VOTE ON STRIKE TOMORROW

International News Service. CHICAGO, March 11.—Strike ballots are being printed here today and distribution of the ballots to 400 local unions of packing house employes in the United States and Canada will begin tomorrow. If President Harding does not intervene in the dispute over wage cuts and working hours between packers and their employes a strike vote will be taken.

Plans for obtaining an injunction to prevent the packers from reducing wages on March 14 and taking the fight direct to the courts which were discussed at the conference of union leaders in Omaha Thursday have been referred to the executive board. This method may be resorted to later.

Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor has called a conference of delegates of all packing house unions for next Wednesday morning in Chicago. Morrison has been advised by President Harding that the plea of the unions has been received and that the matter has been taken up with the department of labor and the department of justice.

NO ACTION YET BY LABOR DEPARTMENT

International News Service. WASHINGTON, March 11.—The department of labor has taken no action on the appeal of employes of the large packers for government action to prevent wage reductions. Secretary of Labor Davis said today.

Secretary Davis declared he was studying the appeal which had been referred to him by the President, and that experts of the department were in touch with the situation. The department will use every effort to prevent a strike in the packing industry, he stated. He would not say that the matter would be discussed at today's meeting of the cabinet.

RANGER MAY GET STATE SHOOT TO BE HELD JUNE 7

That Ranger has more than an even chance to secure the state championship shooting tournament to be held June 7 is information coming from C. N. Wray, of the Dupont Powder company who was in Ranger yesterday. In honor of Mr. Wray's presence the local Gun club held a shoot.

Dallas cannot handle the state champion shoot this year, and since this became known the local organization has been pulling wires to have it held here. This move, according to Mr. Wray, is being favored by nearly all the state trap shooters who have a desire to see Ranger and the oil fields.

That the event is of large proportions, is proved by the fact that $3,000 worth of ammunition and a carload of targets will be used. Wherever the shoot is held hundreds of lovers of the sport will gather in an effort to carry away the honors. In size it is said to surpass the Sunny South handicap that is a winter's event at Houston.

In the shoot yesterday high scores were: Wray 25 24, Harp 25 22, Eaton 25 24, Via 25 21, Schwartz 25 21, Day 25 20, Quisile 25 20.

FRANCE DENIES ASKING HARDING TO ACCEPT A MODIFIED LEAGUE

PARIS, March 11.—The French foreign office today formally denied a report circulated in the United States that negotiations have been opened with the American state department by the French embassy at Washington in an effort to induce President Harding to accept a modified league of nations.

In denying the report that former premier Rene Viviani was going to the United States on such a mission, it was pointed out by the foreign office that the league of nations and similar matters "are within the scope of the duties of the French ambassador who may be ordered to concern himself with them at the proper time."

Asked bluntly if Viviani's mission had anything to do with the league of nations, the foreign office said: "That matter is entirely in the hands of the French ambassador who has for a long time, as everyone knows, interested himself in America's position towards the league of nations."

By Associated Press. LONDON, March 11.—Revolutionary authorities at Kronstadt have sent an ultimatum to the soviet government at Petrograd demanding surrender of the city before March 25. MOVE TO LOWER RAILWAY WAGES IS UNDER WAY

Officials of Various Lines Arranging Conference With Employes to This End.

By Associated Press. TWENTY PER CENT CUT. CHICAGO, March 11.—The Chicago Great Western railroad today announced it would propose a 20 per cent reduction in wages and salaries of every one employed by the road from the president down. This is the first Western road to announce proposed wage reductions.

RATE CUTS COMING.

CHICAGO, March 11.—The Chicago and Alton railroad will take steps soon to reduce the pay of employes. W. G. Bied, president, announced today. Reductions to be made will cause ultimate reductions in freight and passenger rates which "now are more than the public can bear," Bied said.

NEW YORK, March 11.—A general move by the nation's railroads to cut war wage scales, long forecast by officials, appeared to be in full swing today. Officials of various lines are today arranging a conference with employes in an effort to reach agreements. The plans as announced affect only unskilled and semi-skilled laborers. Men engaged in the actual operation of trains, telegraphers and station agents are not included.

ANTI-JAP AND OTHER RADICAL BILLS PASSED

AUSTIN, March 11.—The Dudley anti-Japanese bill was sent to the governor this afternoon. The senate this morning concurred in the house amendment to the Bledsoe joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing that only citizens of the United States shall vote in general elections.

The honest advertising bill by Hertzberg has been sent to the governor for approval. It is the first bill of its kind ever passed in Texas and carries stringent penalties against dishonest attempts to sell goods on the strength of "great savings."

NEW U. S. COURT IN WEST TEXAS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Creation of a new federal court district for West Texas is advocated by Representative Wurzbach, Republican congressman from Texas. He will offer the measure at the special session. The new division would not entail the creation of a new judgeship, Wurzbach said today, but will create places for new court officials.

The western division is at present looked after by Judge Duval West, San Antonio, and Judge W. R. Smith, El Paso.

Wurzbach also advocates extending the power of the United States commissioners to allow them to try misdemeanor cases.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Fred Morris Dearing, of Missouri, was nominated today by President Harding to be assistant secretary of state.

Ellis Daugherty, photographed at the Daugherty home in Washington Court House, Ohio. Mrs. Daugherty was left a widow when the new attorney general was four years old. The task of raising the two Daugherty boys fell upon their mother's shoulders. One now holds one of the highest positions in the President's cabinet and the other is the leading banker of Washington Court House, Ohio.

ARREST OF LAW BREAKERS IN PORT ARTHUR SUSPENDED

International News Service. PORT ARTHUR, Tex., March 11.—Warning that they no longer are responsible for lawlessness was issued by city officials today following the liberation late Thursday of twenty-four prisoners from the city jail through dissolution by the court of criminal appeals of Jefferson county court-at-law No. 2. Dissolution of the court was based on the ground that it had been "organized in a manner not sanctioned by the constitution." No further arrests will be made in this city, officers declared, pending the establishment of a tribunal adequate for handling cases.

'MIDWAY INN' NEAR CISCO, SCENE OF RAID

Special to the Times. EASTLAND, March 11.—A raid was made Wednesday night on an alleged house of ill fame by County Attorney Dunnam and assistants McCullough and Barnes, together with Chief of Police Bedford and Deputy Sheriff Polk Killborn of Cisco. The house raided being known by the name of "Midway Inn," near Cisco. The raid followed receipt of an anonymous letter from a girl complaining that it was dangerous for her and other girls to pass the place without being insulted. Several arrests were made as a result of the raid and the county attorney today issued a writ of injunction restraining Maude Miles from running an alleged lawdy house, frequented by lewd and vicious women, and the injunction was granted by Judge E. A. Hill of the Eighty-eighth district court.

WOMAN'S VICTIM LAY SMILING UNDER HER CARESSES AS SHE SENT BULLET CRASHING INTO HIS BODY, IS CHARGE OF ATTORNEY

'TOPS IS IN,' OMEN OF NEAR SPRING SEASON

Many folks in their own particular niche have their own omen that spring has come, and they watch for them even as the "sweet young thing" gazes down a darkened street listening for the first click of the heels of her young man on the pavement.

The city editor comes to his work some morning and finds his desk piled high with gushing poetry and in spite of it he is glad, for to him that is a sure omen that spring is here.

To the woodsman, there comes through the golden dawn the first lilting notes of a bluebird, and to him it is a true harbinger of the season of warm sunshine and flowers.

The angler overturns a stone and finds a wriggling, twisting fishworm. He straightaway overhauls his trusty rod and reel and hies him away to his favorite fishing stream.

But to the man of the street these signs are not perceptible, yet he has his own omen that the day of high coal bills is over and done for a time, and he prepares for a test of strength with the iceman. When he sees the small boy hurrying down the street with a three-cornered hat in his pistol pocket and a twine string swinging in his hands he knows that "tops is in" and that "spring has come."

It is the one infallible sign, and has been read in Ranger. Almost any afternoon now the small boys can be found industriously "spiking" on the hard earth of the Texas & Pacific station platform.

The cycle of their activities changes as surely as do the seasons, and with the seasons, "tops is in" now, but it is only a stepping stone. Presently when the days grow warmer they will give way to "keeps." When summer comes "keeps" will give way to the swimming hole and the lure of catching perch, just beyond the old sunken log in the creeks and ponds.

Bond that is school again for the small boys, and coal bills for the man of the street—and winter, for the both watch and wait again for the time when "tops is in."

AGREEMENT REACHED ON U. OF T. EXPANSION BILL

AUSTIN, March 11.—An agreement was reached today by the free conference committee on the University of Texas expansion bill and was submitted to both branches of the legislature this afternoon. Under terms of the agreement an appropriation of $1,350,000 for additional acreage totalling 135 acres is proposed.

WOMAN LAWYER TO DEFEND WOMAN ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Miss Theresa Dubin.

For the first time in the history of the New York courts and probably in the history of the country, a woman lawyer will defend a woman accused of the murder of a woman. The woman attorney is Miss Theresa B. Dubin of New York city, and her client is Mrs. Donatella Massiella, of Corona, Long Island, accused of having killed Mrs. Concetta Alteri, a neighbor. Mrs. Massiella, when first arrested, pleaded for one of her own sex to defend her. Miss Dubin, who was admitted to the bar last year, was assigned to the case.

State Seeks to Prove Defendant Habitually Went Armed As Part of Design to Exact Life of Her Admirer.

International News Service.

ARDMORE, Okla., March 11.—Attorney General Prince Freeling today charged in his opening address to the murder jury that Clara Smith Hamon twice attempted to slay Jake L. Hamon, Oklahoma oil king, before she finally sent a bullet crashing into his abdomen as he lay smiling under her caresses. Freeling charged that on one of the attempts the presence of a deputy sheriff alone saved the life of Hamon.

The jury's visit to the murder chamber in the Randol hotel scheduled for this morning was postponed when a driving rain drenched the town. Attorneys for the defense and prosecution agreed to hold off the trial until later in the trial.

With his address completed, Attorney General Freeling called the state's first witness and the greatest legal battle in the criminal history of the Southwest had actually begun.

State's First Witness.

J. S. Mullen of Ardmore, first witness for the state, testified that Hamon came here in 1913. He had seen Hamon and Clara together on several occasions, he declared, and knew the numbers of the rooms occupied by Hamon and the woman. He testified that they took the rooms in 1913 and that they had kept the rooms continuously since then.

Mike Gorman testified that when he called at the hotel suite occupied by Hamon and the defendant he found Hamon in his room with the accused woman standing facing him. He said that the woman had something in her right hand. He thought it was a pistol, but was not sure. The defense objected to his testimony as incompetent. Attorney General Freeling said he sought to show through Gorman that the girl had been in the habit of carrying a pistol. Objection overruled.

Dr. E. C. Harlow, an optician, testified that the accused woman, a patient of his, came into his office about a month before the shooting. He said when she opened her hand he saw a small pistol in it. He said the girl took it out to get some money and then returned it to the bag.

W. E. Meyers employed by Storm & Erickson, hardware, Oklahoma City, testified that in Nov., 1920, he sold a .25 Colt's automatic to Clara B. Smith. He produced a record showing the woman gave her address as 1721 West Tenth street, Oklahoma City. Meyers, he asked to look at the defendant, said he could not swear she was the woman who purchased the revolver.

The defense admitted the defendant was the woman who purchased the revolver.

The accused woman listened intently as Attorney General Freeling disclosed the prosecution's evidence. Her expression did not change as he repeated the dying man's accusation that she shot him deliberately while rifling his hair with one hand and holding a revolver concealed in the other.

Mrs. Jake Hamon wept all during Freeling's opening statement and during the taking of testimony. She had her face in her handkerchief as the attorney general opened a bundle and revealed the bloody shirt and a revolver.

Only three witnesses had testified when the court adjourned at noon until 1:30 o'clock.

YELLOW WHEEL BUICK AMONG LATEST 'MISSING'

A yellow wheel, 1920 Buick roadster is among the missing today. The car was parked on a downtown street last night. Even Madam Diana, the premier medium, does not know where it is parked today.

The car belonged to G. H. Bisk, and a reward of $50 has been offered for its recovery.

NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL NOT TO PATCH UP HOLES MADE BY PALMER IN PROHIBITION LAW

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The ruling drafted by A. Mitchell Palmer, retired attorney general, giving a liberal interpretation of the Volstead law and upsetting many existing enforcement regulations governing the manufacture and sale of non-beverage liquors will be permitted to stay in force, the department of justice announced today.

Attorney General Daugherty said that while he had not digested the Palmer opinion, it was not probable that any action would be taken to reverse either this or any other leading opinions drafted by his predecessor. Daugherty declared that it would not be his policy to reverse such decisions, but it is contrary to the long established custom of the department of justice.

Redrafting of many of the existing prohibition regulations and the revocation of others which were held by former Attorney General Palmer to violate the real intent of congress is under way today. The revisions will be taken up in greater earnest with the announcement of a new internal revenue commissioner now expected daily and the naming of a new prohibition commissioner.

HEAD OF FARM BUREAU LAUDS A. & M. COLLEGE

COLLEGE STATION, March 11.—President J. T. Orr of the farm bureau of Texas, in his address at the annual meeting of the Texas Banker-Farmer conference, made the following significant statement:

"Right at this point, I want to give due credit to this great institution, the Texas A. & M. college, for showing me the light on the subject of the relative prosperity of farming under the two systems—the one having no co-ordination with scientific progress nor co-operation with those charged with distribution—the other having all this. I have often thought and recently have said that if the great teachings of the extension service of this college could have come to me, as it is now coming to every farmer in this state, when I made my first crop instead of after I had made more than twenty crops, I might have saved my family many years of fruitless toil and many nights of restless sleep.

"I know just how the average man regards the information which comes from the agricultural colleges and experiment stations, because for ten years I personally refused to give them any consideration whatsoever; but that was my misfortune.

"The greatest single blessing which could come to the farmers of Texas would be to so open the mind of the average farmer, that he could see the great benefits to be derived from the information proceeding from this institution."

RANGER COMPANY WILL SUPPLY SOUTH BEND GAS

The Ranger Gas company will shortly begin laying field distributing lines in the South Bend field, according to an announcement made this morning by J. B. Owens, manager. Seven miles of four-inch pipe will be laid, through which to supply drilling operations in the South Bend district.

The field engineer of the company is now in the north Texas field, buying the casing for the work.

OKLAHOMA MAN TO BE ASSISTANT TO HAYS

WASHINGTON, March 11.—J. J. McGraw of Ponca City, Okla., former Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, has been tendered the appointment of first assistant postmaster general by Postmaster General Will Hays, and the selector is said to have the approval of President Harding. When seen last night McGraw declined to discuss the matter or indicate his disposition toward the offer.

McGraw was one of the chief lieutenants of General Leonard Wood at the Chicago convention, and was designated as a member of the national committee by the late Jake L. Hmon, first assistant postmaster general, back by official of the department who passes upon the appointments coming under that department.

HEREFORD, Texas, March 11.—Thirty-two thoroughbred and highly graded Jersey cows sold at public auction in this city at an average of $166 each. The cattle were sold by J. Riley Green and Brother of Wolfe City Texas. The highest price was paid by E. W. Harrison of $300 for a registered cow.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA CUT IN COTTON ACREAGE TO BE MORE THAN A THIRD

By Associated Press
GALVESTON, March 11.—The reduction in cotton acreage for Oklahoma and Texas will be approximately 35.5 per cent, according to opinions gathered from about 135 bankers of the two states.

These opinions, gathered by a local firm and submitted to W. W. Morrison, executive secretary of the Galveston Cotton Exchange, indicate that the heaviest reduction in acreage would be in north and northwest Texas. This was in accordance with general expectations, Mr. Morrison said. The opinions indicated that the smallest reduction in acreage would be in Southwest Texas. The reduction in the southwest, however, proved somewhat of a surprise, the opinions showing a much larger curtailment of cotton in that section than had been anticipated.

"A firm recently wrote to something like 135 bankers of Texas and Oklahoma, asking their opinion as to probable reduction in their respective localities," said Mr. Morrison, in reviewing the outlook for the two states. "I had an opportunity to review the answers to these inquiries, which covered both states rather evenly."

"Comments of the bankers, however, revealing as they did the influences brought to bear upon cotton raisers, were far more interesting and significant than the actual figures. The consensus was that cotton would have to be grown and harvested this year by the farmer's own labor. It was pointed out that cotton was selling well below the price at which it could be grown and that no bank could finance labor to produce cotton under such conditions. This view was sharply emphasized throughout.

"For the same reason, those farmers who are able to finance their labor bills, are generally reluctant to do so. The forecast, therefore, is that in cultivating and harvesting the cotton crop to be grown this year, hired labor will be largely eliminated. We can form some idea as to the effect of this on the final outcome when we consider that it takes something like four times as much labor to harvest a cotton crop within the normal season as it does to cultivate it."

Mr. Morrison said that modern machinery available for cultivating and harvesting grain—but not cotton—made it possible for a laborer to cultivate and harvest something like twenty acres of grain to one of cotton. This elimination of hired labor, indicated by the bankers who largely finance the crop, together with the more attractive price of grain, can be expected to greatly increase the area planted to grain at the expense of cotton.

Declaring that it was reported recently that a prominent banker had advised farmers to liquidate the cotton they now hold, Mr. Morrison said that the replies to the acreage-reduction questionnaire contained no hint of advocacy of this course.

"On the contrary," said Mr. Morrison, "I have found general disposition among bankers with whom I have discussed the matter, to aid the farmer in holding the staple he now has on hand. But these bankers are emphatic in declaring that they will not finance the farmers to grow cotton that would cost practically double the price at which the staple can be bought today. Such a thing, he emphasized, was too senseless to be seriously considered."

About the only difference we notice between the old postage stamps and the new Pilgrim ones is that the latter require about 40 per cent more spit.—Eaton (Colo.) Herald.

Puff! Fleet Sinks! Only One Item of Inventor's Plan

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Revolution of three phases of warfare and present methods of ship construction is assured if new devices now being offered to the government work, as well in practice as in theory. The devices are inventions by Jean Dimitri, a Rumanian by birth, but who gave distinguished assistance in the American intelligence service during the war.

The three war devices invented by Dimitri and which will be offered to the American army and navy are:

1. A self-propelled explosive device capable of destroying an enemy battle fleet of any size and at any distance without detection of danger by the enemy.
2. A device by means of which an airplane may locate a submarine in any depth of water or a submarine commander can locate the proximity and altitude of an airplane.
3. A fighting ship plane radically different from any existing type that can be launched from and landed on the present type of aero-carrying ship, having a landing platform.

Under the new design of ship construction which Dimitri says he has discovered a warship or cargo vessel can cross the Atlantic ocean in three days and can be built at a cost much lower than ships now cost and can be operated much more economically.

Because he has not yet secured patents on his inventions, Dimitri, in discussing them with a reported declined to give any technical details of the war devices or ship construction design beyond the effects of their use. Dimitri insisted, however, that if assured of protection in the matter of patent rights he is prepared to prove conclusively to war and navy officials and shipbuilders that his devices will do all he claims for them. His fighting ship plane he proposes to enter in the $35,000 competition now being staged.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 11.—Announcement was made here that the proposed bout between Hugh Walker, Kansas City heavyweight, and Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, in Havana, Cuba, March 11, had been called off because of an injury to one of Walker's eyes.

LAREDO MAY HAVE FIRST MEXICAN GOVERNMENT OWNED BUILDING IN U. S.

By Associated Press
LAREDO, Texas, March 11.—The Mexican government has advertised for a building or a site on which to build an edifice to be used for consular and other Mexican government offices in Laredo.

The business of the Mexican consulate general here has so increased that a large clerical force is constantly employed and one section is employed solely with the consular manifests which are required for all exports to Mexico. The passport division is kept busy every day and there are other duties that fall to the lot of a consul which require more room than is now available.

The proposal to purchase a building for this important border port, which transacts more business than all the rest together, met with the immediate approval of the Mexican government and the Laredo consulate is expected to be the first Mexican government-owned building in the United States.

UNFITNESS OF PUPILS IN U. S. COSTS $120,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The cost of the physical unfitness of children attending the public schools in this country is $120,000,000 annually, according to former Governor Brumsbaugh, of Pennsylvania.

"Physical deficiencies cause youngsters to remain in the same grade of school more than one year for additional instruction," Brumsbaugh states.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 11.—Harvey A. Brown, 62, was under arrest on a warrant issued against him five years ago.

This warrant, sworn to July 1, 1916, by Oscar Stogman, charges embezzlement of $683.63. Brown returned to his home here for the first time in five years. Detectives met him at the door.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Major-General Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, will be re-nominated for that post by President Harding and permanent rank of major-general will be urged for Brigadier-General Barnett, former commandant.

This was learned today after a conference between the President and Secretary Denby of the navy department.

RELIGIOUS MAN IN POLITICIAN'S GUISE IS LEADER IN INDIA

By Associated Press
LONDON, March 11.—Mohandas Karmachand Gandhi, who holds such a sway over a certain section of the Indian people and who has been heading the anti-government boycotts in an attempt to force home rule in India, is 51 years of age with greying hair, unflinching, truthful eyes and slim, eloquent hands, says a correspondent of the Daily Mail.

The writer continues: "His voice is low-pitched and monotonous, yet pleasing, whether in Gujarati or English."

"He is married and has four sons. Gandhi lives in Ahmedabad, the big mill center, where he has founded a settlement for the culture of truth in poverty and for handweaving, and primitive agriculture.

"Gandhi is not, as is commonly supposed, a Brahmin of the priestly caste. He belongs to Bania, or trading caste, family resident in Kathiawar. He descends from politicians. His political mind comes from his father, who was a Dewan, or chief minister of the state of Porbandar, for twenty-five years.

"Gandhi's genius lies in making lost causes live. To his disarming sweetness of a saint he adds all the arts of the advocate. In South Africa, he matched even General Smuts. They sparred for years over Indian claims without quarrelling.

"If Gandhi has a hobby, it is experimenting in diet. Eighteen months ago he had reduced his daily food to four ingredients, wheat, vegetables, a little oil and fruit, and he became very ill. He now takes goat's milk and salt, but not cows' milk or butter. "He never sues a debtor, never gives evidence against an enemy, always travels third-class, the acme of discomfort in India, and always goes barefoot. He can sleep when he likes and he dispenses with sleep for long periods at will.

"India's humble masses, saturated with ancient Hindu philosophy, have long imagined a saviour who should unite earthly practice to divine precept. The key to Gandhi and Gandhism is wrapped in his self-revealing sentence: 'Most religious men I have met are politicians in disguise; I, however, who wear the guise of a politician, am at heart a religious man.'"

WILL SWAT MOSQUITOES IN GREAT OUT-OF-DOORS

By Associated Press
AUSTIN, March 11.—Swatting the mosquito in the great out-of-doors is an effective method of destroying the pest and carrier of disease, said Dr. Manton M. Carriek, state health officer.

"Swatting the mosquito must be interpreted in the broader sense of attacking them in their breeding places," Dr. Carriek said. "The importance of destroying the mosquito is better realized by considering that over $10,000,000 annually is the tax paid by the people of Texas for being sick with malaria."

WOMAN WHEELING BABY BUGGY WORKS "CON" GAME

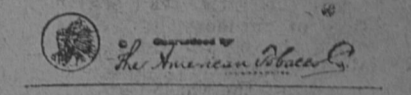

LAPORTE, Ind., March 11.—Meisner's Drug company, the Consumers' grocery and the Serve Self shoe store in this city were victimized recently. A young woman pushed a baby buggy into the stores, made small purchases and paid with checks made out to Mrs. Helen Martin and bearing the name of Mrs. C. F. Herrold, wife of a wealthy farmer living near here. Mrs. Herrold said the checks were forged.

LUCKY STRIKE cigarette. Flavor is sealed in by toasting

OVER the COFFEE CUP

One of our new customers handed me a grocery list his wife had given him.

As I was putting a can of Gold Plume Coffee in his basket, he said:

"That's mighty good coffee—d'ever tell you how we got to using it?"

Chuckling he said, "Well, it all started by me gettin' a good joke on her."

"She was trying to write a letter on a bran new tablet, and she was fussin, about how hard it was for her to write, and how she couldn't use a pen any more, and all such talk."

"I just happened to look over her shoulder and there if she wasn't trying to write on that blotter that's in the front of all them tablets."

"I says to her—Well, try it on some real paper—can't nobody write on a blotter. So she took a sheet of the good paper and wrote, alright."

"Well, we hadn't been satisfied with our coffee since we visited our daughter. She had awful good coffee."

"The Missus said she believed she was losing her knack of making coffee. But I said to her—I believe its in the coffee. You can't make good coffee out of a poor brand, any more than you can write a good letter on a blotter."

"So she says, well less try a new brand—I've heard this Gold Plume Coffee spoken of pretty highly—get a can next time."

"So I did."

"And I can tell you there ain't been no more complainin' about the coffee at our house since I got that first can."

The eternal clash between the mountaineers of Kentucky and the inhabitants of the valley, or Blue Grass, is thrashed out again in the Charles Maigne production of "The Kentuckians," featuring Monte Blue, which is the attraction showing at the Temple for the last time today.

Monte Blue, popular player of "Everywoman," "Something to Think About" and "The Jucklins," is a heroic figure as Boone Stallard, the backbone of his mountain clan, and the only man who could quell feuds between the different families.

PARIS ARBITERS OF STYLE SAY CORSETS 'IMPOSSIBLE'

"Bareback" Models in Gowns Will Be Modified in America, Buyers Say.

By Associated Press PARIS, March 11.—A return to conservatism in woman's dress is indicated in advance displays for spring and summer now being held in Paris.

The Paris dressmakers continue to show extreme effects in afternoon and evening wear, but the majority of the gowns reflect a return to sanity in dress.

The season is only half finished, but a general indication has already been given of the changes. One of the most noticeable innovations is the lengthening of skirts at least one inch. French dressmakers admit that this is a recognition of American taste which has resented the extremely short skirt since it was introduced.

Backs are still bare. This the dressmakers have refused to alter. American buyers are purchasing these "bareback" models with a view to rigidly modifying them in America.

While the new gowns are less radical, buyers say they continue to be complicated and expensive. With the reappearance of dyes of pre-war standard, color dominates all gowns. The material may be simple but gold and silver and blue and pink trimmings are combined to make it attractive.

For the eastern type of beauty the season offers much. There are draperies and turbans of all variety of color and long strings of beads of all colors of the rainbow. Beads are to be worn extensively, according to the arbiters of fashion.

The season's effects have been built for the normally built women and the extremely plump and extremely thin women will have some difficulty in choosing becoming gowns.

The corset has again been ignored. So serious and consistent has become this coolness to what was formerly fashion's basic principle, that corset manufacturers are contemplating an extensive campaign to bring the corset back into its proper place.

Feathers play a most important part in the new hats. Ostrich plumes in particular are being used on large hats. Hats for the most part are small, and are worn crushed down on the head in many shapes.

Fruit is invading the realm of fashion. Bunches of fruit and flowers are worn at the waist and some of the gowns have belts of roses around the waist.

The prophecy of fuller skirts is slowly but surely coming true, according to buyers. Although it is not fully realized, the season's gowns are somewhat wider.

The frail shoulder strap, upon which so much depends persists in the new creations. The dressmakers say they have strengthened it, so as to avoid "embarrassing complications," but men buyers say it still has dangerous aspects.

NO ISSUES TO FIGHT.

Minor differences may exist in Ranger, as elsewhere. But there is substantial unanimity on the steps to be taken to forward the city's progress. That fact is indicated by the platforms of the two tickets now seeking city offices.

Both favor immediate construction of the city hall, bonds for which have already been voted.

Both favor immediate construction of the county and city hospital.

Both favor using every means to forward the erection of the Texas & Pacific station.

Both favor immediate erection of the new high school building, bonds for which were recently voted.

That any two parties come to the same opinion on a building program involving around $600,000 is unbelievable unless those opinions were held almost unanimously by the citizens. If there were any minority worth mentioning that did not have faith in these expenditures, certainly one party or the other would have failed to pledge itself for them.

So, for that matter, the improvement program for Ranger is in good hands, no matter who is decided upon by the voters as most deserving of selection.

As for that selection, the Times feels that that is a matter that can well be left to the judgment of the voters themselves. There is no question of reform vs. corruption, no crusade against graft, or other matters of the sort which can tear larger cities into hostile camps. There is merely the orderly procedure of business to be looked after, and on both tickets are business men and responsible citizens. So there is no object to be gained by trying to influence voters for either ticket, as well meaning citizens, with convictions of their own, have suggested.

If, as stated above, there were occasion for crusade, if the election of either ticket were deemed a menace to the city, the Times would not hesitate to take a stand. But with the candidates thus far presented, the Times feels that the business of Ranger will be in good hands, no matter which ticket is selected.

Of course, between candidates, a between ball players and bookkeepers there is a difference in ability and other qualifications. But that is a question the voters can solve for themselves. The Times' part in such decision, so far as present developments indicate, will consist in rendering an account of the activities of both parties; an account as fair and impartial and as true to facts as can be written.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Bidden to the Feast.

On the day of the blizzard the woman had lunch with the Nice Man. It was at a restaurant where you put in a coin and drag out of the little windows what you think you like. The Nice Man is just as nice in plain restaurants as many people are in fine ones. It is all because he is a very good and kind person.

When he had finished the Nice Man took out two nickels. "I'm in a hurry," he said, putting the two nickels into a slot and turning the knob, "so I can't go over and feed the birds in the park. They expect me. On a day like this, sparrow stores are closed. Now I think you have to carry these corn muffins over and throw them to the birds."

He wrapped the muffins in a paper napkin, smiled, bowed and departed. The woman carried the muffins across the way to the iron fence by Bryant park. An elderly gentleman stood inside the rail throwing crumbs to several sparrows. He smiled and said genially: "Come on in; they'll never get your crumbs there. You can't throw far enough."

The woman carried the muffins carefully along the snowdrift and joined the gentleman, who was still smiling sympathetically. When he saw the muffins he smiled even more broadly. "I guess," he said, "that I will walk along to where there are birds that haven't got anything."

Psychic Powers.

The woman has an unconscious habit of providing utter strangers with a home and family and general history. The other day she was riding in the subway with a friend who indulges in a similar sport. People were easy to classify that afternoon. There was a business girl opposite in a stenographical uniform of blue serge; a medical student next her on his way from Columbia with a battered suitcase, a discontented matron returning from a shopping trip, annoyed that she had to leave so many charming things unthought, and standing up in the middle of the car, a couple clad in garments so exceedingly new that one instinctively looked for the price tag. She wore a gray silk, with suede ties and plumed hat. He was in immaculate brown and guarded a shining patent leather suitcase.

"Don't they fairly shriek about that they're bride and groom?" the woman said to her companion, looking the white discreetly at the demure little business girl.

"Absolutely," agreed her companion, casting a quick glance at the garbished one.

Then the business girl opened wide eyes, while a blush suffused her cheeks. She nudged the medical student and whispered something in his ear. He frowned and gave her a searching examination. From under the lapel of her serge coat he extracted a tiny red circle. Confetti! Then he grunted disgustedly: "We get out here, anyway."

As the car pulled out of the station the lady in gray took one vacant seat next the woman. A fat priest wedged himself in. The room with patent leather case had left the car, too.

"Well," grumbled the woman, "we'd better travel around with a ouija board. Certainly we're off the track."

RIPLING RHYMES

GOVERNMENT.

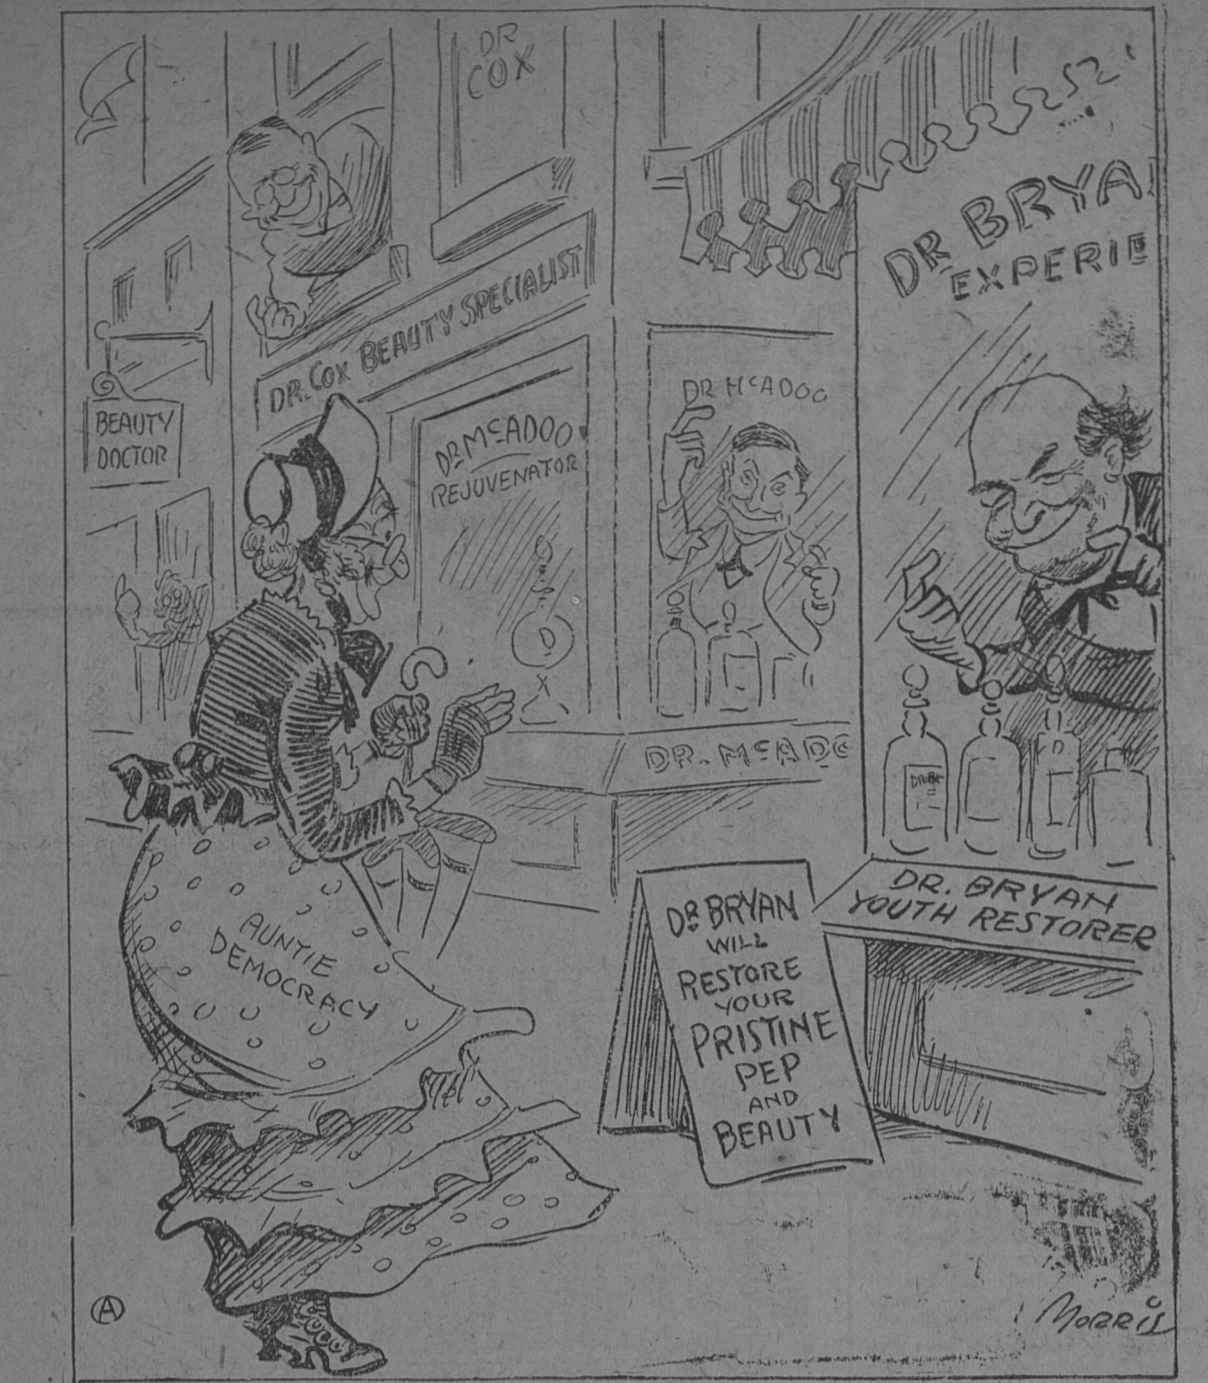

The cost of government's too great, we shudder at the figures snoring, and Jones, the voter, pays the freight and feels that he is being stung. Economy is thought a bore, it's not by governments desired; it takes nine men to do a chore that one could do, and not feel tired. The government can't buy a mule without ten miles of scarlet tape; inspectors round the critter fool, and write reports upon its shames, and vetes report upon its looks, describe the places where it sweats and forty clerks in forty books write down the findings of the vets. The mule would bring but little, if offered at a farmer's sale; but when our Uncle Sam gets done 'costs him half a ton of kate. And everything our mule does it does the most expensive way; employs in his nudities buzz like flies upon a summer day. And statesmen windily rate, and gaffers crowd the public trough, and Jones, he sadly pays the freight, and wonders where he will get off. Oh, you are Jones, and I am Jones, and we have buttons on our backs, and we have tired and aching bones, from toiling 'neath a rusty tax. The country for retrenchment groans, some pressing evils to hate; alas, my friends, we all are Jones, and Jones, you know, he pays the freight.

PLANS TO SELL COTTON DIRECT TO CHINESE ARE BEING CONSIDERED

STAMFORD, March 11.—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is making an investigation of the possibilities of selling at least a portion of the cotton held in this territory to Chinese spinners direct through their banking connections in the West. It is believed that by working directly with the Chinese manufacturers, better terms can be given and secured than by the method that has always been used of selling through England and English buyers. It is estimated that 100,000 bales could be handled in the Orient.

In the huge plant of the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., women have full charge of all the high voltage work and think nothing of handling test tubes up to 100,000 volts.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlisle H. Holcomb

THE KING MEETS MR. LION.

"Hello, Mr. Lion, what seems to be the trouble this day with you? I see you are going about with your tail dragging on the ground."

"Somebody told me my tail is too long and if I wasn't careful you would cut it off, so I'm dragging it on the ground to wear it off so it will be short and then you will not have to cut it off."

"Tinker Bob laughed to hear such a thing, for that idea was far from his thoughts. 'Who told you I was going to cut your tail off?'"

"I don't know his name. He seems to know a good deal about you, and he wants to talk more than anyone I ever saw. He met me in the edge of the forest when I was going after a drink."

"Does he live here all the time, summer and winter or just part of the time? Does he fly or does he walk and run?"

"O King, when I saw him he was hopping on the ground. I never saw him before. I don't know whether he stays here all the time or not. All I know about him is that he talks a great deal and likes to be heard."

"What does he eat, Mr. Lion? I will have to know these things in order to tell you who he is and where he lives."

"O King, I don't think he eats anything. He talks so much that he wouldn't have time to eat, and yet he has a small mouth. But my, what a sound comes out of that mouth when he gets started!"

"He must be a strange creature to talk so much that he has no time to eat. Is he fat or is he slim? Is he tall or is he short?"

"He is neither fat nor slim. He just talks so much that it makes my head ache to think about it. O King, if I talked so much as his mouth would be so sore that I would not be able to eat for a month."

"Is he a saucy fellow? Does he tell you everything he knows?"

"O King, he is the smartest fellow I ever saw. No indeed he did not tell me half he knew, but I was so much afraid of him, and afraid of you, that I could not listen to him any longer."

"Is he as big as you, or is he small like Silky Monkey? Or is he a night prowler or does he come out in the day time?"

"O King, he can be seen only in the day time. He is so small I could swallow him and never know I had anything in my mouth."

"Somebody Told Me My Tail Is too Long."

HARDING FIRST PRESIDENT FROM JOURNALISM'S RANKS

In selecting a man for the highest office in their gift, the people of the United States have gone nineteen times into the field of law; three times they have chosen from the ranks of statesmen; twice they have honored a statesman who won his laurels on the battlefield; the same number of times they found their ideal in a tiller of the soil, and once a public official was elevated to the post of the nation's chief executive. In the choice of Warren G. Harding in the twenty-ninth President, reckoning Grover Cleveland's two terms as separate ones because he was the only President serving twice who was not re-elected, the voters explored new "timber."

Mr. Harding is the first head of the nation to come to the White House with the odor of printer's ink lingering about him. He is the first chief executive recruited from the ranks of journalism. And of this distinction he is quite proud. All Mr. Harding's life has revolved about the type case, the printing dogged perseverance that finally triumphed.

Mr. Harding was born on Nov. 2, 1865, the son of a country doctor, George T. Harding, who has lived to see his son's crowning success. His mother died many years ago. Young Harding attended the country schools of Morrow county and in his teens entered Ohio Central college at Iberio, Ohio. After graduation he tried school teaching for a year, but apparently did not find the field attractive for he turned to newspaper work, which proved his life vocation.

Always a partisan and a Republican, the enthusiastic young reporter ran into his first snag in the journalistic game when he persisted in wearing a "Blaine hat" in the presence of his Democratic editor when the stove-pipe head gear was an emblem of support of James G. Blaine for the presidency. Already a stickler for principle, Young Harding refused to give up the hat and his boss, being equally determined that he should, the matter ended in the discharge of the budding newspaper man.

Then and there Young Harding resolved to be his own boss and he next is found in 1884 as the part owner and editor of the Marion Star, which newspaper he still owns. He took hold of the Star with what was then real progressive notions. For one thing, he insisted on installing a telephone in the Star office, a proposal which his partner held was not only impractical but extravagant and revolutionary. But Mr. Harding won the argument, as he did others later, and as the years went by his judgment in small as well as vital matters set his newspaper business on a substantial and decidedly prosperous foundation.

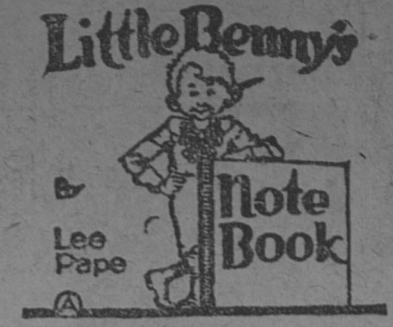

Elected to the Senate in Marion in 1891, Mr. Harding and Miss Florence King, who now becomes the First Lady of the Land, were married. In 1899, the young editor was elected to his first political office, to the Ohio state senate. He served in this body until 1905, when he resigned to take the lieutenant-governorship of Ohio, to which he had been elected. He was lieutenant-governor until 1906 and then had a period of seclusion so far as public office was concerned.

In 1914, however, he "came back" with a vengeance and was elected to the United States senate. In this body he served until after his election as President, having a place on the foreign relations committee a greater part of the time. Also, in 1916, he was chairman of the Republican national committee where he gained a real insight into the workings of national politics.

In personal appearance, the new President is a man to attract a second look in any crowd. He carries his 210 pounds without a hint of obesity, although he is not quite six feet tall. His hair is iron gray—almost silver gray—offering a sharp contrast to an unusually heavy black eyebrows that mask a pair of calm, gray eyes. His smile radiates cordiality and he delights in knowing men well enough to call them by their first name and slap them on the back. He is a good conversationalist and a good listener. In fact, it is Mr. Harding's affability that has given official closest to him their greatest problem, for he never likes to refuse an audience nor end one until the visitor has talked himself out.

The new President is unusually fond of children although he has none of his own. He is a life-long Baptist and a trustee of his home church in Marion. He has been a member of the Elks and the Loyal Order of Moose for years and since his election to the presidency has become a thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner. Golf is his favorite recreation and he likes to fish and hunt. He plays hard and has the faculty of being able to put all his worries off his mind during his vacation hours.

The long trail that led Warren G. Harding from his birthplace in the hamlet of Blooming Grove, Morrow county, Ohio, to the presidency is not unlike that of many others who have gone from humble surroundings to the highest honor within the gift of the American people. It is a story of hard work, struggles against heart-breaking circumstances, and a EMMETTSBURG, Iowa, March 11.—A national bank examiner arrived here today to go over the books of the Emmetsburg National bank, Palo Alto county's oldest financial institution, which was closed yesterday by bank officers.

"Our bank has not failed," said a statement by President Williams. "We're merely closing to avert failure." Mr. Williams said the "general depression" was to blame for the closing and that deposits of $700,000 were paid in full. The bank is capitalized at $500,000.

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 11.—The Farmers' Savings bank of Ulmer, Iowa, has been closed, it was announced at the state banking department today. The bank was chartered and experienced an unexpected withdrawal of deposits, it was said. It was capitalized at $10,000 and had deposits of $90,000, according to its last statement.

INTEREST IN U. OF T. "MOVIE" IS MANIFEST

AUSTIN, March 11.—Much interest is being created in the moving picture being filmed at the University of Texas. The story for the picture was written by Lloyd C. Gregory, a university student and is being produced by an all-university cast, under the direction of E. H. Fitzhugh of New York.

Into the plot of the story there has been an attempt to introduce the atmosphere and phases of college life peculiar to the University of Texas. For instance, the March 2 push-ball contest between the freshmen and sophomore classes was incorporated in the film. In this connection an amusing incident occurred. At the close of the contest when one of the generals of the victorious sophomores was being carried from the field on the shoulders of his classmates, a young woman student rushed up and bestowed such enthusiastic and affectionate greeting that the spectators grew intensely interested, only to find that it was merely a "real romance."

Among the students taking part in the production, those having the leading roles are: Dolores Dore, Houston; Helen Cummings, Hearne; Bess Hines, Houston; Helen Williams, Waco; Eric Bacey, San Antonio; Pat Holmes, Seguin, and Ben Smith, Dallas. Several of these students have taken part in amateur dramas at the university with great success; others were chosen because they represented desired types.

Marguerite L. Smith who was a candidate for re-election to the New York assembly, is a Sunday school teacher, an expert skater and hockey player and has a master of arts degree from Columbia university.

Worthy Grocers Welcome Advertising Wise Patronage

Why It Pays to Ask for Advertised Goods.

A certain grocer who enjoys no little local fame for business acumen was recently interviewed regarding his attitude toward goods advertised by manufacturers.

With a wave of his hand he indicated the well-stocked shelves which surrounded him. "Look at the labels and you have your answer," was his remark.

A glance around revealed the names of one familiar brand after another, names which, through advertising have become synonymous with quality and fair price everywhere.

"I push advertised goods, and welcome the demand for them," the merchant continued, "because they save time in selling."

"With them there is no need of occupying an interval in busy hours assuring the trade that they are all right."

"More than that, it is the fact that advertised goods generally represent the greatest price advantage to my trade."

That last statement is sufficiently important to make analysis interesting as well as worth while.

In the first place, the manufacturer of advertised goods must make the price in proportion to the value, always.

Failure to do this would only invite disaster. Competition would soon swallow the trade that advertising created.

So when the housewife becomes familiar with the virtues of certain articles through advertising, she also is informed as to their real value.

Articles naturally represent the maximum money's worth—because advertising decreases the cost of selling by multiplying sales—"turning stocks."

She is keenly aware of this fact, both from personal experience and because of its constant reiteration in the columns of this newspaper.

Manufacturers who advertise evidence the faith they have in the ability of their products to meet the most severe quality and price competition.

And the same holds true with advertising retailers. Grocers who give publicity to the products they handle have made sure that their quality and value are up to standard. For the name of the merchant behind a product is no less a guarantee than the name of the manufacturer.

Thus are consumers frequently afforded a double assurance in their purchases.

Naturally, there are still some non-advertising merchants and manufacturers who are responsible for eminently worthy products, for which they find a market.

But it is a fact that many times greater success will be theirs when they eventually apply advertising to building business.

Then will they find that there is more money in larger volume of sales—an inevitable advertising result.

And it is equally apparent that larger volume of sales for merchants and manufacturers make for lower prices and mean greater money's worth to consumers.

PHYSICIAN PERFORMS MAJOR OPERATION TWO WEEKS AFTER REMOVING HIS OWN APPENDIX

Propped Up on Table, Dr. Kane Opens Self With Razor and Helps Sew Up Wound.

International News Service.
KANE, Pa., March 11.—Two weeks from the time Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, of this city, amazed the medical profession by removing his own appendix he returned to the operating room and performed a lengthy major operation. His rapid recovery attests his remarkable vitality. Details of the self-performed operation have been learned since the patient has left the sick room and disclosed the fact that his work was seven more wonderful than was at first reported.

"The experiment was worth while, fully worth while," declared Dr. Kane today, but declined to make any further statement, referring the question to his colleague and surgical assistant, Dr. D. E. Vogan. "Whatever his judgment prompts him to give out will be satisfactory to me," said Dr. Kane.

Valuable Knowledge Gained.
Dr. Vogan outlined the points gained through the operation as follows:

First, ease with which local operations can be done.

Second, can be done without any severe pain.

Third, pain more due to traction and rough handling of parts than to incision.

Fourth, local anesthesia must be used in peritoneum after incision had been made through skin and muscles, as this is the most sensitive.

Fifth, any surgeon not too obese with a fair degree of skill could do such an operation on themselves.

The operation is even more amazing when it is stated that in addition to making the incision and removing the appendix Dr. Kane did the larger part of the sewing in closing the wound. His brother, Dr. Tom Kane, commenced the work by closing the wound and had taken but a few stitches when the patient took the needle from his hand and began to sew as unconcerned as though he were splicing a belt.

Describes Operation.
Dr. Vogan outlined the details of the operation, in substance, as follows:

"Like the riddle of Columbus' egg, the operation proved a simple affair after being tried out. The time occupied was about thirty minutes from the commencement of the incision until the completion of the operation, or removal of the appendix. This time could have been considerably shortened if Dr. Kane had appraised me and our staff in advance in order that each assistant might have known what individual role was to be allotted to him in the novel undertaking.

"After the skin had received its final preparation he mapped out with an applicator dipped in iodine a line upon the surface to indicate clearly the place and direction in which he proposed to cut. This was about three and a half inches. He next numbened the skin with an anesthetic mixture which he injected with a hypodermic needle, forcing it in several places down into the abdominal wall. Then Dr. Kane took up a razor, for he prefers this instrument to a scalpel for making long and deep incisions, and cut down until he reached the covering of the bowels—the peritoneum. This he sliced through with a small knife and scissors.

"After reaching the bowels and locating the appendix Dr. Kane directed me to draw it well up out of the wound and hold it there with a pair of forceps. His appendix was inflamed and swollen and contained two large concretions. Naturally, its owner was highly delighted, for he had ocular proof of the necessity for removing the organ.

"Dr. Kane then chose the place preferred by him for tying off the blood vessels which supply circulation to the appendix and passing a needle through between these and the appendix made sure of no danger from hemorrhage by firm ligation. Next he took up the scissors and cut off the appendix and with an especial thread and needle device of his own invented or turned in the stump safely out of danger from contaminating the wound.

MEXICAN GIRL WRITES ESSAY IN GOOD STYLE

LAREDO, Texas, March 11.—That Americanization in Laredo is no vain dream is clearly shown by the essays written by Mexican boys and girls who are attending the public schools here. The topic given out recently in the class room for an essay to be written and handed in at once was "Why I Am An American." The following essay was turned in after a few minutes by Agnes Garcia, an 11-year-old girl in the fifth grade, who four years ago did not know a word of English. It was an example of handwriting that would be creditable to many high school students, and read:

"I am an American because I live in America. I respect its flag and its laws. America protects strangers, treats us like her own children and we love her as our mother. Why am I an American if I was born in Mexico? I am an American because my father is an American citizen; he has lived here most of his life, but I have lived in America only four years. I have enjoyed the free education, the peace and freedom and its very just laws. I have a deep feeling for Mexico, but I have an even deeper feeling for the United States and I feel it growing with the years, as I realize what America has done for us, is still doing and will do for all its citizens and proteges. So we will stand by the red, white and blue, protect her as she has protected us, and do for her all that we can; in that way we will in time repay her all that she has done for us."

"NO BEER, NO WORK," SIGN ADORNS COLLEGE GABLE

CHICAGO, March 11.—"Women's Christian Temperance Union, No Beer, No Work, We want Whisky." This legend was seen by early class-goers at Northwestern university adorning the highest gable of University hall. It was removed by workmen. The authorities believe that the sign was hung by initiates of one of the college fraternities.

BURRUS MOVES AROUND BETTER THAN SISLER, FAN DISCOVERS

Fast Workout Yesterday; Rowland Selects Team to Go to Cisco; Hartley Talks on Masks; Lenoir is Football Player.

Columbus players had the best workout of their stay yesterday afternoon. A six-inning game or thereabouts was played with plenty of bumping of the pellet and running, but no scores kept. That would have been too fatiguing.

Buckeye, Danforth and Farley took turns in the box, each staying on the mound for both sides while working. They were cutting loose with semi-fast ones most of the time, but putting little on the ball, and the batters stepped into their offerings with wicked thumps. Campbell hit perhaps the hardest one when he bumped one against the boards in right-center for three bases. Then he pulled a neat slide back to third when he had threatened to score on a short foul to first and was forced to change his mind.

First Lineup. One team lined up as it will perform against the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of the series. Hartley was behind the bat, Burrus on first, Boll on second, DeFate shortstop, Swetonic third base, and Lenoir, Taggart and Shannon in the outfield. Gaines will go along as catcher and Martin, Danforth, Ambrose and Swigert are the pitchers who will make the trip. Si Barger probably will be in charge of the stay at homes.

are strung to the center at the top. There is padding on each side of them, but they have merely the leather covering. And a third drive at the top of the mask drives these down into the skin. Catchers frequently get blows like this and enough to break the skin, Hartley said.

The two fastest men on the squad seem to be Taggart and Lenoir, both outfielders. That was demonstrated yesterday in what is called the "running walk," consisting of a dash of fifty yards or so and then a walk until the breath returns, then another sprint. That method is much better than running awhile and then standing around, Rowland says. Lenoir, although registering from Birmingham, Ala., is really a Texan. His home was in Marlin until a few years back. He is some football player, too. During the "border war" he played on the Second Texas team, which scored 500-odd points and was never counted against. They met teams with five and six All-American men on them, too. Football experts said that it was the greatest team ever assembled in the United States. More than that, while at the University of Alabama, Lenoir was All-Southern quarter.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Prominent eastern and western football coaches met here last night and decided to form an organization to seek representation on the Central Board of Officials. In a technical discussion of the rules, it was the unanimous opinion that no changes should be made in the forward pass. Kicking after touchdown was favored by a vote of 20 to 7.

SLED SEES JIM ABOUT PLAYERS FOR HIS NITROS

DALLAS, March 11.—Sled Allen, manager of the Ranger Nitros, was here yesterday and sat on the bench at Marine park for a long confab with Jim Galloway. Sled avowedly is seeking a working agreement which will turn several husky athletes over to his club, and eyed the work of the squad with an appraising eye. A number of these youngsters will be available for duty with his club or other West Texas teams.

Galloway has decided to play second in the game Saturday with Cleveland. Joe Tate will go in at third and Payne will play in the outfield. Galloway has sent an S. O. S. to Segrist, out at Abilene, and hopes to have him here in time to cover the short field.

Some bug who once traveled as far as St. Loey asked Rowland yesterday if Burrus didn't look like Sisler out there on first. "He does, at that," "Pants" agreed. "It's his action. He's got more life than Sisler, though." Maybe next year they'll be seeing Sisler looks like Burrus.

Begin Right Now to Conquer Your Rheumatism

If you are going to again rely upon the liniment bottle to try to rub your Rheumatism away, you will be doomed again to nothing but disappointment. A disease that can cause so much pain and suffering is not on the surface of the skin, and cannot be rubbed away.

Many forms of Rheumatism are caused by a tiny disease germ in the blood, and in such cases the only logical treatment is to search out and remove these germs from the blood.

For this purpose there is no more satisfactory remedy than S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that has been in use for more than fifty years, and has given such general satisfaction for Rheumatism.

Begin taking S.S.S. today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice, without charge. Address Chief Medical Director, 160 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Administration officials today withheld comment on the statement made by the French foreign office on negotiations progressing between the French embassy here and the state department in regard to acceptance by the United States of a modified League of Nations. The impression given, however, was that initiative of such a movement rested entirely with the French government.

RANGERS AND PROHIBITION MEN MAKE TWO RAIDS; FIND FOUR QUARTS

In two raids made last night by state rangers under Captain Hickman and prohibition officers, about four quarts of corn liquor were captured and two arrests made. Both the arrested persons were women. The whisky was found at two local rooming houses. The women were placed under arrest but allowed to remain in their rooms.

At one of the places the officers found a dozen or more bottles that were considered as evidence that much whisky had been in the place.

LITTLE ROCK WOMAN SAYS IT KEEPS HER WELL AT SEVENTY-ONE

"For two years now Tanlac has been my favorite medicine, and it keeps me feeling wonderfully well and strong," said Mrs. Mattie Pipkin, of 1307 Summit ave., Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Pipkin has been a resident of Little Rock for thirty-three years, and is beloved by a large circle of friends. "Two years ago I felt the need of something to build me up. I was sixty-nine years old then, and really thought it was my age that was making me feel so bad. But I began taking Tanlac, and it gave me a fine appetite and got me to where I could sleep and get the rest I needed, so that I was soon feeling all right. Since then I have taken Tanlac along when I felt these weak, run-down spells coming on, and it certainly has stood by me faithfully. Several months ago, during the illness of my husband, I became weak and worn out on account of losing sleep and helping nurse him, and during this time I kept taking Tanlac and, honestly, I don't believe I could have held out if it hadn't been for this grand medicine. I just know it's the greatest medicine in the world." Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.
