GRAND JURY URGES PARENTS TO VIGILANCE

Suggests They Could Stop Petty Law Violations; Too Much Chicken Stealing.

The Eastland county grand jury, empaneled by Judge George L. Davenport of the Ninety-first district court, adjourned Tuesday afternoon after having been in session a total of seven days during which time 160 witnesses were examined and 18 bills of indictment returned, 15 of which were felonies.

The report, which was signed by each of the members of the grand jury, stated that the county jail had been visited and examined and found in splendid sanitary condition and the prisoners were well treated and well fed.

"We heartily commend the splendid spirit of co-operation existing between the official departments of Eastland county, and the support which each is giving to the other in the performance of their respective duties. Furthermore, we commend the diligent activities of the county attorney's and sheriff's departments in the work that is being accomplished during the past several months, as is evidenced by the comparative lack of lawlessness and law violations existing in the county at this time."

The report calls attention to the numerous petty law violations by the youth of the county, which, it states, is traceable to the use of "jake," mingled with night rides and parties and says:

"We respectfully recommend to the parents a more vigilant care and protection of their children, and we especially recommend that all citizens of this county take upon themselves the responsibility of citizenship and law enforcement and encourage the youth of our county to lead straight-forward and honorable lives and as the occasion may arise to lend words of advice and encouragement to our youth to the end that they may grow up to be law-abiding and law-enforcing citizens. We most respectfully appeal to the retail merchants of our county with the request that they hereafter refuse to sell 'jake' and other intoxicating products to the citizens of our county where it is known that such purchase is being made and such product is being obtained for use as an intoxicating beverage. And in this connection we regard the indiscriminate sale of 'jake' especially to the youth of the county, as a deplorable crime against society and to the well being of our citizenship, and we especially implore the co-operation of every good citizen in each community in the county, to the end that the conditions may be suppressed."

Mention is made in the report to the fact that there has been a great deal of chicken stealing going on in the county. It is stated that from the evidence available these stolen chickens have been disposed of to the poultry dealers and cafe owners, and in this connection the report says:

"We respectfully recommend that the sheriff's department and the county attorney's department request that all produce and poultry dealers require the sellers of poultry to furnish them with sufficient identification in all cases, and sufficient evidence as to the title of the poultry sold, believing that such co-operation on the part of purchasers of poultry will, in a large measure, control such petty theft throughout the county."

The county attorney and his assistants, the sheriff's department and officers of the grand jury are commended for the services rendered the grand jury.

The convention will close with a pilgrimage to the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, where exercises will be held in memory of the outstanding contribution of the late president toward the furthering of the Jewish homeland movement.

Trotsky Debates Evolution Versus Revolution With Premier Baldwin

By W. H. CHAMBERLIN (United Press Staff Correspondent) MOSCOW.—On the day when his appointment as president of the soviet concessions committee was announced, Leon Trotsky rushed into the lists to debate with Premier Baldwin on the controversial question of Revolution versus Evolution.

Baldwin, in a speech reported in the London Times, had quoted Trotsky as declaring that the Russian character was unchanged by the revolution and that the Russian workers had found it easier to make a revolution than to manage the state which came into existence as a result of the revolution.

"Like Mr. Sidney Webb," the British premier added, "Trotsky has been compelled to realize the unavailability of gradual progress."

Trotsky's standing in the eyes of orthodox communists is naturally improved by such references from a conservative statesman, and the former soviet war lord hastened to answer Baldwin's argument in the columns of "Pravda."

"The capitalist ruling class which Mr. Baldwin represents," writes Trotsky, "owes its power to an act of revolutionary violence, to the beheading of King Charles I. It was the British civil war that broke the old exclusive power of the king and the feudal nobility and paved the way for the rise of the industrial and commercial classes."

Trotsky then attempts to show that there have been other revolutionary episodes in English history, such as the Christian movement, and that England's progress in constitutional development has been promoted by continental revolutionary movements, such as the French and Russian revolutions and the upheavals of 1848.

"When the war was at its height, Baldwin wanted to defeat Germany not by any process of gradual progress but by a revolutionary method, by total annihilation."

The debate closed on a note of personal illustration. Baldwin in his speech had put the question whether any mother believed that all her children were really equal and Trotsky retorts:

LOOTING OF GUADALUPE CHURCH BY VANDALS DENIED

SANTA BARBARA, July 1.—Reports that the famous Guadalupe church here had been looted Monday night and that gold and silver vessels had been taken were branded by Herbert Munn, city manager; Chief of Police Des Glanphamp, and the Rev. Fr. Grubb, pastor of the church, as deliberate fakes.

"Not a thing was stolen," said the priest. "A milkman gathered up some empty milk bottles and drove away. This caused some newspaper man to report that a vandal had stolen valuable 'vessels from the church'."

BIBLE THOUGHT.
 For thou shalt eat the labor of thine hands: happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee.—Psalms 128:2.

THE OPIUM BUSINESS.
 In a recent number of Current History, Fred A. Wallis, commissioner of correction, wrote that 60 per cent of the inmates of penal and correctional institutions in New York city are users or sellers of drugs, and placed the number of "drug addicts of the underworld type" in Greater New York at "close to 200,000." Judge McAdoo estimates that of the thousands of addicts who have appeared before him 98 per cent were below the age of 30.

According to Mr. Buell of the department of government at Harvard there are at most "not more than 30 drug factories in the world." They are located in well-governed countries, mostly in Central Europe, accessible to moral influence and amenable to administrative control. If the manufacture of opiates were limited to medical needs of the world, the smugglers could easily be put out of business, but evidence developed at the Geneva conference that certain influential countries, England among them, derived a very substantial revenue from this vile business, and nothing was offered to take its place. The question seems to rest on the value of the dollar without consideration of the value to humanity and to civilization. The same point of view prevailed in the slavery business as well as the whisky business, but history records benefits undreamed of.

The office of king is a very unsatisfactory and uncertain job in most of the nations that still retain these pre-historic and more or less barbaric gods. The latest to feel a tottering of his throne is King Boris of Bulgaria. He has shipped most of his jewels and wealth, none of which he ever earned, to Switzerland, and keeps an airship in readiness night and day to follow them when the call comes.

According to records gathered by the United States department of labor, the average American woman spends less than $65 per year for clothes. Inasmuch as many of them spend double this amount, more than half can only spend about $25, and some about 20 cents. Anhow the average seems pretty large for the quantity of materials used.

They were all young girls at a popular "club" dance. Several were drinking alcoholic "punch" and from flasks furnished by the boys; some were singing topical "suggestive" songs. A woman of the world looked on and smiled, as she remarked: "Other people's daughters." Would you smile, too, if your daughter were among them?

Over 400,000 depositors saved more than $130,000,000 per year in the postal savings system. If the interest paid was the same as that offered by most of the banks, the savings would be quadrupled because they are positively secured.

The internal revenue bureau announces that in 1923, 75 incomes of $1,000,000 or more were reported, an increase of seven over 1922. In 1916 over 200 were reported. Tax-exempt securities are said to be responsible for the decline.

Co-operation in wearing apparel accounts for part of the limited buying. New York women are exchanging wardrobes with each other in order to get the values before styles change.

GOING TO ELKS' CONVENTION.
 Dr. and Mrs. Harry Logsdon leave today for Portland, Wash., to attend the Elks' convention, Dr. Logsdon being a delegate from Ranger lodge. Their itinerary will include stops in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Chicago, Canada, and Iowa, where Mrs. Logsdon will visit her sister.

AN AL FRESCO DINNER.
 Among the several delightful affairs that the crowd listed below have given this spring and summer, perhaps none was more enjoyable than an al fresco dinner they spread last night, in a delightful suburban spot, under a Southern moon. Each lady brought a basket of lunch and the men provided ice and water, so a varied menu was the result, including sandwiches, stuffed eggs, salads, potato chips, olives, pickles, jellies, cheese, angel food, devil's food and iced tea.

Several very delightful hours were whiled away in dancing and story telling, each member of the party loath to be the first one to suggest that the time for departure had come, however. Mother Nature relieved them of that responsibility when she sent some heavy clouds scurrying across the heavens, that predicted a word of four letters meaning moisture, with the result that cars were soon on their way back to the city. Those enjoying this pleasant outing were Mr. and Mrs. Early Northrup, Louis Flack, John M. Gholson, Jack M. Sullivan, Mmes. W. R. Bowden, Albert Riddle, Mabel Lewis, R. B. Campbell, Miss Veni Casey; Messrs. Jack L. Sullivan, Shag Floore of Breckenridge, A. W. Taber, Guy Cummings, James MacLaughlin.

COUNTRY CLUB CHANGES PLANS.
 The officers and directors and chairman of the entertainment committee of the Country club announce that the plans for the breakfast-dance have been changed. Instead of the dance beginning at 4:30 a. m. as had been planned, it will begin at 12 o'clock, July 3, and continue until sunrise. There will be no breakfast. Those who have received invitations to the breakfast-dance are expected to attend the change in plans was necessitated by the inability of the committee to carry out their plans for the completion of the dining room and kitchen and their equipping by the date announced for the event. Floor space has been considerably enlarged, as a splendid hardwood floor is being laid in the spacious dining room, which will be used for dancing as well as for feasting. The new addition contains a large dining room and kitchen, two dressing rooms and a long screened-in porch and when it is properly furnished it will be a most valuable addition to the Country club.

Other than the change in the hours and the eliminating of the breakfast, all plans for the dance will be right ahead. Tickets may be obtained from the chairman of the entertainment committee, Dr. Carl Wilson, at any time.

HALL-RICE WEDDING.
 The wedding of Miss Ruth Hall, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Hall, and L. M. Rice of Dallas, son of Rev. and Mrs. John A. Rice, was solemnized last night at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The beautiful ring ceremony was used, both the father of the bride and of the groom officiating. A number of out of town guests attended the ceremony.

 Miss Veni Casey spent yesterday in Breckenridge.
 Mrs. H. R. Gholson and little daughter, Martha Marie, are visiting relatives in San Antonio.
 Mrs. Marvin Collie and baby have returned from Dallas.

Survivor of Wrecked Hotel Says Shock Was Very Sudden

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 1.—The story of the fatal collapse of the fashionable Arlington hotel was told today by G. A. Hancock, millionaire real estate broker of Los Angeles, from his bed in Cottage hospital. Hancock's son, Bertram D. Hancock, 24, lost his life in the same crash.

"The thing was unbelievably sudden," the elder man said. "I was awakened one moment by the earthquake and in a split fraction of a second I was falling in the midst of plaster, timbers and steel beams, two stories to the street level. In a daze I groped my way through the debris toward the light. I saw a girl near me, a waitress from the dining room. Together we crawled out to the hotel lawn. My thoughts were on my son instantly. Looking back at the wreckage with great clouds of dust still arising, I knew I had lost my son."

Young Hancock was found in the wrecked frame of his bed. His neck was broken and his skull fractured. Doctors said that death was probably instantaneous. The father is in a serious condition with ribs and collar bone broken.

Annie Dalbaj of Telico, Ellis county, has been released on $1,000 bond, following charges that she killed her husband, Charles Dalbaj, during an altercation at their home Monday.

According to officers, Dalbaj was shot when he was advancing on his wife with a butcher knife, threatening to kill her and their two children.

SUMMER-TIME RADIO OPERATION DIFFERS FROM WINTER HANDLING

(By Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, Chief Broadcasting Engineer, Radio Corporation of America.)

The hand that twirls the receiver knob is the final link in broadcasting. No matter what may be the power of the broadcasting station, no matter what the atmospheric conditions, no matter how good the radio programs, no matter how excellent the receiving set itself, the final factor—and the one that counts for perhaps as much as all the others combined—is the care exercised by the person at the receiving end. Not that there is anything complicated about the usual receiving set, but like the musical instrument, radio will deliver more or less in proportion to how it is played. That is why a little care in operating the receiving goes a long way in radio satisfaction.

Especially does all this become evident with the warm days of summer, when admittedly conditions are not just as favorable for radio as during the cold, crisp days of fall and winter. And just as the automobile requires a little more care during freezing weather as compared with its care-free operation in mild weather, so does the radio receiver require just a wee bit more attention in its operation if the best results are desired.

Shaving Static Fringe.

Warm weather announces its presence in radio circles by the bewitched makeup of signals. There are on some summer days various disturbing noises coming through headset or loud speaker, as compared with the crystal-like clarity of radio reproduction so common in cool and cold weather. Such is static. Fortunately, there are ways and means of shaving static whiskers, so that we go on enjoying radio programs in summer as well as during the rest of the year.

Nearly signals, wherein we have the advantage of a relatively high signal level as compared with the static level, are fairly free from static whiskers. Hence good reception is always assured from nearby broadcasting stations, especially today when many of the broadcasters have gone to higher power so as to insure proper reception of their programs under any and all conditions.

When it comes to distant programs from moderate-power broadcasting stations, the broadcast listener must expect static. On occasion there will be a source of static disturbance, such as a thunderstorm, much nearer to the receiver than the distant broadcasting station, with the loop type of wave interceptor the directional effect serves as an added measure of selectivity. Often a signal may be picked up from a broadcasting station several hundred miles away, while a thunderstorm, less than a hundred miles but in a different direction, will cause comparatively slight static interference. This matter of directional reception accounts for the noticeable advantage of the loop type receiver in summer-time operation.

Quality Rather Than Distance.

Of course it is largely a question for the radio listener to decide: if he desires to continue his radio globe-trotting in summer as well as in winter, he must expect to encounter a great deal of static for the reasons already mentioned. If, on the other hand, he is interested primarily in good radio entertainment, then he should stand by local stations during warm weather. The summer-time recipe for radio, calls for quality rather than distance.

No matter what the type of receiver, the most effective way of reducing static is to select a powerful radio signal, which usually means a local station. Ordinarily, there will be no static interference in the first place; but if the background is scratchy and blurred as the result of intense static, the output volume of the set can be somewhat cut down until the background noises are reduced to the vanishing point. Obviously, the signal volume is also reduced, but if it is sufficiently powerful to begin with, there is ample opportunity for reducing it and still have left sufficient volume at the end.

In this connection it may be well to reduce the audio amplification. Thus the average radio listener operates his radio set at its fullest capacity, summer and winter alike; whereas, with local stations at least, the usual receiver will provide plenty of volume for loud-speaker operation on but one stage of audio frequency amplification. When static interference is exceedingly troublesome, the amplification should be cut down to one stage. In the event that static interference is overwhelmingly troublesome, such as with an approaching thunderstorm, it is still possible to listen to sufficiently powerful signals by means of the head-set, without amplification of any kind. The writer of these lines recently listened to an important program without interruption of any kind, using a headset but no audio frequency amplification, while a nearby thunderstorm was flashing and banging away. Obviously, no one is going to such lengths to listen to a radio program unless some extraordinary feature, such as a thrilling sporting event, is in progress at the time.

WHOEVER NAMED LONDON STREETS DID AN ODD JOB

LONDON (By mail to the United Press.)—Whoever was responsible for the naming of the streets in this city when that hereculean task was decided upon certainly showed a sense of originality. Unfortunately for the seeker of the quaint and uncommon the examples are being lost in a maze of street names used by several boroughs.

"XXth-place, Globe-road, E. 17" is probably the queerest of the addresses to be found. It can only be surmised in this case that the promoter's "brainwaves" had given out, and that he overcame the difficulty by nominating a double X for the locality.

Nevertheless, his earlier efforts are ace-high. In the borough of Hoxton one street is named the "Land of Promise." Then a room around the city discloses the following: Shoulder of Mutton-alley; Frying Pan-alley; Farthing Fields; Pickle Herring Stairs; Crooked Billet-yard. The names selected show that each had its significance.

Modern conditions and demands have killed the art. In the London postal area there are 105 Park-roads, 77 Grove-roads, 56 Victoria-roads, 13 Tommyson-roads, and 12 Shakespeare-roads. In addition Church-roads streets and crescents abound in plenty.

THE MONKEY AND THE MISER

—from an old fable

A Miser once kept a Monkey for a companion. One day when the Miser was away the Monkey threw all the silver and gold out of the window. The Miser raved and tore his hair and uttered all manner of threats against the beast.

But his neighbors said to him, "Be calm, man, it may be foolish to throw away money as this monkey did, but it is worse to let it lie idle, as you have done."

Nowadays, people as a rule do not keep their savings lying about the house (although we do know of cases where thousands of dollars were buried in the cellar floor or stuffed in a mattress).

But is your money IDLE? Is it earning more money for you? Is it working for you?

The way to make your money work and earn MORE money for you is to INVEST your savings. Southwestern Power & Light Co. sends money by mail every 3 months to hundreds of people who have invested their savings in its

Church Beautiful Campaign to Make Churches and Church Grounds More Attractive Spreading Over Country

A "church beautiful" campaign has been initiated for the summer months by the National Plant, Flower and Fruit guild through which it is hoped to transform the sober green lawns of country and suburban churches into vistas of beautiful color.

Any church, however, may start a church garden club of its own by following the methods prescribed by the guild.

The purpose of the church garden club, as pointed out by the National Plant, Flower and Fruit guild is not alone to beautify church property and make the church a more attractive place to attend. A further and more fundamental idea behind the establishment of a church garden is to raise flowers which may be given out by the club members to shut-ins and institutions in the community itself or which may be taken to the nearest city and left at the station flower booths maintained there by branches of the guild for distribution to the city's aged, sick and friendless.

WOMEN HERE ARE DEPENDING ON G. F. P. TO RESTORE VITALITY

Success of St. Joseph's G. F. P. Here Shows Women Are Quick to Take Advantage of Promised Relief From Distressing Ailments so Common Among Them Nowadays.

It is quite easy for the producers of a medicine to show instances of the remarkable performances of their product—remarkable results accomplished in a few isolated cases. There is nothing particularly wonderful about that. The real test of a medicine lies in its average day-in-and-day-out reliability to bring about real, lasting results.

The fame of G. F. P. is being spread principally by word of mouth from woman to woman. As women learn how quickly and easily it relieves them of headaches, backaches, nervousness, pains in the sides, nausea, cramps and that awful feeling of depression and weariness, it is natural for them to become so enthusiastic that nothing can keep them from telling every woman they know about the extraordinary merits of St. Joseph's G. F. P.

There is something romantic about the thought that real worth always gets its deserved approval. A few weeks ago G. F. P. was practically unknown, now it is on the lips and in the hearts of thousands of grateful women and to them all it means the same thing: that they at last have something they can depend on and which really does get rid of their "female troubles," such as irregularity, which is brought on by the vicious attacks of catarrh of generative organs.
