GET THE TRUTH.—Buy the truth, and sell it not; also wisdom, and instruction, and understanding.—Proverbs 23:23.

ECONOMIC VALUE OF BIRDS.
Insect pests cause an annual loss of $200,000,000 to the cereal crops of this country, according to statistics of the agricultural department. They also cost cotton growers about $60,000,000 a year and timber interests $100,000,000, making a total annual loss of farm and forest products of all kinds estimated at $520,000,000.

Insectivorous birds are probably the most efficient agents with which to combat these pests. Each individual insectivorous bird is estimated to destroy a hundred insects in a day. Investigation in Massachusetts has placed the average of these useful birds at five to the acre, making a total to the state of about 26,000,000. For their daily menu they require something like 2,560,000,000, or about 21,000 bushels of insects.

To specify a little more particularly, the stomach of a female martin has been found to contain more than 2,000 mosquitos, a large number of house flies, cucumber beetles and other insects. A scarlet tanager, carefully watched, has been seen to devour gypsy moths at the rate of 35 a minute for 18 consecutive minutes. Seventy canker-worms have been found in the crop of a cedar-bird. Many birds, including the grouse, feed on the army worm, one of the most destructive pests in this country. A chickadee will eat more than 400 insects or as many as 4,000 worm eggs in a day.

Under the wise provision of the migratory bird treaty act, insectivorous birds have increased largely in this country. The sportsmen sponsored this legislation and put it through not only in their own interests but for the sake of the whole country. Farmers and timber owners have in particular been enormously benefited.

FISH AS FISH-FOOD.
The superintendent of the state fish hatchery at Bayfield, Wis., has a theory that the best food on which to raise fry and fingerlings in the hatcheries is composed of ground-up fish. Mr. Robert L. Ripple, who has been engaged in fish culturist work for 27 years, argues that since fish are cannibalistic by nature and spend most of their lives devouring their weaker brothers and sisters, it stands to reason that this food must contain the elements necessary to keep them in their best condition. Experiments along this line tend to prove this theory correct.

Two Aides Will Help New Soft Coal Leader In Progressive Program Outlined For Bituminous Industry

Harry L. Gandy, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, and John B. Pratt, editor of "Coal Review," official organ of the association, are two of the men who will undertake during the coming year to effect thorough organization of the bituminous industry to better serve the public and the 9,000 independent operators they represent. They will work under the active direction of John C. Brydon, nationally known Pennsylvania coal operator, who was unanimously elected president of the National Coal Association during its recent annual convention at Atlantic City. The function of these men will include continuance of the hearty cooperation pledged by the industry to the United States Coal Commission. The full facts of the production methods, difficulties and costs of soft coal are being made available to the commission.

One of Mr. Brydon's plans, details of which are now being worked out by his aides, is the complete organization of the soft coal operators to act with and for the government in any coal crisis of peace or war. A "minute man" system, requiring only an enabling act of Congress to empower the President to declare an emergency and draft coal resources, was advanced by Mr. Brydon before the recent recommendations of the U. S. Coal Commission affecting the anthracite industry were announced. "A committee from this body," Mr. Brydon told the men who elected him their leader, "should consult with the War and Navy Departments concerning their possible emergency needs and also with the Interior and Commerce Departments. We should hold ourselves responsive to requests from any of the departments.

"This plan should include the personnel, so that when an emergency does arise they may go individually and collectively to their pre-arranged posts and begin to function. This personnel may be changed from time to time as circumstances demand, but personnel can always be, and should always be provided. This plan should be so comprehensive that it would not only apply to the central organization at Government headquarters but to the remotest coal-producing districts in the United States. Such a plan, when worked out to the last detail, with the informal approval of the Government and transportation, would need only an act of Congress to legalize it at the time the emergency arises. Once accepted by the Government, it would rival any previous unsolicited effort of an industry to serve the nation unselfishly and be a virtual guarantee of regular soft coal supply at fair prices to the public in crises."

LOWLY COW-HORSE EXALTED TO PLANE WITH HIGH-BROW POLO BROTHER AT STATE FAIR SHOW

DALLAS, Aug. 21.—Honor to whom honor is due—credit where credit belongs.
The lowly Texas cow-horse has writ his record of honorable service to the Lone Star state in letters a foot high—notably in the late Emerson Hough's "North of '36."
That may be one reason he has been exalted by the State fair of Texas, and in the program for the horse show on the nights of Oct. 22 and 23, has been put on a plane of social standing equal to that of his high-brow brother, the polo pony.
The horse show program has a polo mount class, for light, medium and heavyweights, to be judged 50 per cent for handiness and performance and 50 per cent for type.
The cow-horse, if you please, also has a class of his own. It is class M, and mares or geldings are eligible. Performance is to count 75 per cent and conformation 25 per cent.
They will not be "shown to mallet" as with the polo pony, but probably "under saddle—two girths, hair pockets, wooden stirrups, and with riata."
Your polo pony is a beautiful performer, but what is more thrilling or more deeply interesting than the practically human intelligence displayed by a sure enough cow-pony of the old school, hard at the work among a bunch of wild-eyed obstreperous "critters"?

JAPANESE LOSE HUGE SUBMARINE IN STORM

TOKIO, Aug. 21.—The huge submarine Coe, foundered at sea in a gale and the entire crew of 100 men and officers were lost, according to radio advices to the Japanese navy department.
The Coe had been in commission a short time. The submarine was on a trial trip.

ORANGE GATHERING IN PORT ARTHUR GANGSTERS

ORANGE, Aug. 21.—Round-up of scores of Port Arthur gangsters who fled here when rangers were ordered to that city to investigate recent floggings there was begun today on a large scale by the sheriff and his deputies. By nightfall a large number of undesirable characters had been taken into custody, it was said.

TEN PERSONS DROWNED WHEN RIVER BOAT SINKS

ST. PAUL, Aug. 21.—All available police assisted by scores of civilians today were dragging the Mississippi river for the bodies of 10 persons who were on a yacht that sank yesterday in the river south of St. Paul. One body was recovered last night. It was that of Miss Pauline Marginnell.

McKINNEY.—Collin county commissioners are being urged to purchase a fire fighting engine for county wide use. City officials of McKinney have agreed to man the engine and keep it in readiness to be dispatched to any part of the county to fight fire.

HILLSBORO.—Hill county citizens probably will be among the few who will have a reduction in taxes this year. The county commissioners court has fixed the county tax at 28 cents on the $100 valuation, which is a reduction of five cents over last year. The county road tax also was decreased 10 cents.

Moderate Drinking Endorsed by King's Personal Physician

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—Opponents of prohibition in England have read with interest the recent remarks of Lord Dawson in the house of lords endorsing the use of alcohol by adults in moderation. The occasion was the second reading of Lady Astor's temperance bill. Lord Dawson is physician to the king.
The speaker always made the proviso that drinking must be moderate and indulged in at the proper time to be beneficial. He told of a recent public dinner which he had attended, saying in part:
"Would Convert Prohibitionist."
"The center table consisted entirely of prohibitionists, many of them high ecclesiastics. That table was the one dull, grey spot of the dinner, and if anybody wished to be converted from uncompromising condemnation of alcohol, he would have been converted by that scene."
Referring to Lord Astor's speech in introducing the bill, Lord Dawson said it gave him the impression that Lord Astor really desired to make out a case for the elimination of alcohol. "I should be more happy," he continued, "if I had heard from his lips one word of approval of alcohol in any shape or form. One cannot shut one's eyes to the fact that quite a large proportion of the people who look on alcohol as a harmful thing in itself, and especially harmful to youthful persons."
Mind Gets Into One Track.
"Under the conditions of modern civilization," Lord Dawson went on,

"and in these days of concentration, the constant endeavor to put 12 hours into six, and the high measure of specialization, it is obvious that at the end of such a day the mind of man gets into one track. It lightens his mental touch."
The king's physician took the example of the working man, in these days of high pressure, who was engaged in the making of motor cars. He had, perhaps, been using precisely the same set of muscles for seven or eight hours, and consequently had been using precisely the same cells of the brain. "Is it to be wondered at," he said, "that at the end of the day his brain is in one track? I suggest that there comes in the moderate use of alcohol. He is uplifted. Good beer at that particular time of day would help him and not harm him." He added that a number of

The ladies of the Interdenominational Bible class have planned a reception in honor of Mrs. A. N. Stubblebine, which will be given at the home of Mrs. Lytton R. Taylor next Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Invitations will be extended to all members of this Bible class and members of all the ladies' church auxiliaries of Ranger. PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY HAS SPLENDID MEETING.

With Mrs. Holmsley and Mrs. Owens as hostesses the ladies' auxiliary of the Presbyterian church was delightfully entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. J. Holmsley. A contest was arranged, and the winner, Mrs. A. N. Stubblebine, was presented with a set of six silver iced tea spoons and six salad forks as a memento from the ladies of the auxiliary who regret her leaving. The presentation was made in a happy speech by Mrs. J. B. Fitch, and gracefully accepted by the honored guest who expressed her own regret at leaving. There were 20 members of the auxiliary present. The contest between two groups of members is progressing splendidly. Mrs. Lytton R. Taylor and Mrs. C. S. Bronstad are captains of the teams, with Mrs. Taylor's team in the lead at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturten spent their honeymoon in Fort Worth, returning recently. In the center of the room a table with gifts awaited presentation, being kept in darkness until the company had arrived. Many useful as well as beautiful things were presented the happy couple, to whom all good wishes for happiness and success were extended.

Readings by Miss Grace Pate and Mrs. A. M. Worley were greatly enjoyed followed by games and dancing. Miss Marguerite Klump and her father delighted the gathering with an exhibition of old-fashioned dancing. Punch was served throughout the evening. "I hear you calling me" might now be said to be the refrain of the many women, in England at least, who are successfully entering the electrical profession as engineers and contractors. In domestic engineering the special field of electric lighting is attracting many women who are performing their work more from the housewife's point of view than are men.

ANITA STEWART'S BROTHER FIGHT VICTIM

Anita Stewart

George Stewart, 21, brother of Anita Stewart, famous motion picture actress, is seriously injured in the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled, in New York. His skull was fractured in a fight with Ralph Ince, noted motion picture producer, according to reports of Miss Stewart's attorney. It is said young Stewart, Ince and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Ring, stage people, were visiting road houses near New York in Miss Stewart's car when Ince and Stewart quarreled. Ince is said to have put Stewart out of the car and beaten him terrifically. Later Ince took Stewart, unconscious, it is reported, to his apartment in the Lambs' club, from which he was later sent to the hospital. Stewart is his sister's business manager.

Consider the Beach Lily With Her Beautiful Complexion That Parches Not and Does Not Peel

By HEDDA HOYT,
(Fashion Editor of the United Press)
(Written for the United Press.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Consider the lily of the beach. She toils not—neither does she swim.

At every beach we find them—these lilies of the beach! Their complexions are as white as the foam of the sea. They parch not and peel not, but wax fat on the sands under enormous umbrellas. Be the sun's rays too bright, they are goggled in amber lenses. What sun penetrates through their sunshades hits not flesh, but layers of powder. It was rumored last season that Zeigfeld offered a prize to the Peilies girls who went through the season without becoming disfigured by sunburn. It may be that the vogue for sun-protection started in this way.

Quite the most astounding sight that I have witnessed this year on the beaches was a "beach lily" done up in a brown batik frock, which had a high-lace-trimmed neck and long skin-tight sleeves. Her parasol hid her nether portions from view and I presumed that she was dressed for the day, so to speak. When suddenly, without warning, she leisurely lifted her parasol displaying two of the brownest bare legs that I have ever seen. The incongruity of the bather's legs and the Fifth avenue "upper" was amazing.

Real Bathing Suit. Of course, there has been all sorts of lovely bathing suits introduced this season ranging from silk batiks and velvets to simple little ginghams and printed linens. But the real swimmers are still wearing and will continue to wear the jersey suit as it permits complete freedom for swimming. Vacation girls find it preferable to all other types of suits and since the ban on the one-piece has been lifted at most resorts, the woman who goes in for swimming as a sport need have no qualms about wearing what she pleases.

Certainly the one-piece suit, designed for swimming purposes, is less conspicuous and shocking than the long-sleeved, high-necked frock which ends at the hips, boldly displaying naked limbs for no apparent reason.

Double rubber caps with the chin-strap are quite the best sort for the swimmer. One cannot really enjoy the water with ends of batik and bandana handkerchiefs flowing in the foam. Even the girl with the permanent wave hesitates a bit before getting her hair wet as continual applications of cold water tend to eliminate the curl.

Rubber upper-arm bracelets for swimming have tiny pockets in which small change may be kept. They come in very handy, as it isn't always easy to get back to one's locker for change and popcorn and peanuts taste mighty good after a long swim.

The newest bathing shoes are made in sandal effect, with soles of heavy chamois and uppers of white canvas. Straps of colored leather are used as a trim and as a support to the foot and ankle. Often a beach shoe of this kind extends half way to the knee. The all-rubber beach shoe is pretty in its bright colors but unless the beach is free of broken glass and stones, it is inadvisable to wear a rubber-soled shoe.

Safety razors made in America are sold in England for less than those of British manufacture.

Franchise for Street Railway Line Along Walnut Street Recalled; Suggestion for Car in Jubilee Parade.

By P. G. T.

Fellow Rangerites, slip us your listeners. Here is a whole flock of anciently late news in one sentence. Ranger is going to have a street car line.

At the meeting of the city fathers and the traffic company's representative, when the franchise was granted, it was agreed that the track should be laid on Walnut street instead of the Main Drag because of the heavy traffic on Main street. Plans were also laid to have the first car line run into Young addition.

This franchise was granted about three years ago and the traffic company has been rather slow in getting plans under way.

When they do start to work on the line we wish to suggest that the car line be started on Main street, then run on South Rusk and over to the postoffice so as to furnish transportation for those who live in town and are inconvenienced by having to go to the country for their mail.

A Rangerite says: "Speakin' of husky gals we know a stenog who says she picks up her room every mornin' afore comin' to work."

"Give us a suggestion, P. G. T., on how we are going to decorate our car for the Elks parade," asked two sweet girl soon-to-be-graduates on the Main Drag yesterday. "We're going to have a big Elks' head on the front," they continued, "and Heliotrope will hold the reins and the top is going to be down and—"

"Just a moment," we suggest, "our boss's time is valuable and he wants us to take his place for a few minutes. But here is an idea for a car decoration that we have had in our valuable ivory head for a long while. First you decorate your big gas

"After that you take the top down and build a small platform on the back of the car. Then procure an oriental geisha girl's costume.

"But," interrupted Heliotrope, "why an oriental costume?"

"Because," we pursue, "all geisha girls are oriental, just the same as all flappers are American.

"Now," we again continue, "all that is necessary is for Olivoyl to get into the geisha girl's costume and on to the platform on the motor car.

"The boy with the high C sax rings in with the weird, wistful music of the Opera Salome—

"And what do I do?" asked Olivoyl.

"Oh," we replied, "you place one shapely hand at your dainty waist and the tips of your fingers of the other hand on your classic head. Then you being to dance."

Four Years Ago In Ranger

Taken from the files of the Ranger Daily Times, Aug. 21, 1919:

Major John B. Hawley of the General Construction company of Fort Worth, and formerly in charge of sanitation and waterworks for the American Expeditionary forces in France at St. Nazaire, inspected Ranger's water supply at Hagaman lake with Mayor M. H. Hagaman Wednesday and expressed the assured opinion that the water would be suitable for drinking and domestic use as soon as the filtration plant was in use.

Ranger will vote on Sept. 30 on a $750,000 issue of city bonds and on revision of the city charter permitting the carrying out of the paving project.

James Malone, 25 years old, was hurled 25 feet through the air and mortally hurt when his drill pierced an old charge of dynamite on the outfall sewer line between the city and Hagaman lake Wednesday evening. He died at the Ranger hospital one hour and a half later from abdominal injuries. The body will be sent to Webb City, Mo., for burial.

A short time ago a student in one of our colleges was asked by his professor, during the course of a lesson, "What is electricity?" The student looked puzzled for a moment, and then made this illuminating reply, "I did know sir, but I have forgotten." Whereupon the professor returned, dryly, "What a pity!—the only man in the world who ever knew what electricity is, and now he has forgotten it."
