BAC Survey Shows Weeds Big Problem

Last Sunday the Journal published an article, "Strangers Look at Muleshoe" which pointed out some of Muleshoe's assets that were found during an evaluation of the city. The evaluation was conducted by the Businessmen's Activities Committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

This week, this article will focus on some of the areas where improvement is needed.

First, while Muleshoe is a town free of trash, due in part to the trash containerization program, it is not as free of weeds. Many businesses are surrounded with weeds, now dead due to the freeze. These weeds spoil the appearance of property and give the city a ragged, unkempt appearance. In addition, the visitors from Tulia who conducted the evaluation noted the presence of weeds around signs, posts and other public structures.

Second, it was suggested that signs directing people to the business district would be helpful. Numerous people pass through town on the Plainview-Morton Highway with the impression that Muleshoe does not have much of a business district since they never see Main Street. In connection with this, the area where Main Street intersects the Morton Highway could be beautified with either a flower garden or a small park.

Third, these visitors noticed the need for landscaping some of the school property and the new library.

In addition to these physical improvements, it was felt that Muleshoe businesses might profit from a salesmanship seminar. While friendly and helpful, the visitors noticed that sales personnel made very little effort to really sell them anything. Evidently, while Muleshoe stores have no high pressure sales pitches, the businesses are failing to practice good salesmanship. The possibility of conducting a seminar for salesmanship in early 1973 is being discussed by the Businessmen's Activities Committee.

Royce Clay was chairman of this project and he reports that "We are blessed with a town full of people who are sold on Muleshoe. Let's get busy, through civic and social clubs and as individuals, and make our good town even better."

City Campaign Will End Fund Drive

House To House Drive To Be Held Monday Meeting To Be Held On Economic Development

An important meeting will be held in the Community Building in Morton Tuesday, December 5, at 1 p.m. for the purpose of explaining the recently instituted Economic Development Act.

L. W. "Bear" Curfman, Congressman George Mahon's representative, will be there and make the explanation.

Curfman has worked with the Economic Development Act for more than three years. He is an Engineering Graduate from Texas Tech, and was a four year letterman in football. He is a widely known, highly respected, and knowledgeable person. His presentation should be very informative.

The basic purpose of the Economic Development Act is to provide funds for capital expenditures in counties that qualify by reason of adverse economic conditions. Bailey County is eligible for benefits under the Program. Public officials, business men, civic leaders, and others are invited and encouraged to attend.

The Community Building is one block south and one block west of the traffic light in Morton. It is important that Bailey County become well informed about the Program so as to receive its benefits.

Therefore it is expected that members of the Commissioners Court, City Council, Industrial

The Muleshoe Area United Fund will wind up its campaign Monday night with a house to house campaign.

Workers will meet for a supper at 6 p.m. Monday night at the Corral Restaurant. After the meal, the groups will divide into teams with each one assigned to an area. Workers will deliver pledge cards and pamphlets to each house and then return an hour later to pick up the donations.

To cover the five areas in town, Campaign Chairman Ivan Woodard reports that the campaign will need at least 50 helpers to be able to do the job in an hour. Anyone who can help is urged to attend the supper and work on the campaign.

Woodard also reports that one half of the Commercial division pledge cards have been turned in. From these $5,140.00 has been collected. This is nearly one third of the goal.

The rural area is providing a great deal of support this year, but no pledge cards have been turned in from that area.

grams on nutrition and educational activities.

Moore reports that this organization for the areas Senior Citizens is growing everyday.

The $150 budgeted to 4-H Development is used to send county 4-Hers to various leadership camps during the year. Youths representing Bailey County 4-H Clubs are sent to the District Two Leadership Lab at South Plains Junior College, the Southwestern Public Service Electric Camp at Cloudcroft, N.M., the State Leadership Lab at Lake Brownwood and other camps.

The Babe Ruth League is another agency funded by the area United Fund. This organization provides boys in Muleshoe the opportunity to play on a baseball team each spring and summer.

Muleshoe has the Babe Ruth League and the Senior Babe Ruth League.

People have been asked to donate "their fair share" to this fund that supports all of these agencies.

Ross Goodwin Attends NWRA Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Goodwin recently returned to Muleshoe from a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, to attend the 40th Anniversary Convention of the National Water Resources Association (NWRA).

A long-time Director, Goodwin also represents Bailey, Castro and Parmer Counties as a member of NWRA.

An organization of the 18 western states concerned about the future of the area's existing water supply, the NWRA proclaimed as its theme: "Pioneers of Irrigation Yesterday, Protectors of the Environment Today, Providers for the Needs of Tomorrow."

While in Utah, the Director met with Major General John Morris, Director of Civil Works for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers; Joseph Tofani, Policy and Analysis Chief, Civil Works Office, and Warren Fairchild, Assistant Commissioner for Resource Planning, Bureau of Reclamation.

Goodwin expressed the opinion while attending the convention that the meeting was a purposeful attempt to acquaint interested people with the conservation and environmental problems facing the United States today.

Gold Star Winners Receive 4-H Awards

"You have accomplished a milestone today," the speaker said. "You have distinguished yourselves as leaders . . ."

With this acclaim, 40 honorees paraded across the stage at Lubbock's Coronado High School Monday night to receive the highest county 4-H award that can be offered—the Gold Star.

Receiving Gold Stars from Bailey County were Lavern Carpenter and Bobby Henderson.

Each of the 20 boys and 20 girls had accomplished a long and distinguished record of 4-H activity and honors, bringing recognition to themselves as dedicated and responsible leaders and to their parents who stood beside them along the way.

With State Representative-elect James E. "Pete" Laney of Plainview spotlighting their achievements, each boy and girl was handed the Gold Star plaque. Mr. Billy C. Gunter and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district extension agents of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, presented the awards.

Special guests among the 450 people attending stood in recognition as their names were called. The gathering included parents, adult leaders, Texas Agricultural Extension Service professionals, representatives of the 12 member-owned electric cooperatives who sponsored the event. The audience heard several songs by the Baker's Dozen of South Plains College in Levelland.

Principal speaker was Dr. Anson R. Bertrand, dean of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University. Dr. H. O. Kunkel, dean of Agriculture, Texas A&M University, was scheduled to speak but weather conditions prevented his arrival.

Several outstanding youths participated in the program. Carla Wilke, Lynn County 4-H member, gave the invocation and Pam Trimble, 4-H member from Lubbock County, responded to a welcome by Lyle Robinson, manager of Swisher County Electric Cooperative, Tulia, Texas. Mr. Ed Wilkes, farm director of KFYO Radio in Lubbock, was master of ceremonies for the event.

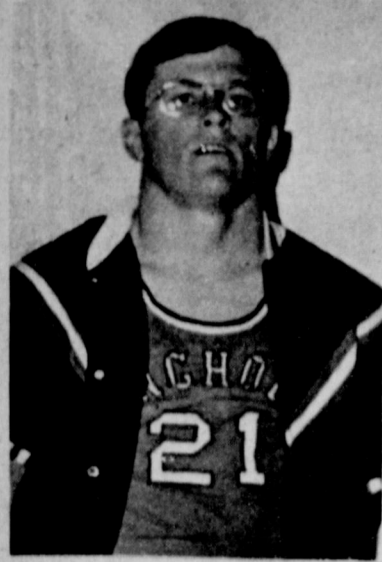

At the conclusion of the two-hour ceremony, the audience stood to honor the 4-H pledge led by Nancy Cook, Garza County 4-H member. For the hono-

Statewide Quail Prospects Look Good

AUSTIN -- "It's a good year to buy a bird dog," Horace Gore of the Parks and Wildlife Department is optimistic about quail season throughout Texas this year.

Quail Season Will Open On December 1

AUSTIN -- Quail season in the Trans-Pecos has been set up to Nov. 18, 1972 to Jan. 31, 1973, in a special public session of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission here Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Bag and possession limits remain the same at 12 and 36, respectively. The season had been previously set Dec. 1 - Feb. 15 as it stands in most counties under the regulatory authority of the Commission.

A Parks and Wildlife Department staff recommendation stated that scaled quail populations in the Trans-Pecos Regulatory District are at an all-time high and that many birds would not be available to hunters by the later opening date. As a result of the proposal, the new date becomes effective immediately under the Uniform Wildlife Regulatory Act which provides emergency authority to prevent waste of wildlife resources.

Counties affected by the new season dates are Brewster, Culberson, El Paso, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Pecos, Presidio, Reeves and Terrell.

counties scattered over the state," said Gore, "quail populations look the best in several years."

Drought hit some areas of the state last year and department biologists feel that it may have robbed quail of food and cover during critical breeding periods.

Timely rains in most of the state, however, have increased quail numbers by over 100 percent.

According to George Litton, department project leader in the Permian Basin, bobwhites are up a whopping 188 percent and blue or scaled quail have increased at least 94 percent.

One problem with all this abundance is that heavy stands of weeds could hide the increase in birds until the first killing frost improves hunting conditions.

Late summer "whistle counts" in Northeast Texas indicate the highest populations since 1969. Hunters can also expect to find most birds fully developed because of little late

New Barley Developed

COLLEGE STATION -- A new mildew and leaf rust-resistant, semi-winter barley--Tambar 401--has been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Small Grains Section.

James H. Gardenhire of the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Dallas said Tambar is a six-rowed, rough-awned barley with leaves that are wider and more upright and twisted than those of Cordova.

The agronomist said the new variety produced the highest average yield of all varieties grown in Central and North Texas tests from 1965 to 1971. It was particularly outstanding in the Rolling and High Plains areas.

Under irrigation near Bushland, Tambar averaged 103.9 bushels, compared to 88.2 bushels for Will, the best yielding commercial variety. It was equal to Cordova in average test weight for all locations but had a lower average test weight than did Rogers.

Tambar appears to equal Cordova in early fall and winter forage but may produce less forage in the spring, Gardenhire said.

A late-maturing variety, 401 heads about the same time as Rogers and Will, and approximately five days later than Cordova. Straw is large and fairly stiff. It lodges more than Cordova but less than Will and Rogers under normal growing conditions. Winter survival tests at Bushland indicate that 401 is less winter hardy than Will but equal to Cordova.

Gardenhire said foundation seed of Tambar 401 can be obtained from the Foundation Seed Section, Texas A&M University, College Station, and from the Dallas Center.

Throughout most of the state, the quail season opens Dec. 1 with bag and possession limits of 12 and 36 respectively.

MR. and MRS. TERRY HOUCHIN

Miss Caldwell, Houchin Pledge Double Ring Vows

Miss Renee Caldwell and Terry Houchin were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed by Leonard Tittle of Tulia at the Muleshoe Church of Christ at 6 p.m. on November 24.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Caldwell of Route 1, Muleshoe, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Houchin of Earth.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with seven branch candelabra flanked by baskets of pink and white gladiolus and carnations.

A choir, composed of Jack Baker, R. A. Bradley, Paul Scott, Mrs. Boone Allison and Becky Milner, sang "Wedding March", "I Pledge My Love", "The Lord Bless and Keep You".

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal length blue gown of polyester knit fashioned with long sleeves. Accordion pleated ruffled trim accented the bodice and sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations with pink and white ribbon streamers.

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue by borrowing a wedding band from her grandmother, wearing her new bridal gown and the traditional blue garter. She wore pennies in her shoe minted in the years of the couple's births.

LaDonna Caldwell was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a sleeveless formal gown of pink polyester knit which featured a cowl neckline and pleated skirt. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Jerry Houchin of Dallas served his brother as best man. Ushers were Mike Wages of Earth and Mark Clifton of Nigeria.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Guests were registered by Mrs. James Clifton of Nigeria. The serving table was covered with a white net cloth over pink and was centered with the bride's bouquet. The three tiered white wedding cake was decorated with pink icing roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Cake, punch, nuts and mints were served from crystal and silver appointments. Presiding at the serving table were Becky Milner and Linda Middlebrooks. Other members of the houseparty were Donna Howard and Patti Murray.

For travel the bride chose a black pleated skirt with a flowered blouse, topped with a yellow weskt. She wore black boots and a corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Muleshoe High School and attended Eastern New Mexico University in Lubbock.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Don Houchin, Garland; Charles Ingram, Mesquite; Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Houchin, Del Rio; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Terrell, Ranger; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Calhoun Jr., Midland.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Earth Church of Christ dining hall.

Hospital Announces Housing Miss Caldwell, Houchins Equipment Donation Ring

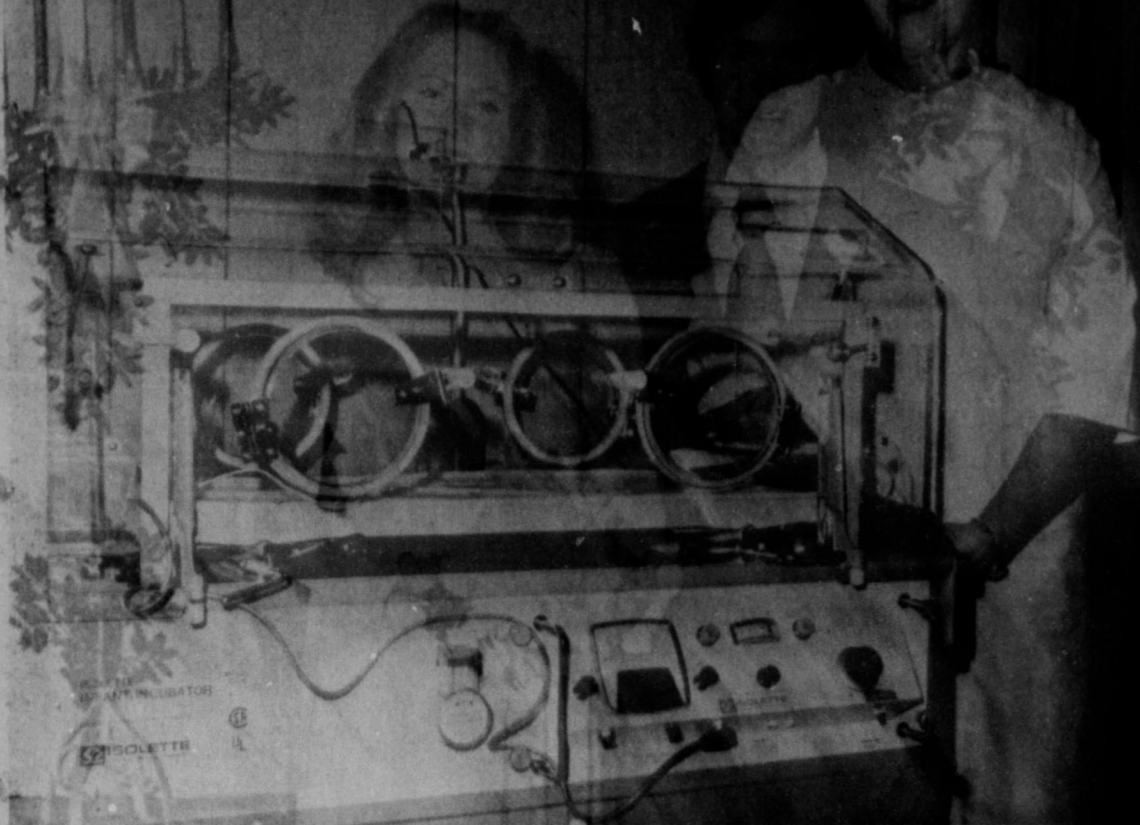

Mrs. Ray Beavers, a nurse at the West Plains Memorial Hospital, is inspecting a new Isolette Infant Incubator, donated to the hospital by the Muleshoe Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary. The incubator features uniform heat distribution over the mattress area, permits effective isolation of the infant from airborne contaminants, and allows controlled oxygen concentration and humidity. The incubator will be paid for through the Auxiliary's Project: Christmas Card. The Auxiliary suggests that local persons donate the money normally spent on Christmas cards and stamps for local mailing to the Auxiliary. The names of all donors will appear in the Journal near Christmas in a full page ad greeting local citizens with a Merry Christmas. This year, the Muleshoe Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary has announced a new initiative: a Christmas Card Project. The Auxiliary, which has been organized by the Muleshoe Hospital Auxiliary, at 6 p.m. The Isolette provides the newborn baby by a totally controlled isolation environment. The unit regulates the temperature of the baby, the humidity within the unit, and specially filtered oxygen concentrations. The hood of the unit is constructed of plexiglass, allowing unrestricted visibility of the infant, and has four access ports permitting medical and nursing care from both sides. This unit represents a significant step in increasing the hospital's capabilities in the care of the 180 newborn infants delivered here each year, and particularly in the care of premature infants.

Careful Consideration Necessary For Selection Of Children's Toys

COLLEGE STATION - If St. Nicholas, or Kris Kringle, was as good as legend supposes, his success surely was based on care and common sense. Today's shoppers could take a hint from him, one authority observed.

Jane Fleischer, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University, stressed the need for careful consideration in shopping for Christmas toys. "Selecting play materials for children requires the same selectivity as any other Christmas item. "Safety is of utmost importance. Toys should be built so that nothing can be pulled off, swallowed or be broken off, leaving sharp edges." The specialist advised choosing well-constructed play materials. "For example, toy hammers and mallets should have securely fastened handles, and the wheels on wooden toys should be fastened well, preferably with screws." For cords and strings, non-conducting material such as cotton should be utilized; however, any string can carry electricity when wet.

Toys having keys should be made so the key won't revolve when the toy is working. Another consideration is the child's use of the toy, Miss Fleischer continued. The child needs to be able to manage it by himself. "A toy for any age should give the child a feeling of adequacy and set the appropriate standard for physical and mental development. Most mechanical toys are too intricate for children under four years of age."

Not should toys be too restrictive. Instead, they should stimulate imagination and make-believe, encourage quiet play or vigorous body activity, and allow for playing alone and in group activity. "Pets and toy gardening equipment fit this category," she added. The toy also needs to fit the child's stage of development, the specialist continued. Although toys are usually marked with an age range, this can vary with the individual child's development.

playing-an important part of the child's development which helps him identify with his parents. Because of this, puppets, dolls, dress-up clothes and housekeeping kits are popular.

"Role playing is especially important for boys-who need to identify with men and their occupations." Often the son is unaware of just what his father's job is, Miss Fleischer pointed out. Therefore, it's sometimes difficult for him to identify with his father except through role-playing toys, such as fireman, policeman, engineer, pharmacist and doctor. A reminder to shoppers-keep in mind where a particular toy gift will be used and stored. If the family lives in a small apartment, chances are there's not enough room to set up a big play house or store a hundred-piece farm set, she concluded.

Natural Christmas Tree Adds Beauty

COLLEGE STATION -- There's no substitute for the beauty of a natural Christmas tree if it's wisely purchased and safely used, says Bill Smith, forestry specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University. Texas imports nearly five million Christmas trees annually, some as far away as Western Canada, points out Smith. As a result, the trees are stored in boxcars that undergo temperature extremes. "Those exposed to warm temperatures for a period of several weeks may already have dried out by the time they're put on our Texas markets", Smith notes.

To keep a Christmas tree fresh and green, he suggests these guidelines: 1. Buy your tree early. This will enable you to be selective in purchasing a reasonably fresh tree. Check for signs of needle shedding and brittleness which indicate excessive drying. 2. Store the tree outdoors in the shade until ready for use. Spray it frequently with water. 3. Once the tree is brought indoors, make a diagonal cut, removing one to two inches of the base. Stand the tree in water and keep it there until it's discarded. Check the water level daily.

Texas Water Import Plan Still Alive And Well

Final Report To Be Reported To Congress Next Year

After seven years of intensive work, the long study of the West Texas Import Water Project is drawing to a close. The final report will be reported to Congress early next year.

Over these seven years, the work has been divided between three basic federal agencies. They are the Mississippi River Commission, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation.

The Mississippi River Commission, created by congress to coordinate planning and engineering for the improvement of the Mississippi River, was directed to study stream flows in the Lower Basin and to determine if surplus water above long range needs of river interests is available for export. There evidently is a surplus during the high flow months.

The Army Corps of Engineers is studying the transport system from the point of take to the Twin Lake Area, north of Dallas.

The Bureau of Reclamation takes up the study after the Corps and continues to the terminus on the High Plains.

Three other water agencies on the state level, Water Development Board, Water Rights Commission and the Water Quality Board, work with the federal agencies in the studies.

The Water Plan was born in the 1960's when the Texas Legislature directed the Water Development Board to begin work to find out what was needed and how to get it.

Several years ago, Texas voters defeated a $3.5 billion bond program that was to have guaranteed financing of the proposed development. While some voters apparently believed that ended it all, the Plan itself remained.

The Water Development Board is continuing to develop most of the essential elements of the plan with year to year financing.

Appropriations to complete a seven year study designed to help answer the questions "Is there surplus water in the Mississippi River and can it be transferred to semi-arid West Texas for crop irrigation?" were included in the Public Works Bill approved in June of 1972 by the House of Representatives.

The project study is technically a reconnaissance level study, but it is so complete it can be upgraded to a "feasibility" study with very little extra work.

Studies for the Texas Water Plan show conclusively that presently available water resources are grossly inadequate to meet Texas' future economically justified water needs. Importation of water from out of state sources will be essential. Without it, regression must inevitably occur in some sectors of the state's economy, particularly agriculture and associated agribusinesses with attendant social problems of unemployment, relocation and loss of financial investment.

In the year 2020, more than 30,500,000 Texans are expected to use over 12 million acre feet of water annually for municipal and industrial purposes as contrasted with the 1960 use of two and a half million acre feet of water by a population of 9,579,677. As Texas population grows, it is also shifting from a predominantly rural to a predominantly urban pattern. In 1960, it was estimated that 75 percent of all Texans lived in urban areas and by 2020, this percentage is expected to increase to about 84 percent.

By 1985, if a supplemental surface supply of water has not reached the High Plains, this vast area will have begun an area-wide retrogression to dryland farming which will have profound economic consequences throughout the state. The 5.1 million acres of land irrigated in the High Plains is supplied by water from the Ogallala Formation, where water levels are declining as the result of prolonged pumping at rates for exceeding the rates of replenishment.

If irrigation ceases on the High Plains, the entire economy of the area would be disrupted and without a doubt, the waves from the disruption would reflect on the whole nation. It's this idea that congress will have to consider.

It is believed that the needs of all except the High Plains can reasonably be met into the foreseeable future with the states own water resources.

Most of the irrigation now being done on the Plains of Texas and New Mexico may be gone in a quarter of a century unless help comes.

In the view of the Water Plan, the only feasible way of finding that help is through imported water taken from the lower Mississippi River.

The water would be moved from the lower Mississippi River system by a series of concrete-lined canals and pumping plants to the High Plains. From the vicinity of Leesville, Louisiana, the route follows the divide between the Sabine River Basin on the west and the Calcasieu and Red River Basins on the east and then crosses the upper Trinity River Basin to two reservoirs on the headwaters of Clear and Denton Creeks, which would be connected to form a single impoundment. The portion of the import route from this impoundment to the Texas-New Mexico state line is called the North Texas Canal. The import system would terminate in 10 reservoirs, which would be fed by the North Texas Canal and four canals branching from it.

To minimize project costs, it would be desirable for water to flow through the import system at a uniform rate throughout the year. Because of wide variations in the availability of surplus water in the lower Mississippi River System from month to month and from year to year, it would be necessary to store large amounts of surplus flows in reservoirs, which preferably would be located as near the diversion point as possible.

The North Texas Canal diverts from the Twin Lakes on Clear and Denton Creeks with a capacity of almost 13,000 cubic feet per second. The system west of Twin Lakes would consist of 663 miles of concrete-lined canals and 60 miles of pipelines, of which 55 miles of pipe would be required for the North Canal crossing of the Canadian River valley. The North Texas Canal and its branch canals would have 54 pumping plants to raise import water from about elevation 1000 to elevations ranging from 3,100 to 4,300 feet at the terminal reservoirs. The first reach of the North Texas Canal would accommodate an annual of 8.5 million acre-feet at 12,800 c.f.s. during 335 days, with 30 days per year being reserved for shutdowns due to emergencies and maintenance operations. The North Texas Canal and its branches leading to terminal reservoirs would be full throughout the year, providing a combined water surface of about 8,000 acres at all times, except as reduced by evaporation during periods when no import water would be available.

The 10 terminal reservoirs would be created through enlargement of existing natural depressions and addition of dikes to raise the water level. Because these depressions have no significant drainage areas, no spillways would be required. The terminal reservoirs would be used to store North Texas Canal flows in excess of required deliveries to distribution facilities for subsequent release at times when required deliveries would exceed the North Texas Canal flow. The terminal reservoirs generally would be drawn down to their minimum levels by the end of August and refilled by the end of the succeeding March to the extent that import water was available for westward transport in the North Texas Canal. The New Mexico share of the import supply would be delivered through Coyote Lake in Bailey County to Salt Lake, with which Coyote Lake would be connected.

The ten terminal reservoirs would contain four and a third million acre-feet of water when full and would have a surface area of over 121,000 acres. The water will be lifted approximately 2,700 feet through the canal from the Cooper River Reservoir in the Sulphur River Basin to the Caprock Reservoir, ultimately requiring about 5 million kilowatts of electric energy for pumping when operating at full capacity. An additional 950,000 kilowatts will be required for pumping beyond Caprock Reservoir to El Paso.

This project is enormous in scope. Any attempt to move 12 million acre feet of water over 700 or 800 miles of latitude and through 4,500 feet of lift is going to be costly. Those costs and the benefits to the nation will unquestionably be carefully scrutinized by the congress when the study reaches Washington in 1973.

Congressman George Mahon reports that "the water import study itself will be completed at a cost of $6.1 million. The companion study, costing $2.4 million was necessary to determine the availability of surplus water."

State Representative and Executive Director of Water, Inc., Bill Clayton of Springlake reports that "no one is going to hand up a project on a silver platter. The import project will be expensive and unless all those who benefit from it, from the Mississippi across Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico, work as a single cohesive group, the project will never see the light of day."

Although preparation of the feasibility studies began in 1969, the first delivery of water would not come to the High Plains until 1985.

Cattle Feeding Still Growing

COLLEGE STATION -- There were more cattle on feed across the nation in October, so downward pressure on fed beef prices should continue for the rest of 1972 due to the larger available supplies.

"Prices will probably change little, though, until the first of the year, and there will not be too noticeable a difference until the spring months," said Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

"The October 1 cattle on feed report shows 11.8 million head in the 23 major feeding states, a 10 percent increase over last year. At the same time the number of cattle on feed in Texas was 30 percent above a year ago," commented Uvacek.

Cattle and calf placements into lots during the July-September quarter dropped to 6.2 million head, a slight drop from the comparable period last year. However, in Texas feedlot placements during the same quarter were 23 percent above last year, noted the specialist.

Fed cattle marketings in the October-December quarter of this year are estimated at 6.6 million head, seven percent more than were marketed in the last quarter of 1971. Expected marketings from Texas lots are estimated to be 30 percent greater in the October-December quarter of this year.

"Texas cattle feeding continues to grow in leaps and bounds," said the specialist.

Farmer In 1980 Must Be Businessman

COLLEGE STATION- The farmer of 1980 will have to be a businessman just as much as an agriculturalist, according to Dr. John Hopkin, Stiles professor of agricultural finance for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

He also will need an operation physically large enough to supply his family an adequate standard of living and still be able to generate enough capital to keep expanding. This means he likely will have to generate minimum farm sales of over $40,000 annually, which will require that he have control over farm assets (land, equipment) totalling over $250,000 to $300,000.

And since profit margins have declined for most farm production, there will be greater stress on business and financial management skills. Hopkin, also with the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University, said.

Generating both equity and debt capital, or risk and borrowed capital, will be one of the main concerns of the future farmer. The large investments plus the need to keep competitive by utilizing new and usually expensive technological advances are causing capital to be very important.

To obtain capital, several things are necessary. The farmer-businessman will have to prepare profit and loss statements to show that he is profitable. Financial statements must be prepared to show that financial progress is being made and cash-flow projections developed to show loan repayability. Only then is the farmer ready to go looking for funds.

Skills in capital budgeting and analyzing alternative investment opportunities are needed to see that the limited capital is invested where payoff is the greatest. He also will have to exercise budget and cost controls of his business. Skills in building sound credit, and then merchandising it, are also needed.

Hopkin feels the greatest payoffs in the future are likely to come from the effort devoted to improving farmers' skills in business and financial management.

Income Tax Laws Show Change

Millions of taxpayers who will benefit from a change in the income tax laws can increase their benefits if they take certain actions before the end of the year, according to the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Effective with federal income tax returns for 1972, the standard deduction used by those who do not itemize their deductions was increased to 15% of adjusted gross income, up to a maximum of $2,000, a sizable jump over the standard deduction in 1971 of 13% of $1,500.

In filing 1972 returns, taxpayers whose itemized deductions would not total $2,000 will want to take advantage of this allowance, but if their circumstances are right they can take extra advantage of this allowance are right they can take advantage of it, says The Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

The accountants point out that it is permissible to take the standard deduction one year, then itemize the next and bunch many deductible expenses -- charitable contributions, for example -- in the year in which one itemizes. Medical, dental and other deductible bills owed toward the end of the year are paid either in December or January, depending on the year in which deductions are to be itemized. State and local tax obligations can be handled in the same way, but prepayment of bills that won't be due until the following year are not deductible.

Persons with some control over the timing of income from such sources as capital gains or losses, company bonuses, payments for personal services, etc., can take similar action to push income from a year in which one's taxes will be high into one in which the tax rate is expected to be lower.

In bunching income there are two considerations to be kept in mind, said a spokesman for the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants. One is the taxpayer's earning prospects and another is the likelihood of upcoming changes in the tax laws.

"It's impossible to predict whether taxes will be raised in 1973. The Administration has pledged that they will not, but in the face of mounting deficits one can't be sure what will happen," he said.

"One thing is fairly certain: taxes are not likely to be lowered next year. So unless the current year has been an unusually prosperous one or next year looks like a poor one the best bet probably would be to take as much income as possible in 1972.

PLACIDITY

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee. Because he trusteth in thee." Isaiah 26:3

"The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." Phillipians 4:7

God has never promised life without trouble nor progress without striving. He has, however, promised that amid the tumult and strife He would give us an inner peace if we let Him live in our hearts. Learn about this unusual peace offered to all freely.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The following business firms urge you to attend the church of your choice this Sunday and every Sunday.

Feedlot Wastes Can Be Used On Land

COLLEGE STATION--How can animal wastes from feedlots be handled so that both agricultural producers and the environment benefit? The major and rather obvious finding points toward crop-land improvement. Dr. John M. Sweeten, agricultural engineer and animal waste management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extenion Service, explains that wastes are an excellent source of the elements required for plant growth. Nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium, along with such micronutrients as iron and zinc are present in feedlot wastes.

"Besides furnishing nutrients, wastes offer other benefits," notes Sweeten. "For example, when applied to alkaline soils, they act as a buffering agent. In addition, such soil physical characteristics as porosity, granulation, water infiltration rate and moisture retention rate are improved by adding manure."

From the farmer's standpoint, manure's value as a fertilizer depends on its composition, price of commercial fertilizers and soil characteristics, points out the Texas A&M University specialist. At 40 per cent moisture feedlot manure has average nitrogen-phosphorous-potassium concentration (in oxide form) of 1.5, 0.9, and 1.4 per cent, respectively, although wide variations from these values are common. With nitrogen and potassium each valued at five cents per pound and phosphorous at 10 cents per pound, the average 40 per cent moisture feedlot manure would be worth about $4.50 per ton. Average dry weight analysis is about 1 2/3 that of manure at 40 per cent moisture.

"Certain areas do not receive manure's full benefit as a fertilizer," explains Sweeten. "Many soils in the High Plains, for example, benefit little from the phosphorous and potassium in manure. Thus the first year's fertilization value may be reduced to a level which would not offset handling rates. However, the remaining residual effects and benefits as a soil conditioner can easily outweigh manure's fertilization value, thus making it attractive for many cropping systems."

"The true value of manure can be measured as the value of increased yields resulting from its use minus application expenses," says the specialist.

For instance, in studies in the Texas Panhandle, per acre net returns from corn silage receiving 10 tons of manure were boosted nearly $100 ($10 per ton) the first year compared with fields receiving only nitrogen fertilizer. By the third year, profits from 10 and 20-ton applications per acre (without additional fertilizer) were still $8 and $4.75 per ton, respectively, when compared with unfertilized fields.

Sweeten also cites other High Plains research in which feedlot manure was applied annually to fields at 10, 30, and 60 tons per acre. After the third year grain sorghum yields still returned a net increase of $6.20, $2 and 90 cents per ton, respectively, the highest returns clearly offsetting handling costs.

Application rates depend on the area's annual rainfall, irrigation practices, soil types and the crop to be grown. Sweeten suggests that farmers apply an annual rate not to exceed 10 to 15 tons per acre, although somewhat larger amounts can be used successfully at intervals of two years or more.

Salt accumulation may be the factor which limits application rates, notes the specialist. Such accumulations can be controlled by regulating the rates and frequencies of manure and irrigation applications.

"Moderate applications of manure low in salts should not create soil salinity problems," he contends. "In fact, soil tests on fields receiving feedlot manure at 10 to 20 tons per acre a year have verified that salt build-up was not occurring."

Moon News

The last Apollo series trip to the moon will come next month, and the nation is being prepared for the spectacular with press releases about the rocks to be found, the areas to be explored, etc. It will surely be good (and expensive) entertainment, as all moon trips have been.

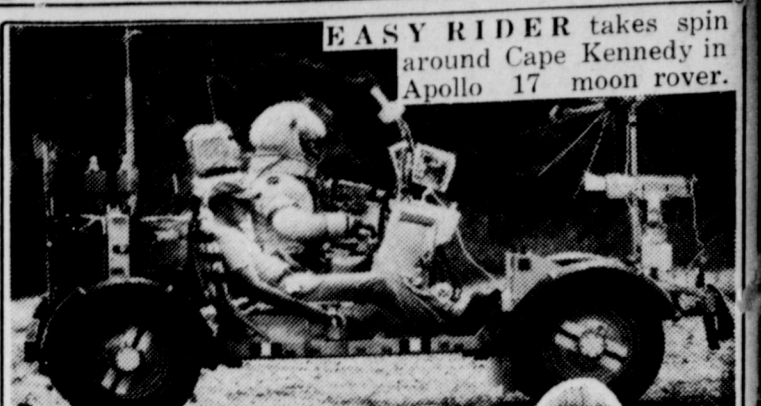

Of more significance, however, is the recent announcement that U.S. and Russian spacemen will begin training next summer for a cooperative space flight two years later. That program has progressed to the point where crews are to be named for the first joint space venture in a matter of months.

The people of the world hope U.S.-Russian cooperation in the exploration of outer space will set the tone of this earth's explorations of other planets and outer space. If Washington and Moscow can, by example and leadership, bring about world cooperation in this effort, perhaps in time it will lead to greater cooperation in other areas for the nations and peoples of this earth.

Time of manure application is also important. The greatest crop harm can occur when manure is applied days rather than months before pre-irrigation and planting. Manure should be plowed under as soon as possible after application to retain nitrogen and eliminate the possibility of surface water pollution, adds Sweeten.

Research is progressing on the long-range effects and benefits of manure on unplanted "what has been an unwanted by-product of the beef industry has proved to be an asset for crop production," believes the specialist.

Stalk Destruction Deadline Nears... Boll Weevil Suppression Program Popular and Successful... 4.5 Million Market News Bulletins... Turkey Promotion Year Round

Cotton producers in 44 north central and east Texas counties are reminded that Nov. 30 is the deadline for cotton stalk destruction. No area extensions are expected to be made. Individual extensions may be granted, but requests for those will have to be made by contacting Texas Department of Agriculture at Austin.

Cotton stalk destruction reduces the number of pink bollworms that enter hibernation next year as well as reducing infestations of other cotton insects.

THE STATE'S boll weevil suppression program for this year has been as popular as it was successful. A total of $300,000 was allocated for the program this year which is matched on a half-and-half basis by producers. About 450,000 acres were included in the program which is aimed at reducing next year's weevil populations.

Records show there was a greater infestation of weevils this year than in any season since the program began in 1965. Farmers in 11 counties participated in the diapause program for the 1972 season.

Funds for the program are limited although it is expected that more requests for assistance will be forthcoming from cotton producers in 1973.

ABOUT 4.5 million market news bulletins will have been mailed to Texas agricultural producers by the end of this year from the Texas Department of Agriculture's market news service.

They will be mailed to about 85,000 Texans. The market news service contacts about 1,200 people each week in collecting its market news reports.

Items ranging from daisies to ornamental crops to molasses to livestock and crop reports are covered in the market news reports.

The livestock market news apparently is the most popular. It is an eight-page publication and includes 16 state livestock markets plus grain markets from five areas. It goes to 77,000 people each week.

The poultry and egg report is also popular. It is mailed to 1,800 egg producers and egg industry people.

One of the most popular reports right now is the pecan market. Other market reports include watermelons, rice, ornamental crops, and vegetable and fruit market reports from Hereford, Dallas, and Weslaco.

You can also get instant market news by calling these numbers:

Austin-pecans, poultry and eggs: 1-512-475-3845.
Amarillo-livestock: 1-806-372-3494.
San Antonio-livestock: 1-512-223-4100.
McAllen (after 5 p.m.)-fruits, vegetables: 1-512-682-3351

PROMOTION of turkeys will continue through the year through the cooperation of the state's turkey producers and the Texas Agricultural Products program. Texas is the fifth leading state in the nation in total turkey production. Turkeys grown in the state totaled more than 8 million head.

The Central Texas area is the state's major turkey producing region. Bell County is the top turkey producing county in the state. Hill, McLennan, Falls, and Robertson counties are also in the top 10. Total production of those counties accounts for almost 40 percent of all turkeys produced in Texas.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Mystery Mishap

At 7:13 p.m., in the main dining room of a large hotel, a mirror suddenly fell from the wall and landed on the head of an unsuspecting diner.

No one could figure out exactly why the mirror had fallen. Nevertheless the diner, painfully injured, filed a lawsuit for damages against the hotel.

"He has no case," the management argued in court. "He cannot point to any specific thing we did wrong."

But the court upheld the man's claim.

"Mirrors do not ordinarily fall off walls," reasoned the court, "unless someone is negligent."

The court was invoking a famous legal doctrine known as res ipsa loquitur—"the thing speaks for itself." This doctrine is widely used when there is no direct, eyewitness evidence of an act of negligence. Weighing the odds, the law decides that an act of negligence—even though unseen—probably did occur.

Thus: Using res ipsa loquitur, a court found negligence when a car, parked on a steep slope, started to roll downhill. Chances were good, said the court, that the driver had neglected to set his brakes and cramp his front wheel against the curb.

Also using res ipsa loquitur, another court found negligence when a housewife encountered a piece of glass in a newly opened can of spinach. Chances were good, said the court, that someone in the canning factory had been careless.

But the mere fact that an accident has happened does not necessarily justify the use of the doctrine. Consider this situation: A woman climbing down from a trolley lost her footing and fell to the pavement. Demanding damages later from the trolley company, she said the car had probably moved just as she was getting off.

But the court said there was an equal probability that she herself had simply failed to watch her step. With no odds in her favor, said the court, she could not use res ipsa loquitur to win her case.

Southern University

Not long ago there was another tragedy at an American college, resulting from a confrontation between militant students and law enforcement personnel. Two students were killed and it appears this could have been avoided, that a mistake was made in the loading of a shotgun or shotguns, which produced fatal, tragic consequences.

Debate now rages across the country, especially in journals which have a crusading tradition, whether the Governor of Louisiana, the college president (at Southern University near Baton Rouge), professors or law enforcement personnel are to blame.

Politicians have dived headlong into the melancholy controversy, clergymen are tempted or pressured to comment, civil rights organizations have dashed to the scene to pronounce their findings, perhaps to gain publicity, and militant leaders seek to seize upon the incident to advance their cause or personal fortunes and fame.

Many of the reformers and critics miss the point, as they have on certain earlier occasions. Physical confrontations, seizure of offices by students, is not the proper or legal way to effect change. When these tactics are employed and a confrontation occurs, mistakes, irrational or unjustified actions on the part of law enforcement personnel are possible. Not all National Guardsmen, police, highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies, etc., are perfect, nor unflappable. Like other humans, they sometimes make mistakes, act excitedly or emotionally or over-react.

When this happens, there's little logic in condemning society, university officials, Governors or law enforcement organizations. What caused the tragedy was the mistaken decision of militant students to illegally seize property, to physically challenge law enforcement. That was the primary cause of the tragedy; everyone hopes no accidents or mistakes will occur in such confrontations but it's too much to hope that under such tense circumstances, and sometimes abuse, all law enforcement officers will perform calmly, unemotionally and perfectly. Being human, they never will.

A FRIENDSHIP TREATY

Paris -- France and Poland has signed a 10-year "friendship and cooperation" agreement. The treaty stressed the need to work for "detente and peaceful coexistence," as "the only principles" that could bring peace to Europe and the world.

RUSSIA'S DROUGHT

Moscow -- The Soviet Union has suffered its worst drought in a century. By using modern farm techniques and buying foreign grain the Russians are confident they will avoid a famine, according to Vladimir V. Matskevich, Russia's minister of agriculture.

As soon as a local citizen does something to win national recognition, he suddenly has a lot of friends he didn't know he had.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

G.O.P. Rumbles - Nixon's Task - Democratic Changes - Mitchell & Westwood

Washington, D.C. -- President Nixon is faced with disension in Republican ranks on Capitol Hill. There is a feeling among some solons the President did too little in the campaign to produce a G.O.P. majority.

In the Senate, where the party lost a net of two seats, some Senators feel the President, by campaigning more in states such as Colorado, as he so often has done in the past, could have meant the difference.

In addition to this feeling, there's disenchantment among G.O.P. solons over the quality of the liaison between the White House and Congress. It hasn't been what it could have been, is partly responsible for several presidential defeats, including the rejection of two nominees to the Supreme Court.

Thus Mr. Nixon must mollify key congressional leaders and improve his congressional liaison team, if he is to gain maximum influence in the 93rd Congress.

There are indications Democrats are likely to succeed.

ON TRIAL ENLISTMENT

The Army is ending its experimental program under which young men tried Army life for three days. In the six-month test, more than 2,600 young men made the trial and 83 per cent of those qualifying for service were signed up.

ceed in remaking their party structure. Chairman Jean Westwood is expected to resign at the December 9th National Committee meeting. But she won't give way to Robert Strauss, or anyone she considers a moderate or conservative -- according to reports.

She'll only step down when someone like George Mitchell of Maine, a friend and former employer of Senator Edmund Muskie, has the votes to succeed her. She feels party reforms adopted recently are of paramount importance and only if she can save them is she willing to go.

If she cannot, there is likely to be a fight in the party and the present split could remain. The question is whether the liberal Mitchell can regain party losses in areas such as the South, that is, whether he can rebuild the party from the traditional groupings which have so often produced victory in the past.

And some wonder if Mitchell, or others on the left, really want to regain the conservatives.

ON 1975 HEADLIGHTS

The National Highway Safety Administration reports that it might require brighter automobile lights, beginning with the 1975 models. The proposed new lights would permit an intermediate light between the present high and low beam.

WASHINGTON NOTES

INFLATION FIGHT

Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson has testified that the administration's wage and price controls had made "significant" gains in fighting inflation. However, at this time the chairman is against controls on food.

CUBA ON HIJACKING

The Cuban government has indicated a willingness to cooperate in efforts to deal with air piracy. Secretary of State William P. Rogers met briefly with Ambassador Felix Snyder of Switzerland, whose nation represents U.S. interests in Havana.

MUSKIE & WESTWOOD

Senator Edmund S. Muskie (D-Me) has joined other party spokesmen in urging the resignation of Democratic National Chairwoman Jean Westwood. He said it was a question of party leadership after an election defeat.

ON F-111'S

Senator William Proxmire has asked the Air Force to provide proof that the third F-111 aircraft lost over North Vietnam resulted from enemy fire and not mechanical failure. The cause for the plane's disappearance was not known at that time.
