BANDIT GANG COMES TO LIFE IN RANGER

CHARGE $5,000 MONTH SPENT ON PEDDLED CIGARS

City Commission Moved By Ranger Jobbers To Take Action Against Peddlers

That there is being spent in Ranger something like $5,000 a month for cigars, cigarettes and tobacco bought from peddlers and that the practice of selling stolen produce has grown to ponderous proportions elsewhere and threatens to spread over this section unless street hawking is stopped, were the sensational charges made by W. C. Hickey, Ranger wholesaler, and Sam Lipshitz, produce dealer, before the Ranger city commission at its meeting Tuesday.

No direct charge of selling stolen produce in Ranger was made. In fact, it was stated that this practice does not yet prevail here so far as is known. But the direct charge that tobacco and cigarette "operators" are doing a land-office business right on the streets from month to month was made with emphasis and vehemence.

These charges were heard by the full commission, the city attorney and city clerk and the commission instructed City Attorney A. A. Diah to look into existing ordinances and ascertain whether there is now existing an ordinance sufficient to cover the case and, if not, to draft one for their action in the near future.

SCOPES' APPEAL READY FOR COURT OF APPEALS

By United Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Counsel for John T. Scopes, Tennessee school teacher convicted of teaching evolution, has about completed the brief to be presented at the court of appeals at Knoxville, Sept. 28.

HOUSTON MAN ILL IN DALLAS, EXPECTED TO RECOVER

DALLAS, Sept. 9.—S. W. Medlanka, 35, painter, of Houston, was found in his room in a critical condition today. Physicians found an empty bottle which has contained phenol in the room. A note was found in which he asked his body be returned to Houston next Sunday for burial and gave the names of six men he wished for pallbearers. Probably he will recover, it was said.

SECOND LINE MEN WILL PLAY IN EASTLAND SATURDAY

The Eastland and Ranger second line men, who have never been lettered, will have a set-to Saturday at 4 p. m. on the Eastland gridiron, for which no admission will be charged, according to Coach Cherry of Ranger. This will give both coaches an opportunity to see these men in action. The lineup will no doubt be changed from time to time during the game to give all a chance.

AGE LIMIT BARS ONE OF CISCO'S HUSKY GRIDSTERS

CISCO, Sept. 9.—Cecil Couch, the husky gridster of the Fighting Lobes, is ineligible to make the team this year as he was 21 years old last May. This is shown by the records of the Comanche high school, where he had attended school. He was born May 25, 1904, according to E. H. Whitehead of Cisco, who examined the records. Couch had thought that he had one more year to play.

MID-KANSAS SPUDS IN WELL IN CHENEY FIELD

The Mid-Kansas Oil company recently spudded in a well on the Williams tract in the Cheney territory. The Weaver Oil corporation has set the 12 1/2-inch casing on their Dulin No. 5, about four miles northwest of Eastland.

FIRE IN FORT WORTH DESTROYS FIVE WAREHOUSES

FORT WORTH, Sept. 9.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed five warehouses here last night, causing loss estimated at $60,000. Four of the warehouses were filled with hay and one was empty. About 250 carloads of hay were burned and three boxcars on nearby switches were also destroyed.

Ranger Musician's Church Solos Are Featured in El Paso

Monday's El Paso daily papers devoted much space to L. M. Underwood of Ranger, and made features of the cornet solos played by Mr. Underwood in the Trinity Methodist church of that city, Sunday evening, and the First Baptist church, Sunday morning last. Mr. Underwood's selection was "The Lost Chord," and, according to El Paso papers, it was one of the best renditions ever listened to in any church in the city down by the Rio Grande. Mr. Underwood is leader of the Ranger band. He was among the excursionists visiting El Paso, where he is quite well known. The services at the Methodist church were revival services at which nearly a hundred were added to the church, it is stated.

FLOOD WATERS OF RIO GRANDE NEARING COAST

Crest Of Rise Already Higher Than Usual and Yet Climbing

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 9.—The Rio Grande at this point began to rise early Tuesday morning and today had passed the eight-foot stage and was still rising at the rate of about a foot every two hours. Rains in this section of the state continued Monday night and Tuesday. Reports from Webb, Zapata, Jim Hogg, Duval, Jim Wells, Starr and other near-by counties indicated a downpour of three to five inches. In Laredo it was 2.76 inches.

Large ranches, farms and oil fields in this section were soaked thoroughly, giving indications for a good season for producers and stockmen. Grass soon is expected to be abundant on the ranges.

DEL RIO, Sept. 9.—With the Rio Grande four feet over the international bridge, a rise of several more feet is expected here before the water reaches its highest point.

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 9.—The Rio Grande has passed flood stage here and is still rising.

TYPHOON AND TIDAL WAVE TAKE TOLL IN KOREA

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Times' Tokyo correspondent reports a typhoon roaring its way through Fusan in Korea, tearing down about 250 houses and damaging several thousand others. Ten bodies are reported to have been recovered from the wreckage among many persons are reported missing.

The storm was so violent that it lifted three trains from the railroad tracks, killing three men and injuring many others. In the wake of the typhoon a tidal wave swept over some two hundred houses and wrecked several motor boats. Japan, too, was affected by the typhoon and the tidal wave, the message said.

OKLAHOMA SLAYER CHARGED WITH FIRST DEGREE MURDER

POTEAU, Okla., Sept. 9.—Charges of first degree murder were filed today against L. E. Carmichael for the slaying of L. E. Thrasher, his brother-in-law, and the probable fatal shooting of Miss Mayme Fries, a telephone operator, according to the county attorney. The condition of Miss Fries remained serious today. She was shot when she tried to intercede in an argument between Thrasher and Carmichael, who were said to have been quarreling over financial matters.

MRS. YANCEY STORY IS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

DENTON, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Yancey Story, wife of one of the alleged leaders of the North Texas bandit ring, was painfully injured near her early today when her auto went into a ditch. Her mother and sister were also slightly injured. Mrs. Story was married Sunday afternoon in the Dallas county jail to the alleged bank robber. They had been engaged some time, it was said.

MRS. MAHALA EWING DIES IN HER 89TH YEAR

CISCO, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Mahala Ewing, 88, died at the home of Dr. W. P. Lee here Monday afternoon. Funeral services were held yesterday from the Lee residence, followed by interment in the Cisco cemetery. Mrs. Ewing was the mother of eight children, only two of whom survive her. They are Mrs. W. P. Lee of Cisco and Mrs. J. F. Hambricht of Roby.

LYNCHING OF UNIDENTIFIED BOOTLEGGER THREATENED IN IOWA COMMUNITY FOR MURDER OF EFFECTIVE LEADER IN W. C. T. U. MOVEMENT

VINTON, Iowa, Sept. 9.—The citizens of this little county seat are so aroused over the assassination of Mrs. C. B. Cook, 41, president of the Benton county chapter of the W. C. T. U., presumably by some bootlegger whose activities she had curtailed, that police today decided to veil their investigation of the murder in the closest secrecy. Talk of lynching Mrs. Cook's assassin, should he be found, was in evidence on every street corner.

The coroner's inquest into the murder was resumed today, but the identity of Mrs. Cook's slayer is hidden. This far it has been brought out she had numerous enemies in the illicit liquor business and that any of a half dozen men in Benton county would have been glad to have her out of the way.

A few months ago, after a church meeting in which she denounced liquor and men who use it, the front of her home was smeared with rotten eggs. No arrest was ever made. Examination of the window through which Mrs. Cook was shot revealed the gun had been held close to the window, the screen being powder-marked.

Father Will Stand By His Son Who Goes Very Far Astray

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Dix W. Noel, attorney and father of Harrison Noel, double murderer and kidnaper, will retain counsel to conduct his son's defense and will stand by him to the end. Upon his arrival from Chicago, Noel called reporters and broke the silence he has kept since last Saturday, when his son was taken into custody at Montclair, N. J., and confessed the kidnaping and slaying of 6-year-old Mary Daly, the killing of Raymond Pierce, negro chauffeur, and wounding of John Sandin, who pursued him.

AUTO THIEVES MAKE RAIDS ON RANGER CARS

Two Fords and One Chevrolet Taken From Parking Places Tuesday Night

With the streets jammed with traffic and with people swarming the streets, auto thieves made a bold raid on parked cars in the busiest portion of the city, between Main and Pine streets on Rusk, some time between 8 and 10 o'clock Tuesday evening, breaking four locks including a wheel lock on one Ford touring car and got away with two of the cars. One car, a Chevrolet, 1924 model, belonging to D. R. Horn, was later found by the police parked on Rusk street where either the thief had left it when the chase became too hot or some one left it after taking a joy ride in it. But up to noon today, no trace had been found of either of the Fords.

One Ford, a touring car, is a 1925 model, belonging to C. C. Yocum of Frankell. Its engine number is 11410513. It is, or was, when stolen, equipped with balloon tires and motor-torn. The other missing car is a Ford coupe belonging to W. J. Crandall of Olden. It is also a 1925 model, engine number 11479564, license number 871-657, equipped with balloon tires.

According to Capt. Joe Manacchia, Ranger fireman, the streets were being patrolled with usual regularity when the thefts occurred. Obviously the thieves picked a moment when the patrol was around the corner to break the locks and make away with the cars. The police have notified the police of surrounding towns and hope any moment to have the thieves intercepted.

Prohibition Needed In Irish Free State

DUBLIN, Sept. 9.—Progress toward prohibition in the Irish Free state is so slow as to be almost negligible. In fact in some communities the progress is distinctly in the opposite direction, according to startling figures just revealed by a commission which has been studying the Free state liquor problem. In one town—Glenmaddy, county Galway—with a population of 189 men, women and children, the commission found that 13 of the 35 buildings composing the village, were saloons.

In the Free state as a whole the commission found 13,000 saloons, or one saloon to every 270 of the population. As a remedy for the situation, which was considered serious, the commission recommended: 1. Reduction of the number of saloons by almost one-half. 2. Alteration of the hours during which saloons may remain open including a provision for closing them during the afternoon hours. 3. Compensation to the owners of saloons closed by order of the commission, by means of a levy on the saloons allowed to remain open.

But the commission recommended that on St. Patrick's day the saloons closed under the present law be allowed to remain open under the same arrangements now in force on Sundays. The report of the commission will be presented to the dail when it re-assembles in November. Considerable opposition to it is expected, but the general belief is that it will be passed with some slight modifications.

SHENANDOAH COURT OF INQUIRY TO BE NAMED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A court of inquiry to hear evidence on the Shenandoah disaster and to establish officially the cause of the catastrophe will convene at Lakehurst as early as possible, according to Secretary of Navy Wilbur. The court will include naval officers to be named by Wilbur and one or more aeronautical officers.

SEAFLANE BP-1 ENGAGES IN 30-HOUR FLIGHT TEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Delayed twice because of motor troubles in preparing to fly to the Hawaiian islands, the PB-1, seaplane of the navy, was to take the air here today in a 30-hour flight test to demonstrate its fitness for the Hawaiian hop. The commander believes today's test will influence Secretary Wilbur to rescind his ban against the flight to Hawaii.

CONFESSED SAFE BLOWERS SENT TO REFORMATORY

WARSAY, Ind., Sept. 9.—Making a full confession in their part in blowing on the safe of the railroad company at Claypool last week, Jeff Milliken, Washab, and E. J. Walker, Oklahoma, today were sentenced from one to 14 years imprisonment in the state reformatory.

End of The Holiday

RANGER RANKS HIGH IN WEEK'S OIL PRODUCTION

Only Two Towns and Few Counties Exceed Output Of Local District

That the oil production at Ranger is the highest of any city except two in the North Texas, Central-West Texas, Regan-Mitchell and Panhandle fields and ranks along with the output of some of the largest oil producing counties in the state, surpassing seventeen of the counties reporting, is revealed in the report published in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and other daily papers, giving the field reports for the week ending Monday, September 7. This report showed a slight increase over the preceding week. Only four whole counties show production equal to or exceeding Ranger's output.

The production in the several portions of the Central-West field as reported for the two weeks, are as follows, the figures before the hyphen showing for the week ending August 31, and after the hyphen, for the week ending September 7: Ranger 6,240-6,280, Eastland-Comanche 3,580-3,585, Brown County 3,110-3,135, Jack county 35-35, Palo Pinto County 625-600, Stephens County 14,140-13,885, Shackelford County 3,265-3,370, Coleman County 235-235.

Ranger's 40 barrel increase, it will be noted was sufficient to offset the falling off in most parts of the field and bring the net increase up to 25 barrels for the week.

INDIAN GIRL INDULGES IN EXCITING JOY RIDE

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 9.—An unidentified Indian maiden was arrested here today after she had driven her high-powered automobile head-on into a half dozen motorcars. Police charged her with intoxication. First she drove into a truck, then into two autos, then again into a truck which carried varnish. The cans burst open and the varnish covered her from head to foot so she had to be given a bath in gasoline. She is believed the daughter of a wealth Osage of Hominy, Okla.

Spanish Land Force Which Will March On Krim's Capital

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The Spanish march on Abd El Krim's capital, Ajdir, has begun. The French foreign office was informed today that Spanish forces which landed after dogged Riffian resistance at Alhucemas bay, have started their march upon Krim's stronghold. Reports of the bombardment, followed by landing at Cabadilla beach, show that this cost 40 Spanish lives and that the Riffian losses were greater. For two days the guns of the Spanish fleet kept up a withering fire. Meanwhile, from the air, four French escadrilles were delivering to Krim a message of death as they bombed several important towns. Krim, however, is not beaten yet. Reports from Morocco indicate that he is making forces on the western front and preparing to meet the shock of the joint Franco-Spanish drive.

Ohio Farmer Saves Seven Members of Shenandoah's Crew

SHEARON, Ohio, Sept. 9.—The laurels of heroism settled today upon Ernest Nichols, 37, a farmer, who is accredited with saving the lives of seven members of the crew of the wrecked Shenandoah, but not until today was it learned that Nichols, aided by a rope dropped by the crew, anchored the fore section of the huge craft, after it had heaved and floated ten miles beyond where the first section came down. On that day he heard a peculiar noise outside his unpretentious farm house and looking out he saw the fore section of the Shenandoah with seven men hanging from it hovering above his house. "Grab the rope and tie it to something," the men called to Nichols. He tethered the awkward section to a tree stump in his front yard and the men slid to safety. The broken section of the ship, tugging at its mooring, tore the roof from his smokehouse and garage. Citizens of Shearon are asking for official recognition of his act.

MITCHELL SAYS HE'S READY FOR INVESTIGATION

Believes It More Necessary, However, For Army And Navy Bureau Cleaning

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 9.—"If an investigation is desired, I am eager to have it, but it must be entirely public and all the evidence must be published," said Col. William Mitchell today in reference to the action by the war department to investigate his severe criticism. He said he knew nothing of an investigation of himself except what he had read in the public press. He said it made no difference to him whether he was in the army or out of it and if the bureaucrats wish to throw him out they have the machinery to do it. "If the war department does not like the statements I have made, let them take any disciplinary action they see fit, according to their judgment, court-martial or not," he continued. "The investigation that is needed is of the army and navy department and their disgraceful conduct of aviation." Mitchell's statement seems to carry the challenge, "if there is going to be a war let it begin here." "I can tell you now, when we get through we are going to modernize and simplify many other departments of the government."

Burglars Get Small Haul Off Hamon-Kell Railroad

Burglars hammered the combination lock off the safe of the Hamon-Kell railroad depot at Desdemona last night, forced the safe and carried off $10 in money and some small express money order aggregating something like $35, so the Ranger police were notified. Nothing else of value was in the safe at the time. No trace of the burglars has been reported.

New Rig on Cooper and Johnson Spud In Mark Activities

A new rig is being built on the Cooper, about half-way between the Hand and Cooper wells, according to M. B. Hawkins, and the Cooper well, brought in Friday for a reported 60 barrel production, is being drilled deeper, for heavier production. Johnson on the J. B. Long is due to spud in tomorrow. Hopes of increasing the production in the Hand, which is reported good for from 300 to 325 barrels at the present time, to a 500-barrel well, are said to be entertained as the drill goes deeper.

TWO DEFECTIVE DELINQUENTS SUSPECTED OF DOUBLE CRIME

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 9.—As the prosecution went ahead today in its case against Harrison Noel, authorities were considering an accomplice of the 20-year-old youth in the perpetration of the crime. The revolver used was sent by mail to Wallace Payne, Little Falls, N. J., the police learned, but at first regarded this as an assumed name. They have been told since that Wallace escaped a year ago from an institution for defective delinquents in New York.

Additional credence was given the theory when it was learned that Payne, who had been locked up for impairing morals of children, had been recently in Montclair. The Essex county grand jury meets here today and the assistant prosecutor was prepared to submit evidence against Noel.

VALENTINO SHOWS STUFF OF WHICH HEROES ARE MADE

LINKERSHIM, Calif., Sept. 9.—Rudy Valentino, film star, was painfully injured today when a runaway horse tramped on him, on a location near here. The actor was kicked in the face and suffered a wrenched ankle and other bruises, when he tried to rescue Velma Banker, who occupied the runaway vehicle, from injury. She escaped injury. His injuries are not considered serious, the company's physician who was on the ground and rendered first aid, reported, and his face will not be permanently disfigured, although it was marred and blackened by the horse's hoofs.

WELL KNOWN LAWYER OF DENVER IS DEAD

DENVER, Sept. 9.—Royal L. Graham, former United States district judge and candidate for juvenile judge against Judge Ben D. Lindsey last year, was found dead in his home today. The former judge figured prominently in a recount of ballots for the juvenile judgeship several months ago, Judge Lindsey finally winning. He was the alleged Klan candidate.

INTEREST FIXING BOARD NAMED BY GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Sept. 9.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today appointed the board to fix the rate of interest to be charged depositories and reserve depositories of state funds. D. C. Gladdings of Brenham is chairman, other members being W. D. Head, San Antonio, Ed Thornton, Dallas, E. C. Brand, Hamlin, and Eli Marks, Houston.

BAIRD BOOSTERS TAKE SWING ABOUT CIRCLE

BAIRD, Texas, Sept. 9.—The Baird Boosters, 100 strong, led by the Baird band, Monday took an automobile swing over the county to another advertise the Callahan County fair, which is to be held in Baird Sept. 10, 11 and 12. The boosters visited Clyde, Eula, Denton, Oplin, Cross Plains, Cottonwood, Admiral and Putnam, returning to Baird Monday night.

ALLEGED EAR CHEWER CONVICTED, FILES APPEAL

AUSTIN, Sept. 9.—Granville Will was fined $200 in a Collin County Court on a charge of "willfully and maliciously cutting, biting and chewing off the left ear of M. M. Dunn." Appeal has been filed.

BIBLE THOUGHT.
 The Supreme Ruler: Exalt ye the Lord our God, and worship at his footstool; for he is holy.—Psalm 99:5.

Prayer: Help us, Lord, to worship Thee in the beauty of holiness, and then we shall become Thy workmanship and so exalt Thee.

MOTOR TRANSPORTATION.
 There are approximately 470,000 miles of paved roads in the United States. Nearly 4,000,000 motor vehicles widen the market area of the farmer, and 33 railroads use motor trucks as part of their shipping service. Over 150,000 physicians enlarge their business and incomes by reason of the motor car, and 200,000 salesmen reduce selling and living costs with motorized transportation.

Sixty thousand motor buses are used to transport passengers and nearly 500,000 children are transported to and from school in motor buses. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce asserts that 60 per cent of all passenger car mileage is for business purposes.

The United States Chamber of Commerce asserts that the increased value of city, suburban and farm property because of improved roads and motor transportation, amounts to a total figure larger than the first cost of all the autos in the nation besides the cost of the roads. They have paid for themselves.

The growth of a nation depends on its transportation systems and this is one reason why America has made such remarkable advance.

GREEKS DEMAND LOAN.
 About the time the world war started, England was anxious to secure the parts of Greece and the aid of its navy on the side of the allies. King Constantine was opposed to being drawn into the struggle. An internal revolution was promoted and the king banished. To help the cause along President Wilson agreed to loan Greece $50,000,000. About $35,000,000 of this had been advanced when the war ended and King Constantine was restored. This was followed by two or three more revolutions and a continuously unsettled and unstable government, with the results that further payments on the loan were cancelled, and the amount advanced was generally regarded as lost. Now Greece demands that the balance of $35,000,000 be paid by the United States on the ground that a stable government has been established, and on the claim that Greece contracted debts because of this promise. The question has been before congress, and will no doubt again be presented at the next session.

THE BUSINESS OF KILLING.
 Seven young American aviators have just joined the new French Lafayette escadrille and departed for Africa where they are to have practically a free hand in bombing the Rif. Many newspapers are wishing these lads good luck and a safe return from their "great adventure," but it is an outstanding evidence that killing has, to a great extent, become a profession. The Rifis may have a just cause for demanding their freedom and independence, but the business of killing by dropping bombs and poison gas on defenseless communities and peoples, is several degrees worse than the business of the holdup man. It seems to be a simple matter of education.

Sixty million people attend motion picture theatres in the United States every week and 13 per cent, or 7,800,000 of them are children. Americans are aware of the dangers of indiscriminate attendance of minors at all types of films, and many are actively engaged in counteracting these dangers. The burden of responsibility is placed, not upon the legislature, not on the exhibitor, but on the parent.

 Radio fans will enjoy hearing Fred Cahoon's orchestra tomorrow night at the Elks' clubrooms, as many who have listened in at this clever orchestra during the many months that they have been broadcasting from the Star-Telegram radio station will be glad to hear them play and to see the personnel of the orchestra. There will be plenty of comfortable seats for those who do not dance. There will be fans galore to cool the atmosphere and promptly at 9 o'clock tomorrow night Fred Cahoon and his able assistants will "tune in" at the Elks' for one of the peppiest dances of the season.

NEW ERA YEAR-BOOKS ANNOUNCE LINE OF STUDY.
 The New Era club year-books announce "English and American Short Story" as their course of study for the coming year. These year-books are in purple and gold, the club colors, and are very attractive. Officers for the coming year are:
 President, Mrs. L. C. G. Buchanan; first vice president, Mrs. D. L. Jameson; second vice president, Mrs. Grady Wilson; recording secretary, Mrs. M. F. Peters; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. H. Allison; treasurer, Mrs. P. J. O'Donnell; parliamentarian, Mrs. L. L. Neal; critic-reporter, Mrs. N. A. Jenett. The first meeting of the club will be on Oct. 14, with Mrs. A. H. Allison leader, at which time the subject will be "The History and Meaning of the Short Story." The New Era club was organized in 1922 and while not the oldest club in Ranger, still it has made tremendous strides in its growth and is forging right ahead in its work and its scope.

PERSONALS.
 Mr. and Mrs. John Milford and children were in Ranger this morning.

Leo Underwood, leader of Ranger Texas Ranger band was one of those who enjoyed the Labor day excursion to El Paso. He returned yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George True have returned from El Paso, where they spent Sunday and Monday.

Ivo Navokovich, who went to El Paso on the Labor day excursion, is spending a few days in Big Spring, before returning to Ranger.

Miss Oreta Davenport spent Sunday in Cisco with Miss Mary Massa, who is now living in Putnam.

Miss Eunice Inness and her brother-in-law, John Six, have gone to El Paso to be with Mrs. Six, who will spend the winter there in hopes of regaining her health. Miss Inness will be away several months.

Rev. L. A. Webb and Mrs. Webb were in Ranger yesterday attending the revival services.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Palmer motored to Dallas yesterday.

RANGER GIRLS ATTEND BULL FIGHT.
 Misses Mabel Knight, Rose and Ann McEver were guests of Miss Frances Stotts at a bull fight in Juarez, Monday. Miss Stotts has been visiting her uncle and aunt in El Paso for the past month and as soon as the Ranger girls arrived in El Paso, they looked her up. Her uncle at once got busy and secured passes for the bull fight for her and her guests. All the young ladies have returned to Ranger, coming in yesterday afternoon. While in El Paso, Miss Stotts was very delightfully surprised when her grandmother, Mrs. Etta Lewis, of Sheridan, Wyo., came down to El Paso for a visit with her.

A LAWN PARTY.
 Miss Theo Stidham, of the Tee Pee camp, entertained a number of her friends on the spacious lawn of her family home, Tuesday evening, from 8 to 10:30. Electric lights conveniently strung furnished brilliant lights and made a pretty setting for this al fresco affair. Jolly games and unique entertainment were provided by Mrs. A. L. Leake and Mrs. Stidham and Mrs. Pearson. A luncheon plate of sandwiches, pecan salad, cookies and punch was served the following boys and girls:

EIGHT YEARS OLD.
 Daisy Maude, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bobo, celebrated her eighth birthday by entertaining a few of her friends, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Bobo, Tuesday afternoon. The lovely lawn of the Bobo home was an ideal place to play and it was here that game after game was enjoyed by the hostess and her guests. The interior of the home was very attractive with its bouquets of home-grown roses. In a charmingly arranged contest, the prize went to Albert Henke. Little Miss Bobo proved herself a wonderful hostess and was beautifully remembered by her guests, who brought her many gifts. Of course there was a birthday cake, with eight tapers, and cake and lemonade were served to the following children who enjoyed this very pleasant afternoon: Ruby and Jean Hise, Mary Brooks, Louise Sharp, Camilla and Bob Hunt Jr., James P., Allie and Bertha Rust, Hil-dreth Bobo, Albert and Harold Henke. Mrs. Bobo was assisted in entertaining by Mmes. J. D. Williams, Henry Davenport, Albert Hise, L. A. Madewell, Charles Bobo.

ALTHAUSEN-EATON WEDDING.
 Carl Althausen of the Eureka Tool company and Miss Peggy Eaton of Abilene, surprised their friends very much by getting married last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Abilene. They were married at the home of a justice of the peace and after the ceremony returned to Ranger, where they will make their home. Mr. Althausen is one of Ranger's "splendid" young business men and while his bride is not yet known to many Ranger people, his friends are showering him with congratulations on the happy culmination of his romance.

DEMOLAYS TO HAVE FEED FOLLOWING WORK IN DEGREES.
 Tonight's meet of the Ranger chapter DeMolay will be a festive occasion according to the refreshment committee who have prepared a feast to follow the work of conferring degrees. It is expected to confer degrees on two candidates, it was stated.

The feed will be in the banquet rooms at Masonic hall immediately following the degree work. Several visitors from outside towns are expected, it was announced.

SCOT WORE THREE SUITS TO AVOID BAGGAGE FEE.
 By United Press.
 LONDON, Sept. 9.—By wearing three suits of clothing a Scotchman evaded the extra shilling a pound that the European air routes charge for all baggage in excess of 30 pounds. When an imperial airway air liner landed at Basel the pilot noticed that one of the passengers was perspiring abnormally.

"What's the matter—feel sick?" inquired the pilot solicitously.

"No," replied the Scotchman, "but I'm dar-r-rnd hot," and he forthwith commenced peeling off several suits of clothes. "You see," he said by way of explanation, "I wanted to save on that shilling a pound for extra baggage. The trip was hot, but the saving was worth it."

 Special Correspondence.
 M'LEAN, Texas, Sept. 9.—Rock-Phillips' No. 1 in the Whitten field of Gray county, after four days of continuous flow, is still making 200 barrels of a very fine quality oil, according to Mr. Rook, the owner of the well, and who was handling the drill when the pay sand was reached. It was reached at a depth of 2,190 feet and penetrated three feet of sand, which produced a 200-barrel well. This is of considerable interest to oil operators, as it extends the Whittington field west about two miles and a little north, on the south side of the North Fork of Red river, Wheeler county.

LUBBOCK.—Contracts awarded at $179,314.28 for building water and sewer line extensions and 1,000,000-gallon water reservoir.

"Liars and Hypocrites" is Subject Of Spirited Sermon by Evangelist
 While all "Liars and Hypocrites" were not present last night at the Methodist Revival, according to Evangelist Flowers, he delivered his message just the same. He preached a soul searching sermon, bringing home some powerful truths. He said that the "House of God Needs a house cleaning" that while any church isn't full of liars or hypocrites, those who are in the church bring a reproach on it. He was optimistic over the future of booze, as he seemed to think there would be less and less consumed as the years go by. He said "A bootlegger is as low down as a polecat and the man who buys it from him just as low down." He said that those buying and making of booze were the very spirit of Bolshevism and anarchy and defied the Constitution of the United States. He touched on the bridge playing Methodists and the poker playing church members that are today in the churches, he said. He pleaded for more people to go back to the homely virtues, for more people who are not afraid of public opinion to stand up for the right. He said "There are four American situations, the home, the school, the church and the Sabbath." He urged his hearers to fight for the right and not to be slackers.

The church was crowded. An immense choir ably assisted by the "Boosters" started a sing-song about 7:45 and gave some splendid selections during the evening.

Mrs. Flowers will deliver the sermon this evening at 8 p. m. Morning services daily at 10 o'clock.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, a struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children. She pities her friend, Lola Hough, who has three babies and does her own housework.

Gloria refuses pointblank to do housework, and hires a housemaid. Later Dick lets the maid go, because he can't afford to keep one. Gloria has swapped him with debts for her clothes and a new automobile.

She becomes infatuated with Stanley Wayburn, an actor. He and Gloria and May Seymour and Jim Carewe, make a jolly foursome.

Dick has pneumonia and almost dies. When he recovers, Dr. John Seymour, husband of the flighty May, sends him away for a long rest. Gloria refuses to go along, because Dick's mother, who she hates, is going.

Wayburn leaves town to take a job on the New York stage. After two lonely weeks, Gloria follows him. But he spurns her, telling her he has just married his leading woman. Then Gloria tries to get a place as a chorus girl, but fails.

When she comes home Dick takes her into the house, but not as his wife. One night while he is working late with his secretary, Susan Briggs, the house is robbed. Next morning Gloria goes to Mother Gregory to complain that Dick left her alone half the night while he was out with Miss Briggs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"I don't believe for a single second that Dick was out half the night with Sue Briggs or any other woman!" Mother Gregory said with spirit. "I'd have to see that with my own eyes to believe it!"

"Well, then, where was he until 2 or 3 o'clock last night? No place where he had any business to be," Gloria cried. "He certainly wasn't working until then! Don't try to tell me that!"

Mother Gregory's fine black eyes flashed.

"Why don't you ask him where he was?" she asked quietly.

Gloria laughed unpleasantly.

"That's just it! He didn't give me a chance to ask him anything!" she answered. "He sneaked away this morning before I woke up."

"My poor child," Mother Gregory's voice was soft with sudden pity. "Can't you trust your husband out of your sight? Don't you know by this time what sort of man Dick is?" Gloria shook her head.

"I certainly don't!" she said. "I thought I did once. But Dick's changed so, lately. He's getting to be a regular crossword puzzle. I can't make him out. What do you suppose he did the night I came home from New York?"

"Tell me."

"He put me out of our room!" Gloria said. "He moved all my things into the spare room. He doesn't want me for his wife any more, I suppose. And that was his gentle way of breaking the news to me."

Mother Gregory knitted her brows. This was more serious than she had supposed—this breach between Gloria and Dick.

"My dear," she said. "How did you happen to go to New York in the first place? There's a story around town that you went there with that actor of yours. What was his name? Westfield? Wakefield?"

"Wayburn," Gloria helped her out. "But I didn't go to New York with him. He went two weeks before I did."

"But did you go because he was there?" Mother Gregory asked.

Gloria was all ready to say "No." But she had a feeling that Mother Gregory's eyes could see right down into her very soul!

"Yes," she whispered. Her lips quivered.

Mother Gregory sat down heavily on the edge of her great four-poster bed. The springs creaked under her weight.

"A—ah!" she said, "and then you expect Dick to take you back with open arms? When you've shown him you love another man?"

"I don't love Stan Wayburn," Gloria answered sullenly.

"You don't love Dick, that's sure!" Dick's mother said.

"And he doesn't love me!" Gloria came back at her. "If he did he wouldn't leave me alone in the house at night to be frightened to death! He doesn't care a darn for me any more!"

"I hope he doesn't, Gloria," Mother Gregory said solemnly. "I'd hate his marriage to wind up the way poor John Seymour's did, last night."

"Dr. John!" Gloria cried. "Why, what's happened to Dr. John?"

A curious, cold fear seemed to take hold of her heart—to squeeze it. She could hardly breathe. Mother Gregory's voice seemed to come from a long way off, when she spoke again.

"Didn't you see the morning paper?" she asked.

With a great effort, Gloria shook her head. Her thoughts flew to May. What terrible trouble was she in! What had happened to Dr. John?

"He shot himself," Mother Gregory said. There was a long silence. Then Mrs. Gregory arose and called down the stairs to Maggie.

"Maggie, bring up the paper, please," she asked. In a minute she came back into the room, shaking out the rustling sheet.

"Dr. John Seymour—" she began to read. But Gloria stopped her.

"No, no," she said. "Don't read it! I must go to May! She hasn't anybody but me."

She ran down the stairs and out into the street. A trolley car was coming. She ran to catch it.

Oh, it wouldn't be true! There must be some mistake! Things like that didn't happen in this warm, sunny world with its blue sky and its June roses everywhere!

And that it should happen to May of all people! Careless, careless May, who was like a yellow butterfly that did nothing but dance in the sun.

But May was a butterfly crushed on the wheel when Gloria saw her that June morning.

She lay with her face turned to the wall in her darkened bedroom. She made no sound at all when Sarah, the old landlady, opened the door to let Gloria in.

"My dear," the girl said, leaning over her, "I'm so sorry."

May didn't answer. She lay motionless in her frivolous pink silk nightgown. Gloria sat down beside the bed and began to stroke her arm.

"Don't cry, dear," she murmured. There were tears in her own eyes.

But May was not crying. The face that she turned to Gloria, at last, was hard and white as flint.

"I killed him," she said dully.

"You know that, don't you? Just as surely as if I'd held the gun!"

"Hush, dear," Gloria begged.

"You don't know what you're saying."

May made a noise in her throat that was half-way between a sob and a laugh—a terrible sound.

"I killed him?" she said again, clearly. "Jim Carewe—"

Her voice broke on the name. She suddenly burst into a storm of frightful sobs, and threw herself back on the bed, waving her arms like a crazed woman. She tore at her hair.

Gloria rushed out into the hall for help. A nurse in uniform was running upstairs. It was Mrs. O'Hara—Dr. John's "boss" nurse.

"You'd better go," she said to Gloria over her shoulder, as she went into May's room.

Shaking all over, Gloria hurried downstairs.

Lola Hough came out of Dr. John's little office back of the dining room. She had on a bungalow apron, and she looked as if she had been crying.

"Hello, Gloria," she said quietly. "What's happened up there?" She jerked her head toward the second floor.

"May's crying, that's all," Gloria answered. "Lola, how did this thing happen? Do you know?"

Lola looked at her steadily for a minute with her moist blue eyes.

"Yes, I do," she said. "I was here when it happened last night—alone with May."

Gloria sat down weakly on the hall seat. "How terrible for you!" she gasped.

But Lola shook her head. "No," she said. "I was glad May wasn't here alone with him. And it was just by chance that I happened to be here. It was almost midnight, and the baby had the colic. I knew the drug store would be closed at that hour, so I ran over here to get some peppermint from Dr. John."

Lola paused for a moment. She wet her dry lips with her tongue and went on. "As I came up the street, I saw Jim Carewe's car leaving the house. And May still had on her hat when she let me in. Of course, she'd been out riding with Jim! But anyway, I'd hardly set foot inside the house when we heard a shot in Dr. John's office. I looked in."

And was he dead when you looked?" asked Gloria, shocked to her finger ends.

"Stone dead," Lola answered. "I called the police, and then I thought we ought to have Dr. John's lawyer. So I phoned Dick."

"How did you know he was at his office?" Gloria asked sharply.

"I didn't, but your house didn't answer. Central said, 'No one there.' So I took a chance on the office, and got him. He came right over."

So this was where Dick had been! All of the time when Gloria had pictured him with Susan Briggs, either in his office or walking home with her under the stars!

"Our phone didn't ring last night at all," Gloria said, presently, "and it wasn't out of order, because I was talking to May at half past 9, or so—just before she went out with Jim. I suppose. Oh, I'll bet the burglar cut the wires!"

Lola's blue eyes showed their whites with surprise.

"Now don't tell me you had burglars last night?" she cried.

"We certainly did!" Gloria replied. "They stole all our flat silver. I heard 'em! I was sitting up for Dick to come home—worried to death, because I didn't know where he was!"

Lola smiled bitterly. "I guess you don't have to do much worrying about where Dick is at night!" she said. "He's a man in a million. I wish Bill behaved himself half as well as Dick Gregory does!"

She laughed with sudden nervousness. "Bill's having a terrible time today," she said. "He stayed home with toothache. So I left him in charge of the kids for a while. The baby's tummy ache is gone, and he was asleep when I left. But the twins'll keep Bill busy. He'll get a taste of my job and its joys!"

But there was no laughter in Gloria that morning.

"Lola," she said, shuddering, "why do you suppose Dr. John did the terrible thing?"

"Lola was not the kind of woman who balked at the truth. She said what other people only thought. She said it now."

"Why, because of Jim Carewe, of course," she rapped out. "He leaves May crazy about him. He'd forbid her to see Jim. But you know May. She does as she pleases. And I suppose Dr. John sat here alone for hours last night, brooding, until he just didn't know what he was doing. That's the way I've figured it out, my way."

"Yes, but to kill himself! He must have been out of his mind!" Gloria shook her head. "Honestly, Lola, I never thought Dr. John cared if May ran around with Jim. I used to wonder why he didn't."

"Oh, he cared, all right enough!" Lola answered. "But you never can tell what those quiet men are thinking about. They bottle everything up inside themselves—until they do something like this!"

Out in the cheerful, sunny street again, Gloria thought over what Lola had said about Dr. John.

Dick was the quiet kind of man, too! The kind of man who bottled up everything within himself! Gloria wondered if he had brooded about her, as Dr. John must have brooded over May for long months. The thought almost took her breath away.

She would go to Dick now, and beg him to let bygones be bygones! She would make him love her again, as he had loved her in the early days of their life together—the days when he trembled if he touched her. He had been under her spell once. He would be under it again.

But the sight of Miss Briggs sitting at her desk in Dick's office shook Gloria's confidence in herself a little. Miss Briggs was actually pretty today! Her cheeks were flushed, and her eyes were filled with sparkle.

"Well," Gloria said, "you don't look as if you'd worked half the night!"

"I didn't," Miss Briggs answered demurely. "Mr. Gregory sent me home at 10 in a cab. He's very considerate."

Hum! Like ice he was considerate, thought Gloria. He could send his secretary home in a cab, but his wife could walk for all he cared! But, perhaps, he thought that she had driven downtown in her little car. He probably did think that.

Gloria opened the door of Dick's private office and looked in. It was empty.

"Where is Mr. Gregory?" she asked, turning to Miss Briggs.

(To be continued.)

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

That if you are in business and only an occasional advertiser, you should "stop and think" and do it now. Everybody should stop and think once in a while.

That now is the time to start telling the public about your business, not once in a while but all the while. Nobody else is going to do it for you.

That if you don't advertise persistently and tell who you are, where you are and what you have for sale, few people will know you are in business. If you just advertise once in a while, few people will remember you are in business. The public is forgetful.

That today we are living in an age of advertising. Only those concerns who are persistent advertisers keep in the minds of the public and keep abreast of the times.

Now is the time to start continuing advertising. You should not wait for competition to force you to do so; you might be forced too late.

Success is achieved by those business concerns who combine quality, service and persistent advertising.

Mr. Occasional advertiser, don't imagine I am talking to some other fellow. I am talking to you. Think it over.

NIGHTMARES OF PAIN AND MISERY END WITH USE OF G. F. P.

Expectant Mothers Secure Remarkable Results by Using Wonderful St. Joseph's G. F. P.

It is positively distressing to see the fear and misgivings with which so many women look forward now days to the consummation of that greatest ambition of woman's life—motherhood. To most mothers of yesterday this event was expected with confidence and joy. But with changing time people also change. Witness how the conditions of modern civilization have weakened and thinned out the ranks of the once sturdy and great Indian race.

When one sees women approaching that miraculous event—child-birth—with weakened, flabby muscles and ligaments, and exhausted energy and vitality, one is reminded of the biblical parable of the wise and foolish virgins. Just as one can not expect to burn a lamp unless it is filled, so one cannot expect to perform this miraculous task, which requires an unusual supply of energy and vitality, without suffering and pain, unless some steps are taken to replenish the store of nerve-force and strength needed to assist Nature at this time. Failure to take this precaution invariably results in a weakly, sick and undernourished child and an irritable, nervous, pain-racked mother.

Hundreds of women are now anticipating this wonderful event in their lives with eagerness and pleasure because they have gotten their symptoms in readiness by using St. Joseph's G. F. P., the phenomenal medicine now being introduced to the women here.

Women Now Depend on St. Joseph's G. F. P. To Restore Their Vitality

Boils!
Ouch!

S. S. S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

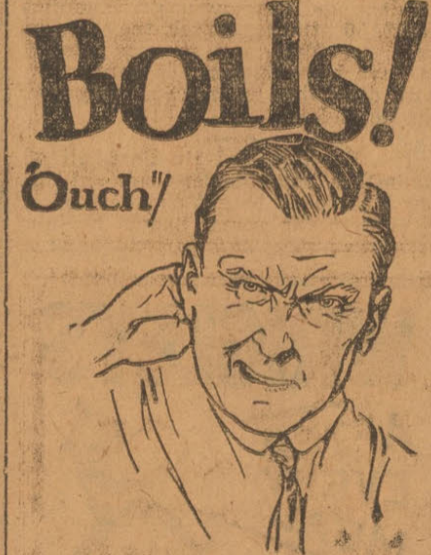

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorder. And the one remedy which has no equal is S. S. S.

S. S. S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S. S. S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S. S. S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S. S. S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in all sizes. The larger size is more economical.

London Invention Would Set Type By Photography

By United Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A photographic machine which it is claimed will revolutionize the process of typesetting is attracting the attention of the printing industry in London.

Instead of a metal type setting machine such as ordinarily used today, the new machine photographs the letters on a sensitized film. The process is accomplished by the operation of a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter.

The "masterfilm" from which the letters are photographed may be made to suit any of the standard styles of type. Sizes of the letters are automatically changed by an adjustment of focus. The actual printing is reproduced from the film which has been made by any of the various lithographing processes.

It is said that the application of wireless telegraphy to the new process will enable a machine installed in any London, to "set up" the same matter simultaneously in any number of other cities.

The inventors are J. R. C. August and E. K. Hunter who have been working secretly on the machine for four years in a small workshop in the Southeast section of London.

PALE, NERVOUS

West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1941 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

Cardui is made from mildacting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.

RACING TO BE FEATURE AT DALLAS STATE FAIR

DALLAS, Sept. 9.—Three "early closing" stake events are featured on the program for the State fair of Texas race meet at Dallas, to be run during the 1925 State fair, Oct. 10-25. Dates for the races are Saturday, Oct. 10 to Saturday, Oct. 17, inclusive. There will be no racing on Sundays.

Purses for the daily events, of which there will be five, run $400 and $500, and all entries therefor must be made by 11 a. m. the day before the race. Scratches must be in by 8:30 a. m. the day of the race.

For the stake events entries close on Oct. 1. The stakes are "The Cotton Stakes," at $2,000 added, to be run, Dallas and Dallas county day, Tuesday, Oct. 13; "The State Fair Handicap," at $1,000 added, scheduled for closing day, Saturday, Oct. 17, and the "Texas Special," at $500 added, set for Monday, Oct. 19, which is Friday day at the 1925 State fair.

Copies of the racing program may be had upon application to W. H. Stratton, secretary, or Dr. A. E. Flowers, superintendent speed department, State Fair of Texas, Dallas.

PLATINUM IMITATIONS INJURE ENGLISH TRADE

LONDON (By mail to the United Press)—Lack of an official hallmark for platinum has led to the flooding of the English market with fraudulent imitations under such name as "white gold" and "dental alloy."

In consequence the exclusive West End jewelers are finding themselves at a disadvantage in competing with foreign rivals having definite hallmarks. They plan to ask the government for the passage of a bill officially designating a platinum hallmark soon after parliament convenes in November.

NICKEL PLATE MERGER HEARINGS ARE RESUMED

By United Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Final effort to prevent the proposed Nickel Plate merger from consummation was to be made at the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission which resumed today.

Minority stockholders of the C. and O. Railroad, protesting against the Van Swearingen control of this line, were prepared to answer the report of the accountants who examined the financial condition of the Nickel Plate.

Because of the voluminous and technical character of this report, the request of the protestants was accepted, and counsel for the minority has been given an opportunity thoroughly to digest the report since July 31, when the hearings were temporarily suspended.

O. P. Van Swearingen probably will be recalled to reply to the questions minority counsel has prepared. The commission has permitted wide latitude in the investigation of this case and about 5,000 pages of testimony have been completed thus far.

The merger application involves, in addition to the Nickel Plate and the Erie and O. properties, the Erie and the Hocking Valley railroads.

In this connection the phenomenal success, which is called Black and White Ointment, and Soap, too, offers sufferers from such skin diseases the one relief and restoration of their skin to that clear, smooth and lovely condition it was in their youth.

Passengers on the returning El Paso special Tuesday got a new thrill which it is said rivalled that of the foamy water of amber hue which they saw people drinking down Juarez way, when three passenger trains including the train they were on, took a two hours picnic season waiting for the wreck of a freight train to be cleared away between Abilene and Clyde. It is pertinent to state that none of the Ranger people ventured to taste that foamy water which they say was served in glasses with handles to them. They were afraid it might contain germs.

A blaze running derrick high in the neighborhood of the Carter oil pool at seven o'clock last night threw a scare into a number of people who saw it but it was early extinguished and little, if any, damage resulted.

FORCED TO PAY DUTY ON CAT'S WHISKERS

LONDON (By mail to the United Press)—The cat's whiskers are dutiable, under the English customs act.

A foreign manufacturer found this out when he tried to ship into England several dozen handkerchiefs embellished in the corner with a smiling needlework portrait of Felix the Cat. Each Felix had six whiskers. Each whisker was of silk.

"Dutiable on account of the whiskers," said the customs office.

"You're crazy" reported the shipper, "as crazy as Felix."

But the home office backed its customs official up—and the importer had to dig down into his pocket to the extent of a 2 per cent ad valorem duty on the whole shipment all on account of Felix's silk whiskers.

Here are the first photographs of the wreck of the Shenandoah, naval dirigible, which collapsed in storm near Ava, Ohio, early Thursday, killing 14 of the crew. The photographs were secured by NEA Service by making special airplane flight to the scene of disaster.

This NEA Service photograph shows a close-up of the wreckage of the framework of the ship. Comparative size of the men gives an idea of the immense proportions of the craft. The twists and contortions of the metal show the terrific strain to which the ship was subjected by the storm and the subsequent collision with the ground.

WHERE ARE THE FILM STARS OF YESTERDAY? MANY ONCE FAMOUS, NOW STRUGGLE ON IN POVERTY OR ARE BURIED IN OBSCURITY

By RUSSELL J. BIRDWELL
(NEA Service Writer)

HOLLYWOOD—Where are the famous movie stars of yesterday?

No fame is more fleeting than that based on the celluloid film.

Only ten of fifteen years ago there were Pickfords, Fairbanks, Gishes, Talmadges and Swansons. But now their names hint of floundering ghosts.

A few are happily married, some have sought seclusion at the corners of the earth, others still struggle on in the film world, forever grasping at that which has slipped from them forever—youth and fame.

Several have dropped from riches to poverty. The public had no other movie star before it fifteen years ago except Florence Turner.

But now the film glory that once was hers has faded with the rest of her forgotten kindred—Marguerite Clark, Gene Gauntier, Florence Lawrence, Mary Charleson, Ella Hall, Marie Walcamp, Mable Trunnelle, Mary Fuller, Helen Holmes, Lottie Briscoe and countless others.

Fades Into Background
Miss Turner is back at the scene of her early triumphs, but not as a star. She goes from studio to studio seeking employment, but only now and then does she get work even as an "extra" at $7.50 a day.

She is still not 35. In 1913 she went to Europe because of poor health and started her own film company. Due to the war it was a failure.

All kinds of misfortune followed, until Marion Davies raised a fund to relieve her destitute condition. "For eight years I have fought for a chance to come back," she said with tears in her eyes. "But nobody wants me. I guess I'm through."

Gene Gauntier, once known round the world as a star of the old Kalem company, now lives in seclusion at Stockholm, Sweden.

She, too, tried to come back, but found conditions in the industry so changed she could not succeed. For awhile she tried reporting on the Kansas City Post, but domestic troubles and the longing for the old film life caused her to seek contentment in Europe.

When Mary Pickford was just starting in the movies, Florence Lawrence was enjoying world-wide popularity.

Miss Lawrence's career as a star was abruptly terminated eight years ago when her face was badly burned in escaping from a burning building.

All the skill of specialists could not restore her lost beauty and the loss of her cinema fame was inevitable. However, she refuses to give up the fight and is working as an extra in pictures here.

Marguerite Clark, once as noted in the film world as Mary Pickford, and Mary Charleson, star of the old Vitagraph company, now are happily married. The former is the wife of Harry Williams of New Orleans, and the latter married Henry B. Walthall, the actor.

"I have found more happiness in my home than I ever could have found in the vain glory of seeking personal fame," says Mrs. Walthall.

And Mrs. Williams wires: "We are happy and that means everything in the world."

Years ago Ella Hall was the "child wonder of the movie lots." She deserted the screen to marry Emory Johnson, a director. She became the mother of three children and after fame came to her husband, he deserted her, according to her divorce complaint at Los Angeles.

Nine years ago, Mary Fuller, once a star, suddenly disappeared. It was thought some gulf of obscurity had drowned her. Only recently was the wistful Mary found living in seclusion with her mother in a Washington, D. C. suburb.

"I ran away from it all, because I thought I had gone as far as I could," she says.

Mable Trunnelle, another by-gone luminary, is now Mrs. Herbert Prior, wife of an actor.

There are countless others who have fallen from lofty pinnacles into the abyss of obscurity.

Where are the rest of these stars of yesterday who thrilled the hearts of men, women and children—Dorothy Bernard, Alice Hollister, Marion Leonard, May Hotaling, Edith Storey, Marie Walcamp, Billie Rhodes, Francis Billington, Enid Markey, Claire Anderson, Dolores Casinelli, May Buckley, Maude Fealy, Juanita Dalmorez, Pearl Sindelar, Ormi Hawley, Irene Warfield, Helen Holmes, Cleo Madison, Winifred Westover?

The list of the forgotten forget-me-nots is endless.

And every day the list grows longer.

Visiting Rajah's Unprecedented Luxury Has London Agape With Astonishment

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 29.—London, accustomed as it is to resident and visiting royalty, is left gasping and almost speechless at the barbaric splendor and magnificence with which the Maharajah of Patiala has swept into town.

Here are a few of the things that the Maharajah has done which is causing London to stand agape looking on in wide-eyed wonder:

The Maharajah has taken the entire fifth floor of the Savoy Hotel embracing 100 rooms.

Has rented 20 limousine automobiles for the entire period of his stay.

Keeps three automobiles standing in front of the hotel day and night so that a machine shall always be instantly at hand when one is wanted.

Has ordered 3,000 fresh roses delivered every day to his suite.

Has brought with him more than 200 trunks.

Has two cooks whose sole function is to prepare his curry.

Has five secretaries.

Has 25 servants.

Friends Call Him "Pati."

These are a few only of the reasons for the immense sensation the Maharajah's visit is creating. His name alone for instance, is enough to leave a strong man breathless.

His full official name and title is: Major-General His Highness Frazand-i-Khas-i-Danlat-i-Inglishia Mansur-i-Zaman Amir-Ulmar Maharajahiraja Raja's war Sri Sri Bhuipindar Singh Vavindar Bahadur; G. C. I. E., B. E. S., G. C. S. I., G. C. V. O., Maharajah of Patiala. For short his close-but only very close friends call him "Pati."

The Maharajah wears a bejewelled turban of apricot silk from beneath which dangle two enormous pearl earrings encircled with diamonds; his clothes are of Western pattern and cut. His closely cropped curly black beard makes him appear more than his 34 years.

Just what his income is no one seems definitely to know but it is variously estimated between three and five million dollars a year.

Famous Big Game Hunter.

He was formerly a fine cricket player and is said to be one of the best big game rifle shots in the world, and probably the only man in the world to do lion hunting from a Rolls Royce automobile.

This is not the Maharajah's first visit to England as he was here in 1921, and ten years earlier visited the country as captain of an All-Indian cricket team which toured England. During the war he championed the allied cause enthusiastically and in addition to much money contributed 29,000 infantry men and a camel corps to the service of the Allies.

He is accompanied on this trip by his beautiful wife, the Maharanee. She is unveiled but remains much in seclusion in the special apartments that have been set aside for her and her women-in-waiting.

The Maharajah intends to do much entertaining and visiting while in London and will also be the guest of the King.

Flavor for Food, Dietist Says to Be Springing of Sugar

(By Barbara Brooks, Home Economics Department, Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan.)

Next to milk, cereal is the most important food in a child's diet. Cooked cereals are given at an early age. They are bland, children easily become used to them, and their popularity will be permanent provided that foods which are sweeter or more delectable in flavor are given sparingly.

Once a "sweet tooth" is acquired, there is real difficulty in persuading a child to express any enthusiasm over cereals—which should be the backbone of the day's meals.

The suggestion of combining dried fruits with cooked cereals is not new and many mothers do this—but add sugar just the same! The natural sugar of dried fruits should sweeten

Record Swim!

Speaking of swimming feats, Otto Kemmerich, noted German paddler, is believed to have set a world record in his 37-mile jaunt from Ferns Island in the Baltic Sea to Warnemuende, making the distance in 32 hours. He was unaccompanied through the rough waters having only a thermos bottle of beef tea, a compass and wrist watch with him.
