RANGER BULLDOGS MEETING CISCO LOBOES

VETERANS OF WAR ASSEMBLE AT CAMP FIRE

Carl Barnes Post of American Legion Observes Armistice Eve in Pleasing Manner.

Carl Barnes post American Legion, joined by many ex-service men, enjoyed a real old-fashioned camp fire, barbecue, get-together feast on the eve of Armistice day at the Ranger Country club Tuesday night. The affair, which no one would think of calling a "function," was entirely informal. It was a stag party which passed off without a flaw, a reunion in which the fellows lived life over again after getting out of the trenches.

There were something like 125 speeches made—really many times that number by the 125 ex-service men attending, a number of whom made several speeches during the evening. Not orations—just talks back and forth across the camp fire. No elaborate music from any city orchestra graced the occasion. Just the "calliope" orchestra such as the boys are wont to pick up for that sort of informal affair.

"A rousing good time, with nothing done or said anybody is ashamed of but everybody going away glad they came," is the way one ex-service man described the event, which is reflected in all descriptions of the affair. It was scheduled as a starter for the membership drive and is expected to give impetus to that. However, no business of any sort was taken up at the meeting last night.

TAX REDUCTION DECLARED MAXIMUM POSSIBLE NOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The newly completed tax measure shaving $50,000,000 or more from the nation's annual revenue, represents the actual maximum of reduction which this government will be able to stand for a number of years, according to Representative W. R. Green, Iowa, Republican, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

It is possible, according to Mr. Green, if business be good, that these taxes will net a surplus of perhaps $30,000,000 by 1928, but he advocates that efforts should not be made to reduce this surplus and would use it for the retirement of the public debt.

On the other hand, if business has one bad year this tax reduction might leave the government with a deficit of $50,000,000.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF HELD IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER

VINTON, Iowa, Nov. 11.—Harold Ponder, escaped automobile thief, has been arrested in Laramie, Wyo., in connection with the murder of Mrs. Mary Cook, president of the Benton county W. C. T. U., last Sept. 7, according to information received here by James Risides of the state department of justice.

Ponder escaped from Fort Madison, where he was serving sentence for an automobile theft and is known to have been in Benton at the time of the murder and to have left soon afterwards in a stolen automobile.

"Shearing of Lambs" In Wall Street May Bring Retribution

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Bankers and brokers approached their offices this morning with fear as to what the opening of the stock exchange might bring. In many quarters it was predicted that the "shearing of the lamb" that took place in Wall street yesterday might continue today.

The small buyers, many whose lifetime savings were invested in the recent bull movement, are expected to continue to dispose of their holdings on the market in order to stop losses following the rush to sell and break in prices yesterday, when 3,427,000 shares changed hands.

LIONS YEAR TO MEET LIONS OF OTHER PLACES

Movement Started For Series Of Inter-City Meetings, 4 Clubs Participating.

A movement looking to the holding of an inter-city meeting of the Lions' clubs of Eastland, Ranger, Cisco and Breckenridge, was launched at the regular weekly luncheon of the Eastland club Tuesday. No definite time for such a meeting was set, but the club voted unanimously to have the meeting and to invite the members of the other clubs mentioned, the meeting to be strictly a "stag affair," and each Lion attending to pay for his plate. Deputy District Governor Rosenquest stated that plans were being made to have District Governor Gruvens attend the meeting when it was held.

Lion W. Z. Bates announced at Tuesday's meeting that he had just completed arrangements with the officials of the Abilene High school for a football game between the Eastland Mavericks and the Abilene Eagles to be played at Connellee park in Eastland next Friday, Nov. 20.

On motion of Lion Cunningham, the club voted to draft and send a note of condolence to Lion W. B. Colie, a member of the Eastland club, on the death of his mother, who died at German, Monday afternoon.

Other committees appointed at Tuesday's meeting was one composed of Lions Rosenquest, DeLane and Briggs to look after the arrangements for the proposed inter-city meeting of the various clubs in this section, which is to be held soon, and one composed of Lions Bobbie Bates, Pool and Poe as an entertainment committee to arrange for music to be rendered at the meeting next week.

Mrs. Roberts was exonerated. The allegation charges the injuring of the little son of Mrs. Hunt at the corner of Main and Rusk streets, on Nov. 5. Defendant's attorney, Samuel K. Wassoff, pleaded contributory negligence.

A Program For Peace

By JOHN R. McQUIGG, National Commander, the American Legion

At 11 o'clock in the morning seven years ago today the guns on the western front suddenly became silent. The greatest conflict of the ages was at an end. It seemed that the forces of death, destruction and desolation were exhausted.

The cost in blood and treasure was staggering. The black clouds of war, receding, left behind a torn, dazed and bleeding world, but liberty and justice had triumphed, popular government was rendered more secure and modern civilization was preserved. The victory was worth the price.

America helped to bring about that victory and help to pay that price. From Flanders to the Vosges thousands of Americans died with no other requiem than the crash of artillery, the chatter of machine guns. Other thousands began a period of pain and suffering that has not yet run its course.

Insofar as in us lies we owe it to those who fell on Flanders Field and elsewhere, fall in a belief that they were fighting a war to end wars, to see to it that their desires and dreams for peace come true.

The American Legion believes that, to a great extent, this can be accomplished by:

The maintenance of adequate forces for internal and external national defense;

The prompt enactment into law of the principle of the universal draft, thereby taking the profit out of war; and

The immediate adherence by the United States to a permanent court of international justice.

The American Legion, in the name of the untold suffering and sacrifice of comrades, offers this program for peace in the hope that through it the men and women who fought for peace may give some further service to America and to the world.

Hindenburg Only Living War Chief Still In Post of Active Leadership

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Seven years ago today was the supreme moment in the lives of the leaders of the warring nations. It was the climax of history's greatest drama.

Today they have retired to the wings. Their crowded hour in the spotlight is over. They are again more or less ordinary humans.

In each country correspondents of the United Press have sought out and recorded what has happened to these historical figures since the spotlight shifted from them.

Ferdinand Foch, once the commander of the greatest army the world ever saw, is trying to adapt himself to civilian life. He appears in uniform only on state occasions. Most of his days are spent at the Ecole Militaire attending to his duties as chief of the Versailles military commission and many of his evenings are spent playing chess with several cronies in an obscure cafe on the Left Bank.

Wilhelm Hohenzollern, once emperor of one of the world's greatest empires, continues to chop wood and read books in an effort to whittle away the tedium of banishment in a dull Dutch village. Today reduced to circumstances which, measured by a royal scale, amount to poverty, Wilhelm is fighting with excellent chances of success to regain Hohenzollern properties in Prussia, whose recovery would make him one of the world's richest men.

David Lloyd George is writing articles for newspapers and planning a great "back-to-the-land" campaign designed to make England self-supporting. It is now no secret that the "Welsh wizard" aspires to be again premier and his land campaign is a part of his plan to become again with several cronies in an obscure cafe on the Left Bank.

ALLEGED NOTORIOUS OUTLAW FACES CAPTURE BY POSSE

CENTRE HARBOR, N. H., Nov. 11.—Frank Berogre George, alias "Dell" Fellows, Tennessee jail breaker and notorious outlaw, who is alleged to have shot and seriously wounded Police Chief Dow in Ashland on Monday, today was reported surrounded by a posse near here.

Four armed men, who, assisted by German police dogs, had trailed the outlaw for more than 26 hours, sent word that Fellows' capture was imminent.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASS'N. IS TAKING SHAPE

Committee Ready To Present Its Report at Lions Luncheon Thursday, Outlining Plans.

At a meeting of the committee of citizens recently named by the Lions Club to formulate plans for the organization of a building and loan association in Ranger, held Monday, progress was made and a report will be ready Thursday on the preliminary survey made by this committee, it is said.

There were present at the meeting, S. A. Lillard, Jr., chairman, J. M. White and E. A. Ringold. Hall Walker was absent, being out of town at the time. It can be stated authoritatively that the report of the committee will be favorable and that immediate steps to place the matter squarely before Ranger citizens and business men, will be taken in the near future.

The committee were unanimous in the opinion that nothing else will do so much to solve the increasing housing problem in Ranger as a sound building and loan association, is was stated.

Rev. Lee W. Heaton, "Modernist," Resigns Fort Worth Pastorate

FORT WORTH, Nov. 11.—Rev. Lee W. Heaton has resigned the rectorship of Trinity parish, this city, and has accepted a business position in the east, he announced today. The resignation has been accepted by the wardens and vestry of the church, effective Dec. 1.

Mr. Heaton said he would not sacrifice his position in the church by entering a business career. "I am a modernist," he said. "I am also in a diocese where the bishop is opposed to modernism and the prevailing influences are overwhelmingly fundamentalist. I have no desire to force my views upon others or to invite further opposition on the part of the diocese toward Trinity church."

Texas Wins Title Of "Distinguished Soldier of 1925"

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 11.—A Texan won the "Distinguished Soldier of 1925" title of the Thirtieth United States Infantry for outstanding services during the year, awarded here today at impressive ceremonies commemorating the seventh anniversary of the Armistice.

Staff Sergeant Montie C. Hancock, a doughty doughboy of Fort Worth, Texas, whose parents were early pioneers in the Lone Star State, received the unique distinction so dear to the heart of every soldier.

The honor was awarded to him as a fitting tribute for soldierly achievements and conscientious attention to duty. Highest among these ranks his recent selection as a military orderly for the vice-president of the United States.

Vice-President Daves, who is by virtue of office the second-in-command of the United States Army, the president being commander-in-chief, attended the diamond jubilee of San Francisco. The Thirtieth Infantry, fraternally known as "San Francisco's Own," played an important part in celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary.

Sergeant Hancock was selected by Colonel Charles S. Lincoln, the regimental commander, for the unique honor of attending Vice-President Daves. The selection was approved by Major-General Charles T. Menoher, commander of the Ninth Corps Area.

Several other distinctions were cited in the award. Among the foremost were Sergeant Hancock's selection as a military orderly for four general officers of the Regular Army, Major-General John L. Hines, the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army; Major-General Charles T. Menoher; Major-General William H. Johnston, and Major-General Joseph E. Kuhn.

Texas Agricultural Commissioner Says Cotton Will Advance

AUSTIN, Nov. 11.—George B. Terrell, state agricultural commissioner, in a plea to Texas farmers and others holding cotton, issued late yesterday, declared that cotton prices soon would advance and urged them to keep their cotton off the market so they could take advantage of the better prices.

ORCHARD DEMONSTRATION PLANNED IN EAST TEXAS

TYLER, Nov. 11.—The Cotton Belt orchard demonstration train, operated by the Cotton Belt Railway, will make a tour of the company's lines in East Texas late this month and in December.

It will carry several cars and there will be demonstrations of equipment for eradicating insects, practical means of soil culture, care of trees, etc.

Horticulturalists of the Texas A. and M. College will accompany the train and give free counsel to fruit growers who desire information on fruit raising.

Whole Nation Joins In the Observance Of Armistice Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The nation today renewed its dedication to the cause of peace. President Coolidge led the government in tribute to the anniversary by placing a wreath on the grave of the "unknown" soldier in Arlington cemetery.

Elsewhere celebrations were in progress or a "moment of silence" at 11 o'clock, as suggested by the president, was dedicated to the day. At Woodrow Wilson's tomb was a scene of ritual as the choir sang and friends and veterans placed wreaths on the monument and bowed in token of respect to the late war president.

TABERNACLE IN EASTLAND TO BE VACATED

Methodist congregation After Next Sunday Will Use Basement of New Building.

Rev. J. H. Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist church of Eastland, announced this morning that next Sunday's services would be the last services the church would hold in the tabernacle they are now using, and also that these services would be the last services of the present conference year.

A special musical has been arranged by C. C. Robey, director of Robey's orchestra, which will be given at the services next Sunday, Mr. Stewart stated.

The tabernacle now being used by the Methodist congregation was constructed by them during the oil boom in this section and has been used for a place of worship for the last three years or more. It was recently sold, however, to the Eastland Botting company, who plan to move its plant to it. The church will move to the basement of the new Methodist church, now under construction.

GRIDIRON PLAY AT CISCO TODAY FIERCE BATTLE

Eastland and Abilene Hoping To See Bulldogs Defeat The Loboes.

Cisco was leading by three points at the end of third quarter of the game here today, the score being: Cisco 10, Ranger 7.

Members of the Ranger High pep squad, at a downtown meeting last night, gave evidence of a determination to back the Bulldogs to the last gun in today's gridiron battle with the Cisco Loboes at Cisco.

Possibly 1,000 supporters of the Bulldogs went from Ranger today to attend the game, which has aroused much interest throughout this section because, if Ranger defeats Cisco, it will give Abilene and Eastland an opportunity to compete for the district championship.

Twelve of the Bulldogs are expected to play their last high school football today. They are: Walker, Harvey, Shell, Mills, Knight, Dupres, Eugene Glenn, both Shipp boys, Gulahorn, Shelton and Williamson. Other games may be played this season, but next year's players will be entered for the most part, according to Coach Cherry.

Cars assembled at the Chamber of Commerce at 12:30 o'clock to take the pep squad and others to the game. The Rotarians, too, went almost in a body after their luncheon. The Ranger Ranger band went, too, and was to play during the game.

It is noteworthy that other towns in the district are all for Ranger in today's battle. The Abilene Reporter runs this squib which is said to reflect the sentiment of team and citizens over there:

"Here's luck to Ranger against Cisco, Wednesday. We believe Ranger has a good chance to beat Cisco. But it's going to be anybody's game practically through the entire contest."

Some Eastland business men have already told the Ranger players they will give them one of the biggest blankets Eastland is capable of setting out if they will only bring home Cisco's scalp with them tonight.

MITCHELL GETS COURT RULING IN HIS FAVOR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A clear-cut ruling sustained Col. William Mitchell in his asserted right of an opportunity to prove the truth of his charges against the army and navy in his defense was handed down today by the jury of generals in the court-martial.

On the technical right of summoning 36 out-of-town witnesses for Mitchell, the court ruled the "flying" colonel was within his right in offering testimony to prove the truth of his charges as an absolute defense.

Before the court ruled on the question, Representative Reid of Illinois, civilian counsel for Mitchell, announced that the defense was ready to bring witnesses here at its own expense. After the court's ruling, Mitchell abandoned his plan to bring up the question of the Shenandoah disaster and continued his onslaught on the general staff.

A sensation was sprung by Major General Brandt, general staff officer, when he declared that a report prepared in October, 1924, by Colonel Mitchell on Hawaiian defenses, reached him as a general staff member only last Saturday with the notation, "recommendation based on Colonel Mitchell's personal opinion and should be given no consideration."

Brandt said the notation was put on the report in the war plan division of the staff.

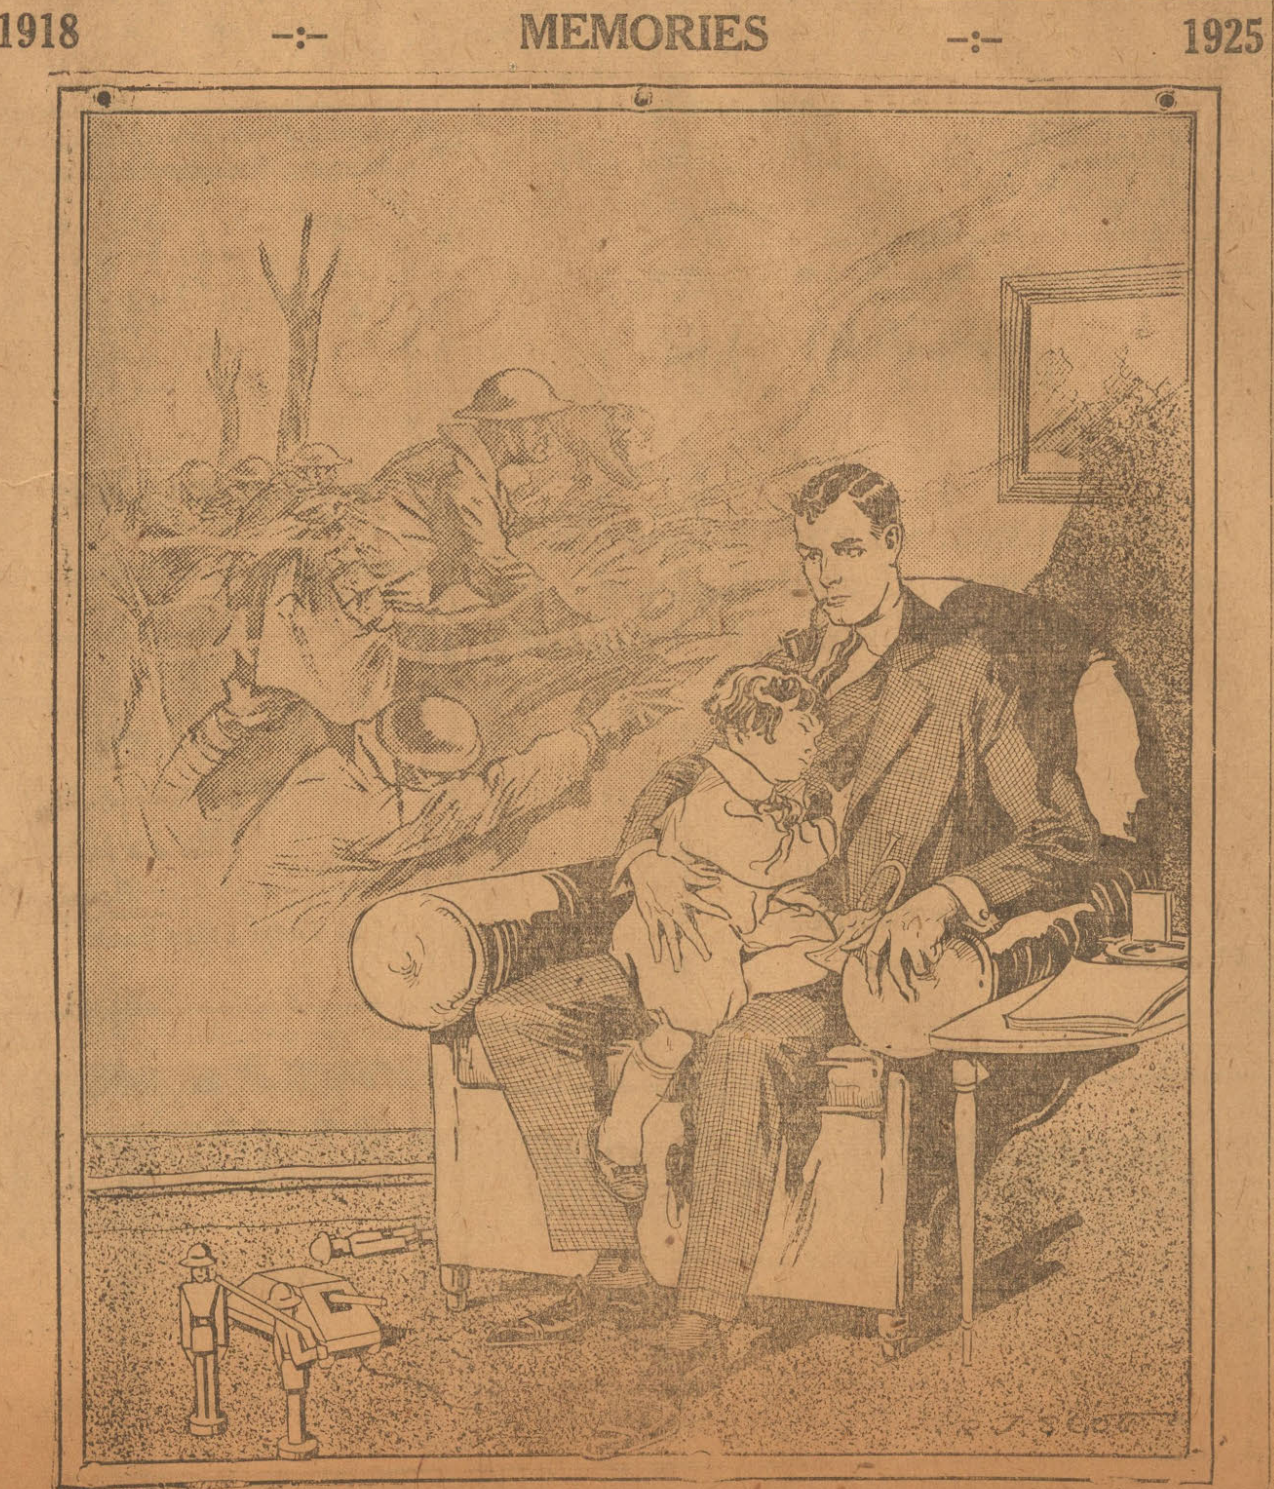

Edward Hawdon, expert metallurgist, was called to testify on alleged deterioration in the structure of the airship in an endeavor to substantiate Mitchell's charges that deficiencies in the dirigible were due to lack of care and omission of frequent inspection.

Aroused by Mitchell's assertion that he will prove that the navy sought to obtain false testimony from Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne, widow of the naval dirigible commander, the navy court of inquiry today threw open its records and summoned Mrs. Lansdowne to appear before it next Monday.

BIBLE THOUGHT
 Prayer for Wisdom—So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. Psalm 90: 12.
 Prayer—O Lord, our days are passing swiftly by, but we look to Thee, and the fear of the Lord is the crying of wisdom.

City Commission of Ranger Studying Over C. of C. Directors

The meeting of the Ranger City Commission Tuesday took a recess to consider names submitted from which to choose the fifteen men who will govern Ranger's newly created municipal chamber of commerce. Armistice Day eve was found to be an ill-chosen time to handle this and other important matters before the commission so the recess was called before any business of consequence was taken up.

A desire to canvass the situation thoroughly before acting on a matter so important, was behind the idea to lay this selecting of directors to a future called session, it was stated. These fifteen men, it was pointed out, will hold the future of Ranger largely in the hollow of their hands. With municipal support, the Chamber of Commerce will be no mean asset to the city's industrial and commercial growth.

It was intimated that, in some instances, the commission might be compelled to resort to the once popular custom of casting lots between men of equal desirability. The selection will not in all probability, be deferred more than a week, it is believed. The new directors will assume their duties Jan. 1.

YALE UNIVERSITY DIVINITY SCHOOL REVISES COURSES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10—In order to prepare its students to meet current economic and social problems the Yale Divinity School has completely revised its course of study.
 The traditional division of the school into five departments for the training of ministers, foreign missionaries, religious educators, social workers and college teachers of religion has been abolished and a system of unit credits set up.
 Thirty units are required for the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Fifteen units are listed which are required of all students, while each may choose five in the field in which he wishes to specialize. The remaining ten units are free electives.

The most noteworthy change brought about by this new system is the inclusion of certain scientific studies in the Divinity School curriculum. The Yale Divinity School was one of the first to install courses in such studies as sociology, economics and labor problems, ethics, psychology and philanthropy, but Dean Charles R. Brown said in announcing the change, it was felt that further revision was now in order.

Rev. Mr. Collie, brother-in-law of the deceased, also made a short address.
 The funeral was attended by many from other towns and communities in the county and from other sections of the country. The floral offering was unusually large and very beautiful.

To-night the Armistice dance given by the American Legion at Eastland, with Ford's trumpeters as musicians, will attract quite a number of Ranger folks, and possibly those who do not go to the dance at Eastland will attend the annual Armistice day dance at Thurber. Wherever they go, or wherever they celebrate, it's needless to say that Ranger folks will do their part in commemorating the seventh anniversary of the signing of peace.

Logsdon, commander of the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion, and A. J. Shaw, commander of the Forty and Eight of this post. After a short program, Mr. Baskin made a short talk on behalf of the school and the Parent-Teachers Club, thanking the donors of the flag for their gift. Dr. Logsdon made a short but impressive talk on "The History of the American Legion and Its Aim," and Mr. Shaw made a very instructive talk on "The History of the American Flag and Flag Etiquette." An important part of the program, the raising of the flag had to be postponed but this will take place at an early date, at which time Mr. Shaw has promised to be present and instruct the school in the proper way to raise and to salute the flag. The donors of the flag are W. K. Campbell, V. V. Cooper, Ranger Furniture Exchange, J. M. Dodson, E. P. Mills, E. A. Shaw, H. P. Earnest, E. J. Wiss, C. W. Conley, J. T. Donley and a number of others whose names could not be secured.

By THE FENCE RIDER.
 (Items for this department must be phoned in the Fence Rider, by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their insertion. Don't be bashful. Jingle use telephone bell.)

Mary had a little lamb,
 Beside her always trotting;
 She sold its wool, it brought almost
 As much as Texas cotton.

Me and the old bronc ranged all the way to Ranger's largest suburb—Port Worth—over Sunday. Aside from the fact that the old bronc got a screw loose somewhere about the starter, leaked oil and burned out a bearing, while carrying double, it was a great ride. And we saw some sights and heard some things on the way that tickled us pink.

One thing that, bump-the-bumps, bother side of Weatherford is now a smooth pike except one little stretch about as long as bronc's tail or a trifle longer. And they're making good headway through the deer-cut in the mountain which will make it all a joy ride from Parker county's capital to Tarrant county's hub.

But withal, they've got all the rest of the money tied up in Parker and have to stop all other work, until some court cuts the strings. And this is prolific of more cussin' than me and old bronc have listened to in a colt's age. At Millsap, a Sunday conclave of farmers, bankers and business men was held on the street and if the people in charge of the state government, more particularly the highway department, could have heard all that was said. Oh, ma!

People who have endured tortures from itching eczema will be happy to learn that a means of relief has been perfected and is already enjoying unheard of popularity on account of the quick way it gets rid of the awful disease of the skin which nobody seemed able to figure out before. It is called Black and White Ointment.
 Most all dealers have Black and White Ointment, and Soap, on account of the tremendous demand which has already reached the rate of more than two million packages a year in its sales, because it relieves eczema so quickly.
 They are economical, too. The big 50c package of Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

Correct weight can be yours

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."
 Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drap your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?
 And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?
 Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.
 You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increases—your strength comes to flatter muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood.
 S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON SEQUEL TO "The FLAPPER WIFE" ONEA

THE STORY SO FAR: May Seymour, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with another man, returns to her home town after a year's absence. She sells her property, and with her whole tiny fortune in cash, sets out to find and marry a man with money.

At Atlantic City she meets Herbert Waterbury and Dan Sprague, through a divorcee, Mrs. Carlotta Frickling. Both men pay suit to May, greatly to the distress of Carlotta, who has long been in love with Dan. She and May become great friends, however, and Carlotta asks May to winter with her in her California bungalow.

May sets her cap for Waterbury, who she believes to be rich. He finally proposes and May accepts him. Later she turns all her money over to him to invest for her and he disappears!

Penniless, May sells her furs and diamonds to buy a ticket to Los Angeles, Calif., where Carlotta has her home. On the way, she stops in her own town to see her old friends, the Dick Gregorays, and meets a wealthy widower, Ulysses Forgan. He falls in love with her and asks her to marry him. But she refuses him, telling him that she likes him too well to marry him without love.

In California, she tries to break into the movies and fails. Then she gets a job in a real estate office, and leaves because her married employer, Henry Harker, makes love to her. She decides then to do nothing for a while but to throw herself upon Carlotta's hospitality.

One afternoon she and Carlotta have a little tiff over Gabriel Guglielmo, a movie idol whom Dan has promised to bring for dinner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

May took a hot bath, powdered and perfumed her fresh skin, and began to dress with exquisite care.

From her trunk she took a carefully wrapped pair of chiffon stockings, and a lace dress that had been one of her last extravagances.

There was a tiny brown stain on one of the frail flounces.

It brought back to May the memory of the first time she had worn the dress—a month ago at Atlantic City. She had come in cold and wet from a long walk, and had sent down to the hotel kitchen for a pot of hot coffee to drink while she dressed.

How easy life had been then! How soft and comfortable!

Ah, it was one thing to be foot-loose when you had plenty of money pockets besides! "I'm in rather desperate straits, as a matter of fact," May finished her thought. "Rather desperate straits!"

She took her handbag from the top drawer of her dresser, and counted the roll of bills in it. It was not much bigger than a cigar. Thirty-five dollars was all there was in it. Three tens and a five dollar bill—

Then she picked up her only remaining piece of jewelry from her pin cushion—a long bar set with diamond chips. Tomorrow, unless Carlotta kept her as a guest under the roof of the bungalow, she would have to sell that pin; and she did not want to sell it—her last treasure!

"So I guess it behooves me to be nice to Carlotta," she decided, fastening the pin to the cowbeebie badge of the lace dress, "because, if we have a row, I'll have to get out."

But it was not easy to be "nice" to Carlotta that night. She was in a peevish mood, and her peevishness took the form of "razzing" May. "Just look here, I've burned the soup!" she called shrilly from the kitchen as May emerged from her bedroom and settled herself on the porch.

With the sigh of a martyr, May got up and went to her. "I'm so sorry, dear," she said, sympathetically. She really was sorry for Carlotta at that moment, standing flushed and half-tearful beside the hot stove.

Carlotta grunted. "Your being sorry doesn't make me a new tureen of soup. Beautiful Doll!" she snapped, her eyes traveling up and down May, with anger in their depths. "If you'd been here to stir it while I squeezed the oranges instead of dolling yourself up like a manikin, it'd have been more to the point!"

With a swift movement of her fat little arm she emptied the contents of the soup kettle down the sink. "Doggone it!" she cried wildly.

May couldn't help laughing. "Never mind," she soothed her. "I'll run down to the store for some canned peaches and cherries, and we'll have fruit cocktail to start off with, instead of the soup."

Without a word she went into her bedroom for her handbag, and left the house. Half way down the street a long, yellow car whizzed by her. She caught a glimpse of the two men in it—Dan and Gabriel Guglielmo, no doubt! She quickened her step.

When she returned the house was brilliantly lighted, and the sound of music came from the open front door. She stole around to the kitchen and noiselessly, deftly, made the fruit cocktail. When she had piled it into frosted cups and set them on the dining room table, she drew back the portieres with a flourish.

"Madame is served!" said she, with a bow to Carlotta, and wondered at the sudden look of concentrated hatred that the little woman flashed at her.

If she could have seen herself at that moment she would have known the source of that look. Her walk in the open air had refreshed her, and she stood there, dewy-lipped and stary-eyed as a dryad, wrapped in her lacy gown.

The eyes of Gabriel Guglielmo glowed like coals as they fell upon her—the burning eyes of the Italian, who is a born lover.

"You are beautiful!" they said to her, while his lips quietly repeated her name as Carlotta introduced them, and they followed her every move as she took the highball Dan proffered her, and drank it slowly.

"Why have I never seen you before?" Gabriel asked, when they were at the table. "I have been here for three solid years and—where have they been hiding you from me?"

May laughed. "Where did you live before you came to this country?" she asked, ignoring his questions.

Dan answered her. "Gabriel never lived anywhere up till three years ago," he said thickly. May saw then that he was very drunk. His eyeballs were covered with little red veins, and his face was darkly flushed. His hands trembled, as he held his fork.

"Gabriel came to life suddenly one afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the Hien-art studios down in Hollywood," Dan went on, sober as a judge. "He was wearing an English walking suit, a gardenia in his buttonhole, and he held a Russian cigar in one hand, and a flask of Scotch whisky in the other! Mos' mysterious!"

He gave a single shout of laughter, and then became sober, almost melancholy, again.

"No one knows where he came from, or why!" he went on. "Certainly we didn't need any more shocks either in the movies or out of 'em!"

He turned his bloodshot eyes to May. "Speaking of shocks, I happened to bump into your friend, Henry Harker, this afternoon, he went on. "What've you been doing to poor old Henry?"

May gulped. She wondered what in the world Henry Harker had told Dan about her.

"Why—why, I've been selling real estate for him," she answered in a strained voice. "But I quit my job this afternoon."

"Yeah, so I heard," Dan said cheerfully. "I heard his wife caught you petting old Henry, and threw you out in the street!" He laughed drunkenly as if he had just heard the best joke of the year.

May's face went scarlet, then snow white. She put her hand out to the wine glass that stood beside her plate. She drained it. She forced herself to smile.

"Who told you a tale like that, Daniel?" she asked with a pathetic attempt at lightness.

Dan shrugged. "Ol' Man Harker, himself!" he replied joyfully, and bent low over the table in a burst of foolish laughter.

There was an answering ripple from Carlotta. May looked at her, and saw that she was almost as drunk as Dan, himself.

"How many highballs did they have before dinner?" May asked Gabriel, who sat, looking at her, with a queer smile on his dark, handsome face.

"About four, I should say," he said.

HINDENBURG ONLY WAR CHIEF STILL IN POST AS ACTIVE LEADER

(Continued from page one.) leader of the British empire. Georges Clemenceau, called by France "the father of victory," is living a life almost as retired as that of the ex-kaiser, and even more modest. In summer he lives in a fisherman's hut on the Venetian coast, in winter in a dark, stuffy flat in Rue Franklin in Paris. He is writing a monumental philosophical work and cultivating flowers and tomatoes. His household consists of only a valet, chauffeur and an aged Venetian cook.

Yon Hindenburg has emerged as the luckiest loser of war. Tom from his high pedestal in 1918, he has now been restored to even greater eminence as president of Germany. Hindenburg devotes most of his leisure to hunting and spends long evenings "yarning" with old friends. Joffre devotes most of his time cultivating a flower garden at his new home at Louveciennes, near Paris, which he built according to his own designs and which is unlike any in the region. "Papa" Joffre maintains an office at the war college and sometimes gives lectures, but is practically retired.

Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaevitch, ex-commander in chief of Russia's armies, is now an exile at Chateau Chagny near Paris. He has not stepped beyond its great iron gates for two years. But behind the iron gates Nicholas is planning the new political and military campaign whereby the "emigre" Russians hope to overthrow the soviet regime. Nicholas is almost destitute. His great personal fortune and Crimean estates are lost to him. The ex-crown prince of Germany is living the leisure life of a country gentleman at Oels, Prussia, enjoying the pleasures and luxuries of pre-war days without the burdensome obligations of military service. Field Marshal Haig is perhaps the only great soldier who has devoted himself to looking after the interests of his ex-soldiers after the war. Haig spends his time working, raising money, and aiding disabled ex-officers and men with dependents.

ARISTOCRAT WILL TESTIFY HIS WIFE DECEIVED HIM

By United Press. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 11. Leonard Kipp Rhineland, member of an aristocratic New York family, may go on the witness stand this afternoon in the trial before Justice Morsch, user in the supreme court and tell the jury the story of his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a cab driver. Following admission by counsel for Mrs. Rhineland that she had some colored blood in her veins, the husband now seeking annulment of his marriage vows is expected to testify that his wife deceived him as to her race.

EXPLOSION OF STILL CLAIMS FOUR VICTIMS

By United Press. HOUSTON, Nov. 11.—Three men were perhaps fatally burned and a fourth is missing as a result of the explosion of a still at the Sinclair plant near Sisco today, which drenched them with flaming oil.

Argentine Religious Leader Jailed For Teaching He Is Second Saviour

By United Press. BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 2. — Jose Vespaciano, founder of a new Christian cult here which has secured the unwavering devotion of its followers, is detained by the police because he believes he is the Son of God. Jose Vespaciano lived in a humble dwelling in the Calle Margarinos Cervantes, which was furnished with the chairs and the tables made by his dexterous hands. Here in a narrow patio, among scrawny plants and flowers, the new apostle preached his doctrine of the Bible to his little horde of followers who for the most part consisted of old men and women, some of which he had cured of ailments. But there were people in the neighborhood who complained of his fanaticism to the police with the result that he now confined.

RESEMBLES CHRIST

In appearance he is not unlike the Nazarene, who founded the Christian religion. He has dark brown eyes and chestnut hair and beard. He is always clad in loose, robe-like clothing, creating the impression that he has just stepped from one of the stained-glass windows of the great catholic cathedrals here. On being interviewed following his apprehension, he merely said with a tone of spiritual resignation, "History repeats itself. The people of today would not permit that I preach the Christian doctrine of peace and love, because they are treading the material path of pleasure and war-torn, heedless of faith and the Word of God. I do not hear my enemies resentment because they know not what they do."

His followers clamor futilely for his liberty, pointing out the benefits that they derived from his ministrations of service and declaring that a number of his phenomenal cures have been miracles. Without other than water, mystic words and prayers, he is said to have cured members of his faithful band of the most loathsome diseases. Mentally Unbalanced. On the other hand the police doctors assert that he is merely suffering from a mental derangement which makes him believe he is the new Christ. These men of science add that the annals of abnormal psychology are filled with such examples of monomania. One of the doctors said, however, with regard to the case of Vespaciano, as follows: "I sincerely believe that if he lived during the Twelfth Century he would have been heralded as a saint, but as it is he is seized as a lunatic."

Jose Vespaciano believes fully in the divine origin of Jesus of Nazareth, but he also believes that he himself, has been appointed by God as a sort of second saviour to bring righteousness into the world. He asserts that civilization is becoming too advanced and too complicated for the morals of the people and that the only path to salvation is the return to the simple life of faith, hope and charity.

The Argentine apostle points to the labor disputes and strikes throughout the world, the unrest in Europe, the Moroccan difficulties, the Syrian disturbances, the Chinese troubles and the immorality prevalent among all peoples as proof that civilization is not progressing, but rather deteriorating like the once great Roman Empire. He declares that the signs of progress are not the velocity of aircraft nor the whirl of machinery producing so many automobiles a minute but the spiritual purity within the hearts of the people.

JURY WILL DECIDE AFTER HEARING LAWYERS ARGUE

By United Press. LITTLETON, Col., Nov. 11.—The right to take human life for "mercy's sake" even though it be the life of a helpless, crippled imbecile, will be argued by attorneys this afternoon in the conclusion of the trial of Dr. Harold Blazer, aged physician charged with taking the life of his 32-year-old imbecile daughter. The case will then be given to a jury of twelve men to decide.

HARVARD PLANNING TO GET NEW HEAD COACH

By United Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11.—Reggie Brown, former assistant coach at Harvard under the late Percy Haughton, will succeed Bob Fisher as head coach next fall, it was learned from a reliable source today. Brown is now assistant to Mac Robinson at Brown.

DREADFUL PAINS

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes: "After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house. I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less and I began to improve in health... The Cardui acted as a fine tonic, and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all. I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui." NC-160

WOMEN WHO WERE DOUBTFUL AT FIRST ARE NOW CONVINCED

Actual Results Obtained by Women Overcome Skepticism. Evidence Given Publicly is Overwhelming for G. F. P.

"From an attitude of doubt and criticism which leaders of thought automatically heap on anything which revolutionizes the old ways of doing things," says a representative of the discoverers of St. Joseph's G. F. P., "these same people, after investigating G. F. P., and seeing the wonderful things it is doing for women who had never before been able to get loose from the clutches of sickness in which their own impurities held them, are now following the hundreds of thousands of women who are now devout believers in, and are using G. F. P., themselves.

"The fact that these thousands are now using and praising G. F. P.," he continued, "is the most convincing proof of the correctness of our theory that certain of the generative organs held for years under virtual slavery of the victims, for the simple reason that until G. F. P. was perfected, these thousands of nervous, irritable, despondent and suffering women never were able to get any lasting relief.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking (though that you can get over your trouble simply by taking G. F. P. a few days, then expect to be as well and strong as you was when a girl. It took a long continuation of exposure, excesses and abuses to make weakness of your strong robust organs; and even with the aid of G. F. P., time is necessary to help nature restore that vitality which has been sapped away no doubt for years. Cardui gets a firm hold on the delicate mucous linings of the organs, and though G. F. P. will stamp out this demon, you must use it faithfully. Even an automobile will not keep running unless you keep putting gasoline in the tank and oil in the motor. The human system is much like a machine in this respect, although a delicate and precious one to be safe.

Advise Women

to discard old hygienic methods and retain freshness every day

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary-pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitating.

Costs only a few cents. $ in 10 better class women enjoy it. Proves the folly of old ways.

But as May and the Italian left the dining room Carlotta roused herself and called after them: "Going to stage a little petting party, Maizie," she asked with piercing sweetness, in her thick unsteady voice.

May pretended not to hear. She opened the screen door and stepped into the cool California night, followed closely by Guglielmo.

"The people in your country—they drink too much," the Italian said, as they stood at the edge of the porch and looked out at the purple, star-studded night. "And when they drink too much they tell too much. Is it true that the lady threw you out of her husband's office this afternoon?"

"Of course not!" May answered indignantly. She heard a noise behind her and saw Carlotta was standing in the shadow of the hallway, listening to them. Spying on them!

"Let's go back into the house," she said to Guglielmo. "It's cold out here!"

"I thought I told you to leave Guglielmo alone!" Carlotta said to her the minute the door had closed behind the two men, some three hours later.

She reeled and dropped heavily into a chair. Her cheeks were mottled and puffy, and there was a glaze over her blue eyes.

"Let's not talk about it tonight, Carlotta," May suggested in the soothing tone a nurse might have used to a half-insane patient. "Won't tomorrow do?"

Carlotta scowled. "No, tomorrow don't do—because there isn't going to be any tomorrow!" she answered. "You're going tonight! Now!"

"Very well," May raised her eyebrows disdainfully. At that moment she was the very picture of Lemuel Fishback's Spanish duchess.

She got up and went into her bedroom to pack her trunk. Carlotta followed her. "Living here in my house on my bounty," she stormed. "Eating my food, sleeping under my roof, and not paying me a red cent! And then, when I ask you to give me a chance to make a man like me, you vamp him away from me under my very nose! You're a fine friend, you are!"

Wheel-Drawn Juries Must Go Into Discard In Eastland County

The commission system of selecting petit jurors, in vogue in Eastland County prior to 1920, and replaced at that time by the jury wheel system, must again be used and the jury wheel discarded, according to a ruling of George L. Davenport of the Ninety-First District Court made in the Togo Kay murder case, in which Kay was given a new trial on a motion made by his attorneys setting up the ground that, under recently enacted laws, the selection of petit jurors by use of the jury wheel was no longer legal in Eastland County, and therefore the jury that tried Kay was not a legally drawn jury.

County Attorney W. J. Barnes and Judge Elzo Ben of the Eighty-Eighth District Court also held with Judge Davenport in the matter. A ruling by Dan Moody, Attorney General of Texas, made to County Attorney Barnes, is also in line with the ruling made by Judge Davenport.

Under the commission plan of selecting petit jurors the judges appoint a jury commission, composed of three qualified men, who, under instruction given them by the court, select names from the list of taxpayers of the county to act as jurors. Because of the fact that the law stated that counties having a city of 20,000, the commission system was discarded after the taking of the 1920 census, which, while no town in the county was shown to have 20,000 population, the population of the several towns aggregated more than 20,000.

A short time ago this law was changed and at present states that counties having a city whose population is 20,000 must use the jury wheel in selecting petit jurors, hence the courts held, that, as no city in Eastland County has a population of 20,000, the jury wheel system was not applicable to Eastland County.

Many lawyers, however, do not agree with the courts on the matter, and it will doubtless have to be passed upon by the State Supreme Court before it is finally settled.

A large list of petit jurors were recently drawn for service in the three Eastland County courts. These were drawn under the jury wheel system, which requires that the sheriff or one of his deputies, the district clerk or one of his deputies —if the jurors are for the district court—must, in the district courtroom in the presence of the district judge ordering the jury list drawn, draw the names from the jury wheel, which has been filled with the names of all taxpayers of the county in the presence of the district judge, the sheriff or one of his deputies, the district clerk or one of his deputies, the tax collector and tax assessor or one each of their deputies. If the jurors are to serve in the county court-at-law they must be drawn in the county courtroom in the presence of the county clerk or one of his deputies, the county judge and the sheriff or one of his deputies.

Jurors thus drawn can only serve where no objections are made by either of the parties in the case being tried, but as it will be a saving of both time and money to all parties concerned the jurors that have already been summoned will be used if no objections are made and it is stated that few, if any, objections will be offered.

a remarkably good grade of straw. Broom corn growing is known to be highly profitable. Lindsey, Okla., has heretofore led the southwest in this industry from a growers' standpoint. A large number of people in El Reno and other points live off of it from a brokerage standpoint. Wichita, Kans., which now leads the nation in its broom corn handling is said to owe much of its growth to that enterprise. Ranger is believed to have an exceptional location from a shipping and marketing standpoint. Mr. Crow reports no trouble in selling his present output and believe he could easily dispose of the output from a large factory.

BROOM CORN MAY BE GROWN WITH PROFIT

Farmer North of Ranger Conducting Profitable Broom Factory on His Farm.

A broom factory with a daily output of about four dozen brooms is among the industrial plants in Ranger territory, a plant of which a large number of people do not know.

Yet it has been successfully operating for more than three years and gradually expanding and increasing in output until now it is contemplated to build a large factory provided a sufficient number of farmers can be induced to raise broom corn. That this should be no difficult task in view of the profit in the crop, is believed by A. I. Crow who owns and operates this factory, raises his own straw and with the aid of his son and daughter, makes all the brooms at his own plant.

The Crow broom factory is on Burr Hill farm, nine miles north of Ranger on route 3. The Burr Hill farm has more than a hundred acres. During the three years of operation, there has not been a crop failure or crop shortage, it is said. Mr. Crow says broom corn is the best dry land crop known. It almost never fails. It is valuable for more than one purpose. He uses the straw for making brooms and the seed and stalks for his livestock, particularly the seed which he threshes out before working up the straw.

Exact facts and figures are lacking at this time but are being tabulated, it is said, showing the profit in this crop. A five-string, long broom now at The Times office shows

The Paths Of Glory Lead To Immortality. The poet said: "The paths of glory lead but to the grave." Can this be true? Are we, who sacrificed sons, brothers, husbands—fathers to be satisfied with ignominious death as finale to their efforts. A thousand times NO!
