ONCE A WEEK.

Did you ever play domestic bridge? Who hasn't. A clever hostess tries to get husbands and wives as far from each other as possible at a party but even then they couple off together once in a while, and that is domestic bridge. If there are three married folks at a table and a poor dumb bell of a single fellow, they start in on the prevailing price of coal the number of times they had to get up in the night and wash baby's ears and give it its allotted dose of pepsin. They talk about the brand of baking powder they use, their last dance, the latest scandal but the fun does not begin until a husband and wife lose and then a spirited confab issues. If she gives him a raise on his bid and they lose he says without blinking an eye, "I can't see what in the dickens you raised me on" or "if you hadn't raised me on that no trump bid, we could have set them on their bid" or sometimes its stronger than that. "He will saw what you think you are, playing mumble-peg" with all due to the men, they are not the only ones who horn in and make the atmosphere blue, for friend wife can say some catty things herself when she gets riled—especially if friend husband trumps her trick, as sometimes happens in the best regulated families. Usually by the time they move they are glaring at one another, and it doesn't all ways end at the parties, but often far into the night he or she is telling the other, "how I would have made four no trump, double and redoubled" if you hadn't have misled me in your bid."

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the parlors of the parsonage of the First Baptist Church, when Miss Helen May Hodges became the bride of W. G. Reigel. Rev. Mr. W. H. Johnson, performed the simple but lovely ring ceremony that made them man and wife. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Reigel left for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will be at home in Breckenridge, at least for the time being, as Mr. Reigel, who is from Pennsylvania, expects to return there with his bride later on.

The bride, was beautifully gowned in a maroon colored crepe black satin dress, with hat and other accessories in pleasing harmony. Mrs. Reigel, is the daughter of Mr. Homer Hodges, and was practically reared in Ranger, where she has a host of friends.

1920 CLUB REPORTS FINE MEETING.

The 1920 Club met in regular session Thursday afternoon and reports a fine meeting. Patterson led the singing which opened the program and Mesdames A. L. Duffer, M. H. Hagaman and R. R. Stafford, discussed the subject, "The World's Court and Its Workings." Mrs. George Langston, state peace chairman, led on "How Women Can Promote Peace." The business meeting that followed the program was very enthusiastic. Mrs. L. E. MONTHLY LUNCHEON OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS.

The monthly luncheon of the Althean Class of the Central Baptist Church was held at the Annex, Thursday, Nov. 5. A very delicious plate luncheon consisting of baked turkey, oyster dressing, gravy, creamed potatoes, cranberry sauce and hot rolls was served to about fifty ladies. With the desert, Mrs. Kelly of Cisco demonstrated and served Lipton's coffee.

The program following was the occasion for much merriment, probably the number causing the most hilarity was the one given by a black faced coed. The game table number by Mrs. J. M. White was a close second, and each number on the program tried to rival all the others. These monthly luncheons grow in popularity and serve to promote a better understanding between the members and to bring them closer together, as well as to give the members an opportunity to become acquainted with the old members.

Buchanan, president of the New Era Club; Mrs. J. M. FIREMEN'S BALL A SUCCESS.

Ranger folks responded splendidly to the invitation to attend the Firemen's Annual Ball, Friday night, at the Gholson Hotel. The ball was well attended and every one present seemed to have a most delightful time. Two orchestras made music for the evening—Gus Coleman's Rhythmic Five and the Newman Tent Show Orchestra, both responding to encore after encore. The John E. Jones was a popular number, serving as it always does as a "ice breaker."

GRANDMA LINDSEY HONORED.

One of the compensations of old age, especially when one has grown old gracefully, is the tribute of younger people and their expression of appreciation for a life that has not lived for self alone but that has been full of good works. Such has been the life of Grandma Lindsey of Lackland Addition, a woman not socially ambitious, but one who has gone about doing good and working for her Master. Mrs. Lindsey, with her husband, Grandpa Lindsey, who just a few months ago crossed the Great Divide, came to Ranger in the early boom days and at once saw the need of a church in her community—so she in her devotion to the calling of Christ, went to work and succeeded in organizing the Lindsey Baptist Church in the Lackland Addition. This church was later absorbed by the Central Baptist church, but the little church house still stands as a mute evidence of the faith that built it. Grandma Lindsey's sweet personality has drawn to her a large host of friends who paid tribute to her Friday, which was her sixty-ninth birthday, when the T. E. L. Class of the Central Baptist Church entertained for her at the home of Mrs. H. G. Burch, in the Tee Pee Camp. The home was beautifully decorated with the class colors, green and white, while cut flowers adorned the luncheon tables and autumn leaves bearing the guests names, were used as place cards. The three course luncheon was served by Mesdames Teague, Robinson and Anderson, representing the Timothy of the class. At the conclusion of the second course, Mrs. A. L. Leske, with her characteristic originality, presented Grandma Lindsey with a shower of gifts from those present. A large birthday cake, beautifully decorated and bearing sixty-nine candles, was the gift from the class.
Those who enjoyed this birthday party, which was one of the most pleasant social affairs of its kind ever given by the T. E. L. Class, were besides the honor guest, Mesdames J. N. McPatter, Hayden Neal, S. M. Fullwood, D. F. Woodell, A. O. Womble, W. E. Mitchell, W. O. Walker, Jack Mayo, W. B. Jameron, W. C. Jones, R. E. Barker, L. McNeil, Sanderford, Teague, Alex Robinson, Edgar, Anderson, Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Leake, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Burch.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. GREGG.

The Twentieth Century Club met with Mrs. Saundreds Gregg, Friday afternoon. Cut flowers were used profusely and many of the spring tables were in pretty harmony. Mrs. E. L. McMillen made high score in bridge and Mrs. M. L. Holland low. A salad course followed the game and was served to Mesdames E. L. McMillen, E. J. Wiss, Charles Walts, J. F. Champion, M. L. Holland, G. C. Barkley, John Thurman, Walter Burden, Walter Cash, E. E. Crawford, W. C. Palmer and J. A. Martin.

CENTRAL WARD P. T. A. REPORT.

The Central Ward P. T. A. has a most interesting meeting, Tuesday afternoon, at which time, the State president of Mother Congress and Central Teachers' Clubs, Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, was present and made a talk on the work of the Parent-Teacher Clubs, and on the State department, and told of various lines of the work that she had come in contact with on her many trips to the different conventions. The question of borrowing came up for discussion and was ably discussed by the teachers, who seem to think that they will soon be able to eliminate this habit that children have of borrowing supplies and books from one another. Mrs. F. L. Carroll was elected as delegate to the State convention of Parent-Teacher Clubs, which will convene in El Paso, Nov. 11. The club pledged $5 towards the endowment fund for the State Parent-Teacher's Association, in the recent library drive, the grammar school, that is the fifth and seventh grades, raised $115, which will be used to purchase books of reference for these rooms.

WILLIAMS-DUDLEY.

At 9 o'clock Saturday evening, Rev. Mr. W. H. Johnson, at his home on Walnut street, performed the marriage ceremony that united Miss Lydia Williams and Clarence Dudley in the holy bonds of wedlock. Both of the young people are from Breckenridge. The bride is a sister of Mr. A. H. Williams of Ranger and formerly lived here but recently has been attending high school in Breckenridge. The groom is employed by the Texas Bolt and Welding Company of Breckenridge where they will make their home.

Frank W. Smith, vice president and general manager of the United Electric Light & Power company asserts that few people realize that they are being waited upon by more servants than ever dreamed of. The mechanical and electrical energy developed in the United States, computed in terms of man power, is the equivalent of 3,000,000,000 servants, or about 30 servants for each citizen. Maybe this is the real explanation of the higher cost of living.

ON THE RANGE AT RANGER

By THE FENCE RIDER.
(Items for this department must be phoned in to the Fence Rider, by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their insertion. Don't be bashful, ring the telephone bell.)

There's a shoe shop in Ranger with a door cut out the shape of a sole and over the door, the words, "Sole Entrance." Said to be an original idea of the proprietor.

Did you know that it has been discovered that Ranger lies due south of the north pole and Eastland due north of the south pole? Fact.

When those Texas & Pacific engineers made their report on that enticing little creek at Mings, they said an awful thing. And the railroad people proceeded to dam it.

There's nothing on earth quite so valuable as the earth itself. And no earth is better than Eastland County earth, which produces fourteen-pound sweet potatoes on top and fourteen million dollar oil wells down below.

The Fence Rider will give a nice new penny or some other prize equally as valuable to the farmer who brings in the biggest sweet potato, the one who brings in the biggest pumpkin, the biggest ear of corn, the biggest apple and the one who tells the biggest fish-tale, provided he can tell a bigger one than some of these Ranger anglers. Come on in and claim your prizes.

A little oil well now and then. Is relished by the best of men. Keep on bringing them in.

The Fence Rider got despondent the other day and all discouraged because nobody seemed to say anything nice about this column. In confidence, he told a friend about it and that friend replied: "In a place where there is so much natural gas how can you expect folks to go daffy over a little hot air?" Then I took heart failure.

Everything was lovely and the goose hung high when that Ranger farmer killed the goose. It was a wild goose, however, not the one that laid the golden egg.

Viva building and loan movement! Viva home building movement! Viva any movement which tends to make the city of flowing gold a city of James. What's the good of gold that flows if there are not a lot of cozy hearth stoves for it to flow onto?

And speaking of flowing things, nothing is more valuable than that shallow water which flows—or can be cheaply pumped—from wells over a large portion of Eastland County; farm area to make crops grow any kind of season—wet or dry. One of these days, we'll sit up and take notice when it is announced that farmer so-and-so has struck water the same as when it is announced that somebody has struck oil.

EASTLAND CHURCHES

FRESBYTERIAN.

L. R. Hogan, pastor.
The services were well attended last Sunday. The pastor spoke at the 11 o'clock service on a "Prepared Man," and will follow it up by speaking on "A Prepared Church," next Sunday at the same hour. The choir will render the anthem, "Fill the World With Praise," by Wilson. The evening service will be patriotic. This is the Sunday nearest Armistice Day. PRINCETON 36, HARVARD 0.

By United Press.
 PRINCETON, Nov. 7.—To all the woe and misery of a most unhappy season there was added today to Harvard's list of distresses a 36 to 0 defeat that was handed to a much kicked-about crimson team by the Princeton Tigers. Harvard was outplayed in every phase of the game and it took all the Harvard loyalty to give them an argument that Harvard was lucky to have survived utter annihilation.

 FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Upsetting all dope in the southwestern conference, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs defeated the Texas Aggies here this afternoon, 3 to 0. Washburn, Horned Frog center, placed the ball squarely between the Aggies' post in the first quarter from the 32-yard line for the only score in the game.
 The Aggies turned back the Horned Frogs twice from before their own goal. Try as they would the Aggies could not bend the Horned Frog line.

BOOTLEGGERS USE APE LOOKOUT FOR RAIDERS

By United Press.
 MONESSEN, Pa., Nov. 7.—Use of a monkey as an "official watcher" of an impending raid of prohibition officers is the latest novelty adopted in this section.
 Dry sleuths, who recently raided a still on a steep hill in Rostraver township, near here, heard the furious chattering of a monkey as they climbed to the scene of action. Arriving at the stable which housed the still, police found it unoccupied but secured more than 1,000 gallons of liquor, three automobiles, besides equipment, mash, sugar and alcohol.

CLAYTON BLACK REINSTATED ON CISCO'S GRIDIRON TEAM

CISCO, Nov. 7.—Cisco football stock went up considerably this week news of the re-instatement of Clayton Black, star player of last season who had been barred from the games with Breckenridge and Eastland, was received. He has been declared eligible for the remainder of the season.
 This will give to Cisco a much stronger team to play against Ranger next Wednesday. However, that is not the principal point of interest in the item. Should Cisco have to play off the tie in the district with Abilene, as seems likely, it will give the Lobos a much better show to win in the district and should they win over all odds at home, they will go after Sherman's scalp, the team which seems to have the best chance at the state championship.

PORT WORTH, NOV. 7.

In Merriman Church

Special Correspondence.

MERRIMAN, Texas, Nov. 7.—Brother Ponder preached a fine sermon in the Merriman church on the third Sunday in October. Brother Author and family from Tiffin were there, too, and the people of Merriman were glad to have these good people with them. The pastor of the church has not been well, but he has kept all his appointments.

O. T. Hunt of Olden has been in Merriman again. It is hoped he will come often.

Progress is being made in the Bible verse program at the Merriman church, the contest being down to the letter "D." A new start was made because many new pupils had come in. Several prizes are being offered for good lessons, attendance and for bringing new Sunday school pupils. Among the newly enrolled pupils and visitors are: Mrs. Ernest Sneed and children, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and children, Mrs. Fisher and little Ruth Garner, all from the Panhandle lease. The Merriman folks are glad to have them join in the work, as they are "doers and not hearers only."

Mr. and Mrs. Greenstick and family have returned and are very welcome.

Mrs. Pearl Hunt and baby son, and Charlie Sneed and his mother were out from Ranger last Sunday.

The Merriman church people are glad to have been able to give assistance to one of the long-time members of the church who has been quite ill for some time. Also a few members gathered at his home for a quiet hour of song and prayer for his early recovery.

A remembrance was sent in to the church recently by Mrs. Dunham of Fort Worth. Although not able to attend often now, because of ill health and the distance to come, she has a warm place in her heart for Merriman. She is a charter member of the Merriman church.

A nice sum was given on the fourth Sunday for missions.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hunt and Pastor J. C. Taylor will attend the state mission meeting at Mineral Wells the middle of the month.

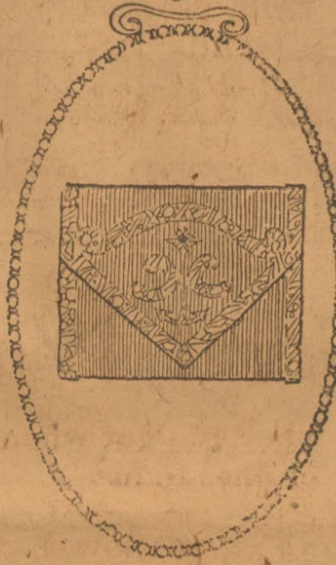

Mrs. Webb of Eastland has been elected teacher of Sunday school class No. 2.

Miss Ada Maynard, who formerly taught in the Sunday school, has gone to Oklahoma to stay for a while.

Brother Ponder has quite a number of nice Christmas books for children and also an assortment of Bibles and sold a number of them here last week.

The church people hope to have new Sunday school pupils and new church members and visitors right along. They will give encouragement to do more work in the church. Welcome all.

Abilene Loses
To Breckenridge
By 3-to-0 Score

With her full playing strength in the game for the first time this season, Breckenridge took Saturday's game from Abilene by a score of 3 to 0. A field goal by George Zavanonis from the 35-yard line in the third quarter was the only score of the game. Abilene got 12 first downs in Breckenridge's four but couldn't put the ball over. In the last quarter, after carrying the ball 65 yards, the Eagles fumbled and lost their best chance to score.

The loss of this game by Abilene, upsetting all the dope, eliminates her from the race for championship in the sixteenth district provided Cisco does not lose to Ranger next Wednesday in the game at Cisco, in which event, Cisco, Abilene and Eastland, each losers of a game, would be compelled to play off the tie.

It is that contingency which has set tongues wagging on Ranger streets since news of the defeat of the Eagles came in. A revival of the hope long dead or sleeping, is in evidence in Ranger. Announcement by Coach Cherry that all his men are completely restored from their wounds and crippled conditions and will in all probability go into the Cisco game Armistice day in the best physical condition of the season, and only their mental hazards or failure to play up to the Lobos will make that game a one-sided affair, coupled with the feeling among the men themselves as is evidenced by their own talk, that their winning over the Lobos would give them a place in the sun, is the dominant note in Ranger. It is being pointed out that the Ranger team is the kind of team which might fool the heavy Lobos by its fast work. It is said, in any event, there will be a large number of loyal fans who will forget the past and go with the team Armistice day to its last defeat—or victory.

DISTURBING CONFERENCE

By United Press.
PEKIN, Nov. 7.—Civil warfare which threatens to involve Peking as the Chinese rival chieftains strive for power, may disrupt the Chinese tariff conference. On the surface of the conference there is an indication of harmony, but underneath is a precarious atmosphere, arising part from the fact that the Chinese are making undefined objections to the autonomy proposals of the Americans and Japanese.

Following a stormy private session, the Chinese have promised to formulate their desires.

Special Correspondence.
CARBON, Nov. 7.—Drilling activities are on the increase in this section and many leases are being taken on land by oil operators. The Hoffer Oil corporation has resumed drilling on its Jesse Thurman No. 1, located about three miles south of town, after a shutdown for a few days on account of water in the hole. They are drilling now at a depth of around 2,000 feet. C. H. Woods et al. well on the Collins tract, four miles east of town, which struck the pay recently at 880 feet, is being drilled deeper.

The business men of this city have announced their intention of closing their places of business all day Wednesday, Nov. 11, which is Armistice day.

The junior basket ball team of Carbon are planning to join the junior league at Eastland this season. They had a good season last year.

More than $150 worth of goods taken from the Carbon Trading company's store by burglars some two weeks ago have been recovered by members of the sheriff's department at Eastland. J. O. Caffey of near Carbon is being held in the county jail charged with the crime of burglarizing the store.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Boston and C. H. Swift have sold their Piggly Wiggly store at Eastland to Pipkin Bros. of that city. Mr. Swift, who has been manager of the Eastland store, will go to Best, Texas, to take charge of a store there. It is understood that the new owners of Piggly Wiggly at Eastland will move the business to the building on the west side of the square now occupied by the City Drug store, which is being consolidated with other drug stores of Eastland.

COUNTY'S ROAD FUND CASE TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

The case of Fleming & Stitzer, commonly known as the Davison case, in which a large amount of Eastland County's road funds are tied up by injunction proceedings and which the court of civil appeals recently decided in favor of Eastland County, was appealed Saturday to the supreme court, the court of last resort. Saturday was the time limit in the case and Conner & McRea, attorneys, waited until the last day to file their appeal.

What effect this further delay in the case will have on proposed road building in Eastland County, can only be surmised at this time.

VETERAN PLAYERS TO BE WITH RANGER NEXT YEAR

ILLINOIS 13, CHICAGO 6.

Among the veteran players who will be on next year's Ranger High school football team, will be Charlie Cooper, Charlie Gholson, R. L. Phillips, G. Hinman, Alfred Glenn and V. Short. The entire backfield will have played out their allotted four years or graduated this year if they make the grades. Mills, E. Glenn, Kalker and Harvey are the backfield men who will go on to colleges.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 7.—"Red" Grange and his Illinois mates were victors here today over the Chicago Maroons, 13 to 6. The game was a comedy of fumbles and spills, due to the worst playing conditions the two teams have ever faced. A driving rain fell during the game and the ball was so slippery that the men could barely hold it. Grange did not perform any spectacular feats, he made no run of more than six yards and scored no touchdowns, but he did play a hard game.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

That today the service of advertising is better than ever. It is doing better work and increasing volume most effectively.

That advertising is the foundation for selling everything the world requires.

That in the quality sold and the advertising used rests the success of any business.

That continuous advertising has a permanent place in the guiding of business and the protection of quality. Customers need no better recommendation of merchandise or service than the fact that it is continuously advertised.

That modern business concerns know that their merchandise must be carefully chosen and the best of quality because their customers can easily tell whether or not the merchandise is as advertised.

That the first essential in any business is to carry quality and then maintain business by continuous advertising.

Continuous advertising proves that what is advertised will measure up to every requirement of the purchaser and makes friends for the advertiser.

There is economy in buying well advertised lines, because they have the seller's guarantee behind them that they will be as represented.

The business concern that has the foresight to advertise continuously gets the biggest share of the business. (Copyright 1925.)

EBERT'S SON-IN-LAW MAKES DIPLOMATIC BLUNDER

By United Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 7.—The case of Dr. William Jaenicke, attache in the foreign office and son-in-law of the late President Ebert who is accused of disrespect to President Hindenburg, today came up before the disciplinary court for trial.

A few days after the field marshal's election, Dr. Jaenicke made the following entry in the register of a well known hotel in Capri, Italy: "In our cosy hotel we forget that a Hindenburg has been elected German president."

This lapse aroused great indignation throughout Germany. Even the left papers which opposed Hindenburg's presidential campaign, condemned the action. It was declared that Dr. Jaenicke had committed a grave blunder of which a diplomat should never have been guilty which damaged Germany's prestige abroad.

Even Dr. Jaenicke's brother-in-law, Fritz Ebert Jr., found harsh words for his relative, declaring that Jaenicke stayed in Italy in a semi-official and had by his foolish action done injury to the memory of his father.

Only President Hindenburg himself remained unmoved by this episode and expressed the wish that grass be allowed to grow over it as quickly as possible, an action which won him the sympathies of many of his erstwhile antagonists.

Puffing and all out of breath comes into the store Mrs. Zimmer saying to Mrs. Laccorace: "What kind of a town is this anyhow, that a large woman can't get a decent Dress for less than 15 Bucks? Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, poached eggs on graham toast, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Baked potatoes, creamed dried beef, celery, bran bread, strawberry preserves, milk, tea.
Dinner—Leftover mutton in rice border, scalloped tomatoes, radishes, jelly roll cake, rye bread, milk, coffee.

The woman who goes to market regularly often finds herself able to add such vegetables as radishes and other more or less out-of-season luxuries to her menus at a moderate cost. While we aren't pulling radishes from our own gardens these days the big gardeners are harvesting a good crop and when a large shipment comes into the local market it's quite possible to treat one's family. The ordinary salad can be eliminated.

JELLY ROLL CAKE

Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1.5 cup boiling water, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 12 teaspoon vanilla.
 Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon-colored using a Dover beater. Slowly add 1-2 cup sugar beating constantly. Add boiling water and beat well. Beat in remaining sugar and vanilla. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and stir into first mixture. Fold in whites of eggs beaten on a platter until stiff and dry. Pour into a dripping pan and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. The dripping pan should be carefully oiled and floured before pouring in the cake batter. Remove from oven and turn at once onto a dampened towel spread on molding boards. Trim off edges of cake and spread with jelly, using from 1-2 to 1 cup. Roll as firmly as possible beginning at the narrow end. Wrap a dry towel tightly around the roll to keep it in place and let cool. Cut across the roll in 1/2-inch slices to serve. This is a simple easy dessert to make after one learns to work quickly. If the cake is not rolled while warm it will break and not be particularly attractive.

Ford Motor Company Establishes a New Production Record

Two records for manufacture of motor cars in the United States were established by the Ford Motor Company with the close of October. Saturday, the last day of the month, the company's domestic assembly plants produced a total of 2,109 Ford cars and trucks, exceeding Friday's record output of 9,017 and setting a new high mark for any one day.
 The total production for October was 204,827 cars and trucks, which tops any previous month.
 New daily production records were established all through the month as the domestic assembly plants came into production with the improved Ford cars following the change from the former types.

ITALIAN WAR DEBT MAY BE SETTLED BY AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Hope for an agreement upon terms for settling the Italian war debt of $2,138,000,000 to the United States early next week, soon after the debt commissions reconvene, Monday afternoon, was expressed by a high member of the American commission today. An early agreement is quite possible, he said.
 Belief is expressed that the Italians have communicated to Premier Mussolini of Italy the best terms that might be expected from the United States. Italy was advised that the United States did not find acceptable the Italian offer to settle over a term of seventy-seven years and a counter proposal was made.

Chrysler Cars Sold With Insurance Saves Money For Purchasers

"So much has been printed about the insurance feature of the Chrysler plan that there are those who lose sight of the fact that the plan is one to reduce finance charges on motor cars sold on the deferred payment basis," explained J. T. G. Lathorn of the Gullhorn Motor Company, Ranger.
 "The insurance feature of the plan is an important one, but it is incidental. Obviously no company is going to finance the sale of motor cars sold on a deferred payment basis unless those cars are insured against loss from fire or theft. The finance plan would have been impossible without the insurance feature."

"To be sure the Chrysler plan assures purchasers of Chrysler cars lower insurance rates. The saving from lowered finance charges and reduced insurance rates totals from $35 to $75 per car, depending upon its price. In July $400,000 was saved to Chrysler buyers and in August a slightly larger sum was saved.
 "The Chrysler plan was evolved to reduce finance charges on Chrysler cars. It is a plan to save money for the public because saving money for the public means selling more cars.
 "In some state, insurance commissioners have held that when an automobile dealer sells an insured car he becomes an insurance agent and hence subject to local insurance laws. The Chrysler Corporation holds that the contract which it entered into with the Palmetto Fire Insurance Company, of South Carolina, is a Michigan contract, is valid and binding in that state and hence valid and binding in all states. The local dealer has nothing to do with it. The Chrysler Corporation consequently disagrees with those state insurance commissioners who hold that selling insured cars is selling insurance.

NEGROES ON TRIAL IN DETROIT PRESENT DEFENCE

By United Press.
 DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Two witnesses called by the defense in the trial of Dr. Ossian Sweet and ten other negroes who are held for murder, admitted under cross examination that they heard shots and breaking of windows, which resulted in the shooting of Leon F. Briney, for whose death the defendants are held.
 Defendants contend that the shooting from the Sweet home was from fear of attack. Edward Willauffer testified that he was walking near the Sweet home the night of the shooting, and saw several people in the streets and several policemen. There was no disorder until he heard the breaking of glass and the shots followed.
 Otto Eberhart who said he was sitting on his front porch across the street from the Sweet home gave about the same evidence as Willauffer.

Two Ways to Start A Telephone Talk

THE efficient and courteous way to start a telephone conversation is to establish the identity of your company and yourself immediately.

Such an introduction enables both parties to a telephone conversation to get right down to business without loss of time or temper. It saves time-consuming preliminaries and leaves a favorable impression of you and your house.

"Hello."
 "Who are you?"
 "Who do you want?"
 "Is this Smith & Company?"
 "Yes!"
 "Give me J.P. Smith."
 "This is Mr. Smith."
 "Mr. J.P. Smith?"
 "Yes!"
 "This is Jones, talking."
 "Who?"
 "Jones of Brown & Company."
 "Oh, yes, Mr. Jones."

The better your use of the telephone, the more valuable its service becomes.

SPECTATORS SHOW BIAS AGAINST MEN ON TRIAL

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Nov. 7.—A threat to clear all spectators from the courtroom for an anti-Stephenson demonstration was made by Judge Sparks today in the murder trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Klenck and Earl Centry for the death of Madge Oberholzer. The crowd of spectators broke into wild cheering during the cross-examination of a state's witness and the court rapped fiercely with his gavel and gave notice that a repetition of the offense would cause the courtroom to be cleared.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

BOTH MOTORISTS AND PEDESTRIANS HAVE RIGHTS

Every motorist is at some time a pedestrian. Most motorists are pedestrians most of the time. Pedestrians will always outnumber motorists. Motorists have rights; pedestrians have rights. Motorists must respect the rights of pedestrians. Pedestrians should likewise respect the rights of motorists. When motorists are signalled by traffic officers to go, pedestrians should not try to cross. Pedestrians for their own safety should observe traffic signals. When motorists are required to stop they should not stop their cars in the line of march of pedestrians. Motorists should be careful in rounding corners not to frighten pedestrians who have the signal to go. Pedestrians just like motorists should not take chances. Pedestrians should cross streets at crossings. Motorists should be careful in using their horn not to frighten pedestrians and not to come upon them unexpectedly. What is needed is thoughtful consideration of the motorist by the pedestrian and equally thoughtful consideration of the pedestrian by the motorist. Both should be constantly careful. Both should be constantly thoughtful. Both should never take chances. The burden of responsibility of course rests upon the motorist because a pedestrian cannot exchange bumps with a motor car.

A mutual respect for each others rights is helpful

Chevrolet Army Car Useful In Maneuvers Or In Rough Country

The latest addition to the Army transportation service is the Chevrolet transcontinental auto car. The machine as used by the military is the regular Chevrolet chassis without the passenger top and body. It is fitted with low, cushioned seats. The fenders and running board are the same as are used on the passenger cars of the Chevrolet line. The car carries front and rear bumpers and the wheels are of the steel disc type. The Chevrolet Army car is used principally for the rapid conveyance of officers during maneuvers or other military operations. The combination of balloon tires, light, stripped chassis and powerful engine enables it to leave the roads and travel over rough country. Attached to the tops of the rear fenders are metal hand rails which the occupants of the back seats may grasp when the going is bad. General John A. Lefevre, commander of the United States Marine Corps, used one of the Chevrolet Army cars recently while inspecting a sham battle staged by the "Devil Dogs" at Camp Meade, Md. He was accompanied by Generals Feland and Williams and Colonel O. S. Eskridge. The latter drove the car during the maneuvers.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON ©NEA

THE STORY SO FAR:

May Seymour, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with another man, returns to her home town after a year's absence. She sells her property, and with her tiny fortune in cash, sets out to find and marry a man with money. At Atlantic City she meets Herbert Waterbury and Dan Sprague through a divorcee, Mrs. Carlotta Frothing. Both men pay suit to May greatly to the distress of Carlotta who has long been in love with Dan. She and May become great friends, however, and Carlotta asks May to spend the winter with her in her California home. May finds Dan much more attractive than Waterbury. But she decides that Waterbury is the rich husband she is looking for. So she sets her cap for him. He finally proposes and May accepts him. When he offers to invest her money for her she turns it over to him—and immediately from the train, Dan Sprague was at Carlotta's side. "This is the nicest thing that could happen to me," the fat little woman said breathlessly, standing on tiptoe to kiss May's cheek. "To have you and Dan here together! Why, Dan! Dan! I had no idea you'd even left New York. I can't believe you're really here!" She pressed his hand as if to make sure that it was real, and the look she gave him was pathetic in its tenderness. "He never writes to me, the bad boy!" she went on, turning once more to May, "and I never know where he is, or how he is, until he suddenly drops from the sky—like this." As if she suddenly remembered something of vast importance she picked up May's bags. "I'll carry these—Dan'll have all he can manage with his own," she said. "I left dinner cooking on the stove, and it'll be burned to a frazzle if we don't get home pretty quickly." And flushed with her ecstatic state of welcome, she bore the bags off to the smallest of small automobiles that stood against a fence at the side of the station. "Look at that little road bug!" she exclaimed, twinkling. "All mine! bought and paid for with my last month's alimony. Isn't it cute?" The little car was so very small that by the time the three of them had climbed into it, there was barely room for the bags. "Looks like a second-hand car," Dan remarked with his habitual brutal frankness. "It is, isn't it, Carlotta?" He had not dared to speak to May, Carlotta giggled. "It's worse 'n' that!" she answered. "It's had two owners before me—but I'll bet you anything that no one ever liked it half as well as I do!" With a great screaming of gears she rattled the little car, and they rattled up the street at a furious rate of speed. "Let me out at the hotel, and I'll be up for dinner later," said Dan as they bumped and jerked through the little town with its tiny houses of wood and plaster that were steeping in the sunshine of the late afternoon. They dropped Dan when he had promised to come for dinner in a half hour, and in three minutes were at Carlotta's house. A cunning thing of white plaster it was—with wis- laria and bougainvillea dripping purplish blooms all over it, with roses smiling a radiant welcome from the wide front porch. "No wonder you love the place!" May exclaimed as they took the bags out of the car. "It's a dream."

could see that she was enormously relieved, nevertheless. She trotted away toward the kitchen, and as May bathed her tired eyes with cold water, and smoothed powder over her face, she could hear her humming to herself—the low, drowsy humming of a woman who is perfectly happy. "Poor thing!" May thought, pitying her. "How can she care for a man like Dan who isn't worth the powder to blow him up?" She, herself, hated Dan with all her soul. But as she stood before the small white dresser in Carlotta's guest room she was dressing herself for him! (Continued on page eleven.)

"On my charity!" she said at last. "Why, I thought you had money to burn!"

ly he disappears, and the money with him! Penniless, May sells her furs and diamonds to buy a railroad ticket to California where Carlotta lives. On the way she stops off in her home town to see her friends, Dick Gregory and Gloria, his wife. There she meets a wealthy widower, Ulysses Forgan, who falls in love with her at first sight and proposes. But May refuses him for the reason that she likes him too well to marry him without love!

On the train bound for Carlotta's home in Los Altos, she meets Dan Sprague. And while Dan carries on a flirtation with Goldie Gay, a movie actress, May enters into conversation with Lemuel Fishback, a motion picture magnate who offers May a small part in a new film of his.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

May did not so much as glance at Dan all the rest of the way to Los Altos. She was busy with her own dark thoughts as she sat gazing out of the window—seeing nothing of the tawny landscape—the golden land with its girdle of green that lies at the foot of the Santa Cruz mountains.

"The more I see of men the more I hate 'em!" she said violently to herself, as she tried to brush the thought of Dan Sprague from her mind as she might have brushed a fly from her sleeve.

But persistent as a fly, it kept coming back to torment her. She was so lost in thought that she did not notice when the train pulled into the station at Los Altos. Then suddenly she caught sight of a face she knew—Carlotta's face, and Carlotta just outside on the platform, waving a welcome with both of her plump hands! That brought May to her senses.

By the time she had gathered together her bags, and neatly jumped

ARMISTICE DAY

At 11 o'clock, seven years ago next Wednesday morning, the guns on the Western Front became silent. The greatest conflict of the ages was at an end.

The black clouds of war receding left behind a torn, dazed and bleeding world, but liberty and justice had triumphed, and modern civilization was preserved.

We believe all loyal Americans, in so far as is possible, should pay homage to our boys who left behind their loved ones and marched to the front, and especially should we honor those who gave their lives, therefore, this bank will not open for business

Calumet Home Economics Experts Writes On Afternoon Tea Weather

Marion Jane Parker of the home economics department of the Calumet Baking Powder company, writing on "The Weather for Afternoon Tea," says:

The charm of afternoon tea depends not on the cool brisk day which attracts us to this cup of cheer, but first lies in the graciousness of the hostess at whose home we are being served. The uniqueness of her tea service and the daintiness of her food. The seasonal flowers too, gracefully arranged lend an added attractiveness to the occasion.

The regular serving of afternoon tea is a delightful custom in many sections of the country. It is not only a simple way of entertaining one's friends but in smaller cities and towns especially, it is so nice and chummy for friends to drop in frequently for this inexpensive form of hospitality and it is a nice way of welcoming the chance caller or stranger into your circle. It helps break the ice and puts everyone on a friendlier basis, so keep your tea table or tea cart handy.

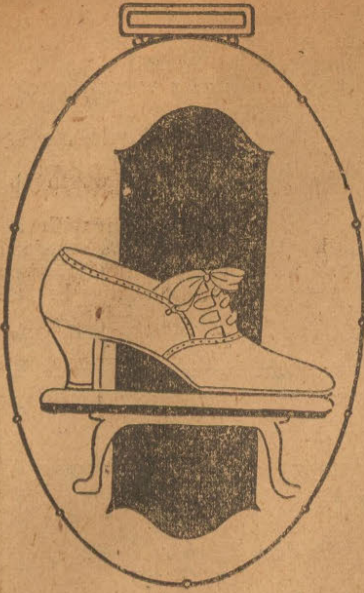

Informal Tea.
At an informal tea the hostess usually makes and pours the tea herself at a small table set with all the necessary equipment for accomplishing this in the simplest and easiest way. Cut sugar or rock crystals, a pitcher of cream and a small dish of lemon slices, some of them stuck with a clove or two, are usually offered with the tea.
The accompaniment to afternoon tea may be sandwiches or sweets, but whatever the choice, they should not be elaborate. The hostess who is looking for a new or different "something" will, perhaps, be interested in some ideas which have proved popular in my home.

Sandwiches for afternoon tea service should be small and thin and the fillings simple and not too generous. Did you ever realize how many different kinds of sandwiches can be made in combination with so simple a filling as cream cheese? In fact, cream cheese combines well with both sweet and savory mixtures. For a savory sandwich add to the cheese mashed until soft and smooth, chopped pimientos, minced green peppers, olives, nuts, cherries, celery and chili sauce. If a sweet sandwich is desired, and they may often be served in place of cake, spread half of the sandwich with the soft-cream cheese and the other half with some sweet such as honey, jelly, marmalade or conserve. Press the two slices together, cut off the crusts and cut in strips or fancy shapes.

Sandwich Filling.
Another sweet sandwich filling may be easily prepared by stewing raisins or figs in a double boiler until soft. Then cool and chop them fine, season with a few drops of lemon juice and spread between slices of buttered whole wheat or Graham bread. A filling of any tart jelly and finely chopped nuts makes another delicious sweet sandwich. Cookies too are always very appropriate accompaniments to afternoon tea.

New Oxford

New Oxford that is graceful and decorative as well as practical is this one with a few cut-out sections at the fastening to break the monotony. The Oxford is being worn with tailored and sport clothes in preference to the dresser pump.

Stewart's Washington Letter

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, now wrestling with taxation questions, preliminary to Congress' next meeting, agree on one thing—taxes must be cut. Concerning details there are plenty of differences of opinion, not all of them partisan.

THE two outstanding controversies are:

1. Shall the very large taxpayers or the rank and file of smaller ones get most of the benefit of the expected cut?
2. At what rate shall the rest of the national war debt be paid off?

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON is on record in the large taxpayers' favor.

The rich, he says, won't try to make more money if the government taxes most of it away from them; give them a chance to keep a reasonable amount of it and they'll plunge into business, making better times for everybody. Besides, the small fry had a reduction last year.

Mellon may be right, but it will be hard to convince the smaller taxpayers, whose votes are numerous. Consequently some, even of the Republican committeemen are afraid of his plan. The Democrats are against it in principle.

THE government has been paying off the war debt at a rate which will wipe it out in about 25 years. That is to say, the generation which fought the war will pay for it also.

Secretary Mellon believes in this. He thinks each generation should settle its own bills. He likewise advocates cleaning the slate as soon as possible lest something else come up to pile on further obligations. Finally, he points out, the faster the debt's paid, the less the interest.

Yet it's obvious that the present burden can be lightened, and still more taxes can be taken off, if the period of payment is extended to 62 years, as the Democrats, and some of the Republicans, among the committee members suggest.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOTLOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON

If she and Carlotta had been dining alone, she would have slipped into a kimono and house slippers. For she was very tired—almost too tired to care how she looked.

But now that Dan was coming she must needs make herself beautiful for him, whether she hated him or not.

For Dan was Man—and May Seymour was the type of woman who had to have the admiration of any Man who happened to be in sight.

There are millions of women like her—women who thrive on the attention of men as plants thrive on water and air and sunlight. It is the breath of life to them. And they will take it from anybody—even from the Dan Spragues of this whirlwind world!

So May brushed her blue-black hair until it shone like a mirror, reddened the full curve of her lips with paint, and penciled her eyebrows with the utmost care—for the eyes of Dan!

Carlotta's kitchen was the most cheerful room imaginable. The walls were blue and white, and so was the linoleum that covered the floor. There were white curtains in the windows, a white cloth on the table, and from blue corner cupboards glistened the shiniest of aluminum pans and the cleanest of white china.

Carlotta, herself, in the starchiest of white aprons, bustled around like a big character doll, her blue eyes round and solemn with excitement.

"I made ice cream," she said, bringing in a freezer from the tiny back porch. "Dear, dear! Everything's ready to put on the table! I wonder why Dan doesn't come! It'll be too dark if he doesn't hurry."

May said nothing. She had her own thoughts as to the reason for Dan's delay. She had caught a glimpse of Goldie Gay's purple skirt whisking off the train just ahead of her, that afternoon.

"Let's go out on the porch and wait for him," she suggested, and when they were comfortably settled in deep wicker chairs, watching the lavender dusk deepen over the lovely little town, she told Carlotta about Lemuel Fishback.

"... And so I'm going into the movies," she finished. "And it'll be a god-send to me just now when I need the money so terribly. Otherwise I'd just have to go back to typewriting or else throw myself on your charity for a few months."

Carlotta turned in her chair and stared at her coldly for a full minute.

"On my charity!" she said at last.

"Why I thought you had money to burn!"

Her eyes dropped to May's left hand where it lay idly on the wide arm of her chair. She picked it up, looked at it, and then let it go.

"Where," she asked, "are your rings and your wrist-watch?"

May laughed. "Gone but not forgotten," she answered. "I had to sell them, sweetie—after Herbie Waterbury went south with every cent I had in the world!"

Wordless, Carlotta fell back in her chair and opened her eyes still wider, while May told her all about Herbie's disappearance.

"My stars!" she exclaimed when May had finished. "My stars! I told you he was a crook, but you wouldn't listen to me."

Her voice trailed off, and May saw that she had forgotten all about Waterbury. She had leaned over the railing of the porch and was gazing down the street, trying to pierce the semi-darkness with her eyes.

"I don't see Dan," she murmured plaintively. "I do hope he hasn't forgotten about coming here. Would you call him up at the hotel?"

"Would I?" May shook her head. "I certainly would not! If he doesn't care enough about you to remember a date with you, I'd let him go to the dickens!"

"Well, let's wait five minutes more. I'm sure he'll be here," Carlotta answered.

They waited for over half an hour and still Dan did not come.

At 9 o'clock they ate the over-done chicken, the tough peas and the watery ice cream. They ate in silence and in gloom; and as soon as the meal was over and the dishes washed, May went to bed.

"I think I'll sit up and read a while. Dan might come for a minute or two, and I'd hate to miss him," Carlotta said as she kissed her good-night.

"It's so nice to have you here with me, May dear," she added after-thought.

But Dan did not come.

May knew that the next morning by the droop of Carlotta's mouth and the weary look in her red-rimmed eyes.

She did not mention him, but her heart was filled with pity for the tragic little woman when she left her alone in the bungalow, and started out for Lemuel Fishback's "location" in the foothills beyond the town.

A day symbolical of peace the world over, as on the morning of Nov. 11, 1918, the guns on the western front were stilled and a torn and disrupted world started the gigantic task of rehabilitation and re-establishing business.

WHAT DOES HE SAY about us a month later? That's the question that goes through our mind when we sell a customer a suit, a shirt, a tie. When a man comes into a store he can always be sold something. EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD TEXAS GIRL BOASTS SHE'LL BEAT DEWOLF HOPPER'S MARRIAGE RECORD

By NEA Service.

EL PASO, Nov. 4.—She's only 18 years old—She has been married four times and divorced three times. She's now starting in on her fourth husband, and she vows that before they lay her among the daises she'll set a world's record as a matrimonial quick-change artist. She started in life as Pauline Nixon, out in the great open spaces of Texas where men are plentiful as well as chivalrous. Pauline hardly got a square deal in life, at that. When she was 14 she had gotten enough cards from the bottom of the deck to make many an older person throw the whole hand into the discard and call for a new deal.

To begin with, her father and mother were at odds. Each one wanted the sole custody of Pauline. Once the father kidnaped her and immured her in a convent for three years. Then, motoring in the desert, he ran afoul of bandits and was shot to death. This ended the family row, but not Pauline's troubles.

Craved Pleasure.

The girl had grown up fast, amid such fast-moving home surroundings and at the age of 13 she became fill-

Is your appetite gone?

REMEMBER, how it used to be when you could hardly wait for mealtime? And then, sit down and eat several helpings of everything—enjoy every morsel and get up from the table feeling satisfied with the World, happy with everybody and ready for anything?

Oh, life is hardly worth living this way. And yet, all in the World the matter with you is that you are starving for rich, red blood. And it is acknowledged everywhere that S. S. S. helps Nature build these healthy red-blood-cells by the millions!

All you need to do to get back that wonderful appetite is to build rich, red-blood-cells with S. S. S. It's simple. Just try it, like thousands are doing every day. See for yourself what S. S. S. will do. S. S. S. means blood with a punch—brimful of new life and energy. Get your S. S. S. at any good druggist. The larger size is more economical.

ed with a craving for life—life with its pleasures and gaieties that the older people seemed able to take, but that always were denied her. So she dropped out of high school, abruptly and married a young man named Austin P. Carlton. This at Las Cruces, N. M., in June, 1922. The marriage went on the rocks after nearly two years and Carlton left her. She was granted a divorce. The girl's acquaintances began to poke fun at her. "Married and divorced at 16—where'll you end up?" they taunted her. And that gave her the idea.

"I boasted, in jest, that I'd break De Wolf Hopper's marriage record," she says. "Then I got to thinking it over and decided I'd go ahead and do it. A Very Canny Lass. Now observe the cannyness that can descend upon a girl of 16. Twenty-four days after her first divorce she remarried, this time a Cisco druggist by name of Loinel B. Stagner. Under the law she should have waited a year after the divorce decree. She didn't. Consequently, when she and Stagner tired of one another, four months later, she didn't have to work hard for a divorce. All she did was get an annulment, on the ground that the marriage was illegal in the first place.

A couple of weeks later the girl went to Las Cruces, N. M., with another boy friend, one W. B. Winzinread, to attend the wedding of a pair of mutual friends. The friends dared them to get married too. Pauline, not being the girl to be kidded in that manner, they up and did it.

Somehow, this marriage wasn't any luckier than the other two. Finally Pauline drifted into court again. It was still less than a year after her first divorce, so another automatic annulment was in order. Again she was free.

But not for long. Outside the courtroom she fell in with a bosom friend of the later lamented Winzinread, a chap named E. L. Page. One thing led to another, and nine hours after she and Winzinread had become nothing more than friends she became Page's wife. For the present she still is.
