If the Germans had cut every cable we could have talked to Europe—Navy's wireless programme annihilated space and defied enemy interference—Most powerful radio plant in world constructed by U. S. Navy belts globe with its spark—How the radio compass, a war invention, saved lost ships—Loneliness of sea has been robbed of its terrors—Who will celebrate wonders and heroes of wireless?

From one room in the navy department—the transoceanic room, we called it—we could communicate with almost any country in western Europe. This room had direct connection with the high-power sending stations at Annapolis, Sayville, L. I., and New Brunswick and Tuckerport, N. J. Messages flung from these stations were picked up in France and speeded on over a net work of land wires and telephones to any point where it was possible to place a receiving instrument—from the rear of areas to the trenches.

HONEST MEN IN TURKEY MORE RARE THAN GOLD

Straight Business Methods Much in Demand in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—An honest business man who will keep his word in a trade is prized above the gold in Turkey, for there is hardly a law now functioning in this distracted country. A man who breaks his word in business is never let into the inner circle of big traders. For honesty is today at higher rating here than ever before.

One may steal or kill with a large limit of impunity. Some months since in Batum, an Englishman was put upon and in self-defense killed a man. Frightened as to consequences, he began collecting evidence to show he had acted in self-defense. After he had collected his evidence he found that no one was interested in the case, and also there was no one to whom he could submit it.

Constantinople is an important and exporting center, the logical clearing house for the Levant with much merchandise in transit or in bond. Americans have traded here in unprecedented numbers since the armistice, and some of them have lost money. Naturally they blame the local agents, the city, the conditions. According to Julian Gillespie, the United States commercial attaché, there is often a good deal to be said on both sides.

Recently the correspondent met an American arriving here. "I'm going to stay a few days to make some local firms pay for goods," said the American. "So far our local agent hasn't succeeded."

"This is evidently your first time here, you'd better make that few days a few weeks," advised the correspondent.

The American so far has spent two months, and he is still wrestling with conditions, one of which is that his local agent insists on opening his mail and private telegrams, and calling it a "mistake."

Laws Are Needed.

It is generally stated that American exporters must begin at the bottom and secure laws at home which will give consignees more protection. Boxes and pieces should be properly marked, and cases filled. Ship carriers should be made to stow goods properly so that given lot is discharged at the port of destination as a lot, not as a series of separate packages. Also, bills of lading should be properly so that a given lot is delivered when his goods will arrive. It has happened at this port that a ship with several lots of goods has discharged the lots in small parts in various lighters and also without notification to the consignee, so the latter has lost heavily in time, danger, theft and storage charges. Also cases often arrive empty or partially filled, or with goods not up to sample. Too often the American exporter has treated this market as a dumping ground and sent goods of the quality and nature used by Cook on his voyage of discovery through the Pacific.

These things being true, given conditions often bordering on Bedlam, the American is advised to be wary and remember the common saying of the Levant that "it takes three Jews to outwit an Armenian, or three Armenians to outwit a Greek."

LONG PLUNGE THROUGH AIR DURING WAR, CAUSE OF CADDO MAN'S DEATH

A 4,000-foot fall in an airplane during the war probably was the indirect cause of the sudden death of James B. Beauchamp at Caddo yesterday at 12:30 o'clock. Beauchamp, who was 32 years old, was an aviator when he made his long plunge. At the time he sustained an injury to his left side and since had infrequent spells with his heart. Yesterday shortly after lunch at his home near Caddo, a spell came on him and he died in ten minutes. The physicians pronounced the cause of his death as heart failure. The deceased is survived by his wife who he married after the armistice was signed. The Milford Undertaking company will send the body to Hoxie, Ark., for burial today. Beauchamp was a superintendent on the lease of Thompson and McKinnis, drilling contractors at Caddo.

The girls presented Mrs. Harding with a "Polly Prim" apron, a book cover and purse, made of silken brocade woven in "Harding" blue and silver. Miss Holt's visit to Washington inaugurated the $2,000,000 campaign for the relief of the blinded men, women and children of America, France and Italy. President Harding endorsed the campaign. The photograph shows Mrs. Harding (left) receiving the gifts from the girl pupils.

GERMANY IS KEEPING EMIGRANTS CLEAN

HAMBURG, April 22.—America's enforcement of strictly quarantine regulations to prevent vermin-infested emigrants from carrying typhus into ports of the United States has caused German shipping companies, operating from this port in connection with American lines, to use greater vigilance in the inspection and delousing of passengers. The facilities are so good here for landing passengers and the disinfecting plants are so large and modern that German officials have found little difficulty in meeting the suggestions of American health officers. The Hamburg-American line, which is co-operating with the United American lines, has had model emigrant halls since 1907, which are isolated in a section of the city across the Elbe. Arriving emigrants are first put in what is called the "unclean" section. After the emigrants are examined, and found to be healthy they are then bathed, their clothing is disinfected and deloused, and they are then transferred to the "clean" section. Here they are examined twice daily by physicians until they sail to make sure that they carry no disease upon the ships. If emigrants who are ill are isolated in hospitals and persons who traveled with the sick passengers are put into observation stations until it is certain they have no communicable disease.

WILL EVEREST, HIGHEST PEAK, BE CLIMBED?

(By Science Service.)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—Geographers are agog over the forthcoming attempt to scale Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain. At last the veil of mystery that has surrounded this Himalayan peak is to be lifted. There is no greater paradox in the history of geographical exploration than the fact that this great mountain though visible from points in British India, has never been closely approached by a European, much less climbed. The country for forty or fifty miles around it is quite unknown. A bulky treatise might be written on the subject, "What We Don't Know About Mount Everest."

Of course the host of mountaineers who have done so much splendid work elsewhere in the Himalaya have often turned a wistful eye in the direction of Everest. Again and again plans have been made to climb this mountain, but political difficulties have always stood in the way. The mountain stands on the frontier between Tibet and Nepal; two countries that have never welcomed European visitors. Until lately, another country, Russia, has viewed with suspicion the incursions of British explorers into the region north of the boundary of India. Hence, out of regard for the susceptibilities of neighboring states, the British authorities in India have hitherto vetoed every proposal to send an expedition to explore Everest.

On January 10, Sir Francis Younghusband, president of the Royal Geographical Society, announced that permission had at last been obtained from both the India and Tibetan governments to undertake the enterprise so long desired and that an expedition was accordingly being organized by the Royal Geographical Society and the Alpine Club. The British explorers are not planning a hasty dash into the unknown region. Their task is to be carried out with thoroughness and deliberation, and, whether or not the summit is ever reached, the surrounding country will be most carefully explored. No climbing at all is to be done, but about the end of May a party will cross into Tibet and blaze a way to the foot of the mountain, which is to be approached from the north. The leader chosen for this

CRYSTAL FALLS THIEF PASSES UP JEWELRY; COPS BLACKBERRY PIE

Special to the Times.
CRYSTAL FALLS, April 23.—The first robbery in ten years was committed in this town yesterday, when a sneak thief "jimmied" a window in the new home of Bill McGinn, local secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The loot consisted of a blackberry pie, the thief refusing to take a watch and some jewelry on a dresser.

"As a police reporter on a Cincinnati daily for a number of years, I came in contact with a number of thieves, but anyone who will flirt with the penitentiary for the sake of a piece of pastry is a new kind of a crook to me and should be wearing the latest thing in straight jackets as he is a terrible nut," was Mr. McGinn's comment on the occurrence.

reconnoitering expedition is Harold Raeburn. Next year it is hoped that the actual ascent may be made, but if this crowning feat proves more difficult than now expected it may be postponed for yet another year.

An interesting point to be settled in connection with the ascent is whether mountaineers can live and climb at an altitude higher than that of any mountain hitherto ascended. According to the latest figures, the summit of Mount Everest is 29,140 feet above sea level. At that altitude the density of the air is about one-third its density at sea level. Aviators and balloonists have risen considerably higher, but only by carrying a supply of oxygen along with them. "Mountain sickness" is so erratic in its effects that it is impossible to predict how it will affect any particular climber. The expedition of the Duke of Bruzzi ascended another Himalayan mountain, Bride Peak, in 1909, to an altitude of 24,600 feet, and accomplished the even more remarkable feat of spending three weeks above an altitude of 21,000 feet. These achievements encourage the belief that the climbing of Everest is not a physiological impossibility.

The use of airplanes in connection with the coming expedition has been suggested, but the British authorities say that, though there are many places on the lofty Tibetan plains—the "roof of the world"—where planes might land, the rarefied air would make it impossible for any existing type of engine to rise again from the ground.

BUILDING OF NINE STORIES MOVED 75 FEET

Business Proceeds as Dozen Men Push 5,000-Ton Structure in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 22.—A feat which, in the opinion of old engineers, is one of the greatest ever attempted, was completed successfully here when a nine-story modern building, on Wood street, weighing 5,000 tons and filled with hardware, was moved a distance of 75 feet by 12 husky laborers.

In addition to the building, the sidewalks fronting on Wood street and Second avenue, the basement of the building, including the big engine and boilers, all functioning properly, went along with the building, while the hardware business overhead was uninterrupted, customers coming and going as though nothing unusual was happening.

The building is 80 by 20 feet and about 100 feet in height. Ninety pounds rails, 120 of them, made the tracks on which the structure was moved.

It is costing the owners about $80,000 to move the building, but it would have cost $275,000 to tear the building down and build a new one.

The technique was simple. The move was caused by the widening of Second avenue to an eighty-foot boulevard. Engineers lifted the whole building on 1,200 jacks. They raised it 18 inches, sidewalks and all, after they had cut off the steel columns imbedded in the concrete foundation.

Meantime they had built up an elaborate system of wooden timbers and I-beams on which the jacks rested. Then they inserted row on row of 30-pound railroad rails on top of heavy timbers, and on these rails laid 800 steel rollers, about three inches in diameter. These rollers acted as wheels between the building and the concrete floor. Jacks were placed against the concrete cellar wall along Second avenue, under the curbstone.

These were laid horizontally, so that when operated, they would push the building northward toward Third avenue.

As the building slowly was pushed forward, the iron roller that was released on the south side of each set of rails was carried forward and reinserted under the north side of the huge structure so as to make a continuous line of rollers.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Swat the fly and smash in the nose of the man who coughs in your face, is the order Dr. John Dill Robertson, health commissioner, gave his inspectors today in connection with the beginning tomorrow of "health promotion week." He added:

"If a man coughs in your face or sneezes at you, hit him a smash in the nose. You will probably be arrested. Tell the judge you were defending yourself against the pneumonia crook, the germ. If he fines you, I'll pay it."

When England was invaded by Caesar (B. C. 55) it was called Britain, sometimes Albion.

RANGER MERCHANT TURNS STORE INTO JAIL; CAPTURES TWO

H. S. Romick, a merchant on Rusk street, turned his store into a temporary bastle this morning while he waited for the police to come and take two Mexicans he had locked inside, whom he thought were stealing merchandise. However, it developed that the real shoplifter made his escape.

According to Romick three men entered. One purchased a pair of hose and he was showing another a pair of trousers. The third he saw filling his pockets with merchandise. He called to him to desist and the Mexican ran out the door and away. To be certain of holding the other two the merchant locked the door on them. At the police station one of the pair arrested said he knew the third party and promised the police to go with them to locate him. The other was released.

PENSIONING EX-PRESIDENTS.

With each recurring change in the occupant of the White House there comes to mind the agitation begun some years ago by the New York World to provide a liberal pension for ex-Presidents. It is a good idea. While it is not of record that any ex-President of the United States has ever known actual want, yet history does tell us that more than one has been hard put to it to eke out a livelihood.

This fact reflects little credit on so great a nation. No man who has presided for a term of years as chief executive of the United States should ever be reduced to the necessity of going about the country looking for a job.

But what would seem a more simple and altogether wise solution of the rather perplexing question would be to assign to ex-Presidents the most important diplomatic posts within the gift of the administration.

This could be accomplished without legislation by its adoption as a custom.

It need hardly be said that the tendering to an outgoing President of anything smacking in the slightest degree of charity would be resented both by its proposed recipient and by the American people, "charity" being at all times the ugliest word in the dictionary.

So that this plan would appear to be an improvement on that, say, of appointing such questionable ambassadorial timber as Colonel George (Coin) Harvey as this country's envoy to Great Britain.

The post of United States diplomatic representative to the Court of St. James is perhaps the portfolio which carries with it the need for a higher quality of statesmanship than any similar diplomatic assignment in all the world.

Consider now the case of Woodrow Wilson, without regard to any individual opinion of his acts of omission or commission from a partisan viewpoint.

He leaves the Presidency in broken health. His announced intention is to take up the practice of law.

There may be a goodly number of lawyers in this country who would in all the ordinary ramifications of that highly respectable and respected profession shine as brilliantly as Mr. Wilson.

It is extremely doubtful if there could have been found another man peculiarly fitted as is Woodrow Wilson to represent this country in the world's highest diplomatic post.

Then, too, Mr. Wilson would have had leisure to adopt what course might contribute most to the retrieving of his health, avoiding the exertions attendant upon the practice of law.

If this plan had been followed, both Mr. Wilson and the people of the United States would have been assured it did not involve a lowering of their dignity.

In lieu of pensioning ex-Presidents, how much better to adopt the plan suggested and how much better it would have been to begin with Woodrow Wilson.

"I shall not discuss this proposition until I know what it is."—Senator Borah. This is outrageous. It overturns all American political standards. New York Post.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

She was young and pretty and her platinum wedding ring looked shiny new. Judging from his proprietary air, the young man who accompanied her into the train had come into her possession along with the wedding ring. The girl settled herself comfortably, took a folded newspaper from her husband's pocket, and proceeded to enjoy herself audibly. It didn't need any keen deduction to discover that the source of her joy was a newspaper from her home town.

"Oh, Joe!" she trilled, clutching her companion's sleeve, "it says that Jim Allen and Jess Powers were married last week. Jim is such a nut and Jess is just as bad, so I'll say they're well matched." Then followed further snatches of reading, pithy comments on minor happenings of her particular "Main Street," and a rustling and turning of the paper.

Soon a throaty chuckle escaped the reader, and again a hand clutched Joe's sleeve, while a pleased voice read: "Twenty-five Years Ago. Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Thomas gave a party for their small daughter, Mary, on Tuesday last, the happy occasion being the fifth anniversary of Miss Mary's arrival on this planet." The reading ended in a bubbling laugh, but the voice went on: "And Mary trying to get away with twenty-four! You fell for it, too, Joe! You always insisted she was just my age. I didn't want to be cattish, but all the same I knew better. Won't Mary be mad, though? She'll want to smash the whole record plant to smithereens." Then with a happy little sigh: "I couldn't live without my home paper."

"I believe you," agreed Joe. "Especially when it hands you out news like that last." And the woman thought the smile that had flashed forth so readily over the previous items seemed a trifle forced this time.

For Childhood's Tender Years. "If the saying holds true that 'if you train up a child in the way he should go when he is old he will not depart from it,' the woman wonders what kind of men and women of the morrow will be the outgrowth of the children of today. For a child is often influenced by toys—and while they are not direct methods of training for a future career they are frequently an indirect influence for good or ill.

Two playthings that the woman has seen in the windows of two Fifth avenue stores that have set standards of reliability and respectability through the passing years made her pause and stare and ponder. One toy was a solid silver doll's service consisting of knives, forks, spoons, salt cellars and pepper shakers, vegetable dishes and plate for different courses. Each piece was sterling silver stamped thereon. The other toy was a nine inch doll that wore a smirk and little else, and when wound up shook its shoulders in the popular "shimmy" fashion.

Almost Proved. They were in the circulating library—a tall thin woman with a confident look and a smallish woman with thin lips and blazing lack eyes. They were discussing "The A. B. C. of Evolution" and the guileless one was saying:

"But it isn't exactly heretical to believe in evolution—"

"Do you mean to say that we are descended from jellyfish and tadpoles? Or monkeys? The whole thing is preposterous! There are still apes and orang outangs, aren't there? Well, you don't see any man springing from them, do you? And goodness knows they've been swinging from trees long enough to swing a human being in our day and time if there were anything in that!"

"Well," drawled her companion softly, "the only thing that makes me think there might be something in it is when I remember how fearful that enlarged picture of Greatcutie Thad was! You know—the Grand-mother hung onto for so long."

TINKER BOB STORIES
By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB.

MRS. CHIRP AND SILKY HAVE A LITTLE DISCUSSION.

Silky the Monk and Mrs. Red Robin had been talking about the idea of building a house in the forest of the North which was a thousand miles away from the wonderful Southland. Silky was still puzzled to know just why it was that she should do so peculiar a thing. "How long do you stay in the house after you build it?" she asked.

"You seem to be very curious, Mr. Monkey," said Mrs. Robin. "I have seen you climb trees and steal the eggs from nests in the Southland. Might I ask why you, a perfectly good Monkey, would do such a terrible thing as that? It seems to me that stealing eggs would be more peculiar on the part of such a good fellow as yourself, than to build a house."

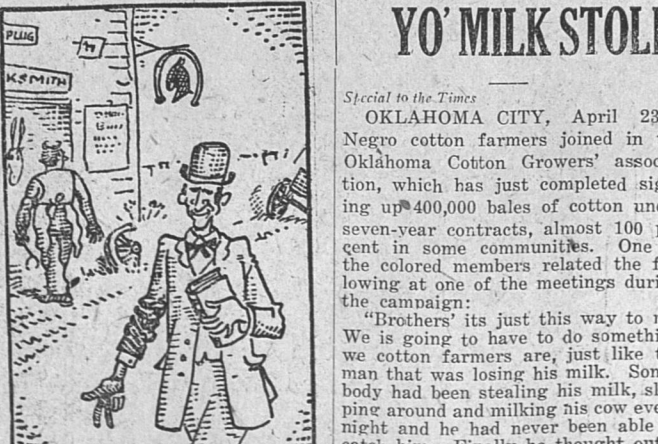

Silky felt this blow quite severely, for he knew it was true. And for a moment or two had nothing to say. Tinker Bob did not even offer to help him out of his serious predicament, for he knew that many such occasions would arise if Silky continued to manfully resist in such a bold way. "Well, I will have to admit, Mrs. Robin, that you spoke the truth, but I did those things because I needed food."

"I believe you," agreed Joe. "Especially when it hands you out news like that last." And the woman thought the smile that had flashed forth so readily over the previous items seemed a trifle forced this time.

Josephus Daniels Tells Story of American Navy's Exploits in World War

tentially dangerous situation, and one of sore trial for Washington and the American people.

Things moved so quickly and complete transformations occurred with such amazing suddenness, that telegraphic isolation from Europe for twenty-four hours might have been fraught with most serious consequences. There were occasions when critical questions came up, and prompt decisions were required. It was of supreme importance then that there should be direct, instantaneous and uninterrupted communication between Washington and London or Paris or Chaumont, or any other of the vital centers of control and direction.

As a matter of fact the Germans did cut some of the cables, but that was the least of our worries once we had developed a complete system of wireless communication.

Marvelous System Perfected. Had the war run into the year 1919 we would have had in operation the most marvelous instrumentality for gathering and disseminating intelligence that the human genius has yet conceived.

Planned in 1917 this greatest of wireless plants was approaching completion when hostilities ended. Work was resumed and completed last year.

The United States navy undertook the erection of the wireless station and structure at Croix d'Hines, near Bordeaux, and named the completed plant La Fayette.

It is today, and is likely to be for years to come, the most powerful radio system in existence. When it was put into operation the following radiogram, addressed to me, came vibrating into the transoceanic room of the navy department—

"This is the first wireless message to be heard around the world, and marks a milestone on the road of scientific achievement.

"LA FAYETTE RADIO STATION." Only One in the World. The message is no empty boast. It states a simple fact, but a fact of which every American may be proud. The La Fayette radio station is the only radio station in the world that can belt the globe with its electrified ether waves.

An inscription has been placed upon the main building of the plant, the exact words of which I will give you presently, but I sometimes think a briefer inscription might have been better. For example:

"I have annihilated distance. I have made the remotest corner of the world my next door neighbor."

There is no spot anywhere on the earth's surface where, if a high power station existed, a message sent from the La Fayette would not be instantly received.

France gave America the immortal work of Bartholdi—"Liberty Enlightening the World!" America has given France, through the genius and enterprise of her navy, a fine de siècle variation on the same theme.

When the tidings of human progress, of commerce and industry and science and politics flash from La Fayette to the high power stations of two hemispheres, in a very real and significant sense it is "Liberty Enlightening the World."

Towers 832 Feet High. La Fayette station consists of eight lofty towers, on immense concrete foundations, arranged in two rows, 1,320 feet apart.

Each tower rises to a height of 832 feet, nearly 300 feet higher than the Washington monument. The system affords an antenna area of 5,227,200 square feet, far larger than that of any other radio station. The longitudinal antenna wires are bronze cables, supported by what the wireless people call triangles. The latter stretch across the aisles formed by the two rows of towers. The antenna wires are 690 feet above the ground.

Signals received from La Fayette at Cavite, San Francisco, the Panama Canal zone and Washington, during the tests, proved to be three to eight times as strong as those of other high power stations at like distances.

When the plant was finished, and the tests had demonstrated the success of what we had set out to do, we prepared a tablet and placed it on the main building, with the following inscription:

"Conceived for the purpose of insuring adequate and uninterrupted transatlantic communication facilities between the American expeditionary forces engaged in the world war and the government of the United States of America.

"Erected by the United States navy in conjunction with and for the government of France."

Robs Sea of Loneliness. One of the great achievements of wireless has been to rob the sea of its loneliness, and of much of its old-time peril. Before Marconi worked his miracle a ship that had been driven from traveled ocean lanes by storm, whose propeller shaft had broken, or whose engine had gone out of business, might lie for days unobserved and unable to communicate with any source of help. Helpless to steer a course, and at the mercy of wave and wind, it might be wrecked and sunk and none left to tell its story. Such things have not been infrequent in the annals of the sea.

Only those who have been to sea know the sense of loneliness, of utter isolation, or restlessness from any source of help which one feels when, standing on the deck or bridge and looking around the full circle of the unbroken horizon, one sees nothing, absolutely nothing, but water—a vast monotony of undulating water.

And the remoteness was as hopeless and as helpless as it felt until wireless came.

Now, if a ship gets into difficulty and needs help it splutters its S. O. S. from its wireless. Confident that it will be heard and answered.

Talked With All Ships. During the war we talked to all our ships, anywhere, whenever we had anything to say; and they talked to one another. We sent them submarine warnings and routings and all kinds of information and orders. Often we would send simultaneously, as many as fifty or sixty messages to all kinds of vessels and they would be picked up by them without difficulty.

At the same time we were sending, our stations along the coast were intercepting every word or signal sent by ships at sea. Sometimes the air was full of them, as the operators said.

The wireless operator in his little room had ears for the world, and all the world spoke to him. There came to him its cries, its warnings, its appeals, sometimes its curses, and sometimes even its laughter. Many a secret he heard and kept.

But the message which never failed to send a thrill through his soul was "Allo! Allo, S. O. S." The call vibrating through the ether meant that somewhere an American or allied vessel was being attacked by a U-boat. Every naval vessel which heard it was hurrying at once to the scene of its origin.

Air Full of Distress Cries. Sometimes in the war zone the air seemed full of "Allos." Nearing the European coast a ship could catch the wireless for hundreds of miles. One moment it might hear a distress signal from some vessel off Ireland, and the next from some craft being attacked in the Bay of Biscay.

Morale was stimulated and helped tremendously by wireless. Our wireless news service was greatly appreciated by the men at sea. It kept them almost as well informed as to what was happening at home and as to the vital happenings in other parts of the world, as if they had been able to get the last edition of the home town paper.

At 10 o'clock each night ships "cleared" for the Navy Press, and we gave out a complete summary of the news of America.

Perhaps one of the most interesting and useful things we did with wireless was to establish radio compass stations, which, by listening to the direction from which a wave length came with greatest force, could determine a ship's position at sea.

Great Help at Ships. These stations of course were originally erected as a means of locating submarines, and in this work they proved so successful that the U-boats hardly dared use their wireless off our coast. Since they finished their U-boat job, however, they have proved of the greatest value to navigation.

There are some seventy of them along the Atlantic, Pacific and gulf coasts, and any ship that becomes lost in fog, or otherwise confused as to its reckoning, can obtain by wireless from the radio compass its exact position. If it is in dangerous waters it will be given sailing directions which will enable it to steer safely into port.

Think of what this would have meant to Columbus, or Magellan, or Cook!

Not a few inventions which were designed specifically for war are now proving of applicable value to the ways and needs of peace. But I doubt if any of them will do more for the saving of life and the facilitating of human intercourse and traffic than the radio compass.

Sometimes I think the achievements of wireless and its still undeveloped possibilities mark the "farthest north" of human adventure in the realm of experiment and research.

Long Way From Fire Signals. Assuredly it is a long road the race has traveled since the days when the tribesmen of Great Britain signalled to each other by hill-top fires and aboriginal 100 per cent American communicated with those who acknowledged the same totem by means of a code written in wavering columns of smoke.

The news of victory at Marathon was carried back to Athens by Pheidippides, who, running with sustained speed the twenty-six miles from battlefield to capital, fell dead from exhaustion with the cry on his lips: "Rejoice, we conquer!"

When Wellington defeated Napoleon at Waterloo it was nearly thirty-six hours before London heard the glad tidings. When the armistice was signed in 1918 Washington had to wait in a few minutes.

BILL INTRODUCED FOR NEW POSTOFFICE AT EASTLAND, TEXAS

Special to The Times. EASTLAND, April 23.—It is possible and altogether probable that Eastland, may, within the next two or three years, be the proud possessor of a federal or postoffice building, all its own.

Congressman Thomas L. Blanton has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill providing for the erection of a postoffice building in this city to cost $60,000, and has the assurance of Senator Morris Sheppard that he will aid in the support of the bill in the Senate.

If this bill is adopted at this session of Congress, it will in all likelihood, judging from past experiences of other towns take from two to three years to get the building completed, as there is much red tape in connection with the purchase of the proper site, the letting of the necessary contract, and other details, and these things move slowly in governmental hands.

Texas, with its area of 265,780 square miles (France has only 204,092 without Alsace-Lorraine), compares majestically with Rhode Island's 1,250 square miles.

GALVESTON'S BATHING SUIT STYLES FOR THIS YEAR BEWILDERING

By Associated Press
GALVESTON, April 23.—Styles in bathing suits and costumes for 1921, as indicated by the displays of local shops catering to the beach trade, are bewildering, both as regards cut and color. Women's garments in particular are a riot of color, while the lines are pronounced more "daring" than ever.
A favorite swimming suit for women, shown here this season for the first time, is of the one-piece type and skirtless. It has, however, an overgarment which is unbuttoned and discarded when the bather takes to the water. Another style much in vogue is the one-piece suit with a diminutive skirt attached. These styles are to be had in almost any color or combination of colors desired. Beach costumes of knitted wool or silk with delicately tinted silk or rubberized capes and caps or hats have made their appearance this year at prices which range from $50 to $200.
Men's suits are more on the utilitarian order, but colors are far from being drab. Indeed some suits are on display which resemble a crazy quilt, the entire garment being made of vari-colored patches in check-board design. These colorful suits, however, dealers pointed out, are purchaseable only in medium sizes—ranging from 34's to 40's—as men whose waistlines are more portentious as their hair grows thinner, are content with unobtrusive suits of plain colors. So also are those masculine bathers whose appearance runs to the other extreme.

SMUGGLING IS NOW FINE ART IN EL PASO

By Associated Press
EL PASO, April 23.—Smuggling is a fine art in El Paso. A man was arrested at the international bridge whose automobile was stuffed with liquor. He had removed all upholstery from the cushions and had stuffed half-pint bottles—100 of them—neatly about the car.
Women inspectors searching women recently have found that they were carrying liquor across the line by wearing rubber bottles and long rubber tubes about their bodies.
The smuggler of narcotics is harder to catch. If he is a user of drugs he is suspected by the look in his eyes and by his complexion, but otherwise he is hard to detect in a crowd. One smuggler carried sufficient narcotics in the false bowl of a pipe to make it profitable. Another apprehended recently carried a paying amount of morphine in his watch chain, behind a baby's picture.
Men have been known to cross the border every day for more than a year without being questioned, then to be searched from head to feet three days in succession by suspicious inspectors. Others drive their automobiles across the line for months without being stopped, then are stopped and searched carefully. The inspectors give the inspectors tips that certain contraband is being brought over or will be brought over at a certain time. As a result, everybody who resembles the person described is stopped and searched.

'VAMPING' AS OUTDOOR SPORT IN W. VIRGINIA, MAY BECOME ILLEGAL

CHARLESTON, West Va., April 23.—An "antivamping" bill, designed to protect the sanctity of the home, has been introduced in the West Virginia legislature by Senator Harmer, of Clarksburg.
The measure provides that if any husband or wife suspects another person of being unduly familiar with his or her mate, they may appear before a justice of the peace, swear to the facts in the case, and then send a written warning to the person lavishing the attention upon the said mate. In event the recipient of the warning fails to take heed and cease the "vamping" methods, the justice shall cause his or her arrest, summon them into court, and, if adjudged guilty of the charge, a fine up to $100 shall be assessed.

SINGLETON'S HOMER WITH BASES LOADED BRINGS NITRO VICTORY

Lefty Adkins Pitches Steady Game; Harding's Play Sensational; Nitros Hit Hard With Men on Bases and Bronc Errors Are Costly.

SAN ANGELO, April 23.—Johnny Singleton, Nitro center fielder, gleamed only one hit in five times up here Friday. But that wallop, bounding over left field fence for the season's first homer, with the bases drunk in the fifth inning, lighted the fuse that blew up the Bronchos. Until then, Tate's double in the fourth had been the only hit made off Walter Word, who enjoyed a one-run lead secured by Angelo in the second, on Brown's triple and Williamson's sacrifice fly to Singleton, after York had dropped an infield throw on McKay's grounder.

The Bronchos counted in their half of the fifth with two runs on singles by Cronkrite and Lovelace. Higginbotham's double. But the visitors put the game on ice in the next two frames. Lovelace opened the sixth with a single, was sacrificed to second by Murphy and tallied on Allen's double. Word tossed out Harding, Adkins singled and Sled registered. In the seventh York hit for the second time, reached second on a passed ball and Tate was safe on McKay's error, stealing second shortly afterwards. Lovelace slammed one straight at Word, who in throwing to first let York and Tate score. Murphy flew out to left. Williamson hurled the ball into centerfield trying to prevent Lovelace from pilfering second, and Lovelay tallied.

Angelo threatened in the seventh when Cronkrite singled, Lewis doubled and Higginbotham and Brown sacrificed in succession, scoring both runners.

Although he again made two errors, Harding batted .500 today and made some sensational stops. Adkins was fairly steady in the pinches and errors behind him were not as costly as those by Word's teammates. Nine hundred and twenty-five fans paid admission to the park Friday, bringing three days' attendance to over 3,500.

SWEETWATER, April 23.—Sweetwater took two out of three from Mineral Wells by winning Friday's game, 12 to 1.

BUSINESS MEN DRAW BASEBALL UNIES SUNDAY

Enough men turned out yesterday afternoon for the Business Men's workout to stage a practice game. It was short-winded, but lively while it lasted. Painter Taylor's Rookies tied Grocer Summers' Yannigans in one and one-half innings, 3-all. Then the fray had to be called off so that the ground could be properly manured for the big opening engagement today between the Nitros and the Sweetwater Swatters.

Manager Summers says prospects are looking pretty good for his nine, but he still wants all the good timber that is available. He figures that he will need eighteen or twenty men on the permanent lineup, in order to be sure of getting a full roster for every game, and if too many show up, the play period can be split between two men.

The Business Men will play the Ranger Waterworks team a practice game Sunday. The new uniforms have arrived and will be distributed at Russell & Co's store at 9 o'clock. Manager Summers asks that all men who have been coming out for the team, and especially those who have been out regularly, to be on hand and draw their livery. These new spring baseball garments are warranted to set well on any many figure.

On May 8, the first Sunday the Nitros are away from home, will come after the Fat and Lean contest staged for the dual purpose of entertaining the multitude and deriving revenue to be applied toward payment for said uniforms.

RANGER BEATS MINGUS HI IN COMEDY SKIT

Visiting Pitcher's Energy and Enthusiasm Outstanding Feature of Matinee.

The world's best eccentric pitcher is young Mr. Goff, of the Mingus high school. He heaved 'em for four innings yesterday in a game here with Ranger High, and although he came out on the short end of the score, as an entertainer he was easily the skit's one best bet. Goff had a fast ball that was too much for Ranger batters, so far as safe knocks went. But more important still, he had a rubber-man sort of windup which set the giggles going. It was no trick at all for him to fix his gaze firmly on any runner occupying first or second, whirl his arm a couple of hundred times, and without ever stopping the gyroscope movement, turn on the toe of his right foot, kick his left knee up under his chin, straighten out and serve 'em red hot from the platter. He did it lots of times, but the umpire was smoking a cigarette and enjoying the game, so he couldn't be bothered by calling balks.

Ranger won, 5 to 0. The 0 was because the visitors couldn't hit, struck at everything and couldn't get to Pellerin safely. Their only hit was made after one was out in the ninth. It was a clean smack by A. Hickman, catcher. The 5 was mainly because the visitors threw the ball around. Their sights were out of line, and when a

JUDGE IS SKEPTICAL ABOUT COW THAT KICKS OUT AUTO TAIL LIGHTS

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—The cow that caused the Chicago conflagration, Washington's dynamite-eating bovine, and the mythical moon-jumper, have a rival in a Pennsylvania cow that specializes in kicking out automobile tail lights.

Fred Holman of Ingemar, when arrested on a charge of driving without a rear light, told Magistrate B. L. Succop that after purchasing a cow he roped it to the back of a truck and started home. Soon afterward the animal kicked out the light, according to the buyer. Ten dollars was added to the cost of the cow when the magistrate imposed a fine.

TYROL TO HOLD FLEBISCITE DESPITE ALLIES' STAND

VIENNA, April 22.—Party leaders in Tyrol province today notified Vienna that despite the entente's new ultimatum against fusion with Germany they would proceed with the plebiscite to learn the wishes of the people.

Innsbruck dispatches say the populace considers the threat of the entente a direct challenge.

SWISS BAR SOVIET TRADE UNTIL VAST DEBT IS PAID

GENEVA, April 22.—Soviet Russia's debt to Switzerland amounts to 466,000,000 rubles, 129,000 Swiss francs, 6,000,000 French francs, 4,500 pounds sterling and 3,000,000 marks. Switzerland does not intend to open commercial relations with Russia until this has been paid or guaranteed.

BRIDE GOES INTO VOLUNTARY EXILE WITH LEPER HUSBAND

MISSOULA, Mont., April 23.—The peaks and the crags of the Bitter Root mountains hold in their maw a little world of a man, a woman and a dog.

The woman has won the name of the "bravest bride in the world."

The man is O. G. Willet, a leper. The woman is his wife, who was a bride of eight months when Willet learned that he was a leper and went into exile.

The dog is Dixie Lad, a collie, content in the affection of his master, unmindful of the barrier that separates Willet from the big world beyond the mountain peaks.

The barrier is a double fence and a sign that reads, "Leprosy Quarantine. Keep away!"

A telephone wire runs to Alberton, three miles away, to carry messages of the needs of Willet and his wife. The bills are paid by the people of Mineral-co, whom Willet represented in the state senate for two terms.

"Any woman would do as I have done," says Mrs. Willet. "My marriage vows are sacred, I promised 'until death do us part.'"

She is a talented pianist. Some one learned that a piano was the one thing she missed most in her voluntary exile.

Newspapers of Missoula printed the story. Enough cash was raised to buy the piano.

Willet shuns medicine. He says he will refuse to go to the government colony for lepers in Louisiana. He tramps the mountains and says that he is getting better, that he believes God will cure him.

Christ in Ranger, be out and out for the devil or else be out, and out for the Lord. The same Christ who bled on the cross in Calvary is here tonight whispering to your soul and His blood will counteract the poisons of sin," said Evangelist Bassett.

It was announced that special services for children will be held next week and also that there would be no service tonight, it being the rest night of the evangelistic party. There will be a preaching service tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and the evening service at 7:45. Mr. Bassett will speak on the subject "The Blood of Souls" in the morning and on "Short Beds" in the evening. Special music at each service by the Vom. Bruchs on the piano and cornet, assisted by the large choir.

BE OUT AND OUT FOR CHRIST OR THE DEVIL, PREACHER'S ADVICE

"People in Ranger are taking soul poison daily," was the statement made by Evangelist Carl Bassett at the First Baptist church Friday night to an audience which filled the building.

"These are the poisons of ingratitude to parents, worldly pleasures, greed and cowardice.

WOULD YOU give up everything else near and dear to you to remain with him until death?

ALIEN BLOOD IS REBIRTH OF HAWAIIAN RACE

By Associated Press

HONOLULU, April 23.—The Hawaiian race, which with the Polynesians in general, has been regarded as a dying people, is being re-born and re-invigorated by infusion of alien blood, according to statistics just compiled by Louis R. Sullivan, of the New York museum of natural history, now attached to the Bishop museum in Honolulu.

Mr. Sullivan has just completed analysis of 4,569 marriages in the islands, selected at random, and his findings in some cases have been surprises to science.

According to the tables, more men in the territory marry women of blood foreign to their own than marry American or British women. The Japanese are not, as has been supposed, the most prolific race in the islands, but are surpassed in this regard by Portuguese, Porto Ricans, part-Hawaiians and Spanish.

Koreans Won't Mix.
Of American women, more than one in every six living in the islands marry Hawaiians, part-Hawaiians, and others of blood strange to their ancestry. Of all the racial groups the Korean women represent the only one which refuses to mix blood, not a single case of a Korean marrying a man other than a Korean having been discovered.

As a whole, the tables indicate, the part-Hawaiian group has a tendency to consolidate, rather than scatter, since of the Caucasian Hawaiian males who marry, 32.7 per cent marry back into the full-blooded Hawaiian strain while only 13.8 per cent take white wives and the remainder, either in-bred among their own kind or marry at large. Of Asiatic-Hawaiian males, 46.4 per cent marry back into the Hawaiian strain, only 4.3 into the Asiatic strain and a negligible proportion into the Caucasian strain.

The result, so far as the Hawaiian race is concerned, is said to be a new racial group, fecund to a high degree, still abnormally susceptible to civilization's diseases, but with much higher resistant powers than the old Hawaiian stock and visibly adding to its numbers.

Women Cling to Race.

While the women of Korea lead all other males and females in the islands in marrying within their own race, there are other groups which are a close second in this respect. Only .3 of one per cent of Japanese women contract out-marriages, or unions with men of other races, while .7 of one per cent of Japanese men so pick their mates. The percentage for the Chinese is 6 per cent for the women and 41.5 for the men; Americans, 17.9 for the women and 51.7 for the men; Portuguese, 32.3 women, 13 men; Hawaiian, 40.5 women, 19.5 men.

The pure Hawaiian death rate is the highest in the islands, 13.48 per thousand annually, although the pure Hawaiian birth rate is nearly twice as high as American, British and other whites. Scientists recognize that susceptibility to diseases of civilization is responsible for the disappearance of the pure Hawaiian race, but the figures just made public by Mr. Sullivan are the first to show that inter-marriage is rebuilding the old race into a stronger, more hardy people.

MEXICAN CABINET FAILS TO ACT ON FOREIGN DEBT

MEXICO CITY, April 22.—Financial affairs were discussed at the cabinet meeting presided over by President Obregon yesterday, but no decision was reached regarding payment of interest on Mexico's foreign debt.

A plan was discussed for regulation of the general financial affairs of the country, with especial consideration to taking up the outstanding postal money orders issued during the Huerta regime.

GERMANY'S PROPOSAL LENDS NEW INTEREST TO PREMIER'S CONFAB

LONDON, April 22.—The dramatic efforts of Germany to induce the United States to arbitrate the reparations question between Berlin and the Entente governments and the refusal of the Washington government to sit as a judge on the merits of the vexing problem have lent new interest to the conference at Lympe Sunday between Premiers Briand and Lloyd George. The expressed desire of the United States that there be an "immediate resumption of negotiations" has brought a new element into the situation. It had been popularly supposed the two premiers would merely consider plans for a further occupation of German territory and not the renewal of exchanges between London, Paris and Berlin.

CUBAN MERCHANTS PROTEST AGAINST U. S. TARIFF RAISE

HAVANA, Cuba, April 22.—The Merchants' association of Cuba held a mass meeting this afternoon to protest against any increase in tariffs on sugar and tobacco by the United States congress.

A resolution was adopted asking the Cuban government to take immediate steps for the initiation of diplomatic negotiations for a new products reciprocity treaty.

Go to Church Sunday

The value of any institution in a city is the service it renders to the persons in that city. Its right to live and its right to ask for co-operation of the citizens of that city, depends on the kind of service it renders.

The church is no exception and if true to its founder, Jesus Christ, it must "produce the goods" in a service that will justify its existence. That the church has done a great service to man is unquestioned; but whether it has done its full service may be questioned.

The churches of Ranger are here to serve the community in every way possible in the betterment of the people and the creation of a better environment in which to live.

To fully perform its work the church must have the full co-operation of every one in the city, from the officials and paid servants, through the merchants and business people and all others interested in the welfare of Ranger.

If the church does not have this co-operation its larger mission fails.

The church tries to reach the spiritual, mental and social interest of its people and to this end seeks the hearty co-operation of the citizens of Ranger. It calls upon all members of any denomination, whose membership is elsewhere, to line up with the church of their choice at once, and lend themselves to the larger usefulness of the churches in Ranger. You cannot build Ranger without churches.
