EBERT DECREE PLACES BERLIN UNDER SIEGE

Residents Carrying Arms Without Permits Are Shot.

BERLIN, March 20, 8 p. m.—Some trains moved in and out of Berlin today. Food supplies continued to arrive as far as could be ascertained the majority of the people of Berlin, even the poorest, now are getting sufficient to eat. A tour by the correspondent over the greater part of the city, including some of the suburban towns and portion of North Berlin where the workmen revealed the fact that shops were fairly well stocked, and selling prices relatively reasonable.

Push carts heaped with vegetables and fruits were parading the streets of the poorest quarters unmoled.

A decree by President Ebert proclaimed Berlin in an intensified state of siege. The regular troops and the security police are empowered to search motor cars for arms. If occupants of these cars are found carrying arms without permits, they are to be shot on the spot, the decree states.

The decree also warns the population of Greater Berlin against being on the street after night.

Baltic troops have not left the Berlin district and are assembled near the zoological garden waiting a fresh pretext to enter the city. Some troops are there, but what unit they belong to cannot be ascertained. Numerous security police are coming into Berlin from the country round about.

Civil War in Saxony.
STUTTGART, March 20.—Private dispatches report a state of civil war in Saxony and Thuringia. Government authorities are censuring newspaper reports to prevent spread of alarm. Uprisings in Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Baden and the north are feared of here. Loyal government troops are now reported proceeding to central Germany.

THE HAGUE, March 20.—The Ebert government situation from a military standpoint has been improved greatly according to Berlin dispatches to Dutch papers this afternoon. The improvement continues in several districts but from a Berlin estimate it appears that more than two-thirds of the troops in Germany are on the side of President Ebert.

Rhine Feels Urest.
AMSTERDAM, March 20.—The commander of the government troops at Munster has telegraphed Bauer declaring the situation in the Rhine provinces to be growing more serious, says a dispatch to the Telegraph. Virtually all the industrial region is in the control of the Spartacists, according to the commander, who asks Minister of the Defense Noske to not resign saying the troops were confident of his power to restore normal conditions.

TREATY DEFEAT A HUGE CRIME BRYAN STATES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 20.—William Jennings Bryan, in an interview on the reduction of the treaty here today declared:

"The defeat of the treaty is a colossal crime against our own country and the world. If we allow a minority of the senate to dictate the policy of the senate on this momentous question, we betray democracy.

"The action of the senate is more disgraceful because the rejection was brought about by a union between a group of Democrats and the irreconcilable foes of the treaty whom the Democrats have been denouncing for eight months.

"The action of the senate should not be allowed to stand as the verdict of the nation. The majority in Congress should assert itself at once; first, by declaring the war at an end; second, by declaring in favor of the nation's participation in the negotiations on such terms as the majority agreed upon; third, by proposing an amendment to the constitution permitting a majority of the senate and house to ratify a treaty by joint resolution and in the same bill define the nation's foreign policy, thus making it as easy to end a war as to begin it.

"In the meantime, the people should wire and write to senators and president urging a ratification." A change of four votes will be sufficient."

Taft Blames Wilson.
GREENSBORO, N. C., March 20.—"The government of the man who happens to be the nation's chief executive at this time is solely responsible for the defeat of the peace treaty and the League of Nations," was the statement of former President Taft, made here today after he had read the account of the senate's action last night in refusing to ratify the treaty.

London Anticipated.
LONDON, March 20.—The rejection of the German peace treaty by the United States senate brought out little comment in the London newspapers today as a vote adverse to the pact had been more or less generally anticipated.

"Just as we had expected," was the expression in official quarters at the news.

Of the afternoon newspapers, only the Westminster Gazette makes editorial comment. It placed the blame for the situation upon the treaty making system of the United States.

Siems Irish Rider.
LIVERPOOL, March 20.—The Daily Post commenting editorially on the action of the United States senate in adopting a new treaty resolution expressing sympathy for the aspirations of the Irish people and declaring the hope that Ireland would have a new government of its own choosing, said:

"The American senate has surely overstepped the bounds of good sense to say nothing of good taste. It has as much as said it will welcome the emergence of Ireland into full independence.

"However, it is an example of the kind of international meddling which the senate professes to condemn in the covenant of the League of Nations."

WILHELM SHOWS EFFECT OF TROUBLE IN OLD KINGDOM

By Associated Press
AMERONGEN, March 20.—The week of rain following the events in Germany has apparently made a great impression upon the mental and physical condition of the former German emperor. His nervousness and sleeplessness are increasing and in trying to conceal his emotions, the ex-kaiser behaves in a manner which seems evidently strange to the servants who have cared for his wants since he became an exile here.

Where formerly he drank only light wines at meal time, the former emperor now calls for wine during the intervals of his wood sawing. His nervous habit of straddling chairs has increased.

CLASSIC DOG DERBY OF NORTH STARTS FROM THE PAS
By International News Service.
THE PAS, Manitoba, March 20.—The third annual 100-mile dog derby—with teams from many parts of the North entered—started here today. The course lies between The Pas and Sturgeon Landing and return. A purse of $1,000 and a large silver and gold cup emblematic of the championship will be awarded to the winning driver. The race is known as the Hudson Bay Dog Derby and has taken the place of the All-Alaska Sweepstakes, now abandoned. Greyhounds, Alaskan malamutes, collies and dogs of other breeds are among the teams entered.

FINDS SCHOOL OF MINNOWS IN TENDER OF R. R. ENGINE
By International News Service.
OSAWATOMIE, Kan., March 20.—J. E. Sturges, boilermaker foreman at the Missouri Pacific roundhouse here, now believes there's nothing new under the sun.

Sturges was convinced of this the other day when he found a school of minnows in the tender of an engine brought into the shop for repairs. The "small fry" are believed to have been in the tender several weeks. How they got there is a mystery.

Baltic Troops Still Menace Berlin

This photograph, recently received from Germany, is significant of late events in the German capital. General von Luettwitz was a lieutenant of Noske under the Ebert regime. He took a prominent part in the training of troops for the Baltic region. These were the troops, according to dispatches, used by Von Luettwitz and other royalists in attempting to overturn Ebert. It will be noted in the accompanying photograph that he does not require the once famous "goose step" from his troops.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Exportation to Mexico of machinery for the manufacture of arms and ammunition can be stopped only by the exercise of war powers still vested in the President, Attorney General Palmer held today in an opinion sought by the state department.

Mr. Palmer added that in his opinion that the exportation of equipment to make munitions in Mexico would not in itself afford an opportunity for disorder, while ultimate use of such machinery might result in disorders within the present laws there was no ground for establishing an embargo, he said.

The state department requested that opinion on the ground that a question could be raised in this connection with the proposed establishment of a munitions plant in Central Mexico.

MUNITIONS PLANT MACHINERY EXEMPT FROM RESTRICTION

DENVER WOMAN
WANTS PARKING SPACE
FOR BABY CARRIAGES

International News Service.
DENVER, March 20.—Councilman Louis Straub, who represents a constituency of nearly 12,000 persons in the Denver city government, believes in giving the people who elect him to office a "run for their money."

One day of each week he devotes to "open house" discussion with the voters in his downtown office. Complaints and suggestions are freely sought by the councilman, and much "freak legislation" is advocated during these discussions.

Straub's district includes much of the business center of Denver, and among the councilman's frequent callers is a woman who conducts a store on the main thoroughfare. Her plea is for the passage of a city ordinance creating parking space for baby carriages.

"I have such limited space in my store," she told the councilman, "that when a few customers bring their baby carriages in they fill up all the aisle space.

"I think the city ought to mark off a parking space on the sidewalk where mothers could park their baby carriages instead of wheeling them into the stores."

Suggestions that the city detain a policeman to watch this parking space brought out many protests from the "open house."

"Just as you are going to Straub who objected on the ground that it might become necessary for them to resort to the "bottle" to keep the youngsters quiet.

HOUSE APPROVES VOCATIONAL WORK FOR SERVICE MEN

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Investigation of the work of the federal board for vocational education in training war disabled soldiers and sailors was approved today by the House, which adopted the resolution giving the House education committee powers for conducting the inquiry.

The investigation was requested by the board after charges against its administration had been made by a New York newspaper.

OLD H. C. L. DIDN'T ROTHER OLD PLAINSMEN
By Associated Press.
BRENTHAM, March 20.—The question of how much salary must a man make before leaving matrimony, now engaging the attention of engaged couples the country over was the least of the worries attendant upon marriage in the days when Texas was a republic, as revealed here in connection with celebration of the state's independence, March 2.

Each plainsman upon taking to himself a wife, was granted an additional tract of land to that which he owned as a single man.

Old Texas republic records, in the archives of Washington county, contain the originals of many of these applications for land.

"L. C. B. Steward" reads one of these documents, "having become by the contract of marriage entitled to an augmentation of land to that which I have as a single man. . . . A line further down the marriage contract entered into reads: 'And consents of the holy state of matrimony do by this net or contract unite ourselves in marriage, solemnly pledging ourselves to live chastely a wedded life.'

"Texas' declaration of independence was signed at Old Washington, on the Brazos, March 2, 1836.

SPECTACULAR TRY TO GET DEBS FREE PLANNED IN APRIL

CHICAGO, March 20.—A "spectacular but dignified" effort to secure the release of Eugene V. Debs from the Atlanta (Ga.) penitentiary will be made in Washington, D. C., April 13, the national Socialist headquarters here announced today. Debs, who has been mentioned as the next Socialist presidential candidate, was convicted under the espionage act and imprisoned April 13, 1919.

Delegations of Socialists from all parts of the country will arrive on special trains and march up Pennsylvania avenue carrying placards and headed by a brass band, according to the plans.

The procession will go to the White House, where it is planned to have a pre-arranged conference with the President. General amnesty will be asked of Congress and the President for "all Socialists and radicals confined or under prison sentence under the espionage act convictions."

SAYS WEATHER BUREAU IS NATIONAL ASSET
By Associated Press.
DALLAS, March 20.—Interesting facts regarding the benefits of the weather bureau and its records were given recently by Joseph L. Cline, meteorologist in charge of the local United States weather bureau, addressing a business men's club.

A weather bureau in a city is an asset, he declared. Few new industries locate in a city without studying weather records, damage suits are often settled out of courts by reference to them.

Advance notice of a cold wave, Mr. Cline said, gives warning to close greenhouses, start boilers and furnaces, cut off water from exposed fire plugs and plumbing, to drain gasoline engines and to stop concrete work. Street car companies are advised in advance to arrange heat in cars, gas companies to increase the pressure and shippers of perishables to withhold shipments.

COLLEGE GIRLS WORK
DURING HELP SHORTAGE
By International News Service.
SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., March 20.—When the cooks walk out of the kitchen at Mount Holyoke College the college girls walk in. That is what happened when the cook at Woodbridge hall quit her job.

Many of the girls are helping earn their way through college by working as waitresses and dishwashers. The girls were cleaning their own rooms, because of the shortage of female help, caused by the demands of nearby factories.

Girls recently shingled the Episcopal home when men could not be obtained.

The volunteers who meet these emergencies are unpaid, but what they save the college is going toward its $3,000,000 endowment.

CORDELL PETROLEUM CO.
RETAINS RICH OIL LAND
By Associated Press.
WICHITA FALLS, March 20.—The jury in the case of the Cordell Petroleum Co. vs. C. S. Taylor et al., being tried before Judge James C. Wilson of the central district court for northern Texas found for the defendants late this afternoon. Possession of a tract of 945 acres of rich oil producing land in the Burk Burnett district, valued at $25,000, was involved. The case has been on trial throughout the week.

RANCH EMPLOYEES SETTLE QUARREL BY RIFLE DUEL
By International News Service.
WELLINGTON, Kan., March 20.—J. A. Hays and Ed Hill, employees of a ranch near here, resorted to the old-time duel to settle their differences the other day.

CHILDREN NOT VACCINATED BARRED FROM SCHOOL, SUES

FRANCETOWN, N. H., March 20.—William Bassett, well to do resident of this town, has brought suit against the New Hampshire state board of education, seeking to compel the board to educate his two daughters, aged 12 and 16 years. Bassett charges that for three years the children, whom he would not allow to be vaccinated, had not been permitted to attend public schools.

Bassett has filed as evidence certificates of three physicians to fulfill the law on exemption of his children from vaccination. Bassett declares that in spite of these certificates the board of health of this town has not permitted the two girls to go to public schools with other children.

Judge Pike, of superior court, has appointed Thomas D. Luce, of Nashua, as master to hear evidence in this unusual case, the first of its kind in New Hampshire.

SPANNED HORSE WITH $5
BILLS, THEN PAID THAT PRICE
By International News Service.
MONTROSE, Col., March 20.—Poor judgment of distance cost the buyer of a horse here some $15 extra. While the owner of the animal and the prospective purchaser were bargaining over the value of the animal—the purchaser having offered $40 and the owner demanding $50—the purchaser declared he would pay whatever price the spanning of the animal with $5 bills amounted to. It took twelve and one-half $5 bills to go around the horse and the price of $62.50 was paid.

PLANT EMPLOYEES START COLLECTIVE BUYING ASS'N

LYNN, Mass., March 20.—Collective buying of the necessities of life is to be inaugurated by 4,000 employees of the Lynn works of the General Electric company, who have organized a corporation to be known as the General Electric Collective Buying Association. The main object of the association is to lower the cost of living.

There are 15,000 employees at the plant, and it is expected that there will be 10,000 members of the association in a short time. Each employee upon becoming a member has to pay a fee of $10 in cash or in installments.

Other purposes of the association are to assist members in building homes, lending money to members in distress and to those who wish to educate themselves or their children.

AFFIXES HIS "MARK" TO MARRIAGE LICENSE
HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 20.—Raymond Rhue had to sign his name by a mark in getting a marriage license here a few days ago. Rhue is said to be the first white man licensed on a "mark" signature in many years.

Rhue's use of the mark was due to the fact that he had a fractured right arm which was bandaged in such a way that he could not use it. He made the mark with his left hand.

CRIME CHAIN IS UNCOVERED IN CONFESSION

W. B. Gordon, alias E. J. Smith, nineteen-year-old highwayman, who attempted to hold up the Midway Garage Friday night and was captured by Mike Cadna, mechanic, has, in a signed statement to the police, confessed to that and other robberies.

R. T. Smoods and O. S. Miller, who were held up in their respective stores Wednesday and Thursday nights and robbed, according to the police, positively identified Gordon as the man who robbed them.

In his statement, Gordon stated that he came to Eastland about two months ago from his home in Ottumwa, Iowa. He worked at various jobs until last Saturday night when he came to Eastland with a woman whose name he did not know. In Eastland he had met a man, about his own age whom he knew only as Ray. This man and another woman whom he called Bill had come to Ranger on an earlier train.

The men did nothing until Wednesday, when, according to Gordon's statement, Ray went out to a drug store and bought two bottles of toilet water, one bottle of which they drank. That night Smoods's store was held up, the haul netting $13 and two checks, one of which was burned and the other cashed. Gordon could not remember who the checks were on or for what banks.

During Thursday they continued to drink Lilac de France, he says. Thursday night O. S. Miller and another man were held up in Miller's store, taking $18 or $19 and two watches from the men.

Friday the attempt was made on the Midway Garage, resulting in the capturing of Gordon.

In each of the robberies, Gordon went inside with the gun and Ray stood guard, he said. Gordon refused to implicate anyone except Ray, and he has not yet been apprehended.

Aside from the confession Gordon stated that he had never been in trouble before and that in these instances he was crazed from the effect of the stuff he had been drinking.

OYSTER CULTURE GAINS ALONG TEXAS COAST
By Associated Press.
CORPUS CHRISTI, March 20.—Oyster culture and production along the Texas coast during the coming season will probably be on a larger scale than ever in the past, according to William G. Sterrett, state game, fish and oyster commissioner, who completed a tour of the coast recently.

"The work of reconstruction of the fish and oyster business," said Col. Sterrett, "which was seriously harmed by the tropical hurricane of last September is going forward rapidly and fishermen everywhere seemed greatly encouraged over the future."

"The storm destroyed or damaged a large part of the boats used by the fishermen but these are gradually being put in shape again. The appropriation by the state legislature for the breaking up of oyster reefs where the oysters are too thick will begin at once. Barges, machinery and boats are being adapted to cultivation of oyster reefs by the state, and the work of cultivation will be begun this spring."

Colonel Sterrett said that the oysters in some locations in Texas this year are of a quality superior to any Texas oysters in the past. He also reports that the fish in the bays east of here are more plentiful than usual.

"I find, also," he said, "a general growth of law-abiding spirit among the fishermen of the state."

HIS NAME "SAUERHOFFER" ALMOST BUSTED ROMANCE

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—George Peter Sauerhoefer of Farmington, Wood Miss Nancy May, also of Farmington, Nancy liked the wooing and everything but that name—Sauerhoefer—kind of broke up in chunks in her mouth. It was too hard to juggle, so when George Peter popped the question Nancy said yes, with reservations. The reservations were that Peter got himself a new companion. Peter was agreeable—anything got the girl, so he and Nancy itinerated to Springfield. Here Peter made application to Judge Burton in the circuit court for a new name plate in the way of George Peter Markland. The judge, himself a staunch proponent of free and easy speech, suited up Sauerhoefer a couple of times and finally wrote George Peter Markland on a certificate, forever legalizing Peter to bear that surname. Two minutes afterward George and Nancy were at the county clerk's desk investing a dollar and half in a marriage license. That paved the way for a honeymoon at the Wedding March, which played a couple of hours later for them.

BIG GUSHER REPORT FROM NECESSITY HAS NOT BEEN CONFIRMED

According to an unconfirmed report reaching the Times Saturday night, a big well has been completed on the Gulf Production company's J. W. Beyers lease, a mile and a half northwest of Nessity. It is credited to 10,450 barrels production. At 10:45 p. m. no word of it had been received at the Gulf Scouting office. The J. West lease, three-quarters mile northwest, reports a 900-barrel well.

GOMPERS ATTACKS PLANS OF INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Recommendations by President Wilson's conference to settle industrial unrest were attacked today by President Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. In a long prepared statement, Gompers said the machinery for adjusting disputes between employers and employees "which has for years been in existence in practically every organized industry in the United States is superior to the machinery now suggested by the industrial conference both in point of simplicity and in point of effectiveness."

SEN. NEWBERRY APPEALS CASE OF CONSPIRACY

Two Others of Fifteen Convicted Get Maximum Penalty.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 20.—Truman H. Newberry, senator from Michigan, was today convicted by a jury of having conspired criminally in 1918 to violate the election laws. He was sentenced by Judge Clarence Sessions to two years' imprisonment and fined $10,000.

Released on bond pending an appeal, he at once issued a statement of his intention to retain his seat in the Senate unless that body decided otherwise or the supreme court upholds his conviction.

Sharing the senator's case were his brother, John F. Newberry, and fifteen campaign managers, including Frederick Cody of New York and Paul H. King of Detroit. Both received the limit sentence.

The brother was fined $10,000 and was one of the four not sentenced to Leavenworth. The lightest sentence went to George F. Ladd and he was fined $1,000.

The jury was ready with its verdict at 11:12 a. m. Just a half hour later it had been discharged after freeing thirty-eight defendants. After luncheon the senator and his sixteen associates were brought into court again.

Judge Sessions asked if any wished to say anything before sentence was pronounced. They stood mute. Then the court read the crime order formula of sentence.

Newberry was elected senator from Michigan by a majority of 7,567 votes over Henry Ford, according to the official figures. First formal charges of irregularities in the 1918 campaign came Feb. 6, 1919, when Henry Ford filed with the Senate an appeal for a recount. He alleged improper use of mails by the Newberry campaign committee, intimidating of voters, improper rejection of ballots, and charged that at least 10,000 ballots were unlawfully counted for Newberry.

Charges of "fraud and corruption" also were made by Lieutenant Governor L. D. Dickinson, and it was on these charges, according to the grand jury inquiry was ordered.

The grand jury returned the indictments naming Senator Newberry and 134 others. The list was pared down to eighty-five after the trial got under way more than eight weeks ago.

(The state militia quelled the riot And all was once more quiet.)

Gavvy Cravath This Year Faces Acid Test of Major Managership

International News Service. NEW YORK.—Gavvy Cravath's ability as a major league manager will be subjected to the acid test this year.

The veteran outfielder of the Phillies, who succeeded Jack Coombs as pilot of the team in mid-season last year, had little or no chance at that time to accomplish things with the club, which had been practically wrecked and what Cravath inherited was a nightmare rather than a ball club in many respects.

But 1920 will see Cravath get an opportunity to do things in a managerial way, and when the Phillies take the field as the National league race gets under way there will be several new faces in the line-up.

Cravath, like most of the major league managers who have been looking for talent with which to mend their fences, has had but little luck in securing new players who can be depended on to fill the bill. The Phillies, as a result, are not being classed as pennant contenders in the early-season doing, and it appears to a man up a tree that Cravath will have to pull some of that "miracle man" stuff if he hopes to drive the Phillies into the running and keep them there.

The Phillies are training at Birmingham, and will play a number of exhibition games with the Southern league teams before opening for the season. They are one of the few major league clubs that did not arrange a joint barn-storming trip with a club of the rival league.

With Bradley Hoeg's announced determination to retire and practice law at Americus, Ga., Cravath will depend upon Eppa Rixey, Lee Meadows, Geo. Smith, Cantwell, Murray, Winert and several other pitchers among whom is Ray Lingerel, a big right-hander who made quite a record with the Massillon, Ohio, team, last summer. This staff of pitchers is far from being one of the strongest in the National league and unless Smith, Lingerel, Cantwell or some of the other youngsters come through and help Rixey and Meadows shoulder the pitching burden, the Phillies will probably find the going pretty tough.

Jack Adams and Walter Truesler will do the catching for the Phils, and from present indications, the outfield will be made up of Cy Williams, Casey Stengel and "Irish" Muesel. Not a bad outfield by a long way. There's hitting power and speed in this trio.

The third base question was the biggest bugaboo camping on Cravath's trail when he started south with the athletes. A youngster named Wrightstone, from Philadelphia semi-pro ranks, and Heilman, a Cincinnati semi-pro, were the only candidates for the job at the hot corner. The rest of the infield positions will be well taken care of, for Davy Boneroff will cover short, Jack ("Dots") Miller second and either Fred Luderus or Gene Paulette will cavort at first base. Cravath let it be known some time ago that he was playing no favorites in lining up the 1920 Phillies, and said that the man who showed to the best advantage would get the job in every instance, while means that Paulette is to have his big chance. The betting among Philly fans, however, incline toward Luderus, on account of the heavy polling ability of the veteran first sacker.

As the Phils work out the kinks they size up in the mediocre class. The catching and outfielding departments will be pretty strong and the infield will be able to hold its own with the possible exception of third base. But the pitching of the Phils is going to be weak, from present indications, and no team can hope to win a pennant without a strong pitching staff, much less finish among the select set in the first division.

There is this to be said for Cravath, however; he is a hustler first and last and all the time. He is popular with his players and can get a maximum of work out of them. And if he isn't succeed in fighting his way into the first division it will be because of a lack of talent rather than because of any fault in his handling of the team. It appears certain that his resourcefulness as a manager will be tested to the limit.

SPOKANE CATHOLIC PRIESTS GRANTED SALARY INCREASE

SPOKANE, Wash.—Parish priests of the Catholic diocese of Spokane have been granted an increase in salary, according to a statement issued by Bishop Skinner. The raise in salary amounts to $100 a year, making $600, with household and living expenses paid, which latter are provided for by parishioners. The increase will affect about fifty priests in the Spokane diocese. The salaries of assistant priests has been increased, living and household expenses included.

HE-GIRLS AND SHE-MEN DISTURB A CARDINAL

BOSTON.—Women in this country are becoming masculine and men are growing effeminate, in the opinion of Cardinal O'Connell. Man is the head of the house, he told a meeting of men in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross recently, and should assert his proper authority. Cardinal O'Connell said he did not understand how a father could look on his children, especially the girls, running rampant without any consideration for modesty. He criticized the evil of extravagance in expenditures, and predicted a financial reaction in this country somewhat similar to that which caused Europe's virtual bankruptcy.

Large Hog Farm Planned to Solve Garbage Question

A wholesale hog farm, about one mile west of the city is a late venture of Doctors R. L. and W. R. Hodges.

These men have entered into a contract with the city to remove all garbage from the downtown districts to be used as a fattening product for hogs which they will buy on the Fort Worth market. The hogs will be fattened and used to supply local demand.

Hodge Brothers have already received 280 swine, and are expecting another carload next week of 140 head. Dr. R. H. Hodges in discussing the matter said "There is a general opinion prevalent that city garbage can not be successfully used in a large way, due to the fact that it made disease, especially cholera, break out among the stock."

But his opinion is that if it is used scientifically it could be made to pay satisfactory dividends. Doctor Hodges is convinced that a venture will be a success.

This arrangement between the city and Hodge Brothers will successfully rid the city of a big problem.

Talking along the same line Sanitary Inspector Stowe said that he had notified all cafe and restaurant owners that the weapons of Hodge Brothers would call for their garbage without cost to them, but that they must provide a platform and keep a covered garbage can upon it. Inspector Stowe further said that violations of this notice were finable.

WACO, March 19.—Baylor university, one of the oldest institutions of higher education in Texas, will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary at the June commencement with a diamond jubilee.

WATER WELLS MUST PASS RIGID INSPECTION

All water wells from which the public is served commercially will be tested by Dr. C.O. Terrell, city health officer. Those with water found unfit for consumption will be condemned and their use prohibited. This action is a continuation of a sanitary survey being made by Sanitary Inspector Stowe and other city department heads.

A department of the development of motion pictures for business, school, church, home and other non-theatrical purposes, inaugurated by the Universal Film company, has been put under the charge of Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, secretary of the New York State Reconstruction commission.

Former President William Howard Taft and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, are among the prominent men who are said to have accepted invitations to deliver addresses at the celebration. Secretary Daniels, it was said, would speak as the personal representative of President Wilson.

DEMPSEY AND KEARNS FACE U. S. CHARGES

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Jack Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy to evade the draft when arraigned here today in the United States district court. Dempsey furnished $2,000 and Kearns $1,000 bond.

By International News Service. SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Jack Dempsey, champion heavy-weight fighter of the world, and his manager, Jack Kearns, appeared in the federal court here today to answer charges of "slackerism" preferred against them by a federal jury.

The indictments are based on true bills returned against both the fighter and his manager charging conspiracy to defeat the selective draft law and another bill charging Dempsey separately with evading the draft. They were returned after a thorough sifting of charges originally made by Maxine Dempsey, former wife of the pugilist, later withdrawn by her in a signed statement, and on alleged letters which Dempsey wrote her asking that she sign his questionnaire and state that he was supporting her. On this contention and maintenance plea of Dempsey he was granted deferred classification in the draft and was, as a direct result, able to avoid duty with the American armies in France, it is alleged.

Back of it all lies the story of "a woman's love turned to hatred" to use the same expression employed by Mrs. Dempsey herself. When prominence was given to the proposed match of Dempsey and Carpenter, certain eastern branches and posts of the American Legion raised the question of "slackerism" or rather, his participation in the war. It was known he had worked for a time in the shipyards at Seattle, but beyond this the legion members knew nothing and raised the question of "service."

Quickly following these questions and protests raised by the eligonaries Mrs. Dempsey, from the little city of Wells, Nev., where she was employed in a "dance hall," came forth with the statement that "Jack was a slacker and I have the letters to prove it. He avoided service by saying he had to support me and begged me to sign such a statement. All the while he knew he was not contributing to my support. He lied and he is a slacker."

For a few days Mrs. Dempsey, or rather the former Mrs. Dempsey, made similar statements, alleging on the whole that Jack was "afraid of the army."

Finally Kearns, acting for Jack, issued a statement to the effect that Mrs. Dempsey "lied"—she had no such letters, for they had never been written."

Rather broad hints were contained in the statement, issued over the fighter's name, that Mrs. Dempsey was in the clutches of a blackmail gang who sought $40,000 for hush money to suppress the supposed letters.

Then, of a sudden, Mrs. Dempsey appeared one day in San Francisco to sign an affidavit that all her statements had been false—that she had lied with the fury of a woman whose love had turned to hate, as she herself expressed it, and that "Jack was no more slacker than any man who fought, or its substance."

Her sudden change of heart was not sufficient to quiet the demand among not only former service men of this country and particularly the western coast, but federal officials as well.

Annette Adams, United States district attorney here, saw in these statements "something that would bear investigation."

Accordingly, she assigned Colonel Thomas, former service man himself, and now assistant United States district attorney, to investigate the case.

Investigations, in the meanwhile, ought by members of the American Legion as an organization and by ex-service clubs generally, were insisted upon. These were dropped, however, when it was seen that the office of the district attorney had taken a hand in the matter.

On February 27 last followed the true bills and indictments returned by the grand jury, to whom Colonel Thomas had gone with what data he had been able to obtain.

Following the usual custom of the United States grand juries, the indictments were placed on secret file and it was not permitted to become known, definitely, on just what evidence the jurors had based their action.

Kearns welcomed the indictments. "So, our enemies have finally succeeded in getting the grand jury to indict us, eh?" was his comment to a reporter active of the International News Service when first informed of the charges.

"Well, it's a good thing. Now we can come out in the open and tell our side of the story, and when we do there will be some people who'll seek cover and you can make a large sized bet on that. It's persecution, pure and simple, and we'll be glad of the change to show these birds up."

Since the publicity given Jack's war record Major Anthony Biddle has conferred with the fighter and Kearns and, it is said, has rendered a report said by some to exonerate Dempsey. This report was given the army, navy and civilian board of boxing control.

Both Dempsey and Kearns had not deviated from this attitude of welcoming a thorough and official examination of Jack's war record when court convened today. Dempsey was prepared, his attorneys declared, to make as stiff a fight in the courtroom as he could in the ring, and, to hear them say it, "heaven help our enemies. We'll show this to be a rotten frame-up to crush Jack, and the people generally will be with us when they learn the truth."

SPORTS

8 TO 5 THIS MATCH DOES NOT COME OFF

International News Service. NEW YORK.—Why not match Jimmy Wilde and Jack Dempsey? A New York boxing fan suggests that such a match might not be so unequal as it sounds, and contends that Wilde is only a few steps out of Dempsey's class after all. Here's the dope to prove it:

Jimmy Wilde fought Joe Lynch. Lynch fought Joey Fox. Fox fought Benny Valger. Valger fought Johnny Dundee. Dundee fought Benny Leonard. Leonard fought Jack Britton. Britton fought Mike O'Dowd. O'Dowd fought Clay Turner. Turner fought But Lovinsky. Lovinsky fought Dempsey.

But the poundage is something else again: Jimmy Wilde, 157; Jack Dempsey, 200.

YOUNGSTER GETS TRIAL

International News Service. GOLDEN, Colo.—Lloyd Silcott, former local high school star, and who for several years has done some brilliant work with semi-pro teams in Colorado and Wyoming, is being given a tryout by the St. Louis National league club at Brownsville, Texas.

SOME BROAD JUMPER

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Irving Reed, eighteen-year-old Moses Brown school athlete, is a regular human grasshopper, and he hopes to win a place on the American Olympic team as a broad jumper. Reid has jumped 10 feet 4 inches in competition and recently, in practice, cleared 10 feet, 6 inches in the standing broad jump. The American title was won by William Taylor last year with a jump of 10 feet 5 1/2 inches.

LONGHORN FANS THINK NINE A STRONG ENTRY

AUSTIN, March 20.—Texas University baseball fans take the ten-inning contest between Texas and San Antonio Aces recently as an indication that the Longhorn nine will be hard to beat in the intercollegiate circle this year.

The Longhorns piled up eleven hits two of which were home runs, and Barry and Gillett held the Aces to twelve hits, none of which left the park.

Falk, who will leave to join the Chicago White Sox at the end of the college baseball season, got a home run, a two-bagger and a single. Hart captain, made two singles.

The coach stated that Falk will do little pitching this season, as he wants to practice in the outfield, where he expects to play with the White Sox. He made good on several hard chances in the outfield during the recent game.

SCHALK NEAR A RECORD

International News Service. CHICAGO.—Ray Schalk, premier catcher of the American league, will have a record of 1,000 games behind that of Chicago White Sox this season unless injuries prevent him from playing. He is only about forty games behind this mark after having worked "the hind the sticks" for the White Sox for eight years. The big league catcher has caught 1,000 games and none in his life has caught 100 or more games per season for as many years as Schalk. Bill Killefer, of the Cubs, is Schalk's nearest rival in the matter of work with the win and mask.

HARTZELL IS BUSHED

International News Service. CASPER, Wyo.—Roy Hartzell, former New York Yankee star, has arrived in Casper and will play second base for the Midwest Refining ball club this season. The Midwest team won the championship of the Rocky Mountain semi-pro tourney last season, and Manager Arbogast predicts that they will repeat this year.

DETROIT.—Pugilists as well as spectators who are among those present at matches pulled off by the National Sporting club here will "have to be good" in the future.

Sheriff Duke Coffin, sheriff of Wayne county, has been appointed of fiscal timekeeper for the club and will officiate in that capacity along with his duties as peace officer, supervising bouts under the Michigan state boxing commission rules.

The office of official timekeeper carries with it two seats at the ring side for each show and that is what the sheriff will receive in lieu of money for his services.

The Belgian chamber of deputies has voted in favor of votes for women 21 years of age, as well as men.

STURKIE WELL NO. 1

OF THE COMANCHE OIL ASSOCIATION

Don't Let This Well Come in Without Owning an Interest in a Part of Our Acreage Adjoining the Holdings of the Comanche Oil Association

Should this well come in as big as the indications predict, it will make more oil in a few hours than can be found in the entire Toyah Basin and Pecos Valley. This is not propaganda. It's a deep test oil well showing oil and gas.

Just you remember this, that Comanche County is one of the biggest oil producing counties of Texas and of the Mid-Continent Oil Field. That the oil field consisting of Comanche, Eastland, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Callahan, Brown, Erath and others have hardly been scratched, and millions and millions of dollars will be spent before all the field of the several counties adjoining Eastland Comanche Counties is developed.

THE CAREY NO 1, of the Mid-Kansas at Caddo, Texas, in Stephens County was a sensation that came in for its initial flow of 15,000 barrels.

The Warren Waggoner well with an initial flow of 12,000 barrels (estimated) made Desdemona.

The McCleskey well just out on the suburbs of Ranger, made one of the greatest oil towns of the world, and it was the discovery well of the field.

THE STURKIE WELL NO. 1 MAY OPEN UP AN ENTIRE NEW OIL FIELD AND MAKE ANOTHER OIL TOWN AT HASSE, TEXAS.

The well is located one and one-half miles off the Frisco Railway between Dublin and Comanche. The rig can be seen from the railway after crossing the Leon River going south on the east side of the track. It is two and a half miles east of the village of Hasse, Texas, Comanche County.

We have the only adjoining acreage to the 352 acres of the Comanche Oil Association that is for sale that we know of. This acreage sold in January this year at $40.00 an acre. We offer to you either in five-acre tracts, as many as you want or not to exceed 100 acres, at $250 an acre, only Monday and Tuesday, March 22 and 23.

We will syndicate five to twenty acres, and sell interest at a minimum of fifty dollars to persons who cannot purchase a five-acre tract.

This 100 acres is a part of the 173-acre tract of the Asa Hoxey survey, Mrs. J. T. Kerley tract.

A man said to the writer in the McCleskey hotel Friday night that he wished that he had put the $500 in this acreage instead of in Pecos Valley leases. Why! Here is quick play for the money invested or speculated.

WHO WILL DRILL OIL WELLS?

If the Sturkie well makes a producer, rigs will go up and drilling will be faster than now at Necessity and Cotton Plant. The Texas Company, the Humble Oil Company, O'Keefe and Collett, the Sinclair Company and other big companies have holdings adjoining or close to the Sturkie well and they are watching. The Gulf Production Co. owns much land and has covered the well with their scouts frequently lately. Scouts from all over the field are watching and predicting a big well.

We are offered 1,000 shares of Comanche Oil Association that we can sell in certificates of 25 to 100 or 200 shares, etc., at $1.50 a share.

Twenty-five Young Nitro Candidates Ready to Go When Ranger Park Ready

NITROS ON CONTRACTS. Pitches—Hill, Farrington, Hewitt, Halland, March, Lynch. Catchers—Hawes, Thomas, Bailey, Mann, Browning, Kelley. Infielders—Parker, Anderson, Tate, Dillard, Adams. Outfielders—Smith, Cawthorn, Norman, Manger, McDougal, Lovelace, Davis.

Twenty-four Nitros already are on contracts held by Jim Galloway and when it is considered that the club, as it swings into the pennant race proper, will list but thirteen youngsters, it can be seen that there will be some hot battling at Ranger park from the time the boys first romp onto the diamond.

Youngsters is the right word when applied to the Nitros for Jim has demanded young stock and a view of his roster reveals five ages over twenty-three and many around twenty and twenty-one. Realizing that the strength of a minor league club comes from the boys who are going up, rather than from the veterans who are slipping, he has started out to collect a string of peppery young scrappers.

Manager Jim. Starting with the infield, at third we have the pilot and manager, Jim himself, who graced the hot corner for many a fast outfit and secured his release from the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league to take the leadership of the Nitros. Jim's professional ball career started in 1910 with Shreveport, who sent him to the Cotton States, where he learned a lot of things from the Vicksburg club. He went with the Shreveport franchise to Austin in 1911, was sold by them to Vicksburg and was one of the reasons Vicksburg stepped out and took the Cotton States title that year. The club was started on toward it next season when Jim was purchased by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Last With Vernon. He finished the season with the Cards and was traded to Indianapolis, playing with that club in 1913 and 1914. From the Indians to Denver in the Western league, and in 1916 to Los Angeles, where he helped Frank Chance win another flag. He went to Vernon in the Coast league, just before getting into service. As a soldier boy, Jim headed one of the fastest teams in the service, collected with the theory that it would be sent overseas to fight and play ball. But it did not get the chance and Jim was content to make a name for his army gang around Presidio and an end down the coast until '18, when he followed the urge of action to a training camp and learned how important it was to be an officer. He came to Ranger in December, 1918.

Ranger Has Good Bookings in the West Texas Schedule

The West Texas league schedule, the work of Mike Finn, veteran manager, former scout for the Detroit Tigers, and more full of baseball lore and anecdote than any other three men in organized ball, doesn't give Ranger any the worst of it. All that the Nitros grab is opening day, July 4, Labor Day, which closes the season and twelve Sundays at home of a possible nineteen. Not so bad! Ranger fans may well be elated that Mike doped out the schedule which the West Texas ball boys accepted, and Mike took the $50 due for the work.

Ranger opens at home with Abilene in a four game series; then over to Eastland for four games with the team that will probably be Ranger's best rival and certainly the one the fans want to see in action with the Nitros. Abilene is back again July 4, a Sunday game, and Eastland winds up here with a double-header on Labor Day.

After the opening series the Nitros are off on a road trip for six days and return with Mineral Wells, for four games; Gorman is next up, at Ranger, and then the team is on the road again for nine days. Cisco is the next on the list, for a trio of games and Eastland comes last of all, starting a three game series May 27.

Ranger has sixty-six at home and sixty-five on the road, the home games being divided fourteen with Abilene and thirteen with every other club. To balance the discrimination against Abilene, in that no Sunday games are permitted there the club will split 50-50 the road receipts with Ranger on May 2, and August 22; with Cisco June 27 and Sept. 5; with Eastland May 23, and Aug. 15; Gorman June 6, and Mineral Wells July 25.

Life is rather dull and commonplace just now, and I am for lightening it up in every way possible. Wives for wives will do a lot toward coloring the drab monotonous of existence. The luckless bridegroom will have to guarantee something more material than love in his marriage vow. "I take this woman for my lawful wife" he will probably be called upon to say, "at a salary of five pounds a week." And the bride will then promise to love, honor and obey for and in consideration of the weekly five-pound emolument.

The girl who marries well will find immense satisfaction in the newspaper announcement of her matrimonial achievement. "The engagement is announced," it will read, "between Capt. Coney Grotz of Golden Court, Mayfair, and Constance, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shimpurse, of Brixton. The bride's stipend will be four thousand a year."

It will afford many a wife a smug and satisfying sense of superiority to learn that the pretty girl with the big eyes is only a three-pound-a-week wife. When a young man proposes, the lady will no longer have to give the classic reply, "See pap," or "This is jolly sudden." She will say simply and more to the point: "How much can you pay?"

Then there is the prombler, of determining just what remuneration a wife is really worth. Should the wife who stays at home and cooks receive more than the butterfly wife whose flutter in society advertises her husband's prosperity and importance? Is she worth more when young and ornamental, or when old and experienced?

Perhaps we shall read in the classified columns of the daily papers advertisements such as the following: "Wanted, wife, young, industrious, and good looking," or perhaps the advertiser with Tony Weller in mind, will request the applicant to "state previous matrimonial experience, and salary required."

The lounge-lizard type of gallant, with an unlined pocketbook and an honest abhorrence for work will, of course, scarcely be expected to pay his wife a salary. He will very likely advertise his willingness "to take an inexperienced young wife as apprentice; premium required."

Wives naturally as wage earners will form unions. It would be unreasonable to ask all husbands to pay the same salaries, so there will have to be separate unions, classified according to the sizes of the husbands' incomes. I have no doubt that the "wages for wives" system will meet with popular approval. Our million superfluous women, I imagine, will be especially anxious to see the scheme adopted. When the National Federation of Wives' Union goes out on strike the million-too-many will at last have their opportunity. And when such an eventuality does come about I shall want to hear the argument between the strike-breakers and the pickets.

BRITISH WIVES MAY DEMAND WAGES; WRITER CLAIMS TO HUMOROUS SIDE OF PLAN

By International News Service. LONDON, March 20.—Barristers here recently have been debating the question of how much a wife is worth in money. The discussion must have made quite an impression on some wives for, it is reported, they are now claiming the right to be paid regular wages. The situation has provoked the following comment from Myron Parrot, a writer in the London Daily Express: "Life is rather dull and commonplace just now, and I am for lightening it up in every way possible. Wives for wives will do a lot toward coloring the drab monotonous of existence. The luckless bridegroom will have to guarantee something more material than love in his marriage vow. 'I take this woman for my lawful wife' he will probably be called upon to say, 'at a salary of five pounds a week.' Dr. Jowett preached by invitation of Bishop Weldon, the Anglican dean of Durham, who believes that intercommunion between the reformed churches will promote a greater diffusion of Christian influence in the world as the war has left it.

CELLARS OF BIG ESTATES STOCKED BEFORE RULING

LENEX, Mass.—A ruling of the Internal Revenue bureau which prohibits the removal of liquor from city or county homes has failed to worry Lenox residents, for cellars in the well-stocked belt of Berkshire were full before January 1, 1920. One New York man is reputed to have $30,000 worth in his cellar at Stockbridge. That was the value of the cargo consignment brought to the Berkshires by express. No drought so far has marked any of the brilliant dinners here.

FORMER CHAMP OUT TO REGAIN COURT LAURELS

International News Service. NEW YORK, March 21.—After thirteen years of competition in tennis Miss Marie Wagner of New York looms up as a favorite in the Women's National Indoor Tennis tournament at the courts of the Seventh regiment armory.

Miss Wagner's chances of regaining the title she already has held six times are bright this spring. The present title holder, Mrs. George W. Wightman, of Boston, is in California and will not defend her laurels. Miss Eleanor Goss, the stellar Brooklyn player, is also on the Pacific coast, and Mrs. Franklin L. Malloy, nee Molla Bjurstedt, and Miss Marion Zinderstein, Boston's second best woman player, will not compete.

Among the players who will probably figure in Miss Wagner's most dangerous rivals for the honors are Mrs. Sidney Thayer, the highest ranking player in the Philadelphia district; Miss Phyllis Walsh, also of Philadelphia, who won the Florida championship a few days ago; Miss Helene Pollak and Mrs. Samuel Warburg, Boston, in California and in the indoor event was scored in 1917, when she defeated Miss Eleanor Goss. She was then a newcomer on the courts, in the final round. The New York player first won the title in 1908 and repeated in 1909, 1911, 1913 and 1914. In 1907, when she won for the first time, Miss Wagner was defeated in the final round by Miss Elizabeth Moore, Mrs. F. G. Schmitz, Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Mrs. Wightman have interrupted Miss Wagner's string of victories.

FEW CHAMPS HAVE RECORD FREE OF K. O.

By International News Service. NEW YORK, March 20.—Perusal of the records of boxers reveals the fact that very few performers in the ring today have escaped a knockout during their career. Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, the records show, is the only existing titleholder who has not taken the count in his climb to the championship.

Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey has only one black mark against him. Just before he began the remarkable run of victories that culminated in the defeat of Jess Willard for the title Dempsey was stopped in one round by the veteran Jim Flynn.

Battling Levinsky, who claims the light heavyweight title, was able to stall off decisive defeat in all his bouts until he met Dempsey at Philadelphia in 1918. Levinsky was not in the best of shape at the time, and the bout had not gone a round before he was sorry that he had made the match. For two rounds he tinanned, with Dempsey after him, and in the third Dempsey caught up and hung the Battler on the ropes as limp as a wet rag.

Even Jack Britton, with his remarkable defense, was stopped at one time. Back in 1905, when Jack was a novice, he ran into one Steve Kinney, and was rocked to sleep in the first round. It was a case of bad matchmaking, as Britton was not ready to meet such an experienced opponent.

When Benny Leonard was in the early stages of his ring career he twice took the full count. In 1912 Young Shugrue, then looked upon as a leading contender for the lightweight title, polished off Leonard in four rounds. Shugrue was a comparatively light hitter, but he landed so often on the novice that Leonard was battered to the floor. In the following year Leonard once more took the full count. Frankie Fleming, the Canadian featherweight, put him down and out in the fifth round.

There is no record of Johnny Kilbane taking the full count until he encountered Leonard over in Philadelphia shortly after the lightweight champion had won the title from Freddie Welsh.

Peter Herman, who now holds the bantamweight title, met his Waterloo back in 1914 at the hands of Frankie Burns, of Jersey City. Burns beat a tattoo on the Southern midwest's ribs for fifteen rounds and then, when his opponent had been worn down, the Jersey veteran crossed his right to the jaw, ending the battle.

Jimmy Wilde, the flyweight champion of the world, was out to sleep on one occasion. In 1917 Tancy Lee stopped him in the seventeenth round in a battle for the flyweight championship of England. Later Wilde had the satisfaction of turning the table on his conqueror, stopping him in eleven rounds.

Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, was stopped several times during the early part of his ring career. Gloria, one of the Frenchman's own countrymen, stopped him in six rounds back in 1909. The Dixie Kid, an American negro, flattened George in 1911, taking five rounds to do the trick. Billy Papke made him quit in seventeen rounds, during 1912. But since Carpentier attained his full growth no one has been able to do anything with him.

"MYSTERY" AUTO IS HAULED FROM RIVER BY POLICE

Police boat patrol lifting auto from river.

An automobile which was sunk in Sherman Creek, off the Harlem river, New York, recently, was raised by the police and identified as a stolen taxi.

A woman's handbag and a chauffeur's glove were found on the seat. The right hand door was swinging open, the glass on the left was broken, and the "vacant" sign was up. The police said the car must have been going at high speed when it plunged into the river. Whether the occupants escaped has not been determined. The river was dragged for their bodies without result.

WORK LURES HEIRESSSES OF N. Y. SOCIETY

BY MARGERIE REX. (Written for International News.) NEW YORK, March 20.—"She doesn't have to work!"

How often you have heard it! Maybe the fortunate young woman works in your office and you have been regaled with descriptions of her wealth, home, family and social duties, and when pay day comes around she appears very unconcerned about her pay envelope.

There are many bachelor girls who don't have to work, as far as mere money goes, but really love actual effort. Many society girls, young women of wealth, actually want to labor. Some of these are Anne Morgan, Adelaide Sedgwick, Mercedes de Acosta and Symphorosa Bristed.

Adelaide Sedgwick, daughter of Mrs. Henry Sedgwick, of New York and Lenox, is a full-fledged business woman daytimes and a society belle evenings. She knows all the trade tricks of the great avenue as well as the art of being a social success. Her first initiation into hard work came with the war, as it did to so many.

A London war hospital first, then a canteen at Calais, where 600 men a day were served; commendation by the British government, then home to America. And, being home, Miss Sedgwick found idleness intolerable. She really missed the day-break to midnight hours of the canteen. She liked the service.

So she announced to shocked relatives and surprised friends that she was going into business.

"No more pink teas or luncheons after this," said the pretty society

BRITISH FEAR OF RADICALS IS RIDICULED

By International News Service. London, March 20.—The British fear of radicals is being ridiculed by the Whites in the United States.

General Gough, a British war officer, expressed in a recent address to the Oxford University Labor club. General Gough asserted that the Whites in South Russia are hopelessly inefficient, while the Reds are extremely efficient, have a good grip on affairs and show considerable intelligence in their handling of the situation.

General Gough said he had been in South Russia and he also was head of the British and allied mission to the Baltic states.

As for the border states, General Gough declared they did not like Russia at all. But they had a much stronger suspicion of the Whites than of the others, and this was based on experience. British policy was to support the border states in their independence and also the Whites, who were opposed to them. British agents and generals had to try to carry out his conflicting and confusing policy. They had to ride two horses at once in different directions.

Much killing had taken place in Russia, said General Gough, Russians seeming to kill each other with facility and light-heartedness. The old regime had injured them to this. A czarist general during the war captured 9,000 Turks and placed them on a small island in the Caspian sea. There was no water on the island. A miserably insufficient supply was given them by two steamers which called once a week. Thousands died as a result. But wherever the Soviet government maintained power, it held law, order and peace.

Russian ladies were one of the chief instruments of White propaganda, the general asserted. They were not scrupulous, would believe anything and repeat anything. Many of these ladies were dissolute and pleasure-seeking, did not read and had no idea of liberty and progress, and talked extraordinary boosh.

General Gough, continuing, said he had heard a young Russian of about twenty-eight telling society ladies and others that Britain must fight to put the Whites back. He (the general) had fought for four years and he had had enough. He did not see why England's men should go on fighting while this young man and others like him stopped in England and talked about the need of British help and intervention. The fact was that the Russian people undoubtedly preferred the Reds to the Whites. It was impossible for a small section of Russia to dominate the whole of the country against its will.

British officials and officers had been sent to Russia with no capacity whatever for judging political events. General Gough charged. They had not even the ability to judge plain facts. One general declared in London, after returning, that the Bolsheviks were nearly done for and that they

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT HAS CANE 250,000 YEARS OLD

EDMONTON, Alta.—Former President Taft owns a walking stick that is 250,000 years old.

When Prof. W. S. Foster of Spokane, was investigating the geological history of Southern Alberta a few years ago, he discovered a stump in a peat bed amid a glacial drift in the valley of Old Man River. Near it were some prehistoric sawwoods in good preservation. He was unable to determine what kind of wood the stump was, and that question has remained an enigma. The geological strata in which it was found had lain sixty feet beneath the surface for centuries but had been exposed by river floods. Whether the original tree had grown in Alberta or had been brought there from the neighborhood of the North Pole on an iceberg of the glacial age, no one knows. Few trees grow in the region now. The age of the stump was estimated by geologists at a quarter of a million years.

Prof. Foster took the stump home to Seattle with other souvenirs of the glacial epoch, and when the Spokane people, on one of Mr. Taft's visits, wanted to give him a unique present, they had a cane fashioned from the wood. The walking stick cut from a tree that may have sheltered the mastodon and the pterodactyl is valued at $5,000.

FAMISHED DOG CORNERS PIG AND "EATS IT ALIVE"

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—"Dog won't eat dog," the old saying goes, but dog will eat pig. This fact was brought home to Maurice Fuller in a forcible manner when a stray dog made its way into his farmyard at North Rochester. Driving one of his pigs into a corner it literally "ate it alive."

When the dog appeared at Fuller's farm it was nearly famished. Breaking into the pen, it chased one of the pigs madly about, and the animal wedged its head between two boards. The pig tried in vain to escape. Then the dog sat down to a royal feast of pork chops.

PICKPOCKET NETS $100 IN TRAIN THEFT

J. I. Cole lost more than $100 at the hands of pickpockets on the west-bound passenger train, Saturday. Mr. Cole's daughter went away for a visit on that day and Mr. Cole had entered the car to find her a seat. In the crush of entering the train he said he lost his money. The purse in which the money was contained together with several notes and other valuable papers was found a distance down the track.

PERISHING DIDN'T QUITE "GET" SOLDIER'S FRENCH

International News Service. CAMP DEVENS, Ayer, Mass.—During an inspection at this cantonment, General John J. Pershing stopped before a soldier of the Thirteenth U. S. Infantry. The private was wearing overseas service stripes and the general asked: "What did you serve with in France?"

"Comment ca va, mademoiselle?" was the reply.

"What," queried the general, astonishment written on his face.

"Comment ca va, mademoiselle?" insisted the soldier.

The general passed on, still perplexed. His curiosity got the better of him and he sent his aid back to the soldier.

The aide began to cross-question. "Oh," said the man, at last, "I thought the general asked me, 'What did you say in France.'"

FLEES ONE INSTITUTION, "BREAKS IN" ANOTHER

International News Service. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind.—"Home ties" called William Davis, eighteen years old, back to Jeffersonville, Heeding the urge, William fled the State Penal farm at Putnamville, whence he had been transferred from the reformatory here, and came back to the Jacksonville institution. Davis is the first prisoner in an Indiana institution, so far as is known, who cultivated such a liking for the place that he hopped his way back to "break in" again. Reformatory officials are investigating the strange case. Davis was sentenced from Evansville two years ago for entering a house to commit a felony.

PRIMA DONNA STARTS ORGANIZATION TO PROMOTE NATIVE OPERA IN U. S.

A CANDIDATE

VOTERS OF EASTLAND COUNTY:

It is nearing the time when you shall once more go to the polls and decide who shall be your next County Clerk, for which place I am now a candidate.

I am a young man. I was born and reared on a farm nine miles north of Gorman, where I have spent the most of my life, like many of you, striving for an education.

Later years I came to Eastland, where I attended High School and then in the fall of 1917 I took a business course in Tyler Commercial College, and when completed returned to Eastland, where I accepted a position with Mr. Clyde L. Garrett, who was at that time our County Clerk, later with Miss Maude Crossley and with our present officer, Mr. Earl Bender.

As many other boys did, I answered our country's call and in the summer of 1918 joined the army and spent several months in service.

The office has quite a bit of responsibility and the work is very heavy at present. However, I have had the experience and I feel capable of holding the office and if elected I will put forth every effort to serve you and do it to the best of my ability. Very truly yours,

ERNEST JONES

STORM TALES FROM WINTRY NEW ENGLAND

By International News Service.
 BOSTON, March 20.—"Beautiful snow" of this, New England's greatest snowstorm winter, has cost the six states over $50,000,000, caused untold hardships and suffering to thousands and brought death to many.

But in the wake of the blizzards are scores of stories of human interest, humor, and not infrequently, pathos. Here are a few of them, picked at random:

From Charlton, Mass., up in Worcester county, comes the "Tale of the Five Shovelers." Five husky citizens of this country district set out in a blinding storm to shovel off railroad tracks. They went up Overlook Hill and vanished. After hours of anxiety they were discovered in a snowbank, every man with his face frozen, all sheathed in snow and all fighting stubbornly against the storm.

Patrolman James J. Sullivan, of Lexington, Mass., satirized for the Concord district court with a prisoner. Trolleys were blocked and Sullivan had to travel twenty-six miles to Boston and then out to Concord, which is two miles from Lexington. After court Sullivan was unable to get a vehicle to take the prisoner to Massachusetts reformatory, so the "cop" walked the two and one-half miles in the blizzard with the man. Unable to get home, Sullivan had to spend the night in jail himself. "Who wants to be a cop these days?" asks Sullivan.

Twelve manhole covers blew up in South Boston within half an hour of each other because the ice froze in the vent holes, causing a congestion of sewer gas. No one was injured.

Hopkinton, Mass., had to abandon one whole trolley line because seven miles of the line was buried under 56 inches of solid ice.

Impassable roads in New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont prevented farmers obtaining supplies and there was much suffering. One family in Deerfield, N. H., was rescued after being stormbound a whole month. James S. Gibner and his family of six children were nearly exhausted from hunger when found by the rescuers.

The mother of the family had been dead in the house several days. Father and children were ill in the snow-bound house with pneumonia.

Horace W. Fernald of West Bedford, Mass., was stalled in the blizzard, being the only passenger on the 6:35 train from Boston when it ran into a drift. But by a rare stroke of luck the train with its lone passenger stopped directly behind Fernald's farm. He just hopped over the drifts to his back door.

C. S. Gale, who runs a store at Concord, N. H., was compelled to "sound" drifts several days before leaving the roof of his store. Then he began a 20-foot dig to reach the door.

New England had a "great die" when the railroads got clogged with snow and freight could not move to the manufacturing centers. An army of 35,000 citizens released for the day from industrial plants took picks and shovels and ripped ice from the railroad tracks and shoveled snow from the buried rails.

Scores of buildings all over New England collapsed. The famous Swedenborgian church at Bath, Me., built seventy-seven years ago, was ruined. The Unitarian church at Walpole, N. H., because a mass of twisted lumber under the weight of the snow.

Following a basketball game at Winchendon, Mass. in which Cushing Academy defeated the Winchendon K. of C. team, the feminine spectators engaged in a snowball battle. The police had to be called.

Death or serious injury was threatened in a peculiar case caused by the storm. A snow plow left the ice-blocked rails, rammed across the platform station at Milo, Me., and ran into the ticket office, forcing the ticket agent and his assistant to leap for safety through the ticket window. The heavy plow continued through the waiting room and out the other side into a snowdrift.

The undertaking business suffered by the heavy blizzard. However, Undertaker W. W. Fish of Freeport, Me., had to walk four miles on snowshoes in order to prepare the body of John Freeman Litchfield at his late home at Wolf's Neck for burial.

And now for the man who wrote "Snow, Beautiful Snow." The Whittier Home Association of Amesbury, Mass., celebrated a blizzard by purchasing the house in which John Greenleaf Whittier composed "Snow-bound," the classic "storm poem" of New England.

RESOLUTION OF PEACE COMES UP IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 20.—After a troubled nine months' sojourn in the senate the treaty with Germany was back in the keeping of the president tonight with a note saying ratification had been refused.

What the president's next move will be remained conjectural and the White House officials declined to comment.

The general feeling of officials elsewhere, however, was that Mr. Wilson probably would let the treaty lie on his desk while the bitter controversy it has raised is fought out in the elections.

Scarcely had the bulky document passed physically out of the capital building today when some of the senators who were for ratification began a movement to recall it and try again for a compromise.

Mild reservationists, Republicans and compromise Democrats discussed the possibilities of such an effort without a decision and the prediction of leaders was that no proposal for another reconsideration would take form.

The unsettled state of senate opinion nevertheless flowed toward plans of Republican leaders for passage of a declaration of peace and it was decided after many conferences that the resolution for such purpose probably would not be urged before late next week.

Previously, the purpose had been to bring it back Monday and thrust for early action.

Today the senate was not in session but the question of a peace declaration was raised in the house by a declaratory resolution which was referred to the foreign relations committee. In its general provisions, it follows the resolution of Senator Knox, Republican, which is backed by the Republican senate leaders.

Both provide for repeal of the declaration of war for certain settlements with Germany and for a declaration of international policy.

Until congress or the president takes some affirmative action to end the war status legally, the technical position of the country remains, officials said, as on the day the armistice was signed. War legislation continues in force and under the war department interpretation the president retains his war powers as commander-in-chief to keep American troops in Germany wherever he thinks necessary to enforce the armistice.

AEROPLANE ROBBERY ALIBI CAUSES TALK IN ENGLAND

By International News Service.
 LONDON, March 20.—The Benson Minnesota case of establishment of an apparent alibi in a robbery crime by use of an aeroplane for a swift flight of 100 miles has attracted wide attention in Britain.

The little item arrived in the midst of a crime wave which has been baffling Scotland Yard. The press pronounced upon it as a basis for questioning officials.

General Sir Neville Macready announced that the possibilities of certain classes of crime being undertaken by means of aeroplane is receiving attention. He points out that in his report to the home secretary he stated that the police were considering methods of combating air crimes. The Scotland Yard view is that "something will be the chief item under this head and that it may be difficult to cope with it, due to the ease with which the channel may be crossed.

DEATH HOUSE GUARD FOR 19 YEARS DIES

By International News Service.
 OSSING, N. Y., March 20.—Edward O'Toole, 55 years old, who witnessed more electrocutions in Sing Sing prison than any other employee there, having been for nineteen years a keeper in the death house, died at his home in this village.

O'Toole entered the employ of the prison about thirty years ago and in 1900 was assigned to guard duty in the death house. A year ago he was relieved of that task. In the meantime he had been called upon to prepare scores of condemned men for their death and accompanied most of them to the chair. He leaves a wife and two children.

MAINE CITIES TO HOLD ANNUAL ELECTIONS SOON

By International News Service.
 PORTLAND, Me., March 20.—Unless some means is provided to remove legal restrictions, the majority of the twelve Maine cities which hold annual election soon, will conduct them by the use of written ballots.

Most of the political leaders in these cities, apparently unaware of the action taken by the last legislature, failed to call their caucuses sufficiently early to comply with the new requirement that nomination papers be filed with city clerks at least fourteen days, exclusive of Sundays, before the date of election. Formerly seven days was the time limit.

"I find more of this tendency in the woman's movement than emancipation. Where women are up against the laws of nature, nature is bound to win. The primary duty is maternity, and if this is evaded there is an end to all things.

"The world has never been so insane as it is today. Young men and impressionable women are most affected, but all have come under the influence and the terrible strain of the past few years.

JOINT ORGANIZATION TO GET CO-OPERATIVE EFFORT AIM OF INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE REPORT

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Joint organization of management and employees "as a means of preventing misunderstanding and of securing co-operative effort" throughout American industry is proposed by the industrial conference appointed by President Wilson in a report to the president made public here today.

The conferees in their report state that they have modified the tentative plan of machinery to adjust disputes in general industry by conference, conciliation, inquiry and arbitration, announced by the conference on December 29, 1919, and that they have endeavored to develop methods of prevention rather than adjustment of labor difficulties. The modified plan, devised since the conference reconvened last January 12, it is said, makes machinery available for "collective bargaining with only incidental and limited arbitration." The plan has been extended to cover disputes affecting public utilities other than steam railroads, and also to government and other employees.

In addition the report analyzes the development of industrial relations, hours of labor, women in industry, child labor, housing, wages, profit-sharing and gain-sharing, thrift agencies, inflation and high cost of living, agriculture, unemployment and a public employment clearing house.

The causes of industrial unrest are set forth as including "the rise in the cost of living, unrestrained speculation, spectacular instances of excessive profits, excessive accumulation and misuse of wealth, inequality and readjustment of wage schedules, release of ideas and emotions by the war, social revolutionary theories imported from Europe, the belief that free speech is restricted, the intermittence of employment, fear of unemployment, unnecessarily high infant mortality in industrial centers, loss of personal contact in large industrial units and the culmination of a growing belief on the part of both employers and employees that a readjustment is necessary to a wholesome continuity of their united effort."

Industrial problems vary not only with each industry, the report says, but in each establishment. "Therefore the strategic place to begin battle with misunderstanding is within the industrial plant itself. Primarily the settlement must come from the bottom not from the top." The conference, in expressing its approval of "employee representation," says it is not a field for legislation, because the form which such representation should take may vary in every plant. For this reason the recommendation is directed solely to managers and employees.

National Industrial Board.

"If the joint organization of management and employees in the plant or industry fails to reach the collectivity without such joint organization, disputes arise which are not settled by existing agencies, then the conference proposes a system of settlement through a national industrial board, local regional conference and boards of inquiry.

This plan which the conference says is "based upon American experience and designed to meet American conditions" is national in scope and operation and yet decentralized. It is said to be different from anything in operation elsewhere and employs no local authority except the right of inquiry. Its basic idea is "stimulation of settlement of peace by the parties in conflict and the enlistment of public opinion toward enforcing that method of settlement."

The regional adjustment conference proposes a board to consist of four representatives selected by the parties to the dispute, and four others in their industry chosen by them and familiar with their problems. It would be presided over by a trained government official, the regional chairman, who would act as a conciliator. If a unanimous agreement is reached, it would result in a collective bargain having the same effect as if reached by joint organization in the shop.

Failing to agree unanimously, the matter, with certain restrictions, would go to the national industrial board, unless the disputants preferred a mutually chosen umpire.

Meanwhile both parties to the dispute have agreed that there shall be no interference with production pending the processes of adjustment. If the parties, or either of them, however, refuses voluntarily to submit the dispute to the processes of the plan of adjustment, a regional board of inquiry is formed by the regional chairman of two employers and two employees from the industry and not parties to the dispute. This board may subpoena witnesses and records and publish its findings as a guide to public opinion.

The national industrial board in Washington would have general oversight of the workings of the plan which, in addition to being applicable to public utilities, provides machinery for "prompt and fair adjustment of wages and working conditions of government employees." The plan involves no penalties, it is said, other than those imposed by public opinion. It does not impose compulsory representation. It does not deny the right to strike. It does not submit to arbitration the policy of "closed" or "open" shop.

Regarding "employee representation" the report says "the subject has been discussed under such different names and forms as shop committees, shop councils, works councils, representative government in industry and others, but the conference says it prefers the generic term, having in mind the successful application of the principle to various activities outside, as well as within the purely industrial field."

Agency of Peace.

"These suggestions," says the report, referring to the help which the conference received from both employers and employees, "clearly proceed from a genuine desire that the movement for democratic representation as a substitute for direct personal contact, may spread in accordance with sound principles and be kept from perversion which would threaten the idea's lasting usefulness by making it an agency of attack rather than a means to peace."

The idea of "employee representation," the report says, "has aroused opposition from two sources, viz.: Employers who still adhere to the theory that labor is a commodity, a view which is said to be steadily disappearing, and trade union leaders who regard shop representation as a subtle weapon directed against the unions."

"Employee representation," the conference says, "offers no royal road to industrial peace. No employer should suppose that merely by installing some system of shop representation he can be assured, without continued effort, of harmony and increased production. Doubtless there will be failures where the plan is adopted as a fad or a panacea. It is only a means whereby the sincerity of purpose, frank dealing and the establishment of common interests, may bring mutual advantage."

Relative to collective bargaining, the conference "sees in a frank acceptance of this principle the most helpful approach to industrial peace," and states that it believes that the great body of the employers of the country accept that principle. The difference of opinion, it says, appears in regard to the method of representation. Bargains of certain kinds between employers and employees do not lend themselves readily to legal enforcement and the conference therefore expresses the belief that, for the present at least, enforcement must rest substantially upon "good faith."

Regarding hours of labor, the conference states that "experience has demonstrated that they should be fixed in industrial establishments 'at a point consistent with the health of the employees and with proper opportunity for rest and recreation, there being in all cases provision for one day's rest in seven.'"

The conference further finds that, from the standpoint of public interest "it is fundamental that the basic wages of all employees should be adequate to maintain the employee and his family in reasonable comfort and with adequate opportunity for the education of his children. When the wages of any group fall below this standard for any length of time, the situation becomes dangerous to the well-being of the state." As for profit-sharing being regarded as a complete solution of industrial problems, the conference says that while it has promise in some directions, it cannot by itself, be considered to be of far-reaching effect. "Nevertheless," the report says, "the field is one in which sincere experiment may add a real knowledge of desirable procedure."

Child Labor.

Touching on the subject of child labor, the conference says "sheer prohibition of child labor is, at best, only a negative attack upon the problem. It is not thoroughly effective in promoting the economic welfare of the nation unless the time spent by the child in industry is devoted to adequate schooling and to activity which will develop his physical well-being." The report announces the "startling fact" that of the 5,516,163 illiterate persons over 10 years of age in the United States, more than 68 per cent were native born. Attention is called to the fact that the federal government up to the present "makes no provision which assures the non-employment of children in street trades and various blind alley occupations during the time they should be at school."

The conference states that, in presenting its recommendations "they are not merely designed to tide over a troublesome period of economic readjustment. Many of the evils pointed out," it says, "were in existence before the war and will remain in existence if steps are not taken to remedy them." In conclusion, the report says, the reforms advocated are urged "not with any feeling of panic but with the belief that they will not only contribute largely toward the elimination of the causes of industrial strife, but that they will make for the introduction, in American industry of those democratic principles which constitute the most precious heritage of the American citizen."

The report is signed by Secretary of Labor Wilson as chairman; Herbert Hoover, as vice chairman and the following other members of the conference: Martin H. Glynn, Thomas W. Gregory, Richard Hooker, Stanley King, Samuel W. McCall, Henry M. Robinson, Julius Rosenwald, George T. Slade, Oscar S. Straus, Henry C. Stuart, William O. Thompson, Frank W. Taussig, Henry J. Water, George W. Wickersham and Owen D. Young, and Willard E. Hetchkiss and Henry R. Seager, executive secretaries.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. England, a plumbing contractor, in Philadelphia, will bring suit in the supreme court to determine the extent of labor unions may go in attempting to enforce "closed shop" orders on contractors.

THEDA BARA IN "CLEOPATRA" AT THE LIBERTY TODAY

QUEEN. "The Flame of Hellgate," Michelena Picture, Pits Wits of Girl Against Cleverness of Cattleman.

"The Flame of Hellgate," in which Beatriz Michelena opened today at the Queen theater, is a thrilling story of the great outdoors, with Miss Michelena in the role of a girl who goes outside the law after a cattle king, who is the murderer of her father, has made it impossible to obtain justice.

The picture, which is a Robertson-Cole Superior, made at the Mitchell studios, abounds in adventurous and romantic situations. One of the most interesting relates how the girl outlaws plots to obtain the election of an honest man as sheriff, to replace the sycophant who has been placed in office by the cattle king.

Allowing herself to be bound, she directs a raid of her men through the village. Page, the man she desires to make sheriff is forewarned, and appears just in time to "save" her, while the lick-spittle sheriff doesn't show up until all the danger is past. By such cleverness the girl outgenerals the corrupt "boss" of the valley, and has him tried and convicted of her husband's murder.

LIBERTY. A Vacation Substitute. If you haven't had a vacation this year—and even if you have—treat yourself to a sight of "Six Feet Four." This big and highly dramatic super-fee-ture, just released by American after six months of painstaking production work, will be shown at the Liberty theater this week. It will prove as stimulating and vitalizing as an actual trip to America's great playground, for the picture is literally packed with the feel of the western country.

Not only do the settings possess the uplifting grandeur of our western scenery, but the film is replete with interesting character studies that furnished the essential "atmosphere" of the mountain country. Santa Barbara, where the production was made, is so close to the rural communities of the state that it was possible to secure scores of genuine "types" to add the touch of realism to the crowd scenes in western inn and country schoolhouse where so much of the interesting action occurs.

"Six Feet Four" based on the popular novel by Jackson Gregory, bids fair to take its place among the truly memorable outdoor classics of the screen. For months afterward its scenes and incidents will rejoice "that inward eye which is the bliss of solitude"—if we may borrow a phrase from William Wordsworth, nature's great interpreter. This big "Flying A" drama is a photoplay you will find it well worth while to add to your record of screen memories.

terties adorn the walls of Miss May's private room at the Ince studio. She breezes in every morning with a big bouquet of beautiful California flowers and presents everybody with one for their buttonholes. High spirits and wholesome fun are the chief ingredients of "What's Your Husband Doing?" the new screen farce in which this delightful comedy is a caricature of a well known Broadway farce and will be shown at the Lone Star theater for three days beginning Friday next. The film was produced by Thomas H. Ince for Paramount-Arterraft.

LONE STAR. Doris May and Douglas MacLean, in "What's Your Husband Doing?" Doris May and Douglas MacLean, recent acquisitions to the ranks of motion picture stars, are "the life of the party" out at the big Ince studio these tumultuous days. Miss May is only 17 years old, and Mr. MacLean is a youth in his early twenties. Happiness is their middle name. They afirly radiate the joy of life and old-timers on the Ince lot say their presence is as good as a youth-bringing injection of Dr. Voronoff's famous "monkey serum."

Mr. MacLean insisted upon his dressing room being papered with a bluebird design and amuses himself and others between scenes by playing the ukelele and singing popular airs in a most jazzful fashion. He was once a member of a college glee club and possesses a pleasant voice. But-

Their company is one of the hardest-working aggregations in screenland. It runs smoothly, without strife, delays or dissension and makes pictures that find instant popularity with the public.

"The Gay Lord Quex" is eighth in the line of their successes, and they are still going strong. When one meets Tom's cheerful disposition and engaging smile about his sets and sees Beaumont's equally infectious optimism as he directs the making of the scenes, he cannot but be impressed by the way a certain Irishman and a genial Frenchman get together in their work. This picture is showing at the Lamb today.

OPERA HOUSE. Vaudeville for Ranger Four Days a Week. With the coming week vaudeville has been secured by the management of the Opera House for Monday and Tuesday, and Thursday and Friday. At present it is not known what the bills are but the program will be announced tomorrow.

HIPPODROME. Billy Hagen, Amateur Title Holder, at Hippodrome. Billy Hagen, who is playing this week at the Hippodrome with the Cheer Up Girls Musical Comedy company, was at one time the world's champion amateur lightweight boxer. He won the championship of the United States in 1908. He defended his title at tournaments all over the country and as well as in England. He was a contestant at the Olympic fistic battles in 1908 and at that time won the championship of the world. Hagen held the lightweight championship as a professional of the east for five years and retired then to go into stock. During this time he fought Johnny Frayne, Amella Henera (the hardest hitting lightweight in the game) four rounds to a draw, Frankie Edwards, One-Round Hogan, K. O. Brown 10 rounds, Jimmy Duffy, Kid Kansas and others. He was a sparring partner of Nelson for two years. Besides this Hagen is given credit for putting Willie Richie in the game, as well as Meehan and Eddie Campi. Hagen, however, has been in stock for the last eight years. He is the big headliner at the Hippodrome for the coming week and can be seen daily knocking out some very funny slap-stick comedy.

Their company is one of the hardest-working aggregations in screenland. It runs smoothly, without strife, delays or dissension and makes pictures that find instant popularity with the public.

"The Gay Lord Quex" is eighth in the line of their successes, and they are still going strong. When one meets Tom's cheerful disposition and engaging smile about his sets and sees Beaumont's equally infectious optimism as he directs the making of the scenes, he cannot but be impressed by the way a certain Irishman and a genial Frenchman get together in their work. This picture is showing at the Lamb today.

Strong Well Nemed, Says Bruised Villain.

When Edmund Brees and Eugene Strong are listed in the cast of a feature production picture devotees of the sterner sex generally sit back and await some stirring action in the way of a furious fist fight. Strange to relate, there is but one blow struck in Joseph Levering's "His Temporary Wife," by Robert Ames Bennett, a W. W. Hodkinson release, coming to the Lamb theater beginning Monday, in which Brees and Strong are featured along with Ruby De Remer, Mary Boland and W. T. Carleton. And that one blow was a "corker," to use the expression of Armand Cortes, the recipient, who added that Strong was appropriately named.

Strong found the going rather mild in "His Temporary Wife," that is, until Cortes falls afoul of his stony left fist. Strong is a master at hitting hard blows that apparently strike solidly where aimed, but which in reality are stopped by a muscular contraction of the arm when within a fraction of an inch away from the objective.

But for once Strong miscalculated and the blow landed full on the point of Cortes' chin. Miss De Remer, who plays the role of a nurse in the production, tried in vain to bring him to, but it was almost an hour before Cortes was able to mumble: "Where am I? What hit me?" Of course, no one was happier than Strong at Cortes' recovery.

Star, Cast and Director Above Ordinary in "The Tree of Knowledge."

The new Robert Warwick picture, "The Tree of Knowledge," which is coming to the Lone Star theater for two days commencing Monday, is declared to have that rare combination of highly dramatic and entertaining story, talented star and fine supporting cast, and expert director that results in the really unusual photoplay.

The mention of such players as Kathlyn Williams, Wanda Hawley, Tom Forman, and Irving Cummings establishes the casts as far above the ordinary. The director was William C. De Mille, who, aside from being a veteran at screening motion pictures, is the author of "Strongheart," "The Warrens of Virginia" and other stage plays, as well as several film stories that were produced by his brother, Cecil B. De Mille. "The Tree of Knowledge" was adapted from an English stage drama by R. C. Carton, who also wrote "Lord and Lady Algy." It is an absorbing story of the pernicious influence of a female flirt and her final vanishing by one of her victims. There is a beautiful prelude in which Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer, and Yvonne Gardell enact in pantomime the ancient legend of Adam and his fabled first wife, Lilith. The picture is a Paramount Arterraft.

INCREASED AUTOMOBILE IMPORTS FAVORED

At a meeting in New York last week members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce declared themselves in favor of a reduction of 15 per cent in the tariff on imported automobiles costing $2,000 or more. While a lower import duty will bring in more foreign-made cars, it was stated that the competition is welcomed as a stimulus to continue America's leadership in all types of motor cars.

"The encouragement of importation," said a statement issued after the meeting, "should prove helpful to the present serious exchange situation and is not to be feared by a home industry of the size and strength of automobile manufacturing."

BEZDEK COACHES COLLEGIANS

International News Service. STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 20.—Hugo Bezdek, athletic director at Penn State, is busy rounding up material for the 1920 baseball team and expects to give State its best nine it has had in years. Among the Penn State candidates who will battle for regular places on the team this spring are Bill Mollen, basketball star and captain of last year's nine; Lightner, Killinger and Grubb, all veteran outfielders.

Killinger is also working out as a backstop, and Brumbaugh, former Freshman captain, will push him for the job. In the pitching line are Gramley, a veteran of two years' varsity experience; Hunter, Thomas, McCullom and Traphoner.

Frank Wolfe, Livingston and Knapp have bids in for the first base job, and Mearke and Captain Korb are sure to hold down second and short respectively. Baublitz, last year's third baseman, and Hains, the football and basketball star, will be strong candidates for the third sack job.

GALVESTON, March 20.—Fred C. Pabst, owner of customs of this port, has been appointed chairman of the local adjustment commission between steamship interests and members of the International Longshoremen's Union. During the war Mr. Pabst was a member of the national adjustment board.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES

International News Service. EIGHTH annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to be held at Atlantic City April 27-29, inclusive, will be a "increased production convention." A preliminary outline of subjects to be considered includes the government, transportation, international finance, agriculture, research and efficiency, labor, immigration and Russia, in their relation to production. Group meetings will take up questions of transportation and communication, foreign production, domestic distribution, the trade and the daily press and insurance.

STAMFORD C. C. SAYS CITY FULL TO GUARDS

STAMFORD, March 20.—Many inquiries are received each week by the Chamber of Commerce for business buildings. There are no empty business houses in the city. One or two new buildings will be erected this summer. The question of residences is as acute as the question of business houses. Those who contemplate locating here do not look for houses but rooms. There are no apartment houses in the city and all must look to private homes for rooms.

THE SANE ATTITUDE.

Representative Garner of Texas, of the House ways and means committee, which is handling all soldier legislation, Saturday took a stand which shows that he has considered the question of compensations from the standpoint of sanity, unclouded by jingoism. He announced that he was in favor of any legislation providing aid for soldiers in the purchase of urban or city homes, and for vocational training for all ex-service men, but would oppose cash bonuses as saddening the country with another bond issue, tending toward financial depression and decreasing the value of the bonds already issued.

This attitude is one that the Times commends. It is one that will mean, if resultant legislation is governed by it, real help to the men who are deserving of their country's special consideration. From the expressions received by the Times, it is one that the majority of legion men approve.

CLEAN UP.

Cisco, emulating the example set by the Ranger Business and Working Men's club last week, started an early morning clean-up which left the streets of that city, according to reports, "spotless." It will be made a regular practice there. The street sweeping and shovel work were followed by the fire hose.

Unfortunately, Ranger cannot follow the clean-up work which it has started in this fashion. The waste water would have no place to go. But it can follow it up by keeping the streets which are to be cleaned free from refuse and by stopping the practice of sweeping dirt and refuse into the streets from the sidewalks.

The city has no ample fund to take care of street maintenance, but it can see that needless littering of the streets is stopped, and lend this cooperation to the club which started the clean-up and to those men, such as the Austin street group, between Main and Pine, and another forming on Main, in their efforts by private cooperation to keep the streets presentable.

WILL HE BE NEXT GERMAN PRESIDENT?

General von Hindenburg's latest picture.

If the Fatherland party, now in control in Berlin, remains dominant and Germany continues a republic, there is considerable likelihood that General von Hindenburg will succeed Ebert as president. It was announced some time ago that Hindenburg was the choice of the Fatherland party for the presidency.

SOUTHPAW FLINGERS ARE NEED OF STRONG CLEVELAND INDIANS

By JACK VEILOCK.
International News Sporting Editor.
NEW YORK.—Tris Speaker and his Cleveland Indians have been the subjects of serious consideration among baseball-wise-acres in sizing up American league chances in the coming campaign for the 1920 pennant.

When Tris took command of the Indians, following Lee Fohl's resignation in mid-season last year, there was some doubt as to whether or not he possessed the qualifications necessary to a successful manager. That doubt has been removed.

Speaker made good from the start as a manager. He kept the Indians fighting until the very last gasp, and the fact that they played even better ball under his leadership spoke well for him. Cleveland fans are of the opinion that their hopes of seeing the Indians amex a pennant would have been satisfied last year had Speaker been in command from the start of the season. Who knows?

The Indians of 1920, then, must be considered as certain pennant contenders. On paper they look to be the class of the American league, and the fact that Speaker's mays are his pals, and that their appetites for the fame and fortune that comes with the winning of a pennant and the playing of the world's series have not been satiated, indicates that they are going to put up the greatest fight in the history of the club.

It appears that Speaker's chances of success with the Indians depends largely on how his pitchers show up and how he manages them. Pitching has been the Cleveland bugbear. The Indians have been in need of a good left-hander or two for several seasons.

In this respect Speaker believes he has found the man to solve the riddle in Dick Niehaus, lanky southpaw purchased from the St. Paul club. Niehaus worked in fifty game for the St. Paul club last season, winning twenty-three and losing thirteen. For a southpaw, that is a good record in the association where there is a whole lot of hitting and many good outside club swingers.

So Niehaus will be depended on to hold up the southpawing end of the pitching for the Indians unless Joe Boehling returns to the club, and if he delivers, Speaker and his admirers feel pretty sure that the Cleveland right-handers will be able to take care of the rest of it. Tris-tram probably figures that because he has a team with left-hand hitters predominating the batting order, the tasks of left-hand flingers in their league will be lightened, while one good southpaw should be able to take care of rival clubs to the extent of winning enough games to make up the deficit in the "won column" that lost the pennant for the tribe last season. In other words, Speaker and his supporters believe a club of the caliber of the Indians can win a pennant with a right-handed pitching staff.

The Indians have a lot of class. In addition to Niehaus, they took fourteen flingers to the training camp at New Orleans. Their best right-hand flingers are Jim Bagby, George Uhle, Stan Coveleskie, Ray Caldwell, Elmer Meyers and Guy Morton. Then they have Lanbeth, Faeth, Phillip, Ed Klepfisz—if he reports and gets into shape—and George Cykowski, a young amateur pitcher who comes to the tribe with a better record than did Uhle. They also have a sensational southpaw prospect in Jimmy Kahoon, a Forest City amateur. Figuring that Cleveland's right-hand mainstays will enjoy normally good seasons, there is no reason why Speaker's "dope" regarding a right-hand staff and the winning of a pennant may not work out. And if Niehaus comes through, "Spoko" will have no pitching worries.

Steve Neil, Les Nunamaker and Chet Thomas comprise the Indian catching staff. O'Neil has been a star for a good many seasons. He is still starring. Last season he hit .298 while the veteran Nunamaker clubbed .256. Not half bad for a catcher who shines in so many other ways. O'Neil and Nunamaker are right-hand hitters. Thomas, who had an exceptionally poor year with the bludgeon in 1919, hits from the port side.

The Cleveland infield is one of the best in either league. Larry Gardner's age has not kept him from starring, and he is in his element playing for Speaker, who is a bosom pal of both Gardner and Joe Wood. Larry hit .300 last season. He is showing no signs of going back to the bushes. Doc Johnston and Joe Harris will be well able to take care of first base. Johnston, who hit .305 in 1919, is a southpaw batter. Harris, who clubbed .375, finishing on the heels of Ty Cobb, wings from the right side of the plate. These two can be alternated against left and right-handed pitching.

Ray Chapman, the best shortstop in the American league, hit .300 last year. He is a right-hand hitter. Wambegans, who has more than won his spurs at second base, clubbed .278 and is also a right-hand hitter. Some slugging infield? You tell 'em. And Speaker can divide it up evenly in the matter of right and left-hand hitting by playing Johnston at first.

The outfield, with Speaker in center,

Graney in left and Elmer Smith in right, is good enough for the average manager. Graney did not hit as well as he might have last season, but 1920 is another year. His average last summer fell to .234. Speaker's batting fell off a bit, too, due no doubt to his managerial worries and the tightness of the race. But he finished the season hitting .206. Smith hit .278 and Joe Wood .255. Nothing to worry about here, as all the Cleveland outfielders should hit the ball next season.

Looking at the Indians from all angles it appears that the wave of opinion favoring them as likely pennant winners is justified. They have over $100,000 beautes, but they have class and they are well balanced except in the matter of a preponderance of right-hand pitching. But the right-handers they boast are among the bet in the American league. Watch out for the Indians. They'll be on the warpath from the start and it will not be surprising if they better their 1919 position. To do this they will have to win the pennant.

JOHN BARLEYCORN'S STANCH DEFENDER SEEKS PRESIDENCY ON WET PLATFORM

The wettest candidate for the presidential nomination in either of the big parties is Governor Edwards of New Jersey, Democrat. Practically the only plank in the Edwards platform is strong drink and lots of it. Governor Edwards got into his present office on a wet platform, and he recently signed a bill passed by the New Jersey legislature legalizing the manufacture and sale of 3.50 beer. Governor Edwards says he is now prepared to initiate his state's proposed suit in the U. S. supreme court attacking both the prohibition constitutional amendment and the Volstead enforcement act.

CANADA TURNS TO LINSEED STRAW TO MAKE PAPER PULP

Canada yearly wastes 1,000,000 tons of flax straw capable of producing over 100,000 tons of paper pulp. The Dominion manufactures annually 250,000 tons of high-grade pulp largely for export to the United States, and this can be greatly increased by using flax straw. In 1918, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta had 1,046,000 acres of flax under cultivation, producing 7,117,000 bushels of flax seed for linseed oil and seed purposes.

The market for high-grade paper is unparalleled today and the demand far exceeds production. In spite of an increase of 100 per cent in the price of some high-grade papers. Some 20,000 acres of pulp wood limits in Canada are consumed yearly, and timber limits are rapidly increasing in value. In view of these facts the Canadian Pacific Railway has carefully investigated the use of flax straw for pulp production and the following practical plan has been worked out. The flax straw after being threshed for linseed is sent to tow mills. Three tons of straw are converted into 1 ton of baled tow. This is sent to the pulp mill and converted to bleached or unbleached pulp, using standard equipment with a slight modification to overcome the original difficulty of removing the woody portion of the straw from the fibre. Three to 3 1/2 tons of baled

PATIENT LANDLAW GETS ANCIENT BOARD BILL

By Associated Press LONDON, Ont., March 20.—Mrs. Bridget Eldredge has received payment in full for a board bill of $200 which Daniel O'Brien, a former roomer, contracted before he dropped out of sight forty-one years ago.

Mrs. Eldredge lives in Bruce county. She formerly resided in this city. A short time ago Major T. J. Murphy, a local barrister called on her. Mrs. Eldredge called his attention to a trunk which belonged to O'Brien. She had never opened it.

According to the aged woman, O'Brien roomed with her at London until she decided to move to Bruce county. At that time he owed her about $200 which he was unable to pay. He asked Mrs. Eldredge to take his trunk, stating that he intended to move to Bruce county as soon as he straightened his affairs.

O'Brien never came. In 1881 the steamer Victoria sank in the river Thames and O'Brien was believed to have been one of the victims. Although there was some doubt about his fate, he never was heard from.

Murphy suggested that Mrs. Eldredge open the trunk. She did so and found a pass book on an Ontario banking concern which showed a balance of $215.99 in O'Brien's favor. It was turned over to the surrogate court which was informed that the compound interest had swelled the deposit to $1,575.

The judge, computing Mrs. Eldredge's bill on the same basis, allowed her $1,000.

BUSH HAS A RIVAL

By International News Service. MACON, Ga.—Donnie Bush, for eleven years star shortstop of the Detroit Tigers, who are training here, has an understudy this season in the person of E. Emory Rigney, a star performer from the Texas Agricultural & Mechanical college. Rigney was signed by Manager Jennings three years ago, but Emory joined the army and his very existence was forgotten by President Navin and his son Charles, secretary of the Detroit club, until a few weeks ago.

Secretary Navin, in clearing his desk, for the 1920 season's business, came across the old contract and immediately got in communication with Rigney, with the result that the Lone Star shortstopper signed up and reported here with the thirty-five other Tiger players.

It is not likely that Bush will be retired in favor of the youngster this year, but there is no substitute on the Bengal roster who can "sit in" acceptably for Donnie, and Rigney will have a chance for seasoning with a big league club, drawing a big league salary. President Navin hopes to develop a successor for Bush when he is finally forced out of the game.

American method find it necessary to purchase 720,000,000 safety pins every year in order to reach the little kiddies properly harnessed.

One of the many million dollar oil concerns in Texas has a woman secretary, Miss Florence M. Sterling, who handles her position in a manner that would bring praise to any man.

ERNEST JONES A CANDIDATE COUNTY CLERK

Ernest Jones of Eastland has announced his candidacy for the position of county clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

According to his announcement, Mr. Jones was born and reared on a farm nine miles north of Gorman and has spent the most of his life in Eastland county. He attended high school in Eastland and has had a business course in Tyler Commercial college, returning to Eastland to take a position in the county clerk's office under Clyde L. Garrett. He also served under Miss Maude Crossley and Earl Bender.

He joined the army in the summer of 1918 and spent several months in service.

SEWARD, FAMOUS ALASKAN TOWN, GROWING FAST

SEWARD, Alaska.—Seward is booming. The town once famous as the habitat of Klondike miners returning from their gold harvest is now growing into a city of considerable importance in the Northland. Trade is springing up with renewed vigor. Two trains a week now run between Anchorage and Seward, making the difficult 123 miles in seven hours. The secret of its success as a trade mart is said to be in the thousands of tons of Matanuska coal that now passes through Seward daily. This coal has recently been tested by the United States collier Saturn and reports that Matanuska coal is fine for steamship purposes.

YOUNGSTERS ARE CHIEF HOPE OF KID GLEASON'S WHITE SOX

By JACK VELOCK

International News Sporting Editor. NEW YORK, March 19.—Unless some of Kid Gleason's recruits turn out to be phenoms, or the White Sox are strengthened by player deals they will enter the 1920 campaign in the American League with a somewhat weaker line-up than the one which fought its way to the 1919 pennant.

in business foreign to baseball. As the Sox have made no player deals of importance it appears that Gleason must build his machine from the seasoned talent in training at Waco, Texas. Of course, there is always the chance that some rookie may make good, but in the case of the Sox rookies this spring the chances are considered the slimmest over.

? TELEPHONE ? 56 THE PLUMBER R. D. LINCOLN 203 N. AUSTIN STREET

Eddie will be 36 years old this spring. Though he pitched brilliant ball last summer, it is the opinion of baseball experts that he is now on the down grade, for in the world's series he showed signs of the strain under which he worked throughout the summer of 1919 and no pitcher can go on indefinitely, especially at Cicotte's age, carrying the heavy end of the pitching burden for any man's ball club.

Claude Williams, who bloomed forth as one of the best left-handers in the American league last season, apparently came into his own. He will be counted on to shoulder a big share of the pitching this year and unless his showing last season was a flash in the pan he will learn something about work as Cicotte has known it for several years.

Dickie Kerr, the diminutive left-hander of the Sox, is perhaps the brightest prospect. Kerr has a good head, a good arm, a lot of natural ability and, best of all, the courage of a giant. He will unquestionably show improvement.

But aside from this trio of pitchers the Sox are none too well fixed. Urban Faber had a bad year in 1919. He may come back, but his chances are nothing to brag about. Bill Noyes, the right-hander, secured from the Athletics by waiver; Grever Lowdermilk, a second string pitcher from last season; J. L. Davenport, right-hander, another hold-over; Roy Wilkinson, who came from Columbus; and finished the 1919 season with the Sox; Charley Robertson, recalled from Minneapolis where he was sent for more seasoning; Bob Russell, still hanging on to a Sox meal ticket; and Roy Hanson, from the Milwaukee club, just about complete the list, though Gleason has several other young pitchers. In this array of hurling talent, however, there appears to be little promise. Noyes is as good a prospect as any of the others who can be figured to share the regular pitching assignments with Cicotte, Williams and Kerr.

In face of the stiffest opposition they have been called upon to fight against since the Red Sox machine was broken up, the task of Gleason's outfit this summer is going to be mastodonic. The Sox will probably find no less than four clubs fighting for the rail when the barrier goes on April 14. The Indians, Yankees, Tigers and Browns look like red-hot contenders for the four first division berths and if Chicago is to finish in the first division at all it will be necessary for the Gleasonites to crowd out one of these four teams. Many critics are of the opinion that the Sox will do well to finish fifth.

The pitching staff is clouded in uncertainty. The veteran Eddie Cicotte, who may be robbed of much of his effectiveness by the ruling barning break deliveries, was the main stay of Gleason's staff last year and the keystone of Retzlend's 1917 aggregation. But whether or not Cicotte will be the effective pitcher he was last season and whether he can stand the strain is a question.

FIRST VERDICT IN ALASKA FISH TRAP PIRATES CASE JUNEAU, Alaska.—The first verdict in a series of cases being conducted in the prosecution of an organized band of fish trap pirates was rendered recently when Ernest Stage was convicted of robbing traps and assault with intent to kill. The fish pirates operated in Alaska extensively last summer and in many instances are said to have shot at watchmen with rifles. The Department of Justice has spent large sums in an effort to apprehend the members of the fish pirating gang.

THE TIMES' DAILY SHORT STORY PAULA THE POET

Paula was curled up on the wide couch by the window, scratching oddments of inspired thought. Beth, most understanding, capable, moodless a chum that an erratic poet ever had, was busy preparing a quantity and nourishing evening meal.

Paula was a girl of brilliant intellect, wonderful in poetic fancy but utterly and completely lacking in the domestic virtues. She could no more have cooked the little meat loaf and biscuits than she could have put out to sea in an R-34. Her taste in clothes was simply a wish to cover herself decently and her hair was long and natural and wound about her head in the particular way that it happened to go. And she wore ordinary b.o.s., not sandals.

But Paula could write poetry.

Beth possessed all the artistic tastes that go to produce a perfect type of temperamental poet. Her hair was tarnished and becomingly bobbed. Her orange and black smocks were poems of batik art and often while sitting at tea she wore an adorable Chinese mandarin from which her little feet peeped out from the wide trousers like captive butterflies. There was always incense burning when Beth was around.

But Beth could not cook, make wonderful clothes, entertain with great success, and she was a delightful bit of feminine world to have about the house.

Beth could not, however, have written a poem any more than she could have put together the parts of their joint fliv.

"Here's another man person waiting to meet the poet Paula," called Beth, as the postman left his wares at the door. "He has been reading your verse for two years and is coming from the middle west just in the hope that you will give him the 'le s-m-e, etc., etc.' Beth finished off with a laugh. "Oh, to have some west-rn cowboy consumed with passion for me—just once."

Paula, too, laughed from the nest of the brilliant-hued cushions that she had made, but her laugh was a trifle impatient.

"I just can't be bothered meeting all these strange people all the time. You've no idea what a miff I feel listening to their ravings. I have absolutely nothing to say to them, and my poor brain struggles for conversational niceties and I very nearly pass out in the attempt."

"That's what you get for being a genius," said the unfeeling Beth. "The penalty for writing boring, scorching love effusions which you no more feel than I do is to have 'em all at the strange men in the world come and gaze into your soulless eyes."

"You have all the soul and scorching emotions for both of us," laughed Paula. "If we each had temperament and moods then, honey, we couldn't live together so happily." She jumped up as Beth was about to take her hot biscuits from the oven Paula swept her into an embrace and said, "You're a little duck," she said, affectionately. "and I wish just for once you would meet this western cowboy as Paula."

When Beth had rescued the biscuits, she turned questioning eyes on Paula.

"If you really mean it—it would be a bit of a lark. I have all the earmarks of a poet—nutties of nuts."

So it happened that the two girls exchanged identities, and never were two more aluring personalities transferred for the mere sake of joggling the brain of a western cowboy.

And the heart of the western cowboy, who went by the name of John Rylance, was most assuredly rampant when he found two delightful girls waiting to receive him at tea. The small apartment was curiously home-like. Rylance felt decidedly at home even before he was directed by Beth toward the great cushioned chair in the sunny window.

Paula had met the big ranchman with her habitual calm exterior, but within her brilliant brain there was an instant desire to write a splendid method Paula would take to extricate herself from the false position they had assumed.

Paula was not troubled about having given away her identity, but she felt a bit startled at the new emotions within her that she knew were not destined to spend themselves on the mere writing of verse.

Then Beth, from the kitchenette, heard Rylance speaking.

"You couldn't have hidden your soul from me, Paula Raymond. I have loved it too well for it to escape me under a 'coucouflore.'"

Beth couldn't hear Paula's answer, but it must have been satisfactory, for when she returned with the dainty tea there was an atmosphere of happiness that prompted her thoughts to stray toward orange blossoms and weddings in a tiny flat.

WAR DEPARTMENT TO HONOR BOSTON FIRMS

International News Service. BOSTON.—Eighty-six Boston firms will receive certificates of honor from the war department for their aid in winning the war. These certificates were sent to the army headquarters and will be delivered to representatives of the firms.

Nine firms in New Haven, fifteen in Hartford, four in Bridgeport, sixteen in Providence and two in Pawtucket will also receive the certificates, which read: "The war department of the United States of America recognizes in this award your distinguished service, loyalty, energy and efficiency in war work, which aided materially in obtaining victory for the army of the United States of America in war with the imperial German government and imperial royal Austro-Hungarian government."

Jewish women in Palestine have been granted the vote and will be eligible for election to the constitutional assembly.

SUSQUEHANNA ICE JAM BROKEN ONLY BY HUGE AERIAL BOMBS

View of the ice jam in the Susquehanna near Port Deposit, Md.

In order to break an unprecedented ice jam in the Susquehanna river near Port Deposit, Md., army aviators flew over the great fields of ice and dropped upon them huge aerial bombs loaded with T. N. T., the most powerful explosive known. The first day's bombardment tore great holes in the ice and on the second day four planes loaded with 500-pound bombs started the ice moving.

LONDON RIFE WITH SPREAD OF RED CLUBS

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service and the London Daily Express.

LONDON, March 19.—The anarchist clubs of London are spread over the eastern and western districts, North and south are comparatively free of them. Charlotte street, W., and Bedford street, W., show the contrast and boundary of their ramifications.

Members of these London anarchist clubs are usually—but not always—foreigners. Russians predominate, Spaniards, Italians, Germans are numerous, and Frenchmen are fewest of all. The police are aware of the existence of nearly all these clubs, and have a comprehensive "Who's Who" of their membership.

Where the wily anarchist misleads the police is in his brazenly frank conspiracy. His secret organizations, his letters and his lines of communication are constantly tapped. The man with the bomb has as much chance in London of completing a scheme of assassination as he has of flying over London without being observed.

Where the authorities err is in paying too much heed to the active anarchist and leaving the brains of the party—the passive performers—to sow broadcast the seeds of his political beliefs. In order to obtain a correct picture of the anarchist as he really is, it is necessary to become a frequenter of these Bohemian haunts—not so difficult as, say, obtaining entry in a West End night club. Here you find all sorts of strange men and women who go toward the making of the turbulent undercurrent—apparent here and there when a big convulsive explosion takes place. A crowned head the less and suppressed enthusiasm in the anarchists' underworld. Society can have no mercy on such social tyrants, but the journalist in search of copy must look deeper than the detective whose main concern is to bring to book these "enemies of society." I was able to obtain admission to a club in the East End where the police never go—probably because the picture of this den is not in keeping with the popular conception.

The picture of the anarchist at home has been invariably overdrawn. The lurid conception of a disreputable and evil-looking outlaw who wears a mask and throws the fateful dice in an underground den belongs always to the novelist. For should you meet the anarchist in the flesh you would most probably discover him to be a charming and cultured person who is perfectly frank in his political outlook. It is the fashion to confuse the hooligan with the anarchist, but they do not belong to the same social or political school. The last anarchist I met was a scholar and a dandy. He was once a count, a distinction he soon disclaimed. His wealth, which had been left him by an autocratic parent, he distributed to advanced political societies, and in order to live, he had his wife opened up a florist shop.

There is, of course, an admixture of the types who are labeled by the world as anarchists. In the underworld of London they resort to gambling dens, political clubs and billiard rooms. They always avoid public houses. The refined or super-anarchist carries on his scheming in innocent looking restaurants. Let me take the reader into one of these anarchist resorts which had a vogue not so long ago, and now, after a depressing period, is blossoming to life again. It used to be known as the "German Cafe Club," and was situated in a turning at the back of the London hospital.

The Club had a big restaurant on the ground floor and a room on the first floor where meetings were held. It looked to the casual visitor, an ordinary eating house, with its marble-topped tables, an electric piano which played Beethoven and Chopin, and its busy buffet. The proprietress, a handsome looking German, was probably disinterested in the ulterior motives of the habitués. The solitary waiter, a cadaverous-looking individual, had been similarly employed in a cafe in St. Petersburg, and had been brought over by the countess.

The "countess"—her right to this distinction remains in doubt—always came to take her lunch of soup and fish surrounded by a retinue of aesthetic-looking men, who always seemed to live by sipping tea a la Russe.

Some of these men lived by playing during the season in orchestras and on the legitimate stage. They were scholars, poets, dramatists and editors, who were hounded out by an intolerant government to hatch their schemes of revenge abroad. But it was not always a vendetta which brought these men from afar. They had fought relentlessly against a system of government which they deemed

AUTHOR SUES PULLMAN CAR CO. FOR LOST MANUSCRIPT

BOISE, Idaho.—The federal court here is confronted with one of the most peculiar cases in its history. Earl Wayland Bowman, of this city, is suing the Pullman Car Company, for $17,000, claiming that the defendant is responsible for the loss of his manuscript of a novel entitled "Wah-tah-mah-mee." Bowman says he was returning from the East this winter, having been in conference with his publishers. He claims that he had the manuscript in a traveling bag and that he temporarily placed it in the hands of a porter to safeguard it while he left the car. When he returned, he says, the bag and the manuscript could not be found.

So, when William Henry Vallas, a well to do manufacturer, murmured "Sis" while deep in slumber one night he was not thinking of his stenographer, with whom his wife alleged he was infatuated.

ASKS POLICE AID IN 18-YEAR SEARCH FOR DAUGHTER

DENVER.—Pursuing a search that he has carried on for eighteen years, Le Roy Moore, of Chicago, has appealed to local police to aid him in finding his daughter, who he believes is in this city.

Moore says his former wife—who has since remarried—disappeared from his home in Springfield, Mo., when the daughter, Georgia May Moore, was only a year old. Moore's search has extended from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico. Recently he learned that his former wife from whom he has secured a divorce, was living in this city. Denver authorities are assisting Moore in combing Denver for the long missing daughter.

Says It Kept Him on the Pay Roll

G. C. James Was Remarkably Built Up After Taking Tanlac.

"Nothing kept me on the payroll of the Illinois Meter company but Tanlac, for I had already made arrangements to give up my position when I began taking it," said G. C. James, who lives at 1419 Franklin avenue, Springfield, Ill.

"I had suffered from rheumatism and stomach trouble for fifteen years," he continued, "and got in such bad shape I could hardly get about. The rheumatism was especially bad in my legs and sometimes my left leg would swell to twice its normal size. My kidneys were also in such a condition I could seldom get a good night's rest, and so far as eating was concerned—well, before I began taking Tanlac I had not enjoyed a meal in years. I suffered so from indigestion, and I had such dizzy spells I would have to lie down. I became so weak I often gave out completely while at work and they would have to take me home in a car, so it is a wonder I held up at all."

"One day one of the men I work with suggested that I try Tanlac and as long as I live I will praise the day I bought it, for I haven't a trace of rheumatism now and I eat anything set before me without any bad after effects. The dizzy spells are things of the past and my kidneys never bother me any more; every night I sleep like a log and I weigh just thirty-eight pounds more than I did when I began taking Tanlac. I feel twenty years younger and am in perfect health, and there is nothing in the world I would take for the good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.

LEVEILLE-MAHER MOTOR COMPANY MOVES THIS WEEK INTO COMPLETE AND MODERN MAIN STREET PLANT

Leveille Maher Motor company this week moves into its new building, Main and Hodges streets, two blocks above Marston—a modern fireproof building, ample in size, with 8,000 square feet of floor space and warranting the assertion, "the largest building in Ranger devoted exclusively to the garage business."

The entire building will be used for Ford service, repair and remanufacture.

All models of the Ford car will be handled and also the Fordson tractor, several of which already have been sold to teaming contractors, the sturdy motive power being adapted to heavy hauling problems as well as agricultural use.

The shop will be equipped with every modern device known to the automobile trade: electric motor driver motor bearing burning-in machine; magneto and coil tester; motor limbering device, and all other machines and shop equipment necessary to a complete re-manufacture plant. Experts of the Ford Motor company have been consulted in the selection of the mechanical equipment needed.

This department will be in charge of Arthur Campbell, Ford expert, and his corps of Ford specialists.

As required by the Ford Motor company, in its parts department, and have for sale nothing but genuine Ford parts. Full lines of special accessories of other manufacture are carried, in addition. But all parts are of Ford manufacture.

A new feature of the service offered at the new plant will be the service station, for gasoline, lubricating oil and service in general. Immediate delivery will be given on Ford ton trucks and Fordson tractors.

Lady Astor is credited by popular gossip in England with the responsibility for the appointment of Sir Auckland Geddes to the post of British ambassador to the United States.

FREIGHT CAR IS CARRIED ON TRUCK AND TRAILERS

As if to verify the claims of its sponsors that the Ship-by-Truck movement embodies a practical, workaday program, W. J. Gallagher, Medina, N. Y., loaded a standard size 22-ton freight car aboard two trailers and hitched a truck to them recently. He hauled the car through the streets of the city, from one railroad siding to another, more than two miles away. The truck carried a ballast of five tons of iron. In point of service Mr. Gallagher is one of the oldest demonstrators of the efficiency of the Ship-by-Truck program. The truck is shod with Firestone tires.

AVIATORS PUT ON EXHIBITION TIP FOR LEGION DRIVE

Special to The Times.
EASTLAND, March 20.—In the interest of the drive that the American Legion here is putting on to secure enough funds to provide a club house for the legion, Lieutenants Haug and Bagby gave an exhibition flight over the city. The plane was decorated with signs "Subscribe to the legion fund."

Before the exhibition was given the plane circled over the city and threw out dodgers. "Subscribe to the legion fund."

Quite an exhibition in the air was given and several of our most prominent citizens complain of a stiff neck today. The drive will be for $15,000 and was set for today.

SNOW SUBWAYS ENABLE TOWN FOLKS TO CROSS STREETS

International News Service.
MOULTON, Maine.—"Snow subways" for shoppers are the latest novelty in northern Maine. Drifts are so gigantic that tunnels have been made to enable pedestrians to cross streets. There are quite a few of these "subways" in this town, where snow is piled ten to twelve feet high.

STORK DELAYS FUNERAL

DENVER.—The stork delayed the funeral here of Frank Altes. Just as the cortege was about to start for the cemetery the bereaved widow was hurried from a funeral carriage into the Altes home, where a baby girl was born.

BOY UNMOVED FACES CHARGE GIRL'S MURDER

MARSHFIELD, Ore., March 20.—The third trial of 15-year-old Harold Howell, charged with the murder of Miss Lillian Leuthold, of Bandon, Ore., will begin at the opening of the March term of the circuit court here today.

Two trials have failed to find the boy guilty or innocent. The first trial cost the county $2,000, while the second trial cost $2,500. The lad has been in jail since last July, when the murder was committed at Bandon, near here. Bail has been refused him.

Despite his extreme youthfulness, young Howell maintains an equippose that has astonished two venues and all who have seen him. To while away the hours in his prison cell the boy plays a clarinet. Faced with almost damaging circumstantial evidence, the youth displays a calmness of manner and a coolness of speech that baffle the court.

Since the second trial closed without a satisfactory verdict a strange sidelight on the case has developed. Leigh Watson, a Bandon man, heretofore not connected with the trial, has gone insane and in his ravings reiterates denials that he killed the Leuthold girl. The defense has learned that Watson possesses the only gun in the county similar to the one with which, it is charged, the Leuthold girl was killed. The other gun was said to have been found in the possession of the Howell boy.

Though grilled by a battery of attorneys for the state, Howell repeats his simple denial of the charge of murder. Nine months in the county jail has not changed his calm demeanor. Doubt is expressed on all sides that even a third jury will find him guilty of the crime.

In straitened circumstances as a result of having spent and borrowed money from friends for the defense of his son, O. O. Howell has made a plea to the county court of Coos county to provide funds for the lad's defense.

The father of the boy is a laboring man and has suffered the loss of his left hand. His sole income, he avers, is the $25 a month allotted him by the state insurance commission. He declares he has spent every cent he has in the defense of his son, whom he believes to be absolutely innocent.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF COMMERCE BOARD

Edgar E. Clark.
Edgar E. Clark has been elected chairman of the interstate commerce commission, which recently received a broad extension of powers under the Esch-Cummins bill. Clark will take office March 17 and will serve until June 30, 1921.

MORE THOUGHTFUL CITIZENSHIP NEEDED SAYS FRANKLIN LANE

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Development of more thoughtful and interested citizenship and translation of the crystallized public sentiment into action are the needs of grave import confronting the nation, Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior, declared in a paper read to the national conference on community organization. He said that his interest in community organization arose from the conviction that it would help solve both problems.

"The movement has many phases," he said. "It lies at the root of proper Americanization for the essence of Americanization is not merely to teach the language but to draw the newcomer into our common life and make him an active partner in our undertakings."

LAST SALE OF WILD HORSE HIDES

International News Service.
WINNEMUCA, Nev.—What is believed to have been the last sale of wild horse hides in the United States was completed here recently by Clark Ringling. Nine hundred hides of wild horses hunted by Ringling under a bond given the state to protect range stock of ranchers were sold.

According to Ringling the original wild horse herd, which consisted of about 9,000 head, has dwindled to but a few animals.

LOWER PRICES FOR MOTOR CARS MUST AWAIT DECLINE IN MATERIALS; DEMAND OUTSTRIPS PRODUCTION

More settled industrial conditions, a continued increase in production and little prospect of an early lowering of prices are foreseen for the motor car industry by Christian Gierl, president of the Standard Parts company of Cleveland, and vice president of the Motor & Accessory Manufacturers' association. He says: "The signing of the peace treaty, which we hope in some correct form will be accomplished during the next thirty days, will have a very beneficial effect upon the social conditions in America as well as the rest of the world. In our opinion labor will be more constant and will accomplish more in the year 1920 than in 1919. The prices will fall to any marked degree is not to be expected for an number of seasons. All material product is based upon the work of the hand and the brain, and the price of materials can only be lowered when there is less demand for the labor of the hand and brain than there is at this moment."

"It will take some years to restock the warehouses of the world and until this oc-cars there can be no such thing as over-production. There may be some unbalanced production, but no surplus of commodities in the average. All our debts have been contracted with a rising and inflated market and cannot be paid with a deflated market. This is another reason for the general prices of materials remaining up. Demand for goods will exceed the supply. This will be especially true of the wonderful form of locomotion and transportation known as the motor car. In our opinion the demand for cars this next year will far exceed the demand in 1919 and should run from 3,000,000 to 3,500,000 cars, including trucks. Production will be limited by the ability of motor car manufacturers and parts makers to secure steel and other metals and to secure labor with which to fabricate the same. Production will be nowhere equal to the demand and if it should run at the rate of 2,250,000 cars for the year it is possibly all that can be expected. Cars are being designed better than formerly and lasting longer.

The greatest writer of all time made one of his characters cry out on the battlefield, "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse," but today in the battlefield of life the public is crying out

"A Ford, a Ford, My Kingdom for a Ford!"

The Ford is not limited to any class or to any section. A Ford can go anywhere. Thousands of oil operators have found that the Ford car exactly meets the difficult condition of the oil fields.

The reasonable cost of the Ford car and its ability to stand up under the wear and tear of the oil fields are two good reasons for its purchase.

College Athletics Present Training "Single Track" Minds Responsible For the Madness of Bolshevism

That school and college athletics in America act as a bulwark against the madness which Bolshevism brought upon Russia is the novel opinion expressed by Dr. Edward Egbert, formerly chief surgeon of the American Red Cross in Russia, who for many years has been a keen student of Russian affairs. Dr. Egbert is executive secretary of the American central committee for Russian relief, which was formed to aid non-Bolshevik refugees and has national headquarters in the Hotel Buckingham, New York. Describing the real progress in Russia's education, achieved during the decades previous to the overthrow of Nicholas II, Dr. Egbert points to the lack of those factors which gave mental pose and character to American students. "Exclusive of Finland, there were 40,000 students enrolled in the ten Russian universities in 1913, compared with 167,000 enrolled in 933 similar institutions in the United States, which has a population only one-half as great," says Dr. Egbert. "Including schools of every sort in Russia, 8,000,000 students were enrolled, more than 80 per cent of them being in primary schools.

"During the twenty years of the reign of Nicholas II prior to war, educational facilities were improved perhaps 100 per cent, which is the reason the younger generation has taken the lead in recent affairs. The greater proportion of the plain people, while possessing the wisdom which comes with maturity, have no education. The youth with their inexperience, audacity, irresponsibility, and lack of conservatism, who have schooling but little mental training, have assumed positions of responsibility. This is one of the causes of Russia's rapid collapse.

"All education was carefully censored. Certain books were forbidden and only those who could afford post-graduate instruction in more liberal countries such as France could really round out their education. There is another very striking difference between American and Russian school and university life. While our boys and young men are engaged in the several athletic sports which tend to develop not only healthy bodies and minds, but also a spirit of loyalty, team-work, fair play and personal sacrifice for collective glory, Russian students have had no such muscle and character building relaxations.

Youth's craving for excitement and danger took the form of secret revolutionary societies, which held lengthy meetings and debates in the stifling atmosphere of the cellar or in closely curtained rooms. Such activities, during their formative years, developed in many of them the form of a single track brain, the egotism and the thirst for personal power, while they encouraged every opportunity for argumentation and dispute, which is so marked in the personality of Leon Trotsky, and his ilk. "In telling his own history, Trotsky states that beginning at the age of fourteen, he has been an ardent international revolutionist. The Bolshevik intellectuals, of which he is typical, are mostly men who since childhood have been close students of only one subject, tending to make them dogmatic, fanatical and unconvinced. To them the world is but a laboratory for working out their extreme theories, no matter what the cost of the experimentation may be, or what political associations and obligations they have to form in order to gain and to retain their power."

MID-WEST "SHOE EXHIBIT" OPENS IN KANSAS CITY

By International News Service. KANSAS CITY, March 20.—The "Heart of America Shoe Exhibit," to which dealers from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Iowa and other mid-west states will come, opens here today and closes Wednesday. The meetings will be held in the Baltimore hotel, where more than 125 exhibits are arranged. Several thousand shoe dealers and hundreds of traveling salesmen will attend.

OLD THEORY OF POSSESSION IS HELD BY JUDGE

LONDON, March 20.—This is the law in England, as handed down by Justice McCordle:

A husband, in suing for divorce, may demand and be granted damages against a man guilty of enticing away or harboring his wife.

A wife may not be granted damages against a woman guilty of enticing away her husband.

"It is doubtful," Justice McCordle rules, "whether a wife has any right of action against another woman who has enticed away or harbored her husband.

"The wife, in the eyes of the law, has no such rights to her husband's services as those possessed by the husband with regard to his wife.

"The right of action for criminal conversation exists only for the husband. Therefore, only a husband can sue for damages in a divorce suit.

"The wife used to be regarded by the common law as the property of the husband. He could even seize her earnings and inflict physical punishment in due moderation.

"The married woman's property act removed the husband's power over his wife's possessions. The diminution of his power of physical punishment was gradual.

"In granting compensation, two points have to be considered—the actual value of the wife to the husband, and the blow to his martial honor sustained when she was taken away.

"In arriving at the wife's value to her husband, such things as her ability to help him in his business and her capacity as a housekeeper have to be considered.

"If a wife is of a wanton disposition, it is apparent that her value as such is much less."

The justice then ruled that damages could not be awarded where the respondent was unaware that the guilty woman was married, because "a wife who passes herself off as a single woman must be deemed valueless."

Justice McCordle thereupon ruled accordingly upon six damage cases which he had held up for weeks while he delved into the dusty law books.

GIRL UNINJURED IN THREE-STORY DROP INTO SNOWPILE

By International News Service. BOSTON, March 20.—Fourteen-year-old Marie Risoldi turned a somersault twenty-five feet from her third floor window to the snow below and escaped with mere scratches and contusions.

It occurred while the family was at dinner. Half an hour later and all the afternoon and evening Marie lay smilingly tucked in a front room cot and joked about it.

102, WOULD LIVE TO SEE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

By International News Service. GENESEO, Kan., March 20.—The one great wish of Mrs. W. J. Porter, of this place, who will be 102 years old within a few months, is that she will live to see the election of the next president.

Should Mrs. Porter live this long, she will have seen the election of every chief executive of the United States from Madison to _____.

LARGEST SHIP OF U. S. NAVY TAKES WATER

NEWPORT NEWS, March 20.—The superdreadnaught Maryland, designed to be the most powerful battleship in the world, was launched today.

The Maryland is the first of four ships of her class to be launched and is one of the ten superdreadnaughts authorized in the first three-year building program adopted in 1916. With a length of 624 feet over all, a beam of ninety-seven feet and full load displacement of 35,350 tons, she is the largest fighting craft built for the American navy and when commissioned will be one of the most powerful battleships in the world.

Originally designed to carry twelve 14-inch rifles, the plans for the ship were so changed during the war that she will have eight 16-inch guns instead—the first of this size ever mounted on a ship. They will be placed two each in four turrets on the center line, two forward and two aft. They will be larger by one inch than the great guns on the British ships of the Queen Elizabeth class which were used in the bombardment of the Dardanelles.

Battleships designed since the Maryland was laid down, however, will be even more powerful. They will carry twelve 16-inch rifles and will measure 684 feet over all, with a displacement of 43,200 tons. Their speed will be twenty-three knots as against the twenty-one knots of the Maryland and practically all previous classes of American dreadnaughts.

The Maryland's keel was laid on April 24, 1917, eighteen days after the United States declared war on Germany. Work on her was delayed by reason of the rush in getting out destroyers to fight submarines, but it has been rushed since the armistice and the vessel is now nearly three-quarters completed. She will be electrically driven by four propellers, the power for which will be furnished by turbines of approximately 29,000 horsepower. Steam will be furnished by eight oil burning boilers.

SMALLEST WOMAN DIES.

By International News Service. HALSTED, Kan., March 20.—Miss Gertrude Sheffler, 28, believed to be the Stunflower state's smallest woman, died here the other day, a victim of the "flu."

Miss Sheffler was only thirty-five inches tall. She weighed about seventy-five pounds.

In Norway women employed in the civil service and teaching profession are assured by law of equal pay with men.

Under the terms of the will of Mrs. Tom Thum, all her home furnishings will be placed in museums. The collection is said to include the smallest practical furniture in use.

Strange Marital Tangles Present Parallel and Point Difference in American European Standards

NEW YORK.—The person who said morals are a matter of geography might have been thinking of the customs of Continental Europe as compared to those of insular New York—where the facts and personnel of the famous Spiker case lately furnished a shock to so many American households.

When Perley Spiker fell in love during wartime with Miss Knowles, a pretty English girl—and she with him—had as excuse the emotional upheaval of the world to back his plea to Mrs. Spiker that he be forgiven. Then Cora Spiker, like a true Spartan, wrote to Emily Knowles, offered her a home, said she would adopt the war baby, and asked her to come immediately to America.

Now Emily is married to Guy Spiker, Perley's brother. She has her baby to care for and says she is happy. Mrs. Spiker also says she is satisfied and that the past will be forgotten as well as forgiven.

Following upon the sensation we hear that one Lee Shippey, writer and poet of Kansas City, who went overseas as a Y. M. C. A. secretary, came back to meet his wife at the docks, having vowed her to come a long for a second honeymoon, and asked her to get a divorce so he could marry Madeleine Babin, a young French girl whom he loved.

Mrs. Shippey refused. She is frustrated and broken-hearted. Mr. Babin has not only come to America, saying it is her intention to teach school in Oregon, but has brought along her entire family as well. She evidently expects the poet will marry her eventually, for she declares that if she is forced to return to her country, Lee will follow her.

Shippey's mother and sister are taking the part of the young French woman on the ground that Mrs. Shippey has been estranged from her husband for some years and that she should not stand in the way of his marrying Madeleine, since she is soon to become a mother.

Probably from Madeleine's standpoint, it is inconceivable that a woman would want to "hang on" to a man who has not loved her for some time and who declares his love for another.

But should a ten-year-old boy be fatherless in order that a brand-new baby may not be nameless? Where children are involved in these cases, the struggle of two women for one man involves many considerations.

Mrs. Spiker didn't think her young daughter should be deprived of a father because he formed a liaison while in the service. Neither does Mrs. Shippey because she asked Lee to return in order not to break up their home.

The Continental idea that it is ridiculous for a woman to cling to a man who no longer loves her. Yet family life abroad brought about by marriage arranged through parents is generally happy.

Love outside the law is often looked on with equanimity in Europe by the ally or not—is looked upon with veneration, perhaps envy. Here love must be ruled by law and not become a force that seeks to break it down. To a woman who marries, her husband is presumed to be everything in life. He is her life, her care, her all. Where love strays or dies, her career as a wife has failed. But still she has a right not to be disregarded, since she has given her life into his keeping especially when she is the mother of children.

The Spiker and Shippey cases are similar. Both men went to war—Spiker as a private in the army and Shippey as a Y. M. C. A. secretary. Both fell in love with girls they met where they were stationed.

As far as possible, reparation has been made by the Spikers, although much unfavorable criticism has been directed against Mrs. Cora Spiker. The outcome of the other case is as yet uncertain.

What will be the final result of the Spiker combination?

And what should be done in the other case.

GIRLS ARE TOO ROUGH.

International News Service. OWOSHO, Mich.—G.I. basketball players of Ceresing, Michigan, were accused of using "rough house" tactics in a recent game with Owosso high school.

Miss Virginia Miner, head coach of the Owosso team, says that one of her players is suffering with a broken rib and another is threatened with blood poisoning from a bite. Both of these injuries, Miss Miner declares, were sustained in the intercollegiate basketball series and she is very indignant over the "brutality" displayed by the Ceresing girls.

HIGH PAID WHITE WINGS CLEAN UP ON CISCO STREETS

CISCO, March 20.—This city has the highest paid street cleaners in the world. Several of them have incomes of $50 a day or more.

Headed by Mayor James Williamson, dressed in overalls and armed with a broom, nearly 100 Cisco business men answered a reveille sounded by the fire whistle at 5 o'clock Friday morning; fell into formation on Main street with brooms, picks and shovels and swept that thoroughfare from one end to the other.

Five city commissioners manned scavenger wagons and hauled more than 100 tons of dirt, dust, trash and rubbish to the dump. Five hoses were played on the brick-paved street for its entire length. At 10 o'clock the business district was spotless.

This will be a weekly occurrence, according to plans of the Young Men's Business League, the Chamber of Commerce and the city commission, who jointly fostered the idea.

Cisco has several miles of paved streets.

JUMPS 25 FEET, ESCAPES FROM DETENTION HOME

JOPLIN, Mo., March 20.—A leap of twenty-five feet was made by Paul Brown, 16, the other day when Brown staged a successful break for liberty from the Jasper county detention home. The boy apparently was uninjured by the jump, for he made a rapid getaway. He crawled through a window on the second floor of the building and jumped from the narrow ledge to the ground. He was being held in connection with a drug store robbery.

HOUSE OF JOHNSON CELEBRATES DOUBLE ALLIANCE

International News Service. MITCHELL, S. D.—The house of Johnson celebrated a double alliance here the other day when Harvey Johnson of Letcher, S. D., was married to Miss Mary Johnson of Mount Vernon, S. D., and Jacob Johnson, brother of Mary, was married to Josie Johnson, half-sister of Harvey.

Harvey and Johnsons listed in this city's directory extended congratulations.

U. S. ARMY MOTOR CARS AND TRUCKS RUSTING AWAY IN FRANCE

Small section of one group of motor cars and trucks rusting in France.

A tremendous amount of United States army supplies, including motor cars and trucks, were sold to the French government some months ago. Large quantities, still unsold, stand exposed to the air, rusting away, while no effective steps are taken to dispose of or save them.

DODGE BROTHERS WILL CONTINUE SAME POLICIES

Definite assurance that there would be no change in the policies of Dodge Brothers, Detroit automobile manufacturers, as a result of the recent death of John F. Dodge, president, was given to dealers at a meeting in the Blackstone Hotel, in Chicago, during the automobile show there January 28. The assurance came in the form of a letter addressed to the dealers by Horace E. Dodge, now at the head of the business, and read at this meeting by George C. Hubbs, assistant general sales manager. The letter follows: "I regret exceedingly that I cannot be with you this afternoon to personally express my own and my brother's appreciation of your work during the past year, but on account of my recent illness, I am obliged to forego that pleasure.

"I do wish, however, to as strongly as possibly impress you that my brother and I have thoroughly appreciated the loyal support you have given Dodge Brothers during the past year. "The passing of my dear brother, Mr. John F. Dodge, is to me, personally, a loss so great that I hesitate to look forward to the years without his companionship, our lives having been, as you all know, practically inseparable since our childhood. "I have the same pride in the accomplishments of Dodge Brothers that inspired him, and I feel that we can pay no greater tribute to his memory than to carry forward the plans and aspirations which he and myself had for the future of the business.

"The business will be conducted in the future exactly as it has been in the past—the same principles of honor, honesty and integrity that dominated his life will continue to dominate the business of Dodge Brothers. There will be no change, and you can safely make your plans for the future in reliance upon the same whole-hearted support of Dodge Brothers that has been given to you in the past."

Schoolmaster de Ruyter charged that the dog bit him and wanted it declared a nuisance, but the petition apparently was tabled.

PROFITEERING HAS REACHED BEYOND GRAVE, SAY STUDENTS

DENVER. — "Profiteering" has reached beyond the grave, according to students at Denver University, who claim that undertakers have increased the price of cadavers for scientific purposes over 100 per cent in the last twelve months. Difficulty is experienced in securing bodies for dissection, even at the greatly increased prices, it is said. Two years ago, according to medical students "pauper bodies" were obtainable at $10 and $12. The present prices range from $25 to $35 per body.

STUDEBAKER HAS A NEW SENSATION

Springing sensations at automobile shows has become a Studebaker habit, but perhaps the greatest one yet introduced is the appearance of the new Studebaker Light Six. Coincidentally with its advent at the motor car show, it is announced that the entire facilities of the great $15,000,000 factory now nearing completion in South Bend, Ind., will be devoted to the manufacture of this model.

Visitors attending the show this year will recall the famous Studebaker Gold Model Chassis and Gold Car, features of previous shows, both of which were sent the length and breadth of the land and then to foreign countries. In the course of their travels they were viewed by millions of people.

And now the new car is hailed by its makers as the "World's Greatest Light Six," and judging from the crowds that have gathered about it and the interest displayed in it, this car is considered not only unusual but revolutionary in its design.

The new Light Six ranks as the first car at its price, equipped with cord tires, which today are on all of the expensive motor cars. As a matter of fact numerous features of high priced motor cars are to be found in the Studebaker Light Six.

A hurried inspection at the show gives only a slight conception of how much class this new car really has. It looks a great deal longer than it because of the rakish cut of the body. The high, narrow radiator is particularly pleasing and the lines of the lustrous black enameled body are low and graceful viewed from any angle. Even the wind shield is tipped at a clever angle and the fenders have a neat "hug" which is convincing.

Outstanding features are such little things not usually found in cars of this price, like plate glass oval windows in rear of a distinctive Gypsy top, outside door handles, double dimming headlights, limousine footboard and other luxurious trimmings. The upholstery is of genuine leather and both driver's compartment and tonneau have plenty of leg room. The seats are big, deep and comfortable, and the instrument board is well arranged for the convenience of the driver. In fact, when you slide in under the wheel you are immediately delighted with the accessibility of clutch pedal, brake, accelerator and starter, while a big easily handled steering wheel makes you feel that you could drive the car all day without any discomfort.

Of 112-inch wheel base, the new Studebaker has a 40-horse power six-cylinder motor, and the car weighs complete but 2,400 pounds. Cord tires are 32x4 inches and the wheels are steel felloes.

So perfectly is the new car balanced that the chassis can be either halved or quartered, and each section will show the same weight. Because of this even distribution of weight the new Studebaker Light Six in severe tests preceding its announcement proved its ability to hold the road at speeds under conditions where heavier, less scientifically balanced cars showed a tendency toward sideways.

Other outstanding and exceptional features in the new car are numerous. The motor of 3 1-8-inch bore by 4 1-2-inch stroke, with aluminum detachable head, is notable not only for its accessibility and clean cut design, but also for its truly wonderful economy. This economy is secured by means of a unique feature which converts every drop of gasoline into power with no possibility of waste, and the performance and general efficiency of the new car are in consequence remarkable.

A feature for which a patent application has been made, the internal hot spot which surrounds each spark plug, secures better vaporization, a hotter fuel greater economy and better combustion. All these result from the fact that the incoming gas, after being thoroughly vaporized by passing over the hot combustion chamber, hits this unjacketed hot spot the instant it gets through the inlet valve. This hot spot is controlled and never becomes excessively hot. Part of the intake manifold is in contact with the water manifold. The flow of cold water is faster as the speed of the motor is increased, so that the speed of the motor is increased, so the water remains at a constant temperature. This exclusive construction takes the best from the air-cooled motor and combines with it the obvious advantages of the water-cooled type.

Inclined valve action, found only in one imported car and in one of the highest priced American motors, is a feature of the new Studebaker Light Six. With this new type of valve action, where the valves are inclined at an angle of 20 degrees, and with the new intake manifold design, the gases in the combustion chamber are not deflected in any way. There is practically a straight line passage into the combustion chamber, providing maximum economy, perfect combustion and precluding the possibility of any unvaporized gasoline lying on top of or seeping down past the pistons.

The Light Six is the only car, with the exception of two selling considerably over $3,000, that has the crankshaft and connecting rods machined all over. These machining operations insure perfect balance. A corps of expert inspectors check up on the work of the machinists, and every crankshaft is in perfect running balance when it is passed by the final inspector for assembling. Connecting rods are ten inches in length or equal to that of a well known make of car selling at nearly three times the Studebaker price. Little angularity, less side wear on the pistons and better balance result.

Among other noteworthy features are a convenient and accessible adjustment for taking up wear on the chain used in driving the timing gears; three point suspension for motor and transmission; straight line frame construction with no offsets; oil treated nickel-steel transmission gears; and a construction that obtains straight direct line drive without angularity in the driveshaft.—New York Sun.

AGED PRIEST DEAD; LED HERMIT LIFE 23 YEARS

International News Service.

DENVER.—After leading the life of a hermit in St. Anthony's hospital here for twenty-three years the Rev. John T. McGrath, eighty-year-old priest, is dead after a two-day illness of nephritis.

The aged priest was at one time a professor in a college in Ireland and afterward pastor of a parish in Carbon-dale, Pa. He came to Denver in 1897, because of ill health, entering St. Anthony's hospital shortly after his arrival, where he has led a lonely life, without ever receiving visitors or once leaving the institution.

RICH BINDINGS
UNIV. LIBRARY

By ELIZABETH HARCOURT.
AUSTIN, March 19.—Practically all of the books in the famous Wrenn library at the University of Texas are richly bound. The greater part of them were bought either with no bindings or with poor bindings, and were sent to Reviere & Sons in London to be bound. Most of the books bear the inscription, "Bound by Reviere & Sons for Mr. J. H. Wrenn" on the inside cover. These bindings include almost every modern type known. There are all kinds of calf, plain, mottled, tree and inlaid, both plain and with elaborate gold tooling. There are many in pigskin and vellum, and every color and variety of Morocco. The thin folios are uniformly bound in pigskin with gold tooling. In many cases the original binding was retained, where it was of value, either for itself or for its association with the book, but the volume was enclosed in a morocco drop case to insure its preservation. These cases were made to order by Zaehnsdorf, a London binder, and are in different shades.

Many famous binders are represented in the Wrenn library. For the most part, the books from Lefferts collection are in exquisite bindings by Francis Bedford. Most of the works from the Kelmscott press of William Morris are in vellum, some of them ivory color with folded edges and ribbon ties. One fine old vellum-bound volume dates back as far as 1575. In addition, there are many beautiful books in vellum from the Doves press of Cobden-Sanderson, and some foreign bindings by Niesens, these being exceptionally rich and rare.

For their beauty and workmanship, there are several which are pointed out as choice specimens in the collection. One is a copy Shelley's "Prometheus Unbound," a Cobden-Sanderson binding, enclosed in a velvet lined plush case. The book is of green morocco, ornamented with a wild rose design in gold, with the date 1892. Another is a little Hebrew Bible of Dutch workmanship, made in Amsterdam in 1700. The cover is of silver filagree, elaborately embossed. There is a volume in red cowhide, very richly tooled, which was bound by Clovis Eve in 1623 for Louis XIII of France; a small book of poems by John Cleveland, bound by Sauty, in inlaid leather resplendent with gold tooling in an elaborate leaf design; copy of the "Vicar of Wakefield," richly bound in Prussian blue calf, ornamented with ruby medallions and heavily tooled; an Edinburgh edition of Burns, in morocco, tooled in a Scotch thistle design; a Rummage binding; several beautifully bound books by William Matthews, an American binder of note.

Mrs. Pothuis Smit, who defeated the only male candidate by two votes, is the first woman to be elected to the upper house of the Dutch parliament.

Dr. Winifred C. Cullis, professor of physiology of the London School of Medicine for Women, is now in this country for the purpose of making a study of the methods followed in teaching women in our colleges.

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, etc.

I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say C-U-R-E-D, and NOT merely patched up to return again. Remember, I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting 12 years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured, all I ask is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TODAY, I will send you a Free Trial of mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

Essex Almost Doubles Light Car Endurance

Essex Has Performance Like the Costliest Fine Cars—
Its World Endurance Record Has Never Been Rivalled

The most important thing Essex has proved is that weight and size are no longer necessary to finest car quality.

Its 3037 miles in 50 hours is a world endurance record. The test was official. Supervisors of the A. A. A. certified the Essex stock chassis in every detail.

Never before was a car driven at top speed for 50 hours. The grind was equal to years of road use. Yet the Essex showed no measurable wear.

What car, the Essex size and weight, can even attain a mile-a-minute speed, much less keep it up for 50 hours?

Such Endurance as You Want in Your Car

These decisive tests proved Essex not only the supreme performer of the light car field, but they showed that the moderate priced, economical Essex has such endurance and dependability as few large, high priced cars offer.

Greater size could add nothing to Essex. It has the qualities, weight and size are built to give—riding comfort, softness, distinction and smooth, quiet pace. But in addition it has fuel, oil and tire economy. And its great durability means freedom from repair costs and positive, dependable transportation.

Essex is easy to operate. Driving does not fatigue. Its quick response to the lightest touch and its smooth, restful comfort in motion, account for this.

That is why so many women are Essex owners. They appreciate its safety, too. Its controls are simple and instantaneous. It makes fast time, with security, even in difficult traffic.

Essex Wins On Quality
Minus Usless Weight

Essex won recognition on the issue of finest quality without useless weight and size. That issue is uppermost today.

You will take pride in your Essex from the first. Its beauty, luxurious fittings and its performance give it distinction everywhere. And time will increase your respect for it. You will come to rely absolutely on its dependability. You will find it always ready for any demands you may make.

These are reasons why Essex set a world's sales record in its first year. And orders are now so far ahead it is certain even that unrivalled mark will be surpassed this year.

Thousands, realizing this, are placing their orders now. We advise that you do the same, to avoid disappointment.
