Major Program For The Term Yet To Be Mapped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—The president's program for the coming year will be mapped in a series of messages to Congress, beginning Friday, January 2, and continuing through the legislative session.

In a greater extent than any other legislative body in the history of the United States, the president's program for the coming year will be mapped in a series of messages to Congress, beginning Friday, January 2, and continuing through the legislative session.

Not until the results of the U. S. presidential election on November 3, 1935, will the president's program for the coming year be mapped in a series of messages to Congress, beginning Friday, January 2, and continuing through the legislative session.

AAA Devises Plan
Although President Roosevelt, who has promised a decreasing deficit, has not yet mapped a legislative program, it is expected that the AAA will be reauthorized.

Swedish Red Cross Unit Is Destroyed In Bombing Raid

By the Associated Press
Italy and Ethiopia exchanged bitter recriminations today over the fascist aerial bombardment Monday on the southern front.

Emperor Haile Selassie protested to the league of nations that Italy used poison gas in the attack and effected "complete destruction of a Swedish Red Cross ambulance."

Center Charge
Italy contended, saying the bombardment on the Somali front was fully justified by the protest that two Italian aviators who fell at Dugah had been killed and dismembered and their bodies carried to the Italian camp.

Italians at home saw the new year in quiet, quiet ceremonies, but abroad "New Year" was the slogan.

Sweden's Red Cross unit was destroyed in a bombing raid on the southern front.

The Swedish Red Cross unit had been assigned to an area in southern Ethiopia between Dala and Yigala, 200 kilometers (125 miles) to the northwest.

A communiqué describing the bombing said that damage was "incalculable."

The communiqué, Dr. Erik Eriksson, was slightly wounded, the communiqué said.

Soon after announcing the bombing, the Red Cross announced receipt of an appeal for gas masks to be sent by airplane to Dugah.

One Dead, Many Injured In Tenement House Explosion

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (AP)—A terrific explosion today leveled a tenement house in the Italian quarter here which killed at least 21 persons. At least one woman was killed, two were known to be buried in the ruins, and seven persons were in hospitals, most of them in a critical condition.

Part of the blast shook the city for miles. It ripped out the roof of an adjoining tenement house, broke hundreds of windows and hurled pieces of furniture for half a block.

Police believed gas accumulated in the top of the building caused the explosion. The roof was lifted into the air and dropped back on the walls, which then collapsed.

Precedent Is Broken In Ordering An Extraordinary Session

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—The new deal today threw the throttle wide open for a short congressional session drive and an aggressive presidential fight.

Its first task was to perfect arrangements for the president's surprise plans to address congress in an extraordinary night session Friday, thus setting a precedent when he delivers his annual message on the state of the nation.

Never before in the annals of congress has a president delivered his opening message at night. Only once before, when President Wilson delivered his war message, has a chief executive appeared before a night session.

The reasons for the unusual opening-day set-up were not immediately made clear. On Capitol Hill, where both majority and minority leaders met to discuss the arrangement in Vice-President Garner's office, it was understood the suggestion originated at the White House.

At the executive office there was no comment other than the statement of a spokesman with Mr. Roosevelt would appear in person at the invitation of congressional leaders.

The executive's address will be nationally broadcast at 9 or 9:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, and a general belief was that one reason for the move was to enable him to reach a wider radio audience than would be possible if he appeared around mid-day, as had been assumed.

The extraordinary arrangements all but submerged other developments pointed toward the opening at noon Friday of the second session of the 74th congress.

At the capitol, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) let it be known that he would make it his business to square on record for economy in government expenditures.

Because of the arrangements for a night meeting, there was wide speculation that it would contain some announcement of major importance.

The agreement on the night session was reached last night at a party lasting long after midnight in Garner's office, attended by Speaker Byrd, Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority leader, and Representative Snell, the house minority chief.

There was speculation that the republicans were included in an effort to prevent a minority attempt to block the night meeting.

To permit such a joint meeting, Byrd said, it will be necessary to obtain unanimous consent in the house to recess after the noon convening until the desired hour for the meeting.

CLEAR WEATHER FOR CLASSIC; MOSCRIP AND HARRY SHUFORD HURT

ROSE BOWL, PASADENA, Jan. 1. (AP)—Cool, clear weather at dawn, with only a few fleecy clouds creeping up, gave promise of bright sunshine for the Rose Bowl game this afternoon—the Southern Methodist-Stanford clash for football supremacy.

Out of the ranks of the opposing teams likely will streak a new star, destined to take his place in the Rose tournament firmament along with Eddie Casey, Brick Muller, Ernie Nevers, Elmer Layden, Pooley Hubert, Ermy Pinket, Don Zimmerman, Al Barabas and Dixie Howell.

Advance favoritism indicated that the newcomer was to be a Texas, for the untamed Mustangs, the masses have decided, will celebrate the Rose fiesta games 21st birthday with victory.

With one exception on each side, the teams were at physical peak. The Indian rooters hoped James (Mook) Moscrip, star end, would find his left knee strong enough to carry him through the torrid contest.

Southern Methodist anxiously wondered how long Harry Shuford, great signal shouting fullback, could make his weakened knee behave.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 1. (AP)—The 1936 Olympic year finds E. C. Hayes with another country boy who runs the opposition ragged on the cinder tracks.

Country boys, says Hayes, are accustomed to hard work and discipline and are more responsive to coaching.

As coach at Mississippi A. and M. college, Hayes sent four stars to the 1924 Olympics. From Indiana in 1932 went Charley Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua.

His record stood until 1934 when Hornbostel stepped the distance in 1:52.2 in a Big Ten meet. Hornbostel earlier had tied the then world record of 1:50.9 for the event.

Five Torrid Grid Games Tops Card Today

By HENRY SUPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 1. (UP)—The 1935 sport parade marched quietly into history yesterday.

The new year in sports, which offers five torrid football games as its first presentation, promises to be as productive of thrills and upsets as the one that ended yesterday.

Here's what the 1936 sports calendar has to offer:

Boxing—New champions appear certain to be crowned in at least three classes, particularly in the heavyweight division, where champion James J. Braddock fights a dark shadow across his path—Joe Louis.

In the light-heavyweight division, John Henry Lewis probably will be dethroned in February by Jock McAvoy, Englishman. McAvoy then hopes to take the middleweight title from Marcel Thil of France.

Olympics—The winter games are scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, Feb. 6-16, and the summer games at Berlin, Aug. 1-15. America will be at full strength for the winter competition but the summer outlook still is doubtful.

Golf—New champions probably will be crowned in 1936, just as they were this year when Lawson Little of San Francisco was the only star to retain his title. Little, by winning the American and British amateur crowns, became the first man to win those tournaments two years running.

Mustangs Must Stop Grayson To Win Rose Bowl Scrap Today

PASADENA, Jan. 1.—Bobby Grayson, all-America, signal-calling fullback, is the most dependable ground gainer for the Stanford Cardinals and the Southern Methodists will have to stop him if they are to win the Rose Bowl game today.

CAGE TOURNEY DUE TO LAST THREE DAYS

Sixteen Strong Teams To Play In Colorado Meet

COLORADO, Jan. 1. (Sp)—The Big Spring high school boys' basketball team has entered the fifth annual invitation basketball tournament, sponsored by the Colorado high school, with high hopes of carrying off the tournament championship.

The tournament will begin Thursday evening at 6 o'clock with four games being played Thursday night. Play will be resumed Friday morning at 10 a. m. The consolation final will be played Saturday night at 7 o'clock; the third place team will be determined at 8 o'clock, and the tournament championship will be determined in the final game at 9 p. m.

The following teams are listed among the entries in the tournament: Big Spring Steers, Sweetwater Mustangs, Roby Lions, Forsan, Rotan, Yellowhammers, Lorraine Bulldogs, Westbrook, Hamlin, Pied Pipers, Post Antelopes, Levelland, Colorado Wolves, Dunn Owls, Snyder Tigers, Ira, Tuscola, and the Roscoe Playboys.

The initial tournament, in 1932, was won by the Big Spring Steers, and in 1933 the Steers defended and kept the tournament championship. In 1934 the Colorado Wolves defeated the Steers for the championship, and in 1935 the Steers again won the tournament championship by defeating the Hamlin-Pied Pipers.

Trophies will be awarded the winners, the runners-up, and the third place team in the tournament. The winner and the runner-up in the consolation round will also be awarded trophies.

THOUSANDS ON HAND FOR GAME

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1. (AP)—Twelve thousand Texans, from hitchhikers to the state's youthful government formed a noisy part of the eighty-five thousand fans gathered for the Rose Bowl at Pasadena today.

Eleven special trains, automobiles, airplanes and "jerking thumbs" got them here—the largest visiting contingent by many thousands ever to visit the Rose Bowl.

They brought in the New Year with raucous yells for the Southern Methodists.

The G-men, a la cinema, are sneaking and shooting again in the Lyric offering for today and Thursday, "Confidential."

Starred in the picture are Donna Cook and Evelyn Knapp, who manage to become entangled in enough troubles to keep the department justice busy for the next biennium.

Dave Elliott (Cook) is the agent behind a high-powered letter scheme and stinky racket. He is motivated by a personal revenge which perhaps causes him to throw part of caution to the wind.

Hoover And Wallace Due To Cross Swords During Political Campaign

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—In the inevitable clash of personalities during the coming presidential campaign probably none will provide more color than that between Herbert Hoover and Henry Wallace.

Both the former president and the secretary of agriculture are from the Iowa farm country, the former born in 1874 at West Branch and the latter 14 years later in Adair county.

Engineering called to the one and led him to the White House. Agriculture and the editorial chair attracted the other and brought him to President Roosevelt's right hand.

They've clashed before, but in a different forum from that in prospect. During the congressional campaign of 1934 their conflicting conceptions of the "new deal" appeared about the same time in book form. "The Challenge to Liberty" was the Hoover theme. "New Frontiers" was Wallace's text.

Contrasts Keep in mind these salient facts concerning the two: Mr. Hoover was classed as a democrat to the extent of being mentioned for a presidential nomination on that ticket in 1920. Mr. Wallace, son of a republican secretary of agriculture, foreswore republicanism to support the democratic presidential nominee in 1928 and 1932.

What they have to say will be regarded as crystallizations of diversities over the "new deal." Theirs will be no random thoughts. Mr. Hoover has watched Washington from the vantage of retirement in California. It is apparent he considers it beholden upon him to speak out as one to whom many look for guidance.

Mr. Wallace speaks because he is motivated by belief in the need for a fresh expression on the best way to approach today's political and agricultural problems.

Wallace an Idealist Mr. Hoover's personality impresses one as being of the severe, factual, humorless type. He is dead in earnest all the time. Mr. Wallace is essentially the idealist. A half-smile accompanies his most serious statements. One gets the impression from talking with him that despite his problems and worries they are his own and no one else is to be burdened with any part of them.

Probably not two men destined to play such important roles in the coming campaign present such a contrast in personalities and tenets of thought.

Television To Get Test During 1936

RCA Planning Research To Cost More Than Million Dollars

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD (Associated Press Radio Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 1. (UP)—Looking backward and forward, there are many indications that 1936 was the year R. T.—before television.

It was during 1935 that RCA laboratories announced "comprehensive field tests of high definition television" would be attempted in 1936. The announcement, however, carried no indication of a general public introduction or participation. It was believed the tests would cost more than $1,000,000.

Also, there was the advice from the Bell laboratories that they had developed a cable-coaxial line called "capable" of carrying television signals by wire to make possible network interconnection.

Other Nations Working The RCA tests are to be predicated upon the research work in which Dr. Vladimir Zworykin and his cathode ray tubes are the center. These devices eliminate mechanical in television transmission and reception.

Meanwhile, overseas, England, France and Germany gave indications that they, too, were getting closer to actual television.

Metal Tubes The year offered another radio bit that at least created a little excitement in the industry. It was the introduction of metal tubes. They were hailed both as better and worse than glass-envelope tubes. However, most manufacturers put them into general use in their new sets.

Broadcasting went merrily along too, with probably the stratosphere broadcasts early in the fall as the year's outstanding accomplishment. The networks believed they would close 1935 with a total intake of $50,000,000, their best yet by several millions.

Year Is Best Since '31 For US Railroads Traffic And Income Show Substantial Gains Over 1934

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (UP)—Railroads made the best showing this year of any since 1931, the American association of railroads reported today.

Traffic, both passenger and freight, and net operating income were placed substantially above 1934 in preliminary reports by J. J. Peley, president of the association.

Loading of revenue freight totaled $1,450,000 cars, an increase of 603,000 cars over 1934 and 2,230,000 cars above 1933. Passenger traffic of 18,400,000 passenger miles was an increase of 2.03 per cent over 1934.

Class one railroads are expected to have a net operating income of $500,000,000 for the year, equal to a return of 1.9 per cent on the roads' property investment. Last year net operating income was $462,632,000, or a return of 1.8 per cent. Gross revenues totaled $3,440,000,000, an increase of 5.15 per cent above 1934 and 11.13 per cent above 1933. Operating expenses, however, were estimated at $2,975,000,000, an increase of 3.45 over 1934 and 14.48 above 1933. Despite the improved showing railroads will have an estimated deficit of $15,000,000, Peley said.

This is $1,587,000 less than last year, when the deficit, after fixed charges were met, was $16,587,000. The new railroad retirement act which becomes effective March 1, 1936, will cost the roads $45,000,000 next year, Peley estimated. Another $16,000,000 will be added by the unemployment tax under the social security bill. Peley reported a spotless safety record for all roads, not a single passenger being killed in a train accident during the first 11 months of this year. The national mediation board, which administers the railway labor act, reported the railroad industry passed through 1935 without a strike. Employees of two roads voted to strike but the disputes were amicably settled by mediation.

NO CAUSE FOR FEAR: Again we have completed a year of epochal importance in national and world affairs—and again 125,000,000 people in the United States enter a new year with hope and ambition and courage.

During the year just closed industry and agriculture, our two sources of wealth and employment, recovered some of the ground lost during the worst of the depression. Most industries made progress; some even came close to the production records attained in the peak year of 1929.

We think these encouraging factors may serve as a starting point toward even better things in 1936. Business commentators and nearly all other observers are all but unanimous in expecting 1936 to show improvement over the year just passed.

There is always, of course, some basis for the alarmist's arguments to the contrary. Some will tell you that business and agriculture do not feel the jubilation they would ordinarily feel under such circumstances.

Investigation in most cases will show that these alarmists have an ax to grind. In 1936, a year of elections, it probably is a political ax. President Roosevelt and the new deal are blamed for the so-called fear, but criticism generally is found to be based in the opposition of politics.

Few doubt that the new deal to date has helped in the business upturn; and we think that the new deal has shown clearly its intentions of further promoting the nation's welfare. We think the day of legislative experiments and big spending has passed, that the new deal will be concerned more with permanent governmental policies, and that there is really little cause for "fear."

America still has her fertile soil, she still has her industries and factories. And she still has the spirit that faces obstacles, that approaches tasks with a sturdy will. This is her biggest asset, and there is no reason to believe it will not assert itself in 1936.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON—To the public at large, the name of Dr. John A. Kingsbury means little if anything. But to medical and social welfare circles, it means one of the foremost public health authorities in the country.

Dr. Kingsbury was commissioner of charities of New York City under Mayor John Furroy Mitchell. As such he gave a social welfare job to a gangling youth from Iowa.

In 1921 Dr. Kingsbury became secretary of the Milbank Memorial Fund, endowed for social research and the promotion of public health. Fourteen years later, he suddenly found himself out on the street, and applied to the gangling youth from Iowa—now works progress administrator—for a job. He got it.

Behind that incident is an illuminating story of the trials and tribulations of the social security act. It is a story of undercover intrigue and a bitter vendetta by certain doctors against the public health provisions of the new law.

Medical Competition: What these doctors object to is the provision in the social security act whereby $8,000,000 is distributed among the states for public health work, while $2,000,000 for research is given the U. S. public health service, and $3,500,000 goes to the U. S. children's bureau for maternity and child welfare work.

Dr. Kingsbury asserted publicly that as a move to retaliate against the Milbank foundation, a secret boycott was launched against the Borden Milk company of which Albert G. Milbank, president of the memorial fund, is chairman.

The medical association itself had nothing to do with the boycott, he said, but many of its leading members did. This was particularly true in New York, Indiana and Michigan.

Dr. Kingsbury charged that when faced with this economic offensive, the directors of the Milbank foundation asked him to cease assisting the social security board.

He refused, was forced to resign, and became an assistant to Harry Hopkins. Drama Experiment: Victor Woolfson, special dramatic adviser to Tugwell's resettlement administration, has recommended the zenith in new deal experimentation.

Woolfson has made a survey of resettlement projects, where experimenters are being set up in new homesteads with a garden patch of their own. He said: "These people can create an indigenous drama. It would be a great mistake to let them produce third-rate established plays. Let them write plays out of their own life drama."

Therefore he proposes sitting down with a group of homesteaders and saying: "Now, tell us what you have been doing"; or, "What momentous things have happened in your life?"

NEVER MIND THE LADY by David Garth

Chapter 12 REUNION IN JAIL. Allaire clasped her hands behind her head and stuck her long legs out before her. "Funny," she said musingly. "I can't seem to get the idea. Terry's working on an important job," Fox said, "and he's horribly pressed for time." "Of course," she assented. "He's probably right. Anybody would have acted the same way. The world's full of anybodies. That's what," she added carelessly, "makes it the same place—a rattle, wedding bells, and a death certificate."

She looked straight ahead in silence, biting her lower lip, eyes almost closed, and the long dark lashes curling on her cheek. He touched her shoulder. "I sent word for a car to wait, but you can change your mind easily enough. You don't feel like going up today?" "Oh, yes I do," she snapped out of her reverie so suddenly that he was startled. "I never felt more like it in my life. I'm going to find that damn little tramp—stammer if I have to fly all over the ocean and I'm going to do a loop right over it."

She stood up and stretched her arms. Fox noticed wondrously the flush in her cheeks, the whole tensely rearing all of her at once, and he said slowly, "you're in love with him." "There was another pause. She surveyed him smilingly for a moment, and then lit a cigarette and blew out the match with a quick exhalation of blue smoke.

"No, I'm not," she denied tranquilly. "But I could have been in time." She shook her blonde head and laughed. "Want to drive out with me, George?" "Once again he disregarded Embassy instructions to follow her down the lift, his brain whirling. "For the first time in her life Allaire had been willing to surrender the controls to a man. For a brief fleeting instant a certain man had ever come close to winning the whole-souled respect of that girl. And then he'd deliberately resigned his chance. Willett—the tall, rangy son of the engineering camp—had disappointed her. Allaire West would never forgive him for that.

There was a disturbance in the street, Rua Franco, that morning. The police went to work on a muttering crowd who were blocking traffic before a newspaper office and after the melee had been quelled three panting members of the city's police force found themselves clinging to the arms and legs of tough-jawed Buckley Corrigan. "Corrigan felt the injustice of it keenly. All he'd tried to do was pass through the milling mob, and that was all. He conveniently forgot that he'd been three blocks away from the battle when it started and had hustled into action like a fire horse answering a third alarm. Corrigan could smell any kind of a pitched battle a mile off, and his vigor and enthusiasm about getting into the thick of things made him an immediate object of attention. So he went along to the Carcel Municipal with the mental reservation that hereafter these damned foreigners could try to stage a decent brawl without any help from him. He had made a score of previous such resolutions and the times he had been incarcerated were about equal in number. Several others were awaiting their turn before the police judge when Buckley was firmly ushered in. He started to look philosophically about him and suddenly uttered a joyous whoop of greeting. "Willett!"

The young man leaning against the wall raised his head with a jerk. Buckley wrung his hand heartily—Terry Willett, co-veteran of the famous All Saints' Day riot in Juarez. "What did they nab you for?" he beamed. Terry smiled shortly. "Questioning. There's been a shooting."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Correspondence: "Recently," writes Paul James of South Dakota, "I encountered a vagabonding friend of mine who had been away for two years and he looked as if a tractor had chewed him and then decided to reject him after all. His left eye was the most gorgeous purple I've ever seen, his wrist was in splints, and he limped."

"Knowing he had been to Port Sudan, among other places, I asked an explanation for his sorry state and he instantly fell to describing a tussle in which he had been used as a football.

"As I stepped from the train, my friend said, 'a howling mob rose up and engulfed me. I struggled, lunged, and had almost broken clear when someone sank an elbow six inches into my groin. By this time spots danced before my eyes and I couldn't breathe. Then somebody tripped me and as I went down the whole mob passed over me!'"

"Good gracious!" I cried, "is that the way they treat American citizens in Port Sudan?"

"Who said anything about Port Sudan?" he demanded. "I'm telling you what happened to me in a New York subway crush!"

There is a nostalgic twang to this brevity from Arthur Picton, of Texas, who, visiting New York for the first time in 40 years, found things "considerably altered."

"I looked for Hammerstein's old Victoria Music Hall," he writes, "but of course it wasn't there. Forty years ago I went to the Hall as the guest of the late Frank Stantou and Frank pointed out Diamond Jim Brady to me. Ann Held was there, too, and Horace Greer, who would have become a great artist if he could have let drink alone. The big disappointment of the trip was that I didn't see Lily Langtry. I did, however, see James Gordon Bennett, the publisher, who owned the New York Herald and also the Paris edition of the Herald. In those days most of the excitement was below 34th street. Gentlemen wore capes and went about in open carriages, and everybody, even the new boys, was singing 'Paradise Alley.'"

"I'm afraid there isn't much left of the Victoria. In 1915 it gave way to the old red-plush Rialto, first of the big time picture palaces in New York. Now the old Rialto has been razed and a new Rialto erected in blue, gold and terra cotta. Ted Saucier, who is probably tired of reading my garbled notes, sends in a clarifying definition of that Cuban instrument in Xavier Cugat's orchestra. "The double drum used by Cugat is called a 'bongo,' a typically native Cuban instrument played by hand. The smaller drum is called the female and the larger drum the male. It is made of wood, and skin is stretched across the top. It is heated occasionally to tighten the skin, and canned heat is used because it is smokeless."

Nueces County Is First In Ginning

AUSTIN, Jan. 1, (UP)—Nueces county, on the gulf coast, led Texas in cotton ginning this year, according to figures released today by the federal census bureau. Nueces county had ginned 67,688 running bales prior to Dec. 13. It displaced Williamson county as the leading cotton county of the nation's ranking cotton-growing state. Williamson last year ginned 60,992 bales and Nueces 55,787. Yields generally were higher in 1935 than in 1934. Last year's state total was 2,212,325, compared to 2,570,845 this year. Jones county, in the fertile plains north of Abilene, was second in cotton-ginning this year. It ginned 52,625 bales compared to a drought crop of 19,419 bales in 1934.

Barrymore In Film At Ritz

Character Actor Is To Be Seen In 'The Return Of Peter Grimm'

Long famous for his character studies on the stage and screen, Lionel Barrymore is said to bring some of his finest work to the films in his portrayal of the kindly old Dutch horticulturalist in RKO-Radio's "The Return of Peter Grimm," which is offered Thursday at the Ritz theatre. Gripping suspense is provided in the weirdly dramatic picture. It tells the story of Peter Grimm's return to the earth from spirit land, and his effort to rectify the mistakes made during his life. Peter had involved his foster daughter and her lover in a train of tragic circumstances and comes back to help them. He finds himself unable to communicate with his loved ones, and is forced to seek some means of undoing the wrongs he has committed. Through the medium of a dying child who loved him, he finally is able to get his message across and restore happiness and harmony to his family. The efforts of Peter to make his presence known to his loved ones provides dramatic suspense that is rarely equalled on the screen. It is not until Catherine, Peter's beloved foster daughter, is on the brink of disaster that Peter succeeds in his attempt to prevent the tragedy. Startling camera effects are used to depict the spirit of Peter Grimm, and settings are of unusual beauty. Barrymore is supported by Helen Mack and James Bush, who appear as the lovers.

Plans New Farm Program If AAA Is Declared Void

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1, (UP)—Rep. Wright Patman, D., Tex., today called a meeting for Thursday of the bonus steering committee in the house to obtain rapid-fire action on the forthcoming session. The committee of 21 members will discuss the bill and methods to obtain quick passage. Patman said. Predicting passage of a bonus bill at this session, Patman said he was in favor of deciding on cash payment first and the method second. "I might possibly compromise on the method," Patman said, "but not on the subject of cash payment." Patman is author of the bill bearing his name, which would pay the $2,500,000,000 bonus through currency expansion.

According to figures released today by the federal census bureau, Nueces county had ginned 67,688 running bales prior to Dec. 13. It displaced Williamson county as the leading cotton county of the nation's ranking cotton-growing state. Williamson last year ginned 60,992 bales and Nueces 55,787. Yields generally were higher in 1935 than in 1934. Last year's state total was 2,212,325, compared to 2,570,845 this year. Jones county, in the fertile plains north of Abilene, was second in cotton-ginning this year. It ginned 52,625 bales compared to a drought crop of 19,419 bales in 1934.

LIFE IN 1935

12. In 1936 There'll Be Elections

By HERBERT YAHRAES Associated Press Staff Writer If John Smith feels up to it New Year's day, he could foretell in a general way some of the developments likely to touch his life in 1936.

Heading his list may well be the presidential campaign, for he will expect to hear "It's an election year" offered over and over again as a reason for developments not only in politics but also in business. Although economists find little to support a conclusion that a national campaign inevitably disturbs the world of trade.

He may be convinced that the outcome will affect him personally, especially if the constitution becomes a "paramount issue or the campaign centers in candidates with diametrically opposed views as to how, if at all, the government should aid the unemployed, regulate business, control farm production.

Economic Trends Because business developments affect his pocketbook, he may venture into prophecy on the basis of economic trends as the year closes, noting that more of his acquaintances are building homes, with government aid; that one of the factories down by the tracks is improving its plant; that the stores seem more crowded than usual. He may take into consideration, too, the complaints he hears about taxes and his wife's remark that food bills are higher.

Setting down what may happen in 1936, John Smith will note the probability of important developments abroad, especially in the Mussolini-Ethiopia-League of Nations situation. Perhaps he will find the factors too tangled to permit a definite forecast but he will see the possibility of the African war's continuing until either Italy or Ethiopia is ready to call quits; of the league's forcing its conclusion, whether or not the result is satisfactory to all; of the conflict's spreading to the Mediterranean, or beyond.

He may jot down the far east, where Japan is on the march; Germany, with its religious, racial and economic troubles and its rearmament program; Austria, where the talk of restoring the monarchy continues, and Cuba, which has a hard time sticking to a president, as warm spots that might become hot. He will expect to see pay-rolling passengers as well as cargo being flown on regular schedule from California to the Philippines, and possibly to China. And he may set it down as more than a guess that important steps toward establishing regular trans-Atlantic air schedules will be taken during the year.

Definitely promised are tests to determine how far the laboratories have come with television but he will not expect to have a set in his home. He may include among his predictions the probabilities that the supreme court will conclude its judgment on essential "new deal" measures, with possibly far-reaching effects on him, whether he works in factory, in office or on the farm; that "balancing the budget" will be a much discussed topic in political and business circles; that congress will wrestle with another demand to pay the bonus. And he may prophesy the legal termination of the Lindbergh case.

Violence Flares Again In Cairo

CAIRO, Jan. 1, (UP)—New violence flared here Tuesday with the opening of the international surgical congress. Two British outsiders scoring Premier Nessim Pasha's auto were roughly handled by a crowd yelling "Down with England—Egypt for Egyptians!" The Egyptian minister of justice was manhandled, and the premier was prevented from reaching the meeting hall by students who rushed his car.

H. R. Debenport Announces For County Judge

H. R. Debenport Wednesday announced his candidacy for the office of county judge subject to the democratic primaries this summer. Debenport has had many years experience in public service, holding the positions of county attorney and county judge in this county.

During his tenure as county judge the county was undergoing a rapid development which was reflected in complex problems before the commissioners court. It was the policy of the court, he said, to direct its energies toward permanent works. As an example, the county's participations in the erection of two viaducts over the railroad tracks and the replacing of wooden bridge structures by concrete ones was cited. Another program in the same direction was lateral road extension which had the effect of increasing the number of pony graders in service to 65 in 1935.

Debenport was called upon to cast a deciding vote only four times while in office. Once was in 1928 when he vetoed a proposal to increase farm valuations. The only other consequential time was in 1932 when he broke a tie by voting to secure right of way for state highways through Howard county. The latter action, he said, was taken with a double purpose in mind—to provide good roads and to furnish a means of employment to those in need of it.

CARDUI Helped Three Times

At three different times Cardui has helped Mrs. Ike Wright, of Seely, Texas. "I was miserable," she explains, "I did not have a girl for a crump, and it helped then," she writes. Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born.

And during the middle life, it helped her again. "I was miserable," she explains, "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so I took it again and soon began to pick up. I ate and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—adv.

In recognition of the independence of the islands, and a matter of governmental business.

Mahon reviewed conditions in the Philippines, Japan and China and compared them with conditions in the United States, telling his hearers how much better off they were. He told of the cordial welcome and hospitality extended the party by all three nations.

He also compared conditions in the individual countries with each other. Japan was, he said, more progressive than China and far ahead of the Philippines.

For an hour he held the audience spellbound, giving one of the most instructive talks, said one of his listeners, that has been given in Big Spring for a long time.

Garland Woodward introduced the congressman.

The watch night program began with a program of hymns led by Mrs. C. C. Schurman followed by a communion service conducted by the Rev. Mr. Schurman.

After Mr. Mahon's talk the crowd went to the basement for a recreational period directed by Mrs. L. G. Graves and Miss Veda Robinson.

Games and musical numbers continued until the midnight hour. Musical selections throughout the evening were:

Songs by a woman's trio composed of Mrs. R. E. Blount, Miss Ruby Bell and Miss Lola Mae Hall; piano solo by Miss Mary Alice Leslie; violin numbers by Miss Margaret Wade; songs by a male quartet, Messrs. H. G. Keaton, Horace Penn, John Vantine and H. F. Williamson; musical reading by Miss Robinson; and vocal solo by Wanda MacQuain.

As the new year came in, Mrs. C. A. Bickley conducted a consecration service that closed one of the most enjoyable and successful watch parties ever given at the church.

Members of the First Christian and First Presbyterian and of other denominations accepted the invitation to take part in whatever part of the evening's program they desired.

eral government taxpayers indirectly. Advocates of immediate payment of the bonus express confidence in victory at this session even if the president vetoes the bill.

An important job will be the drafting of a neutrality act to take the place of the emergency measure which was enacted last summer and expires on February 28. More or less related to the peace problem will be national defense measures with the prospect of a drive in congress for money to obtain 500 new fighting planes for the army.

Townsendites, May Act

Further provisions to care for those on relief, coupled with pressure from various sources to reduce governmental indebtedness now past the $30,000,000,000 mark, are considered certain to precipitate stormy debate. Backers of the Townsend pension plan are expected to go into action in the cloak-rooms if not on the floor of the house.
