Hijacker Scare Leads to Gun Fight

OFFICERS IN SEARCH OF BANDITS THOUGHT BANDITS THEMSELVES

J. G. Flowers and Policemen Daniels and Carr Exchange Several Shots Before Mistake Is Discovered; Bakery Wagon Driver Robbed.

Each thinking the other a hijacker led to a pitched battle last night at 8 o'clock between two policemen and a citizen of Lackland addition. Eleven shots were exchanged but no one hurt. The battle followed the robbery of a baker's wagon at a spot where Tiffin highway crosses the Hamon road, the driver being relieved of $100 at the point of guns by two masked men.

According to the story the driver told the police, the men came out of the darkness and one jumped upon each side of the running board of his truck and held guns on him while they took the money. After this was done, he said, they made him stop the car and took keys to the switch and told him to stay there until they were out of sight.

Called to Stop. When the police were notified J. H. Daniels and Bob Carr went to investigate the matter. They were walking down the railroad when they saw a man coming out of the darkness. They called to him to halt, but instead he began to run, and the officers followed, also running. After going a short distance the man, who is J. G. Flowers, drew his gun and warned his pursuers to stop. When the order was not obeyed he opened fire. The officers also fired. After several shots, Mr. Flowers threw up his hands and called to them not to shoot again.

At the police station he explained to the officers that an attempt was made last week to rob him in that neighborhood and he stood the robber off with his gun and that he was just naturally scared last night and when he was ordered to halt he thought that someone was again trying to rob him and decided to shoot it out with them.

He declared that it was only natural under the circumstances for the police to think that he was trying to escape when he started to run.

"Darkness and Good Luck." J. H. Daniels asserted that he supposed that only the darkness and good luck kept some one from being killed. The man who held up the bakery wagon to answer the general description of two men that have successfully staged two other robberies within the last three days. Their total haul is now $838 and a gold watch.

Mutt and Jeff? One of the men is said to be tall and the other short, both wearing caps. As usual, last night they had handkerchiefs over their faces.

The boldness of the three hold-ups that caused many citizens to become uneasy. The expression has been heard on the street from several men that they expect to arm themselves and shoot where such action appears necessary. Chief Cooper declared this morning that he did not have sufficient men to cope with a wave of crime if it starts, as the developments of the last three nights portend. The men he has are sufficient for the peaceful conditions that have been prevailing, he said, and if law and property are to be menaced, additional protection will have to be had.

The department is certain that in the section where the robbery occurred last night at least one policeman is needed and there should be two. This is true, it is said, because tramps and others congregate in the cars of the Hamon road at that point and will not leave when told to do so by railroad men.

Neinast of Washington county, defending charges of disloyalty brought against him by Representative Robert Thrasher of Travis county, today told members of the house that he pleaded guilty to "conspiracy to block recruiting and the draft law only to avoid the expense of criminal litigation."

'ALL BOYS OFF STREETS BY 9,' CHIEF'S ORDER

All boys under the age of 15 found on the streets of Ranger after 9 o'clock at night without an adult companion will spend the night in jail, according to a warning issued by Chief of Police Cooper this morning. He declared that the town is full of boys who are stealing and otherwise violating the law and the only method that he can see to stop it is to place them in jail where they will have to stay out of mischief.

This morning three boys were in jail. They were between the ages of 12 and 15. They are school boys, they told Chief Cooper, but he said no one would interfere for them.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY AGAIN CUTS OIL PRICES

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—The Joseph Steep agency, purchasers for the Standard Oil company, today announced that at 5 o'clock today the price on Pennsylvania, Cabell, Somerset, Somerset light, Raignand and McKinney crude oils would be reduced 25 cents per barrel. There was a rumor that there will be an objection to an appointment but this rumor has not been verified. The senate committee on public health reported favorably on the senate bill proposing an appropriation of $300,000 for the establishment of a sanitarium for negro tuberculars.

FIGURES SHOW SCHOOL FUNDS ARE ADEQUATE

Present Income Shows $40,000 Excess Over Actual Operating Expense.

There will be a surplus of several thousand dollars from the income from school taxes next year and for the coming years, more than sufficient to care for the retiring of the bonds that are to be voted upon in tomorrow's election. According to M. H. Smith, the income from taxes and the state school funds amounted to $125,000 in round numbers for the current year. Of this amount less than $80,000 will be used to pay current operating expenses and the remainder will go to pay debts contracted by the school board, incurred while it was arranging to care for the increased attendance brought by the growth of the city. After this year, however, the debts will be liquidated or cut down to a minimum and the excess income can apply to buying school equipment and retiring the bonds that are voted tomorrow.

It was explained by Mr. Smith that this is the reason why the present tax rate will be more than ample to care for the issue. The district tax income is derived from an assessed valuation of nearly $17,000,000. The per capita tax is about $10.

Thus it is pointed out that the valuation could decrease considerably, though this is not expected, and still be ample to care for the bonds and keep the schools at the point of efficiency that is planned for them after money is secured for new buildings.

WOMAN'S 'TIP' RESPONSIBLE FOR P. O. HOLDUP

International News Service. DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Federal secret service agents today began a sweeping investigation of the Federal Reserve bank employees here in an effort to find the source of the tip responsible for the robbery last week of the Jackson street post office substation last Friday. The tip came from some person inside of the bank, probably a woman, officials believe.

The federal grand jury today continued its investigations against Albert Rowan, alleged "master mind," and Ben Luna and W. S. Scrivner, alleged accomplices in the robbery. Indictments probably will be returned late today.

ANONYMOUS LETTER ATTACKS CHARACTER OF UNIVERSITY HEAD

International News Service. The letters were scathingly denounced by Representative John Smith of Travis county.

FIGHTS FOR RIGHTS OF HOME BREW MAKERS

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A suit to test the constitutionality of the recent construction placed on the Volstead act prohibiting the manufacture of home-brew is on file today in federal court. The petition of Attorney David Stanbury asserts that the government cannot collect both internal-revenue tax on home-made liquors and assess fines for the violations of the law forbidding its manufacture.

SAFETY FIRST.

International News Service. DALLAS, Jan. 21.—An increase of 100 per cent in sales of highway robbery and burglary insurance is reported by a large insurance firm. Housewives, collectors, doctors, policemen, politicians, chauffeurs and merchants have taken out policies since the robbery a week ago of the Jackson street postoffice substation.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO FIND ROOMS FOR VISITORS

Homes Must Be Opened if Delegates to West Texas Meet Are Cared For.

Delegates for the West Texas convention to be held in Ranger Feb. 7-8 will be properly cared for. The ladies of the 1920 club pledged themselves to see to it yesterday and appointed itself a standing committee to visit the homes of Ranger and secure rooms for those who cannot be accommodated at the hotels. This move, it is thought, will wipe out any danger of delegates not being properly cared for when they arrive.

The ladies will take the names of those who have rooms and how many and list them with the chamber and the visitors can be assigned as they come. The matter was placed before the club by J. E. T. Peters, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who believes that every vacant room in Ranger will be needed during the convention. This belief is based on the report that the city will be called upon to care for a number of visitors, estimated from 1500 to 5000, and the way they are cared for will go a long way toward making a reputation for Ranger as being a convention city. Manager Peters thinks.

SCHOOL PARADE FEATURES DRIVE FOR BOND ISSUE

This afternoon the children of all schools paraded the downtown districts in behalf of the school bond issue that is to be voted upon tomorrow. In order that the Tiffin children might be represented the 1920 club furnished cars to bring them into town. Yesterday at the schools letters were circulated by the Chamber of Commerce to the children to carry home to the parents. The letter reads: "An urgent need is adequate school facilities—a high school building, an additional ward and equipment. The school board is asking for $250,000 in bonds.

The election will be held next Saturday, Jan. 22, from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m., in rear of Farmers and Merchants state bank, corner Main and Rusk streets.

FORMER AMBASSADOR FAVORS DISARMAMENT, TELLS BOARD

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The staggering burden of taxation resulting from the world war caused the peoples of all nations to favor a world agreement for disarmament, Henry White, former ambassador to France and member of the American peace commission to Paris, declared today before the house naval affairs committee that is holding hearings on the subject.

$260,000 GRAFT CHARGE RILES CHAS. M. SCHWAB

Denies Large "Personal Expense" Item Was Charged to Shipping Board.

International News Service. NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel company and former director general of the emergency fleet corporation, appeared before the Walsh senatorial investigating committee today, and emphatically denied that the shipping board had been charged with $260,000 for his personal expense during October, 1919. This charge had been made under oath by E. H. Abadie, former controller general of the shipping board.

When the congressional committee which is investigating acts of the emergency fleet corporation and the shipping board resumed its sessions today Schwab and Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem company, were of hand.

Schwab declared Abadie's charge was "Absolutely unmitigatedly and perniciously false."

"There was no charge for personal expense ever placed against the shipping board or emergency fleet corporation," he testified. "I defy anyone, furthermore, to show any vouchers for personal expenses on the books of the Steel Ship company."

Schwab under cross-examination admitted that voucher for $260,000 as personal expense was paid to him by the Bethlehem Ship Building company, but said no part of this was charged to the shipping board.

AMERICAN WIVES OF ALIENS GET PROPERTY SEIZED DURING WAR

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Approximately $117,000,000 worth of property taken over by the alien property custodian during the war has been returned to American-born wives of German, Austrian and others, it was said today at the custodian's office.

The returns were made under the recent act of congress which permitted women who before the war were married to subjects of enemy countries and citizens of countries since separated from Austria-Hungary, such as Czechoslovakia, to file claims for their property that this country seized under the enemy trading act.

RANGER TO TURN OUT ENMASSE WITH PICKS, SHOVELS AND WAGONS

GENERALISSIMO DAVENPORT FOR COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT ON CADDO ROAD

Transportation Out and "Eats" to Be Furnished; Teams and Trucks Asked.

Ranger will be deserted next Thursday, except for workers in essential enterprises. Such at least is the plan of A. Davenport, generalissimo of Ranger's Better Roads day, announced last night at the good roads meeting.

All citizens will turn out for the picnic-workfest. For there are going to be some heavy lifts put in, Mr. Davenport says.

The day will be spent at the county line, from which the workers will ply shovels and picks and fresnos and plow both ways and build a half mile or a mile or two miles of first class dirt road.

Trucks will be furnished to haul the workers to the spot. All will assemble at the Guaranty Bank building next Thursday shortly before 8, and will be on the job before 10.

The women of the town will furnish eats, and they are requested to bring or send them to the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening, so they may be stored in the assembly room and be ready when the provisions detail gets on the job.

Picks, shovels and other weapons of attack will be stored at the Davenport Hardware company. Take yours there.

Contributions of teams, and trucks are requested. Turn your name in to Mr. Davenport (or the Times will act as your agent), with the number of each or either you have to spare. J. H. Cain & Sons last night offered the use of twenty-six teams and the Leveille-Maher company will have two Ford tractors and fresnos on the job.

In his exposition of the great results expected from this day, Mr. Davenport called attention to the roads through Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, and other western states, all built through community efforts of a like nature. As in those states, he said, he expects Ranger to make this day an annual function.

"So on this day I want every man in Ranger to turn out with a shovel, and those who can't bring a shovel, bring a pick."

"If you haven't a shovel, I will sell you one. Every man in town needs a hoe, pick, rake and shovel, anyway. You have no idea how much work you can do around the house with them. And to every man who has none, I will for this occasion, sell him a pick or a shovel at cost."

And the building rocked when he added, "And gentlemen, YOU HAVE NO IDEA WHAT A DIFFERENCE THERE IS BETWEEN THE PRICE AND THE SELLING PRICE."

Lieutenants, overseers, slave drivers—call 'em what you will—appointed by Mr. Davenport are: W. J. Rourke, M. S. Holloway, J. T. Galbraith, Raymond Teal, Ralph Stockman, Jellis F. Castellaw, Charles Heffner, Joe E. Rayburn, J. H. Moore, and Johnnie Cain. The overseers have it they will be armed with pickhandles. Davenport indicates that there will be a pick on the handle, and that as good road work leaders they will be expected to set a stir for their gangs.

Remember, you're going. All "vagabonds" who plead that they cannot spare the time will be rounded up. List your teams, trucks and cars now. Polish up the old shovel and have it ready for action.

COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT ON CADDO ROAD

"Now Impassable," They Say; $30,000 Required, Finance Committee Appointed. "Owing to the condition of roads, unable to attend meeting. Surely a disappointment like this should convince you of the dire necessity for good roads out at Ranger."

COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT ON CADDO ROAD

"Now Impassable," They Say; $30,000 Required, Finance Committee Appointed.

"Owing to the condition of roads, unable to attend meeting. Surely a disappointment like this should convince you of the dire necessity for good roads out at Ranger."

This telegram, filed at Thurber, Texas, at 8:30 p. m., was the argument which clinched the sentiment of Ranger boosters in favor of good roads at Thursday night's general meeting.

It came just about the time that Ove Overson had followed H. H. Madden, chairman of the construction committee, A. Davenport and M. O. Burt, other committee members, Mayor Hagaman, and H. S. Cole, president of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary club, in a series of rousing speeches which showed the imperative need for action.

A houseful of folks had assembled at the Lone Star banquet hall to hear the report of the construction committee, appointed last Thursday to make a preliminary survey. They heard it; a report almost unbelievable in its description of intolerable conditions, but a report which was tinged with the golden glow of hope that betterments could be obtained.

Mr. Madden in his opening sentence gave his indorsement to the project. "I believe this is the best move ever brought forth in Ranger," he said, "and I am enthusiastic for it."

Then he announced the committee's decision, formed after studying the situation from all angles, that rebuilding of the old Caddo road, with a connecting link to Breckenridge, is the most urgent need. This being decided, the committee, accompanied by several road contractors, started on an inspection trip of the Caddo road.

"Gentlemen, that road would hog a jackknife, and a jackknife is mighty hard to hog," he continued. "Four miles out, we got stuck in a mudhole and had to be pulled out. We went a little farther, and as far as we could see the road was only a succession of holes. The only man we saw ahead of us was a teamster who had a six-horse team and only a 4,000-foot drilling cable on his wagon."

"So we decided to come back to town and get a little lunch."

"Last year Ranger was practically marooned," Mr. Madden continued. "And unless there is relief, and soon, it will be suicide so far as Ranger's future as a city is concerned. Ranger could well afford to spend $100,000 this next year in repairing the road."

This amount, the speaker said, he realized would be almost impossible to obtain in view of present financial conditions, and would not be actually necessary. Then he stated the result of the committee's deliberations, which were:

It will take $35,000 to put the Caddo road in a passable condition and a monthly fund of $2,000 to keep it up. The work of putting the road in shape will require two or three months. These figures are based on the experience of oil companies in doing work of similar nature.

Mr. Madden pointed out that it would be a year or more before any relief could be expected from county road-building programs, and the business to be held and gained in the meantime would make the expenditure well worth while, and concluded: "I believe if a strong campaign is organized it will be a success."

Davenport condemned the road in terms equally as strong as Mr. Madden's, and went even further into detail. He told of passing four-horse teams with wagons empty except for a sack of feed, a bale of hay and the driver. The outfits were weaving from side to side of the road to find footing, and the surface was so irregular that the drivers were forced to hold on to keep from being pitched onto the ground.

WIFE SLAYER GIVEN FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE

International News Service. DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Arthur Jetty, confessed slayer of his pretty 19-year-old wife, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury here late yesterday and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

a road that the Prairie company had built into the section. This road had been built six months, he said, and on a ten or twelve-mile trip not a mudhole was encountered. The trip was made at twenty, twenty-five and thirty miles an hour, Mr. Davenport asserted.

M. O. Burt added his corroboration to the testimony of the other two committees and added that he had Thursday taken a trip over the road to Rising Star. This road was bad, but passable, he said. It was what he thought people had been talking about as "bad roads." But compared with the route to Caddo, it is a good highway.

"That Caddo road is impassable, and therefore it is not even a bad road. It is no road at all," was his summing up of the situation.

HAGAMAN. Mayor Hagaman told of a talk with County Judge Darden and the Stephens county engineer in which they had promised all co-operation possible. He expressed the belief that Stephens county would spend $10,000 to $15,000 putting culverts on the Caddo road. If Ranger would put it into shape and keep it up until such time as the county could take it over. He went into detail on the new route to Caddo, which will cut several miles from the distance.

H. S. Cole reported on the visit to Eastland of the Rotary club's committee, and expressed the opinion that although the investigation is not complete, and the county's books are badly muddled, that the road work is in fairly good shape. The expenditure thus far and the work accomplished appear to balance very well, he said. The main complaint is on the slowness with which results are becoming visible.

Mr. Cole argued that until county highways are built it will pay Ranger business houses to insure the conditions of these roads, charging the expense to "business insurance," in the same manner that they carry fire insurance on their stocks.

Overton. Ove E. Overton was the next speaker and he pledged his most sincere efforts toward fulfilling the road plans. He did this, he said, in spite of the fact that he had not until that time believed in the movement. He had not thought it worth while to participate in it and had thought it was foolishness for the citizens to attempt to do with private funds what they had already bonded themselves to do in more ample form. It had looked like a duplication of effort.

"However," he said, "I have changed my mind. Although—" turning toward Temple Peters—"I argued Peters down on this proposition this afternoon, he told me to come to this meeting and I would change my mind. I came, and I have changed it. What I have listened to here tonight has convinced me that the movement is absolutely for the best."

Mr. Overton compared Ranger's present isolated position with China after the great wall had been built—shut in from the world and with fewer industries than any other country, and less wealth. He told of the fight made for the Texas & Pacific train, but declared that railroad communication was not so important just now as highways, for while the railroads are arteries of commerce, they run only from town to town, whereas the roads have little capillaries of trade branching off from them here and there, which unite to make a vast flood of traffic and business.

Carpenters "Kick In." A call for further expressions of opinion elicited no response. It had been made apparent by the hearty applause that the speakers had expressed the conclusions of the meeting. As an example of the co-operation that might be expected, Secretary Burt then read a bill from the carpenters' union, for the services of seven men for five hours each in putting up the bridge on the Necessity road. The amount was $32.50. The bill was marked "paid." The carpenters thus come in as one of the earliest contributors to the road fund.

A motion that Chairman Castellaw be authorized to appoint such committees as he thinks necessary to at once proceed with the plans outlined by the construction committee was passed unanimously, and Mr. Castellaw appointed a finance committee, as follows: C. B. Hedrick, banker; E. J. Barnes, lumberman; Billy Burke, hardware man; Temple Peters, manager Chamber of Commerce; Ralph Stockman, insurance; J. T. Gullahorn, auto dealer; G. B. Watson, the T. P. Oil company; J. E. Wagner, of the Mid-Kansas; A. Joseph, dry goods merchant; and John M. Gholson, banker and capitalist.

Then A. Davenport, generalissimo of Ranger's Better Roads day, laid his plans for that occasion, which has been set for next Thursday, before the meeting, and those present dispersed amid the laughter and enthusiasm created by his address.

Other committees, appointed this morning, are:

Breckenridge-Caddo Committee—H. S. Cole, M. H. Hagaman, J. E. T. Peters, R. B. Waggoner.

Legal Committee—Lytton R. Taylor and Ove E. Overton.

Publicity Committee—H. E. Bozeman, Irving Schwartz and D. M. Bangs.

MUSHROOMS IN MINES.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 21.—As a result of findings of the Optimists' club in this city, miners in this locality may start raising mushrooms in the local coal mines. C. C. Bierman, chairman of the committee of the Optimists' club reported the temperature in the local mines was ideal for the raising of mushrooms, and in speaking before the club, said he would try to interest the miners in such a plan.

Mr. Bierman pointed out that the financial returns would be large enough to amply repay the miners for their efforts to grow the fungi.

William B. Jess, a coal operator in this vicinity has sponsored the plan at his mine. He declared the growing of mushrooms in mines in other states had been tried successfully.

SHIPWRECK MAKES JOURNALIST OUT OF DRESSMAKER IN SMALL TOWN, THRU STRANGE ROMANCE

Missouri Girl Finds Career, With Headquarters in Paris, by Reporting Titanic Disaster for New York Newspaper Man.

Miss May Day Burkhead, formerly of Louisiana, Mo., who has been living in Paris, France, for some years, recently returned to America to visit her uncle, former Judge Virgil Rule of St. Louis. Miss Burkhead is a member of the staff of the Paris edition of the New York Herald, goddaughter of Champ Clark, an especial friend of General Pershing, of Dowager Queen Olga and of Princess Christopher of Greece.

She once found herself accidentally jammed into the battle of Belleau Wood with the American marines, is an expert on the Latin Quarter of Paris, French fashions and many other things. A few years ago she was a little country mouse in Louisiana, Mo.

Her father was a dentist in Louisiana. He died, leaving a good name, a wife and a daughter. Miss Burkhead went to work as a designer and maker of shirtwaists. In a few years she felt that a visit to Paris would help her business. Chaperoned by her aunt, she sailed on the Carpathia.

Newspaper Man Wirelessly to Her. When the news came that the Carpathia was on its way to rescue survivors of the Titanic, a New York newspaper man, who had met Miss Burkhead when he went to interview Champ Clark at Louisiana, remembered that the young woman was on the Carpathia. He wirelessly telegraphed her to send a story of the rescue. Miss Burkhead had never written a line for publication. She wired back that she did not know how to write a story, but would do the best she could.

She did it. A clergyman on the Carpathia had a camera. Miss Burkhead took charge of him for the Herald. He took pictures of the rescue at sea. At quarantine, New York, a reporter from a rival newspaper disguised as a sailor secured admittance to the Carpathia and sought Miss Burkhead. The wireless message had been intercepted and other papers knew that the Herald had a representative aboard. Miss Burkhead was offered $500 for her story. She refused. At the dock a Herald man met her and her photographing clergyman, whom she had never let get out of her sight. She told her story. The Herald had a great story and a page of pictures of the rescue of the survivors of the Titanic.

Miss Burkhead resumed her interrupted voyage. When she arrived in Paris, James Gordon Bennett called upon her, praised her Titanic story and asked her to accept a permanent position upon the Paris edition of the Herald.

Miss Burkhead demurred. She had never thought of newspaper work. She had a good business in shirtwaists. Bennett insisted. He made offers which Miss Burkhead could not refuse. So the young Louisiana was transferred from the muddy waters of the Mississippi bottoms to the time-worn pavements of the Latin Quarter, where she became special art, music and all-around Latin Quarter reporter for the Herald.

Came the war. The artists vanished to fight for their countries. Miss Burkhead vanished from the quarter to report the war. She went to the camps and trenches, saw the battles, was shot at, bombed, got all the regular routine of war.

One day in June, 1918, an American officer who was in Paris told Miss Burkhead that he was breaking in a new army car and asked her and her mother to take a pleasure ride with him. Towards evening he suggested a ride to the front near Chateau Thierry, where the Germans were within a few miles of Paris. They had not the least idea that they would get through the lines. But they had some passes.

It was very dark as they neared Belleau Wood. Miss Burkhead got out of the car to ask where they were. She addressed a truck driver in French.

"Ya-as, ma'am," he replied in excellent school marm Mississippi bottom, "but I don't understand French."

That "Ya-as, ma'am," Miss Burkhead says, was the sweetest sentence she heard during the war.

Day was breaking. The gunfire was fearful. Miss Burkhead and her officer, escort did not know that there were American soldiers anywhere near the place. In a few minutes the sun came up and the Louisiana lass had the ecstasy of seeing the marines go in and forever stop the German rush on Paris in the famous battle of Belleau Wood.

She saw Chateau Thierry after that and many other battles. When she told General Pershing of her adventure, he asked who took her to the front. She replied: "A French officer."

"Triumph," said the General, "if it had been an American, I'd have him shot."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

MAJESTIC.

"The Discarded Woman," the latest Paramount production, was presented last night for the first time at the Majestic Theatre, where it is booked for today and Saturday, and judging from the comments heard on all sides, it is easy to believe that it will prove the most popular attraction of the season.

Grace Darling, who has the star role, is one of the most pleasing of all the emotional actresses and in the role of Esther Wells, the discarded wife of a brutal profligate she gives to the screen one of the most finished portrayals of her successful career.

The story, which is entirely different from any ever before offered, tells of a wife who is discarded by her husband because she is about to become the mother of his child and because she prefers the love of another woman.

Deserted and desperate she wanders unknowingly to the cabin of the man her husband had tricked in business and who afterwards shoots the husband in self defense.

Through a chain of tense situations, the plot always moving swiftly and holding the audience spellbound, it develops that Esther finally marries the man who had killed her husband, having deceived him into believing that he was the father of the little baby on the way.

A thrilling climax is reached when the wife, threatened with the exposure of her duplicity, refuses to betray the husband she had deceived.

The production is truly wonderful and replete with tense drama. It is just the kind of picture that will tug at your heart strings and play upon your emotions. You will never forget the abuse and suffering of the poor little girl mother.

The principal art galleries of Europe are at Florence, Rome, Venice, Paris, Dresden, Berlin, Vienna, London, Petrograd and Madrid.

With a pistol on his hip that had the appearance of being of the vintage of '88, a Mexican arrested last night in the Texas & Pacific passenger station made the plea that he was working under a deputy sheriff of Stephens county. He also had a note in his possession that is supposed to have been written by the deputy, setting out that the Mexican was working for him and to please not molest him.

In spite of his credentials he was charged with rudely displaying a deadly weapon. Chief of Police Cooper took the attitude that he had no right to carry a pistol on the authority of a deputy sheriff.

Salvador Expects to Hold 'Election' Early in Spring

By Associated Press
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 21.—Apprehensions of another revolution in the republic of Salvador which may begin early this year are entertained here. The Unionist party in that country is reported to be convinced that the Salvadorian government is opposed to the proposed union of five Central American republics—Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador—and to be making all preparations for an uprising. In this they are said to have the sympathy of the Unionists of Guatemala, who a few months ago overthrew Estrada Cabrera as president. Reports received here state that the revolution is a movement in Salvador has the moral support of 80 per cent of the people.

One phase of the present apparently serious situation in Salvador is the result of a sort of coup d'etat by which Carlos Melendez turned over the presidency to his brother Jorge, which is alleged to be unconstitutional. Following this the revolutionary movement was undertaken with Arturo Arano as its leader. Arano is a wealthy engineer and land owner of Salvador and chief of the most prominent men of Central America, and has spent millions of dollars for the benefit of public institutions.

To stop the revolutionary movement, the government conducted a series of arrests and deportations. Honduras refused to permit arms to pass through its territory to the rebel forces in Salvador and consequently the revolution failed and Arano fled to Honduras, escaping government troops sent after him by order of the president who demanded Arano dead or alive.

The leaders of this revolutionary movement are now in Guatemala preparing to again try to overthrow Melendez. It is believed here that the government and revolutionary forces will come to a clash sometime early this year unless the United States intervenes.

Most of the foreign element in Salvador is reported to be in favor of Arano and against Melendez, whose sentiments against the United States and Mexico are a matter of common report. Most of the thinking people of Central America want peace and believe it can be secured only by a guarantee of the United States.

Tar Heel Farmer Says It's Nothing Less Than Wonderful Way Taulac Has Helped Him

"It's a fact two bottles of Taulac have done me more good than all the other medicines I have taken in fifteen years," said A. B. Joyner, a well-known farmer of Walnut Cave, N. C., R. F. D. No. 4.

"Up to the time I began taking Taulac I had not been able to eat a square meal in fifteen years without suffering afterwards. After eating I would have an awful stuffed-up, bloated feeling, and at times my breath seemed to be almost cut off. Sometimes I had such severe pains in the pit of my stomach that I would nearly double up, and I was so restless I could never get a night's sound sleep.

"I just tried nearly everything but kept going from bad to worse until my farm work got to be an awful drag to me. I finally got to reading about Taulac, and decided to try it.

"What two bottles of this medicine have done for me is nothing less than wonderful. My appetite is splendid already and I never feel a touch of indigestion. I sleep like a log every night and am feeling just fine."

THE BOND ISSUE. Ranger votes tomorrow on a $250,000 bond issue, the money to be expended principally for a new high school building.

That Ranger needs this building at the present time, regardless of the future increase in enrollment, goes without saying. The fact that four new buildings have been put into use this year and still the schools are forced to use wooden shacks on the high school grounds proves that.

Furthermore, there are many studies now a commonly accepted part of a high school curriculum which Ranger was unable to teach its high school students this year because of lack of room and equipment.

These facts make an imperative need for enlargement.

It is not generally believed that many persons will vote against the bonds. Therein lies a danger. If a person thinks he expressed his approval of the issue by remaining away from the polls and thus not voting against it, he is mistaken. Favorable votes must be in sufficient numbers to represent the electorate. If only 100 voters go to the polls tomorrow, and not a single ballot is cast against the bonds, it is quite probable that they will be declared invalid by the attorney general, on the ground that the election does not express the sentiment of the electorate. So if you are for the bonds, you must say so positively, not negatively.

If you should be inclined to vote against the issue, consider first these figures:

What the proposed high school will cost Ranger is not $250,000. The actual cost is $6,250 a year for forty years for sinking fund, and interest in varying amounts, the largest being in the first year, $12,500. Thereafter it steadily decreases as the bonds are retired or is offset by interest the school board will draw on its sinking fund.

But assume $16,000 will be the average annual cost—it will not be that much. If it were, that would be only $1 per year for each citizen of Ranger—not as much as you will spend unthoughtfully and for incidentals in many days in the year. Not as much as the average man will give to the professional panhandlers who cross his path.

Consider it from the standpoint of the number of students who will use it. There are 3,100 scholastics in Ranger, and the number is increasing. It is only $6 a year for each of these, or a little better than 50 cents a month. In forty years, more than 30,000 children will pass through this building and out into the world. That will be an average cost for housing them during the high school period of $20 each.

And the state this year alone is paying $14 toward the education of every child in Ranger.

Vote tomorrow. Vote for the bonds.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Broken Down Barriers.

The Woman prides herself on her ability to distinguish the unusual from the commonplace.

The moment this couple entered the subway train she put them in the class of the unusual. The girl, who has probably been described many times in society columns as "one of the season's most charming debutantes," seemed out of place in the prosaic train. Everything, from the tip of her modish red hat, bespoke luxury and refinement. The man in worn overcoat and inexpensive hat was of the primitive type and displayed too much determination for an artist, too much originality for a business man. But most conspicuous of all, what is commonly called "the light that lies" glowed in his eyes.

They sat silent for a long while, his eyes never for an instant leaving her face. She fingered her gold mesh bag nervously.

"I suppose after all," the girl said finally, "you'll come some day to try for the North Pole."

He shook his head vigorously, as if to assure her he would never try for anything that she could not share with him. "At first I want in for that sort of dream. Until one day when I had made a pretty hard trip up the Forth river, and was feeling mighty elated and excited I said to my guide, 'Well, I guess I'm the first white man ever to set foot on this spot.' Just then I stumbled over a tomato can."

The girl laughed gaily. "In some ways I must be nice to find tomato cans up there."

The conversation drifted to another explorer, whose name, in the din of the subway, sounded like Andrews. "He has a wonderful little wife," the man remarked. "Just your type. He takes her everywhere with him, too."

The woman wondered how there could ever have been another debutante quite so charming and dainty. And why they should both have been monopolized by explorers.

Just as she expected, the couple arose at the City Hall station. "I hope we don't run into Dad," the girl laughed. "He'll try to stop us"—with the accent on "try."

For an instant there was a questioning look in the man's eyes, but a smile of assurance and confidence from the girl chased it away. The woman was confident, too, that nothing could stop them—but she spent many an hour thereafter trying to picture the girl's face framed in a fur Eskimo hood and the dainty little figure, all bundled up in fur, plodding manfully beside the explorer through the arctic snow.

Seat 8.

Clutching a belated New Year gift, the woman waited in line for her turn at Uncle Sam's scales. Ahead of her a messenger from a wholesale house, muffled in many samples, gave place to a tall, soft spoken girl with a small flat parcel mysteriously bestuck with health seals—evidently, like her own, a New Year afterthought. The address was so neat and legible that the woman could not help noticing that it was bound for a small town in Virginia.

"What's in it?" asked the boy in the O. D. shirt engaged in weighing the packages and counting their cost.

"Wearing apparel," replied the girl. "If you must know—dresses!"

"I suppose," he ruminated, "that they do wear collars in Virginia? I never saw any! I was in camp there. * * * It's a hell of a place!" he added fervently. "You'd better not say that to a Virginian," laughed the girl. "You were lucky if that's the worst coming you ever struck. I can beat it by a long shot."

"How come?" whistled the boy. She turned to go. "Argonne—and Mesopotamia."

Tinker Bob Stories by Carlisle H. Holcomb

MR. SUN AND JERRY.

When Mr. Sun was up he was surprised to see Tinker Bob and Lady Duck on their way to the Land of the South. "Hello," he cried. "What are you doing up, so early in the morning? I thought I would be up before anyone else. You must be afraid of some one seeing you?" Tinker Bob answered that he was not afraid for he didn't know what it was to be afraid. But he wanted to keep out of the way of Jerry the Jay Bird. If Jerry should find him he would follow him all the way and it would make it very unpleasant. This was a surprise to the sun.

The Little Cloud Said He Would Do That Thing and He Did It.

Said he: "What is the matter with Jerry? I thought he was all right?" "There is nothing the matter with Jerry," said Tinker, "only he would make it very unpleasant all the time that we would have to move on."

"Well, well," said the sun, "if that is the case I will have to help you out. I guess I can help the King of the Forest out once in a while. I saw Jerry this morning but he couldn't keep up with me but he is on his way here and he will soon be here. He was calling for someone then, but I never can tell who he wants for he talks so faintly, always saying, 'Thief, thief.' I can't tell who is a thief."

Tinker Bob was glad to hear the Sun talk this way for he did not want Jerry to find them if it could be helped. "Do help us out Mr. Sun," said Tinker, "for we are very anxious to keep away from Jerry till we get to the South Land. Then we don't care."

He understood it all and said he would do the best he could. That was all anyone could do, and Tinker went on his way with Lady Duck toward the Summer Land of the South leaving all other things in the hands of Mr. Sun. Now you can bet Mr. Sun did his part.

The first thing he did was to see one of the clouds and tell him what he wanted.

Little Bennis Note Book by Lee Peape. Illustration of a child holding a book.

ed. Said he: "I want you to gather in front of me as soon as you can and get as black as possible. Cover the spot where Jerry the Jay bird is with darkness so's he will think it is going to rain. Then he will think it is going to rain hard and will stop for the day in some sheltered place. While he is there the King of the Forest will have a chance to get out of his reach and will have no more trouble with him."

The little cloud said he would do that thing and he did it. He gathered all of the clouds about him and they settled between the Sun and the place where Jerry was. Poor Jerry thought it was going to rain. He stopped and looked about for shelter and where do you suppose he found a place of refuge.

Well it was peculiar and we will tell you about it tomorrow for no one would ever have thought of the place but Jerry.

Labor Trouble in Italy Becomes Less Frequent

ROME, Jan. 21.—Business depression in Italy is characterized by Signor Olivetti, a deputy in Parliament and industrial and economic expert, as part of "a world crisis." He attributes this situation not only in Italy but in France, England and America to the restriction of consumption and to limitation of money. He expresses the opinion that all countries must pass through this condition in order to attain economic reconstruction.

Signor Olivetti sees an encouraging sign in the fact that strikes and labor agitations are becoming less frequent and less serious in Italy. He says this indicates that the working men realize the difficulties through which all industries are passing. Nevertheless unemployment is characterized as grave and increasing.

German Competition. German competition already is having a bad effect on Italian mechanical industries. Woolen manufacturers are operating only three or four days a week and hosiery and India rubber factories are working on reduced hours. No new ships are being laid down because of the uncertainty of future naval construction.

The once flourishing automobile industry of Italy only just holds its own in the face of ever increasing obstacles to exportation and the elimination of the home market.

Both exports and imports have decreased in Italy, according to figures made public covering a period up to last September. The decline in exports is attributed by Signor Olivetti to labor troubles, unfavorable exchange rates and the uncertain condition of foreign markets. The reduction in imports is ascribed to the exchange and unsteadiness in the price of raw materials.

Clothes Investments Pay Daily Dividends

Success Meets the Well-Dressed Man or Woman More Than Half Way.

In the daily struggle for place—in business as in social life—to be well clothed is to be well armed.

The world reads them at a glance. "The apparel oft proclaims the man."

Clothes command self-respect—and the respect of others.

Clothes have most to do with the forming of first impressions.

And first impressions are generally the most lasting.

All of which are universal truths.

Their force is felt at the farthest corners of the earth.

Owing to the enterprise of American merchants and American clothes makers, America is noted as a well-dressed nation.

Machinery has multiplied the productive power of the ablest artisans in the craft.

Modern manufacturing methods have drawn the best brains and skill in all tailordom into the ready-to-wear field.

Volume of output has made practicable minimum profits. Yet quality is never sacrificed—expense never spared.

It is not uncommon for a concern to employ a $20,000 a year designer to create a style in medium-priced suits or gowns and then buy the entire product of a mill for their materials.

Style, fit and fabric are thus embodied in clothes which could scarcely be produced at double the organization cost by the individual.

To be well-dressed today taxes neither the patience nor the purse and never is there a lack of safe guidance in the choice of correct clothes for both men and women.

In the advertising columns of this newspaper, for example, there is almost an endless Revue of Fashions in which quality and style vie in attractiveness with price.

Attention to the news of clothes in these advertising columns therefore, is a duty which you owe to yourself, remembering always that you can make your appearance an actual, cashable asset.

CONVICT'S STORY SETS ALL COPS OF GREENWICH, (CONN.) DIGGING FOR LOOTED MINER'S BURIED GOLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A murderer who died of consumption in Sing Sing has turned the town of Greenwich, Conn., into a community of gold diggers. Prosecuting Attorney James F. Walsh is a gold digger. Chief of Police Andy Talbott is a gold digger, and so are the eighteen cops on the Greenwich force. All you need to be a gold digger in Greenwich today is a shovel and a cop's badge.

It's a great story. A murderer whose previous name is Edward, and whose subsequent name has been lost in the shuffle, killed his wife in 1916. After murdering his wife Edward's one consideration was to dodge the police. He chose Connecticut as his dodging ground.

While dodging in the neighborhood of Greenwich he encountered Dan McGrew or a lad who looked like him, fresh from the creeks of Goldfield, Alaska. The miner had $50,000 in his belt which rested lightly on his abdomen. Edward relieved the miner of his $50,000 in gold and chased him penniless toward the Lobster belt.

Just Like Capt. Kidd.

After getting the money, Edward learned the police might sneak up on him when he was not looking, so he encased the $50,000 in gold in Bruce Park, Greenwich, and shortly after, sure enough, the cops copped him, Edward having stepped down to New York for a change of air and scene.

So Edward went to Sing Sing and while there contracted consumption and feeling the end approaching, wrote a note about the $50,000 and hid it in the paint room of Sing Sing. There it rested until it was found by a gentleman who resides on Long Island and who in a moment of mental aberration forgot he was married and took unto himself a second wife.

The police of Greenwich will not disclose the name of the bigamist who found Edward's letter in the clock. They do admit the letter, however, and to prove its authenticity say they can show any one the identical paint room in which the letter was found.

The letter which Chief of Police Talbott showed yesterday begins with a rehearsal of the holding up of Dan McGrew and the stealing of his $50,000 in gold.

"I got the $50,000, the letter continues, 'and I am here twenty years and I have consumption and I am going to die. It is no use for the money to lie there where no one can get at it. If anyone can benefit by this I want them to do so.'

Now the Pirate's Map.

To the man who finds this paper, go to Greenwich, Conn., take the old Cos Cob road from the postoffice and go out three miles and you will come to a little bridge over a brook. After crossing the bridge 100 yards you will see a big rock go to the back side of the rock and pace off sixty-five yards and you will find a flat white rock, and under the south side of it you will find $50,000 in gold.

"Now I want you to take my word as a friend and get the money."

"EDWARD."

Ever thoughtful, ever considerate, Edward did not want fore's labor to be lost. So, instead of handing the letter to a bunnie he hid it in a clock in the paint room and along came the bigamist and found it.

The bigamist read the letter twice and after committing its details to memory confided the contents to a pal in an adjacent tier who was completing a sentence for grand larceny.

The bigamist and the gentleman who had completed a term for grand larceny emerged from Sing Sing more or less simultaneously. They went into council and then journeyed to Connecticut where they hovered much in the vicinity of Bruce Park.

Then for some reason the gentleman who had committed grand larceny lost in terest in the quest for a buried treasure, and the bigamist (who, the police say, has since "gone straight," and is living more or less peacefully with one of his wives) took sole interest in the $50,000.

Last Thursday he went to Greenwich armed with a shovel and a pick axe and interviewed First Selectman Newton S. Johnson. What the ex-bigamist wanted Mr. Johnson to tell him was this: whether he could dig and dig and dig until he located the $50,000.

Mr. Johnson scratched his head and referred the query to Prosecuting Attorney Walsh. Mr. Walsh said it was a big subject, or words to that effect and turned the ex-bigamist and his shovel and pick-axe over to the chief of police.

Ex-Bigamist Van'shes.

When a chief of police is in doubt he shoves the suspect in the hoose gaw. Be that as it may—and not hinting for the best of instants that Chief of Police Talbott entertained the most fleeing shadow of doubt—the fact remains that the ex-bigamist's face was not seen on the streets of Greenwich for the ensuing two days and when he was next seen he was headed toward the railroad station, walking with a rapid style of motion as if he had suddenly thought of something that had escaped his mind before.

There, oh, then! Well, nothing much more happened except that Chief of Police Talbott and Prosecuting Attorney

Walsh and the eighteen cops and Sgt. Ferrell and some detectives and a couple of constables and some friends of the constables, went into Bruce Park and paced and measured and then started to dig.

That was Saturday morning. They have been digging since, and as we go to press have raised nothing but a lot of early January blisters on the palms of their hands.

The chief, however, is hopeful and persevering. He's going to Sing Sing today and interview Warden Lewis, he says, to find out if that there murderer named Edward was really and truly a trustworthy feller.

One Skentic.

George Duffy, who runs the taxi stand down to the Greenwich station, says there ain't no convict hold buried in Bruce Park a'tall. He says that Henry J. Topping, the millionaire, who lives at 875 Fifth avenue and who has a summer home in Belle Haven, Conn., buried a dog in Bruce Park in 1916, and that on the dead dog's neck there was a $500,000 diamond studded dog collar.

"That's what they're after," says George. "You can't fool a taxi man."

When the chief was told what George had said, he remarked: "That's damn funny."

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspironal. Medicated with Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While you Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliver, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful with four teaspoonsful of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

No matter what you pay you can't secure as much in sound baking powder quality.

On the other hand—you can buy a cheaper baking powder—a little lower in price than Calumet—and much lower in merit. That's the worst kind of false economy.

Calumet never fails. Every baking is perfectly raised—sweet, even and tasty.

Used by millions of housewives and is the largest selling brand in the world.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly for the benefit of Times readers.

J. C. Smith's store is offering women's oxfords, mahogany and black calf, new spring stock, at very reasonable prices. They also have special prices on single strap slippers and satin slippers, and a complete line of shoes for children.

I had a glimpse this morning of the contents of some of the packages which will be sold at the Women's exchange on Saturday. There are toilet articles, cakes, shopping bags, work baskets, and many pretty little gifts. This is an opportunity to get something worth more than the price paid, with all the fun of a surprise. The exchange will serve pie and coffee at noon, and a home-made cake will be auctioned.

Of special interest to school girls and their mothers is the sale of middie blouses at Richardson-Brown Co. All white middies, with red or blue collars and cuffs, in women's and misses' sizes, are being sold for $1.95.

Headquarters Here for Singer Sewing Machine

Headquarters have been established in Ranger as distributing points for five counties for the Singer Sewing machine. From this point, it is said, eighteen people will work through the territory.

The counties that will be served are Eastland, Stephens, Shackelford, Young and Throckmorton. The Ranger headquarters will carry a large stock of machines and accessories. It is located at 110 North Austin street.

AUTO STOLEN

V. V. Cooper was the latest victim of automobile thieves when they drove away a 1921 model Ford touring car from near the Liberty theatre last night. The car has Mr. Cooper's name in gold letters on both sides, which it is thought will cause the thieves to abandon it when they discover the lettering. A reward of $50 has been offered for the return of the car and $20 for the conviction of the thief.

FRECKLES' CAREER AS SOLDIER OF FORTUNE TERMINATED BY COPS. "Freckles" was his name, he said, and he had been arrested for sleeping in the police car yesterday and no one disputed the fact. His face, tired and with a look of disgust on it, bore witness that no one could call him anything but "Freckles."

He was plainly sore at life. He had left his home in Fort Worth to go out to see the wide, wide world and had been arrested for sleeping in a boxcar almost as soon as he had reached Ranger. But while he stood before the judge the deepest humiliation imaginable that could be laid upon the shoulders of a young soldier of fortune was his lot. The police department, even as he stood there telling that he was a man of his own, out to see the world, received a letter from his mother asking it to catch him and send him back home.

He went, disgust written large on his features.

FRANK HALL BACK FROM TRIP TO FURNITURE MARKETS. Frank Hall of the Hall Furniture company, is back in Ranger after an extended business trip to the East. He visited St. Louis, Chicago, and Grand Rapids. While on his trip he investigated the furniture market conditions and found it to be in exceedingly good shape. Therefore he bought heavily for the reason that Ranger looks better and more prosperous than any city he had been to, he said.

Public notice of said election shall be given by publishing notices thereof signed by the President and attested by the Secretary of the Board, in The Ranger Daily Times in accordance with the requirements of R. S. of 1917, said paper being in the Ranger Independent School District; and by posting notices thereof, signed by the President and attested by the Secretary of the Board, in three public places in said Ranger Independent School District at least thirty days before the date of said election.

WOMAN WOULD BROADEN PET POULTRY SHOW. The proposed chicken and pet stock show for Ranger is gaining in possibilities daily. Mrs. A. A. Abney, in a letter, offers suggestions that should meet with general approval, inasmuch as she suggests that the women be allowed to come in with works of their own. The letter reads: "I wish to second Mr. Lackland's motion that we have a poultry and pet stock show in Ranger. But I would suggest an amendment to his motion by moving that it be made something more than a mere poultry and pet stock show. Why not let the women in on this show and include the various articles of women's handiwork, bread, pies, cakes, jams, jellies, preserves, canned vegetables, quilts, knit time, crocheting and all the other many things that woman can do and which they dearly love to show. In my home town in North Texas there was a show of this kind very much like a county fair, and one would be surprised to know of the great interest that was taken in it, not only by the town people but the country people as well. Our town used also to have Trades Days, when fine stock of every description were shown, also poultry, pet stock and the various articles of women's handiwork and at ways there were large crowds present. "Of course there cannot be much shown in the way of preserves, jams and jellies, as there was no fruit crop last year, but still the women could find many things to put on exhibit that would lead attractiveness to the show. And many of them would be on hand also with fine poultry and Ranger would be surprised to learn what is inside her borders in that respect. "By all means let us have a show. Yours truly, "MRS. A. A. ABNEY."

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU. tabs, the Purified and Refined Tablets That Are Nausealess, Safe and Sure. Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nauseasless calomel tablet called Calotab, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

T. & P. AGENT SAYS CREDITS HOLD UP DEPOT. Assistant General Passenger Agent O. B. Webb, of the Texas & Pacific is in Ranger today, from his Dallas headquarters, having put in yesterday and today at Breckenridge, Cisco, Eastland and Ranger, basing the new through train service the T. & P., in connection with the Cisco & Northeastern, is putting on between Dallas and Fort Worth and Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge. According to Mr. Webb, the first through train will leave Dallas at 10 o'clock next Sunday night, the 23rd, leaving Fort Worth at 11:30 p. m., arriving at Ranger at 4:25 a. m., and setting out here the Dallas-Ranger and Ft. Worth-Ranger local sleepers; continuing west, the train arrives at Cisco at 5:30 a. m., leaves there 6 a. m., arriving in Breckenridge at 7:45 a. m. Returning, train leaves Breckenridge at 8:45 p. m., Cisco at 11 p. m., Ranger at 12:30 a. m., (making up here the Ranger-Fort Worth and Ranger-Dallas local sleepers) arriving at Fort Worth 5 a. m. (where Fort Worth sleepers can be assumed) until 7:30 a. m.) and arriving at Dallas with the Breckenridge-Dallas and Ranger-Dallas sleepers at 6:50 a. m.

Mr. Webb is very optimistic as to the success of the new service, this being the first time Breckenridge has had any direct connection with Dallas, and while Ranger has enjoyed a Ranger-Dallas local sleeper for a long time, the car has had to leave Dallas, west bound, on the 6:45 p. m. train, which has made it inconvenient. Now the car will leave Dallas at 10 p. m., on a train starting from Dallas (and therefore on time) and leave Fort Worth at 11:30 p. m., which will give folks wishing to go to a show or otherwise spend their evening in Fort Worth, a chance to do so.

Mr. Webb declined to discuss the local depot situation beyond the statement that financial conditions are such that he knew his people had been obliged to defer all improvements, even to the extent of cutting off contracts already made, as it was utterly impossible to get the money to pay for them; and that while he knew nothing of the facts as to the local situation, he did know it was the desire of the Texas & Pacific management to do everything it could to ease for and help develop the business interests of Ranger and that regardless of how our folks may feel about it now, time will prove this to be true.

Run on Bank Becomes Celebration When Latin Emotions are Aroused. LISBON, Jan. 21.—One of the oldest and best known bankers of this city was of imports over exports, shortage of food recently saved from the effects of a run staff and fuel, profiteering and incessant by his bank by a sensational incident. A large crowd of depositors had gathered at the office of the banker, J. H. Totta, to demand their money. The street was blocked by them. The firm was paying out the money rapidly when a well-dressed man, jumped on the counter and reviled the crowd in no measured language. He recalled the honorable name of the head of the firm and said that by his kindly aid many of those present had reaped fortunes, but their base ingratitude was now threatening to bring about his ruin.

Close of Civil War and of World Conflict Finds America and Europe Occupying Reversed Positions

By Associated Press
DALLAS, Jan. 21.—"It is instructive to compare the condition of the United States immediately after the civil war with conditions as they exist following the world war," says Geo. Waverley Briggs, an officer of the Texas Industrial Congress.

"At the close of the war in 1865, the United States was a debtor nation. It had borrowed heavily from Europe; its paper currency was at a discount and gold was at a large premium. The country was not on a gold basis and the dollar was below par the world over. Our credit was exhausted and we were compelled to look to Europe for financial assistance. The country was largely undeveloped; its industries were in their infancy; we had an inadequate banking system, our foreign trade was small, imports exceeding exports, and the war had left the South devastated and the North and East impoverished. Our commercial and industrial development was dependent upon European capital. Our merchant marine had declined; high prices and high wages prevailed in the United States alone. There was a lack of transportation facilities and it took ten years for rates on commercial paper to fall from 8 per cent to 5 per cent, and fifteen years for prices to decline 50 per cent. There was then no quantity production of merchandise, and manufacturers used hand methods largely. There was an inadequate distribution of merchandise, and only small stores existed.

"Today the United States is a creditor nation. It has one third of the world's gold and the dollar is at a premium everywhere. Europe's credit is exhausted and it owes the United States ten billion dollars on government loans and three to four billion dollars on private loans. The world is looking to this country for aid, because it is powerful and its natural resources and industries are developed on a firm basis. It has a good banking system; its foreign trade is large, its exports exceeding imports in 1919 by three billion dollars, and in 1920 $2,725,000,000. No part of the United States was destroyed by the world war; we have developed a large merchant marine and the commercial and industrial development of Europe is dependent upon American capital. Price deflation is well under way, we have modern methods of manufacturing with quantity production and a good distribution of merchandise. "The United States with 105,000,000 people, has $500,000,000,000 of assets. It produces 85 per cent of the world's supply of automobiles; 75 per cent of the corn, 65 per cent of the oil; 60 per cent of the copper, 60 per cent of the cotton; 52 per cent of the coal; 40 per cent of the silver, iron and steel; 34 per cent of the world's manufactured goods; 27 per cent of the cattle; 24 per cent of the wheat and 20 per cent of the world's gold. The bank deposits of the country exceed by billions the combined bank deposits of the rest of the world, our capita circulation is approximately $59.48 and our money is all good. We stand first on the amount of money, in inventions, in massed production, in business initiative and we have nothing to fear; the future can be whatever we make it, and we should face it with courage and optimism."
