REPORT PLANS FOR NEW DEEP TEST IN AREA

M'Dowell Well Shut Down For Boiler Repairs

Work was shut down on the Lofflin Bros-Moore Bros. No. 1 Mc-Dowell deep test in section 22, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey Friday for boiler repairs.

Located now at 10,580 feet, still in the same formation which has caused much speculation as to whether it is the Ellenberger lime, the test will be drilled further.

Operators said that they would pull the stem and change bits before resuming drilling and would probably be making more hole early Saturday morning.

Report New Test It was reported that another deep test is scheduled for the same area, although not on the utilized block worked up by John L. Moore. The test, according to advance information, would be located to the east of the McDowell well.

There was little to substantiate the report that the McDowell test would be left idle pending the drilling of another deep test in the area since there is too much valuable equipment tied up in the well. Operators are likely to do what ever they intend to do within the near future.

Meanwhile, some oil men expressed the opinion that the test was drilled out of the Pennsylvania and into the Mississippian and is not in the Ordovician.

Friday lime was encountered in the World Oil Co. No. 5 McDowell in the southwest 1-4 of the northeast 1-4 of section 21, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey at 1068 feet, approximately 70 feet higher than in surrounding producers. The shallow test is an offset to the deep wildcat.

Monterrey Is Normal Again

Communism Dispute Now Settled, Business Activity Resumed

MONTERREY, Mex., Feb. 7 (AP)—Commercial life in Monterrey returned to normal today after a two-day suspension of all business activities against alleged communistic agitation. It was generally considered that neither communism nor socialism was the victor in the dispute.

Governor Morales Sanchez of Nuevo Leon, declared an "employers circle" had been fighting a phantom enemy, and at the same time made clear that he himself was not a communist and did not favor communism.

He said he would remove Teofilo Perez from the presidency of a labor union, which he had named as the "employers circle" demanded.

In an effort to prevent pictures of yesterday's demonstration from being shown in the United States and Mexico, the governor arrested a local motion picture agent, Gustavo Saez, and held him prisoner for 12 hours. He also threatened to arrest an American, E. J. Granger of Washington, D. C., but the American consulate intervened. Other cameramen succeeded in shipping films.

Perez, whose removal the businessmen demand, decides all labor controversies in this industrial center. His opponents charged him with communistic activities. In organizing the anti-communist organization, the employers had declared that communists were plotting to establish a bolshevik dictatorship.

Daughter Of Local Couple Gravely Hurt

Mrs. Claude Summers, Victim Of Crash, In Fort Worth Hospital

FORT WORTH, Feb. 7 (AP)—Physicians at the Methodist hospital here held little hope today for the recovery of Mrs. Claude Summers, 31, wife of a Dallas electrician and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parks, 536 Lancaster street, who was injured last night when the car in which she was riding collided with a truck on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike.

Mrs. Summers suffered a fractured skull, a crushed chest and a broken right leg. Billy Edwards, professional wrestler, and another couple also were injured, but their hurts were not serious.

Police were hunting the driver of the truck, who knocked his machine out of the crash.

Mrs. J. R. Parks, 536 Lancaster street Friday morning for Fort Worth to be at the bedside of Mrs. Summers, her daughter. Mr. Parks, a conductor for the Texas & Pacific, had reached Fort Worth on his run, and already was with Mrs. Summers. Mrs. Summers is a sister of Bob Parks of this city.

Safety Show, Dramatizing Careful Driving, To Be Given Here Feb. 18th

The blast of a horn—the grind of brakes—the screech of tires on pavement—and sudden death! This scene, all too common on highways and city streets today, will be duplicated in full at a safety show to be staged in Big Spring on February 18.

The safety show is being presented in all parts of the nation under sponsorship of Montgomery Ward, and Fred W. Jameson, public relations official for the company, was here Friday to make arrangements for the local engagement. He contacted public officials and civic leaders to secure their cooperation in the program. More details on the show will be announced later.

Gus Schrader and Lew Brown, famous racing drivers will give a demonstration on how to drive and how not to drive, showing the dangers of taking chances at the wheel. Jack Story, nationally known announcer, will describe the show to onlookers over the amplifying system.

The safety show will provide thrills and instruction in good driving for the spectators. Each half-

Zero Weather Is Predicted In Panhandle

Snow Forecast In That Section; Livestock Warnings Issued

Texas, just beginning to thaw out after a steady barrage of wintry weather, was warned Friday to prepare for a new blizzard that may possibly send temperatures slipping to new lows for the season.

Livestock Warnings As icy blasts hit the northern portion of the nation again, another cold wave was headed for this state, and was due to hit tonight. Severity of the weather was indicated in a forecast of below-zero cold in the Panhandle. The mercury has not yet this season gone that low.

Livestock warnings were issued for practically all of West Texas, including the Big Spring area; and for the north and central portions of East Texas.

With the advent of the cold wave tonight, even lower temperatures were forecast generally for the state tomorrow. Snow was predicted for the Plains section tonight, with a mixture of rain and snow in the eastern part of the state. The latter territory was due for temperatures of from 12 to 18 degrees, with colder weather Saturday.

New Cold Wave Sweeps Northern Part Of US

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—A new torrent of cutting cold raced down both slopes of the Rocky mountains today as Canada flung open the flood gates of the Arctic again.

Sudden chill stabbed Montana, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming when a frozen wave leaped the international border and sped southward to regions in the east and the west.

The biting blast carried new numbness far the Midwest. A reading of 44 below was registered at Bemidji, Minnesota.

In the south, more rain and some snow heightened fears of a recurrence of floods.

Hutto Delivers Texas History Talk Before Club

John R. Hutto, principal of the Kate Morrison ward school and ranking local historian, Friday gave a brief historical sketch of Texas before the ABC club in its regular meeting at the Settles.

The speaker compared the racial characteristics of the Mexican and Texans, showing how this was reflected in the historical developments.

A group of Mexican school children, accompanied by Miss Vada Summers, sang six centennial songs in addition to others. Eugene Thomas was introduced as a new member. Guests for the day were Lloyd Wasson, Jack Hodges, and Shirley Robbins.

HALF BILLION NEEDED FOR FARM PROGRAM

Church Census Will Be Made Here Sunday

The First Baptist, First Methodist, First Christian, First Presbyterian and Fourth Street Baptist are among the churches promoting this work. Church officers and teachers and young peoples' organization leaders and sponsors and all other who can assist in the work are urged to attend the meeting this evening. Sunday afternoon has been set as the time for taking the census. Cooperation on the part of all citizens of the city is requested in the program.

Judges Seek Revision Of WPA's Rules

Present Regulations On Relief Work Assailed At Meeting

DALLAS, Feb. 7 (UPI)—Charges that needy persons are being kept off of relief projects by "undesired" regulations of the works progress administration were made by members of the county judges' and commissioners' association of Texas at a conference here.

Speakers at a meeting called by Judge Claude Garrett of Eastland, president of the association, demanded that strong resolutions be adopted and that a direct appeal be made to President Roosevelt by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, turns a deaf ear to the plea for a change in WPA procedure.

Judge Garrett struck the keynote of the meeting when he asserted that present methods "placed a premium" on those who would on relief early, and exacted a penalty against those who stayed off of relief as long as possible.

WPA rules prohibit persons being employed on WPA projects unless they were on the relief rolls on or before Jan. 1.

The county judges claimed this rule worked a severe hardship on persons who funded for themselves as long as possible and now are refused employment on WPA jobs.

They also pointed out that many approved WPA projects cannot be carried out because there are not enough eligible relief workers available, under the Jan. 1 rule.

Form Of Levy Not Yet Disclosed By President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt reserved decision today on the new farm bill, but estimated five hundred million dollars would be required to finance the farm program.

He said no decision had been reached as to whether taxes would be necessary to meet bonus payments. What form the farm tax would take was undisclosed.

Relief Funds The president said he had decided to shift some relief allotments to WPA for care of unemployment until July 1. He added that there would be no change in the total amount for relief expenditures during the remainder of the fiscal year.

While the president's statements were being made, seven republicans on the house agricultural committee charged in a minority report that the new farm bill gave unprecedented powers for Secretary Wallace and "dislocated agriculture."

In two separate conferences President Roosevelt went over the New Deal's fiscal outlook with congressional leaders and recovery lieutenants, with the developments: Chairman Doughton (D., N.C.) of the house ways and means committee said a tax bill probably confined to raising between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000 for the new farm program would be ready the first of next week.

He expressed the personal hope of the basis of the parity that new taxes would not be necessary to pay the bonus.

Heads of the public works, works progress and rural resettlement administrations discussed their financial needs but no announcement was made of possible savings. They will meet with the president again.

Termed by opposition senators a "mere subterfuge" to circumvent supreme court restrictions in the AAA decision and possibly "socialistic," the Smith (D., S.C.) bill was upheld by democratic members of the agriculture committee as an "honest effort" to help the agrarian population in a legal way.

B'Spring Man Death Victim

'Boss' Ford Succumbs To Pneumonia, Service Set Saturday

Pneumonia which developed from illness contracted Monday night brought death early Friday to David Dyer (Boss) Ford, local laboring man and member of a Howard county farm family. He succumbed at his residence, the Hillcrest camp on the west highway, at 2:30.

Born in the Payne community in Mills county, in 1898, Ford had resided here for about 20 years. Members of his family have been engaged in farming in this county.

The funeral service, to be held from the Eberley Funeral Home chapel, has been set for 2 p. m. Saturday. Rev. H. G. Richbourg will conduct the rites and burial will be made in the New Mt. Olive cemetery.

Ford was unmarried. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Texana Ford of Big Spring, and six brothers and one sister. The brothers are A. E. and F. F. Ford of Big Spring; L. A. Ford of Lomax, W. E. Ford of Stanton, W. K. Ford of Glendale, Arizona, and J. C. Ford of Gilbert, Arizona. The sister is Mrs. A. V. Johnson of Big Spring. Mr. Ford's father died here in 1926.

Palbearers will be Herman Porch, Homer Wright, Tom Sipes, Mike Anderson, True Dunagan and Mr. Franklin.

Italians Renew Talk Of Peace

(By The Associated Press) The faint possibility of a new peace move was seen Friday in the renewal of discussions in the Italian press of the Franco-British plan for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Since the press generally reflects the opinion of the government, it was believed Italy possibly was interested in peace. There was little fighting on the war front.

Charity Bureau Asks Clothing For Needy

Do you have any old clothes no longer of value to you, but which might be used by people in need?

If so, you are requested to call the new welfare agency here—the phone number is 732—and that organization will call by your house for the clothes.

L. A. Deason, charity administrator, issued the call for the clothes Friday. "Due to the continued cold, many people are suffering by lack of wearing apparel," he said, "and we are receiving many calls for clothes. Contributions will be a wonderful help and will be greatly appreciated."

"People who have available clothing can perform a real charity service. They need only to telephone 732 and we will call for the clothes."

Four Convicts Escape Prison In Kentucky

Search Under Way For Feloons Who Fleed After Looting Arsenal

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 7 (AP)—James C. Morris, 28, and three other convicts who escaped the state reformatory here after overpowering two guards, looting the prison arsenal and stealing a taxicab, were hunted today in the eastern blue grass section.

Shortly before the empty taxicab was found at Winchester, Ky., two men and a woman reported four men had robbed them of their car.

The men used knives to intimidate hospital attendants, handcuffed the night captain of the guards, took guns and ammunition from the arsenal and escaped.

Rush Work On Park Drives

Road Loop Around Swimming Pool Is Near Completion

Work on pouring asphalt in the city park drives was being pushed Friday as reports were received of another impending cold wave, predicted to be one of the most severe this winter.

The loop around the swimming pool has been practically completed, part of the drive around the baseball ground has been shot and other sections have received one course.

The Johnson street surfacing project is due to be resumed within a few days and follow to completion without interruption barring unfavorable weather conditions.

Will Push Probe Of Tunnel Deaths

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Charging the builder of the Hawk's Nest tunnel in southern West Virginia with "grave, inhuman" disregard of lives of workmen, the house labor sub-committee today asked funds to complete the silicosis inquiry.

The inquiry was started after charges were made that many workmen in the tunnel died from silicosis, contracted because of working conditions.

Games Outlawed As Grand Jurors Take Firm Stand

Report Recommends Drastic Action To Keep Devices Out; Machines Hauled Away On Officers' Orders

Big Spring and other communities in Howard county were devoid of marble machines Friday after an ultimatum by Deputy Sheriff Andrew Merrick Thursday that the machines had to be out by night.

Literally truck loads of the contraptions were hauled away from more than a score business establishments here. One operator took two truck loads to Abilene and another said he was moving his stock to Fort Worth.

The ban against machines was the result of a recommendation made by the grand jury Monday and reaffirmed in unmistakable terms Thursday when the jury made its report to the court.

Declaring that "there appears to be a well organized financially and politically entrenched group of law violators operating within Howard county," the jury report set forth three specific recommendations for removal of the machines and to prevent any return of them in the future.

Future Probes To offset any possibility of operation after the jury was discharged, the body requested the court to instruct future grand juries "to investigate the operation of such gaming devices."

Judge Charles Klapproth took cognizance of the report in commending the jurors on their stand in "taking this step to liberate the county from these and other gambling devices." He praised them for "conscientious service" and ordered a copy of the report entered on the minutes.

"We have recommended to the district attorney, the county attorney, the sheriff, the constable and the police department of the city of Big Spring, that such gaming tables, known as marble machines, cease operation immediately; and that any such machines that continue in operation or remain on the premises be confiscated," declared a portion of the report.

To make the work more binding, the jury further recommended "that if such gaming tables, known as marble machines, should again be operated by any person anytime in the future, that such machines be immediately confiscated."

Expressing the opinion that the machines gained entree here through the penny marble machines which were not gambling devices but which were later operated illegally, the jury made a recommendation that this avenue of return be blocked to machine vendors.

"Since it is the opinion of the grand jury that the operation of such gaming tables, known as marble machines, originated out of the operation of machines and illegal per se, it is therefore further recommended that the above mentioned officers confiscate any and all machines, even though not illegal per se but illegal by manner of operation." In other words, a machine on which the proprietor pays off will be subject to confiscation the same as automatic paying machines.

None In Operation By the time the jury had made its report to the court, machines were already being hauled away.

Following conferences with grand jurors Thursday morning officers pledged support in the move and Merrick put it into motion before the report was completed.

A check of the downtown district Friday failed to reveal a single machine in operation. They had been hauled away either to storage or moved out of town.

Promise of a vigorous protest before the grand jury Thursday failed to materialize when marble machine vendors changed from attack to submission.

Best explanation of the change was the obvious resentment grand jurors showed after having been polled individually after the Monday session. They made it plain that whatever action they took they would take within the confines of the grand jury room as an organized body.

Man Wanted Here Is Held In Tulsa

Sheriff Jess Slaughter was in Tulsa, Oklahoma Friday to gain custody of W. W. Worrell, wanted here on a grand jury indictment charging forgery. Worrell has been a fugitive since being billed by the grand jury in 1931 and was captured in Tulsa Wednesday. Slaughter left Thursday to take him into custody.

Lamont exchanged war-like opinions with Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., who has been searching for a method to settle the troublesome question.

Court Ruling Backs Move On Marble Games

Some Types Of Machines Are Classed As Gambling Devices

AUSTIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—Reports to the attorney general's department today indicated that enforcement against marble machines had tightened on the basis of a recent appellate court decision.

Vernon Coe, an assistant attorney general, said recent action by the supreme court materially strengthened the position of local prosecuting attorneys who sought to enforce anti-gambling statutes against the machines. The refusal of the supreme court to grant a writ of error in the Waco court of civil appeals decision, Coe said, upheld a ruling which classified automatic pay-off marble machines as gambling devices.

The test case dealt only with automatic pay-off machines. Opinions by the attorney general, however, have held that other types would be outlawed.

Injunctions The validity of an injunction issued in Limestone county restraining officers from confiscating machines formed the basis of the suit. Coe said the courts held that officers should not be restrained if they followed statutory procedure.

Articles on procedure, he explained, require five days notice before a court hearing to determine if machines picked up as gambling devices should be confiscated.

In the suit, he said, the state conceded officers should be restrained if their acts contravened procedural statutes. Despite the rulings, he said, practical difficulty in obtaining conviction arose from

No New Plans On War Debts

Administration Not Seeking Agreement With Nations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (UPI)—The Roosevelt administration, it was learned today, has no intention of seeking a new war debt agreement to collect defaulted allied loans.

State department officials refused comment on a statement by white-haired Thomas W. Lamont, top-ranking partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., that the United States might benefit by reopening negotiations with debtor nations.

It was understood, however, that the administration believed this government's attitude had been set forth clearly and there was no need of attempting to revise existing agreements. Foreign powers, it was said, must realize that this government is not in a position to alter its opinion that the obligations were incurred in good faith and must be paid.

Lamont's suggestion was injected into the senate munitions committee's record at the end of its inquiry into Morgan financial activities during the war. J. P. Morgan, head of the huge banking institution, was not present when Lamont discussed the debt situation.

Lamont exchanged war-like opinions with Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., who has been searching for a method to settle the troublesome question.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

GEORGE GENTRY is checking up on "Sleepy" Jones. He says he believes Jones will be too old to play football here next fall under the 19-year age limit of the Inter-scholastic league.

JODIE MAREK, Temple's all-state back, will go to Rice, says the grapevine telegraph. "We wouldn't be surprised," writes Harold V. Ratliff in the Cleburne Times-Record. "Rice needs and needs all Jodie. Jodie was said to have contacted T. C. U. first and Texas next, then changing suddenly to Rice."

BERT MARSHALL, the all-state back from Henry Fritka's Greenville team, will go to the University of Texas. "It's a pity he didn't go to S. M. U.," Ratliff said. "They play little fellows over there and like them. Other schools of the Southwest conference do not use them without they show unusual ability and then to no great degree."

BASEBALL FANS of Puerto Rico, where the Cincinnati Reds have gone for spring training, have a language of their own, neither English nor Spanish. In their vernacular a 2-base hit is a "tubo," a strikeout is a "ponencia," and the shortstop is "slori."

ON ITS past record, the New Orleans (Southern association) baseball club has a one to two and one-half chance of winning the pennant this season. The club has won 10 of the 35 flags awarded by the league and has finished in the first division 31 seasons.

COACH CLIFF Scott of Lucas, Kas., high school, will stick to coaching hereafter. His boys weren't doing so well in an amateur boxing tournament, so Cliff donned the gloves himself in the light-heavyweight class. Austin O'Jibway, representing Haskell Indian Institute, kayoed him in the second round.

HERE'S A busy athlete—Van Park, young Oswego, Kas., athlete who has hurled the discus 125 feet and is an excellent broad jumper, doesn't have time to wonder what to do with his time. As an indication of his versatility, he went through the following 5-day program recently:

Sunday—Sang in the church choir and played in the family orchestra.

Monday—Fractured a knuckle in a boxing match.

Wednesday—Engaged in another boxing match, knocking out his opponent.

Thursday—Dusted the courthouse (he's chief custodian); sang a solo in the high school chapel.

SOUTHWEST STARS TO TAKE PART IN TEXAS RELAYS

Davis Cup Donor Sees Tennis Rivalry As Factor Of World Good-Will

GAMES AT AUSTIN ON MARCH 28

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD, United Press Staff Correspondent, AUSTIN, Feb. 7. (UP)—The Southwest, where America's outdoor track season is inaugurated at Texas Relays, March 28, will furnish its share of Olympic candidates. Coach Clyde Littlefield of the University of Texas believes Jack Torrance, Louisiana State's shot-putting giant, will win the Olympic title in that event. Littlefield predicted Jess Petty, Rice Institute star, is conceded an excellent chance to represent his country in the discus. Petty holds the Southwest conference record with 157 feet 7.5 inches as well as national and state inter-scholastic marks.

Picks Hardin in Hurdles Glen Hardin, I. S. U. star who won the 1930 Olympic 400-meter hurdle race in another Southwest, corner whom Littlefield thinks will lead the nation. Hardin, also a quarter-mile, will have stiff competition in the latter event from Alex Cox, former Texas captain and present Southwest conference record holder, and Louis "Smookey" Brothers of Rice.

Half-a-dozen exceptional sprinters should give the Southwest representation at Berlin in dash of relay events. The University of Texas alone has seven youngsters capable of besting 10 seconds over the 100 yard route. Fastest of them is Harvey Wallender, whose 9.4 in the Texas Relays last year tied the world record. Reeves, up for his first trial on the Texas varsity, and Carr, Rice ace, are almost as speedy. The two were teammates at Schreiner Institute two years ago.

Negro Trio Not Challenged Littlefield is a member of the national track rules committee and has seen America's best athletes perform for a dozen years. He believes the stiffest competition Southern sprinters will encounter will be from Jesse Owens, Ralph Metcalfe and Eulace Peacock, the negro speed triumvirate. Since Olympic relay teams must be made up of men who do not compete in dash events, he believes the Southwest will be represented on the squad.

Hardin leads the Southwestern hurdling corps. Forrest Wilson, University of Texas star who scored high in 1935 meets, probably will seek an Olympic berth. Wilson is well above the high hurdles. Bill Wallace, All-America football back from Rice, is rated the best Southwestern conference hurdler but the Olympics do not offer competition in the 220-yard event.

Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist University, probably is the finest high hurdler ever to come from below the Mason and Dixon line. He technically might not be considered a Southwest representative, but is believed certain to make the Olympic team if his 1935 form prevails again. Allen made 14.2 seconds in the 1935 Texas Relays, two-tenths under the recognized world's record.

Southwestern universities and teachers' colleges may produce other Olympic candidates and the best of them are expected here for the ninth annual Texas Relays. Applications have not been prepared, but advance indications show the event will draw entries from throughout the middle west. Bernie Moore, I. S. U. coach, will referee the meet.

County Cage Meet Gets Underway Here Tonight

THIS GAME OF BASKETBALL

Coach Hugh McDermott of the University of Oklahoma, an exponent of rapid-fire basketball, diagrams one of his pet plays. G1 passes to F1, then darts for a screen on X5 (X players are the opposition). C cuts behind the screen, receiving the ball from F1 while F2, driving back, makes a screen on X2, thus aiding G2 to dash to scoring position near the goal and receive the ball from C. Should X1 take G2, then F2, being between X2 and the basket, becomes the potential receiver. McDermott says the difficulty is in getting the execution and timing developed in long practice to hold up under the stress of actual competition.

By HUGH V. McDERMOTT, Basketball Coach, University of Oklahoma (Written For The Associated Press) NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7. (AP)—Here at Oklahoma university we have used the fast break in basketball whenever possible, preferring to take the defense on the move instead of waiting until the opposition has retreated and is set.

It is much easier to get through back than to penetrate a set defense, provided you have men who are fast and can handle the ball. However, there is the possible danger that this style of play may develop into the widely publicized "fire-department" basketball.

Changes to FH Material Some changes have been necessary from year to year to suit the material at hand. No team should be allowed to break so fast that the players can not handle the ball with precision. My material at Oklahoma has not been as well grounded as I would like in screening and fundamental footwork.

If the defense is back and set, the attack takes up the set plays as are used by any slow-breaking offense. To play a slow, deliberate offensive game with either one or two pivot posts, you must have men well-grounded in that type of play—men who are physically and mentally able to carry on the play.

The new pivot-post rule affects our play only when the defense has retreated and set. The pivot man maneuvers about the 15-foot mark and handles the ball as in any slow-breaking offense.

Favors Center Jump I am in favor of the center jump and feel it gives an uncertainty and suspense that is part of the game. If there is too much crowding around the center circle, there always are two officials to call it. I can see little good in surrendering the ball to the opponents without an equal opportunity to procure it by hard work and ability.

Especially is this true in the closing minutes of a close game where possession of the ball is of greatest importance.

If the teams that wish to save time would use what time they have now to make an interesting and fast game, instead of the "pall-bearer" type, they would find more and better satisfied customers.

My players never have needed a 10-second rule or a 3-second rule to make them play ball. Due to the necessity for absolute timing and accurate execution of steps and turns by individual players, it takes much more time and practice to develop a slow style of offense than the fast-breaking type.

Watching Gene Sarazen, Bobby Jones, Paul Runyan, Henry Picard and other good putters, you will note that when they address the ball they put their club down, very gently. Their hands are relaxed. Don't press your putter down hard against the green when addressing your ball. This will tend to make you tighten your grip. A tight grip is one of the worst faults you can have in putting. It will almost always interfere with the action of the hands in stroking the ball. They will turn and so will the face of the club. Result, a putt off line. (Copyright, 1936, Publishers Syndicate.)

Junior Basketball Meet To Be Staged At Nolan NOLAN, Feb. 7. (Sp)—A junior basketball tournament for both boys and girls teams will be held here Feb. 14 and 15. Entry will be limited to eight teams in each division. The games will begin at 8 p. m. Friday, Feb. 14.

Elbow And Hiway Senior Boys Clash 7:30

Only five teams are entered in that division, Elbow, Hiway, Coahoma, Moore and Knott. The Coahoma Bulldogs drew a first round bye when the pairings were arranged Wednesday.

Elbow and Hiway tangled at 7:30 with Moore and Knott scheduled to play an hour later. The winner of the Elbow-Hiway game will play Coahoma tomorrow at 1 p. m., and the winner of that game will play game tomorrow night.

Junior girls rural division opens play tomorrow at 2 p. m. with a game between Vincent and Moore. Vealmore and Knott girls play at 3 p. m.

The Sportsman

By LARRY BAUER Word that the "varmints" had returned to their former haunts in the rugged hill country sent a party of us after the wildcat, or bay lynx.

Trailing these animals with dogs over the rocky ridges in the night affords something different from the usual 'coon or possum hunting available in the Ozark region.

Efforts to take one of the animals alive failed when the native dogs lost interest and left the tree in which the cat crouched while a member of the party went after trapping gear.

As soon as the dogs departed, the cat, a female, showed signs of leaving, too, despite the beam of a flashlight played upon her. One of the fellows brought it down with a rifle shot.

Death of the predator disappointed Blaine Tuxhorn, our best and pioneer aviator, who had his heart set on taking it alive, believing the animal would be far less troublesome than the "crates" of his early flying days.

Tux has retired to his hunting and fishing lodge on the lake of the Ozarks, and when he isn't adding to his already luxurious layout he is thinking up new ways of entertaining his sportsman friends.

Six men and one woman set out from the lodge at 10:30 p. m. Soon the dim trails vanished and we scrambled through woods and dry creek beds. Boots began to chafe under heels and rest periods were frequent.

Occasionally one of the hounds yelped, but it is not the howl that dogs indicate the trail is getting hot. We can hear Tux cussing about a cat getting through the line. Approaching a big cove, we run out of territory to scud and are about to give up when Ed Phillips yells, "Tux, here's one of those cats!"

He holds his light on a tree top near the water where the beam found the lynx. A pair of eyes peered down angrily from a ball of striped and spotted fur perched in a high crook. "Treed," Tux cussing about a cat getting through the line.

National Cage Champs Play To Small Crowds On Western Tour

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 7. (AP)—The Santa Fe Trails, the quietest while under the banner of Southern Kansas Stage Lines won the national A.A.U. basketball championship at Denver last March, discovered on a recent trip to the west coast that even a champion cannot lure customers to games in football-minded communities.

The center jump still is used in Missouri Valley A. A. U. league competition, but in some of the games on the trip the Kansas City club played without the jump to conform with the rules of the teams they met. It didn't seem to make much difference whether or not the jump was used, the champions agreed. The only difference they noted was that, besides speeding up the game and making the defense hustle to set itself, when the center jump was eliminated the scores were higher.

The two best teams they met on the coast were the Baxter Club of Long Beach and the University of Hollywood, the Kansas City team said, although the Y. M. I. team of San Francisco gave them the biggest scare in the first game of a three-game series. The Y. M. I. used the zone defense, the only team employing that method.

Inability to schedule games with some of the major college teams with a following, such as St. Mary's, California, Stanford, and the Olympic Club of San Francisco, also was a factor in the inability to lure customers to the games.

Home Crowds Larger California was all right, the Kansas City players agreed, but they also agreed they'd just as soon play their basketball back in their own territory, where the crowds were larger and more appreciative. The coast trip was marred by the scarcity of spectators at most of the games.

The champions expressed the belief that independent basketball in the doldrums in California, due primarily to the fact there are few ranking teams and that professional football and college basketball hold the spotlight.

Herman Fisher, all-America guard of the Kansas City club, decried the styles of play encountered on the trip were much the same as in the Missouri Valley district.

MATADORS, NEW MEXICO AGGIES MEET IN SERIES

LUBBOCK, Feb. 7.—Texas Tech's Matadors, home after being hand and two convincing setbacks at Albuquerque by New Mexico university, make their final home stand until late in February Friday and Saturday nights when they meet Coach Jerry Hines' strong New Mexico Aggies in conference set.

The Aggies, with decisive wins over most Border conference teams and two one-point losses to Arizona, the loop leader, are heavy favorites over the sophomores' Matadors, who proved easy prey for the New Mexico Lobos. Previously Tech had romped over the Lobos easily, 57 to 23.

Led by "Hooker" Apodaca, all-conference guard, the Aggies bring a veteran squad to the Tech barn. Apodaca is leading the conference scoring with 124 points in eight games. An expert long-shot artist, the chunky guard is expected to dex the Mata considerably trouble as most of their opponents' scoring has been done from long range.

Coach Huffman is as pleased with his "frosh" cagers as he could be. Although they have lost three conference games out of four, their strength, if any, will be tested by the second-place Aggies. Co-Captain Curly Wilkinson, center, and Hugh Snodgrass, prospective all-conference guard, will probably offer most of the Tech resistance.

Taylor's Team Enters Meet

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7. (AP)—National league catchers may find they have fallen among thieves when they meet the 1936 model gas-house gang of St. Louis.

To accompany the base-stealing genius of the veteran Pepper Martin—second among National league bag pilferers last season and first the two years before—the Cardinals have added six rookies whose talents run to larceny on the base paths.

The six averaged 44 stolen bases per man last summer. Lyle Judy, who stole 107 for Springfield, Mo., in the Western association, to break the world record last season, had considerable to do with the high average, but all the rookies finished near the top in their respective leagues.

Next to Judy comes Lynn King, Houston outfielder who swiped 35 sacks to equal the Texas league record. Pat Ankenman, shortstop from Columbus, Ohio, was third among American association "thieves" with 21 stolen bases, and 27 steals by Stuart Martin, Asheville, outfielder, earned him fourth place in the Piedmont league. Louis Scoffie and Eddie Morgan are a base-stealing pair from Bloomington, Ill., of the Three-I league. Morgan grabbed 30 bases to take second place in the league, and Scoffie was third with 23.

The newcomers will be shooting at Pepper Martin's place of supremacy, among Cardinal base stealers, but Pepper had demonstrated his ability to lead fast company. He picked off 20 bases last season, 22 the season before and 36 in 1933.

DWIGHT IS FOR MORE NET PLAY

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 7. (AP)—The man who gave the Davis cup to tennis competition declares the 25-year-old trophy "has a remarkable record of accomplishments in international good will."

Dwight F. Davis, 36-year-old former secretary of war, expressed himself as he sat back before a log fire in his brown brick plantation house near here, relaxing after a day of hunting quail over his 3,000 acres.

"Three ambassadors told me the Davis cup had done more for international good feeling than they had ever been able to do," he said. "Well, I guess that is a little exaggerated, but it has been very remarkable."

Started British-U. S. Rivalry Just out of Harvard and a member of the national doubles championship team, Davis donated the cup in 1900. His plan was to have it known as the "international lawn tennis championship trophy," with the donor's identity kept secret, but a newspaperman found out where it came from and tagged the cup with the name that stuck.

Davis' original aim was to promote competition between the United States and England.

"Frankly, I like to tell myself that I had all the world in mind when I offered the trophy, but just between us, I didn't at all," he said. "I had no idea it would become so important."

"The competitions," he went on, "have taught people the world over that sportsmen—whenever you find them—are pretty good fellows."

"I can't tell you how many people have said to me that their opinions of this nationality or that have been changed just by coming to know the tennis players in the international matches.

"It is a healthy thing for world attitudes to bring high-type men together from two score nations year after year for sports competition."

Davis believes national characteristics show up in tennis methods. For instance, he says, Britons are at their best in a back-court game and for several years Davis cup players from the United States tried to follow the same style.

U. S. Excels At Net "But we Americans do better to force the net," he said. "We're like that. The British are better at the back-court game than we are, so why try to play their game?"

Forty-odd nations had planned this year to show their appreciation of Davis' contribution to international tennis by presenting him a gold watch either at Paris in March or at Wimbledon in July. He said it would be impossible for him to attend the Paris meeting and added he was not certain he could make the journey to Wimbledon.

While his favorite sport is hunting now, Davis still plays tennis occasionally.

"Once in awhile I get with some of the old-timers and we team up against the young fellows," he grinned, adding: "And we give them a pretty good run, too."

Mystery Surrounds Keel Of Sopwith's New Yacht

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Feb. 7. (AP)—Strictest secrecy was maintained when the new "mystery" keel of T. O. M. Sopwith's yacht, Endeavor II, his challenger for the America's Cup in 1937, was moulded at the Gosport Yard, near here.

The famous British yachtsman also plans to build a new motor yacht of 1,614 tons to accompany the Endeavor II on the voyage to the United States. It is being designed by Charles Nicholson, designer of the challenger.

Watching Gene Sarazen, Bobby Jones, Paul Runyan, Henry Picard and other good putters, you will note that when they address the ball they put their club down, very gently. Their hands are relaxed. Don't press your putter down hard against the green when addressing your ball. This will tend to make you tighten your grip. A tight grip is one of the worst faults you can have in putting. It will almost always interfere with the action of the hands in stroking the ball. They will turn and so will the face of the club. Result, a putt off line. (Copyright, 1936, Publishers Syndicate.)

Only an immediate operation, wherein the bones were tied together with pieces of gold wire, prevented the injury from leaving Mangan with a shortened leg. Some of the wire is still in him holding the bones together. Running, Mangan claims, did much toward developing the injured member. Today both legs are the same length—and certainly strong and speedy enough.

Texas Farm Planning To Be Resumed

Extension Service Hopes To Complete Program By April 1st

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 7.—The state-wide launching of the agricultural planning project which was discontinued following the supreme court decision, will be continued and is expected to be under way in Texas by Feb. 17, according to George E. Adams, assistant state agent of the extension service.

"This work, which is being directed by extension district agents, both men and women, should be finished by April 1," Adams said.

Adams, who has charge in Texas of this agricultural planning activity, will select a number of counties in each extension district where the extension district agents will meet with the county extension agents and the county farm and home demonstration councils and set the wheels in motion.

"A continuous flow of economic information to and from the farm is very much needed; this program planning is designed to implement that and to bring the farmer into the planning end of the agricultural work," Adams gives as the reason for going ahead with activity now.

"Mutual understanding of problems is needed to have democratic planning. This program is calculated to get such an understanding between the agencies in authority administering government agricultural programs and farmers engaged in carrying those programs into effect on their farms," Adams said.

The first step in the program planning project is in effect a survey which will be conducted in the 200 counties by farm and home demonstration council members who will undertake to reach an actual five per cent of the rural population and secure replies to these questions:

"The first question to consider is, 'Probable production in 1936 assuming normal weather conditions, present farm practices and prospective prices.'"

The second question to consider is, "Probable production of the various farm products in 1936, assuming normal weather conditions and prospective prices, but without either production or marketing control, and if farm practices had been adjusted to maintain soil fertility and to control erosion."

"The schedule forms for answering these questions will also have added another schedule, number seven, which asks these questions in relation to gardens and home processed commodities for home consumption," Adams concluded.

Minister Addresses Group On Idealism In The Child; Mrs. Stripling Talks On Founder's Day

"Idealism in the World Today" was the theme of the address given before the South Ward Parent-Teachers' Association Thursday afternoon at the school building. The Rev. Walter Henckell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, was the speaker.

In his talk Henckell stated that idealism had its beginning in childhood, as exemplified in the life of Christ. He showed that Christ's idealism was a normal development similar to that of people of today.

He used the three trips of Christ to Jerusalem as bases of the three stages of development in idealism.

SCIENTIFIC REPORT FAVORS BRAN

Relieves Common Constipation Safely

Read this statement, taken from an article in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, pages 133-134, Nov., 1932:

"The inclusion in the diet of a small portion of bran . . . would seem a very practical way of getting fiber which is not likely to be disintegrated. This bran has the additional advantage of furnishing a considerable amount of vitamin B and of readily available iron."

Exhaustive tests, over a period of five years, have proved Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to be a safe, effective way to correct constipation due to insufficient "bulk" or fiber in meals. It is accepted by the American Medical Association Committee on Foods for this purpose.

You will enjoy this pleasant way to prevent the dangers of constipation. You can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Or cook into delicious breads and muffins.

Usually two tablespoons a day are enough to protect your family from common constipation. How much better than taking pills or drugs!

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

railroad commission's work pertains to oil field matters, Rieger feels that he is qualified for the place he seeks.

HOT BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

By MARTHA LOGAN

Let's get set for some baking powder biscuits—a big plate of them, piping hot with rough, crunchy, light brown crusts. When we break them open they are going to be light and feathery and steaming hot. And before they have a chance to cool, we are going to sink a pat of rich, creamy butter between the halves of each and let it melt its sweet, buttery richness into the depths. Then, open wide and yum yum!

When we've eaten one and, after we'll take the next one and, after it is buttered, we will pour maple syrup over it—you see we are going to be at home! Just out of maple syrup and plenty of butter, or honey if we have no more maple syrup left.

Let us try the next one with blackberry jelly. Do you know of that combination? Strawberry preserves are good too. We can buy such delicious jellies and preserves at the grocery store.

I suppose there shouldn't be a next one. But if there is, we think it might be well to revert to plain good buttered ones. High quality, fresh butter is so good we probably will be content to end this variation on a biscuit theme in buttery, crusty goodness.

Now put on your apron, roll up your sleeves, and let's make the biscuits.

Baking Powder Biscuits

2 cups flour,
1/2 teaspoon salt,
4 teaspoons baking powder,
1-3 cup milk.

About 2-3 cup milk.

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together. Cut the fat into the flour until the whole looks something like coarse cornmeal. Make a well in the center of the fat-flour mixture and turn the milk all at once into it. Stir vigorously until the dough thickens.

Turn the dough onto the lightly floured board and knead it vigorously for about 20 seconds. Shape the dough into a ball; then pat it with the hand, or roll with a rolling pin, to the desired thickness. A good thickness is from one-half to three-quarters inch.

To use a rolling pin, touch the center of the ball of dough very lightly with the floured pin, roll with no more pressure than the weight of the rolling pin to an edge; repeat, rolling in a different direction each time in order to keep the edge round. Cut the dough with a floured biscuit cutter.

If biscuits with crusty sides are desired, place them a half inch or more apart on the baking sheet; otherwise place them so that they touch each other. In order to keep the shape symmetrical, use a wide spatula with a wide blade in transferring the biscuits from the board to the baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven at 425 degrees F., for about twelve minutes, or until the crust is an even brown, and the inside is light, flaky and dry.

After your mother had taught you to hem a dish towel, you were allowed to attempt something more ambitious, perhaps, it was an apron or a petticoat. Now, when you are certain of good, plain biscuits, the kind your husband eats in numbers, not to be counted, you might begin to elaborate on them.

There are two general ways in which we can do this. We can add "things," good things of course, to the recipes—cheese, nuts, coconut, peanut butter, orange rind and sausage. Or, we can roll out the dough to one-quarter inch thickness, spread it with sugar, nuts and the like, then roll it up as for cinnamon rolls, and cut and bake it in the same manner.

Here are some of the good things that one may add to the standard recipe:

1 cup of whole wheat flour for one cup of white. Also add one tablespoon of sugar.

1/2 cup of dates or figs, cut into coarse pieces and floured.

3/4 cup of floured currants.

1/4 cup of peanut butter (reduce shortening to 2 tablespoons).

6 sausage patties (no other shortening needed).

1/2 cup of grated cheese.

1/2 cup nuts (best in whole wheat biscuits).

A cube of sugar, dipped in orange juice, stuck on top of each biscuit.

Instead of cutting the biscuits in the usual way, one can cut and fold them in the manner of parker house rolls. Before folding, tuck in a teaspoon of cooked chopped ham, or a slice of Bologna, or a cube of pimiento cheese.

Another surprise is this: Roll the dough one-quarter inch thick. Cut half of the biscuits with a doughnut cutter. Place the "doughnut" on top of a solid biscuit and fill the center with jam.

One can make a delicious supper or luncheon dish this way: Roll the baking powder biscuit dough one-quarter inch thick. Spread half of the biscuits (cut with a large cutter) first with butter, then with chopped meat—ham is especially good. Cover with the remaining rounds and bake. These are good as sandwiches, or served hot with a sauce. Ham biscuits are delicious with a cheese sauce.

What can one spread on the dough before rolling when making the pinwheel variety of biscuits? Oh, all sorts of luscious things. Here are a few suggestions:

1 cup of apples, finely chopped and sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar.

Nutmeg or cinnamon creamed with butter and brown sugar.

Honey, dates and nuts.

Peanut butter.

Cocoanut.

Peanut butter and cocoanut.

Prunes, cooked and coarsely chopped.

Nuts, raisins, citron and candied fruits of all kinds.

Jams or conserves.

Cheese spreads.

Meats—cooked, chopped, and mixed with butter or a thick cream sauce.

Grated cheese.

Grated cheese and chopped pimiento.

When making pecan rolls, spread the dough lavishly with butter, sugar and pecans. Then spread a mixture of equal parts of butter and brown sugar on the bottom and sides of the baking pan. Sprinkle this with pecans before you put in the rolls. The bottom and sides of the baked rolls will be deliciously gooey. We like these hot pecan rolls with tea and we always put bits of butter on each luscious bite.

Short Month Is Long On Party Days

February, though the shortest month in the year, offers more chances for parties than does any other. Within its four short weeks, there are three important excuses for parties.

First, February the twelfth when family friends make the birthday anniversary of a great president a time for dining together around the fireside. For this, let's plan a supper suggestive of pioneer life.

St. Valentine's Day is the time for gay celebrations. Dan Cupid likes zesty, and who knows? The new friendships made at Watch parties on New Year's eve may ripen into warmer friendships under the spell of "hearty" merriment.

A buffet supper is an attractive form of service for the Valentine party. Its informality seems to create an atmosphere of friendliness and cheer, and its method of service is so easy that even the inexperienced home-maker need not hesitate to invite guests.

Committees have been named to arrange for exhibits and entertainment and an elaborate entertainment program is being planned. It will include luncheons, a dance and vaudeville program. Officers of the association are: H. G. Yakey, Agua Dulce, president; Aubrey L. Lockett, Vernon, vice-president, and John C. Thompson, Dallas, executive secretary.

Washington's Birthday is a good excuse for a Colonial dinner, and whether or not George Washington had the intimate association with the cherry tree that history credits him, cherries and hatchets will always be used at any celebration in his honor. And it is said that George Washington was never prouder than when a whole baked ham, baked to perfection and on a large silver platter, was placed on the table in front of him for carving.

Is it your time to entertain the club for luncheon? If so, and you are wondering what to serve, here is a menu suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist. It is delicious and simple to prepare.

Luncheon Menu

Creamed Lamb in Individual Noodle Rings Mint Jelly

Orange and Grapefruit Salad Hot Buttered Rolls Pumpkin Tartlets Coffee

Creamed Lamb 2 cups milk or meat stock, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups diced cooked lamb, 1 small can button mushrooms, salt and pepper.

Make a white sauce by combining flour with melted butter, gradually adding the milk or meat stock and allowing to cook until thickened. Add the diced lamb and mushrooms and season with salt and pepper. Serve in noodle rings, and decorate with bits of currant jelly and parsley.

Noodle Rings

3-4 cup fine noodles, 1 cup thin white sauce, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 egg, beaten, 1 teaspoon onion juice, salt and pepper.

Cook noodles in boiling, salted water. Drain, then mix with white

Hoot Gibson Film At Lyric

Hard riding and the thrills of a western adventure, plus humorous incidents, mark the pattern of the new Hoot Gibson starring picture, "Sunset Range" which plays at the Lyric theater Friday and Saturday. The film marks Gibson's return to the film after a long absence, and brings back the old-time western melodrama.

The story has the modern touch, however, in that it tells of the downfall of a kidnaper. The plot opens in New York and travels to Arizona, where westerners led by Hot outwit the eastern gangster. Romance is provided as Hoot becomes attracted to Mary Dornan, who appears as the owner of the ranch on which he works. The plot is developed when it becomes apparent that her brother is involved in the kidnapping, and suspicion has been turned on the girl. A happy climax is reached when the cowboy star helps the officers round up the guilty ones.

TIM MCCOY IN DUAL ROLE IN PICTURE AT QUEEN

Another of the western adventure films, with Tim McCoy as its star, plays at the Queen Friday and Saturday. McCoy is seen in "Bulldog Courage," in which he plays a dual role, that of an elderly ranchman, and that of the ranchman's son grown to manhood and who gets revenge on the crooks who duped his father.

NEBRASKA FEARS SETBACK FOR ONE-HOUSE LEGISLATURE PLAN

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 7. (UP)—Nebraska, first state to adopt a non-partisan, one-house legislature, is discovering that people's ways of thinking cannot be changed overnight.

Particularly, it is learning that it is more difficult to change a politician's mode of thinking and acting.

The chief worry now is that politicians in redistricting the state for the unicameral legislature during regular session of the two-house legislature, have erred so much that it will be necessary to call a second special session.

This situation, according to Jackson B. Chase, Omaha lawyer who has investigated it, resulted from attempts of members of the legislature to "gerrymander" the state's metropolis for political purposes.

Candidate For Legislature Is Visitor Here

Angelo College Professor Seeking Place Now Held By Fisher

JACK SPRATT

Visiting in Big Spring Thursday afternoon was Jack Spratt of San Angelo, candidate for the Texas legislature from the 91st district, which includes Howard county. Spratt was here in connection with his candidacy, and said that he would visit this territory again to meet the voters.

Spratt was the first to announce his candidacy for the legislative post, entering the list on Jan. 10, the same day O. C. Fisher, incumbent, announced he would not seek re-election.

Spratt is a professor of history and political science at the San Angelo college. He has resided in San Angelo since 1928.

He was born in Pecos in 1902, and was reared in the coal mining and agricultural section of Palo Pinto county. He is the son of Dr. J. T. Spratt, veteran physician of Minnis. Spratt attended the University of Texas, working most of his way through school. He specialized in political and social sciences, and holds B. A. and M. A. degrees.

Before going to San Angelo in 1928, Spratt taught school in Shackelford county. He served as assistant in the history department of the University of Texas and also was at the North Texas State Teachers college at Denton in 1930-1931 as adjunct professor of government.

Called upon because of his acquaintance with the broad field of current governmental, economic and social matters, Spratt has spoken frequently before numerous clubs and organizations of San Angelo and the surrounding section.

He is a member of the Baptist church and has been actively connected with various social, civic and fraternal organizations in San Angelo for the last several years.

When asked about his platform, Spratt stated that "I am not ready at the present to announce a platform, but will do so in due time. However, if anyone knows the problems, trials and tribulations of the West, I should for I have learned them by having them grilled and ground into me; the lap of luxury has never been mine."

"I intend to make an active campaign for the office and will visit not only every community and town in the six counties of the district, but will visit every individual I possibly can," Spratt revealed.

Centennial Fund Allotment Made

The glories of Texas will be passed before the eyes of millions of visitors to the Texas Centennial exposition in Dallas in the great State of Texas building now under construction. Architects' conceptions of the facade and complete structure, shown above, give some idea of the magnificence of the project. Situated at the end of a beautiful esplanade of flags, the $1,500,000 building will afford one of the most breathtaking vistas at the Central exposition of the Texas Centennial celebrations, opening June 6.

Sincerity Emphasized In Sentiment Expressed In Valentines This Year

Judging from the 1936 Valentines, there's going to be more work for the little Bow Boy than for several seasons past.

St. Valentine's day this year will see a number of new ideas incorporated into seasonal messages. The up-to-date variety of sentiment no longer goes in for cooling turtle doves and extravagant effusions, but it's just as sincere. In fact, Valentines this year are more sincere in their expressions than in many seasons.

"They seem to shy just a bit from the word 'love.' Even the ones intended to convey that idea are just as likely to say 'like.' Modern youth inclines to understate sentiment in such affairs of the heart, it seems. Then, too, many of the greetings stress firmly the idea of friendship.

A typical verse reads: We went around a lot this year. Had lots of things to do. But everything seemed much more fun. Because I went with you! Even the comics are complimentary this year. Mostly they go in for, casual sketches in an off-hand manner, and the punsters probably will get a lot of fun out of their play on words. One, for example, suggests with fervency: "If I ate a peck of garlic and a top of onions too, I couldn't tell you even then how strong I am for you!"

Husbands and wives, it seems, will exchange Valentines in a big way this year. Some of them are a bit on the sedate and dignified side. Others are lightly humorous, and stand firm for the up-to-date principle of sauce for the goose. One, illustrated with a sprightly series of sketches, announces to hubby:

"I'll sew on your buttons and mend your socks; I'll cook your meals, and I'll wind the clocks; I'll not complain when you read the news; And once in a while I'll shine your shoes; I'll try to be your pride and joy. But when you stay out late—so will I, Old Boy!"

Any odd objects are likely to appear on the Feb. 14 missives. Stuck on the card may be a bit of sponge to denote a man's hair; a feather masquerading as a duck's tail; as St. Valentine's strong for novelties this year.

During the 12-day period, ending Feb. 6, approximately 15,000 requests for definite information and literature on the state and its celebrations were received in the offices of the state department of information for Centennial celebrations here. This total was reached before the national advertising campaign of the state department had been under way a full two weeks.

Incoming mail grows larger each day, indicating that as the campaign is continued, an unprecedented demand will be recorded for information on the Lone Star state.

The mail comes from every state in the union and already has included, in addition, requests for information from Denmark, France, England, Mexico, Canada, and Panama. New York has sent in more requests than any other state.

The first of a series of advertisements of Centennial celebrations in magazines and newspapers with national and state-wide circulation appeared only two weeks ago. It, and succeeding advertisements, all including coupons on which interested persons may ask for information on Texas, resulted in the flood of mail which now is engulfing the state office here.

Requests are answered by direct mail with attractively printed matter descriptive of Texas and the Centennial which is being observed this year in scores of celebrations planned in all parts of the state. All celebrations definitely planned are listed on a calendar which is included in the literature.

There Is Only One Way Open To The Merchant-- INCREASED VOLUME IN 1936

Merchants and Department Store Executives should not have to be told that the only sure way they can improve their profits for 1936 is to INCREASE THEIR VOLUME. But the fact remains the many merchants sit at their desk looking out the window thinking of the 'old days' of the twenties—when they should be planning sales promotions and merchandising events which will get their volume up to where their increasing overhead will be taken care of by increased sales.

Kenneth Collins, vice-president and advertising manager of Gimble Brothers, New York, told the National Retail Dry Goods Association the other day that merchants had better get back to the advertising ideas of "John Wanamaker, Marshall Field, and others who operated their successful businesses upon the old fashioned theory that on a given day a given dollar volume was necessary for the store and that it was up to the store to buy that much business or quit.

"After all," he said; "when a store has a fixed expense, or a rising one: when a store has a stationary gross markup of profit, it cannot be criticized for taking a gamble with extra advertising in an effort to raise its volume of business. And I don't call it gambling in the sense of trying to draw to an inside straight or hoping to fill out a four-card flush. For since general business is improving everywhere, it simply means that since the mass of people are beginning to spend more money, a store is guilty of criminal inaction if it doesn't try to tell people more facts about more things for sale."

And when it comes to sales promotion, the constantly increasing circulation of the Herald offers to those who have something to sell the greatest medium in the history of their business.

1928 Was the Year to Sell.....1936 Is the Year to Buy!

Mr. Merchant you can turn the heat on sales or someone will turn the heat on you. Let our advertising department help you carry the message of new merchandise to your old customers and to the new-comers to the Big Spring area who never heard of your store.

The Big Spring Herald

Daily --- Sunday --- Weekly

In West Texas we have every reason to expect many people to buy many things they have not purchased before in a number of years. Here are some of the favorable factors which will spell increased sales for West Texas stores:

1. 10-Cent Cotton
2. 31-Cent Wool
3. Higher Cattle Prices
4. Big Feed Carry-over
5. Higher Prices for Sheep
6. Bright Agriculture Outlook

On top of this is the immediate payment of the soldier bonus which will bring 4½ millions of new dollars into this section between now and the first of July.

But overshadowing all these elements is the threat of inflation--which is so obvious that only those who refuse to believe anything but hind-sight, can fail to see it.

Coupled to the national budget for 1936-37 of 6 billion dollars must now be added 2 billions for the bonus and an additional two billions for work relief or public works. This is 10 BILLION DOLLARS. This is about the total of the Allied Debt to this country. This is as much as our government spent in the war year of 1917. This is a sum that is unheard of before. Regardless of your economic ideas it means turnover. It means business. It means somebody a lot of people are going to wake up and be among the class who just missed the boat.

THESE INVESTIGATIONS The senate munitions investigation committee has finished with J. P. Morgan as a witness—and one wonders what worthwhile results the committee members can cite from the quiz of the nation's big banker.

Whether that is actual truth or not, the fact remains that so-called investigating committees are concerned too much with the publicity problems and not enough with actual fact-finding.

The munitions "probe" is a fine example. While senators tried desperately to uncover something that would point the finger of scorn at international financing during the world war days, they succeeded only in producing evidence that was more or less old news to the nation at large.

Nor did the committee make such a glorious record in its attempts to bring secrets from the Morgan partners. As the hearing was conducted, it would appear from this distance that a good deal of time and money was wasted.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Covering the waterfront in New York is like any other dangerous but exciting chore—it may leave you with frost-bite but never ennui!

Here is Mrs. Hal Roach and her daughter Margaret. "How was Paris?" I inquire. "Not very lively" she tells me, "but before King George died London was wonderful."

Thoughtfully pulling at a cigarette is M. Poulsen, whose Cafe de Paris and Cafe Anglais are important in London's scheme of things. "We ran into the darnedest storm about 4 o'clock Saturday morning," he says.

Baron De La Grange, of the French aeronautical commission, appears slightly impatient at the delay. The Ile de France has been trying an hour to crack the accumulation of ice in the pier-slip and she's short.

Direct relief has been entirely discontinued, several million so-called "unemployables" have been thrown wholly back on their own localities. Finally these localities have been required to put up varying proportions of work-relief and public works costs.

The figure is not a guess-work calculation. It is based on specific information obtained from a secret questionnaire sent out by the conference to 158 cities and every state in the Union.

The poll uncovered some revealing facts: chief among them that despite all the clamor for economy, local and state authorities especially believe that present federal relief expenditures are inadequate and should be increased.

Townsend Investigation If congress carries through its proposal to investigate the Townsend old age pension organization, there will probably come to light the little "joke" played by the aged doctor on the house ways and means committee.

Representative Trendway laid a grave problem before the house the other day. "May I inquire," asked the bulky Massachusetts republican, "whether any effort is being made to lessen the noise in the house restaurant. It is perfectly terrible to sit down into that room during the noon hour."

WPA Reshuffle The man who turned the cutting four million men to work in 30 days, is having his wings clipped. It was Jake Baker, Hopkins' assistant administrator, who carried the brunt of that program, and managed the outlay of more than $63 million dollars.

Chapter 44
BLACK WATER
 Corrigan had lanterns lighting the way from the storeroom to the dam. They were shielded by steel guards stuck in the ground, but even at that their light was uncertain. That dam!

Willlett plowed through to the edge of the river. The dam was going, all right. He went into action on the spot.

"Sandbags!" he shouted. "And matting! On the run! Come on, Bucky, chase 'em along. The women too."

He was in six places at once, directing, ordering, slinging the heavy sandbags around as though they were filled with cotton, and the gang got into it as though they were fighting for their lives.

The women joined the fight too. There was a worse fury than the storm abroad tonight—it was the fury of that tall figure who snatched back viciously at the wind-sucking river.

How they fought! Sandbags butted against the dam at vital points to withstand the tremendous pressure of an unchecked river. Water was spilling over the top. That was all right, the half-finished construction work below could stand anything but the sudden wild break of the whole river.

Willlett was out on the dam, the black water that sucked at his knees, and poured into his face as he knelt and gripped the edge.

And as Willlett fought, he thought of the girl back in the hut with only Rosa, saw her hand groping for his, felt a deeper courage somehow. But if she didn't make it—

"Look down, look down that lonely road—"

He knew how his father had felt. Life had gone out of his father too, left him staggering, stunned. He'd never been able to love anybody else but Vic, and Terry knew from the moment he'd seen Allaire she was the only girl he could ever love either.

Fight, you quaking wretches! Your best has to be strong no matter what happens. He has to look down that lonely road and he has to travel it alone, gallant and strong.

And so they strained through the hours, Corrigan a wild man with the Chalks hopping before his blasts, and Willlett keeping the rescue work traveling surely and swiftly. Governor, you're going to be served this job in Valhalla, and you can thank a girl for it.

But he dared that surging river's force once too often out there on that quivering dam. His grip was torn loose as he tried to get a sandbag into place.

He felt himself spun around in the wild water and an instant later his head was driven against the dam with stunning force. Lights flashed before his eyes as a terrible dizziness overcame him.

He gasped for breath and the water poured into his throat. He was going down, exhausted, stunned, half dead.

The water seemed very soft suddenly, soft with the heavy muffling feeling of a woolen quilt thrown over the head. And the bottom of the river was soft too, oozy, shifty, soft muck that had been stirred into a putrid cloud that blinded and strangled and obscured his senses. Terry Willlett could find no breath, no strength. His strength was sbbing fast. You'll have to look down, Allaire, look down a lonely road—the guy you married is through.

Allaire! He seemed to see her hand as it had reached out for him in those shadows caused by the flickering lamp. A girl who had followed him to Pluto's Playground and was standing between life and death herself now.

Willlett stopped right on the threshold of unconsciousness. With a terrible effort of will he roused himself to battle, to find some more strength from somewhere. He couldn't leave her alone, he couldn't. Allaire was fighting for her life too.

From somewhere his dispersed forces rallied. He snapped the mind-paralyzing spell of the water that whirled him around and blinded and deserted him; he fought for the surface, holding grimly to the last of his ebbing strength, straining for what seemed to him a white hand stealing toward him out of the stormy shadows.

Uncle Sam's Frost Records Are The Gardener's Planting Guide

Use Average Date Of Last Killing Frost If You Want Earliest Crops—The 10 Per Cent Date If You Wish To Be Safer

This U. S. Department of Agriculture map divides the country into planting zones, where the chances of damage from frost is only one to ten. Most gardeners plant a little earlier and take a chance on late cold weather.

A reasonably safe time to plant is when there is only a 10 per cent chance of a killing frost. This date can be determined for your locality by consulting the department of agriculture map above, and means that only in one year of ten will there occur a freeze likely to damage your tender garden subjects.

The more venturesome person whose taste for early greens and tender roots make him gamble on a possible wintry blast to get them, will choose the average date of the last killing frost. This is about two weeks earlier, and the chances of losing a crop or two of tender vegetables is more than doubled. The latest recorded killing frost is about a month later than the average, although this is not true everywhere. In New York, for instance, it is only 20 days, while in St. Louis it is 33 and in Cleveland and Chicago it is 26.

Investors In Thrift Agencies Are Protected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, more than a million wage-earners and salaried workers today enjoy the safeguards of insurance for their money, held in thrift associations of the building and loan type. According to the insurance corporation's report of Jan. 25, some 1,100 such institutions, located in 44 states, have now been insured. Every one of their 1,918,531 investors is, therefore, protected against loss up to $5,000. Resources of insured associations now exceed $712,000,000.

Insurance through the corporation is optional for state-chartered building and loan associations. Further growth in the number of investors insured depends largely upon how rapidly the large number of uninsured associations take steps to make this mutual safeguard available to their shareholders. Only solvent, well-managed institutions can be approved for insurance, however. No shareholder can have his own account insured against loss in an uninsured association, but every shareholder in an insured association is automatically protected up to $5,000.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. McCaslin entertained the New and Chalk club Thursday evening at 7:30 with a chicken dinner. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John Kubacka, Mrs. Pat Sheedy, Mrs. G. W. Payne, Mrs. Margaret Matting.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Wagner moved into their newly-completed home this week. Mrs. Wagner is buying all new furniture for this lovely four-room modern house and next fall they plan to put a furnace in their full-size basement.

San Francisco, Calif., Feb. 7. (UP)—Health authorities today reported a serious epidemic of influenza in Northern California. More than 500 were reported stricken in Contra Costa county. Many schools were closed. The University of California student newspaper, the Daily Californian, quoted Dr. Robert E. Legge, university physician, as saying the epidemic was the worst since 1918. Dr. Legge said 70 students were confined in the infirmary.

Air Passenger Traffic Gains

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Air line operators in the United States carried 746,949 passengers in 1935, the largest total for any year in their history and an increase of 61 per cent over 1934. E. L. Vidal, director of air commerce, department of commerce, has announced.

The highest yearly passenger figure previously was 493,141 in 1933. The total was 461,743 in 1934. These statistics are for lines within the borders of the United States only; those for operations during 1935 on extensions to Canada and Latin America are not yet available.

The domestic air lines flew 55,253 miles during 1935 and carried 3,882,397 pounds of express. The number of passenger miles flown, a passenger mile being one passenger flown one mile, was 313,905,506. Each represented a new record.

High School To Get Sidewalks Under WPA Project In Progress

Soon it will no longer necessary for junior high school students to wade through sand and mud to get to classes in the high school building. A sidewalk is being run from the two buildings, and to the edge of the campus on the west side of the school block.

When the WPA work is completed, a sidewalk will extend around the east side of the building also. A double door will be placed on the west side of the east wing of the high school building and a walk connecting high school and junior high is to be constructed.

"This is being done to prevent confusion in the lower halls of the high school building," Principal George Gentry explained. "There

Court Ruling

the legislative act levying an occupation tax on the machines.

While the appellate court held that the tax did not legalize the devices, Coe explained, exhibition of tax receipts made juries hesitant to convict a person for operation of a machine licensed by the state.

Some Confusion

While there was no conflict, some confusion arose from the fact that the civil appellate courts had, in effect, construed a criminal statute over which the court of criminal appeals would be supreme.

Coe said the highest tribunal had intimated, however, its holding in a test case would be similar to that of the civil courts. In a case in which legality was not a direct issue, an opinion hinted the court believed marlble machines were gaming devices and therefore outlawed.

The court of civil appeals opinion was based in part on an earlier ruling of the court of criminal appeals, that slot machines were illegal although not named in gaming statutes.

Social Period Will Precede Class Meet

A brief early morning social period has been arranged to precede the meeting of the First Methodist church men's Bible class. Many File To Participate In Paint Contest

Interest in the Montgomery Ward paint contest increased Friday as indicated by the receipt of a large number of entry blanks.

A number of excellent slogans have been received and forwarded to the committee of three judges in Chicago. The decision will not be made, however, until all entries are in. The closing date is Saturday, Feb. 8, and all entries must be at the Ward store by 6 p. m. on that day.

The winner will receive enough Super House paint to cover the exterior of his house with two coats. If the paint is purchased during the contest a double award will be made.

The contest, which has been creating no little interest among citizens with a "flare" for writing catchy sentences, and the general public, requires only the writing of a simple, twenty-word slogan on the value of Ward's Super House paint and the filling out of the regular entry blank with spaces for the estimate of the amount of paint necessary to paint the house. These blanks are available at the Ward store. No purchase is necessary to secure a blank.

In case of a tie, duplicate awards will be made. The store manager pointed out the fact that the contest is easy and suggests such a slogan as "Super House paint is as fine as money can buy."

The limit on the amount of paint to be supplied is 15 gallons.

Recapture Of Process Tax Is Held Possible

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (UP)—Recapture of $200,000,000 impounded processing taxes lost to the government by supreme court order is constitutionally possible in the opinion of justice department experts, congressional leaders revealed.

Recovery of the lost taxes is possible through incorporation of a retroactive clause in the tax bill being drawn to provide revenues for the new farm program, the experts were quoted as saying.

The retroactive tax provision would be combined, under the justice plan, with the regular farm tax bill which is expected to raise approximately $200,000,000 with which to finance the new farm aid program. These taxes would be substituted for the processing levies which financed the invalid AAA.

It was not made clear whether the new bill would contain any provision intended to thwart efforts of processors to recover any of the $1,000,000,000 processing taxes actually paid into the treasury.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (UP)—The United Mine Workers, in convention here, today voted to allow all soft coal mines to work tomorrow to care for any coal shortage in homes, although most mines do not ordinarily operate on Saturday and Sunday.

Brotherhood Day Is Endorsed By Governor Allred

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Brotherhood Day, to be observed throughout Texas and other parts of the country on Feb. 22 and 23, has been officially endorsed by Governor James V. Allred in a communication to the National Conference of Jews and Christians, under whose auspices the observance will be held.

The purpose of Brotherhood Day is to bring members of various religious and racial groups to work together on civic and communal problems and to establish justice, amity, understanding and cooperation among such groups.

In endorsing this year's observance, Governor Allred said: "I want to take this opportunity of expressing my interest in and endorsement of the purposes of Brotherhood Day. "Any organization which attempts to unite our citizens and religious groups in a better understanding and cooperation deserves the unqualified support and commendation of all right thinking people. "Civil and religious liberty have ever been inherent and undented rights of our people. I wish you every success. "It was pointed out by officials of the National Conference that the slogan of this year's observance will be "Make America Safe for Differences."

It was hardly enough to clear past due indebtedness incurred by the district.

The teams that will make the trip have not been decided upon," Miss Haley said.
