FIFTY GALLONS CORN WHISKEY IN THE GUTTER

Fifty gallons of corn whiskey and several hundred gallons of sour mash were captured yesterday by Sheriff Elmer Lawrence and Deputy Sheriff John Barnes near the corner of Cherry and Marston streets on the old "Deshaio" place. The whiskey was found in a water barrel and was sitting out in the open near the deserted residence, facing Cherry street. Behind the residence, the mash was found in a tin cistern which had gutters connected with the house. In the bottom of the cistern were fifty or sixty empty corn cans which had contained syrup. Something Is Wrong. Who Is to Blame? What Are YOU Going to Do About It?

The Daily Times has no axe to grind, no candidate to elect: no favors to show anyone. It is indebted to no one except the public and that debt it is only interested in the proper growth and prosperity of Eastland county and the proper administration of the government. It is for the best men, entirely regardless of political beliefs. It is, however, forced to admit that there are men seeking office in the coming election who are utterly unfit for the positions to which they aspire. These men who seek office may expect the Daily Times to tell the truth about them. The notes of the county have a right to know the facts as to the character and capacity of those who ask for their suffrage. A special writer, thoroughly familiar with the conditions, past and present, in Eastland county, has been engaged to present these facts to readers of the Daily Times. As stated in a preceding article, the records show only two arrests on indictments during 1919 for swindling. The question naturally arises, is it possible that there were only two cases of swindling in the county during that period of wild activity. These two eyes represent perhaps less than two per cent of the cases of swindling during that year. Then certainly there is something radically wrong and what about it? Swindlers are the shrewdest and most varied in character of operators of any class of criminals. There are hundreds of avenues of escape for this class of criminals. In numerous cases a rank swindler is committed within the law. Indictments would be useless and prosecutions futile. Therefore the victim lays for an opportunity to "get even." Again the swindler is always in the best position to buy immunity. If prosecution is made or attended the swindler can in most cases arbitrate. He will make restitution consideration of prosecution being avoided. The victim, more concerned at his personal interest than about the swindler, the criminal, accepts the delusion to prosecute, and who-over swindler can so prosper to go beyond the before his crime is a weak feature of a technicalities rescue.

LAMB "The Best of Luck" With an All-Star Cast, Thrills at Lamb Theatre

"The Best of Luck," the Metro picture of the celebrated Drury Lane melodrama, was shown this afternoon at the Lamb theatre. It proved to be a feature attraction of superlative merit. Done on a colossal scale, this swiftly-moving story is fairly packed with excitement, sustained action and spine-chilling thrills.

Cecil Raligh, master of melodramatic plays, Henry Hamilton and Arthur Collins were responsible for the stage version of "The Best of Luck." At Drury Lane it created a furore.

"The Best of Luck" tells of a dashing hero, Leslie Macleod, who falls the victim of a villainous Spaniard, General Lanza, to compromise her and cheat her out of a fortune which lies in the hold of a Spanish galleon sunk a century before.

An all star cast appears in "The Best of Luck," which was produced by Screen Classics, Inc., and supervised by Maxwell Karger. Kathryn Adams is beautiful and fascinating as the daring Leslie. Jack Holt gives a fine performance as the young Lord Glenroy. Lily Leslie is the seeming Lady Westmore, who conspires with Lanza, played by Fred Maltesta, to outwit the heroine.

Brown Well In, Blows Tools Out Extends the Pool

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex., July 6.—The field west of Breckenridge was slightly extended today by the Brown well which is being drilled by the Republic Company, coming in with a few thrills unexpectedly to the workmen. The well blew in, blowing the tools from the hole and wrecking some of the casing. It is making about 10,000,000 feet of gas and is good for at least 100 barrels of oil. There are no pipe line connections and of course no gauge has been taken. On account of the excitement prevailing many visitors went out to see the well.

The test is important in that it proves up doubtful territory. It is in close proximity to the Alexander well, abandoned two and a half miles south east. The new Brown well is about four miles west of Breckenridge on the lower Albany road and one and a half miles beyond the Curry producing wells.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

I was doing my lessons in the setting room and wishing I was doing something else, and pop was smoking and thinking and looking as if that was all he wanted to do, and I said, Pop? Do your lessons, sed pop.

Yes sir, I was just going to ask you one question pop, I sed.

You know my principles about borrowing, you had no bizness to borrow it in the first place, sed pop, borrowing money is a very bad practice to get into and nobody with any sents does it, and I dont want you to borrow any more, do you understand?

Yes sir, I sed, but how about paying Puds back?

No successfull man ever owed his success in life to constant borrowing, because everything that borrowed must eventually be paid back, do you realize that? sed pop.

Yes sir, even Puds Simkinses 3 sents? I sed.

Ill give you the money to pay Puds back if you promise never to borro any more sed pop.

BEAUTY HINTS

Toilet waters are always delightful to use, either undiluted or when added to the bath water. But as all of them contain a certain amount of alcohol, they are apt to be a little drying.

Many of them are not difficult to make at home. The very first one that I want to give today is quite simple and is particularly suitable for blondes with dry skin, since it is practically not at all drying.

Toilet Water for Dry Skins.
 Cherry laurel water . . . . . 20 grammes
 Milk or almonds . . . . . 300 grammes
 Milk of almonds—or almond milk, as it is sometimes called—is splendid for the complexion since it is both bleaching and nourishing.

For a sensitive, dry or scaly skin I would recommend the following:
 Milk of almonds . . . . . 150 grammes
 Rose Water . . . . . 150 grammes
 Toilet vinegars are also delightful. They are antiseptic; they quicken the circulation; and, when combined with alcohol, they are excellent to overcome a too-olily complexion.

Lavender Vinegar.
 Rose water . . . . . 50 grammes
 Alcoholic extract of lavender . . . . . 100 grammes
 Plain vinegar . . . . . 150 grammes

NITRO NOTES.

Bill, the goat, is the gift of Mrs. Leon D. Brooks to the Nitros. Mrs. Brooks and Speedy both are fans...

Dude Mooney robbed Thrash twice by running catches. He also snatched another good one on John King. Lovelace took a long drive from Beard's bat in the eighth and three other put-outs all creditable.

York got his blow yesterday, but was robbed by King again on a long drive in the first inning. He poled out a foul that lacked but a little of being a three base hit...

Hudspeth is showing good hitting form, a becoming trait displayed by several Nitro pitchers lately. He smashed out his first two runs, the second time he has delivered in a pinch blow lately and smacked out another single to start the sixth. Boyer and Carter have turned the same, or similar tricks in the Cisco series.

Jody Tate showed aggressive base-running, turning two hits and a walk into three runs in the fifth reaching second by a walk and a wild fling by Johnson. He hooped it all the way home and came in in a pretty slide, on Lovelace's single to right.

Charlie Clapp waited two walks and drove one at Johnson that was almighty hot. The Scout handled it, however and tossed him out.

Mason had but one chance to hit. Three times he was sent up to sacrifice. His first two were successful and on the third Jim was caught at the plate, thru no fault of Mason's. His end of the squeeze was perfect. Jim made the mistake.

Final with Scouts today. JUDGES WIN WHEN DORAN THROWS WILD IN ELEVENTH FRAME

MINERAL WELLS July 6.—Eastland won today 7 to 6 when Doran, the resorter's second baseman threw them wild to third in the first half of the eleventh. Much dissatisfaction was expressed at the decisions of the player-umpires.

SMOKE BOYER SOLD $2,000, TO CARDINALS

Chet Boyer, big smoke artist of the Nitro staff, is a major league candidate. Charlie Barrett, scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, saw him in the victory in the bag end of the double-header July Fifth and with the reports he had already received on the big boy, was so impressed that he closed with President Manager Galloway last night. The price is $2,000. And that's not all.

It has been asserted numerous times and oft in these columns, that Jim Galloway was the prize manager of the West Texas league. That Jim is a good baseball business man is proved in the deal that he arrived at with the veteran hunter.

Chet is sold for fall delivery, first of all, so no fear need be felt that the Nitros, in their first decisive winning streak, will be handicapped by the loss of one of their best men. Chet goes to St. Louis after the Nitros have finished the season and any post-season playing that may be necessary to decide the pennant. Boyer stands!

Chet not only gets a fat price for the big youngster as is paid in a season in this class ball, but his terms are the best that could be imagined. The Cards pay $500 cash when Chet reports in the fall. Pitcher Keck, a Card prospect, comes to the Nitros and Jim gets full possession of him for next season. At present, Keck is looking good with a bad looking Texas league club, the Houston Buffs.

If Chet looks good enough in his fall and early spring showing with the Cards to be carried along, the rest of the purchase price is paid to the Ranger Baseball association. If Chet looks not ready, he comes back to the Nitros, and nobody else. The club is still $500 to the merry. We still have Keck, win or lose.

Tell me that isn't a good deal, Boyer. Chet is playing his first season in professional baseball and is the class of the West Texas league. He had played around Westminster, Texas, which is his home. He reported to the Nitros in the training season, but illness prohibited his starting the scheduled season. He came back later and fans still remember that almost no-hit game he pitched.

It is reported that Barrett also grabbed Tim Griesenbeck, the bat hurler, from Cisco.

Score by Innings— Mineral Wells 01 005 000 00—6 12 3 Eastland 1 311 100 000 01—7 13 3 Three base hits: Bratcher, Hahn, Gross, Hartick, two base hits, Knight 2, Doran, Rose, Stidelle; struck out, by Dorough 5, by Hardin, 1; bases on balls, off Mead 2, off Dorough 3, off Hardin 1; error and six runs scored in six innings. Time of game 2:35.

GORMAN BUDDIES SLUG THIRD GAME IN ROW, ABILENE

Abilene, Texas, July 6.—In a bat fest here this afternoon the Gorman Buddies annexed another matinee from the Abilene Eagles, 11 to 6. The Buddies poled a couple of homers, first with one man on and second with two on. The first was a clout to deep center, Kizziar being unable to run the ball down in time to cut off Gressett at the plate on account of a badly sprained ankle. Sturdy cleared the fence several feet.

SINCLAIR IN FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY WON BY STARLIGHT

(Prairie protested this game afterwards in the umpire's decision. The game was not scheduled for yesterday. POEM. "Daylight had passed, There was no light When Sinclair beat Prairie last night."

In the twilight last evening by the aid of Jupiter and the Milky Way, Sinclair outdid, outplayed and outguzzled the Prairie by a score of 4 to 3. The time of the game was two hours and four minutes, one hour and four minutes playing ball, the rest of the time being consumed by the players of both teams for debating purposes.

So that is why, when it is desired to rag John, a few who know the story have been hollering at him, "Oh, John! Benny Kauff on third!"

Soil for Growth. At Christmas time Elinor got several little candy animals, which she has been saving because they were so cute. But one day the toy rabbit was missed.

"Oh, he got too dirty to play with, so I ate him," replied Elinor.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY THEY HOLLER 'KAUFF ON THIRD' AT OLE JOHN KING

The last time the Scouts played here, the yarn about John King, the husky center fielder, came up and it was promised for later telling.

John, in addition to being a good center fielder, if a little to self-confident, has an arm of which he is proud. (He can throw 'em far and away.) John was in the army. He was on an army team that played an exhibition with the New York Giants.

In his customary modest way, John asserted, prior to the game, "I hope this bird Benny Kauff gets on third and a fly ball comes to me. I hope he tries to score on me, I do. I'll make him look good."

By a twist of fate not unmixd with retributive justice, whatever the 'ell that is, it happened just that way. Benny, who hits 'em hard and far and is no slouch for speed, as anyone who saw him work in Fed time and with the Giants knows well, landed on third.

A beautiful rainbow fly came to John. It sunk into his hands. Benny was off on the moment of the catch. John cocked back that mighty arm of his, took good aim and hurled the ball—over the grand stand.

What is said to be the heaviest guns carried in any navy are to be placed on the new battle cruisers Saratoga and United States. A main battery of eight 18-inch guns will be mounted with an estimated range of between twenty-six and twenty-seven miles.

RATS
 Rats and flies find Ranger a mecca to which if they were intelligent they would migrate from everywhere. Last Sunday morning at probably 4:30 o'clock when daylight was just suffusing the sky with sufficient light to dispel the darker shadows, the rats of the city held an open meeting on Austin street, near Main.

An observer declares he saw at least thirty rats in a space of less than 100 feet. No one was on the street, and when the rats were aroused from their carnival in the street refuse, they began sneaking back to their nests under the buildings on the west side. There are so many and so deliberate were their movements that he was compelled to stop a number of times to avoid treading on the rodents.

It would not be surprising if other streets might not support colonies of the same size. Possibly at the east end of Main street the headquarters for all Ranger rats will be found. There are enough smells on the south side of the street, and food enough along the curb to feed several large rat families. There are several places in town where food is sold where odors are blown off that cause the passer by to hold his breath. About these places, it is needless to say, flies buzz in droves, screen doors are veritably covered with them and inside there are as many.

Flies and rats are companionable creatures and will live on whatever is available. First they will spend a few weeks resorting about an outhouse, a dead animal, or anywhere where rottenness prevails, and then by way of diversion will return to a restaurant to spend a quiet afternoon walking about on the food you eat, nibbling here and there and dragging filthy feet and tails through food that was clean.

Rats are an especial menace at this time because of the introduction of the bubonic plague into the United States. If the rats Ranger supports carry the germ, Ranger is seriously menaced for there are so many rats that a spread of bubonic plague would not be stopped without difficulty.

Rats may be exterminated with some trouble, but only slowly. It would seem that the menace of the filthiest animal in the world, is small concern here, or that the trouble of extermination is held to be too great for the immeasurable benefit accruing.

There is not one reason why Ranger and its residents should be so indifferent. Many comment upon the prevalence of them. No effective action is taken against rats. And who is going to get rid of them? In the meantime they continue increasing number each week, for the rat is a prolific breeder.

 BY WALT MASON

VIEWING WITH ALARM.

I thought, when nations were at bay, that when the war was ended, we'd all get busy baling hay, with diligence quite splendid. I thought we'd lay aside the sword, the shotgun and the sabre, and try to earn our bread and board by sane and useful labor. It never once occurred to me that we would all be dotty, that from the useful tasks we'd flee, for pastimes vain and naughty. And when I saw the country crazed, I ventured to defend it; I said, "By war we have been dazed—a month or two will end it." A month or two then rolled away, and other months soon followed, and still the country was at play, and in its orgies wallowed. The speeding months are making tracks, and into years they're growing, and still we don't get down to tacks, or make a decent showing. One needs a searchlight if he'd find the man who works with ardor, who has declining years in mind, as he digs in the harder. A joyride life the boys would lead, and blow in all their winnings; in vain I rant and preach and plead—the sports must have their linings.

When in Canada last, Mr. Kipling was so dissatisfied with the hotel accommodations that he gave the landlord a severe calldown. Said the landlord, "You're under the shining sun. I have never been in one that for unmitigated, all-round unendurable discomfort could equal yours." After the landlord had withdrawn in great indignation, Kipling asked for his bill and he discovered that the last item was, "To impudence—three dollars."—Boston Transcript.

"Tinker Bob" Stories
 by Carlyle H. Holcomb

RED FOX SURPRISED.
 Now that Mr. Black Snake had been sent away into the Forest, the King turned his attention to the little affair between Young Rabbit and Red Fox. Tinker Bob knew that he would have to get up very early to see what happened. This he did, and an hour earlier was at the same place where he had seen Red Fox the day before for he felt sure that Young Rabbit was planning to surprise Red Fox in some way.

It Seemed to Be Waiting Very Patiently for Red Fox.

Before the Sun came up, "Ah-ha," he cried. "I thought you were going to fool me again. But it wouldn't do for you to fool me many times or I would jump right into that briar patch and get you." "I wouldn't do that if I were you because you might get your eyes scratched out," said Young Rabbit, as he sat quietly right where he was.

"Well are you ready to go out for food?" asked Red Fox anxiously. "Now," said Young Rabbit, "I know where there is a wonderful clover patch at the edge of the Forest. You think you are such a great runner, but I'll bet you cannot catch me before I get there."

"Ha-ha," laughed Red Fox. "If you think I can't run fast enough to catch you, just agree to this—that if I do catch you, I can eat you for breakfast." "Sure," said Young Rabbit. "Now you go straight across the Forest and I will go around for that's my way of running. If you do not see me enter the clover patch, look to the middle and I assure you will see a fat young rabbit that would make you a good breakfast."

Red Fox was so willing to do this in the first place, said Red Fox, borrowing that he paid little attention to where Young Rabbit went. They started, Red Fox bounded over logs and rocks as fast as his legs would carry him, all the time laughing to himself as he thought of the fine breakfast he would have.

It was not long till he arrived at the edge of the Forest. Looking up and down, he could see no Rabbit. He thought to himself that Young Rabbit would soon arrive, and then for the first time he noticed a hole in the ground. Suddenly there appeared in the midst of the clover patch the ears and head of a young Rabbit.

Red Fox was angry. "If he did win the race I'll get him anyway," and away he went toward the spot where he had seen the Rabbit's head bob up. But when he arrived at the spot he met with another surprise. Guess what it was.

Tomorrow—Red Fox Is Outdone.

PUTTING UP YOUR CURRANTS.
 I have already given directions for putting up currants by the cold pack method in my time table for fruits and vegetables printed on June 16th, so will not repeat that information in this article on the currant. Today I will speak of currant conserve, currant catsup, currant jelly, and the method of preserving this fruit without cooking which is used especially when the housekeeper intends to make a great many currant pies.

and the rind and pulp of 1 lemon. Let these ingredients stand covered for 2 hours, then cook them over a moderate heat until as thick as marmalade. Seal in glasses and store.
Currant Catsup—Boil together for 2 hours 1 1/2 quarts of brown sugar, 3 quarts currants, 2 tablespoons ground cinnamon, 1/2 tablespoon ground mace, 1 tablespoon ground cloves and 1 pint cider vinegar. Seal, while boiling hot, in air-tight bottles.
Currant Jelly—Put the desired quantity of currants into a saucepan and crush them well; let stand for 1/2 hour, 1 pound seeded and finely chopped then heat very slowly. Drain in a jelly bag, measure the juice, and for each cupful of juice, allow 1 cup of sugar. Return the juice to a clean saucepan, let it boil for 20 minutes, then add the sugar previously measured and which has been heated in the oven. Skim well and cook for 3 or 4 minutes. Let the juice drain through the jelly bag, without pressure, for at least a half hour; then transfer the currant pulp to a saucepan and barely cover with cold water; stir 4 minutes and drain as before, but this time for only 10 minutes. After this, if the process is repeated a third extraction jelly may be obtained. Let the three grades of jelly cool in your glasses, not covering with paraffin until cold.

To Preserve Currants Without Cooking—Wash, stem and measure the currants and allow one pound and a quarter of sugar to every pound of currants. Crush the fruit and sugar, taking care to see that the skin of every currant is broken. Have jars sterilizing in boiling water and take out one by one as they are needed, emptying them of water and filling them to overflowing with the currants and sugar. Seal airtight, as for any preserved fruit.

Never gather or buy currants for jelly making just after a heavy rain, as they will take much longer to cook to the jellying point, and the color will not be as good if this is done.

TESTED RECIPES

Apple Pudding.
 Pare, core and slice 4 or 5 nice, soft, tart apples. Grease a baking dish. Into it place a layer of stale bread crumbs. Dot over with bits of butter. Arrange a layer of apple next and sprinkle with sugar and a dusting of cinnamon. Continue to arrange in layers until all the apples are used. Dot over with more butter, and bake about 20 minutes. Serve hot with milk or cream or a custard sauce.

A Table of Proportions.
 The following table will be found very useful and should be hung in every kitchen along with the "cook's golden rules":
 One teaspoon soda to 1 pint of sour milk.
 One teaspoon soda to 1 cup molasses.
 One teaspoon baking powder to 1 quart flour.
 Half a cup yeast or one-quarter cup compressed yeast to 1 pint liquid.
 One teaspoon salt to 1 quart soup.
 One cup liquid to 3 cups flour, for bread.
 One scant cup liquid to 2 cups flour for muffins.
 One scant cup liquid to 1 full cup flour for batters.
 One quart water to each pound of meat for soup stock.
 One saltspoon white pepper to each quart soup stock.
 One teaspoon extract to 1 quart custard.
 Two teaspoons extract to 1 quart custard or cream for freezing.
 One teaspoon extract to 1 plain loaf cake.
 One pinch salt or spice is a saltspoon.

FORMER CHICAGOAN IN POWER IN RUSSIA
REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED

IRKUTSK, Siberia, July 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—The rise to power of A. T. Krasnotchekoff, foreign minister of the far eastern republic, who claims American citizenship and who is broadcasting from Verkhne-Udinsk trans-Biakailia news of the birth of the far eastern republic is a typical story of the return to their former activities of revolutionary leaders throughout Siberia who had been hiding in Siberian wilds or imprisoned since the coup of the late Admiral Kolchak interrupted the course of the revolution.

The broken threads of governmental experiments west of Lake Baikal have been taken up, the whole country has joined Soviet Russia and Bolshevik rule is absolute. East of Lake Baikal, except in the Chita district, which General Semenov continues to dominate, there exists a so-called buffer state, dominated by the picturesque figure of A. S. Tobinson, who until June, 1917, was a Chicago lawyer.

Tobinson now is known as A. T. Krasnotchekoff. He writes in English. He has Russian aides who have been in the United States as secretaries and calls members of his party "the boys." He interviews himself and circulates the interviews in his own newspaper.

He appears to be popular in the trans-Baikal district, having been selected as a peasant delegate in the Verkhyn-Udinsk assembly in April. He arrived in Vladivostok in 1917 and went to Khabarovsk.

Here he headed the Far Eastern soviet which was known as a moderate body, and dominated it with his personality. Being driven out of Khabarovsk when the Interventionists advanced in August, 1918, Krasnotchekoff wandered westward and was imprisoned in Irkutsk. He was freed in January, 1920, when social revolutionists ended the Kolchak rule here.

CHICAGO, July 7.—A Stroller Tobinson, former Chicago lawyer, who, according to Associated Press dispatches from Irkutsk, Siberia, is foreign minister of the Far Eastern republic, under the name of A. T. Krasnotchekoff, is a former leader of Russian radicals of Chicago.

He was affiliated with the Communist party and published a radical paper. Tobinson left Chicago in June, 1917, for Siberia at the invitation of his friend, Leon Trotsky, according to Robert S. Nahin, his former law partner. About the same time Nahin and Frank Navigato, another partner, entered the American army. Navigato died while in service.

Tobinson was one of the founders of the Workmen's Institute, a radical institution with L. W. W. leanings.

WOMEN DECLARE WAR ON POWDER AND PAINT

NEW YORK, July 6.—War on powder and paint has been declared by the same women who are so important a factor in effecting the passage of the Prohibition Amendment. Satisfied with their accomplishment in that direction, they are now turning their attention to the abuse of cosmetics, and if their utterances and promises on the subject count for anything an anti-cosmetic amendment is to be feared.

Fourteen hundred women constituting the membership of the Kings County Women's Christian Temperance Union, will form the nucleus of the organization to start the onslaught on the paint and powder excess.

At the last meeting of the season of the Frances Willard Union of the W. C. T. U. of New York, Mrs. George F. Pashley, State superintendent, announced the new platform of the organization and was hailed with loud applause.

By dint of persistent influence and precept the W. C. T. U. will endeavor to wipe out this cosmetic evil," Mrs. Pashley said. "The immorality of our young girls in dressing, the universal popularity of paint and powder, have reached the stage where it behooves all Christian women to put forth their best efforts to save our girls from these demoralizing influences."

Mrs. Pashley said she thought things had grown much worse since the war. This she attributed to the fascination of men in uniform for young girls.

"Trying to cater to and please the soldier," she said, "has led to lax manners, which have brought calamitous results."

As a mark of America's appreciation of the valor of its defenders, the U. S. government will present the city of Verdun, in France, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

ALL-METAL PLANE CALLED STEP FORWARD IN AVIATION

Aeronautical engineers have pronounced the unique all-metal airplane, built by John L. Larsen, a step forward in aviation. The new craft, a mono-plane, recently set a new non-stop flight record for the U. S. when it made the trip from Omaha, Neb., to Pine Valley, N. J. without halting. The plane, with Larsen on board and Bert Acosta piloting it, left Omaha at 4 a. m. and was forced to land at Pine Valley at 8:12 p. m. The plane flew to Centrl. Park, N. Y., the next day.

FREED ITALY IS RESTLESS UNDER NEW CONDITIONS

VENICE—"Liberated" Italy (that part of Italian territory which has been freed from Austrian rule) is restive. The agitation of its inhabitants has spread to "invaded Italy"—provinces devastated by the enemy.

The war seems so far off now to Americans that it is hard to realize that reconstruction in these two "Italies" is still a matter of plans, paper—and an unlimited supply of red tape, this last being the only one thing not affected by the high cost of everything.

Reconstruction is distressingly delayed, and incredibly so to those Americans who have lately been in the Venetian provinces.

Even some thousands of Austrians who fell in battle have not been buried yet; the promises of government and parliament to rebuild ruined villages, roads and bridges and restock farms looted by hungry Austrians have not been fulfilled. A few families damaged by invasion have had small sums advanced for reconstruction, that is all. The millions so cheerfully voted for those parts have never taken material form.

People are still living in tents, old railroad cars, the roughest of barracks. Result: A wave of Bolshevism in territories which were the scenes of much heroic fighting, with the attendant evils of burned municipal buildings, bridges blown up, cables cut and such acts of violence from exasperated inhabitants.

Notables of the locality say there are only two remedies: Either the government must permit the emigration of 80,000 navvies and other workmen, who have been doing reconstruction work under government orders and not yet paid for it, or else the government must at once send large sums of money. Locally there is no money to go on with; all the communes are bankrupt, and the people who before the war had large fortunes invested in land have lost them and are themselves awaiting help to restock their farms and rebuild their houses.

'SOMETHING IS WRONG'

Burglars Work Freely

The records show that there were eight arrests and indictments for burglary in 1917 as against eleven in 1919. Surely there were more than eleven burglaries in 1919. Possibly there were three or four times that number. But they got away. When a burglary was committed in 1917 there was little chance for escape. There was no crowd in which to hide. Disposing of stolen goods was almost certain to lead to detection. Getting to a "fence" with stolen goods was a difficult job in 1917. It was dead easy in 1919. In 1917 everybody would notice a stranger and observe the things in his possession. In 1919 nobody noticed any particular stranger; for there were thousands of strangers and they could have anything in their possession without attracting particular attention. Most any kind of an officer could trail down and capture a burglar in 1917. It was merely an accident if the best kind of officer could get trace of a burglar in 1919. After all, the capture of eleven burglars in 1919 was a big achievement. It was the capture of eight burglars in 1917.

Murder's Conflicting Reaction

The records show that there was one indictment and arrest for murder in 1917 and against seventeen in 1919. There is nothing against which public sentiment revolts, on the spur of the moment at least, with such terrible vehemence as it does against murder. It is the hardest crime to conceal; the hardest crime to commit and avoid detection. And yet the same public that shudders with horror when a murder is committed, the same public that too often asserts itself through the medium of an avenging mob when a murderer, or a murder suspect has been arrested, will prance into the court house on the day of the trial, sit on the jury or out in the court room audience with a heart full of sweet, tender sympathy and deal gently with the same fellow the same crowd would have lynched the day of the crime.

But just take a look at this one and smile. There were six indictments and arrests for bigamy in 1917 and only one for the same offense in 1919. Why would six fellows figure that in the lean year of 1917 they could support or neglect more than one wife, while in the greatest year of prosperity this country has ever known only one party went astray along this particular path? Well, at any rate, as the records alarmingly and amusingly show, Eastland county was no place for the bigamist to drift into or reside and abide within in 1917. The whole population and the law was laying for him at that time. In 1919 the community was entirely too busy to look into such small matters as bigamy. Maybe there had been a five hundred per cent decrease in the bigamy business as a result of the boom business in Eastland county from 1917 to 1919. The records show the decrease. Some other medium will have to be consulted for an explanation.

There was one arrest and indictment for assault with intent to rape and two for rape in 1917, and eleven for rape in 1919. And yet there were hundreds of ignorant, brutal, vicious characters in Eastland county in 1919 where there was great reform in this respect and there is nothing mysterious about it. In 1917 the community would quiz around and detect an offense of this kind and would not stand for it at all. In 1919 the affairs of the folks living next door were a matter of no special care or concern. Busy strangers seldom speak and usually do their investigating through banks and other financial agencies. Folks can live in adultery if they will seek the right environments and a soul-seek or revenge-

Who Goes First

The Etiquette of the revolving door has yet to be standardized. At present there are two schools of opinion on the subject. One holds that when a man and woman approach a revolving door it is the man's place to go first, pushing the door slowly so as to allow his partner to follow in the next compartment about him safely out.

The other contends that ladies first still holds sway. It is good manners, these theorists say, for the man to step aside, let the woman start the door revolving, and then jump into the compartment behind her. In this way, it is contended the man may assume control of the door and guide it until the woman about him is safely out.

The bitterest rivalry prevails between the two schools.—New York Evening Post.
