PIPE THIEVES BEING SOUGHT

The sheriff's department at Eastland has been working for sometime to run down what is believed to be an organized gang of thieves engaged in stealing pipe and other oil field supplies from operators in this section. Recently several thousands of dollars' worth of material was stolen. Figure 1. Firstland operators and three shirts and tires at their home. The shirts were identified by Mr. Fagg, of Campbell and Fagg of Eastland, and the police say that two of the casings have been identified. The man under arrest made no statement whatever to the police, despite several attempts at questioning, but called for a lawyer.

of dollars' worth of material was stolen from an Eastland operator and carried out of the county. A portion of it was later recovered and restored to the owner, and at least one of the thieves will be brought to justice. Some weeks ago operators in the Rising Star and Pioneer fields reported losses bly theft of aproximately $10,000 worth of casing and oil well supplies and the sheriff's department has been working on this case and a number of smaller cases.

At virtually every meeting of the grand jury the courts charge on the law against theft and bring to attention the fact that Eastland county oil operators are suffering because of the large amount of property stolfrom them, and the grand juries

Members of the sheriff's department are urging the owners of oil field material to place private marks on their stuff so as to be able definitely to identify it in case it is stolen and recovered. Many owners have, done this and find that thieves are not so ready to steal it when it is branded. It has also been the means of finding much stolen property, as

But, that is much better than a worn-out nervous condition that will make you old before your time.

High Priced Advice
I know a girl in her twenties who

due to constipation and intestinal putrefaction which steadily undermines the resistance of the body.

Lack of exercise, fresh air, rest, improper diet, and intestinal disturbances are usually at the bottom of nervous disorders, and to correct the former is to overcome and cure the latter. There is no disease that requires so little medicine as nerve exhaustion.

Persistence in followin the right of the conditions that would cure the rules he gave her were so simple and common-sense like, that anyone might have told her as much—but that she had paid such a price for the advice, she felt she ought to at least give them a trial. Fortunately she possessed a girm determination to overcome the trouble and really did follow the advice.

It would, therefore, seem that we should consider the diet of a person following a sedentary occupation.

It is really not the question as to

The first thing to be done is to son who does outdoor work and who has plenty of exercise, for outdoor life and fresh air are a sauce to the appetite and a tonic to digestion.

The first thing to be done is to adopt a dietary and a system of living to rebuild the nerve cells. This dietary should be simple and nutritious, abounding in lettuce, spinach, celery, and infact all green edibles meat in moderation—fruits used freely few or no rich foods. freely—few or no rich foods—no condiments or stimulants. Not over-crowding the stomach, but feeding it

Chewing the foods very thoroughly to appease the appetite without excess, drinking plenty of water to make easier the elimination of waste and to keep the body in good condition—and no stimulants which overwork the nerves, leaving them tired and worn out-all these points are well to remember.

A good conscience appears in the light of an economic asset in the study of trade abuses that is being made by the committee on trade re-lations of the national distribution conference organized under the aus pices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. In other words, questionable trade practices are not merely unethical. In the long run they do not pay and the committee has set itself to the task of ascertaining and listing practices f this kind.

"Obviously." concludes the group of business men who are embarking upon this study, "there is not a single business practice described as unethical for which some one does not bear a heavy cost. On returned goods and cancelled orders the manufacturer must frequently take a loss when selling to another cus-tomer. The retailer who has been oversold must resort to mark-downs which cut into his profit, and the manufacturer may discover to his dismay that by over-feeding the retailer he has killed the goose which was laying him golden eggs. ayed deliveries are a loss to the reriler by the amount of trade which his competitor whose shelves are fillfoget you have them.

Arrange too, for plenty of time for meals. No matter what you have on hand, that you imagine has to be done, eat your meals slowly and rest for at least a half an hour after eating.

I believe we seldom, if ever find this trouble and the trouble are possible to the foods that is the person and nature will, in her way, overcome the nervous troubles.

The first thing a sedentary occupation.

"Even when the would-be performed from performing it, the overhead cost in arranging for a settlement may be very large. Every business owner can recount stories of long series of correspondence between two organizations.
