RAIN FALLS STEADILY, HOUR AFTER HOUR

HOUSE FAMINE EXISTS RIGHT NOW IN RANGER

Home Ownership Only Safe Plan, Home Building Campaign Starting.

A house famine, due to the scarcity of homes in Ranger available for renting is reported by the real estate agents of Ranger. Due to the recent oil boom and the general improvement of business conditions in the town, practically every house and shack that is habitable is occupied at the present time, the agents report.

Vacant houses are few and far between and when one is vacated there are always numerous applications from prospective renters, who have been forced to occupy shacks built during the boom days.

Although large numbers of residents of Ranger are renting homes to live in, many are buying the homes they occupy rather than risk having the buildings sold from under them. Most of the modern homes in Ranger, with the exception of a very few, are owned by their occupants at the present time and all homes offered at reasonable prices are being purchased as soon as they are put on the market.

With the dismantling of a number of oil company camps in the vicinity of Ranger, the occupants of these camps were forced to move into the city limits of Ranger and the housing situation is fast becoming acute, real estate agents report.

C. E. Maddocks and Son and C. E. May report that at the present time they have one house each to rent, and only a few listed to sell. New comers to Ranger are forced to live in boom-day shacks and watch their opportunity to locate in better homes.

Business conditions in Ranger are holding their own despite the usual mid-summer depression and merchants report that their business is better at this time of year than the same period last year and the year before.

"Build your own home" campaign is soon to be inaugurated by the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, it is said, the slogan adopted to be, "grow as Ranger grows, build your own home!"

Eastland County Teachers' Institute To Begin Sept. 7

The date for the Eastland county teachers' institute, which is to be held in Eastland, has been definitely set for the second week in September, beginning September 7, according to Miss Beulah Speer, county superintendent of public instruction. This institute takes in all of the schools of the county except those of the independent districts, who, under the law, can hold their own institutes. All of the independent districts, except Ranger and Cisco, have been coming into the county-wide institute heretofore, however, and Miss Speer states that an effort is being made to have both Cisco and Ranger join in the county-wide institute this year.

Dr. Charles D. Evans, head of the extension work of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, has accepted an offer to conduct the institute and so advised Miss Speer in a letter received by her this morning. Dr. Evans has a nationwide reputation as one of the leading educators, authors and lecturers of the country. Besides Mr. Evans' lectures there will be other speakers on the program that is now being arranged and announced later.

Anarchist Leader Threatening Murder Is Locked in Jail

TAMPA, Fla., July 31.—Norman Klein wanted in Washington and other cities on charge of having threatened to kill President Coolidge, was arrested today by U. S. Secret Service agents. He is the alleged leader of a band of anarchists.

Government agents said he had threatened the life of J. D. Rockefeller, Henry Ford and Edison, as well as the president. The arrest followed a chase of many months, which led the agents through many sections of the country.

Husband Becomes Nuisance, Therefore Put Out of the Way

CHICAGO, July 31.—Calmly and in a matter of fact voice, Mrs. Nellie Noble today told police she paid $100 to have her husband killed because he annoyed her 15 year old daughter by another marriage. The payment was made out of her husband's life insurance policy of $6,000, she said. "It was worth it," she told detectives, "I didn't mind his beatings, but when he started to annoy Mildred, I decided to have him killed."

BRYAN TONIGHT WILL REST IN QUIET GRAVE

Funeral Services This Afternoon; Thousands View Body Lying in State

WASHINGTON, July 31.—William Jennings Bryan will rest tonight in a warrior's grave, beside the unknown soldier and others who died in battle. Today his body rested in state in the church of the president, a weather stained red brick edifice. Throughout the night, when the lights of the city were dark, comrades in arms of the Spanish American war stood guard at the bier.

Twenty thousand persons had marched in line through the front door yesterday to see the commander. The doors were closed at 10 p. m. for the night's vigil. This morning the doors were again thrown open, despite a drizzling rain. Visitors were to be admitted till noon, when the church was to be closed to prepare for the final funeral service, to begin at 2:45 p. m.

At the gate of the cemetery the batteries of the 16th field artillery will meet the body to escort it to its resting place. Only brief services will be held at the grave. An army bugler will sound taps and no salute will be fired.

Philpott, secretary of the Texas Bankers' association, on "Commemorative Coins of the United States;" musical program by George Ashley Brewer and his associates. 11 p. m. to midnight.—The Adolphus hotel orchestra, playing in the hotel.

GOVERNOR SAVES MEXICAN MURDERER FROM CHAIR

HUNTSVILLE, July 31.—Arnulfo Valles, El Paso murderer, was saved from the electric chair by governor Ferguson last night, just four hours before he was scheduled to die for killing Enrique Riviera, a Mexican police officer at El Paso, in 1923. The death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. All preparation for the execution had been completed when the executive message was received.

AUSTIN, July 31.—Youth of the prisoner and the opinion of the governor that the evidence of the case did not justify the penalty, saved Arnulfo Valle, Mexican, 20 years old, El Paso murderer, from the electric chair last night, Governor Ferguson said today. Valle will serve a life imprisonment term, the governor said. She overrode a recommendation from the pardon board just four hours before the prisoner was to go to his death.

People Advise President How He May Enjoy His Vacation, Retaining Dignity

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The white house here in the absence of President Coolidge is being deluged with suggestions for his amusement during his vacation. Evidently feeling that Mr. Coolidge has been unable to find enough to do at Swampscott where he is spending the summer people write advising him to seek recreation by learning to play the saxophone, to climb mountains or to do nothing.

Discussion of the president's vacation interested the capital almost immediately after his departure. It was stimulated by reports that he was finding it difficult to occupy his time. Appeal for Suggestions While this discussion was at its height, the Washington Daily News, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, appealed to its readers for suggestions on how the president could derive the most benefit and enjoyment from his vacation inasmuch as he does not play golf, tennis or swim. The News received several hundred answers to its appeal. Nearly all replies were identical. They suggested that he cast aside the affairs of the nation and devote more time to outdoor and recreation.

They suggested long walks, fishing, horseback riding and reading. In the main the president was urged to give more attention to his health than to government business.

Included among the replies were many unique suggestions. One man suggested Mr. Coolidge learn to play the saxophone, while another insisted that he should amuse himself with a violin and bow.

Told to "Kid Himself" A woman advanced the theory that the president could have an enjoyable time by "kidding himself along." "First thing in the morning," she wrote, "he should jump out of bed, run to the mirror, smile broadly at the man he sees there and say: "Well Calvin, dear lad, we have another wonderful day to live."

"That 'dear,'" this lady explained, "will hold him to love himself; a sort of an assurance to himself that he is doing the best he can. Then the 'lad' will make him feel young."

Explaining that a real vacation in the United States was "impossible," a postal card contributor appealed to the president to "get out of the country and do as he damn pleases."

"All the while he is in this country," this writer said, "the hoosier will be staring him in the face."

"Go west Mr. President, go west," was the suggestion of a 13-year-old lad. He insisted that Mr. Coolidge could reap valuable physical benefits by "climbing one of the mountains."

PEOPLES STATE BANK DEPOSITS BEING RELEASED

Checks Received for Claimants From A to Dood; Others Promised Soon.

About 300 checks, arranged alphabetically from A to names beginning "Dood," inclusive, have been received from the Texas state banking department by A. W. Taber, liquidating agent for the Peoples State bank of Ranger, and will be given by him to those entitled to them. The checks are all drawn on the Ranger State bank, where the state has the money on deposit.

All checks were drawn in Ranger about one month ago and sent with proof of claims to the state banking department for verification and approval. In a letter to Mr. Taber, the state banking commissioner advises that all claims are being checked in alphabetical order just as rapidly as the work can be done, and the checks will be sent in batches to Ranger from time to time.

It was Mr. Taber's understanding that the checks would be mailed direct from Austin, but they are being sent instead to him and will be given out to him, at least all claimants living in or near Ranger. The claimants must call at the bank for them and give proper identification. As batches of checks are received, Mr. Taber will give notice through the press. The total number of checks is close to 2,000 and about 1,500 of them will go to Ranger people.

LOVE RESIGNS FROM RANGER'S OFFICIAL FOLD

Sanford J. Dean to Succeed Him as City Secretary, Tax Assessor and Collector.

Sanford J. Dean of Ranger, will take over the duties of city secretary and tax assessor, Saturday, August 1, it was announced by the Ranger city commission, following acceptance of the resignation of Clarence Love, present city secretary. Mr. Love will become associated with his brother, M. V. Love, in the management of the Central Filling station, at Pine and Austin streets.

Clarence Love, city secretary, tax assessor and collector and water superintendent, has been connected with the city in the capacity of secretary for the past two years, having been appointed in October, 1923, upon the resignation of E. A. Ringold, then city secretary. Mr. Love located in Ranger in 1919, after getting his discharge from the United States army, having served overseas, accepting the position of secretary to Gholson-Moorman and Dorsey, leaving them in 1921, he was employed as tax assessor and collector for the Ranger School district, which position he occupied until appointed city secretary, when E. A. Ringold resigned in 1923.

During his period of service for the Independent School District and for the City of Ranger, Mr. Love has made a host of friends who regret his resignation from the city official family, but give their heartfelt endorsement and encouragement in his connection with the Central Filling station.

The new city secretary, Sanford Dean, is well known in Ranger, being an old resident here and having served in various capacities for the city commissions of Ranger, since the town was incorporated. Located in Ranger when he was a young man, Mr. Dean, left shortly after the boom struck Ranger and moved to Austin, where he was appointed as prison financial commissioner during Governor Neff's regime. Resigning that office two years ago, Mr. Dean moved back to Ranger where he has been interested in real estate since that time. He has also been working for the state highway department in Eastland county.

Cattle Quarantine Over Limited Area

HOUSTON, July 31.—The general quarantine imposed on Harris county was raised Friday by the state and government experts in their war on a fresh outbreak of the hoof and mouth disease. A rigid quarantine was placed on the district surrounding pasture owned by Dr. William S. Jacob, and no stock whatever is moving from that district. Ninety-seven Brahma cattle owned by Dr. Jacobs and valued at from $15,000 to $18,000 were slaughtered at 5 a. m. Friday.

To the Rescue

Earthquake Shocks Numerous But Slight

PAENZA, Italy, July 31.—Earthquake shocks at great distances were registered on the instrument of Raffaele Bendandi at 8 o'clock last night. He had forecast earth tremors at the month's end. He now predicts an earthquake in the Mediterranean for August 2.

The last 24 hours have been marked by seismic disturbances of no critical extent in Italy, Hawaii, California, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

BRITISH COAL LOCK-OUT AND STRIKE HALTED

LONDON, July 31.—Premier Baldwin announced this morning there had been a provisional halt of the coal crisis. The owners of the coal mines have rescinded for a fortnight the notices of a lock-out, which was to have become effective at midnight tonight.

LONDON, July 31.—England's gigantic coal lock-out, with its potential nationwide industrial paralysis, today was averted, at least temporarily. Premier Baldwin's announcement that the government was ready to tide the coal situation over the winter with national subsidies brought peace overtures today, which was followed by the temporary withdrawal of the lock-out scheduled for tonight. The coal mine owners are expected to yield.

Chicago Aroused To Suppression Of Crime Wave

CHICAGO, July 31.—Aroused to action by the daring robbery of the Drake hotel and the murder of a clerk who offered no resistance, Chicago's civic bodies today joined forces in an active crusade against crime. The stigma of the "crime capital of the world" must be removed, was the decision of law enforcement bodies, the Chicago Bar association and all organizations interested in the city's welfare. Indictments have been returned against three of the bandits in the raid on the Drake hotel and police said they expected to capture the robber who is yet at large.

Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins has called for twice the number of criminal judges to prevent delay in the trials. The bar association has offered any number of able attorneys to aid in the prosecution.

Dale Clark Trial Nearing Conclusion

STEPHENVILLE, July 31.—The jury was expected late today to get the case of Dale Clark, on trial for the last two days on a charge of killing J. V. Ussery of Stephenville, previously of Gorman, by giving him arsenic poison.

J. L. Lary, banker of Gorman; John W. Frey, banker of Stephenville, and other bankers of Stephenville testified that a note found in Ussery's home wrapped about a bottle of arsenic on which was written, "I have done what I could," his name being on the reverse side, was in Ussery's handwriting, comparing the writing with that of a gloomy poem of which he was the author.

LEWIS SEES COVERT DESIGN IN MINE OWNERS ACTS.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 31.—John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mines Workers, issued a formal statement today that "it is obvious to everyone that the anthracite coal dealers have intention of arriving at a settlement before the present contract expires."

WET WEATHER PREVAILS OVER WEST TEXAS

Texas & Pacific Trains Tied Up by Bridge Troubles; General Rainfall Today.

A slow drizzling rain that increased in proportion to a veritable downpour at times and then slowed up again never to completely stop, started yesterday afternoon and precipitation continued, throughout the night, until about 7 o'clock this morning. Then about 9 o'clock the rain started again and apparently determined to keep it up for the remainder of the day.

One and twenty-eight hundreds inches of rain fell between the hours of midnight and 7 o'clock this morning, according to the government power house of the Oilbelt Power company. With the precipitation of Wednesday afternoon and today, more than two inches of rain has fallen in Eastland county and surrounding territory. Farmers are watching it with broad smiles, for a good crop is now assured this section for this year. Many farmers were depending on rain at this time to prevent a complete crop loss this year.

Stock ranges that were being burnt up by the hot sun have received a renewal of moisture, and the effect of the rain is already evident through the grass on the range assuming a greener and fresher appearance. The rain is general throughout the central belt of Texas according to reports, and as far south as the extreme south and east Texas, where the drought had scorched the crops very badly.

RAIN AT EASTLAND.

Rain amounting to .85 of an inch fell in Eastland vicinity last night and according to reports received this morning. The fall was general over the entire county.

Wind Blows Down Derricks at Mexia

MEXIA, July 31.—Damage estimated at $100,000 resulted from a wind and rain storm which swept across the Richland oil field section near here during the night. Eighty-eight derricks in the Richland field were blown down, leaving only seven steel structures standing. Lightning struck a flow tank, destroying a large quantity of crude oil and lightning also hit a church at Sangus. No casualties were reported.

A general call for derrick builders was sent out today to replace the wrecked derricks.

RAIN AT MABANK.

MABANK, Texas, July 31.—One inch of rain fell here last night and this morning. This is the first rain of any consequence since May 19.

RAIN IN RUNNELS COUNTY.

BALLINGER, July 31.—Estimates of the cotton yield jumped from 40,000 to possibly 100,000 bales, as the result of good rains throughout the county last night. Today the fall was continuing slowly. The rain has amounted to between one and two inches throughout the county.

M'COLLOUGH COUNTY WET.

BRADY, July 31.—A slow rain began falling here at 8 o'clock this morning and has amounted to a half inch throughout the morning.

RAIN IN EAST TEXAS.

ATHENS, July 31.—After an all-night rain, the fall is continuing today. This breaks a drought of almost three months.

CHEROKEE COUNTY RAIN.

RUSK, July 31.—One and one-half inches of rain fell over Cherokee county last night, ending a three weeks drought.

TEMPERATURE IN KANSAS DROPS TO 49 DEGREES

SALINA, Kan., July 31.—The last day of July saw a late fall here today for the temperature had dropped to 49 degrees this morning.

MURDER CASE APPEALED

AUSTIN, July 31.—Andy Meador, convicted in Tom Green county of murder of Aso Rawls, May 17, 1922, and sentenced to ten years in prison, filed appeal Friday in the court of criminal appeals.

BIBLE THOUGHT

Restore the erring: Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.—Galatians 6:1.

Prayer—May we be enabled to so know Thee, O God, that we shall make it our business to rescue the perishing.

THE POOR WEATHERMAN.

Ever since Adam's time the poor old weatherman has been cursed and growled at by man. If he is too hot, or too cold, or to anything, he complains. If it rains or is cool and gloomy he gets grumpy and depressed. If it does not rain crops are destroyed and business is bad. The clouded skies appear to cloud his feelings.

In his natural state, man was less concerned about the weather. It was not until he began to wear patent leather shoes, fine clothing and expensive hats that he got fussy about the rain. Not until women adopted flimsy garments did she give much attention to the weather. Rain and storm didn't run colors in the grass skirt—and we are getting back to it.

On the other hand all animals roam about, rain or shine. On hot days they seek shady places, and during storms find such shelter as they need.

Growling and worrying about the weather really causes suffering, unhappiness and illness. There are bound to be frequent changes. Why not be philosophical about it and be comfortable? The weatherman will have his own way about it in any event.

BRAINS.

What is a thought? How is it created? Where does it come from—where does it go to?

It is something every human being has—and yet no one knows much about it.

Materialists assert that thought is a substance which the brain secretes much as the liver secretes bile. But the eye is not the author of light, nor the nose of smell, nor the ear the sound of the voice.

Daniel Webster's brain was very heavy. The brain of Ruloff, the confessed murderer of nine people, now in the Cornell museum, is said to be the heaviest ever weighed in this country. The brain of Anatole France was much lighter than the average, yet he had a superior mind.

The brain is the sounding board of our human piano. As it is sensitized, developed or attuned, so it will receive, for all science tells us thoughts are things that always live.

It is doubtful if man ever created a thought—because man never created anything. If he did he would be on a part with the Great Invisible Intelligence of the Universe.

GIVE CHINA A CHANCE.

Senator Borah asserts that there is nothing in the Chinese situation to justify a departure from our "traditional policy" regarding China. Our traditional policy regarding China, however, is quite different from that regarding most of European affairs.

The independence of China, its equal treatment by and to all nations, and the prevention of any dispute whose natural outcome would be domination or privileged position for the winner—these have been not merely Chinese, but American policies.

Unless we are to reverse our traditional policy what is happening in China now is decidedly our concern, because we are pledged to see that China gets a square deal at the hands of European powers—and that is the real point now at issue. In this the United States and Russia seem to be working together.

Striking Mill Workers Evicted From Homes

Unable to meet the rent due to the company for their homes striking mill workers at Willimantic, Conn., have been dispossessed by the American Thread Company. The mill workers have been on a strike for eighteen weeks. The American Federation of Labor has erected tents to shelter the families of the mill workers until a settlement is made with the company.

LAWN SOCIAL POSTPONED

The lawn social to have been given by the Cheerful Workers of the Christian church, Saturday night, has been postponed on account of the inclement weather. This event seems to be ill-fated, as this is the second time that it has been rained out—however, the third time is a charm, and the rain may prove a blessing in disguise, as it will mean fuller pocket books and a larger patronage.

WATERMELON FEAST DEFERRED

The watermelon feast to have been given by the Young Matrons' Sunday school class of the Methodist church tonight at lake Leon, will go the way of other outdoor functions whose spirits have been dampened by the rains. It will be postponed until some fairer day. The members of the class give way gracefully and graciously to the rain, as they have lived in Texas long enough to see the silver lining 'neath a summer's rain, especially when it follows weeks of drought.

REV. A. L. LEAKE SENDS MESSAGE TO HIS FRIENDS

The following message from the Rev. A. L. Leake, pastor of the Central Baptist church of Ranger, was received today:

"We are enjoying a busy and profitable vacation. Large crowds are attending upon our revival services and many are being saved and restored to happy and useful lives of service. From 1000 to 1500 people are crowding and surrounding the tabernacle every evening. Our music and singing under the leadership of Leo Underwood is a leading feature of all services. He has won the hearts of all the people. Mrs. Leake is playing the piano. Rev. G. O. Key is leading the men in personal work. People are attending the meetings for fifteen miles around."

"We will be home for the third Sunday in August. Our meetings will continue over the second Sunday in August. We will come home revived and refreshed, ready for our fall campaign. We wish you were here to share with us our good time eating fried chicken, ice cream, fresh peaches, and red meated watermelons. For the next two weeks we will be in Anna, which will be the third meeting since leaving Ranger. We have received invitations to return again next year. This will be our third year in revival meetings at Anna."

REV. G. D. ROBISON TO OCCUPY HIS PULPIT SUNDAY

Rev. G. D. Robison has returned from Ballinger and will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit Sunday, both morning and evening.

JAPANESE PREMIER TO FORM NEW CABINET.

By United Press.
TOKIO, July 31.—The Japanese prince regent, according to indications today, will ask premier Cato to form a new cabinet, following the resignation of the coalition cabinet last night. The new cabinet probably will be formed solely out of the Ken-saikai party.

The resignations resulted technically from differences between the Ken-saikai and Seiyukai parties over taxation, but in reality was the outcome of long standing political rivalry.

The prince regent has postponed his Saghalien trip because of the cabinet crisis.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF RANGER SUNDAY SERVICES

Services will be as usual Sunday at the First Baptist church. Rev. W. H. Johnson is not out of the city and will preach at 11 a. m. on the subject of "The Religion of America's Famous Statesmen." His evening subject will be "Should Business Reverses Cause a Man to Quit?"

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held in the afternoon and evening of the second Tuesday in August, announcement of place to be made at Sunday school Sunday morning.

AIRPLANE DAMAGES IN LANDING, FLIER ESCAPES.

OMAHA, July 31.—The first accident to the transcontinental flight of six army Curtis airplanes which have been testing the transcontinental air route, occurred early today when Lieut. Linde's plane forced to land in the darkness near Runnells, Iowa.

The owner of the car may have it on making satisfactory explanation, Assistant Chief of Police Leonard Davenport said today.

Police Seize Coupe Neglected by Owner

A 1925 model Ford coupe, apparently in good condition is now in the hands of the Ranger police department, its owner unknown. The car was pulled in from its parking place on Main street by orders of the police department as it had been standing stationary in one parking stall for the last four days.

By 6:30 our caravan had been rounded up and we were ready to start. The Roosevelts have adopted the dress worn hereabouts by Europeans—solo topi, short knee pants, leather waist coat and khaki coat. Our caravan consisting of more than 100 animals wound around the zig-zag road, always mounting. Two avalanches lay across the road which we crossed by a narrow track. At the top we came into eternal snow and our difficulties began. There was a long hold up while coolies dug a path across an avalanche that had been covered with fresh snow. At last we moved ahead, still afoot as it was impossible to ride. The sun was warming up and the surface snow was very soft. One of the ponies fell ill from eating poison grass and died. The owner set up a terrific wailing—not too much from grief but to impress us with his loss and his remuneration. Presently we reached a narrow stream where the caravan had to slide down from the snow banks into the water and clamber up the ice banks on the other side. We halted there for the night but the Roosevelt expedition pushed on two miles to a point where there was little snow and pitched their tents. Hard for the Women. Several odd traders and a small caravan, belonging to the Rajah of Kaplu had joined our caravan, bringing the total to more than a hundred animals. The Rajah had a son of 15, one younger, a little girl of 2, and his wife traveling with him. There were about 12 ponies. The wife was a "purdah" Muslim lady and therefore had to travel in a closed "dandy" whom she changed at intervals. How this lady endured the gyrations of the cage as it swung at every angle as the coolie stumbled and floundered in the snow is hard to imagine. But at the rear of the procession was something still worse. Here was a woman tied face downward on top of a pony. She was lying flat on her abdomen, feet sticking out behind two packs on each side of the pony. Died thus, she was helpless and swayed with the rest of the pack at every stagger and stumble of the pony. Her head was covered with the usual "durdah" and we could catch only glimpses of what was coming through the eyelids of her headdress. To western eyes it was typical of these lands where woman is relegated to an enormous part of the baggage. We pushed on to Dras, leaving the snow behind and with a relatively clear path ahead. Our caravan rested a day at Dras, while the Roosevelts pushed on and reached Leh two or three days ahead of us. After some days in Leh collecting stores and caravan, the Roosevelt expedition started on the next stage—to the foot of the famed Karakoram Pass which brings them into the wilds of the Karakoram range and far western civilization.

ROOSEVELT PARTY GO THROUGH HIMALAYAN PASS IN MID-MAY PENETRATING CENTRAL ASIA

The United Press herewith presents the first detailed story of the early phases of the great venture of the James Simpson-Roosevelt-Field expedition into the heart of Asia. It is written by the wife of Dr. Reeve Heber, who is acting as special United Press correspondent during the expedition. Both Dr. Heber and his wife are missionaries with headquarters at Leh, Kashmir, and accompanied the Roosevelt expedition over the Zogi Pass to Leh, United Press Association, New York. (By KATHLEEN HEBER.) Special United Press Correspondent. LEH, Ladaka. (By mail to United Press). The James Simpson-Roosevelt-Field Museum expedition crossed the famous Zogi Pass which separates Kashmir and what to many represents civilization, from the wild uplands of the Himalayas and the mysteries of central Asia, in mid-May. Our little caravan, consisting of myself, Dr. Reeve Heber, and two mission nurses accompanied the Roosevelts over the pass during several days marching.

The pass is at an altitude of 11,500 feet and is very difficult. From early in November until May, the pass is frequently impossible owing to blizzards and dense snow storms. Sometimes adventurous traders get across, carried in baskets on the backs of sturdy coolies. We waited at Semnang with some anxiety for news of the road over the pass and heard that it had been opened that day and was open. The Roosevelt expedition with sixty baggage ponies passed through toward the foot of the pass. We set out the next afternoon toward Baltal, hearing from time to time the noise of rushing avalanches, but the sky was cloudless and the evening fine. At Baltal, the Roosevelts were in camp and George Cherris and Colonel Roosevelt were preparing the skins of Asiatic birds which they had secured.

Ascending Into Winter. It was arranged that their large caravan should commence the crossing at 8 o'clock the next morning and ours would follow. At Srinagar we had a full summer weather. Here we were back new dresses, patches of purple rises into the spring. The trees in fresh and fritillarias beginning to peep through the grass. And tomorrow we would be back into winter snows. The Roosevelt expedition slept in their small, low brown tents on the ground. We awoke at five o'clock in the morning to see the Roosevelts breaking by the light of a canal lantern. Our efforts to get an early start was doomed to disappointment. In this region the grass is poisonous and the ponies that eat it usually die. The pony men drive their ponies into the hills to get away from the poison grass. In the morning they have difficulty in rounding up the wandering animals. Jack in Charity Bout

During his recent sojourn across the pond, Champion Jack Dempsey took part in a bout for charity at Brighton, England. Here he's shown in the ring just before the opening gong. His opponent was a chap by the name of Phil Scott. The match attracted quite a bit of attention. The third man in the arena is Harry Preston, the promoter.

President Will Hold Down Expenditures

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 31.—President Coolidge today approached another step in his campaign to hold down the federal expenditures, to $3,000,000,000 a year.

Representative Madden of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee, was coming to the white house to discuss the departmental and other appropriations bills which would be drafted by his committee and presented to congress in December.

Administration leaders have estimated a tax reduction of between $300,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Madden will be chief agent in attempting to work out the details of the plan to slash the government's expenses for the fiscal year, beginning July 1 next, to a point that will allow a $3,000,000,000 budget.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR
 Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper-marrist Dick Gregory, struggling young lawyer. Her idea of marriage is good times, good clothes, and no work or children!
 Dick borrows his mother's maid, Maggie, to teach Gloria to cook. But she refuses to learn.
 Dick has an attack of flu. While he is working at home with Miss Briggs, his secretary Gloria plans a house-warming. She asks Stanley Wayburn, an actor with whom she was once in love, to be one of the guests. He accepts.
 When Dick meets Wayburn he is instantly jealous, although the actor devotes himself to Mrs. Gail. Glory drinks too much, and faints away while dancing with Dr. John Seymour, whose wife, May, is in love with Jim Carew. This party breaks up when Lola Hough scolds Bill, her husband, for petting. Maggie, disgusted, quits her job and returns to Mother Gregory.
 Then Gloria hires Ranghild Swanson, although Dick tells her they can't afford a maid. And she buys $400 worth of clothes, besides. Then she begs Dick to buy her an automobile. He says he hasn't enough money to do it.

enough on the sale to pay down something on the new one for you," Dick said. "I don't suppose I really need that old speedster of fine. It would probably do me good to walk to the office once in a while."
 "You do look pale, Dick," Glory said, "and I'm not saying that just because I want you to sell your car. You really don't look well."
 But as the days went by Glory thought Dick had forgotten all about the little blue car.
 On the morning of her twenty-first birthday Dick was gone when she opened her eyes, after a night of deep, dreamless sleep.
 "Did Mr. Gregory take his car this morning?" she asked Ranghild when she brought up her breakfast tray.
 "He did, ma'am," Ranghild answered. "And an hour ago a man drove a new car into our driveway. It's standing there, now."
 Glory leaped from bed. She ran downstairs in her bare feet and looked out of the sunroom window.
 There it was, with the sunshine striking its polished sides—her little blue Winged Victory! Her very own! Glory thrilled with happiness as she stood looking at it.
 While she was dressing the telephone rang.
 "This is Miss Briggs speaking," came a cool, low voice over the wire. "Mr. Gregory asked me to tell you

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
"If I sell my own car, I'll make

"That's our 1925 model," said the natty young salesman. "The very best buy on the market."

that an instructor would be out about 12 to teach you to drive the new automobile."
 "Thanks," Glory said shortly. She hung up the receiver with a bang.
 What right had Dick to give Miss Briggs a message like that for her?
 Why should Miss Briggs have to know that she didn't know how to run an automobile—that her family had never owned one?
 And why hadn't Dick telephoned himself, to wish her a happy birthday?
 There had been a time only a few short weeks ago when he had called her up three or four times a day just to hear the sound of her voice.
 Oh, well, that was the way marriage changed a man! As soon as he had you, he stopped caring for you—evidently. Or, at any rate, he didn't care half so much for you as he said.

"Tomorrow I'll let you drive," the demonstrator said. He jotted down some instructions for Gloria.

The demonstrator arrived a little before 12, and drove Gloria to the park. As they bowled along, he explained the mechanism of the car to her.
 Around and around the park they drove. And at last he let Gloria take the wheel for a few minutes.
 "Tomorrow I'll be out at the same time, and I'll let you drive," the demonstrator told Gloria as they drove back to the house. He jotted down some instructions for Gloria.
 After he had gone Gloria stood on the front steps. It was only three o'clock. She hadn't seen her mother for more than a week.
 She decided to walk the long mile to her old home.
 Mrs. Gordon saw Glory coming up the street, from her arm chair in the bay window. She came out on the porch to welcome her.
 "Well, I thought you'd forgotten that you had a mother, dearie," she said, her eyes shining with tears, her lips smiling. With arms linked, they went into the house.
 "Well, I've had the busiest time of my whole life so far," Glory explained. "First of all, I gave a house-warming, and then I spent a whole day shopping, and I've been picking out a new automobile! And today I got it. Dick gave it to me for a birthday present. You forgot that today was my birthday, didn't you, motherkin?"
 Mrs. Gordon bridled.
 "Indeed I did not!" she said. "I called up this morning to ask you and Dick to come here for supper tonight. The maid said you were still asleep. Then I called again a few minutes ago, and she said you were out. But I went right ahead and baked your birthday cake, anyway."
 She led Glory into the little kitchen that was more like a sitting room than anything else. I gave a red calico cushion in one corner, and the table was set ready for a meal. The family always ate breakfast there.
 Glory went into the dark pantry. On the shelf was a brown crock, half filled with baked beans.
 "Yum, yum, my favorite food!" Glory sniffed her lips greedily.
 Mrs. Gordon took a plate out of the cupboard. She put a large helping of beans on it, and a slice of cold roast beef.
 "There, dearie, while you're eating that, I'll call up Dick and ask him to come here to supper," Mrs. Gordon said.
 In a few minutes she came back into the kitchen.
 "All right, he's coming," she told Glory. "Now I'll sit right down here and peel these potatoes, while you finish your snack."
 "You don't seem a bit excited about my having an automobile, Mother," Glory complained. "I thought you'd be tickled to death."
 "Well, a bit," her mother said blacily, "but I'm getting used to seeing you get everything you want. Glory, since you married Dick, after you came home with that new turcoat I was ready for anything. I could see then that Dick was going to spoil you, by giving you everything that you wanted, or thought you wanted. You're a lucky woman, Glory. He's a man in a million."

Glory laughed knowingly.
 "He is not!" she said. "It's like pulling teeth to make him spend a nickel! But I've just told him that if he wants me to live with him, he's got to come across with the things that other men give their wives."
 "Gloria Gordon! That's a terrible way to talk!" her mother said in a shocked voice. "But you only married a few weeks!"
 "What has that to do with it?" Glory asked, folding her napkin. "I'm going to start out the right way. Dick's got to know right from the beginning that he can't make a dishon of me. Look at yourself, Mother! All your life you've worked your fingers to the bone for Dad and what have you got out of it? Not a thing that I can see!"
 Mrs. Gordon peeled potatoes, silently, for a few minutes.
 "Well, you may not be able to see it, but I have a lot of happiness, Gloria," she said quietly. "Your Dad and I get along pretty well, together. I care more for him today when he's old and broken-down, than I ever did before in my life, I guess. And we're contented, owning this little house of ours. It's paid for, at last, after 13 years!"
 Glory shook her head. Her mother was beyond her comprehension. She had so little, and yet she was happy. Anyone could see that she was happy, with the smile that always lurked in her spectacled blue eyes, and the upward twist of her humorous mouth.
 "I'll go out and buy some flowers for your table tonight," Glory said.
 "You needn't," Mrs. Gordon answered. "I've nine geraniums in bloom in the front windows. You can go and cut the blossoms from them if you will, for me. And I've bought little red candles to go on the cake."
 Glory went into the dining room to set the table.

The side-board drawers were filled with snowy linen. Much of it was darned but the mended places looked like bits of embroidery done by some expert needlewoman, as, indeed, her mother was.
 At 6 o'clock glory heard footsteps on the front porch. She ran to open the door for her father.
 He held her away from him, and looked at her.
 "Well, my fine lady!" he said proudly. "Your old Dad never thought he'd have a princess like this!"
 A lump came in Glory's throat. He was so little and old, her Dad! His whole life had been a disappointment. He had spent years writing a history of the world. And after he had finished it no one would publish it.
 There were two or three hat boxes up in the attic filled with the manuscript of that life-work that no one would ever see.
 And now he was working for a printer for a tiny salary.
 As they stood there under the gas light in the hall, Dick rang the front doorbell. Mr. Gordon let him in.
 "How do you do, sir?" asked Dick, towering above the old man. "How's business, these days, with you?"
 "Fine as silk," answered Glory's father, as he helped Dick off with his coat. That had been his answer, always. He and his business—everything about him—were always "fine as silk." He would have no one's sympathy, and no one's pity. He was as proud as Lucifer.
 Mrs. Gordon bustled in.
 "We can sit right down to supper as soon as I make the gravy," she said, when she had kissed Dick. "Glory, you light your birthday candles, please."
 Dick followed his wife into the dining room.
 "Did you like your car?" he asked.
 "Adored it," Glory answered, throwing her arms around his neck. "But why didn't you call me up to tell me the instructor was coming. Instead of letting Miss Briggs know all your business?"
 "She knows it all, anyway," Dick replied. "A man's secretary has to know his business. And she's a regular clam, anyway. Never opens her mouth to a soul!"
 "Did you have to sell your old car?" Glory asked. Ranghild said you drove away in it this morning."
 "Sure I sold it," Dick answered. "Where did you think I got the money for the payment on your car—stole it?"
 "Well, I thought you might have used the money for my car instead of buying that old telephone stock," she said.
 Dick put a warning finger to his lips. The kitchen door opened and Mrs. Gordon came into the room with a tray of soup plates.
 After dinner, Glory's father got up from the table and went upstairs.
 Presently he came down with a dusty bottle in his hands.
 "Port wine," he said, looking at Dick. "I've had that bottle put away for 15 or 18 years. Shall we drink the bride's health—or her birthday."

I should say?"
 "This, I suppose," Dick said, before he emptied his tiny glass, "is the moment to give my wife her birthday present!"
 He handed Glory a folded sheet of thick white paper.

French Seem Unable To Employ Any Improved War Methods In Morocco

By J. W. T. Mason.
(Written for the United Press.)
Difficulties France is encountering in the war against the Riff tribesmen of Morocco demonstrate that no such strides have been taken in aeroplane and poison gas methods of conducting hostilities as have been reported since the ending of the world war. France have been unable to conduct any kind of offensive against the Riffs who are quite unfamiliar with modern methods of warfare, despite the fact that all the scientific knowledge of fighting gained from the world war is at the disposition of France.

OUT OUR WAY

The same condition of deadlock prevails in Morocco as existed for years during the recent conflict in Europe. Neither side can make appreciable progress against the other. The Riffs are located in territory admirably situated for defensive warfare. They have mountain passes to shelter them and they are able to make use of guerilla tactics with great skill. Nevertheless the Riffs have no considerable number of aeroplanes, they do not know the use of poison gas, they have no artillery of major importance and they have never been trained in modern military tactics.

If the vast improvements in the use of aeroplanes and chemical warfare such as are reported from time to time, were really true, France would be in an ideal situation to work a miracle in Morocco leaving a lasting impression in Europe. But, nothing of the kind has happened. France has a large equipment of military aeroplanes perhaps than all the other European nations combined; certainly in numbers and technical efficiency France claims the lead. It is not difficult to send aeroplanes squadrons from France to Morocco for the civilian premier, Painleve, recently flew over, himself. France too, has developed chemical warfare methods in keeping with modern progress, so as to be in readiness for any eventuality in Europe which might threaten her safety.

The Riff challenge to French supremacy in Morocco offered France a unique opportunity to show what an enemy of France in Europe might expect if a new war of revenge were started across the Rhine. The Riffs are so far below the efficiency level of a European army that France could blow them over with ease and little expenditure of money. This was anticipated as the outcome in France; for when the Riffian movement against the French was pronounced in Paris, that the affair would be over in a brief time. Spanish troops who had been unable to subdue the Riffs were declared to have been dominated by an inferiority complex; but French army fresh from the experience of the world war, would show the Riffians what modern warfare was like.

Riffs Unassisted. No such magical results however, have been obtained. The Riffs have challenged the modern warmakers of Europe to do their worst; and the worst the European experts have been able to do has ended in a fiasco. The employment of the Riffs has failed to bring in the enemy whose casualties have been negligible. The employment of chemical offensive against the tribesmen has encountered obstacles which has made poison gas turn into laughing gas from the standpoint of the Riffs.

The arguments that conditions of warfare in Morocco are not the same as conditions in Europe will be as different from the last war as the last war was different from its predecessor. What the world war was supposed to have demonstrated was the utterly exterminating possibilities of future warfare. The Riffs have disproven this argument. If Riffs have been able to counteract the use of chemicals and aeroplanes as exterminating instruments certainly Europe in the next war will be able to do the same.

That is to say, civilization will not be blotted out even if another world war comes. A new world war will work great havoc and will destroy lives and property like the last; but the world will survive it. Therefore, those statesmen who are basing their policies on the improbability of civilization allowing another great war to be fought are building on sand. Another war in Europe will not destroy Europe, and so Europe will let it come, if come it must.

DENBY OFFERED PART IN TEAPOT DOME FILM

By United Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 21.—Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, has been offered $25,000 weekly to play the featured role in a screen translation of the Teapot

Dome scandal. The story of Teapot Dome is being filmed by the Caldwell Du Bain Productions, latest Hollywood movie-making organization. E. B. Du Bain, millionaire realtor and president of the new film company, offered to star Denby in the story of the oil scandal. The former secretary refused the proffer. "Someone else will play Denby's part in the picture," Du Bain said. "The characters of Albert B. Fall and others who figured in Teapot Dome will also be portrayed in the film."

STEPHENS COUNTY MAN SUES FOR NON-DELIVERY OF WIRE

J. E. Wedekind of Stephens county has filed suit in the district court of Eastland county against the West-

Plaintiff alleges among other things that on January 26, 1924, he lived at Rotan, Texas, and that his father lived at Marble Falls, Texas, that on that date a brother sent him a message by the defendant to Rotan advising him of the sudden death of his father, that the defendant failed to deliver the message in due time and, in fact, has never delivered it.

Daily Mixed Trains North and South on Hamon-Kell Railway

Passenger trains Nos. 3 and 4 of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railway company will make their last run today, as they are to be discontinued Saturday, Aug. 1, and replaced by a mixed train with the following schedule: Northbound No. 36, will arrive in Ranger at 11:45 a. m. from Dublin

New Kidnap Victim

Robert Perles, 4, of New York City, has been missing from his home since Sunday afternoon. The police and the boy's frantic parents fear he may have met a death similar to that of Irving Pickelny, who was murdered and hidden in a cellar in the same neighborhood as that from which the boy is missing.

and leave for Breckenridge at 12:30 p. m. Southbound No. 35 will arrive in Ranger from Breckenridge at 11:20 a. m. and leave Ranger for Dublin at 12:25 p. m. Passengers will find comfortable accommodations on the mixed trains, as the management in making this change have their comfort in mind. This change in schedule recalls the days when the Jake Hamon was a lusty young railroad, with its passenger coaches loaded to the guards with oil crazed people trying to get into the Stephens county oil fields. While the passenger trade has fallen off to where a strictly passenger train is no longer necessary, this road is one of the most important freight factors in the oil fields and rolls many cars daily.

ST. LOUIS HAS SUMMER THEATRICAL SEASON

By United Press. ST. LOUIS, July 31.—This is the city of the open air theatre—direct descendants of the old Greek theatre where classic drama was born. While other cities go almost without other attractions from June to August, St. Louis is in the midst of the best part of its "season," with two scenic and cool theatres in operation. The two are the open air Municipal theatre and the Garden theatre. The former is eight years old and caters to opera, the lighter class for the most part. The Garden theatre has just opened this season with Margaret Anglin in "Electra." The Municipal theatre with a seating capacity of approximately 10,000 is a natural amphitheatre, with seats graded down a sloping hillside. At the foot is the stage with two majestic trees supporting each end.
