"I'M GUILTY", SNOW TELLS THE TRIAL COURT

LONGEST COLD PERIOD THIS WINTER HERE

Mercury Below Freezing Point More Than Two Days In All Eastland County.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A gigantic cold wave with extremely low temperatures will spread over the Atlantic and Gulf States this afternoon and tonight, bearing freezing weather as far South as Central Florida, the weather bureau predicted.

According to the thermometer at the Driskill Leghorn Farm, Ranger, this morning was the coldest morning of the month of January, this year, the thermometer registering 15 degrees above zero at 6 o'clock. However, it was not the coldest of the winter, as it dropped to 12 degrees in one cold spell during December. It is, however, the longest cold spell so far this year.

It was cold enough this morning to make cars left out over night look like big icicles, to make pedestrians watch their steps as they negotiated their way from their homes to their places of business, to make drivers of cars use chains on their tires, or to proceed most carefully along the slick paved streets. No accidents had been reported up to noon from persons slipping on the ice or cars skidding.

Plumbers are very much in evidence today in Eastland and Ranger, as a cold spell like this always leaves in its wake plenty of work for their plumber, in the way of bursted pipes and water connections.

It has been a good natured cold spell, the force of the elements spending itself, and today snow glistens and melts under a warming sun. Folks have been good natured in receiving it. Most people say it's great. The children are all pleased, and some of the grown ups would like to take a day off and enjoy the snow, while all of them realize the great value it is to Eastland county farmers, as well as farmers in other parts of the state.

With a gradually rising temperature today, it is probable that by Saturday all signs of the snow will have passed.

Calder Wounded By Accidental Pistol Shot

Gun Drops To Floor During Friendly Scuffle and Is Discharged.

Deputy Constable Joe Calder of Ranger is in the city-county hospital as the result of an accidental gunshot wound. About 2:15 this afternoon at the Ranger City Hall, while having a friendly scuffle with Chief O. V. Davenport, his own gun, a 45-caliber, dropped from his pocket, hit the cement floor and went off from the impact with the floor. The bullet hit Calder in the leg and then passed up through the ceiling.

Calder was rushed at once to the hospital. The wound was bleeding profusely and those at the City Hall were unable to determine just the extent of the injury.

OSAGE INDIAN VILLAGE HOLDS UNIQUE STATUS

Wealthy Wards of U. S. Government Drive Autos for Diversion.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles dealing with the picturesque old West that still lives in the land of the mysterious Osage murders.

By BRUCE CATTON.
(Copyright, 1926, by NEA Service, Inc.)

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Jan. 22.—This is a story about the only town in the United States where every man is independently wealthy; where there is no poverty, no charity, no want; where every house is furnished with just exactly the things that the owner wants to have.

That town is the Indian village on the outskirts of Pawhuska, capital of Osage county, and headquarters of the Osage nation, richest people on earth.

The Indian village some years ago was a place of tents and huts. Its streets were little more than muddy lanes; its inhabitants eked out a rather scanty living as best they could.

Then the fabulous Osage oil wells began to flow. Money poured into the tribal coffers, to be divided equally among the members. And the Indian village became a village of comfortable homes, paved streets, modern improvements—and automobiles.

Indians Dislike Work.
No one works in the Indian village—no one, that is, except the white servants who are hired by the wealthy Indians.

"The Indians don't like to work," admits J. George Wright, United States agent for the Osage reservation.

"What do they do to fill in the time?" he was asked.

"Drive automobiles, mostly," he says with a grin.

He's right. You will see more high-priced automobiles in the little Indian village than in any ordinary town of five times its size. Pierce-Arrows, Cadillacs, Packards, Marmons, and Rolls-Royces; these are the cars favored by the noble red man. The automobile is his great hobby. And, considering that each Osage draws nearly $15,000 a year, why not?

Pawhuska, the white man's town, has felt the effect, too. There are as many automobile salesrooms here as there are in Oklahoma City. One of the salesmen tells a story to illustrate the vagaries of the leisure class of Osage county.

"An Indian came in recently and bought a big sedan," the salesman says. "It cost him about $2,000, and he paid cash. Four days later he came in and wanted his money back. Said he didn't like the car."

"I told him I couldn't give all his money back, as he had used the machine, but I said I'd credit him with a good sum if he wanted any other car I had. So he pointed to a touring car, that came about $600 cheaper, and said: 'I want that.'"

"It was a bargain all right, and I made the swap. Then I asked him why he preferred the open car to the sedan."

"Well, you see," he said, "I can't spit in this closed car."

Ceremonial Dances.
Twice yearly the Indian village is enlivened by gaudy ceremonial dances, when Indians of neighboring tribes are invited in and great rows of barbecue fires light up the night. Then the men and women mingle in the "stomp dances," a weird parade to the tune of tom-toms. The dance has no religious significance, though it seems to have had a religious origin.

Most of the Indians go clad in blankets of the most giddy hues imaginable. These blankets, however, are not the woven Indian blankets of former days. Far from it. They are woven on the looms of Pawtucket and Fall River, and they sell in the stores here for prices ranging from $135 on up. The red man pays without a whimper.

Some of the men affect the white man's clothing, but very few of the women do. The Osage women ostracize any Indian woman who does not ordinarily dress in the tribal costume.

All of which means much money to the merchants of Pawhuska. As a result, Pawhuska's retail shopping district is more substantial looking than similar districts in Guthrie and Ponca City, for instance, though these two cities are nearly three times Pawhuska's size.

Pawhuska would be only a shell without the Indians—and Pawhuska knows it. Consequently, Pawhuska is very fond of its upper class.

Son Swears To Avenge Father's Death

Youth Will Trace the Holder of "The Yellow Stub."

Police of Grafton wired local police today that Detective Mooney would come here to seek traces of the murderer of Henry Rand. Mooney will be accompanied by James Rand, the dead man's son.

Young Rand is confident that if he can find the person who occupied the seat in a Union City theatre, indicated by the yellow stub found in the death room, he will be able to locate the slayer. Police are less sanguine.

Despite the theories held by the police, young Rand is insistent that a woman played no part in his father's murder.

"When I find the scoundrel who killed my father, I'll kill him on the spot," Jim Rand declared as he prepared to come to Union City. "I don't know whether we shall find him in Union City, but I'm sure that it is where we shall find the clew that will locate him. Knowing my father as I did, I do not for a moment believe that a woman is involved in this."

AUTO LICENSE FOR 1926 IS NOW PAST DUE

Period of Leniency Ends In Eastland County When February Arrives.

Positively, and no fooling either, after midnight of January 31 auto owners who haven't paid their automobile license, will be treated without impartiality, as all cars must be equipped with 1926 licenses not later than that date. A great many of Eastland county car owners have not paid their car license, as there are still some 3000 unaccounted for, officials said.

Eastland county authorities have been very lenient in the matter, setting up the date of final payment far beyond that of many other counties, thus giving tax payers a chance to get over the expenditures of the holidays and of property tax paying, but the period of leniency draws rapidly to a close. Just one more day this week and six more next week, and then its either to display a nice new shining tax plate on the front and rear of one's car, or the choice of leaving "Lizzie" in the stall, or saying it with fines before a judge whose patience has been sorely tried by negligence.

International Lion President May Return In May

Judge Ben F. Jones of Newark, N. J., president of the International Lions club, who is on a tour of Texas, delivered an address before the Lions club of Abilene last evening on the principles of Lionism. The meeting was attended by delegations of Lions from Stephenville, Eastland, Santa Anna, Winters, San Angelo, Colorado, Anson and other places.

President Jones, who is on his first official visit to Texas, had not planned to make any addresses in West Texas, but through the efforts of Judge N. M. Rosenquest of Eastland, a deputy district governor, and those of the Abilene club, arrangements were made to have him speak in Abilene Wednesday night and go from there to El Paso for an address Thursday night. The trip from San Antonio, a distance of 285 miles, was made by President Jones and a party from Abilene, who had come to San Antonio after him, in an automobile.

Judge Rosenquest said that an effort was being made to have President Jones pay Texas another visit in May, but that it was not known if he would be able to do it.

Telephone Wires Down, United Press Service Is Curtailed

Telephone wires between Eastland county points and Dallas have been out of commission two days, having failed to bear up under the combined weight of sleet and snow. This has interrupted the United Press service to some extent, although, so far as possible, the gap has been filled in by using the Western Union wires.

Telephone company officials said they expected to have all wires repaired before the close of Saturday and full service will be resumed.

The body will be brought to Eastland for burial, although funeral arrangements had not yet been made.

The report the Frisco contemplates taking over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas is discredited.

Dallas Lawyer Will Seek Place On Court Of Criminal Appeals

Special Correspondence.
DALLAS, Jan. 22.—Severely criticizing the system of reversing cases by the higher courts because of technicalities, and taking as his campaign slogan "Swift Justice and Fewer Technicalities," Lee P. Pierson of Dallas, one of the leading lawyers of the state, has announced his candidacy for a position on the court of criminal appeals, subject to the democratic primary in 1926.

LEE P. PIERSON

Mr. Pierson, in his statement, said: "Life is cheap in Texas." He also gave as one reason because of this fact the system of continual reversing of cases because of technicalities, stating that the same adds encouragement to the lawless element. Mr. Pierson further said that one of the greatest menaces today was "the high-jacker with his pistol in one pocket and his technicalities in the other." "There should be rules of law," Mr. Pierson said, "but a technicality is not a rule of law, but a loophole by which criminals escape the punishment they deserve. The jurors can convict and our district judges can use their every effort to enforce the law and send the criminals to the penitentiary, but if our higher courts continually reverse their cases because of technicalities, crime will not be stopped in Texas."

ASPHALT COST TESTIMONY IS INTRODUCED

AUSTIN, Jan. 22.—Gibb Gilchrist, former state highway engineer, today testified in the Hoffman case that 30 cents a square yard was an unreasonable price for a two-course asphalt treatment. He said 21 cents was a fair price.

Summoning additional witnesses, it was indicated the trial of privilege hearings would extend into next week.

Road Contractors and Engineers Give Evidence In Suit Against Hoffman Co.

AUSTIN, Jan. 22.—One cent a gallon would pay the cost of heating, hauling and applying asphalt on Texas road roads, according to David T. Austin, of Haden & Austin, at Houston, testifying here in the trial of the suit brought by Attorney General Moody, for the state, against the Hoffman Construction Company, asking for cancellation of road maintenance contracts awarded the defendant by the former state highway commission, and for $421,000 as refund of alleged excessive profits.

Silliman Evans, in the Fort Worth Record Telegram, tells what happened late Thursday in the trial.

"The 'swell' of the asphalt would take care of the cost of hauling, heating and applying the asphalt, Austin said, and 1 cent would be ample profit.

Austin was the fourth witness of the day. E. J. Hank, State Highway engineer when the Hoffman contracts were let, completed his testimony, and said that the two-course treatment which the defense contends was the intention of the contract, would not be practical.

Contract Price High
C. E. Hoff, contractor, as did Hank, said the 30-cent price was unfair. Similar testimony was offered by J. A. Wise, county engineer of Harris County. Wise said that any topping laid on an unscarred base would be a waste of money. He also stated that inverted penetration caused the asphalt to bind to the covering material rather than to the base, and that topping served as a blanket.

There were several clashes during the day between John D. McRae, Eastland, chief counsel for the Hoffman Company, and Attorney General Moody and Assistant Attorney General May.

So far only to witnesses, Hanks and Austin who did not testify in the American Road Company case, have been put on the stand.

A high point in Hoff's testimony was when he said in reply to Moody that he would not take the Hoffman contract, "not for fear that I would not make any money but because I

DEFENDANT HAS SURPRISE FOR HIS LAWYERS

Snow Pleads Guilty To Murder, But Court Prefers To Take Words of His Attorneys.

STEPHENVILLE, Jan. 22.—Francis M. Snow, on trial here in the Twenty-ninth district court on a charge of killing his step-son, Bernie Connolly, Nov. 27, 1925, told the court, when asked to plead late Thursday afternoon, that he was guilty.

This answer by his client was not expected by his lawyers, but they rose quickly to meet the emergency and entered a plea of "not guilty" for Snow, which was accepted by the court.

There was some confusion in the courtroom following the selection of the last juror, due to spectators departing, and Snow was escorted close to Judge Keith's bench that he might have a clear understanding during the formal reading of the indictment.

At the conclusion of the reading Judge Keith asked Snow whether he was guilty or not guilty.

"I'm guilty," Snow answered without a moment's hesitation. His confession was so unexpected that for a moment neither Judge Keith nor the attorneys crowded around his bench could say a word.

Wallace Scott, city attorney of Dublin, of counsel for Snow, was the first to recover his poise, and, with hasty gesture toward Snow to hold his peace, said to Judge Keith, "we plead not guilty, Your Honor."

The judge glanced at Snow over his glasses, then at Scott, and said, "plea of not guilty will be entered."

T. R. Davis, 37, a farmer living in the Morgan Mill community, who is the father of eight children, was the twelfth juror sworn to try Snow.

MAN AND WOMAN CHARGED WITH FORGERY HELD

Fort Worth Merchants Mourn Loss Through Forged of P. O. Money Orders.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22.—Fort Worth merchants victimized during the latter part of October by a man and woman passing forged money orders, although not receiving a monetary recompense, will to some extent be repaid by the fact that the "con artists" have been apprehended by Postoffice Department operatives.

The man and woman were arrested under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill. The man was arrested in West Plains, Mo., and the woman in Tulsa, Okla.

According to arresting officers, the money order blanks which the man and woman used for their forger activities were stolen several months ago from Cartwright, Mont.

WICHITA FALLS CAPTURES GAME FROM BULLDOGS

High School Quintets Play In Ranger, Visitors Winning, 24 to 20.

A hectic game interspersed by many arguments and exceedingly hard and rough playing was given the small but enthusiastic group of fans who gathered at the Ranger gym last night to witness the 24 to 20 drubbing handed the Bulldogs by Wichita Falls.

The maroon and white combination last night appeared to better advantage than ever before and Coach Negro of Cisco evidently saw enough, for his face wore a worried look as the game progressed. Every Bulldog was in their constantly fighting and never letting down.

Starting the game with their second string the Coyotes were speedily put behind an 8 to 1 score after which the Wichita Falls coach ran in four substitutes. With the advent of the new men the game started out anew with the players waxing rough in their hard playing. The faster the play became the rougher with the referee getting his share of abuse from the spectators. A referee's job is never a sinecure and the one last night was positively distasteful from the working viewpoint of the referee, Ray, Coyote captain, was prominent in his hard playing and his constant complaints to the referee about roughness.

Johnson, rangy Bulldog center actually lost his temper for a few minutes during the last half and dealt much misery to the Coyotes as did Buster Mills, Bulldog guard. Johnson started off like a house afire, slackened up and was promptly jerked. He returned the second half and during the first play one of the Coyotes clawed his eye, causing it to bleed profusely. After that the lanky center secured revenge by breaking on nose after play and giving as good as was sent. Taylor, ineligible for conference games for one more week, opened up and demonstrated that he is a veritable cat on his feet. Mills and Shipp at guard looked far better than any combination Coach Cherry has put on the floor yet. With Harvey effectually covered, Johnson was high point man with three field goals and two free throws for a total of eight points. Ray, Coyote leader, was high point man for his team with seven points.

Eastland and Ranger will play the second game of their three-game series tonight at the Ranger gym at 7:30 o'clock. The first game was played recently, resulting in a win for the Bulldogs.

Senate Filibuster Against the World Court Continues

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Under the vote or talk ultimatum of administration leaders, senate irreconcilables again choose to talk and occupied the entire seventh day of the Filibuster against the world court, with chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, holding the floor. All efforts to arbitrate differences holding up the vote on the court and give consideration to the tax bill were dropped by both sides.

Only those on guard for opposing factions were present as Borah presented his argument that the League of Nations had grown into an alliance for enforcement of peace by force and military power.

A "BROKEN OUT" FACE HOLDS YOU BACK

Many men and women of middle age feel that they have never had a chance to make anything out of themselves. But the main reason for it usually is that they let such things as pimples, rash, "breaking out," eczema, tetter, etc., on their face, neck, hands or arms, make them feel that they are not wanted around and they keep to themselves too much.

You can get just as much out of life as anyone. All you need is confidence in yourself, which you get naturally when you rid yourself of those skin troubles, if you just use Black and White Ointment and Soap. They are economically priced in generous packages. All dealers have them both. The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.

Approximately 90 per cent of the people of Texas who have the service of electric light and power are served from systems interconnected by transmission lines.

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held at the city hall, city of Ranger, on the eighth day of February, 1926, to elect one finance commissioner for the city of Ranger to fill the vacancy created by resignation of Commissioner C. O. Terrell.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Eastland County, Texas: You are hereby commanded to summon Louis E. Courtwright and husband, Courtwright and their unknown heirs and the unknown heirs of said Louis E. Courtwright by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, and 91st judicial district, to appear at the first Monday term of the 91st district court of Eastland county, Texas, to be held at the courthouse thereof, in Eastland, on the first Monday in February, A. D. 1926, the same being the 1st day of February, A. D. 1926, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1925, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court, No. 12021, wherein Charles H. Courtwright, banking commissioner of Texas, is plaintiff and Louis E. Courtwright and husband, Courtwright and their unknown heirs and the unknown heirs of said Louis E. Courtwright are defendants, and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

That Chas. O. Austin, banking commissioner of Texas, is now engaged in liquidating the affairs of the First State Bank of Eastland, Texas, a defunct bank. That on June 1, 1923, said First State Bank of Eastland filed suit against H. R. Courtwright and wife, Emily S. Courtwright, on a certain promissory note for the sum of $2,500.00 signed by both of said parties and payable to First State Bank of Eastland on Sept. 1, 1922; that at the time said defendants were the owners of the following described lot, tract or parcel of land, lying and being situated in Eastland county, Texas, and more fully described by metes and bounds as follows: Lying and being situated in the city of Eastland, Eastland county, Texas, and beginning at the N. E. corner of block minus E minus 4 (E-4) in said city as shown by map or plat of said city on file in the deed records of Eastland county, Texas; thence west 100 feet thence south 50 feet; thence east 100 feet; thence north 50 feet to the place of beginning; and for the purpose of realizing on said note and suit, said bank did cause a writ of attachment to be issued on said 91st district court on the 14th day of September, 1923, commanding the sheriff or any constable of Eastland county, Texas, to attach forthwith so much of the property of said H. R. Courtwright and Emily S. Courtwright, as should be of the value sufficient to make the sum of $2,500.00, together with 10 per cent interest from Sept. 1, 1922, and 10 per cent attorney's fees and possible costs of suit, to satisfy the demand of said First State Bank of Eastland in said suit, the number of said suit being No. 12021, and thereafter on Sept. 14, 1924, at 4:10 p. m., J. D. Barton, sheriff of Eastland county, Texas, did levy said writ of attachment upon the above described lot, tract or parcel of land as the property of said H. R. Courtwright and Emily S. Courtwright, thereafter on Dec. 4, 1923, said First State Bank of Eastland recovered judgment establishing as against the above described property, together with other property attached under said above writ of attachment at the same time, its indebtedness the total sum of $3,028.00, and foreclosing said attachment lien on said property as against H. R. Courtwright and Emily S. Courtwright; thereafter an order of sale was issued out of said court under and by virtue of said judgment, on Dec. 27, 1923, and on Feb. 5, 1924, said above described property together with other property so attached was sold at public sale to said First State Bank of Eastland for the sum of $2,500.00 and said sheriff thereafter executed and delivered to said First State Bank of Eastland by executing and delivering to J. L. Chouman, then commissioner of banking of the state of Texas, and then in charge of the affairs of said defunct First State Bank of Eastland, a sheriff's warranty deed from H. R. Courtwright and Emily S. Courtwright, conveying among other things, the above described tract of land, of block minus E minus 4 (E-4) in the town of Eastland, Texas; said property has since been in the custody, control and possession of plaintiff and his predecessors in office as part of the assets of said First State Bank of Eastland; plaintiff and his predecessors in office have paid taxes on said above described property and have rented the same since recording the deed to same on Feb. 5, 1924. After acquiring possession of said property, it was discovered that H. R. Courtwright and Emily S. Courtwright, for the purpose of placing said above described property beyond the reach of plaintiff in said suit and for the purpose of defrauding plaintiff in said suit, had executed a deed purporting to convey said above described property to one Louis E. Courtwright, the mother of H. R. Courtwright, for $10.00, and other good and valuable consideration, said deed or purported deed being Sept. 6, 1923, which deed was recorded Sept. 15, 1923; said deed was not made in good faith but simply for the purpose of placing said property beyond the reach of said First State Bank and same was fraudulently made by said grantors herein and was fraudulently received by defendant and constituted a fraudulent conveyance; that same though fraudulent constitutes a cloud upon the title to said tract of land in so far as plaintiff is concerned, and said deed is a cloud upon this plaintiff's title to said tract of land as such banking commissioner as well as the title to said land of said First State Bank of Eastland, be declared free and clear from any cloud or clouds created by virtue of said purported deed, for all costs of suit, etc.

Herein full note, have you before said court, on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same. Witness my hand and official seal of my office in Eastland, Texas, this 21st day of December, A. D. 1925.

United Palestine Appeal Campaign
Gets Support of Christian Ministers

Special Correspondence.

DALLAS, Jan. 18. — Christian ministers, throughout Texas are taking an active interest in the United Palestine appeal campaign, according to Harry Sigel, state chairman. Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Fort Worth, one of the largest congregations in the Southwest, turned his pulpit over to Dr. A. E. Abramowitz to deliver the message of the needs of the Jewish immigrants, now pouring into Palestine to develop that country. Dr. Abramowitz occupied the pulpit last Sunday night, and the sermon was broadcasted from that station, which is one of the most powerful in the nation.

So far as known, this is the first in Fort Worth, and one of the few times in Texas that a Jewish Rabbi occupied a pulpit in a Baptist church. Dr. Norris was very anxious for his people to hear the message from one who is a native of the Holyland and who had recently returned from there. In offering his church, Dr. Norris help the cause that you are keenly interested in and which I, as a Christian, have no less interest."

Dr. J. B. Cranfill has agreed to take the state chairmanship to receive all voluntary donations from non-Jews.

Aid Comes From Cisco.
Elder W. H. Kittrell, senior, of the Church of the Living God of Cisco, in a letter to Mr. Sigel says, "While Jewry is not appealing to the Christians, yet they would accept thankfully donations from them." He has sent in to the headquarters a check for a goodly sum.

In support of his plea, he cited the prophets of the Old Testament and said, "Shall we help them to fulfill the words of the prophets of Jesus and the Apostles, all of whom prophesied this renaissance, and so become workers together with the Lord?"

"It will be accomplished without us if we aid them not, but will we obtain a reward?" "Not one word that proceedeth out of my mouth is void, said, "I trust this message will shall return unto me void till it accomplish that whereto I sent it." (Isaiah iv, 10).

The same prophet says: "And the stranger shall have a portion in the land." He also says: "For the land shall be as the Garden of Eden."

Dallas Urged To Aid.
Another Non-Jew to take unusual interest in the cause is W. S. Shaw, senior, of 3923 Cole avenue, Dallas, who urges his people to aid in the work in a substantial way and send in contributions. He also quoted the scripture in support of his advocacy.

Non-Jews who desire to voluntarily contribute, may send their donations to Dr. J. B. Cranfill. It is understood that the Jews are not appealing for aid. A several hundred dollars have been sent in to the headquarters by the Christians of Dallas.

The United Palestine appeal has agencies in the various parts of Eastern Europe, and pays all expenses for the immigrants from their city to Palestine. When they arrive in Palestine, the national fund, a subsidiary of the appeal, takes care of their wants and buys a portion of land, as well as farming utensils for him. Schools of all kinds, from kindergarten through university, are maintained. Sanitation is looked after by the Hadassah, the Red Cross organization of the appeal.

"A contract that looks too good is not good; I don't like that kind of business," he added.

All of the witnesses examined Thursday were qualified as experts. Former State Engineer Gibb Gilchrist is likely to be the first witness Friday. R. E. Prince, auditor, will also be a witness.

Eleven to 11½ cents would be a fair price for the work done in the counties by the Hoffman Company under the terms of the contract, Austin declared. A two-course treatment would be twice that much, he added.

Moody asked him if he would bid that price. Austin said he would, and "would like to have some of it."

"Do your figures include the cost of interest on borrowed money?" Moody asked.

No Need to Borrow
"You wouldn't have to borrow any after the first month," Austin said. The deputy sheriff quieted the outburst of laughter. Cost of borrowing would run considerable less than a half cent a yard, Austin testified.

McRae asked Austin to take his pencil and make some figures. "Can't figure against you lawyers," he said, as the audience laughed. "I'll tell you anything that's in my head but

The crowd, tired after a day of tedious testimony relating to figures, laughed frequently while Austin was on cross examination. He addressed McRae as Cap.

"How much would you pay for your asphalt?" McRae requested. "Five cents a gallon," Austin replied. "How much would you put on the square yard?" McRae said. "A half gallon," he answered. "How much would it cost?" McRae demanded. "Half of a nickel," he shot back.

Explains Figuring Aversion
Later McRae wanted to know what he had figured for depreciation and Austin said that he had put that in the overhead.

"What all did you put in there?" McRae asked.

"Everything, Cap," he said.

SHIP SUBSIDY FAILURE.

The shipping board's ninth annual report states that only by government aid is it possible to overcome the expert organizations of competitors, long-established contracts and long training of shipping merchants and crews which does not exist in the United States.

The greatest subsidy the world has ever known was given to American shipping interests after the world war. Ships totaling billions of dollars in cost, and paid for by the American taxpayers, were handed over to our most eminent and distinguished shipping men, without so much as one cent of cost to them or risk, and on a basis which put a premium upon inept, inefficient and dishonest operations of the ships.

If our shipping men are so inept and so deficient, subsidies will never overcome these defects but will only accentuate them so long as there is any likelihood of milking the public treasury.

MILITARY TRAINING.

The board of directors of the National Security league, a voluntary organization that largely contributed to stimulating a war spirit in 1916 and 1917, has almost unanimously requested the resignation of Professor William Bradley Otis, of the New York City college as a member of their board, because he agreed with the college students in their protest against compulsory military training.

In tendering his resignation, Professor Otis says:

"Peace-time compulsory military training in liberal colleges is fundamentally unsound and un-American, running counter to over a hundred years of American tradition. Your board of directors attempts to militarize me by teaching me obedience. The security of the best interests of the country, it seems to me, can best be preserved by jealously guarding against intolerance and regimented thinking. If we cannot have free speech and free thought among members of the league, we had better go out of business."

Senators and congressmen receive about $2,000 per month for actual time. There is a law that says the sergeant-at-arms of both branches shall deduct from each member's pay for each day he is absent from duty. But the law is a dead letter and many congressmen are practically payroll bootleggers. Just why he should be any more dignified than any other bootlegger is an unanswered question.

The total bus registration in the whole United States for 1925 is estimated at only 70,000. If the bus is a necessary and important link in our scheme of transportation, there should be room for many more.

The weary battle of politics and finance still drags on in France, with apparently no one individual or party as yet able to unite enough adherents to its cause to assure a balance of power.

Several splendid talks were made for the good of the order and at this meeting plans were perfected for a

Business In Ranger Better Than Any Time Since the Boom Days

C. Y. Early of Brownwood, vice president and general manager of the Walker-Smith Wholesale Grocery company, was a visitor in Ranger this week. In company with the local manager, W. C. Hickey, he took an automobile drive around Ranger and its vicinity and was very much impressed with conditions existing. He had not made a survey of this trade territory for over a year and he expressed himself as well pleased with the business the local firm has done during the past year and thought that prospects for business this year were better than at any time since the boom days.

Effective Cure For Grade Crossing Crashes

(Industrial News Bureau.) Grade crossing accidents can be prevented, not by taxing public for grade changes, but by automobile drivers stopping and looking before crossing railroad tracks. This is proven by experiments of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, which requires all its truck drivers to stop, look, and listen before crossing railroad tracks. In the year 1924, the vehicles operated by that company crossed railroad tracks 31,000,000 times without an accident. Public officials and others having to do with the regulation of traffic and avoidance of accidents may well consider the significance of this performance.

It is a remedy for accidents which insures easy and quick cure at no expense to taxpayers, whereas to remedy by grade changes would take half a century for the 256,000 crossings in the United States and cost the taxpayers no less than $15,000,000.

Ghost Of Prisoner Executed At Exter Terrifies Prison Chaplain In His Cell

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—A hair-rising story of the ghost of an executed man who materialized before the prison chaplain who officiated at his execution is told here by Major R. A. Marriott, formerly governor of the Exter Jail.

According to Major Marriott the executed man who "came back" after his execution was a young man who paid with his life on the scaffold for the murder of a girl. The chaplain was interested in spiritualism and to a certain extent a believer in it.

"As a test," said Major Marriott, "the chaplain while sitting in the cell of the condemned man on the night before his execution asked him if he would try and show himself on earth again after death."

"The next morning the prisoner was executed. That night and for three nights running thereafter, the chaplain was terrified to see spirit lights moving through the blackness of his room as soon as he had turned out the gas. They remained on each occasion about three minutes and then disappeared.

"But on the fifth night no lights appeared, nor on any of the nights thereafter, until after a lapse of about three months the chaplain awoke in the middle of the night to find the lights moving about his room again. A moment later his hair literally stood on end when he perceived that the executed man was standing plainly visible close to his bed."

"With a great effort the chaplain composed himself and spoke to the spirit who replied in a voice that was plainly audible. The executed man told the chaplain that after his execution he had 'gone straight into the night' and was then working to keep others who had committed the same sort of crime and who were 'still in the darkness'. He added that he was also helping the girl whose life he had taken."

Major Marriott also declared that he knew of no other instances of materialization of "prison ghosts" which had come within the range of his experience while he was governor of the jail.

"We had one prisoner," he continued, "who declared under oath that his dead father had twice appeared before him in his cell. On another occasion the deceased husband of a temporary attendant on a sick prisoner appeared to her in his uniform as a railway man and kissed her on both cheeks."

Only Eight Days To Obtain Voting Poll Tax Receipts

Eight days left to pay your poll tax. For the convenience of those who do not wish to drive to Eastland, John Hart, tax collector for Eastland county, has appointed C. E. Maddocks deputy, and poll taxes can be paid at his office, 207 Main street. They are just as valid as those issued at the county seat and a lot less trouble to go after. It is bringing poll tax service to one's very door almost.

Eight days slip by mighty fast and the time once passed without the payment of poll taxes cannot be recalled, for while one must pay the unpaid poll tax after that time, one cannot vote in any of the 1925 elections unless the poll tax receipt is issued prior to Feb. 1 and, since the last day of January comes on Sunday this year, there is one less day of grace.

Bruce is cleared after Mrs. Stacy has been forced to testify by Barbara, who confronts her with the scarf. Bruce despairs of winning Barbara and weds Violetta Cranby, a factory girl. Barbara advised in the Telegraph "lovelorn" column. McDermott's daughter, Fanny, who has shared Barbara's apartment, elopes with Jerome Ball against Barbara's advice. Violetta and Bruce have a child. Barbara leaves her home town to join the staff of Footlights magazine in New York. Elizabeth Furnivall, single at 40, becomes Barbara's friend at the Footlights office. She is hurt when Barbara moves to Greenwich Village on the advice of Maria Capri free verse writer. Maria steals the diamond rings Barbara's mother left her. Barbara is invited to a studio party by Daisy Olivero, actress. That day Barbara finds Miss Furnivall dead from gas. Barbara, in desperation, goes to Daisy's party, hoping to forget. Ramon Donizelli, futurist painter, takes a fancy to Barbara, to Daisy's disgust. But Barbara sees him dipping his fingers into the salad bowl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: CHAPTER LIII.

Talk languished while food occupied the attention of the party. Barbara found an ottoman in a corner and sank down upon it. She could not eat. Words drifted toward her from time to time—"self-determinism," "Swahmi," "aura," "sublimation," "Strinberg." The bearded man and Thomas Higgins seemed to be keeping up the conversation chiefly. One of the girls in black had gone frankly to sleep on the floor, and the other was drinking too many cocktails and laughing shrilly between drinks. Daisy Olivero was not playing the role of orthodox hostess. She stood moodily by the window for long periods of time, only turning when someone addressed a remark to her. A cuckoo clock piped up 12 strokes. "What a silly thing for you to have, Daisy," cried Thomas Higgins. "I thought cuckoo clocks lived only in Victorian parlors, along with hair-cloth sofas and wax flowers." Daisy turned on him. "Cuckoo clocks can tell people when to go home as well as any other kind of clock," she flared. Thomas Higgins looked at her soberly. "Well," he drawled, "that hour was evidently struck for me, at least. And I don't think the rest of the gang is particularly welcome, either." The girl in black raised her voice. "Who says I'm not welcome? I'm sure Daisy wants me here, don't you, Daisy, darling?" Miss Olivero did not deign to answer. Higgins struggled to his feet and stepped over the body of the sleeping girl on the floor. "I'll be going," he drawled. "Somebody order my coat and six." The rest of the crowd followed him. Barbara evaded the efforts of Ramon to follow her. "I've had a pleasant time, Miss Olivero," she said, in the hallway. "You must come and see me sometime." "Thank you, I never make calls," replied the actress. "Good night."

Druggists Say They Have Never Seen Any Thing Like G. F. P.

Nothing But Appreciation and Gratitude Expressed by Women Who Use It.

In the south alone, it is safe to say that more than a hundred thousand girls and women are using and praising G. F. P. And at the rate the sale of this medicine is increasing every day, it won't be long before it will be known and used in every home, by rich and poor alike.

Druggists say that where one bottle is sold in a neighborhood, it is not long before many more are sold there when the women learn about the wonderful things it does.

Many women who have used G. F. P. say that it keeps them free from colds, coughs and throat troubles, too. That is the best indication that the statement of the discoverers about its unusual merit in ridding the system of the dreaded malarial-catastrophe is being borne out. Few women realize that catarrh is the thing which saps the vitality which their generative organs need to perform their normal function. And when they cannot do this, pain, weakness, nervousness, loss of sleep, no appetite, irritability and despondency result.

G. F. P. should be used faithfully, and by doing this, many nervous and weeks of suffering and misery can be avoided.

"Oh, Miss Hawley, Guinevere," Ramon was shouting after Barbara, as she ran down the steps. She ran still faster. When she reached the outside door, she heard the voices of Ramon and Miss Olivero in sharp altercation above. She ran out into the street and down to the taxi stand at the corner. As her cab passed Miss Olivero's building, she saw Ramon standing on the stoop, looking eagerly up and down the street. When Barbara reached home, she bathed, and washed her hair, so that it no longer smelled of incense and stale tobacco.

The winter months crept away, with their long nights and murky dawns. Barbara went to work morning after morning before the fog had risen from over Manhattan.

Miss Furnivall's death had left a shortage in the Footlights staff that had not been filled. Barbara found most of Miss Furnivall's work added to her own duties. But by this time she had become acquainted with the system of the magazine so that she worked more easily and rapidly.

Miller had apparently accepted her as his main helper. Two increases in her pay check, and important assignments that came frequently put her at ease as to her place on the staff.

Miller came into her office one winter day in conversational mood. "Funny thing," he said, lounging on her desk, "they never found a scratch on Betsy Furnivall's belongings to indicate why she killed herself."

"All her letters had been destroyed before she died. And her personal effects were put in order. She must have been planning the suicide for days."

Barbara frowned. "I shall always feel partly responsible for her death, Mr. Miller. I think my moving down to the Village, was the last straw. We'd been good friends until then, but after that, she never seemed cordial again."

Miller nodded. "Yes, when they get as old as Betsy, without any family of their own, they get queer. Never knew it to fail. She probably never to you as her last friend, and when you left her—well, the whole force of her loneliness just bumped her off. Too bad, but you certainly cannot be blamed. Everybody has to live his own life in this world. And just because Betsy'd made a bad choice she'd no right to make you pay for it."

Barbara sighed. Marj came in with blusterings and clouds of dust. The city hived and braced its shoulders and prayed for spring to come. And the street sweepers struggled to clear the pavements of the slime left by the winter's snows.

One Saturday in March, Barbara came into the office with a dull headache. The air outside was soft between gusts, and the green grocers were beginning to put new radishes and tender lettuce in their windows.

Barbara sat at her desk, head in hands, thinking of nothing. The office boy brought in the mail and jumped at her, laughing to see her start. But she looked at him, without her usual ready smile, and he left the room hastily.

Barbara opened her mail. It contained nothing but bills and publicity sheets. She threw it in a basket and rose, reaching for her hat and coat. It was nearly noon.

In the street outside, she walked slowly. There was a little tea room around the corner that she sometimes visited. Here she found a table in a dark corner and ordered salad and sandwiches. The tea room had not yet begun to fill up, and Barbara had the corner to herself.

The waitress brought a dainty tray and set the dishes before Barbara. She began to eat, with effort. The salad looked delicious but she pushed it away. The sandwiches met the same fate.

Only the coffee seemed to satisfy her. Women began to come into the shop in groups. Some of them wore flowers and all of them were dressed according to last spring modes. It was a shop extensively patronized by working women.

The soft murmur of cultivated voices began, and waitresses began to scurry silently about with trays of delicately tempting food.

Barbara looked about her, at the pretty clothes. She herself was still wearing a winter hat. She rose hastily, paid her bill and fled.

The spell of spring had touched the streets. Nobody seemed to be going anywhere especially, and groups formed on the street corners to talk. Barbara wandered on alone, her head still throbbing dully.

At the corner of Forty-eighth street she did not turn toward the office. At the corner of the street, Barbara found a flower stand, banked with hyacinths in pots and narcissus and daffodils in vases. The lavender and pale yellows shone against the dull grays of the street.

Barbara stopped a moment to look at the flowers. The hyacinths were as fragrant as those that bloomed long ago beneath the railings of her mother's front porch at home.

"How much for the hyacinths?" she said to the man in charge of the stand.

"Leetla ones feefsta cents, beega ones dollar apiece."

Barbara selected a hyacinth with two pink spires of blossom. "Wrap this up, please." The man went away to get paper.

Someone close beside Barbara called her by name, breathlessly Barbara looked up.

"Why, Barbara dear!" It was Fanny McDermott. "Why, how ill you look, Babs!"

Barbara stammered slightly, furious with herself for feeling embarrassed. "I'm not ill, Fanny. It's good to see you."

"Good! I'm tickled silly. How long have you been in New York. Dad didn't tell me."

"Perhaps he thought it wouldn't matter to you." Barbara stopped short, biting her lips. Fanny put her hand on Barbara's shoulder.

"He knew better than that. Babs."

PALE, NERVOUS West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1964 Madison Avenue, this city. "In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

Cardui is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.

she said, softly. Then, with increased gaiety, "Come on out home with me now and stay for dinner. I'm dying for you to see my cute place."

Barbara glanced at Fanny's left hand. Fanny was not wearing a wedding ring. She had not spoken of Jerome.

"Why, yes, Fanny, I'd like to. I was wondering what to do with a dull Saturday afternoon. Where do you live?"

Fanny dimpled. "On Riverside drive. Isn't that gorgeous? It's just a little bird cage of a kitchenette, but so cute, all ivory and blue. And everything electric and easy to work with. You'll never believe I'm a good housekeeper, will you?"

Barbara laughed. "I'll believe it when I see you at work," she said.

They caught a Riverside bus on Fifth avenue and took seats on top. Fanny chattered incessantly, asking questions about Barbara's work and about friends they had in common. Barbara answered quietly. No mention of their last meeting was made.

Central Park was flaunting a few banners of young greenery. A warm spicy spring smell from the earth greeted them as the bus lumbered past the park.

At 110th street Fanny rang the bell. "This is our corner," she said to Barbara.

The apartment was all that Fanny had said. Barbara glanced around his sunny living room. It was furnished with old walnut and costly Chinese rugs.

Fanny buzzed about in the tiny kitchen, calling to Barbara to come out and sit by her. She had slipped into a huge apron and was scrubbing potatoes with a vegetable brush.

The preparations for dinner went on, while Fanny and Barbara talked. They could see the Hudson river from the kitchen window. The fleet was in the river.

"There's a big gray battleship that is my special pet," said Fanny. "I like to lie on the sofa in the other room and look at it and pretend I'm the captain. And when it goes away I don't feel right at all till it comes back." She giggled childishly.

The doorbell rang. "Dear me," cried Fanny, "that's Jerome. You let him in, will you, Barbara? My hands are all wet."

San Angelo Moves Steadily Forward On March Of Progress

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 22.—San Angelo's paving program for 1926 includes 15 blocks, the city to pay one-third of the cost and the abutting property owners the remainder. This is the last time the city will pay one-third of the cost, paying only the intersections in the future.

The city is now perfecting arrangements to have large water mains installed in the downtown district, with laterals of similar size, and will also endeavor to get the larger business buildings to install the sprinkler system as a fire prevention. These will pay themselves out in three years times by reducing the insurance rate.

Another important development is the proposal of three bond issues by the Board of Education. One is for a bond issue in the sum of $250,000 for an additional ward school in the western part of the city; the addition of four or five rooms to the north and east ward school; and for the rebuilding of the Junior High School.

The second bond issue for $250,000 is for a Junior College, where the freshman and sophomore years of college work may be taught.

The third is for an increase of 25 cents in the maintenance levy, without which the voting of either or both bond issues would be useless.

Enrollment in the public schools is heavier than ever before, and figures sent to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce recently show an increase of 211 since November 28 and of 287 since January 9.

BEDFORD NEWS

Special Correspondence. BEDFORD, Jan. 22.—The nice rain the other day made the farmers feel much better, made them want to begin their farm. It also made the sowed grain look beautiful and begin to show up from the darkness around it.

On account of the cold weather Sunday there were only a few out to listen to Rev. McDonald but that did not keep him from preaching a splendid sermon.

Sunday school will be at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Everyone is urged to be there and be on time, as that is our motto, "To be here and here on time." Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Palmer of Bledsoe, Texas, were visiting Mrs. Palmer's mother, Mrs. C. E. Broomfield and her sister, Mrs. T. Matthews, Sunday and Monday.

We are all sorry indeed that Mr. C. E. Sprull and family lost their home. We all did what we could for them and they surely did appreciate it. We wish them good luck and a happy new home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith and son, Homer, are visitors in Abilene this week.

DALLAS.—Plans proposed for widening North Ervay street, between Pacific and Ross avenues, and Cedar Springs road, between Akard street and Maple avenue.

TROUP.—Sweet potato yield good throughout Eastern Texas.

RANGER SCHOOL BAND MAKING FINE PROGRESS

Leo Underwood, Director, Planning To Present Groups Of Pupils In Recital.

Leo Underwood feels mighty proud of his Ranger High School band, to which enterprise he is giving a major part of his time now. The band has 35 members at present, and there are 15 others preparing to come in. They rehearse twice a week, Monday and Thursday nights, and frequently have visitors to drop in and see how they are progressing. These are always welcome. The band is composed mostly of boys, but there are two girl members.

Mr. Underwood, still mindful of the splendid record that Ranger's Texas Ranger band made last year at Mineral Wells, is planning to take both bands to Amarillo this spring and bring home some more honors. He is arranging to have different groups of his pupils present in public from time to time, as four of them were presented Sunday at the Methodist Church in a cornet quartet and one in an alto horn solo, the latter being Junior McMichael, an eight-year-old boy, who has been playing solos for some time and is the youngest member of the band.

All the band members, almost without an exception, are working hard and making wonderful progress, and at the same time keeping right up with their regular routine school work.

Minister Carries Sunday Service To Golfers On Links

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. CORAL GABLES, Fla.—Sunday golf may decrease church attendance in some cities, but in Coral Gables, where the Rev. Thomas Benjamin Powell is utilizing the game to swell the number of worshippers at the Congregational church.

The Rev. Mr. Powell has inaugurated a special Sunday afternoon service which makes his church a sort of unofficial "ninetenth hole" for the Miami-Biltmore Country club course, two blocks away.

The service is held at 5 p. m., the hour at which the exodus from the course is at its height. A special program of music is provided, and it does much to soothe the ruffled feelings of those golfers who have made even worse scores than usual.

The special service idea was put in operation after the minister had spent many sorrowing Sunday afternoons watching men and women pass his church. They passed by the hundreds, but none of them ever dropped in. He decided that they needed was a little urging.

Although the plan is still in the experimental state, indications are that the new "ninetenth hole" will become an institution. The service is always kept short—less than an hour.
