

Get Out There And Sell

"Here, sell these barbecue tickets," says Bill Christian, left, Texico-Farwell Rotary Club president, to fellow Rotarian Joel Ware. Tickets for the big BTM barbecue meal set for noon July 30 sponsored by the Rotary Club are on sale now from any club member and are also available at the Texico Branch of Citizens Bank and Security State Bank in Farwell. Tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children. Rotarians urge residents to buy their tickets in advance to avoid standing in line for tickets at the park. The meal will feature barbecue beef, potato salad, beans, bread, and a drink.

Fire Department - -

Pleasant Hill Now Answering Calls

The recently organized Pleasant Hill Volunteer Fire Department is now answering emergency calls in their district, according to assistant fire chief, Gary Singleterry. The Pleasant Hill fire district includes approximately 135 square miles of land. According to Singleterry, the district, with Pleasant Hill as its center, extends five miles to the south, five miles to the north, and from the state line to the Grady highway. "It is about nine miles wide and 15 miles long, but there are some jags and nooks in the line," says Singleterry. Pleasant Hill residents should dial 911 for their emergency number, which will reach the Clovis dispatch center. Clovis will call the Pleasant Hill department as well as send additional help from Texico or Clovis. According to both Singleterry and Kelley, Texico Volunteer Fire Department will still be responding to fire calls in the Pleasant Hill area until the Pleasant Hill department is fully trained and equipped. Ambulance calls will also be answered by both departments since Pleasant Hill does not have an ambulance at this time. "We will be making the ambulance calls, and hopefully, by being closer, we'll be able to be of more help. Texico or Clovis will still have to come if only to transport the patient," says Singleterry. The new fire department began its organization in early May, and has one fire truck for its use. The department has received donations in the form of cash and equipment from area residents and neighboring fire departments. Included in some of the donations were coats, fire hats, boots, hose, and oxygen tanks. Of the 22 volunteers registered in the department, Richard Kelley was elected as fire chief, Gary Singleterry as assistant fire chief, and Paul Dee Barns as captain. "We'll be holding an election soon to fill in the rest of the holes," says Singleterry. They have received six pagers from the Texico Volunteer Fire Department on loan and have plans to purchase other needed pagers in the near future. "For right now, the ones with pagers contact the others when we are needed," said Singleterry. Chief Kelley has planned several classes for department members, including a first aid and emergency training. Many Pleasant Hill citizens have placed reserve water tanks on their property for use by the firemen. Other methods of getting the truck and hoses to water are being looked into by the department at this time, including looking into the purchase of a tank truck or possibly another fire truck in the future. Anyone wishing more information about the new operational fire department is urged to contact Gary Singleterry or Richard Kelley. "If anyone wants to join the department, all they really have to do is come to a meeting," says Singleterry. "The department can always use more members and all help is welcome and appreciated," he added. The Pleasant Hill Volunteer Fire Department meets each Thursday evening at 7 p.m. MDT in the community center.

Farmers Cooperative Sets Annual Meeting

Farmers Cooperative Elevators of Muleshoe, Clay's Corner and Enochs will be having its annual membership meeting Friday night, July 22, at 8 p.m. at the high school cafeteria in Muleshoe. The meal will be catered by Corral Restaurant of Muleshoe, and door prizes will be awarded. Three directors are to be elected during the cooperative's business meeting. All co-op members are urged to be present.

Caps On Sale

Texico-Farwell JCCA president, Sam Drager, models one of the commemorative Border Town Days caps on sale now from any JCCA member. Sale of the caps is the beginning of what the JCCAs hope will be a tradition, with each year's BTM caps being different so that people will want to collect them. There is a limited number of caps, Drager says, and all Twin Cities residents are urged to get one while they last. A few will be available at the park during the park activities for out-towners and others who were unable to get one earlier, the JCCA president said. The sign on the wall also advertises a BTM activity - the giveaway of a Chevrolet pickup by the Farwell Volunteer Fire Department. Donations of $20 each are being accepted on the Silverado pickup which will be given away the afternoon of July 30. All firemen have tickets.

Deadlines Near - -

Twin Cities Celebration Only One Week Away

Deadlines are near for many of the activities scheduled in conjunction with the 1983 Border Town Days celebration which is now only one week away. The bulk of the events of this year's celebration are to take place Saturday, July 30, and deadlines for participating in many of these events are at hand. Today (Friday) is the final date for girls to enter the BTM Queen contest. Deadline for entering the parade is Wednesday, July 27, a two-day extension, and persons are reminded that to be eligible for one of the parade prizes, all entries must be registered. Persons wishing to enter the parade should call the Tribune office 481-3681 or Weldon Smith at the Texico Post Office 482-3839. All parade entries will be given an assigned place to be announced the morning of the parade, and all non-registered entries will have to fall in at the end of the procession and will not be judged. Prizes to be awarded for the best floats include $75 for first place, $50 for second place, and $25 for third place. Farwell Chamber of Commerce and the Border Town Days Committee sponsor the float prizes; the Farwell C of C provides the awards for the riding clubs; the Texico Chamber of Commerce sponsors prizes for the antique cars; and Tedson Trailers of Texico provides the monetary prizes for the decorated bicycles. Parade entrants are asked to meet at 10 a.m. CDT at the corner of Wheeler Avenue (main street) and Griffin Streets. Parade sponsors, the Texico-Farwell Lions Club, will be on hand to line up the entries and parade participants are asked to look for the men in yellow Lions vests and/or caps to help them get into the proper spaces. Kiddoes planning to enter decorated bicycles in the BTM parade must register at the Texico City Hall by 5 p.m. Thursday, July 28, to be eligible for the contest prizes. Bike riders must stay between the adult escorts throughout the parade, they must finish the parade route to be eligible for the prize money, and they must park their bikes once they reach Farwell City Park. Following the parade, the BTM barbecue sponsored by the Rotary Club will be served at the park. Rotarians are now selling tickets for the meal, and tickets are also available at the Security State Bank in Farwell and the Texico Branch of Citizens Bank. Cost of the tickets is $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children. Texico-Farwell JCCA members are selling commemorative caps in observance of the event, and members of the Farwell Volunteer Fire Department are still accepting donations for a 1983 Chevrolet Silverado pickup to be given away Saturday afternoon. The tickets are $20 each and may be obtained from any volunteer fireman or from most local and area businesses. Area residents are reminded to register in the businesses of the 41 local merchants for the big giveaway set at 4:15 p.m. Saturday during the park activities. Many special items have been donated by the merchants to be awarded during the drawing that afternoon. Persons may register each time they visit a participating merchant. Many activities are on tap to entertain young and old alike at the park following the BTM barbecue. ESA sorority has planned several games for the youngsters, and First Baptist Church, Farwell, will present a puppet show. The Mackenzie Gunfighters will be putting on their shows throughout the afternoon, and various musical aggregations will present many selections including vocals and instrumentals. The 1983 Border Town Days Queen will be crowned by last year's winner, Jennifer Williams, and winners of the various contests for attendance will be announced. Trophies will be awarded to the family having the most members registered and to the person traveling the farthest to attend the BTM event. Also presented will be the plaque to the class having the largest percentage of its current members present. Several classes have scheduled reunions during the BTM weekend; so competition in this event should be strong, say BTM Committee members. At the park the class reunion attendants will be registered by Farwell Study Club, and the Texico-Farwell Senior Citizens will register the families. Everyone registering should list where they are from, even the class members, so that they (Continued on Page 2)

Building Float

Working on a float for the Border Town Days parade can be hard and tedious work for those helping to make the Farwell Study Club float a success this year. Working on this year's Study Club entry are, from left, Cherie Welch, Julia Symcox, Mary Lou Hillock, Terri Hillock, and Mitchell Hillock. These are only a few of the people who have worked long and hard to have the float ready for the parade Saturday, July 30. Deadline for entering the parade is Monday, July 25.

Crawfish Comes A Visitin'

An unusual visitor came to the home of Howard and Wilma Whitener at Pleasant Hill early Friday morning. The visitor was a crawfish (or crayfish) about four inches in length. Mrs. Whitener reports she found the small lobster like creature that morning when she heard the family dog barking at something in the driveway. "I went out to see what was going on and found the crawfish," says Mrs. Whitener. The Whiteners reported having two small rain showers in their area Thursday and Friday with each bringing about .4 of an inch, but they are located approximately 1 1/4 miles from the draw where the crawfish probably makes its home when there's moisture there. "I don't know where it came from, but it sure came a long way," remarked Mrs. Whitener. She says the family is keeping the crawfish in a bucket in the garage for now and will later take it back to the draw and release it.

Today Last Day To Enter 1983 BTM Queen Contest

Today (Friday) is the final day to enter the Border Town Days Queen Contest. All girls who will be students at either Farwell or Texico high school during the 1983-84 school year are eligible to enter, and have until 5 p.m. CDT today to turn in their entry blank. The only other requirements are that a contestant must not be over 18 years of age, and has never been married. To date, four girls have entered the contest. "We would like to have at least two more contestants," says Joann Getz, contest chairman. "We do have a good time and it is an honor to represent our Twin Cities of Texico and Farwell," Mrs. Getz says, "and we urge more girls to enter." A Coke party will be hosted Monday, July 25, at Luce's restaurant at 5 p.m. Texas time. This will be the session at which the contestants will meet with Mrs. Getz for instruction and she will answer any questions the girls might have. A luncheon is planned at noon on Friday, July 29, at the Adams House in Clovis, for all contestants and the judges. It will be an informal time for the out-of-town judges to get to know the contestants and their personalities better. The contestants will be judged on personality and talent. For their talent, they may perform such acts as singing, playing the piano or other musical instrument, dancing, twirling or pompon routines, readings, poetry, and others. Crowning of the new queen will take place at the Farwell City Park in the gazebo during the annual BTM celebration set for Saturday, July 30. She will be crowned by the reigning queen, Jennifer Williams of Farwell. Each contestant should bring a photograph of herself and fill out an entry form at the Tribune office, as the pictures of all candidates will be published in the BTM special issue. Photos may be any size, although bill-fold size is preferred, and may be either a school, studio, or Polaroid photograph. Arrangements can be made to have a picture made by the Tribune if none is available. Each girl must have a sponsor who will provide the entry fee of $10, but Mrs. Getz advises that she has sponsors waiting who would very much like to sponsor a contestant, "so girls, please enter the contest today." For more information, phone Mrs. Getz at 481-3681 days or 481-9123 nights.

URLEY PERSONAL
by John

Congressmen have long believed that their constituency is too dumb to manage their own affairs. They may be right if what has been elected to Congress, over the years, is any criteria of the public intelligence. Well, never mind hair splitting. In the 1930s Congress enacted Social Security with the belief that people were too improvident to save for their old age. In the 1940s Congress passed the withholding tax laws. This said that people were not capable of managing their money so as to have the income tax funds when Uncle Sam called for it.

It has been true that some are not money managers, an industry has grown up around that fact. Annuity plans and pension programs that pay a guaranteed monthly amount until the death of the recipient have been very popular fiscal devices. These plans have also provided great pools of investment capital for our economic system. It would be a shame to be without them.

The Supreme Court may now have, in effect, killed future annuity and pension programs that pay a guaranteed monthly amount. Heretofore these programs paid out monthly in accordance with the amount paid in and also according to the sex of the recipient.

A little statistical mathematics will disclose the nefarious sexual discrimination of these plans. A man and a woman work for Blob and Co. for an equal number of years and both have an equal amount credited in their retirement fund.

Both are age 65, but as a statistic Joe will live to age 71 while Josephene will live to age 78.

Joe gets paid at the rate of $500 per month and collects $36,000 before he cashes out statistically. Josephene gets $250 per month but before departing this vale she taps the retirement till for $39,000.

This $3,000 lifetime edge to her is somehow discrimination so the old gal must, from now on, be paid $500, the same as the old boy. Good Grief! This gives the female of the species some $78,000 before her demise.

So now we have two people, male and female, both being equal at the time of retirement, but before nature calls, the female will have drained the pot over twice as much as her male companion.

This just doesn't look right and we predict that the legal beagles will reap a handsome reward before all the smoke clears from this monumental Supreme Court boo boo.

It now looks as if pension and retirement funds will be accumulated in tax-favored accounts of different sorts. But at retirement, the retiree will be given a lump sum accumulation and told to invest it for future income.

If Congress' long held assumption is true, then in a few years time, some will have invested wisely and be happy, the big majority will have invested unwisely and be broke, retired, and very unhappy. What then Supreme Court?

In considering taxes and the size of the government, please read these words from one Bertel Sparks:

"No one can be free unless there is law and a government with power to enforce that law. Just as the citizen must not be permitted to murder, steal, or perform other antisocial acts under the pretext of exercising his freedom, so must a government be restrained from enslaving its citizens under the pretext of exercising some proper governmental function. The solution of the problem lies in finding a workable concept of limited government."

They say that crime doesn't pay, but when you stop to think about it, the police aren't paid very much either.

Preparing Arena

Craig Kaltwasser, left, and Sam Drager of the Texico-Farwell JCCAs spent last Saturday afternoon whitewashing the fences at Farwell Arena. JCCA members have been spending a great deal of time getting the arena in shape for the local HPJRA rodeo scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 29-30. Tickets for the rodeo are on sale now for $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Children under six will be admitted free. The local JCCA group is sponsoring the rodeo.

Local All-Stars Lose In Tournament Opener

Texico-Farwell Little League All-Stars lost their first game in the District III Little League Tournament in Clovis Monday night when they went down 17-6 to the Western All-Stars. The local team was to play again Wednesday night in the double elimination tourney.

"We hit the ball really well," said Randy Kelley, one of the local All-Star coaches, "but we just made too many errors to win."

"We had 16 errors while our opponents only made two, and that basically was the difference in the ball game," Kelley said. Kelley also said that while the Texico-Farwell team had only three 12-year-olds and the rest 11 years old playing, the Western team had only three 11-year-olds on their team. "That one more year of experience really helps," he said.

Jeff Actkinson hit a two-run homer, banging the ball over the centerfield fence, and also hit a double in the game.

Others hitting doubles were Larry Powell, Clint Kelley, and Jason Longo. Getting singles were Byron Martin, Abel Lopez, Larry Powell, Bruce White, and Todd Thigpen.

Scoring runs were Byron Martin, Abel Lopez, Jeff Actkinson, Larry Powell, Jason Longo, and Bruce White.

"We really appreciated the fan attendance and support at the game Monday night," Kelley said.

Celebration . . .

Committee members urge all Twin Cities residents to fly their flags on July 30 to help make the town look more festive for the occasion and to emphasize this year's celebration theme, "God Bless America."

Present for the committee meeting Monday night at Luce's were John Hadley, Bill Christian, Tony Mendoza, Weldon Smith, Ruth Anne Bennett, La-Moin Williams, Peggy Goettsch, Joel White, Martin and Frances Kube, Ann Cooper, Sharon Menning, Janie Bowery, Mike Camp, and John and Joann Getz.

Malone Resigns, Takes Grand Falls Position

Don Malone, principal of Farwell High School since 1980, resigned from that position this week to accept the job of high school principal at Grand Falls, Tex.

Malone's wife, Jean, 6th grade teacher at the local school, also tendered her resignation and will be teaching 4th grade at Monahans. Monahans is 18 miles from Grand Falls.

The resignations were accepted Tuesday night at a special called meeting of Farwell

School Board. Going to Grand Falls will be like "returning home" for Malone who grew up at Monahans and graduated from high school there.

According to Mrs. Malone, the decision to leave Farwell came after a lot of thought, and a visit to the school at Grand Falls.

"They offered Don a pay raise and good benefits, and they will be providing a house for us until we can find one of our own. If it had been any other place, we probably wouldn't have accepted it. We have really liked it here," Mrs. Malone said. "We will be moving closer to his parents and to my sister," she added.

Malone came to Farwell as elementary principal in 1979, coming here from Sanderson. In the fall of 1980 he took over duties as high school principal.

Farwell Superintendent W.M. Roberts says that although they are sorry to lose Malone they would not have asked him to refuse such a promotion. Roberts said the board would be looking at personnel from within the school system before accepting applications from elsewhere.

Commissioners Approve Fund Reinvestments

At the recent meeting of the Farmer County Commissioners Court, members voted to allow the Friona State Bank to substitute $500,000 of U.S. Treasury Notes maturing 5-31-85 for $500,000 of U.S. Treasury Notes maturing 8-31-83.

Commissioners also voted to reinvest monies from maturing C.D.'s as follows: $100,000 of Farm-to-Market funds to be reinvested in a C.D. to mature in 14 days, and $100,000 of Farm-to-Market funds to be reinvested in a C.D. to mature 8-23-83. Also, $100,000 of General Fund reinvested in a C.D. for 14 days, and $100,000 General Fund reinvested in a C.D. to mature 8-23-83.

In other action, the county commissioners discussed the lease of the radar units used in the county. Since it is almost time for the renewal of the leases or purchase of the units, the commissioners discussed the options available, and voted to renew the leases as being the most favorable option for the county.

A bill for boarding care of County foster children in the amount of $2,073, was paid, which will be reimbursed to the county.

They also voted to pay the county's annual sponsorship donation of $2,430 to the Central Plains Mental Health/Mental Rehabilitation Center of Plainview.

The quarterly report presented by county treasurer, Mrs. Benna Felts, was approved, and members of the commission approved payment of the expenses of a visiting District Judge in the amount of $20.93.

The following soil conservation work was approved and ratified and the work will be performed when the machines are in that area and not demanded for use on the roads: Precinct 2, G.F. Trimble and Larry Scott; Precinct 3, Billy Sudderth and Jerrington.

The first coast-to-coast TV telecast was transmitted from the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco on Sept. 4, 1951. It enabled people across the nation to see an address by President Truman marking the signing of the Japanese Peace Treaty.

There are 974 television stations in the U.S. An estimated 72,900,000 TVs are owned by Americans.

Although early TV sets' screens rarely exceeded 10 inches, and 19-inch and 25-inch screens are popular today, a TV with a giant-sized screen of 1,000-plus square inches (three times the size of a 25-inch screen) has been introduced by General Electric. Called the Widescreen 1000 Home Television Theatre, it features VIR Broadcast Controlled Color, remote-control tuning and dual speakers with improved sound.

Winners in the competition are awarded ribbons for their efforts.

Firearms Instructor

Sgt. Judy Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Symcox of Oklahoma Lane, is the only woman officer in the state to be certified in firearms instruction. She and her family live in Canyon, where she is a police officer at West Texas State University. In addition to completing the firearms course, she completed another 40 hour course to teach firearms techniques, and her training has involved commercial and private business security surveys.

Judy Murray First Texas Woman Firearms Instructor

WTSU-A West Texas State University police officer has become the only woman officer in the state certified in firearms instruction.

Sgt. Judy Murray, who has been a WTSU police officer since August of 1981, is the only woman to pass the 40-hour advanced firearms training. She completed the two-week course at the East Texas Police Academy at Kilgore College.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Symcox of Oklahoma Lane.

Judy passed the advanced firearms instruction course before enrolling in and completing another 40-hour course to be trained to teach firearms techniques.

The class involved 20 commissioned officers and was instructed by Bob Butler, a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Dallas. Butler said three other women have tried to complete the training course, but Sgt. Murray is the only woman to succeed.

Students in the course shot 900 rounds of ammunition from a pistol. They fired handguns and shotguns from 50 yards, 25 yards, 15 yards and from point blank range while standing, prone, from behind barricades, and while getting out of cars, she said.

Their scores were totaled from points gained on hit areas. Targets were figure outlines.

After completing the course, Sgt. Murray was certified to teach and qualify other commissioned officers to obtain annual qualifications for firearms operation. She also is qualified to operate and supervise a firing range.

Before she obtained the qualification, she said WTSU police officers completed firearms training with Canyon police officers or at Amarillo College. WTSU police officers receive training at the Canyon firing range or at a range for the training of Randall County sheriff's deputies.

During the first part of May, she also completed training in crime prevention at San Marcos. She learned procedures for investigating crimes such as rape and robbery, preserving evidence and to help prevent rape and robbery.

Another part of her training involved commercial and private business and home security surveys. She said community residents may call her and receive at no cost information on upgrading home or business security.

The former Farwell resident began her law enforcement career as a dispatcher for the city of Hereford and the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office from 1973-76. She also worked as a field deputy with the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office at Hereford.

Sgt. Murray says she didn't know a lot about weapons before becoming a deputy but decided to learn about them since she would be using the weapons.

She and her husband, Millard, owned and operated a handgun shop in Canyon for nine years prior to her becoming a deputy. During that time, she and her husband shot clay pigeons, but it was she who took her children hunting, gaining some experience with a shotgun.

The experience received with the shotgun made it easier for her to qualify for the firearms instruction course, she says.

She feels that the position of the campus police department is moving toward police office style rather than as security guards as they have been known in the past. The campus police officer now deals with such things as traffic tickets, burglary, and the breaking and entering of cars.

Sgt. Murray enjoys the interaction with the students on campus and letting them know she is there to help.

Even though she has run into the situation where people don't believe she can handle the job, they often find she can, and she says she isn't afraid to call for help if she needs it, saying that male officers do the same if they need help.

IT'S THE MOST!

Most of the world is covered by water. Only about 30 percent of the earth's total surface is dry land.

The most inexpensive utility is the one that supplies water. Safe, clean drinking water costs an average of a penny for ten gallons across the country. The American Water Works Association points out that water itself is free. What you get billed for is the cost of gathering, treating, storing and distributing it. But what a bargain it is.

Cheese: Big On Nutrition

Pasteurized process cheese will be distributed by the federal government to low-income families this summer. This will provide versatile food that can be used in main dishes, salads and sauces.

Cheese concentrates a great deal of food value into a small package, says Carol Turner, special Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) project director at New Mexico State University. It contains most of the nutrients of milk, though in different amounts.

"Pasteurized cheese is good for you," Mrs. Turner says. "It is a good source of calcium and protein; one ounce contains 163 milligrams of calcium and 6 grams of protein. You will need to eat only 1 1/2 ounces of cheese to equal the amount of calcium you get in 8 ounces of milk."

"If you are on a special diet, remember pasteurized cheese has about twice as much sodium as cheddar, but the same amount of fat," Mrs. Turner says.

Nutritional labeling of cheese is voluntary except for cottage cheese. Most manufacturers, however, are providing this service to consumers.

All cheese dishes should be cooked at a low temperature for a short time. Excessive heat and overcooking causes fat separation, stringing and toughening of cheese.

Cheese tastes best at room temperatures. Remove the cheese from the refrigerator 30-60 minutes before serving.

Layered Cheese Casserole

- 1 1/4 cup grated cheese
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups milk
- 8 slices of bread
- 1/4 teaspoon mustard
- 4 eggs, beaten

Arrange bread and cheese in layers in greased casserole having bread on the bottom and top layers. Sprinkle the seasoning between layers. Mix milk and eggs and pour over bread and cheese. Let stand 50 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees until puffy and firm, about 45 to 60 minutes.

Iris takes their name from Iris, the Greek goddess of the rainbow.

Deana Williams Wed To Martin Welling

In a ceremony attended by only close members of the family on Saturday morning, June 18, Deana Louise Williams and William Martin Welling exchanged marriage vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams of Farwell and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sears of Dalhart.

The double-ring ceremony was at First Baptist Church, Farwell, with the church pastor, Rev. Pat Riley, officiating.

The bride was presented in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father.

She wore a street length dress of taupe linen featuring a triangular yoke of white applique lace which formed a portion of the upper bodice, the stand-up collar, and the right sleeve. The slightly gathered waist was accented with narrow self fabric tie belt.

She carried a bouquet consisting of a white orchid, stephanotis, sonia roses, and Swedish ivy leaves.

Attending the bride was Kathy Booth of Levelland. She wore a street length dress of orchid with a white gardenia corsage.

Attending the bridegroom was his brother, Randy Welling of Dalhart.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of yellow with bone accessories and a gardenia corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink dress with white accessories and also had a gardenia corsage.

Following the wedding ceremony a come and go reception brunch honored the couple at the home of the bride's parents.

The Williams' home was decorated throughout with fresh floral arrangements.

The bride's table was covered with white eyelet with apricot satin trim and was centered with a silver epergne and candelabra holding fresh sonia roses, stephanotis, and apricot tapers.

The crystal punch bowl belonged to the bride's paternal grandmother, Bonnie Williams of Farwell, and held apricot colored punch. The wedding cake was white, trimmed with apricot.

All brass appointments were featured at the bridegroom's table which was covered with a beige cloth and centered with a bird of paradise arrangement. Quiche, sausage balls, fresh fruit, nuts, mints, punch, and coffee were served.

Kathy Booth registered the guests, and members of the houseparty included Miss Booth, Carrie Anderson, Donna Jordan, Doris Ford, Nell Walling, LaMoin Williams, Lupe Cantu, Sharon Booth, Diana Hunt of Clovis and Debbie Matthews of Dalhart. They alternated at the refreshment tables.

Steven Hillock -

Local Man Makes Stone Age Tools

by Starla Christopherson

Oklahoma Lane resident Steven Hillock is one of the few flintknappers in the area. For those who don't know what a flintknapper is, these are people who make stone age tools.

As one of the few people in the United States who study the art of toolmaking and working with flint, Hillock shares the technical title of "litho technologist."

He began working with flint some 30 years ago, but didn't do the work in serious fashion until about six years ago. He learned the craft from two friends he served with in Vietnam, Mitchell J. Quilt, a Sioux Indian who saved Hillock's life, and Mike Naranjo, a famous sculptor of the Nez Perce tribe.

Both of these men were very close to Hillock, and he has named his son after Mitchell J. Quilt.

He explains his interest in the art beginning when he began to seriously wonder about the history of the stone tools. "I wanted to know why some arrowheads were made differently in different parts of the country. When I started to study the history, I began to study how to make arrowheads and other stone age tools," he said.

"I use no modern tools, just stones and deer antlers and the like. Many of the people making arrowheads now use grinders and saws, but I prefer to use tools like the men used originally. It's the only way to make an arrow or spear head that looks authentic," he said.

He uses two pieces of deer hide, one about 12 by 20 inches, and another approximately five inches square. The larger piece is used to cover the knee when working with the larger flint pieces, and the smaller one is to protect the hand when adding the finishing touches to a piece.

He uses only deer antlers in his work as they are cushioned enough to keep the stone from shattering when struck. He explained the points at which a piece of flint must be hit to cause it to chip rather than shatter.

"Steel tools won't break flint evenly and I prefer to use the old tools. I've heard of people heating the stone and using water to shape it, but I haven't been able to do it and so far, I've never found anyone else who can," he said.

The local tool maker prefers to get flint from a quarry located on the other side of Lake Meredith, the second oldest quarry in the world, the oldest being in Africa.

Hillock prefers to use Alibates flint which breaks with sharp cutting edges. He says that for more than 10,000 years, pre-Columbian Indians dug agatized limestone from the Alibates Quarry to make their tools and projectiles.

To add to his arrowhead making, Hillock also makes bows and arrows for both sale and display.

The arrows are made by rubbing a piece of wood through a large piece of sandstone with a V cut in it. "The sandstone works like a wood rasp by shaving the wood to the size and smoothness I want. Then I make the arrowhead to put on it. Contrary to popular belief the arrowhead is made for the shaft, not the other way around. I've taken arrows that were completely warped and made them shoot straight by making an arrowhead that was balanced for that shaft," says Hillock.

He also makes the bows to complete the set. "I'll make a bow from any type of wood that a customer wants. Some want the bows for hunting and others want them just for display. It takes about three to four months to make a complete set of bow and six arrows. I make each piece by hand. If the set is for display, the arrowhead will be put on with lacing. If the customer wants to hunt with the set, I'll use a little epoxy to keep the arrowhead in place and then use the lacing on top of that. The sets usually sell for around $300 each," says Hillock.

Among his regular customers for the arrowheads is a geologist from Beverly Hills, Calif., who orders up to 200 arrowheads at a time. He gives the arrowheads along with his calling cards to help people remember him, according to the local man.

Hillock has been at arts and crafts shows selling his wares, which include not only the arrowheads, but also arrowheads made into tie clasps, necklaces, and bolo ties. "I can do anything with arrowheads that most people can do with stones," says Hillock. He says the handmade arrowheads sell from one dollar and higher, depending on the size, stone, and use.

Hillock is somewhat of an expert in the field of identifying ancient arrowheads and has quite a knowledge of the history of the local area, especially concerning Indian history. He says that the true old arrowheads can be separated from those made to look old by the glaze that covers the older pieces. The glaze will be on all of the arrowhead if it is really old, but it will be missing from the edges of a new one. Age and weathering is the cause of the glaze and it can't be faked.

Hillock sometimes remakes or repairs an old arrowhead by reshaping the broken area then rubbing it with dirt to give it a worn look. He says most people don't notice the reworked area.

With the small piece of deer hide he keeps in his pocket, along with a selection of small deer horns, he often sits making arrowheads rather than whittling or day dreaming. He can make an arrowhead in five to 20 minutes, depending on the size and shape. He also carries a number of blanks with him, blank pieces of flint that have been chipped from a larger stone and are ready to be made into an arrowhead or spear point.

Hillock says that he has made the Folsom Point, but that it took a lot of effort and he says he doesn't know of anyone who has made any of the really ancient points, such as the Clovis Point with any accuracy.

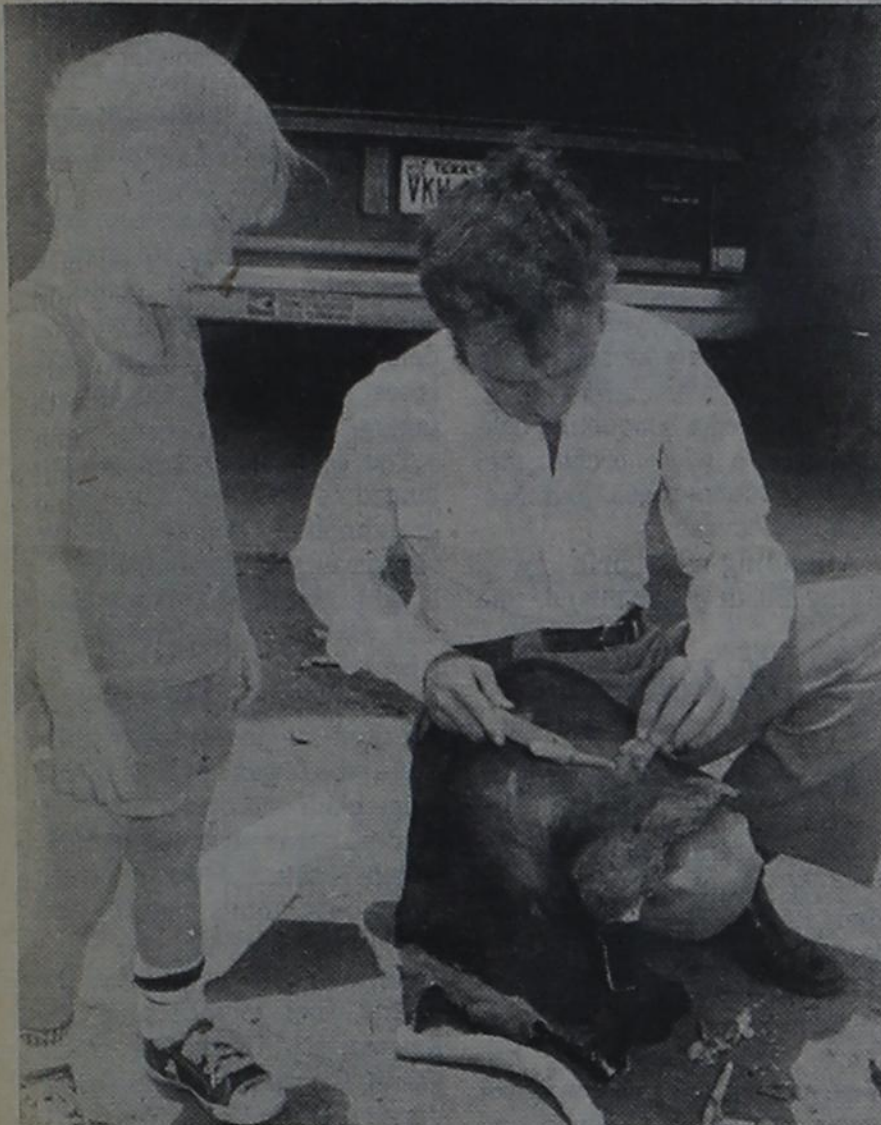

Those attending the Border Town Days celebration can look forward to demonstrations presented by Hillock in Farwell City Park.

Local Flintknapper

Steven Hillock of Oklahoma Lane is one of the few people in the United States who have the ability to make stone age tools without using any modern tools at all. Here he displays some of his arrowheads, as well as an arrowhead necklace and bolo tie. The arrow at the back of the display is also handmade with the arrowhead made to fit. Days celebration Saturday, Steven will be demonstrating July 30, in the Farwell City his hobby at the Border Town Park.

Watch Closely, Son

Mitchell Jay Hillock watches his dad, Steven Hillock, put the finishing touches on a handmade arrowhead. Steven uses deer antlers and stones to make his arrowheads, and to make the bows and arrows as well.

Better Tractor Use Is Conference Goal

AMARILLO - Ways farmers can recognize a soil compaction problem and some things to do about it will be explained during the Big Tractor Conference here Thursday, Aug. 11.

The conference is designed to help area farmers make the most economical use of their tractors and assist equipment dealers in matching equipment to the needs of their customers, Elston Grubaugh, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

The conference begins at 10 a.m. at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., W. Registration begins at 9 a.m. There is no charge to attend.

Speakers for the conference will include agricultural engineers, economists, and tractor specialists from the Extension Service and industry.

Management of soil compaction, including ways of holding it to a minimum will be discussed by Edwin Colburn, Extension agronomist and soil management specialist from College Station.

Mechanical front wheel assist in row crop tractors will be examined by Norman Swinford, tractor products manager for Allis Chalmers Corp., Milwaukee, Wis.

High speed farming with two-wheel-drive and four-wheel-drive equipment will be discussed by W.D. Holstun, marketing division manager for John Deere Tractor Works, Waterloo, Iowa.

The use of computerized management tools to analyze tractor costs will be explained by Extension agricultural economist Gary D. Condra of Lubbock.

The size and shape of the tractor of the future will be discussed by Gerry Mortensen, engineering field test manager for Steiger Tractor, Inc., Fargo, N.D. William P. Simpson, product information specialist with J.I. Case Co., Racine, Wis., will discuss tractor weighting and its effect on performance.

Tractor size and implement matching will be covered by Dave Hess, advanced design manager for crop production systems, International Harvester, Hinsdale, Ill. A comparative analysis of radial and bias-ply drive wheel tractor tires will be made by Lyle Bohner, senior field development engineer for B.F. Goodrich Co., Franklin Park, Ill.

The role of four-wheel-drive tractors in row crop farming will be examined by Dave Hess, advanced design manager for crop production systems, International Harvester, Hinsdale, Ill.

The program will conclude with a panel discussion by area farmers and equipment dealers. Henry O'Neal, Extension agricultural engineer from College Station, will moderate the discussion.

A display of tractors and implements will be provided by area farm equipment dealers.

The Creative Woman

BY SHERYL BORDEN

The topics to be presented on "The Creative Woman" show on July 26 and 30 include breadmaking in a bag and metric in the home. These topics will be aired at 12:30 p.m. MDT on Tuesday and at 2 p.m. on Saturday on KENW-TV.

If you like homemade bread, this new technique will be especially interesting. It's called "breadmaking in a bag" and it eliminates much of the mess and clean-up and it's lots of fun. My guest will be Ruth Morris, Extension home economist from Lovington.

Evelyn Davis, Extension home economist from Tucumcari, will explain why the United States is changing to the metric system and will explain how it will affect our daily lives. She has lots of amusing points to make as well as serious comments.

On July 28, the topics will include low sodium information, making ribbon belts and stir-fry cooking. The show airs at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday on Channel 3. The second part of the three-part series dealing with sodium will be presented by Hazel Wallace, consumer affairs officer with the Food and Drug Administration in Dallas.

Ribbon belts are very fashionable now, and guest Carol Bell will demonstrate how to make an attractive ribbon belt for less than $3. These sell for around $8 in specialty shops. Carol is director of the sewing school at Ann Silva's Bernina Sewing Center in Albuquerque.

Have you ever tried wok cookery? The possibilities are almost endless. Home economist Eileen Runyan will demonstrate a basic mushroom stir-fry using an ordinary skillet to make all sorts of delicious variations.

On July 23, Mary Johnson

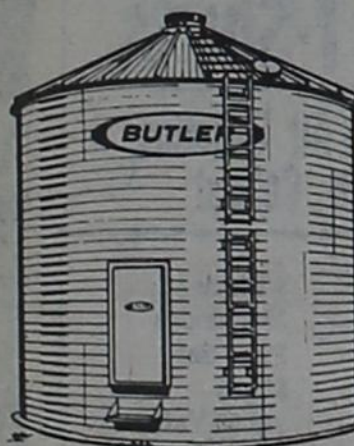

from Portales will continue her discussion concerning dried arrangements made from plants, grasses, leaves, and even weeds. Mary will show viewers how to make their own homemade drying formula that works as well and is much less expensive than the commercial drying compounds. She will also display several different dried arrangements.

Nina Swan, director of Consumer Relations with the National Oats Company from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will talk to us about using different toppings for oatmeal and will prepare some recipes using oats in a slightly different way. These two topics will be aired on Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. MDT and also on Saturday at 2 p.m. on Channel 3.

Lazbuddie Native Resigns Position At Wayland U.

PLAINVIEW, TX (Special) — Dr. Billy D. Hardage, associate academic vice-president at Wayland Baptist University, has resigned his position to enter private business locally, Dr. David L. Jester, Wayland president, announces.

Hardage, 40, whose association with Wayland began some 20 years ago, said details about the business venture could not be revealed at this time but that an announcement would be forthcoming.

Hardage's resignation will be effective August 30, and he will spend the next six weeks in training the persons "who will take over his many tasks," according to Dr. Dan McLallen, academic vice-president. He will also be available for consultation in the future as the need arises.

"This is one of the toughest decisions I've ever had to make," Hardage said of the resignation. "I have certainly enjoyed my 20 years here, and it is extremely tough to leave the people I have had the pleasure to work with for many years. But an opportunity has presented itself at a time in my life that I feel I cannot pass up."

Formerly coach of the Pioneer men's track and field team for more than 11 years, Hardage was promoted to his present administrative position in January 1979, serving as assistant academic vice-president until a promotion earlier this spring to associate vice-president.

In that capacity he was administrator for athletics, the graduate program, and lifelong learning; director of Wayland's substantial off-campus program; and the number-two man behind McLallen in the overall academic program.

A native of Lazbuddie, Hardage came to Wayland in 1963 as a transfer student from Hardin-Simmons University, becoming the first recruit for Wayland's fledgling track program. He set school records in the 220- and 440-yard dashes, javelin, and long jump while earning the bachelor of science degree in May 1965.

A year later he completed the master of education degree from Texas Tech University, where he coached the freshman track team under J. Vernon Hilliard, his coach as a collegian at Wayland, and later the WBU athletic adviser.

During a leave of absence from the Wayland faculty, he served as an instructor and assistant track coach from 1970 until 1973 at East Texas State University, completed the doctor of education degree there before returning to the Wayland staff.

Professor of education and health, physical education and recreation, Hardage also served as chairman of the Division of Vocational and Professional Studies while coaching the Pioneer track team.

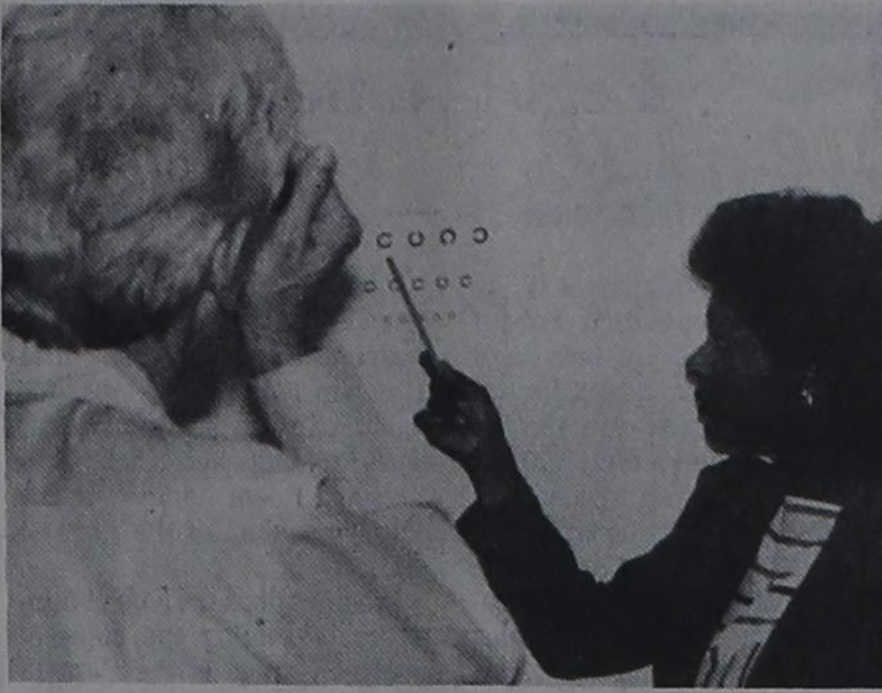

During his coaching career he guided 14 Wayland tracksters to

All-American honors, five NAIA District 8 cross country championship teams, and two track squads to top 15 finishes at the NAIA National Championships.

His 1977 team was ninth in the nation, and his teams still hold a total of 26 school records.

Contributor of articles to several professional publications, Hardage is an active member of Plainview's First Baptist Church and had been a member of the Noon Optimist Club.

He and his wife Susan, who has taught in Plainview public schools for 10 years, have two children: Tim, 16, a junior at Plainview High School, and Cindy, 13, a student at Estacado Junior High.

Home Eye Test

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness has introduced its new Home Eye Test for Adults. The self-help kit includes the Landolt Rings Test for distance vision pictured here plus tests for close and central vision. It is available from Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 20/20, Houston 77252 and costs $1.00 to cover postage and handling.

Prevent Blindness - -

Home Eye Test For Adults Available

A do-it yourself Home Eye Test for Adults that will enable people to determine if they are seeing as well as they should has been introduced by the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness.

"The purpose of the test is to alert an estimated 10 million Americans over the age of 25 that they have lost some vision and that they need to have their eyes professionally checked to prevent further loss of sight," says John L. Mann, M.D., an ophthalmologist who is the Society's State Medical Chairman.

"Three basic eye tests are incorporated into the new kit," Dr. Mann explained. "The first test checks distance vision using a wall chart that is hung at eye level and viewed from ten feet. It depicts what appears to be variations on the letter 'C' but which actually are broken circles facing in different directions."

This test, known as the Landolt Rings, does not require language or reading skills, he added, and has been used internationally since 1909.

"The second test checks the near vision that is used for reading and close work," Dr. Mann continued. "It consists of sentences set in telephone directory size type that are to be read while being held 14 inches from the eyes." The third part of the kit is a chart called the Amsler Grid. The horizontal and vertical lines on the grid provide a test for macular degeneration, a disease which affects central vision and the ability to see fine details in sharp focus. Although some forms may strike young people, macular degeneration is most commonly a problem associated with the aging process.

"If a person fails any of the three tests, the Society suggests a retesting on another day. If failure results on the second try, a professional eye examination is recommended," Dr. Mann said.

"The majority who fail may only require glasses or a change in their current prescription. But, on the other hand, since the test can also warn of more serious eye problems such as glaucoma, cataract, or macular degeneration, its results should not be ignored," he stressed.

The Home Eye Test for Adults was developed by Prevent Blindness with the help of some of the country's leading ophthalmologists. On their recommendation, the kit includes, in addition to the tests described, a list of signs of possible problems that can also indicate the need for a professional eye examination. Dr. Mann described some of these signs as having double vision or seeing halos around lights or seeing showers of black spots or flashes of light.

Those who wish to test their eyesight with the new self-help kit should send one dollar ($1.00) to cover postage and handling to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 20/20, Houston 77252.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness is an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness which is marking its 75th Anniversary this year as the nation's oldest voluntary health agency engaged in sight conservation. The Texas Society will be marking this milestone throughout 1983, with special vision and glaucoma screenings and educational programs throughout the state.

Texas drivers appear to be slowing down

COLLEGE STATION — Compliance with the 55-mph speed limit is moving at a snail's pace, but Texas drivers appear to be slowing down, report researchers at the Texas Transportation Institute.

"There's no great improvement, but year by year, we are seeing a trend in that direction," said Dr. Stephen Roop, who has been studying Texans' driving habits for several years.

Increased enforcement can bring down speeds, Roop says, but as recent stepped-up efforts have shown, it takes more than selective enforcement. Roop believes law enforcement agencies are most effective in bringing down speeds when they concentrate heavy patrols on roadways that serve repeat driving populations.

"Texas has many wide open, long stretches and a good roadway system. It has been a hard process to convince drivers to slow down," Roop said.

midsummer, requires about 10,000 gallons of water via furrow irrigation. This same garden, drip irrigated, will use less than half that amount. Thus, over a full season of gardening, water savings can be substantial.

Drip irrigation system costs vary widely but are reasonable for the home gardener. A system can last for four to 10 years, depending on its care.

DRIP IRRIGATION BOOSTS VEGETABLE YIELDS

Home gardeners can produce maximum yields of quality vegetables with a drip irrigation system.

Such a system applies water to the soil at the center of the row with great precision and economy. It's possible to reduce water usage in a garden by more than 50 percent with a well designed drip system.

Drip irrigation involves a system of plastic pipes with tiny openings called "emitters" which deliver water, drop by drop, into the soil at the base of plants along the row. The water soaks in immediately when the rate of irrigation is adjusted correctly. No water is wasted because there is neither flooding nor run-off.

Home garden drip systems operate at low pressure—four to 10 pounds per square inch of tubing. Most gardeners quickly learn how often and how long to operate their drip systems to satisfy their plants' water needs.

Even when a drip system is on, the middles between rows are dry enough to walk on, permitting harvesting and other garden work during irrigation. On the other hand, sprinkler and furrow-irrigated gardens are too wet to walk in for a day or two after each irrigation.

Drip-irrigated plants are more productive and water is not sprayed over the leaves as with sprinkler irrigation, thus reducing disease problems. Soil is not waterlogged as with furrow irrigation, so more oxygen is available to plant roots at all times. The entire soil surface can be mulched without interfering with irrigation; this stops moisture loss by evaporation.

At the current rates for city water, savings in water costs alone can pay for a drip system in less than two growing seasons. A 1,000 square foot garden, irrigated twice weekly for a month in

USDA Offers Special 'Harvest For PIK' Cotton Loans

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Department of Agriculture will offer special "Harvest for PIK" loans to cotton farmers who do not have enough upland cotton under CCC loan to satisfy their PIK requirements, Everett Rank, executive vice-president of the Commodity Credit Corporation, announced recently.

Rank said a special procedure will be available for those producers who are required to harvest 1983 cotton for PIK but do not want a regular loan. Two options are available at the time the loan is made: the producer may receive the PIK cotton immediately and the proceeds from sale of cotton to CCC after the PIK availability date, or receive the proceeds immediately and the PIK cotton after the PIK availability date.

CCC will pay warehouse storage charges through the date the producer redeems his loan to satisfy his PIK requirements unless the producer elects not to pay the loan service fee.

"With this procedure," Rank said, "producers will be permitted to obtain their PIK commodities before the PIK availability date but will not receive payment for 1983-crop cotton sold to CCC to satisfy PIK requirements until the PIK availability date."

Rank said CCC also will offer to purchase cotton that has been ginned but has not been classed and is not stored in an approved warehouse. In this instance, the purchase price will be based on the 1983 loan rate for the base PIK quality for the area where PIK was earned. The cotton purchased by CCC will be used to satisfy the producers' PIK on a pound-for-pound basis.

Rank said producers should contact their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office for further details on their loans, which will be available soon.

DWI program increases knowledge and improves attitudes

COLLEGE STATION — Special education programs for drunk drivers increase the awareness of the effects of alcohol on driving, especially for problem drinkers, according to the results of a study by a Texas A&M University researcher.

"The courses basically deal with alcohol abuse and what alcohol does to driving ability," said Dr. Bill Piernot, a lecturer in industrial education. "I found significant increases in knowledge for the no-problem and evident-problem groups. They seemed to have learned in the program."

"Both of the groups also showed significant improvement in their attitudes about driving while intoxicated. The problem drinkers showed the largest improvement in knowledge and attitude," he said.

Although education won't get all the drunk drivers off the road, Piernot said the classes are worth continuing.

"If someone doesn't know what alcohol can do to them when they're driving a car, they're going to have a problem," he said. "Education can at least eliminate the element of ignorance."

BIBLIAN BIBLE SOCIETY

THE CHRISTIAN'S PROSPECT

Those of us who trust in Christ for salvation have a glorious prospect. For the present, until we go to be with Him, "we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace" (Eph. 1:7). In infinite love God has made us to be "accepted in the Beloved" (Eph. 1:6), and has pronounced us "complete in Him" (Col. 2:10).

Our position is now a blessed and exalted one, for God has "made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus" (Eph. 2:6), and has "blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ" (Eph. 1:3).

But this is only the beginning, for, referring to the Christian's death, Philipians 1:23 tells us that "to depart, and to be with Christ...is far better"; far better not only than earth's sorrows and troubles, but far better even than earth's greatest joys and dearest treasures!

But even this is not all. The time will come when, the Church, "the Body of Christ," having been completed, the Lord will come to receive all of its members, living and dead, to Himself. Referring to the resurrection of the deceased believer's body, I Corinthians 15 declares that "it is raised in incorruption" (Ver. 42), "it is raised in glory" (Ver. 43), "it is raised in power" (Ver. 43), "it is raised a spiritual body" (Ver. 44); for "as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly" (Ver. 49). And as to those believers who will be alive at His coming, he says: "We shall all be changed" (Ver. 51).

"For...we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body [this body of our humiliation], that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body..." (Phil. 3:20, 21).
